TO-DAY EVERYDAY AND

REFUSED PETRAGES

Lord Melbourne Resused the Garter

On his resignation, Mr. Smith is said to have refused a petition, the doing so the late Prime Minister was only following the example of several other famous men who have refused to accept honor and decorations. Gladstone is, of course, the most notable instance of modern times. Thomas Carlyle refused the C. B. with his usual irreverence, remarking that if he accepted people would have to describe it as the Grand Old Man's Bells. Of Fox, the story is told that on someone bringing him word that the King was anxious to make him a peer, he remarked indignantly, "Great Heavens! has it come to that?"

One of the most interesting of refusals was that which came from Lord Melbourne when Queen Victoria offered him the Garter, one of the most distinguished orders in the power of the British Sovereign to confer. Melbourne was, of course, Queen Victoria's first Prime Minister, and the Queen was quite a young girl when between the two there existed a picturesque relationship, somewhat like that of father and daughter.

He was, however, ever respectful and, if frank, none the less respectful. So, in declining the Garter, he wrote: "The expense of the blue ribbon amounts to $5000 and there have been of late years no period at which it would not have been seriously detrimental for me to lay down such a sum."

ACADIANS TO GET STEEPER

A meeting of prominent Acadians was held last week at the residence of Joseph's College, Miramichi, N. B., for the purpose of taking into consideration the proposed extension of the Dominion Atlantic railway to the former to the Acadian people in the site of the old Roman Catholic church at Grand Pre. Hon. E. W. Lacombe, through whose efforts this meeting was brought about, occupied the chair.

Among those present were: Messrs. Ph. Belliveau of Grand Pre; Rev.

RESPECTING MEDICAL ATTENTION

Dear Sir:

The question is frequently asked what employers should do, or what they should instruct their foremen to do, in regard to medical attention when an accident happens to an employee.

The Workmen's Compensation Act does not deal at all with the question of first aid or medical attention. It must not be concluded, however, that the Board is indifferent as to this matter. Apart from the humanitarian side of the question, it is not in the interest of the Board, or of employers, that payments of compensation be prolonged by lack of necessary medical or surgical attention.

When an injured employer requires medical attention, it is essential, of course, that he should go or be taken to the nearest doctor or hospital as soon as possible, and it is hoped that as co-operative or other arrangements now existing for such service will be continued. There is nothing in the Act to prevent arrangements for such medical or hospital service. What is forbidden is to charge employees anything in the way of contribution toward the accident fund or toward indemnifying the employer against anything the employer is liable for under the Act (See Sec. 13). Unless there is some sort of co-operative or other arrangement for medical aid in connection with the factory or establishment in which he is working, the injured workman must necessarily pay his own medical expenses. In serious cases, however, there is the certainty, if reports are promptly made, that compensation will be payable without delay, and money will thus be available which will enable the injured workman to pay the medical or hospital fees. It is believed generally feeling willing and desirous of doing so; but should any workman not be willing to pay what is reasonable, the power given to the Board to permit attachment of the compensation may be invoked. In cases of slight injury, causing disability for less than seven days, no compensation is payable by the Board, the matter being entirely outside of the Act.

Mutual co-operation and assistance in all these matters among employers, employees and physicians will be to the advantage of all as well as a great assistance in the work of the Board.

Yours truly,
N. M. IRWIN, Secy.
Workmen's Compensation Board.

MANCHURIAN, OTTAWA 50, BARLEY

(Experimental Farms Note.)

This six-row barley is a selection made several years ago by the Dominion Cerealist from the old, commercial sort, Mensury, which has been favorably known in Canada for a long time and has been successfully grown in very many districts.

As the tests in regard to yield are still in progress, final conclusions cannot yet be drawn; but it may be stated that the new selection appears to be, from many sections of this country, the most productive barley known, among those sorts which have fairly satisfactory straw. The straw of this barley is of good length and strength as compared with other popular six-row sorts; but it should be emphasized that even the best barleys have a tendency to lodge when sown on rich soil, in seasons when moisture is plentiful. The heads of this variety are exceptionally long and heavy, and herein, perhaps, lies the secret of its large yield. In very high winds it does not behave quite so well as some of the other sorts, as it shows a tendency for the heads to break off at the base, and for the kernels to thresh out on the ground. However these objections, though worth considering in wind-swept prairie districts, are of no importance in most localities.

The foliage is good and the plants are not particularly liable to attacks of rust. They will withstand a reasonable amount of drought and will grow well on a great variety of soils. It should be remembered, however, that, as a rule, barley does not succeed on soils which are badly in need of lime. While it is early in ripening—like nearly all barleys of its class—it does not mature exceptionally early, being perhaps a trifle later than the average.

The awns of this barley adhere somewhat firmly, so that, for best results, it should be in thoroughly dry condition when threshed. The grain is of a very good yellowish color, and quite free from the objectionable greenish or bluish shade which lessens the value of some barleys for exhibition purposes.

Considering all its characteristics, Manchurian Ottawa 50 is recommended by the Dominion Cerealist as the best variety of six-row barley for nearly all parts of Canada, except those districts where destructive winds are to be feared about harvest time.

THE EUROPEAN WAR

CENTRAL POWERS READY TO TALK PEACE

Budapest, April 3.—The Amsterdam and London—Discussion regarding Hungary's attitude toward the peace talks was made a special order of the day by the Hungarian Chamber of Deputies. The Government spokesmen made a speech, in which the leaders of all parties agreed, declaring for a policy of non-interference in the final affairs of Russia. He added that the Central powers were ready to take up peace negotiations whenever the Entente countries abandoned their last of conquest.

TURKISH TROOPS ARE IN FULL RETREAT

London, April 3.—Efforts made by the Turkish troops to envelop a British force near Deltawah, thirty-five miles north of Baghdad, has failed, says an official British statement of military operations in Mesopotamia, and the Turks in that region are now in full retreat. The text of the statement follows:

"An attempt by the enemy to make a converging movement from the Shatt-el-Arab and Dely Abbas to a detachment near Deltawah has failed. The movement from Dely Abbas was continued, and the hostile troops advancing from that direction are now in full retreat.

"An enemy force advancing from the Shatt-el-Arab was attacked by us on Thursday and after severe fighting we occupied the whole enemy position, from which several counter-attacks failed to dislodge us. This enemy force, after leaving 124 wounded and many wounded prisoners in our hands, has again sought refuge on the right bank of the Shatt-el-Arab."

FRENCH TROOPS HAVE MADE IMPORTANT ADVANCES
Paris, April 3.—In their operations to the southwest of Laon the French troops have made important advances, capturing several German trench systems, and have reached the outskirts of Vauxvanille and Lafaux, according to the official communication issued by the War Office tonight. The text reads:

"Between the Somme and the Oise intermittent artillery action occurs.

BRITISH CONTINUE TO GAIN GROUND

London, March 31.—British troops advancing on the front in Northern France in pursuit of the retreating Germans have captured five additional towns—Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters reports today. The towns taken are Heudicourt, St. Emille, Marcellin, Vermand and Soyecourt.

"The British advance has made considerable progress, substantially deepening the bulge towards St. Quentin and hitting into the German defences between Croisilles and the Baupanne-Cambrai road," says the despatch.

"The British have gained full possession of a strip of territory north-east of Peronne, extending for about seven miles from Neuville-Bonvaux towards Villers-sur-Aa. Within this zone are included the villages of Piss, Sorel, Heudicourt, and St. Emille. The resistance which the Germans offered was comparatively slight.

"The advance northwest of St. Quentin gained us the villages of Marteville, Vermand and Soyecourt."

GERMANS ADMIT THAT BRITISH MADE BIG ADVANCE

Berlin, April 3.—Via Sayville—British troops, after tenacious fighting in which they suffered heavy losses, yesterday pushed their lines into the German positions on the Somme for a depth of nearly two miles, says the official statement issued today by the German Army Headquarters Staff. The British advance was in the region between the Peronne-Douencourt road and the lowlands of the Oisnon stream, in which the towns of Jemencourt and Vermand are situated.

WAR BRIEFS

The tax on excess profits in Great Britain has added much to the revenue. Winipeg has pledged $1,000,000 a year to the Patriotic Fund as long as the war lasts. A French aviator, Lieut. George Guymer, has brought down his third airplane. About 50,000 Americans are in the ranks of the Allies, chiefly with Gen. Hall in France. The Stordahl was carrying 10,000 tons of material to Redoubt when torpedoed by a German submarine.

A hospital to accommodate 300 sick soldiers is being erected on Camp Hill, Halifax, and the Pine Hill Presbyterian College, which will accommodate 125, has been given for the same purpose.

Lord Northcliffe says: "What has particularly struck the Allies is the reserve and patience with which the overseas Dominions have borne sufferings which are leading up to a great victory."

Official figures published at Washington show that in two and a half years of war the United States sent the Allies cartridges to the value of $52,000,000, firearms $60,000,000, gunpowder $250,000,000, other explosives $475,000,000.

WONDERFUL STUFF!
LIFT OUT YOUR CALLUS!
Apply a few drops, then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain.

No-humbug! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without a particle of pain or soreness. This drug is called freestone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freestone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus.

Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off with the fingers. This drug freestone doesn't eat the corns or calluses but shrivels them without even irritating the surrounding skin.

TO ENCOURAGE SHIPBUILDING
Premier Murray has introduced a Bill in the Legislature to encourage shipbuilding. A commission is to be appointed to investigate the facilities in the province for building vessels, and as a corporate body to encourage shipbuilding in every way possible. The sum of $2,000,000 is to be raised and the interest thereon is to be used by this commission for the object mentioned.

"MORE BREAD AND BETTER BREAD"

AMERICA'S GREATEST PRESIDENT SAID:

"I DO NOT KNOW MUCH ABOUT THE TARIFF, BUT I DO KNOW THIS, THAT IF WE BUY GOODS FROM THE FOREIGNER, WE GET THE GOODS AND THE FOREIGNER GETS THE MONEY; WHEREAS, IF WE BUY THE GOODS AT HOME, WE GET BOTH THE GOODS AND THE MONEY."

That was what good, old, honest and shrewd Abraham Lincoln said, and that is what he would say today, if he were alive and asked to express his opinion regarding the buying of home necessities from the mail-order houses. Now read it over again:

"I do not know much about buying goods away from home, but I do know that if you buy from the mail-order houses in Upper Canada, you get the goods and the people of Upper Canada get the money, but if you buy at home, you get both the goods and the money."

Make no mistake about it, when you send your money away, it goes to swell the money circulation of other Provinces and never returns, but if you spend your money with the merchants of your own town, that money will flow back to you.

If I suppose you are a farmer. You sell your produce in and about your nearest town; you cannot sell it in Montreal or Toronto, and therefore anything that makes the people of your town wealthier or more prosperous naturally means more business for you. Is it fair or just that you take this money that you earn in your home town and send it away for goods that you know can be purchased just as satisfactorily from your best friend—the local merchant!

And what is true of the farmer is true of you, Mr. Clergyman, of you, Mr. School Teacher, of you, Mr. Carpenter, of you, Madam, and you, and you, and you.

The mail-order business is serious in Nova Scotia, so serious that you have got to face the matter squarely and see where you are drifting. Do you know that out of the small towns of this province, hundreds of dollars are going to Montreal and Toronto, and these cities have doubled their population in the last few years!

They have been built up out of your money. Think it over. You call at your local shops and say your town is slow and dead. What made them this way! You and the mail-order habit. It is an old saying, but a true one, you cannot have your pudding and eat it. You cannot send thousands of dollars out of your town every year and expect it to be prosperous.

You hear great stories about the department stores in Upper Canada growing bigger and bigger, employing thousands of men and women, paying thousands of dollars of City Taxes, huge sums for light and fuel, and all the rest of it. That is your money that is doing all this. Yes, yours. Don't forget for one moment that every cent you send to these mail-order houses helps build up those huge cities, swells the revenues of these Provinces, and impoverishes your town. Make no mistake about that. "Yes, but the mail-order houses are cheaper," you may say. With but very few exceptions you can buy as cheaply and more advantageously, from your local merchant. Again, "The mail-order house has a better range to select from." Our answer to this is, that if you give your dealer the slightest encouragement he will provide you with an ample assortment of goods. In conjunction with this great "BUY-AT-HOME" campaign many merchants are increasing their variety of numerous lines, so the excuse regarding bigger range will not long hold water!

This habit of sending money away from home is a serious menace. You have shut your eyes to it in the past. Open them up. Open them wide. Buy at home and your town will have more to buy with. Buy at home and watch your town develop. Buy at home and watch your merchants grow. Buy everything at home. This is the "BUY-AT-HOME" movement.

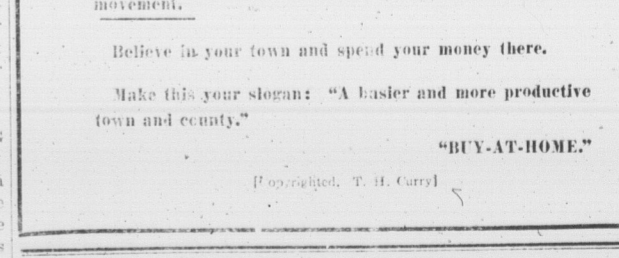

Believe in your town and spend your money there.

Make this your slogan: "A basier and more productive town and county."

"BUY-AT-HOME."

This is the Economical Paint to Use

CERTAIN inherent qualities are essential in paint to ensure your permanent satisfaction with its application.

Of these, the more important are Endurance and Covering Capacity. The extent to which these qualities are present, accurately determines the real value of your paint.

The Weekly Monitor ESTABLISHED 1873 AND WESTERN ANNAPOLIS SENTINEL Published Every Wednesday Address all matters of business and make all money orders payable to The Monitor Publishing Co., Ltd. PROPRIETORS AND PUBLISHERS. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1917 MEXICO

It is reported that the United States has spent one hundred million dollars in the endeavor to bring about a settlement of the internal affairs of Mexico, with the result that the effort has been a failure.

The trouble at bottom in Mexico seems to be the contention in which the country was placed by the military despotism and favoritism of the late President Diaz. Such, at least, is the opinion of a native Mexican as presented in an article in an American Review, which we now propose to summarize.

When Benito Juarez, in 1858, became President of the Republic, he issued a Constitution, which, like that of the United States, began with a declaration of human rights, such as individual liberty, liberty of education, liberty of work, liberty of speech and liberty of the press. It accepted the principle that all authority is vested with the people, who have the privilege of expressing their opinions by means of universal suffrage. During his presidency, which continued until 1877, Juarez endeavored to direct all the affairs of State according to the provisions of this constitution which are at the basis correspondent to those of the most free and prosperous nations of the present day. Of course he met with opposition from those who had profited by the partiality and favoritism of the previous time. Had he lived longer he might have won the appreciation and confidence of the great body of Mexicans, overcome the opposition of the classes and so demonstrated the advantages of such a liberal constitution that the nation would have continued to hold it firmly against all gainsayers.

Juarez was followed by the Presidency of General Porfirio Diaz, who devoted his energies largely to the economic development of the country. He built good roads, began a great system of railroads, organized a mail and telegraph service, and sought out the natural resources of the land. But while doing good along these lines, he neglected or disapproved of the other things which are fundamental to national prosperity. He acted upon the idea that the masses could be most easily governed by being kept in ignorance, and that he could best retain authority by surrounding himself with men indebted to him by personal favors. He opposed education, granted large concessions to military favorites, sold franchises and kept the common people in poverty and subjection to his will, and elected personally the governors of the states and territories, the members of the national congress, the judges of the Supreme Court, and the most important judges of inferior courts. When some of his friends suggested a plan for the education of the common people, he facetiously remarked that "education was the only right which the people left for themselves, and he was not going to take it away from them."

In some of the Mexican States there were governors who, on their own responsibility, organized systems of public education. They soon discovered, however, that this was an innovation which would not be permitted. One of these governors was over the State of Vera Cruz. He died "mysteriously," and public opinion attributed his taking off to a carefully formulated plan, intended to act as a warning to any other governors who advocated popular education.

The extent to which favoritism was employed as a means of keeping the masses in subjection is seen in the fact that of the fifteen millions of people in Mexico, more than fourteen millions do not own a square foot of land. More than three-fourths of the entire land is owned by less than one thousand persons. In the State of Chihuahua, which has an area of ninety thousand square miles, one Mexican General and his family own about three-fourths of the whole, or about thirty millions of acres. In the State of Coahuila one General owns one million four hundred thousand acres; another General, a neighbor of the first, owns a similar acreage; and another neighbor, a private gentleman, owns one million six hundred thousand acres. Reliable authorities affirm that the whole State of Morelos was divided among four families, one of which was that of General Diaz himself. The portion of this latter family was two million four hundred thousand acres. All these estates were donations, or were enlarged to the present size at a nominal figure.

An Englishman, Mr. Pearson, was permitted for a price to monopolize the oil wells of the country. He still holds about half of them. He pays no taxes, and has a contract to supply fuel to all the railroads. One result is, that while in the United States oil can be purchased for ten or twelve cents a gallon, in Mexico it is sold in ten gallon lots for a sum equivalent to four dollars and seventy-five cents, United States currency. This gentleman has been elevated to a place in the British nobility, under the name of Lord Cowdray.

But, what of the thirteen or fourteen millions of the lower or middle classes who constitute the bulk of the population and have not shared in these magnificent gifts? One illustration of their condition is found in the fact that when railroad and factory workers, combined in unions, first ordered a strike to better their condition, no effort was made to ascertain the justice of their claims, but the local officers of the union were taken to a public square, where large numbers of the workmen were gathered, and shot as a warning against future strikes. Our informant assures us that he became acquainted with a German who began business by opening a small hardware store. This man also loaned money in small sums, for short periods and at an exorbitant interest, and at his death had accumulated by these loans a fortune of five millions of dollars. When the poor farmer needs a little money or applies for his family he must go for assistance to the landlord, and custom has so fixed the terms that the farmer in all probability will never get rid of the debt and will remain virtually a slave of the landlord. This explains the system of peonage which has prevailed so largely.

Many of the common people had not obtained proper titles for their lands. The Diaz Government ordered that all such lands would be regarded as vacant. They were then distributed among favorites, and the real owners awoke after a time to the fact that they were merely "squatters" and if they remained on the lands they could only do so on accepting such terms as the landlords prescribed.

Here is a state of things resembling in some respects the conditions which prevailed in England when William the Conqueror divided among the Norman nobles, who crossed the Channel with him, the estates of the English nobles.

That great wrongs have been perpetrated upon the masses of the Mexican people cannot be seriously questioned. The present condition of civil warfare is the attempt of an abused and ill-instructed people to right some of these wrongs. What story the immediate future will tell no prophet foretells. But these wrongs will be righted. The people will come to their own. The Mexican, to those articles we have referred to, who is now in exile, having been plainly told that his absence would be more acceptable than his presence to the powers that be, because of the prominence of his work on educational lines, remarks, "I am sure if this people could be treated in a more humane way, if they could be provided with proper education, and with a reasonable amount of real protection from the government, they would be some within some years a successful and self-respecting people."

R.; Dr. Coit, of Acadia College, and Prof. W. S. Blair of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

The speakers called attention to the great effort so necessary to win the war, and how those at home may do a greater part in now assisting in the greater production of food necessities.

Dr. Coit and Prof. Blair returned particularly to the part that people living in cities and towns can do in the way of cultivating small lots and vacant lands in these centres, and thus relieving the farmers of the need of raising vegetables, etc., and leaving them free to increase the grain production.

MOVING PICTURE PAR EXCELLENCE COMING TO THE PRIMROSE THEATRE NEXT TUESDAY, APRIL 10

Lawrencetown, Wednesday, April 11

"The Birth of a Nation," after making new, unprecedented and unimagined records in practically every first class theatre in Canada and the United States last season, in many instances went back to play as large and often larger audiences than it did during the first engagement. It is a fair estimate that one-half of the six million people who have seen this spectacle have seen it more than once. In every place the enthusiasm of the vast crowds has known no bounds.

The historic features of this presentation have attracted wide attention and educators all over the world have been convinced that there is no more effective way to tell the story of a such stirring event as Sherman's March to the Sea, the last gallant stand of the Confederates at Petersburg, the surrender at Appomattox, the assassination of President Lincoln, and the saving of the South by the Ku Klux Klan. Mere words can never give a realization of the dramatic scenes, the life-like and vivid reproduction of the past. Realism is the keynote of the success of "The Birth of a Nation." The very stupor of the audience is the evidence of the dramatic presentation and above all it is entertainment of the highest order.

Running through the historical scenes are two romantic love stories, in which a colonel of the South loves the sister of an officer of the North, and the officer of the North loves the sister of the colonel of the South. The proud spirit of the South and the equally proud mind of the North are shown in an thrilling and gripping story as was never before. Love turns to hate and then to love again as each girl watches the grim struggle with partisan eyes, each loyal to the land of her birth.

GinPills FOR THE KIDNEYS

CONTROL OF EPIDEMICS AMONGST SCHOOL CHILDREN

(Issued by the Department of the Public Health, Nova Scotia.)

The fact that young people are more susceptible to most of the infectious diseases than adults makes it necessary that particular attention should be given to them when an epidemic threatens or prevails.
The fact that the massing of children in the schools affords a special opportunity for the spread of disease should be considered in connection with the further fact that when children are so massed it is possible to keep them under practically constant observation.

Experience has shown that epidemics are most easily prevented or controlled if schools are not closed, but if, instead, a system of daily medical inspection is instituted.

Success in preventive work depends upon the following factors:

1. Early detection of the first case of "cases".
2. Strict isolation and quarantine of patients until the infective stage is passed.
3. Isolation of contacts until the period of incubation is over.
4. A determined effort to detect carriers, mild and typical cases, and cases in the earliest stages of illness.
5. A determined effort to locate "missed cases" and isolation of such.

As well as isolation of contacts with such, for the period which may be indicated.

The expense incurred by such a practice may be largely and perhaps completely offset by the saving of school money, which are often reduced when an infectious disease becomes prevalent in a community.

In combating an epidemic amongst school children, the school nurse may play a very important part. She can be of great assistance to the examining physician, can aid in supervising the isolation of infected children and the practice of preventive measures in their homes, can ascertain the cause of absences from the school and in this way perhaps discover new foci for infection, and can in many other ways prove of much value.

In the case of a disease of which one attack confers immunity, a census of the school children should be made in order to determine those who may have thus acquired immunity. In this way a considerable group will doubtless be found requiring little supervision. Similarly the use of the Schick test will prove useful in discovering those who should have special supervision when diphtheria is present.

All kinds of seed, including corn, will be scarce this year. Make provision now.

COST OF CLEARING LAND BY TWO METHODS

(Experimental Farms Note)
When time is no object, the best way to clear land from timber growth is to let nature and live stock assist. When the growth is removed and the brush burned off clean, which, with most growths, may be made a profitable operation by the sale of the timber and fire-wood, clover and grass seed may be sown, and, while cattle and sheep are pasturing and eating down the sprouts, the stumps will slowly but surely decay, and their removal becomes an easy operation. This process will require from six to ten years before clearing can be completed.

At the Experimental Station, Fredericton, N. B., where it was desired to bring the land into cultivation at the earliest possible moment, two plans of stump removal have been tried, and herewith are given figures of the relative cost on land from which an average tree growth had been removed.

The two methods employed were, stump pulling by power, and removal by dynamite.

A stump puller of the drum and long lever type was employed, giving a lifting power of 25 tons with an ordinary team. With one hundred and twenty stumps—10 inches and over, to the acre, and seventy-two smaller stumps, it required an average of twenty minutes with a team and driver and two men to remove each of the large stumps and 5 minutes to remove each of the smaller ones. The 120 stumps required 40 hours, and the smaller ones, 6 hours.

The relative cost, therefore, stood as follows:—

Where power machinery was used cost per acre was:
16 hours work Team and driver at 22c 14.72
32 hours work helpers @ 18c 16.56
40 hours work cleaning and piling @ 18 59.40
50 hours work burning @ 18c 10.80
$101.48

Where explosives were used the cost per acre was:
50 lbs. Stumping powder @ $14.90 22.25
100 feet Fuse @ 60c 3.00
10 Cans @ $1.00 3.00
10 hrs. Labour of Dynamite operator @ 22c 9.20
10 hrs. Team and driver @ 22c 12.80
10 hrs. helpers @ 18c 14.40
10 hrs. Labour piling @ 18c 10.80
10 hrs Labour burning @ 18c 7.20
$82.75

On other areas, where there were heavy boulders and small stones, the clearing ran up to $186.00 per acre, while, where the land was free from stone, and stumps were small and comparatively few, the land was made ready by the plough at a cost of less than $40.00 per acre.

When making changes in the feed given to the stock make them slowly. Two weeks is not too long to take to make any very radical change in the ration. Many animals have received serious set back by sudden changes in food, and in many cases the new ration has been blamed, when if a little trouble had been taken in making the change gradually no ill results would have occurred.

Cotton seed meal is the cheapest concentrate we have at the present time. If you are short of grain or feed for your cattle it will pay you to buy some, but don't let the dealer palm off on you some old musty stuff. Good cotton seed meal has a bright yellow color and a rather pleasant taste.

If you are short of fodder or roughage, remember that a pound of good oat straw is equal in feeding value to a pound of poor hay. Never feed wheat straw. Wheat straw is excellent for bedding and preferable to oat straw for this purpose.
