REPORT.

---

“ And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name, receiveth me.”

---

In presenting their seventh Annual Report, the managers of the Protestant Infants' Home feel it their painful duty to notice, first, the death of their late firm friend and benefactor, David Mackay, Esq., who, from the very birth of the institution, down to the day of his death, evinced both by word and deed such a burning interest in its welfare. In fact he may be said to have been its founder as well as its President; and it is only justice to his memory, to say, that the success of our efforts have been largely due to his indefatigable exertions. Ever anxious to do his full duty in relieving and caring for the wants, both temporal and spiritual, of the inmates, and all concerned in the management, he labored from year to year without looking for the approbation of his neighbors so much as the fulfilment of his duty to humanity. Of him it may be truly said, to do good was instinctive. It will be years, if ever, before his name will cease to be remembered, his disinterested work in behalf of the inmates and friends of the Home forgotten.

We cannot proceed farther without noticing the retirement from the important office of first Directress, of our ever faithful friend Mrs. Baylis. For years she has gone in and out among us, and by her energetic efforts and keen business qualifications, mitigated in no small degree our anxieties and responsibilities. Constant in her attendance upon all our meetings, and always wise in her counsels, she imparted a measure of strength and confidence to our deliberations and work which have sensibly cheered and sustained us in our embarrassments. In the new field to which she has gone, like the one she has just left, there will doubtless always be found ample scope for the exercise of her intelligent mind and charitable heart, and may God bless her labors in the future, as they have been in the past, in whatever direction her sympathies and talents may lead her. Our good friend Mrs. Scott consented to fill her place temporarily, and to all who know her it is sufficient to mention her name to ensure confidence that her work has been well done.

By the resignation of Mrs. Ritchie, our head nurse, a vacancy occurred which has been filled by the appointment of Mrs. McFarlane.

Matters in reference to the building fund remain in nearly the same state in which they were left last year. At the instigation of our Advisory Board, exertions have been made, however, to collect instalments of subscriptions to meet payments due on the land. The widespread financial depression from which our own good city, in common with all other business centres upon this continent, has been suffering, has rendered it inexpedient to attempt the construction of the building we have in contemplation. But the managers are not without hope that before many months are over, circumstances will admit of a renewal of attempts to secure so desirable an object.

It will be seen by reference to the statement attached, that as much attention to economy has been enforced as was compatible with our means, and we feel like congratulating ourselves upon the fact that although we have not accomplished all that we could have desired, we are not in debt.

Clergymen from the different churches have kindly given us the benefit of religious services on the Sabbath, until the epidemic of whooping cough, from which our children have been suffering, put an end to it.

The death rate, it will be noticed, is less this year than usual, while more than an average number of children have been adopted.

We regret to have to state that, owing to the epidemic just alluded to, numerous applicants for admission have been refused. We have felt it our duty to steadily decline, for some time past, to take the risks of exposure, unless in rare and exceptional cases. To illustrate what is here meant by the words "exceptional cases," an instance may be referred to. A clergyman sent us a note stating that a woman confined in the jail was so maltreating her infant as to imperil its life. The alternative of certain death from neglect and ill treatment on the one hand, and the risk of exposure to the whooping-cough on the other, presented itself, and it was decided in favor of the latter. The child was received.

In the month of June an entertainment called the Nepeiana Exhibition, was held in the Victoria Rink, for the benefit of the Home. Children from within as well as from without the institution were exhibited, together with numerous articles interesting to the little ones. Although not remarkable for financial success, the result was considered indirectly to have more than compensated for the expense and trouble. In the autumn, the Revd. Messrs Carmichael and Wells gave lectures at the Mechanics' Hall, for the benefit of the Home. In both instances the lectures were well attended by the friends of our charge, and, as might be expected from the reputation of the learned lecturers, they were well entertained. While grateful for the assistance of the two reverend gentlemen, the managers would take this opportunity of expressing their thanks to Mr. Prowse and the ladies and gentlemen who furnished music upon the occasions.

The legacies of $400 from the late John Pratt, Esq., and $50 from the late Mr. Swanston, were timely and thankfully received.

At the risk of being called tedious by those who have been in the habit of perusing our annual reports, but at the same time anxious that every opportunity for information in reference to our noble institution should be furnished the charitable public, we have deemed it best to refer once more to our objects and aims. Prominently among these are the prevention of child desertion on the part of Protestant mothers, and neglect of their offspring.

Children from the tender age of nine days only to five years are admitted. Upon their reaching that limit they are transferred to other institutions.

Indigent widowed mothers, with their infants; mothers whose husbands, from sickness and poverty, are unable to care for their children, or those who from other preventable or unpreventable causes have failed to support them, are received.

Unfortunate unmarried females, with their infants, are sheltered and provided for, but only in their first offence. Each mother is compelled to nurse her own and one other infant. We always endeavor to get her to come in with her child; but failing this, she is followed up closely, and made to pay monthly in proportion to her abilities.

Another salient feature of our charity is our constant watchful desire to get our little ones adopted by respectable as well as responsible parties, and we have pleasure in stating, since the opening of the institution, forty-one have been adopted. They are seldom, if ever, lost sight of afterwards, and we have valid reasons for congratulating ourselves upon our success in placing them. Our interest in them by no means ceases at the expiration of their stay with us.

Before concluding this report, it is but an act of simple justice to refer to the very efficient manner in which our Matron has discharged her duties. At times her labors have seemed perhaps excessive, but she has always been found equal to the occasion, and cheerfully and satisfactorily performed her work.

The different nurses, too, merit the approbation which all connected with the Home cordially extend to them.

To the several medical gentlemen, who have given us their professional services gratuitously, we are especially indebted. Without their generous assistance and advice, we feel confident our report would have been far less assuring.

Special thanks are likewise due the Advisory Board, for their devotion to our interests, also to the proprietors of the Witness and Star for tangible aid, and particular mention should be made of our good fortune in securing so desirable a gentleman as James Hutton, Esq., to succeed our late President.

Last, but not least, our gratitude is due those kind friends who have supplied the necessary pecuniary assistance to meet our expenses. We discover in these acts a substantial pledge of their good wishes in our feeble efforts to alleviate the wants and sufferings of our fellow creatures.

And now, humbly bowing in thankfulness to the great architect of the universe for all favors received, and recognizing fully Our Saviour's injunction to care for the little ones, we desire to respectfully, but modestly, submit our seventh annual report.

D. M. DAVIS,

Secretary.

To the Members of Corporation of the Protestant Infants' Home.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

Your Medical Board have much pleasure in presenting the following seventh Annual Report of the medical affairs of the Protestant Infants' Home.

There were forty-five infants remaining in the Home at the beginning of the year, and ninety-two have been received into the Home since that time, making a total of 137 that have been under the medical care or supervision of the Board during the year just closed.

During the year, thirty of the infants died, being a death rate of 21.5 per cent.

Of the nursing infants, thirteen were wet-nursed and eleven fed by means of bottles.

The numbers that died in each month were as follows:—

In April .....	7
May .....	2
June .....	2
July .....	5
August .....	1
September .....	2
October .....	3
November .....	1
December .....	4
January .....	1
February .....	0
March .....	2
Total .....	30

The ages of those that died, were—

Under one month of age .....	7
Two months of age .....	3
Three months of age .....	2
Four months of age .....	7
Five months of age .....	2
Six months of age .....	1
Eleven months of age .....	1
Twelve months of age .....	3
Over twelve months of age .....	4
Total .....	30

More than two-thirds of the infants that died were under six months of age.

The deaths took place from the following causes:—

Pneumonia .....	3
Consumption (very ill when admitted) .....	2
Convulsions from Teething .....	2
Syphilis .....	2
Infantile Debility .....	11
Whooping-Cough .....	8
Teething .....	2
Total .....	30

In the end of June whooping-cough commenced amongst the children in the Home, and continued to affect them throughout the summer, autumn and winter. Thirty-five (35) of the children, amongst whom were many of the youngest infants, suffered from it. All of those that died from it were either wet-nursed or weaned.

Two cases of small-pox occurred in infants under one year of age, that had been only three days in the Home. Both of these were sent at once to the civic small-pox Hospital. One of them died, and the other recovered, and returned to the Home.

The children and other inmates of the Home were systematically vaccinated.

Every endeavor was made to maintain the hygienic conditions of the Home in as perfect a state as the unsuitable arrangements of the house would allow. It is the sanguine hope of the Medical Board that the Protestant public will second their efforts on behalf of these helpless waifs by providing, ere long, a building for the Home, of the kind recommended by your Board on a former occasion. The civil rights, or at least their claim on Christian charity, of this unfortunate class of infants should not be overlooked, even though other more notorious civil rights cases share the attention of the Protestant community.

The large percentage of deaths from what appears amongst the causes of death as infantile debility, and from inflammatory diseases of the lungs, proves the unsuitable and unsanitary condition of the Home, and shows the fatal want of proper means of ventilation. If the doors and windows are closed, the air becomes vitiated, and marasmus or debility is induced, and if these apertures are opened, draughts are produced that cause colds and more severe inflammatory disorders. Proper ventilating shafts should be provided, by means of which the vitiated atmosphere might be gradually and insensibly removed, to make room for a supply of warm fresh air.

Your Board desire to express their appreciation of the constant and kind attention of the matron and chief nurse to the many little sufferers who have been under their care in the Home.

Your Board, in their labors on behalf of the little patients in the Home, have been most politely and materially seconded by the ladies of the Committee of Management. They would solicit not only the substantial aid, but also the kind sympathy of the Protestant part of the community, for the many nurses, who, by their kind offices, save the lives and administer to the comfort of their little companions in misfortune and friendlessness.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Medical Board,

JOHN BELL, A.M., M.D.,

Secretary.
