Empire Day

Empire Day, May 24th, was fittingly celebrated at the various Conception Bay towns. An excursion was held between St. John's and Carbon-ear and many people took advantage and spent the holiday out of town.
The C. L. B. and Meth. Guards Bands of St. John's were on the Excursion train which went to Carbon-ear on Thursday morning, May 24th, and took part in the grand parade held there.
The Boy Scouts at Harbor Grace held a parade and presented a pleasing sight as they marched along in soldierly style.
All over this town busting was flying in honour of the birthday of Britain's noblest Queen—Victoria.

Journal of Rev. Henry Gordon

SUNDAY, NOV. 3rd

Got up, took a dose of Brandy and buried Howard Fepes at 1.30, then went back to bed again.

MONDAY, NOV. 4th
TUESDAY, NOV. 5th

Can't remember very clearly what happened on these two days. Felt very sick. I know Mr. Parsons came up to ask me about burying somebody or other. I thought it was myself at the time. Someone gave me some oranges and someone gave me some chocolate. Mrs. Parsons, I know, helped me out a bit. Roly stuck to me like a leech.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6th.

Feeling ever so much better, but rather groggy in the legs. Found out that the old man (Mr. Garland Lethbridge) was dead and buried, also that his wife was in extremis, and worst of all Sam Learning my church warden, a man of an unusually fine character, was in a serious condition.
This last piece of information got me up in a hurry. One could scarcely believe that it was true. Physically, Sam was the equal of any man around. I could not help laughing as I walked or rather "tacked" along the road. Several others were doing the same and I reminded one so much of the flies) coming out of the cracks in the springtime. My merriment, however was turned to dismay when I reached Sam's bedside. He was undoubtedly dying, despite Mrs.
Parsons' magnificent efforts to save him. She had been up with him all night, patching and doing everything possible. He asked for the Sacrament. Going home to get ready, I could not help actually crying. I suppose one's nerves were a good deal overworked, but in any case Sam's death would be nothing short of a disaster. I will never forget that Sacrament, and whenever I perform the sacred service, I shall picture dear old Sam manfully trying to incline his aching head at the name of Jesus, just as he always did. Men like these, of course justify Christianity, and I think they also justify the Church. Late in the evening, Sam passed to his rest, as also did old Mrs. Garland Lethbridge.

THURSDAY, NOV. 7th.

At this stage of the proceedings the last Mail-boat of the season arrived (S.S. Seal). She would allow no one on board. She had no doctor or anything to help us out. As it was blowing a full gale, no one was able to get out to her or to come in from her. Two graves were needed and I entered on my apprenticeship of grave-digging—and that in a graveyard like this! By evening one grave was ready, and I buried Mrs.
Lethbridge. The wind lulled a bit towards nighttime, so that communication with the steamer was resoped. She had a most enormous freight for Cartwright. It was a serious question whether there would be anyone able to help to land it.

FRIDAY, NOV. 8th.

Finished Sam's grave and laid him to rest. The way his wife took the whole thing was nothing short of wonderful, especially as there was every possibility of her losing her eldest child as well. I have decided to close our old graveyard, and in the future only bury in the new part. All available hands were mustered to unload freight from the steamer, who remained at anchor all day. The three local traders agreed to land all their stuff on one wharf, and for this purpose joined in one gang. I signed on also for the day.

It was nearly midnight before we had got the stuff landed on the Company's wharf.

to be in readiness, and Constable Trickett's application has also been accepted and he left on Thursday morning to report at St. John's.—Hr.

KING FOLLOWS PRECEDENT

London, May 23
Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is the British Prime Minister in succession to Andrew Bonar Law. Having followed the constitutional practice and ascertained the views of the Conservative Leaders through medium of his Secretary, Lord Stanfordham. The King came to town to-day and without further delay offered the Premiership to Mr.
Baldwin, who accepted. That a man comparatively new to politics thus comes to first position in the Nation's Councils, passing over well tried and experienced statesmen like Marquis Curzon and the Earl of Balford, indicates the change which has taken place on the political stage with the rise for the first time in the country's history of the Labor Party to the position of his Majesty's Opposition in Parliament.

Miss Clarice Wells spent May 24th with friends at Carbonear.

year, 2. He then left off keeping the

"Marvale"

Wrecked in Fog

The waters in the vicinity of Cape Race, which is the terrible graveyard of the Atlantic, was the scene of another wreck when on May 21st about 4 p.m. the G. P. R. Liner "Marvale" went ashore on the rocks and became a total wreck.

The "Marvale" was the former Allan Liner "Corsican" and has been laid up in England during the winter while she underwent repairs. This was her first trip under her new name plying her new route between Montreal and Liverpool.

It will be remembered that, when named the "Corsican," a detachment of "Ours" came home by her the latter part of 1918 while in February 1919 some 1100 of our Regiment, including Sergt. T. Ricketts, V.C., returned by the ship.

At this trip the Marvale carried a crew of 236 also some 200 passengers including many children.

When the ship struck and it was ascertained that nothing could be done to save her, the order went out "passengers all off! women and child ren first!"

By the coolness of the captain and officers the entire number of passengers, including several invalids, were landed in safety and conveyed to Trepassey where they were treated with the greatest hospitality.

No spinger was word received in St. John's than steps were taken by Minister of Shipping Cave to have the S.S. Seal which was then at Marystown to proceed to the scene of the wreck. She arrived there at 6 o'clock and at once began to embark the ship-wrecked passengers and crew to Trepassey.

Special trains were sent out to bring the people from Trepassey to St. John's.

They, in various ways have expressed their gratitude for the hospitality extended to them since falling unexpectedly into the hands of Newfoundlanders.

FIGURES DON'T LIE?

"I knew how this election was going," said a financial wizard, "just as soon as I got the votes Squires and Bennett polled."
"How do you make that out," said his sceptical friend.
"Why look here, Spures himself polled 2759 votes, did't he?
"Yes."
"Add the digits together and what do you get?"
"2 and 7 and 5 and 9 are 23."
"Righto, and Squires will have 23 men. Now Bennett got 1147 votes. Add them up."
"1 and 1 and 4 and 7 are 13."
"Just so, Bennett will have 13 men Easy, isn't it!"—Advocate.

nesday nights train on a brief visit

RULES FOR Making Cod Liver Oil For the Guidance of Manufacturers

- 1st. The manager in charge of factory must see that the livers are fresh; that all brown or poor livers are thrown out; that there is no gall bladder attached to any livers.
 - 2nd. The good livers must then be washed in a tub of clean fresh water.
 - 3rd. The pan in which the livers are boiled must be perfectly clean inside, before any livers are placed in it.
 - 4th. Before you start to boil any livers, you must have sufficient steam.
 - 5th. Turn on the steam, and use as much as you need to have for the quantity of livers you have in your pan. Boil until the white scum floats off (which will take about thirty minutes.) Don't forget to stir the livers, and see that those in the bottom and those around the sides are brought into direct contact with the steam all the time.
 - 6th. Turn the steam off, and allow all to settle, not exceeding five minutes, according to capacity of liver boiler.
 - 7th. Then you dip all the oil you can get, which is the finest white oil. Put this oil in a cooling tank made of galvanized iron, and let the oil remain there all next morning. Don't forget to put a straining cloth over the cooling tank before you put any oil in. So that it will catch any bits of blubber; allow to remain 12 or 14 hours, or longer if possible, then dip from cooling tank and strain through double calico bag, inside bag to be one inch smaller all around; then strain into a tin shute under the bags, the cask to be at the end of the shute with a funnel, to lead oil into casks, which funnel to be covered with cheese cloth.
 - 8th. When you have dipped the finest oil from the top of the liver oiler pan, take all the blubber from the pan while it is warm. The oil from this blubber is not fit for medicinal purposes.
 - 9th. Then clean your liver pan with warm water and washing powder. Have it bright and clean for the next boiling.
 - 10th. Every bag, cloth, tank, funnel and pan, must be washed only with warm water, soap and water. Soda must not be used.
- The best results for medical oil can only be obtained by the use of tin barrels. Wooden packages generally make the oil dark, and destroy its fine flavor. Keep all oil in barrels in a cool place, and covered from the sun.

REGULATIONS For Salting Scotch Pack Herring

- One barrel salt to five and a half barrels herring—Large Fulls.
One barrel salt to six barrels herring—Medium Fulls.
One barrel salt to six and a half barrels herring—Matt Fulls.
- This amount of salt is for dredging and laying on rows only. It does not take into account that put on the herring before gibbing. All salt falling off herring in rousing tubs is put on rows as you pack unless very dirty or scaly; in that case, you have to make good the same amount, or otherwise you could not have any fixed rule on salt.
- | | | |
|----------------|--------------------------------------|-------------------|
| Matt Fulls | 10 1/2 inches long | Milt or roe |
| Medium Fulls | 11 1/2 inches long | Milt or roe |
| Large Fulls | 12 1/2 inches long and upwards | Milt or roe |
| Medium Filling | 11 1/2 inches long and upward | |
| Large Filling | 12 1/2 inches long and upwards | |
- Filling Fish may be branded as Scotch Cure without the Crown Brand.
- No drowned, stale, or scaleless herring can be used as Scotch Pack, nor herring in half frozen state.
- The root cause of light salting is to come as near as possible to the pleasing of the palate of the consumer; and if we bear in mind that over three-fourths of all Scotch-Pack Herring are consumed as a tonic before the mid-day meal, just as they come out of the barrel, without any fire cooking, we can see the reason at a glance for the right salting. The herring is dressed by the head and the tail being cut off, the main bone taken out. It is then cut into squares of about one inch, and is served with vinegar and other condiments. This gives power to the stomach to digest the following meal and keeps the consumer in the best of health.
- People with bad stomachs please note that the art of cooking and eating right is just as essential as the art of curing; and based on the best medical directions, and with the chemical analysis of the constituent parts of herring as a food ever kept before the consumer, we need not be surprised that the people who eat most herring are the most healthy and efficient.

"And it's as full as it can be of diamonds," answered Phoebe, busy as she spoke in folding the rustling silk dresses, and laying them one by one upon the shelves of the wardrobe. As she was shaking out the frounces of the last, a jingling sound caught her ear, and she put her hand into pocket.

"I declare!" she exclaimed, "my lady has left her keys in her pocket for once in a way; I can show you the jewelry, if you like, Luke."

Well, I may as well have a look at it, my girl, he said, rising from his chair and holding the light while his cousin unlocked the casket. He uttered a cry of wonder when he saw the ornaments glittering on white satin cushions. He wanted to handle the delicate jewels; to pull them about, and find out their mercantile value. Perhaps a pang of longing and envy shot through his heart as he thought how he would have taken one of them.

"Why, one of those diamond things would set us up in life, Phoebe," he said, turning a bracelet over and over in his big red hands.

"Put it down, Luke! Put it down directly!" cried the girl, with a look of terror; "how can you speak of about such things?"

He laid the bracelet in its place with a reluctant sigh, and then continued his examination of the casket.

"What's this?" he asked presently, pointing to a brass knob in the framework of the box.

He pushed it as he spoke, and a secret drawer, lined with purple velvet, flew out of the casket.

"Look ye here!" cried Luke, pleased at his discovery.

Phoebe Marks threw down the dress she had been folding, and went over to the toilet table.

"Why, I never saw this before," she said; "I wonder what there is in it?"

There was not much in it; neither gold nor gems; only a baby's little worsted shoe rolled up in a piece of paper, and a tiny lock of pale and silky yellow hair, evidently taken from a baby's head. Phoebe's eyes dilated as she examined the little packet.

"So this is what my lady hides in the secret drawer," she muttered.

"It's queer rubbish to keep in such a place," said Luke, carelessly.

The girl's thin lip curved into a curious smile.

"You will bear me witness where I found this," she said, putting the little parcel into her pocket.

"Phoebe, you're not going to be such a fool as to take that," cried the young man.

"I'd rather have this than the diamond bracelet you would have liked to take," she answered; "you shall have the public house, Luke."

Sydney, May 10.—There are too many dives and runshops in this city and we are going to burn them down. "We come to give the Mayor and Aldermen timely warning." This was the announcement made to the chief of police, J. B. McCormick, at the City Hall last night when a large delegation of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Steel Workers Union called to see the Mayor, who was not in.

They had just come from a meeting of their local at which it was said the resolution had been adopted.

FATHER KNOWS

A gentleman was one day opening a box of goods. His little son was standing near, and as the father took the packages from the box he laid them on the arm of the boy. A young playmate was standing looking on. As parcel after parcel was laid on the arm of the boy his friend began to fear that the load was getting too heavy, and said:

"Don't you think you have as much as you can carry?"

"Never mind," said the boy, in a happy tone, "father knows how much I can carry."

Brave, trustful little fellow! There was no danger, he felt, that his father would lay too heavy a load on him. It is such a spirit of loving trust in Him that God desires all His children to possess.—Advocate.

CAN'T FOOL HIM.

You can make your wife think You're too busy to stay;
You can make your children think You're too busy to play;
You can make your friends think You're too busy to buy;
But you can't make Death think You're too busy to die.

WITHIN THE LAW

(Natal Advertiser)

There is a false impression abroad that, because the law provides machinery for overtaking and punishing wrongdoing, there is no need for a business code, and that men do not need to be any more honest than the law can compel them to be. No impression could be further from the truth. The basis of all commercial dealing must be an assumption of general honesty in the community. If this goes, nothing legal can take its place.

UNCONVINCED

Bishop Bloomfield confesses that as a country curate he thought very highly of a sermon he had preached on "Atheism," and was so imprudent as to ask a farmer with whom he had walked from church how it struck him. "Well, sir," he replied, "for all you did say, and no doubt it was very clever, I still believe there is a God."

THE EVERY-DAY SIN.

Stevenson has called ingratitude the most popular sin. We have read of a man whose attention had been called to the thoughtless discourtesy which forgets to say "Thank you." He decided to make an experiment. The first place he had to go was the post office. In front of him in the line at the stamp window was a young woman who found fault because for a moment she fancied that a mistake had been made in her change. The clerk answered her sharply. When the experimenter received his stamps he said "Thank you." The busy clerk paused a moment to remark, "Well, that's the best word I have heard today." Into an office building the experimenter next found his way. When he had ridden to the top floor he stepped out and said "Thank you." The boy grinned and said "Welcome boss." The lawyer at whose door the visitor sought ambition was not in; so he returned at once to the elevator shaft, thinking that he would have a long wait. But the elevator was there. "I waited, boss," the boy greeted him, "because I saw you going down the hall to Mr. B's door, and I was most sure he was 'in.' The man decided that "Thank you" had paid pretty good interest. A druggist once told a customer that his telephone was used perhaps fifty times a day, and that a word of thanks was so rare that he was surprised when he did hear it. Surely ingratitude must be the every-day sin.

 ing, May 16th, when the Men's Association and the Ladies Auxiliary to the Boy Scouts gave a farewell Party to Mrs. Courteen.
 After the company had assembled a short address was given by Mrs.
 (Dr.) Atkinson followed by a delightful musical programme. Addresses were then read by Mr. A. E. Mercer on behalf of the Men's Association and Miss Florence Mercer on behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary, together with a gift in appreciation of the invaluable services which Mrs. Courteen had rendered for the advancement of the Scout movement. Mrs.
 Courteen then fittingly thanked the gathering for their thoughtfulness in arranging the Farewell Party and for their kindness during her stay here.
 This was followed by the serving of a delicious lunch after which the party dispersed, assuring Mrs. Courteen of their sincere wishes for her future happiness.—Com.

SEARCHLIGHT TO THE SEA BOTTOM
 By means of an invention now in use on the Tyne a ship is able to throw a disc of light on the sea bottom, and the captain, as he stands on the bridge or in the chart-room, can probe the depths with the penetrating vision of a fish.
 A pair of eyes to the bottom of the boat gauge with mathematical precision the depth of water immediately below the vessel.
 This power of submarine vision enables the captain or navigating officer to avoid shallow waters and to steer clear of hidden sandbanks or rocks.
 The Tyne pilot-boat, the Queen of the May, which can be seen off the coast in all weather, awaiting the summons of homeward bound vessels for pilotage up the Tyne, is fitted with such a pair of eyes, and the man who has performed the operation is Captain James Burn, a well-known pilot, of Julian Avenue, South Shields.
 He has equipped the pilot boat with this novel system of continuous depth-finding which, he claims removes the necessity of taking soundings by use of the lead.
 Far below the water-line, somewhere amidstships, a vertical beam of light is projected through a sort of porthole on to the sea bottom, a searchlight being used for the purpose.
 Some distance from the porthole also far below the water-line, is a little observation window from which the beam of light can be seen through the water. A mirror is used at the end of a long observation tube running vertically right through the ship to the navigating bridge.
 By working a handle on the captain can take an angle on the projected beam, and then by a simple calculation can measure with accuracy the depth of water below the ship.

"There's something of a moral in Ed Totty's mule," says the old citizen of Little Lot. "He's a kicker, but when he kicks he can't pull, and when he pulls he can't kick."

 Rev. T. Albert Moore, D. D., General Secretary of the Dept. of Social Service of Canada, who visited Newfoundland in Sept., 1917, in connection with the Social Congress, says:

 "Stall's Books on Avoided Subjects have been standard works for such a long time that it seems almost unnecessary to say a word in their behalf. I believe they have accomplished great good, and are written with care and delicacy, at the same time with sufficient frankness or the modest discussion of these delicate subjects. They are safe books for general reading, especially if from the various books there is proper selection for the youth or adult, man or woman, as the case may be."

ANOTHER PULP AND PAPER PLANT TO OPERATE
 Still another pulp and paper plant will, it is said, be in operation shortly.
 It is understood the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co., Grand Falls have recently acquired the property and plant of the Terra Nova Sulphite Co. at Angle Brook Glover-town. This concern in which Messrs Blackstead and Storm are the principals, started operations some years ago with the purpose of manufacturing pulp and paper, machinery, etc., has been installed for that purpose.
 The acquiring of this property by the
 A. N. D. Company will mean additional employment and an increased output by the company and it is likely that operations will be in full swing there this season.—Advocate.

DISPATCHER LEAVES
 Mr. Ron. W. Kent, the popular dispatcher severed his connection with the Reid Newfoundland Company yesterday with the intention of leaving the country. Mr. Kent will spend a holiday with his parents at Span-ceed to Toronto where he has a good position awaiting him. Mr. Kent's many friends will wish him all possible success in his new field of work.

CAPTAIN WAS HIS OWN SURGEON AT SEA.
 Talk about resourcefulness!
 There's the case of Captain John Snelgrove, of the three-masted schooner Catherine M. Moulton.
 The vessel arrived at Boston from Turk's Ids. with 279 tons of salt. A week before, in the midst of a gale, the captain's right thumb was broken while he was helping lash a spar that threatened to knock the Moulton's waist into a cocked hat. The thumb was a sorry spectacle, severed like a woodboat's bowsprit, and there was no surgeon to fix the injured member scientifically.
 What did the skipper do?
 Well, after the spar had been tidy he slid down into the cabin and turned surgeon, with the vessel acting his-falutin, in the wicked sea that was the source of his woe.

 Those of the crew who could be spared were eager to aid the skipper. The booklet that accompanies the medicine chest on deep water vessels, such as the Moulton, lent invaluable suggestions. Splints were whittled, the bandages prepared and Captain Snelgrove adjusted the thumb to a position that looked to be precisely right as compared with the good one.
 This being done, and the common consent favorable, the break was buttered, after which the splints were applied and wrapped with the ends of the twine tacked, as is customary, with a length of wire rigging served with tarry marling.
 Speaking about the operation on arrival in Boston, the crew was funnishous that the skipper did a bang-up job. Captain Snelgrove is a New-foundlander, his home being at Hr.
 Grace.
 The vessel was twenty-nine days on the passage, headwinds prolonging the trip.—Halifax Herald.

After the usual games were played a presentation was made by Miss Florence Mercer while a very beautiful address was read by Miss Bertha Hull. At the close of the social evening the gathering formed a large circle around the hall and "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem was sung.

A number of men from this town left by Friday morning's train en route to the United States where they will seek employment.

WHY A SHIP IS "SHE"

Last month we gave some reasons why a ship should be called "she." B. A. Davenport of Medina, O., gives us some further reasons: "Because they are sometimes seen with a man-o-war and quite often they are attached to a buoy; "Because they sometimes make up to appear; "Because their smacks usually follow a storm; "The rigging is often worth more than the hull, and "Oh, Buoy! they sure know the ropes."—Inklings.

NEWS OF THE WORLD.

London, May 9.—A Bill to provide that any ship entering British waters or leaving a British port, be obliged to carry a reasonable amount of alcoholic liquors for the supply of passengers on demand, is to be introduced in the House of Commons today by Lieut. Colonel Courthope, Conservative for Ryde Division of Sussex. The measure is believed an effective counter ruling against the American Prohibition Law.

New York, May 23.—Remarkable progress has been made during the past year in the use of insulin treatment for diabetes, and over three thousand patients in the United States alone are being helped by it, according to Dr. P. G. Banting, its discoverer, speaking yesterday before the hundred and seventeenth annual convention of the New York Medical Association. Insulin is now being used in all parts of the world, but it is not yet possible to say whether cure is permanent.

Value of the 1923 Sealfishery

The net value of the seals caught at the seal fishery this year was $209,135.52, the net weight being 2535 tons, 9 cwt. 8 lbs. Only eight steamers prosecuted the voyage this spring seven of which fished on the front and secured fair trips. The Viking was the only steamer in the Gulf and was prevented by heavy ice and gales of wind from securing a full load. Her crew made $25.52. While of the others the lowest bill was made by the Eagle with $41.07, while the highest was the Ranger with $68.18.

Flew to Stag Bay

Major Cotton, who flew back from Stag Bay a few days ago, left hurriedly by yesterday's express for New York via North Sydney and St. John N. B. Major Cotton's mission is kept in the dark for the present, but it is understood to be in connection with information gleaned from his visit to the Gold Fields. Much interest is being centered in the two photographs of Stag Bay taken by Major Cotton, which are now on exhibition in the window of Messrs Dicks & Company's book store, Water St., St. John's.

MINERS PROTEST RAIDS

Sydney, May 17.—The next raid by Provincial Police upon the homes of workers of residence, of United Mine workers, or arrest of any of those whose premises have already been raided and suspected literature seized, will be the signal for calling of a twenty-four hour strike in Glace Bay and adjoining coal fields, according to a resolution, passed unanimously at a meeting of four to five thousand miners in Alexandra Rink, Glace Bay.

LIVED UP TO ITS REPUTATION

This is a rare story that usually goes wherever it is told. A man called Smith bought a business thru an agent as a going concern. After six months it failed, but Smith took his trouble very lightly. Meeting the agent sometime later, he said, "Do you remember selling me a business as a going concern?" "Yes, of course I do," replied the agent. "Well," said Smith, "it's gone."

PRECEDENT BREAKERS.

Men who have blazed new paths for civilization have always been precedent breakers. It is ever the man who believes in his own ideas; who can think and act without a crowd to back him; who is not afraid to stand alone; who is bold, original, resourceful; who has the courage to go where others have never been, to do what others have never done, that accomplishes things, that leaves his mark on his times.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ploughman paid a visit to Carbonear recently.

Miss Essie Parsons arrived from St. John's on May 23rd and paid a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Parsons.

As soon as a man "thinks" for himself, someone comes along and tells him he's wrong. So what's the use!

Hard Work Means Success

There never was a goal worth getting but you must work to attain. You must suffer and bleed for it, cling to your creed for it. Fail and go at it again.

Success is no whim of the moment, no crown for the indolent brow. You must battle and try for it, offer to die for it; Lose it yet win it somehow.

The Pathway to glory is rugged, and many the heart-aches you'll know. He who seeks to be master must rise from disaster. Must take as he giveth the blow.

There's no royal highway to splendour, no short cut to fortune or fame. You must fearlessly fight for it, dare to be right for it. Failing, yet playing the game.

The test of man's merit is trouble, the proof of his work is distress. Much as you long for it, man must be strong for it. Work is the door to success.

HEALTH Is the greatest blessing in the world

If you are HEALTHY you can work hard but not otherwise. HARD WORK means SUCCESS but you will NEVER be able to work very hard without HEALTH and STRENGTH. If you require HEALTH and STRENGTH use
