LADY IRIS' MISTAKE; Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XXVII

"Forget John Barton. Take the fruit of the victory out of his hand; let this make no difference to us," he added, boldly gaining courage as he saw the keen pain in her face; "let him see that his plot has ignominiously failed, and that, instead of doing us harm, he has actually done good. You cannot tell his revenge in a better way than that."

"I cannot be false to the training and instincts of my life," she said brokenly. "Do not talk to me yet." She raised her hands with a gesture of passionate pain. "I am even more sorry for you," she added.

Allan put his arm round the trembling figure.

"My darling, I can understand," he said gently; "it must be a terrible blow to you. But it is not so bad as though you had heard something against my honor and loyalty. If ever in your eyes I had any good qualities, I have them still. If you have found me a loyal, honest man, am I the less so now? As for my father, I revere him and am proud of him," he continued warmly. "He was a noble and generous man; his hands were even open to the widow and the fatherless. Almost every man, woman, and child in Elmore loved him. I do not believe that any one ever asked him for help and asked in vain. I have known him by generous timely aid to save whole families from ruin. Even in this moment of humiliation for me," he said sadly, "I am proud of my father, and proud that I am his son."

is the title thousands of people have given to
SLOAN'S LINIMENT
It is unequalled as a counter-irritant. Its beneficial and soothing effect when applied to any painful part is immediate. It is highly compressible, rubs in easily, is clean, and easy to apply and will not blister or cause soreness as is the case with mustard plasters.
Every drop in the bottle is medicine.
Try it and be convinced.
SLOAN'S LINIMENT
GERALD S. DOYLE, Distributor.

"You are quite right to be so," she murmured. "I should not respect you were it otherwise."

He caressed the trembling hands that lay so cold and deathlike in his own.

"Darling," he said, "think a little. In the sight of Heaven what are noble birth and all the miserable class distinctions of fashionable society? The best and worthiest life is the upright and useful one, and the poor and the lowly born, Iris, more often lead that kind of life than the rich."

He paused; the cold calmness of Lady Iris' face silenced him.

"This world has its rules," she said. "rules that regulate its well-being; and they cannot be broken."

He heaved a deep sigh; he could have cried aloud in his despair.

"Iris," he said, after a few moments, "if any other woman stood in your place, I should kiss her, bid her God-speed, and leave her. It is because I love you so passionately that I linger in order to combat your prejudices. Let us reverse the position. You are a great lady, the daughter of an earl. Suppose—it is merely supposition—that some secret that reflected upon your birth became known; do you think I should give you up, decline to marry you because of it, even if it were the most disgraceful secret imaginable?"

"No," she replied, slowly, "I do not think you would."

"Think!" he cried. "You know, Iris, that if all the world frowned upon you, all the more lovingly would my arms clasp you, all the more should I love and reverence you. You know it, my darling—you know that, if you stood before me this moment friendless, homeless, penniless, I should but love you the better and cherish you the more; for I love you with an unalterable love."

"I believe it," she answered; but the cold calmness of her face was unbroken by the loving words.

"Then why do you not say the same to me? I am unchanged; and it was I whom you loved. Why should birth make any difference?"

"You do not understand, Allan; you forgot that my training and my instincts are part of my life, that I cannot separate myself from them."

"That is," he said, hastily, "you have been accustomed to look down from your exalted station upon those of inferior birth as belonging to another world—a world you could never enter, and in which you have no place."

"Yes; that is it," she replied. "You may think it foolish, Allan; it is the result of my training. It may be quite as much prejudice as pride, but from a lower sphere I should never have dreamed of taking a companion or a familiar friend."

"Much less a lover!" he said bitterly.

"Much less a lover," she repeated. "You see, Allan, I am as frank as you are."

Again there was silence. Allan broke it by saying softly—

"Iris, it is not long since you gave to me the most solemn promises woman can give to a man. What if I hold you to them? What if I claim you by right of the vows you have made?"

She looked at him fearlessly. "Unless I came to you freely," she replied, "you would not care to have me at all."

"No," he said, sadly, "I should not." Suddenly the pain of it all seemed to overcome her.

"Oh, Allan, Allan, why should this be when I love you so dearly?" she cried. "Oh, my darling, I do not love you less! Let me kiss the pain from your dear face."

He had never seen her so moved. Of her own free will she put her arms round his neck, kissing his face and crying out that he was her love, and that her trouble was to hard to bear. All her pride and strength had broken down. She loved him better than her life, and was grieved only for his pain. He never forgot her passionate grief; he tried to soothe her, but it was beyond his power.

"My darling," he said, "let us forget it all. I was afraid—and he shuddered as he spoke—"that it would part us; and that would have been my death-blow. Let us forget it."

But she only clung to him, weeping the more bitterly; and he could not soothe her.

"That it should happen to me," she sobbed—"I who was so happy in my love! I loved you so dearly, Allan!"

"And will love me still," he said, "when all this is forgotten."

"I cannot tell," she replied. "Which ever way it may be, Allan, my heart will be broken. I am the last of the Faynes, and I hold the honor of the race in my hands."

His face darkened.

"Iris," he said, "I acknowledge the inferiority of my birth to yours; but I refuse to acknowledge more. My father was not an earl, but he was a good and honorable man. There are limits that even you must not pass. If you say that in marrying me you would bring dishonor on your race, my beautiful love, you are free. I can meet my fate like a man, Iris. I shall not whine for mercy. The issue lies in your hands; you shall decide."

"How can I decide," she cried, when my heart is torn with anguish?"

"If you find that your pride is greater than your love, you have but to send me away—you have but to tell me so; but if, as I believe, your love is greater than your pride, you will bid me stay, my darling."

"My heart is torn," she moaned. "May Heaven help me!"

"The decision rests with you, Iris; your will is mine—but think how I love you, think if you resolve to send me away, of the desolate and loveless future that lies before me. Oh, Iris, I never expected to have to plead for myself; but think before you decide! I pray Heaven, that in your heart love may prove stronger than pride."

"I must reflect," she said hurriedly. "Allan, leave me now; and when I have decided, I will send for you and tell you. The greatest kindness you can do me now is to go away and let me think out my own thoughts."

He went away mournfully, with something like despair in his heart. (To be continued.)

Jap Lumber for Australia.

TOKYO—Japanese lumber merchants have closed for the first time contracts with Australia and New Zealand for the shipment of Japanese oak, both dressed and undressed, to those markets. Japan has shipped lumber to Hong Kong and Singapore before, but to no other foreign ports. Figures just given out disclose that Japan's total lumber exports in 1921 totalled about $20,700,000 in value, and that during the first half of the present year they amounted to approximately $12,000,000. The United States supplying about 90 per cent. Canadian lumber imported was valued at about $400,000.

HUMANS WITH CAUDAL APPENDAGES.

YOKOHAMA—Reports that a tribe of people who have tails is living in Indo-China, have brought Capt. E. A. Salisbury, world famous explorer, scientist and author, to the Far East. He will leave Japan shortly for Southern China and then he will explore inland with the intention of finding the newly-reported breed of man which is passing European anthropologists. Capt. Salisbury is the first man to attempt a systematic search and the result of his investigation is being eagerly awaited. Capt. Salisbury will go from Indo-China to Europe by way of the Suez Canal. He will tour Abyssinia on the way and has been invited to be the guest of the King of Abyssinia.

WHAT'S THE USE?

I read the books the boys produce, and sadly murmur, "What's the use?" No doubt there are in modern towns a all kinds of sap-heads, bores and clowns who do not know a noble play or painting from a bale of hay. W. H. drag them from their humble nook and boldly place them in a book, and say, "These tinpans represent our country, to the bow-wows bent; these freaks, as drawn by gifted pen, are portraits of our fellow men; they're all as much alike as peas, and they are all composed of cheese." No doubt there are such twaddlers, poor fish and mental feather-weights; but why in novels turn them loose? Again I query, "What's the use?" The pessimists these days are young, bright lads whose withers are unwrung; why should they write such bronchy tomes, despairing plays and sore-head poems? When graybeards take their pens in hand to prove that all things should be canned, that culture's dignified from the earth and all they see black as pitch, they doubtless have the gout or itch. But why should Youth waste priceless ink to show the world is on the blink, that man is but an ape or goose? Hear me to ask you, what's the use?

Cub Cigarettes are appreciated not only by the smoker but by those in his company. sept. 28. 17

British Municipal Elections.

BRITISH POLITICS AND LABOURS DEFEAT.

LONDON, Nov. 2. The attention of the political world is absorbed in the result of the Municipal elections in which Labour suffered overwhelming defeat. Returns in seventy of the leading Boroughs in the Provinces show that out of five hundred and seventy-four Labour candidates only two hundred and fifteen were elected, while Conservatives elected three hundred and fifty out of four hundred and fifty nominated. In London there was a similar landslide. Labour held five hundred and seventy-three seats in the old councils, but will have two hundred and fifty-three in the new. Labour now holds only four London Boroughs, Battersea, Bermondsey, Poplar, Wobwich, against twelve formerly held, while in eleven of the London Boroughs not a single Labour representative was elected. There is no doubt that the action of Poplar Council in paying exorbitant unemployment doles, and the tendency of Labour generally to indulge in costly reforms in services for sanitation, education and poor relief, which, however beneficial, have thrown heavy burdens on rate payers, have frightened householders into voting against Labour. There is a difference, however, between Municipal and political contests, and it is unsafe to draw inference from Municipal elections. Nevertheless the returns have caused a certain amount of dejection in the Labour Party and satisfaction in the opposing parties. Sir Robert Horne in a speech at Glasgow, expressed the belief that the chief factor in the defeat of Labour has been the women's votes and he believed the same tendency would be shown in the Parliamentary elections. Former Premier Lloyd George is still silent as to his intentions, among others, that of a possible return to the Liberal fold and a reunion of Coalition and Asquithian Liberals. Looking at the political history of the past six years, this seems a far-fetched speculation, but it is alleged there is a considerable number in both camps favouring the idea, if Lloyd George is disposed firmly to separate from the Conservative party.

Whitbourne Notes.

Our new station house begins to loom up large in the public eye. The frame was put up on the 27th and the work is rapidly going ahead. When completed it should be a commodious building from its appearance outside. Everyone rejoiced in the thought of a new station here, the old building having outlived its usefulness long ago. A dingier and more unattractive station it would be difficult to find. We feel grateful to the new Railway Management for recognizing our need.

Mr. Peter Pelipas, who was away on an unsuccessful caribou hunt, returned home yesterday, bringing back a white fox. Mr. Isaac Reid captured a red fox.

Work is to be resumed on our roads this week. It would be a great benefit to traffic and pedestrians if some of our roads could be widened somewhat. In some places they remind one of the 'mountain path' on which the two goats met and wanted "right of way." Now the motor car visits us frequently it will be rather serious when several meet going in an opposite direction.

All Saints Day, Nov. 1st, service was held at 11 a.m. in St. John's Church, the schoolchildren attending, accompanied by their teachers.

Mr. A. Delaney is now acting Constable here.

Our weather is again beautifully mild and fires scarcely necessary.

The scholars of the Anglican school have begun to practice for a "Sing Song" at Xmas, a new church organ being the object aimed at. Small beginnings sometimes have great endings, which we hope may be the case here. A sale of work is also contemplated to help swell the said Organ fund. Anyone care to help us? (Perhaps, Mr. Editor, will send us a mite anytime between this and Xmas, thank you!)

Here also "Pepy's Diary" is missed and some laments have been heard.

Rev. J. Reay returned home on Tuesday from a brief visit to town.

Mr. H. Leslie returned to town on Monday, 30th, after a couple of weeks in the Anglo office here.

Mr. Wm. Kennedy, who spent most of the summer at work at Grand Falls, arrived home last week.

Mr. H. Kilpatrick is building a bungalow, compact and neat in appearance.—CORR.—

A New and Better Ironing Board

The Rid-Jid Ironing Table is steady as a bridge—it will not wobble, sway, bend or creep when you iron. You can sit on the end and it will not even tilt. No more propping an old board up on two chair-backs and having to lift it each time you wish to iron a skirt or petticoat. The Rid-Jid stands firmly on its own foundation, and is so constructed that a full-length skirt may be slipped on over the end. In spite of its marvelous stability, the Rid-Jid is lighter than any other folding board made. It closes as compactly as a pocket knife. We would be glad to have you stop in and see it.

JUDGE MORRIS PRESIDES.

Last night the Law Students Club held its first moot for the season. Judge Morris K.C., who is ever ready to oblige the students presided in his official capacity. Two keenly contested cases were discussed. In the first J. G. Muir represented Pitt, and H. P. Carter the Deft. In the second case J. H. Devine represented Pitt, and H. Garland for Deft. At the conclusion of the Counsel's arguments the Judge in an instructive manner elucidated the different points of law concerned. His Honor referred in an enthusiastic manner to the Club's activities, advising the students to avail of it to the utmost, assuring them that they would receive inestimable benefits from such an institution. At the conclusion, a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation was given the Judge. The Club holds its next moot two weeks time.

Instant Beauty for Everyone Says VIOLA DANA

Just Make This Simple Test.

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I am often asked how I keep my complexion so fresh looking," says Viola Dana, the Screen Star. "It's a simple process for anyone to have a smooth, velvety, rosy white, complexion and unwrinkled skin if they will devote just a little time in caring for it. "To have a clear, healthy skin, cleanliness is absolutely necessary. For this purpose I use a good cleansing cream (Liska cold cream I have found to be the best). I then bathe my face with warm water, rinse with cold, dry thoroughly and apply Derwillo, a simple toilet preparation. This marvelous preparation instantly beautifies the complexion and gives anyone a more youthful appearance. You can form no idea what a wonderful effect it has upon the skin until you test it. Here is the best way. Put it on one side of your face, then look in your mirror and note the difference. You will need no further argument to convince you that there is nothing like it for beautifying purposes. The instant results it gives is the reason for its popularity with actresses and discriminating women. You realize the value of a rosy-white, smooth, clear complexion. Derwillo is especially recommended for dark, sallow skin, tan, shiny nose, blackheads, coarse pores and numerous other facial blemishes. Many use it in preference to face powders or all other beautifiers, as it is more lifelike. Perspiration does not affect it, therefore it stays on better than face powder, does not rub off on clothing and its use cannot be detected. It is absolutely harmless even on the most delicate skin and will not stimulate or produce a growth of hair. Over one million are now using it. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want to beautify your hands and arms. There is nothing like Derwillo for this purpose. It comes in three shades—beach, white and brunette. If you want a complexion which will attract favorable comment everywhere, just give Derwillo a trial and you are sure to be delighted. Do not accept substitutes, then you will not be disappointed, as there is nothing "just as good," "better" or "just like it."

Viola Dana

NOTE—Here is a fair, honest proposition by the druggists and department stores of this city. Get a bottle of Derwillo from any toy counter, give it a trial for a few days and if you don't like it take it back and get your money. Could anything be fairer? It is sold by all up-to-date druggists and including M. Connors, A. W. Kennedy, T. McMurdo & Co.

Approves Suggestion.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir.—In reading your editorial last evening on taxation of our fish products, going into U.S.A., I very much approve of your suggestion regarding counter duty on all fish shipped in American bottoms, and I am sure you are voicing the opinion of most of our people on this subject. Then the official need not be applied only to fish, I think it should be fixed upon other lines as well so that our purchases should be made in British and Canadian markets. American agents who come here from time to time take considerable business from our local and commercial men, and it is a well known fact that most of our business firms give the preference to the men who drift in from outside. I know what I am talking about. Every day gives proof of this; to those of us who are working side by side with the men we refer to. They get the business while we have to take a back seat. We pay taxes all the year round, they drop in occasionally and pay once per annum. Still this thing is allowed to go on and no united effort on the part of our agents and commercial men is made against it. Do not drop the matter, Mr. Editor. Keep at it and stir up discussion along this line until some satisfactory result is obtained. Yours truly, AGENT. Nov. 1st, 1922.

Appreciation of Hospitality Shown at Bonavista.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—I feel duty bound to publicly acknowledge my appreciation of the reception given us by the friends of Bonavista when landing after a 30 mile trip in open motor boat and for the hospitality manifested during our stay with them and also for their respect, sympathy, and support given us at the meeting held on the night of the 16th inst. The meeting reflects great credit on the people of Bonavista and speaks volumes for her citizenship. It is deplorable to find some outside, who are prepared to engineer plans with the hope of having them executed on innocent strangers. Providence is always on the side of Right. Bonavista's worst enemy is the person who misrepresents her in any way. Thanking you in anticipation for space. Yours truly, E. J. WORNELL. Oct. 28th, 1922.

Industrial Breakdown if Prices are not Reduced

TOKYO.—Japan must reduce price levels, but must do it cautiously and gradually unless she wants to risk a general industrial breakdown, according to Viscount Takahashi, former Premier. He explains that Japan's industries have grown enormously during the last five years and far faster than those of Great Britain, the United States or Canada. He says that industrial workers in Japan have become wasteful and extravagant and to reduce prices of commodities now, would undermine the strength of the nation. "Extensive export trade," he said, "is not dependent on low prices for the products to be exported. People say that our prices on goods shipped to China are high, but our exports to that country have been steadily maintained."

Don't Like School Uniforms.

TOKYO.—The Japanese school boys are revolting against the enforced wearing of uniforms. The students at 18 schools and colleges in Tokyo have started a campaign against the use of uniforms and in their protest they have coupled a grievance against the proprietors of boarding houses. In a petition to the Minister of Education, the students claim they are charged exorbitant prices for lodgings, meals, charcoal and newspapers and that these expenses, plus the cost of wearing uniforms, have become unbearable.

Halifax Woman Tells of Big Change

"The 'Flu' pulled me down to where I was almost a skeleton and left me in such a miserable state of health that life seemed hardly worth living. My circulation was so weak that my limbs, hands and feet were actually blue. I could not keep a bite of solid food on my stomach and for a whole month the only nourishment I could take was a small quantity of milk. "Words can't describe how I suffered from indigestion. At times my heart would almost stand still, and I simply had to fight for breath, and I had such bad dizzy spells that I could not see. "Something seemed to keep telling me that if I would take Taniae I would get better and that is just what happened, for I had not taken more than three doses until I began to feel stronger. After finishing my sixth bottle I was eating just as anything I wanted and found I had gained more than thirty pounds in weight. I can now do all my housework and look after the children and still feel as fresh at the end of the day as when I start in the morning." The above statement was made recently by Mrs. George Shearing, 268 Chebucto Road, Halifax, N.S. Taniae is sold by all good druggists.

Donald McTavish lay dying. He had been all day about it, and his wife had spent weary, though expectant, hours at his bedside. When night had come, however, she felt that she could leave the house; work undone no longer. She went up to her husband and said— "Aweel, Don, I must gang along to the kitchen the noo. I'll leave a light by your bed. Ye'll no be takin' yer departure afore I come back. But if ye should, ye'll no forget to blow out the candle afore ye dee, will ye?" A beautiful afternoon cape features a collar of monkey fur, which is lined and fastened with brown velvet ribbon.

Fashions and Fads.

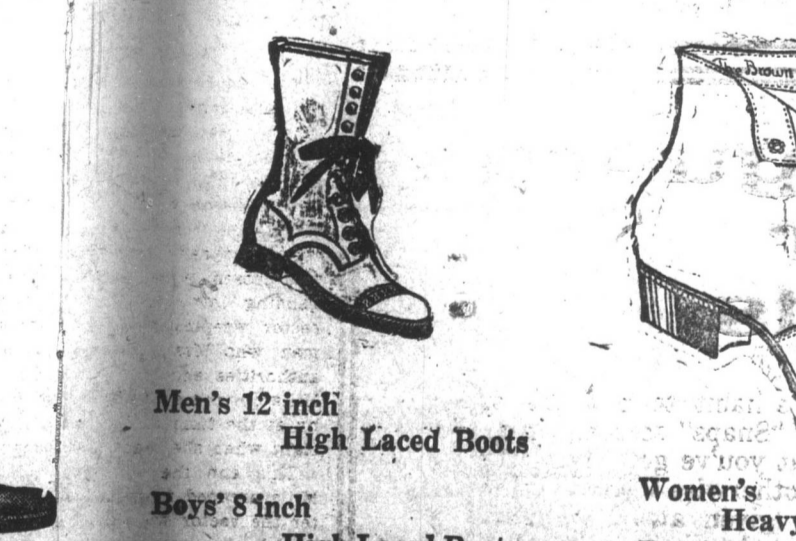

Chinese designs embroidered in gold thread combine with fur as favorite trimmings of the smartest tailors. Suede, very supple and pliable, is being used for fashioning capes. The cut and finish of these capes are distinctly severe. There is a decided vogue for costume consisting of a hat trimmed with stuffed tatar over a brown dress. To match a street dress trimmed with a soft fur is often quarters in length, and have billars of the fur.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Mr. Dugald Munn of St. John's, spent the week-end here, and returned to the city by Monday's train.

Our troop of Boy Scouts are holding their Jubilee Sale in the British Hall on Friday night, 3rd inst. Quite a number of items have been collected in, which will be auctioned by Mr. Paul Higgins in his usual good style.

Miss Carrie Parsons who has been working in Boston for the past six years, and was home at a three week's holiday to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Parsons, Shiphead, returned again by Tuesday's express. Her brother, Mr. Ben Parsons, formerly of the Western Union Cable Co., Heart's Content, accompanied her, and will seek a position in the big city.

Word was received in town on Wednesday last from the city by Mrs. R. F. W. Strong, that her husband, who was staying at the Balsam Place, had been taken ill very suddenly, and requesting her to go immediately. His wife has been in the city since, and we understand Mr. Strong is now removed to the General Hospital to receive treatment. He has been in England for the greater part of the summer attending to business and only returned by the last boat, and it was his intention to go back again on her, but for illness could not. We trust to hear that his condition has improved.

Messrs. Hayward Parsons and Bert Spry left town by Tuesday's train en route for Toronto, Ont., to seek employment. We wish them well.

Several cargoes of coal arrived in town from Sydney recently, and it looks as if there will be no coal shortage this winter, as quite a quantity is being stocked up.

Hallowe'en went off in good style by many of our townspeople, and Cauld Cannon and Snap Apple reigned supreme, being the order of the evening of the 31st inst.

Sunday next, 5th inst., the Methodist Sunday School will hold their annual Rally Day Service in Coughlan Hall.

The Hall-Mills

Murder Case.

CORROBORATION OF THE STORY OF MRS. GIBSON, WHO SAID SHE WITNESSED THE DUAL KILLING.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Oct. 30.—Possibility that the Hall-Mills murder case would be presented to the Somerset County Grand Jury to-day seemed remote this morning. Information from Somerville, the county seat, was to the effect that notices had not been forwarded to members of the Grand Jury and that it would require at least 24 hours for the inquirers to assemble after receiving notices.

Special Deputy Attorney Mott, who took charge of the investigation after county officials had failed to solve the mystery, reiterated his confidence in the story told him by Mrs. Jane Gibson, woman farmer, that she witnessed the murders. Two witnesses, Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Tingle, who live across from the Phillips farm, have corroborated Mrs. Gibson's story in so far as the hour of the murders is concerned. The Tingles heard sounds which they think may have been pistol shots about ten o'clock on the night of September 14, the night Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, were shot.

Mrs. Gibson's Story.

Four hours after she had witnessed the shooting of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, on the night of September 14, Mrs. Jane Gibson returned to the scene and saw the woman who says was present when the two were slain, bending low over the body of the rector weeping bitterly. Neither the man who Mrs. Gibson has told the authorities shot Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills nor the automobile parked nearby at the time of the murder was in sight when she made the second visit.

This and the statement that Mrs. Mills escaped from her assailants after the rector was killed and hid behind bushes nearby, only to be recaptured and dragged back to the spot under the crab apple tree were amazing details in the eye witness story as related yesterday by Mrs. Gibson to Special Deputy Attorney General Mott.

Confident that he has solved the murder, which he says is "complex but not a mystery" Prosecutor Mott went ahead with the work of assembling corroborative evidence. He indicated to newspapermen that no arrests will be made until he has presented the case to the Somerset County Grand Jury.

Clean Up!

Now that we are in the middle of a Fire Prevention Week and the slogan of "Clean up" is more or less of a household word, the good work that has been started by Inspector General Hutchings may be carried on further by the Municipal Council. There is a law that all dogs must be licensed, but it appears that there are still a few of the ash bucket tipping kind at large, and a great lot of the filth on the city streets is caused by these pests. Another nuisance is the carpenter, who, after making a few repairs, leaves an accumulation of shavings, ends of wood, old shingles and all sorts of debris on the sidewalk or in the drains. A little more vigilance on the part of our civic officials would, no doubt, have a great effect in helping to obliterate these two unnecessary nuisances.

Fair Market Values Should be Imposed.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir.—One of the greatest hindrances to the development of sound business to-day is the lack of stability, especially as far as values are concerned. In the dry goods trade particularly, the advertisements are demoralising, and it is no wonder that the consumer believes that the bottom of the market is not yet reached. The average person is impressed with the idea that goods have no stable value and that he can dictate prices. This condition will prevail just so long as the stores continue to preach Regular price $10.00 now $5.00. Regular price $20.00 now $10.00, etc. A falling market always unsettles the mind of the purchaser who hesitates to purchase, as he expects lower prices to prevail the following week. The consumer also knows that this so-called "regular price" is in most cases the war price of three years ago, and is no longer interested in these prices. The time has now come when a united effort should be made by the trade to advertise goods at to-day's market value and eliminate the old "regular price" competition. Goods offered at about half price also gives the consumer the impression that the stock offered is old. The merchandising trade of the United States and Canada realized the importance of stabilizing values, two years ago. "Buy before the next advance," was the slogan. The result was that confidence was established, consumers responded, demand increased, prices stiffened, and to-day a fair sized boom is in progress with prices for some lines of textiles 60% higher than those quoted twelve months ago. Raw cotton was down to 10c, now it is quoted at 24c. The stabilizing of values, and the appointment of a "National Board" from the general trade and industries, to assist the customs by giving evidence as to the "fair market value" of so-called "job goods," dumped on this market, would do much to improve the present trying conditions.

Yours truly,
Wm. WHITE.

Nov. 2nd, 1922.
(Mr. White may be stating, that which is quite correct, according to his own hypothesis, but he should at least allow advertisers to know just what they are doing, and can do, regarding the reduced prices of their wares. H.C.L. can be considerably reduced by a more complete hammering of war prices hitherto charged by dry goods stores.—Editor.)

Fire Prevention Week.

MAKE A NOTE OF THE FOLLOWING.

"Every individual must realize his or her own responsibility. If you can get people thinking in terms of "Fire Prevention" as they are being trained to think in terms of safety, a great deal will be accomplished towards the preservation of valuable property and more valuable life."

"The person who is so careless as to cause destructive fire is nothing short of being guilty of criminal negligence."

"Carelessness that causes a great majority of fires goes hand in hand with recklessness on the streets and highways that leads to a steady toll of human life. It is time for a change in these conditions."

"It is not through one "Fire Prevention Week" but through fifty-two "Fire Prevention Weeks" in every year that the elimination of the awful cost of flames can be accomplished. We must be more careful."

BLUENOSE FLIES FLAG AT HALF MAST IN ENTERING PORT.

Lunenburg, N.S., Oct. 29.—The International champion fisherman Bluenose arrived at her home port here this morning from Gloucester. Her home coming was marked by deepest silence in memory of the dead member of her crew, Capt. George Demone, who was drowned at Gloucester Thursday night.

As the vessel entered port with her flag lowered the ensigns of the fishing fleet anchored in the harbor broke out at half mast.

The Bluenose remained in stream. The body of Captain Demone is expected here tomorrow as the Canadian destroyer Patrick will be no celebration of the nose victory until after the return of the deceased fisherman.

Splendid Banquet.

TROPHIES PRESENTED TO ASSOCIATION.
The Methodist Guards Old Comrades held a complimentary banquet for the all-round success of their athletes during the past year in their Club Rooms, Queen Street, last night. The rooms were fittingly decorated for the occasion, the Club's colors, ribbons and banners predominating, and the four tables, which seated some seventy-two guests, blending forth in their beauty, made the whole surroundings present a very pretty appearance. Promptly at 8 o'clock the toast list was begun with "His Majesty the King." The whole gathering rose to the occasion by honouring it in song, Mr. Bert Noseworthy acting as accompanist. The chairman of the evening was then introduced by Pres. Russell, the responsible duties having fallen on the shoulders of Sir John C. Crosbie, who in his opening remarks proposed a toast to the ladies. After the dinner had been done full justice to by all, the feature event of the evening was the presenting to the association the cups and medals won during the year. The captains of the different athletic events who in turn passed over the trophies to the chairman made brief speeches. Mr. Fred Gushue proposed "The Skating Team," whereupon Captain Chancey presented the cups won by the team to the association. Rev. Hammond Johnson proposed the "Tug of War" team. Captain Wilson marched back and forth five times from the "Tug of War" table to the chairman's place, each time with a piece of silverware in his hands. There was great amusement over the way "they had drawn the line," and "the graball who never gave up." Mr. Fred Ayre rose to honor "The Football Team." Mr. Quick responded. "The Track Team" was proposed by Major Butler. Mr. Tom Butler on behalf of the team presented to the association the cup won by them. Major March proposed the health of the Billiard Team. Mr. John Angel replied. Mr. Rooney followed and in a witty little speech gave to the members some very happy reminiscences of the re-organization of the band and toasted them. Bandmaster Feet replied. Eight new instruments of the best type have been added since re-organization.

Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Dove who had charge of the arrangements for the banquet were called upon by the Chairman to pin medals on the tunics of the tug-of-war team. These medals were subscribed for by friends of the team. Mr. C. Quick was next presented with a magnificent billiard cue, the gift of the late Mr. C. E. Duder. These presents honoured

Mr. Duder's memory by a moment's silence, standing with bowed heads. The Chaplain, Rev. C. H. Johnson, spoke briefly of the history of athletics. Mr. Llewellyn White surprised the gathering with a presentation of relics from the Guards old barracks. After the fire he found a number of figures of kneeling riflemen and soldiers bearing the names of the rifle teams of 1904, 1909. These will be suitably mounted and form another ornament to the rooms. Messrs. Walter Butt and A. H. Salter make some interesting remarks and words of encouragement with every good wish for the welfare of the Association. Mr. Fred Ayre proposed the toast of the chairman, which was enthusiastically drunk by all present, as was that of President Russell proposed by Mr. Gus Herder, who in his remarks felt that there was one game of all games which no trophy had been competed for and that was the game of hockey. Mr. Herder's suggestion that a hockey team be formed met with the full approval of all present, and it is not unlikely that the Guards Old Comrades will take a foremost place in this branch of sport the coming winter. Sir John Crosbie wound up the proceedings by the addressing of a fine speech. It was both humorous and sincere. In his remarks he hoped that the Association would keep cemented together, and closed by asking every member to take home with them the pass word "Unity". "Let us be more united." The gathering dispersed at 11 p.m. by the singing of God Save the King. The thanks to Mr. Bert Noseworthy accompanist for the evening's entertainment was duly honored by acclamation.

Northern Fleet Delayed.

The head winds and unfavorable sailing weather during the full week passed have delayed the arrival of the Northern fleet of fishing schooners just that period over their originally announced schedule. This unforeseen delay, however, will not in any way interfere with the carrying out of the programme which has been mapped out, and the arrival of the main body of the fleet in port will be the signal for the commencement of the entertainment planned for Mr. Coaker and those who give him allegiance. There has been no let-up in the policy to be adopted. All the arrangements have been perfected, and the few details to be considered will be finalised in short order. That there may be no misapprehension on the part of the lawful guardians of the peace, with regard to the proposed demonstration, it can truthfully be said that those alone who fear the power of the fishermen of the North need be in dread. Not that there is anything of a violent nature in contemplation. The dread will be more moral, or political, if that is better phrasing, than physical, for no bodily injury will be done any person opposed, no matter how strongly, to the reasonable demands of the toilers of the sea. These men have wrought night and day at their calling in a successful effort to wrest from the depths of ocean the wherewithal to support themselves and families, and now that they begin to perceive that the legitimate fruits of their labors is about to be taken from them, they utter their formal protest in the one way which appeals to them, and which they consider will be the best means toward attaining their end. Every man on board the fleet is a law-abiding citizen of the colony, and would not countenance any overt movement toward a breach of the peace of our sovereign Lord the King. Against his crown and dignity. Any newspaper which alleges unlawful conduct against the proposals of these tried and true men of the North is guilty of incitement to rebellion, and we would ask the Advocate to kindly make a note of this, and be guided entirely in its reports of what might occur, by strict adherence to the truth. The Northern men are in no mood to stand for any of the stock-in-trade epithets carried in the Advocate's vocabulary. "Traitors to the Union" and "Expelled members" should have no place in press references to the fishermen's reasonable request. There have been too many of these in the past. No man's liberty of thought and freedom of personal action, within the law, will be safe, if the Ku Klux Klan methods of the President of the Fishermen's Protective Union are allowed to be used against members of that organization who held different opinions, and do not see eye to eye with the Grand Wizard. There is no appeal from the sentence of the controlling power, and expulsion from the Union not only means the sending of any independent member into the outer darkness of his contumacy, but his name is blazoned forth in the columns of the Advocate as though he were the greatest criminal of the age, instead of being a free man asserting the right to possess and ventilate his own opinions.

In connection with the approaching Convention of the F.P.U. to be held at Port Union in the near future, would it not be well for the Administrator of the Government to take notice that one of his advisers is Secretary of two ramifications of that Union for which he doubtless draws a substantial salary, while at the same time he is a minister of the Crown and in receipt of Ministerial emoluments from the taxpayers of the Colony. Is this consistent? Is it right? Is it just?

Coaker Not Burnt in Effigy.

BUT HIS DAY IS DONE!

Special to Evening Telegram. WESLEYVILLE, To-day. Although Coaker was not burnt in effigy here last night he is finished as far as Bonavista Bay is concerned, and the northern fishermen are very indignant that he should report in the Advocate that they are backing down, which is absolutely false, for the men here are more determined than ever to win out and see such men as Coaker as far from the Government as possible. Our committee has lately returned from visiting Bonavista, Newman's Cove, Flat Island, Deer Island and other places and report everybody solid for the Resolutions and determined to fight till the end. We are advising all fishermen of Newfoundland to stick together and sell no fish till their demands are acceded to. Owing to the disagreeable weather, it was impossible for us to land our fleet to come to St. John's, but after one fine day we will leave in a body of 100 vessels for town to enforce our demands, if not got otherwise. On behalf of Committee. JESSE WINSOR, Chairman of United Fishermen.

ADDITIONAL PROOF THAT COAKER'S DAY IS DONE.

The following telegraph message was handed the Telegram this morning as evidence of the determination of the Northern fishermen to assert their rights in connection with the movement recently started, as an intimation to Mr. Coaker and the Advocate to keep their "hands off."

WESLEYVILLE, Nov. 2, 1922.

JOB BLACKWOOD, S. A. College, St. John's. Publish in all newspapers of St. John's that the Advocate's report that Northern men are backing down is absolutely false. We are more determined than ever.

JESSE WINSOR.

Minister of Public Works MAKES STEP IN MORAL DIRECTION.

Unavoidable prominence given one of our public institutions during the past couple of days has evidently stirred heads of other departments to action, and in this connection Mr. Jennings, Minister of Public Works, to-day posted a notice in the Board of Works building forbidding any except the regular office staff access to certain parts of the establishment. The janitor is ordered to have these instructions carried out under pain of instant dismissal.

No Prospect of Improvement.

"THE PRICE IS WHAT COAKER MAKES IT."

"If the price of fish is what Coaker makes it," a message received by a prominent planter of Brookfield is not encouraging. This message advised the planter to proceed at once to Port Union, where $4 per cwt. can be obtained, as the price is going "down, down, down," maybe to $3.50 and possibly some may not get their catch clear at any price.

Fishermen's Delegation Visits Bonavista.

Successful Meeting Held and Action of Committee Endorsed--Rev. C. Lench Acted as Chairman.

Left here 9.30 a.m. Thursday, 28th inst. for Bonavista in open motor boat with Mr. E. J. Wornell, delegated to hold public meeting and explain Fishermen's Resolution. We arrived there 3.15 p.m. and found crowd of fishermen to welcome us. Our intention was to land Mr. Wornell and retreat, but being requested to stay we changed our plans and acceded to their request. We were taken to comfortable homes and given lunch, after which we returned to look after our boat and found the friends hauling her on beach for the night. The flag was hoisted on the Orange Hall about 4 p.m., the only notice given about the meeting. The meeting opened about 7.30 p.m., the Hall being practically filled. Rev. C. Lench was appointed Chairman. After he had made a few remarks he called on Mr. Wornell to address the meeting. The speaker told the people in very simple language how the work begun and showed them how it had progressed until it had reached its present stage. The meeting was one of the most orderly and reflects great credit upon the people of Bonavista, especially when a man of the rank and file is given such honor and respect. The speaker then read the Resolutions and took his seat to give the meeting a chance to comment upon them. The Chairman then asked us to address the meeting and we certainly gave some addresses. We told the people that we've been at the fishery all our lifetime, bringing home good voyages from 600 to 1000 quintals, and find that we can hardly make both ends meet. We consider this a life or death struggle and we said we would go to France in an open boat if necessary to make it easier to live in this country. A vote was taken for all who were in favour of the Resolutions to raise their right hand when a unanimous response was made. They were then asked to confirm same by their signatures, which they did. A committee was chosen to further the work. Meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem and claimed by all to be the best that was ever held at Bonavista. The following day being stormy we could not get home as we intended so we laid our plans to have a meeting at Newman's Cove. The people of both Birchy and Newman's Coves were notified and asked to arrange for a meeting in the Orange Hall at Newman's Cove. In spite of the rain and darkness we reached the Hall at 7.30 p.m. and found about 40 men ready to receive us and hear the message from our delegate. Pursuing the usual course the Resolutions were read and explained. They were unanimously passed and signed. Mr. Wornell then arranged with a man to have the Resolutions taken to Amherst Cove so that the people of that place and the adjoining places be given a chance to see and sign them also. The meeting then closed by singing the National Anthem. We got back to Bonavista at 10.45 p.m. Leaving Bonavista at 8 a.m. this morning we called at Flat Islands, where we soon had a crowd assembled. The Resolutions were read and explained there by Mr. Wornell and the spirits of the people rose and they asked us to leave the Resolutions with them and they would assure us of their hearty support. We arrived home about 5 p.m. and the meeting was then closed by singing the National Anthem. A public meeting was held to hear the delegate's report, after which had been given, was accepted as given in all honesty by a unanimous vote of the people. The people are still determined to spread this and make it a success. Copies of Resolutions were given to Mr. Kenneth Goodyear of Musgrave Harbor, who faithfully promised in our meeting to take the matter up and to see that the Fish District would co-operate with us in our fight for an existence. The driver of the motor boat, Robert Carter deserves to be congratulated for the way in which he kept the Atlantic engine working without giving us trouble during the trip. WALTER CARTER, MARK BRAGG, Greenspond, Oct. 28th, 1922.

FRIDAY, Nov. 3. There are several good points in the Decatur Tooth Brush, which are worth noting: (1) It is not too large a brush; the handy size enables it to get round the mouth easily. (2) The shape of the brush enables it to reach all the teeth, especially those in back of the mouth. (3) The wide spacing between the bristles allows them to penetrate into the crevices where food particles accumulate. (4) The handle is so shaped that it allows you to hold the brush in the proper position in the hand for correct brushing. (5) The bristles are made of the finest and liveliest hair, and the Decatur Brush will outlast two ordinary brushes. Price 70c. each.

Our Review Column.

JIMMY HOWCROFT'S BOOK OF POEMS. Everybody is likely to be interested in the new edition of Jimmy Howcroft's poems, which, under the title "LOOKING ON" is now issued by the author. Howcroft is an Airman who was desperately wounded during the war. Since 1916 he has been unable to move hand or foot; indeed it is a mystery to his doctors that he should be able to live since his spine is fractured. He is in constant pain, Howcroft, however, has the poet's ability to rise superior to his surroundings, and most of the poems in the second edition, an advance copy of which we acknowledge, and most of the poems in this little volume, were dictated to his nurse in the London hospital where he was looked after for five years. Howcroft now lives at Liphook, in a cottage, in comfort, largely owing to the tangible result of the sale of the first edition of this book. With his wonderful endurance he is now very keen on starting a poultry farm, and he is looking forward to further sales to start him in this scheme. These verses serve to show us there are no circumstances, however adverse, which a courageous spirit may not surmount. There must be many who, admiring this war hero's sustained courage, will be glad to help in the small way of securing this little book of poems, which has proved itself of help to many on account of its outlook of cheerfulness and courage. The second edition much augmented, revised, and a new photograph added, can be obtained from the author at Little Forest Cottage, Liphook, Hants; at the low price of 2/6d. post free or by the kindness of Messrs. Eden Fisher & Co., Ltd., from them at 96 Fenchurch St., London, E.C.3. The new edition has a foreword by John Oxenham, an appreciation by G. J. Tabe, and is dedicated to Miss Phyllis Harding, 13 Hyde Park Gate, S.W., London. We quote the following as an example of the author's poetic accomplishment: LIFE. (Suggested by a game of Chess.) "The stage of life is set, the play slowly evolves from its beginning. Some parts are small, some others great. Dictated by relentless fate. No matter what our lot may be, This, all can plainly, clearly see; The play's most poor, most humble part, May lead with hope towards the dawn."

The George Street Mission Circle will hold their Sale of Work and Teas on the 22nd inst., instead of the 15th, as previously announced. nov.31

Away to the city of gold; Which knows no sorrow, sin or pain He is safe in the heavenly field. The silent grief that's in my heart No human life can trace; For many a broken heart is hid Behind a smiling face. 'Tis not good-bye dear Albert, 'tis only just farewell, A little while, a moment, we too with Christ shall dwell; Sleep thy last sleep, free from care and sorrow, But where none weep, till the eternal morrow. --Inserted by his wife. IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear mother, Elizabeth A. Blare, who died Nov. 3rd, 1922. But to-day I'm left in sorrow, And my heart is filled with pain; We will meet some day in heaven Where we'll never part again. Christ has called her and we miss her, And the voice we loved is still, And no more we'll hear her footsteps, Nor her vacant place be filled. Memories are not forgotten, And the lonesome days I spend; She was always glad and happy, And the smiles on her sweet face, And to-day she rests in heaven In her happy resting place. --Inserted by her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Drew.

Advertisement for Drowning Averted and No Bumper Crop. Includes text: "LAD'S LUCKY ESCAPE. A young lad named Churchill, aged 18 years, had a narrow escape from drowning while out bird shooting at Portugal Cove this morning. It appears that he was shooting gulls from the shore, and having met with good luck, secured a row boat to go out and pick them up. He had not gone over a hundred yards from the shore when the sculling oar which he was using, broke off, and owing to the heavy seas which were running in on the land, the young chap was left in a helpless condition and the boat began to rapidly drift, but luckily, towards the shore, before the little craft made the land, a huge sea came in and capsized it, precipitating Churchill into the water. While he was struggling and crying for help he managed to grasp a piece of rope, that was attached to the boat, floating beside in the water, when by the mercy of the providence, a huge wave again came in, and landed the boat high and dry on 'Anchor Rock.' This gave the boy something solid to hold on to, and assistance arrived, just in the nick of time and rescued him from his perilous position. Had not the lad kept his head, a fatality would have probably been recorded in Portugal Cove to-day. Young Churchill, though somewhat frightened, after being taken to his home, feels nothing the worse after having such a narrow escape." POTATO YIELD SHORTAGE. The harvesting of root crops has been somewhat retarded by the wet weather of the few days. Farmers, however, consider their potatoes lifted, but concerning the general opinion of last year's production, it is some instances the potato was 50% less than average. The turnip and cabbage crops are up to the average, and it is expected that heavy importations will be made to supply the market. VETERINARIAN.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon at the City Hall. The agenda for the evening was as follows:—
 1. Report of the City Engineer.
 2. Report of the City Treasurer.
 3. Report of the City Clerk.
 4. Report of the City Assessor.
 5. Report of the City Surveyor.
 6. Report of the City Inspector.
 7. Report of the City Engineer.
 8. Report of the City Treasurer.
 9. Report of the City Clerk.
 10. Report of the City Assessor.
 11. Report of the City Surveyor.
 12. Report of the City Inspector.

He outlined the methods in use by other cities, such as St. John, Montreal, Toronto, etc. This matter has already been carefully considered by the Council, who fully realize the necessity for inauguration of improved methods of dealing with such matters, but the city has always to consider its very limited finances. The removal of snow is a very costly item, and last season the Council paid out in labour alone somewhat in the vicinity of $9,000.00. The Council appreciates the interest taken by Mr. White in civic matters and trusts to be in a position to carry out some of the needed reforms suggested by him.
 Mr. H. Ross called attention to the very unsanitary condition of the sidewalk near his dwelling, Victoria Street, and asked that something be done to remedy same. The owners of adjoining stable are to be ordered to immediately remedy the complaint and the City Engineer will be instructed to see that the place is kept in sanitary condition.
 Mr. R. Patton, Mount Royal Avenue, asked that the Sanitary Service be extended to the locality. This section is already being given attention by the Sanitary Department.
 The residents of the Southside square lighting at this place. The Lighting Committee will investigate this matter; also similar request received from P. J. Raynes, Casey St. Mrs. S. E. Worrall, Springdale Street, asked that the retaining wall at the western corner of Springdale Street and Gilbert Street be attended to. The wall in question is a private one, and does not come within the jurisdiction of the Council.
 The Avalon Telephone Company, applying to Council's notification, stated the poles on the Waterford Bridge Road have been moved back to the new street line, as requested.

The following tendered to do the necessary plumb at premises of Messrs. Pond and Bowring Brothers, Southside Road—N. Omond, Kavanaugh & Colford; A. Omond and James McGrath. The tender of Mr. James McGrath was accepted in each case.
 It was decided to remove the hopper fronting the dwelling of Mr. Aleck James, Goodview Street, as he has complied with the City regulations and installed water and sewerage.
 It was brought to the notice of the Board that the Promenade has lately been used by certain parties in cartage of lumber, etc., to the main thoroughfare. The Promenade has always been reserved for pedestrians and the Council will not permit its use for any other purpose. The Engineer was therefore instructed to take the necessary steps to prevent this occurring in the future.
 The following plans were passed, subject to the approval of the City Engineer:—
 A. Curlew (dwelling), Circular Road; W. R. Hibbs (dwelling), Mundy Pond Road, provided he pays his proportion of cost for water and sewerage extension; A. Taylor (Carriage Shed), Beaumont Street; G. Hampton (Garage), Golf Avenue, provided he installs ventilation.
 The notice of motion given by Councillor Ryan, with regard to the fixing of a tax on Skating Rinks, was then taken up. Under Section 256 of the Act, companies owning or operating Skating Rinks shall pay to the Council a rate per cent on the gross annual income of such Skating Rinks. It was therefore decided that the tax be at the rate of two per cent on the gross annual income of such Skating Rinks. Previous to discussion of this matter, Councillor Outerbridge, who is Secretary-Treasurer of the St. John's Skating Rink, Limited, withdrew from the Council Chambers, as under Section 52 of the Act, no member of the Council is permitted to vote or speak upon any question in which he is personally interested in any way.
 A deputation from the residents of Malta, Goodridge and other streets in that part of the city known as the "Annex", were admitted to the meeting. Messrs. Lakin and Fifield, on behalf of the residents, placed before the Board their grievances, which are lack of water and sewerage, properly constructed streets and lighting facilities. The petitioners stated they fully realized the many disadvantages the City Council had to contend with in the matter of finances, and that they therefore were not looking for impossibilities. The placing of water and sewerage in this section would be a very costly undertaking, and at the present time the Council has nothing but its current account to work upon and many improvements necessary in various sections of the City cannot be undertaken. Taking these circumstances into consideration, they asked that in the meantime the Council arrange for at least proper lighting of their district. This was unanimously agreed to, and the Mayor with the Lighting Committee will interview the Reid Newfoundland Co., with a view to having three lights immediately installed. The deputation thanked the Board for the hearing given them, and trusted that a future date funds will be forthcoming to supply them with water and sewer connections.
 Reports of the City Engineer, Health Officer, Sanitary Supervisor, etc., for the week, were tabled. Payrolls and accounts presented were ordered paid. There being no further business, the meeting then adjourned.

Herring Fishery

There was a very good sign of herring in Middle Arm all last week, but the stormy weather interfered considerably with operations.
 The first herring for the season was brought into Curling from the Arms last Tuesday when Alex. M. Dunphy's motor boat came in from Middle Arm with ten tubs.
 There are some herring at Bonne Bay, but not any big quantity up to date, and very few people are engaging in the fishery there this season.—Western Star.

THE DRESS UP TRUNK.

Whatever may be said against the coming back of long skirts, there is one thing that can be said for them. They certainly will make a lot more fun. There was a time when a little girl was a person in short skirts, and a lady was a person who wore long skirts, and one could temporarily transform oneself from the first into the second by borrowing one of mother's long garments.

Child Or Grown Up?

But in the past few years this simple distinction has been so wiped out that I have sometimes been in doubt on the street as to whether I was looking at a child of 12 or 13 with an unusually old face, or a woman of 35 or 40 with an unusually short skirt. Poor youngsters! They may think they enjoy dressing almost like grown ups all the time, but I don't think they get half so much fun out of that as the youngsters of my day got in dressing just like grown ups once in a while.

For Rainy Afternoons.

Dressing up was a recognized rainy day diversion in our family. There was an old black trunk in which we kept the things that we were allowed to use for that purpose. I can shut my eyes and see the trunk to-day. How the children in the neighborhood who had no such trunk in their attics loved to get at it! It had in it not only some of my mother's recently outworn dresses, but some very old-fashioned things. I remember especially a black silk basque, very tight, with shiny black buttons down the front, and a hideous black dolman, heavy with braid, and a quilted white muslin gown, and a pair of mitts and an old bonnet with strings, and some odds and ends of feathers and ribbons that came from bygone days as accessories. There was a wonderful India shawl, too, that some one going grand-uncle had brought my grandmother, but that lived in the cedar chest instead of in the black trunk and was only loaned for very special dressing up occasions.

Sometimes we used the ancient things and created the quaintest and funniest costumes we could out of them, and then again we dressed as nearly like mother as we could. Once when mother was out, two of us dressed up like modern grown ups, borrowed mother's parasol and went calling—mystifying the neighbors for a brief period until our disguises (assisted by a heavy veil) was penetrated. Shall I ever forget the giggles and thrills that attended that adventure?

Is There A Black Trunk In Your Home?

A little girl who came to my house the other day wanted to give me an idea of a fashion show in which she had been taken, and with which she was fairly bubbling over. From my wardrobe I furnished a few simple articles, a scarf, a silk petticoat, a pair of high heeled slippers, a bit of lace, a rose off an old hat. The excitement with which she fell upon each article, and then fell on me and hugged me as if I had given her some costly toy, the quaint and charming effects she produced, brought the old days of the black trunk back to me. Is there a black trunk in your home?

If there are children in that home you are denying them one of the least expensive pleasures of youth, and a pleasure that trains the dramatic and artistic senses, unless there is.

Just Folks.

THE MAN WHO GETS PROMOTED.

The ordinary fellow does an ordinary task. He's mighty fond of "good enough" and lets it go at that. But the chap who gets promoted, or the raise he doesn't ask. He has just a little something more than hair beneath his hat.

The ordinary fellow lives an ordinary day. With the ordinary fellow he is anxious to be quiet; But the chap who draws attention, and has a vision for the future and is working hard for it.

He tackles what he has to do with the will to see it through. He does a little thinking of the work that comes to hand; His eyes are always open for the more that he can do. You never find him idle, merely waiting a command.

The ordinary fellow does precisely as he's told. But someone has to tell him what to do, and how, and when. But the chap who gets promoted fills the job he has to hold. With just a little something more than ordinary man.

Germans Surplant Jape.

SIMLA, (Canadian Press)—German merchandise is rapidly replacing Japanese wares in the markets of India according to the reports of trade investigators made public here. During the war, with the supply of German goods cut off, Japanese manufacturers found India a profitable sales territory and shipped huge quantities of all sorts of merchandise to the Hindu, Moslem and Parsee shops. These stores are now practically barren of Japanese goods and German merchandise is again flooding the market. German salesmen are now penetrating Tibet by the Youngusband route.

"Noodles" Peddlers Must Lower Prices.

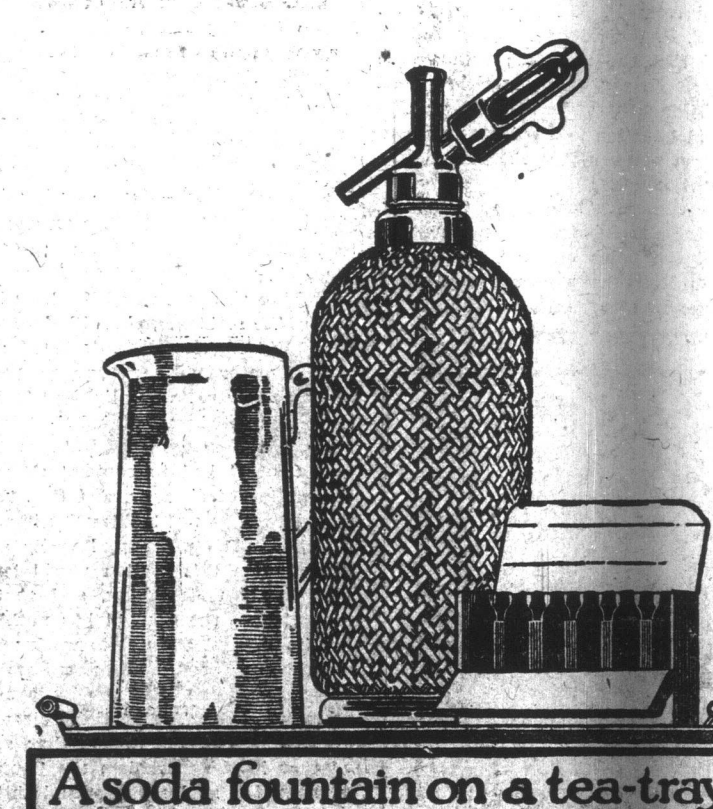

TOKYO.—The man who sells noodles on the streets of Tokyo and who incidentally plays on a horn the original "Japanese sandman" while doing it, will soon have to take a different vacation if the proposals of the municipal authorities are carried out. The League of Shopkeepers has been accused of heartless profiteering. The League made up of men who pull about streets little covered tables with oil lamps pitched black and end who at all hours of the day sell familiar omelets on their futu-like horns. The noodle keepers have been selling noodles ten sens, which leaves them a profit of 4.4 sens, the officials say. They must charge only eight sens and get off the streets.

ROYAL BRETROTHAL OF JAPANESE.

TOKYO (Canadian Press)—On the day of the announcement of his engagement to Princess Nagako, the Prince Regent of Japan presented his future consort with the historic sword of betrothal, and to finally seal the contract the Emperor and Empress donated five rolls of silk, a cask of sake and a box containing two tal, a variety of fish. That, however, was only a very small part of the ceremony. Early on the morning of the betrothal day Count Tokugawa the grand chamberlain to the Emperor, through Viscount Makino, minister to the Imperial Household, told the Prince Regent that Prince Kuni, father of Princess Nagako, had given his consent to the match. The young Prince Regent wore the yellowish brown court costume that for centuries has been the formal regalia of Japanese royalty. He received the minister in the famous Crysanthemum Hall of the imperial palace. Then, having heard his message, he accompanied Prince Kuni, the chief ritualist, to the imperial shrine. There, he announced his engagement to the spirits of his ancestors. After that, the Prince Regent formally thanked the Emperor and Empress and returned to his own palace, where he received the congratulations of the most prominent personages in Japan. A banquet followed and the Prince Regent was invested with the First Class Order of the Crown, one of the highest Japanese decorations. Then came the presentation of the betrothal sword to the Princess. The sword is a simple instrument about one foot long, but made by the best swordmaker in all Japan. On its handle is carved a crysanthemum, the crest of the imperial house. The presentation of the bales of silk, the wine and fish came later, but that did not terminate the ceremony. As an additional part of the betrothal service Tokyo representatives of the royal house visited the great shrine of Ise, the Sun goddess and mythical ancestor of all Japan; the grave of Jimmu Tenno, the first emperor, and the Monoyama mausoleum, where great men of old Japan lie buried. To the spirits of these departed giants it was announced that the future ruler of the kingdom has chosen the girl who some day would be the first lady of the land.

Canadian Violinist.

Meets Ancient Ruler of Japan. TOKYO (Canadian Press)—Kathleen Parlow, the Canadian Violinist, has returned to Japan from Java, where she had the distinction of being presented to the Soehurno, the ancient ruler of the island. The Soehurno, who held undisputed sway over the whole of Java before the Dutch came, is still an absolute monarch, but he rules over a small walled domain called Solo. There he entertains visitors and receives their presents. When Miss Parlow was introduced to the old chief, he was surrounded by his forty-four wives and fifty-eight children. "He is a fat old man with watery eyes and he loves decorations," said Miss Parlow. "As a result he is loaded with every sort of medal, and when he is in formal attire he is literally covered with decorations." He wore an old frock coat and seemed especially proud of his green stockings. When he spoke his voice could be easily heard above the orchestra that played incessantly and the combined voices of the "nobles." Miss Parlow will make a concert tour through China in November and will spend the winter in Europe, returning to Canada and the United States the following season. In order to protect her violin from the heat, damp climate of the Far Eastern tropics, Miss Parlow had it assembled with a Russian glue that is impervious to the weakening effect of heat and humidity.

New Religion Gaining Adherents.

TOKYO.—Despite the attempts at repression by the municipal authorities, the new Japanese religion, known as Omotokyo, is rapidly gaining adherents, especially among the wealthier classes, and even the noble families. M. Tokocami, brother of the former Minister of Home Affairs, who ordered a raid on the cult's headquarters here last year, is one of the latest converts and he has built a temple in his name and started publication of a religious newspaper supporting the new doctrine.

Many years ago, at a dinner party in Glasgow, there was present a lawyer of rather sharp practice, fond of giving toasts or sentiments. After the cloth was removed, and the bottle had gone round once or twice, the ladies withdrew to the lighter pleasures of the drawing-room—all but one very plain old maid. She remained and as the conversation began to get a little masculine, our legal friend was anxious to get rid of the "ancient," and for this purpose rather prematurely asked the privilege of giving a toast. This being granted, he rose and gave the old toast of "Honour to men and bonny lassies." The toast was drunk with all decorum, and then the spinster, who was sitting next to the lawyer, rose from her seat, gave him a poke in the ribs with the end of her finger, and saying, "That toast applies neither to you or to me!" left the room.

MINARD'S LINIMENT LUMBER-MAN'S FRIEND

Extraordinary Development OF EXTERNAL SENSES.

NEW YORK, (Canadian Press)—Hearing with the fingers and seeing through the nose are the accomplishments of Willetta Huggins, a Wisconsin girl of 17. Stone blind and completely deaf for the past five years, she has learned to distinguish sounds by their vibrations, and to tell colors by smell. Up to the age of 12, Willetta had enjoyed the partial use of her eyes and ears, and her physical development had been normal. When their loss became complete she went through a long period of dejected apathy. Then she learned of Helen Keller and morose indifference to everything about her changed to lively interest and the desire to emulate Miss Keller. To-day Willetta carries on conversations by touch and attends concerts and lectures which she "hears" by touching her fingers to an audiphone. Says Dr. Thomas J. Williams of Chicago in the current Journal of the American Medical Association: "Her fine sense of touch does not stop here. She can actually read by running her fingers tips over newspaper headings of half-inch or even smaller type, and she can readily and rapidly distinguish the denomination of paper money by feeling the imprint of the number and difference of the designs." Dr. Williams tells of a number of experiments to which he submitted the girl. She "heard" him talk, he says, by resting her finger tips on his larynx, his head or his chest. She learned to differentiate between the vibrations of speech through intervening objects such as a billiard cue resting on the speaker's head or chest. She caught the vibrations in the air by holding a sheet of paper between her hands and letting the speaker talk against it. She heard words spoken over the telephone by resting her fingers against the receiver. She learned to talk by holding her fingers on her own larynx. She can tell by smell how many persons, up to eight, are in the room with her, and by smell also she knows flowers and detects the colors of materials. She was able to affirm that a sweater which the doctor handed her was of two colors—lavender and purple, and could correctly place her fingers on the dividing line. Beads all small green, she says. And this is true of other articles of glass or which are glazed.

RAW AND HIGH WINDS.
A heavy downpour of rain with high wind prevailed last night in the city. The sanitary staff were kept busy clearing the gullies and drains which overflowed by the big rush of water. The rivers and ponds in the suburbs are swollen to an unusual extent by the flood and this morning the field near Fenelon River Tannery was a miniature lake.

Meigle Sails This Afternoon.

PROCEEDS TO DISABLED STEAMER
No further news of the S.S. Canadian steamer has been received since yesterday when she was reported as being some 700 miles northeast of this port with her rudder gone. Yesterday Mr. J. W. N. Johnstone, local representative of the Canadian Merchant Marine made arrangements to have the Meigle go to the disabled steamer's assistance, and the work of coaling the ship was immediately started and continued last night. Special hawsers have been secured and the Meigle sails this afternoon in an attempt to locate and pick up the disabled ship.

Preaching by Practice.

Pews by day that becomes couches by night may be seen in the church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, in Trafalgar Square, London.

For this is a church that practices what it preaches, and, in providing a night's rest for the homeless wanderers of the streets, it is following the old traditions founded round the name of St. Martin.

St. Martin was the son of an officer in the Roman army, and, as a soldier, he served in France nearly sixteen hundred years ago. During one winter, when men were perishing of cold on all sides, Martin was in Amiens, and an old beggar, nearly dead with cold, approached him, craving alms.

The young soldier's sole worldly possessions were a cloak and his sword, but with one slash of his sword he slit the cloak in two and, throwing one-half over his own shoulders, he placed the other on those of the beggar.

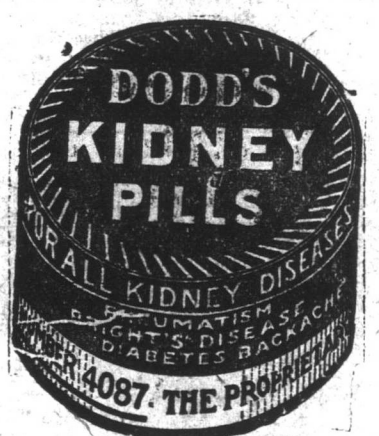

Later, in a dream, it was revealed to him that he had divided his cloak with Christ.

That is the legend and to-day St. Martin's Church lives up to it by caring for the homeless.

All sorts enter those doors at night—a strange contrast to the fashionable throng who attend the services in the daytime—and a deacon or deaconess is ready with a rug to cover over any weary man or woman who cares to rest in the pews.

Throughout the night, in the dim light an attendant walks around, passing with silent footstep down the aisles, watching over the sleeping forms.

And only when the light of day slips in through the windows does this house of refuge become once more a house of worship.

Two Sextettes of Fingers

NEW YORK.—(By Canadian Press)
—Six fingers on each hand is nature's endowment of the baby daughter of Hans Kriger, of Bremen, who was born on the North German Lloyd Steamer York, on the way over here. The little girl is doing well and is destined apparently to have plenty of time in which to find out if the sixth digit is any particular advantage in modern day life. Her father Hans has six fingers on the right hand, but the usual five on the left hand.

Resumption of Anglo-American Cable Letter and Week-End Letter Services.

The Anglo-American Telegraph Co. announces the resumption on November 1st of the Cable Letter and Week-End Letter Services to Great Britain and Ireland. Cable Letters may be filed at any time and are delivered the following day. Week-End Letters may be filed at any time prior to midnight on Saturday and are delivered on Monday morning.

The rate for a Cable Letter to London and Liverpool is one-third the regular cable rate, and the rate for a Week-End letter one-quarter of the regular cable rate, in each case with a minimum of twenty words including the necessary prefix placed before the address to indicate the class of service. To places in the United Kingdom other than London and Liverpool there is an added charge of two cents per word in both classes of service to cover the landline transmission on the other side.

Both forms of service are designed for plain language business and social communications which do not require instantaneous transmission but are still of sufficient urgency that they should not be subjected to the delay incident to the carriage by trans-ocean mail. Each has its own peculiar field of usefulness, the Cable Letter serving for such correspondence as is not of immediate urgency but should still be disposed of within a day or two and the Week-End Letter for communications of perhaps still less urgency but nevertheless sufficiently important to require their transmission in quicker time than can be done by the over-seas mail. Thus each in its own way supplies a distinct convenience of which the cable using public will no doubt be quick to take advantage.

H. A. SAUNDERS, Superintendent.
