FRENCH OFFICIAL REPORT

Fighting Near Roye To-day is of Very Fierce Nature.

The Germans Have Brought Strong Re-inforcements Up.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] PARIS, Oct. 2.—An official statement issued by the War Office this afternoon says that terrific fighting continues incessantly near Roye where the Germans have been strongly reinforced. "On our left wing the battle continues with terrific fighting notably in the region of Roye where the Germans appear to have concentrated important re-inforcements. The action extends more and more to the north. "The front of the battle line is now extended into the region to the south of Arras. "Upon the Meuse the Germans attempted at night to throw a bridge across the river near St. Mihiel. The bridge was destroyed by our guns. "In the Woivre district our offensive continues and progresses step by step, notably in the region between Aprerent and St. Mihiel. "On the remainder of the front there have been attempted only partial operations here and there.

Driven Out When French Flooded Them

Terrible Condition of the Germans in Trenches at Rheims.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—The correspondent of The Times writing from Chalons, France, under date of Monday, says: "The Germans have gone and Chalons is rejoicing in the good news. The latest reports seem to indicate a general retirement from the lines of defence which the Germans constructed to the north of Rheims and to the east and west. "Their trenches on this line are wonderful works of art. Dug to a depth of six feet they were covered and protected in many cases with layers of reinforced concrete. This work was executed by the forced labor of the inhabitants to form a defensive position in case of need, while the troops were still fighting on the Marne. "Up to this line the French worked their way foot by foot until in places their front was not 100 yards from the German trenches. The conditions of these undrained trenches when examined were found to be terrible. The wounded as well as the dead lie where they fall amid the wet and filth. The French in the advanced trenches could hear cries at night when the firing paused, coming across the narrow belt over which the two armies fought. "These terrible conditions as much as the French fire dislodged the Germans from their miniature forts. In some of the trenches on the heights above Rheims the French had to drown the Germans out. Lines of hose were laid from the town and the fire pumps worked until the water stood breast deep. "The German governor imposed a fine of 3,000,000 francs (500,000) on the department of France of which Chalons is the principal town. The deputy mayor pleaded for milder treatment and the Prince of Saxony, who is an officer in the German army, sanctioned his efforts, whereupon the governor reduced the demand to half a million francs ($200,000) which was paid immediately. "The French retook the town on September 16. The Germans left behind their wounded.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Daily Mail correspondent in France says: "The infantry has counted for little in these protracted operations. On the allied left wing the men say that they have nothing to do and several have complained of spending eight days in the trenches without seeing a German. Both armies are tired. "There was one appalling incident. Three days ago 800 Germans were caught in some flat fields with slopes on every side. The French artillery took up posi-

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—A correspondent of the Central News at Calais who has returned to that city from a tour in the vicinity of the allies left, says: "Without disclosing military secrets I can say that I have seen many things the outcome of the battle. The moment is not here where the curtain will be lifted on the greatest drama ever seen in war. "The position of the German right wing on Wednesday was such that a portion lying between Lassigny and Chalines was in extreme danger. Above Chalines the German lines, which a few days ago faced westward, are now facing northwest and have been bent back on the line of Chalines, Cambri, and Valenciennes. On Sunday a German patrol was captured near Chalines. The fate of the Germans was due to a

Lay Mines For Germans

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The official information bureau announced today that the government had decided to lay mines in certain areas as a counter stroke to the German procedure.

A RUSSIAN BAYONET CHARGE DURING A BATTLE IN EAST PRUSSIA.

This picture was drawn by F. Matama, special artist for this newspaper, the New York Herald, and the London Sphere from valuable material supplied by W. R. Ames, who escaped from his home in East Prussia, where he was managing a great German estate, when the Russian army appeared. The episode question occurred on the evening of August 21 between Kortschen and Bartenstein, when ten thousand Germans and fifteen thousand Russians were engaged. Through his glasses Mr. Ames witnessed a bayonet charge by the Russians against the German center. The Germans fled and were cut up in small parties.

FRENCH GUNS MADE A GERMAN CEMETERY FOR FIVE HUNDRED

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—Dilating upon the splendid accuracy of the artillery fire and the extent to which the artillery has been used in the present war, the Daily Mail correspondent in France says: "The infantry has counted for little in these protracted operations. On the allied left wing the men say that they have nothing to do and several have complained of spending eight days in the trenches without seeing a German. Both armies are tired. "There was one appalling incident. Three days ago 800 Germans were caught in some flat fields with slopes on every side. The French artillery took up posi-

CURTAIN WILL SOON BE LIFTED FROM THE GREATEST OF DRAMAS

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—A correspondent of the Central News at Calais who has returned to that city from a tour in the vicinity of the allies left, says: "Without disclosing military secrets I can say that I have seen many things the outcome of the battle. The moment is not here where the curtain will be lifted on the greatest drama ever seen in war. "The position of the German right wing on Wednesday was such that a portion lying between Lassigny and Chalines was in extreme danger. Above Chalines the German lines, which a few days ago faced westward, are now facing northwest and have been bent back on the line of Chalines, Cambri, and Valenciennes. On Sunday a German patrol was captured near Chalines. The fate of the Germans was due to a tion secretly, and when the moment came to open fire the officer in command said: 'Make me a cemetery down there.' His order was obeyed, the guns accounting for the greater part of the 800 and rifle fire for the rest. Those who were there say that not a single German escaped. "It is no wonder that the Germans have nick-named the big French guns in the field artillery 'the black butchers,' their effect is terrible. The shells they throw explode only ten feet above the ground and spread their missiles over an area measuring 100 yards in diameter. The shock of their explosion alone often kills at once a whole row of entrenched men.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—It is officially announced at Vienna, according to a Rome despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, that the Austro-German army located at Cracow numbers 2,500,000 men. "The turning movement of the allied armies in northern France has brought the extreme of their left wing within about 30 miles of the Belgian frontier. "An official statement issued by the French War Office at three o'clock this afternoon says that that part of the battle line stretching generally north and south has been extended north to a point south of Arras. This line, on which the allied armies are attempting to envelop the German right wing under General Von Kluck has been pushed gradually toward the Belgian border as the Germans widened their front in defence, until it extends some 55 miles from the angle that rests on Tracy-Le-Monts. "The Paris statement adds that the Germans attempted to bridge the Meuse near St. Mihiel, but their pontoons were destroyed. French claims of slight progress in the Woivre district are recorded, as are minor engagements at various points on the front extending east and west. "In a statement received by wireless from Berlin, the German headquarters announced that the great battle in France remains undecided, and that the heaviest losses have been in the Argonne region. "A Petrograd correspondent says that the Germans from four points are attempting to concentrate on southern Poland, where a decisive battle is expected. "The French Minister of Finance declares that the financial situation of France on October 1 was entirely satisfactory. "A despatch from Venice says that a Franco-British squadron has begun operations against Pola, the chief naval station of Austria-Hungary. "Despatches from London indi-

WAR SUMMARY

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Daily Mail correspondent, under date of last Saturday, says, in describing the landing at Marseilles of the first Indian contingent: "To see a score of transports glide from the bay into the dock and moor at their appointed station was a sight to be remembered. It is a tribute to British organization. But the grand spectacle was yet to come. In almost as short a space of time as it takes to tell it, the decks of the wonderful fleet of ships were alive with soldiers and in a matter of a few hours the trying work of disembarkation had been completed without slip or accident. "The French officers were amazed at the remarkable smoothness with which the operations proceeded and were not slow in their expressions of profound admiration. "The voyage from India had been made under excellent conditions and the troops, who literally leaped ashore, were fighting men to the last ounce, hard, fit and ready. Had the word of command been given to march straight from the quay to the fighting line they were ready to go. "Not a few of the Sikhs, lithe, black-bearded giants, were deeply concerned to know if I thought that the war would be over before they could get to grips with the common enemy and it was a load off their minds when I assured them there was absolutely no likelihood of anything of the kind coming to pass. "Never has the port of Marseilles, used as it is to cosmopolitan crowds and the multi-colored inhabitants of Africa, witnessed a scene so kaleidoscopic as that presented to-day by the desfilade of thousands after thousands of soldiers down seemingly numberless gangways and along quays lit up by brilliant sunshine. "All the troops are in khaki

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Nationalist party organ, declares that the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Marquis Di San Giuliano, who is reputed to be opposed to Italy entering the conflict, has resigned from the Cabinet. "The most recent advices from Belgium report that the German attack upon Antwerp continues against a stubborn resistance. "A Montenegro official report says that the attack on Sarajevo, capital of the Austrian province of Bosnia, has been begun. Earlier advices from Nish, Serbia, said that the Serbian War Office thought an attempt to take the city would be inadvisable. "The Paris statement adds that the Germans attempted to bridge the Meuse near St. Mihiel, but their pontoons were destroyed. French claims of slight progress in the Woivre district are recorded, as are minor engagements at various points on the front extending east and west. Heavy Loss is Inflicted by Belgians

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Germans have suffered heavily everywhere under the well directed machine gun fire of the Belgians, according to a statement cabled from Antwerp by the correspondent of the Central News. "At the Wavre and St. Catharine forts alone (outside of Antwerp) the German dead may be counted by thousands. At several points the corpses lie in heaps. Entire companies have been exterminated, while the other troops were driven back at the point of the bayonet. "Hon. W. H. Hearst, succeeds Sir James Whitney as Premier, and Mr. F. G. LONDON IS CAUTIOUS ON RESULT OF GREAT BATTLE OF THE AISNE

Brief Official News is Subject of Conjecture While Arrival of Indian Troops Has Stirred Enthusiasm of the Empire—The Situation.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 2.—Unless all signs are awry, the German invasion of France, or at any rate most of it, is stopped. This, it is held here, is the only conclusion—and it is hinted at even in the Berlin newspapers—to be reached from latest reports. It is evident that the progress of the Allies' left is considerable, while the hole through which the Germans might have pierced the line of French fortresses on the Meuse riverside has been stopped.

The fierce battling around the heights of Roye, to the northwest of Noyon, seems to have ended in favor of the French. The heights were captured by General Von Kluck's men on Wednesday, but on Friday, according to a French report, the Allies regained control of the position.

Antwerp, temporarily the Belgian capital, ought to be capable of maintaining a long defence. King Albert is a romantic figure of the war in this quarter. He constantly goes into the danger zone, and his determination, fearlessness and activity recall those of Stadtholder William in the historic siege of Leiden.

That the battle of Cracow, which opened yesterday, will be a long and arduous struggle no one questions. That General Von Hindenburg, the German commander, who scored notable successes in Eastern Prussia against the invading Muscovites, has taken supreme command of the combined German and Austrian forces. These undoubtedly are a formidable army, though the alleged total of two and a half millions of men is doubted in some quarters.

From Petrograd, however, it is officially asserted that "the Russian troops continue to drive the enemy from the borders of the Suwalki and Lonsa governments, and that there has been continually determined fighting west of Simno. The German troops which attacked Ossowetz are retreating precipitately to the north."

Women's Institute

Tutela Women's Institute.
The October meeting of the Tutela Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. McLellan, Vice-President Mrs. T. Hargraves in the chair. After the usual opening exercises Secretary Mrs. Birkett read letters soliciting help for the Patriotic Fund.
Miss Alexander gave an appreciated selection on the piano, also Mrs. Secord of Brantford added to the success of the afternoon by an instrumental solo. A question drawer was conducted for a short time.
Mrs. Clump gave a very fine paper on "Winter Vegetables—Their Production and Method of Keeping and Their Value in the Diet."
A solo by Mrs. H. McIntyre was heartily enjoyed.
Mrs. C. Moyle's paper on "Things That Money Cannot Buy" was excellent and of much merit. How often we place the standard of an individual's life on their financial possessions, rather than on character and usefulness. God's greatest gift to us was without money. The best things in life cannot be bought. Our health, God's sunshine, His pure air, the songs of the birds, all nature responding so beautifully. Our object in life should be to put our best into life, rather than get the most out of life. After enjoying the hostess' kind hospitality, a very pleasant meeting was brought to a close by singing "God Save the King."
The November meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Will Brooks. All the members are to donate fruit, jelly, material for quilts, etc.
Alford Women's Institute.
The concert which was to have been held on Thanksgiving night at Howell's school house, under the auspices of the Alford and Park Road Women's Institute, will be postponed until Friday evening, Oct. 10th. It is regretted that one of the most pleasing features of the last Institute meeting was omitted in the report, it being a very interesting and original paper by Mrs. Thomas Armstrong on "How to Keep Young."

BOARD OF WORKS AND PARKS BOARD

Hold Joint Session in Regard to Building of New Driveway.

The Parks Board met in conjunction with the Board of Works at the city hall last night when a great deal of important business was discussed and moves decided on.
The question of the proposed extension of the Toronto-Hamilton road paving to Brantford city was taken up, and upon the recommendation of the city engineer was referred to the board of works which advocated the appointing of a committee to go into the matter in detail. This step they will recommend the council to take. The meeting felt that the extension of this concrete road would be of immense good to the city besides affording excellent travelling facilities for the city and Brantford, it would give employment to a number of men in the city if it were started upon.
A committee was appointed to look into the matter of the driveway which it is proposed to build through the waterworks property beside the dam. Permission to do this was given some years ago and last night the matter was discussed at some length. The driveway, which will extend some two and a half miles through the land will be constructed 80 feet wide, with trees planted upon each side and a walk built on one side and a bridal walk upon the other. In the main it will be simply a continuation of a large driveway, which is a line of 12 miles embraces the whole city and suburbs, and also includes part of the Mohawk Park and the river, which it crosses twice.
Mayor Stroud of Paris, City Engineer Jones, Ald. Ward and Reeve Jennings were appointed to arrange for the furthering of the plans and construction of the driveway to be built in front of the Brant Sanatorium when this matter was taken up.
The St. Paul's avenue subway was also dealt with, and the board, after discussion proposed that an application for a committee to work in connection with the board of railway commissioners be made.
Plans and estimates will be drawn up by the city engineer relative to the widening of Water street from Victoria bridge to Lorne bridge. This matter was brought to the attention of the board and they decided to have the matter gone into. Improvements will be effected, as the street is not now in a condition worthy of the city.

JAILER BROWN'S ANNUAL REPORT

There Have Been 282 Prisoners Held in Durance of Year.

The annual report of Mr. Brown, the city jailer, has just been submitted, and it shows many interesting facts.
During the past year, ending September 30th, 282 prisoners have passed through his hands, 171 of whom have been sentenced and 92 acquitted after having been tried. Four of those incarcerated were found to be of unsound mind, and were sent to appropriate asylums.
Government prisoners have been held for 1334 days and municipal prisoners for 3502 days. 112 of the prisoners mentioned served sentences of under two months, while the rest had longer terms, while one was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.
One hundred and ninety of the prisoners were Canadians, 29 were English, 9 Irish, 9 Scotch, 13 Americans, and 22 were of other nationalities.
One hundred and seventy-five were unmarried and 97 were married, which goes to show that many of them have a steady effect upon men.
Figures which speak for themselves are: 202 temperate and 70 of temperate habits were of the prisoners of the year. Forty-three were found to be totally illiterate.
Twenty-three is the largest number who have ever been detained in the jail at one time, while five is the lowest number. There are six corridors in the prison. Abduction and assault were the most frequent causes of incarceration.
The expenditure for the year amounts to $3,503.24, and of this $2,150 is taken up in salaries. Cost of meals and clothing the prisoners was $1,000.29, while other incidentals, such as medicines and attentions to the residents of the cells totalled $354.30.

FACE STARVATION

Population of Brussels is in a Very Critical Position.

[By Special Wire to the Courier.]
LONDON, Oct. 2.—Seven hundred thousand persons in Brussels are facing starvation, according to Huel Gibson, the secretary of the American embassy there who is now in this city. The supply of flour in the Belgian capital will be exhausted to-day, and other staples are virtually all consumed. The last appropriation of flour to the citizens of Brussels will be given out this afternoon. Efforts to get food in from Antwerp have failed. In so much as Brussels is in charge of the Germans, the nations could not undertake to supply food to Brussels even if the transportation facilities were not practically cut off.

31 Steamers 11 Warships Took Troops

How Canada Carried Out Biggest of Military Undertakings.

[By Special Wire to the Courier.]
MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—A writer in the Daily Mail has sent from Rimouski the following description of the departure of the Canadian troops from Quebec:
"Thirty and one ships were there to carry the men, the horses and the supplies of the overseas expeditionary force. To convey that number of ships a fleet of eleven war vessels was requisitioned, the largest and most important ever effected on the Atlantic. It was carried out in a splendid manner. The movement from Valcartier was effected in fine style, and the embarkation and sailing followed as part of a well rendered plan. The movement of 31,400 troops and 8,000 horses, was the biggest action that Canada has ever undertaken and it was performed most faultlessly.
The movement from Valcartier started with the various units of the left half of the 12th Battalion, which was sent to Quebec to perform guard duty and ended with the departure from camp eight days later of the right half of the same battalion. The troops that moved in took possession of the wharves and the breakwater and when they disappeared one day, the red coats of the 28th regiment replaced the khaki, serges of the men of the 12th battalion. In these eight days the division had moved out of Valcartier; horses, artillery and transport wagons came over the eighteen miles of road, while the troops were sent by train.
"It had been intended to march all the men to Quebec, but the weather was unfavorable and plans were hastily made for the movement by train. It took five days to transfer the various units, an average of ten troops moving away from camp each day. The trains ran directly to the breakwater and the transfer to ships was promptly made. As the ships were filled they appeared off and steamed down the river to anchorage previously agreed on, and there met the naval convoy and afterwards set out to sea.
"There was little of the picturesque in all this business. There were no cheering crowds, in fact comparatively few people knew anything of what was going on."

Music and Drama

AT THE BRANT.
Patrons of the Brant Theatre were given a treat yesterday when a fine bill of talent was presented to big houses. The hit of the evening was the roaring farce, "Alaska or Bust," presented by Pistil, Kelly and Company. In a good old maritime scene they stir up comedy in an unprecedented manner and cause side-splitting laughter. There is lots of fun in the act.
The dramatic art is treated in a mirthful manner by Browne and Deaton and their act is smart and witty throughout.
More comedy is dispensed by the Hutchins, who as acrobats perform many wonderful tricks in a comical fashion which causes more convulsions.
The Valerius couple, an extra turn, provide astonishment with their mirthful feats of bar bending. An iron bar is bent from the teeth by the gentleman, while two persons hang to the ends of the iron. Other feats of strength are performed.
As fine a film as has yet been exposed and of great historical interest is the Charge of the Light Brigade, which gives a graphic depiction of the actual charge, as well as the culminating incidents.
CONSUL JUST ESCAPED
LONDON, Oct. 2.—A despatch from Rheims to the Exchange Telegraph Company, dated Wednesday, says: "Rheims was the scene of a fierce artillery duel this morning. During the bombardment, the American consul, William Bardel, had a narrow escape. A shell wrecked half of his residence over which the Stars and Stripes were flying."

Was Executed by Military at Bordeaux

BORDEAUX, Oct. 2.—Pierre Nasica was put to death to-day "for military reasons." It was the first executive execution under military law at the temporary capital, Nasica faced the end bravely. As he stepped from the automobile patrol wagon that brought him to the Arzac parade ground, the condemned man was rolling a cigarette which he smoked while he listened to the reading of his sentence. Then he shook hands with the chaplain, and stepping briskly to the execution post folded his arms and looked straight at the firing squad. He refused to have his eyes bandaged. At a sharp command a volley sounded. Nasica sank to his knees dead. Detachments from all the regiments of the Bordeaux garrison witnessed the execution, and when it was over de-filed past the body.

RUSSIA IS DRIVING IN THE ENEMY

Germans Defeated With Heavy Loss--A Tremendous Battle.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] PETROGRAD, Oct. 2.—The general staff has given out the following official communication: The Russian troops have continued to repulse the enemy from the boundaries of the government of Suwalki and Lomza. The engagement has been very fierce, west of Symno.

The Russian cavalry and vanguard are reconnoitering energetically through all that region, impeding through vigorous attacks the movement of the enemy. The Germans always endeavor to use the highways in Russian territory because the other roads, being rough paralyze their artillery trains.

An attack by the Russian cavalry against the German vanguard in front of Andrew, and marching on Kielce, was crowded with great success. The German infantry was caught unawares and is retreating in disorder, pursued by the Russian cavalry.

The bombardment of Ossowetz did damage to only a few private dwellings. It was particularly lines as the garrison was sheltered by numerous concrete walls.

The offensive by the Russian troops marching through the forests of Augustowo was not covered by the artillery south of Augustowo a hand to hand engagement took place. It was particularly fierce in the semicircle between the Bialobrozeg basin, which was crossed by a Russian column, and the Augustowo canal in the Polish basin.

The issue of this engagement was decided by an attack from Augustowo.

Northwest of the forest of Augustowo the Russians were compelled to attack the rear guard of the Germans through numerous defiles and in fortified positions where the Russians infantry received great help from their heavy artillery which caused great losses to the enemy who were dislodged from the entrenchments and retired under fire.

The battle is proceeding over an extensive front, the Germans occupying positions near Marjampol and Sosnowitz. Among them is that of General Gough, of Curragh fame, who saved his dashing cavalry from annihilation by a lightning like last moment decision.

Three times his gallant Hussars and Lancers formed up to charge the row of invisible German guns. Three times the gallant eighteen hundred had to disperse, the grand manoeuvre accomplished with bursting shells screaming overhead.

For the fourth time the brigade assembled. The men only awaited the word to charge. A score or more on the extreme right had actually anticipated an order to move forward when General Gough rode forward in the lead.

Those who had rode ahead heard the wild shout and turned in their saddles in time to save themselves. The brigade had been warned in the nick of time by airmen, who had seen the wire glimmering in a sudden burst of sunshine through the leaden sky.

BERLIN REPORTS BERLIN (By wireless to Savoyille, Oct. 2.—According to an announcement made in Berlin to-day the great battle in France is still undecided. The Germans are described as hammering the French positions at numerous points by their heavy artillery. The attempts of the allies to break through the German lines have been repulsed. The heaviest losses have been in the Argonne region.

LONDON IS CAUTIOUS

(Continued from Page 1) LONDON, Oct. 2.—Though all reports seem to agree that the German night in France has been sent back, the cautious tone of the brief official statements indicates that the battle of the Aisne is far from decided, and the British public, showing the patience that has characterized their demeanor since the outbreak of hostilities, find a sentimental stimulus in the safe arrival of the fine Indian contingent, the French soil, and the bull terrier-like resistance of the Antwerpians who, headed by their king, seek to check the German besiegers.

Whether two forts have fallen near Antwerp, as the Germans insist, or whether the Belgians have successfully repulsed the artillery onslaught, is a matter of conjecture here.

From the East through the various sources comes news of the Russian assault on Cracow and its vicinity, where two and a half million Germans and Austrians are said to be located.

The London papers, both editorially and in their news columns, embellished with pictures, make a feature of the landing of the Indian troops, and congratulate the war office on the successful feat of moving many transports from India without a single loss. Editorially the press emphasized the spirit of patriotism of the Indian.

Only guess can be hazarded on the strength of the Indian forces and their disposition, but of course, whatever has been done, has taken place long before the censor lifted the veil.

Whether the allies or the Germans hold St. Mihiel, between Verdun and Toul, is still undecided by the official statements from either side, nor is the situation around the heights of Roye, on the French left, clearly defined.

Last night the official Berlin communication said that the Heights of Roye were taken on September 30. This was preceded by the French official communication saying that violent fighting there had resulted in favor of the French. The London papers today insist the cryptic wording of the German statement is tantamount to an admission that Roye has been taken by the allies. However, this is a matter of inference only.

If the battle of Cracow is in full swing, then it is unquestionably one of the greatest struggles of the war, and possibly the forerunner of even more colossal engagements which will rage in Silesia.

Nothing definite has been heard in the last 24 hours of an engagement on the East Prussian frontier, where the Russians insist the German troops have met reverses and are being driven back.

The plight of the Belgians, as an incident of the bombardment of Antwerp, Lermonde and other points is becoming more pitiable and acute than that which followed the first advance of the Germans through their country.

Without doubt, the influence of the war, and possibly the forerunner of even more colossal engagements which will rage in Silesia.

No confirmation has been received to the report that the allied fleet has begun operations before Pola, the chief Austrian naval base.

He is Travelling From One Battle Front to Another.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] ROME, Oct. 2.—Emperor William says a telegram from Berlin, is going from one front to another. He travels in a special train of ten Pullman cars which formerly were painted white and blue, but which now have been repainted like the ordinary cars in order to protect the train from the bombs of French aviators.

When the emperor goes to places out of the reach of the railway he travels by automobile. Besides his aides and bodyguards he is also watched by secret field police.

ARE NOT WORRYING OVER GERMAN CRUISERS

Stories From Pacific Coast Do Not Alarm the Ottawa Authorities.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—Scare stories from the British Columbia coast about a prospective imminent raid on Canadian ports by German cruisers now on the Pacific are not taken very seriously by the Naval or Militia departments here. The incident reported a day or so ago at Valparaiso, in Peru, and the other two German war vessels of any account known to be on the Pacific were reported this week in the Fiji Islands. All three cruisers were some five thousand miles away from British Columbia.

A sporadic raid by one or all three cruisers on the Canadian coast is of course probable, but it is regarded in official circles here as being extremely improbable.

The board of education, Toronto, rebuked the university professors who protested against Principal Hagarty's anti-German speech.

THE SITUATION

The modern Armageddon still continues, and without much news filtering through of any actual import. Hundreds of thousands of men are in a death grip beyond any previous comparison, and all that the British army authorities will say is still the one word "satisfactory."

With that we all have to be content, but it does not seem within the range of human possibility that the tension can last much longer. That the Allies will ultimately force the Kaiser's troops out of France and then smash them on their own territory is practically certain.

The attack upon Antwerp is of grim significance. It is the chief commercial centre of Belgium and not far distant from the shores of Old Albion. That the Emperor and his war lords before this thing is through will attempt both by sea and air to wreak vengeance upon the tight little islands is practically certain.

THE NEW CABINET

As the outcome of the death of Sir James Whitney, Hon. Mr. Hearst becomes the new Premier of Ontario, and the Cabinet remains the same, with the exception that there is a new Minister of Public Works, and that Sir Adam Beck, who was minister without portfolio, drops out.

KIEL CANAL

The following article from "Water and Water Engineering" affords some interesting information: "Passing next to the strategic effect of water engineering, a prominent example of this is to be found in the Kiel Canal."

The canal is 56 miles long. Its banks are low and the ground is liable to subside with the slightest wash. A battleship could only proceed along the canal at its slowest speed, and would take at least twelve hours to pass from the Elbe to the Baltic.

Again, the entrance to the canal both at Kiel and at Brunsbutel, are narrow channels, affording insufficient depth at low water. A large battleship requiring something like 30 feet of depth could only navigate these waters at flood tide, and in rough weather there would be considerable risk of running aground.

OCCUPYING A TRADE VACUUM

The withdrawal from the Canadian market of much merchandise that prior to the war came from Continental Europe left, as it were, a trade vacuum, and a vacuum is abhorrent alike to Nature and to business.

The ceaseless effort on the part of business to expand itself has already led many a Canadian manufacturer to attempt to fill the void caused by the stoppage of imports from the countries at war.

The spinners and weavers of cotton are finding new and surprising uses for cotton, as a substitute for jute. Manufacturers of electrical equipment are fast finding substitutes for materials and parts hitherto obtained from abroad. The growing of sugar beets and the making of beet sugar will be stimulated in Canada as a consequence of war. Yarns, hosiery, underwear, gloves and garments for women and children, aforesaid imported, will now be produced in Canada.

Watch the advertising columns of the public press for proofs that Canadian manufacturers are making efforts to fill the trade vacuum.

A FISHERMAN'S HEROISM

A very fine act by the captain of a fishing steamer relieved the horror of one of the mine disasters caused by the German navy's warfare against non-combatants and neutrals. The steamer Runo, belonging to the Willson Line, was on a voyage from Hull to Archangel, with some 280 passengers, chiefly Russians, though some were Americans.

On the day she left port she struck a mine and sank, with some loss of life. Three steam trawlers, the Silonian, Prince Victor and Stratton, steamed up and rescued a large number of those who were struggling in the water.

As Skipper Wicks of the Stratton was driving in among the wreckage, the look-out man forward sighted two mines. "Look out, skipper, two mines ahead," he called. "Can't help it," shouted the skipper back. "It's risking lives to save lives."

GERMAN FINANCE AND THE WAR

A recent issue of the Revue des deux Mondes, the great French review, contains a passage on the origin of the war which is worthy of attention. The future historian, it says, "will understand that the present war is a financial arrangement made on the eve of bankruptcy, as much as it was the result of megalomania or a craze for fighting."

Financial Germany was in great difficulties; its colossal operations had always been unfortunate; it had schemed too much, risked too much, made too large advances in goods and money to customers of doubtful credit, both in Germany and throughout the world; it had accustomed its buyers to prices and transactions which did not leave the necessary profit to the manufacturer or to the German capitalist, and it was necessary to do something drastic to bolster up the financial edifice which was tottering to its foundations.

The Romance of Red Trousers

Chicago Tribune:—"Folk have been groping around for a reason which might explain satisfactorily why a nation so alert as the French, preparing for a war they believed inevitable, should defy all the color theories experimented upon by military men everywhere and send their soldiers into action in red trousers. The French believe that in war the spirit of the troops is everything. War is not a practical business. It's a romantic affair. It's not one of cold efficiency. It's one of inspired exaltation. It's a fury. It needs organization and equipment, strategy and tactics, but, above all, it needs soul. That is undoubtedly the French view. Their republican troops, untrained, went out over a hundred years ago and by the spirit of their attack threw back the professional armies of Europe. Elan is the supreme requirement. Exaltation needs high colors. It is not a sober quality. The red legs of France are the visible tokens of its military spirit. The French may have reasoned that they must take the chance of exposing their soldiers physically to nourish them spiritually. They may know their own men. They may know that the Germans would fight just as well in brown, black, crimson, or yellow, but that the French need their trappings; that what they require is not protective but exciting coloration. If there be not some such explanation as this the red legs of France will be charged up against the authorities in France as a criminal and murderous blunder."

CARRYING DESPATCHES

Many a Trick Resorted to Hide Papers From Enemy

"The military despatch bearer," the late Archibald Forbes used to say, "must combine the artfulness of the Chinese, the skill in disguise of the actor, and the scorn of danger of a V.C. hero, if he is to carry his life through the thousand risks of his calling."

In the old days, when war moved on leaden feet, a favorite method of conveying a message through the enemy's lines was to write the despatch on the shaven head of a slave, allow the hair to grow again, and then send the courier with his message, which a second shaving of the head revealed. A messenger, disguised as a pilgrim, would carry a parchment roll concealed in the hollow interior of his staff, and an arrow shot over the enemy's head would carry a message into a besieged fortress in the Middle Ages.

That the war courier of to-day is as daring and resourceful as his long-gone predecessors many a story proves. In the South Sea Islands the Kaffir runner was invaluable as a despatch carrier, eluding the Boers by his invisibility on dark nights and by his assumption of childish ignorance. If he was interested, the gullible child of Nature would hiss, "Me no speak English; me farmer's boy. Me hate English."

One of these wily creatures was caught between Mafeking and Kuruman, and for once his assumption of guilelessness failed to convince. He was stripped by the Boers, but the Kaffir runner search failed to reveal a scrap of incriminating paper, and he was dismissed with a parting kick. No wonder he chuckled as he sped away, for he carried in one of his nostrils a quill containing an important despatch.

Equally successful was a young Scotsman who fooled the Boers with his charming amiability. "Despatches? No," he laughed. "Catch me carrying despatches. What have you got there?" asked the Boer commandant, pointing to a parcel the canny Scot was carrying. "Only a few sandwiches. Will you no' take one?" was the smiling answer, as the Scotch Briton unrolled his napkin and offered the burghers some of his fare. The Boers declined the hospitable offer, and the Scot got away with priceless papers concealed in his sandwiches and in a hard-boiled egg.

WHEN SOCIALISM FAILED

Followers of Marx Rushed to Join the Colors

The London "Daily Herald," a syndicalist organ is very much concerned at the failure of the French and German Socialists to revolt against military service. It says: "Perhaps the most terrible side of the struggle is the part played by the workers at the supreme moment of crisis. There are four and a half million Social Democrats in Germany who have been as nothing. They have in no wise affected the issue."

"In France, the Prime Minister is a former leader of the Socialist party. Is he then dead to the inspiration of his ideals? Does he come to bring no peace but a sword? "Is there something essentially wrong in this Continental Socialism? Is it too materialistic in nature to understand the real significance of the struggle? It says: "The two parties are not antagonistic to that of his French brother? Have they seen no so compelling sense of brotherhood, in the principles they have preached? "To let this war go on involves the certainty that for our brothers abroad at any rate, 50 years of Socialist propaganda has been in vain. Louis Blanc, Marx, Lassalle erected a super-structure; but its foundations were of sand."

TIGHT CENSORSHIP

Even the Court Newsmen Had to Modify Language

One of the most remarkable features of the war in England has been the completeness of the censorship and the unanimity with which the censors have been assisted by the newspaper themselves. In keeping anything that might be of value to the enemy. Even the King has been censored. The Court Circular, the official document issued every night by the court messengers, giving an account of the King's movements for the day, contained the information that the King and Queen had visited Aldershot to review the troops there on their departure for the front. The newspapers had been warned that nothing must be printed about the movements of troops and this indiscreet phrase was spotted at once in several offices and the censor was warned. What he did has not been disclosed, but half an hour later the court newsmen were ringing up every newspaper office in London and imploring them to delete the dangerous words from the Court Circular.

Prayer Outside to Capture

An Austrian court, sailing for home from New York to take part in the war against Serbia as lieutenant in a cavalry regiment, said that the officers of the Austrian army "are supplied with small vials of poison, which, if they are captured, will be used to destroy themselves rather than undergo indignities at the hands of their enemies."

The danger of firing upwards at air craft is that, if the bullet misses its mark, it will descend and endanger those below.

An aeroplane salutes by dipping and rising in the air.

Press Comment

A New Life

Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph:—"With new and improved policies for Poland and the Jews with a new name for St. Petersburg, and a new flag for Russia, it may be that the autocracy has entered on a new and better life."

Impatient With Militarists

Providence, R. I. Journal:—"From the beginning of human history man has tried to shut out disagreeable facts but shutting them out has not changed them. There is no doubt a growing desire in Germany for peace and an increasing impatience with the militarist clique."

Glory Needs a Printing Press

Chicago Tribune:—"A hero cannot exist in a dark room. He must fill the eye. In modern times the best friend of glory is the newspaper. A hero may circulate modestly by pinning a cross, a ribbon, or a button on his coat, and taking to the boulevards, but this is unsatisfactory. Glory needs a printing press."

"Business As Usual"

Grand Rapids Press:—"War has its slogans no less than peace. Here are the latest from the front: "Germany—'As in 1870.' "Russia—'On to Berlin.' "Belgium—'Hold the forts.' "France—'Alsace-Lorraine.' "Britain—'Business as usual.' "Loyal Jack Cannon."

New York Press

The news that Canada has sent 32,000 men to the front is not at all surprising to those who know Canada. The Dominion is and always has been more loyal than the King. No Tory in London is more devoted to the crown than the average citizen of Toronto. If it did not interfere with his business he would set his clock by London time."

Britain's Loss of Trade

Springfield Republican:—"It is properly stated that the great achievement of the British navy thus far has been the making of the sea routes comparatively safe for 4,000 merchant ships which are indispensable to Great Britain's foreign trade. Yet the kingdom cannot be at war even under these conditions without suffering severe losses. British exports in August fell off by $100,000,000 and the imports by $65,000,000, compared with a year ago."

No Politics Now

(From La Patrie.) The other day Mr. Gauvreau, Liberal M.P. for Temiscouata, made a speech at St. Hubert, in which he attacked the government and protested against the sending of troops at this time, as well as the sending of flour to Great Britain. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Levesque have judged it proper to support the Borden government, and to approve of all the measures it has taken to allow Canada to participate with honor in the defence of the Empire, and the destruction of the German power. No discordant voice has been heard until Mr. Gauvreau committed his indiscretion. The two parties are united. Liberals and Conservatives have generously and patriotically joined hands.

because they understand that political quarrels are sterile and unimportant in face of the terrible danger with which Great Britain and France, the two great civilizing nations, are threatened. The only thought of the present hour is to furnish men and supplies to the Mother country."

A Microscopic Point

New York Globe:—"The cause of the war is this (in Russia's Orange Paper) reduced to a microscopic point. Germany declared war because Russia was making military preparations. Russia was willing to stop her military preparations if Austria would take out of her Serb ultimatum the demands that Austria should take part in Servian judicial proceedings and that Servia should dismiss from her service all persons that Austria should put on a list to be furnished. Europe and the world are paying dearly for Austria's insistence on unprecedented demands and for Germany's refusal to counsel her ally to modify her attitude."

Re-Casting the Map

Boston Transcript:—"People talk now about the 'dismemberment of Germany' and resolving it into a number of small states, but all such talk is premature. Germany is a great fact and one not lightly to be ignored. It is Great Britain's consuming desire to prevent German militarism resuming its old power, it may be equal by the British desire not to see Russia throw its gigantic shadow too far over the map of Europe. France naturally will look for a guarantee against German aggression, but it will not relish becoming subsidiary to Great Britain. There are plenty of chances, therefore, that the terms of peace may be disappointing to those who now, while the war is in progress, clamor for a radical readjustment of the relations of the great Powers of Europe."

Why Perfidious?

(New York Globe.) Whatever her enemies may say of England's policy it is difficult to understand how any man of sense can call it perfidious in the present stance. Surely she has made no bones about her hostility to Germany. That Germans should resent it is only human nature. But there is a strange incongruity in the epithets they apply to it. On the one hand, they point out how England has for years joined with the other powers in thwarting German attempts at expansion in Morocco and elsewhere. On the other hand, they profess to be amazed at finding her still in the same attitude. In one sentence they recall the abuse and the jingo desire for the destruction of German mercantile marine. In the next they reproach England for perfidy in doing what they claim she had long intended to do.

BURFORD GAVE QUICK RESPONSE TO THE REQUEST

Branch of the War Relief Association Was Organized Yesterday.

A splendid response was made by the citizens of Burford and Cathar yesterday to the representatives of the Brant Patriotic and War Relief Association. A meeting which was largely and representatively attended was held in an hour, addresses made and a Burford branch of the organization was formed. Messrs. John Muir, W. D. Schultz and R. E. Ryerson made the trip and explained the object of the association to those assembled. Burford's response was immediate and it was moved by Mr. T. R. McLennan, seconded by Mr. W. F. Miles, that Burford Township Branch Patriotic and War Relief Association amalgamate with the Brant Patriotic and War Relief Association.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres.—John E. Fraser. Hon. Vice-Pres.—Maj. W. K. Muir. President—C. F. Saunders. Secretary—Wm. R. Smilie. Treasurer—R. J. Lennan. Executive: Dr. Johnstone W. F. Miles, E. A. Burgis, Allan Kneale, Dr. Rutherford, N. A. McCallum.

SAMOA IS NOW BRITISH

Great Feeling of Elation Over Capture, by New Zealand.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 2.—Over the scud and the palm trees of Samoa the English flag flies once more, replacing the flag of Germany which has floated there just fifteen years. Australia is naturally elated over the possession of Great Britain over the seizure of Apia and the rest of German Samoa by the expeditionary force from New Zealand a few days ago. It is felt that with the islands in the possession of Great Britain, German prestige and trade will be lessened, along with the loss by Germany of her only coin of advantage in the waters immediately bordering Australia. The Antipodian Britons have demonstrated their duty to themselves to strike a blow for the Empire, and that the territory which has been so closely associated with the history of New Zealand, and has been sought by her invasion in former years is now under the domination of her own military for annexation to the dominion when the day of reckoning comes, and that there is a certain sentimental satisfaction in the fact that Robert Lewis Stevenson's grave will no longer be on alien but on British soil.

Particulars of the occupation of Apia are not yet available, but that it was without bloodshed is a cause for gratification. "The loss of her possessions in Samoa," says the Sydney Morning Herald, "to quote only one jubilant newspaper, "is a significant indication of the inevitable effect of this war on German trade. Already the labor of two generations has been destroyed. For many years past German administration and German merchants have endeavored to capture the whole trade of the Pacific for their countrymen. In the north they have gone further than any other nation in allowing credit to Japanese buyers. Further south they have endeavored to exclude competition by every conceivable means by harbor and customs duties, by subsidies to steamers and by prohibition. In sundry hands government intervention might have failed to awaken trade. But though their failure as colonists has been consistent and ludicrous, the German merchants have applied to the Pacific the methods by which they have captured so much of the frozen meat trade in Australia. By the challenge of their rule, the German credit system will no longer be at the service of German merchants by whom it was manipulated in their trade with Japan. In the south the islands will be open to the trade of all nations on equal footing.

ARTILLERY DUEL

LONDON, Oct. 2.—An official statement issued at Antwerp, and sent by the correspondents of the Exchange Telegraph Company, says: "There has been a fierce artillery duel all day (Thursday). Some of the German batteries which ventured too close to the forts were demolished. The enemy moved in the direction of Wavre-St. Catharines, but were stopped by darkness."

Robert Carr, a boy, was knocked by a cyclist at the corner of Queen and Parliament streets, Toronto, and seriously injured.

WHY NOT?

Why not choose Corsets which make the most of your figure? Why not wear modish models which give the lithe, willowy lines demanded by the present vogue? Why not have the very best, not only in style, but in service and satisfaction, especially when you can secure all this at a moderate price? Crompton Corsets represent all that is good in corsetry. Just try a pair and note the improvement in your figure. Remember, too, Crompton Corsets are warranted to wear and not to rust. Prices range 50c to $4.50. —Annex, Queen and Colborne.

CAUSED RIOT ON RETURN TO NATIVE LAND

Sikhs Who Were Sent Back From Canada Raise a Fuss.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—In a despatch from Calcutta, the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company describes briefly a mutiny of Sikhs at Bajaj, ten miles from Calcutta, in which sixteen of the Indians were killed. The correspondent says a communication issued by the Bengal government is as follows: "The Sikh passengers on the steamer Komagata Maru who were refused permission to board at Vancouver, B.C. arrived at Bajaj last Saturday. Some of them refused to board a train for the Punjab, and opened fire with their revolvers. One European was killed and several others, including the commissioner of police, were wounded. One Punjab policeman was killed and several were wounded. Troops were compelled to fire to check the rushes of the Sikhs, and 16 of the rioters were killed. The remainder were scattered to surrounding villages, and later were rounded up.

The Hindus who mutinied at Bajaj are the men who more than three months resisted the Canadian government's order of deportation, but who finally were compelled to return to India from Vancouver on the same ship that brought them out on the Japanese steamer Komagata Maru. This steamer, with 352 Hindus on board, reached Vancouver in April of this year. She sailed on her return trip July 23. During this time the status of the East Indians was passed upon by the highest courts of Canada, which finally ruled that they could not land.

RUSSIA'S MILLION

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The Rome correspondent of the Havas Agency says a despatch from Petrograd to the Giornale D'Italia, states that in the great battle, which is to take place in the region of Cracow, Galicia, the Russian strength will be 1,000,000 men with powerful artillery, under the command of General Rozsky, Brusiloff and Dimitrioff.

The Governor-General, the Duke of Cornwall, who is to take place in the statue of King Edward.

W. F. COCKSHUTT Addressed Canadian Club of Niagara Falls Last Evening on the War.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., was the guest and speaker of the evening at the opening meeting of the Canadian Club last night in Niagara Falls. His subject was, "The Present War and Canada's Duty." He first dwelt upon the causes leading to hostilities, and said that Great Britain was thoroughly justified in her action. She had entered upon her course with a clean conscience and a sincere knowledge that she was fully justified. The speaker also dwelt upon the vast extent of the conflict and applauded the Canadians who had volunteered for the front. He had no doubt that even to a second, or third contingent, or more there would be plenty of applicants. The duty of those of us at home was to provide in an ample way for the families and dependents left behind. War had some compensations, and many women who had hitherto devoted much time to social functions were now busily engaged making necessary comforts for the soldiers. Mr. Cockshutt was the guest of Mr. Murray, formerly manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada here, and now manager of the branch in the place named.

Italy Shows Friendship for England

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A cable to the Tribune from Rome says: "The sympathy and friendship of the people of Italy for England are growing daily. There is great activity both in the army and navy. Every day the country is getting more thoroughly prepared and equipped for any eventuality, either by land or sea. The Italian fleet was never before in such a fine condition. Officers and men are burning to show their mettle. The bluejackets, who gained the nickname of 'Sea Garibaldi' for bravery in occupying and keeping Tripoli, are eager again to prove their profession. The reserves, called out and under arms since the war began, are pitting their training against that of the veterans."

It was stated that British Territorials, including the celebrated London Scottish volunteers, have reached the allies front in France.

The fourth payment of civic relief to the dependants of the war volunteers took place this morning when $1006.95 was distributed to about 125 women.

WATER PUMPED

There was an increase in the daily average of the amount of water pumped at the civic waterworks for September, 1914, as compared with the same month last year. The figures are September, 1913, 123,532,333 gal.; 1914, 137,002,404.

BIG ATTENDANCE

The Collegiate Institute night classes resumed work last evening, and the big enrollment of 400 was most encouraging to trustees and teachers. Chairman Lahey and other members of the board attended the opening, and the teachers addressed the classes on the work which would be taken up during the winter. The classes were dismissed early and work will be commenced in earnest on Monday next. The class nights are Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Was Prosecutor.

Mr. W. S. Brewster, K.C., was the Crown Prosecutor at St. Catharines this week when a verdict of manslaughter, with recommendation of clemency was returned by the jury against Jesse Ward, the Grimshy procurer, charged with the murder of Percy Sparling, of Queen street west, a storekeeper, of Toronto, at Grimsby Beach on the morning of August 2. The verdict was reached after a deliberation of two hours, upon the receipt of which Chief Justice Falconbridge reserved sentence.

BURFORD GAVE QUICK RESPONSE TO THE REQUEST

Branch of the War Relief Association Was Organized Yesterday.

A splendid response was made by the citizens of Burford and Cathcart yesterday to the representatives of the Brant Patriotic and War Relief Association. A meeting which was largely and representatively attended was secured in an hour, addresses made and a Burford branch of the organization was formed. Messrs. John Muir, W. D. Schultz and R. E. Ryerson made the trip and explained the object of the association to those assembled. Burford's response was immediate and it was moved by Mr. T. R. McLennan, seconded by Mr. W. F. Miles, that Burford Township Branch Patriotic and War Relief Association amalgamate with the Brant Patriotic and War Relief Association.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres.: Col. John Z. Fraser. Hon. Vice-Pres.: Maj. W. K. Muir. President: C. F. Saunders. Secretary: Wm. S. McGee. Treasurer: T. R. McLennan. Executive: Dr. Johnstone W. F. Miles, E. A. Burgis, Allan Kneale, Dr. Rutherford, N. A. McCallum.

SAMOA IS NOW BRITISH

Great Feeling of Elation Over Capture, by New Zealand.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 2.—"Over the sand and the palm trees" of Samoa the English flag flies once more, replacing the flag of Germany which has floated there just fifteen years. Australia is naturally elated over the seizure of Apia and the rest of German Samoa by the expeditionary force from New Zealand a few days ago. It is felt that with the islands in the possession of Great Britain German prestige abroad will be lessened, along with the loss by Germany of her only coin of advantage in the waters immediately near Australia, that the Antipodians have demonstrated their duty to themselves to strike a blow for the Empire, and that the territory which has been so closely associated with the history of New Zealand, and has been sought by her invasion in former years is now under the domination of her own military for annexation to the dominion when the day of reckoning comes, and that there is a certain sentimental satisfaction in the fact that Robert Lewis Stevenson's grave will no longer be on alien but on British soil. Particulars of the occupation of Apia are not yet available, but that it was without bloodshed is a cause for gratification.

"The loss of her possessions in Samoa," says the Sydney Morning Herald, to quote only one jubilant newspaper, "is a significant indication of the inevitable effect of this war on German trade. Already the labor of two generations of German merchants has been captured to capture the whole trade of the Pacific for their countrymen. In the north they have gone further than any other nation in allowing credit to Japanese buyers. Further south they have endeavored to exclude competition by every conceivable means by harbor and customs duties, by subsidies to steamers and by prohibition. In unskilled hands government ventum might have failed to awaken trade. But though their failure as colonists has been consistent and ludicrous, the German as merchants have applied to the Pacific the methods by which they have captured so much of the frozen meat trade in Australia. By the challenge of their ruler to Great Britain, all this patient enterprise has been reduced to nothing. The British credit system will no longer be at the service of German merchants by whom it was manipulated in their trade with Japan. In the south the islands will be open to the trade of all nations on equal footing.

ARTILLERY DUEL

LONDON, Oct. 2.—An official statement issued at Antwerp, and sent by the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company, says: "There has been a fierce artillery duel all day (Thursday). Some of the German batteries which ventured too close to the forts were demolished. The enemy moved in the direction of Wavre-St. Catharines, but were stopped by darkness."

Robert Carr, a boy, was knocked by a cyclist at the corner of Queen and Parliament streets, Toronto, and seriously injured.

CAUSED RIOT ON RETURN TO NATIVE LAND

Sikhs Who Were Sent Back From Canada Raise a Fuss.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—In a despatch from Calcutta, the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company describes briefly a mutiny of Sikhs at Bajbaj, ten miles from Calcutta, in which sixteen of the Indians were killed. The correspondent says a communication issued by the Bengal government is as follows: "The Sikh passengers on the steamer Komagata Maru who were refused permission to land at Vancouver, B.C., arrived at Bajbaj last Saturday. Some of them refused to board a train for the Punjab, and opened fire with their revolvers. One European was killed and several others, including the commissioner of police, were wounded. One Punjab policeman was killed and several were wounded. Troops were compelled to fire to check the rushes of the Sikhs, and 16 of the rioters were killed. The remainder were scattered to surrounding villages, and later were rounded up.

RUSSIA'S MILLION

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The Rome correspondent of the Havas Agency says a despatch from Petrograd to the Giornale D'Italia, states that in the great battle which is to take place in the region of Cracow, Galicia, the Russian strength will be 1,000,000 men with powerful artillery, under the command of Generals Rozsky, Brusiloff and Dimitrioff.

W. F. COCKSHUTT

Addressed Canadian Club of Niagara Falls Last Evening on the War.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., was the guest and speaker of the evening at the opening meeting of the Canadian Club last night in Niagara Falls. His subject was, "The Present War and Canada's Duty." He first dwelt upon the causes leading to hostilities, and said that Great Britain was thoroughly justified in her action. She had entered upon her course with a clean conscience and a sincere knowledge that she was fully justified. The speaker also dwelt upon the vast extent of the conflict and applauded the Canadians who had volunteered for the front. He had no doubt that even to a second, or third contingent, or more there would be plenty of applicants. The duty of those of us at home was to provide in an ample way for the families and dependents left behind. War had some compensations, and many women who had hitherto devoted much time to social functions were now busily engaged making necessary comforts for the soldiers. Mr. Cockshutt was the guest of Mr. Murray, formerly manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada here, and now manager of the branch in the place named.

BRITISH OPINION ABOUT THE CAUSES OF THE WAR

A War of Fear.
(From the London Times.)
The war, inspired by a state of universal and accumulated fear, is by groups rather than by nations, and is governed by an intricate system of alliances, in which we have just discovered, to the general astonishment, that we were, in honor, partners. The result is that no single or easily explicable political purpose can be assigned to it. Its one salient good will be the early and complete destruction of German militarism, for which we all pray; a militarism which has trampled to its end in contempt of every public and private right, its grand parallel evil may be the aggrandisement of Russia. We, in particular, are at war in behalf of France the noblest member of the European family, and for Serbia, the basest. But its absorbing fact is the dominance of the Power of Darkness—of groping error and ignorance—which evoked it. In the second great home of Christendom, the words of Jesus, spoken to redeem mankind from just such a desolating crime as this, are as if they had never been said. The world must for months do without the thoughts of its best and wisest, spoken to redeem mankind from just such a desolating crime as this, are as if they had never been said. The world must for months do without the thoughts of its best and wisest, spoken to redeem mankind from just such a desolating crime as this, are as if they had never been said.

iorating power of individual and state effort to a degree hitherto undreamed of in history, has temporarily been sunk in earthquake and eclipse. Science, divided like every moral force against itself, must on the one hand, be spent in fortifying the destructive power of man against man, and on the other, in mitigating its extreme calamities. European statesmanship has with its own hands torn up its limit projects for relieving the always pitiful lot of the poor. The society of hope and ideas lies in ruins; in months or years to come our enfeebled hands must collect its broken stones and try to rebuild it.

Why War Is Hell.
About twenty years ago a young German who had invented a valuable process for the manufacture of certain chemicals came to this country to be nearer the chief markets. Business prospered, the money flowed in, and the young German chose a wife from the people of his fosterland.
Last July he took his wife across the ocean on a vacation trip, and chiefly so that their first child might be born in the Fatherland. He was expected to be back in America by now with his wife and new baby, but the iron finger of war reached out and tapped him on the shoulder. Within a few days after the child was born, the government's military emissary stopped at the German's door and notified him that his services were required in the armies of the Kaiser. There was no excuse. He had neglected to take out American naturalization papers.
His wife has not heard from her husband since the day she kissed him in a heart-broken farewell. For all she knows he lies six feet deep in the hastily dug trenches before Liege or stark on the plains of Charleroi. The business which he built up in this country with such cheerful pains is rapidly going to ruin in the hands of an inexperienced and distracted relative.
Total of 16,000,000 Men
The Scientific American has another article showing the stupendous number of men already under arms or available for the conflict. The whole fighting strength of trained men in the nations involved numbers something like 16,000,000. It is shown that there are facing each other on a 250 mile battle line, reaching from Antwerp, Belgium, to Basle, Switzerland, approximately 2,500,000 men, about equally divided between the allied French British and Belgians, and the allied Germans and Austrians. These represent the standing armies of the flower of the national troops engaged.

To the east along the borders of Germany and Austria, Germany has massed some 600,000 of her second line of reserves, and Austria is moving to her own northern frontiers, and to the assistance of Germany in Alsace-Lorraine another 400,000 men. Russia has announced that her mobilization is complete, which means that she is moving down upon the German and Austrian frontiers her standing army of over 1,250,000 men.
And the while these 5,000,000 troops are on the fighting line, there are being gradually assembled at the various camps and equipped for the field as they are needed, the 10,000,000 trained reserves—every one having spent two or three years with the colors.
In all the countries engaged in this war, except England, military service is compulsory. In England service is voluntary, the men enlisting for seven years, at the close of which they enter the reserve. The war strength of the English army is 150,000 men, and of these three army corps, or 120,000 have been landed on the continent and form part of the allied army. The whole of the reserves, 470,000 strong, have been called to the colors, and will be sent to strengthen the allies.
Compulsory service or conscription as practiced in the German army, where it was first fully developed, is broadly representative in its operation of the practice in all European armies.
Actual service in the German army begins at the age of 20. The young man joins the colors and remains with them three years. He then passes to the reserves for four years, during which he is called out for training with his corps twice for a period of about six weeks. He is then drafted into the "first ban" of the Landwehr for five years, in which he is given two trainings lasting from eight to fourteen days. At 32 he passes into the "second ban," where he remains until he is 40. He now passes into the first ban of the Landsturm, where he remains until his forty-fifth year. The second ban of the Landsturm consists of men who have had no military training.

BERLIN PAPER SAYS BRITISH HAVE SUPPLIED CHECK TO GERMANS
AMSTERDAM, (via London), Oct. 1, 9:25 p.m.—The Berliner Tageblatt in a leading article says: "The German people await anxiously, but with confidence, further news from the French war theatre. The news of the great advance of the French troops against the flank of our line would not unbalance us. We know that our front line is protected by broad echelons (line behind line), the south end of one overlapping the north end of the line ahead) which are ready to oppose such an enterprise.
"Even if the French or English forces advance still further on the northwest direction, they will always encounter echelons, which our commanders have kept back in expectation of such advances.
"The influence of the British reinforcements makes itself more and more felt. They are effective to impede us, though the results will not be lasting. Victory must be ours all the same. If it is gained after difficulties, it will be all the more worth while.
"The centre of the battle front is silent, listening breathlessly to the struggle on both wings. Around Verdun a decision comes nearer; we have forced our way through the forest of Argonne, but found on the heights on the west of the Meuse a strong position, which the enemy had prepared. The French are experts at building positions in their rear.
"French Prepared Before War.
"We know that such positions were, as far as possible, constructed long before the outbreak of the war."
"After expressing the opinion that the German armies between Verdun and Argonne constitutes a great menace to the French, the article continues:
"But the obstinacy of the French attack, which always returns, and the advance against us deserve just appreciation, and will have taught a lesson to all who expected an easy time."

Military Notes
A provisional school for N.C.O.'s was held in the armories last night under S.M. Oxtoby and Col. Sgt. Bolt. The sixty-four members of this class go to their work enthusiastically and promise by the end of the six weeks term to produce some budding aspirants for the soldier's first dignity, "a dog's leg," i.e. single chevrons. This is the largest class ever held in the history of the regiment and the first time local instructors have conducted such a series and naturally the officers feel very proud of this innovation in regimental history.
Week-End Manoeuvres.
There is some talk among members of the 38th that the battalion would benefit greatly at the present time if the powers that be could see their way clear to hold a week-end training on the Saturday, Sunday and Monday of Thanksgiving week. Billington and "bivvying" would suit the men equally well. While nothing may come of this proposal, it serves to show the splendid spirit animating the battalion at present.
G Company will parade at Armories at 7 o'clock Saturday for class fitting at Mohawk Ranges. Conveyances leave about 1.15 p.m.
Captain Ward has given a medal to be presented to the soldier holding the highest marks in shooting for 1914-15.
ITALIAN VENDETTA
CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Another Italian Vendetta murder was committed here last night and the police met with the silence to which they have grown accustomed among those who might furnish evidence, with which to trace the guilty. Antonio Dandemo, his wife Rose and his brother James, were returning home last night from a theatre when a storm of bullets was fired at them from an alley. Mrs. Dandemo died in a hospital today. Dandemo is said to be dying, while James Dandemo was wounded in the head. The Dandemos were strangers in the neighborhood.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR
It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Thickness.
Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old time recipe.
Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.
INTERESTING ACTION.
LONDON, Oct. 1.—The High Court denied to day the application made on behalf of a British creditor of the German gun making firm of Krupp, to appoint a receiver for the firm's assets in England, which are estimated at more than $1,000,000. The court pointed out that the creditors were safe. Counsel for the plaintiff argued that shares might be transferred to some American firm until after the war, and then re-transferred to the Krupp company. "After the war you could sell to the Krupp Company," remarked the justice, "but the security would then be gone," remarked the lawyer.

TALY WAS FOOLED INTO JOINING TRIPLE ALLIANCE

Italians Later Found Out the Treachery of It All and People Detest the Treaty.

Crispi's memoirs, which have unexpectedly appeared, make very interesting reading at the present time, since they throw a strong light upon the circumstances in which Italy joined the Triple Alliance, and explain why she has now practically abandoned it. Through the diary from which the memoirs are compiled was written with no idea that it would ever become public, it deals minutely with affairs of state, and it would appear that Crispi was keeping a record from which his own memory might be refreshed from time to time. In the memoirs we trace the beginning and the end of the faith in Germany that animated Italian statesmen of a generation ago, and the birth and the death of the Triple Alliance, which was the strongest motive for Italy when she entered the pact with Germany and Austria. But though Crispi was the greatest statesman produced by Italy in the last few years, he was not more than a mediocre international affairs than he knew. He was not aware of Bismarck's well concealed plans, which Bismarck himself later revealed, and which only toward the close of his career did he begin dimly to perceive that Italy had been used as a mere cat's paw from Berlin.

Italian Instinct Right

Oddly enough the common people of Italy divined the true trend of German policy long before their most distinguished diplomat. He tells us of strong murmurings of dissatisfaction which he thought it to be his duty to quell. Of course he had information not available to the average man which seemed to prove to him that the alliance with Germany and Austria was for Italy's advantage. But the man in the street in Italy was the original "man from Missouri." He knew there was an understanding among the three powers, but its exact scope he did not know. Nevertheless he was not blind to the fact that Italy appeared to be getting something out of it. He demanded to be "shown," and Crispi was unable to show him. Later on Crispi came to the conclusion that the Italian instinct was right and that he and the other diplomats had been misled.

A Talk With Bismarck

He tells of a very interesting conversation with Bismarck, in which he discussed with the German Chancellor the possibility of an alliance between France and Germany as a check upon possible Russian aggression. Bismarck must have smiled at the suggestion, but he said that although he would like an alliance with France, he was too near the war with France to be considered. He similarly disposed of the suggestion that France and Germany should come to an understanding that would limit their expenditure upon armaments. Again protesting his willingness to give every possible guarantee for peace, he said that the thing was impracticable. What one country might consider disarmament, another country would consider preparation for war. The dictionaries, he declared, gave no fitting definition of the term "disarmament," and for the present therefore, he was reluctantly obliged to conclude that the matter was not in the range of practical politics.

Italy Left Alone

Crispi's eyes and the eyes of Italians generally began to slowly open to German policy when, with the consent of the Berlin Government, France started upon her career of colonization in Tunis. Italy protested that this move cost her her liberty in the Mediterranean, and that she would thereafter be subjected to perpetual menace. Germany, however, was perfectly willing that France should continue her African conquests, because they would distract France's attention from her, and at the time Germany could not see that the North African coast was useful to her. Austria, too, remained dumb and Italy was left alone to adjust herself to the encroachments of France. Later on, when Italy sought to come to an understanding with France whereby each country should continue her colonization plans with the consent of the other, she was told that as long as she remained a member of the Triple Alliance no understanding was possible. Thus Italy found that the Triple Alliance was injuring her in two quarters. It did not give her the diplomatic backing which he required in dealing with France, and it also made France unwilling to make any concessions to her.

Italy the Dope

The root of the whole trouble, so far as Italy was concerned, lay in the fact that Germany and Austria were not dealing fairly with her. Between Austria and Italy there was constant friction over the Adriatic Province that had been taken from Italy. There was a great popular desire to rearrange the boundary in the Tyrol, and Crispi hoped that he might be able to induce Austria to grant concessions there. For this reason he showed himself extremely friendly to Austria whenever occasion offered. To such an extent was this desire manifested that on one occasion his life was attempted by an Italian patriot who thought Crispi disloyal. Germany, too, as we all know now, was successful in keeping Austria and Italy from coming to an understanding, and was also influential in breeding suspicion between Italy and France. The whole object of the Alliance, so far as Germany was concerned, was to keep France and Italy from a natural alliance, and it is this fact that is realized to-day in Italy, and partly explains why she has refused to enter this war as an ally of her former partners.

THE FIRST SEA LORD WON HIS POSITION

Prince Louis of Battenberg Was Not Favored on Account of His Blood—Refused a Crown

Royal rank has played no part in the career of Prince Louis of Battenberg, the first sea lord of the Admiralty. He is a man who has won his position solely by hard work, cleverness, and ability. Forty-nine years ago, at the age of fourteen, having become a naturalized British subject, he began his career by sailing round the world as a cadet on the old Arctusa, and at forty, having by that time been selected for captain's rank, he had won the distinction of being referred to by Lord Fisher (then Sir John Fisher) as "my best captain."

His organizing ability, unusual mechanical inventiveness—he has devised a long signalling apparatus, also an ingenious instrument for indicating a vessel's course and speed—and his good, all-round qualities have made Prince Louis of Battenberg one of the most popular officers in the British Navy. It is not the least distinction of Prince Louis of Battenberg that he once refused the crown of Bulgaria.

It is not the least distinction of Prince Louis of Battenberg that he once refused the crown of Bulgaria.

PRINCE LOUIS OF BATTENBERG

His brother, Prince Alexander, once ruled that turbulent European country, but was obliged to abdicate on the spot by a mob, the leader of which held a revolver at his head. Prince Louis interposed with such effect that a few months later the throne was offered to him, but apparently the Prince preferred the perils of the sea to the perils of Bulgaria, and decided to sail the British main.

When about two years ago Prince Louis was chosen as first sea lord, on the retirement of Sir Francis Bridgeman, everyone agreed that the right man had been chosen. He fully deserved the post, for it was recognized that he was a scientific sailor to whom naval warfare is a fine art. How carefully the Prince has studied the international and military situation is illustrated by an important and prophetic speech he made at the Union Jack Club.

A Prophetic Speech

"I trust," he said, "that one great truth will always be remembered, that no one Service can dispense with the other. There are people who go about saying: 'If war comes the Fleet alone is quite enough to keep anybody from coming anywhere near the shores of this island kingdom.' 'There can be no more foolish or mischievous statement. The Fleet alone could not do it, and the presence of a sufficient trained, professional army in this island at all times is quite as necessary as the other arm of the Service.'"

The lads on the quarter-deck have the greatest faith in the Prince. Throughout the Navy he is known by the nickname of "All Serene."

NO NEED TO WORRY OVER INVASION OF CANADA

"Suppose," said a writer, "that a foreign country were to send troops into Canada, would not the United States, acting under the Monroe Doctrine, have to fight on behalf of Canada? Don't worry yourself, Mr. Trouble Finder. Foreign troops are not going to invade Canada, and would not attempt it even if they wanted to do so. Canada is too far away, and the difficulties are too many for any nation to try to invade the Dominion. One of the things in the way of an invasion is the British navy. Another obstacle in the way of invaders would be about a million fighting-men in Canada. The Monroe Doctrine, however, only is intended to prevent foreign countries from forming new colonies in this section of the world, but we would not interfere to prevent a war. As to any foreign country annexing Canada by conquest, it is quite safe to say the Canadians can take care of themselves."—New York Telegraph.

One Pound Notes Not New—Adjusting £11 notes, the Bank of England simply revived what was once part of the currency of the realm. It is about ninety years since their issue was discontinued in England, in defiance of a popular agitation. Forgetting that become extremely common, and the penalty for the offence being death, many a wretched criminal suffered for it on the gallows.

Sweden, though neutral, intends to spend nearly $15,000,000 on defence. Austria's naval base, Pola, dates back as a naval station to the Roman period.

Your Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

If Cross Feverish or Bilious Give "California Syrup of Figs".

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food, and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mother can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Syrup Company."

New Brunswick To Send Men

[By Special Wire to the Courier] ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 1.—Two different projects for the organization of a contingent from New Brunswick are now in the preliminary stages. One has been promoted by Colonel J. L. McAvity, officer commanding the sixty-second regiment, and the other has been urged by Colonel H. H. McLean, M.P., officer commanding the 28th Dragoons, who favors the muster of a cavalry regiment of 500 officers and men.

This latter would mean an estimated cost of $175,000, to be borne by the citizens of the province and the local government.

Col. McAvity urges his scheme because of its being more feasible, as he says it is easier to secure one thousand men without mounts, besides requiring less time for training. Colonel McAvity, if his project is successful, proposes to go at the head of his regiment to the front.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—Three men convicted a week ago and awaiting sentence for theft from the C.P.R., escaped from Hull jail early this morning. Before leaving they visited the quarters of the sleeping turkey and stole his gold watch and $7. It is thought that when locking up last night the turkey failed to notice that one of the men was not in his cell. Presumably he was in hiding, and when the turkey went to sleep on in the corridor, secured the keys and liberated his companions. A posse is out scouring the district.

URIC ACID IN MEATS CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

GERMANY'S AMBITIONS RESPONSIBLE

(From the London Spectator.) We believe Germany made the war, and made it because she feared that unless war came now she might have to give up her aspiration to be a great world-power, dominant in Europe.

with vast dependencies abroad, and able to command the sea, or at any rate to be possessed of naval strength greater than that of every other power but Britain, with the certain prospect of equaling Britain in the future, and of developing eventually into the predominant naval state. That is Germany's aspiration, that is what she thinks it worth while to have set the world in flames to get. For, remember, she does not think, as most people here do, that she is running too terrible a risk to make such conduct sound. Rightly or wrongly, Germany believes she has the strength, if she acts at the proper moment, and if her people are ready and willing, as doubtless they are, to make the necessary sacrifices to fulfil her dream of world power. To put the thing in another way, we believe that the real cause of the war was that Germany was seized by one of those impulses which are prompted by the thought of "Now or never"—impulses which are the most frequent cause of war. War is so terrible a thing, the risks are so great, and so pessimistic are most statesmen as to the possibilities of maintaining peace, that those of them who have been trained in the school of Realpolitik would hold it a crime not to strike whenever they were convinced that their nation had a preponderance of power. To lose the golden opportunity seems in their eyes as wrong as suicide seems to the individual.

Therefore it does not seem to "unnatural, or mad, or wicked to make war on the lines we have described. We are going to be judges in our own cause by talking about special acts of wickedness. We do, however, say that a power which holds the views of war which we have ascribed, and as we believe quite properly ascribed, to Germany is a terrible danger to the world.

MANTE FALLS UPON HON. WILLIAM HEARST

He is Now Premier of Ontario—Sir Adam Beck Retires—MacDiarmid Succeeds Hon. Dr. Reaume in the Cabinet.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—Hon. W. H. Hearst, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, is Prime Minister of Ontario. The Minister from the North received his call to Government House on Wednesday. The minister made known the personnel of his Government. As was expected, there was no general reorganization, the new Cabinet containing only one new member, Elnley MacDiarmid, member for West Elgin, who becomes Minister of Public Works in succession to Hon. Dr. Reaume. The new Premier, Elnley MacDiarmid, member for West Elgin, who becomes Minister of Public Works in succession to Hon. Dr. Reaume. The new Premier, Elnley MacDiarmid, member for West Elgin, who becomes Minister of Public Works in succession to Hon. Dr. Reaume.

was a private member of the House with no immediate prospect of promotion. The anti-reciprocity sweep removed Hon. Mr. Cochrane to the Federal arena and Mr. Hurst was the logical successor. The minister in which he took charge of the department stamped him as a man of ability, and his championship of Northern development has made his name familiar to the public. He is a hard worker and a fluent speaker, particularly when upon his favorite theme. That there will be other changes in the Cabinet in the course of a year is the general opinion. Up to a few days ago it was thought that Hon. Mr. Foy would drop out, but he was prevailed upon to retain his place in the Government until everything is running smoothly again.

The difficulty of finding an acceptable occupant for the portfolio of Lands, Forests and Mines is said to account for Hon. Mr. Hearst's decision to shoulder a double burden. Precedent established when Sir James Whitney called upon Hon. Frank Cochrane, and followed it up with the choice of Hon. Mr. Hurst, that the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines should be Northerner, limited the new Prime Minister's field of choice. That he will be able to do two men's work for any length of time is unlikely, but the change may not come until after the next session of the Legislature.

The appointment of Elnley MacDiarmid was rather unexpected, although he was classed among the four or five possibilities. The West Elgin member entered the House about the time Hon. George W. Ross became Prime Minister. He reached the Legislature after a stiff fight in the courts. In his first election he was defeated by the returning officer, but the Court of Appeals gave him the seat with a majority of one. He was unseated on petition, and in a new election in 1899 was defeated. That election was declared void in the courts, and at a new election held in December, 1899, he was elected with a majority of 17. Since then his constituents have sent him back to the House with steadily increasing majorities. At the last general election his margin was in the neighborhood of a thousand.

KING AT FRONT

LONDON, Oct. 2.—An Antwerp despatch to the Daily Mail, says: "King Albert is to be constantly seen in the danger zone. He is reported to have ascended yesterday in a balloon to survey the operations. The enemy shelled the balloon but the shells fell short. In attacking the gap between the Liezele and Bredeno forts, the Germans made their first attack on the new line of defense works. Many of them were electrocuted on touching the barbed wire entanglements."

Gas, Heartburn, Indigestion or a Sick Stomach

"Pape's Diapiesin Ends all Stomach Distress in Five Minutes."

Time it! Pape's Diapiesin will digest anything you eat and overcome sour, gassy or out-of-order stomachs, surely within five minutes, if you eat. If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin and take a dose just as soon as you eat. There will be no sour risings, no belching, no undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, nausea, debilitating head aches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapiesin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.

Scout Notes

6th, Brant Troop Orders. On Sunday, Sept. 27th, the Troop paraded to Trinity church at the opening service. Out of a total of 26 there was a parade strength of 24 boys, and many have since remarked on their smart bearing. Boys keep it up.

On Wednesday, Sept. 30th, the following recruits (tentatively) were sworn to full membership of the Scout movement: A. Smith, Warren Kirkpatrick, Edward Wright, B. Dicker, David Cowburgh (late 25th, Middleham Troop, Scotland) and J. Fairbridge (late of the L. D. C. L. B., London, England). A new patrol has been formed to be known as the "Kangaroo" patrol, with Scout Ernest Davies acting as Patrol Leader. The troop will parade tomorrow (Saturday) at 2:30 p.m. sharp for Scout work, and all who possibly can, are asked to parade in uniform. The usual parade on Wednesday, October 7th at 7:30 p.m. will be in full uniform to be worn—Badge work and Scout games. On duty Patrol Leader F. Fox and the "Eagles."

Recruits are wanted to complete another patrol. Applications should be made to Troop Leader R. Ritchie, 27 Welby St., Patrol Leader, Box 31 Cayuga St., or to the Scout Master, or Machine Phone 197.

The next few months should see a strong revival of Scoutcraft in the Brantford district. No church should be without its own patrol or troop. While ministers are looking for some suitable organization for their boy work, the very thing they want is right with them. Local Scout Masters will always be pleased to give advice and assistance, and all kinds of literature and general information can be had of the Provincial Secretary at Ontario headquarters in Toronto.

The British Government has officially recognized the movement as a public service, non-military body and over 200,000 Scouts are in various ways helping the Empire at home during the present crisis, doing some most important duties.

The success of the movement is largely due to the fact that the boy is put entirely on his honor, thereby making him self-reliant. Everything in the movement goes to make real manly boyhood.

Nothing but ridicule of the dress of the Scout was heaped upon the pioneers some eight or nine years ago, and now Great Britain is thanking a divine Providence for the existence of such a training ground for her boys.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug-gist or toilet counter, and just try it.

THE STORY OF Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN.
Copyright, 1913 by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

"Oh, Ivory, do you realize what this means?" Waitstill clung to his arm as they went up the lane together. "That whatever happens comes to us neither of us will ever have to bear it alone again?"
"I believe I do realize it as few men could, for never in my five and twenty years have I had a human creature to whom I could pour myself out, in whom I could really confide, with whom I could share my life. You can understand what it will be to have a comprehending woman at my side. Shall we tell my mother? Do say 'yes'; I believe she will understand. Rod, Rod, come and see who's stepping in the door this very minute!"
Rodman looked at his mother and saw that the veil that had separated them mentally seemed to have vanished in the night that had passed. Often and often it had blown away, as it were, for the fraction of a moment and then blown back again. Now her eyes met his with an altogether new clearness that startled him, while her breath came with ease and she seemed stronger than for many days.
"You remember the winter I was here at the farm alone when you were at the academy?"
"Yes, it was then that I came home and found you so terribly ill. Do you think we need go back to that old time now, mother dear?"
"Yes, I must, I must! One morning I received a strange letter, bearing no signature, in which the writer said that if I wished to see my husband I had only to go to a certain address in Brentville, N. H. The letter went on to say that Aaron Boynton was ill and longed for nothing so much as to speak with me, but there were reasons why he did not wish to return to Edgewood. Would I come to him without delay?"
Ivory now sat straight in his chair and listened keenly, feeling that this was to be no vague, uncertain and misleading memory, but something true and tangible.
"The letter excited me greatly after your father's long absence and silence. I knew it could mean nothing but sorrow; but, although I was half ill at the time, my pliancy was to go, so I thought to go without making any explanation in the village."
"All this was new to Ivory, and he hung upon his mother's words, dreading yet hoping for the light that they might shed upon the past."
"I arrived at Brentville quite exhausted with the journey and weighed down by anxiety and dread. I found the house mentioned in the letter at 7 o'clock in the evening and knocked at the door. A common, hard featured woman answered the knock and, seeming to expect me, ushered me in. I do not remember the room; I remember only a child leaning pathetically against the window sill looking out into the dark and that the place was bare and cheerless."
"I came to call upon Mr. Aaron Boynton," I said, with my heart sinking lower and lower as I spoke. The woman opened a door into the next room, and when I walked in, instead of seeing your father, I confronted a haggard, death stricken young woman sitting up in bed, her great eyes bright with pain, her lips as white as her hollow cheeks and her long black hair streaming over the pillow. The very sight of her struck a knell to the little hope I had of soothing your father's sick bed and forgiving him if he had done me any wrong."
"Well, you came, as I thought you would," said the girl, looking me over from head to foot in a way that somehow made me burn with shame. "Now, sit down in that chair and hear what I've got to say while I've got the strength to say it. I haven't the time now to do it. Put a glass on it. Aaron Boynton is here, as you plainly see, but that's not my fault, for he belongs here as much as anywhere, though he wouldn't have much interest in a dying woman. If you have suffered on account of him so have I, and you haven't had this pain boring into you and eating your life away for months, as I have."
"I pitied her, she seemed so distraught, but I was in terror of her all the same and urged her to tell her story calmly and I would do my best to hear it in the same way."
"Calmy," she exclaimed, "with this agony tearing me to pieces! Well, to make beginning and end in one, Aaron Boynton was my husband for three years."

The trial of Jesse Ward, accused of murdering Percy Sparling at Grims by Beach, began in St. Catharines.

CHAPTER XXVIII, Aaron's Rod.
"Ivory! Ivory!"
Ivory stirred in a sleep that had been troubled by too great happiness. To travel the road path alone, a path leading seemingly nowhere, and then suddenly to have a companion by one's side, the very sight of whom enchanted the eye, the very touch of whom delighted the senses—that joy unspeakable! Who could sleep soundly when wakened thus by a train of such blissful thoughts?
"Ivory! Ivory!"
He was fully awake now, for he knew his mother's voice. In all the years, ever thoughtful of his comfort and of the constant strain upon his strength, Lola had never wakened her son at night.
"Coming, mother, coming!" he said, when he realized she was calling him. And, hastily drawing on some clothing, for the night was bitterly cold, he came out of his room and saw his mother standing at the foot of the stairway with a lighted candle in her hand.
"Can you come down, Ivory? It is a strange hour to call you, but I have

ANTWERP WAS UNDER ATTACK WHOLE NIGHT

Defence Must be Vigilant but Situation is Not Very Alarming.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Oct. 2.—In describing the attack of Germans on Antwerp, the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, writing from Antwerp, date of Thursday noon says:
"From the top of a gas tank at Hoboken (three miles south west of Antwerp) last night was witnessed a scene of some grandeur. The line of attack on the city was defined in the clear night very sharply by flashes of the enemy's great siege guns. Similarly the line of defence was shown in points of light which were defined in the clear night occasionally to see the effect of the falling shells.
The artillery duel continued throughout the night. The German fire seemed to be directed chiefly towards emptying the outlying villages, and every road into Antwerp was choked with refugees.
"There is no doubt that many alarming reports of the German operations will creep across the frontier to Holland. We cannot give definite information on account of the prohibition against news which might be useful to the enemy, but it can be said, with official sanction, that the position, lance, and effort, is not alarming.
"All scouting officers agree, however, that the German attack is merely a demonstration which is not intended to be pushed home. No Belgian aviators have uncovered any great masses of German infantry."

SURPRISE IS IN STORE FOR GERMAN MOVE

Russian Expert Says the Enemy Has an Inordinate Appetite.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times sends this comment on the operations in the eastern war theatre:
"Colonel Shumsky, the military critic, says that the Germans are hastening to concentrate a mass of troops between Breslau and Cracow, in order to advance on the right bank of the Vistula and thus compel the Russians to either evacuate Galicia or to attempt a decisive battle.
"The Germans are displaying an inordinate appetite. Not content with undertaking a decisive engagement in Silesia, they are trying a siege at Osowetza at the other end of the strategic front."
"Evidently they are confident of success at the battle in Silesia as they are preparing a route across the river Niemen. In any case their attempt to carry out this new and grandiose scheme will lead to a swift denouement."

WILL NOT INTERFERE.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The British government to-day through Ambassador Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, notified the state department that Great Britain would not interfere with shipments of food stuffs from the United States to Holland, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice conferred with state department officials again to-day.

The verse of a favorite psalm was running through Lois Boynton's mind. In a moment her words came clearly as she opened her eyes, lifted her hands and touched the bowed heads. "Let the house of Aaron now say that his mercy endureth forever!" she said slowly and reverently. And Ivory, with all his heart, responded, "Amen!"

MANY CASES FOR DENTISTS

Found in Public Schools—Report Made to Trustees.

The alarming extent to which tooth decay is prevalent among school children is little realized by the general public, and the first report of Dr. Landymore, the dental clinic appointed to attend to Brantford school children, has brought to light an astonishing condition of affairs.
During the month of September, 877 pupils were examined, and of this number only 110 were found to have teeth in a satisfactory condition. The whole of the Central school was examined, while part of Victoria school has undergone the ordeal.
Among these 877 scholars, there were found 2051 temporary teeth in a putrescent condition, while 158 abscesses were formed, and 138 required to be extracted. Of the permanent teeth, it was found that 1676 were defective, having cavities; 104 were putrescent, 19 abscesses were found and 39 required extraction.
Three hundred and twenty-eight of the children possessed no tooth brushes, while 529 were blessed with these molar brushes. One hundred and twenty-six scholars are already undergoing dental corrections, while 50 are of irregular treatment. The absences not seen by the doctor were 34. This report as presented shows without doubt the absolute need of a dental clinic in this city. As yet the tooth expert has had but little chance of chair work, as the special chair only arrived very recently. The instruments used are treated with a special anti-septic process for each case, ensuring absolutely against contagious diseases. The board felt well satisfied with the work of the doctor.
With regard to the reduction of ten per cent. of the civic officials salary for the benefit of the war fund, this matter will be brought before the teachers by Inspector Kilmer, a meeting will be called and the teachers will then decide upon their action in this matter.
Grand View school has cost some $15,000 above the first estimated cost, and the city has been asked to pay their percentage, and last night no objection was raised to ten annual payments of the city's share.
