

BRITISH CAPTURE 2000 YARDS OF TRENCHES Russians Have Crossed the Sereth River South of Brody

WITH UNFALTERING RESOLUTION TO CONTINUE THE WAR TO A SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION, BRANTFORD OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY LAST NIGHT

At Great Open Air Meeting Held in Victoria Park, With Noted Speakers Addressing the Crowds From the Library Steps, This City Formally Acknowledged the Guidance of Providence in the Crisis Confronting the Empire To-day

In truly most and fitting manner it was that the city of Brantford last night united in commemorating and celebrating the anniversary of the entry of Great Britain into the present war, on the night of August 4, 1914.

The parade, which was held at 7.15, the 215th battalion, together with the speakers and other prominent citizens joined in the parade which proceeded to Victoria Park via Colborne, Alfred, Wellington and George streets, where large crowds were assembled awaiting the commencement of the evening's services.

On the arrival at the park, the chair was taken on the platform erected for the occasion on the library steps, by Lt. Col. Cockshutt of 215th battalion, and the program was proceeded without delay. Two numbers, including the anthem, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" were rendered by the band of the 215th.

"After exactly two years of war," said Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt, in his address as chairman of the assemblage, "we are thankful to know that the allies to-day hold the upper hand, and in the conflict may all of us do our duty as befitting citizens of the great empire of which we form a part."

Field Kitchen Presented. Followed then the presentation of the field kitchen to the 215th battalion, the address being read by Mrs. W. C. Livingstone on behalf of the Women's Patriotic League.

Also a Cheque. In the capacity of Chief Magistrate of Brantford, Mayor Bowlby extended his sincerest greetings to the members of the 215th battalion, assembled before him, prepared to sacrifice even their lives for the upholding of the ideals of the empire.

Purified Blood of Canada. Col. Williams pointed out the grave danger prevalent in Canada by the war, that the nation might degenerate because of its weakness and bad habits. That peril the president war had obligated entirely, and the conflict blood of Canada was to be cleansed and purified once more. The speaker emphasized the need for renewed vigilance even now, with the hour of victory at hand.

An Appeal for Men. An eloquent and forceful appeal for recruits was that delivered at the juncture by Capt. the Rev. S. E. McKenney, chaplain of the 215th battalion, who appealed most vividly to the single men of Brant County, who were found still hesitating after two years of war.

FRENCH HOLD THIAMONT WORKS; ALL COUNTER-ATTACKS REPULSED

All Night Long Bombardments of Most Violent Character Took Place, and Enemy Made Many Attempts to Regain Ground Lost, but Could not do so

Paris, Aug. 5, 12.30 p.m.—All German attacks on the French positions last night were repulsed, says the French official statement, issued this afternoon, the Germans sustaining heavy losses.

A bombardment of the most violent character took place over the entire sector of Thiamont and Fleury. The battle lasted from nine o'clock last night until this morning, the French from Thiamont and Fleury having succeeded in clearing the approaches to the Souville and Tavanne Forts, which at one time seemed to be seriously threatened, and are back within a mile of Fort Douaumont where the most terrific fighting of the German offensive took place.

The fighting continued well into the night. The Germans delivered further counter attacks, but according to the latest advice the French were holding their own.

MAYOR BOWLBY MAKES REPLY TO ALDERMAN WARD

He Denies that He Told Him Massey-Harris Matter Was Settled.

Mr. J. W. Bowlby has issued a statement in reply to Ald. Ward's remarks a few days ago on Erie Avenue matters. Mr. Bowlby's statement is as follows:

Mr. Ald. Ward, for reasons best known to himself, has chosen to invoke the press to air his grievances, because of my action as your Mayor for stopping (for the best of reasons) work on Erie Avenue, when the people there and the Council desired the whole street paved and not the far end alone.

"His statement made that I was in accord with the proceeding with the far end, is, to state it mildly, an error of his and untrue, as all the members of the Council well know. His statement that said at a meeting that the Massey-Harris matter had been practically settled is also untrue, as every member of the Council is well aware of.

"Every member of the council, including Ald. Ward, well knows that the large expenditure of over $30,000.00 for paving of Erie Avenue was not provided for by the estimates as it should have been if we were to pave the same, and not make "hodge-podge" of the city's finances, which, as Mayor, I strongly object to. My aim is to make up your mind what you should do and then have the courage to do it.

"The world's consumption of American cotton during the year ending July 31 was 14,813,000 bales, an increase of 979,000 bales over the preceding season.

Welcomed Break in Heat Wave

Even on the Somme Sun's Rays Are Very Strong.

With the British armies in France, via London, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of thousands of men, whether in staffs or in the front line, trenches with the sun blazing on their steel helmets, bringing water up to the thirsty fighters under fire, or with the transports, welcomed the break in the heat wave to-day, although it brought no rain to lay the dust.

Thousands of tons of fruit are spoiling on English farms for want of labor to pick it.

BRITISH TOOK 500 PRISONERS. Holding Their Positions and Navy Rendered Valuable Aid.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Aug. 5.—British positions near Romani, east of Port Said, are being attacked by 14,000 Turks according to an official statement issued by the war office.

"The text of the British official announcement says: "The following report timed 11.10 p.m. on the fourth of August, has been received from the general officer commanding in chief in Egypt: "Since midnight of Aug. 3-4, Turks whose strength is estimated at 14,000, have been attacking our positions near Romani, east of Port Said, on a front of seven to eight miles.

"The position at dusk on the 4th of August, was that their attacks had made no impression on our fortified position, while on the southern flank the fighting also was going on in our favor and between 400 and 500 prisoners had been captured there.

"Ships of the royal navy rendered valuable assistance from the Bay of Tinnis. "Fighting still was in progress when this report was despatched. The temperature during the day reached 100 degrees in the shade."

A BUDGET OF NEWS FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN LABOR

IN THE WORLD OF LABOR

GLEANED FROM THE EXCHANGES AND OTHER SOURCES

At Jackson, Col., all underground workers have received a 25c. per day increase in wages.

Carpenters in Thompsonville, Conn., have through their union secured an increase of $2 per week.

In Alton, Ill., after a three days' strike, the electrical line men won a 25c. a day advance in wages.

The Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators now have 951 local unions, with a membership of 80,000.

Union steel and copper plate printers have secured a substantial increase in wages in Philadelphia, Pa.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Carriers in East St. Louis have secured an increase of three cents per hour.

In Pine Bluff, Ark., the organized workers show that the reliable statistics are receiving twenty per cent. higher wages than the unorganized.

The strike of workmen on the state capital, Oklahoma City, Okla., for union conditions has been won. Non-union workers have now to join the union of their craft or beat it off the job.

On nearly every system upon which they are organized the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen have secured wage advances during the present year.

As a result of trades union organization the unorganized civic laborers of Fort Collins, Co., received an advance in wages from $2 to $2.40 per day.

Carpenters in Petaluma, Cal., have been granted an increase in wages from $4 to $4.50 per day. Plumbers are also seeking an increase and expect to get it.

Wood carvers who have been on strike in New York city and Rochester have won a reduction in hours from 59 to 49 1-2 per week with increased wages.

Twenty-eight thousand silk workers of Paterson, N.J., have won the nine hour day, while thousands of textile workers have now gone on the eight hours per day schedule.

All classes of labor in the New England and Atlantic States are on the threshold of revolt. Demands have been made for the shorter workday by nearly a quarter million workers. They will get concessions or else hundreds of plants will be tied up.

In Mobile, Alabama, unionism is experiencing a big boom. Without strike, garment workers, river front machinists, boiler-makers and blacksmiths have secured the eight-hour day, receiving the same pay as when they were forced to work nine hours. Now a great union label boom is on.

In Wilmington, Del., the labor movement has made phenomenal advancement during the present year. The iron ship builders have increased their membership over one hundred per cent. At the present time the machinists, electrical workers and brewery workers are on strike and they are booked to win out. All other organized crafts have won concessions without having to strike for them.

Inside of the last ten months the International Association of Machinists has doubled its membership in Canada, which now runs up over the twelve thousand mark.

It is significant to note that nearly all the recent church conferences and councils held in Canada have voted their unqualified condemnation of political fraud in the transaction of the public business of the country. This is encouraging. The preachers are beginning to talk like labor agitators.

At the convention of the Federated Letter Carriers, which convenes in Victoria, B.C., this year, a resolution will be brought forward to the government that all uniforms worn by the letter carriers shall bear the union label. This organization is affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

THE BUTTER SCOTCH GNOME

Their mother was out. And that was the beginning of it all. She told the boys not to make candy, but because they were wilful and disobedient, they made it anyway and so, say I, whatever happened to them after that was their own fault.

Rob made the butter-scotch and Jan made a mould of clay. He shaped it like a gnome with queer duck feet, horns and a curly nose. Then shrieking with laughter they poured the candy in the mould and set it outside the window to harden.

But, when they opened the window, the mould was empty! What's more, there was the gnome grinning and giggling with his duck feet. And before the boys could slam the window, in he hopped, pinched Jan's nose and stuck one of his sharp, hard butter-scotch horns in Rob's cheek.

After that he went flying madly about, leaving sticky candy marks on the furniture and duck-foot prints on the floor, marks that, try as they would, they couldn't rub out.

Now Rob and Jan, I'm sorry to say, had planned not to tell their mother about the candy, thinking to eat it all before she came back. But here was the butter-scotch gnome leaving dreadful tell-tale candy finger-marks on the windows and doors and they couldn't catch him—they couldn't catch him!

"Maybe," whispered Jan, "if we could just drive him toward the stove, he might melt."

But the butter-scotch gnome knew where safety was, and if he began to get ever so little saggy and soft, he rushed for the window and pressed himself against the cold pane until he hardened.

Jan wanted to shoot him with an air-rifle, but Rob was afraid they might break a window.

"The only way," said Rob, "is to melt him."

It was now that the kitchen clock spoke with a tick, tick of excitement.

"He thrives in the chill air of disobedience," it ticked. "Tell him you're never going to make candy again without your mother's permission. Tell him you're going to be honest and confess the minute she comes in. Tell him that. Tell him that. He'll melt in the cheerful warmth of good behaviour and obedience!"

They told him, and, my dears, the minute he heard he began to melt. Drip! Drip! Drip! A leg, an arm, a horn. You could see the butter-scotch Gnome turning into a shapeless mass before your very eyes. Jan ran with the pan and they caught the melted gnome just as their mother came in.

You'll never find a thing forbidden, but what there's a gnome in it somewhere, and goodness knows what he'll do if once he gets the chance!

ever that it might be "prudent" for the Ontario Legislature to retain control of some of said lands.

It will thus be seen that had the advice of Hon. Mr. Hardy been accepted by the Imperial authorities John Bull would have had a controlling interest in Canada's famous nickel supply.

Any effort to throw blame on Conservative administrations equally fails of the attempted mark. The outbreak of hostilities illumined the nickel situation as it did so much else, and then outside interests had control, with the refining done in the States.

Overland New Series Model 75 B $890 Roadster $870 31 1/2 Horsepower An Unparalleled Victory About a month ago we announced to the world our newest value—the $890 Overland. In twenty-four hours and from every section of the Dominion we had received more orders than we could fill in several weeks. So we immediately increased the production—filled the orders and notified our dealers not to push the model too hard as we were going night and day to catch up with orders. Before the end of the first week orders were pouring in so rapidly that we decided to again increase the production so that there would be no disappointments. But still bales of business continued to flood the factory. Now we are shipping 500 of the new cars every single day and are fairly breaking our backs to keep pace with the great demand that now looks as if it never would cease. We anticipated a great success, but we did not look for such a daily avalanche of definite shipping orders. Such is public opinion—the strongest force, the greatest asset, in the world. Never before has any automobile enjoyed such an unparalleled victory. Step in and see this extraordinary car yourself today. JAS. A. ENTERTAINMENT FOR RED CROSS HELD AT PARIS

"Midway" Put on and Was an Unprecedented Success.

OVER $500 WAS REALIZED

List of Paris Pupils Successful in Passing Normal Entrance Exams.

(From our own correspondent) Paris, Aug. 4.—Yesterday was a red letter day for the Coney Islanders, and one that will not be forgotten in Paris for many years. For weeks these people have been preparing for a "midway" and last evening it was open to the public, and it is estimated that nearly 2,000 tickets were sold. The committee in charge are deserving of every praise for the order in which everything was carried out. Oscar Dickett, the Island Cop, was on hand, and made the people toe the mark, and created lots of amusement for the little ones, as also the "Bear" (W. Brockbank) and his trainer, M. Skelly, who gave a performance in the wild animal show.

The Clowns

The clowns kept everyone roaring all the time. These were: A. Broomfield, R. Hicks, C. Smith, W. McLaughlin, R. Morgan and others. Madam X, the famous palmist, was kept busy in her tent, telling the future. The three young ladies at the fishing pond, Mrs. Atherton, Miss M. Broomfield and Miss W. McLaughlin were, as usual, very busy, as every one was anxious to try their luck at fishing.

Candies and Ice Cream

Mrs. Bremner, of Brantford, and Mrs. Morgan, Miss Smith and Miss Mills supplied the wants of the kiddies with ice cream cones.

"Hot Dogs"

The hot-dog booth was well patronized and kept the ladies hustling all the time, those assisting were Mrs. W. Brockbank, Mrs. T. Mills, Mrs. Leishman, Mrs. Herriot and Mrs. Mills. Green sandwiches were around the fancy work booth, buying fancy articles and also taking a chance on the table runner and centre piece, which kept Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Dickett and Miss Lyall busy entering the names.

Soft Drinks Went Quickly

At the home-made cooking and ice cream department were noted Mrs. Emma's, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Jeffs, and Beatrice Hicks, who were all looking after the wants of the guests. The contest was won by Chester Smith, D. Brockbank and Joe Bell were kept busy all evening selling circus lemonade, peanuts, etc.

Pretty Decorations

As one walked around to the various booths they heard people remark how prettily the booths were decorated, and that they never looked better, as there was an abundance of flags and bunting everywhere, and Chinese lanterns galore, which illuminated the grounds to perfection.

215th Band There

The 215th band of the band of Brantford came up in a special car, which was furnished by Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P., and for which the Coney Islanders are very grateful. The bandmen were entertained to a supper by the ladies of the Island early in the evening. The band certainly played good music, and it was much enjoyed by those present. All were sorry when they had to leave for home.

The Winners.

At the close the lucky numbers were drawn for, which were taken on the different chances, and Mr. George Poster, who was master of ceremonies after these. Miss Pearl Shaw of Brantford won the clock, 191. Mrs. C. King of Galt won the club bag, 2640. Mrs. L. Astell the hand-painted picture, 202. Bert Range, the roast of beef, 110. Mr. Haverley, chocolate cake, 220. Miss L. Lewis, centre piece, 205. Mrs. G. Sager, table runner, 116. Mrs. T. Mills, night dress, 197.

Over $500 Realized

This is the greatest success that has ever attended any such entertainment in Paris, as over $500 was realized, which will be used for Red Cross purposes. Good luck to the Coney Islanders, whose efforts are deserving of the success they attained.

Miss Iola Daniels and Olive Brantford are holidaying at Lake Couchiching.

Mrs. C. Jeffs and children of Nelson, B.C., are spending a few weeks with friends in town, and Mrs. M. Newton has returned home from Winnipeg, where she has spent the last four weeks.

Miss Blanche Norris has returned from an enjoyable holiday spent with her brother, at Ashtabula, Ohio.

Death of Mr. Martyn

Word has been received in town of the death of Mr. Chester Martyn, which sad event took place in Detroit on Sunday. The deceased is well known in town, having worked here for some time. About 12 years ago he was married to Maud Widner, formerly of Paris, who with a little girl, are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father.

Erie Avenue Pavement
To the Editor:
About two years and a half ago the City Council put through a by-law to pave Erie Ave., and also found an appropriation for the purpose. The residents rejoiced that they were to at last get out of the mud and have a suitable entrance to the business part of the city. But no pavement as yet has been laid, although the storm sewer and curbs have been put in, and are charged as frontage to the residents of the street and to ratepayers in general.

Why all the delay? No other public work is being done this year and overseer Unger tells the committee that he will be able to secure the labor and finish the work this fall. It is urged that it is a bad time to finance the work, but the City Treasurer states that the money can be secured, if it is decided to proceed with the work at the present time. A proposal has been made by the Chairman of the Board of Works, to pave the south end of Erie Ave., and leave the north end to a future time. This, the residents of Eagle Place to a number of 66 have petitioned against, as it would be of little benefit to have three blocks paved and still have to wade through two blocks of mud, to get to the T. H. and B. station. At present, the street car tracks are below the level of the street, and in the spring and fall are under water. The pavement will remedy this evil and assure more regular service.

At the curve in the street, near the T. H. and B. station, the street cars run close to the dyke, and this causes a very dangerous crossing, as it is impossible to see a car until close to the bend. An accident has already occurred here, and narrow escapes are numerous. The pavement would remedy this also, and probably save a damage suit in the future.

The residents of this end of this city feel that being connected to the central part of the city by a suitable entrance would make the city more compact, and stimulate growth, and thus feed the street railway, water-works, Hydro, and all other sources of revenue to the city. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this valuable space.

I remain yours truly,
ERIE AVE. RATEPAYER.

THE LIFE TIME OF A BATTERY.

Many people wonder just how long a storage battery should last with ordinary care, because there seems to be no well defined limit for its life. This question has been covered very well by Messrs. Smith and Green, of the local Willard Storage Battery Service Station, who say:

"As compared with other parts and accessories of a motor car, the storage battery, if well taken care of, is very inexpensive to maintain. Its care is a simple matter and consists of only four things:

First:—Keep all cells filled with distilled water to a level half inch above the top of the plates. Never fill the cells full.

Second:—Never use a battery in a leaking condition. Take it to a Willard Service Station immediately.

Third:—Test the gravity of all cells with a hydrometer syringe on the first and fifteenth of every month. If any cells are below 1.275 on two successive testing dates, take the battery to a Willard Service Station and have it fully charged.

Fourth:—Never allow the battery to become heated in service above 110 degrees Fahrenheit. Watch the battery for heating one or more times every day in warm weather. If the top connectors feel more than blood warm to the touch take the temperature with a dairy thermometer. If the temperature registers near 100 degrees burn all the lamps on the car while driving. If the temperature reaches 120 degrees the battery may be ruined.

"A well constructed battery like the Willard should last a long time, but because of its electro-chemical nature it will, of course, wear out in time and have to be renewed. It is a popular misconception with a great many motor car owners that a battery will last forever, or at least, as long as the car itself.

"Motor car manufacturers, as well as battery manufacturers, are doing their best to overcome this belief and the Willard Company is being highly successful along these lines through their service stations, which are constantly hammering at the car owner in order to convince him that safety to his part and this care may be greatly lessened by taking advantage of the advice and free inspection which any Willard Service Station offers."

A Government inspection of the new car line over the Whirlpool, constructed by the Niagara-Spanish Aero-car Company, is in progress. The formal opening of the line will take place on Monday.

The Se Me Recruiting F Recru

With its muster roll less than a score short of 600 men, the second Brant county battalion will leave Brantford on Monday morning to spend the summer at Niagara military camp. When consideration is given the length of time during which the 215th has been engaged in active recruiting, and the large numbers of men drawn from the county by previous units, apparent it will be to all that the results achieved by the battalion are indeed such as should prove satisfactory to all.

Six months ago, the existence of a second battalion from Brant county was not thought of by most, and it was indeed considered that the completion of the ranks of the 125th would be the utmost which Brantford could ever accomplish. To the refutation of such persons stands today the 215th battalion, with an approximate strength of 600, all of them men recruited in what was styled a barren field. In less than five months' recruiting has this number been reached, and the reflection cast great credit upon all concerned.

Appointed in February. On February 19th last it was that the first intimation of a second Brant battalion came locally, and with startling suddenness. Mr. Harry Cockshutt, honorary colonel of the 25th Brant Dragons, on that day received from Ottawa, information that he had been placed upon the active service list with the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Canadian Expeditionary forces, and that he was authorized to recruit in Brant county an infantry battalion to be known as the 215th overseas battalion.

Organization Began. With energy characteristic of the man in every branch of business, Lt. Col. Cockshutt proceeded at once with the organization of his unit. In order to give to the 215th battalion, then over 1000 strong, opportunity to complete its numbers, it was announced that recruiting would not commence immediately for the 215th battalion. The work of internal organization was however proceeded with at once, and in excellent manner.

Started March 9th. On Monday, March 6 came the announcement that active recruiting for the 215th would commence on Thursday, March 9th and that the battalion headquarters would be situated in the old Y.M.C.A. building, at 189 Colborne street. On March 9th recruiting duty commenced, 28 men being signed in the first day. Matters progressed favorably with the new unit, and ere long the first hundred mark was reached.

The Staff. Various prominent local men had

CAPT. R. J. FERGUSON, Q.M.

In the meantime received appointments as officers in the 215th, and on March 25th the staff was announced—a staff which has not since undergone a single change, it being as follows:

- Lt.-Col. and officer commanding Lt.-Col. Harry Cockshutt.
- Second in command, Major A. T. Duncan.
- Junior Major, Major H. E. Snider.
- Adjutant, Captain E. Sweet.
- Quartermaster, Capt. R. J. Ferguson.
- Paymaster, Capt. E. H. Corey.
- Medical Officer, Capt. L. H. Coates.
- To these have since been added the following appointments:
- Assistant adjutant, Lt. G. A. Duncan.
- Chaplain, Capt. the Rev. S. E. McCreary.
- Signalling officer, Lt. Frank Woods.

THE COURIER, BRANTFORD, CANADA, SATURDAY, AUGUST 5, 1916.

The Second Battalion From Brant County; The Men Who Intend to "Hunt the Huns With Harry" Recruiting For This Unit Began on March 9th, and Already It Is 600 Strong, While During Its Recruiting Campaign More Men Were Enlisted From Brant County Daily For Several Days Than From the Whole City of Toronto

With its muster roll less than a score short of 600 men, the second Brant county battalion will leave Brantford on Monday morning...

Thought Impossible. Six months ago, the existence of a second battalion from Brant county was not thought of by most, and it was indeed considered that the large numbers of men drawn from the county by previous units, apparent it will be to all that the results achieved by the battalion are indeed such as should prove satisfactory to all.

Appointed in February. On February 19th last it was that the first intimation of a second Brant battalion came locally, and with startling suddenness. Mr. Harry Cocksbutt, honorary colonel of the 25th Brant Dragoons, on that day received from Ottawa, information that he had been placed upon the active service list with the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Canadian Expeditionary forces, and that he was authorized to recruit in Brant county an infantry battalion to be known as the 215th overseas battalion.

Organization Began. With energy characteristic of the man in every branch of business, Lt. Col. Cocksbutt proceeded at once with the organization of his unit. In order to give to the 215th battalion, then over 1000 strong, opportunity to complete its numbers, it was announced immediately for the 215th battalion. The work of internal organization was however proceeded with at once, and in excellent manner.

Started March 9th. On Monday, March 6 came the announcement that active recruiting for the 215th would commence on Thursday, March 9th and that the battalion headquarters would be situated in the old Y.M.C.A. building at 189 Colborne street. On March 9th recruiting duly commenced, 28 men being signed in the first day. Matters progressed favorably with the new unit, and ere long the first hundred mark was reached.

The Staff. Various prominent local men had Ypres; Pte. Charles Bloxham, a local boy who also took part in that campaign, and who for bravery on the field of battle, has been awarded the D.C.M.

The Bands. No attempted biography of the 215th battalion could be styled complete without reference to the two splendid bands gathered together for the unit, which participate ideally in almost every public and social function held, and which bear the deserved reputation of being two of the best in Canada. The brass band of 30 pieces, under Bandmaster Walters, formerly of the 48th battery, and the bugle and trumpet band, commanded by Bugle Sergt. Dickson, are heard to perfection almost daily on the city's streets. The musical matters of the battalion are in the hands of a very efficient committee, and among the officers of the unit are number two splendid musicians in the persons of Capt. W. N. Andrews, O.C. "A" company and Capt. J. H. Pearce, commanding "C" company, quartered at Paris.

After Monday next the 215th battalion will be gone for a time from our midst. For a time only, and a very brief time, it is hoped by all; for the expectation is that in the fall the unit will return to Brantford for the winter months. Its ranks are not yet full, and a place awaits all who are eligible for service. During the summer months it is expected that the inducement offered by Niagara, camp will lead many to the 215th battalion, and sincere is the hope of all that when the unit takes its final departure from the city on its journey overseas, it may be with full ranks that it does so, to play in the great struggle as noble a part as Brantford's sons have already played when forming a part of the far flung khaki line which on the fields of France and Flanders guards the honor and integrity of the world against the tyranny which has arisen to menace them for a brief time.

Following is the complete muster roll of the officers and men of the 215th Battalion:

O. Henry Stories

X—Helping the Other Fellow.

By O. HENRY

(Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.)
But can't think that help others help them—Munsey.

THIS is the story that William Trotter told me on the beach at Aguar Frescas while waiting for the gig of the fruit steamer Andador, which was to take me aboard.

"Reluctantly I was leaving the land of Always Afternoon. William was remaining, and he favored me with a condensed oral autobiography as we sat on the sands in the shade cast by the Bodega Nacional.

"As usual, I became aware that the man from Bombay had already written the story, but as he had compressed it to an eight word sentence I have become an expansionist and have quoted this phrase above with apologies to him and best regards to Terence.

"Don't you ever have a desire to go back to the land of derby hats and starched collars?" I asked him. "You seem to be a handy man and a man of action," I continued, "and I am sure I could find you a comfortable job some where in the States."

"Ragged, shiftless, barefooted, a confirmed eater of the lotos, William Trotter had pleased me much, and I hated to see him gobbled up by the tropics. "I've no doubt you could," he said idly splitting the bark from a section of sugar cane. "I've no doubt you could do much for me. If every man could do as much for himself as he can for others every country in the world would be holding millennium instead of centennials."

"Come along with me, Trotter," says he, "and I'll show you what brains can do."

"Anything in it?" I ask. "The satisfaction," says he, "of redeeming a country of 200,000 population from ruin back to prosperity and peace."

"Great!" says I. "I'll go with you. I'd prefer to eat a live broiled lobster just now, but give me liberty as second choice if I can't be in at the death."

"Wainwright and me permeates through the town, and he halts at a rum dispensary. "Have you any money?" he asks. "I have," says I, fishing out my silver dollar. "I always go about with adequate sums of money."

"Then we'll drink," says Wainwright. "Not me," says I. "Not any demon rum or any of its ramifications for mine. It's one of my non-weaknesses."

"It's my falling," says he. "What's your particular soft point?" "The industry," says I, "diligent, industrious and energetic."

"My dear Mr. Trotter," says he, "surely I've known you long enough to tell you you are a liar. Every man must have his own particular weakness, and his own particular strength in other things. Now you will buy me a drink of rum, and we will call on President Gomez."

"Well, sir," Trotter went on, "we walk the four miles out, through the virgin conservatory of palms and ferns and other roof garden products, to the president's summer White House. It was blue and reminded you of what you see on the stage in the third act, which they describe as 'same as the first' in the programs."

"There was more than fifty people waiting outside the iron fence that surrounded the house and grounds. There were generals, agitators and desperados in diamonds and panama hats, all waiting to get an audience with the royal five card draw. And in a kind of a summer house in front of the mansion we could see a burned sienna man eating breakfast out of gold dishes and taking his time. I judged that the crowd outside had come out for their morning orders and requests and was afraid to intrude."

"But C. Wainwright wasn't. The gate was open, and he walked inside and up to the president's table as confident as a man who knows the head waiter in a fifteen cent restaurant. And I went with him because I had only two cents, and there was nothing else to do."

"The Gomez man rises from his chair and looks, colored man as he was, like he was about to call out for corporal of the guard, post No. 1. But Wainwright says some phrases to him in a peculiarly lubricating manner, and the first thing you know we was all three of us seated at the table, with coffee and rolls and iguana cutlets coming as fast as about ninety peons could rustle 'em."

"And then Wainwright begins to talk, but the president interrupts him. "You Yankees," says he, polite, "surely take the cake for assurance. I He spoke English better than you or me. 'You've had a long walk,' says he, 'but it's nicer in the cool morning to walk than to ride. May I suggest some refreshments?'"

"Hum," says Wainwright. "Gimme a cigar," says I. "Well, sir, the two talked an hour, keeping the generals and equities all in their gold uniforms waiting outside the fence, and while I smoked, silent, I listened to Clifford Wainwright makparts, conscientiousness and plausibility, besides being educated and a wreck to his appetites. He told me all about it. Colleges had turned him out and distilleries had taken him in. Did I tell you his name? It was Clifford Wainwright. I didn't exactly catch the cause of his being cast away on that particular stretch of South America, but I reckon it was his own business. I asked him if he'd ever been second cook on a tramp frigate, and he said: 'No, so that concluded my line of surmises. But he talked like the encyclopedia from 'A—Berlin' to 'Trilo—Zyria.' And he carried a watch—a silver arrangement with works, and up to date within twenty-four hours, anyhow."

"I'm pleased to have met you," says Wainwright. "I'm a devotee to the great Joss Boose, but my ruminating faculties are unimpaired," says he, or words to that effect. "And I hate," says he, "to see fools trying to run the world."

"I never touch a drop," says I, "and there are many kinds of fools, and the world runs on its own axis, according to science, with no meddling from me."

"I was referring," says he, "to the president of this republic. His country is in a desperate condition. Its treasury is empty, it's on the verge of war with Nicaragua, and if it wasn't for the hot weather the people would be starting revolutions in every town. Here is a nation," goes on Wainwright, "on the brink of destruction. A man of intelligence could rescue it from its impending doom in one day by issuing the necessary edicts and orders. President Gomez knows nothing of statesmanship or policy. Do you know Adam Smith?"

"Lemme see," says I. "There was a one eared man named Smith in Fort Worth, Tex., but I think his first name was—"

"I am referring to the political economist," says Wainwright. "'S'mother Smith, then," says I. "The one I speak of never was arrested."

"So Wainwright boils some more with indignation at the insensibility of people who are not competent to fill public positions, and then he tells me he is going out to the president's summer palace, which is four miles from Aguar Frescas, to instruct him in the art of running steam heated republics."

"Come along with me, Trotter," says he, "and I'll show you what brains can do."

"Anything in it?" I ask. "The satisfaction," says he, "of redeeming a country of 200,000 population from ruin back to prosperity and peace."

ing a solid republic out of the wreck of one. I didn't follow his arguments with any special collocation of international intelligibility, but he had Mr. Gomez's attention glued and riveted. He takes out a pencil and marks the figures and estimates and deductions. He speaks more or less disrespectfully of import and export duties and custom house receipts and taxes and treaties and budgets and concessions and such crack that politics and government require, and when he gets through the Gomez man hops up and shakes his hand and says he's saved the country and the people.

"You shall be rewarded," says the president. "Might I suggest another rum?" says Wainwright. "Cigar for me—darker brand," says I. "Well, sir, the president sent me and Wainwright back to the town in a victoria hitched to two flea bitten selling platters—the best the country afforded."

"I found out afterward that Wainwright was a regular beach comber, but the smartest man I ever saw. He was sitting on the grass, talking beautiful of the wisdom of the world that he had learned in books. I took hold of him easy and tied his hands and feet together, and heather things that I had in my pocket. (To be continued)

"You shall be rewarded," says the president.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

FORTUNATE INDEED is the baby who is nursed by its mother and who thus avoids the danger of summer complaint which follows in the track of dirty milk. But the baby must be weaned sooner or later! It cannot go on nursing forever. When shall the baby be weaned? The careful mother will endeavor not to wean the baby in very hot weather; and, while this is of importance, other considerations of equal or even greater moment must be taken into account by the nursing mother. A healthy child should be weaned at the ninth or tenth month. At the sixth or seventh month the mother's milk is getting ready to take care of other food than the mother's milk. In weakly children the eruption of the teeth may be delayed somewhat, but whenever the teeth do appear they must be taken as a sign for new ration.

The weight of the baby, increasing as it should from week to week, is one of the most important indications of the baby's health. If all is going well, the weight increases steadily; if the weight is stationary or if baby is losing weight, it is evidence that the breast milk is unsuitable, and the baby should be weaned, or partly weaned, irrespective of age. If the mother is suffering from any acute or chronic disease, or if pregnant, the baby should be weaned.

As to the best time for weaning. Do not depend on the time of the moon or any such nonsense. All things being equal, the early spring or late fall is the best time. When the first teeth appear along about the sixth or seventh month, substitute first one regular nursing with four (4) ounces of good cow's milk and two (2) ounces of barley water sweetened with a little sugar of milk. After two days substitute this for two regular nursings, and at the end of a couple of weeks the milk and barley water may be given alternately with the nursing. By the ninth or tenth month the breast may be discontinued altogether. In this way the baby will be weaned gradually and will not usually miss the breast.

The greatest trouble is with the anxious mother, who is apt to think that the baby is not getting enough. Many mothers think the baby is always hungry and they give it too much food; the more food the baby gets the more irritable it becomes. It cries not because of hunger but because its stomach is overfilled. The cry is interpreted wrongly and more food is given, making matters worse.

DOCTORING THE HUNS WITH THEIR OWN MEDICINE

Gas Attacks, Used First by Huns, Now Often Turned Against Them. CARE TAKEN TO PREVENT LEAKS

Waves of the Vapor, Sent Over to Enemy Trenches, Pays Them for Ypres. London, Aug. 5.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Before the "big squeeze" began strictly prohibited but now the taboo has been lifted, and a British "gasman" has been allowed to write a graphic account of the work of his own special corps whose business it is, he says, "to doctor the Germans with their own medicine."

"Behind our line," he writes, "the sun set in a blaze of glory. A glance over the parapet shows the gray mists of twilight; but 150 yards away, like a brown earth shaded among the grays, hangs the rusty barbed wire of the enemy and just beyond a white, chalky upthrust marks his front line trench. Connect Up!"

"Connect up!" The order comes down the line from one bay of the trench to another, and the gasmen immediately get busy. The front rows of neatly piled sandbags of which each fire-step is apparently coldly built are pulled out and displaced in a steady, whistling, rattling and ominous, the cowed heads of a row of iron cylinders. They are sunk in pits well 'bagged up' to protect them from possible crack shots, but to throw the jets over the top of the parapet and open the valves in order to release the deadly fumes. Favoring Breeze Needed

"But something is required to carry the gas over to the German lines—a favoring breeze—and never did sailors scan the sky more intently than the gasmen watch their little inconspicuous wind gauges, fixed to the edge of a trench. They must have a wind of a certain direction, and they prefer it of a certain strength. On this occasion the direction is satisfactory enough, but the breeze shows signs of weakness, and occasionally falls to a mere, almost imperceptible zephyr.

"Eleven O'clock" "When not watching the wind, the gasmen are watching their pipes; repeatedly feeling and testing every inch of tube and joint, for none know better than they the danger of leakage of the escape of gas into their own trenches. Persistently an officer passed down the line, casting rapid though keen glances as he goes at each set of cylinders and their connecting pipes. And in every bay he pauses and whispers two words to the corporal in charge: "Eleven O'clock." But the wind, without which the gas will not reach the enemy's trench and do its deadly work among its occupants, begins to peter out.

"At ten-fifty the gasmen don their special respirators, which in the dim light, gives the wearers a strange, almost inhuman appearance. Masked and goggled, with weird trunk-like pieces of hose running from the mouth-piece to the box air-purifying chemicals strapped to their chests, they look like some of the unearthly beings whom people read about in the books of Mr. H. G. Wells.

Infantry Indifferent to Wind's Direction. "But not a breath disturbs the still air. The feeble breeze has died completely. Hurriedly the order runs down the line: 'Cancel and stand by.' Behind their masks the gasmen grunt disgustedly. But suddenly—crack! crack! rat-tat-tat rat-tat-tat! The orders to the infantry have not been countermanded and the quiet of the night is roughly shattered by a long line of viciously crackling rifles and Lewis guns, to which the Germans reply.

The gasmen move about uneasily. It is not for themselves they fear, but for those pipes and cylinders heads lying bare and exposed to the hall of flying fragments. Well they know the danger of bursts and of trenches filled with gas and ready to fly by flying fragment or ricocheting bullet. Each cylinder weighs about 130 pounds and contains sufficient compressed gas, if not carefully used, to put an entire company out of action.

On top of the cylinders lies a tangle of flexible connecting piping, which is fastened to the cylinders by spanner and key, and upon these, with screw-jet, and the gasmen start work. The cylinders are all connected in a "four way" joint, remaining but to throw the jets over the top of the parapet and open the valves in order to release the deadly fumes.

"Time! Over the top the jet-pipes are flung and then, simultaneously along the almost two miles of trench, there arises a sibilant hiss, as of some monstrous and venomous snake suddenly aroused from slumber. Now the gasmen are working frantically with wheel and spanner and key, and the hiss increases in shrillness and volume. Outside the parapet the green poison fog is already spreading like a blanket over No-Man's land. Carried ceaselessly forward its outer edge is rapidly approaching the German trenches, into which it will presently sink.

"No rifle or machine gun has been ordered this time, and from either line scarcely a sound is heard except the deadly hiss of the escaping fumes. The minutes pass in tense, ominous quiet.

Watch for Leakages "Behind their masks the gasmen began to breathe unhesitatingly and then, suddenly, on the left, 'Crash! And 'crash' again, and yet again. This time on the right, somewhere close at hand. The men crouch low over their cylinders; the explosions follow one another almost too rapidly to count, and in any case their minds are no longer fitted to count or care. Only the valves must be watched, and the sudden spurt of vapor which marks a leak must be checked by the application of a handful of mud, which the gas itself immediately freezes into an iron hard and impenetrable mass.

"Closing-up time! Rapidly the valves are shut down, the jet pipes withdrawn and plugged and stacked away. Feverishly the men work at bagging up their cylinders again. Imperceptibly a sergeant stalks down the ruined and battered trench, shepherding his flock towards their dug-out. He is an old time—a transfer from the infantry—and he scarcely quivers as a shell bursts behind a traverse he has just left. Quietly he directs two of the men to carry an unconscious case to the nearest point of the communication trench where stretcher bearers may be found.

The Effects "In the dugout, with the shells still pounding overhead, the section's roll is called. Most of the men answer to their names. Some are answered by comrades as wounded and for others no one answers at all. "But over in the German trenches hundreds of men are choking and gasping in agony for an hour before they die. They have been made to quaff their own medicine."

Soft, Clear, Smooth Skin Comes With The Use Of "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

NORAH WATSON 86 Drayton Ave., Toronto, Nov. 10th, 1915.

A beautiful complexion is a handsome woman's chief glory and the envy of her less fortunate rivals. Yet a soft, clear skin—glowing with health—is only the natural result of pure blood.

"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disfiguring Rash, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. After using 'Fruit-a-tives' for one week, the rash is completely gone. I am deeply thankful for the relief and in the future, I will not be without 'Fruit-a-tives'."

ELECTIONS IN DUTCH HOUSE

In First House, Party of Right Has Majority of 42.

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 5.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The elections for the provincial state councils of Holland, half of the members of which retire every three years, have just been held, and the results are interesting as giving an indication of the composition of the next first chamber of the Dutch Parliament, the members of which are nominated by these provincial bodies.

The parties of the Left made several gains, but the parties of the Right maintain the upper hand with an aggregate of 312 seats against the 270 held by their opponents, which means they are assured of maintaining their majority in the First Chamber.

This is the exact reverse of the position in the Second Chamber, where the general elections of 1913 gave the parties of the Left the majority upon which the present executive cabinet of Mr. Cort van der Linden leans for its support.

The fact that the position of the provincial councils are made practically stationary is a disappointing one to the government, for the continued predominant position of the Right in the First Chamber is a check on their important legislative program for revision of the constitution, including universal manhood suffrage, the question of women's suffrage, and the educational question and old age pensions.

One marked feature of the provincial elections has been the progress of the Social party, which won 23 seats from the Liberals of the Left and four from the parties of the Right. The Socialists already hold the balance in the Second Chamber of Parliament with 15 seats out of 100, and further substantial progress at next year's general election would make them a very strong political force.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE HATED BY HUNS
Amsterdam, Aug. 5.—In the course of an abusive article on Lord Northcliffe, who is described as the real ruler of England, the official Cologne Gazette publishes the following excellent example of "hate literature":

"Among those who are guilty of involving Europe in a bath of blood Lord Northcliffe is perhaps the guiltiest of all. He is the head and the incorporation of that great Anglo-Saxon scheme of world-deception that includes England and America, and against which German strength and German mind are fighting unceasingly; the deception that everything a graphic account of the work of his of business."

"If the Judge of the world on the last day calls the guilty to Judgment a pardoning Christ will say to both Mr. H. H. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George, 'Father, forgive, for they know not they did,' but He will be obliged to turn His eyes away from Lord Northcliffe alone."

WILL AFFECT GERMANY

Rome, Aug. 4, via Paris, 3 p.m.—The Italian Government, according to the Messaggero is about to publish a decree forbidding all Italians, including those living abroad, from doing business with nationals in alliance with enemies of Italy. Agreements made in spite of the prohibition, it is stated, will be considered void and the makers thereof will be punished.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—Third Quarter, For Aug. 6, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. xiii.—Memory Verses, 4, 7.—Golden Text, I Cor. xiii, 13.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

It is only in this epistle to those whom he calls babes and carnal Christians that he makes any reference to the matter of "tongues" which some believers make so much of in our day, and when he does mention them they are last on the list and in connection with the interpretation of tongues (chapter xii, 7, 10, 28). He also says, "Let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue pray that he may interpret," and "I had rather speak five words with my understanding, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue" (chapter xiv, 13, 19). The more excellent way of Love he sets before us in our lesson chapter. The great chapter on Faith is Heb. xi, where the word is used over twenty times. The great chapter on Hope is Rom. viii, and this is one of the great Love chapters, but as to the use of the word, if we include the verb and the noun "beloved," it is found in I John iv about thirty times, while in John xiv and our lesson chapter it is used nine times in each, if I have counted correctly.

We are certainly safe in saying that there is no topic in the whole Bible so wonderful as the love of God, but the great matter is always the love of God to us, never our love to Him, which is not worth mentioning compared with His love to us. John is not spoken of as the disciple who loved Jesus, but the disciple whom Jesus loved. It is not the love of Martha and Mary and Lazarus, but "Jesus loved Martha and Mary and Lazarus" (John xi, 5; xiii, 23; xiv, 26; xx, 2; xxi, 7, 20). The words that hold me most strongly are such as these: "The Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me." "Having loved His own." "He loved them unto the end, or the uttermost." "I have loved thee with an everlasting love" (Gal. ii, 20; John xiii, 1; Jer. xxxi, 3). These, with Eph. v, 25; John iii, 16; the many verses in I John iii and iv, and Song viii, 7, are to me some of the most wonderful, with John xv, 9.

The first three lesson verses show the utter worthlessness of tongues, or teaching, or understanding mysteries, or knowledge, or miracles, or giving all our goods to feed the poor, or even our bodies to be burned, apart from love. What a complete laying low of all that men might boast of that the love of God may be magnified and His love constraining us and working in us the works He has prepared for us. There is no room for boasting nor for any pride of man because of his ability to do this or that. The Lord alone must be exalted. Such love as is here described in our memory verses, 4-7, was never fully manifest in any one except in Jesus Christ, but He is able to manifest it in us.

It is no doubt true that all the fruit of the Spirit in Gal. v, 22, 23, is but different manifestations of love, joy being love exulting, peace love in repose, and so on. According to Col. i, 11, it requires all the might of His glorious power to make us patient and long suffering with joyfulness, but He is able to work all this in us if we will let Him. To be kind always, free from all good opinion of ourselves or envy of others, never provoked, never thinking nor speaking evil of any one bearing and enduring all things for His sake—what a heavenly life! Yet do not turn from it or say it cannot be done, but rather turn to Him and say, "Lord, do thou, it is me for Thy great name's sake." All our knowledge now is but partial, and if any man think that he knoweth anything he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know (1 Cor. 8, 10; chapter viii, 2).

We may know that we have become children of God by faith in Christ Jesus and gladly sing, "I know that my Redeemer liveth" (Gal. iii, 13-26; Job xix, 25), but of the life we are yet to live and the unseen realities of His kingdom and glory we know but little. There is a lot of childish prattle and self conceit we would do well to have done with and rather say, "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together." "I will extol Thee my God, O King, and bless Thy name forever and ever" (Ps. xxxiv, 3; clix, 1). Note the double contrast of "now" and "then" in verse 12, and may we by faith so know the power of the "then" that we shall live better in the "now" to His glory. Then, face to face, knowing as we are known, like Him, for we shall see Him as He is, even our bodies being fashioned like unto His glorious body (I John iii, 1, 2; Phil. iii, 20, 21).

Do not misunderstand the last verse of the lesson. We never heard of anything so great as the love of God, but the greatest thing on our part is faith without which it is impossible to please God and by which alone we can become children of God. It is the one thing He looks for in us, the faith which worketh by love, because we have known and believed the love which God hath to us (Gal. v, 6; I John iv, 19). See how He commended the great faith of the centurion and the woman of Tyre and Sidon, while He reproved His disciples because of their little faith (Matt. vi, 30; viii, 10, 26; xiv, 31; xv, 28; xvi, 8). Note also His admonition to "have faith in God" (Mark xi, 22).

Jogging Laziness into Activity

The merchant whose business lags in the summer has himself to thank.

To slacken the selling pace in the hot season—to lessen Advertising activity—indicates a resignation which has no place in modern business.

If we think we cannot keep our business booming in summer time, we surely will not.

What a jolt it must have been to the fur trade, when the first mid-summer fur advertisement was run in a daily paper! Now many fur stores are following the example of that progressive fur man who dared to believe that fur sales need not go down as the mercury goes up.

Energy, linked with Advertising, has turned the month of January into the biggest selling season for white goods. Advertisements of a high stimulative power, combined with a disregard of "seasons," have opened up automobile selling two months earlier than was once thought possible. Advertising has started Christmas shopping early in October instead of the middle of December.

Advertising rises superior to seasons and thermometers. The right kind of Advertising strikes a responsive cord in human nature—and human nature is the same in August as in December.

What Heatstroke Really Is--How to Treat the Sufferer

By DR. L. K. HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

COME now the days when some of the ill, the weak and the physically unbalanced fall victims to the torrid temperatures of mid-summer. The humid, oppressively "hot" spells sometimes remain so long, at other times they appear so suddenly, again the thermometer rises so high that tissues of the feeble, the old and those with defective blood pressure cannot always withstand the strain.

Heatstroke is a much more common condition than sunstroke. Indeed, it is doubtful at times whether or not the magnetic or luminous radiations of the sun affect the human fabric. Rather, it is the heat rays and not the light rays which produce what is called a "stroke."

But call it heatstroke or sunstroke the origin of the trouble is to be found in the sun. It may lay low its victim at night, it may strike like an assassin on a dark or dinky day. Yet the fact remains that the solar radiations are at the bottom of the mischief.

Savants are alive without splitting hairs a real intrinsic difference between heat exhaustion and sunstroke. The latter shows its sharp darts of ultra-violet rays--with powerful chemical effects--into the human structure. In this as it may, the heat is from the sun as well as the light and chemical. The sufferers may be men with heavy work in the shade of high blood pressure at work in the shade of the old apple tree or seated comfortably indoors, or they may be hardy soldiers on the march. Yet it is old Sol, who has climbed above the equator, that probably deserves the blame.

Heatstroke is the name given to the condition suffered by the suddenly exhausted individual, who falls very abruptly without warning on hot, humid days. As if shot or stricken with apoplexy, the poor fellow sinks unconscious to the ground. At times he is mistaken for a drunk or to the hospital under the mistaken belief that it is an apoplectic attack. He may be comatose, snoring, gasping for breath with hot, dry flesh and a purplish flush on his face.

Sometimes the victim is bathed in a profuse perspiration, with pulse bounding at his temples and throat or so feeble as to be unfeel at his wrist. The face may, on the other hand, be pale and clammy, the skin so hot that a thermometer in the mouth registers 110 to 115 degrees--if the thermometer registers that high. Nausea, vomiting, twitching of the muscles or delirium may be present.

Treatment must be aimed at the reduction of the extremely high fever. Absolute quiet, the application of ice water to the head, hands, wrists and neck, vigorous massage and nibbling of the feet and legs, and the sprinkling of water over the exposed flesh are all to be tried.

As soon as the patient rounds to and begins to move both arms, both legs and both eyes, he should be gently and carefully put to bed under a physician's slightest observation.

Answers to Health Questions

1. B. V. Q. Please advise a remedy for gums which shrink from the teeth.

2. How can small white spots be removed from the skin?

A. Have a dentist examine the teeth thoroughly, and if pyorrhea is present the following treatment must be begun. Hypodermic treatments with 1/2-grain of emetine are used, but a vaccine injection of staphylococcus and streptococcus bacteria is more rational. Iodide of potash saturated in water taken after meals helps. Start with 12 drops and increase a drop at a time until 25 drops or so are taken. Have a dentist scrape the teeth. Take 5 grains each of hexamethylene-tetramine and citrate of lithia every four hours in water.

3. One kind of these spots is incurable, others are merely temporary from sickness, anemia, indoor life and need of fresh meats. Outdoor life in the sunlight assists in the treatment. Rub a little of the following into the white spots each night: Bland's mass, 1 dram; yellow vaseline, 1/2 ounce; lanolin, 1/2 ounce.
