A Terrible Disclosure ; OR, What Fools Men Are!

CHAPTER XL

"I wish I could say how very much I prefer to—accompanying you than sitting idly there!" he said, with a flush.

They reached a little open meadow, running to the river bank, and came upon the weir; and Edith stood gazing at it in an abstracted mood, through which Lord Claxton's voice broke fitfully and unmeaningly.

"Where was Lord Edgar now?" she wondered, and as she thought of what the answer must be. "With the fair girl whom he loved," a great wave of bitterness and pain flooded her heart, and she turned pale and sighed.

"Are you tired?" asked the lad, earnestly; his eyes had been fixed on her face, though she had forgotten him.

"I think I am, a little," she said, with a start. "The sun is hot here in the open."

"And you have not brought your sunshade? How careless of me to forget it. If you will sit down and rest, I will run back and get it."

"Do not trouble," she said, obeying her tone rather than her words, and he set off.

She sat listening to the falling water for a few minutes; then, growing restless, rose and strolled on to the weir bridge; half unconsciously she crossed it, and found herself on the opposite bank, in the midst of a small plantation, which seemed so quiet and peaceful that she wandered on, still communing with herself, still asking the ever-recurring question, "Where is he?"

Suddenly she remembered young

Yord Claxton and his quest, and with a sigh turned to retrace her steps. As she did so she became aware of two persons who were strolling down a narrow path that led through the plantation to the river. Not caring to be seen alone, she drew back, and leaning listlessly against a tree, waited for them to pass.

Suddenly, so suddenly that the blood rushed to her face, she heard Lord Edgar's voice, and saw that it was he, and—yes, the girl who was leaning upon his arm, with her face turned up to his with rapt, loving gaze, was Lela Temple!

For a moment the sky seemed to grow all asfame to Edith; a hot wave of jealousy swept over her soul; white and motionless she stood, her hands clinched, her lips caught in her teeth, trying to regain self-possession, for she knew that they might see her, that she might have to speak and to smile as if nothing was the matter.

It was a moment of agony, but there was one of intense anguish in reserve for her.

"Shall we go back, dearest?" she heard Lord Edgar ask; "or will you like to go on to the weir?"

"One moment on the weir," replied Lela, and her voice, sweet and musical though it was, smote like some horrid discord on the listener's ear.

"Heavens, how happy she is!" was the bitter thought, "and he—he has quite forgotten me, and all the world for her sake. Oh, if I could but hate him as I hate her!"

They passed her, and went upon the bridge. Edith, watching, with self-absorbing jealousy, noticed how carefully and tenderly he held Lela's hand, and guided her over the narrow plank.

Then she drew a breath of relief, but the next moment she saw that she had not escaped; that coming back they must see her; that Lord Claxton would appear on the opposite bank, and, not finding her, would cross in search of her, perhaps about her name! She braced up her resolution, and forcing a smile, came out from among the trees, and went toward them.

And the Worst is Yet to Come

As she did so, Lord Edgar bent his head and murmured some sweet word of love, and Lela, looking up, offered him her lips, which he kissed with a long, lingering caress. At this, Edith put her hand upon the handrail to steady herself, and Lela, feeling it shake, turned wonderingly and saw her.

Saw the tall, graceful figure, and the pale, beautiful face—not only beautiful, but almost terrible in its set expression of stern self-repression—and with a swift sensation of fear, she uttered a faint cry of alarm and surprise.

Lord Edgar swung around all in arms in a moment, then he exclaimed: "Edith—Miss Drayton!" and strode forward to meet her.

Lela had recognized her even before Lord Edgar's words of recognition, but the Christian name upon his lips struck her unpleasantly.

"Why, Miss Drayton!" exclaimed Lord Edgar, with his usual impetuous delight, "you are the last person I should have expected to see on Pangley weir! Where have you come from, the sky?" And, still holding her hand, and covering it with his left, he poured a flood of welcome from his dark eyes.

This outburst gave her time to recover herself.

"I am a nymph of the wood, Lord Fane," she said, in her full, low voice. "But I am as surprised at seeing you as you are at seeing me." "And," then she looked beyond him, "yes! why, it is Lela Temple!" At the word "Temple," Lord Edgar flushed and was about to speak, but she swept past him and took Lela's outstretched hand. "My dear Lela!" she murmured, holding her hands. "Why, this is like a scene out of a French play! Now don't say that you have forgotten me!"

"Forgotten you, Edith; no indeed!" said Lela, in her soft voice, and with a welcoming light in her gentle eyes. "Oh, I am so glad to see you!"

"And I you, little mouse!" That was the name we used to call you; don't you remember?"

"Yes, yes," assented Lela, laughing softly. "I have forgotten nothing."

"Nor I! Ah! those happy days! But these are happy days, too," she added, archly; remember how her heart ached and burned with its consuming fire of jealousy and wasted love and give her credit for her marvellous self-control. "Are you staying here with your grandfather?"

"No," laughed Lela, and a burning blush covered her face and neck. Edith looked from one to the other, then her breath came with a quick pant. What did the word "no" and the crimson blush mean?

Lord Edgar came nearer and took Lela's hand in his.

"Lela is not stopping with her grandfather; he is in Germany at present; she is staying with me," and he smiled.

Still Edith did not realize the truth; perhaps because she fought hard against it.

"Don't you understand?" he said, softly, with a happy light in his eyes and a lover's triumphant curl of the lip. "Lela is no longer Lela Temple, but Lela Fane, my wife!"

She stood for a moment while the light seemed to go out of the day like a flash, and a great darkness fell over her. For a moment her lips framed the words, "Your wife!" then, with a mighty effort, she recovered herself, and with a fixed look in her eyes and a forced smile drew Lela nearer to her.

"I—I am so glad!" she murmured. "And you are really married! You did not tell me!" with the faintest touch of reproach in her voice.

Lord Edgar shook his head.

"I was waiting until I could bring her to you, and claim your friendship on her behalf," he said, simply.

"Ah! you were sure of having that!" she murmured. "Your wife—after all your troubles! Well, I—I congratulate you. And are you happy?" she asked, looking into Lela's downcast face with her dark eyes which the fire in her heart made almost tragic in their intensity.

"I'd better go out of hearing while she answers," said Lord Edgar, with his frank laugh. "I'm already vain enough."

"Are you happy?" repeated Edith.

Lela raised her eyes and looked at her with simple truth.

"Can you ask?"

Ringworm

Caused Great Distress and Spread to Neighbors. Cure Was Speedily Effected When Right Treatment Was Recommended.

There is no disease of the skin more obstinate than ringworm, and the mother who writes this letter does so fully realizing what it will mean to other anxious mothers to know about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"This remarkable cure was brought about two years ago, and as there has been no return of the distressing disease there can be no doubt that the cure is permanent."

Mrs. D. Stebbins, Grand Bend, Ont., writes: "I am going to tell you of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment. My little girl had sores come out on her head which looked like ringworms. They were spreading fast, and I tried home treatment but nothing helped her. I took her to the doctor, and he opened some of the sores, and she suffered terribly. At last some kind ladies told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I got a box, and the first time I put it on she was relieved of pain, and the second time the swelling was all gone. Before we had finished the first box the sores were nearly all gone. I have told all the people around here about your Ointment, and I cannot praise it too much. It is now two years since my little girl was troubled in this way, and it never came back, so you can see she is completely cured. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others who may be suffering in a similar manner."

Joseph Brenner, J.P., endorses this statement as follows: "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mrs. D. Stebbins, of Grand Bend, Ont., and believe her statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Ointment to be true and correct."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Be suspicious of the druggist who tries to talk you into accepting a substitute.

"Yes, it was needless. You look so perfectly happy!" said Edith. "Well, it is more like a French play than ever! But you must tell me all about it. Where are you staying?"

"At the Moorhen," said Lord Edgar, "the inn in the village. Can you come?" he added, eagerly. "Where are you staying?"

She answered without looking at him—his voice seemed to sing in her ears.

"I am not staying in the neighborhood. I came down with a party from town—a sort of picnic—Lord Combermere's. They are on the island."

Lord Edgar looked across, and saw Lord Claxton standing on the opposite bank.

"Ah, yes! There is one of your party, I suppose?"

Edith inclined her head. She could only give herself a few more minutes of such self-restraint as she was exerting.

"Yes, and he will be growing impatient. He left me to fetch my sunshade, and I strayed like a sheep from the fold, little dreaming that I should meet you here. I must go back."

"I will come back with you across the bridge," said Lord Edgar. Then he turned to Lela. "Will you go down to the boat, Lela?" he said. "I shall not be a moment."

"Do not come," said Edith, almost hoarsely.

"Yes, yes, he must," said Lela. "He shall go all the way with you. Do not mind leaving me, Edgar."

"I will take Miss Drayton to her friend," said Lord Edgar, simply.

"The fact is"—he added, with a smile—"Lela and I are in hiding for strategic reasons, and I don't wish her to be seen."

"I'll go," said Lela, holding out her hand.

"Good-by," murmured Edith Drayton. "When you come to town you must come and see us; Lord Edgar"—with a smile of hidden bitterness—"knows the house."

"Indeed I do!" said Lord Edgar, with grateful significance. "Lela knows how true and good a friend you have been to me and her."

"Good-by," said Lela, and she put up her face.

Edith paused half a second, then put her hot lips on the white, sweet forehead.

Lela ran across the bridge.

"Take care, dearest!" called Lord Edgar, warningly, and she looked back with a smile, and waved her hand.

Public Notice

I am directed by His Excellency the Governor in Council to issue the following notice under Authority of Minute in Council passed 28th February, 1918.

Augmentation of the Pay of Royal Naval Reservists Newfoundland.

The Government of Newfoundland have decided to augment the pay of Newfoundland Royal Naval Reservists so as to place them on the same footing as men of the Newfoundland Regiment.

Under the provision of the War Measure Act, authority is given to the Minister of Militia to deal with the matter of augmentation of pay of the Royal Naval Reservists, Nfld., in consultation with the Senior Naval Officer, St. John's.

It is ordered that a sum of 33c. per day be placed to the credit of each Naval Reservist from the time of commencement of the war, in cases where men were then serving, or otherwise, from the time when their services began up to the time of discharge, or of death, or to the 30th of September, 1917, inclusive.

As the rate of pay of Naval Reservists was increased from October 1st, 1917, and as the difference between the amount they receive and that allowed the members of The Royal Newfoundland Regiment is 17c. per day, this difference will also be credited them from that date.

The foregoing amounts will not in any case be made a payment from Admiralty sources. The Minister of Militia, St. John's, Nfld., is solely responsible for the issue of any sums due.

Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve men serving in any of H. M. Ships, including all members of the Trawler Reserve and those in Defensively Armed Merchant Ships etc., are eligible for the pay as set forth, and should be informed of the following alternatives as regards the method of payment:—

(a) Payment will be made on personal application to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.

(b) Payment will be made to the nominee of any Reserve man, on written application duly witnessed, to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.

(c) Sums due will be placed to the credit of Reserve men who do not desire to avail themselves of the foregoing and can be drawn by them at the expiration of their service.

The following form is to be compiled and forwarded direct to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, Newfoundland, at the earliest possible date:—

NAME AND OFFICIAL NO.	WHAT IS DESIRED DISPOSAL OF AMOUNT DUE UNDER ORDER 1, 2, or 3 (IN CASE OF 2, FULL NAME AND ADDRESS MUST BE GIVEN.)	SIGNATURE AUTHORIZING DISPOSAL.

All communications of any description with regard to these payments are to be made to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, direct.

Payment will commence on 1st May, 1918.

In cases where members of the Royal Naval Reserve (Newfoundland) have been killed in action or died of wounds or sickness, or through any other cause, the amount due as Augmentation Pay will go to the Estate of the deceased. The authority to obtain the Estate of the deceased is, in case of a Will, Letters of Probate; and in case there is not a Will, Letters of Administration. Such letters are issued by the Supreme Court of Newfoundland on the Petition and Proofs of Executor of the Will, or the next of kin. If the Estate does not exceed $500.00, after the proof of the facts has been obtained the petition can be applied for by the Minister of Justice.

With reference to the foregoing, it is suggested that the next of kin of Reservists who are now serving should communicate with them and request them to send their instructions to the Militia Department. No action can be taken until such instructions are received.

Next of kin of deceased Reservists will be communicated with in due course when their claims have been proved.

J. R. BENNETT,
Minister of Militia.

Buy Victory Bonds

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I see by a late announcement, that the ladies of the W.P.A. have volunteered to take an active part in the drive for the Victory Loan.

This augurs well for the success of the drive. Every Society without exception in the Dominion, should organize to make the Win the War Loan as great an achievement, as comparatively, did our neighbours in Canada and the United States.

In the latter place all the churches as well as all the social and fraternal organizations united to make the drive a success. Clergymen of all denominations, including Jewish Rabbis, headed by Cardinal Gibbons, did magnificent work from their pulpits.

Leading business men in all the States, paraded in processions, and canvassed every house in their section, and each locality vied with each other to swell the receipts.

St. John's can be organized thoroughly, but extra care must be taken to reach the remoter outposts. It is well known that hundreds of thousands of dollars in gold and silver are hoarded in stocking banks both North and West.

It must be pointed out to such hoarders that keeping gold tied up in such a manner is foolish and wasteful and above all unpatriotic. A campaign of education must be started, and the press, the pulpit and the platform must be used to the limit.

Thousands of people in this country can't send a man to the front, but the poorest and humblest can subscribe their mite, to this our first Win the War Loan and help to make it a success.

Yours truly,
MONCHY le PRAUX.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The Bill before the House dealing with measures connected with army affairs proposes, I am led to believe, to give the power to our military authorities to deal with all military offences, and to inflict even the death penalty. May I ask who are the military authorities in this Dominion, or anywhere else, who will dare pass the death sentence upon our volunteers? We won't and will not have martinetts here! Are they Volunteers—have they been in the trenches? Have they suffered from shell shock, the effect of which is acknowledged by those who have had experience to be mentally unbalance any soldier who has had to suffer from it? Away with such despotic power! It may have been done in Russia, but it will not do in this Dominion for Volunteers. If any swaggeer wants power, give him "Pill No. 9," and make him report his illness after he has begun his work. The House of Assembly to pass a measure giving power to sentence to death our home-loving volunteers is going too far, and the members of the House who propose such, and the members who would vote for it, should consider the gravity of their position. No such power should ever have been thought of—the lighter form of punishment is in many cases too severe for the offences committed by our volunteers. We should have no such law, and the heads of the Military Department should at all costs be restrained in their wild wish to take unto themselves the prerogatives of the Highest Court in the Land. Away with it!

Yours truly,
PATRIOT.

Fads and Fashions.

Silk skirts are back again. Turbans are made of raveled ribbon.

Yokes on capes are very deep and wide.

French blue is in demand for blouses.

Heavy twill cottons are in great demand.

Silk faille is liked for smart summer suits.

Small patterns are preferred in gingham.

Patent leather purses have stitching of red.

Commencement frocks are made of organdie.

The smartest purse is the envelope shape.

Striped dimity is among the fashionable cottons.

Simple cotton dresses are worn in the mornings.

There is a decided tendency for the Oxford shoe.

Greens and browns are good colors in gingham.

Pretty blouses have finely pleated ruffled trimmings.

Soft and pretty blouses are worn with serge skirts.

Wooden beads trim a cotton voile frock to perfection.

Slip-on sweaters are worn with three narrow belts.

Hair of straw and fabric combined are much liked.

Tulle and organdie is a good combination for a suit.

Gowns of Georgette crepe are trimmed with flat lace.

Flit lace and Venise lace are still used on the finer waists.

Sleeveless effects are frequent among children's dresses.

The very chic sports girl is dressed entirely in white.

Foulards are much liked for the elaborate summer dresses.

It is a pretty idea to weight sash ends with motifs in gold.

Georgette crepe continues to be as great a favorite as serge.

Jersey and velveteen sleeveless jackets are both very smart.

The Victory Loan.

The popularity of Newfoundland's proposed Victory Loan appears to be assured, that is if the various expressions of opinion coming in are to be accepted as a criterion. And there is no reason to believe otherwise. Since announcing that a local loan was feasible and pointing out that nothing whatever stood in the way of floating this loan providing that it was made attractive and non-assessable for tax purposes, this paper has not made any lengthy comments on the measure, preferring to let public opinion shape itself. Had such been unfavorable, we should have met the hostile arguments and controverted them. Being favorably received, and generally approved of, nothing now stands in the way of the Government's getting down to business and placing the Bonds on the market. But the resultant success of Newfoundland's first endeavour to raise money at home, will have to be calculated by the provisions of the Loan Bill, now before the Legislature. It will easily be observed that an Income Tax and a Local Loan are incompatible. Our able correspondent "Vigilance" has pointed out that objectionable features and political economists in substantiation of his statements. These we commend to the Government. They are worth consideration.

The most important item consists in the denominations of the Bond issues and the repayable term. The Canadian Loan of Dec. 1917 was offered in three maturities, the choice of which was optional with the subscriber, namely:

- 5 year Bonds due December, 1922.
  - 10 year Bonds due December, 1927.
  - 20 year Bonds due December, 1937.
- With interest payable (without charge) half yearly on June 1st and December 1st at any branch of any chartered Bank in Canada. The denominations of these Bonds were $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. With the issue price at par, bearing interest at 5 1/2 per cent. per annum. They are free from taxes, including any income tax, imposed subsequently by any enactment of the Canadian Parliament. The payments are arranged so that the 20 year issue gives a net interest yield of 5.81 per cent.; the 10 year, 5.48 per cent., and the 5 year an interest yield of 5.81 per cent. If subscriptions are paid in full on certain instalment dates, further provision is made for discount, which increases the net interest yield. Holders of Dominion of Canada Debenture stock, due October 1st, 1919 and of the three preceding issues of Canada War Loans, are given the privilege of surrendering such Bonds in part payment for the Victory Loan issue.

The Canadian terms appear to be worth accepting as a standard for Newfoundland's Loan, only it should be borne in mind that instead of the minimum for this country being $50, it should be placed at $25, and the maximum at $500, with in between denominations of $50, $100 and $250, all bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. with a special discount for payment in full of total subscription. These Bonds should also be non-assessable, and negotiable as well as redeemable, so that if a holder becomes embarrassed temporarily, he could convert his holdings into cash, either through the Department of Finance or at any chartered Bank doing business in Newfoundland. The maturing period should not be for longer than ten years, excepting in the denomination of $500, which should be for 20 years, as the men with the most money would naturally purchase the high denomination issues at the maximum maturity, period as a safe and substantial investment. The surrender of Newfoundland debentures in part payment could also be arranged. There are many other reasons why, if properly carried out, this proposed loan would meet with the success it deserves, and it should be easy for the Government to make the issue attractive and profitable. But it must be free from any political taint or political influence. Solicitation of subscriptions should be placed in the hands of capable men and the explanation of the loan itself, its terms, and its necessity, should be given in charge of thoroughly competent canvassers. A newspaper advertising campaign is an essential, and a properly qualified advertising manager should be engaged.

Later when the complete text of the Bill is before the public, there will be an opportunity to discuss its provisions more fully. In the meantime, to quote a prominent English Parliamentarian: "The man, be he rich or poor, is little to be envied, who at this supreme moment fails to bring forward his savings for the security of his country."

Pertinent Enquiries.

SUGGESTED AND OTHERWISE.

Whether the Minister of Customs is aware that at certain ports of Entry in this Dominion, there are Sufferance Warehouses, the owners or keepers of which have not given bonds, as required by law. Also whether the said Minister is cognizant of the fact that within the current year, invoices have been presented, with entries for duty, which did not show the fair market value of the goods (so entered) for home consumption at the point of export?

Is it correct that a certain business man called at the Assessor's Office to transact business and was told that nothing could be done until the Auditor returned?

Is it true that said Auditor, who is a Chartered Accountant, is paid to coach the Chief Assessor and his Assistant, in the duties for which they have both been voted extravagant salaries?

Is it true that certain men have been placed in certain positions, without the necessary qualifications, because they had a pull?

How many recruits would the Government's loudly proclaimed campaign have secured, if the soldiers had not taken charge of the situation?

When is the reinforcement draft to be sent over?

Whether it is correct that the Business Profits Tax Assessor has accepted cheques from certain merchants, covering the amount which he thinks they should pay as a tax on excess profits? And whether Regular Balance Sheets and Profit and Loss Statements have been produced in such cases as are alleged?

Worse Than a Blunder.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir,—In looking over what purports to be a report of proceedings of the House of Assembly on Saturday last, I notice that the Minister of Finance, when moving the House into Committee of the Whole to consider the New Loan Bill, is alleged to have said:—"The Security is gilt edge, the British Empire." The natural inference to be drawn by the general public, from this statement, proceeding from a Minister of the Crown, is, that the Imperial Government will be responsible for the due payment of interest and principal of the proposed Loan, if this Colony should default in the payment of the same. If the statement did not mean that, then it meant nothing, and was simply clap trap. But coming from the Minister of Finance it is very serious clap trap indeed, because it is calculated to deceive many who may contribute to the Loan. And, if the Minister of Finance was not authorized to pledge the Imperial Government as security for the due payment of the Loan, and the interest thereon, as the same shall fall due, then, it will be recognized that unless his statement is explained or withdrawn the Government may later on find themselves confronted with the charge of obtaining money under false pretences. I would very respectfully direct the attention of the Prime Minister to this worse than blunder. I say worse than blunder, for I feel quite sure that the Imperial Government has not and will not guarantee the Loan, as we are not a Crown Colony yet, and such a guarantee would be incompatible with our position under Responsible Government. The only security behind any loan obtained, or to be obtained by Newfoundland, while we are not under the Constitution, is the security of the revenues of this Colony. When those fail to respond to the Colony's liabilities we become bankrupt, and then we shall be taken over by the Imperial Government as a Crown Colony, or handed over by the Imperial Government to the Dominion of Canada. I regard the alleged statement of the Minister of Finance far too serious to pass unnoticed, hence this letter.

Yours truly,
VIGILANCE.

MARGINAL NOTES

By Commentator.

THE WAR.

The events of the past week in the various theatres and departments of the war call for little comment. The lull that precedes the certain renewal of the storm continues, and strengthens, by each day's postponement, the Allies' confidence and power to resist it when it comes. It may be premature to say that the German offensive has been broken, but it is beginning to look like it. As the best critics predicted some weeks ago, the enemy's successive attacks have been each of shorter duration than its predecessor and achieved less; and he is most clearly at a loss already where to deliver the next. That alone is the best earnest of his failure. Yet he is under the necessity of attacking somewhere, and speedily. Thus he will lose more men and the balance of superior reserve on the Allies' side doubly increase, from that cause, and from the impending reinforcements from America, which have already reached the heartening figure of half a million. The inevitable course of events should tell a far different story at the end of the summer than we have been reading since March 21st. Apart from this generally encouraging inactivity, comparatively speaking, on the battlefronts the most noteworthy feature of the news has been the splendid naval offensive against the submarines. Whether or not Ostend and Zeebrugge are blocked, a little more success will render them so, and the U-boat piracy be robbed of a good half of its effectiveness. And apart from results, the raids have been the finest possible evidence of the pluck and fighting spirit of the British war. The traditions of the Navy are more than a figure of speech.

THE EXTENSION BILL.

Let us be thankful for small mercies. By virtue of the amendment passed in the Council yesterday, which I presume will be accepted in the House, the life of our "Parliament" will be prolonged for a year only, instead of the originally intended eighteen months or more. It is six months too long as it is, but at least it means that the next regular session will see a fully constituted Government in harness. This improvement should now be followed by the insertion of a provision for the holding of the necessary bye-elections. If these elementary acts of justice are performed, the Government need not distress itself, as it seems to be doing, that its critics and opponents will make its task of carrying out the conscriptive measure more difficult than it need be.

A REVELATION.

That is not the title I would give in my own mind to the extraordinary document addressed by Mr. Coaker to his Council and published last evening in the Telegram and Star; the open confessions of faith and conduct contained in it are rather corroborations of suspicions which I know many have for long entertained. But to thousands of others, not least those to whom the letter is addressed, they should surely prove a genuine revelation. Of the ardent patriotism breathed by the references to conscription I need say nothing—they speak for themselves. But it is perhaps as well to have from Mr. Coaker's own pen the admission that he did not establish the Regiment (and we all thought he did), that it was against his wishes. Yet the Government papers have called certain of their opponents pro-Germans! Not only is the whole concoction a half-assed apology to those who, like himself, and the raising of one Regiment, which the whole country cannot keep up to strength, "against their wishes" for the step that has been taken ("I did not want to do it, but they made me"); but it is also a thinly-veiled intimation of two utterly disgraceful things, first, how the Act may be avoided; secondly, that the Government are only half in earnest about its enforcement, precisely as I have already said. "Let all go to Labrador as before," advises this Minister of the Crown. The answer is, if any man between 19 and 24 does so, he should be arrested and with him anyone aiding and abetting him. Nor is it difficult to see in every line Mr. Coaker's intention, as far as he can carry it out, to postpone the enforcement of the Act to as distant a date as possible, and it need not be necessary to set that it may not be necessary to enforce it at all. As a mere expression of views towards the war by a private citizen, the letter would be reprehensible enough; it is difficult to imagine that the Cabinet Minister who wrote it is allowed to retain his seat a single day.

But if the first part of the letter is thus offensive, the second part makes large amends. It is long since I have read anything so entertaining. That is hardly the word I would use, however, were I a shareholder of the Union Trading Company and the recipient of such a statement of its finances. For the one thing that seems to stand out from the number of striking things revealed is the fact that the said Trading Company is somehow very badly in need of money. So badly, indeed, that the most patriotic thing a man can do is to hand over his shakels to it with all possible speed. Yet, that patriotism may not be all sacrifice, he is assured of as large a return as if he were foolish enough to give the shakels to the country instead, for the foolish purpose of waging this foolish war.

Even then, however, there is something wrong somewhere. It seems that $100,000 to the Company now will mean, in some magic way, a million to the fishermen. If that is so, Mr. President, is not 6% a little small for a dividend? I know caution is a good thing, but will you need to put all the remaining 94% to reserve? I am almost tempted to hope that this excellent business proposition will meet with the response that it deserves, so that the scheme may be realized in practice. The idea appears to be this: "Give me your money so that I can use it to buy your fish from you at a higher price than any merchant will offer." Mr. Coaker's intention, of course, is that he will merely play the part of a puffer at an auction, who does not intend to buy but merely to push prices up. But the puffer is often landed with the goods nevertheless, and it will be interesting to see how the Trading Company handles the fish for which it has outbid the market. No, Mr. Coaker, you are wasting your time here! Wall Street is the right address for you.

Legislative

Passage at A the President and Gibbs. Hon. Mr. S the Most Celebrated Special. Extended.

The Council met at 2:45 yesterday to further discuss the Extension Bill, and was in session until 7 o'clock. Hon. Mr. Gibbs continued his remarks on the Amendment proposed by Hon. Mr. Milley, which lasted for more than an hour. He came back to his criticism of the arguments put forward by the Hon. President, why the Extension Bill should pass. The President had referred to the matter of extension of the Ontario Parliament. This, Mr. G. said, was brought about by the leader of the Opposition, who introduced the measure, and was unanimously passed. It had no bearing on the local situation. In this country there was a decided opposition in both branches of the Legislature and throughout the country, and to grant extension was not within the spirit of the Constitution. The Constitution itself was an election where the people were allowed to choose their representatives. Hon. Mr. Anderson had provided that 125,000 of the people were unrepresented when the vote was taken in the Legislature, and that this number should be disfranchised was contrary to the very essence of Constitutional law. The question of who is to be conscripted, he said, is not with the Government of the day, but in the hands of the Supreme Court and its Judges and a Military Board. The reason had been advanced by the President that we should not have an election while the war was on. In 1917 when Sir Edward Morris failed to get his party to unite with Coaker, right preparations were made for an election in the Fall. The literature was prepared, and the men were selected to write it. Then to hear Hon. gentleman in this House, who were acquainted with these facts, get up and tell the people that because of the war no election should be held, is more than ridiculous. The Hon. the President knows there was to be an election in 1917, because Sir Edward Morris had conscripted him in the matter in his time.

EARLY MESSAGES

BRITISH AND FRENCH LOSSES.

LONDON, May 10. The bulk of the German reserve is still in the rear of the Somme front and it must be assumed the enemy's main effort will be in that direction, said a representative of General Delma Radcliffe, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office, in summing up the week's war developments to-day. It is equally certain he must continue his attacks in Flanders. In the period between March 21, when the German offensive was begun and April 25, the losses of the French were only one-fourth to one-fifth of those of the British. Since April 25th there has been no reason to believe the losses of the French have been any heavier than those of the British. The British losses since March 21 were estimated on May 4th by the British military mission at Washington at nearly 250,000. This information was given out in refutation of German propagandists' assertions that the French have been bearing the brunt of the battle.

BRUGES CANAL BLOCKED.

LONDON, May 10. Regarding reports that German submarines have been unable to enter Flemish ports and have had to return to Germany, Reuter's Limited says it is unable to obtain confirmation in naval quarters. Photographic and other evidence from Zebrugge shows that Bruges Canal is still blocked as a result of the British raid of April 23rd, and that it cannot be used. The obstructions it has been found were better placed than at first supposed. Germany attempts to clear the waterway are meeting with no success as a result of British air activity and other causes.

'VINDICTIVE' SUNK AT OSTEND.

DOVER, Eng., May 10. The decision to send the Vindictive to Ostend was made a few days after her return from the Zebrugge raid and the task of filling her with concrete was begun immediately. The joint raid on Zebrugge and Ostend, the British latest naval exploit, was kept a well guarded secret. As an evidence of this it is recalled that after the battle scarred cruiser returned from Zebrugge an urgent request was made that she be sent up the Thames to London for public view. The authorities did not encourage the proposal, however, and the agitation subsided. All the time the old vessel was being overhauled for her last trip. As on the former occasion the operation to block Ostend harbor was under the direction of Admiral Keyes. Some of the men who participated in the affair returned here to-day. The Vindictive came under a fierce fire from German shore batteries. She was navigated close into the pier in good style and sunk by an internal charge. The crew escaped in fast motor boats. Only the number of officers and men absolutely necessary were aboard the ship on account of the danger of her total loss.

AIR ACTIVITY.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 10. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The lull continues along our fronts. Our airmen continue to do wonderful work. The number of enemy machines brought down in recent days is remarkably high. It is reported that Lieut. Von Richthofen, a brother of the late famous German man, recently fell in the Somme valley and fractured his skull and is unlikely to fly again.

CO-OPERATION WILL COUNT.

LONDON, May 10. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Field Marshal Haig expresses his deep appreciation of the services of the artillery in the Somme and Lys battles. He adds that the infantry was the first to admit the inestimable value of artillery support. The British commander in chief is confident that the reliance of each arm upon the whole-hearted and self-sacrificing co-operation of the other is the greatest possible assurance that all further assaults will be met and defeated.

WILL ENFORCE CONSCRIPTION.

LONDON, May 10. Lieut.-Gen. Sir Bryan Mahon, Commander-in-Chief of the forces in Ireland, announced publicly last night that he was to leave Ireland. He said he did not know who his successor would be. This confirms rumors current for several days that important changes in the military command in Ireland are pending. The departure of General Mahon is believed to be regarded in Ireland as an indication that the Government has decided to proceed with the Irish conscription. No Irish Nationalist members participated in the division in the House of Commons last night on the Asquith motion.

PROMOTED FOR SERVICE.

LONDON, May 10. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Brigadier General Sandham Carey, who commanded the scratch force of British and American troops which closed up the gap in the British line between the third and fifth armies in the early days of the March offensive, has been promoted to be Major-General.

LOCAL FIGHTING.

LONDON, May 10. There was local fighting to-day at Aveluy Wood, north of Albert, and in Vimy and Robecq sectors and south of Dickebusch. There's nothing further to report, says the official report from Field Marshal Haig this evening.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT.

COLUMBIA, S.C., May 10. Between ten and fifteen soldiers were killed and many probably fatally injured when three passenger coaches loaded with members of the 31st Infantry and the 31th machine gun company fell from a trestle near Camp Jackson to-day.

DESTRUCTIVE TORNADO.

CHICAGO, May 10. At least eleven persons were killed, and more than 150 more or less seriously injured by a tornado which swept over Central and Northeastern Iowa and Central Illinois late yesterday. Hundreds of houses and farm buildings were blown down and live stock were killed in many localities.

A JUST SENTENCE.

EDINBURG, May 10. For making speeches prejudicial to recruiting, John McLean, Consul in Glasgow of the Russian Bolshevik Government, in the High Court yesterday was sentenced to five years penal servitude under defence of the Realm Act. The evidence showed that McLean publicly had urged working men to break all laws and to repulse Parliament by an organization patterned after the Russian Soviets.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, May 10. (Official.)—After a brief and intense bombardment the French troops yesterday afternoon took possession of the Park at Grivesnes, an important part of which had been occupied by the Germans. In this operation we took 258 prisoners including four officers and also a considerable amount of material. Notwithstanding the vigorous German artillery fire and attempts of enemy patrols to approach our new line our infantry maintained the positions which had been captured and organized them. On the right bank of the Ailette in the Champagne, near Massiges north of Rheims, and in Lorraine at Ailly Wood, the French carried out successful local attacks or repulsed German raids. In these operations we took 36 prisoners including one officer.

AIRMAN'S GOOD WORK.

PARIS, May 10. Six German airplanes were brought down yesterday by Sub-Lieut. Rene Fonck, the War Office announces.

A spoonful of anything called for in a recipe always means a level spoonful. If you would have laying hens, do not neglect to give them some meat diet.

efficiently operate the system. That some of the delays were unavoidable is undeniable, but there were delays, and those the most serious during the winter, which were directly attributable to the mismanagement and blundering of the men responsible for the operation of the road.

I do not attribute the mistakes, the blunders and the incredible neglects of essential matters entirely to the President of the road, but in part to the men into whose hands he entrusted that branch of the service. They have conclusively demonstrated their inefficiency, and Mr. H. D. Reid is well aware that what I here state is undeniable. When the President of the Road realized the inability of his subordinates early last year, and during the early months of the present year, he should have taken such action as would ensure a better service to the public, and to the road, to the great advantage of the former and the financial advantage of the latter.

The people of the great bays north and south are helpless in the matter of supplies for the fishery, which in the south is now opening, and in the north where preparations should be about completed.

The West Coast has been particularly hard hit by the failure of the railway. Both farmers and fishermen have been the losers to a very great extent.

For weeks the coastal boats of the southern bays were off their routes undergoing repairs which should have been done during the winter months. The loss to trade in consequence will exceed a half million dollars.

The embargo at North Sydney should be lifted immediately, and the route opened for traffic. If the Reid management are incapable of grappling with the difficulties that present themselves the Government should step in and relieve the congestion in the interest of the trade of this country.

It is a disgrace, a crying shame, a grave injustice, that our chief means of transportation for freight and passengers across the country, and our only avenue of import besides the uncertain and inadequate supply of ocean tonnage at our disposal should be closed to the trade of this country for five months, and no effort made by the Government to have the embargo lifted at North Sydney so that the badly needed commodities held up there could reach their destination.

The efforts of business people to meet the requirements of the country are paralyzed by the break-down of the Reid system, and the culpable indifference of the Government to their appeals for relief.

As many of them say: It is useless to ask this Government to do anything with the Reid Company, as the Company and influential members of the Government are too intimate in commercial enterprises which do not suffer any by embargoes at North Sydney.

This Government appear to be held helplessly in the grip of the Octopus whose tentacles embrace the men who dominate the Executive more completely than they ever embraced Morris or other members of Morris's party. The people's interest is only secondary to those of Reid, and Messrs. Coaker, Crobie and Cashin.

Yours truly,
ARGUS.

Surprise Attack by Returned Soldiers

ON TORBAY LAST EVENING.

The Association of Returned Soldiers and Rejected Volunteers got together half a dozen or more motor cars last evening, and with the C. C. Band went down to Torbay. After the band paraded through the town an open air meeting was held at "The Bridge." The weather was a bit chilly and was therefore a bit hard on the band, but they stuck to it like Trojans and played a goodly number of selections in all, and worked hard. Certainly Arthur Duley is some worker, and the boys with him are the real stuff.

Sergeant Harold Mitchell opened the meeting with a strong speech that was right to the point, and after a band selection, was followed by a similar address by Sgt. John Robinson. Then Lieut. Leo Murphy spoke in his usual inimitable style. He scored in several local allusions. He mentioned that they were standing right alongside the house from which went Corporal Steve Martin who had been fighting with him in France, and who had made the supreme sacrifice. From this house had also gone another son, now in the Regiment. He also said that he bore a message to them from Lance

"Stick a Pin Here."

There's quite a lot of titles now in "bond," so men are saying. But there's a "duty" to be paid. We soon shall see the paying. Not for meritorious work. So say some crafty dealers. That they're intended, not at all. But just a sop for heifers.

There is a famed "distributor" entrusted with their sale, sir. Unless your snuggly on his side. Your hope is sure to fall, sir. That is if you are hoping now. To be a bolted Knight, sir! Just think how we would wear our hats.

And our proud hearts delight, sir. To gain a title now I'd crawl. From Foggo to Trepassay. Especially as the war is on. For level democracy. And when 'tis o'er I fear we'll be Just plain Tom, Dick and Harry. So that is why I snatch one now, I'm in no mood to tarry.

If I but knew the little man I'd toady like a tinker. I'd praise him blithely to his face, Even though he wears a jinker. I'd tell him that his Island's plight Would be but slush without him. That there's no genius point but what is wrapped tight round about him.

Oh, shades of Bennett and O'Brien, What scores would you be feeling. Could you but see the things that now Into your place are stealing; I'd like to see the lowly snicker. His smile of sardonic derision, Could he but see our bunch of Knights With just his former vision.

Oh, paltry price of principle! How much would you be giving To have this prefix to your names The little while you're living? Future years shall prove how much He played the lowly snicker. And just be known for what you are Yours truly,
H. M. PACKER.

Corporal Alf Goss, now in the General Hospital, who has been suffering from severe wounds since the battle of Beaumont Hamel. But though Lance Corporal Goss was broken in body, he was not broken in spirit, and he sent down to tell the men now in Torbay to do their duty and take up the work for which he and the others from Torbay had done all they could, and for which they would do more if possible. The next speaker was Lieut. C. B. Dicks who made an able and telling speech, though unfortunately your reporter got called away in the midst of it. He was followed by Sgt. Peter Mansfield. Peter being a real ladies man, as per usual, appealed to the ladies. He told them to encourage their boys to go. What Peter said about the young ladies of Torbay, we will not mention in this report; as well, he may have said the same elsewhere, and we should hate to see Peter get in wrong.

Lieut. Murphy then made an appeal for recruits, and was followed by Sgt. Harold Mitchell who made an active and personal appeal for volunteers, following it up by going amongst the crowd with "the Ribbons." Several recruits offered, but were under the required weight, but some likely looking ones have signified their intention of coming along in the next few days.

The Soldiers' Association do not always look for immediate results, and were in this case entirely satisfied with the reception they got in Torbay, and the hearty manner in which they were cheered as they went through the town and after each speech. The work of a band is considered by them to be invaluable and the inspiration both of it and the earnestness of the Returned Soldiers leaves a seed which always bears results. They expect results from Torbay.

"I Had Rheumatism But Now I Haven't."

WHY PETER R. SHIRMAN RECOMMENDS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Manitoba Man Tells How His Troubles Vanished When He Used the Old Canadian Kidney Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ethelbert, Man., May 10th. (Special.)—"I had rheumatism, and now I haven't." That is the reason in a nutshell why Peter R. Shirman, a well-known resident here, is singing the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. "I could not work, but now I am strong," Mr. Shirman continues. "That is why I think Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best of all remedies."

Asked as to the symptoms that troubled him during the early stages of his illness, Mr. Shirman said: "I caught cold a year ago. I was troubled with stiffness of the joints and headaches, and my sleep was broken and unrefreshing. I was always tired and nervous, and my skin had a dry, harsh feeling. I was often dizzy, and I had a bitter taste in my mouth, especially in the morning."

"Finally rheumatism and lumbago and Bright's Disease set in. Then I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They made me well."

If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills, ask your neighbors about them. Coughs and Colds seem to be increasing the past few days. Try a bottle of Stafford's Phosphate. Theatre Hill Drug Store open until 9.30 every night.

AN APPEAL

I am addressing this Appeal to all the people of Newfoundland, but especially to those of the Outports.

Your Government have decided to make another special attempt to obtain further recruits for the duties forced upon us by the War. I am anxious to explain to you in simple and strong words why those duties are yours.

In your sea-girl home you have, I know, your own dangers and anxieties to face. As I write this my mind is still full of the appalling disaster to the Florida. But War you do not realise: you are beyond the sound of the guns which, in the South East corner of England, I have heard day after day breaking in upon the beauty and calmness of the summer air.

That awe-inspiring rumble of the guns which I ask you to imagine—that lurid light on the horizon which I ask you to picture are the signs of a terrible struggle for Right—of a mighty effort to save from ruin, not only France, but every bit of free soil in the world, including this island of which you are so proud. The awful struggle seems to be approaching its climax now and your close kinsmen are in the middle of it.

Some may ask, What is the danger? and it is my purpose to endeavour to make it clear to you.

By some permission of Divine Providence, which we do not understand, a nation of criminals is now attacking all that is just and true in the whole world. Germany has set herself deliberately to violate every law of Right and every principle of Humanity.

Never before in History has a War been planned like this. Hitherto all wars have had some sort of pretext of right or impulse of passion. It has been reserved to the German military party to plot wilfully and wantonly a great crime against the peace of mankind.

And the hypocrisy with which Germany supports the crime makes it still more abominable. As Judas treated the Christ, Germany is treating Civilization. Under appeals to God, Germany masks the utmost malignities of the devil. The German nation to-day knows no Law except that of the pagan, the liar, the ravisher, the murderer. They are a curse let loose on the Earth. And the task demanded of all of us is to fight and conquer this curse just as in our moral life we are bound to fight and conquer Sin. The Cause is a far broader and holier Cause than that which impelled the Crusaders against the Saracens.

We may thank God that the greater nations of the World have realised the justice of the Cause; and I believe that every man in Newfoundland will one day be thankful that he was at least asked to face this question—"Is it not my higher duty to go out and save humanity from destruction?"

Remember that your wives, your children, your cottages, your boats, are in positive danger if the German breaks through France. As he is treating the foolish Russians, so he will treat every nation whom he touches—America, Canada, Newfoundland, are to him mere objectives for his greedy brutality. He is entirely evil, he has no sense of right and no feelings of Mercy.

This mass of incarnate selfishness is held back by the strong arm of the Allies in France. Will any man of British race decline to do all he can to defeat and crush it?

At this moment the need is specially great, for the Germans are now desperate. They begin to realise the truth of that dread decree "He that takes the sword, shall perish with the sword". At no horror will they hesitate if they can but escape the punishment that is their due.

Now on every man and woman among us lies the duty to bear a hand in administering that punishment a duty not only to ourselves but to posterity. If age or health prevent some of us from going they do not prevent us from following the greatest example ever set to mankind and making the sacrifice of that which is dearest to our hearts.

You young men I ask to listen carefully to the appeals which will once more be made to you in the next few weeks. Believe me that the voluntary act of a man, impelled by the high sense of duty, is far nobler than the mere obedience to the provisions of a public enactment.

One special word I say to women. Try to realise the sufferings of women and children wherever the Germans come: think of the little children starved in Belgium and slaughtered in cold blood in Armenia. Let your men folk stand out and protect you, for in helping to defeat the Germans they are protecting the honour and safety of all their dear ones at home.

The Practical Economy of Good Paint

Good paint is never an expense, but a saving. By its use you save your buildings from a steady deterioration in value. Economy in painting demands the use of Quality Paint—Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint—the paint that protects and preserves. The use of cheap materials is a waste of money—a waste of time.

MARTIN-SENOUR "100% PURE" PAINT

wears longest, covers the greatest surface (900 sq. feet per gallon) and because of its even texture, takes least time and is easiest to apply. It is absolutely guaranteed—"100% Pure" White Lead, Zinc Oxide and highest quality Linseed Oil. It is admitted to be the most economical paint on the market.

Take no chances. Make your investments secure by applying on your buildings, inside and out, protecting coats of Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint.

Write for "Farmer's Color Set" and "Town and Country Homes". Just what you'll need in planning your painting. Mailed free.

WATER PROOF
FOUR CYCLE ENGINES

Here is what you have been looking for, a special Four Cycle Engine, specially fitted with a waterproof ignition system, at a price to meet all competitions.

- 1 CYLINDER 2 HORSE POWER . . . $ 70.00
- 2 CYLINDER 4 HORSE POWER . . . 130.00
- 2 CYLINDER 8 HORSE POWER . . . 190.00
- 3 CYLINDER 6 HORSE POWER . . . 175.00
- 3 CYLINDER 12 HORSE POWER . . . 240.00
- 4 CYLINDER 16 HORSE POWER . . . 295.00

Everyone knows that a Four Cycle Engine will produce the same power on much less fuel than any two Cycle Engine made; it will also be much cleaner.

The only objection to Four Cycle Engines has been the difficulty of keeping the ignition dry in wet weather; this objection is overcome in our "WATERPROOF" Engines. A big advantage in having two or more Cylinders is to reduce vibration and give steady power; a smooth running Engine will last much longer than any other.

Write or wire if interested.
