"I Have Just Called To Look Through Your Clothing Stock"

Said a gentleman who called a few days ago, "I don't want to buy today." He was received with the same cordiality that has made these stores so popular. It was explained to him that all goods were marked in plain figures; that the price marked was the only price. Every garment was guaranteed to be worth the money. If any goods sold here went wrong they were cheerfully made right. He was shown the stock which he examined carefully. He was convinced, for he said: "I do want two suits. I am going to buy them here today," and he bought. A half hour later he strolled back with a friend who bought also. It is incidents like this that explain why our business is growing so rapidly. If you know of clothing, and look here, you'll be convinced, and you'll send you, etc. etc.

RIOT ACT READ, MINERS DISPERSED BY POLICE; LIVELY TIMES AT GLACE BAY

General Manager Duggan Injured by a Stone--
Women, Mingling With Strikers, Assault Men on Their Way to Work--Serious Trouble Feared--Arrests Made.

GLACE BAY, N. S., July 7.—As a result of this morning's disturbances among the striking U. M. W. miners at the collieries of the Dominion Coal Company, the riot act was read at Dominion No. 3 colliery, where over fifteen hundred men were congregated. The strikers patrolled the streets outside the colliery all night, the crowd assembling at the gates to the colliery at five o'clock, where they remained until dispersed by the police. When the men who are working, of whom a vast number turned out today, arrived, they were again beset and struck by mud and sticks by the striking miners. General Manager Duggan, who was present with a number of his colliery officials and police, endeavored to prevent the crowd following the men through the gates, when he was struck by a stone across the face, inflicting slight injuries, while two workmen were also cut and injured by missiles thrown by the women in the crowd. Shortly after this incident Justice Campbell proceeded to read the riot act and commanded the men to disperse within thirty minutes on pain of imprisonment and heavy penalty. At the end of the time mentioned the men not having moved, the police at once proceeded to arrest those who refused to disperse, and seven men and one woman were arrested and taken to the police station, their cases being remanded until tomorrow morning. At No. 3 colliery also the police were obliged to draw their revolvers, but outside of the P. W. A. men receiving severe injuries, no serious disturbance took place. The women are creating trouble here also. The collieries of Reserve and Dominion are working with full complements of men, though the number at all other collieries is said to be much less than that of yesterday. A repetition of this morning's disturbances is expected this afternoon when the men return from the pit. (Continued on page seven)

CONFESSES MURDER; CAN'T "MAKE GOOD"

Washington Chauffeur Tells Startling Tale in Baltimore.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—John Gormely, a chauffeur, employed by Ches. J. Bell, president of the American Security and Trust Company, began drinking here yesterday. He went to Baltimore, where he drank more and then made his way to a Baltimore police station and confessed to killing Otto Horn, a fellow employe, and foreman for Mr. Bell on the latter's estate in this city. A search was made of the buildings and the estate generally and the creek in the neighborhood were dragged. This afternoon Gormely on his return to Washington explained that his confession was false. He was lectured by the police and released. Horn was found at Warren, Va., where he had gone in a motor car.

MRS. CORNWALLIS-WEST PRODUCES A COMEDY

And Threatens to Write a Political Drama—Piece Staged in London.

LONDON, July 7.—Mrs. George Cornwallis West adds another to her claims to be considered one of the most versatile women in London, by launching her first play yesterday afternoon at the Hicks Theatre. The play is a society comedy, entitled "His Borrowed Plumes." Mrs. Cornwallis West had the advantage of the finest possible acting and mounting, which made the most of her play. The gown was gorgeous, and the hats marvelous affairs. Mrs. Pat Campbell took the principal role that of a literary woman whose husband, also with literary ambitions, loved another woman of the adventurous type. The "Borrowed Plumes" was a plot in which the husband cribbed from his wife's manuscript of a novel which the adventurous unknown to him had stolen. The story centered about this incident and the heroine's effort to win back her husband's love was cleverly portrayed by Mrs. Campbell. The critics however say the action of the piece is slow. Mrs. Cornwallis West declared that if this effort succeeded she would write a political drama.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A ONCE PROMINENT MAN

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—Red Northrup, formerly head of the refrigerator service of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, died suddenly last night at his home. He was a cousin of George Gould and until a few years ago was prominent in club, social and business circles. The family refused to discuss his death late last night or explain what caused it. Red Northrup had been under treatment in various sanitariums returning to his home only recently.

SEVEN HUNDRED ARE NOW HOMELESS

As the Result of Heavy Rains in Mexico

Floods Wiped Out One Town—Property Loss is Enormous—Train Service is Held Up.

MONTERRI, Mexico, July 7.—With damage of three-quarters of a million dollars the result of the recent rainfall and passenger train service still lamentably crippled, a serious situation confronts Northern Mexico. Advice from Sabalera, Hidalgo, says messengers, owing to the fact that all communication with that town is completely destroyed, but it is reported the town has been entirely wiped out and that property loss, if not total, will be great. No trains are arriving over the Mexican National. The river which skirts the northern section of the town of Hillside has left its banks. Fifty houses had been swept away yesterday and a hundred others were under water and crumbling. Several hundred persons are homeless.

MILLIONAIRE COULD NOT ESCAPE THE GALLOWS

Wealthy Mexican Will Die for Killing His Brother-in-Law—Must Give Money to Victim's Widow.

EL PASO, July 7.—News was received here last night that the supreme court of the State of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, has confirmed the death sentence of Darío Gonzalez, millionaire, who was convicted of the murder of his brother-in-law, Manuel Turce, the wealthy son of an American. In addition to the confining the death penalty the court has issued a decree securing Gonzalez to pay the widow of the man he murdered the sum of $300,000. The prominence, popularity and wealth of Gonzalez was relied upon to secure for him a lighter sentence.

KING PETER AFFECTED BY EXCESSIVE SMOKING

VIENNA, July 7.—A telegram received here from Belgrade says that while King Peter of Serbia was riding in the park yesterday he fainted and fell from his horse. He was taken to the palace, where it was found that except for a few bruises he was not injured, the fainting is attributed to excessive smoking. His Majesty is now quite recovered.

THE TILLEY MONUMENT IS A FINE PIECE OF WORK

Model on Exhibition Today, the Subject of Favorable Comment—Statue to be Unveiled in September, 1910.

At the Board of Trade rooms today the model of the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley was placed on exhibition. Numerous citizens viewed the figure and expressions of approval were heard on all sides. Phillips Hebert, brought the model to this city. This afternoon he will confer with the members of the monument committee, of which Mr. George Robertson is chairman. The model was placed on one of the large tables in the reading room. The figure itself is a very fine piece of work and bears a striking resemblance to Sir Leonard. The late statesman is shown in civilian costume addressing a gathering. The expression is very natural and has been highly commended upon. The right hand is thrust in the breast of the coat. The left, which holds a rolled manuscript, is distinguished by the figure of a soldier on a pedestal about ten or eleven feet high. The statue will be of bronze with the pedestal of grey granite. The model will remain on exhibit all afternoon. Mr. Hebert will explain the designing to the members of the committee. At 4 o'clock a conference will be held between the committee and Mr. Hebert. Arrangements will be made for the carrying out of the designing. Mr. Hebert received many compliments on his work. Mr. Robertson received the model shortly after eleven o'clock and extended his hearty congratulations to the sculptor on the perfection of the figure. Mr. Hebert states that the monument will be completed in September, 1910. The unveiling of the statue will form a feature of the Dominion Exhibition. King Square has been chosen as the site for the monument. Mr. Hebert visited the square, accompanied by Lady Tilley and Mr. Robertson. He expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied with the place. Mr. Hebert designed a handsome monument upon the right hand of Chamby. The statue has been erected to commemorate the memory of this distinguished patriot and will be unveiled on Sunday next. Another specimen of Mr. Hebert's work is the statue to Madame Menick, the founder of the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Montreal. This lady came to Montreal in 1643 and labored among the poor and sick. Several times she was in danger of being killed by the Indians. She is represented giving relief to a wounded soldier.

DR. CURREY REPEATS THE STORY OF HIS KINDNESS

Did Not Abuse His Wife Nor Call Her Offensive Names, But Put Up With a Lot From Her—He Was Good to the Children.

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 7.—Hearing in the Curry divorce case was continued today. Almost the entire morning was taken up with the reading of the stenographic report of that part of the direct examination given by Dr. Curry last October. Dr. Curry took the stand at 11:30 and continued giving testimony where the report broke off. The witness told over again about the sickness of the child Julia. That in the illness he never spared care or expense, and everything possible both in the way of nursing and medical attendance was done for the sick child. He said that the nurse, Miss Tapley, had complained to him that Mrs. Curry was not capable of looking after the child. He, the witness, had always lived a strict moral and religious life. He had been a Sunday school superintendent and a member of the vestry of Trinity church for years and he considered that he had a good temperance. During the years from 1906 to 1908 he denied completely the statement set out in Mrs. Curry's libel that he had ill-treated her. He never in his life struck or abused his wife, the only thing he ever did was at times he put up his hands to protect himself when his wife attacked him. As to calling her names he had said to her when she got into one of her violent turns, "wife, you must be either crazy or a she-devil." He had never called his wife any vile name as she alleged, nor the children either. He had told Mrs. Curry that he did not propose to have his wife turned into a servants' bathhouse. He objected strongly to the company the children kept, but Mrs. Curry would not do as he wished. As to his using vile and abusive language it was not true, as he was most particular always in the language he used. The witness denied that he ever used liquor to excess, and as to his drinking excessively at night and keeping liquor alongside of him, it was absurd. He was troubled with gas on the stomach, and on such occasions only he used a little whiskey to relieve himself. He had never been intoxicated in his life. He was a moderate drinker at the most. He had never told his wife to go away. She used to say over and over again that she was going home to her father's and he replied to one time, "then why don't you go?" but he never told her to go. He had never called his wife a thief, but at one time he charged her with taking his money. Dr. Curry was still on the stand on adjournment at noon. The County Council today continued the committee on the county poor farm until the January session with power to continue negotiations and report. It was decided to give the secretary-treasurer and auditor of the county the same remuneration for work under the new highway act as paid under the old act.

FAKE DROWNING

Moving Picture Model Last Life in Landing Death.

PARIS, July 6.—A peculiar death occurred recently at Paris. A young acrobat was engaged to fall into the Seine and pretend to drown after a fierce struggle for life. He accordingly tumbled into the river, and on coming to the surface, splashed and threw his arm about in such realistic fashion that the operator on the bank encouragingly shouted to him: "Bravo! Keep it up! Splendid!" The crowd about the operator, taking in the situation, also cheered the model struggling in the water. A steamer loaded with passengers stopped to watch the scene. After a few minutes the man in the water threw up his arms in a last frantic outburst and disappeared. Murmurs of admiration at his acting were heard, and all made ready to applaud the performer upon his reappearance. His dead body was recovered half an hour later, and it is believed he had been seized with a cramp.

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION OPENED IN THIS CITY TODAY

Arthur A. Brown, Manager of St. John Lumber Company, Tells of Obstructions Placed in River at Van Buren—All Logs to Pass Through Their Booms and Everything Was Grist That Came to Their Mill.

The first public session in this city of the International Commission appointed to inquire into the use of the St. John river by the mill owners and lumber operators was held this morning. The announcement had been made that the sessions would be open to the public, but only a few spectators were present. The entire morning was spent in a continuation of the examination of Manager Brown of the St. John Lumber Company. Under the examination of Mr. Gregory, counsel for the Canadian Commissioners, he described the way in which his company had blocked the river at Van Buren by the erection of piers and the stranding of logs owned by other operators. The details of how their logs were settled for were asked for by Mr. Gregory, but objected to by counsel for the American Commissioners, and at the time of taking recess a ruling had not been made. Mr. Brown's examination is being continued this afternoon. The commissioners have enough work ahead of them to keep them here for several days. Among the witnesses will be J. A. Morrison, of Fredericton, Mr. Chapleau, of Ottawa, who made a survey of the river for the public works department of Canada, Messrs. Rainbird and Bayler, Canadian and American respectively who made the boundary survey, J. Fraser Gregory and other local lumbermen. The International Waterways Commission was called to order in the Equity Court Chambers in the Pugsley Building at seven o'clock this morning. Hon. A. B. Barnhill presided and those present were: John Keefe, the other Canadian Commissioner; Hon. E. A. Murchie, and Hon. Peter C. Keenan, the United States Commissioners; Hon. W. P. Jones and A. J. Gregory, K. C. of Woodstock, counsel for the Canadian commissioners; Hon. O. A. Fellows, of Bangor, counsel for the American commissioners; Harold Murchie, secretary of the commission, and the official stenographers for both sides. Arthur V. Brown, manager of the St. John Lumber Co., of Van Buren, Me., who had already given evidence at previous sittings, was summoned as the first witness and his examination was continued. A large map illustrating the section of the river under dispute, was hung on the wall to illustrate the evidence. In reply to Mr. Gregory, Mr. Brown told of the organization of the St. John River Company in 1902. Its purpose was to erect mills for the manufacture of lumber. They acquired a mill site and shore rights. Their deeds were secured through the Van Buren Lumber Company, who did not know how they acquired it. Their shore rights ran to the high water mark for the whole length of the town of Van Buren extending about four miles. His company also acquired the upper half of the island of Van Buren. They also purchased the shore rights on the Crook Island. Last year and the year before they also acquired some further shore rights in the vicinity. The company also owned a farm fronting on the river where a piering gap is situated, about thirty rods in width, and stretching back about a mile and a half. They also owned a number of houses also near the mill. This constituted all their property. It had all been acquired since 1902 and before that date none of their members were financially interested in these properties. Their holdings commence about four miles above their mill at a point where a sheer boom is attached to the Canadian shore. Their only interests on the Canadian side is the rights to the point where their boom is anchored. These booms are placed about as soon as the river opens and continues as long as they think there are any of their logs coming down, which is practically all the open season. In all they maintain three sheer booms at present and during the whole season of navigation they leave no unobstructed opening for the passage of logs for a stretch of about two miles. The distance from the centre of Crook Island and the American shore is about 550 feet and to the Canadian shore about 400 feet. During the sorting season the space between Crook Island and the American shore is occupied by them exclusively for sorting purposes. The deepest water at this place on the American side in August is about six feet. On the Canadian side at that time of the year the Canadian side is all shallow or shoal waters at the head of the island and a similar condition exists on the lower end of the island on the American side. The navigable water is only about fifty feet wide at certain places on both sides and the average depth could not be more than two feet. In the spring there is sometimes a depth of thirty feet of water. In August there is a good fair current. (Continued on Page 7.)

RUNAWAY HALTS DUEL AS DRIVERS SHOOT

One Man Injured in Fatal Duel From Buggy of Enemy.

AMHERST, Mass., July 6--John Finch, a planter, and James L. Chambliss, formerly a county commissioner, were principals in a duel early today ten miles from this place. Finch was badly wounded.

Chambliss told officers today that he was driving in a buggy when Finch, who was driving in the opposite direction, Chambliss spoke without knowing who was the occupant of the other buggy.

Shambliss said he could see the other man raise his shotgun, and that anticipating trouble he drew his pistol and fired. One bullet cut through Finch's fingers, as they grasped the trigger of his weapon, and another entered his thigh.

Finch finally fired. The lead of shot struck Chambliss' horse, and the animal ran away.

ONE WAY TO SETTLE THE TICKET SELLING PEST

Eleven Year Old Boy Shoots Girl Ago Eight Who Asked His Mother to Buy Ticket for Entertainment.

AMHERST, Mass., July 6--Bessie, little Ellen Coffin, eight years old, asked her mother to buy one of the tickets which she was selling for a juvenile entertainment, eleven-year-old George E. Lucy today took down from a wall in his home, his father's rifle and shot the child through the head, causing injuries which will prove fatal if he feared. Submitted to an examination in the police station tonight after he was arrested, the boy said: "I did not mean to hurt her." The girl is a daughter of Thomas E. Coffin, business manager of the Amherst News. Young Lucy is the son of Orin J. Lucy, of this town. He will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning, the exact charge against him, to be determined by the child's condition.

BRITISH UPPER CLASS.

Visiting German Critic Discourses on It and the English Sabbath.

LONDON, July 6--Oscar T. Schweriner, a German publicist, has been giving his impressions of England in a London paper. Concerning class distinction, he writes:

"I believe a man of strong will can break down the class barriers surrounding him and climb higher on the social ladder quicker in England than in any other European country. I believe this because I have had proof of it. I have seen at the beautiful, west country seat of a peer of the realm a gathering so remarkable in its way that I do not believe anything like it could ever be possible outside of England. Some of the greatest men of the country--one or two of whom some people would call the greatest--ribbed shoulders with and met on terms of equality people who had from the point of view of class distinction, not the slightest right to be there. But all present had in some way or other made their mark, or were intent upon working for the welfare of their country. And this alone had been sufficient to throw open to them the doors of a lord's mansion."

His next writes of the English Sabbath, which he found otherwise dismal than on account of the "fine, dazzling rain coming down in fits and starts." And dismal as the rain, appeared the people in the street, wandering listlessly about. Like a lot of forlorn sheep they seemed to me. To a Continental such a Sunday is a horror. I personally believe that the working man, after toiling all week, ought to have the chance of enjoying themselves on Sundays. I also believe that by throwing open public amusement on this day the Londoner would gain a great ally in his fight against alcohol. "A London Sunday is a thing a German never will be able to appreciate. Almost every burger--and the superior workman--takes his wife and children to a beer garden on Sunday, where, under the shady trees, the housewife makes coffee for all and in the evening they order supper there, because the wife, also wanting her Sunday, mostly does not cook at home on this day of the week. The children play about the garden, the old folk have a glass or two of beer, and then all go home happy and contented.

"Now, in London, this of course, is impossible, because everything else apart, there is no place to which the poorer Londoner could decently take his wife and children. Consequently, as you over crowded bars on Sunday prove, he leaves them at home and goes out alone. And I am wondering if I hope I may--what is more beneficial, to state and Church: the man, tired of a whole day of doing nothing, is usually awaiting the 'bar hour,' or the man enjoying some innocent amusement, theatre, or beer club with his whole family."

"No, I shall never understand the English Sunday, nor many a thing connected with it. For instance, why I cannot have my regular newspaper on Sunday morning, because it is Sunday, I am told. But every child knows that the Sunday paper is made up on Saturday."

CARLOAD OF NEWLYWEDS

Colorado Road Provides Special Car When Six Couples are Found on One Train.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 6--A new room has been established by the Colorado Midland Road, when a bridal couple was turned over to six other couples, all newlyweds, who were honeymooning. Most of them reached Colorado Springs the same day and ascended Pike's Peak visited other points of scenic interest. They met without previous arrangement at the Midland Station. Nearly all were strangers to one another.

The couples were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Fleming Van Benschoten, of New York City, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Jacobs, of Buffalo, N. Y., bound for Wood Springs, Col., and Salt Lake City, respectively; Mr. and Mrs. Howard James, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jackson, of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. E. McKay, of Oklahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Thomas, of St. Louis, bound for Honolulu.

It was a wedding man who appeared before the judge and charged his wife with cruel and abusive treatment. His better half was a big, square-jawed woman, with a determined eye.

"Well," replied the little man, making a brave attempt to glare defiantly at his wife. "I never did meet her, she just kind of overtook me."

POPULAR SPORT AT THE CAPITAL

OTTAWA, July 6--Within the eight of parliament buildings on a turn just outside the city limits of Hull, a cooking main took place on Sunday in the presence of several hundred people from Ottawa and Hull. It is the first of its kind in the city. The affair had all the trappings of a bar-becue sport. Little secrecy is said to have been maintained in respect to the location of the main, which was held in the open air. It is further stated that a similar affair had been held here last Sunday on Chelsea road, not far from Hull, in a field owned, it is alleged, by a justice of the peace. The police authorities disclaim knowledge of these two open and flagrant violations of the law.

M. SHERIDAN BREAKS ALL AROUND RECORD

Irish-American Athlete Scores 7,385 Points in American Blue Ribbon Athletic Event.

Champions may come and champions may go but Marnie Sheridan, of the Irish-American A. C., seems like the babbling brook in that he goes on forever. Instead of going on the decline to the haze of "has-beens" this vigorous Irishman improves with age, and to show that he is far from the side and yellow stage he set up a new record yesterday at Celtic Park for the all around championship of the Amateur Athletic Union. His total, after a day's work of the most strenuous sort of athletics, measuring in points, was 7,385.

There was another competitor who attempted to measure strength and skill with the Celtic policeman, but he figured about as importantly as the tall dose on a comet. He was Theodore L. Matsukes, of the West Side Y. M. C. A., who acted just as a sort of filler in to make a competition out of it. No doubt his work was just as hard as Sheridan's, but he bore the same ratio to the big Irishman as the day laborer does to the skilled mechanic. Martin got the results, the other fellow the experience in toil. Matsukes, it is said, went home with a nice silver medal as a reward for his tenacity, even though all he could tally in the ten events of the schedule was 3,783 points.

It was generally expected that Sheridan would break the record for the all around championship, and there were many who figured on his making 6,000 points. The old record was 7,120, made in 1907 by Sheridan.

Last year, in the absence of the Irish-American star at the Olympic games, John Bredemus, a Princeton student, won the title with a tally of 5,829 points in a field of seven. This year, however, all but Matsukes were scared off.

FIELDING FEATURE OF LAST NIGHT'S GAME

In a match full of feature fielding, yet marked by a couple of costly errors, the St. Josephs defeated the St. John's Tugs batters on the Shamrock grounds last evening by a score of eight to three. The game marked the resumption of play on the league, after the recent dispute. About five hundred spectators were in attendance. The contest was a close one until about the fourth inning, when the St. Josephs hit heavily. Callaghan and McGuigan were the opposing pitchers. The former, after the first inning was in excellent shape. McGuigan pitched splendidly at times.

LIVED 400,000 YEARS AGO

Wise Men Fix Age of Prehistoric War Found in France.

PARIS, July 6--Wise men have now pronounced upon the age of the bones mustered, whose skeleton was discovered in a cavern near La Mouster, in the Department of Dordogne south-western France, about a year ago. When discovered the skull was much damaged, but the parts of it skeleton have since been put together, and it is now thought the remains are those of a young man between 15 and 18.

The jaws are protruding, the skull markedly receding. The nose would seem to have been broad and flattened, and the nostrils directed mainly forward; all these features being very apelike. An age of 40,000 years is assigned to the deposit, which belongs to a late interglacial epoch. This would make the fossil young man of La Mouster the oldest of the human race yet known.

TRADES UNIONS FOR WOMEN

Feminist Organizations to Meet in France--Their Object is Twofold.

PARIS, July 6--A congress of representatives of all the feminist organizations in France will be held at Lyons in September. Its object will be twofold--to secure Parliamentary rights for women and to promote the development of women's trade unions.

The French feminists demand the right not only to vote at Parliamentary elections, but also to sit as deputies. It will be proposed at this congress to organize immediately a propagandist committee in every electoral district in France, which will support only those candidates at next year's general election who pledge themselves to vote for the feminist programme.

With regard to the second part of the programme, the women leaders will try to hasten the very gradual increase that has taken place during the last four years in women's trade unions. There are in France 4,000, the 600 women who earn their livelihood assessed 130,000.

NEW YORK, N. THE COAL STRIKE.

The coal strike in Cape Breton is now fairly under way. The issue is between the newly organized United Mine Workers Association of America, and the Dominion Coal Co. and a third party, the P. W. A., is directly involved. The demands of the miners for increased wages, shorter hours, better working conditions and recognition of the union, this last demand being regarded by them as most important.

The dispute which has resulted in a cessation of work has been approaching this climax for perhaps two years. For a very considerable time Nova Scotian miners have been organized as the Provincial Workmen's Association, a body of local interests only, and not in any way affiliated with the larger federations. Relations between the employers and the U. M. W. A. on invitation, visited Antigonish. At times differences have arisen but in all matters mediation has prevailed, and while Nova Scotian miners may not have enjoyed such favorable terms as have been forced from operators in the United States, yet on the whole wages and hours were fairly reasonable.

Some time ago the Dominion Coal Co. entered into an agreement with the P. W. A. by which the men undertook to work until the end of the present year under terms then arranged. Eighteen months or two years ago, representatives of the U. M. W. A. on invitation, visited Cape Breton and other parts of Nova Scotia, and explained to the disaffected members of the P. W. A. the advantages which might accrue to them through affiliation with the powerful American federation. Gradually the campaign was carried on, organizers visited different towns and a considerable number of P. W. A. members broke away from their own organization to form a branch under control of the U. M. W. A. Differences regarding the property of the old unions were aired in the courts, and while the new organization was ultimately successful in establishing itself this success was attained only after a difficult struggle.

After securing a footing the U. M. W. men naturally sought recognition. According to the agreement between the Dominion Coal Co. and the P. W. A. the latter was entitled to certain concessions which, being granted, embittered the members of the new union. These latter complained of the discrimination against them and asked for a board of conciliation. This board was appointed, and after hearing evidence decided that the complaints made had not been established. The demand of the U. M. W. is now for equal recognition with the P. W. A. The reply of the operating company is that having entered into an agreement with the older body it cannot justly extend those privileges to an antagonistic union.

The struggle is an important one to Canada. The American organization does not fear competing with the United States by Nova Scotian miners. It has entered Cape Breton primarily on the invitation of workers of that province and they, through its influence seek to gain control of Nova Scotia mining. The fight is not only between the company and the U. M. W. A., but between the two labor organizations, and more than that, it is a contest in which one of the principal issues is the future influence of United States labor organizations in Canadian industries. Undoubtedly the striking unions will be supported by large amounts of money, equally true is it that segment while perhaps not equal to the men in the efforts to obtain better conditions, is certainly not in their favor as regards the introduction of American influence in these provinces.

FLAG INCIDENTS.

A Nova Scotian schooner captain while his vessel was in dock at St. John, Conn. on Monday, hoisted the British flag out of respect to the United States on the observance of Independence Day. He was forced to haul it down, the police instructing him to do so on complaint of so-called "patriotic" citizens.

Incidents such as this occur every little while across the border. We never hear of similar occurrences in Canada, where the United States flag floats at the pleasure of whoever cares to hoist it. Perhaps Canadians are so long-suffering, maybe our friends across the line would be more inclined to treat our flag with proper respect if they found that we ourselves regarded it as we should.

This flag worship is, as a general thing, nonsensical, especially when it leads to ill-judged exhibitions of peevish sentiment, but at the same time it is not wise to forget the significance of our national emblem.

Right here in St. John the Stars and Stripes floats almost daily from masts which in this port should carry the British flag. The United States consulate is the only place where the United States flag should be seen. Suppose for a change we insist on our rights as the "patriots" across the line do. Let us have the British flag only, no matter what the occasion may be, until such time as the Union Jack is properly respected on the other side.

"I want to get this check cashed," said the fair young matron, appearing at the window of the paying teller. "Yes, madam. You must endorse it, though," explained the teller.

"Why, my husband sent it to me. He is away on business," she said. "Yes, madam. Just endorse it—sign it on the back so we will know and your husband will know we paid it to you."

She went to the desk against the wall and in a few moments presented the check triumphantly, having written on its back: "Your loving wife, Edith."

SAY ELLA GINGLES IS "MYTHOMANIAC"

Allienist Coin New Word to Fit the Mental Ailment of Chicago Girl.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 6.—Ella Gingles, a pretty Irish laundress, accused of theft by her employer, Mrs. Agnes Barrett, and who in turn says Mrs. Barrett and another woman at a masked ball imprisoned her in a room and subjected her to frightful indignities, is declared by the state to be a mythomaniac.

Allienists who have watched the girl on the witness stand claim she has formed the entire story she told. They claim she has read some such story, and that it has fixed itself upon her mind, until she firmly believes the events actually happened.

The state will put these allienists upon the stand and when they have summed Toronto, and attempt to prove that the girl is a victim of hallucinations.

The state also has secured a number of letters from people in Canada, for whom the Gingles girl worked when she first arrived from Europe, and it is said these letters declare that she is not truthful.

The defence will object to going into the story of alleged torture in the bath room at the Wellington Hotel, which is alleged to have taken place six weeks after the girl claims she was first attacked.

She has since repudiated the bath room story, in which she said she had been blinded by pepper on the street, thrown into a cab and taken to the hotel, where she was cut, beaten and finally gagged and tied to a bath tub.

Later she revised the story, setting it six weeks ahead, and telling that she was lured to a room in the hotel and held by two women.

Beyond pointing a reason for Miss Gingles' departure from Ireland or England or wherever her home might have been, the Canadian letters leave but little doubt as to her reason for going to Canada in November, 1907.

The letter of Mr. Thornton, in whose home Miss Gingles worked as a cook for ten months, says: "I am sorry to hear Ella Gingles has been arrested, but am hardly surprised. I regret that I cannot give her a good character. The girl came to us as a cook from the country, with satisfactory references on paper. She was with us some months."

She is very untruthful. She dressed up in my wife's evening dress and was photographed in it while we were away for a short time in summer. She was a very unsatisfactory servant. She tried to arrange with our nurse, Miss D. Young, for both of them to go to Chicago, each giving different excuses. We prevailed on the nurse to remain. The girl is the most obstinate liar have ever met."

BRITISH PLUCK IN HOUR OF DANGER

How the Cruiser Sappho Was Brought to Dover—Beached Just in Time.

Paroled Discipline Displayed After Collision—The Best Traditions of the Navy Maintained by the Crew.

The London Daily Chronicle of June 21 has the following graphic story of the collision on the previous night, as a result of which the cruiser Sappho had to be beached at Dover.

The Chronicle's correspondent at the latter port says—The cruiser Sappho, which has just been towed in here after collision, left Portsmouth at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning after mobilizing for the Channel, but fog sprang up last night and became very thick. In the neighborhood of Dungeness Point the cruiser's siren was being used continuously, and the ship steamed slowly, the fog being so dense that the men could hardly see from one end of the ship to the other.

With startling suddenness a steamer boomed up quite close. An alarm was given, and although everything possible was done to avert a collision, only a minute or so elapsed before the lines crashed into the cruiser on the port side. This was about 9 o'clock, when the vessel was about a mile from the pier.

The impact occurred in the most vital part of the ship, near the engine room, and extensive bruising being made below the water line in the stokehold, into which the seas rapidly poured.

MAINTAINED NAVAL TRADITIONS. The shock of the collision was so great that many of the men were thrown off their feet. An alarm was sounded throughout the warship, the men were piped to quarters, while the crew on board proceeded to the collision doors to be closed and collision masts to be placed in position over the vessel in the water.

No doubt that the great resonance of mind shown by those in command of the vessel before the collision, and the crew under these nerve-racking conditions.

Curiously enough, the vessel which collided with the Sappho bore the same name. She was a Hull liner. She signaled later that she had collided with the Sappho, and was proceeding to her destination, Algiers.

REFORMED, SHE WOULD STOP CARD GAMING Mrs. A. B. Sims, Once a Champion Whist Player, to Start a Crusade.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 6.—When Mrs. A. B. Sims, of Des Moines, reformed champion whist player, who for the last five years has been lecturing all over the United States against card playing, started out on her next evangelic tour she will endeavor to lay the foundation for a national anti-card playing organization.

"At present eighty-five per cent. of society people are victims of card playing," declares Mrs. Sims. "It has invaded the most sacred place in the world—the home. It is a danger which confronts the American people today, and especially the women of the country, and it is time that a crusade, national in its scope, is inaugurated."

The card playing evil is the slickest game, if you will pardon the expression, of which the devil is past master. For years I refused to play for prizes. More than once I have hidden my score for fear I would win. Finally I yielded to temptation, carrying a large prize. From that time on for several years I won prize after prize. Today these prizes are in the safe of one of the jewelers stores of this city. When I went to St. Louis to enter the national card tournament, I was carried playing crazy. I won first honors and was heralded as the champion whist player of the ladies in the United States.

"One day it dawned on me that it was all wrong. The longer I thought on the subject the more convinced I became. Then came the determination to quit all kind of card playing. I was soon on the platform speaking to large audiences."

Poetical Effusions on African Hunting Feature of Entertainment by the "Nairobi Forces."

NAIROBI, British East Africa, July 6.—Colonel Roosevelt heard his prowess as a lion killer told in song and sketch at an entertainment given recently by the "Nairobi Forces," which Mr. Roosevelt and his son Kermit attended.

The song describing Colonel Roosevelt's lion hunting was sung by Miss Johnson, C. G. C. M. G., Acting Governor, after dining at the Government House. The topical songs dealing with Mr. Roosevelt were a feature of the occasion, and at each allusion made to himself Colonel Roosevelt's laugh rang out above the applause and laughter of the rest of the audience.

"There isn't a scrap of doubt," said he, "this diet's exceedingly good for me. For I grow fat, fat, fatter. When the earth does fat, mat, mat, mat. Makes the poor things scat, scat, scatter."

He hunted game in the moonshine bright, With never a thought of harm. But he got quite a fright when there hoove in sight.

And he said the sights were grand, And he said he was a great hunter. As we well can understand. For the game is here in thousands. And it's here, we'd have him stay. Just to see giraffes and rhinos.

Near the Hall in B. E. A. (With apologies to Kipling.) At the port of Kilmind, Looking eastward 'cross the main, We welcomed Teddy Roosevelt, As we were to do again.

Near the Hall in B. E. A. We heard of hand fed hinds, And of rhinos on the plain. How he bravely faced all dangers, And how he was a great hunter.

Still, he went in news one Tuesday, Over all the world today. It is nice to be polite; But the New York papers had it. On the previous Sunday night.

Oh! It really was a treat, And one finds it to his cost. If he tries to balk the press men He is very often lost.

HOW WILEY PAYNE ENDED COWBOY RAID

Punchers in Fight With Railroaders Who Put Out Lights and Threw Billiard Cues

Leader, Waving Gun and Shouting defiance, Given a Sermon by Payne Which Turned Party Back.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—A prominent politician of today, who was a cowboy in Southern Kansas along in the early eighties, recalled a story the other night concerning Wiley Payne, "Tray" Payne, he said, "was killed, I think, in 1884, at Medicine Lodge. An attempt was made to stop there either going or coming from their drives. One night a lot of cowboys were in a Harper saloon, they got into a fight with the railroaders, and the punchers got the worst of the deal. The cowboys would have won in the fight, but there were more of them and they were all hand with their guns, but the railroaders put out the lights at a certain signal, did some execution and have with billiard cues and made their escape through a back door set about which the cowboys did not know.

"Naturally the punchers were sore and they thought that the next time they came to Harper they would avenge the insult—at least they thought it an insult, so in due time a big gang of the punchers were back at Harper. They had with them a cook, who went by the name of 'Babe,' who was something like that. This cook's home was in Harper and his folks lived in the town. He suspected, when the punchers camped just outside of Harper and seemed to be connecting some sort of deal, that they were planning a raid on the town. At the first opportunity he came into Harper and apprised some of the people of his suspicions.

"The town promptly went to work to organize itself for the fray. They took the cowboys and their pickled brains for being quick and easy with the trigger. Every shooting iron in town was presented in the night. The hardware stores gave up their stock within an hour, and men were looked along the aged eight years, and the number of the graduating class had to be ascertained at a minimum.

"Not so long ago an officer in command of some four or five war ships for cruising purposes found it necessary to take a temporary shelter in the Thames instead of doing what any other man would have done, he went to make for the naval port of Chatham.

"He thought himself of the port of London as being as open to him as anyone else with ships of his size, and so to the destination of the authorities, this handful of warships appeared off the port of London and sheltered themselves in the Thames. The authorities saw at a glance that the port of London could be as useful for a fleet of warships as any other port, and they were not far from right.

"It was a great season for Northampton dressmakers. Every dressmaking establishment in the city was literally stacked to the ceiling with college work, and the sewing girls worked day and night without sleep; one girl worked twenty-six hours on a stretch.

SMITH GIRLS SPENT $50,000 ON DRESSES

Upheld the Reputation of Their Institute as "Best Dressed" College for Women.

President Said He Hoped It Will be the Last Show of the Kind at Northampton.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 7.—Smith College has won the reputation of being one of the best dressed American colleges for women, and this was maintained by the gorgeous display of baccalaureate Sunday, when the display of gowns and hats was the richest in the history of the college.

At a luncheon on the campus one of the matrons expressed the opinion that the girls had come to the turn of the road, and that never again will Smith hold so glorious a show. Said one of the matrons:

"The extent to which the girls carried their love for fine clothes this commencement has done more to uphold the reputation of the college than any other thing that has ever happened here. For years the college has been opposed to the wearing of gowns, and I found that it saved too much of the ecclesiastical. Now it seems to be a case of the cap and gown or an old dress parade unequalled by that of any other woman's college in the country.

"Some time ago the college choir adopted the gown, and nothing terrible occurred to indicate that divine vengeance was to be visited on the institution. In about the same way the cap and gown for candidates for the baccalaureate degree will come in."

An estimate of what the Smith senior class spent this year for gowns, dresses and hats was sought from a statement made by one of them at the luncheon. It was estimated that the fact that some of the members of the graduating class had to be ascertained at a minimum.

"Not so long ago an officer in command of some four or five war ships for cruising purposes found it necessary to take a temporary shelter in the Thames instead of doing what any other man would have done, he went to make for the naval port of Chatham.

HUMAN SACRIFICE STOPPED BY POLICE

Priest Was in the Act of Stabbing Boy on Altar.

Seen in Russia Worshipped Wooden Idols and Had Slain Many of Its Members.

LONDON, July 6.—For months past Russia, have been endeavoring to trace a number of persons who had disappeared, mostly young men and girls. At length they received information that led them to connect the disappearance with a religious sect, the Krausobonist, the members of which met in secret places.

The police broke into one of their gatherings. The people were found to be worshipping idols rudely carved in wood. On a sort of altar a boy was lying bound hand and foot, while over him stood a priest chanting in a strange tongue and brandishing a long knife. There could be little doubt that a human sacrifice was about to take place, so the police promptly arrested all those present.

On a search being made in a cave hidden by the rocks an underground cavern was discovered, from which the police exhumed several bodies which were subsequently identified as those of persons for whom they had been seeking. It is stated that the victims had all gone voluntarily to their deaths in a spirit of fanaticism, and were preferred against all the members of the sect who have been arrested.

He thought himself of the port of London as being as open to him as anyone else with ships of his size, and so to the destination of the authorities, this handful of warships appeared off the port of London and sheltered themselves in the Thames. The authorities saw at a glance that the port of London could be as useful for a fleet of warships as any other port, and they were not far from right.

FAILED TO GET JOB AFTER ALL

Dr. Lafleur Says He Put Up Money

MONTRÉAL, July 6.—Before the commission today Dr. Lafleur under oath stated that two years ago he attempted to get the position of stationer for the city. He had seen the position had been told to go and see Ald. J. H. Nault. He asked for the position, but the witness did not seem to go ahead very quickly. The witness said that he must do more than merely ask for the position. He therefore offered the alderman $100, but was told this was not enough. He therefore came up to the position was his if he would come the next morning and place the $100 in a certain small drawer which the alderman indicated. He had done as he was told. He did not get the position and had asked for the return of the money. Alderman Nault told him to take his money back in the same way as he had given it.

"At the end of his testimony the witness said: 'I swear solemnly that all this is true, and I defy anybody to come into this box and swear to the contrary.'

"Alderman Nault was then called and swore that he knew nothing of the affair in any way. 'Do you swear that what Dr. Lafleur said is not true?' 'I do not remember the affair.'

LIGHTNING HITS SUSSEX HOUSE

SUSSEX, July 6.—Sussex was visited by a violent electrical storm, accompanied by sleet and rain, this afternoon about 4 o'clock, which lasted for over an hour. Trees were shattered, telegraph and electric light poles struck and many wires are down, which have disabled the service around Upper Corner. No fatalities are reported, but the house of Q. McMonagle was struck, the ball passing down the walls, upturning mail and chairs and leaving the walls in a charred and blackened condition, although no blaze broke out.

Three juvenile offenders were brought before Magistrate Hornbrook yesterday for trespassing and stealing strawberries. The youthful prisoners were allowed their freedom upon promising to behave and after receiving some beneficial advice from the bench.

TRAMP KILLS FOUR

Wipes Out Entire South Dakota Family—Farmer, His Wife, Daughter and Hired Man Shot by Stranger.

ABERDEEN, S. D., July 6.—J. W. Christie, a farmer living near Rudolph, his wife, his daughter, and a farmhand, were murdered today by a tramp whose name is not known yet. It was supposed that the murders were a result of an attempt to get a large sum of money supposed to have been in the Christie home.

The murders were discovered when a young man who was murdered, went to the Christie home to visit his son, Mr. Christie, who was a grain buyer and one of the most prosperous farmers in the northwest, was milking a cow in his barnyard when the unknown person or persons shot him dead.

The murderers hurried to the house, and finding Mr. Christie and his daughter and the Romaine boy, who was visiting at the house, they began firing upon them. The first shot took effect, and the two women and the boy fell dead. It is supposed the man who committed the crime was acquainted to some extent with the Christie family, for few people knew that Christie kept large sums of money in his house. It is believed he had several thousand dollars in his house at the time of the murder.

Emil Victor was arrested the same evening in Northville, twenty miles from the scene of the murder, and brought to Aberdeen. Victor worked in Rudolph up to a week ago, when he had published an Aberdeen newspaper that he was about to take a trip to visit his father, proprietor of a large department store in Buffalo. He is said to have had on his person some small articles partly identified as belonging to the Christie family.

A SILVER MATOR.

ST. STEPHEN, July 6.—The following sad message was received here this morning by Alvin Christie, Oak Hill: "J. W. Christie, wife and daughter were murdered at Rudolph yesterday. Can hold funeral until Thursday. If coming notify all in the east."

Mr. Christie was about fifty-six years of age and was formerly of Oak Hill, about twelve miles from here, and went west about twenty years ago, where he had become a prosperous farmer and grain buyer. He lived near Aberdeen, South Dakota, and at certain seasons of the year handled large sums of money, as it was not convenient to pay by check. The robbers, who evidently knew that he was accustomed to carry large sums in his pockets, concluded that he was then in possession of a large amount. Your correspondent, in conversation with his brother, Alvin Christie, today, was informed that as this was a quiet time of the year in buying grain his brother would not have a large sum of money in his home.

Later information states that Mr. Christie was shot while milking his cow near the barn, and that then the robbers went to the house where Mrs. Christie, daughter Mildred, aged eleven years, and a young man, Michael Eversmann, were and shot them to death. Mr. Christie leaves two brothers, Alvin at Oak Hill, Melvin in Callerton, and his son Samuel Milberry of Oak Hill. Chester Christie, son of Alvin Christie, who lives in Wisconsin, has gone the scene of the murder and will bring the bodies here if possible.

TOO MUCH.

WARSHIPS OFF LONDON

Possibility of Fleets Visit Due to an Accident.

LONDON, July 6.—Everyone is looking forward to the arrival of the fleet in the port of London this month and everywhere the brilliance of the idea of bringing this huge naval force before the eyes of Londoners is admitted, and yet the general scheme might be described as accidental.

Not so long ago an officer in command of some four or five war ships for cruising purposes found it necessary to take a temporary shelter in the Thames instead of doing what any other man would have done, he went to make for the naval port of Chatham.

"He thought himself of the port of London as being as open to him as anyone else with ships of his size, and so to the destination of the authorities, this handful of warships appeared off the port of London and sheltered themselves in the Thames. The authorities saw at a glance that the port of London could be as useful for a fleet of warships as any other port, and they were not far from right.

LACKED A NICKEL.

Trancon Man Lost His Barn in Consequence.

TRENTON, N. J., July 6.—The lack of a nickel to drop into a telephone booth and the absence of an exchange girl cost Oscar F. Nield, $1,000 when his barn was destroyed by fire.

Nield's barn caught fire about 10 o'clock and he hastened to a telephone booth in the neighborhood to summon the fire engine. On his way to drop a nickel into the slot he discovered he had none.

He took the slot as a case of life and death, but he insisted that fire headquarters could not be called up without the proper charge being paid. Nield begged, pleaded, threatened and tore his hair in vain.

He finally refused to notify the fire department and in despair he fled to another place, finally sending in the alarm. It was too late, however, for when the fire engine reached the place the barn and its contents were in ashes.

VANCOUVER EVENT OF LOCAL INTEREST

The many friends of Henry Hamilton Godard, formerly of this city, will be pleased to learn of his participation in an interesting event in Vancouver, B. C., on June 23rd, when he was united in marriage to Miss Annie Louise Noble, the daughter of Archibald Noble of Vancouver, B. C., and Mrs. Noble will reside in Brandon, Man.

Mr. Godard was well known in local military circles and went west a few years ago.

DECLINES A TITLE.

Author of Peter-Pan Not Honor-Hungry—'I Don't Go in for That Sort of Thing,' Was His Reply.

LONDON, July 6.—J. M. Barrie's modest shrines from personal publicity are such well known traits of his character that it will hardly surprise his friends to learn that he has refused a title.

When the recently announced royal birthday honors were being arranged, the author of "Peter Pan," was set down for a knighthood. Barrie, who is a friend of Kipling's, might apply have quoted the latter's taunt about the man "who wouldn't have them make a knight of me," but he merely declined the proffered honor politely, but firmly.

"I don't go in for that sort of thing," was the way in which he dismissed the matter.

There are unkind persons who say that the distinction that came to him and many other workers in the North Carolina pulp mill as a result of the nation's war effort was due to the fact that the author of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was slated for a knighthood at last year's royal birthday distribution, but the nomination did not go through.

MR. WALKER WEDS MISS VIOLET BUTLER

At the residence of Mrs. E. V. Burwell, Sussex Ave., Toronto, on Saturday evening, the marriage was celebrated by Rev. Mr. Dickson of her sister Violet, daughter of the late H. T. Butler, of Stratford, to Edward Blake Walker, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Paris, son of Dr. Thos. Walker of this city. Pains and poignancy docketed the drawing room and the wedding march were rendered by Miss Perth Butler.

The bride was given away by E. V. Burwell. She wore a beautiful princess robe of ivory duchesse satin all lace with bridal veil arranged over billow of roses and lilies. Her sister Beatrice, in white lingerie frock with white picture hat with plumes, was her only attendant, and F. Walker, of Calgary, supported his brother.

Miss Maud Butler sang "Calm Was the Night" and later Mr. and Mrs. Walker left for Niagara for their honeymoon. The bride's going away gown was of navy blue cloth with white lace.

"Dad, what sort of a bureau is a matrimonial bureau?" "Oh, any bureau that has five drawers full of women's fixings and one man's tie in it."

THE WAY TO HIS VOTE

Lord Beaconsfield's skill in picking up votes was well known. An illustration of it is given in a book by Henry W. Lacy.

At the time that the imperial title was pending there was a certain pompous little Irishman, Dr. O'Leary, who seemed manageable and was desirable. One evening in the lobby Diarrell laid a hand familiarly on his shoulder.

"Yes, Dr. O'Leary, the resemblance is most striking," he said. "I really thought I saw again my old friend Tom Moore."

"The rain little gentleman was captured,"

"NOTHING IS WRONG WITH EARLY," REPUTED LEPER, SAYS EXPERT

Attaches of New York Cancer Hospital Laugh at Fears—Walks to Institution.

NEW YORK, July 6.—John S. Early, the former soldier in the regular army who has been subjected to a lot of newspaper publicity since August last, simply because he remarked, "I wonder if I have leprosy," arrived in New York from Washington this morning, and is now in a ward at the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital. Seven patients suffering from skin troubles of various kinds are in the ward with him, and they are taking a lot of interest in the case.

Early was told by the conductor of the train just as he was nearing Jersey City that the railroad company had issued orders that under no conditions would he be permitted to disembark at the station. The train was stopped in the yards, and he and Captain Beavers, of the Salvation Army, and a friend from Washington (the three had been locked in the baggage car all night), climbed out and walked the ties. They went to the station just the same and bought ferry tickets to Twenty-third street. Then they walked to the hospital.

BIG DAY FOR EARLY.

"This is a big day for me after my long confinement," said Early to the reporters. "I'm getting used to it. I'd rather not talk about my case for the papers."

Miss Burns, superintendent of the hospital, when asked who was treating Early and the nature of his disease, said:

"There is no one treating him, because there is absolutely nothing wrong with him. He's as healthy as you or I."

Early practically has free run of the hospital in which his ward is located. None of the men patients in his ward are worried about the new arrival. Neither are the nurses nor other hospital attendants.

What Early's future plans are could not be learned. He may take up work here as carried on a grocery business here for many years and was upright in all his dealings. He was a member of Mount Zion and was buried under its auspices Thursday afternoon. His burial will be the first official duty of Rev. S. B. Howard, who assumes the pastorate of the Methodist church that day. He is survived by a widow and one daughter, about eight years of age.

Church of England Sunday school convention for the deaneries of St. Andrew, Frederickton and Woodstock opened in Christ church this morning with a good attendance of Sunday school workers. Holy Communion was celebrated this forenoon and at the afternoon session interesting papers were read and discussed. A public meeting this evening will be addressed by Rev. G. A. Kurling and Rev. D. S. Converse.

REPORT OF THE CASE.

Dr. Bullock's report of the case, issued in May, runs as follows:

"Early was stripped and an examination was made over all parts of the body with a lens. Also the mouth and nose were searched for any possible evidence of leprosy, sections of the skin were also taken from the legs and also from the left side of the forehead, directly adjoining the scar made by the former incision by the health department."

The report then goes on to tell of Early's history of the nine years he was in the regular army and of his creation of the "Peter Pan" and many other workers in the North Carolina pulp mill as a result of the nation's war effort was due to the fact that the author of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was slated for a knighthood at last year's royal birthday distribution, but the nomination did not go through.

INJURIES MAY PROVE FATAL

Young Man From Bathurst Falls From a Train

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 6.—A committee of the Provincial Board of Health, consisting of Judges Barry, Dr. Steves and Secretary Dr. Fisher, met with the local government this evening. For some time past the administration have felt that the expenses in connection with smallpox in this province have been excessive and the Board of Health has come to the same opinion. The meeting this evening was for the purpose of drawing up and fixing regulations for the purpose of curtailing the expenses. Satisfactory progress was made and there is no doubt but that the resulting budget will result in a benefit to all parties.

A young man named David of Bathurst, fell off the train at McCreary's siding today and sustained serious injuries which may prove fatal. His left arm was almost severed and a foot badly mangled. He was brought here and taken to Victoria Hospital. His condition this evening is considered critical.

Tomorrow afternoon at St. Peter's Church, Kingsclay, the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Shawen, will unite in marriage Geo. B. Howie, son of James R. Howie, of this city, and Miss Stuart, daughter of W. F. Howie, of Kingsclay. Miss Alice Pickup of Annapolis will be bridesmaid, while Mr. Guy Whitehead will support the groom. The contracting parties are very popular here.

GEORGE F. HANNAH HAS PASSED AWAY

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., July 6.—George F. Hannah, whose illness was recorded in today's Star, passed away this morning on King street this afternoon, after a brief illness with diabetes. He has carried on a grocery business here for many years and was upright in all his dealings. He was a member of Mount Zion and was buried under its auspices Thursday afternoon. His burial will be the first official duty of Rev. S. B. Howard, who assumes the pastorate of the Methodist church that day. He is survived by a widow and one daughter, about eight years of age.

BORDER CELESTIALS TO BE READMITTED

OTTAWA, July 6.—The trade and commerce department has issued an order to immigrants at St. Stephen, N. B., to readmit into Canada the two Chinamen, Hung Tom and Chung Lon. The Chinamen went for a ride on the belt rail way last week, and at the point where it crosses the border they were arrested by United States officials and lodged at Vermont Jail, the Canadian officials refusing to take them back unless they paid the poll tax.

EAGER FOR ROOSTERS WITHOUT THE "CROW"

Residents of Washington Striving to Solve the Problem of Keeping Them Quiet.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—Why can't a rooster be improved, civilized and educated out of the crowing habit? That's what residents of Washington are trying to learn. They get very tired of hearing the crowing of the rooster every year. The Commissioners of the District are conducting their annual inquiry to decide under what conditions folk in the national capital may keep chickens.

The population is divided into two classes—those who keep chickens and brag about their fresh eggs and real spring frites, and those who protest against being awakened at unholly hours by the crowing.

The Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade have submitted solemn recommendations to the Commissioners suggesting the conditions which should be prescribed precedent to the keeping of chickens. Scores of persons write to the Commissioners daily suggesting how to manage the thing. It is stated that more persons have written letters about the roosters than have manifested any interest in the tariff since the debate began. For the rooster is largely a local issue, local to the neighborhood which he awakens at three o'clock in the morning.

T. E. McCordell, of No. 602 H street, Northwest, writes that he decapitated his rooster because it bothered a nervous neighbor. Now that chloroform is gone other neighbors are coming around assuring Mr. McCordell that it's a shame they had learned to do that rooster, and his crowing always soothed them into a fine, refreshing late morning nap. One woman insisted that he get a new rooster, because her son, who was ill with a nervous complaint, seemed to sleep better when the rooster worked regularly.

David J. E. Wilson writes that if folk would be a bit more crowing at a reasonable season, and another correspondent suggests a fine one in the morning for riders by implying that if they would try to get before dawn before other people's chickens getting up on time.

The suggestion has been put out that the Department of Agriculture set its experts at work breeding a de-crowing rooster that will have no crowing in its nature. This has met a respectful consideration, but the authorities declare that a rooster that doesn't crow is not the real thing, anyhow, and that the scheme won't work.

CLEVER GANG ROUNDED UP IN MONTREAL TODAY

Made a Business of Faking Accidents and Collecting Damages From Transportation Companies.

MONTREAL, July 7.—Three men were arrested today by the police in the act of swindling the big corporations by means of false accidents. The method was to fall off the sidewalk or slip on the sidewalk and get injured slightly. A claim for damages was nearly always settled by the big corporations and the money was pocketed by the swindlers. The three men were arrested on March 17 a man was so badly hurt that he was not able to come to court and the case was settled out of court by the C. P. R. On the 19th he appeared as a witness for another man who had been hurt in the accident at the Windsor Station. The C. P. R. detectives have been watching them since and the other day arrested Nathan Aloff, Max Catsoff, and Ophie Shykowsky. It is said that the leader and brains of the gang was Catsoff, the pedlar.

SPORT

HENLEY, July 7.—The semi-final for the Grand Challenge Cup were rowed at Henley this afternoon and the Club Naticque de Gand, of Belgium, and the Jesus College crew of Cambridge were left to contest in the final tomorrow. The Belgian rowers won their heat against Magdalen College, Oxford, in the first heat of seven minutes, twelve seconds, seven seconds faster than the time of the heat in which Jesus College beat Leander. The Belgians are by almost two minutes for the final.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Al Kaufman was substituted for Stanley Ketchell as an opponent for Jack Johnson in the bout proposed by Jim Coffroth for the coming fall. Coffroth is not pleased with Ketchell's showing against Papke, as he thinks the Michigan man should have shown his supremacy more strongly.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Miss May Sutton, of Pasadena, the champion tennis player of the world, will marry Harry B. Hall, a banker and capitalist, of Mexico City, according to an announcement made here yesterday. The date for the wedding has not been set.

RENO, Nev., July 7.—Edward Weston arrived in Reno at 2:35 this morning, going immediately to bed. Weston has not decided whether he will leave Reno at 10 a. m. or later in the afternoon. He says he is not weary but counts on a reaction. The pedestrian will cross the Sierras through a pass selected for him by the Southern Pacific, thus cutting out the snow sheds which he has dreaded.

YOUNG MARRIED COUPLE ON WAY TO ST. JOHN; FATHER IN HOT PURSUIT

Groom Aged 19, and Bride Is Under 17; Formerly Lived Here—Girl's Father Wants Own Plans Carried Out.

BOSTON, July 7.—Luzee Coustais, a nineteen year old young man, and Miss Ida Thebodeau, a pretty maid not yet seventeen, who, according to the girl's father, Joseph Thebodeau, have eloped to St. John, where they formerly lived, are due to find that the course of true love is anything but smooth. The stern father is thoroughly aroused over the affair, not so much because he does not like his new son-in-law, but because the couple ignored his elaborate wedding preparations. The father had given the bride a check for $100,000 and had begun preparations for a ceremony. The wedding invitations were being prepared and everything was going along to the complete satisfaction of Thebodeau. Senior when came the word that the young couple had taken matter into their own hands and were on their way for a honeymoon in New Brunswick. This was more than any indignant parent could stand, says Mr. Thebodeau, and in a few hours he will be speeding after the runaways and he hopes for assistance from the police of Pittsburgh, Mass., where all the parties concerned live now. He has requested the aid of the ground that the boy and girl were both under age. The police, however, have not given any encouragement as they can't see how they have any authority to do anything in the matter. Thebodeau, Senior, says all he wants is to bring them back to Pittsburgh and see that they are married according to his wishes and due ceremony. Nothing else, he declares, can appease his wrath.

WANT MINISTER OF LABOR TO INTERVENE

Sydney Members Wire W. L. McKenzie King Asking Him to Come and Settle Coal Strike.

GLACE BAY, N. S., July 7.—Messrs. G. N. Gillis, M. P. P., and Dr. A. S. Kendall, M. P. P., have forwarded a telegram to W. L. McKenzie King, minister of labor, Ottawa, asking him to come to Glace Bay and settle the coal strike. The conditions are being explained fully and though little hope is entertained that his efforts will be successful in reaching a settlement, still some good may be accomplished by the minister's intervention before the situation becomes any more serious than it is at present.

DIGBY FAMILY INJURED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

They have since been removed to hospital and are completely unconscious and it is thought they will recover.

URGENT PLEA MADE FOR MORE HYGIENIC SCHOOLS

DENVER, Colo., July 6.—No teacher with round shoulders and a hacking cough should be permitted in the schools. This is the plea of the city health officer. The city is responsible for lower mortality and a weakened body in an increasing number of school children. HUNDREDS OF PASSENGERS HELD UP BY LANDSLIDE

Three through trains are held at Canon City carrying 1,000 passengers including delegates to the Ellis convention at Los Angeles and the Epworth League convention at Seattle.

RIOT ACT READ; LIVELY TIMES AT GLACE BAY

SYDNEY, N. S., July 7.—Things are going here about steady and the strike took its first violent turn this morning at No. 2 and 3. Roughness was commenced at No. 2 at 6 o'clock just as soon as the first man appeared for work. An enormous crowd had assembled at the colliery composed of strikers, women, and children, waiting for the men who were expected to go to work. All were armed with sticks, stones and eggs and when the first man appeared they bore down on him, surrounded him and the riot broke out. A posse of police charged the crowd to open up a way for the workmen to escape. Eight men were placed under arrest charged with a breach of the peace and were immediately taken to the police court where they were first fed and then tried before Stipendiary Magistrate.

Conditions were even more serious at No. 3 where at the time of writing the strikers are still in charge. The strikers, assisted by women and children, attacked the men who reported for work and by force prevented all but a few men from entering the mine. A number of heads were cracked.

112 UNSOLVED MURDERS IN THREE AND ONE-HALF YEARS

Appalling Record of Inefficiency of the New York Police Department to Cope With Crime in the American Metropolis

NEW YORK, July 6.—The New York World says: It now looks as if the police are willing to admit that killing of Elsie Steel, granddaughter of Gen. Franz Sigel, whose body was found in a trunk in the rooms occupied by the Americanized Chinaman, William Leung, over a chop suey restaurant at No. 78 Eighth avenue, on the night of June 18, will be added to the long list of unsolved and unpunished murders that terrify readers of the criminal annals of this city.

The murder of Samuel Bernin, the east side painter, whose dismembered body was found wrapped in separate packages at the corner of Oliver and Henry streets on June 2 last, will be added by the arrest of the slayer, although the Detective Bureau is trying to ferret out some leading clue to Bernin's murderer.

Records of the coroners' offices in Manhattan and the Bronx show that since Jan. 1, 1906, there have been more than 112 murders committed in these two boroughs in which the perpetrators have not been brought to justice, and in any of which there has not even been an arrest.

Men have been arrested "on suspicion" in many of these cases, but were discharged at once, the police having no evidence against them.

Bench warrants for twenty persons, indicted for murder in the first degree in that time remain unexecuted in the Courts of General Sessions because of the failure of the police to apprehend those indicted. Although the police of nearly every city throughout the civilized world have searched for many of these indicted men they appear to have disappeared off the face of the earth.

At some seasons of the year the St. John Lumber Co. occupies exclusively the stretch between the piers and the American shore. Other people also use the stretch, their logs being unavoidably diverted to it by the company's boom.

The witness explained further the arrangement of their booms that are stretched between the piers and said that for the last several years the booms were kept in place until the river froze over. Under these conditions no boat could enter this stretch of the river except by crossing the booms since 1905 if logs were lying there boats would have to cross them as well, which the witness maintained could be done if they had to. They could drag or lug the bateaux over the booms for almost any distance, but they could not lift it navigation. They did not do it unless they had to.

This year for nearly a month there were too many logs there to make it easy to bring boats across. The same would apply to other recent years. At present there is nothing there but the logs of other operators.

His company also maintained a boom with piers at the upper end of J. S. Sayer's stretch to a distance of about twelve or fifteen hundred feet or to within about three-quarters of a mile of the lower end of the stretch.

They also maintain a boom and row of piers up from the head of the stretch to a distance of about 150 feet, but these are not connected with the J. S. Sayer's stretch. It is carried on in John's boom to a distance of about 100 feet and the Canadian shore.

August, 1905, he found the depth of the stretch is about 80 feet wide, the Crook Island. Exclusive of the island there is about the volume of water between the piers and the U. S. side as there is between the piers and the Canadian side. They try to occupy this stretch to the exclusion of anyone else.

Between the Reid Island and the U. S. shore there is about 80 feet wide, also occupied by them exclusively. The company has since 1904 maintained a boom and row of piers in their stretch north. Previous to 1904 they did not sort the logs. Witness said that last year he had about 100,000 feet of logs in his stretch. He did not remember getting a letter from the St. John Lumber Company on the subject. They did use the gaps last year and other years.

Witness did not recall receiving a letter from the St. John Lumber Company, complaining of the absence of these logs, but he had received many letters from that source.

The St. John Lumber Company had constructed a pier on the Canadian side of Crook Island about 110 feet from the Canadian shore and about 60 feet from the island shore. The pier was about 18 by 30 feet in dimension. It extended above the water about three feet at medium pitch. The pier was erected in order to attach a boom to it.

Mr. Gregory—Did you acquire any rights for this purpose? Answer—We did not need any. Mr. Gregory—I guess there were a good many things you did not think it necessary to ask permission before doing them.

Witness—We asked permission of our own government. Our charter gives us the right to erect piers and that was all we wanted.

Mr. Gregory—We will see about that later. Witness continuing said that their legislature authorized the erection of piers in 1903 and this pier was built in 1904. They had never attached a boom to it. That was the only pier they had erected on the Canadian side of Crook Island or Reid Island. They did construct a row of piers on the Canadian side of the Jos. Sayer Island. They drove piers from the foot of Reid Island to the American side below the pier for the purpose of helping to support the booms.

There is also a row of piling stretching across the river above the pier and a distance of 80 feet, the pier being 100 feet apart.

Witness said the construction of a boom about three and a half feet or above the usual level of the water. It was about 260 feet long and when they got as far as the deepest water they got a rise in the water which gave them sufficient volume and weight for its completion unnecessary. Their structure has since been carried away by the ice and no trace of it remains.

Witness said they asked for an authorization before beginning this work. When asked if they had any intention of building another dam Mr. Brown only laughed.

Witness knew a Mr. Alexis Dagle who was frequently at his mill looking after the sorting of the Madawaska Log Driving Company's logs. Dagle did not remember Mr. Dagle selling him to have gaps cut in the river to allow the downriver logs to escape. Dagle did not know why he should because the gaps were there already.

The logs of other operators frequently got into the holding booms. They released them when they could, but at certain times they went into his booms to escape could not be worked on account of the lack of water. It was to get water for this that they started to build the dam.

In some instances men who they should have turned out these logs made mistakes and they went into his booms in 1907 was the only year when the gaps could not be operated continuously.

A record is kept in the mill of the logs of other companies which are manufactured by them.

Mr. Gregory—These logs are in your boom by reason of the mistakes of your men at the sorting gaps.

Answer—Yes. Mr. Gregory—And they have come into your sorting gaps by reason of all the logs in the river having been diverted into your sorting gaps by your booms?

Witness—Yes. When Mr. Gregory asked what record was kept of these logs of other owners that went through their mill Mr. Follows objected to his mill. It did not come within the scope of the commission's authority.

He maintained that the river was for the use of both Americans and Canadians both at Van Buren and Fredericton or any other part of the river. He did not think that either the Province of New Brunswick or the State of Maine could affect the rights of the users of the river under the treaty of 1842. The river was free and open to the use of all parties and such a matter as arrangements between party and party respecting mistakes in handling logs would open up an endless inquiry touching every mill on the river.

Mr. Gregory maintained that the objection was not well taken. Mr. Follows has called a witness at Van Buren to tell of the division of prize logs made and if this was relevant then the action of a company in manufacturing the logs of other companies was also within their scope.

"Suppose," he said, "that instead of a few logs the whole drive was stopped and saved, would it not become an international question?"

Mr. Barnhill asked if Mr. Follows would insist on his objection if it were shown that the logs were diverted as a necessary result of the way the business was conducted.

Mr. Follows said he had no objection to this, but he understood that Mr. Gregory wished to go into the details of the company's accounts and he did not think that the time of the commission should be taken up with such matters.

As it was then one o'clock the commission adjourned for lunch, after which the decision on the disputed point will be given. They resumed at 2:30 when the examination of Mr. Brown was continued.

Below Crook Island a series of piers extend diagonally down the river towards the American shore a distance of about 3,000 feet. About the middle of the row of piers he estimated the distance to the Canadian shore to be about 600 feet, and to the American shore about 400 feet.
