SACKRIDER SKIDOOED.—About three months ago S. E. Thompson engaged a young man named Orville Sackrider, from Strathroy, as a baker. He appeared to be quiet, industrious young fellow, with no bad habits, and formed quite a circle of acquaintances among the young people. On Saturday night he engaged a rig and was driven to Wyoming, and has not been seen since. After his departure it developed that he was financially involved, owing about eighty dollars to different business men in town, also beating a board bill of two weeks. His creditors are wrathy over the way they were victimized, and will make it very uncomfortable for Sackrider if they can uncomfortable for Sackrider if they can lay hands on him. SPEAKING of short sermons on hot Sundays brings to mind the story of the dominie in Scotland. There, also, it was mid-summer, and the sermon was long drawn out. The congregation wearied of the sermon and the atmosphere of church, left one by one, until there were only the one member of the congrega preacher, one member of the congrega-tion and the "minister's man." Finally the one unofficial auditor also went out and Donald interrrupted the "seventhly" by saying: "Weel, dominie, they've all gone but we two. Here's the key of the kirk. THE Municipal World has this to say on the importance of keeping the road-ways repaired: "The repair of roads is as important as their construction. glect to keep the roads in repair, failure to repair them when repair is first needed adds very much to the cost of roads. A good road which is not kept in repair very quickly becomes a bad road, and the object of the original expenditure is thus lost. To allow roads to degenerate for want of repair means an immense waste of labor, material and money, which has to be made up in their reconstruction. Wherever good roads are built arrangements should be made for a careful attention to their revair." tention to their repair.'

WATFORD, AUG. 3, 1906.

Health in Warm Weather.

Not much meat should be eaten in hot weather; less food of any sort is needed than in winter. Food has two functions: As fuel to sustain heat; as energy to move the muscles. The one need is almost wholly and the other largely suspended in July. Alcoholic drinks are doubly dangerous in hot weather Iced weak tea is an excellent drink if one dips out the ice and throws it away, allowing the liquid to lose its chill. Iced water in families should be prepared by setting sealed jars of water in the refrigerator at a distance from the ice, never by putting cracked ice in the goblets. A temperature of 42 degrees is low enough for drinking water. Extreme fatigue should be avoided, but it is not true that "it doesn't pay to get heated up going out of town." Even if one must return to broiling heat, a few hours at the seaside assist the body to regain its tone. Young children, who both become ill and recover more quickly than adults, are often literally saved from death by a single day in cool air. There is no better way of hightening the peace of mind which is favorable to health in July that to aid the charitable in sending ailing babies to the seashore.—New York World.

Get Ready.

Two or three months more and the gates will be open for our fall fairs. The time in which to prepare is none too much for any man who desires to win a prize or attract public attention. The whole problem of successful competition hinges first on breeding but chiefly on preparation. No man deserves to win who takes his stock directly from the pasture to the show No judge can figure an aminal on what it may be some other time, but must credit it for what it is when brought before him. It pays in dollars and cents, it pays in honors won, but most of all does it show the stock in good condition and educated enough to do what is required promptly, grace fully and with good temper. The sub ject is of too much importance to permit of neglect, and now is the time to commence preparations.

The Latest Swindle.

Our readers should keep their weather eye open for fakirs and swindlers; they are numerous and work every scheme to catch people. The latest swindle, worked by a sharp er in one of the cities recently, is an apt illustration of the ability of these deadbeat fakirs to catch not only the ignorant but all others who are not

This swind-ler walked into a jewelry store and selecting a $125 waten left a cheque drawn on an out-of-town bank, with instructions that the watch be regulated and that he would come after it and his change a week later. On returning he was informed that the cheque was no good. "Well that's strange," he said, 'it's the second time the bank has done that thing on But here's the money for your watch," and he counted out $125 in currency and started for the door. Oh, yes," he said turning round, "you'd better give me that cheque." It was willingly handed over to him. On the brick was the jeweler's endorsement. With this the man went into a bank, got it cashed and was never heard of afterwards.

When Seven Men Die.

You know at least one of them has consumption. At first it was only catarrhut it was neglected. When "Catarrhozone cures so quickly its foolish to sufferti's a shame to keep on sniffeling and hawking. Catarrhozone goes direct to the cause of the disease, —that's why it's so dead certain to cure. It stops the cough, prevents that disgusting discharge, clears phleg n out of the throat in five minutes. Very pleasant and safe too; get Catarrhozone from your druggist to day.

Curious Fear of Fresh Air.

People who were born and bred in the country and who still live there are as a rule curiously afraid of fresh air. From their living rooms, especially the "parlor," they rigidly exclade every approach of outdoor air except at housecleaning time, and they are more cautious still as to sleeping rooms. The farmers, in spite of their outdoor employment, suffer not a little from consumption. It. seems a pity when these country dwellers might have their lungs filled with pure, fresh air day and night, sleeping or walking, that the poison ed air they breathe at night should be allowed to offset the good effects obtained through the day's work in the field. If the enlightened visitors, paying guests and summer boarders who have learned that one's manner of life rather than one's place of living may be depended upon to prevent consumption would but circulate their knowledge in a practical way in country places their vacations would ac complish something besides a refreshing of their own health.—Boston Transcript.

Hogs Are High.

The eight dollar notch in the price for prime quality Ontario bacon hogs been reached. Judging from the light deliveries as well as from the reports of drovers all over Ontario of the scarcity of finished select bacon hogs, the probabilities are that the high price limit has not been reached. It looks as though the farmer who has been dictating terms to the pacposition to exact still higher prices, and will yet obtain as high as $8 at

The present prices are undoubtedly high, but when all the circumstances are considered, they are quite legitimate. Home consumption has more than doubled in the last five years. The cellars of the Canadian packers are not overburdened with hog products. The farmers who were in the habit of having not only a supply for themselves as well as to spare, are buying what they now consume from the packer. Not one farmer in ten sthat once had hamsand shoulders as well as sides to sell has enough for his own use, but is depending on the beef ring for his weekly supply of meat, having been tempted by the high hog prices to part with even the annual farm supply of bacon. Increased consumption at home and abroad is increasing the demand. Thousands of emigrants in New Ontario as well as the Northwest buy bacon to carry them on till they can produce their own. The lumber and mining camps, although using more fresh beef in the past, still con-sume a large amount. And as these industries are increasing still more ba-con will be needed. Packers are looking forward to the time when this season's crop of hogs shall be marketed and expecting that it will be much larger than last year's, but it is doubtful if their expectations will be realiz ed. More farmers grow hogs on ac count of the low prices paid them during the season's of 1904 and 1905 than have gone into raising hogs for the past five years.

After the high prices on the hog market for the past six or eight months it would be quite natural to expect a large increase, but it is quite evident that the increase is not at all equal to the consumption. It will take two or three years for the production to become equal to the consumption, and the farmer will for some time to come be master of the situation. It costs more to raise hogs than it did a few years ago; farm values, farm labor and feed are all higher. The day is past for cheap hogs.-Toronto World.

Color Schemes In Building. Strange how little we Americans do with color. We have a red brick house or a yellow brick house with a red tile roof or a green roof, and that's about the gamut we run. Most beautiful effects can be gained by the use of enameled colors even on flat surfaces; dainty patterns can be worked out and brilliant yet harmonious effects gained. Our coloring schemes are tame. certainly have much to learn in that respect from the Persians of old. They were masters in enamel, and their work was gorgeous, beautiful. With us it is lack of taste; it certainly is not lack of material. There are American makers of tile that produce material equal to that of antiquity, the richest colors and the most easily adapted shapes.-Clay Worker.

The Stinging Tree.
The stinging tree of Australia some what resembles a gigantic nettle. It has an unpleasant odor, and the natives and native animals are careful to avoid it. When a man is stung by the tree-or, to put it more prosaically, pricked by the tree's thorn-the little wound gives him at first no pain whatever. But in a few minutes a maddening pain is set up; the victim shrieks and rolls upon the ground. For months afterward when water touches the stung part great agony ensues. Dogs when stung rush about with piteous whines, biting pieces of flesh from the place that has been stung.

An early use of this slang expression is to be found in some verses—probably by Elkanah Settle—quoted by Walter Thornbury in his "Old and New London," from a poem on the "Lord Mayor's Banquet of Sir Samuel Fludyer," 1761, and apparently published at the time:

Where are your eyes and ears?

See there what honorable gent appears!

A National Necessity.

The growing interdependenc of the Provinces of this Dominion must be apparent to all. The product of one is a necessity for another. Not alone are the eyes of the Eastern Provinces, but those of every country in the world, directed to the almost phenomenal wheat productog qualities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberts. Every hamlet, concession and sideline in Oniario has contributed to the settlement of these fertile western Provinces. The crcps, according to the Government reports for this season, if asfely harvested and garnered, will far surpass previous years in quality and quantity.

It is estimated 20,000 farm laborers will be required from the older provinces in assisting in the harvest of their wealth. The sons of the West are now urgently appealing to the parental and patriotic instincts.

sons of the West are now urgently appeal; ing to the parental and patriotic instincts of the farmers of the East to send every strong, ablebodied man they can to aid them in this work of natienal importance.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has made the wonderful growth of the West possible. In the saving of the wheat and other crops, the interest of Canada and the Canadian Pacific are identical. The latter is Canada's National Highway. It has announced that on Aug. 14th, 17th, and 22nd, it will transport from different territories in the East farm laborers to the Canadian North-West at the nominally low rate of twelve dollars; in fact, this National Highway is offering an inducement to European farm laborers Fourteen thousand dollars net profit on the planting of 35 acres of land is an achievement not to be despised. The crop was potatoes. The average production per acre was a few barrels more than an hundred. They sold for $5 per barrel, or a total of $17,500. They cost a dollar a barrel to put on the market, or $3,500, leaving a net profit of $14,000. Big Head.

The "big head" is a popular way of expressing a common and very frequent ailment. It arises from various sources, but the real foundation is a lack of sense. A the real foundation is a lack of series. A little money develops it in some people, a few good clothes gives it to others; a little office, where a chance is given to exercise a little authority, is often the cause of it, while others get it having a little better job than their associates. The truth is no sensible person gets the "big head." The one who becomes stuck up and stiff-necked from sources of any kind, are weak in the intellectual caliber.

TLE BELL BIOGRAPHIES

Mac Dowell

DWARD ALEXANDER MACDOWELL, born 1861, sometimes called "the American Grieg," is the first great composer that Western civilization has produced. Had he not given so much time to teaching, and were he not now afflicted with an incurable brain disease, he would have left a name in the departments of song and pianofore composition not surpassed by Schubert and Chopin. As it is, he has written sonatas which are the equal of those by Schumann, Chopin and Grieg. But however full of freedom, individuality and charm these may be, MacDowell's songs and pianoforte pieces belong to the musical treasures of the world. His songs are full of simplicity and of fresh spontaneous melody. Of them the best known and most popular are "Thy Beaming Eyes," "Sweet Blue-eyed Maid," and his "Slumber Song," but all of them are equally beautiful and winsome and tender in expression.

Aside from his sonatas, his pianoforte pieces are altogether different from any other composer's in imagination and style. Nothing in the realm of music could be more naive and tender or more pure and poetic than "To a Wild Rose" (in Woodland Sketches) and "From a Wandering Iceberg" (in Sea Pieces). They cannot be rendered save by an artist and o. a perfect instrument like which, with its full, rich Singing Tone and Illimitable Repeating Action, expresses every shade of musical feeling, beautifully, poetically. The Bell Art Piano is emphatically the Musician's Perfect Piano.

MARKIED IN B. C.

The Victoria, B. C., Times of July nineteenth has the following particulars of a marriage in that city. The groom is a brother of Mr. T. G. Mitchell, of Watford, and is well known to many of our readers who join in felicitations on the happy event.— The residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Mitchell, upper Yates street, was the scene of a happy event yesterday afternoon, when two young people were united in matrimonal bonds by Rev. W. Leslie Clay, B. A. The parties most interested were Dr. J. Wilson Mitchell, Seattle, and Miss Mary F. DeLong, of Merrill, Saginaw County, Michigan.

The ceremony, which was witnessed by only relatives and immediate friends, was conducted in a drawing room very prettilly decented.

conducted in a drawing room very pretti-ly decorated, the happy couple standing under a beautiful bell of white and pink sweet pear while the nuptial knot was being tied.

The bride looked charming in white silk organdie over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of white rosebuds. She was attended by the three little nephews of the bridegroom, masters Douglas, Leslie and Wilson Mitchell. Mr. B. C. Nicholas performed the duties of groomsman. Following the ceremony those present enjoyed a very dainty repast, incidentally expressing their admiration of the artistic appearance of the table, the deft arrangment of Shasta daisies and smilax being eloquent commentary on the good taste of the ladies responsible for it.

After the usual toasts had been proposed and acknowledged, the happy party drove to the C. P. R. docks, where Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell embarked on the Prin-Portland and the Sound cities. They will make their home in Seattle, where the doctor is practicing.

The bridegroom, who is a brother of Me. A. H. Mitchell, of the firm of Challonet & Mitchell, of this city, although a resident of Seattle has numerous friends in Victoria. He is an "old Strathroy boy," and has the best wishes of all his acquaintances of the good little Ontario town in this city.

The bride's father is a prominent grain merchant of Michigan. She herself is an accomplished musician, and since her araccomplished musician, and since her arrival has made many warm friends in the Pacific Canadian and United States cities she has visited. It is a significant fact perhaps, that yesterday afternoon the stock reports showed a tightening of prices on the rice market, a report which found ample substantiation in the appearance of the landing stage at the C. P. R. docks after the newly married party had departed.

Friday morning in her sixty-sixth year, never having rallied from the illness with which she was stricken on the Saturday previous. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon to the Watford cemetery, the service being conducted by the Rev. R. Hay. The pall bearers were W. McLeay, W. P. McLaren, W. T. Fuller, H. Schlemmer, T. Goodhand and T. Harris.

Deceased had been a resident of Watford for about twenty years, and was highly respected and esteemed by a large circle of friends. Mrs. Alexander was an active member of the Presbyterian church and took a prominent part in all work in connection with the church. She was also a member of the Royal Templars, Lady Maccabees and W.C.T.U. Her kindly Christain character and amiability endeared her to all with whom she was associated, and her departure marks the close of a useful and well spent life whose constant care and consideration was for the happiness and comfort of others than herselt. Deept sympathy is expressed for her aged partner in life, who in his declining years is bereft of the counsel and care of his companion and helpmate for nearly half a century.

The surviving members of the family are Mrs. James Sahli, Youngstown, Arkona and Forest played a somewhat peculiar game of ball on Monday last by which Forest claims a victory and Arkona claims a tie. Through the scorers neglecting to count a run that came in in the 3rd innings Stan Smith was not credited with a run. According to the score it seemed a mystery what became of him. If he didn't score as there were three men put out after he batted and another man made a run. There is generally some thing wrong when Babe gets his Irish up and he talked pretty plain English. The game ended up in a jangle.

A FEAST OF MUSIC.

The recital presented by Prof. Alfred Dunn and his pupils in Caldwell's Music Hall, on Monday evening, was undoubtedly one of the best evening's entertainment that a Watford audience has heard ment that a Watford audience has heard for some time. The word "Best" is used in an unqualified sense. Every one of the sixteen numbers presented was worthy a place on any Metropolitian Concert platform, and interpreted in such manner as to leave lasting impression upon the large audience that had gathered to hear it. An audience so large that again is it forced upon us that Watford is much in need of a concert hall of sufficient accommodation to have seated the much in need of a concert hall of sufficient accommodation to have seated the hundred or more who had to stand during the program not to speak of the many who could not get any farther than the top of the stairway. The first nuusual thing that occurred was the begining of the program at the minute of announcement, and each succeeding number following as promptly. The calm assurance of each of the young artists was refreshing. Each seemed to vie with the other in doing to the highest of their ability that with which they had been entrusted. Unaffected manner and delicious clear enunciation in every one of the singers must surely indicate a of the singers must surely indicate a system of tuition that has banished ner-vous fear and implanted an "at ease" that can only be born of knowledge.

Little can be said of any one singer that might not be said of all the others, and yet the individuality of each shone thro' the singing as clearly as the features of each was apparent to the eye. Miss Stella Dunsmore's clever vocal coloring and ringing tones clearly de-picted the picturesque story of "Twicken-picted the picturesque story of "Twickenham Ferry."

The broad sympathetic tone of Miss Ethel Parker's voice was as a velvet pillow in which lay soft and warm the words of "There let me rest."

Miss Marguerite Calvert in "Shall I Be Forgotten," may be assured that such a thing is impossible if she continues to sing and to look as sweetly as on this

Miss Bertie Rogers portrayed the vary

Miss Bertie Rogers portrayed the varying sentiment of sunshine and shadow in the life of a roaming fiddler, in vivid detail. It but required a sight of her finger carressing the strings of a violin to perfect the picture of "Fiddle and I."

Miss Evelyn Cameron has been gifted generously in an intensely dramatic temperament invested in a splendid physique, add to these a voice of great power and range, is to give a singer a command over an audience that is a joy to both. In her song "Stars May Forget," Miss Cameron leaves the impression that the artistic possibilities of her voice are laid in her possibilities of her voice are laid in her hands to plan such a tuture as she wills

Miss Jessie Saunders, Miss Aggie Wil-liams and Miss Belle Doar are not un-known to our Watford audiences and it is with much credit to themsslves that in with much credit to themssives that in this offering of the fruits of Prof. Dunn's vocal training. These young ladies sang their numbers in a manner faultless.

Of Miss Saunders' numbers, "Time's Roses" and "Gay Little Dandelion." The latter splendidly displayed a flute liks purity of tone and of flexibility while the former gave opportunity of delicate.

the former gave opportunity of delicate tone coloring.

Miss Doar has made marvellous progress since last heard in recital and gives promise of splendid work as a soloist and promise of splendid work as a soloist and a coutralto as repeated public appearance wears away a self-consciousness.

A solo by Prof. Dunn was most enthusiastically received. A rousing song of olden days with a chorns that set your blood tingling in every vein, the audience demanded a repetition of a verse and chorus despite the rule of "no encores."

The ensemble number, too, came in for a share of the hearty applains, particular.

The ensemble number, too, came in for a share of the hearty applause, particularly the "Merry Miller" song.

The Trombone Solo, with orchestra accompaniment, by Mr. Ernest Lawrence, was a bright spot in the program. The clever manipulation of this most difficult of brass instruments proves that the soloist is indeed "earnest" when we are told that it has been accomplished since last Xmas.

The orchestral accompaniment to the singers was a delightful innovation and ladded greatly to the successful evening's

Prof. Dunn has just and ample reason Prof. Dunn has just and ample reason to feel grateful, aye, proud of the manner in which every one of the pupils have developed under his guidance and tuition and there is little doubt that the people of London will not be slow to find they have an earnest and painstaking master of the vocal art in their midst.

At the close of the program proper the Strathroy Orchestra very graciously consented to play an impromptu dance program and for a couple of hours the youth and maiden; indulged in the poetry of motion while the matrons and "Dads" looked on with admiring eyes and enjoyed the splendid orchestral music.

Expressions of delight at the evening of pleasure were heard on every side and we hope for more frequent opportunity to indulge in such a feast of melody.

SHATTERED NERVES.

Made Strong And Steady by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When your nerves are out of order your whole health is on the verge of a break-down. Sudden sounds startle you; your muscles twitch and your hands tremble; your self control is shattered; your willpower gone. Your head aches; your feet are often cold and your face flushed. Your heart jumps at the least excitement; you are restless at night and tired when are resuless at night and then when you wake. Your temper is irritable and you feel utterly down-hearted. "The Happy Song" and "The Swallows" by Miss Aggie Williams called for her best effort and received it abundantly. The sustained tones in the Happy Song were simply fine.

Miss Belle Doar in the "Land of Nod" and "Answer" proved a versatility and command of vocal expression by the extremes of sentiment, one a dreaming lullaby by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and another, an intense romantic theme. Testing Prudence

Copyright, 1906, by Beatrix Reade

Berkeley Marshall leaned luxurious-ty back in the shady chair, hoisted his feet to the bed and blew a ring of smoke ceilingward from his cigar. "To recapitulate," he began, directing his remarks to the calendar which hung on the wall and from which stared ack at him the face of a supposedly Deautiful young woman with a fixed and sugary smile, "your left ear is concoundedly out of drawing. I beg your pardon, I'm not an artist. I'm a civil engineer-or will be next June. And that isn't what I started out to re-

"To recapitulate, I have peddled maps over three states, and the net profits of these adventures are $531.62. I have a steady job during the college year waiting on table at three per and found. Furthermore, I have a dress and cleake and clea mult and clothes and ties and things. Further yet, I have an invitation from my cousin, Torrence Marshall, to spend week with him at Sylvan Cove, the swellest resort on this little old ocean. It is now Saturday night, Sept. 15, and college opens up the 25th.

"The question seems to be shall I go on peddling maps and accumulating more filthy lucre, which I may possibly meed; shall I go home, which is 300 miles away; to college, which is 450, or to Sylvan Cove, which is under a hundred and where pretty young women, it is presumed, abound?"

In due parliamentary form the Sylwan Cove question was put and carried manimously, whereupon the boy-he was little more-bowed gravely to the calendar lady and thanked her for her kindness in voting with him. Then he can down the stairs of the country hotel to consult the time table, for he was in a hurry to be off.

Marshall found Sylvan Cove in the elaborate simplicity stage of summer resort development. Everything was costly, but very plain, for the Cove was inhabited each season mainly by wealthy people who had become ac-on the first day of his stay Marshall naively confided to his cousin that he believed Prudence Fairchild to be the prettiest girl at the Cove, whereupon Porrence grinned and replied, "Stung, On the second day he learn ed that she could swim like a seal and golf like a Scot. That evening, by virtue of four dances which she generousy gave him at the pavilion party, his stock of knowledge was augmented by the fact that Miss Prudence danced like a fairy.

His approval of the tanned, red lip ped and wholesome young woman deep-ened during a long sail the next morn-ing, when he discovered that her taste In books and tennis rackets was idenformed him later, however, that her father, Rufus Fairchild, was credited with more millions than there were letters to his name the young man experienced a novel and entirely unpleasant sinking of the heart.

His own financial situation did not trouble Marshall—in fact, he found hu-mor in his poverty. Marshall's father had been rich until an industrial flurry had left him broken and penniless. Berkeley himself, a natural engineer and in love with the profession he had chosen, felt the prescient stir of genius within him, vague but real. His teachers predicted great-things of him, and with the knowledge of his own powers and his burning desire to achieve, fame and wealth were merely around the mext corner.

Yet the fact of Miss Fairchild's wealth depressed him. "I've almost monopolized her since I've been here," he told himself, "and she'll think it's the blooming money. I suppose half this bunch that's hanging around her ould marry a Digger Indian for the bld man's pile. I wish she were poor!" The latter aggrieved and sincere re-mark revealed to Marshall that he was dangerously near being in love.

A certain sensitive pride, for he had morbid fear that his attitude might be misconstrued, kept Marshall out of the girl's presence most of the time thereafter. Maybe she understood, for the possession of much money often brings a woman bitter wisdom; maybe It was a feminine desire to repay him for his alcofness; at any rate, Miss Fairchild contrived to give Marshall a slance at parting, as he held her cool little hand, that thrilled his every pulse. It was like the song of a nightingale the scent of June roses. And the emory moved him again and again that winter as he built theoretical bridges in the class room or delivered wegetable soup in the hotel dining

Now, a look such as that from a girl who is not a flirt dwells in her mem Miss Fairchild's cheeks were hot netimes when she thought of it and of the answering glance of bewildered for that flashed from Marshall's blue

The assurance with which he confiscated five of the dances on her card at the ball showed that Marshall remembered. They sat out two, which was delightful, but dangerous. There was little said, and the silence between them was intimate and significant.

Removed from the glamour of the lights and the music, from the half shielded promise of her eyes and the intoxication of her beauty, Marshall was not satisfied. "If she were only poor!" he repeated to himself. "How can she know that it's she I want and not the money? Suppose that she thinks I'm a fortune hunter? And if the money makes any difference with her, then she doesn't care for me. I wish I knew. If you only could give me a sign, sweetheart, that you had faith in my love"-

It was lunchtime, and Marshall was at his accustomed table in the hotel. His musings were broken by the open ing of the door. Miss Fairchild and Miss Burrows came in. They were accompanied by Bronson and Carrick. wealthy frat men of his own class.

saw Miss Fairchild start a triffe when she recognized him. When the party had been seated two tables away by young Condon, another student waiter, the girl's back was toward him. He had given her no opportunity for a greeting.

For it had flashed over the young man that the sign, either of favor or of contempt for his poverty and his menial occupation, must be given. The girl would show whether her nature were gold or dross. If she were ashamed of him, if she left the room without a word, he resolved to tear the love he felt from his heart and trample

Marshall never knew what he did before the crucial time came, the moment of the party's rising from the table after lunch, but no detail of what followed escaped him. He saw the amused lift of Bronson's eyebrows, the scowl on Carrick's forehead and Miss Burrows' undisguised interest as Prudence Fairchild, eyes softly shining, came back to where he stood.

"If the mountain will not go to Mohammed," she said smilingly, "then of course Mohammed must come to the mountain. And I mean to quarrel with you some time for turning your back when I came in. But I shan't scold now; I'm leaving for home tomorrow, and I wondered if I'll see you again."

"I will call tonight to say goodby," he replied eagerly, "and I have some-thing important to say, if I may see you alone. I think I've been waiting all my life to say it."

Her glance thrilled him as it had

Your typical Florentine is epicurean to the toe tips. His enthusiasms and yearnings are quite other than those of the northerner. Give him 2 francs day for life, and he will toil no more. He may be a marquis and seventh or eighth in direct descent, but he will be content to forego the assertion of his rank so he may thenceforward enjoy the priceless boon of leisure and independence. His leisure he will dissipate at the cafe with perhaps two three-halfpenny sweet fluids per diem, and you may study the effect of his in dependence in his courtly manners even though his hat be worn at the brim and his coat back be deplorably shiny. He is a pellucid brook, shallow as you please, yet engaging for his pellucidity. As he sits on the red velvet cushions and looks forth at the carriages and gowns of fashion in the Via Tornabuoni he shows no trace of envy on his open countenance. Disraeli's Retirement.

In 1876 Mr. Disraeli was raised by the queen to the peerage under the title of Lord Beaconsfield, and he left the house of commons before the news of his elevation to the house of lords had been made public. His withdrawal from the stage where he had played so long the leading part in a manner obviously devised to avoid any sort of ovation was in accordance with the dignity which characterized the remaining years of his life after the defeat of the Conservatives, when the general election of 1880, in consequence of the Midlothian campaign, had ter-minated his public career. No applicant for his opinions on any subject ever received a postal card from Lord Beaconsfield. No speech was ever made by him at railway stations. He died in 1881 as he had lived-alone, a stranger amid a strange people. After his death his memory became to English Conservatives an object of almost sentimental affection; to English Radicals it remained an object of never failing animosity. But to Englishmen of all politics, to Conservatives and Liberals alike, his life continues to be a constant puzzle, an unsolved enigma. -London Standard.

An African Sea Serpent Story.

Here is a sea serpent story from one of the great fresh water lakes of cen-tral Africa. The Globe Trotter of Nairobi, British East Africa, tells it: "According to natives on the shore and islands of Lake Victoria the real simon pure water python is a reality. Officers on board the Sibyl and the Winifred have time and again been unable to account for the unrest shown at times in the most tranquil waters. Sir Clement Hill in crossing the lake some years ago in a launch with one Mac gregor, the engineer, saw this monster and described it as having a head resembling the hippopotamus, only three times broader, but much more flat and wedge shaped. The opinion of the natives regarding its length, etc., differs very much, but all agree that the rep-tile is amphibious and declare they have seen forty feet or more lying dormant on the bank, while the supposed tail, sixty or seventy feet from shore, created a commotion in the water resembling the wash of an ocean steamer." Ancestral Memory.

As I walk along a dark, lonely road my ears are on the alert. I glance to right and left. I look over my shoul-Where did I learn this habit? May it not be the memory disk giving off its record? My savage ancestor learned by long years of experience to be specially on his guard in a lonely place and in the dark. When my indignation is thoroughly roused I find my hands clinch, there is a tightening of the lips, the teeth are more plainly visible, and the whole attitude is suggestive of making a spring. Here is a trait of early man, who gathered himself together and sprang upon his en-emy to rend him with tooth and claw. I have often noticed that when people use the word "offensive" it is accompanied by a quiver of the nostrils and an involuntary movement of the nose. The imagination is still haunted by that piece of very offensive carrion which my primitive ancestor with a prejudice for raw meat found too strong for him, so strong that his nose rejected it at once.-Nineteenth Cen-

How to Learn a Foreign Language.

One may begin the attempts of free expression, and thus an independent use of the language, with a comparatively small vocabulary. Conscientious reading and well conducted conversations will then quickly enlarge the vocabulary and develop the facility of expression. But I cannot lay too much stress upon the fact that the free and exact rendering of one's own thought in writing is the most efficient exercise in acquiring a language. In mere conversation we are apt to slip over difficulties by permitting ourselves vagueness and inaccuracies of expression which would sternly demand correc tion-and correction, too, easily kept in mind-when the written words look us in the face. To quicken the efficacy of this exercise requires, of course, a teacher able not only to pound grammatical rules into the head of the pupil, but also to stir up in the study of the language a mentally active interest in the subjects spoken or written about.—Carl Schurz's Reminiscences in McClure's.

Sailors on Strike.

That English soldiers or sailors should strike for more pay in a way such as we are accustomed to in trades sounds impossible, but such things have occurred, the last time being in April, 1797, when the sailors demanded higher wages and literally struck, otherwise mutinying. The admiralty agreed to meet their demands, but, not doing so at once, the sailors aboard the London struck or mutinied again, and for ordering the marines to fire, by killing some men, Admiral Colpoys and his captain were made prisoners by the sailors. On May 10 a special act was passed granting the increased pay, and the king pardoned the muti-neers.—London Telegraph.

Natural Spectacles.

Many birds are provided with natural spectacles, a transparent membrane called the third eyelid. This third eyelid when not in use lies folded in the inner corner of the eye. Two muscles work it, spreading it over the cornea or folding it up again much more cleverly than a man can put on or take off his spectacles. But for its third eyelld the eagle could not look at the sun. The spectacled bear belongs to Chile. Its Latin name is Ursus ornatus. It is black, and around its eyes pale rings are drawn which have exactly the appearance of a pair of goggles.

Wind Velocity.

The average velocity of the wind is ow, in most places between five and ten miles an hour, corresponding respectively to wind pressure of from two ounces to eight ounces a square foot. During portions of nearly every day, however, somewhat higher velocities are recorded, since the averages contain considerable periods of very light breezes occurring often within a few hours before and after sunrise and sunset. There are few days without periods of brisk breezes of from fifteen to twenty miles an hour.

Rather Caustic.

"Did you tell your father I was a humorist?" asked the tall young man with long hair. "I did," replied the pretty girl, "and he laughed."

"Laughed? Why, I thought he used to say writing jokes was hard on the brain." "So he did: but he says he never heard of your writing any jokes."

The Very Thing.
"Yes, ma'am," said the salesman, "an establishment like ours has its own lit-erary staff. Here, for example, is an to Our Furniture Polish,' written by our own poet and set to music by our own musician."

"An ode to furniture polish!" ex-claimed Miss Peekay-Booh. "Why, that would be just the thing to take home and try on the piano!"

There were many others, however, to whom $5 a day looks large, as it does when a man draws a salary of only $600 a year. The opinion of the majority prevailed, and the government will be asked for the slight increase.

The question of a protective association among high school teachers for the purpose of demanding a general raise in salaries was not discussed by the examiners as a body. Privately and quietly the matter was talked over, and a high school teacher's union is in a fair way of formation.

Toronto, July 31.—The run at the City Cattle Market today was 51 loads, with 713 head of cattle, 849 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 150 calves.

The hot weather seems to have fairly struck the meat trade, with the result usual at this season of the year, a very dull cattle market. Butcher cattle prices are down at the City Cattle Market this week down at the City Cattle Market this week fully 25 per cent, from the prices of a week or ten days ago. There was but a light run at the market today and consequently prices were not so badly hit as they might have been had there been a very heavy run. The quality of the cattle just now coming in is not of the best, choice butcher cattle, in fact, being scarce. A few choice butcher cattle sold at $4.25 to $4.40, and one or two picked here and there at $4.50, but after these the market was very slow and prices off. The demand for export cattle is also very light, and not many of these were in the market to-day. One or two loads of light export were in and sold up to $4.0 Loads of choice heavy cattle are quoted steady at around $5.

The demand for stocks is still light, and only a few of very good quality are at all sought for.

The sheep market is steady at least week's.

The sheep market is steady at last week's quotation.

The hog market is unchanged and firm at recent advance. One firm quotes them at $7.90 and $7.65, and another firm at $8 and

Remarkably Narrow Escape

Mr. Joseph Siddall, of Mosa, experienced a narrow escape in the hay field on Friday last. As it was he received paintul injuries. Mr. Siddall was driving a two-horse hay rake and in making a turn at the end of the field the neckyoke came off the tongue, throwing him toff the seat onto the heels of the horses. The team started to run away, thut Mr. Siddall fell with one line under him which turned the horses into the tence where the center reins caught on a rail, preventing the the horses into the fence where the centre reins caught on a rail, preventing the team getting away. By this time Mr. Siddall was under the rake, one tooth of which had passed through a portion of his scalp, pinning him to the ground. Mr. Siddall tried to release himself by lifting the rake tooth, but was unable to do so and had to pull himself free by having the tooth tear through the scalp. Help had arrived by this time, and Dr. McLachlan was sent for, who dressed the injuries, which included several minor cuts and bruises. Mr. Siddall is again able to be about.

Forged Check Swindle.

St. Thomas, July 26.—A forged check was passed on Mr. S. A. Crawford yesterday. The passer of the check used the same old game. He was apparently a farmer, and went into the store and purchased $14 worth of binder twine, presenting a check on the Dominion Bank, purpoting to be signed by Mr. F. R. Ross, a farmer near Fingal. The man was given $4 in change, and left, saying that he would call for the twine, but unlike the cat, he never came back. When the check was presented at the Dominion Bank, the teller refused to cash it, recognizing that it was not Mr. Ross' it, recognizing that it was not Mr. Ross' signature.

Destruction at Parkhill.

Parkhill, July 30.—The barns of John Chisholm, just south of Parkhill, were destroyed by lightning yesterday, along with 30 tons of hay and some live stock. James Patton lost a fine cow by lighting yesterday.
