Messenger and Visitor

THE CHRISTIAN MESSENGER
VOLUME LIX.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE MARITIME EPISCOPAL PUBLISHING COMPANY.

THE CHRISTIAN VISITOR
VOLUME XLVIII.

Vol. XII., No. 45.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1896.

In a recent issue of the Messenger and Visitor reference was made to Mr. James Ross, of St. Martin's, N. B., as being probably the oldest man living in Canada. Mr. Ross was born in Scotland and is said to be 106 years of age. But it appears that on the other side of the Bay of Fundy there is a still more aged resident. A correspondent, J. A. Du-lap writes:

"I beg to inform your readers that we have in this little village of Grandville Ferry, a colored man, Eli Marsh, who was born right here more than 100 years ago, has lived here ever since, and is still in fairly good health. His hearing and memory are good and it is wonderful to hear him tell of events that happened 85 and 90 years ago. Men who have lived here all their lives and who are now considered very old, say that Eli was an old man when they were boys."

—Bro. Mellick, it will be seen, wants some bells for the Indians in the Northwest. And there are some bells in St. John which we should be very much pleased that he should have for that purpose, for there are bells and to spare in this city, if we may express an opinion. There are bells that toll and clocks that strike morning, noon and night and in the same hour when sleepless mortals vainly seek repose. If the Indians would like some of these bells we are sure it would be an "unstrained" and a "twice-blessed" mercy to transplant them to the shores of Lake Winnipeg. But we are constrained to add that if the bells should be tolled after the same dismal fashion that some of them are here the Indians would be likely to get as far away from them as possible.

—Sir Edward Clarke, formerly Solicitor General of Great Britain, not long since expressed the opinion that Britain's Venezuelan claims were untenable and that no honest and impartial arbitrator or commission could decide in her favor on the evidence. The Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary for War in the present administration, in a speech delivered at Leeds last week took occasion to deprecate these utterances. The statement of Sir Edward Clarke, he said, was startling if true. But he was not prepared to accept it. Great Britain's claims, Lord Lansdowne said had been carefully investigated and he believed that most of them could be supported by satisfactory evidence. There was reason to hope that the time was approaching when these questions would be settled by arbitration or by an amicable compromise upon suitable conditions. When the time came Great Britain would enter court, not for a moment believing that every point would be decided in her favor, but confident that her claims would be found to be supported by evidence based upon the established principles of international law.

—The Montreal Witness publishes extracts from a letter written by Mr. Macaulay who was a Montreal boy but is now first officer on the S. S. Bidar, running between Odessa and Versaille. The Bidar was in the port of Constantinople at the time of the late terrible massacre of Armenians in that city and Mr. Macaulay has written to friends in Montreal an account of some things which he himself saw and of others of which he learned from eye-witnesses of the awful atrocities perpetrated upon the defenceless people. Mr. Macaulay says that the massacres were organized and carried out under the direction of the authorities, the murderers being supplied with a uniform-sized engul and backed by the soldiers and police. The civilians killed those who could be got at, and the soldiers shot at those who appeared at windows and on house-tops. People who gave themselves up to the police for protection were killed by the police themselves and their bodies searched for valuables. In many cases the victims were torn limb from limb by the blind ferocity of their murderers. Some of the descriptions are too terrible to transcribe. Carcasses of butchered bodies were brought to the water's edge and shot into a lighter. Three lighters were towed away at a time to the sea of Marmora. In this way about four thousand bodies were disposed of. In other cases pits were dug, filled full of bodies and covered with a foot or a foot and a half of earth. In this way, it is stated, two thousand five hundred bodies were disposed of, and the condition of these burial places and their vicinity is better imagined than described. Mr. Macaulay adds that the treatment of women and children defies description. He was so overcome with the horrors of which he was compelled to be a helpless spectator that he was really ill for several days afterwards.

A Russian scientist named Kilditchsky claims to have discovered a method by which telephonic messages can be sent through the transatlantic cables.

A Taking Suggestion.

It is good for sensible thoughts to be made public, for then they must stand the test of widest criticism, and perhaps be put into practice. My mind is greatly in sympathy with the students at our educational institutions at Wolfville, but with deeper paths in my attention turned to the young men and women of our land who are yearning for the inalienable blessing of advanced education and consequently extended sphere of power, influence and happiness. Three hundred and eighteen bright youths were reported in attendance at Academy, Seminary and College last year—among the brightest of our land. But were they all the smart ones in the ten thousand Baptist homes of N. S., N. B. and P. E. Island? No indeed. It is most gratifying to know that at least 800 others are thinking and talking of going to Horton; and I fancy as many more thinking and longing in almost hopeless silence. They dare not mention it for fear of being laughed at. Are we not as a denomination and as a nation losing the best of our youth by the entire absence from higher culture of half a thousand of our own kindred and neighbors who, if once they could get the chance, will become just as brilliant men and women as those now walking the halls of Acadia. In years gone by, when A. B. or C. was spoken of as planning to go to college I have seen the smile of derision and heard the question, "What is the use of him going to College? He will never be able to preach," or words to that effect. And such discouraging remarks have too often come from the lips of desecrated and matured christians. To my knowledge some very crude, green timber went to our Professors at Wolfville, and in a few years of grind and polishing came forth such pillars of church and state that all Canada, and even other nations, are blessed and elevated by their superior labors. How green some of the fellows were, and the methods for their improvement and enlightenment form part of the unwritten lore of Acadia—the best of it being communicated only to Juniors and Seniors. Don't be afraid, graduates, not even the columns of the Messenger and Visitor can tempt me to divulge our necessary methods for development. Suffice to say we look back across forty years and see such splendid results with so little unpleasantness that it must be said of these Baptist institutions, "they have done noble work."

Our twenty-five teachers at Wolfville should have six hundred students under their influence and instruction instead of only 318; and I am rather surprised to see them do so well. I only remember some of them do not put on their hats and induce more students to come. Just as good material is awaiting in our own homes and many a one anxious to go. Seems to me our preachers and graduates should be alert to encourage the youths for college, only remember bearing one preacher who had not enjoyed higher education, say that he didn't think college training was much benefit. One man who missed the chance gave all his children the privilege of going to college; another, a college graduate, who received great benefit from his own training, never sent one of his children into the higher learning. So we cannot always predict, and we must not judge by appearance. But one thing is sure of the past, great good has come to those who have taken the course at Acadia. Let each reader ask the question, "What would stand a person to-day if he had studied at his trade or at the counter or at his farm or hisiding?" And one thing is sure for the future,—if many more can get to Acadia, our circle, yes, the whole world, will be brighter and better. Only one new plan is for this letter, namely, for every B. Y. F. U. to aim to have at least one of their own number in our Baptist schools at Wolfville. This B. Y. F. U. movement has greatly roused up the churches and committees.

The young and old being the raising; they must receive largest advantages. Every Union has members who, if educated, (I mean this in the college sense) would honor the Union, the church and their whole town or village. While I am writing this the young people of our church are carrying out a well-planned, high-toned scheme, some of whose work would reflect honor upon older people. This epistle is to urge the B. Y. F. U. of the Maritime provinces to have as one of their mottoes, "At least one of our members for college." Over 200 unions have anticipated this matter and already have their young men and women at Wolfville. It might be well at the annual meeting to report how many students each society has sent. Now this plan is not mine. Mrs. Oakes suggested it recently and I advised her to put it in the Messenger and Visitor, as it would have so much more influence coming from her pen. And she, like many other women, preferred that some one else should do it. But I must give her the credit. It would be as unfair for me to omit her name as for a minister to preach some other person's sermon or thoughts without public acknowledgment. J. PARSONS.

Indian Baptist Missions in Manitoba.

Those who are interested in the evangelization of the Indians of our country have, no doubt, read Bro. Van Tassel's report of his trip with Bro. Prince to the reserves in the northern part of Manitoba. I want to add an item to emphasize the importance of this work. A few days after the missionaries returned from their trip, the Manitoba Indian Commission held a meeting in London, Ontario. It was a time of rejoicing with us and we praised God for his gracious dealings with our Indian brethren. But the responsibility of following the Lord into this work was laid heavily upon us.

He evidently was leading and not only backing up, but commanding us with all authority in heaven and in earth. The case was clear, something must be done, and done quickly. We prayerfully considered the situation. We reviewed the history of the work from its commencement. We saw that since it was started, in 1891, a total amount of about $7,500 had been expended. There are in the way of visible results 100 Indians in church fellowship. There are three houses of worship completed, in value about $100,000. But only a part of the results of this work can be recorded here.

Many of these people have been converted who have not yet made profession of faith in Jesus Christ. We have the ordinances and the principles of New Testament teaching have been introduced and will work like leaven in raising the Indians to a higher life. Besides this the gospel has been preached and sung by our missionaries and those saved through their instrumentality, to multitudes in regions far beyond the circle of our regular stations. I had the pleasure of being with Mr. Prince when very little was introduced to a whole tribe of Indians. They had never heard the name of Jesus before, so far as I could learn. Now they are anxious to have the missionary come and tell them more about his name and his work.

This work is also having a wholesome effect upon other bodies with whom it comes in contact. The activity which Mr. Prince's preaching has enforced upon others must be directed along evangelical lines. This is being done by our missionaries and those saved through their instrumentality, to multitudes in regions far beyond the circle of our regular stations. I had the pleasure of being with Mr. Prince when very little was introduced to a whole tribe of Indians. They had never heard the name of Jesus before, so far as I could learn. Now they are anxious to have the missionary come and tell them more about his name and his work.

The work has so developed that we had to readjust and enlarge our plans to meet the imperative needs of the present. Mr. Prince, who has had his headquarters at St. John's, N. B., is sent North where the larger body of our Indian people are settled, and Mr. Van Tassel will hold the situation at St. Peter's. He will train Indians for work on heathen reserves and have an oversight of our work in the Northwest. The total amount needed to carry out our plan is $9,000. We laid our plan before the Executive Committee of Ontario, who have been our helpers in this respect from its beginning, and they very heartily adopted it and entered into co-operation with us in endeavoring to carry it out. The annual meeting of the plan $500, was estimated for white teacher with Bro. Prince in the North, but the total estimate was that much beyond what we could undertake. While it was difficult to tell what could be left out it was decided this must be dropped for the present.

This will leave $3,500 to be raised for this mission. Surely no one will say that it is too much to spend in a work that has been so wonderfully thrust upon us and which we have been so graciously blessed. And we may expect a yet greater manifestation of God's favor in the near future. As surely as we return to follow the divine leadings in this work we surely shall find our funds fall upon us and neither church nor individual can escape direct responsibility.

While the Ontario Indian committee have increased their appropriation there yet remains $1,000 for our sisters in the Northwest to raise for this work. This will be a heavy task for them with all the other work they have on their hands. $800 of this must be raised amongst themselves and in the Maritime provinces. They will need the sympathy and help of their sisters and of the churches down by the sea. The Treasurer of this department is Mrs. W. McBride, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

H. G. MELLICK.

Kansas Letter.

The Kansas Baptist Convention held its annual meeting from Oct. 12th to 15th in the North Baptist church of Topeka, of which the writer is pastor. The central place of meeting, the beautiful weather with which we were favored, and the admirable programme which had been arranged, all conspired to make the convention large and enthusiastic. It was declared by all present the best for many years. Over 800 delegates were present from outside the city of Topeka. The annual missionary sermon was preached by Rev. W. B. Bradshaw, well known to your readers. It was a forcible presentation of the work which awaits christians in the "fields white already to harvest." Bro. Bradshaw after a pastorate of three years at Hiawatha, has removed to Hutchinson, our famous salt-mining town in central Kansas, where we expect great things of him.

self-supporting, and thus quite a large sum of money is released to assist other needy causes. Rev. E. B. Meredith, our general missionary, continues at the helm faithful and indefatigable. The state of B. Y. F. U. occupied an afternoon of the convention with a work of song, and an evening with a public mass meeting which was addressed by Rev. M. J. Breaker, of Independence, Mo., on the topic, "Jesus an example for the young." Seldom have I listened to a more eloquent or stimulating address. Our B. Y. F. U. is in a flourishing condition. Mr. J. E. Marshall of Concordia, a young editor, is our new president. The president of our State Convention is Hon. W. C. Simpson, of Kansas City, Mo., who is an active christian worker is prominent in Kansas politics.

We were especially glad to welcome the new president of Ottawa University, Dr. J. D. B. Riggs, who has recently come to us from Canada. Ottawa University falls with over 400 students. In its location, equipment, and character of work done, it reminds me very forcibly of our own Acadia.

Just present we are in the throes of a political campaign. We have politics and to spare. As Kansas is considered a "doubtful" state, the national committees are turning loose upon us all sorts of "populist" blarney. Let me whisper confidentially in your ear that the Kansas "Populists" are not nearly so wild-eyed, and have not nearly so much hay-strewed in their hair as some of the eastern papers would have you believe. There is a large number of our most conscientious christian workers who are working honestly in favor of "free silver." Your scribe is most interested in the prohibition phase of the election. I regret to say that the chief political parties have utterly ignored the subject in their platforms, except one which declared strongly in favor of the re-establishment of the prohibition amendment to the people. The present Republican governor, E. W. Morrill, has not proved to be as capable a friend of prohibition as he has been rumored. His opponent, J. W. Leedy, nominated by both Populists and Democrats, is known to favor re-establishment. Besides what it suffers at the hands of the enemies, prohibition is suffering severely in the hands of its friends. We have no less than three prohibition candidates for governor, nominated respectively by the National party, the Prohibition party, and the Independent Prohibitionists. No one of them will withdraw in favor of any other. Altogether the outlook is rather dark, and many christian voices scarcely know what to do.

The first Sunday of last August your correspondent had the pleasure of observing the sixth anniversary of his pastorate. During this time there have been added to the church 275 persons, 134 of them by baptism. The outlook for the future is very hopeful.

Topeka, Kansas, Oct. 22.

Let the Churches Have Full Credit.

In explaining the reason why certain moneys raised by the church were sent to me Rev. W. E. Hall, of the Tabernacle church, Halifax, says: "I wish the church to have credit for all they do, so as to encourage them." I am glad to know that it is thus by our pastors take the same view and desire that their churches should have full credit for their gifts in our annual reports. It is also helpful to inform the church in the annual sermon, which every pastor should preach at the year's close, of what has been raised for the work of the church and Sunday School, etc., and what has been given to outside work.

We make it our aim to have each church credited in the report on Denominational Funds with the full amount of their contributions, but every year some fail to receive such credit and for two reasons:

1. Some of the money is sent to the treasurers of the different boards instead of being sent to me as the principal treasurer. As long as the treasurer of the church or Sunday school or individual members of the church send their money to the treasurers of the different boards or to any one else, there is no certainty of the church having full credit for what it contributes.

2. Another reason why some churches are not credited with the full amount of their contributions in the year in which it is raised is that they do not send it forward till after the books are closed. That was the case with some of the churches last year. One brother even paid me money at the Convention hoping that it could appear in the report for the year. Bro. Hall says further, "we will do all we can for Denominational Work this year." I hope this is the purpose of every pastor and every church, because it is the $16,000 which we need raised. A. COXON.

Bricks Without Straw.

A parcel of books reached me this morning, and I have just been enjoying the luxury of handling these new positions, of cutting the leaves, and arranging the contents. How one rejoices and expands under the stimulus of a noble book, the product of some vigorous and sanctified intellect, dealing fresh and suggestively with some lofty theme. Such a book is to the mind and heart what a good fertilizer is to an apple tree, only so much quicker in its operation; or what a well-compounded tonic is to an anemic and exhausted body, only so much more prompt and sure in its effect.

It was not easy to husband the dollars needed to make the purchase, but it seemed that these books must be had whatever the cost might have to be foregone to make their acquisition possible. —What a deprivation it would be if one were so circumstanced as to be actually unable to avail himself of the ministry of good books. And so I have been led to think of the many pastors whom possibilities in this direction are at the minimum point. I have been thinking particularly of a fellow-student, whose circumstances during his student life were so cramped that all through his student course he had to borrow most of his text-books. At graduation he entered upon a pastorate at a salary of $600. He must run a house, keep a horse, wipe off old scores, and be an example to the flock in Christian benevolence and hospitality, on that sum. The surplus for books was nil. He got one at intervals by pinching in some other direction. But when he had been in the ministry five years, he had no encyclopedias, his critical apparatus, in the way of commentaries, bible dictionaries, and other books of reference, was of the most meagre and unsatisfactory sort, and his workshop pitifully bare. And he was a minister with scholarly instincts, and capable of every aid for the appreciation of what a good library yields. He is in the ministry still. The children—bless their hearts!—have multiplied, but the salary has remained stationary. He is in a harder case than ever, and he is a type of a number all too large.

To say that this impoverishment in the matter of books chafes and depresses a man, is to say the least that might be said; it kills and stunts him. Instead of the tropical richness and luxuriance which his nature was capable of attaining, his development is arrested, fruit and foliage become scant, and decay sets in all too early. The indispensable books of reference in the case of an efficient minister does not need to be demonstrated. He must have access to a good general encyclopaedia, to a religious encyclopaedia, to a comprehensive bible dictionary, to critical commentaries, to standard works on systematic theology, church history, christian ethics, the social and political conditions of bible times, and the like. But his library surely should contain also books representing the best of the various departments of general literature: history, the physical sciences, political and social science, the science of language, poetry, and fiction. The preacher should be not only a specialist in biblical and theological training, but an eager general reader. This general reading will furnish him with intellectual recreation, will amplify his knowledge, will stimulate his own mental energies, and discipline his taste. Nor will the end ever be reached in this buying of books for the nurture of the mind and the enriching of one's work. The intellectual activity of the world was never what it is to-day. He who is forced to live exclusively in the past will soon lose his touch with the present.

It certainly would be well if students, during their collegiate life, would deny themselves every luxury, and hoard their pennies for books. They would be all the more diligent in their studies, and ever be reached in this buying of books for the nurture of the mind and the enriching of one's work. The intellectual activity of the world was never what it is to-day. He who is forced to live exclusively in the past will soon lose his touch with the present.

PRAYER TOPIC FOR NOVEMBER.
For our Northwest Mission, the work among the Indians and all the laborers, that no year there may be a great feathering of souls. For the W. B. M. U., that every slave may be interested in this mission work.

We bid farewell to Cavendish, after eleven very busy but happy years. We will not soon forget the dear friends of that place who, for so many years, showed us such great kindness. On coming away we received many tangible proofs of their appreciation. One thing that I particularly prize was a very nice Album from my Sabbath school class. Among the many kind words received was a farewell address from the Aid Society, in which they gratefully expressed their appreciation of my services while among them, especially the work done among the young people. I hope those who are bearing the burdens may be helped and encouraged to know that there is not one but many seldom seen or heard of our Convention who are striving to help on the good work. I pray this may be the best year in our history. The Alexandria Society has held one meeting since I came here. This is one of our best societies. They meet regularly, have a sewing circle, and I should judge they were a faithful band of workers. I hope we may be able to report progress this year.

Mrs. J. C. BRUNN.

Little Bras d'Or, O. S. B.

While we feel deeply that we have sustained in not having been able to meet our sisters in Berwick, yet our hearts have "burned within us" while reading the reports in the Messenger and Visitor, as well as hearing them from one representative, Mrs. D. G. McDonald. We rejoice at the manifest presence of the Master at all the meetings which our missionaries elect have attended, and trust this is an augury of success which will always attend their efforts. May the "L-I-A" with you ever be sounding in their ears, as well as shown in their work. Our little society, which you courteously call the "Banner" society, is still progressing, although our numbers are small. Our hearts were encouraged at our last meeting, when the sister at whose house we met, brought in her six months old baby girl and said she wished to make her a member too, and so paid her fee with her own. We will surely expect our missionary baby to grow up a missionary woman. We hope also to be able to do a little for Home Missions this year.

Mrs. J. T. MORTFATT.

Guyboro, N. B.

On Wednesday last, Oct. 28th, the "Women's Baptist Missionary Aid Society" of this town met at the parsonage for a 5 o'clock tea, given by Mrs. Gardner. Many responded to the invitation and a most pleasant and profitable time was spent. At the close of the meeting it was unanimously agreed that the monies collected this year shall be devoted to Miss Maude Harrison's expenses." We are pleased to report the addition of a new member on the occasion. Later on in the evening the "Young People's Sewing Circle" met, preparing for a sale of work, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to "Home Mission" purposes. COM.

Clementsville, N. B.

Our W. M. A. S. observed Oct. 13 as Crusade Day. Part of the day was spent in calling on those not members, for the purpose of interesting them in missionary work. Our president, Mrs. P. J. Chute, had an interesting programme prepared for the evening entertainment, and although the day was very unfavorable yet a goodly number were present. The president opened the meeting by singing. In the absence of the pastor, Bro. I. M. Baird led in concert reading Psalm 25. Prayer was offered by the president. The secretary gave an interesting report of the year's work, also read the minutes of the last monthly meeting. The society was re-organized one year ago with a membership of sixteen and has since been increased to fifty. Six new members have been added since our last meeting. We have raised, for Home and Foreign work, about forty dollars. The programme consisted of recitations, solos and quartettes. The children's part was interesting and beautifully rendered, consisting of music class exercises. Very interesting and helpful were the papers on Missions, read by Mrs. P. J. Chute, Mrs. M. Baird and Mrs. E. Banks. On the whole the entertainment was pleasing to all. May the sweet influence of Crusade Day be long realized in the hearts of those who were present. In obedient obedience and loving sacrifice may we each one strive to carry out the commands of our blessed Saviour. LORA A. LAFORTUNE, Sec'y.

DR. WATSON ON PREACHING.

If the Rev. John Watson, D. D., Presbyterian minister of Liverpool, had not become known as an eloquent, charming and lovable writer of Scottish character sketches, it is quite unlikely that he would have come to America this year as Lyman Beecher lecturer at Yale.

Among the subjects of Dr. Watson's lectures delivered at Yale are the following: The Genesis of a Sermon; The Technique of a Sermon; The Problems of Preaching; Theology, the theory of Religion; The New Dogma; The Machinery of a Congregation; The Work of a Pastor; The Public Worship of God; The Minister's Care of Himself.

In treating of The Genesis of a Sermon, Dr. Watson spoke of it as the result of six processes—Selection, Separation, Elimination, Meditation, Elaboration, and Revision. As to Selection, there was the preacher who was supposed to later in desperation until Saturday night, to get a text, and when he finds a text that will give easily made divisions he goes ahead and by slight-of-mouth and verbal jugglery produces a sermon.

In the midst of all the life you know, let your past experience, all your knowledge rise to help you. These remarks would seem to have more direct application to the topical than to the expository sermon which is to be regarded as the highest type of preaching.

The temple which Solomon built at Jerusalem cost a great deal. The material resources of the kingdom went into it without stint. Worldly-wise or avarticious men were perhaps saying—"Why does the young King devote his own and his people's wealth to that which will yield so little return?"

THE DEDICATION.

The Bible lesson for next Sunday has to do with a memorable event in Hebrew history—the dedication of Solomon's Temple. The dedication marked the completion of the work of building and valed publicly and impressively by the purpose of which the Temple was the embodiment.

What gives to a temple its real and true significance is not the special form in which it may be built nor the splendor of its architecture, the gold and the precious things that are built into it, nor the ceremonies of its dedication, nor yet its altars and other sacred things, nor the priests that minister in its courts, nor the victims offered upon its altars, nor all the ritual of its worship.

more ignominiously had worshipped at the shrine of the false deities could all unite anywhere, wherever two or three were gathered in the name of Christ, to worship the Divine Father of them all in spirit and in truth.

The temple which Solomon built at Jerusalem cost a great deal. The material resources of the kingdom went into it without stint. Worldly-wise or avarticious men were perhaps saying—"Why does the young King devote his own and his people's wealth to that which will yield so little return?"

WOLFFVILLE NOTES.

On evening of 27th Oct. the Y. M. C. of Acadia held a farewell service for the missionaries starting for India. Mr. L. A. Fenwick presided. Rev. W. Higgins read the Scriptures. Prayer was offered for the missionaries by Rev. T. Trotter. Addresses of a solemn and inspiring character were given by Rev. R. E. Gullison, Mrs. Gullison, Miss Harrison and Miss Newcombe.

Mrs. C. M. MacLean, of Chicago, who has been visiting friends in Wolfville, has also in Falmouth and Hantsport where her husband, the late Rev. J. A. MacLean, was beloved as pastor. Mrs. MacLean is remembered with grateful affection by her work's sake, and Pastor Trotter addressed the church, and Pastor Trotter addressed them in words of cheer. Mr. Lafamme made a forcible speech on the present status of the missionary enterprise.

PERSONAL.

Rev. E. J. Grant's present address is Yarmouth, N. B. Bro. G. is for a few weeks supplying the pulpit of the Temple church of that town. We regret to learn that Rev. H. Carter, pastor at Madoc, P. E. I., has been suffering from serious illness some weeks. At last accounts Bro. Carter was improving slowly.

MISS HARRISON, MISS NEWCOMBE, MISS GULLISON.

Born in Brookville, Digby Co., N. S., in 1869, he made a profession of faith in Christ under the preaching of Pastor Geo. B. Titus and was baptized into the membership of the Beaver River church in 1885 by Pastor J. I. DeWolfe. Mr. Gullison left his home a year later with the purpose of following the sea for a living.

daughter of Mr. Jephthah Harrison. She was born in Macaan, Can., 27, 1872, where she lived until 18 years of age, when she entered the Amherst High School and pursued a course of study covering two and a half years. While in Amherst she was converted in the spring of '86 and was baptized by Dr. Steel three years later. After her return to Macaan from Amherst, her christian life was very unsatisfactory to herself. It lacked aim and purpose.

FAREWELL MISSIONARY MEETINGS.

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Societies of the Baptist churches of Halifax and Dartmouth, was held on Friday afternoon, Oct. 30th, in the Tabernacle church. Miss Johnstone, the Provincial Secretary, presided. The meeting opened with the hymn, "Jesus lover of my soul." The leader selected passages from the 20th of John's Gospel, the 7th of Hebrews and the eighth of Romans, to make emphatic the idea that the Holy Spirit works with us—takes hold of the burden with us.

MISS GULLISON.

Born, 1871, at St. Margaret's Bay. She is the daughter of Mr. Charles Covey. Under the preaching of Pastor F. H. Beals she was converted at 14 years of age, and was baptized by our Sec'y-Treas., J. W. Manning. Mrs. Gullison taught school for three and a half years. She was married to Mr. Gullison in '93. Her first Foreign Mission impressions were received from Miss Flora Eaton, (now Mrs. Dr. Boggs) who was a near friend of her mother. From those early years she has had a strong desire to be a foreign missionary.

MISS A. D. NEWCOMBE.

Born in Lawrenceville, 1874, converted when a little child, baptized in '88 when 14 years old, by Rev. J. T. Eaton. Miss Newcombe was educated in Lawrenceville, and received a first class school teacher's license. She taught school for more than two years. Until 18 years of age, Miss Newcombe gave little thought to missions. At this time now seems less bitter. The joy of going and doing as God bids, is really greater than the pain of parting, and shall we not all meet again in the brighter world? Miss Harrison said she was so glad to be present. Her special joy, which seemed to out-balance the grief of parting, was the decision of a brother, the one member of her family out of Christ, to live a better life and become a worker in God's vineyard.

THE FAREWELL SERVICE.

At the farewell service in the evening, a large and deeply interested congregation was assembled. Among the ministers on the platform were: Revs. A. C. Chase, Dr. Kempton, J. E. Goucher, W. E. Hall, W. V. Higgins, G. A. Lawson, Arthur Baker, G. F. Maynard, H. Philip, A. Whitman, H. M. Perry and M. W. Brown. Rev. W. E. Hall, pastor of the church presided. After singing, "Let every creature join to bless Jehovah's name," Rev. A. C. Chase read the second psalm and Dr. Kempton called for prayer.

Rev. J. W. Manning, secretary of the F. M. Board, was the first speaker of the evening. He desired that christians might regard the cause of missions from their Lord's standpoint, and emphasized the needs of the great heathen world where so many millions were dying annually without a knowledge of Christ.

Rev. W. V. Higgins set forth the needs of India, with the knowledge and effectiveness of one who has seen and known the depths of degradation which heathenism has reached.

After another hymn, Miss Harrison, Miss Newcombe and Mrs. Gullison were introduced and spoke briefly.

Rev. Ralph Gullison delivered an earnest and eloquent address. He spoke of the three-fold reason for going to India—for his own sake, for the glad consciousness of God's approval might be with him, for the sake of the two millions of Telugus among whom the mission was established, and for the sake of the Lord who had called himself and his companions to this work.

MISS MAUD HARRISON.

daughter of Mr. Jephthah Harrison. She was born in Macaan, Can., 27, 1872, where she lived until 18 years of age, when she entered the Amherst High School and pursued a course of study covering two and a half years. While in Amherst she was converted in the spring of '86 and was baptized by Dr. Steel three years later. After her return to Macaan from Amherst, her christian life was very unsatisfactory to herself. It lacked aim and purpose.

Miss Johnstone, Secretary of the W. B. M. Union for N. S., gave a brief address, bidding the lady missionaries God-speed in the name of their sisters and assuring them of the sympathy and prayers of those at home.

Rev. J. E. Goucher, of the North church, alluded to the great interest manifested in the farewell meeting by the large audience, and spoke of the grand possibilities of missionary work. The great need and importance of the commission Christ had given to his people to preach the gospel to the whole world, and of the blessed consummation when the world shall be delivered from the bondage of Satan, was dwelt upon. Because the Everlasting Arms were underneath and roundabout them, they must fare well, in well chosen words, Mr. Goucher expressed to each of the missionaries about the same the love of Christ that made them happy to say fare well. Because the Everlasting Arms were underneath and roundabout them, they must fare well, in well chosen words, Mr. Goucher expressed to each of the missionaries about the same the love of Christ that made them happy to say fare well. Because the Everlasting Arms were underneath and roundabout them, they must fare well, in well chosen words, Mr. Goucher expressed to each of the missionaries about the same the love of Christ that made them happy to say fare well.

The missionaries—Rev. R. E. Gullison and wife, Miss Harrison and Miss Newcombe, were to sail by the steamer "City of St. John," which would leave her wharf at Halifax at six o'clock on Saturday evening. Their arrival in India will be hailed as a very important reinforcement of our missionary forces there. They have, happily, been able to visit many different parts of the province before setting forth for the East, and have called forth much interest toward the work to which they are giving themselves. No competent missionaries have gone from our shores in whom our churches have felt a stronger and more general interest, and none, we believe, in connection with whom the Board has felt a stronger assurance of good results.

The work of Maritime Baptists among the Telugus was begun in 1875. The first missionaries were: Rev. R. Sanford and wife, Rev. W. F. Armstrong and wife, Rev. Geo. Churchill, Miss Faulkner, (now Mrs. Churchill), Rev. B. B. Boggis and Miss Eaton (now Mrs. Boggis). In 1878 Miss Hammond (now Mrs. Archibald) joined the mission; in 1881 Rev. J. B. Hutchison and wife; in 1883 Rev. J. C. Archibald; in 1884 Misses Gray and Wright; in 1889 Rev. W. V. Higgins and wife and Miss Fish; in 1890 Rev. M. E. Shaw and wife, and later Revs. L. D. Morse, H. Y. Corey, J. E. Barnes and their wives and Misses McNeill and Clarke; in all 27 persons, we believe, who have gone out in connection with the mission, the non-continuing making the number thirty-one. Some of them have removed to other missions by reason of marriage or other causes, some have withdrawn on account of ill-health or for other reasons, but so far as is known at present writing, not one has died. The missionaries at present on the field are: Mrs. N. McDonald, Mr. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Churchill, Mr. and Mrs. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Corey and Misses Wright and Clarke. The stations occupied are: Bimlipatan, Chinnole, Bobbili, Vistangram, Patia Krimdy and Palowdani.

The mission has had its difficulties and discouragements—the trials of faith and patience inevitable in the establishment of a christian mission among a people where heathenism is so strongly entrenched. The results of twenty years of mission work may not be so apparently large as we had anticipated. But a noble beginning has been made, a foundation has been laid in faith on which a building shall rise to the glory of God. Good has been done in many which will give a glad harvest by and by.

SUMMARY NEWS.

Forty-five employes in the public works department at Ottawa were discharged on Thursday.

Mrs. Gifford, a Moncton boarding house keeper, fell Wednesday, breaking her left arm at the wrist.

Silvian Fielding, Halifax, has decided that A. B. Sheverson must pay his $25 subscription to the carnival fund.

Hazen Campbell, working at the Saint George granite quarries, had one of his eyes put out by a chip of stone striking it.

The Nova Scotia Grand Division, Sons of Temperance, elected W. H. Fitzpatrick, of New Glasgow, grand worthy patriarch.

At Moncton, Thursday, John Bishop was committed for trial for discharging a shot gun at John McDonald some weeks ago over a land dispute.

The argument in the Goodwin-Soulanges canal contact case was concluded in the Exchequer Court at Ottawa Wednesday and judgment was reserved.

Hon. Dr. Borden intends to place a sum in the estimates next year for the purpose of bringing out an English artillery team to compete with the Canadians.

John Conroy, who was sentenced to 14 years imprisonment by Judge Stevens for poisoning cattle near St. Stephen, has been pardoned, after having served three years.

Joseph Thibodeau, of St. Norbert, Weldford, Kent county, had his barn and contents destroyed by fire Tuesday night.

The barn contained seven head of horned cattle, one horse, ten tons of hay, besides straw, sleighs, sleds, farming utensils and other stuff.

An English expert sent to investigate the Cape Broyle gold fields in the interest of the Exchequer Court at Ottawa Wednesday reports very favorably upon the fields.

Fifty square miles are covered by licenses to search for gold. The prospects are good for extensive operations next spring.

Miss Sarah Miles, while passing along Birmingham street, Halifax, was viciously attacked by a dog. It sprang at her about three times and finally fastened on her arm, biting her severely.

Had the animal given her such a bite on the throat the consequences might have been fatal. The attack was entirely unprovoked.

Con. Geo. A. Chesley, who runs on the day freight between St. John and Moncton, probably has the heaviest train crew on the road.

The combined weight of the conductor and brakeman is 320 lbs., made up as follows: Con. Chesley, 190 lbs.; D. Hannigan, 220 lbs.; W. Capson, 210 lbs., and John McLeod, 200 lbs.—Moncton Times.

The Sun was presented yesterday with some large ripe raspberries picked in the garden of R. A. Courney, Douglas avenue, yesterday morning. Nearly a quart was picked the other day in the garden, and Mr. Courney and family had the extreme pleasure of enjoying these for tea.

It is a question if any raspberries in the province ever had more raspberries in the season on their tea table.—Friday's Sun.

Hon. Mr. Tarte, while in the North west, intends to study the Red river with the view of making it navigable.

The banquet given to the minister of public works in Winnipeg on Monday evening was a great success, and those present included all the prominent Liberal leaders of that section of the Dominion.

Nothing new was said as to the settlement of the Manitoba school question.

Dr. Grenfell, superintendent of the British mission to deep sea fishermen, operating in Labrador, sends to St. John's appalling accounts of the destitution which prevails on that coast.

Owing to the failure of the fishery hundreds of persons are on the verge of starvation, living only upon the flour which Dr. Grenfell and other philanthropists are able to dole out to them.

They must perish within a couple of months unless the government send prompt relief.

St. John citizens may soon receive an unexpected surprise. A movement is now on foot to administer it in the form of the return of the car works to this city.

Since they have been located at Amherst it has been found that railway rates and many other things made the expenses much higher than when they were in St. John.

Representatives of the company which owns the works, have lately been in this city looking for a suitable site, and it is said that the transfer may be made within a very short time.—Telegraph.

Mr. John E. Stackhouse, of Bloomfield, Kings Co., N. B., who was so seriously injured in St. John about a month ago, we are pleased to know is able to be about again.

Mr. Stackhouse is a brother of James Stackhouse of St. John, and of Rev. W. T. Stackhouse of Vancouver, B. C. It will be remembered that he was found on the railway track, a short distance from the depot in an unconscious condition and seriously injured. He had boarded a late train for home and remembers passing from one car that was full to the platform of another. What occurred after that will be regained consciousness is a blank to him.

Mr. Stackhouse believes that he was mistaken for another person and was struck by some one on the car platform and knocked from the train. One of the wounds on his head appeared to have been made with a knife.

United States. Five Monday afternoon, in one of two immense grain elevators of the Chicago and Pacific Elevator Company at Chicago destroyed over 1,250,000 bushels of grain.

By an explosion of gas Thursday afternoon in No. 8 shaft of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company at Wilkesbarre, Pa., six men were killed and two injured.

P. J. Tynan, the alleged "No 1" of the Dublin Phoenix Park murderers, arrived in New York on Monday evening. He refused to discuss the purpose of his visit to Europe, but stated his mission was entirely successful.

A special from Guthrie, O. T., says a cyclone and cloud burst Wednesday night, twenty miles east of there, devastated a section of the country one hundred yards wide and several miles long. Seven persons were killed and many badly injured.

The United States Grand Jury, Thursday afternoon, reported an indictment against Thomas A. Bram, mate of the barque Herbert Fuller, for the murder on the high seas of Capt. Nash, his wife, and Second Mate Bramberg. The date on which he will be allowed to plead was not announced.

Mrs. Andre Berube, of Fitchburg, Mass., died on Monday, aged 109. She was the oldest person in the city. She was born in the province of Quebec, and lived in Massachusetts since 1837.

She had over fifty children and grand children. Mrs. Berube retained her faculties to a marvellous degree. Her oldest child was 87 years old.

The city of Chicago may well point with pride to her enormous registration of 37,000 voters and a probable vote of 340,000. The Times Herald of that city points out that only thirteen states of the Union cast a larger vote than this in 1892.

It is almost twice as large as the combined vote of Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and Wyoming. It is as large as the combined votes of Tennessee and South Carolina, of Florida and Georgia, of Louisiana and Mississippi, of California and Oregon.

In one ward the registration is greater than the total vote of Idaho in 1892; in three wards, the registration is larger than the vote of Wyoming, and fourteen wards easily eclipse the vote of Nevada, the home of free silver.

British and Foreign. A number of important arrests have been made by the Turkish authorities in Constantinople. All the prisoners are described as "notorious revolutionary Armenians."

Terrific storms have prevailed upon the Portuguese coast. A fishing boat foundered in the bay of Setubal Wednesday night and the crew of fourteen men drowned.

The military commission appointed by the Sultan to investigate the recent riots in Constantinople estimates that the number of Armenians massacred was 2,250 and that 400 Mussulmans were killed.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, speaking at Leeds on Tuesday, expressed the belief that the Venezuelan question would soon be dealt with by an arbitrator or by an amicable compromise.

Some of the pavement in use on the streets of Vienna is composed of granulated cork with asphalt and other cohesive substances. It is compressed into blocks of convenient size. Its advantages are cleanliness, durability and economy.

Suicide has come to be about as common among Russian physicians as duels in German universities. The London Lancet explains the epidemic by the statement that fees are "tragically low by reason of the presence everywhere of heavily endowed dispensaries. It often happens that only 20 kopeks or six cents are charged for an office consultation, and even that small sum is hard to collect.

On October 6 in a London police court, a well-dressed man, who gave the name of William Shakespeare and described himself as a phenologist, was charged with being drunk and annoying passengers in an omnibus at King's road, Chelsea. The Daily News says that "the defendant's appearance and make-up presented an extraordinary resemblance to portraits of the 'Immortal Bard,' and occasioned considerable amusement in court. He was fined 10 shillings, which he couldn't pay, so he went to jail for a week."

DEATHS.

TINGLEY.—At Midway, Albert Co., N. B., Hermon, aged 16 years, son of Otis Tingley, Esq.

OGILVIE.—At Woodland, Kings Co., N. S., Oct. 11th, of consumption, Charles Scott Ogilvie, aged 37 years. He fell on his death bed that he could trust in the Saviour's atoning death.

COPELAND.—At Bear River, on the 27th ult., Joseph Copeland, aged 61 years. 1892. Our brother was an esteemed member of the First Hillsborough church. Many of the widow and relatives be sustained in their bereavement.

DORCY.—At North West, Lunenburg Co., Samuel Dorcy. Our brother was the senior deacon of the church and had reached the ripe age of eighty years. He was a great sufferer but had a strong hope of life eternal. We laid him away to rest sorry to part with him but rejoicing in his victory.

HOBSON.—At Canoe, Sept. 24th, of paralysis, Miss Jane Hobson, widow of the late William A. Hobson, aged 60 years. She had been confined to her home for some time through weakness caused by a previous stroke of the same disease. The end came very suddenly. Her trust was in God.

RAWN.—At Clementevale, Oct. 15, after a long, tedious illness, A. Rawden, passed on to his eternal rest aged 66 years. His body was removed to his old home, Northfield, Queens Co., for interment. The large assembly of people at the funeral showed the high appreciation of his life. Funeral sermon was preached by Rev. S. Langille, from Rev. 19: 9: "Blessed are they which are called to the marriage supper of the Lamb."

PIPER.—At Burlington, Kings Co., N. S., Oct. 10, Mrs. David Piper, aged 78 years. The deceased left her husband and received injuries which led to her death. She was a patient and cheerful sufferer. She was seriously impressed at four years of age and fully secured of her acceptance with God when only nine years old. In the age of 17 she publicly professed Christ by baptism. She was baptized by Rev. Wm. Chipman and received into the fellowship of the Pleasant Valley church, May 26, 1839. She united with the Burlington Baptist church at the time of its organization. Her faith in God endured to the end.

READ.—At Bale de Verie, Oct. 25, John Read, aged 86. It seemed as if our brother could not bear up against the separation from his life-long companion, whose death was announced two weeks since. Mr. Read was a fine specimen of christian manhood. Bodily well-proportioned, and of handsome features, his mind partook of the qualities of his outward form. He was an intelligent man, he had even gained some knowledge of astronomy and had executed a diagram showing the movements of the planets. He took an interest in all that pertains to the welfare of the cause of God. He loved the church and gave his thoughts and talents to her. He had a picture of the professors. He took great delight in the progress of the denunciation with which he in early life connected himself, but was full of charity to all God's people. The visits of the ministers were greatly appreciated; and he was always ready to welcome them and wait upon them. He kept an ever lengthening list of those whom he had entertained during a long life. For more than sixty years he had been connected with the woolen mills at Fort Bligh, which he founded and carried on for many years. Just three weeks after the funeral of Mrs. Read, all gathered again at the home of the bereaved, the last tribute of respect. Rev. James Wilson, pastor; James Methuill; Edward Mac, Presbyter; and Steele, assisted the solemn service. The remains were taken to a beautiful cemetery, amid overwhelming weeping near his late residence.
