LARGE ATTENDANCE AT LIBERAL PRIMARIES

Last night the Liberals of St. John city and county held their primaries as the first step toward the selection of the probable Liberal candidate in the forthcoming general election. The Fairville meeting was particularly well attended and the enthusiasm was widespread. The indications point to a sweeping Liberal victory in this constituency.

In the city the majority of the ward meetings were concluded early in the evening and speeches were few and brief.

In the county the meetings were more lengthy and addresses were delivered at many of them. The Fairville meeting was particularly well attended and the enthusiasm was widespread. The indications point to a sweeping Liberal victory in this constituency.

RESPECTED CITIZEN OF DIGBY PASSED AWAY

DIGBY, N. S., Sept. 8.—Edmund Jenner of Digby, best known and most highly respected citizen, died here today, aged forty-eight. The deceased was the eldest son of the late Rev. Edmund Jenner of Canton Rectory, York-shire. He entered Cambridge University, but subsequently decided to come to America, which he did in the early thirties, then residing in Sherbrooke, N. S., for some years. He removed to Digby, where he has since successfully conducted the business of an apothecary, while exhibiting a lively interest in all that made for the interest of the community. He was also a regular contributor to a number of the better known sporting magazines. The funeral will be conducted with military honors. Mr. Jenner is survived by a widow and two brothers.

ST. STEPHEN MAN DIED LAST EVENING

ST. STEPHEN, Sept. 8.—It was with sincere regret that the community heard this evening of the death of the well-known St. Stephen man, Mr. Joseph Webber. Mr. Webber had been a very sick man for some weeks, but hopes of his recovery were still held by his friends until his death was announced tonight.

Mr. Webber leaves a widow and four sisters, Mrs. John C. Gillespie, Cairns, Mrs. Alice Hartford, Portland, Me., Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, Milltown, and Mrs. Nellie Webber of this town and two brothers, Fred Webber, Woodstock, and Harry M. Webber of the St. Croix Currier. Mr. Webber's age was 53 years and 8 months, most of which he was highly respected for his integrity and honesty. He was a staunch temperance worker and a member of the old Howard Division S. O. of M. Mr. Webber was for many years an assistant superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school and was a valued member of the Methodist official board and of the trustee board of that church. He conducted a dry goods business for several years with Dunbar, Stewart & Co., his business passed into the hands of Manchester, Robertson and Allison of St. John, for whom Mr. Webber has since been their agent. The funeral will probably take place on Thursday afternoon.

LONDON PAUPERS

ON THE INCREASE

But Consumption of Liquor Falling Off.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Recent statistics showed a noticeable increase in lunacy in Great Britain. Figures now published show a general increase in pauperism, which is no where more noticeable than in London, where, in the last week of August there were no less than 119,066 persons, or about 25 per thousand, being supported on taxes. This increase has been steadily maintained since 1888, when the number was 99,071. The increase in lunacy and pauperism may well be hand in hand, but an inland Revenue blue book just issued for the year ending March 31, gives some statistics, which when taken if this connection, are strongly opposed to certain widely-held theories. Together with the steady increase in lunacy and pauperism during the past decade, there has been an equally steady decrease in consumption of intoxicants. The alcoholic liquor licenses issued to brewers have fallen by about 40 per cent. in the last ten years, while the consumption of beer in the same period has fallen from 22 gallons per head to 27 gallons per head per annum, a decrease, allowing for the increase of population, of 200,000,000 gallons annually. The consumption of spirits show an even more striking decrease. In 1890, the consumption was nearly two gallons per head annually, while now it is only one cent of one gallon. While the population in that period increased 4,000,000, the consumption of spirits fell 9,000,000 gallons. An illustration of the enormous capital invested in whiskey is seen in that the amount of bonded warehouses, on which the duty had been paid up to March 31, was 158,782,391 gallons. The same blue book has interesting figures on death duties, and the income tax. The gross amount which passed at death during the year was only £120,550 in net receipts of the total revenue compared with the previous year, the net receipts, duties for the decade increased £28,250,000 or 28 per cent. of which increase the income tax was responsible for more than £14,500,000. It is reported for the coming year that only twenty persons had incomes assessed at over £10,000. In 1907, £10,000 and £20,000; 517 between £5,000 and £10,000; 322 between £4,000 and £5,000; 181 between £3,000 and £4,000; 1,539 between £2,000 and £3,000, and 2,155 between £1,000 and £2,000. A special table devoted to employes, exclusive of government, corporations and the armed forces, is very interesting. Only four have incomes of over $5,000; 11 between £4,000 and £5,000; 14 between £3,000 and £4,000, and 55 between £2,000 and £3,000. The gross income for the year 1907, the last year for which figures are available, was £243,702,014, and the income on which the tax was received, £240,840,235.

NUMBER OF STUDENTS LEAVE FOR ST. JOSEPH'S

A number of students left by the I. C. R. yesterday for Memramcook and the opening of the St. Joseph's University, which takes place today. Among those going were Louisa McDonagh, John Casey, John Nugent, Leo Doherty, Urbin Swenson, Harry McDermott, Harold Conaghan, Joe McCarthy, William Ryan, George Flood, H. Kelly, John Flood, Stephen Ritchie, Arthur Allen and Robert Ritchie. A large number of students will attend the college from other points in the province and Maine. The outlook is that St. Joseph's will experience the best year in its existence. A few slight changes in the teaching staff have taken place, but the greater number of the staff's professions will be at the college. Rev. R. H. Fitz Henry, C. S. C., will not be at St. Joseph's, having gone to Dallas, Texas. Rev. Father Pauze, prefect of discipline, will be replaced by Rev. Father Beaudin of Montreal. Patrick McBride, who was last year connected with the teaching staff at St. Joseph's as prefect of English rhetoric, will be replaced by Rev. Father Vanier, who attended the Harvard summer school of science which will teach that branch. Rev. L. Guerin, C. S. C., D. D., Ph. D., will again occupy the president's chair, with Rev. P. Tessier as vice-president, and Rev. L. V. Brughall and E. Morden, prefects of studies. J. Louis Slatery, who completed his course at the University in 1907, has also been added to the teaching staff.

LONDON MECHANICS WANT G.P.R. POSITIONS

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—A special London cable says: "It was first thought to be another unemployed demonstration today in Trafalgar square, transported to the hands of mechanics and fitters on the Canadian Pacific Railway, whose efforts are situated contiguous thereto. In consequence of the rush of men from the United States, 100 points in Canada, only 150 were required here, but there have been thousands of applicants, which, considering they are skilled workmen, is looked on as remarkable. COUNT TOLSTOY.

Count Leo Tolstoy today observes his eightieth birthday. He is popularly regarded as the greatest living Russian and one of the world's foremost philosophers. His life has been an eventful one, and his strong personality stands out more prominently perhaps because of the national characteristics of the country of his birth, than might be the case were he living in another land.

Tolstoy's life may be divided into two periods, these being before and after the religious crisis through which he passed in 1879. He is a descendant of a wealthy and noble family, but because of his belief has given up all of apparent material value and has descended as far as possible to the humble life of a Russian peasant.

Count Tolstoy was born ugly and his appearance was in striking contrast to that of his handsome elder brother. He endeavored by the cultivation of personal habits to overcome this handicap.

In other respects his nature was also lacking. In his university studies he was diligent and falling to obtain his degree he entered the army. He served in the Caucasus and also took an active part in the Crimean War. His life was dissolute and, as he frequently confessed, he committed all those sins usually found among young men of that period. In later years he became extremely disgusted because of the fact that in spite of his dissolute record and unattractive reputation, he was warmly received by the aristocracy.

Count Tolstoy was married in 1862 to a woman who was a few years younger than he. He was married, and settled down on his ancestral estate, but for fifteen years his mind was perplexed with the questions of life. What is it? What should it be? What comes after? and what is the use of it all?

In the search of an answer he sought an explanation among his own folk, but found that the priest argued that either ignored or avoided the question, or else knew the absurdity of life and were content. Falling to and his answer there Tolstoy went among the people of the peasant class and there met with success. The ignorant and the simple he found in a world of suffering, believing that all is for the best. He learned that life is found only in renunciation, in thinking of others and not of self. This principle has led him to a life of gentleness and love. This is the foundation of his doctrine, but it differs from that of the Greek Church, and because of his writings and teachings he has suffered excommunication. Indeed so far has his feeling of the church against him been carried, that the Holy Synod in 1881 forbidding him to address an appeal to all believers to participate in the Tolstoy celebrations. This bitter ecclesiastical conclusion Tolstoy defied the Synod and backed from the Church. Since 1881 he has ranked among the pagans. Believers must abstain from honoring such a man in order to save their souls from the judgment of God.

Along with the faith of the peasants Tolstoy adopted the peasant life. He has for years lived on the simplest food, worn peasant garb and performed all kinds of manual labor. That thousands of people are suffering poverty while others enjoy all the luxuries of wealth is looked upon by him as the practice of the advice to sell all and give to the poor. Of late years his writings have been chiefly directed against the injustices of the Russian Government, but in spite of his scathing denunciations Russia has never even attempted to lay hands on him. The most that has been done is in prohibiting the publication of certain of his books in Russia. Some time ago admirers in different countries planned observations of the Count's eightieth birthday, but the plans have been abandoned because of the author's wishes, the attitude of the Church and for other causes. There will be no formal celebration of the event but no doubt it will be noted throughout the civilized world.

THE PATENT LAW. As a result of the new Patent Act in Great Britain, a very large number of foreign manufacturers have already started works on British soil, and others are preparing, as rapidly as possible to comply with the law. It is estimated that at least $125,000,000 will be invested in manufacturing interests in the British Isles. The effect of this is obvious. The sudden increase in manufacturing establishments will do much towards solving for the present at least, the problem of the unemployed. Of late years Germany has been supplying the British markets with many lines of manufactured goods while England, once the workshop of the world, sent to Germany only the raw material. So serious had the state of trade become that this new patent law was thus thought to be aimed directly at Germany, but, of course, other manufacturing countries will be affected in a greater or lesser degree. The United States and France are, next to Germany, Britain's chief rivals. Although the British Free Traders maintain that there is nothing to complain of in the present character of Britain's trade, and that in spite of Germany's ascendancy the free trade principle is fully justified, it is generally admitted that the Patent Act is nothing more or less than the first step towards a protective policy. The manufactured goods imported from Germany are perhaps slightly cheaper than those made at home, but the truth of the standard protectionist argument is found in the condition that this is of small importance when those who should be purchasers have no money to spend. The importation of cheap manufactured goods and the consequent depression in industry at home has transformed into casual laborers workers who formerly enjoyed steady employment. Conditions of life in Britain and Germany do not differ in any important degree. One country maintains a high protective tariff while the other favors free trade. Yet the loss in population to Britain by emigration during the past fifty years has been almost 15,000,000. The Mother Country has lost 27,000 persons every year during the past seven years, and Germany has lost only some 6,000 per year. From this the protectionists argue the truth of Bismarck's reply to the German Free Traders: "If you cannot export goods you will have to export men."

It certainly appears to have been Britain's experience of late, under the policy of free trade.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR. A parliamentary candidate for a Scotch constituency came across a crofter, who seemed to be dissatisfied with both candidates.

"It's nae use a-talkin' to me, sir," said the man to his would-be representative in parliament—"no bit of use. The kind o' man we want here is a right-doon rasool—one that diana care a rap for man or beast!"

Hopeless as the case appeared to be, the candidate bravely persisted in expounding his views, and soon succeeded in interesting the seeming irresponsive crofter. Indeed, the crofter was so carried away by the earnestness and enthusiasm of the candidate, that he glowing with satisfaction, and anxious to make amends for his first reckless remarks, he seized the candidate's hand, and exclaimed:

"Sir, ma veb's yours! You're the very man for us!"

The garden of the law House of the Rev. Mr. Brown backed against the play yard of an orphan asylum. Eighteen hundred dollars were allowed to scale the fence and play with the orphans. Presently Mrs. Brown noticed that the apple supply was dropping low. She asked Master Johnny if he were not eating a good many apples for a small boy.

"Yes, mother," he replied, "I got to." "Oh, indeed?" queried Mrs. Brown. "Are you quite sure?"

"Oh, yes, mother, they're needed. I just got to eat all I can stuff down."

"But why, my dear?" "Because," said Johnny, earnestly, "the orphans need the crates."

THE CHARACTER OF MARY MONTGOMERY IN "MARRYING MARY." Mary Montgomery, the heroine of Edwin Milton Royce's clever musical play, "Marrying Mary," to be played by Florence Gear at the Opera House during exhibition week, is a beautiful creature, light and volatile, a picturesque, shrewd, brilliant woman of the world, a character never wanting in the great essentials of excitement. In fact, excitement is her meat and drink. She finds the monotony of the average woman's life as dull as dish water. She craves new interests, new sensations. She has an abnormal, almost strict enjoyment. The grip of a humorous and fantastic fate whirled her into the highways and byways with the swiftness of the wind. She delights in the weird and unusual. Always correct and always elegant, Mary is continually bathed in romance. She is forever trading in the footprints of what to another would be the thrilling moment of her life. Adventure is her daily diet, but adventure she favored to the death intrigues. Her life is wholesome and rich in the essentials of living. She skins over the common, simple, elemental qualities of humanity and seizes upon those more highly seasoned phases of existence, revealing in life's extravaganzas, that to others would seem too impossible, too daring and too bizarre. Mary is so universally popular one would imagine that she had deliberately set herself the task of ruining the heart of every man in her path. Mary loves wit and fun, and is a good deal more for her than for her weaker, less energetic, less demanding sisters.

SUCCESS AT OPERA HOUSE. Again Joseph Selman has a success in his credit. The Coward and the Lady, played to a delighted audience last evening, and no wonder with such a splendid play and so excellent a company. Mr. Selman gives his usual forceful, excellent portrayal for he could not play a part badly—there is not a line in which he does not ring true. Miss Du Bois was very attractive as "The Lady." There is so much that is perfect in her impersonation that it makes a playgoer marvel at her technique. Mr. Townsend, as Quick Fort Jim, had little to do, but did it well. Edith Eastman made a realistic "Molly Larkin." Dorothy Lee as Miss Midge was charmingly girlish. "Lads Prisms," played by Irene Gordon, is the comedy hit of the play. Messrs. Smith, Wilson and Wilson handled the comedy scenes splendidly and with a sure touch. Miss Herman was the "Miss Carton." Messrs. Brice and Daly as "Weaton" and "Ransom" were excellent in their respective roles. The "Coward and the Lady" is a delightful play. You should see it this evening.

WATERBURY WATCH AND THE INVENTOR

In a small country town in Connecticut lived a cobbler. He was a poor man, and a peculiar one. The boys called him a "geece," and some thought him crazy. But he kept on in the even tenor of his way, living his own life and thinking his own thoughts. One of these thoughts was that he could make a watch that would have only three wheels.

A watchmaker out of a job heard of the cobbler and called at his little shop. This was the beginning of the famous Waterbury watch, which was the first cheap watch to be manufactured. It is now a thing of the past, but its cheap price and its simplicity of "wind" (it was a stem winder) were known round the world.

The Waterbury was named for the town where it was made. It had more than three wheels that the cobbler had planned; but the little old shoemaker's idea was the original germ from which evolved the successful cheap watch.

MONEY PROBLEM. Having got the idea, the purchaser of the cobbler's rights found that the first difficulty in his watch was lack of money. He looked about for a man with money enough, nerve enough, and imagination enough to lead him to render the financial aid without which no first step could be taken. He was found, because it was a Yankee with an indomitable will that was looking for him.

"How much money will it take and how long a time do you want before you can begin to make your watches in sufficient quantities to make the thing a success?" he inquired.

"I will be frank with you," replied the inventor, "it will require twenty-five thousand dollars, and I shall need eight months for preparation."

"Go ahead," said the daring capitalist. He went ahead. He met unexpected difficulties, and had spent two hundred and fifty thousand dollars and used up the wheels of the watch he had turned out a single watch. But the capitalist never faltered. Then the factory, for the inventor had no money, was to be invented and specially made, turned out its first thousand watches.

WOULD NOT GO. Not one of them would go. Among other things it was found that the sheets of brass out of which were stamped the wheels of the watch had a grain somewhat like wood. The wheels out of them would not stay round.

This difficulty being remedied, the inventor set to work. A large number of these watches, but the percentage of "stoppers" (watches that refuse to run) was in four positions on the edge. New study, new experiments, however, finally perfected the cheap little timekeepers to the point of perfection that only about ten per cent. were stoppers. The good watches were tested in six positions lying on the face and back, and in four positions on the edge. The maker of each stamped his mark on the part he made; so that if fault was found in that part, he must make it right.

Then came the question of selling the watches; and over eight hundred thousand dollars was spent in the years of its issue in advertising the Waterbury watch. Some of the methods used were interesting.

HOW IT WAS SOLD. A negro minstrel troupe were paid to open their show by saying: "We have come from the West Indies, where we have spent the long time required to wind the Waterbury watch."

One day the owner of one of these timepieces was winding it on the train. Across the aisle a traveler noted that his neighbor was winding his watch. It caused no thought until a second look and then a third showed the winding still under way. Then the astonished man spoke. "Excuse me, sir, but are you winding a watch?"

"Yes," said the winding owner, "and I'm tired of it. You wind awhile, will you?" This led to explanations, and resulted in the ordering by a Waterbury, of fifty thousand watches for the use of his business house in its Chicago store.

The great business went on, and large sums of money were made in it. All over the world people were buying these watches, so cheap were they. All over the world people laughed at the "long wind." The old backer of the enterprise had died; and one of his successors felt indignant because his son in travelling in some remote part of Hungary was asked if the Waterbury watch was made in his country.

PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT HOTTED BY SOCIALISTS AT GLASGOW

Disloyal Demonstration Against King's Nephew—Crowd Menaced the Royal Carriage.

GLASGOW, Sept. 8.—Prince Arthur of Connaught yesterday met with a remarkable demonstration of disloyalty, described as "one of the most regrettable scenes ever witnessed in Scotland." Socialists, in the guise of employees, seized the opportunity to air their revolutionary principles by hooting the Prince and shouting "Down with all royalty!"

The Prince's military escort was ordered to fire bayonets so as to be prepared for eventualities.

One account states that a hostile five thousand gathered to witness the arrival of the carriage with the Prince, who kept his hand at salute and remained unconcerned throughout. When the carriage appeared in George's Square the crowd pressed inwards in a menacing manner until the police checked the impetuous movement.

Turbulent scenes followed. The crowd fell back hissing and shouting all manner of imprecations against the Prince and his people. It was noticeable that when the troops' band played "God Save the King" not a single head in the mob was uncovered. On the contrary, the mob broke out with the refrain, "Keep the Red Flag Flying!" and followed this with the singing of the "Marseillaise."

The alleged cause of the demonstration was the objection of the mob to the municipality spending money in celebrating prominent people until the distress of the unemployed was relieved.

The Prince visited Glasgow to review a parade of military young men.

A REVOLUTION GOING ON IN PHOTOGRAPHY

No branch of science has shown greater progress during the last few months than photography, and it seems as if almost a revelation were taking place in photographic methods.

It is Professor Lippmann, of the Paris University, that we are indebted for the wonderful Argus-eyed plate, which requires neither separate lens nor camera.

This plate has merely to be exposed to the object for a certain time, and then it can be covered and treated. The result is a wonderful photograph, which is far different from any now known.

The modern photographic plate is responsive to many rays which have no effect at all upon the human retina. It has been found that many properties which were considered to be quite exceptional are common.

Although our range of vision is limited, it varies in different individuals, and photographic experiments have shown that the whole world appears different to each of us.

Individuals have a different capacity for detecting color. It has been found that many properties which were considered to be quite exceptional are common.

There is a whole lot of nonsense talked about the railway locomotive that is in modern fast passenger service.

According to a recent story a writer was asking a locomotive engineer, as the writer sat in the cab at a six-minute stop, what would the engineer do if suddenly in front of them at a crossing a big automobile, filled with passengers, should run up fairly across the tracks and stick.

"You'd shut off steam and throw on the emergency air," suggested the writer, presumably in conversational tones.

"Not on your life," was the unexpected response of the eagle-eyed man sitting at the right of the cab with his hand on the throttle.

"No," replied the engineer, "for if I did so I'd probably kill twice as many people in the train as I could possibly save in the auto. We'd probably telescope half the cars in the train!"

SUCH STORIES DISGUST ENGINEERS. Old locomotive engineers are disgusted with a story of this kind, and from two absolutely unchallenged grounds.

In the first place, with a 100-ton locomotive making sixty miles an hour, a conversation of the kind could no more be carried on in the cab than conversation could be carried on between the planet Mars and the planet Mars.

And, in the second place, the higher the speed of the train, the more rapidly the throttle may be closed, the reverse lever thrown over and the emergency brake applied.

Speaking of these cab "conversations" at sixty miles an hour, there is the story of a few months ago when Miss Ethel Roosevelt took her seat in the cab, holding the throttle lever, and at sixty-five miles an hour engaged in a conversation with other visitors present.

In summer weather, when the cab of a giant locomotive is thrown wide open to the air and a sixty-mile clip is indulging, one might take a shot with a .25 calibre revolver point blank at the engineer on the other side of the cab and unless the bullet passed close to his ear it's doubtful if he'd know it.

As to the reverse lever and the air-brakes, the faster the train is running the less effect the action has. At twenty-five miles an hour these emergency measures might unseat half the passengers, and at twelve miles some one likely would go through an end window somewhere. But under full speed every force that can be employed in stopping is simple and easy.

The ordinary man trying to speak of a giant locomotive in passenger service is almost certain to speak of her as a "mogul." Years ago the mogul type of machine stood for the largest and best in railroading. Some of them are in freight service still, but the giant races of the rails, the 18-ton Pacific type of locomotive is standard, looking as little like the old mogul as a samboet looks like a Merry Widow hat.

JAILBIRDS WHO WENT ON STRIKE

The recent mutiny at Rim prison, Paris, which ended by the officers being starved into submission, had an amusing origin.

A few weeks ago the trade union of the convicts who are engaged in boot making held a meeting and decided that the government rate of remuneration was much too low.

The governor of the prison turned the deaf ear to the complaint, whereupon the trade union transmitted, through the proper channels, a demand for an interview with the Minister of the cabinet who happened at this meeting to be at the department.

The governor this time took up a conciliatory attitude, and explained that the minister and the prefect were too busy with civic junketing at the moment, but no doubt they would attend to the prisoners' appeal later on.

The convicts, in the meantime, had joined the miners, and between them they took possession of two-thirds of the prison building. For two days they remained, defying the authorities, surrendering only when hunger had mastered them.

The authorities are at last proving equal to the situation. There has been an all-round increase of arrears, which, as they are careful to point out, will eventually bring its own reward in the shape of extra pay to be earned.

PORTUGAL IN DEBT TO ITS KING.

A King, surrounded by all the pomp and luxury of his court, is in the eyes of some a favored individual who never knows the inconvenience (to put it mildly) of being "hard up." But he does—often. Then many are the means he employs to get money.

Since the assassination of King Carlos of Portugal there has been a committee formed to inquire into the late monarch's debts, which has ascertained that since the year 1880 the sum of $1,100,000 has been advanced to the Crown. Deducting a sum of $180,000 which still remains to its credit, there is a debt of $920,000 left.

EXTRAVAGANT KING. A very remarkable sequel to this has arisen with the new Portuguese Civil List which was published a few weeks ago, for according to the official figures contained therein, not a single penny of income has been received by the royal house since the accession of the young King Manuel.

This is, indeed, reversing matters with a vengeance; but this omission has been since rectified, for a few days ago parliament granted the young King an income of $1,000 a day.

The debts of the late King of Serbia, too, were matters of severe anxiety to his government, and there were rumors floating about at the time of his murder that it was partly due to the embarrassed state to which he was reducing the country by his extravagance. A single debt of his to one man alone was said to have been over $500,000.

A CHARGE OF FRAUD. Perhaps the most notorious of modern cases is that of the King of the Belgians. The Congo atrocities which horrified the civilized world are matters of common knowledge, but it is not generally known that well over $5,000,000 found its way into the pockets of King Leopold.

A charge of fraud by a crowned head occurred during the China-Japanese war, when it was stated that a certain monarch had, in five years, appropriated about $3,000,000 in English money, which should have gone to buy warships.

GERMANY'S OBJECT STILL UNCERTAIN

Action in Morocco May be Domestic Move.

Next Move May Reopen Whole Moroccan Question and Create Serious Situation.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The public irritation and alarm over Germany's sudden breaking of the concert of the powers with regard to Morocco are rapidly subsiding, but Germany's action is still the cause of much uneasiness in the diplomatic world. It is known that at the European powers signatory to the Algeiras convention, except Austria, have replied to Morocco's appeal for the immediate recognition of Mulla Hafid in coldly polite terms, saying that they would await the official command, "you have no right to enter here."

HOW MONTE CARLO WAS INVADED

Complications With France Narrowly Avoided.

Attempt Made to Mobilize Princes Carabins—It Was Explained French Had Lost Their Way.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—France came very near having complications this week with foreign powers. One morning the inhabitants of Monte Carlo were aroused from their slumbers by marching music, and two regiments marching through the town. The excitement was immense. An attempt was made to mobilize the Prince of Monaco's carabinieri, while the fire brigade was forthwith formed into a company. Finally, a devoted functionary was found brave enough to protest against violation of the frontier.

"DEBAUCH OF METAL."

New Description of Cobalt by Visiting Engineers.

Experts Again See Great Silver Belt and Again Express Amazement—Some Surprises.

COBALT, Sept. 8.—As always, the experts have come to Cobalt to weigh in the balance, a little prejudice against the metal may be, but by what they esteemed tall yarns. As always, they have been and wondered. Under the guidance of local members of the Canadian Mining Institute, the German, French, Belgian, English, Scotch, American and Canadian metallurgists and celebrated engineers have almost covered the ground. They have seen the scattered hoards of the Nipissing, the 26 inches of almost solid metal on the Crown Reserve, and numbered other Cobalt wonders.

FRENCH POLICE HAVE CAUGHT A GERMAN SPY

He Had Attempted to Bribe a Soldier to Steal Important Parts of a Gun

ORLEANS, France, Sept. 9.—The police have arrested a German spy while attempting to bribe a French soldier to abstract important parts of a field gun. An individual describing himself as an agent of a German gunnery recently came into communication with an artilleryman who, however, informed his commander of the German's proposition with the result that a trap was set and the German was caught redhanded. The police, who attach much importance to the capture, are maintaining the greatest secrecy.

FILIPINOS BECOMING MORE PRACTICAL UNDER NEW RULE

His reason for devoting himself to this work was the opportunity he saw for developing a large industry in his country. As in other tropical countries every one wears clothing of white cotton. At present all this material is imported, amounting to immense quantities every year. Experiments in growing cotton in the islands have proved very successful and Mr. Hulsing believes that there is a big opportunity to develop an important industry and at the same time save his countrymen a large proportion of the present cost of their clothing.

WILL BE GIVEN A CHANCE TO LEAD A BETTER LIFE

Berthe Clalche, Who Killed Gondron, Has Been Released From Prison.

ALBURN, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Berthe Clalche, who figures in one of New York City's recent notable murder cases, was one of six convicts in Auburn prison, whose applications for liberty were favorably acted upon today by the prison parole board at its meeting in this city today.

Berthe Clalche was tried for the shooting of Emile Gondron in New York City on June 5, 1907. She was convicted and sentenced to serve an undetermined term in the woman's prison in this city, not less than two years and two months and not more than five years.

A great deal of sympathy was manifested for the young French woman at the time of her trial, although the evidence showed the murder to have been a deliberate one. Her story that Gondron had forced her to go upon the street and barter her womanhood to support him, was taken by a large amount of consideration. Since she has been in prison she has been a model prisoner. Where she will go when she is released but they say it will not be New York, as the girl has expressed a desire to live among totally different surroundings than those of her old life. A good home has been found for her with reputable people who will seek to give her every possible advantage for moulding her life along new lines.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

At the annual session of the Knights of Pythias, yesterday afternoon the most important business taken up was the election of grand officers, which resulted as follows: Grand chancellor, S. A. McDonald, Charlottetown; grand vice-chancellor, Seldon Hunter, Springhill; grand warden, W. A. Stewart, St. John; grand keeper of records and seals, re-elected; grand master of exchequer, F. Parker, Grimmer, St. Stephen; re-elected; grand master of arms, G. E. Ritchie, Halifax; grand inner guard, Peter J. MacKenzie, Gloucester; grand outer guard, R. A. MacDonald, Westville, N. S.

Andrew Roy of Westfield was elected grand trustee for a term of three years, in place of Edward Chandler of Charlottetown, whose term has expired.

The sessions were again resumed in the evening at 7.15. The grand chancellor's report, as given in the above, was considered. The first suggestion was referred to a committee of five to report next year. The second was laid on the table, while the third was carried out.

It was decided that next year's meeting should take place in Halifax on Aug. 17.

The installation of the officers was then proceeded with. Following were the installing officers: Past Supreme Representative E. A. Godsoe, as general secretary, assisted by Supreme Representative LeBaron Wilson as grand master at arms, and Grand Representative Lane of Charlottetown as grand prelate.

PREHISTORIC WORLD.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The meetings of the British Association continue to be of unusual interest. Some of its scientific revelations hint at wonders beyond the imagination of writers of fiction. Of the same nature was a paper read on Friday by Dr. Bruce on Arctic exploration. He reported that discoveries made among deposits in the ocean's bed in that region indicate the existence in prehistoric times of a continent twice the size of Europe, possessing a habitable climate.

FOR "DANGER DUTY."

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Secret councils in regard to the autumn campaign of the suffragettes have commenced. Parliament will be allowed to assemble peacefully, say the militant ones, but the demands will be renewed as soon as the session has fairly started. At the late today, Gavin was driving in the Dorchester district when his horse leapt from the Mount Bowdon bridge and ran away. The carriage struck an iron post, hurling Gavin out of the carriage. He struck on his head and was dead before anyone could reach him. He was 57 years old and single.

ARMY HAVE A GREAT BATTLE IN THE AIR

Stirling Spectacle is Witnessed Over Berlin in the Early Hours of the Morning.

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—The Paravel and the Gross army aircraft yesterday morning in a thrilling spectacle of mimic battle high in the air yesterday morning. The Gross vessel was shot down before 8 o'clock, passing over Unter den Linden and the royal castle, and going thence to the demarcation line in the matter of traffic, is Berlin's Market street. The ship followed the line of the street, arranging races with the electric tramway cars, and beating them all, although they ran at their highest speed.

It was a wonderful sight to see the gigantic cruiser so near that the details of the working of the mechanism were discernible, the screw revolving at a great pace and the steering gear working with automatic precision. Finally the aeronauts directed the ship toward the historic Brandenburg Gate, near the Reichstag building, where another powerful airship, approaching with heavy and imposing movements, was seen. It was the Paravel, which had come after the other from Tegel.

The two airships now began to manoeuvre against each other as if intent on the destruction of an enemy. Upward and downward they went, at times plunging to a favorable position for attack, describing circles and spiral lines, and dashing forward and backward.

Suddenly the Gross airship turned in a northerly direction, taking a course for Tegel. It was immediately followed by the Paravel ship. At Tegel the "battle" was resumed, and for another half-hour the vessels operated against one another, manoeuvring cunningly while waiting for a moment for the enemy to expose a vital "part," which was then destroyed by a shot of "lightning" was given, whereupon both descended without mishap.

On board the Gross vessel was the reigning Duke Ernst of Saxe-Altenburg, who several times took the helm and navigated the ship very ably. At 1 o'clock the Gross airship ascended again and flew north. It returned at 2 o'clock, but in three-four hours it had made its way to Stettin, the greatest Prussian commercial harbor on the Baltic, and came back to Tegel.

For three months, so that he may obtain an insight into the national revenue and the expenditure.

The Star did not make this statement on its own authority, nor did it conduct an exhaustive enquiry. The correspondent says that in the south end several houses are being put up, and adds that cheaper lumber would doubt be followed by increased activity in building.

COMMITTEE HEARS PLANS FOR CHANGES IN WHARF

The Harbor Improvement Committee met this morning to deal with the request of the C. P. R. for a change in the plans of the new government wharf at West St. John.

As the requirements of the railway were not in a very definite form the committee arranged that Mr. Brown, of the C. P. R., and Engineer Scammon should meet this afternoon and draw up a plan for the changes. This will be submitted at a later meeting of the committee. If the changes do not interfere with the slip on the north side the committee will recommend that the additional ground be granted to the government and that the changes be made.

As the council meets this afternoon the matter will not be in shape to refer to the aldermen and a further delay will be caused by this.

A HORSE IN THE SLIP.

There was considerable excitement in the Market Slip this morning. A teamster driving one of J. S. Gibson's coal carts drove his horse into the water for the purpose of soaking the wheels. He, however, went in too far and the wagon floated. The horse got beyond its depth and fell over and the driver was thrown into the water. A number of boats put out from the different vessels and while the work of unhitching the horse and making a rescue was in progress about 500 people assembled along the head of the slip. A half dozen men who were standing on a log slipped and fell into the water. Matters were rather lively for a time. The horse and wagon were rescued without any injury.

A DIFFERENT STORY OF THE PARK ASSAULT CASE

Jackson, the Accused, Charges Ogier With Attempting to Extort Money—A Sixteen Year Old Drunkard.

There were seven drunks on the police court bench this morning. All were dealt with in the usual manner. Albert Elliott, aged 16 years, was one of the offenders. The boy was found in the old burying ground early this morning. When asked where he got the liquor the boy said a man gave it to him out of a bottle. He was remanded to jail for the present.

Thomas Jackson, who was arrested Monday night charged by Edwin Ogier with assault, gave the court a different view of the affair in Rockwood Park. He said that Ogier and McLeod were in his company during the afternoon and Ogier said he was a detective. In the evening he laid down to sleep and found some person going through his pockets. When he put up a fight Ogier then stated that an assault had been made, but if he would give some money everything would be squared up. Jackson said that the place to square anything up was in the police court and he accompanied the accused to the station, where he was locked up. Ogier claimed to be a watchman in the Park, but he holds no position. It was only recently that he was before the court, having been found drunk in a carriage. Jackson was remanded to jail for the present.

WELL KNOWN NORTH END CITIZEN DROPS DEAD

J. Allan Gallop Died of Heart Trouble as He Was About to Commence Work—Leaves a Large Family.

J. Allan Gallop, a well known and highly respected citizen of the north end, died suddenly this morning of heart disease when about to commence work in Hilyard Bros' mill. The deceased is in his 63rd year and for the past two years has suffered from heart trouble due to over exertion. He has not been well lately, but has continued at work in the mill, where he has had charge of the lathe and pavement block machines. This morning he reached the mill a little before seven and just as the whistle blew he complained of a pain in his heart and sat down. He immediately became unconscious and died shortly afterwards. His two sons and a grandson were with him at the time of his death.

Dr. Roberts and Dr. Gray were summoned, but were unable to do anything, as Mr. Gallop was already beyond help. The remains were taken to Brennan's rooms for preparation for burial and afterwards removed to the home of the deceased at 135 Victoria street.

Mr. Gallop is a native of Wicklow, Carleton County, and has lived in the city for the last forty-five years. For forty years he has been employed in Hilyard's mill regularly every summer, and has worked as a contracting carpenter during the winter.

He leaves a widow, two sons, Charles H. and Fred P., and eight daughters, Mrs. Chas. White, of Washademoak Lake; Mrs. Fred Miller, Mrs. R. E. Turner, Mrs. H. A. Christie, all of this city, and Misses Annie, Bessie, Emma and Lily residing at home. He is also survived by seven brothers, Alfred and Charles at Robinson, Me.; George, of Boston, and Henry, Stanley, James and Byron of Victoria County.

Owing to the absence of one of his daughters in Boston, the time of the funeral has not been fixed and will be announced later.
