Athanasian Creed.

(From advance pages of volume II. of the Catholic Encyclopedia published by the Robert Appleton Company, New York.)

Athanasian Creed, The, one of the symbols of the Faith approved by the Church and given a place in her liturgy, is a short, clear exposition of the doctrines of the Trinity and the Incarnation, with a passing reference to several other dogmas. Unlike most of the other creeds, or symbols, it deals almost exclusively with these two fundamental truths, which it states and restates in terse and varied forms so as to bring out unmistakably the trinity of Persons in God, and the twofold nature in the one Divine Person of Jesus Christ. At various points the author calls attention to the penalty incurred by those who refuse to accept any of the articles therein set down. The following is the Marquis of Bute's English translation of the text of the Creed:—

Whoever will be saved, before all things it is necessary that he hold the Catholic Faith, which Faith except everyone do keep whole and undefiled, without doubt he shall perish everlastingly. And the Catholic Faith is this, that we worship one God in Trinity and Trinity in Unity. Neither confounding the Persons, nor dividing the Substance. For there is one Person of the Father, another of the Son, and another of the Holy Ghost. But the Godhead of the Father, of the Son and of the Holy Ghost is all One, the Glory Equal, the Majesty Co-Eternal. Such as the Father is, such is the Son, and such is the Holy Ghost. The Father Uncreated, the Son Uncreated, and the Holy Ghost Uncreated. The Father Incomprehensible, the Son Incomprehensible, and the Holy Ghost Incomprehensible. The Father Eternal, the Son Eternal and the Holy Ghost Eternal and yet they are not Three Eternals but One Eternal. As also they are not Three Uncreated, nor Three Incomprehensibles, but One Uncreated, and One Incomprehensible. So likewise the Father is Almighty, the Son Almighty, and the Holy Ghost Almighty. And yet there are not Three Almighties but One Almighty. So the Father is God, the Son is God, and the Holy Ghost is God. And yet they are not Three Gods, but One God. So likewise the Father is Lord, the Son Lord, and the Holy Ghost Lord. And yet there are not Three Lords but One Lord. For, like as we are compelled by the Christian verity to acknowledge every Person by Himself to be God and Lord, so are we forbidden by the Catholic Religion to say, there be Three Gods or Three Lords.

Who, then, is the author? The results of recent inquiry make it highly probable that the Creed first saw the light in the fourth century, during the life of the great Eastern patriarch, or shortly after his death. It has been attributed by different writers variously to St. Hlary, to St. Vincent of Lirin, to Eusebius of Verelli, to Vigilius and to others. It is not easy to avoid the force of the objections to all of these views, however, as they were men of worldwide reputation, and hence any document, especially one of such importance as a profession of faith, coming from them would have met with almost immediate recognition. Now, no allusions to the authorship of the Creed, and few even to its existence, are to be found in the literature of the Church for over two hundred years after their time. We have referred to a like silence in proof of a non-Athanasian authorship. It seems to be similarly available in the case of any of the great names mentioned above. In the opinion of Father Sydney Smith, S. J., which the evidence just indicated renders plausible, the author of this Creed must have been some obscure bishop or theologian who composed it, in the first instance, for purely local use in some provincial diocese. Not coming from an author of wide reputation, it would have attracted little attention. As it became better known, it would have been more widely adopted, and the compactness and the lucidity of its statements would have contributed to make it highly prized wherever it was known. Then would follow speculation as to its author, and what wonder, if, from the subject-matter of the Creed, which occupied the great Athanasius so much, his name was first affixed to it and, unchallenged, remained.

The "damnable," or "minatory" clauses, are the pronouncements contained in the symbol, of the penalties which will follow the rejection of what is there proposed for our belief. It opens with one of them: "Whoever will be saved, before all things it is necessary that he hold the Catholic Faith." The same is expressed in the verses beginning: "Furthermore it is necessary," etc., and "For the right Faith is," etc., and finally in the concluding verse. "This is the Catholic Faith, which except a man believe faithfully and firmly, he cannot be saved." Just as the Creed states in a very plain and precise way what the Catholic Faith is concerning the important doctrines of the Trinity and the Incarnation, so it asserts with equal plainness and precision what will happen to those who do not faithfully and steadfastly believe in these revealed truths. They are but the ordinal equivalent of Our Lord's words: "He that believeth not shall be condemned" and apply, as is evident, only to the culpable and the willful rejection of Christ's words and teachings. The absolute necessity of accepting the revealed word of God, under the stern penalties here threatened, is so intolerable to a powerful class in the Anglican Church, that frequent attempts have been made to eliminate the Creed from the public services of that Church. The Upper House of Convocation of Canterbury has already affirmed that these clauses, in their prima facie meaning, go beyond what is warranted by Holy Scripture. In view of the words of Our Lord quoted above, there should be nothing startling in the statement of our duty to believe what we know is the testimony and teaching of Christ, nor in the serious sin we commit in wilfully refusing to accept it, nor, finally, in the punishment that will be inflicted on those who culpably persist in their sin. It is just this last that the damnable clauses proclaim. From a dogmatic standpoint, the merely historical question of the authorship of the Creed, or of the time it made its appearance, is of secondary consideration. The fact alone that it is approved by the Church as expressing its mind on the fundamental truths with which it deals, is all we need to know.

Theol., s. v. See also the recent discussion by Anglican writers: Weldon, Crouch, Elliot, Luckock, in The Nineteenth Century (1904-06).

For the past two hundred years the authorship of this summary of the Catholic Faith and the time of its appearance have furnished an interesting problem to ecclesiastical antiquarians. Until the seventeenth century, the "Quiescentis" as it is sometimes called, from its opening words, was thought to be the composition of the great Archbishop of Alexandria whose name it bears. In the year 1644, Gerard Voss, in his "De Tribus Symbolis" gave weighty probability to the opinion that St. Athanasius was not its author. His reasons may be reduced to the two following: first no early writer of authority speaks of it as the work of this doctor, and secondly, its language and structure point to a Western, rather than to an Alexandrian, origin. Most modern scholars agree in admitting the strength of these reasons, and hence this view is the one generally received today. Whether the Creed can be ascribed to St. Athanasius or not, and most probably it cannot, it undoubtedly owes its existence to Athanasian influences, for the expressions and doctrinal colouring exhibit too marked a correspondence, in subject-matter and in phraseology, with the literature of the latter half of the fourth century, and especially with the writings of the saint, to be merely accidental. These internal evidences seem to justify the conclusion that it grew out of several provincial synods, chiefly that of Alexandria, held about the year 361, and presided over by St. Athanasius. It should be said, however, that these arguments have failed to shake the conviction of some Catholic authors, who refuse to give it an earlier origin than the fifth century.

An elaborate attempt was made in England, in 1871, by E. C. Froulkes to assign the Creed to the ninth century. From a passing remark in a letter written by Alcuin he constructed the following remarkable piece of fiction. The Emperor Charlemagne, he says, wished to consolidate the Western Empire by a religious, as well as a political, separation from the East. To this end he suppressed the Nicene Creed, dear to the Oriental Church, and substituted a formula composed by Paulinus of Aquileia, with whose approval and that of Alcuin, a distinguished scholar of the time, he ensured its ready acceptance by the people, by affixing to it the name of St. Athanasius. This gratuitous attack upon the reputation of men whom every worthy historian regards as incapable of such a fraud, added to the undoubted proofs of the Creed's having been in use long before the ninth century, leaves this theory without any foundation.

The refusal to the Pope to submit to the exactions of the French Government has been the occasion, or rather the means, of conveying a lesson which the world has not yet recovered its senses sufficiently to appreciate, but which is of immense importance in an age that is swayed by the contradictory influences of adoration of brute power and the spirit of revolution. Pius X has solemnly declared that there are laws which should not be obeyed and yet has put his veto on rebellion.

There is in France an intellectual and ethical chaos with regard to legislation which has resulted, for a century at least, in a political status which implies the relinquishment of decent self-respect on the part of its citizens, and the abrogation of their most fundamental civil rights. Though supposed to be a republic, it accepts almost as an article of faith that whatever the legislators, no matter how ignorant, self-seeking, or corrupt they may be, have enacted into a law, is by the very fact invested with inviolable sacredness and to be obeyed without questioning submission: it matters not what injustice the law may inflict, there is not a court in the country that can reverse it. A decent judge has no choice but to quit the bench. Six hundred of them did so on the occasion of the Ferry law in 1879. Such a method of governing human beings is simply a disgrace to modern civilization. It is not merely medieval. It is a revival of the old worship of Cæsar.

"This is the Catholic Faith, which except a man believe faithfully and firmly, he cannot be saved." Just as the Creed states in a very plain and precise way what the Catholic Faith is concerning the important doctrines of the Trinity and the Incarnation, so it asserts with equal plainness and precision what will happen to those who do not faithfully and steadfastly believe in these revealed truths. Was Weak and Run Down WOULD VERY OFTEN FAINT AWAY

Wm. J. H. Armstrong, Port Elmsley, Ont., tells of his experience with MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

She writes: "It is with gratitude I tell how your Heart and Nerve Pills benefited me. "I was very weak and run down, had headaches nearly every day and very often would faint away, in fact, my doctor said that sometimes I would never come out of the faint. It was through one of your travelling agents that I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking three boxes I am glad to relate it has been a number of years since I had a fainting spell and certainly ever have a headache. Too much cannot be said in praise of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, for in me they have effected a perfect cure. "Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or The T. Mary Ovington, Jasper, Ont., writes:—"My mother had a badly sprained arm. Nothing we used did her any good. Then father got Haggard's Yellow Oil and it cured mother's arm in a few days." Price 25c.

"Why is the sluggish advised to go to the ant?" asked the teacher. "Maybe," said a small voice, "it's because if he went to his uncle he'd get throught out."

Minard's Liniment cures colds, etc.

Kidney Disease And Its Danger.

Kidney disease comes on quietly—may have been in the system for years before you suspected the real cause of your trouble. There may have been backaches, neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, etc. Perhaps you did not know these were symptoms of kidney disease, so the trouble kept on growing worse, until disturbances of the water appeared, or there was gravel or retention of urine, or some such sign of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken at the first sign of anything wrong; they strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly—help them to flush off, and carry away with the surplus water, all those impurities which the blood gathers up in its circuit of the body. Mrs. Alfred LeBaron, Black Falls, Que., writes: "I feel it my duty to say a word about DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. I suffered dreadful pains across my back—my bed I could not stoop or bend. After having used two boxes I now feel most completely cured. I highly recommend DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS."

HAS SPOKEN.

JUDICIAL APPOINTMENTS

LEMIEUX GOES TO JAPAN

MR. BORDEN IN THE WEST

Ottawa, Oct. 12, 1907.

The new Minister of Railways received an awkward introduction to the Canadian public in the by-election at Brockville this week. The seat in the Legislature of Ontario which Mr. Graham filled, will now be occupied by Mr.
Donovan, a Conservative, who has a majority of 325 over Mr. Graham's friend, Mr. Lewis. This is the first time for a quarter of a century that Brockville has sent a Conservative to the Legislature, and the majority is the largest in all that period. The result is the more striking and the more humiliating to the new minister, as he left his departmental work and went down to Brockville to assist in the campaign. He had with him also Mr. McKay the new leader of the Ontario Opposition, who spoke on the same platform with Mr. Graham, and shares in the bitterness of his defeat. There is now, an unrecurrent of complaint among Liberals in the Province that Mr. Graham, for the sake of a Federal office, not only abandoned his post as Provincial leader but sacrificed a Liberal constituency. But the essential element in the case seems to be that the machine which has been accustomed to operate in by-elections throughout Ontario, and has a dark record of election frauds in Brockville, is no longer in good condition. The Ross Government, which protected the criminals from Toronto is no more, and the London conspiracy case has furnished an awful warning to the machine. How far this affected the case, and how far the offenses of the Government at Ottawa and the character of the Whitney Administration are responsible for the change cannot be stated, but the fact is that a Liberal majority of 180 has been turned into a Conservative majority twice as large.

POLITICS AND THE BENCH.

A short time ago, when the Parent Government in Quebec was in danger, Sir Wilfrid came to the rescue and appointed the Premier to a Federal office, and thus settled the domestic dispute. Now that a new trouble has arisen Federal patronage is again invoked. One of the Quebec Ministers who had to quit office is yet to be provided for, but Hon. A.
Tessier, Provincial Treasurer, has been removed in a more kindly way. Sir Wilfrid has made him a judge. It is true there was no previous vacancy, but there was a judge ready to resign and his place was made available. This rapid operation contrasts sharply with the treatment of Nova Scotia.
That province has hardly seen a fall supreme Court bench any time in the last three or four years. For a long period two vacancies existed, and appointments have gone unfiled for a year or two against the protests of the Law Society, of the Chief Justice and of suitors whose cases were postponed from time to time for want of a quorum. Nova Scotia seats have been kept vacant for the same reason that the Quebec seat has been so quickly filled. That is to suit party convenience. At present there is a Member of Parliament with a promise in his pocket of a Nova Scotia judgeship. He has been carrying it around for two or three Sessions and will hold it until it is convenient for the Government to vacate the seat. Such a member represents hope of office more than he does the electors of his country.

LEMIEUX'S ACKWARD
MISSION.

In a few days Postmaster-General Lemieux will set out for Japan to persuade the Mikado's Government to keep the Japanese away from Canada. It is not quite a year since the Government to which Mr. Lemieux belongs introduced and carried through the Canadian Parliament a measure permitting Japanese to settle in this country. To invite these Asiatics by legislation and treaty in January and to repeal them in October is a rather quick change. It is felt that Mr. Lemieux will find the matter difficult to explain in Japan, and all this week the Ministers have been diligently engaged in preparing a statement for him to make. When the programme is complete it will still be hard for the delegate to show why the Government did not know in the beginning of this year what it knows now, and how immigrants who were desirable last winter should be objectionable this autumn.

WHAT CAN HE SAY.

Of course the Government says that when it offered homes in Canada for settlers from Japan it did not think they would come.
But this excuse lends itself to Oriental rebuke. "You kindly offer us the hospitality of your country," the Tokio diplomats will say, "when you think that we do not want it, but the moment we accept you close your doors and tell us that we are not wanted." Undoubtedly there was an assurance brought from Japan by Mr.
Fisher, when he returned from his cheerful sojourn in that country as an Exhibition Commissioner, that Japan did not wish to lose her sons and would limit the number of emigrants from each province. Yet unhappily it is not now clear how much of this comfortable information originated in Japan, and how much is due to Mr. Fisher's Orientalized imagination. More over Japan now contends that any restrictions she undertook to impose under previous conditions are no longer binding, as Canada has by subsequent treaty and by legislation swept away all restrictions and offered a free welcome to all Japanese who choose to accept it.

NO ROOM FOR DEMANDS.

These are the conditions which confront Mr. Lemieux. The best he can do is to appear in Tokio with regrets and apologies. It is absolutely impossible for him to submit a demand or an ultimatum.
Last year he would have been free to insist upon anything.
This year he meets a positive engagement of Canada, and all he can do is to ask on what conditions this engagement may be broken. He has also to explain, if he can, that his colleague, Mr.
Templeman, who was a minister last January and a party to the bargain with Japan, is attending anti-Japanese meetings in British Columbia, denouncing the very engagement that he himself made and declaring that it must not be observed. It has been the boast of the British people that they do not enter lightly into binding engagements, but when they make a contract to their hurt they stand by it until the agreement runs out. Also it has been a complaint against some Eastern people that they are not true to their national engagements: Japan has once contrasted her own integrity with Russian trickery, and Canada will not want to supply her with another instance of Western duplicity.
Therefore Mr. Lemieux must present himself as a suppliant for mercy and not as one demanding justice.

MR. BORDEN'S POSITION.

Mr. Borden has held some fifteen meetings in British Columbia and Alberta, making the most successful political campaign tour ever known in the far West.
Everywhere he has been received cordially, heard attentively, and has found his doctrines enthusiastically endorsed. The Opposition leader has shown that he does not require one platform for the East and another for the West; one for the manufacturers, another for the farmers and a third for the miners. The Halifax platform is as good in British Columbia as in Nova Scotia, for it was not framed with the view of catching votes in any particular section. On the Japanese question Mr. Borden proclaimed a doctrine on the Pacific Coast which he can also affirm on the Atlantic or at Ottawa. He believes that this ought to be a white man's country, and that Asiatic population is not suitable to the civilization which it is Canada's mission to promote. He declares that parliament was deceived last session by Mr. Fisher's positive declaration that Japanese would not be permitted to emigrate. This error, whether intentionally produced or not, is at the bottom of the present embarrassment.

IMMIGRATION POLICY.

Those who have studied the Halifax platform do not need to be told that Mr. Borden does not select the Japanese as the only undesirable immigrants. He demands greater care over the admission of foreigners generally calls for a rigid inquiry into the sources of immigration and a strict inspection of immigrants, and for the general abolition of the bonus system. The Conservative party places a high value on Canadian citizenship, and considers that the country confers greater favor on those who settle in the Dominion than they offer by coming here. The present government has acted as though it was a debtor to every creature who reached our shores. It has gathered immigrants indiscrimin-ately. It has begged for them.

It has paid fabulous sums for them to real and imaginary corporations. It has given them land in community grants as they have desired, without considering whether the conditions created were for the advantage of the country at large. Thus we have among other inconveniences the Doubtful communities, with their crazy pilgrimages, their continual complaints and their absolute refusal to become Canadians in any desirable sense.

STILL COX CANNOT WAIT.

It is time to end all this. It is time for Canada to insist that the homes she has to offer shall be given only to those who are worthy of them, and who will assist in building up a strong and orderly self-government. Even under the best possible conditions our national problems will be difficult to settle. Senator Cox, whose interest in the Grand Trunk Pacific is stronger, than his patriotism, took occasion to say in Calgary the other day that Canada should open her doors to labourers from every land, and especially the Asiatics who were needed to bring the G.T.R. Railway to a speedy completion. One would like to know how far the influence of this Railway Company has prevailed in bringing about the Japanese trouble and how far the Government is the creature of this corporation. But whether Senator Cox has the Government behind him or not he proclaims a policy which must never be accepted. It will be better for Mr. Cox to wait, and the G.T.R. to wait than that a quarter of a million Chinese, Japanese and Hindus should camp down in Canada as permanent elements in the population. Sooner or later they would throw out of employment that number of Canadian workmen and reduce the standard of living to that which prevails on the Continent of Asia.
The presence of the Asiatics would not affect the standard of living in the household of Senator Cox, and the other G.T.R. magnates, except to make it grander, but it would make it impossible for Canadian labour to maintain its present standard, much less to raise that standard.

PUGSLÉY'S CHANCE IS COM-ING.

Mr Pugsley is still suggesting that Mr Borden ought to sue him for libel because of the Minister's general and vague assertions respecting Conservative campaign expenditure. Mr Borden has been too busy with his own campaign to pay much attention to the new Minister. The Opposition leader is not turned aside by Mr Pugs-ley's uncertain and indefinite generalities. He has bigger business before him just now than chasing around to see whether Mr Pugsley may have said something distinct enough to demand a precise reply. But when the Western campaign is over, Mr Pugsley will get all the opportunity he wants to make his charges definite. He will have an invitation to tell all he knows, and find out all that a Committee of Parliament can discover. The Minister of Public Works will not be allowed to squirm or dodge out of the investigation. He will find an opposition that courts inquiry, that will not shelter itself behind privileges that will not shut out evidence or burn the records or send its friends to Europe and the United States to avoid the witness stand. Face to face with Mr Borden and others whom he may be bold to accuse in the Village of Fairville Mr Pugsley will be invited to make his charges and to prove them.

Attorney-General Lamont of Saskatowan was recently appointed a judge of the Supreme court of that Province. This necessitated a by election at Prince Albert, which resulted in the defeat of the Government candidate and the election of the opponent by a majority of one vote. A number of contested ballots have to be delivered with it and it is difficult to say what the final result will be. This was the first by election and it was bitterly contested. It will be remembered that Prince Albert was the constituency where at the first election the election officers did not open polls at all; but wrote on the poll books a number of fictitious names, and marked them all as Government votes.

The Provincial Exhibition.

The Provincial Exhibition was well attended on Wednesday and Thursday and the trotting races on these days excited much interest. As already stated the exhibits on the whole were excellent, although some classes within the building were not as well filled as we have seen them.
The horse show was exceptionally fine. A most interesting feature of exhibition was the parade of prize winners, horses and cattle, on the driving track on Friday, the closing day. The winners of the red, blue and white ribbons were necessarily the pick of all the animals exhibited, and consequently this parade afforded an opportunity of seeing the best animals at their best.

The acrobatic performances in front of the grand stand, between the heats of the races, on Wednesday and Thursday constituted a great attraction. The feats performed were in many cases wonderful, and excited much applause while the amusing features caused great hilarity.

The side shows on the exhibition grounds and on the market square during exhibition week, were almost as numerous and various as those in the grove of Daphne. The fakers vigorously plyed their trades, and scoped in the stacks. Except on the opening day the weather was fine, a most fortunate circumstance considering the prevalence of unfavorable weather before and since.

Much interest was manifested in the trotting. The races on Wednesday were the 2.15 class; 2.30 and 2.40 In the 2.15 Feschnera, Peter Carrol, Halifax, won; Nellie Bangs, Wright, Summerside, second and Claudia Hal, R Bent, Halifax, third. Best time 2.23. The 2.30 was won by Parkwood, Long, Charlottetown; Queen Marie, D W White, York Point, second and Slipperside, Hughes, Emerald, third. Time 2.24.
The 2.40 was won by Miss Minto, J D Carroll, Picton, and Minnie Mac, McGregor, Montague and 3rd Marion, G Docherty, Stellarton, N.S. Time 2.28. The races on Thursday were the 2.24, Two year old, and the 2.15. The 2.15 was won by Peacherina, Carroll; second Nellie Bangs, Wright, and third Eda Mac, Bowness.
Time 2.12. The 2.24, was won by Lou Helen, McPhee, Freetown, second Mammie F, Mac Steele Summerside and third Miss Minto, Carrol. Time 2.24. The two year old race was in half mile heats, and was won by Arena Bell, Robinson, North River, second George Crescence, Beals, Charlottetown, third Bell S, Dr Strickland, Charlottetown, and fourth Lady Commodore, O'Brien Bros, Charlottetown. Best time 1.20.

The Cathedral Bazaar, closed on Monday night. Judge Hamilton died at Kingston, Ontario on Monday morning, after a lingering illness. Lord and Lady Roberts have arrived at Louisa, Switzerland. It is said Lord Roberts intends to make a thorough study of the Swiss Military system and to consult Swiss officers on the numerous points connected with army organization.

Obituary. The Rev. Neil Norbert McKinnon, S. J., pastor of the Church of St. Ignace, Loyola, Eighty-fourth street and Park Avenue, New York, died on Wednesday the 9th, inst., of carcinoma after nine days illness. The deceased priest was a native of Grand River, Lot 14 in this Province and had for many years been one of the foremost priests of the Jesuit Society in New York. He has, from time to time visited his native Province and, only a few years ago, conducted the ecclesiastical retreat for the clergy of this diocese. He was 65 years of age being born in the year 1842. He was a student at St. Donatus' College in his early days; and subsequently entered the Seminary of St. Sulpice, Montreal. The New York Sun, which contains notice of his demise, says that after being ordained deacon he entered the Society of Jesus at South-Aspelt. He studied Philosophy and Theology at the Jesuit College, Wexford, Ireland. In 1870 he was ordained priest and was assigned to the parish of St. Francis Xavier in New York City. Fourteen years ago he was transferred to St. Ignace's where he at once began to build up a large parish. He erected a new church and seven years ago founded Loyola school, for boys in Eighty-third street. He also built a new parochial school, which is not quite finished. His funeral obsequies took place on Saturday morning last. Archbishop Farley sang the Mass of Requiem and gave the absolution. R.I.P.

DIED. At Summersville, King's County, on the 13th, inst. Mrs. Andrew Lannon, aged 56 years. May her soul rest in peace. At Greenfield, Lot 66, on the 13th, inst. Bridget, widow of the late John Trainor, aged 96 years. May her soul rest in peace. At the Clark games in Boston on Labor Day, D. Clark, a P.E. Islander won second prize for throwing the 16 pound hammer. His throw was 95 feet 11 inches. Clark lives in Lynn, and belongs to Clan McLean order of Scottish clans. A passenger train from Scotland and North of England to Bristol, on the London and North Western Railway, left the rails as it was entering the station at Shrewsbury early yesterday morning. Sixteen persons, including ten passengers, were killed and many others were injured. The road curves sharply as it nears Shrewsbury and a standing order forbids engineers to exceed a speed of ten miles an hour. Evidently this order was disregarded.

Col. Weir, president of the Adam's Express Company passed through Washington on Monday on his way to New York. He is in a very critical state of health, and has been South for some weeks. Taken suddenly worse he started for New York, and telegraphed to Philadelphia for two specialists to meet him in Washington. The specialists started on a special train, which covered the 138 miles between Philadelphia and Washington in 136 minutes. Farmers who send their sons and daughters to the Union Commercial College can rest assured they will not waste their time. No nonsense. Write for new illustrated prospectus. Wm. Moran, Prin. Ch. The storm of the last week broke in two the wrecked schooner, Mary E. Smith at the Whitehead N.E. The forward part is held down by chains at the eastern entrance to the harbor at that place and is a menace to navigation. The storm which raged along the coast of the Maritime Province on Tuesday last, was particularly heavy on the New England coast, and considerable damage was done all along the Atlantic coast. The wind gauge at the Halifax Citadel showed 56 miles an hour. Mrs. (Dorothy) Gault serving a long term in prison at Columbus, Ohio, for embezzling funds from several banks, and creating much excitement in general in the financial world, died in the prison hospital at Columbus last Thursday night. All steamers which arrived at Halifax for dressed hogs, were both won by Mr. Stephen Brown. The winner of the first prize was a splendid carcase, weighing 174 lbs, and the second prize carcase weighed 169 lbs. Rhodes Scholarship for Prince Edward Island—1908. The Steamers John W Moore and Queen City came into collision, head on in the Detroit River near Detroit, Mich. on Sunday morning last, the John W Moore was sunk and the Queen City was badly damaged. Wheelman Duncan McIntyre of Sarnia, Ont., was asleep in his room on the port side of the Moore and was crushed to death in the collision. His body was carried down with the steamer and was recovered the following day. Governor Henry A. Buchta, David E. Moffat, President of the First National Bank of Denver and Charles Komatsu, President of the Colorado National Bank, at Denver on the 9th, resolved through the mail telegraph to donate $10,000 to the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake in California. The money was to be distributed to the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake in California. The money was to be distributed to the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake in California.

Five hundred and sixteen Hindus were brought to Vancouver B. C. by the steamer Tarter, on Saturday. One hundred and eighty one were turned back by the immigration officer. One hundred and six had not sufficient money to qualify, and the remainder were physically defective. The others were turned loose in Vancouver, to join their companions, many of whom are now begging on the streets. This winter will see a repetition of the suffering of last winter when the cholera dropped on the streets from want of food. Fears are entertained at North Sydney for the safety of three young men who left Sydney Mines in an open boat a week ago last Saturday for the lake, nothing has been heard from them since. The young men are Frank Jessop, aged 23, Stephen Delehanty, 24, William William, 25, widower, the latter, while like the others a native of Little Bras Bay, having formerly worked at Bridgeport and was married there. All three were employed at Sydney No. 3. It appears that on the day mentioned the young men embarked in a small sail boat at Little Pond, intending to proceed up Lakes for Sunday's outing. The day was rather blustery, and it is feared that the boat may have been swamped or been driven off.

The night operator at the C. P. R. Station at Woodstock Ont. was held up by masked burglars at 2.30 o'clock on the morning of Thursday last, and his silver watch and chain; $16.25 of personal funds and $32.20 of office money were taken. The first indication Operator Harry Southcott had of anything wrong was when he heard "hands up" called out in diabolical tones. He turned and saw a man pointing a revolver at him through the wicket. A second masked man climbed over the partition and with a rope and strap secured the operator's hands and feet after which they rifled his pockets and till. Southcott managed to free himself and telephoned police headquarters and in a short time the whole force was after the daring men. Sydney advices of the 9th say—Within a few days Maroon will be prepared to flash messages across the Atlantic at one half the price of cable rates, and then the inventor will turn his attention to transmitting arrival messages from Cape Breton to Vancouver. The next step will be the sending of messages direct from Ireland to the Pacific slope. That this possible Maroon is confident and justly confident. Eventually he will be able to encircle the globe, though this is something he has not arrived at yet, and when asked if the story that the had communicated with the Philippine Islands from Cape Breton was correct the inventor laughed and said "It is absolutely incorrect." "There is no station in that region with transmission power to send a message here.

The new turbine steamer Lusitania of the Cunard line, has won the blue ribbon for the quickest voyage across the Atlantic. As will be remembered she is a new steamer, this being only her second trip from Liverpool and Queenstown. She arrived at New York on Friday, completing the passage in 4 days, 19 hours and 52 minutes. She not only made the quickest trip from Europe to New York; but she made the fastest average speed 23.9 nautical miles an hour, and in addition to this covered the longest distance in one day of 517 nautical miles, equal to 57.06 miles per hour. A man named James McDonald, was arrested at Summersville yesterday forenoon on the charge of stealing $3,500 from the North Sydney Post office on the 7th, inst. McDonald had formerly lived in Summersville for about eight years; but for the past three years has been living at North Sydney. He is a printer by trade and worked as a compositor at Summersville; but was manager of a paper at North Sydney called the "Enterprise." When arrested he had on his person $2,950, a gold watch and a diamond ring. He was taken to North Sydney today, where he will be tried. The money was in a package sent in by local agency of the Bank of Nova Scotia for transmission to St. Halifax. It is known McDonald was in the habit of going inside where the clerks do their work and it is said he was there at the time this package was about to be put into the mail bag for Halifax.

Itching Skin

Disease by day and night— That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They don't.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

"I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. J. J. Wash, Care Falls, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cleans the blood of all impurities and cures all eruptions.

and the next day was deposited with funeral honors in a little vault under the Church, where it now reposes, the guardian angel of the Ottawa mission, opposite the beautiful island of Mackinac, and of the home of the Great Manitowish among the Indians delighted to worship."

In May, 1877, the foundations of the old church were discovered on the property of David Murray, at Point St. Ignace, and the remains of Marquette were found in a vault enclosed in the bark casket which the Indians had made for them.

Jaques Marquette, a French explorer and missionary in America, was born at Laon, France, in 1637. When seventeen he became a Jesuit and in 1666 was sent to Canada. He studied some of the Indian languages in the neighborhood of Three Rivers, and founded the mission at Sault Ste. Marie. He next preached among the Hurons and Ottawa, and when they were scattered by the Sioux, followed them to Mackinac, where he built a chapel. He had heard of the Mississippi River from the Indians, and in 1673 with Louis Joliet was sent to explore it by Frontenac, the Governor of Canada.

With five other Frenchmen they left Mackinac in two canoes May 17, and reached the Mississippi June 17, by way of Green Bay, Fox River and over a short portage to Wisconsin. Near the mouth of the Ohio they found Europeans and were told by the Indians that it was not more than ten days journey to the sea.

They reached Mackinac by way of the Illinois in September, having covered a distance of 25,000 miles. On the way back Pere Marquette had promised the Kaskaskia Indians to come and preach to them, and after a year's illness he set out for the country of Kaskaskians in October 1674. Illness forced him, however, to winter on the Ohio, and he did not reach the Indian village till the spring of 1675. He had hardly begun his mission when he became certain he could not live much longer and set out to go back. He only got as far as the little river flowing into Lake Michigan, which bears his name, where he died. The story of his voyage and missionary journeys is told in Shea's Discovery and Exploration of the Mississippi Valley.

The Meaning of Christian Democracy.

The principle of Christian Democracy, declares Mr. C. S. Devas, a European Catholic publicist, is as old as Christianity, and has nothing new about it but the application to new times.

It is a matter of common knowledge that our age has witnessed among all civilized nations, a great democratic movement; the power of government; or of appointing a government, has passed from the hands of those privileged by birth or by fortune, into those of the great mass of the common people.

Now, the conception of Christian Democracy is that all government local and central being carried on for the common good, and all citizens being associated for this ends the primary aim of government is to secure the good of the most numerous class of citizens; that each contributes to the common good according to his capacities, and receives according to his needs every superiority involving increased responsibility, and, in consequence, the poorer and weaker members of society receive relatively the greater advantage from society.

This can be called, in more senses than one, says Mr. Devas, the humane principle of government.

Christian Democracy has, further, three specific trade-marks, namely: (a) It does not regard law as the expression of the will of the people, or an emanation of popular sovereignty; but much rather the expression of the national reason and conscience applying the general dictates of the law of nature to the circumstances of the times.

Again (b) Christian Democracy does not make war against inequality, but against the abuse of inequality: As Christians, we know that all men have a common nature and destiny, but are accorded diverse gifts both of nature and grace.

A war of the classes, or the stirring up of workmen against their employers is totally opposed to the aims of Christian Democracy.

Lastly (c), Christian Democracy has no illusions about the manifold imperfections of fallen man, but recognizes that much suffering must ever be the lot of mankind, not to be removed by the best of governments; that human justice is of necessity lame, halting, imperfect and that, in consequence, there is an immense field open for Christian charity.

Christian Democracy eschews all extremes of the socialist in words of beneficence, and perfectly understands that there is a place for justice and a place for charity, and that every society is in constant need of both.

As to what Christian Democracy proposes to do—take first the protection of Labor. It will seek to bring about legislation against unjust conditions of labor, such as sweating or the employment of children in factories.

The Catholics of Germany, Austria, France, Switzerland and Belgium have been successful in bringing about restrictive legal measures in respect of these evils.

Why not universal legislation to prohibit what really involves, in the ultimate analysis, the destruction of the human race? They will further, by all means in their power, follow the counsels of the late Pope Leo XIII., in regard to international agreements on factory laws and the problem of decent sanitary dwellings.

Christian Democracy, in order that reform and organization be possible, says Mr. Devas, renounces once and for all, and for all countries and times the two principles of an antiquated and ridiculous political economy, namely, cut-throat competition among employers, and the mock competition of individual bargaining between master and workman; there must be regulated trading and collective bargaining.

Christian Democracy holds out the hand of friendship and welcome to Trade Unions, since all Catholic social reformers, e. g., the late Pope agree on the need of workers' associations.

Christian Democracy, is the grave problem of the land, holds with the principle of a multiplicity of small owners or perpetual leaseholders, and at the restriction, by means of graduated taxation, of large estates.

In so doing, it hopes to build a wall against revolutionary socialism. Christian Democracy claims, in effect, writes Mr. Devas, to conform in every particular to the sentiments expressed by the late Pope XIII., when he said: "The monuments of past ages bear witness to the truth that those laws and constitutions which are of the greatest value for the common welfare, those which bridge the license of all ruling princes, which forbid the central government to meddle at every turn in local business and private life, which secure due respect to human personality and due equality of all before the law—all these, the Catholic Church has ever been the author, or helper, or guardian."—N. Y. Freeman's Journal.

A Secular Tribute to Archbishop Williams.

(From the Boston Transcript.)

The death of Archbishop Williams was in harmony with his life. It was a passing, beautiful in its peace, its serenity and its faith. It ended a life that was not merely remarkable for its devotion to high ideals, but was the incarnation of them. No ecclesiastical dignity could invest him with higher moral and spiritual influence than that which irradiated from the man himself. Men forgot the one in admiration for the other. He early recognized his mission. His childhood and youth were an earnest preparation for it, and from early manhood to benighted old age he gave uninterrupted service to the benefit and betterment of his fellow-men through those means in whose efficacy he had most confidence.

Like most of exceptional men of his type, he was a man of great humility, employing that term in his highest and most christian sense. Pride and vainglory were defects of character of which he never gave the slightest manifestation. In him gentleness and strength were admirably blended, and they went to the hearts and the conduct of men with a power that such a combination never fails to exert. That his church and his people loved him is not strange, but such a life cannot be monopolized by even its most intimate associations. He was a wise and strong pillar of his faith in this city and this country, but his influence upon good citizenship was

"Herbert, dear," said the fond mother, "Willie Jones says that you told him to throw the rock that broke the window of the church."

"Willie Jones is a deliberate, unqualified, pulverized, dumfounded, slow rooted, gander shanked, pie faced, nut headed, lop eared, blanketed blanked, wall eyed falsifier," remarked Herbert dear, looking up from his play for a moment.

"With a rapt smile the mother beamed upon the caller."

"His papa is sure that Herbert has a future of great distinction, and may even be"—But just then the cook called, and the sentence was not finished.—Judge.
