GERMANS QUITTING

Forty of Them Demand to Be Taken Prisoner by a Groom.

With the British Armies in France, Sept. 20.—Beyond local fighting the British third and fourth armies northwards of St. Quentin have not been engaged today.

The Germans are holding strong machine gun detachments in the large number of small farms, copese and open roads in the vicinity, but a number of these already have been cleared.

In front of St. Quentin there were clashes between the opposing infantry, and the British gained some ground east of Holnon Village. Smoke bombs played an important part of the morning's fortified quarries in front of the Hindenburg outpost systems northwest of St. Quentin.

While the quarries remained in the hands of the Germans the enemy expected with his supplies of ammunition and machine guns to be able to prevent the loss of the ridges, which hid the Hindenburg main line from observation.

A battalion commander who was found with tears streaming down his face was asked if he had been wounded. "No," he replied, "I have a bad cold, my eyes are full of smoke."

BUY FUEL AT HAND AND KEEP PRAYING

Advice Given at City Hall, Where Thousands of Letters Have Come for Coal.

So far, over 5,000 letters have been received at the office of the local fuel controller in the city hall from people who want coal. Yesterday's mail alone contained some 1,300 letters. Four clerks are engaged in sorting the letters and arranging them according to locality. As it has been announced that only those who have absolutely no coal in their cellars should send in their applications, it would seem as if the total number who applied for relief all last winter will be exceeded during the next couple of days if the letters continue to pour in the way they have been doing. Last winter about 6,500 people applied for coal. The authorities at the city hall are advising people not to pick and choose, but to buy whatever kind of coal they can get, and to pray for a mild winter. During the past week the smaller dealers have not received nearly as much coal as they expected, and consequently they are unable to fulfill their promises to make deliveries to their customers.

PROPERTY OWNERS GET ASSESSMENTS REDUCED

The presence of apartment houses on fashionable residential streets has a tendency to lower the value of surrounding property, it would seem, if the action of the court of revision yesterday is correct. That body had a large number of appeals before it from owners of property on St. George street, who pleaded that their assessments were too high. The character of their street had changed, they said, in the last few years because of the erection of apartment houses and was not worth as much as formerly. The court evidently agreed with them, because reductions on buildings up to $15,000 were made and on land $10 a foot. The property at 162 St. George street, assessed at $31,160, was "so high, the applicants claimed, because of an adjoining apartment house. Decision was reserved. The assessment of J. C. Macklem at 129 St. George street, was reduced from $128 a foot to $125 and the house from $5500 to $4500. Other reductions were: Mrs. E. F. King, No. 142, $125 to $115 a foot on land; Elizabeth Hay, No. 49, from $140 to $150 a foot and from $18,000 to $11,500 on house; A. B. Bethune, No. 156, from $125 to $125 on land and from $11,000 to $9500 on house; Penecost and Carroll, No. 122, from $135 to $125 on land and from $5500 to $5000 on house; J. G. Carroll, No. 162, from $125 to $110 on land and from $17,000 to $16,000 on house. During the winter months the active service troops in Toronto military district will wear rubbers instead of overboots. In some of the other districts the soldiers will have overboots issued to them. In No. 8, Kingston district, the authorities are given the choice of issuing either, according to the particular climate of each subsection.

The Incentive of Public Service.

We shall now have a demonstration of the reality of what has often been doubted in Canada—that men of experience, of ability and of approved merit are not only willing to serve the public as they are, to serve private interests, but that they are more willing. We believe that there is an insatiable demand for public service which private service never yields. We have constant examples in the national life of men toiling unremotely with comparative slight reward for the nation to which they owe their being, and rendering services which could scarcely be procured by private interests.

A certain order of mind inclines to think that a public servant with great opportunities will use them only for his own advantage, and cynics who have never read Hepworth Dixon's "Life of Bacon" with the documents as fond of quoting Macaulay and Pope to the effect that the wisest of men will yield to the temptation to graft. It may suit the cynic to think so, but the facts are against it, and Bacon's life, as Dixon proves by documentary evidence, was absolutely free from such taint.

It is the rare exception that a man falls in his public trust. The percentage of failures is certainly no higher than in private business. And there is good reason for it. Leaving aside the legal deterrents which are just as potent in public as in private affairs, the incentive to upright dealing is much higher. Some men have not evolved the consciousness of responsibility imposed by a trust, but the number of these men who could pass the other qualifications for public service are singularly few. Responsibility calls for the development in men of an order of all-round trustworthiness in the discharge of plain business and commercial affairs which in the higher ranks begets the loftiest morality. A man cannot be crooked in one department of his nature and not be crooked elsewhere. The man who emerges has done so because his general average must be high. A break in one line of action would so lower the general average that he would be ranked with the inefficient. This is why, more than for any other reason, the drinking man has disappeared from big business.

It should be clearly kept in mind that politicians are not necessarily business men. This is why it is demanded that the great public services shall be kept free from politics. The men who come from big business to take their place in the big business affairs of the nation are of necessity of approved probity. They have graduated in the school of responsibility, and its acid tests have discovered no flaws. Very frequently the politician, especially in local matters, has never been tested at all. If he realizes no public responsibility and is conscious of no higher aim than his own advancement, there is nothing to warrant his admittance to the ranks of those who have shown their mettle in the success of real service. Too frequently the failures of business get into politics.

The inspiration of serving his country, of making the nation an abler, finer unit in the human order, of developing a new condition of efficiency and organization, these things appeal to the responsible public servant as his craft to the artist, as harmony to the musician. When men begin to make history a new note is struck in their consciousness. A new note in Canadian history is struck in the nationalization of the great public utilities. The honesty and the skill with which they are carried on will furnish the nation with new standards of public life.

Belgium, the Martyr.

It must astonish the Huns and upset all their theories to find that the little Belgian nation, in spite of all the "schrecklichkeit" and diabolism with which the Kaiser has visited it, is still as gallant as ever, still as fully possessed of its soul, still as fully determined to see the Hun farther before it would yield a jot to the iniquitous demands made upon it, still as haughty as ever in rejecting the insulting proposals made against its honor, still as proud in the assertion of its independence.

The latest proposal of Germany that Belgium will abandon its neutrality and become a western bulwark of Germany with commercial and economical connections which would eventually bind the Belgian people to Germany is incompatible with the underlying spirit of nationality which the modern Belgians have inherited from their far forefathers. Her language policy was to be dictated to her by the Kaiser, and she was to be the cat's paw to pull the monkey's colonial chestnuts out of the fire. Belgium's No is as defiant as four years ago and she still stands with those who would dam back the tide of Hun militarism.

In one sense we are doing much for Belgium. Britain entered the war because of her, and we shall fight till the death in that cause. But there are many who do not yet realize all that Belgium's action has involved in suffering for herself, or all that her heroism meant for us thru her assistance in holding the line that was so nearly broken in 1914. Belgium thrust her poor bleeding body in the way and held it just long enough to check the savages in their levy on humanity.

What have we done in return? Every man can say for himself. Have we done more than read the newspapers, or let our relatives and friends go to the front for Belgium? Have we thought of Belgium as the friend who gladly laid down her life that our lives should be preserved? Their sufferings are not over. Daily hourly, their lives are being sacrificed. Their people, their starving aged ones, their dying children, have cried for help and for vengeance. Are we keener to send vengeance than help? Do we admire the soul of Belgium that is not lost? And then are we careless whether that hero soul has a body in which to make its peace? The Belgian Relief Fund is presenting a case that brings these questions home to one's heart, and the tragedy of Belgium is our business. There are little babies there, crawling up in the hunger line, pinched with famine, waiting for the bowl of soup and the two bits of bread that will keep them alive for another day. And they are hoping that we shall not fail to send the bits of bread. The dogs ate the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table. Have we no crumbs to send to these infants? One could even starve more comfortably knowing one had helped to relieve some of these little ones.

The horrors of the situation in Belgium are nothing to the horror of being able to help and failing by carelessness or neglect. There are other victims of the war, it is true, but these are now brought specially to our attention, and next week has been set apart for measures of self-denial with the intent of helping the neighbor in Belgium that has fallen among the thieves of Potsdam.

Putting Up the Price of Paper.

We invite the careful attention of our readers to the letter which appears in another part of this paper from the newspapers' committee, to R. A. Pringle, K.C., newspaper commissioner at Ottawa. The letter complains of the recent ruling by the commissioner that public hearings must be resumed before him next Monday and that a new price for newspaper paper will be fixed on Oct. 1. The advance in the price of newspaper paper may well challenge public attention. It has already forced many papers to suspend publication, and a number of others, especially the smaller papers, are finding the greatest difficulty in making both ends meet. Another twist of the wrench, another upward shoot in the price of their raw material will probably force a number of them out of business.

A free press is no less essential to the safety of a nation than a free government. Hence as a matter of public policy the government may well intervene to protect the publishers from extortionate prices. The newspaper commissioner is examining the subject, but as our readers will see by the letter above referred to, the publishers are asked to digest and controvert on a few days' notice the voluminous report of an expert which has been in preparation for many months. The requirement is so unfair and impossible that the newspapers' committee feel nothing can be accomplished by their being represented at the coming hearing before the commissioner.

An impression has grown up that the newspapers have recouped themselves by increasing their price to two cents a copy. As a matter of fact they would be much better off with the old price of paper and selling at one cent a copy. They can scarcely subsist as things are, and the Montreal Gazette has given notice of an increase to three cents a copy. This tendency to pass everything on to the public, however, is one to be resisted. At best it helps the newspapers financially by limiting their circulation and by decreasing their number. It tends to monopoly, and is prejudicial to the public interest.

Let the newspapers get their raw material at a fair price, and let the everyday citizen get his daily paper as cheaply as possible. The publishers are convinced that they have a good case, but they demand time and opportunity to properly present their case to the newspaper commissioner and to the people of Canada.

NO FALSE U-BOAT HOPES.

London, Sept. 20.—Lord Northcliffe, addressing the Newfoundland forestry companies engaged in wood-cutting in Scotland, at Kenmore Camp yesterday, urged them not to let the prevalent false optimism about submarines cause them to relax their timber-getting efforts. He said every stick was a plank in the bridge of victory.

THE KNOCKERS OUT AGAINST PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Scarcely a cheer, or sound of jubilation comes from the press over the great event by which a nation-wide railway system passes under national ownership and operation. The Toronto Globe, which has been every now and then advocating complete railway nationalization, devotes a long editorial not to congratulating the big step forward just taken by the government, but rather to pointing out with gloomy forebodings the difficulties which beset the undertaking. We are told that government ownership is not a new thing in Canada, and that we have had it for half a century on the Intercolonial, with ever-recurring deficits. The road, we are told, has never paid its fixed charges, and has not always been able to meet operating expenses. Henceforward, the Globe tells us, passenger and freight rates must be jacked up on the Intercolonial, and indeed on the entire government system so as to enable the Canadian Northern, the National Transcontinental, the Intercolonial and all the other government roads to earn not only operating expenses, but interest charges upon the capital invested, and we read: "Railway rates are raised on all the state railways must be such as to meet not only operating costs, but all fixed charges. There is no equitable reason for the continuation of a system under which passengers are carried and goods shipped at less than cost, and the loss to the national treasury is made good by an excessive income tax or customs tax levied upon all the people, many of whom may never use the national railways."

This is self-evident, but there may be a disposition in certain parts of the country directly affected by the momentous changes that have taken place to load a part of the inevitable huge fixed charges of the state-owned roads on the taxpayer. That is no longer possible. Railway rates, in any case, hereafter will have to be fixed at figures that will enable the government railways to pay their fixed charges without having recourse to the public till.

This advice, if followed literally, would wreck public ownership and paralyze the commerce of Canada. The National Transcontinental, for example, is a colonization road which is carried and operated at a loss of more than make operating expenses. If its rates were made high enough to pay interest upon its capitalization of two hundred million dollars no traffic could be secured. The Intercolonial, taking one year with another, scarcely earns enough to pay operating expenses and provide for renewals and maintenance. The Globe would have it charge rates high enough to make a return upon the capital invested estimated at $110,000 a mile. The Canadian Northern was unable during the past year to meet its fixed charges. The Prince Edward Island Railway and the partly constructed Hudson Bay Railway can scarcely be expected to earn operating expenses. For the government, therefore, to make these roads are to be combined, fixed charges and betterments can only result in an increase of at least one hundred per cent in passenger and freight rates.

During the past year or two the cost of railway operation has enormously increased. Higher freight rates have increased forty per cent during the past year, and yet since January first net earnings, and even gross earnings, have fallen off. The gross earnings of the Canadian Northern, for example, were inclusive showed a steady decline of millions dollars per month, compared with 1917.

The Globe's advice is, therefore, foolish. We can only hope it is not malicious. It points out that rates are eighteen per cent lower on the Intercolonial than on the other roads, and that they should be increased. Perhaps they should, but if they are to be increased sufficiently to meet fixed charges, they would have to be doubled. Does the Globe wish to stir the Maritime Province to something like mutiny against the proposed unification of our state-owned roads into one national railway system? Does it desire the public to associate national ownership of railways with extortionate passenger and freight rates?

We have no doubt that it may be necessary to increase railway rates both east and west, but the charge for the service should never be more than what the service is really worth. With the consolidation of the various state-owned roads into one system many economies can be effected, and when we ultimately nationalize all the railways the great earning power of the Canadian Pacific will help repair the unavoidable deficits on some of the other roads. Perhaps sooner or later we will have to write off excessive capitalization. The main idea of public ownership, after all, is not profit, but service.

The World greets the rising sun with a smiling face. We are sure that the Canadian Northern directors will soon have under their control all the state-owned roads in Canada. We have reason to believe that the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific lines will soon join the system. We are confident that the management in charge will effect wonderful economies and will show a large increase in net earnings. We believe the national system is going to be such a success as to compel the Canadian Pacific to apply for admittance. Higher freight rates may be necessary, but we do not believe they will be made effective in a ruthless or tyrannical manner. Equalization of freight rates may be necessary, but we do not believe that our friends in the Maritime Provinces will be unfairly dealt with. At any rate, we are not going to knock the new national system before it gets under way. There was a good deal of knocking at the national system in the United States, including the very watchful class, Mr. McCoo, however, went ahead and has so inspired public confidence that the person who now maliciously knocks the government administration of railways in the United States is regarded as a public enemy.

The Mail and Empire, therefore, follows the government, but, as to its policy of railway nationalization, it follows with leaden feet. The government is cautioned against rushing with headlong haste into more nationalization. The Mail is, apparently, hopeful that the Grand Trunk lines will not be acquired, and more than that:

matters that the competition of the Canadian Pacific may put the national railway system out of business. At best, our neighbor seems to look upon the government's recent achievement as a mere experiment, which can be tried out for a year or two, at the end of which time we may decide to revert to private ownership. To quote:

The all-important thing is not how long it takes to increase the state's railway ownership, but to get the country the very best service out of all the railway systems operated within its bounds. If the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific Companies can carry on for a year or two upon their own resources, and handle with economy and despatch all the traffic that is offered to them, we see no reason why the government should not let them do so. It is not a time for plunging blindly into unnecessary debt. In the meantime, the new government board can be tried out, and the public can see whether they are better served by government commission administration, the G.N.R., or by company directors administering the Grand Trunk systems.

The Globe and The Mail alike bring funeral bakermats to furnish forth the wedding breakfast. They do not rejoice over the jubilation, but go about with long faces, shaking their heads in ominous prediction. But they at least say something, while the papers of Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton and London remain silent. The Hamilton Herald, it is true, has something to say, but it is mainly to deplore the fact that no representative of the country has a place on the new directorate, and the Globe regrets that a public ownership man is not on the board. Possibly the Junta of lawyers who more or less dominate the Ottawa government did not want a labor man or a public ownership man on the board. At the same time, we are sure that the employees of the national system can count upon just and considerate treatment.

The Globe also objects to the fact that some of the eastern directors have been distinguished in the past by their zeal for public ownership. This publicly points at Mr. Hanna, the new president. It must be remembered, however, that the Globe, while it opposed the selection of Mr. Hanna, and the selection of Mr. Cochrane, declined to suggest anyone else for the place except Lord Shaftesbury!

The Toronto News very pertinently points out that, if Mr. Hanna had not been appointed president, the government would have had to fill that position with some other man actively identified with a great railway corporation, and possibly would have had to go for such a man to meet the opposition. It is a well-served tribute to Mr. Hanna's integrity and ability, it commends the progressive course of the government, and urges the speedy nationalization of the Grand Trunk.

Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues have made a fine start by the nationalization of the country's railways. The Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific are shortly to be taken over. The administration should complete the transfer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Grand Trunk, the Prince Edward Island Railway and the partly constructed Hudson Bay Railway as war-time conditions permit. Once the Grand Trunk, Grand Trunk Pacific, Canadian Northern, National Transcontinental and Intercolonial Railways are under a steady management, the greatest, if not the very greatest, state-owned transportation systems in the world.

Our national system is undoubtedly weak in the Ontario peninsula. It does not serve that fair portion of Ontario which borders upon and runs back from the Lake Erie front, and it does not extend to either the Niagara or the Detroit River frontiers. As the Intercolonial has been a Maritime Province road so the Canadian Northern has been a western road. The system to be contemplated and well balanced should include the Grand Trunk, which fairly straddles the Province of Ontario, running rights and traffic arrangements at any rate should be secured without delay.

But the outstanding fact is that Canada embarked on the great undertaking of national ownership and administration of railways, telegraphs, press and parcel post; and that the government has entrusted the management of the nation's railways to a board of railway and business men who are to be free to make all political interferences. We are making the start in earnest and we may make some mistake, and we will certainly encounter criticism—fair and unfair—of such a policy. But we will go on nevertheless and the public will support the new departure. If the officials and directors are not equal to the responsibility imposed on them we will have to try other men to do the work. But first let us give them a chance to show what they can do. Don't knock but encourage. Most of all patronize your own road and telegraphs. There are difficulties in the way. The many mistakes in our railway history in the past have to be overcome as best we can, and the friends and agencies of the private state-owned railways will be busy doing their best to discredit the policy and the man carrying it out. But public opinion is with the new plan, and public opinion, if nothing else, will form the new board and support the new departure. The world is getting the system going that it is in finding fault. Let the public watch the directors and the officials; also keep their eye on the knockers in the press or in conversation. The hope of public ownership is in the watchful eye of the public more than in anything else, and in its undivided and persistent support. The people must "root" for their own railways. Don't knock!

High Prices and Farm Produce.

Editor World: Just a few lines re the article of T. M. Humble. I take issue with him in reference to justification. I am not interested in the milk going to Toronto, but why should the milk producers not raise prices as well as any other line? Big as it may look the prices of dairy and farm products are not in it with all lines of manufactured articles. Look at the price of hides, and look at the price of harness. Weigh up all the leather in a set and the castings and see what you pay a pound for leather and iron. I bought 11-2 ounces of leather recently and paid 28 cents for it. I did not buy it by the ounce, but I weighed it when I arrived home and it weighed 11-2 ounces. Figure it for yourself and compare the price of the booting, but what is the producer going to do? Everything he touches is soaring out of all proportion to his line of production when climatic conditions do not affect the production. Going into all lines of

UNFAIR TREATMENT IN PAPER PROBE

Newspapers Protest Against Action in Newsprint Inquiry.

IMRIE WRITES PRINGLE

Claims Insufficient Time Allowed to Analyze the Auditor's Report.

The sudden resumption of public hearings in the newspaper paper investigation and Commissioner Pringle's announcement that a new price must be fixed by Oct. 1, allows insufficient time for an analysis of the auditor's report and proper examination of the newspaper's committee in a letter from its secretary to Commissioner Pringle.

With regard to the costs of the Port Francis Film & Photo Company, limited, to which much of the time of the hearing last week seems to have been devoted, I would remind you that the costs of this company are excluded altogether in the previous investigation because of Mr. Clarkson's reference to the difficulty of arriving at the real costs owing to the interlocking relationships of this company with a number of associated companies in which wood, power and other materials and services were purchased.

What is the necessity for this sudden change of an investigation to prepare for which your auditor has been working for more than six months and your expert for more than four months? Why is it necessary to fix a date on October 1, any more than on September 15 or November 1? The delaying of the investigation for a few weeks that would have been necessary in order to make proper use of the material your auditor and expert have accumulated, could not have resulted in any injustice to the manufacturers. They are fully protected by the provision in the government's orders that makes the present price subject to revision after the investigation has been completed and provides that the new price may be made retroactive.

The newspapers' committee begs again to protest against the calling of the public hearing on the 12th inst. and must again declare the utter impossibility of preparing its case in time for that date or for the hearing on the 23rd inst. in the absence of the further information to which we have been assured we are reasonably entitled.

The report furnishes abundant justification for the objections made by the newspapers' committee in its appeal to the government to increase in price recommended in your interim report of Jan. 18. It was pointed out at that time by Mr. Clarkson that the report before you which you based your recommendation were merely a transcript of the books of the manufacturers. We referred at that time to the practice in many mills of averaging costs over several grades of paper, of using cords of various sizes and other practices that impaired the value of the records and made necessary more than a mere transcription of them.

SYNOD APPROVES CERTAIN CHANGES

Committee is to Take Up New Children's Service.

PRAYER BOOK REVISION

Final Session Brings Seven Year's Work to a Close.

The final session of the prayer book revision committee ended at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, which means that the task of seven years' work upon the revising of a special prayer book for the Canadian Branch of the Church of England is now complete, and the new issues will be published by the Cambridge Press at the earliest opportunity.

The final business taken up concerned, among other things, changing the places of certain epistles and gospels which were placed in an overlapping manner.

The primate ruled that it would be in order to place the form of special service for children in the prayer book at the end of the book, but not in the body of the ordinary service of the church, and that the 39 articles of the church retain their position in the prayer book.

A resolution was passed to the effect that the children's service be adopted as presented by Canon Rexford, the wording of the service to be referred to a committee, consisting of the Bishop of Ottawa, Bishop of Huron and Wexford.

The proposal to insert in this new form of service for children a short form of prayer in place of the absolution aroused a good deal of opposition the Bishops of Huron, Fredericton and Algoma, urging that it was a mistake to deprive the service of the rite of absolution.

It was finally decided that both the absolution and the rite of absolution be included in the service.

A recommendation to revise the order in the prayer book for the rite of laying on of hands and anointing the sick, put forward by Rev. F. Graham of the Diocese of Kootenay, was opposed by the Bishop of Algoma, who was strongly in favor of the order, but thought it might safely be left to the judgment of every priest not to refuse to perform such a rite wherever requested, without rousing up all who were in strong opposition by asking to have it inserted in the prayer book.

Message of Greeting

The 67th anniversary of the birthday of the primate, Archbishop Matheson, coming concurrent with the anniversary of the date of his ordination yesterday, the members of the lower house prepared a message of greeting and loyalty.

The report of a committee on beneficiary funds, of which Bishop Farrington of Montreal is the chairman, advised in this report that they are of opinion that it would be advisable at once to formulate and launch a scheme which would be to the benefit of the whole Canadian church and which would not violate the conditions of diocesan law.

Many of the members, both lay and clerical, spoke in favor of the adoption of some such scheme as that outlined in Professor Mackenzie's report, but the house was somewhat divided, and after an adjournment of the debate for purpose of a joint session upon the subject, it was decided, on the motion of the Bishop of Montreal to appoint a special committee to prepare a scheme founded on some actual basis and to make arrangements for raising a fund and reporting to the executive committee which will have power to act.

The appointment of a special board of religious education was also discussed, and after some discussion Professor Cosgrave suggested, that in view of the fact that large numbers of women were specially fitted by training for such a position, provision should be made for appointing women to the board.

Felt That He Would Never Walk Again—"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better, and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives,' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

"The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the rheumatism left me.

"I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism."

WINCHESTER BRANCH OF G.T.L.P. IS FORMED

The Winchester street branch of the Greater Toronto Labor Party was organized last night. During the course of the meeting R. H. Amos stated that he had sent out a challenge to Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Ormsby to prove the statements made by Mrs. Pankhurst at the Massey Hall meeting against the labor movement.

William Varley, organizing secretary, stated that the Winchester section had not been well organized during the recent campaign, yet, despite the general tenor of the district, the vote for labor was good.

Corporal Varley stated that Canada today had as great an army of industrial women as there were in Britain two or three years ago. This would form a strong factor in the coming problem of reconstruction.

R. H. Amos presided.

PLAYS PICTURES AND MUSIC

"Rock-a-Bye-Baby"

A decidedly novel way of musical plays is promised theatergoers when Selwyn and Company present at the Royal Alexandra Theatre on Monday night "Rock-a-Bye-Baby," direct from a six months' run at the Astor Theatre, New York.

The revised edition of the bright and jovial "Hitchy-Koo," Raymond Hitchcock's big musical show, will be seen at the new Theatre on Wednesday and Saturday matinees. There are twenty scenes in the play.

"Daddy Long Legs" at the Grand. "Judy," the first of the "Judy" series, which will be presented at the Grand Opera House next week, believed in fairness, because, for years ago, she had told wonderful tales to the smaller children in the orphanage and she had faith that they would rescue her from the drudgery of the asylum.

At High Park Masonic Lodge, which met in the Freemasons' Hall, College street, there was a large attendance of brethren, the occasion being a visit from Sir William Hearst, who had honored the lodge by his presence and giving an address in the banquet hall.

BOYS AND GIRLS HELPED ON FARMS

Reports Are Read at Meeting of Industrial School Board Held Yesterday.

With Beverly Jones presiding the industrial school board held its first regular fall meeting in the city hall yesterday. Reports were read from the Victoria Industrial School for Boys and the Alexandra School for Girls.

Following are extracts from Supt. C. Ferrier's report for the three months ending Sept. 1: "In the period eight boys have escaped from custody and have not yet been recaptured. We admitted in all 74 boys, including a number returned for violation of their parole, while the number paroled, etc., was 52. The attendance on Sept. 1 was 307, as compared with 284 on June 1.

The new commitments are chiefly from cities and large towns. There were 37 commitments for theft, 12 for housebreaking and theft and the rest for general incorrigibility and beyond the control of parents and employer. Of those paroled, 22 were sent to farm homes; three of these did not remain long in the country and may have returned to the school. Of those sent out to sugar beet farms in the early summer, 15 made good and have returned to the school with fresh milk.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison of the staff of Victoria school for 15 years, has resigned to take up similar positions in Winnipeg. An additional classroom has been opened in the school department, and there are now five classrooms at the school and nine classes.

The crops on the farm give promise of an abundant harvest, and Mr. Ferrier asks that the cattle herd of 22 cows be augmented in the near future to provide the school with fresh milk. A new 12,000-gallon water tank will shortly be installed at a cost of $102.

The expenditure for the three months was $15,485.45, of which $5046.99 was for salaries, $202.77 for permanent improvements, and $11,235.67 for general maintenance.

There had been quite a few changes in the staff. The average number of inmates had been 139 girls, while on Sept. 1 there had been 135. Three of the 13 admitted during the
