A True Diamond

CHAPTER XXI.
A Sudden Decision.

"Of course it's the best way, but my dear young lady—"

Toney laughed happily.

"Oh, I'm not a young lady, you know, only just a poor relation of Sir Evas Dove. It doesn't matter at all about me, and nobody will mind one bit. Aunt Dove won't, I'm sure, she doesn't like me."

The doctor was much puzzled, but, after thinking a moment, he suddenly looked up.

"Really, Miss Whitburn, it would be a very noble thing to stamp this out if any one could and would do it. I can keep Thomas away; Mary has been in it all day, so I fear it is useless to separate her from her sister, but the others may be saved. This fever is frightfully infectious, but with strict precautions we may keep it from spreading further."

"Oh, yes, isn't it interesting to fight disease? You can trust me, really, that is if you will. I can cook and wash and do everything in this cottage. It will remind me of my nursery. But we mustn't do things by halves. I won't let anybody come in. It's real luck that this cottage stands alone."

TESTIMONY OF FIVE WOMEN

Proves That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Reliable.

Reedville, Ore.—"I can truly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who are passing through the Change of Life, as it made me a well woman after suffering three years."

Mrs. MARY BOGART, Reedville, Oregon.

New Orleans, La.—"When passing through the Change of Life I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy spells and backache. I was not fit for anything until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which proved worth its weight in gold to me."

Mrs. GASTON BLONDEAU, 1541 Polynnia St., New Orleans.

Mishawaka, Ind.—"Women passing through the Change of Life can take nothing better than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am recommending it to all my friends because of what it has done for me."

Mrs. CHAS. BAUER, 523 E. Marion St., Mishawaka, Ind.

Alton Station, Ky.—"For months I suffered from troubles in consequence of my age and thought I could not live. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and I want other suffering women to know about it."

Mrs. EMMA BAILEY, Alton Station, Ky.

Deisem, No. Dak.—"I was passing through Change of Life and felt very bad. I could not sleep and was very nervous. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health and I would not be without it."

Mrs. F. M. THORN, Deisem, No. Dak.

care of a sick child and of a cottage. His first duty, after seeing about medicines, was to go up to Aldersfield House. Wishing to save time he went down the road so as to enter at the small gate which led across the park and was a short cut to the house. As he neared the gate, Lewis Waycott met him.

"Hullo, Latham. Just the person I wanted to see," said the Squire. "Is it pressing, for I am in a hurry?"

"Oh, you are going to Aldersfield House; I'll come with you. I want to know if you are doctoring a certain Henry Faber, a returned missionary, lodging at the Todds, at Winchley?"

"Yes; he's been overworking in Australia, and the climate has done the rest. That sugar cane heat, after a time, knocks a man down. It is only fit for dark skins."

"Well, but is he really very bad?"

"He can't return to Australia, if that's your meaning. But there is no reason he should not get strong again, if he can find an easy curacy here. But there are no such things in these days."

"That's right. He saved my life when I was a lad, and if I could do anything for him, I would willingly. In fact, I mean to do as much as I can. But Bishops won't give livings away now as they did formerly, they ask so many questions. Nobody ill at Aldersfield, I hope? I won't delay you any more."

"Thank you. No one is ill there, but to tell you the truth, I don't like my mission. Lady Dove's niece has just done a very plucky thing, but what will her ladyship say? Miss Whitburn declares she won't object, still Lady Dove objects to most things."

"Miss Whitburn! Why she lunched with us to-day!"

The doctor told the story, and Lewis Waycott whistled softly.

"But it must not be allowed," he said at last.

"Well, it's a different matter. She must be isolated in any case, and she seems so full of good-will and enthusiasm about nursing. She wants to stamp it out. So do I. I dread that type of scarlet fever. I wish your landlords would look into the matter of drainage more. The village ought to—"

"Is it my cottage?" said Lewis anxiously.

"No, it is on Sir Evas' land, but I've spoken about this before, and he 'poo-poo's' it."

"May I come with you? I expect Lady Dove won't be pleased; but Miss Whitburn is a plucky girl."

"A doctor's daughter. Her father must have been no ordinary man."

"He left her without a penny, and to Lady Dove's tender mercies."

"Anyhow, he prepared her well for them," said Dr. Latham, smiling.

Miss Crump was reading a novel to Lady Dove when the two gentlemen were announced. The poor companion's voice was no longer dull and uninteresting, her eyes were shining with hope. Even Lady Dove's reception of her engagement had not depressed her. She was no longer alone in the world. To-day, however, Lady Dove was very much annoyed with Miss Crump's extraordinary news. When Mr. Waycott's name was announced, the companion expected to see Toney rush in with him, but she was disappointed.

"I hope you will forgive me, Lady Dove."

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition of disease which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down, and it wears out the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (for they are all-potent), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—Vitality.

VITALITY STRENGTH & ENERGY
to throw off these morbid feelings, and experience proves that as night succeeds the day it may be more certainly secured by a course of the celebrated life-reviving tonic.

THERAPION No. 3
than by any other known combination. Its action as it is taken in accordance with the printed directions accompanying it, will the shattered health be restored.

THE EXPIRING LAMP OF LIFE LIGHTED UP AFRESH.
and a new existence opened in place of what had so lately seemed worn-out, "used up" and "gone." This wonderful medicine is purely vegetable and innocuous, it is agreeable to the taste, suitable for all constitutions and conditions, it does not excite, and it is difficult to imagine a case of disease or derangement, whose main features are those of debility, that will not be speedily and permanently benefited by this never-failing restorative. It is destined to cast into oblivion everything that has preceded it in the wide-spread and numerous classes of human ailments.

THERAPION is sold by Chemists throughout the world. Price in England, 1/6 and 4/6. Purchasers should see that the word THERAPION appears on British & Government stamps in white letters on a red ground in the circular emblem on the wrapper of the medicine. It is a forgery if it is not so stamped.

"I am the bearer of rather strange news."

Lady Dove was out of temper, and therefore forgot to appear gracious.

"Indeed, Dr. Latham. Mr. Waycott, have you seen Antonia since she lunched with you, or is she still wasting her time with you?"

"No, she left us some time since."

"That is exactly why I've come," said Dr. Latham. "Miss Whitburn, unfortunately, went into a cottage where a little girl is very ill."

"You don't mean to say that the girl has been in an infectious place?" cried Lady Dove. "She must not return here at all on any account. How very wrong! What is it? Where is Sir Evas? Miss Crump, if you please, go and find him."

"I am sorry to say it is a very bad form of scarlet fever. Miss Whitburn nursed the child till I came, and I really cannot say that she is free from infection; but of course if she could be placed in a room alone for a few days we should soon see."

Miss Crump turned quite pale when she left the room. She was thinking that if she had not left Toney perhaps this would not have happened.

"Scarlet fever! There is nothing I have such a dread of," exclaimed Lady Dove. "It is most rash to bring it into a house. I have to think of all my servants. Certainly Antonia has acted very wrongly! What can we do?"

Lewis Waycott almost said, "See can come to us," but remembering that his own aunts would certainly object, he was silent.

"Miss Whitburn fully recognises the danger," said Dr. Latham shortly; "she herself suggests staying where she is, and, really if she does not mind, I think it would be the best thing. It is very brave of her. If we can keep it from spreading we shall have done a great work."

Two Kinds of Days.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

We were sitting on the veranda rejoicing in the glorious burst of sunshine that followed a heavy shower.
Said Molly, the little stenographer lady, with a long-drawn sigh
of content, "Well
this is the kind of day I like."
"Oh, is it?" queried the Wants-to-be-Cynic scornfully. "Well there's no accounting for tastes. Of course I may be peculiar in mine, but it does seem to me that an hour or two of hard rain isn't exactly ideal weather for a holiday morning."
"Courage, comrade, the devil is dead," quoted the Author Man cheerfully. "In other words, it has stopped raining. Still, I do agree with you that it isn't just the kind of day I should have picked out myself, if I had been consulted."
"If you will give me a chance," put in Molly, who had been wrinking her nose defiantly. "I'll go on and finish my sentence. I was about to say that this was the kind of day I liked because it knew enough to rain and get it over with, instead of half raining or opening and shutting all day. Just think of yesterday: how it was dull all the morning and misty all the afternoon. Of course it didn't really rain once, but it was uncomfortable all day long. Myself, I'd rather have to-day—one hard shower and then bright sunshine."

"I beg leave to withdraw my objections, Molly," said the Author Man.
"I'd rather have to-day any time."
"And to-day people, too," suggested the Lady-who-always-knows - somehow.
"Infinitely," said the Author Man, with an emphasis that suggested he had altogether too good reason for understanding the simile.
"What does all that mean?" inquired Molly.
"It means," translated the Author Man, "that we prefer the kind of people who storm hard for a little while,
and then clear off completely, to the other kind."
"I had an uncle and an aunt once who were just opposites that way," reminisced the Lady-who-always-knows-somehow. "If uncle was displeased with my aunt or any of us, he would speak very sternly, but the minute he had said what he wanted to, he would go right back to his old manner and be as pleasant as if nothing had happened. Aunt never would be half so stern, but she couldn't get over it if anything troubled her. She'd look cross for hours and she'd keep breaking out with her grievance. Sometimes she would make the whole house uncomfortable all day. I was only a child when I used to visit them, but I made up my mind even then that uncle's way was the best."
"I wonder," mused Molly, "which kind of day I am."
Which kind are you?
Ruth Cameron

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

MRS. J. MIMOP, of 321 S. Benton Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of Favorite Prescription and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a well day before I took your medicines. I was sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonder-ful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is weigh 125. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

The North Pole.

BY H. L. RANN.

The north pole is a geographical joke which is discovered in a new spot every two or three years by somebody who is trying to qualify for the Chautauqua circuit. It is located several feet out of the beaten path of travel, and is inhabited mainly by the chilblained polar bear and the near seal industry. It used to be considered quite a feat to discover the north pole without being shipped home in the form of a human glacier, but of late years so many people have sat on it while they prepared some costly magazine articles that the novelty has worn off. It is safe to predict that inside of two years the north pole will be used as a side trip from Medicine Hat, although it will never be popular for honeymoon purposes on account of the inferior hotel accommodations. Every once in a while somebody starts for the pole with a tape line and a collection of American baked beans, and after strewing the trail with sardine cans and the remains of deceased dogs, returns with a popular lecture and is hailed as hero at $1.50 per seat. Discovering the pole is a highly profitable pas-time. Old Doc Cook ran into it one evening, just after he had eaten the harness off the lead dog and was about to succumb in a cordial and noiseless manner, but as he forgot to bring back anything but an unsullied reputation and a prejudice against bathing, he was received with consid-erable hauteur and is now in a state of total eclipse. discovered the pole in a quiescent and upright attitude at high noon, and was so impressed by the sight that he draped himself over it and was photog-raphed in an astonished look, after which he whittled off a few splinters and carried them home in the pocket of his sealskin pants. Mr. Perry claims to be the only man who ever returned from the pole with anything in the form of proof more tangible than a fountain pen and a cold in the head. People who have visited the north pole say that it is a very dis-agreeable place to spend the winter in, as a man can't step out on the porch in the cool of the evening for a breath of fresh air without being stabbed in the vertebrae by a protuberant icicle or soldered to a lawn set-tee in a white duck suit.

Fads and Fashions.

Few wardrobes will be considered complete this season without several all-white dresses, whether they be of linen, serge, crepe, agaric cloth or the very inexpensive cotton materials that look like linen.
Auto cloth, especially manufactured for automobile coats and cloaks, is light in weight, rather dark tan in color and is, beyond question, one of the most practical materials ever offered for service of this kind.
The much-lamented accordion pleating is again coming into favor. Some chiffon frocks with accordion-pleated skirts have been shown among the advanced models for fall. The pleats are stitched flat at the upper part.
Brown, which is not usually classed as smart, is much worn this season. One sees brown chiffon coats and over-dresses, veils, hats and plumes. A new shade with a purplish tinge to it is especially effective and becoming.
The pannier has met with an encouraging reception. The panniers are not bunched upon the hips, as of old, but the draperies descend to the hem of the gown, where they are caught up with a handsome ornament of some variety.
Very popular for motor wear is the veiling of shadow chiffon. This veiling comes in biscuit, cerise, gold or brown, gray, a pretty shade of lavender and green. It has a faint thread of black run through the chiffon which makes the veiling peculiarly becoming.
A new garment—generally, a red-angote—has been evolved for wear over thin summer gowns. Made of satin, crepe or taffeta, and sometimes of chiffon, it is open in the front—fastened at a single point—usually the waist line—and is usually cut away downward to the back, where it is quite long.
Belts, which play an important part in the summer wardrobe, are offered in particularly stunning combinations of both material and color. One of black kid, studded here and there with gilt nail heads, has shaped pieces of soft red kid run through eyelets. The square buckle of black kid is perfectly plain.

The Needs of Newfoundland.

We notice that the Hon. E. R. Bowring, who is Newfoundland's official delegate at the Imperial Trade Conference, has been talking to the Canadian Gazette of the best way to foster Imperial Trade so far as Newfoundland is concerned. He pins his faith to "the granting of a big subsidy to a fast transatlantic service." The main value of Mr. Bowring's remarks lies in the statement of the experience of his own firm. In reference to that he says in part:—

"I am convinced that a big tourist and freight traffic could be fostered between Great Britain and Newfoundland. Some little time ago my company instituted a comparatively good steamship service between the island and New York, with the result that on an average two hundred American tourists now arrive each week. This is an illustration of how a new or greatly improved service creates its own traffic. And what we have been able to do in a small way in Newfoundland-American trade could, I am sure, be successfully accomplished in the transatlantic trade. Newfoundland has much to offer in the way of sport and health-giving conditions, and has all the elements of a world's playground. Big game hunters such as St. C. Selous have given testimony to the island's attractions, and for anglers the numerous streams and lakes afford unrivalled facilities.

"In freight I believe there are big possibilities in the fresh fish trade. At present the trade is chiefly in salted fish, and these are exported to various countries, but a system of shipping the produce in cold storage to the United Kingdom could easily be instituted. Newfoundland, remember, is Great Britain's nearest Colony, and the journey across the Atlantic from point to point is a short one."

Brigade Football.

GUARDS WIN.
Before a large gathering of spectators, mostly brigade enthusiasts, the first game in the second round was played between the Guards and Highlanders. The former won by 4 goals to nil. The Highlanders, however, were badly handicapped by having two of their best men off through illness, otherwise there would have been a material difference in the result. Winning the toss the Guards chose the western goal and opened the game at a lively pace, scoring in less than five minutes. Coultas, the left wing man, by a well directed shot dropped the ball behind Mercer. When play was continued the Guards resumed their rushes, which were effective. Gear got away and centred to Coultas, who repeated the trick, scoring the second goal for the Guards. From then up to half time the Highlanders had the best of the game and lost several excellent chances to score. On changing ends the Highlanders confined play in their opponents' territory. Several corners were conceded them, but nothing of any consequence resulted. Before the final solo scored the Guards scored two more goals, leaving them victors by 4 to 0. Mr. C. E. Eunt was referee.

Wins Race for Dead Drive.

Horse on California Track Finishes First When Man at Reins Falls Stricken With Heart Disease.

Santa Cruz, Cal., July 3.—Racing half a mile after the driver, T. H. Ferguson, had died and toppled off his sulky into the speedway, a mare outdistanced all others in a trotting contest to-day and finished first. Once the finish line was crossed the mare sped on about a furlong, slowed down, turned and jogged back to her stable through a gate.

The trotter was behind the two leaders when Ferguson, a victim of heart disease, half rose from his seat, threw forward the reins and went over backward. At the moment the mare spurted and soon was ahead. Others of the racers made desperate efforts to swing wide of the fallen driver, and collisions were narrowly averted.

The Kaiser's Confession.

Taught Yachting by His British Crews.

Berlin, June 25.—The Kaiser took two occasions yesterday of delivering speeches at the Kiel Regatta to show that even in the midst of sport His Majesty does not forget political considerations, especially the advancement of his desire for Anglo-German Friendship.

Commodore Pim, of the Royal Thames Yacht Club, handed to the Kaiser a replica of the cup given in 1773 by the Duke of Cumberland to the Thames Club, then known as the Cumberland Fleet. "This cup," said Commodore Pim, "is meant as a token of the admiration of English yachtsmen for your Majesty's untiring efforts for the advancement of yachting."

The Kaiser, in reply, expressed the hope that the Kiel meeting might be another link in the friendly intercourse of London and Kiel, and also of the two nations, and added: "May the Cumberland Cup remain in the Kiel Club House as a visible token of Germany's and Great Britain's mutual, natural, precious friendship."

These last words are reproduced in the German newspapers in large type as being most significant.

Later on the Kaiser, replying to the toast of the Kiel Yacht Club, proposed by his brother, Prince Henry, said: "Prince Henry has told you that I have taught German yachtsmen their sport. I must confess that I was taught yachting myself by the English

Muscles Useless Without Nerve Force

Perhaps you are not quite clear on the relation of the nerves to the rest of the body. Through the nerve fibres which extend through countless branches to every nook and corner of the human system is conveyed the motive power which operates the various organs.

There could be no breathing, no beating of the heart, no flow of the digestive fluids, no action of any muscle or organ of the body without nerve force. Consequently, when the nervous system becomes exhausted there is complete collapse of the body, the different stages of which are described as nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

The time to use such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is when the headaches, sleeplessness, indigestion and other warning symptoms first appear. A few weeks' persistent treatment is then sufficient to revitalize the wasted nerve cells and restore health and vigor.

A Girl's Reward for Kindness.

In life, Ross Revillon Winans, the eccentric millionaire of Baltimore, always did the unexpected. After death he gave the public one more surprise—in his will.

His estate, variously valued at from $2,500,000 to $10,000,000, he passed on to friends and relatives to the virtual exclusion of his only living child and of his grandchildren.

The greatest surprise of all was the codicil written only last March attached to his will in which he left $500,000 to Miss Dorothy Bateman, the daughter of a boarding house keeper in Newport, R. I. Mr. Winans, whose place, Break House, was sold several years ago, boarded with the Batemans last summer, and Miss Bateman looked out for his comfort in many ways. He was old and ill and the young girl frequently went walking with him or accompanied him on fishing trips. She saw that his room was made attractive, even ascertaining what were his favorite flowers, and putting them in the room.

Within five months of one fateful year, 1907, Mr. Winans lost his wife, his younger son and namesake and his only daughter. In the same year his son, Thomas George Winans, ran away with a Spanish dancer, whom he married. This unrelieved marriage outraged the father's feelings the more, because it was while they were en route for Baltimore from Paris with the body of Mrs. Winans, who had died abroad, that the son eluded his father and ran away to his sweetheart. It had been generally believed, however, that Mr. Winans had forgiven his son, who lives with his wife and two children in Spain, and that he would will him the greater part of his estate.

The only daughter of Ross R. Winans was married in Paris in 1905 to Prince Henri de Galard de Bearn de Chalais, who has been secretary of the French Legation in Pekin since 1909, but is on his way now with his two children to visit their grandfather, having started before the aged man's death, which he learned of by cable from his attorney at Singapore.

When his daughter married the Prince Mr. Winans presented her with $300,000 in bonds. In a will made five days after her marriage the Princess willed her fortune to her husband. After her death the Prince de Bearn made over $200,000 to his children, and then, on the ground that he had not understood his rights, sued his father-in-law and General F. C. Latrobe, the trustee, to get possession of the bonds. He was defeated in the lower court, but won on appeal. At first instituted as a "friendly suit," the litigation developed into one which was responsible for the bitterness which probably induced Mr. Winans to ignore the de Bearn children in his will.

The girl, Beatrice, is now almost six years old, and the boy, Gaston Ross Joseph Henry, a year younger.

Fell From Ladder

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH.

While Mr. Richard Whitty, partner with Mr. Joseph Edwards, was sat on a ladder painting the rear of Mrs. Wm. Pippy's house, LeMerchant Rd., yesterday afternoon, the boards on which he sat gave out and he was precipitated to the ground fifteen feet below. His head struck the earth with much force and he received a nasty cut on the right temple which rendered him unconscious for a time. Fortunately he fell outside the fence when the ladder, which was slung parallel with the house, swung outwards. Had he descended a few feet further in he would have been impaled on the fence below and would have met an instant and horrible death. Mr. Edwards and his son, John, who worked with the injured man, lowered themselves quickly to the ground, and bringing him into the house. Mrs. Pippy's sister, a trained nurse, gave him first aid. He was then driven to Dr. Tait's surgery, where he was attended to. He was badly shaken up but no bones were broken, and he will be able to resume business after a short while.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, July 9

It is generally understood that Premier Borden in a speech at a meeting in the Royal Colonial Institute on Wednesday evening, will dispel the popular belief that he had come to London with a cut and dried naval policy. On the contrary it will be found that his attitude is not very much removed from that outlined in his speech of November 1910, when he stated, in effect, that the pressing needs of the Empire for naval defence would be considered and discussed, and that such action would be taken as would meet the requirements. Regarding temporary assistance Mr. Borden, it is understood, will point out that no steps will be taken by Canada, unless the British Admiralty discloses exactly the present state of affairs, while, with regard to a permanent policy, there must of necessity remain many knotty problems in the Empire movement to be decided.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, July 9.

The active British fleet in English waters with vessels from the Mediterranean station consisting of 315 ships of all classes gathered at Spithead to-day for inspection by members of the Houses of Lords and Commons. Premier Borden, with his colleagues, who are now in England to consult the Admiralty as to Canada's naval programme attended the inspection, which opened with a display of the aeroplanes and hydroplanes now being used for the first time in British naval manoeuvres. Although this is one of the strongest fleets ever assembled many effective vessels remain in naval ports. The manoeuvres are to be held in the North Sea. Although the plans of the Admiralty are kept secret enough has leaked out to indicate that the problem set for elucidation is concerned with the frustration of any attempted raid by force by troops under naval convoy. The ships will be divided into two fleets, red and blue. The latter will constitute the defending forces under Prince Louis of Battenberg. The former will represent the attacking forces under the command of Sir George Callaghan. Twenty-one Admirals will have their flags flying besides the two commo doers.

MEMBER OF C. C. C.—Fred Ring, who acted so pluckily on the ill-fated schr. Empire, and of whom Capt. Benson spoke so highly yesterday, is a member of the C. C. C. band and an expert piccolo player. He has been ill since his arrival, but not seriously, and will be about again in a few days.

WELL RECEIVED.—The collectors out for funds for the annual Regatta yesterday were well received. A goodly sum is needed this year to give us a successful Regatta owing to the new boats and crews for which prizes must be secured and for other expenses. 'Tis our great day, however, none wish to miss it, and the people will help liberally.

Adela Verne and C.L.B. Recital.

A large and fashionable audience were at the College Hall last night to greet Miss Adela Verne, who was assisted in her recital by the String Orchestra and the C. L. B. Band. Needless to say Adela Verne scored another big success to be added to her lengthy list. The entire programme was charming and at intervals won well merited and spontaneous applause. The novelty of the affair was new to our concert-going public and the enthusiastic audience were not slow to appreciate it. The renditions of Adela Verne comprised contributions from Beethoven, Chopin, Mozart, Paderewski, Rachmaninoff and Liszt. To say that the numbers executed by this talented artiste were marvellous would be putting it mildly. The rendition of Liszt's Rhapsodie was captivating and evoked a double encore. After a short interval the concerted portion of the programme began and the audience listened to music the like of which is seldom, if ever, heard in St. John's. The string orchestra consisted of Misses Sybil Johnson, Gerlie Fenell, Nellie Warren, Alice Bradshaw and Mr. Frank Bradshaw, violins; Mrs. W. Melville and Mr. Alec. Mews, cellos; Mr. J. T. Pannan, concert flute; Mr. Wm. Norris, clarinet, and the whole band of the C. L. B., directed by the retiring bandmaster, Capt. N. Snow. Three splendid selections given by this combination enthralled the audience, who encored each piece and loudly applauded the efforts of these talented musicians. In the three Hungarian Fantasia (Liszt), Adela Verne's piano parts were executed with the expression and finesse of the artist, delighted the audience and elicited rounds of applause. The concert closed with the new C. L. B. march, dedicated to Lieut.-Col. Rendell and composed by Miss Verne. This may well be considered a musical triumph. It was splendidly executed and the public would like to hear it often discoursed by the splendid band of the brigade, whose leader, Capt. Snow, has brought to such a high pitch of efficiency and perfection. We congratulate Miss Verne, Mr. Snow and the talented ladies and gentlemen assisting them, and are glad to notice that our people are so appreciative of their efforts. The repetition to-morrow night should fill the hall.

Rags for Preference.

BARRISTER WHO PREFERS THE LIFE OF A VAGABOND.

Paris, June 25.—A man in rags, who proved to be of good family and once a barrister at the court of Marseilles, was arrested in Paris this morning for being without visible means of support.

"Why don't you work?" he was asked by the magistrate.

"I do not like work," was the ingenuous reply.

The prisoner went on to say that although he was a lawyer in a good position, social obligations and the necessity of wearing good clothes became irksome to him twenty years ago. He left Marseilles, his family, his friends, and respectability to tramp the roads of France, where he could breathe in the trammels of convention.

After some years he got tired of tramping, and enlisted in the Foreign Legion under a false name. He remained with the corps for ten years, and then came back to France to tramp the roads again, begging as he went.

The magistrate offered to find this incurable vagabond food and lodging in a home, but he refused, and was therefore sent to prison.

Negress Lynched

HANGED FOR MURDERING HER MISTRESS.

New York, June 25.—For the first time in the history of lynching in the Southern States, a negress has been summarily executed by a mob.

The woman, whose name was Annie Barkdale, was hanged at Cordele, Georgia, for murdering her mistress. She was employed as cook by Mr. R. E. Jordan, a wealthy planter. Mrs. Jordan, who was thirty years old and famous as one of the most beautiful women in Georgia, was strangled with the negress last night for misconduct. The two were alone in the kitchen, and the negress seized a carving knife and stabbed her mistress to death. She hacked the body in a most savage manner, and then escaped.

After a search of some hours the negress was caught and placed in gaol. A mob composed of friends of Mr. Jordan broke into the gaol early this morning, placed the negress in a

Special to Evening Telegram. CONISBURG, Yorkshire, July 9

A double explosion at Cadeby colliery in this district to-day caused the death of 65 miners. Many others are missing. The officials at the pit think the total death toll will reach 80.

Among the victims are three inspectors of mines. Many met their death while engaged in the attempt to rescue their comrades who were cut off in the collieries by the first explosion. During their search a second and more terrible explosion occurred which killed most of the rescuers.

The big explosion was followed by three minor explosions but despite this, party after party of rescuers went down in the pit in the attempt to secure their comrades, and however to find dead bodies. The deaths were all instantaneous. Most of the bodies were mangled by force of explosion. Among the killed was William Henry Pickering, chief inspector, who was to have conducted the King and Queen around the collieries. The King and Queen visited a colliery adjacent.

The World Startled

CONCERNING THE DISCOVERY OF THE GERM FOR THE PREVENTION OF OLD AGE.

(By J. R. Hamilton.)

Monsieur Metchnikoff, head of the Pasteur Institute of France, has just startled the world by stating that he has not only discovered the germ that creates old age, but that he has also discovered the germ that eats the germ that creates old age. He soon expects to have every man add twenty years or more to his youth by injecting this friendly germ.

This is not new to science, for Metchnikoff, in his book on "The Prolongation of Life" stated his premises some years ago.

This fact however is new and interesting: That while this great scientist was poking around in his laboratory, peering into test tubes and calling "Germie, Germie, Germie!" in a cheerful voice, some twenty million men over here in America had already been eating the little phagocytes and handing them most of the burden of their weary years.

Mr. Rockefeller found him on the cutting Green. Col. Bogie also introduced him to Mr. Taft. Roosevelt dashed him around the Tennis Court. John Brown, Bill Smith, Professor Wilson, Farmer Jones and Doctor Watson discovered him in the mountains, by the trout streams, on the golf links, under the automobile and in fact all over this energetic country of exercise of fresh air.

In short, the men who discovered "Great-Out-of-Doors" discovered the germ of youth.

Now commerce may follow the flag, but it also follows the whim of the people, and in this paper to-day on almost every page you will find the advertising of the merchandise for "Great-Out-of-Doors."

Hidden somewhere in every ad is this little germ of youth. Your clothing stores with their outing suits are telling you to be young. Your shoe stores with their tramping boots are telling you to keep the natural color in your cheeks. Every bathing suit ad is a plea for health, while every outdoor store is offering you ten years more of life. The glory of America is that America is still young.

Go get yourself a new straw hat, some fussy shirts, some outing truck and some new clothes. Look young and you'll feel young. We'll gladly drink buttermilk with Metchnikoff if he will come play with us.

Here is your paper. Everything that you need is advertised in it today. Turn to that advertising now. Make your choices according to your heart, your eye and your pocketbook, and spend the weekend gathering a few more American germs of eternal youth.

Beating Carpets Over John Bunyan's Grave.

LONDON, June 19.

John Bunyan probably has turned over in his grave several times if he knows what is going on around it nowadays. The author of Pilgrim's Progress lies in the historic burying ground of Bunhill Fields, in the Finsbury district of old London, and apparently this ancient cemetery has been allowed to go to the dogs. The City Corporation, in fact, has just asked the first commissioner of work to approve a new by-law forbidding carpet-beating and fighting in this miniature valhalla of English Non-conformity! The grass, such as it is in the historic "Field" is long and untended, the inscriptions almost unintelligible, and the iron-work of the tombs is gradually being eaten away by rust. Bunyan's tomb needs cleaning badly, although it was rebuilt not more than a decade ago through the efforts of the late Earl of Shaftesbury.

Not far from Bunyan's grave in the "Fields" lies the mother of John Wesley, who died just opposite in the house of her son, which adjoins the famous City Road Chapel—the Cathedral of Methodism—where he preached. In Bunhill Fields, too, are buried Isaac Watts, the hymn-writer, Henry, William and Richard Cromwell descendants of the Protector, and the renowned Dame Page, whose headstone announces that she died from dropsy, and records the number of times she was "tapped." There is, too, an obelisk in memory of Daniel Defoe, which was subscribed for by youthful admirers of "Robinson Crusoe."

Probably no time will be lost in putting the City Corporation's by-law into effect, and the fighters and carpet-beaters are likely to have been ousted from the famous Fields before the main body of this year's trans-Atlantic "invaders" arrives and begins to explore every nook and corner of the metropolis in which history lurks.

The Smarty.

I said: "I'll write some rhymes so clever that they will bring me fame." And so I leered at man's endeavor and all this mortal game. I took the ground that life is rotten, it's only goal a stake; that virtue is a thing forgotten, and every man's a fake. For years my talents were devoted to proving life a snare; by all the cynics I was quoted, by Aleck everywhere. I strove to see the dark side only of things, and, growing old I found myself so doggone lonely my heart grew bleak and cold. My neighbors used to dodge and flout me; a former friend would say: "He'll write some spiteful thing about me if I get in his way." The people of the village feared me; they feared my caustic jest; and no man jollied me or cheered me or clasped me to his breast. So, tired of hate and muttered curses, I came forth from my trance, and urged the world, through dippy verses, to smile and sing and dance. The people like a joyous clacker! They read my luscious lays, and came and borrowed my tobaccoer as in the good old days! No longer did my neighbors shun me, or send for the police! They came around and said they'd run me for justice of the peace! If you go round the world a-smarting, you'll walk a lonely way; but you may be the village darling, if you are blithe and gay.

Codfish With a Glass Eye.

A large codfish with a glass eye is the latest wonder at T wharf, according to the Boston Post, which relates a tale of how Joseph Anis, an Italian doryman, made this peculiar find while dressing his catch recently.

The fisherman said that he heard a few weeks ago that a fish was caught that had false teeth, and he thought that his story went one better. It was not until Anis reached the wharf that he discovered the three-eyed cod. He had started cleaning his catch, and when he slit open one large one he received a shock when he caught sight of the pretty blue eye staring him in the face.

He picked up the eye and discovered that it was made of glass. As the cod had two perfectly good eyes of his own, Anis could not understand what a third, and a glass one, was needed for. The eye attracted a lot of attention and Anis says he thinks it will bring him luck.

Died Trying to Save Boy.

Great Barrington, Mass., July 4.—Mrs. Patrick Sullivan, aged 40 years, and Mrs. Gregory, aged 35, sisters, were drowned in a mill pond bordering the Housatonic River when they jumped into the water to rescue a young son of Mrs. Sullivan. A third sister, Miss Catherine Polley, also jumped into the water, but was rescued. The women were good swimmers, but their clothing hampered their movements, and two of them sank almost as soon as they struck the water. Mrs. Sullivan is survived by a husband and five children, while her sister, Mrs. Gregory, was a widow with three children.

From Mainspring to Hairspring, between them lies the secret.
The Mainspring is the power which it transmits to the active parts of the watch. The Hairspring has the control and regulates the motion. The fitting is most delicate; imagine a 100th part of a hair. Impossible to imitate! Yet it is enough to interfere in its performance, so wonderful is the adjustment. The friction from accumulated dirt; lack of oil, etc., destroy these perfect fittings.
