

THIRTEENTH YEAR.

THAT NEWSPAPER SQUABBLE

More Plain Speaking—Mr. Thomas Long is not speaking an Academy—Nor is Mr. Brock vindictive—Mr. Mackenzie's retirement and Mr. Creighton's succession—Is Mr. Meredith to have a Fair Share in His Share or Break Struggle?

"I do not know," said a member of the Albany Club, "when I read anything so much to the point as the deliberations of those Conservatives who have been discussing the prospects of our party in recent months..."

"There must have been a mistake somewhere. Surely it is not too late to heal the trouble. The Mail people, Dunstun and Riddon, are ready to come in; indeed, the former has gone on several expeditions to Ottawa, has had long talks with Haggart and Patterson and he has paid several visits to the Albany Club of late. As for Mr. Brock and Mr. Long, who have done so much for the Empire, they are not unwilling to share the Mail and commiserate with the Empire if funds are put in for that object."

"Mr. Long, notwithstanding what is said on the subject, is not seeking a senatorship—would not take it if offered him. He made the financial sacrifice he has made for the Empire out of regard for the welfare of the party and through a desire to see fair play. It is true that he is being bought up stock in the Empire, it is probably all due to the cause of peace, not to gain an ascendancy over the party."

"As for Mr. Brock he has been nothing but a pacemaker in local and Dominion politics and will, when he returns, take the chairmanship of the Empire, be the very first to consider any reasonable proposition Mr. Creighton may have to offer toward healing the Mail breach."

"As was said by the previous Conservatives in the World, 'D'Almeida is lacking in sound political judgment. He makes mistakes; Sir John Thompson never does. That's the difference as between them. For instance, it is true that Mr. McCarthy led the Mail into its crusade against the Catholic party, and that he also insisted on the starting of the Empire, though it afterwards came to pass that this very paper called him a wobbler and traitor. Take another instance of Mr. McCarthy's mis-judgment. He allowed his name to go to the public the other day as the prospective president of a new lake navigation company which died stillborn. But besides his mistakes he makes mistakes. With the Mail behind him he can find Mr. Meredith. But if he is taken right and the Mail and Empire squabble is settled by a consolidation the way to Mr. Meredith's triumph is clear."

"As for Mr. Creighton, one hears nothing but spite and malice. Mr. Creighton got him into the box. Mr. Creighton is a man of broad vision, a sound debater, a deep thinker, and at the same time had thoroughly mastered all the intricacies of the politics of the county of Grey."

"The story is also foundationless that the Cabinet at Ottawa think that the business men of Toronto should carry an unnecessary paper in that city advertising itself. It is well known that the business men of this city are the most generous advertisers of any city in Canada; but it is too much to expect that when politicians choose to start another paper that they can maintainance on the business men of Toronto. They will give one good Conservative paper a share, but two trying to work the same field is one too many."

"And that is why I may another member of the Albany Club desire to see

BOTH WERE TIRED OF LIFE.

ONE USED CARBOLIC ACID AND THE OTHER A PAIR OF SCISSORS.

William Bird, Head Waiter of Clow's, takes a Dose of Poison—A Spitzer of 66 Hacks Her Throat With a Pair of Scissors and Jumps From a Second Story Window.

William W. Bird, 223 Berkeley-street, was found dead Saturday morning in the bushes in the rear of the Woodbine Hotel. Bird had been hanging around the race track continuously since Thursday morning, until when he had been in the employ of William Clow at Turtle Hall, Samuel J. Hill, 1634 Queen-st. east, discovered the body at 8:30 in the morning. The police were notified and the remains were transferred to the Morgue, where an inquest was held by Dr. Atkins at 8:30 on Thursday.

THE "HERO OF JELLALABAD" DEAD.

Color Sergeant Kay Answers the Last Roll Call—Had Served Under Sir

The death occurred at 196 Markham-street yesterday of Color-Sergeant Alexander Kay, late of the 13th Light Infantry, who was known among local veterans as the "hero of Jellalabad."

Dr. Swetnam's evidence regarding the result of a post-mortem examination he had performed on the deceased left little room for the coroner's jury to perform Saturday evening, as he proved conclusively that Kay had died of carbolic acid. Bird just previous to his demise. The fact was evidenced by the hardened condition of the dead man's throat, gullet, stomach and adjacent portions of the liver.

Henry Bamber, 102 Richmond-street, who gave evidence which removed the shadow of doubt as to whether Bird had swallowed his life. He has been a friend of the deceased for the last four or five years and works at the Windsor Hotel. On Thursday he received a note from Bird, written on an envelope coated in the following terms:

"Dear Sir,—If anything should happen please see that things are all right and my expenses paid. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Wm. Bird, 196 Markham-street, Toronto, Ont., Canada."

No signature was appended to the note, but Bamber, who was familiar with Bird's handwriting, identified it as his. Bamber was positive that he knew no reason why Bird should have committed suicide. He was always under the impression that his home life had been pleasant, but noticed that for the past few months he had appeared somewhat despondent.

William Clow of Turtle Hall, with whom the deceased has worked for the last four or five months, also noticed this despondency. Bird had not come to work Friday morning, and Clow had been called to inquire whether he was ill or not, but had received answer that he had not been home since the previous evening.

Nothing was added to indicate why Bird should have taken his life, though Mr. Clow had a faint recollection of hearing the deceased praying one morning he professed to greatly admire.

The jury's verdict was: "This man came to his death by a dose of carbolic acid, self-administered."

WITH A PAIR OF SCISSORS.

Eliza Sifton, a spinster, 66 years of age, who has for some time past boarded with Mr. John Perrie, 70 Dundas-st. east, made a determined attempt to take her own life yesterday afternoon. She first tried to cut her throat with a pair of dull scissors, making a jagged but not dangerous wound. She then jumped from a window about 25 feet from the ground.

Dr. Todd of 165 College-avenue was called in and found that she had sustained a severely lacerated wound and injuries to the arm and leg.

She was removed to the General Hospital about 9 o'clock and will recover in a few days.

Miss Sifton came to Toronto with relatives about a year ago. The relatives were actively engaged in the transaction of his private business up to within a few days of his death. Mr. Dickson leaves a widow and three children—two sons and four daughters.

YESTERDAY'S PARADE

Despite the Rain Thousands of People Witnessed the Turning of the Local Regiment Yesterday.

An old man with a long white beard and a high collar, his eyes twinkling feebly behind a pair of steel-rimmed glasses, had the flash of sharp swords in many hands and the rattle of drums, the inspiring music of the band, the marching of the band and the shrill of the Minnie ball as it hurtled by. And he had always fought for Queen Victoria, might God bless her! By 3 o'clock the old man had fought over again some 16 battles, not to mention old skirmishes and ambuscades galore.

THE NIGHT BEFORE THE RACE

Last night while quietly sleeping I had a most curious dream—A vision that truly perplexed me—A phantasmagorical scene.

Need of an International Coin

At this time of year, when everybody is fretting about letters of credit and all the other makeshifts to avoid paying in hard money, it occurs to the mind unskilled in questions of finance to wonder why we cannot have one single international coin, believed in the remotest part of the world.
