FORCES FACE ON YALU BANKS

Japanese Lines Extend for Thirty Miles While Russians Construct Entrenchment

Russians do not Expect the Japs will Attempt Invasion of the Interior of Manchuria

London, Monday, April 25.—The far Eastern despatches this morning are chiefly concerned with reports and speculations about Japanese landings and the plan of campaign. The Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says that present delay is more apparent than real, both as regards field and naval operations. The Japanese, according to the correspondent, are acting prudently and will not be hurried. They realize that certain movements must precede the next coup by land and sea, and they are awaiting both favorable weather and occasion, and are on the alert. Announcing the notification that military attaches will be permitted to take the field, the correspondent remarks that the Japanese in matters of equipment, etc., are treating the foreign attaches and correspondents like princes.

JAPS ADVANCING.

The Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent says that spies have informed the Russians at Kin-Chau that Japanese warships, conveying transports with thirty thousand troops, are steaming northward.

MEDIATION TALK.

According to the Daily Mail's New-Chung correspondent, the announcement that Viceroy Alexieff had resigned caused the most intense public feeling. The correspondent says that it is generally thought in naval and military circles that there is a possibility of arranging peaceful settlement of the far Eastern trouble through the mediation of the powers.

A SECOND JAP. ARMY.

The Daily Telegraph's Shanghai correspondent cables that a second Japanese army will sail shortly, and will land on the island of Diawato, near Yungampho.

NO CONFIRMATION.

According to the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris, Col. Vannovsky, of the Russian general staff, declares that the report of a Japanese reverse on the Yalu has not been confirmed. The colonel does not believe that there has as yet been any serious fighting on the Yalu, neither side having finished the concentration of troops. He estimated the Japanese strength in Korea to be 85,000 men.

WARSHIPS FOR RUSSIA.

The Daily Telegraph's Brussels correspondent says that agents of the Russian Government have signed an agreement to purchase three large men-of-war constructed at Genoa for the Argentine Republic at a price of $18,200,000. One of the ships, the Garibaldi, is a vessel of 12,000 tons.

ALL QUIET AT PORT ARTHUR.

A Port Arthur despatch, dated April 24, says:—"The Chicago News despatch boat which approached Friday night last was boarded by Russian officials. The correspondent was arrested, but was liberated on condition that he avoid the Kwang-Tung peninsula in future. All is quiet, and there is no change in the situation here."

JAP. BANK IN KOREA.

A Seoul despatch says:—"That the civil as well as the military occupation of Korea is effective is evidenced by the economic developments under consideration and the extension of banking activity. The Daiichi Ginko, a Japanese bank, has opened a branch at Anju, to handle military funds and engage in bullion and specie transactions with the American mines at Unsan. A Korean bank has been long desired, but it had not been established owing to the lack of public confidence in the integrity of a Korean management. M. Matsuna, a capitalist of Osaka, Japan, proposes to utilize Korean and Japanese capital for the organization of a bank similar in its scope to the Russo-Chinese bank in China to finance and stimulate industrial enterprises. Mr. Nagamori, whose agricultural investigation has resulted in the formation of an extensive scheme for cultivating the waste land of Korea is at the head of another banking venture in Korea. The Japanese authorities are sending an official to the Anju region to resupply the Korean farmers of that locality with seed grain, the retreating Russians having divested them of their stock in hand. This will insure a crop for the coming year and the provisioning of the Japanese army in Korea. The Korea trade returns for the quarter ending March 31, notwithstanding the fact that there had been practically no export of rice, show that the imports, while smaller than those of the corresponding quarter of 1903, exceed those of the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1903, and is taken to indicate that the war has caused comparatively little uneasiness in rural districts, and it has not unusually disturbed the average prosperity of the country."

EARLY SUNSET

Frank, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Huff, Queen street south, died yesterday morning after long illness. Mr. and Mrs. Huff have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The funeral will take place from the residence to Maple Leaf Cemetery at 1.30 to-morrow, Tuesday, afternoon.

SUDDEN DEATH

A very sudden death occurred last evening when Wm. James, of Raleigh Township, passed away from heart failure. Mr. James had been ill but a very short time and his death was very unexpected. No relatives survive him. He has been living for a number of years with his nephew, Wm. Harwood, of Raleigh Township, at whose home he died. Ed. Harwood, of this city, is also a nephew of deceased. He was not married.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 from the residence of Wm. Harwood, 8th concession, Raleigh, to the Maple Leaf cemetery. Rev. Robert McDosh will conduct the funeral services.

THE SPRING FAIR

Henry Robinson, secretary of the West Kent Agricultural Society, was one of the busiest men in the city on Saturday. He was engaged all day in taking entries for the coming spring fair, which will be held on Saturday, May 30. "We have got lots of entries this year," said Mr. Robinson, "and our fair promises to be without doubt the best ever held by the society. We have got expert judges coming to judge the heavy horses and everyone who visits the fair will see a grand display. The competitors are all trying hard for the special prize, which will be given to the best Heavy Stallion. We are going to have all the horses photographed."

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Gideon's from all over Michigan attended the annual convention of this Christian traveling men's organization yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. The various camps compared notes and found that the work is progressing and that much good is being done. M. C. McBrayne, of Detroit, camp No. 1, was elected state president for the ensuing year. Mr. McBrayne has just completed a term as state secretary and it was in recognition of the good work done that the higher honor was conferred upon him. —Detroit Sunday Free Press.

M. C. McBrayne is a former Chathamite and an employee in the office of the T. H. Taylor Company. "Minor's" many Maple City friends will be pleased to hear of his successes.

OLEVER CANADIAN

Norris Brisco, brother of F. H. Brisco of this city, has attained the Scheff Fellowship in Political Economy at Columbia University, New York. This is the highest honor that a student can hope to get. Mr. Brisco is the first graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, to be appointed a fellow in Columbia College and the first Canadian to receive an appointment in Political Economy in this University. The honor has also a monetary value of $600. Mr. Brisco's accomplishment is all the more wonderful when it is considered that he only had his ability as the American students. Mr. Brisco was the successful one from about 20 applicants from Columbia, Chicago, Yale, Howard and other seats of learning.

I. O. O. F. AT CHURCH

Members of Western City Lodge, No. 93, Chatham Lodge, No. 29 and Chatham Encampment, No. 10, I. O. O. F., to the number of 150, attended divine service at Victoria Ave. Methodist Church last evening.

Rev. F. E. Malott, the pastor, preached an eloquent and interesting sermon on the parable of the Good Samaritan.

At the conclusion of the sermon Rev. Mr. Malott spoke briefly on the work and merits of the visiting order and welcomed all to the church, inviting them to attend at any time. The singing of the choir was very good. The two anthems were rendered in good style, while Miss Jackson's solo, "I'm a Pilgrim," was excellent.

PECULIAR CASE OF BIGAMY

Strange Circumstance Confronts Judge Houston at Police Court To-day.

Judgment Was Finally Reserved—Wife No. 1 was "Lost" to Him by Entering Asylum.

Robert Jenkinson was arraigned to-day on the charge of bigamy, and pleaded guilty.

The case is a peculiar one and somewhat unique in the matrimonial cases recorded in the annals of the courts of Kent County.

Jenkinson was arrested Saturday by Constable James Rankin. The prisoner is a strapping big man, brawny and muscular looking. He has a not unpleasing face and one of rather distinct lines. He had the appearance of a hard working and industrious farmer.

He pleaded guilty to the charge, but stated in extenuation that he had lost his wife.

In this statement the man evinced a delicacy and thoughtfulness that was at least unexpected. He knew that the crown prosecutor and the judge knew that his wife was in the asylum at London, and could have crudely stated the truth.

Jenkinson said that he hadn't married wife No. 2 without first getting advice. He had asked one lawyer in Wallaceburg and he had said that he didn't think it was right. He had then asked Mr. Macdougall. The latter said he didn't think it was wrong to marry again, but advised him to get wedded on the other side.

Judge Houston reserved judgment and remanded the man for a week. It is alleged that wife No. 2 also has a husband living, and she will be brought in to stand trial.

Jenkinson was married 15 or 16 years ago to Ann Crowder, by the Rev. P. B. Korry, Baptist Minister at Blenheim. She subsequently became deranged and was removed to the asylum at London. In March last, it is alleged, that Mrs. Roberts and Jenkinson were married. They went to Port Huron for that purpose. A charge of bigamy has been laid both against Jenkinson and wife No. 2. Wife No. 2 knew the first wife was living, having written letters to the asylum inquiring as to the prospects for wife No. 1 recovering her reason. It is also alleged that wife No. 2 has a husband living in the states. She was married to a man named Roberts and had several children. The Children's Aid Society will be notified to look after the children while the parents are in custody. A warrant has been issued for the wife No. 2. Jenkinson has no children of his own.

MORNING WEDDING

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tompkins was the scene of a very pretty wedding this morning, when their daughter, Ida Eileen, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Clark Penington, treasurer of the Chicago City Railway Co., and secretary of the American Street Railway Co. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. E. Malott, B. A., B. D., in the presence of the bride's immediate relatives and friends from Detroit. The bridal party left at noon for Buffalo, New York and Washington, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mrs. Penington will receive after June 1st, at 4012 Drexel Boulevard, Chicago.

NOT LIKE THE LADIES

"I am not like ladies and I can't talk to more than one at a time," commented Judge Houston this morning. He was trying a eleven-year-old colored lad for thumping a eleven-year-old white boy, and at the time mentioned was addressing the defendant. The mothers of the two youths were anxious to join in. The questioning of the colored boy revealed the fact that he had not been attending school at all regularly. The mother said that the boy had been working. The Court remarked that the boy's father was liable to go to jail for letting his boy stay away from school and work without a certificate. George Franklin, uncle of the lad, was in the Court room. He acknowledged hitting the boy to beat carpets and it is likely that an information will be laid against him.

The boy was fined a dollar and costs, $3 in all. The mother said she could get the money and went after it.

"Who is the truant officer," queried Mr. Houston. "The School Board notified the police that they had appointed Mr. Mounter, and now we don't know who the truant officer is. From this case it is quite apparent that somebody is needed to look after truants."

NEXT STAGE OF THE WAR.

In a conflict between an insular and a continental Power the former, if it have command of the sea, has the advantage of being able to change its points of attack at will. A continental Power is tied down to fixed ways of communication, and the initial deployment of its armies controls the whole future development of a campaign. The sea has as many highroads as there are ships. Ten thousand Japanese aboard of transports could keep one hundred thousand Russians marching and counter-marching simply by making demonstrations first against one and then another place. It would be impossible for the enemy ashore to tell whether the demonstration be mere ruses, or whether a landing be really intended; he would always have to be prepared for the latter eventuality, and would be required to shift his forces accordingly.

A complete change of base has in fact been made by the Russian General in the expectation of a Japanese landing at Niuchwang or some other point near the head of the Liao Gulf. The Russian centre has been moved down from Harbin into the Liao Valley, thus lengthening the line of communication between the principal Russian base and weakening the defence of the railway to Vladivostok. What if the Japanese should decide to make this railway the point of attack? The mobility of an amphibious army would enable it to instantly transfer its objective from Niuchwang to the coast of the Japan Sea, one thousand miles away. The movements of the floating force would be absolutely concealed from its enemy. An army afloat carries its bases with it wherever it goes, and all its strategic evolutions are conducted out of sight of curious eyes out on the ocean's depths.

The Japanese on the Yalu are evidently merely a containing force; where the main army of Japan is and where its blow will fall nobody knows. Nobody, however, can believe for a moment that the Japanese General Staff has been asleep since February, when the war began. When the blow falls it is likely to be as swift and heavy as it will be unexpected.

UN SOUND PLANKS.

By the Ross Government new principles have been laid down in the discussion and in the vote just taken on the Sault question. The first is that a Government is justified in loaning credit, which is equal to money, to a private company which applies for such assistance. But the exercise of the power is discretionary. If a farmer or a business man without a pull should seek aid of this class he would be promptly turned down. On the other hand, if a couple of powerful politicians who hold the fate of a Ministry in the balance insist that the loan, in which they will share, be given, the money or the credit is at once forthcoming.

This is a wide departure from the old practice, and if may be fairly described as one of the planks of the "new Liberalism." The second plank that has been laid down makes membership of the Legislature a more profitable occupation than it has hitherto been supposed to be. It seems that the member may stand between the recipient of a railway subsidy and the contractor for the work that is to be performed, and collect a "rake-off" of 10 per cent. on the gross amount paid to the latter party. If a million dollars should be involved in the contract one member of the Legislature who voted the subsidy can thus collect $100,000. This is really delightful for the M. P. E. There are no means of knowing so far whether the member of the Legislature is permitted to retain the 10 per cent. or is expected to hand it, or any portion of it, over to the machine. In the former case the legislator certainly gets his money easily. In the latter case we have an answer to the problem, "Where did the money come from?" It is difficult to believe that the subsidized railway company would voluntarily pay the members who get the "rake-off." Most business men object to the go-between because he is taking money which really belongs to them. It must surely be under pressure that the "rake-off" is arranged. Who, outside of the Government itself, can apply the pressure? It is the Government which decides whether or not the subsidy shall be given, and it can easily say "No rake-off; no subsidy." This phase of the new or Ross Liberalism certainly calls for serious public consideration, and for enquiry. The province ought to know how far it has gone and how much it costs. Hardly less important is the decision of yesterday that the members of the Legislature who are directly and financially interested in a proposition before the House may vote upon it.

This determination is a reversal of the Parliamentary practice and of the rule applicable to all positions of trust. It is an elementary principle of trusteeship that no trustee shall hold the dual position of director of the trust reposed in him and of pro-fitter by that trust. In the public arena the requirement in this regard is all the more exacting because it would be a great danger to the State if representatives who are responsible for the finances could vote money into their own pockets under any pretext whatever. The position which the Ross Government took yesterday is that its supporters may help themselves out of the public treasury, and surely this, added to the 10 per cent. "rake-off," is the last straw!—Mail and Empire.

There are eight protests against members of the Legislature, as follows:

Against Liberals—North York, Hon. E. J. Davis; Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. C. N. Smith; North Perth, Mr. John Brown; North Norfolk, Mr. A. Little, and North Grey, Mr. A. G. Mackay.

Against Conservatives—North Renfrew, Mr. E. A. Dunlop; Centre Bruce, Mr. Hugh Clark, and Muskoka, Mr. A. A. Mahaffy.

STARVING IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY

Terrible Experience of Mrs. M. Sears of Lochaber, N. S.—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets To The Rescue.

Mrs. M. Sears, of Lochaber, N. S., relates an experience that should make all sufferers from indigestion stop and think. It shows what the future may have in store for those who neglect the first slight aches and discomforts that tell of a disordered stomach.

"I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia," says Mrs. Sears. "I had terrible pains in the pit of my stomach and lost about fifty pounds in weight. You can imagine my case as very acute. I was almost starved. I tried various medicines and on several occasions tried to get relief through the use of a stomach pump. I went to Newfoundland on a trip for my health."

"But it was no use. I could not get relief and had almost given up hope of ever being cured when an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got one box and must say I never had such relief in my life. I continued using them and gradually regained my lost weight and strength."

You can quickly cure your indigestion and escape the terrors of Dyspepsia by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They mean comfort now and security for the future.

A Table For a Boy's Room. This table, illustrated in the Ladies' World, is for the boy's room. Get two shoe boxes at the shoe store and stand them on end a little way apart. Make a top to go upon them of a size so that the ends and edges will project two or three inches over the boxes. The top should have a rectangular piece of dark green cloth glued to it in the manner shown, leaving three inches or more of the wood to show all about the cloth. The wood can be stained a cherry color if desired. The interiors of the boxes are now to be fitted with a number of drawers, drawer "pulls" being placed upon the front of these and the whole front and sides of the boxes being stained the same color as the top. This will make a fine writing or reading table, and the drawers will be most convenient for holding the boy's treasures—writing material, "collections" of this, that and the other thing, his camera and photographic material. Oh, there will be plenty of things to put into those drawers!

BY THE LITTLE ONES.

Stray Bits of Humor Out of the Mouths of Babies.

Alma was just celebrating her second birthday, and her description of the event to a little playmate was this: "It's got a birthday cake. It's two 'ers old."

Evelyn, aged five, while journeying with her mother was stormbound in the flooded districts of the west this year, and for two days, while food was scarce, the scenery bounded on all sides by wastes of water and little hope of gaining their destination, the little miss excited the admiration of all the passengers by her sweet disposition and her uncomplaining acceptance of the situation. A gentleman who had faced the storm and waded through water to bring fruit and food to the beleaguered passengers presented the little miss with a box of candy and some fruit. Evelyn's mamma asked, "Isn't the gentleman good to bring you such nice things?" whereupon the tiny maiden answered, "Yes, but mamma, I am a nice girl to bring them to."

A child of four had passed his life among high mountains and knew nothing except the towering peaks and a small expanse of sky. When taken to an eastern state for a visit he became quiet, melancholy and apparently ill. A physician could find no disease, and the little lad told his own story of home sickness and gloom when he cried out to his mamma, "Oh, mamma, won't you take me where there isn't so much sky?"

Her Calf.

While waiting for a train at a little station down in the country the other day a Chicago man overheard two farmers talking as follows: "Say, Bill, did you hear how old Hanks come it over Pete Harvey last week?"

"Naw."
"Pete, he druv up to Bill's place, 'nd Bill says to him: 'Come back in the barn. I want to show you a cow 'nd calf I've got fer sale.' The cow was a fine lookin' critter, 'nd Pete ast how much Hanks wanted fer her 'nd the calf. After dickerin' a bit Pete bought them 'nd started home. Next day he come back, mad as a hornet."
"Bill," he says, 'you skinned me on that critter. She ain't no new milk cow, 'nd that ain't her calf.'"
"Yes, it is," says Bill.

"If it is I'll eat 'em both, hide, hair 'nd hoofs," says Pete. The calf won't have anything to do with her. It ain't her'n."

Good Guess.

A lawyer of New Haven once introduced to Judge Lyman S. Burr a novelist who is now famous. The novelist was young and obscure at the time, but what he lacked in years and fame he more than made up for in self confidence.

Judge Burr observed the young man closely and sternly. Finally he said: "So you expect to be famous some day, eh?"
"Some day," said the young man, "I expect to have the world at my feet."
"What have you been doing all this time," said the judge, "walking on your hands?"

Overheard in Congress.

Two southern representatives had been out rather late and were tacking home.

"What jer reckon your wife's going to say?" one asked the other.
"Oh, nothing! She'll preserve a dignified silence," was the answer, "but lemme tell you that silence will be impressive."
"Well, mine's an orator, and there'll be a joint debate such as congress never saw when I get home," the other said tearfully.

How Foolish!

Giraffe—Heard from your brother since he went to America?
Monkey—Yes; he says people over there pay money to see him eat with a fork, and he can't do it any better than they can.

Vain Talk.

Borroughs—I was talking to your friend Kloseman for about half an hour this morning, and—Newitt—The idea! That's funny. Couldn't you find out in less than half an hour that it's useless to try to borrow anything from him?—Philadelphia Press.

"FORCE" is the morning meal of full three million clear-eyed, steady-handed, well-balanced, people,—the finest sort of Americans.

"FORCE" is a solid foundation for a nation's growth.

Sunny Jim

Just do a little sum for me:
Count how many good breakfasts you get out of a box of "FORCE"; and see how many times that number goes into three or four cents.
The answer—that little fraction of a cent—measures what a "FORCE" breakfast costs you more than one of some cheaper food. Isn't it worth the difference?

Dimensions of Noah's Ark.

"Within recent years," says the editor of the Syren and Shipping, "the general dimensions of the ark have been closely followed by cargo steamship builders for deep sea and the American great lakes service. According to the Bible, the ark was 480 feet long, 80 feet wide and 45 feet deep. Her tonnage was 11,413, and she had plenty of room for pairs of all the distinct species of animals that are classed by Buffon—244—and she could have accommodated a thousand persons and then have plenty of room for the storage of supplies. In the seventeenth century Peter Jansen, a Hollander, built a vessel of the exact proportions of the ark, and she was successful, as records of the times show, in making money for her owners. Noah, the father of naval architecture, is held in profound respect by naval architects of today, who know how immeasurably the Phenicians, Greeks and Romans and all other shipbuilders fell short of the excellence of the type of the ark as a commodious, safe and economical vessel."

THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail is by no means free. He is under the ban of the law and punishment is written over against his name. Soon or late he will be caught again and bear added punishment for his short escape from his cell.

Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner. Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Second, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep or follow my occupation (tinsmith). Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three boxes and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Appeal allowed with costs and action dismissed with costs. M. Lewin (Chatham) for plaintiffs.

Scotch Linoleums

DIRECT FROM KIRKCALDY.

Kirkcaldy is recognized as the centre of the floorcloth industry of Great Britain. The largest mills of that kind in the world are to be found there. The mills send their representative twice a year to Canada to take the orders of the wholesale houses and the large retailers.

Our ability to handle quantities direct from them in this way means that we save from 7 1/2% to 10 per cent. smaller stores have to pay to brokers or commission agents, who by taking their order and putting it with a number of other similar stores orders are thus enabled to buy the required quantity from the mills.

WE BUY DIRECT AND SAVE THE COMMISSION

Your reap the benefit by getting the higher grade goods at the prices other stores have to ask for the lower qualities.

See our designs and qualities in 4 yds. wide Linoleums, in Floral and Tile Patterns.

INLAIN LINOLEUMS in Tile Patterns, at prices that mean a saving to you because bought direct.

CANADIAN FLOOR OIL CLOTHS

The same ability to handle qualities enables us to buy direct from the Canadian Mills.

Quantity and Cash is the consideration with them.

Every yard is paid for by the tenth day of the month. From the Mills it comes direct to us and we pass it on to you with only our modest profit added to it.

To-day we received our second shipment of oilcloths, and can show you an extra big range of patterns in 1 yard wide, 1 1/2 yds, 1 3/4 yds., 2 yds. wide at 25c, 35c, 40c a yd.

Old Hagar's Secret...

By Mrs. M. J. Holmes...

In her cottage by the mine, old Hagar had raved, and sung and wept, talking much of Margaret, but never telling whether she had gone. Lately, however, she had grown more calm, talking far less than heretofore, and sleeping a great portion of the day, so that the servant who attended her became neglectful, leaving her many hours alone, while she, at the stone house, passed her time more agreeably than at the lonesome hut.

On the afternoon of which we write, she was, as usual, at the house, and though the sun went down, she did not hasten back, for her patient, she said, was sure to sleep, and even if she woke she did not need much care.

Meantime old Hagar slumbered on. It was a deep, refreshing sleep, and when at last she did awake her reason was in a measure restored, and she remembered everything distinctly up to the time of Margaret's last visit, when she said she was going away. And Margaret had gone away, she was sure of that, for she remembered Arthur Carrollton stood once within that room and besought of her to tell if she knew aught of Maggie's destination. She did know, but she had not told, and perhaps they had not found her yet. Raising herself in bed, she called aloud to the servant, but there came no answer; and for an hour or more she waited impatiently, growing each moment more and more excited. If Margaret were found she wished to know it, and if she were not found it was surely her duty to go at once and tell them where she was. But could she walk! She stepped upon the floor and tried. Her limbs trembled beneath her weight, and, sinking into a chair, she cried, "I can't! I can't!"

Half an hour later, she heard the sound of wheels. A neighboring farmer was returning home from Richmond, and had taken the cross-road as his shortest route. "Perhaps he will let me ride," she thought, and hobbling to the door she called after him, making known her request. Wondering what "new freak" had entered her mind, the man consented, and just as it was growing dark he set her down at Madam Conway's gate, where half fearfully, the bewildered woman gazed around. The windows of Margaret's room were open, a figure moved before them, Margaret might be there, and entering the hall door unobserved, she began to ascend the stairs, crawling upon her hands and knees, and pausing several times to rest.

It was nearly dark in the sick-room, and as Mrs. Jeffrey had just gone out, and Theo, in the parlor below, was enjoying a quiet talk with her husband, Madam Conway was quite alone. For a time she lay thinking of Margaret, then her thoughts turned upon George and his "amazing proposition." "Such unheard-of insolence!" she exclaimed, and she was proceeding farther with her soliloquy, when a peculiar noise upon the stairs without caught her ear, and raising herself upon her elbow, she listened intently to the sound which came nearer and nearer, and seemed like some one creeping slowly, painfully, for she could hear at intervals a long drawn breath, or groan, and with a vague feeling of uneasiness she awaited anxiously the appearance of her visitor; nor waited long, for the half-closed door swung slowly back, and through the gathering darkness the shape came crawling on, over the threshold, into the room. Toward the corner, its limbs distorted and bent, its white

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

hair sweeping the floor. With a smothered cry, Madam Conway hid beneath the bedclothes, looking cautiously out at the singular object, which came creeping on until the bed was reached. It touched the counterpane, it was struggling to regain its feet, and with a scream of horror the terrified woman cried out, "Fiend, why are you here?" while a faint voice replied, "I am looking for Margaret. I thought she was in bed," and rising up from her crouching posture, Hagar Warren stood face to face with the woman she had so long desired.

"Wretch!" exclaimed the latter, her pride returning as she recognized old Hagar, and thought, "She is Maggie's grandmother. Wretch, how dare you come into my presence? Leave this room at once!" and a shrill cry of "Theo, Theo!" rang through the house, bringing Theo at once to the chamber, where she started involuntarily at the sight which met her view.

"Who is it? Who is it?" she exclaimed. "It's Hagar Warren. Take her away!" screamed Madam Conway, while Hagar, raising her withered hand deprecatingly, said: "Hear me! Do you know where Margaret is? Has she been found?" "No, no," answered Theo, bounding to her side, while Madam Conway forgot to scream, and bent eagerly forward to listen, her symptoms of dissolution disappearing one by one, as the strange narrative proceeded, and as its close she was nearly dressed, standing erect as ever, her face glowing, and her eyes lighted up with joy.

"Gone to Leominster! Henry Warren's half-sister!" she exclaimed. "Why didn't she add a postscript to that letter and tell us so? Though the poor child couldn't think of everything," and then, unmindful of George Douglas, who at that moment entered the room, she continued: "I should suppose Douglas might have found it out ere this. But the moment I put my eyes upon that woman, I knew no child of hers would ever know enough to find Margaret. The Warners are a tolerably good family, I presume. I'll go after her at once. Theo, bring my brooch, shawl, and hat. I'll wear my satin hood; 'twill be warmer than my leghorn."

"Grandma," said Theo, in utter astonishment, "what do you mean? You are surely not going to Leominster to-night, as sick as you are?" "Yes, I am going to Leominster to-night," answered the decided woman, "and this gentleman," waving her hand majestically toward George, "will oblige me much by seeing that the carriage is brought out."

Theo was about to remonstrate, when George whispered, "Let her go; Henry and Rose are probably not at home, but Margaret may be there. At all events a little airing will do the old lady good," and rather pleased than otherwise with the expedition, he went after John, who pronounced his mistress "crazier than Hagar."

But it wasn't for him to dictate, and grumbling at the prospect before him, he harnessed his horses and drove them to the door, where Madam Conway was already in waiting.

See that everything is in order for our return," she said to Theo, who promised compliance, and then, herself bewildered, listened to the carriage as it rolled away; it seemed so like a dream that the woman, who three hours before could scarcely speak aloud, had now started for a ride of many miles in the damp night-air! But love can accomplish miracles, and it made the eccentric lady strong, buoying up her spirits, and prompting her to cheer on the coachman, until just as the dawn grew rosy in the east Leominster appeared in view. The house was found, the carriage steps let down, and then with a slight trembling in her limbs, Madam Conway alighted, casting a eager, searching glance around and commenting as follows:

"Everything is in good taste; they must be somebody, these Warners. I'm glad it is no worse." And with each new indication of refinement in Margaret's relatives, the disgrace seemed less and less in the mind of the proud Englishwoman. The ringing of the bell brought down Janet, who with an inquisitive look at the satin hood and bundle of shawls, ushered the stranger into the parlor, and then went for her mistress. Taking the card her servant brought, Mrs. Warren read with some little trepidation the name, "Madam Conway, Hillsdale." From what she had heard, she was not prepossessed in the lady's favor; but, curious to know why she was there at this early hour, she hastened the making of her toilet, and went down to the parlor, where Madam Conway sat, coiled in one corner of the sofa, which she had satisfied herself was covered with real brocade, as were also the chairs within the room. The tables of rosewood and marble, and the expensive curtains had none of them escaped her notice, and in a mood which more common furniture would never have produced, Madam Conway arose to meet Mrs. Warren, who received her politely, and then waited to hear her errand.

It was told in a few words. She had come for Margaret—Margaret, whom she had loved for eighteen years, and could not now cast off, even though she were not of the Conway and Davenport extraction. "I can easily understand how painful must have been the knowledge that Maggie was not your own," returned Mrs. Warren, "for she is a girl of whom any one might be proud; but you are laboring under a mistake—Henry is not her brother." And then, very briefly, she explained the matter to Madam Conway, who, having heard so much, was now surprised at nothing, and who felt, it may be, a little gratified in knowing that Henry was, after all, nothing to Margaret, save the husband of her sister. But a terrible disappointment awaited her. "Margaret was not there," and so loud were her lamentations, that some time elapsed ere Mrs. Warren could make her listen, while she explained that "Mr. Carrollton had found Maggie the day previous at the Falls, that they were probably in Albany now, and would reach Hillsdale that very day," such, at least, was the import of the telegram which Mrs. Warren had received the evening before. "They wish to surprise you, undoubtedly," she said, "and consequently have not telegraphed you."

This seemed probable, and forgetting her weariness, Madam Conway resolved upon leaving John to drive home at his leisure, while she took the Leominster cars, which reached Worcester in time for the upward train. This matter adjusted, she tried to be quiet; but her excitement increased each moment, and when at last breakfast was served she did but little justice to the tempting viands which her hostess set before her. Margaret's chamber was patting and smoothed the down pillows, for the sake of the bright head which had rested there, while to herself she whispered abstractedly, "Yes, yes, though to what she was giving her assent, she could not tell. She only knew that what was very happy, and very impatient to be gone, and when at last she did go, it seemed to her an age ere Worcester was reached.

Resolutely turning her head away, lest she should see the scene of her disaster, when last she was in that city, she walked up and down the ladies' room, her satin hood and heavy brooch shawl on that warm July morning, attracting much attention. But little did she care. "Margaret" was the burden of her thoughts; and the appearance of Mrs. Douglas herself would scarcely have disturbed her. Much less, then, did the presence of a queerly-dressed young girl, who, entering the car with her, occupied for a moment the same seat, feeling herself a little annoyed at being thus obliged to sit so near one whom she mentally pronounced "mighty unsociable," for not once did Madam Conway turn her face that way, so intent was she upon watching their apparent speed, and counting the number of miles they had come.

When Charlton was reached, however, she did observe the woman in a shaker, who, with a pall of huckly berries on her arm, was evidently waiting for some one.

SATCHEL OF THE SATELLITE

You can still catch suckers, and you don't need a license either.

Yesterday was a real April day, and not such a bad one either after three p. m.

Mineral baths are like money, the more you get the more you want. The Satellite had another yesterday, i. e. bath, not money.

As I watched the members of the I. O. O. F. marching to church in a body last night I was moved to draw two inferences. Either the I. O. O. F. is an extraordinary large lodge or else it is a very large lodge composed of men who will like to attend church.

John Glassford peaked out from underneath his umbrella long enough yesterday morning to remark that the warm rain was good for making things grow and that the farmers might yet possibly have a little wheat this year.

I see now that you have to take out a license to catch whales. That will bar out a whole lot of local piscatorial artists, but between you and me most of them carry the bar with them in the past jig and they don't have a license either.

John Ford, superintendent of the bathing department at the mineral baths, thoroughly understands his business and is the most careful and able manager who has yet had control of the baths. Mr. Ford is also a splendid attendant, and the patron who is fortunate enough to secure his services is assured of getting the best that is.

Grandmother had died and the funeral had been Saturday. Sunday, mother was explaining to the little four-year-old tot that God had taken grandma. "And was the man who took grandma away yesterday, God?" asked the little girl with all the simplicity of childhood. Mother explained but had to suppress a smile.

The regular baseball city league task is on the rampage again this spring, but from present indications there is no doubt that something definite will result this time.

Chatham has any amount of baseball talent. The wagon works, Wm. Gray & Sons, Dowdley works, Chaplin wheel works, Manson Campbell's, also the clerks union and the bankers could easily put pretty fair teams in a city league and make baseball one of the leading games of the city during the coming season. Fred. H. Briggs estimates that he will put up for competition a $25 trophy if a city league is formed.

Mat. Douglas, on behalf of the Park House baseball team, issues a challenge to play a team picked from the best of any three other hotels in town at any date arranged.

EVENTIDE WEDDING.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. David Johnston, when their only daughter, Bertha Eliza, was united in marriage to Edward Irwin, of Raleigh. Rev. Dr. Jamieson tied the nuptial knot. The bride was given away by her father and was married under a canopy of evergreens and liberty bell. The bride looked beautiful attired in a gown of white organdy, trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of white roses. Edgar Johnston, brother of the bride, acted as best man, while Miss Bertha Ripley, of Dresden, made a very pretty bridesmaid, dressed in a gown of white organdy and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Little Sadie Rice, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl. The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white. Fifty guests sat down to a nicely served dinner. The tables looked beautiful, decorated with flowers and candles. The presents were numerous and all present spent a very pleasant evening. At a very late hour, the young couple left for their future home in Raleigh, all wishing them a prosperous and happy life.

The worries of a weak and sick mother are only begun with the birth of her child. By day her work is constantly interrupted and at night her rest is broken by the wailing of the peevish, puny infant. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It lightens all the burdens of maternity, giving to mothers strength and vigor, which they impart to their children. In over thirty years of practice Dr. Pierce and his associate staff of nearly a score of physicians have treated and cured more than half a million suffering women. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free of charge. All correspondence is strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.
