BRINGING HOME THE SOLDIERS

United States Will Make Use of Many German and Austrian Vessels.

AND IN RETURN WILL FURNISH FOOD

Arrangements Made to Transport Three Hundred Thousand a Month if Necessary.

MEANWHILE SHIPBUILDING WILL CONTINUE

One Million Tons Will be Produced in November and December, and Half Million a Month Thereafter.

New York, Nov. 15.—The government intends to return to this country as rapidly as possible the American Expeditionary Forces, Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, announced here tonight on the eve of his departure for Europe to arrange the details of their transportation.

To offset the loss of transport tonnage through the withdrawal of British ships hitherto engaged in carrying American soldiers overseas, Mr. Hurley hopes to utilize 25 or 30 German and Austrian liners with accommodations for 4,000 men each. In compensation for the "loan" of these vessels, he said, food would be sent to the people of Central Europe on their return voyages.

Mr. Hurley said the shipping board would be able to bring troops back at the rate of 500,000 a month. "If the war department wants them returned as fast as that."

He would meet General Feilding at the American Field Headquarters, he added, to discuss the details of their home-coming.

While he will go abroad with Herbert Hoover, Federal Food Administrator to cooperate in arrangements for the shipment and distribution of foodstuffs to relations with the Allies, said Mr. Hurley, together with the trend of European events in general, would depend on the number of troops to be brought to this country within the next few months and how he was preparing, he stated, to transport large contingents.

Mr. Hurley said the present plans call for his return with Mr. Hoover before Christmas.

Commenting on the government's plan to continue the shipbuilding program to help make up the world's deficit of 20,000,000 tons brought about through the ravages of war, Mr. Hurley said American yards will produce 150 vessels of 1,000,000 tons aggregate during November and December. Another 450,000 tons of cargo, he said, would be released, he added, by completion of

FORCING GERMANY TO PAY BACK ONLY WHAT SHE STOLE

Demand for Return of Railroad Equipment Made by the Allies is Merely a Matter of Justice—Lansing Tells Self to Send His Begging Letters to Someone Else.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—(By wireless to London, by the Associated Press.)—The new German government has sent a message to President Wilson appealing to him "in order to save the German people from perishing by starvation and anarchy," to send plenipotentiaries as quickly as possible to The Hague or some other city.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Secretary of State Lansing announced today that he had acknowledged receipt of the message of Dr. Solf asking for a hastening of the peace convention in view of threatened famine in Germany and Northern France, "who have been starved and robbed of all they possessed by the German armies of occupation."

New York, Nov. 15.—In answer to German claims that surrender of 5,000 locomotives and 150,000 railroad cars, as demanded by the Allies, would bring famine upon the country, Stephen Lansing, head of the Official Bureau of French Information, declared here today that Marshal Foch has imposed upon the enemy merely a restitution of rolling stock, which the armies of invasion seized in Belg-

King Has Message For the Empire

London, Nov. 15.—Right Hon. Bonar Law stated in the House of Commons today that His Majesty had intended that he wished to send a message to the Empire by addressing both houses of parliament and the official representatives of the dominions and India in England. It had been decided that the best way of doing this would be that both houses of parliament should present an address to His Majesty. The address would be moved in both houses on November 18, and on November 19 both houses would proceed to the Royal Gallery to receive His Majesty's reply.

WILLIAM STILL MAKES TROUBLE

Serious Differences of Opinion in Holland Due to His Presence in That Country.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Information reaching here from official sources indicates that the situation in Holland is causing grave apprehension and that the presence there of the former German Emperor with members of his family, and some of his strongest supporters may so inflame the people as to endanger the peace.

While it is true, it was pointed out, that the former Kaiser is not only a prisoner in all over the world, he is not the prisoner of his captors. It was suggested that the immediate fate of the ex-Kaiser is of little moment compared with other affairs in Europe, and it is chiefly because of the effect of his presence upon an already disturbed state in the Netherlands that he is the object of concern among Allied statesmen.

Polishmen apparently has taken issue in the presence of the former ruler of Germany in an excuse to precipitate an uprising against the Queen.

or before January 1 of voyages in the nitrate trade, which will be discontinued as a result of the cessation of munitions making on a large scale.

Mr. Hurley declared that his board hopes to return ships in the service of the war department and vessels in their own charter engaged in the government trade to the regular commercial channels within the year. The shipping board would continue, he asserted, its policy of American wages and would conduct a country-wide propaganda to attract men to the merchant marine.

"Having spent billions in building an American merchant marine," declared Mr. Hurley, "we propose to carry on the work we have begun. All we ask is that the manufacturers take advantage of their opportunity and provide the cargoes necessary to keep these vessels at sea."

He predicted that within five years 1,000,000 men will be engaged in operating the merchant fleet, including officers and seamen, shipyard workers and men and women in factories making marine equipment.

ADVISES FARMERS TO KEEP THEIR STOCK

Better Not be Influenced to Sell by Any Disturbances in the Market.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—Canadian farmers and livestock breeders are warned to avoid sacrificing good breeding stock during any temporary market disturbances consequent upon the restoration of peace, in a statement issued by the Livestock Branch of the Department of Agriculture tonight. It is pointed out that although the receipts at the Canadian Livestock Market, and also those of the United States during the past week have been exceptionally heavy, the prices of the better classes of cattle and hogs remain firm at last week's quotations.

GERMAN DESERTERS PLUNDERING TOWNS

Flying Division of Thieves Were Having a Great Time Until the Bullets Found Them.

London, Nov. 15.—German army deserters who formed a "flying division" at Bremen are plundering German towns, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. Thirty-six were arrested in Berlin and three of them were immediately shot. A score of the others were sentenced to death by a court-martial.

Some of the marauders were driven out of the Hanover Railway Station on Thursday.

A number of them were captured and will be shot.

He resigned his position as parliamentary under-secretary for the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment some days ago.

The German Navy Missed Its Chance

Paris, Nov. 15.—Admiral Sir Robyn Wemyss, who was appointed to notify the German envoys of the naval conditions of the armistice, is credited by Figaro with a phrase which admirably reflects the respective positions of the two fleets.

"It is inadmissible," the Germans protested, "that our fleet should be given up without having been beaten."

Facing the envoys with his monologue, Admiral Wemyss retorted: "It had only to come out."

WILL NOT BUY RAILS FOR FUN

D. B. Hanna of the C. N. R. Says Only Necessary Purchases Will be Made.

Not Ordering Just to Keep the Steel Mills Busy, He Declares.

N. W. Rowell, However, Anticipates That Roads Which Have Been Going Short Will Now Stock up.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The Board of Directors of the Canadian Northern Railway held an all-day meeting at the head offices of the company in Toronto today, when the question of securing much-needed equipment and rolling stock was considered. Mr. D. B. Hanna, president of the board, said at the close of the meeting, that he had no statement to make. It is understood, however, that the government road will have some large orders to place in the near future.

"We are not going to order any steel rails and rolling stock merely for the sake of keeping the steel industry and factories busy," said Mr. Hanna. "Nothing will be purchased unless it is absolutely necessary for the benefit of the road."

Hon. N. W. Rowell, in a recent speech, stated that it had been impossible for the railways to procure the steel rails needed because the steel was being used in the making of munitions, but it was expected that all the transportation companies would now anticipate their needs for the future and place their orders with the manufacturers, so that they could at once engage in productive work.

STOREHOUSE WAS BURNED IN CHATHAM

Involved Destruction of Thousands of Dollars Worth of Fishing Nets—Not Known How it Started.

Special to The Standard. Chatham, Nov. 15.—About 6.30 this evening fire broke out in a building at the rear of W. S. Loggie's residence and before the flames could be extinguished the roof and second story were destroyed. The building was used as storehouse for smelt nets, oafs, hay and sleighs, etc. Workmen were engaged during the day mending nets. Besides being a place to store nets belonging to the W. S. Loggie Co., several persons had nets there for repair. It is believed that all of these have been destroyed, and if the loss will be in the thousands Mr. Loggie could give no idea of the actual loss. The building is partially covered. A large quantity of oafs in bags just stored today was safely removed.

CASUALTIES NEARLY ALL REPORTED

Only About Five Hundred More Names Are to be Received from England.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—With the advent of peace it will relieve the suspense of many people in Canada to know that the casualty list, of ten weeks behind, are tapering off to the end. There are numerous tragic cases where, since the celebration of peace, news has come of men previously killed in action. "We are not exactly certain, but our advice indicate that about five hundred more are to be called," said the acting director.

WERE ON VERGE OF DISASTER

Three Days Longer Delay and Germany's Army Would Have Been Finished.

ARMISTICE WAS SIGNED IN NICK OF TIME

More Than a Million Men Were Trying to Get Through An Eight Mile Gap.

EVERYTHING WAS IN CONFUSION

Congestion so Great That Time Limit Granted by Allies May Not Be Sufficient to Clean up.

(By Arthur S. Draper.) Special cable to The N. Y. Tribune and St. John Standard.

London, Nov. 15.—The military authorities now publicly reveal how near disaster the German army was when the armistice was signed. It was estimated that only three days separated the enemy from complete collapse. Foch had prepared another great attack east of the Meuse which would have been the coup de grace. Even without this after three more days of fighting the German army would have broken in two.

The Franco-British wedge of the last days made such progress that not only some seventy divisions of France Rupprecht's command were compelled to retreat but sixty odd divisions of the German Crown Prince had also to plunge through the same gap measuring about eight miles between Holland and the Allied line north of Rethel. The quick removal of even one of these armies through this gap was an impossible task. The confusion was so great behind the German lines that the enemy armies delegation pleaded to be allowed time to remove some of the congestion before beginning evacuation.

Despite the five days allowed the German communications the great middle in withdrawal may still cause the Allies trouble. Revolutionary councils have been instituted in the German army and some elements even talk of further resistance.

In view that either side may terminate the armistice in 48 hours, the Allied demobilization cannot begin for some time. The German retreat was being carried out by the defeated demoralized troops at the same time as the revolution in their country and if discipline cracks it is difficult to tell what may happen. Foch has at last been compelled to call the German high command's attention to the acts of violence against inhabitants and he has threatened with force if these acts do not cease within a very short period the Allied high command will be obliged to take steps to end them.

Full discipline is being maintained in the British army. Bonnet Law stated to the parliament, although the armistice has been signed the death penalty of the British army has not been abolished.

MEMORIAL TO EDITH CAVELL

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—A memorial monument to Edith Cavell and the Canadian nurses who were killed by the Germans in raids on Canadian hospitals, will be erected in Ottawa in Major Hill Park. The monument will be erected by public subscription and grants from the dominion. The monument is being executed by Hamilton McCarthy, R. C., the well known Canadian sculptor.

LLOYD GEORGE SEEMS TO HAVE THINGS FAIRLY WELL CINCHED

Holds the Support of Most Parties in the British House—His Policies on Questions of Live Interest Are Generally Endorsed—Everything in Shape for the Coming Elections.

By Arthur S. Draper. (Copyright 1918, N. Y. Tribune, Inc.) London, Nov. 14.—The stage is now fully set for the British general election the fourteenth of next month. Labor took the decision yesterday afternoon to fight with a lions hand when at the emergency labor conference it was resolved to leave coalition when the dissolution of parliament takes place. Even the Asquithian and the so-called "official" Liberals support Lloyd George for in the conciliatory speech to his party Wednesday night Aquith said there would be no obstacle to his followers supporting Lloyd George so long as coalition does not depart from Liberal principles.

The chief of these principles is the policy of free trade to which the Asquithians hold fast. Lloyd George has the full support of his own official Liberal party and most of the conservatives with whom George has reached a compromise on disputed questions. All of Lloyd George's inclinations are towards the left and the premier stated he would not consent to take office unless supported by the Liberal vote.

LAST DAY FOR THE FILING OF REPORTS

Employers of Labor Handed Statements to Workmen's Compensation Board Yesterday—What New Law Provides.

Yesterday was the expiry date for employers of labor to hand in their statements of wages, etc., to the Workmen's Compensation Board, and the office in the Pugsley building proved a busy place.

This workmen's compensation act is somewhat new to the people of New Brunswick, although every other province in Canada, excepting our own and Quebec, have been having the advantages of it for some time.

The filing of statements of wages now being made by all employers of labor in the province is the first step. As the act goes into operation on Jan. 1, 1919, officials have their work cut out to get books into shape before claims for compensation, etc., commence to come in.

The Workmen's Compensation Act is clothed in such technical and legal language that many citizens are yet not quite clear on its contents. It provides money compensation amounting to 55 per cent. of a man's or woman's wages during a period of idleness enforced by injury sustained while at work.

The lowest compensation paid will be $6 per week and the highest is based upon a maximum salary of $1,500.

For instance: No matter how low a wage a person may be earning they will at least get $6 weekly if hurt while on the job. On the other hand the board will not attempt to pay 55 per cent. of any salary higher than $1,500.

Employers of labor of all kinds are legally compelled to make a yearly statement of the wages they disburse, giving the monthly pay-roll and deducting all excesses over $1,500 salaries as above outlined.

Assessments upon employers range from one-half of one per cent. to as high as five per cent., according to the nature of the industry and the risk its employees entail.

ROUND THE WORLD FAIR ATTRACTIVE

About 1,500 Persons Visited St. Andrew's Rink Yesterday—Special Features on City Cornet's Forty-Fourth Anniversary.

The Fair in St. Andrew's Rink under the auspices of the City Cornet Band, and the members of the Navy League, is the genuine attraction in the city at present, as last evening's crowds showed.

About 1,500 persons were in attendance, all enjoying themselves immensely. Due to the special features of the program, apparently, many of the crowd apparently went away quite satisfied that the evening was well spent.

Addresses were delivered by His Worship the Mayor, F. A. Hesel, president of the organization, and by Jas. Connolly, the only surviving original member of the City Cornet Band.

Mr. Connolly, through the woes, vicissitudes and mingled joys of forty-four long years, remains a member of the band, ever since its organization, and was warmly applauded last evening by the crowds, many of whom have watched his career for the past number of years with extreme pleasure.

The Juvenile Band, associated with the City Cornet, under director F. J. Painter, rendered a special program of music which was warmly applauded. The program follows: "We Sailed the Ocean, Bowling Liner; Missouri; Ship Ahoy, Bays; and Paik Britannia.

Tonight is "Pike Night," and a special program has been prepared for the occasion which coupled with the additional games for this evening, should afford an extra attraction and serve to entertain the large crowds which nightly gather at the rink.

Mildred Viola Bell, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bell, 60 Wentworth street, have the sympathy of their hosts of friends in the loss of their youngest daughter, Mildred Viola, aged thirteen years, who died at her home last evening after a two weeks' illness of pneumonia.

Decided young lady was a student of the Victoria School and was extremely clever in her studies, and had enjoyed the friendship of a host of friends on account of her lovable disposition, who will regret very much to hear of her untimely demise. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bell, and by two sisters, Mrs. Robert Cox, city, and Miss Mabelle, at present a student at Acadia Ladies' Seminary.

The father of the deceased is well and favorably known, being proprietor of the St. John Creamery, King street.

Please remember that a man is not one day older than he actually feels, and therefore no matter what your age, if you are young or elderly, married or single, large or small, if I can show you, reader, how you, yourself, may actually add to your system, nerves and blood the very nerve force or vigor which may have been drained away, and which is necessary to make you strong, vigorous and capable again, then I have shown you the real secret of perpetual strength, and how you can again be filled with vigor, and again be just as powerful in your influence and just as thoroughly manly in your capacity as the biggest, fullest blooded, most successful fellow of your acquaintance.

The new self-treatment for the restoration of manly strength, to which I refer above, is a little light-weight VITALIZING Appliance of my invention, which is now meeting with a tremendous demand, and being used by men everywhere all over the world. This little VITALIZER, weighing only several ounces, is comfortably buckled on the body and worn all night. It is so small and so compact that even a room-mate would not suspect that you were wearing it. If, however, this VITALIZER is small in size, it is not small in power, for it generates a great tangible FORCE, which can be measured on scientific instruments a POWER which I call VIGOR or NERVE ENERGY, and it sends this marvelous FORCE into your blood, organs and nerves while you sleep. All you have to do is to lead a decent, normal life, free from excesses and dissipation, then use the VITALIZER, nothing more. If this is followed out and the VITALIZER does for you what these others say it does for them, then all the pain or weakness will disappear from the small of your back—possibly from the first night's use—and you will be restored to a strong, vigorous, manly, capable man, without a single ache, pain or weakness. Please remember, I am not asking you to buy one of these VITALIZERS, but merely request you to first send for the free book described below, a section of which is devoted to an explanation of this VITALIZER, and gives you its whole wonderful story, so that you may know what intelligent young and elderly men everywhere are saying about it.

Copenhagen, Nov. 15.—All reports reaching here from Germany are of a more hopeful tone. A good impression has been made by the Socialist government's pronouncement concerning the Constituent Assembly. The Vorwarts declares that the pronouncement "makes the constituent assembly a certainty."

The Berlin correspondent of the Hamburg Fremdenblatt is encouraged by the events of the last few days. He reports that a large part of the members of the soldiers' councils have removed the red bands from their sleeves.

The War Is Won

The guns are silent—the trenches are vacant—bloodshed has ceased—democracy is triumphant—freedom is assured.

Germany, the beaten, whimpering bully of the Nations, lies stripped of power, whining for mercy, shudderingly awaiting the righteous retribution to be exacted for his fiendish crimes against an outraged civilization. A war-worn world is nursing its wounds and planning for a future of peace and universal freedom.

In this day of thankful joy and glorious triumph let us not forget the imperative duty lying immediately before us.

Let us manfully, dutifully and determinedly round out the Nation's splendid effort.

Let us be as big in this triumphant day as our men have been heroic in the fiery din and bloody peril of battle.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM NAVAL OFFICER IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

Excellent Description of a Funny Little Place Visited Early Last Month—Natives Were Celebrating the Downfall of Bulgaria—Scene Represented That of Stage Setting in Some Theatre.

The following interesting letter was written by a St. John man, who is an officer on one of the warships somewhere in the Mediterranean:

Oct. 6th, 1918.
The other day we anchored in the harbor of a funny little place, and about sunset a companion and I went ashore to see it. We came up from the wharf through some queer little streets to the square in the centre of the town. This was a very festive place as they were celebrating the downfall of Bulgaria.

Flags flew all over, a band was playing on a most elaborate bandstand of marble, all the town was out in its best clothes. The whole thing was more like something you would see on the stage than anything I ever expected to see in real life.

The background was the town hall, quite a fine building to which it was approached by a colossal flight of steps—the kind stage managers are so fond of adorning with a beautiful chorus, while the hero clad in gorgeous uniform with clanking sword, marches down the middle. There were lots of palm trees with little tables under them, at one of which we sat down to take in the scene. At a table nearby were two sailors—petty officers—sitting stolidly gazing at the show and apparently absorbing the atmosphere. After about ten minutes during which neither spoke a word one of them turned to the other and remarked: "The beer 'ere ain't 'alf as good as it was the last place." O—and I had been enthusing over the romance of it all, but this brought us to earth with a bang.

The people were awfully interesting—Mohammedans with baggy trousers, blue vests with double-breasted V-shaped fronts and red fezes; Christians with checked bags and with scarves tied around their middles; women mostly in black and white with huge fluffy hats and reeking with perfume, soldiers and sailors in a dozen different uniforms, some of which were extraordinarily adorned with astonishing epaulettes, cords and tassels, and most of them wearing fearsome knives of one sort or another—it certainly was a great show.

The town is built on two hills, on the top of one is a Greek church, and on the other a Roman Catholic.

The streets, except on the water front are all so steep that they are nothing but endless steps, some of them not three feet wide and few of them straight for more than ten feet. The houses, stuck on the side of the hills just hanging on by their eye-teeth and placed at any angle, are mostly just one room about 12 feet square which is apparently used only for sleeping as the people seem to do their cooking on little braziers out on the streets, where the women sit and knit or mend their clothes. Everyone seems to own a cat and every cat seems to have very recently presented the proud owner with a batch of kittens, these and the dogs and goats all play with urechins in the squares.

There are many small churches, some have blue domes and high narrow bellies, the tops are surmounted with a crown-like affair, surmounted by a little cross, the whole having rather the appearance of a mosque with dome and minaret.

Hat Brim at the Top.

The Greek priests wear dark brown robes and funny tall round hats, with the brim at the top. They are all old men with long and flowing white beards. I have not seen a young one among them.

We went for a walk a mile or so out of the town and came to a little open air restaurant. There were a few chairs and tables under a grape arbor all backed by the mountains and overlooking the valley. Here we sat down, and after some vigorous gustations conversed to the old lady who ran the show that we wanted something to eat. We had no idea what she would bring us, but presently she produced an excellent meal and gave us each a big bunch of flowers.

In "The Maid of the Mountains" (which I saw in London) the robber's stronghold is a place so much like this that when I looked over the wall into the valley I almost expected to see the faces of the people in the pit, but there was nothing there but an old donkey browsing on thistles.

Water Sold in Jars.

Beside the garden was a spring from which water is carried in earthen jars or pig-skin bottles right in the town mostly by women and children, some by donkeys driven by small boys.

Everybody Works But Father.

The men of the country never seem to do any work; they sit all day at little tables in front of the endless taverns of the town and smoke cigarettes or hookas and consume strange drinks. The people seem very nice and friendly, everywhere you are greeted with cheerful smiles which would be more appreciated if the girls were prettier. I have only seen one or two that were barely passable, but they are far the nicest lot of people we have come across in these parts.

On the way out to the spring we noticed garments of all sorts conditionally spread out on the rocks to dry. Why, we could not guess until we reached the spring. At the side of it are two big stone tanks in which the whole community for miles around do their family washing.

I noticed one place where the side of the hill looked astonishingly steeper than an angle of 45 degrees where it had been terraced up with stone walls into little fields, some of the walls were higher than the width of the field. Imagine trying to make a garden on the steepest side of Fort

Howe. There is a graveyard here where a picture of the departed is let into the tombstone. Some of them I should think would have preferred to let their faces pass into oblivion along with themselves.

A stroll along the water front is most interesting. At one end of the street practically every other shop is a cafe of some sort, the other consists of a weird variety of little shops and warehouses. The other side is the wharf where all manner of little sailing craft is tied up to the beach stern to, and packed as closely as they can lie. Most of them are pointed at both ends and painted in many bright colors, generally the lower part green with red bands above, and above that blue or white with a patchwork quilt effect on the stern and some device on the bow. It is a queer place and interesting, and wish you could see it for yourself.

TONIGHT

The Stroke of Twelve

This is the last day you can buy Victory Bonds, 1918.

Tonight on the stroke of twelve your last chance will be gone; your last chance to help Canada wind up the war as she fought it;

To help Canada bring her soldier sons home to wives, mothers and children;

To help Canada in her big peace problems—problems of demobilization and re-establishment of our soldiers in civil life;

Problems of caring for sick, maimed and blinded soldiers;

Problems of continuing to find and finance markets for our farm crops;

Problems of developing markets and supplying material for rebuilding devastated Belgium and France.

Problems of maintaining Canada's prosperity.

For all these problems Canada must have hundreds of millions of dollars which must be borrowed from her people.

This is probably your very last chance to buy at par Canadian Government Bonds bearing Five and One-Half Per Cent. interest, free from federal taxation. Money is almost sure to become cheaper in a short time and your bonds will increase in value correspondingly.

And don't forget—your money in Victory Bonds is not tied up—it is almost as easy to sell a Victory Bond as it is to change a Hundred Dollar Bill. You can get your money out any time and very likely with profit.

Don't be sorry—don't neglect your last chance.

Don't wait for canvassers.

Go and buy Victory Bonds today.

But another.

Buy some more.

Strain your credit—buy on the instalment plan—for your country's sake—in your own interest

What Is The True Meaning of The VICTORY LOAN?

We have won Victory, and now, less than ever, can we afford to rest in a false atmosphere of security.

Now is the moment for a grand rally to the Victory Loan.

NO, A HUNDRED TIMES, NO!

And what are we asked to do? What is it that Canada asks of us?

Simply to LEND to our own country, more money.

And Canada makes it very easy for us to do this through

ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1918.

"We are fighting for a worthy purpose, and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved."—H. M. The King.
TO THE PEOPLE OF THE EMPIRE—Every fighting unit we can send to the front means one step nearer peace.

WE HAVE DONE WELL.

St. John has oversubscribed its quota to the Victory Loan. By Wednesday night we were practically $100,000 to the good, and two days of active work have since passed, bringing very gratifying additional results. Today remains, and unless indications are deceptive we will succeed in winning a crown. This will mean $6,250,000 from the St. John district—a tremendous amount of money from a small community.

Whoever arranged the quotas for this Victory Loan, and created the districts, did not devote as much thought to the matter as might have been anticipated. St. John is not a wealthy city. We have no inherited riches. There are perhaps a dozen families who are living comfortably on incomes bequeathed to them, but none who could be classed as more than well-to-do. We have no great public works in progress, nor lavish expenditures of money payable from any outside sources. What has been done in St. John has been done by the people themselves out of their own yearly earnings.

Other communities far more fortunately placed have been given quotas much smaller than our own, and have within the first few days of the campaign succeeded in oversubscribing and winning crowns.

Had our proportion been placed at half millions, it would have been fair, and St. John could have carried off its honor flag early in the game, with a couple of crowns later. Halifax, for instance, was asked for $5,000,000, and in Halifax, the people, through inherited wealth, by reason of the enormous amount of money being spent for reconstruction and on public work, have dollars where we have cents. It is a greater honor to the St. John district to subscribe $5,000,000 to the Victory Loan than for Halifax to put up double that amount, and our wonderful success in this respect has been attained solely through the enthusiasm of the people, the effective organization of our committees, and the determination with which everyone connected with the campaign has worked since the opening day.

THEY HAVE SERVED WELL.

Before we completely lose interest in the influenza epidemic, some sort of tribute should be paid to the splendid work done by those unselfish women who, for the past month or more, have devoted their services to the relief of the suffering. Without thought of reward, without any interest whatever, excepting that of benefiting others, some scores of women in this city have slaved morning, noon and night to provide food for those unable to care for themselves; doing the housework for helpless families; nursing those incapacitated by the disease; preparing for burial those who have died, and caring for the families of those bereaved. This work has been done not only in St. John, but all over the Province. Women of this particular community, who have volunteered their services as nurse confining their efforts to people afflicted nearer home, but have gone out to all parts of the Province at a sacrifice to themselves and have in many ways alleviated the sufferings of those to whom such assistance was beyond price.

Perhaps it is not the duty of any local Board of Health to provide such succor as this. But the City of St. John during the prevailing epidemic has shown itself utterly indifferent to the sufferings of its own people. No mention has ever been made of any money grant, or of employment of nurses or others in care for those in need of such attention. Lives have been lost which might have been saved, had the proper nursing and care been available. Surely it is the duty of a community to look after its own people. We are in the habit of spending money for streets, parks and purely material things of this nature, but apparently our system of government does not take into consideration the life forming the community. Certainly the utter disregard displayed at City Hall by those who should have been interested would not indicate any real appreciation of the value of human life.

HAD IT BEEN OTHERWISE.

If the shoe had been on the other foot and Germany were dictating armistice terms to the Allies, there would be some reason to complain of the severity of conditions imposed. Germany today is whining about the punishment she must undergo, but it is not a circumstance to what would have been inflicted on our own people had the Central Empires been in the fortunate position in which we are now placed. Scarcely had the terms of surrender been signed before German propagandists were busy getting out their appeals to Wilson and to the world at large for mitigation of the penalties imposed. Now they have their women at it. There was very little thought of leniency towards their enemies while the Germans were winning, for semi-officially there were published some months ago in Germany the twelve articles on which the ruling Prussians proposed forcing peace. These terms were as given below, but in addition the German ambassador to Turkey, who was a member of the Potsdam Conference, which declared war, has announced that France would pay as well twenty billions of dollars additional indemnity, and surrender all her art treasures; that the Russian and Roumanian treaties were to stand; that Estonia, Courland, Lithuania, Livonia and Poland were to be annexed, while Finland and Ukraine were to become subject kingdoms of Germany.

- Here are the original twelve conditions:
- 1—No armistice until British forces were out of France and Paris occupied.
 - 2—Annexation of Belgium and the Channel coast to south of Calais.
 - 3—Annexation of the Briey-Longwy iron region.
 - 4—Annexation of Belfort, Toul, and Verdun, and all French territory east of these forts.
 - 5—Return of German colonies.
 - 6—Surrender by Great Britain of coaling stations, including Gibraltar.
 - 7—Surrender to Germany of the entire British Navy.
 - 8—Egypt and the Suez Canal to Turkey.
 - 9—Restoration of Constantine as King of Greece.
 - 10—Division of Serbia between Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria.
 - 11—Payment of indemnity of $5,000,000,000 by Great Britain, France and the United States.
 - 12—Occupation of French territories until agreements were carried out, costs of occupation being met by the enemy.

A BIT OF FUN

Succeeded.
A friend was asking him if he had ever looked for a needle in a haystack.
"Oh, yes!" said he. "And I found it. It was a knitting needle, in one of those knitting bags, belonging to my wife, and it was as big as a haystack!"

Mr. Gotham—"Not too late."
"What do you mean by not too late?"

No Hope for Him.
A volunteer officer insisted on the members of his corps saluting him whenever they met, whether in uniform or not. When going along the street the other day he saw a private in civilian attire coming towards him. When a few yards separated them, the man turned into an inn.
The officer reached forward and tapped him on the shoulder. The other looked round, but gave his head a shake, saying:
"Sorry I can't. I've only got three-pence."

THE FAIR PRICE COMMITTEE HELD FIRST MEETING

Witnesses Heard at City Hall Last Evening—Members of Housewives' League Say Present Price of Milk Too High—Dealers Also Questioned.

Commissioner Bullock—Can you give us any idea of your overhead charges?
Mr. McMullin—I could give it to you at the dairy.
Commissioner Bullock—You do not want to make it public, is that the reason you cannot give it now?
Mr. McMullin—Yes.
Commissioner Bullock—Was the meeting at which the dealers agreed to give the farmers the increased price a unanimous one?
Mr. McMullin—By a great means.
Commissioner Bullock—Who were in favor of meeting the demands of the farmers?
Mr. McMullin—I would not care to say what took place for publication.

As the reporters present refused to stand for star chamber proceedings, Mr. McMullin declined to answer the question.
Extracts from evidence by C. W. McMullin at the milk investigation committee appointed by the city council were held last evening at city hall. Commissioner Fisher acted as chairman. Mrs. J. W. Lawlor, Mrs. W. Edmond Raymond, C. W. McMullin and A. E. Macaulay were heard and the meeting adjourned at the call of the chair.

The first witness was Mrs. J. W. Lawlor, president of the Housewives' League. She stated that from investigations conducted by the league she had come to the conclusion that the present price of milk was too high. A member of the league had bought three cows and bought every pound of feed, sold the milk at ten cents per quart and made a good profit. In this price, however, was no charge for delivery, as she had not delivered it. The league had an investigation into the price of milk and at a conference with the city council and the producers had heard a statement made along with the public at that time a herd of 25 cows was making a loss. The man who read the statement had afterwards practically admitted that this statement was "cooked."

She also believed the distribution system was all wrong. It should be centralized. The city should route the city and allot districts to the dealers. She also advocated the shutting out of the Kings county milk producers unless they would decrease the price of milk. She understood the price at which milk was sold was set by the Kings County Association, and they present action showed that within the scope of the order-in-council forbidding the increasing of the price of foodstuffs without the consent of the Food Board. She considered it a disgrace the way milk was delivered in St. John, and it was a shame to ask fourteen cents per quart for the quality of milk which was furnished. Her solution of the problem was to use condensed milk, which was much cheaper.

Mr. McMullin suggested to Mrs. Lawlor that it would be better to have the delivery centralized by having it all handled by one concern than by having the council route the city, as was the case in Ottawa.
Mrs. W. E. Raymond suggested the necessity of all milk being clarified and pasteurized before being delivered and all sent to the customer in bottles. She told of an investigation into the way it was handled in the grocery stores, which certainly was not sanitary. She believed there should be a regulated price, and that price should be within the reach of all.

C. W. McMullin, manager of the Pacific Dairies, was the next witness. Commissioner Bullock asked what the price of milk in Ottawa was and the price of milk in St. John was either twelve or thirteen cents per quart. Asked as to where they got their milk from, Mr. McMullin said it was all obtained from farmers in Kings county, but all were not members of the association.

In regard to the recent increase the witness said W. H. Huggard, secretary of the Kings County Milk and Cream Producing Association, had called on the dealers and informed them that they should be ready to have more money. His company had no contracts with the producers, all arrangements were verbal. Representatives of the Producers had come to the city and met some of the dealers, and the dealers under protest had agreed to pay them seventy cents per quart, and anyone taking three quarts or more got it at the dealers' price. Some of the farmers would have been willing to accept less than that, but there was not enough to satisfy the demand.

He thought seventy cents a can too much. His firm had eight canners. The new price gave the dealer a little more margin of profit than the old. The average consumption of milk for the city was about 11,000 cans. When asked by Commissioner Bullock if all the dealers favored giving the increase, and who favored it, the witness declined to answer if his statement was to be published. Later he stated he was one who favored granting the demands of the producers because if they had not been granted the supply would have been shut off, and he did not think it would be right to deprive the city

I was around at my cousin Artie's house last night, and after a while it was time to go home and all of a sudden all the electric lights in the street went out on account of something being the matter with them, and I looked out the front door, saying, G. its dark as pitch, ain't it?

And Artie got his cap and we waked down to the corner, being so dark it was fearse, and you couldn't tell weather trees was men standing there or jest trees, and Artie sed, This is all the further Im going, G. maybe I awtent to of came this far, and I sed, Sure you awt, G. Artie, Ill tell you wat, you wawk all the way home with me and sleep at my house.
Maybe I would if I had a revolver, Im going back now, sed Artie, and I sed, Wate a minnit, wate a minnit. Ill tell you wat lets do, then, lets go back to your house and Ill telephone home and ask if I can sleep with you tonite.
Wich we started to, me saying, I aint afraid of anything, and Artie saying, Neither am I, ony wats the use of being put out wen its so dark you cant tell weather youre out or in?
Sure, you mite as well be in, I sed. And we went back to his house and I telephoned home, and after I had asked ma over the telephone for about 5 minnits without saying wy, she got tired of telling me I had to come home and told me I could stay.
Wich I did.

of milk in a time like this. His firm were the only ones in the city pasteurizing and clarifying milk.
A. E. Macaulay said he had been in the business for forty years. He thought if there was some way of preventing the farmers from letting their milk freeze in the winter time it would lessen the cost by at least one-half cent per quart.
Adjournment was then made to meet at the call of the chair.

WEIZEL'S WILL OPEN BRANCH IN HALIFAX

Enterprising St. John Firm Made Great Progress in Eleven Years—Built up Very Large Business.
Weizel's Cash Store have decided to enlarge their present business, and will in the near future open up a branch in the sister city of Halifax. Eleven years ago Herman and Joseph Weizel started a small store on Union Street and by the time they had built up one of the largest retail businesses in the city.
Six years ago, in order to accommodate their increasing business, they built a splendid brick building on Union Street, where they may be found today. They have always sold for cash on a small margin of profit, and have given their customers the benefit of the discounts which they received by buying for cash.

In opening this branch in Halifax they will be able to buy to ever better advantage than in the past, as they will buy in larger quantities, and it is their intention to continue the policy of giving the customer the benefit of their close buying, thus enabling them to get better goods at less money.

USE OF SUBSTITUTES.

A. H. Wetmore last evening was called up by telephone from Fredericton, by Dr. Kierstead, Canadian representative of the Food Board. Dr. Kierstead wished it known that he had received a telegram from Ottawa confirming the use of substitutes. The Canadian Board of Food Control still suggests and recommends the use of substitutes, but their use is not compulsory.

READY TO FORGIVE
MARCONI DECLARES

Says Italy Will Extend Friendship to Austrian Peoples if They Deserve it.

Rome, Nov. 15.—Now that Austria-Hungary is out of the war, Italy is ready to extend to the peoples of that empire, under certain conditions, the hand of friendship, Senator Quintino Marconi, head of the Italian mission to the United States in 1917, said to the Associated Press.

"Austria's final collapse," said Senator Marconi, "was caused by the splendid offensive of our army. It has brought definite victory within our reach. We may still look for some little trouble in bringing Germany to her senses, but with Austria definitely out of the war and with Italy's veteran legions free to throw themselves against Germany, either on the French front or by wounding her side through Bavaria, we ought not to be long in convincing the Teutons of the futility of further resistance."

"Italy may well be proud of her soldiers and sailors. There is perhaps no other instance in history of an army which suffered such a reverse as Caporetto, retreating before the devastating rush of the enemy, and yet succeeding in turning like a stag at bay and holding up that enemy behind a scant protection of mountains and rivers until help could arrive, and then within a year throw itself forward and force the enemy to surrender. It is indeed a noble achievement which reflects more glory on the Italian arms than if the retreat from the Isonzo had never occurred."

"My countrymen may well be proud also of our navy. There is no other nation in this war which can point to such men as Rizzo, Pelligrini, Rosetti and Paololo, who not only had the sheer audacity merely to conceive such exploits as they performed, but the nerve, courage and skill to carry them out successfully."

"At last, after three and one-half years of privation and suffering, patiently borne, after so many appalling losses, after passing through depths of despair and enduring moments when all seemed lost, at last the scales of justice have been weighed down in our favor. We can calmly look the future in the face and say:

"At last the world again is to know the blessing of peace. Safeguarded by President Wilson's eternal principles, we shall be able to settle down and recover from the effects of this war, without the constant threat of another contagion hanging over our heads. At last the sway of military and brute force is at an end. An era of peace and good will among men has begun."

"At last the hour of expiation for Austria has struck for all her past crimes and oppressions. It really seems a sort of poetic justice that her death-blow should be delivered by Italy, a nation which, perhaps, suffered most at her hands in the past. One might feel sorry for her plight were there not abundant evidence in the villages and cities of Friuli, just reconquered, that Austria in no wise has changed her ways."

"It is plain that the Austria of 1918 is the same Austria of the forties. When we see that the population of the provinces lost after the Caporetto disaster have been starved and robbed, their women mistreated, and property wantonly destroyed for pure love of destruction, when we hear that old men have been treated so shamefully that all they ask is a bite of bread and a ride with which to avenge the insults suffered at the hands of the invaders—when we see and hear all this, can we feel pity for such a foe? One might as well feel pity for the criminal who is about to suffer capital punishment for a foul murder."

"But, in spite of all this, we will not treat the Austrian population in a spirit of vengeance, for we do not consider them wholly responsible for the actions to which they had been instigated by their rulers. If the various peoples of Austria are ready to form their own governments according to the principles formulated by President Wilson and to government democratically, we, on our side, are ready to hold out our hand to them in friendship and to live with them as good and peaceful neighbors."

CABLES CONGESTED; BUSINESS PILED UP
New York, Nov. 15.—President Newcomb Carlton, of the Western Union Telegraph and Cable Company, said today his company was temporarily refusing to handle business cables to Europe owing to accumulated messages which had to be cleared up before new business could be accepted. This delay was likely, however, to be of short duration, he said.

The Commercial Cable Company and the French Cable Company were accepting cable messages today subject to heavy delay.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Official information was received by the State Department today through neutral sources that the former German Crown Prince has arrived in Holland and has been interned.

These advices which are regarded as definitely disposing of reports that the former crown prince had been killed, also said the former empress was expected shortly to join her husband and son in Holland.

BRITAIN EXPECTING
GENERAL ELECTION

Will be Held, Probably, Early Next Month, and Turn on Reconstruction — Lloyd George in Saddle—Expected to Win Hands Down—Movement in Parliament for a Coalition Campaign.

London, Nov. 10.—All probabilities point to Great Britain having a general election before Christmas. Political prophets, indeed, have already fixed the date as between Nov. 30 and Dec. 7. An earlier polling day is unlikely because the present Parliament has a certain amount of legislation on hand which must be cleared off before its dissolution, and to set it later would throw upon the Post Office the extra burden of electing correspondents, which, super-added to the Christmas traffic, would severely disorganize a service already severely tried by the war's exigencies. It is believed that the election will be held in the first, or at latest, the second week of December. It will be necessary to postpone it until January.

The latest indications point to Dec. 7 as the polling day. One of the most competent authorities at Westminster put the situation in a nutshell by saying: "The election depends upon the armistice." If Lloyd George returns from Versailles with an armistice which will imply a victorious end of the war, it is the universal expectation that he will at once go to the country with the cry: "Vote for the man who won the war."

On the other hand, should Germany, contrary to present prognostics, prove recalcitrant, it is believed that Mr. Lloyd George's policy will be to face the electorate with an appeal to vote for the man who will win the war.

Will Turn on War Issues.
This is, of course, a rough way of putting the situation; but it is correct enough in its broader outlines. A general election, with the war only just over or still in progress, will necessarily turn on war issues, rather than on old political faiths.

None of the three great political organizations—the Unionist, Liberal, and Labor Parties—likes the prospect. Lloyd George has made no bargain with the Unionists, who want him to accept their program on tariff reform, Irish Home Rule and Welsh disestablishment.

Efforts made by a body of Manchester folk to bring about a reunion of all Liberal forces under the joint leadership of Asquith and George proved a failure.

Mr. Asquith is to speak in Scotland this week, and his speeches are awaited with the keenest interest, as they may show the attitude of the front opposition bench toward the Liberal reconstruction movement, which, despite its initial setback, is going on behind the scenes. About fifty Liberal and Conservative members of Parliament held a meeting today and passed a resolution to return to party government during the war and the subsequent period of national reconstruction would be a disaster.

The Labor political organization is out for its own hand, but there are reports that Lloyd George may prevail upon his Conservative friends to allow him to put forward a social program which is to be very alluring to the working classes and which, voted for by Labor members of the government, such as Barnes and Clynes, is calculated to win many votes from Henderson and company. The depth of the Asquithian Liberal objection to a general election is taken to be the measure of their regretful provision that Lloyd George will win, hands down.

Probable Labor Platform.
Labor, as already stated, means to take a line of its own. There are eight Labor Ministers in the Government, they entered it with the approval of the Labor Party. Proposals made from time to time that they should be requested to withdraw from the Government have been sternly discouraged by Arthur Henderson and the sense of the majority has been with him in this attitude. Whether there will be any change, in view of the general election, remains to be seen.

A national conference of the Labor Party is to be summoned almost immediately for the formulation of its electoral policy. Three cardinal points in it undoubtedly will be: First, restoration of trade union rules and conditions; second, a bold policy of social reconstruction; third, home rule for Ireland.

The Irish Nationalists have no illusions as to their electoral prospects in Ireland, but any setback they may receive will only be temporary. The Sinn Fein, after all, is only an aberration, and aberrations never last long.

The Sinn Fein will carry perhaps forty seats. The Nationalists now hold eighty. There are to be two women Sinn Fein candidates—Countess Markievicz and Mrs. Skeffington. The Ulster Unionists probably will come back twenty-five strong. In many British constituencies the Irish vote will be cast in favor of labor.

In conclusion, it may be said that, while the election cries will chiefly depend upon the war conditions at the period when the appeal is made to the electorate, back of them will be the great question of reconstruction after the war. Tariff reform will play a great part in the decision, and in some quarters it is predicted that, if the circumstances do not permit of

What will You say?

When the war is over and won, —when the war worn soldiers come back to Canada and home, —when the cost is counted, the cost in precious lives, in the limbs, eye-sight and shattered health of our noble fighters in the battle lines—the cost in money, in sacrifice and in self-denial— What part will you have played? Will you have the right to cheer and say— "I did my best—I saved and denied myself—I lent every cent I could rake and scrape to help my country and our fighting boys—I can claim a full share in the glorious Victory because I did everything I could" —Or, will you have to slink shamefaced and conscience-stricken away from the cheering crowds to your own mean solitude? If you buy Victory Bonds—the duty of to-day—now—to the limit of your ability with every dollar you can raise—then—and only then—can you say:

"I have done my best"

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee, in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

LET US CELEBRATE BY BUYING VICTORY BONDS

Let us make the immense over-subscription of Victory Bonds our celebration of the Victory our men have helped to win.

Not by cheering—not by noisy demonstration—but with earnest enthusiasm let us celebrate this greatest world event by putting up more money, and still more money, for our own and our country's good.

Let us drive our spearhead of dollars still deeper into the vitals of the conquered Hun.

Let us show the world that we are with our men to the finish—and after. For it will be many months before we are able to bring them all home, and the country must have money for their upkeep.

Everybody could not go to the front but everybody can be in a position to say when the boys come home "I own a Victory Bond."

The end of the war brings new problems to Canada.

The Old Countries will continue to buy our products of factory, field, forest and mine, only if we continue to provide them with the credit.

Canada cannot do this unless she secures the money from you by the sale of Victory Bonds.

More necessary than ever before is a supply of ready cash in the treasury of our country if Canadian products are to continue to find a continued and profitable market.

We are faced today with the biggest issues since the war began. Only with your money and with the money of all Canadians, whether it is in fifty, fifty hundred, or fifty thousand dollar lots, can these issues be met.

Let everybody have a part in the celebration of Victory by over-subscribing the Victory Loan on grounds of patriotism and good business.

CLOSING STOCK LETTER.

(McDougall & Cowans)
New York, Nov. 15.—A further sharp break in Marine Preferred was the feature of the early afternoon, selling half a dozen points below the previous close. After the directors' meeting, it was stated only that another meeting would be held next week. It was rumored that the deal for the sale of the British ships had been indefinitely postponed. The stock rallied after the meeting, and recovered about two-thirds of its loss. The rest of the market was little affected by this incident, and in fact the Steel issues and a few others advanced at the time of the break in Marine. The market as a whole was steady at the close, with general gains for the day.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

Conflicting Reports on the Question of Reconstruction Upset Things Generally—Peace Industrials Stronger.

New York, Nov. 15.—Conflicting opinions in high quarters respecting the forthcoming period of reconstruction left their further impression on the stock market today, the movement of prices being decidedly irregular. Most of the session, Secretary McAdoo's plan for a downward revision of the government's program of tax cuts and the statement of the head of the war board that business need have no misgivings were balanced by the pessimistic views of industrial executives in relation to labor adjustment.

The course of several market leaders was traceable, however, to more definite and immediate causes. Marine Preferred registered an extreme decline of almost 10 points on announcement of further delay in the sale of the company's British cargo, rallying 3 1/2 points later. In point of activity, Marines were almost as prominent as United States Steel, but steel shook off some of its recent heaviness, holding all its 2 1/2 point advance. Independent steels, including the war division, were 2 to 3 points higher.

Copper denoted the further uncertainty of the war board's action as to new price schedules, but motors, especially low-priced issues, strengthened in anticipation of the removal of the government's embargo. Oil rose and fell in characteristic fashion, ending at mixed gains and losses. Tobacco was slightly less variable and miscellaneous shares were mainly higher, out rails, aside from the strength of nickel plate issues, forfeited most of their moderate advances. Sales amounted to 725,000 shares.

Bonds were heavy on the 2 1/2 per cent reaction in Marine's foreign issues, also easing with the Liberty dividend.

Total sales (par value) aggregated $9,300,000.
Old U. S. Bonds were unchanged on call.

W. GEORGE GRAY IMPORTS DOGS

Two High Class Irish Terriers Secured from the Kennels of L. H. Powers, Houlton.

St. John has many fine dogs of various breeds and there has lately been made an addition to the number which for quality will match anything in the city. W. George Gray, who has bred some fine specimens of the Irish Terrier breed, a few days ago imported from the kennels of L. H. Powers, Houlton, Maine, probably the largest breeder in America of Irish Terriers, two dogs which it will be hard to beat at the next dog show.

Mr. Gray, who has been breeding Irish Terriers for some years, and with his fine bitch, "Sheila" cleaned up on more than one occasion, has secured from Mr. Powers, "Ch. Brendon Belle," the mother of four international champions, and herself the only dog to have "Shella" in the local shows, and he expects to get from her some pups that will add materially to the excellence of this class. At the same time he imported for E. P. Scully, of the West Side, a male pup, whelped on April 5, 1918, that has all the earmarks of a champion, and if he develops according to promise, should give anything in his class a hard run for the honors.

RECEIVED A COMMISSION

Son of Prof. and Mrs. Hunton Recently Went to England to Get Commission.

(Sackville Post.)
Professor and Mrs. Hunton received word a few days ago that their eldest son, James, has returned to England in order to receive a commission. It may be of interest to note that Lieut. Hunton secured a commission quite early in the war, but as there seemed more officers than positions at that time, he finally reverted to private in order to get to the front. In this he succeeded and along with his two brothers has been in the thick of the fighting all summer. One of the Hunton boys is still in France, one is in hospital, in England, having recently been quite seriously wounded, and James, will no doubt return to France again as soon as he has secured his commission. Few families in Westmorland county can show a finer war record than the Huntons, and it must be a source of great comfort and satisfaction to the boys' relatives and friends to realize that all three will likely return home in the not far distant future, having done their duty in the greatest of all wars.

Especially Soldiers' Gifts

Soldiers' parcels should leave here within the next week, for delivery at the Front by Christmas.

That means that there must be no delay in purchasing the gifts. Have you decided WHAT you will send?

Consider this! The Canadians are still on the move. In any event, it will be months before they are all home. Meanwhile many a soldier leaves behind and loses part of his belongings.

A great many soldiers are anxiously hoping that the folks at home will send them a Gillette Razor or Blades for Christmas. You cannot do better than decide to send a

The Useful Gift

There need be no fear of duplication, for if a soldier has not lost the Gillette you gave him before, the Gillette set you send him now will be in great demand by less fortunate pals, and he can readily convert it into cash.

Much as the soldier appreciates the food and clothing you send him—and the smokes—if he hasn't a Gillette, he lacks what he NEEDS most, for clean shaving is the rigid rule in the army.

WAR HAS TAUGHT SCANDINAVIANS HOW TO CO-OPERATE
Norway, Sweden and Denmark Plan Future Commercial Agreements.
NO BARRIERS TO TRADE.
Delegates to Inter-Parliamentary Conference Discuss Customs Union.
(Special Cable to The N. Y. Tribune and The St. John Standard.)
The activity of the inter-parliamentary Scandinavian conferences has become very important and is watched with great interest by a large number of people. The last one, September, 1918, was attended by sixty delegates from Sweden, Norway and Denmark, and was held in the building of the Danish Parliament, in Copenhagen. The conference was occupied with problems of economic co-operation now, during the war, and also in mapping out the principal lines of policy in trade for the after war period.
The result of this conference was a unanimous recognition of the necessity of the closest co-operation, with the view of a possible custom union or an arrangement which would be equivalent to its effect. The "Neue Zürcher Zeitung," dealing with this conference in the "export" part of the issue for September 26, publishes an article from the Swedish correspondent under the title "The Northern Inter-Parliamentary Economic Conference".
The conference dealt particularly with the economic co-operation of the northern countries during and after the war. The Danish speaker was Deputy and Chief Editor Poss. He pointed out how the Scandinavian countries had to adapt themselves to entirely new conditions; the old customary exchange of goods between different countries had become gradually more and more difficult, and finally was reduced to only an exchange between the three Scandinavian countries themselves. Surely these difficulties would not disappear soon after the war. There will be a shortage of tonnage, and the freight rates will rise again, and the northern countries will have to face the problem to provide for themselves.
Co-operation is Urged.
"It is therefore necessary to develop further the Scandinavian exchange of goods and guide it not merely on the basis of compensation, but to adopt methods of co-operation and create in that way a single united economic policy. The speaker attributed a great importance to the reduction of consumption, and based his statement on the observation that if Denmark had not curtailed her butter consumption, no butter would have remained for export to Sweden and Norway. It is, in his opinion, of great importance that Denmark should receive sufficient manure from Norway.
"The development of the exchange of goods is shown by the following figures: In 1914 the value of exported food to Norway from Denmark was 16,000,000 kroner; in 1917, 57,000,000, and in the first half of 1918, 65,000,000, which is, eight times more than in 1914. During 1914 Denmark exported to Sweden her own products to an amount valued at 19,000,000; in 1917 the figure increased to 73,000,000, and in the first six months of 1918 it reached 105,000,000, an amount which would, if calculated for the whole year be eleven times the export of the whole war time. In all these instances only foodstuffs are concerned, while the agrarian Denmark could put at the disposal of her less favored neighbors.
Countries Must Co-operate.
"Much is already known about the future situation. The Paris resolution of 1916, for instance, in which the neutrals received full rights, it is necessary that every northern country takes a firm stand according to her own interests; at the same time co-operation of the three countries was more than desirable. This co-operation could be effected by delegations from each country; it would be the duty of these delegations to examine the economic problems on a common basis and to recommend to their governments legislative and other measures. No one would in any way give up his freedom of action; it would simply be a free consultation to secure the greatest possible profit and to support each other."
"The Swedish Deputy Rosing, said, he regretted the way in which the understanding has been so long and hoped that once started the co-operation would grow and become very efficient. He paid tribute to Denmark's aid and emphasized the fact that the Danes sent to Sweden 15,000 tons of corn, which made it possible to raise the already very small rations of bread of the population. Sweden on her part has delivered large quantities of iron and wood, and at the present time negotiations are pending about sending 10,000,000 kilograms of fertilizer.
Against Trade Barriers.
"It is difficult to foresee, said the speaker, how circumstances will change after the war. There might come a strong protectionist movement, but, anyhow, between the Scandinavian countries there should be no boundaries at all, and if they exist now they should be abolished. Not the principle of compensation only, but the will to give as much as possible should guide the economic relations; this should be, also the foundation for relations with other neutral countries.
"The conference passed the following resolution: The Eleventh Northern Inter-Parliamentary Conference of Delegates declares herewith that it is satisfied with the good results of inter-Scandinavian exchange of goods and leaves it to the governments of the three northern countries to arrange, through the nomination of committees, to be prepared for the solution of further economic problems which have arisen during or will arise after the war."

WHEAT SUBSTITUTES ARE DISCONTINUED
Ottawa, Nov. 14.—The first order of the Canada Food Board issued after the signing of the armistice, fulfills the board's undertaking to withdraw as many war-caused restrictions on food as possible at the earliest moment. Following the action of the Allied food controllers, all orders and rulings, requiring the sale, purchase, use or consumption of substitutes for wheat flour are repealed from Thursday, whether in the trade or in private homes. The main factor enabling this to be done is the immediate release of Allied shipping to make the voyages from Europe to Argentina, India and Australia, where there are accumulated stocks of wheat.
Wheat substitutes only are affected by the new order. The same regulations as hitherto will remain for milling extraction of standard flour.
HINDENBURG STILL EXPLAINING THINGS.
Berlin, Nov. 12, via Basel, Nov. 14.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has issued a proclamation to the German army, saying in substance:—"The ever-growing number of our enemies, the exhaustion of our allies and the urgent crisis in the provisioning of our country, have forced us to accept the hard conditions of the armistice. By the terms of the armistice we are obliged to rapidly return to the Fatherland, which is a heavy task. You will never be abandoned by your field marshal in the struggle. He will ever be confident in you."
LABOR PARTY OUT.
London, Nov. 14.—The British labor party at a conference today decided by a large majority to withdraw its members from the cabinet at the close of the present parliament which is expected to take place shortly.

Major Hooper wrote also that he had been transferred from the Granville Hospital, Boston, to the King's Canadian Red Cross Hospital, Bushey Park, Hampton Hill. He says that he now has 400 beds to care for. Major Hooper is closing his letter, writing: "God has blessed me indeed in giving me this wonderful work among the sick and wounded lads. It is the greatest privilege I have ever enjoyed and I hope that I am spared to come back to St. John that I might see you and tell you all of the things I have been permitted to do in this great war."

BAN ON NON-WAR WORK

Automobile Manufacturing Will be Chief Industry to Benefit—First Step in Industrial Readjustment.

The United States has lifted the ban on non-war work and this is of particular interest to Canadians as automobile manufacturing will be the chief industry to benefit. This is the first step in the national industrial readjustment from a war to a peace basis announced by the War Industries Board. Forty-two specific industries, chief among them the passenger automobile industry, are affected by the modifications of curtailments imposed on manufacturers since the beginning of the war. Under the new ruling passenger automobiles may henceforth be manufactured to the extent of 75 per cent. of the annual output.

SOLDIERS' WING AT COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Will be Ready for Occupation in Three Weeks—Delay Caused by Heating Plant.

It is understood the soldiers' wing at the St. John County Hospital will not be ready for occupation for three weeks yet, there having been some delay in securing material needed for the heating plant. The building is all ready and would have had at least twenty soldiers in it by this time had the heating plant been installed. It was found impossible, however, to get the necessary material any sooner and the delay while regrettable is unavoidable.

The nurses' home which is under construction will not be occupied for some time for the same reason. Both the new wing and the nurses' home are being erected by the Dominion government but will become the property of the municipality when the need for caring for returned soldiers at that institution has passed.

THE ANGLICAN CLERGYMEN MET

Resolution Passed Asking Legislature to Change Act so That Right of Public Worship Will Not Again be Withdrawn.

At a meeting of the Anglican clergymen of the city held yesterday morning the following resolution was passed: Whereas, united application to Almighty God has been in all ages the strength and continuance of the people; and whereas, the existence of the Litany being a standing witness; and whereas, it is a recognized principle of healing that the hope of recovery is a potent factor in overcoming disease, and this hope is promoted by the prayers of the congregation assembled in the House of God; and whereas, the British constitution accords to every citizen full civil and religious liberty, which liberty, we think, was contravened by the recent ban on public worship;

Be it therefore resolved, that we protest against Section 7, Sub-section 2 of the Public Health Act of New Brunswick; That this section, as interpreted during the late epidemic, is ultra vires and contrary to the British constitution; That the Legislature of New Brunswick be respectfully requested to so change the act that never again may the right of public worship be withdrawn.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MEETING.

Want Sale of 2 1-2 Per Cent. Beer Legalized—Resolution to That Effect to be Sent Dominion Government.

The Trades and Labor Council held a meeting last night in the Odd Fellows' building at which much business was transacted. A resolution was passed requesting that the sale of a 2 1/2 per cent beer be legalized. A similar resolution was passed at the last convention of the Trades and Labor Congress and the one passed last night will be presented to the Dominion government.

It was decided to submit the names of several of the members of the Trades and Labor Council as labor representatives on the Vocational Educational Committee and also on the Board of Health. An extensive program of legislative matters was outlined for the near future and the reports of the delegates to the Trades and Labor Congress were received. J. L. Scurie, the secretary, respectfully tendered his resignation from the post as his work on the Compensation Board took most of his time.

It was discussed at the meeting that the recall committee had between 150 and 200 names of qualified voters to supply the deficiency at City Hall and they will be handed in on Monday.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD YESTERDAY

Reports Received and Twenty-One Directors Elected by Exhibition Association—Ten Additional to be Chosen Next Friday.

The annual meeting of the Exhibition Association was held yesterday afternoon at the office of the secretary, H. A. Porter. The president, W. J. Burditt, occupied the chair and usual reports were submitted. The report of the directors showed that the past year had been one of inactivity, but pointed out in view of recent developments in the war the necessity which existed for the laying of definite plans for an exhibition as soon as possible. Mention was made of the improvements being made structurally to the buildings and to the additional buildings being erected for the use of the Depot Battalion, but the opinion was expressed that these did not add anything to the value of the plan for an exhibition. It was pointed out that the internal equipment had been almost entirely removed and a tremendous amount of work and expense was necessary to place them in shape for use again for that purpose.

In this connection the secretary stated that the government would bear this expense as their agreement called for the building back of the buildings in the same condition as they received them. The election of twenty-one directors resulted as follows: B. Allan, F. A. Dykeman, W. S. Fisher, R. O'Brien, E. A. Schofield, Thomas Walker, F. W. Roach, J. W. Frink, S. L. Peters, E. L. Rising, R. T. Hayes, L. H. Northrup, G. Warwick, W. H. White, M. E. Agar, R. B. Emerson, G. A. Kimball, R. R. Patchell, A. O. Skinner, W. F. Burditt, A. Macaulay.

FREE NIGHT SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY; GREAT OPPORTUNITY

W. S. Vial in Charge of Mechanical Drawing and Rex R. Cormier Arithmetic and Writing Classes—The Place is Centennial School, Brussels Street.

At seven o'clock Monday evening, November the eighteenth, the local School Board will open the free evening school for boys and men in the assembly hall of the Centennial school on Brussels street.

W. S. Vial, chief draughtsman in Flemming's, is the instructor in mechanical drawing, and Rex R. Cormier, Principal of Kingswood school, will have charge of the arithmetic and writing classes. More than one hundred pupils enrolled in these classes last year and the school was very satisfactory. Several former pupils have reported that the instruction they received in the free evening school has been the means of substantial increases in their salaries. An enrollment fee of two dollars ($2.00) is collected from each pupil. This, however, is returned to him at the end of the term on the basis of attendance. This school offers a splendid opportunity for self-improvement to ambitious boys and men. Parents who have sons with a limited education should urge them to enter. Even those who cannot write their own names will be gladly received and carefully instructed.

Last year many business men strongly recommended the free night school to boys and men in their employ who were handicapped in life by lack of education. Following this advice, they enrolled in the school and in the course of a few months their services became more valuable to their employers and consequently they received increases in their salaries. Returned soldiers have always received a very cordial welcome at the evening school. Even times the instructors will be glad to accord them that special attention and consideration which they so richly deserve. It is a grand opportunity for returned men and undischarged reservists night schools will be very largely attended in the future.

FREIGHT HANDLERS ELECT OFFICERS

John Ward Chosen President Last Night—Union Delegation Will Confer With C. P. R. About Wages Today.

At the annual meeting of the Freight Handlers' Union in their hall on the West Side, last night, the following officers were elected for the year: John Ward, president; Fred Long, first vice president; David Harrore, second vice president; William Williams, secretary; John Baird, financial secretary; Joseph Taylor, treasurer; James Brittain, business agent; trustees elected, Allan Leo Daniel Conaghan, William Hammond. The meeting was fully attended, and Pres. John Ward presided. Asked after the meeting how the committee, delegated to confer with the C. P. R. regarding wages, made out, a member of the union replied that there was nothing for publication. He added that the committee would confer with the C. P. R. again this morning.

The Natural History Society Rooms will be open on Monday, November 18th, for Spangnum boys' grades. Conveners of committees are requested to notify their organizations to return to work as soon as possible.

BACK PAGE The local Red Cross rooms will open on Monday, Nov. 18th, for regular work. All circles and committees will please report as usual.

One drunk appeared before His Honor yesterday morning, pleaded guilty, and was remanded.

In the afternoon the case of Fred Glyn, charged with using profane language to police officer Thorpe, was given further hearing and concluded. Officer Thorpe testified regarding the arrest, and of the condition of defendant at the time. Witness stated he met defendant on King Square in the early morning hours and asked him where he was going at that hour. Defendant then used profane language and hit the officer twice. When witness had a hold of defendant, defendant's father reached the scene, and asked witness to give defendant a show, as he was at that time a cripple, having been severely hurt at a munition plant. Witness met Sergeant Scott afterwards and told him the circumstances as well as the recent occurrence. Witness on returning to the police station entered the charge against defendant.

This concluded the evidence in the case when judgment was reserved until later.

Edward Burke, charged with handling liquor, or supplying the same to another gentleman of the city, appeared and was remanded after Deakman Corner gave evidence regarding the entry into the police book against defendant.

Witness stated that on Oct. 19th Inspector McAlnah approached him at a public house and requested a charge against Burke as follows: Handling liquor to one individual on Shore St. The police book was brought in and witness stated he did not write the word "supplying" or "supplied" in place of "handling" nor had Officer McAlnah asked him to do so, but had instructed that the charge should be changed.

WOMAN ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Giving Name of La Belle and Charged With Communicating Disease. She is Liable to Fine of $5,000 and Five Years' Imprisonment.

In accordance with the campaign planned by the military authorities to protect soldiers from contamination by venereal disease, a young woman who gave her name as Labelle, and her age as twenty-three, was arrested last evening. She is now in jail and will appear for preliminary hearing this forenoon. Labelle lives on Brindley street, and is alleged to be of loose character. Information now in the hands of those responsible for the arrest is to the effect that she is responsible for ten known cases of syphilis among soldiers in the city. An active campaign is now being waged to check the spread of venereal diseases among the military and civil population. This has been inaugurated by the military authorities, and is receiving the support of social service organizations everywhere.

The New Brunswick Health Department has also joined forces and will co-operate in every possible way. It is intended to follow up every known case of disease and prosecute those responsible. Even the possibility to which one convicted of such an offense is liable is five years imprisonment or a fine of five thousand dollars or both.

Your Last Chance to BUY A VICTORY BOND

Will Your Name Be On The List?

When midnight strikes tonight will you be fully satisfied that you have done your best—that you have supported the Victory Loan to the limit of your resources?

Will your name appear in the list of those who have purchased bonds? Will it appear for the full amount that you are capable of handling?

Even if you have bought bonds and have spent all you "can afford" on Bonds there is still time in which to buy until your conscience says "enough."

Never again will such an opportunity offer in which to get such a Bond on such terms and security

To the investor looking for a safe and solid investment the Victory Bond is without an equal. To the small wage earner who can't seem to put aside a dollar in the savings bank and to the business house or institution looking for a security in which to invest surplus where it will be as liquid as water there is nothing within ten miles of a Victory Bond.

And then apart from the cold business phase of the transaction there is the patriotic side of the thing which should appeal: A Bond will hurry the boys home, and will earn for you the right to grasp the hand of the returned man and say—and prove your saying—"I was with you to the limit of my all."

The Three Plans in a Nutshell

PLAN No. 1

The denominations are $50, $100, $500, and $1,000. You may pay cash for your bond and there will be no interest charge. In other words the bond will cost you the par value of the bond.

PLAN No. 2

The government has made it possible for you to buy a bond on a monthly payment plan which will be explained by the canvasser. This plan is: Ten per cent. with application, twenty per cent. in December, twenty in January, twenty in February and thirty odd per cent. in March.

PLAN No. 3

Chartered banks and many other financial institutions will buy the bond for you and you may pay them back on a monthly payment plan which spreads the total amount over ten months.

Many who have purchased Bonds on the Cash or Government's monthly payment plan will find in the bank's ten month payment plan an easy way in which to carry another $50 or $100 Bond. The payment for these falls around the middle of each month; and as the Government's monthly plan of payment falls on the first week of the month the additional bond can be carried without undue financial obligation.

London House DANIEL Head of King St.

Nevertheless a spirit of joy prevailed, though the celebrations were unassuming. Many of the younger people spent Tuesday in St. John, while others visited Sussex and joined in the thanksgiving and hilarity of the world-wide joy. The mammoth parade so fittingly arranged by the town of Sussex extended their march to this village, and was a pleasing spectacle, composed of 168 gaily attired automobiles, with Sussex Fire Dept. in full force and other unique and amusing conveyances, as well as a large number of young lady pedestrians in varied and representative costumes. The owners of automobiles in this place were invited by the neighboring town to participate in the parade, those who accepted being Geo. B. Jones, M. L. A., whose cars were gaily and fittingly decorated—that of W. A. Jones representing the Victory Loan and carried the Apohaqui Victory Loan Honor Flag. Major Jones, the Victory Loan canvasser, has been very zealous in the work and since reaching the objective of $35,000, has $10,000 over, which entitled his district to a crown. Friends and relatives of Albert P. Johnson were pleased to welcome him home on Friday last, after an absence of nearly two years. Mr. Johnson had been with the Bank of Nova Scotia, with their branch in Jamaica and returned in June from the Tropics to enlist in his country's cause, but has since been in the base hospital at Toronto, having been ill with fever and an obstinate case of tropical eczema. Mrs. Murray Gilchrist and daughter, Miss Eibyl, left on Thursday to spend a few days in Westfield. They will be accompanied home by Mr. Gilchrist, who has been employed there during the last two months. Mrs. S. W. Burgess and Miss Kathleen Burgess of Moncton, were guests last week of Mrs. Harley S. Jones, St. John. Mrs. Jones and her daughters Ethel and Marjorie, accompanied her guests to the city on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McAuley were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. McLeod at Penobscot. Mrs. C. S. McCready of Bangor, Me., who has been the guest of Mrs. Douglas Fenwick for two weeks, left on Saturday to spend a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Taylor of Salisbury, before returning to her home across the border. Dr. Burgess, Moncton, visited the village professionally, on Saturday last. Mrs. J. P. Gambin, Little Miss Della and Master Murray Gambin have returned from a visit to Pleasant Ridge. Mrs. Murray Gilchrist and Miss Eibyl, Gilchrist spent Tuesday in Sussex, guests of Rev. L. J. Tingley and Mrs. Tingley. L. C. Brown of Fredericton, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Chambers a few days of this week. Miss Greta Connelly returned on Wednesday from Point Wolfe, Albert Co., where she has spent the last three weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. E. Moore. On Monday evening the citizens of the usually quiet village of Berwick, were thoroughly aroused, in consequence of the glad news of peace and a large number assembled to an open air service of thanksgiving and praise, conducted by Rev. L. J. Leard, after which a huge bonfire was lighted and cheers resounded through the evening air, which bespoke the truly thankful and joyous spirit which prevailed. About 250 were present at the service, which was most impressive. A similar demonstration took place at Collins, a patriotic village which slumbers among the hills seven miles from here, when they had a short service in the church and later indulged in lusty cheers and good will around a brilliant bonfire. The residents of Collins have shown their patriotism in a marked degree all through the conflict, and have contributed an incredible number of boys, some of whom have paid the price and others have returned crippled.

GUARD THE CHILDREN FROM AUTUMN COLDS. The fall weather is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next is wet and cold and unless the mother is on her guard the little ones are seized with colic that may hang on all winter. Baby's bowels are mothers' best friends in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose will prevent cold or if it does come on suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will quickly cure it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ETHEL BARRYMORE TO SCREEN ANOTHER BIG STAGE SUCCESS

"Lady Frederick," One of the Distinguished Star's Great Comedies, to be Made Upon Completion of "Our Mrs. McChesney"—Artistic Boudoir Scene a Feature—Cast Contains Many Notable Players Who Have Been Seen Upon St. John Screens.

"Lady Frederick," the brilliant society comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, has been secured for screen purposes by Metro Pictures Corporation from Mr. Maugham's American agents. Miss Ethel Barrymore, the international star, who introduced the play at the Hudson theatre, New York, a few seasons ago, with such immense success, will also present to the American public by way of the screen, and Metro is the gainer, since this great lady of the theatrical world has never appeared for any other motion picture company.

Miss Barrymore has played successfully on the speaking stage both "Lady Frederick" and "Our Mrs. McChesney," the latter being an adaptation of the famous Edna Ferber stories, dramatized by the author and George V. Hobart. Further stage comedies will be added to the list.

A notable cast will be engaged to support the star in the multiple-reel production of "Lady Frederick." This will be the first time the present star and director have been associated. Mr. Blanche, however, is a well known figure in the screen world, and has directed numerous Metro stars. He recently completed work with Edith Storey in "The Silent Woman," scheduled for early release, and "A Man's World," starring Emily Stevens, and he was the director of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" with Edmund Breese as star, which Metro was recently obliged to release in response to popular demand.

Mr. Blanche was born in London and educated in France.

Actual work on "Lady Frederick" before the camera will be begun soon, after Miss Barrymore has taken a short vacation following the completion of "Our Mrs. McChesney." Miss Barrymore, who is equally gifted on stage and screen, divides her time between the two branches of the dramatic art, alternating her Metro screen work with acting on the speaking stage under the management of the Charles Frohman Estate. The past season, at the Empire Theatre, she has appeared in a series of dramatic productions, beginning with "The Lady of the Camellias," by Edward N. Sheldon, a new treatment of the Camilla idea.

Beautiful Boudoir. The boudoir "set" in Metro's hands—some interesting production of Lady

ETHEL BARRYMORE

Frederick," in which Ethel Barrymore is the star, is one of uncommon artistic beauty. The furniture of white ivory and cane, and the draperies, pillows and curtains of rich lavender satin and ivory lace, form a dainty and gorgeous setting. Some of the important scenes take place in the boudoir.

The dressing table, of an unusual size, has three full length mirrors. The dressing table bench, with a tufted cushion of satin edged with lace, tied with fine gold braid, is artistically elaborate. The ivory chaise longue with its cushions of every shade and description, is a thing of both beauty and comfort, and the writing desk is perfect in its appointments with its white ivory desk set, its gold gull pen and heavily embossed stationery. The rug, the kind one sinks into with every step, borders between amethyst and wistaria. The chairs range from quaint artistic little ones to daintily upholstered lounging chairs. A lamp next the chaise longue is of the ivory and cane combination. The desk lamp has a shade of white lined with deep purple. The walls are panels and in each panel is a cluster of three lights with tiny lavender globes.

As a whole this set in "Lady Frederick" is one of the most artistic ever achieved. It was executed by M. P. Stalcup, art director, in accordance with Director Blanche's wish to see an important point in the story, just as it was brought out when presented by Miss Barrymore on the speaking stage. Director Blanche believes in starting at top speed, rather than in beginning a picture with the unimportant scenes, as is sometimes done, and on the first day the camera was focussed he had his entire cast present, including the star. Miss Barrymore as Lady Frederick looked beautifully regal in a rich gown of blue velvet. The scenes first photographed by George K. Hollister were those in Lady Frederick's

FASHIONS FOR CANADIANS

There are no longer summer and winter fabrics of distinctly different type and weight. Georgette, one of the sheerest of materials, is worn the year round, and wool jersey, serge, and even velvet and velveteen, formerly for cool or cold weather wear, are used through the sweltering summer days.

The sketch illustrates a graceful little frock that may be made now and worn through the summer and in fact, with an all-enveloping coat as a protection, during the winter as well. Tapes or leaf brown Georgette is suggested for the frock, with fringe in French blue finishing the panel tunic. The belt and collar may be of satin in the blue, and the big tucks on the tunic may be matched in blue.

The thin underneath skirt lining, over which the straight Georgette skirt falls, may be of blue if desired.

This dress fastens invisibly on the shoulder and underneath the arm. It preferred it may be developed entirely in one color. The fancy for finishing the neck of every dress with a touch of white is distinctly not in evidence in the showing of fall and winter frocks. Most of the better dresses are entirely colorless, or equipped with narrow inconspicuous collars matching the material of the dress in color. The collar is often of self fabric, sometimes of a soft silk or satin the same shade as the dress. The line of white at the neck is generally more becoming, if the white collar is always immaculately clean.

Modest Man. He—"I would gladly die for you, but for one thing." She—"And what is that?" He—"I'm afraid you could never replace the loss."

The cast of "Lady Frederick" reads like a small "Who's Who" of stage and screen. E. J. Ratcliffe has been engaged to play the part of Lord Frederick. Mr. Ratcliffe enjoyed national-wide success in Austin Stratton's brilliant sketch, "The Drums of Oude," and he was for three years a member of "The Man from Home" company, in a role second only in importance to that of the star, William Hodge. He has been a Prohman leading man in numerous Broadway successes. H. E. Herbert will play the important role of Paroline Paines. Mr. Herbert was born in Dublin, and has had important roles in English and American productions. Eugene Strong, a Metro favorite, will play Lord Mereston's son, Joseph Kilgour, a "villain" who has no rival in the hearts of the public, has been given the part of Montgomery Mr. Kilgour has been kept consistently busy in Metro pictures ever since his appearance in "The Shell Game," starring Emmy Wehlen. He is one of the most distinguished players in the Metro screen. Harold Entwistle, who plays Lord Mereston, will be remembered for his excellent work in Metro's moral pantomime "One of Many," starring Frances Nelson, in which he played the wicked father; Maude Turner Gordon, well known in Famous Players features, plays Lady Mereston.

John Goldworthy returns to Metro in "Lady Frederick" as Lord Beresford. He was with Lionel Barrymore in "A Yellow Streak" and with Valli in "Her Debt of Honor." One of the most important parts is that of Lady Kitty Beresford, and for this Naomi Childers has been engaged. Among her well known releases are "The Price of Fame," "The Turn of the Road," "The Spirit in the Clay," and "The Auction of Virtue."

At a time when thrones are tumbling and mighty empires disappearing overnight, it requires a vast transformation in human society to attract even momentary attention, says the Ottawa Journal. Of such a character is the event whereby the British House, without even as much as a division, passed the second reading of a bill giving women the right to sit in the House of Commons. When as late as 1865 John Stuart Mill placed a woman suffrage plank in his election platform he was hailed as a dangerous visionary. And in later years great British leaders, men even who like Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Asquith, called themselves liberals, stood out stubbornly against British rights.

When these things are considered, when the fierce, passionate struggles of the Suffragettes leaders right up to the threshold of the war are remembered, the meaning of what has now taken place becomes strikingly significant. It is an indication that the war has fundamentally altered old political viewpoints, prejudices, and creeds. Today upwards of 6,000,000 women in the British Isles have the right to vote, and the number will probably see women take their places in the British House of Commons. Truly, we are living through a history-making year.

When the Reform Bill became law, Robert Low bitterly declared "we must educate our masters." No such taunt can be directed against the six million new masters of the British House. Women have shown in this war, by their patriotism, by their sacrifices, by their adaptability to all forms of effort required of them, that they need no education from men regarding duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

What of our women in Canada? Union Government has given them the right to vote. Can it now, in face of what Britain has done, deny them entrance to Parliament? Surely not. The only logical thing to do—and we feel sure it will be done—is to follow the British example. We may even be able to go further than Great Britain, for the noble Lord Cecil, according to the cables, favored women being admitted to the House of Lords, but said that difficulties prevented such action. We do not know what difficulties the noble Lord had in mind, but we feel sure that they do not apply to our Senate. And if women members of the House of Commons, called upon to vote, think how they would scrutinize the work of mere men and their younger sisters in the lower House. Both parties in Canada have been talking about Senate reform for years. Here may be their chance, at last.

A PRAYER. Help me, O God, to keep before my eyes The larger visions of this war; to be inspired each day by noble thoughts that rise Of duty, honor, Country, and of Thee.

Help me to think of war as one vast effort of human effort struggling toward the goal Of freedom, from the iron rule of night. Lest I forget, and in my sorrow see Only the face of him who goes from me. —Anonymous Soldier's Wife.

NERVOUS AILMENTS

Few people realize that nervous ailments often arise from digestive troubles. The stomach fails, for some reason to digest food properly. Then the system languishes and the nerves become exhausted in striving to continue their work. Impure blood also causes nerve troubles, but frequently it is in the stomach where the mischief starts. As the nourishment is carried to the nerves, the blood, it will be seen that an important connection exists between the stomach, the nerves and the blood, and how the stomach troubles as nervous headaches, nervous dyspepsia and insomnia may begin.

In such cases relief is easily obtainable by means of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills replenish the blood with the food elements on which the nerve thrive; at the same time they exercise a tonic influence on the digestive organs, enabling the system to derive nourishment from the food taken. By this perfectly natural process nervous ills are steadily dispelled by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If you are suffering from nerves, or require a blood-making tonic, a few of these pills a fair trial, and see how speedily the best of health will be yours.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Oh! This Shopping"

"It certainly gets on my nerves. I come home all fagged out, and nearly always have a splitting headache. Yes, they say we women always like shopping. But if everybody feels as tired out afterwards as I do, it is no joke. I wonder if it is my nerves. I never could stand much sightseeing, anyway. The strain on the eyes seems to exhaust the whole system. I suppose I shall not be able to sleep to-night, and that will put me in fine condition for to-morrow. Why don't somebody invent a good medicine for the nerves? But what was that Mrs. Crary was telling me about? I believe it was Nerve Food—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have heard so many talking about the way this Nerve Food helped them that I must give it a trial. And this is what Mrs. Crary of 515 Cedar street, Peterboro', Ont., writes about her experience with this well-known food cure: 'I was suffering from a rundown condition of the system, nervous debility and sleeplessness. I just a good many nights' sleep, and sometimes after going to sleep would wake up with a start, and then lie awake for hours. I also had frequent headaches and pains through my back. I got so that I could hardly do any work. I had taken doctor's medicine, but it did not seem to help me. Through reading newspapers of the help others had derived from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I started taking this medicine. The first box helped me, so I continued taking about five or six boxes. I found that I was great deal better, able to sleep well and do my work without any trouble. My headaches and nervousness are gone. My mother lives with me, and she has also found great benefit from the use of the Nerve Food. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervous troubles of any kind. If you could only read the letters which come to this office from day to day telling of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing for women, and men, too, in all parts of Canada, you would not be long in doubt as to the most satisfactory treatment for tired bodies and exhausted nerves. All we can do is to pass along the good words by publishing an occasional letter. It remains for you to benefit by using this blood and nerve builder to restore energy and vitality to your exhausted system. You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto, 6 boxes for $2.75. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of phosphate, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, slow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing.

LOYALIST CHAPTER TO HAVE GIFT SHOP

Meeting Held Yesterday—Donation Voted for Smokes

A special meeting of the Loyalist Chapter, I. O. D. E., was held yesterday afternoon in their rooms in the Bible house, Germain street. The members are making ready for a Gift Shop which will be opened at the Bible house on December 14th. Ten dollars was voted to the Overseas Club for soldiers' smokes.

Members were asked to assist the Y. W. P. A. in their Victory Bond campaign, and it was regretted that at present the funds of the Chapter did not warrant investing in Bonds. The Loyalist Chapter have many funds to which they contribute and like other societies they have felt the effects of the ban on public entertainments from which money can be raised.

Mrs. Hugh MacKay, Regent, presided.

KING'S DAUGHTERS CONTRIBUTE TO V.A.D.

The King's Daughters held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the Guild on Chipman Hill, Mrs. A. Pierce Crockett, president, presiding.

A large number of members were present, but owing to the recent ban on meetings very few of the committees had reports to hand in. The report of the house committee was most satisfactory, the rooms being filled constantly.

Plans were made for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the St. John Branch of the City Union of the King's Daughters.

The sum of fifty dollars ($50) taken from the Tithes fund, was voted to be sent to the V. A. D. Diet Kitchen to help with the care of the sick.

VALCARTIER CHAPTER, I. O. D. E.

The Valcartier Chapter, I. O. D. E., held a meeting last evening at the home of Miss Lou Johnson, Hanes street. Miss Edith Miller presided. Plans were made for a sale to be held in the Great War Veterans' Rooms on Nov. 27th. The sum of ten dollars was voted to the Overseas Club for smokes for soldiers.

If you have ever had to stay at home when you wanted to go some place very, very badly, and had to stay in the house when you didn't feel sick at all, you'll know just how Margery Daw felt on this bright, sunny Sunday morning when all of the church bells were ringing and all of the big people and all of the little people who lived in Mother Goose Village and on Pin Hill were getting ready to go to church.

It was hard to stay at home.

Other times I'd ask Sukey to let me make candy," said Margery Daw to herself, "but cause it's Sunday and 'cause I just know she won't want to do it, I won't ask her."

TRACK ROBIN ABOVE CIVIL KNELL

TO MY FRIENDS:

Have you bought all the Bonds YOU can?

When the First Loan was offered I bought $2,000—a fair amount for a man of my income.

I bought more of the Second Loan.

When the Third Loan was offered I began to wake up. I SUBSCRIBED for all I could possibly afford. After that I began to THINK.

Many of my good friends and old pals had gone "Over There" to offer their ALL to make it safe for us to live in comfort here.

I had a long heart-to-heart talk with my good wife. We asked ourselves if we had really done all we could, or only what we could "without inconvenience." Then we began to ACT. We gave up our apartment and cut our rent—and other expenses have been cut accordingly.

I have now invested over 70 per cent. of my gross income and over 80 per cent. of my total assets in Bonds, and—if I keep my health—I will not sell a single Bond. To pay my taxes, insurance, and other expenses from what is left will be some problem.

So, my friends, when you see me wearing last year's clothes, hat and shoes, you will know the reason. I am trying to do what I think is right and—I don't want to be ashamed to meet "Lou" Bacon, "Pete" Long, Herbert Moloney, "Dunk" Macpherson, and dozens of others of my good friends when they come back.

It is up to each one of us INDIVIDUALLY to go off in some quiet spot and alone—face to face with our God—ask ourselves this question—"Am I worth dying for?" Then take a subscription blank and let your conscience dictate the answer by the amount you subscribe.

Don't let Germany's peace propaganda defeat the Loan.

Yours for the winning of the war,

STORM DAMAGE QUITE SERIOUS

Moncton Practically Isolated by Wire for the Past
Two Days.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL TO SETTLE O'CONNELL

Rumors on the go Again
About Changes in the Management of the C. G. R.—

Special to The Standard.
Moncton, Nov. 15.—Evidence taken in the case of William O'Connell charged with attempting to start a riot on Monday night last, is to be submitted to Attorney General Byrne to decide as to whether there is sufficient evidence to place the accused on trial. One of the returned soldiers in giving evidence today stated that he understood the mayor had given the boys the freedom of the city to celebrate the Allied victory.

Police Magistrate Steeves refused to dismiss the case, but decided to submit evidence to the Attorney General.

As in other parts of the provinces, Moncton was hard hit by yesterday's snow and wind storm. The city has been practically isolated for two days so far as telegraph and telephone services are concerned. Not in many years has the telegraph service been so completely disrupted as during Thursday's storm. Most of Moncton telegraph and telephone wires are badly down, poles being broken off. In country districts the telephone has been put completely out of business, and a week or more will be required to give anything like the usual service.

The city council tonight made a grant of $300 to the local G. W. V. A. organization, and in addition $50 per month until the association is on a self-sustaining basis.

Moncton's Victory Loan figures to-night had reached a total of $940,000, and the total for the city and county is now about $1,500,000.

Employees of the C. G. R., all one system, have subscribed a total of $110,000. The objective was a million, and the C. G. R. has gone over the top.

Periodical rumors of changes in the C. G. R. management are again in circulation here, but it can be stated positively that there is no foundation to the reports. F. P. Brady, assistant manager of the C. G. R. lines located at Cochrane, is here on a trip, but the rumor that he is returning to Moncton to locate in the same basis as the other reports.

THE LEBLANC FAMILY.

D. LeBlanc of Memramook was a visitor in the city yesterday, returning to his home on the Moncton express last evening. Mr. LeBlanc paid a visit to his son at the present convalescing in a military hospital. One son, Ernest, now overseas, escaped serious injuries in action, receiving but slight wounds. Another son, a member of the Ninth Siege Battery, has made excellent showing on the field, and was given a leave to qualify for a course in gunnery. At one time this boy was in the West, and enlisted whilst en route to his home. Mr. LeBlanc is the father of eighteen children, nearly all of whom are at present living.

Small-Patchey.

On November 7th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Patchey, of Plaster Rock, N.B., was the scene of a pretty event, when their daughter, Violet May Patchey became the wife of Hermon Lee Small, of Monticello, Me. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Archibald Hutchins, of Perth, in the presence of immediate relatives and a few friends. The bride was neatly gowned and unattended. After the ceremony a delectable luncheon was served. The bride received a number of beautiful and useful presents. Their many friends join in wishing the happy couple years of health and prosperity.

WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE.

Hon. W. E. Foster, Premier of New Brunswick, left last night for Ottawa to attend the conference of the provincial premiers with the federal ministers in regard to provincial questions. Among the matters to come up in which New Brunswick is particularly interested, are the Valley Railway and land for soldiers. Another matter in which all three of the Maritime Provinces are interested is the application for an increase of subsidy granted by the Dominion Government in lieu of the land additions which have been made to the other provinces of the Dominion.

DON'T YOU ABDICATE JUST BECAUSE THE KAISER DID

DON'T LOSE YOUR VICTORY LOAN STRIDE JUST BECAUSE IT LOOKS AS IF THE WAR IS WON.

DON'T YOU ABDICATE JUST BECAUSE THE KAISER DID. STAY ON YOUR JOB.

We must at once get ready for making the merchandise of reconstruction and for a vast peace trade at home and in foreign countries.

Almost everything necessary for man's comfort is needed in large quantities. We have still to feed large armies, countless prisoners and the peoples of Europe in Allied countries.

To this has now been added Central Europe, which has been short of food for a long time, and will be seeking a meal three times a day.

Ships will be wanted in every port, and we shall build many of them for other countries; railroad engines and cars, agricultural machinery, electrical and traction machinery, lumber, steel and any transportable building material, and many other things will be needed from us in the rebuilding of the devastated parts of Belgium, France and Serbia.

In our own country we, as individuals, are short of almost everything. We need more houses, and thousands of homes need repairs.

Many farm improvements have been awaiting peace and the finding of labor; every house in Canada, with most trifling exceptions, is short of domestic help; every business establishment, be it a bank or a small shop, needs more employes; we need things made of leather, wool and cotton for personal apparel; there is, indeed, scarcely any object of consumption or temporary or permanent use in which we have not stinted ourselves during the war, and which we shall not now wish to secure.

But we have a difficult job to step over from war conditions to these happy peace conditions, and if we are to do it successfully we need to save every dollar and lend it to the Government in order that Canada may be able again to spend or to lend the money necessary to create the new forms of labor which will take the place of what is now being done in munition factories.

Every dollar we lend is invested in the safest security that any Government ever issued, and if trouble comes to any of these buyers, the Victory Bond he owns, whether entirely paid for or not, will be the most easily saleable of anything he possesses.

Remember, then, that we should save every possible dollar, and if we do not wish to do this for our own sake we should do it for the sake of our country.

Otherwise, we are unworthy of a share in the credit which has come to Canada in this war.

A RUNAWAY'S GLIMPSE OF GLORY

By William E. Ellis.

The International Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 17, is "Jacob Fleeing From His Angry Brother." Gen. 28:10-22.

Some persons need to be scared or smitten into reformation. There is plenty of precedent and warrant for the chastening of Germany in order to insure a change in her character. Jacob, son of Isaac, who had not a few points in common with the Kaiser, had to be soundly frightened, and his ambitious schemes wrecked, before he ever found his better self. When he became a fugitive from the vengeance of his outraged brother Esau, he had a new standpoint from which to view himself. A lonely wanderer, afflicted at every shadow and every sound, with no servant to accompany him, and with no wealth in his hand, Jacob was far removed from his former position as arch-conspirator in the household of his rich father Isaac. Now there was no food, no show, and no unscrupulous mother to incite or abet him. He was on his own, and that is often the beginning of great things in a young man's life.

Jacob was on the run, with a guilty conscience for his only companion. He and his mother had presented to Isaac another reason for the flight—the importance of securing for Jacob a wife from the old family stock up in Haran. Really, though, it was fear of Esau that quickened his footsteps. Jacob might be a better business man than his brother, and able to outplay him in any game of guile, but in a straight-out fight he was afraid of the hairy hunter. So the successful schemer was fleeing from his own home, looking for a chance to begin life over again in safety. All his trickery had been in vain.

"I wish there were some wonderful place called the Land of Beginning Again. Where all our mistakes, and all our heart aches, and all our griefs, and all our poor selfish griefs could be dropped like a shabby old coat, at the door. And never put on again."

Where British Soldiers March.

An air of unreality surrounds Bible characters and places for many persons; and it is continually worth while to remind ourselves that the route of Jacob's flight is the present route of the British forces in Palestine. Like him, they started from Beersheba, where they maintained headquarters, after defeating the Turks at Suez and on the Sinai Peninsula. From Beersheba, they, like him, marched north, and are still going, until they reach Haran, or until General Marshall's troops from Bagdad pass through it and unite with the forces from Beersheba, somewhere in the neighborhood of Aleppo. At a point where the British lately routed the Turks, called Bethel, Jacob had an experience that has meant more to human life than most great battles.

What some one man thinks is often a turning point in world history. Inner personal experiences are the real seeds of revolution. It is a great thing for the world when a man or a woman, and particularly a young man or a young woman, gets a new conviction concerning the spiritual verities. It is not the places we have been, the things we have seen and heard and done, that matter most, but the resolutions we have formed, the thoughts that have come to dominate us. Jacob, at Bethel, had made a more momentous journey than to Haran; he was on his way to a great idea. For the first time, apparently, he was taking vital account of God.

It is easiest to look up when we are down. Adversity has been the introduction of many a person to the things worth while. When fear and disaster are at our heels, we instinctively cry out for help from some Power beyond ourselves. The more creditable man has not been the most creditable, but the effect of fugitive Jacob's experience was to set him to thinking about Jehovah, the God of his father and of his grandfather. On that lonely, hasty journey, he brooded upon the vast promises to his family line, promises which dwarfed into true proportions his mean and greedy devices for self-enrichment. The Dream and the Song.

Night had fallen. The frightened Jacob had kept going, fearful ever of hearing the shout of his avenging brother behind him. He knew the physical hardihood and endurance of Esau the hunter, who might even now be tracking him as game. Not until darkness had come did he pause, near the village of Luz. His preparations for the night were of the simplest: a stone for a pillow, the earth for a couch, his cloak for a covering. It was not hardship for him to sleep so; he had often done it, as the people of the land do it to this very day. A stone is a hard pillow only to the person used to feathers.

Ruling thoughts usually shape dreams. And Jacob dreamed of God and Heaven and safety and a sure inheritance. In his dream it seemed as if a ladder reached from the very spot where he slept to heaven itself, and messengers ascended and descended. "And behold, Jehovah stood above it, and said, I am Jehovah, the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac; the land whom thou liest to thee will I give it and to thy seed, and thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west and to the east, and in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed. And behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of."

"And, behold, Jehovah stood above it, and said, I am Jehovah, the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac; the land whom thou liest to thee will I give it and to thy seed, and thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west and to the east, and in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed. And behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of."

"Though like the wanderer, The sun gone down, Darkness be over me, My rest a stone; Yet in my dreams I'd be Nearer my God to Thee, Nearer to Thee."

There let the way appear, Steps unto heaven: All that Thou send'st to me In mercy given: Angels to beckon me Nearer my God to Thee, Nearer to Thee!

Then, with my waking thoughts Bright with Try praise, Out of my stony griefs Bethel I'll raise; So by my woes to be Nearer my God to Thee, Nearer to Thee!

The Penitent's Vow. As the starving one dreams of food, as the wanderer thinks of home, as the prodigal recalls his father's house, as the sinner longs for virtue, so Jacob, the schemer, saw in his dream that which was to him most desirable. And the dream tremendously influenced his life. It brought him back suddenly to a sense of God. He saw himself in the light of the presence of Jehovah.

There is traffic between heaven and earth. Mortal experiences have an immortal outreach. God is concerned in the affairs of man. He has his messengers climbing unseen ladders between the spiritual realms. What Jacob foresaw in a dream, has come to be the supreme reality of all existence. God has drawn near to us in the person of his own sent Son, our Saviour. Through him we may have closer, surer contact with the eternal world than came to Jacob at Bethel.

In these days of long casualty lists, of confusion, suffering, perplexity and war, we all need the reassurance that came to Jacob, that God is not uninterested. He is not a cold and distant deity, standing apart and remote, indifferent in his ineffable majesty. By all of his omnipotent resourcefulness, God is pressing himself and his comfort and his inspiration upon a sore-hearted world.

shrine. Oriental-wise, Jacob marked the scene of his dream with a memorial stone. His pillow became a pillar. That which had helped him sleep, became a means to awaken remembrance. That spot, like every other where man meets his Maker, became a house of God, a gate of heaven. A Made-Over World.

This great experience did not make a saint of Jacob. He had a long way yet to go on that journey. But it did change his direction. His soul was searched. God became a new factor in his life. He had learned to reckon with the infinite verities. It would need some hard living, a further fight, and an ever more intimate and personal experience of God, to make over his character completely.

Jacob's vow, after his vision, seems pitifully inadequate. He had seen the heavens opened. He had heard the voice of Jehovah. A vista of benign providence had been spread before him. Still, all that he asked, was merely safety for this journey, and food and clothes. His vow, or bargain, was not on a lofty plane; it had no spiritual implications. If God would take care of him physically, he would serve God, and give him a tenth of his income!

Nevertheless, Jacob was on the way to a new character. In a world of lawlessness, with self-seeking and injustice and oppression rampant, millions of persons are today wondering how we are going to assure a new world order. The fundamental problem is one affecting human nature. It is not enough to break German armament, if German sins abide. The motives of militarism and materialism are more of a menace than is mere might. We cannot create successfully a league of altruistic nations. The Jacob problem is really the world problem today. We have to change human nature.

"It can't be done," says the man of the world. Ah, but it has been done, and it is being done, and it will be done, on an increasingly large scale. But only the goodness and grace of God can do it. Except the world first meet God, in a personal transaction and relationship, it cannot meet the needs of a new day. Converted men and women are the only sure route to a transformed human society.

General Foch recently said to an American visitor, "We cannot maintain the ideals of liberty and justice, whether in war or in peace, without faith in the Christ, for He was the great giver of freedom to men."

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS. Come forth into the light of things—Let naught be your thoughts.—Wordsworth.

Let us be of good cheer, however, remembering that the hardest to bear are those which never come.—Lowell.

Take time to speak a loving word Where loving words are seldom heard. And it will linger in the mind And gather others of its kind; Till loving words will echo where erstwhile the heart was poor and bare; And, somewhere on the Heavenward track, The music will come echoing back.—Anon.

Noble examples stir us to noble actions, and the very history of large public souls inspires a man with generous thoughts.—Seneca.

So then, as we have opportunity, let us work that which is good toward all men, and especially towards them that are of the household of the faith.—Gal. 6:10.

The soul of music slumbers in the shell Till waked and kindled by the Master's spell; And feeling hearts, touch them but rightly, pour A thousand melodies unheard before!—Samuel Rogers.

Good temper, like a sunny day, sheds brightness over everything; and is the sweetener of toil, and the soother of disquietude.—Irvine.

THE SALVATION ARMY'S WORK. Not the least of the many elements that have contributed to the winning of the war was the work of the Salvation Army on the battle front.

It ranks in importance, in the courage and enthusiasm of its members, and in the help rendered to our soldiers, with any of the great organizations of mercy that have shared with it the discomfort and danger of trench and field. The origin of the Salvation Army was as lowly as that of Him whom it serves. Founded in England by General Booth its pioneer corps of ladies and lassies made their first appearance in New York fully forty years ago, and since then its barracks have been planted in nearly every city and town in the country. The sophisticated element in the town greeted them with the same hee-haws of scornful mirth with which it is our custom to encourage every sincere and worthy attempt to better us. But those whom they came to help did not laugh, and from the moment of their first meeting down to the present day these faithful soldiers have gone about their duties in the worst quarters of the town unmolested. That first meeting was held in Harry Hill's dance house in Fouston street in the presence of an audience made up of fallen women, roustabouts, pugilists, thieves, derelicts and sightseers. Down on their knees went the lads and lassies and lifted their voices in prayer to the Most High, and such was their sincerity that the crowd listened in silence and later took up a collection of more than two hundred dollars to speed them on their unselfish course.

When that which was beginning them to style itself the "better element" stopped laughing it began to look upon the invasion with the cold eyes of disapproval, declaring that the newcomers were "bringing religion down to a low level." They were indeed bringing it down, and to levels where it had seldom been seen before. There was a religion that raised up those who fell, comforted and helped the sick hearted and sought to beat down Satan under their feet. On the battlefields they have employed the same methods by which they retrieved souls in New York slums. To the firing line they went with their hot coffee and doughnuts. And there was none to laugh at them there. Truly the Salvation Army deserves well at the hands of the nation.—N. Y. Herald.

SHOE SUPERSTITION. Many superstitions are connected with this article of apparel. It is thought unlucky to put either shoe on the wrong foot. Because Augustus Caesar was nearly assassinated by a mutiny one day when he put on his left shoe first, a saying has arisen that the right shoe must be put on first unless its owner wishes to court misfortune.

What Aunt Margaret Learned

"How do you like my bread, Aunt Margaret?" "Splendidly," answered she whose many years of experience qualify her to render expert judgment. "What are the qualities by which good bread is judged, Aunt Margaret?" "Flavor, silky and even crumb, good brown crust, large shapely loaves, and of course, the amount of nourishment. I must say your bread meets this standard just splendidly! We couldn't bake bread like that when I was a girl. How in the world do you accomplish it?" "When you were as young as I, Aunt Margaret, there wasn't any Cream of the West Flour."

Cream of the West Flour

(Milled According to Government Standard)

"But why do you mention this particular flour, my dear?" "Because Cream of the West is made specially for good bread from Western Canada hard wheat. This wheat has more gluten than other wheats. And gluten is very nourishing. That is why my bread goes so far." "And you get such fine big loaves," remarked Aunt Margaret. "The extra gluten in Cream of the West flour accounts for that, too. You see, gluten is a very elastic substance. It imprisons the little bubbles of gas created by the yeast and thus enables the bread to rise until it bulges away up out of the pans."

"But how do you manage to get such good bread ALWAYS?" "Because Cream of the West is ALWAYS of uniform strength. The Campbell Flour Mills Company have an up-to-date scientific laboratory at their mills for testing wheat. The same class of wheat will naturally vary in strength in different localities at different times. A trained expert at the Campbell mills finds out exactly what is IN the wheat before it is used for Cream of the West flour. Then it is easy to maintain the high standard of quality, always the same—always dependable."

Pythagoras, the old Greek, sage, told his disciples to put their left foot into their baths first. In Anglo-Saxon marriages the father-in-law gave the bride's shoe to the bridegroom, who touched her on the head with it to denote his lordly authority. At one time—in the 14th or 15th century—people wore the points or beaks of their shoes so long that they tumbled over them when they walked and were forced to tie them to their backs by leaces or chains.

The ending of hostilities is still being celebrated in Lima. Thousands parade the streets daily and cheer the Allied legations. All business virtually has been suspended during the week.

TOGETHER WITH MANY MERCHANDISE PRIZES

Herewith will be found the picture of an Ariator who has just dropped a bomb on a pile of shells. At first glance the Ariator and the Explosives appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful study the faces of several soldiers will be found. There are 7 of them in all. Can you find them? It is so easy to look but so hard to find. It is so easy to look but so hard to find. It is so easy to look but so hard to find. It is so easy to look but so hard to find.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses which we will send you. If you find the faces mark each one with an X, cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words. We have found all the faces and marked them. Write these six words plainly and neatly, as in case of tie, both writing and neatness are considered factors in this contest.

This year takes up a little of your time but as TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and many merchandise prizes are given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words. "I have found all the faces and marked them."

WE DO NOT ASK YOU TO SPEND ONE CENT OF YOUR MONEY IN ORDER TO ENTER THIS CONTEST.
Send your answer at once we will reply by return mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have won $1,500.00 in Cash Prizes in recent contests held by the publishers of this advertisement. Although they are our references, an enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, so all previous winners of cash prizes are discredited from entering this contest.

RIPPLING RHYMES

JULY.

July's a month I don't admire; it's hotter than a house afire. It drives me wailing to the shade; to lap up tubs of lemonade. The sun is like a ball of brass; it shrivels the leaves and grass; it burns my neck and peels my nose, and multiplies my weary woes; and makes me marmur and perspire; July's a month I don't admire. The coach to which I drag my form, when evening comes, is much too warm. And there I toss the long night through, and tear the sheets, and groan and stew, and kick the footboard from the bed, and vainly wish that I were dead. When morning comes I sadly rise, and brush the cobwebs from my eyes, and see the same old sun on deck, determined all the world to wreck. The breeze is dry and lacking juice; 'twas friend before they turned it loose. The birds flop round on witted wings, and not a blamed canary sings. The hens are squawking here and there, disgusted that they can't swear. All nature has a parboiled look, and steam is rising from the brook, and half-cooked fish climb out to get a breath of air, already yet. The men and women eadly go on bootless errands to and fro; they view the hot and glaring sky and speak blue words about July. The landscape's like a widespread pyre; July's a month I don't admire.

LIGHTING A PIPE

May Make a Man Look Intelligent, But Doesn't Make Him So.

Why is it that a man always looks so intelligent when he is lighting his pipe? Probably it is because the intake of breath which is necessary to start proper combustion causes a drawing up of the brows, a wrinkling of the forehead, a convexity of the cheeks and a puckering of the mouth, all of which produces an owl and oracular demeanor.

This mask of wisdom and soberness, says a writer in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, when brightly lit by the gleam and yellow shining of the match-flame which leaps up and down over the bowl of the pipe, has dismayed many a timid observer. We knew that our friends, like ourselves, was but a well-nourished simpleton whose mind even if spread at its thinnest could not shelter more than one-tenth of his doings with common sense. How came it, then, that this simple act of laying fire to dried vegetation could so uplift and ensare him? Whenever a man lights his pipe his mind seems born anew; in other words, it steps back into the vast ocean of simple absurdity whence most of our minds come trickling. The momentary right gives him time to think and he starts afresh upon argument, rebuttal and contradiction. And inevitably he says something particularly idiotic, but, alas, it is not as assembly, samedrum, arpeggios or court of star chamber ever looked more solemn or more profound than a smoking car full of commuters; they sit in a 7-foot box of blue vapor, busy with the persistent and futile scratching of Swedish dud matches; and yet nowhere on earth will you hear so much balderdash uttered.

We implore women, particularly young men and fair, not to be misled by the sage and philosophic bearing of man as he lights his pipe. A man kindling tobacco is no wiser than a woman putting hairpins in her hair. Like most things which are entirely true, this is very sad. For if ever a man should be wise and profound as Rabindranath and Ralph Waldo Trine together it is when he is accomplishing this sacred and pensive rite of lighting up.

For the moment—O, how brief!—his mouth is stopped with smoke and pipe-stem, his finer faculties should be brought to a head (his own head) by the symbolic act of kindling a flame, which is the most poetical and marvellous act the world knows, whether that flame be for the purpose of cooking bacon or lighting tobacco or firing a screaming shell 10 miles in an invisible curve at the defilers of a French village. And yet, watch your friend while he lights his pipe. Watch him hopefully, wistfully, attentively. The little beacon will flare three inches under his nose; his cheeks will retract and puff out; the fragrant smoke will rush—blue from the bowl and gray from the lips, as some critics have noticed—and then, instead of the wise and pondered utterance that you expect, he will say something trivial. Worse than trivial, irrelevant. Worse than irrelevant, untrue! Yes, it is hard to live up to one's pipe.

WHERE BIRDS ARE USED AS LAMPS

The price of coal oil is a matter of no interest to the inhabitants of the island of St. Kilda, a favorite haunt of that animated oilcan, the fulmar. So rich in oil is this sea bird that the natives simply pass a wick through its body and use it as a lamp.

The oil is also one of the principal articles exported from the island. It is found in the bird's stomachs, is amber colored, and has a peculiarly nauseous odor. The old birds are said to feed the young with it, and when they are caught or attacked they lighten themselves by disgorging it.

"Kamerad," Yells Jim, Just Like Real Hun

"There's play Germans." Let's were close to a dozen of them. Half at least had coarser wagons. "I'll tell you what let's do," said one of them. "We'll make all the old note boats; all but Jim there. We'll at him be the German submarine and we'll all chase him. What do you say kids?"

"Fine! Come on, Jim, you go round the corner and Ed there'll be the troop transport and we'll be the convoy."

Round the corner went Jim and his low rakish craft. And back he came bent on the destruction of Ed's transport.

And perhaps you don't think Jim knew how to play Germans? "The moment the torpedo boats attacked, Jim jumped up onto the deck, threw up his hands and started yelling. "Kamerad! Kamerad!" Ten amazed youngsters looked at him.

"That ain't no fun," said one. "You give up too quick."

"Well, what do you think one of those old Germans 'd do if he didn't have any more chance 'n I've got here?"

Q—What is it which, if you name it, even break it?
A—Silence.

PILGRIMAGE

"Mary," in the New York Evening Sun. The East is full of singing. The South breathes forth a sigh. The West cries out with shouting. As glory passes by: But in the North is silence. Most lovely and austere; And I will journey northward Until I cease to hear.

The East is golden yellow The South is vivid blue The West is burnt with crimson Most wonderful to view; But in the North is nothing Save comfortable gray; And I will journey northward Till colors fade away.

Out in the East are fairies, And in the South are men, And in the West are angels I shall not see again; For in the far and holy North is God's abiding place; And I will journey northward Till I behold His face.

"She's terribly disappointed." "What's the matter?" "Her husband went away to the war two weeks after their marriage."

"Well?" "He's been in France several weeks now and although she reads every line of the war news every day, the papers have yet to mention the gallant deeds that she knows he must be doing."

THE EVENING STORY

Ann, of All People.

(Copyright, 1918, by W. Werner.)

Just to look at Ann was like throwing open a window in a close room and letting in a flood of sunshine on wings of cool, crisp air.

She was tall, Gibsonesque of figure, with well-groomed light brown hair, clear cut features, olive gray eyes and flowing red cheeks, and no matter how often you saw her in a dinner gown or in full evening dress at dances or the opera you always thought of her as strictly tailor-made, and, of course, wearing white spats.

The white spats flashed along the street in briak, swinging strides. Not that Ann ever hurried. Only little, incapable people tear about and lose their heads. And Ann was the big, efficient, sane thinking type, but she walked as though she had an object in view. And, as a matter of fact, she generally had two or three, with half a dozen jolly possibilities in the back of her mind.

In short, Ann was a younger sister any woman would be tremendously proud of and dread to have visit her. Dread, that is if the woman was Trudie Gillespie, married to a man as good as gold, but a confirmed plodder and living in a house always shabby of carpets and furniture, with three children always outgrowing their clothes, having whooping cough, measles, or adenoids.

"A small town like Centers will gore Ann to extinction," sighed Trudie, folding the letter that brought the disconcerting announcement. "A big city is her breath of life."

"But you don't ask her to make us a visit, mamma," Willis Gillespie offered his wife by way of comfort.

"That's what I can't understand," said Trudie with another stich. "Why she should come away now when she is in the midst of having so many good times."

Challenged on arrival, Ann laughingly explained the why—a case of a too ardent suitor, her usual nipping in the bud methods having failed to nip. "Had I been in the privacy of a home of my own," early twinkle Ann, "I might have lived it down. But at an apartment hotel, with clerks, bellboys, and guests all on the grin, daily floral offerings, telephone messages, and calls frequent and often from the gentleman himself, made me feel such a fool. I just cut and run."

"But, Ann," remonstrated Trudie, who always read the society columns of her Sunday paper, "this Arthur Peyton you've treated so scornfully is considered the catch of the season!"

"But, Trudie," retorted Ann, "I'm not fishing!"

"Ann, matrimonially you're incorrigible!" declared Mrs. Gillespie.

At which Ann's beautiful white teeth flashed in a dazzling smile. Her bachelor-mad freedom was the hobby dearest to her heart.

She put it that way, but from the start by right of born leadership and efficiency, it was Ann who took charge and Trudie who helped. True, there had been a lot of sickness in the family before, but each time with Trudie it had been a case of muddling through somehow rather than a gain of experience. Ann never muddled. Besides, she had quite a little expert knowledge and training, having taken several home nursing courses and attended a number of medical lectures. Then there was her fine, clear thinking mind.

The fine, clear thinking mind pierced straight through the concealing little Centers doctor's bluff to his ignorance both of the case in hand and of all up to date methods.

"Trudie," said Ann the third day of Elaine's illness, "we've got to have another doctor. I wouldn't trust a sick cat to Dr. Peekin—well, maybe, a cat, but not a dog I valued."

"But, Ann, there's no one else," protested Trudie, aghast. "except, of course, the new doctor at Fruitdale. They say he's wonderful."

"Why, Fruitdale's a littler place than Centers," said Ann skeptically. "How does a 'wonderful' doctor happen to be there?"

"Two or three of his children are delicate. I believe—he has half a dozen or so," explained Trudie. "His wife died of consumption, and I suppose they've inherited her weak constitution. Anyhow, Mrs. McAllister told me he'd given up a large practice in the east and come to California for their health. He brought little Betty McAllister through typhoid, you know, and the whole family are crazy about him. But they have piles of money," sighed Trudie, "and can afford to send anywhere they want for a doctor."

"We'll have to afford it, too," said Ann with decision. "Elaine is a very sick child, Trudie."

Of course it ended in Dr. Peekin being dismissed—"dred," Ann gleefully put it—and Dr. Ferguson of Fruitdale summoned.

When Ann saw the new doctor she was horrified at what she had done. There was nothing prepossessing about him. "As ugly as sin," to use Ann's exact words again. Tall, lanky, red-headed, careless of dress, with abominable taste in neckties. Yet before he left the house that day Ann had a feeling of new strength and confidence. "He's the real thing, Trudie," she declared with emphatic approval, "both as a doctor and a man."

Ann had been right. Elaine was a very sick child. Even with a physician of Dr. Ferguson's ability and resourcefulness the sweet little life long hung in doubt between its choice of two worlds. One week the doctor came over from Fruitdale three times a day and on the night of extreme

THE TABLE D'HOTE DINNER.

The Table d'Hote Dinner is a successful method of saving money at the expense of the appetite.

The regulation Table d'Hote Dinner consists of three courses with one guest. The patron is allowed to look at a long, serpentine bill of fare which seems to present untold possibilities for fifty cents, but after reading it all the way through and deciding to order everything in sight he stumbles onto a few lines of brisque fine print which eliminates everything but the roast beef and food tins. This explains why so many patrons rise up from a Table d'Hote Dinner wearing a wan and crestfallen look.

The Table d'Hote Dinner was invented for the benefit of people who are never hungry when it is their turn to buy. It is favored by hotels and restaurants because it has been demonstrated that almost everybody chooses the wrong meat or vegetable and is stricken with total paralysis of the appetite. It is estimated that the American hotel makes more money off the Table d'Hote victim than it does off the 6x9 sample room with a north pole temperature.

The main idea back of the Table d'Hote Dinner, however, is to drive the patron into the open jaws of the la carte service. This is a merciless system by which two strips of bacon and a plate of buttered toast are made to cost more than a week's board at the home of an esteemed relative. It requires more fortitude to sit down and look into the threatening countenance of an la carte menu without quailing than it does to wear the legless union suit all winter.

doubtless all right for city folks, but out in the country, where people know how to live, it will never be adopted as a substitute for food.

TREASURE ISLAND

(From the London Nation.)

Comes little lady, a book in hand. A light in her eyes that I understand. And her cheeks aglow from the fairy breeze That sweeps across the uncharted seas. She gives me the book, and her word or praise. A ton of critical thought outweighs. "I've finished it, daddie!" a sigh there-at.

"Are there any more books in the world like that?"

No, little lady, I grieve to say That of all the books in the world to-day There's not another that's quite the same. As this magic book with the magic name. Volumes there be that are pure delight. Ancient and yellowed, or new and bright; But—little or thin, or big and fat— There are no more books in the world like that.

And what, little lady, would I not give For the wonderful world in which you live! What have I garnered one-half as true As the tales Titania whispers you? Ah, late we learn that the only truth Was that which we found in the Book of Youth; Profitless others, and stale and flat; There are no more books in the world like that.

Only His Belt Felt Slack. It's hard to make the slacker understand his slackness. A brawny slacker of a tramp knocked at the kitchen door of a farm house and whined out a request for food.

"Young man," said the farmer's wife, "you ought to go to the front."

"I did go to the front, lady," said the slacker; "but I couldn't make nobody hear, so I came around to the back."

A—Mice.

danger never left the house. And no sooner was Elaine pronounced out of danger than first Billy and then little Gertrude sickened. Theirs were both light cases, but it prolonged the quarantine and the doctor's visits.

"The thought of his bill absolutely frightens me," sighed Trudie, the picture of one sunny morning when all three children were up and about and only waiting for the ban to be lifted to go out. "And he still keeps on coming. Surely that isn't necessary now. Ann, won't you give him a hint? It would sound better coming from you than from me. Besides, I'm generally busy with other things at the time of his visits, and often don't see him."

Evidently Ann failed to hint, for the doctor's visits continued.

"I can't understand Ann's indifference," Trudie went on, fidgeting to herself, "when she knows so well Willie's small salary and all."

And as at that moment the doctor's auto, with the back seat heaped in spring bloom from his home garden, drew up at the gate, Trudie determined to end the matter herself. Her very effort to be tactful made her the more clumsy of speech, but nobody could mistake her meaning—not even a doctor trying to run up a bill.

"But, my dear Mrs. Gillespie," he said in astonishment, "I haven't been paying visits on the children's account for two weeks and more. I supposed, of course, you understood that it's your sister Ann I'm coming to see now?"

"Coming to see Ann?" repeated Trudie in panic. Ann sick; needing a doctor and not telling her? She understood it all. Nursing the children had been too great a strain—broken down her strength—perhaps developed in a distressed voice, "don't tell me it's Ann's heart!"

"I'm afraid it is, Mrs. Gillespie," said the doctor, very soberly. "But here is Ann to answer for herself."

"Ann," cried Trudie, turning commandingly to the younger sister, who at that moment eagerly joined them, "tell me instantly what Dr. Ferguson is coming to see you for?"

In reply Ann lifted her glowing, twinkling face to the doctor's kiss.
