

MEIGHEN GOES AFTER SCALPS OF OPPONENTS

Stripe Camouflage from Operations of Liberals and the Farmer Parties.

"FOES RAKE POLITICAL GARBAGE AND ASHES"

Merciless Assault on Platform of the Opposing Parties and Their Tariff Views.

Ottawa, May 13.—In a fighting speech which occupied the better part of two hours, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, today led the attack against both Liberal and Progressive parties in the House of Commons. It was the Prime Minister's contribution to the budget debate, and an opportunity for him to answer criticisms which have been levelled at the government before and since the discussion of Canada's financial affairs was launched.

Challenged All Enemies.

This he did, but in addition he threw down the gauntlet to leaders of both parties on the other side of the chamber. The Progressives, he declared, were playing practical politics. A desire to get into the same boat with the Liberal opposition dictated their support of the Fielding amendment.

"They have made of themselves something of a political apex to that party—servile tools and minions of the official opposition ready to do whatever they are bid," insisted the Prime Minister. "Why not throw the mask away? Why not join right up?" "Let them throw away both platforms and frame one on which they can both stand, and then remain on it, but do not let them say that one is still back on the 1918 platform and the other on the 1919 platform when, as a matter of fact, each of them has discarded those platforms."

Rake All Garbage.

The speech of the Prime Minister was listened to by a well filled house and galleries. Loud applause from the Government benches greeted his sallies, and that were practically uninterrupted from either the Liberals or Progressives. Opposition amendments to supply motions came in for his censure. "We know that my honorable friends opposite have been struggling hard to move amendments to supply," he said. "They have raked all the ash heaps and garbage barrels of political everything from the political dumpster that could be thought of has been moved in this House in amendment to supply—everything except the platform."

"Why and the Fielding amendment has been introduced. Last year the Liberals had introduced an amendment calling for a reduction in the tariff, but this year, said Mr. Meighen, their amendment called for no reduction.

Really a Protectionist.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, the mover of the amendment, was, in reality, and adherent of the policy of protection. He had demonstrated this conclusively during his tenure of office as a minister of finance in the Laurier administration. He had found a protective tariff in effect when he took office, and he had left it in effect.

PENITENTIARY CONVICTS PAID

New Regulations Proposed to Govern Control of Prisoners in Canadian Penitentiaries.

Ottawa, May 13.—The minister of justice is bringing down a bill to put into effect the main penitentiary reforms advocated in the report prepared by the special commission consisting of C. M. Biggar, chairman; W. F. Nickle, K.C., and P. M. Draper. The bill provides, it is understood, that the general director of penitentiaries shall, under the minister of justice, be vested in a penitentiary board which will include among its members the superintendent of penitentiaries as industrial director, a purchasing agent, a medical officer and a parole officer. There is to be, too, provision also for the efficient organization of both the medical and industrial departments.

Some Other Changes

Other recommendations which, it is understood, the bill will put into effect are that: Mentally defective or mentally disturbed prisoners may be treated as patients; goods required for use of the Dominion of Canada be manufactured in penitentiaries; the inquiries to be limited to those which will not bring convict-made goods into competition in any market with goods made by free labor; remuneration to convicts for their labor, establishment of schools in penitentiaries and the compulsory education of illiterates; penalty not exceeding $100 or imprisonment with hard labor for a term not exceeding three months on guards found guilty of trafficking with convicts.

WASHING OF BLUE DRESS LEADS TO DIVORCE DECREE

Chicago, May 13.—The tale of a little blue dress and a washing glove to it helped win a decree of divorce and $24,000 lump alimony for Mrs. Margaret Moller Cory, from Marcus Maurice Cory.

"It was just a cheap little thing and I tried to wash it myself," said Mrs. Cory. "But it shrank. It was clear up to my knees, and I couldn't wear it. Then my husband slapped me and said that my extravagance was ruining him."

TO MAKE DRIVE ON HAND BOOKS TO SECURE TAX

Provincial Gov't License Department Has Authority to Impose Prohibitive Tax.

$1,000 PER DAY IS THE AMOUNT

This Sum Called for from All Who Take Wagers Outside Tracks.

Special to The Standard.

Montreal, May 13.—A drive against the hand-book operations of the city—numbering, it is said, something like two hundred, large and small—will be instituted by the Provincial Government license department within a few days, so it was semi-officially stated today.

Obviously the drive will be made to force the hand-book operators to pay a license fee of $1,000 per day called for under Article 961 of the new recently revised Quebec License Act, but as this tax is prohibitive, it means in reality the closing down of the hand-books of the city. No hand-book, regardless of the volume of its business, could stand up under a tax of $1,000 daily.

Text of Law.

The clause is as follows:

No person may record, receive, or sell any wager, bet, pool, or race meeting in any place where a race meeting is held, by means of any other system than that generally known as the pari-mutuel, unless a license to effect such a license has been issued to him by the proper collector of provincial revenue upon payment of a duty of $1,000 for each day.

The significance of this clause is in the fact that it stipulates every person who handles a wager outside the gates of a race track, thus covering the whole. In imposing this tax, the Provincial Government does not by any means guarantee the legality or right of hand-book or other gambling operations, for it is further set forth that this issuing of a license shall not be considered that the Government or any of the officials thereof are of the opinion that any bet, wager or pool recorded, received or sold by any person is not prohibited by the Criminal Code or otherwise, and should any holder of a race meeting license be convicted in the Criminal Courts for an offence in respect of any such bet or wager or pool so recorded, received or sold, then his license shall automatically become null and void.

Two Hundred Books.

It is reported that there are in operation in Montreal at the present time some two hundred hand-books operated on a small scale, in connection with cigar stores, billiard rooms, cigar barber shops and other small business establishments, but a few are flourishing institutions which handle, it is said, many thousands of dollars daily. It was recently announced that at the provincial race meetings in the coming season, the provincial license department officials would pay particular attention to the elimination of hand-book operators from the tracks, considering that these operators reduce the pari-mutuel handle and thus curtail the Government's revenue from the betting. The round-up now announced may be a preliminary to the campaign planned for the tracks.

May Make Arrest

Boston, Mass., May 13.—The possibility of an arrest in connection with the death of Captain Paton C. McGilvary, former aviator, was announced by police officials today. Two new witnesses were found whose testimony regarding circumstances now coupled with the shooting altered the suicide theory.

50,000 ALLIED SOLDIERS FOR UPPER SILESIA

French General Blames Britain and Italy for Having Small Forces.

WHOLE LAND IS IN REVOLUTION NOW

Peace of Europe Threatened, He Alleges, if Germans Take Any Action.

Oppeln, Silesia, May 13.—If the Germans carry out their reported plans for a counter attack against the Poles, Upper Silesia will be thrown into civil war in which the Allied forces here will be compelled by circumstances to remain neutral and let events, which might disrupt the peace of Europe, take their course. This statement was made to the Associated Press today by General Lervod, head of the inter-Allied commission in Upper Silesia.

The general declared the situation which found the Entente only able to act as mediators between the Poles and Germans "was brought about by the failure of Great Britain and Italy to furnish a fair share of troops of occupation."

"The Polish uprising," he added, "came at a time when not a single British soldier was present. Italian soldiers, however, had 5,000 soldiers in the area and the French 10,000."

Wanted 50,000 Soldiers.

"I repeatedly asked Great Britain and Italy for more troops and told them we would be unable to maintain order with less than 50,000 soldiers. My pleas were disregarded. The French were left to do the work, and we could not spare sufficient men to maintain the Allied presence."

General Lervod said it would be a foolish move for the Germans to attack the Poles, who probably would blow up the mines and factories, resulting in industrial chaos as well as the loss of countless lives. In answer to complaints which he said were heard in Allied quarters that the French troops were inactive, the general said:

"We were not here to fight. French soldiers were sent their rifles on civilians. The British and Italians here naturally complain, but their governments should have given them rifles. General Lervod was not on the ground when the trouble occurred, but was in Paris. When he returned he ascertained the whole country was in arms. The situation was up in the air. Asked what the situation would be if the Germans, who are known to have drawn up campaign plans for the use of at least two divisions, one marching down the Oder river, and the other on the Eastern frontier, joining in the industrial district near Katowice, should succeed in expelling the Poles, the general declared: "Except for property destroyed and many lives lost the situation would be little changed. If the Germans do not attack, conditions will soon approach normal."

"Canadian Scottish" Takes The Water

Ottawa, May 13.—Word has been received here of the successful launching yesterday at Prince Rupert, B. BUDGET TAX PRICES TEA BECOMES HIGHER

Toronto, May 13.—An increase in the retail price of tea, not exceeding two cents a pound is likely to result from the taxes imposed on that beverage by the new budget, wholesalers and manufacturers believed today. There is a tax of two and a half per cent. on importations of tea, and a sales tax of one and a half per cent., making a total of four per cent., which must be met. Some of the larger tea companies are meeting the importations tax themselves and charging only the sales tax against the retail dealers. Others declare it will be necessary to pass both levies on to the retailers, but agree that the retail price will not increase more than two cents, if that.

Halifax, N. S., May 13.—A resolution introduced by W. D. Morrison (Labor member for Cape Breton, which would permit the Provincial Government to appoint a commercial coal agent to promote the sale of Nova Scotia coal, particularly in the markets of Ontario and Quebec, was thrown out by a government vote in the House of Assembly tonight on the grounds that it was vague in what it involved, contained the principle of government participation in private business, and that its passage could in no way affect the transportation difficulties which militated against the sale of Nova Scotia coal in Upper Canada. The House was in session until after midnight in committee of supply.

RUMANIA CANNOT PAY CANADIANS MONEY DUE NOW

Nation Can Expect Nothing on Account Which is Due This Year.

GOOD EVENTUALLY BUT NOT NOW

Sir George Paish Finds Prospect Good Country Will Recover in the Long Run.

London, May 12.—Canada has little chance of adding to her reserves this year by any payment on account by Rumania. This is the opinion in Treasury circles here and the view is confirmed by Sir George Paish, the eminent financial authority.

"The prospect of the ultimate complete recovery of Rumania is good," he declared, "but in the final analysis this recovery depends upon the power of the country to repair the war damage and to secure up-to-date machinery and revolutionize the present old-fashioned methods of agriculture. How much she will have yet to pay as interest on her borrowings in redeeming her debts is still problematical."

What is the Debt.

Today Rumania owes Britain twenty million pounds, she owes the United States twenty-five million dollars and France ninety million francs. Canada is therefore one of many creditors and while she cannot expect to take precedence over any of the other nations yet she has an equal prospect with them of having her debt finally liquidated. The arrangements that were made some time ago whereby Rumanian purchases were made through the office of the High Commissioner in London have now lapsed but Canada is trading with her directly for the first time in the history of the Dominion.

This trade may be regarded as the direct result of the loan made two years ago and it may be regarded as a highly satisfactory outcome and one that in some measure offsets the default of the borrower.

During the fiscal year that closed on March 31 last, Canada did a trade with Rumania amounting to thirteen million dollars.

STEEVES CASE GOES TO JURY THIS MORNING

Chief Justice Had Half Concluded His Address When Court Adjourned.

DEFENCE CALLS STEEVES' FRIENDS

None of Them Ever Thought Family Quarrels Described Were Very Serious.

Monoton, May 13.—At this morning's session of the supreme court, Hopewell Cape, in the trial of Oliver Galus Steeves, charged with the murder of his wife, the accused took the stand and continued his defence. He told Senator Fowler that he had done all the work that he could do. He was crippled in one leg and had cooked some. He also had done some constable work, some carpentry work and had ploughed gardens in the town and in Sunny Brae. This had always been his custom to maintain his family. The boys had not assisted him much, but when out of work had stayed home. He always thought that the boys should go to work. Some four years ago the eldest girl was delicate. He admitted he drank quite heavily during his life, but in the past three years he had not drunk a gallon. He was never discharged from a job on account of liquor. His wife was not jealous of him and had accompanied him on several times as a constable when he made his trips. If his wife was jealous it was on account of other women, not Clara. His wife was cross at him. It was on account of the booze.

Not Responsible for Death.

On the night previous to the fire he was going to take his desk and papers with him to town. That was the reason he did not put the sugar then on the sled into the house. He was not responsible, he said, in any way for the death of his wife and his children.

He told Mr. Fowler he was the worst sufferer and that the family quarrels were of short duration.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rand, witness stated that he loved his wife and children as much as any man could. He loved Beatrice particularly. He knew he loved his wife and family and had as strong a love as a husband and father could have. He could not say that he could give his life for her. He had never heard of a father giving his life for his wife and family. His wife, he believed, to the average man was dear.

Impossible to Save.

He did not believe that he could save his children that morning, as it was useless to go through the fire. He knew this when he opened the door and saw the condition of the fire. Asked if his wife was a love to give his life for the sake of his five children? He replied—"Well, I did not."

He was married about twenty-one years. His wife was faithful, a good working woman, and always willing to work. She had her vacation whenever she wished.

Another officer, Sergeant J. Couette, who gets $1,200 a year, swears that he has a wife and 12 children to maintain. He has to work night and day, he says. Once he reports, he jumped into the river to make an arrest. As a result he was not paid for the time he was away.

STEEVES CASE GOES TO JURY THIS MORNING

Chief Justice Had Half Concluded His Address When Court Adjourned.

DEFENCE CALLS STEEVES' FRIENDS

None of Them Ever Thought Family Quarrels Described Were Very Serious.

Previous to moving to Pine Glen they had lived at Hopewell and Elgin. He moved from Elgin twelve years ago. While at Hopewell he had been engaged as a cook, but after moving to Pine Glen his wife was against him cooking and his working as a constable. When he was employed as a constable his wife had often accompanied him.

Court Room Crowded

The defence was continued in the afternoon with the re-examination of the accused and two other witnesses. The court room was packed with interested spectators. The accused said: "I was attended last fall by Dr. Jones, of Moncton, for a nervous breakdown. I tried to advise my children to do right. My advice was often better than my example. The evidence given at the inquest was not written in short-hand, and I heard the coroner, Dr. Dash, say all was not taken down. I meant that my wife shouted about the fire."

I worked for a Mr. McKenzie at cooking for mill and lumber crews. My wife and Clara were there also. That is not the camp Clara walked to; she did visit a camp where I was working—another camp several miles in the woods.

Kenneth McKenzie, who was called next, said: "In the fall and winter of 1917 and 1918 I had some lumber operations and accused cooked in the camp. His wife and daughter worked with him. Their relations were good enough, as I thought they used to have some arguments."

Did you think that was very serious? asked the Senator.
I have no wife and can't exactly say, was the reply.
I have known him all his life. I never had any trouble with him. He was able to get every meal.

Saw Blood Tinge
A. W. Garland said: I reside at Coverdale. I know the accused. He is a relative of mine. I was at the fire. I saw persons throwing water on the bodies and I saw Dickson Baker throw a bucket of water on Beatrice's body, and when the water came out, it had quite a bloody tinge to it.

The defence closed at 2:55 o'clock and Senator Fowler began to address the jury at 2:55 p.m. He closed at 4:18 p.m. His address lasting an hour and twenty minutes. Mr. Sand, leading counsel for the Crown, went to the jury at 4:25 p.m., and concluded at 5:35 p.m. Chief Justice McKeown then began his charge to the jury, and at 6:05 he asked the jury whether they preferred to sit after supper or that court be adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The jury consulted together and stated that they preferred not to sit at this evening. Court adjourned to 9:30 Saturday morning.

Secretary's Report.
Miss Jarvis, the Secretary, in her report, spoke of campaign activities and the work of F. A. Dykeman, convener and Mrs. Kuhring, organizer. Delegations appeared before the Church of England Synod and the Women's Auxiliary which met in St. John. Tea was served at the Depot under the co-operation of Mrs. Thomas Bell, assisted by Mrs. White of the local Red Cross and others.

The Health week created a great deal of activity throughout the Province and at the Depot, where the Red Cross and the Ministry of Health worked hand in hand to make the week as profitable as possible.

The Sewing committee are hard at work sending out garments on request to branches, church societies and institutions.

Thanks are due Dr. Carter for sending a complete list of the schools in the Province to head office for the campaign and Junior Red Cross supplies. We welcome a new Junior Red Cross, Watanstede School, St. John as a direct result of Mr. McCready's visit.

Ministers May Get $1,800 As Minimum

Presbyterian Assembly Asked to Spend $200,000 to Make it Possible.
Toronto, May 13.—Next to the church union question, one of the most important problems to be faced by which meets in St. James' Square church on June 1st, is that of raising the minimum stipend for Presbyterian ministers to $1,800, and a mass recommendation from the Home Mission Board that $200,000 be placed in the budget for augmentation of salaries will bring the subject up for discussion. Last year's assembly at Synods take steps to see that ministers within their bounds received that amount. It is now felt that definite legislation should be enacted to bring into being the improved standard.

Cured of Cancer Claim of Woman

Swelling Disappeared After Attending Bosworth Meetings, She States.
Toronto, May 13.—Considerable interest has been aroused among those who are attending the faith healing services of Rev. P. F. Bosworth at Massey Hall, by the claim of Mrs. E. Killick, of 28 Bank street, that she has been cured of cancer. Mrs. Killick, who attended the meetings and prayed for healing. Since that time she states that large swellings have disappeared, and her general health has been better than for the past 20 years. Dr. W. A. Burr, of Rosetonville, who attended the case, stated last night that Mrs. Killick had been cured of cancer by her last operation and that there had been no sign of a return of the disease. He had examined the patient last Saturday, he stated, and had noticed that the swelling which had been present seemed to have disappeared.

STOOL PIGEON PROSECUTED

Luckily for the accused, both Crown Attorney Frank Hughes and Magistrate Cohen "saw no fault in the man" and the charge against him was withdrawn.

Failed To Find Needed Evidence

Looked for Still But Could Not Locate—Wild Life Plentiful This Spring.

Special to The Standard.
Gagetown, N. B., May 13.—Inspector Thos. Barrett was sent down from Fredericton one day last week by Sheriff Hawthorne, chief inspector, to investigate a case of "home brew" manufactured at the home of a woman at Elm Hill, where for some week past the colored catkins of Elm Hill, it is alleged, have been regaling themselves on a very potent fluid. Inspector Barrett, however, was not able to find any traces of it.

Wild Life Plentiful

Wild life is plentiful this spring. One morning recently, John McDermott was surprised on going out into the yard, to see a pair of beautiful wood ducks perched on the chimney. Whether they were contemplating building a nest in its inviting depths, or merely resting on some extensive "hike" further north, is hard to say; but they were not at all frightened, and lingered around for some time.

Special to The Standard.
Gagetown, N. B., May 13.—An interesting meeting of the Gagetown branch of the Women's Auxiliary was held on Saturday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. N. H. Oty, when the members came to view the completed outfit made for Annie Matthews, an Indian girl in the Church Mission School at Onion Lake, Sask. After the opening devotions, which were led by Mrs. Oty and Mrs. H. T. Buckland, Mrs. Hazen S. McAllister read Miss Haultstone's paper on "An Ideal Member of the W. A.," and Mrs. Oty read the report of the work of the Gagetown Branch, as given at the annual diocesan meeting in St. John. The outfit was then displayed and proved a very interesting feature of the evening, each member taking a hand in packing the box. Besides the outfit, which consisted of about ninety new articles of clothing, a large case containing a quantity of second-hand clothing, four quilts, sixty pounds of groceries, twenty books and twenty-six pairs of second-hand boots and shoes were also forwarded to Onion Lake school, the whole weighing 530 pounds. Great credit is due to the many members and friends who contributed or made articles for this fine consignment. POLES THREATEN PEACE OF WORLD AND BREAK PACT

Dramatic Speech in House of Commons by Premier Lloyd George.

VERSAILLES TREATY IS ENDANGERED

Charter of Freedom for the Poles Not Appreciated by the Insurgents.

London, May 13.—Mr. Lloyd George, in a dramatic speech in the House of Commons today concerning the Upper Silesia imbroglio, characterized the action of the Polish insurgents as complete defiance of the treaty of Versailles.

"I think it is right that I should speak quite plainly," the Premier said, "because if these things pass unheeded we take no notice and do not deal with them as they should be dealt with. The attitude of this country in all dealings abroad, it is going to be fatal to the peace of Europe. If that is to be disturbed I do not see what it is going to happen to Europe."

Mr. Lloyd George declared the treaty of Versailles was the charter of Polish freedom and that she was the last country of Europe who had the right to complain about the treaty.

There is not a letter of the treaty that does not mean a young British life, that does not mean nearly two French lives, and there were hundreds of Italian lives sacrificed.

Mr. Lloyd George stated that the Poles were divided in the war, half of them fighting with the Germans, and the other half with the French.

No Return of the Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. JOHN E. GUILDERSON, P. O. Box 123, Parrsboro, N. S. "I suffered with rheumatism for five years, having it so badly at times I was unable to get up without assistance. I tried different medicines I saw advertised and was treated by doctors in Amherst, also in my home town, but the rheumatism came back. In 1916, I saw in an advertisement that 'Fruit-a-tives' would stop Rheumatism, and took one box and got relief; then I took them right along for about six months and the Rheumatism was all gone and I have never felt it since."

Chickens Showed They Were At Home

Case of Ownership of Ten Leghorns Tried in Campbellville Court.

Milton, May 13.—An interesting case involving the ownership of ten Leghorn pullets was tried at Campbellville last night. James Henry Cooper was tried for the theft of the chickens from Russell and Trueman Lane, but was acquitted as the judge said the evidence for the prosecution was not sufficient to prove that Cooper was not the owner. The brothers Lane then brought action in replevin to recover the fowl.

Skeleton of Missing Man Is Discovered

Skull is Fractured, Leading to Police Belief That He Was Murdered.

Montreal, Que., May 13.—A skeleton with a crushed skull, was discovered by a party of men in a lonely wood about a mile and a half from Clearville station last Saturday afternoon. The clothes about the skeleton, which is that of a man, were rotted to shreds. The forehead was crushed, as if a blow had been inflicted with some heavy blunt instrument. It has been asserted that on August 8 last a man by the name of Lorenzo Lafrance, who resided about six miles from Black Lake, started off to see his wife, who was living at the lake. He never reached his destination and was never heard of again. It is the belief of the detectives who are investigating the case that Lafrance, if the bones are his, was assaulted and robbed, and his body thrown into the bush. He was known to have had considerable money on his person at the time of his disappearance.

MONTREAL PICKS NEW GOVERNMENT

Votes Next Thursday to Determine Municipal System for the Future.

Montreal, May 13.—The citizens of Montreal on Tuesday next will decide on a new form of municipal government when two schemes, one incorporating the proportional representation and city manager ideas and the other calling for a government virtually by an executive committee of aldermen and a director, will be submitted to them in a referendum. The city has passed through stormy times financially speaking during the past decade. To begin with, some years ago, while the aldermanic council and mayor system was in force, the affairs got into a bad muddle. A royal commission headed by Judge Cannon of Quebec was appointed by the provincial legislature to investigate conditions and this body brought in a report which charged certain of the city fathers with irregularities. Later the city's financial statements for some years showed constantly increasing deficits, that in 1917 amounted to $2,600,000. The Premier of the province, Sir Lomer Gouin, was then urged by representative bodies of citizens to do something drastic to remedy the situation and this body brought in a report which charged certain of the city's finances and over the mayor and city council an administrative commission headed by E. R. Decary composed of Alphonse Verville M. P., the well known labor leader, and Charles Marché, M. P., an ex-Speaker of the federal House of Commons.

Tailors Find The "War Type" Going

Trim Military Effect of the Belligerent Days is Rapidly Passing.

London, May 13.—The AI figure which every officer and man was so proud of two years ago is vanishing. "It was the tailors who were to blame," the tailors assert, "it was the figure of the ex-soldier who goes to be tried on for his new spring suit, the tailors assert, is becoming C3. His war chest has slipped down to where it ought not to be, and his waist measurement is distinctly greater. 'In the words of a well-known advertisement, I am now taking extreme measures,' said a tailor yesterday. The tailors of Saville-row, the Middle Strand, and the Mile End Road all tell the same tale. The 1921 Man has lost his smart, soldierly appearance. The beautiful figure of the 1919 Man is rare. Fitness and shabbiness have taken the place of thinness and firmness."

War Chest Good. "I was a sergeant tailor in the war," said one West End cutter, "and it is as much as I can do to refrain from saying to my C3 customers, 'Hold your head up. Throw your chest out to your front and stand properly at ease while I take your measurements.' It makes my regimental heart bleed to see such sloppiness. 'Look at that old tape measure hanging on the wall,' he went on, 'I had it in the war. Note the dirty finger marks about the 22 inch line. That was the average measurement of the war waist. Compare it with the thumb and finger marks on this peace measure round about the 36-40 inches.'"

French Press Say Force Compels Foe

Germans Accept Ultimatum Only After Bluff Campaign Proves Flat Failure.

Paris, May 11.—Newspapers of this city this morning say in Germany's acceptance of the Allied reparations demands proof that Germany complies only to the argument of force. At the same time they express doubt as to her fulfillment of her undertaking. The Figaro says: German statesmen made up their minds only at the last moment, but finally decided to accept in principle. As for the execution of her agreement we will see what time will bring. The Journal: Let the German government pay and disarm. Otherwise like all faithless debtors she will have one, only herself, if she finds herself seized up.

Slain Healer's Vision Told Him of Attack

New York, May 11.—Residents of the Italian colony in Orange, N. J., where Mrs. Celeste Cassese, the "faith healer," who was murdered in an automobile in South Orange April 30, lived, are talking about a dream Anthony de Ross of 573 Nassau street, a friend of the dead woman, claims to have had the morning following the murder. Anthony said he was aroused by what seemed to be a strong wind blowing in his window and awoke to see the figure of Mrs. Cassese standing before him. The apparition, according to Anthony, declared: "I was not hurt at the place where they found me."

A policeman has reported he saw an automobile similar to the one in which the body was found in another part of the town that morning, and a woman living in that neighborhood had stated she heard a woman scream. Michael Setitto, driver of the murder car, has said the slayer compelled him to drive some distance after the "faith healer" had been attacked.

TORPID LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons. When the liver becomes lazy, slow or torpid it is not working properly, and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become constipated, the bile goes into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow.

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills quickly remove the accumulations clear away the waste and oblate matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, and cause so many troubles. Mrs. Alice Merrill, Napawan, Ont. writes:—"I was very badly run down and had a torpid liver for four months. I tried several remedies but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a box of Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two pills, and I am a different person today. I am safely recommended Lax-Liver Pills to any one troubled with liver troubles. Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are 25c. a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

BATHURST PULP TO PHILA. BY WATER ROUTE

Vessel Chartered to Carry Cargo for Bathurst Lumber Co.

SAVING OF $10 PER TON IN FREIGHT

Will Mean More Work for Citizens of the Town—Ship Through Great Lakes

Special to The Standard. Bathurst, N. B., May 12.—The Bathurst Lumber Company, making a striking announcement that it has chartered a vessel to carry cargo to 2,500 tons of pulp from Bathurst to Philadelphia. This is the first sailing craft of the name of John Pearce, will be here to load next month. The significance of the announcement is to be found in the fact that this will be the first shipment ever made from Bathurst to Philadelphia. The company has shipped its cargo by rail hitherto. The reason for not being to see it is that the railroads have a monopoly of this traffic, and there is no denying that it has represented a considerable asset, but it is now clear that the industrial world is turning its back on the railroads to the water route, due to the tinned high freight rates, is being created. It may be recalled that in practically all the lumber produced by the Bathurst Lumber Company shipped out by water, representing an unprecedented tonnage at this time, and now it would appear that management is bent upon seeing pulp in the same way.

Rail Rates Prohibitive

Railway freight rates are a prohibitive cause of this development. Not only are they unreasonable but the discriminatory character of the rates is becoming more and more prohibitive altogether. They are the more readily understood it is pointed out that the difference between the water and the rail rates by the Bathurst Lumber Company carry a cargo of pulp to Philadelphia is about $10 a ton. In other words the rate by water is $11.50 per ton as against $21.50 per ton by the water route. From all accounts it would seem that this is the first step in a movement that is likely to become a development, for in addition to the vessel referred to above, it is stated that the Bathurst Lumber Company expects, in the near future, to charter vessels to carry their pulp to Philadelphia through the Great Lakes and deliver it as far west as St. Louis and Milwaukee.

At the present time these western markets are simply out of question on a rail shipping basis. By the adoption of the water route a very different complexion is put on the case. Be Advantage To Town. While it is undoubtedly a bad thing for the railways to be losing their important business, they have no blame but themselves, for wherever they have done the situation they have piled freight on to industry. On the other hand, however, they to become a benefit to the pulp industry will prove of considerable advantage to the residents, and particularly the merchants, of the town. A vessel that comes here to unload must spend large sums of money with the merchants in the lumber stores. And the fact of presence means work.

In view of these considerations behooves everyone in town a keener interest in the development of the harbor and the deepening of the channel. In this would be an excellent thing augurate a movement that has objective the deepening of the channel so that vessels drawing 10 feet of water could come in at the docks. Open Eight Months a Year. It must be remembered that a rigorous winter shipment can be made from Bathurst for months of the year. That is, they are comprehended, should the imagination of the people of Bathurst afford them something of the possibilities of development along this line. Once the water is firmly established in connection with the shipment of pulp and other local products, there should not avail themselves of cheaper freight rates, and thus cut from the struggling struggle of the railways in the handling equipment and supplies. Obviously a bad thing for the railways as we have pointed out before, not operate, and where they do operate in restraint of industrial development they must take the consequences of just such a form of competition the water represents.

Up to yesterday 215 licenses were issued from the local office of Bathurst inspector under the protection of this number, forty-seven for city premises and sixteen county.

BATHURST PULP TO PHILA. BY WATER ROUTE

Vessel Chartered to Carry Cargo for Bathurst Lumber Co.

SAVING OF $10 PER TON IN FREIGHT

Will Mean More Work for Citizens of the Town—May Ship Through Great Lakes.

Special to The Standard.
Bathurst, N. B., May 12.—The Bathurst Lumber Company has made the striking announcement that they have chartered a vessel to carry from 1800 to 2,000 tons of pulp from here to Philadelphia. The vessel, which is a sailing craft of the name of M. Vivien Pearce, will be here to load early next month.
The significance of the announcement is to be found in the fact that this will be the first shipment of pulp ever made from Bathurst by the water route, all the pulp production of this company being shipped to its destination by rail hitherto.
The reason is not far to seek. Up till now the railways have enjoyed a monopoly of this traffic, and there can be no denying that it has represented a considerable asset, but it would appear that the industrial worm is on the turn and that a diversion of traffic to the water route, due to the continued high freight rates, is about to be created.
It may be recalled that last year practically all the lumber produced by the Bathurst Lumber Company was shipped out by water, representing an unprecedented tonnage at this port, and now it would appear that the management is bent upon shipping pulp in the same way.

Rail Rates Prohibitive.
Railway freight rates are the indubitable cause of this development. Not only are they unreasonably high, but the discriminatory clause applying to the Maritime Provinces renders them prohibitive altogether. This will be the more readily understood when it is pointed out that the average freight on the vessel just chartered by the Bathurst Lumber Company to carry a cargo of pulp to Philadelphia is about $10 a ton. In other words, the rate by rail is $10.60 per short ton as against $1.60 per long ton by the water route.

From all accounts it would appear that this is the first step in a movement that is likely to become a serious development, for in addition to the vessel referred to above, it is stated that the Bathurst Lumber Co. expects, in the near future, to charter vessels to carry their pulp from Bathurst up through the Great Lakes and deliver it as far west as Chicago and Milwaukee.

At the present time these great western markets are simply out of the question on a rail shipping basis, but by the adoption of the water route a very different complexion is put upon the case.

Be Advantage to Town.
While it is undoubtedly a bad thing for the railways to be losing this important business, they have no one to blame but themselves, for whenever and wherever they have dominated the situation they have piled the freight on to industry. On the other hand, however, the projected change in the shipment of the pulp traffic will prove of considerable advantage to the residents, and particularly to the merchants, of the town. Every vessel that comes here to load and unload must spend large sums of money with the merchants in replenishing stores. And the fact of their presence means work.

In view of these considerations, it behoves everyone in town to take a keener interest in the development of the harbor and the deepening and widening of the channel. In fact, it would be an excellent thing to inaugurate a movement that has for its objective the deepening of the channel so that vessels drawing up to 23 feet of water could come in and load at the docks.

Open Eight Months a Year.
It must be remembered that despite rigorous winters shipment by water can be made from Bathurst for eight months of the year. That fact, properly comprehended, should touch the imagination of the people of Bathurst, and afford them something of a vision of the possibilities of development along this line. Once the water route is firmly established in connection with the shipment of pulp and lumber and other local products, there is no reason why the merchants themselves should not avail themselves of the cheaper freights, and thus cut losses from the gruelling struggle hold of the railways in the handling of their equipment and supplies. Obviously it is a bad thing for the railways, but as we have pointed out before, without production even the railways cannot operate, and where they do operate in restraint of industrial development they must take the consequences of just such a form of competition as the water represents.

Some Musing of An Ex-Checker

By W. H. P.
A checker is an animal that is found principally around steamship and railroad sheds, especially on the West Side of St. John, N. B., proudly acclaimed by its citizens (when Halifaxians are not within hearing) as the Winter Port of Canada.
To spot a checker the following rules will be found very helpful:—
A checker will invariably have a hump on his back or will be very round shouldered. This is caused by leaning against a post, in cold weather, on the lookout for the "trustee" who hires the checking staff.
He will have a hunted look about the eyes caused by fear of being detected doing anything that looks like real work except when the "nabob" who hires him is around, when he proceeds to demonstrate a splendid example of perpetual motion.
Around on Pay Day.
A real successful checker never forgets that beautiful game of childhood days, namely "Hide and Go Seek," and from constant practice among cases and bales to be found around steamship sheds, he can lose himself so completely as to defy the united efforts of the office staff, who compose the rescue party, to "tag" him. No checker, who knows the ropes, will so demean himself as to play this strenuous game on pay day. On that day it will require no Sherlock Holmes to locate him. Any amateur sleuth can page him, as he will be found comfortably reposing on the mat marked "Welcome," outside the office door.
To enter the checking profession one requires no tools except a lead pencil which may be carried in the front of a peaked cap—a Le-Archib-McNeill style, or over the right ear. This latter mode sometimes causes the wearer's head to wiggle and wobble like the Provincial Government on the enforcement of the Prohibition Law.
The Submarine Kind.
Some checkers take great pride in their "record" and will relate to you the story of the time they did a fifty-four hour stretch, but they will carefully refrain from telling you that at least thirty of those "hours" they were "stretched" out on a bench in the "shack" with no lights showing at the port holes of their ship, a trick that at times during the late lamented World War was successfully played against the German submarines.
Speaking of submarines, there are checkers who can submerge while you are saying "Jack Robinson" and never show a who surface again until twenty minutes of going-home time. These submarine checkers are the ones who draw down the largest bunch of "greens" on pay day. This as it should be, for their work is very hazardous at times, and requires plenty of nerve.
Boss checkers are ex-submarine checkers who have been decorated for conspicuous bravery in the "shack." Some boss checkers are beloved by the general garden variety of ordinary checkers. The latter would desire it an extreme favor to be allowed to donate their week's pay to a fund for the purchase of a wreath of flowers, or an anchor to be reverently placed upon the "Remains" with the inscription "Gone, but not forgotten" prominently displayed.

There are boss checkers who are so fond of their little "flock" that they will play "Hide and Seek" with them by the hour. This is supposed to keep them amused, and to protect them from sun-stroke when the mercury shows ten below zippo.
Some checkers, born under a lucky star, can submerge and stay down just as long as the boss is not in sight, but let him (the boss) come upon the scene and Mr. Check is right behind the bat receiving and delivering like a big league catcher. This is accomplished by the use of "detectors" which are carefully placed near the spot where they submerge.

"Listen, Mother"

"HERE is a letter from Bessie, and she says she is feeling fine again after using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."
"I knew it was just what she needed to build up her system after baby's coming."
"She says she is sorry she did not take your advice long ago instead of worrying along as a semi-invalid for so many weeks."
"What else does she say?"
"I will read you the rest. She says: 'My nerves got so upset that I could not sleep scarcely at all. Digestion was bad and I had palpitation of the heart. Baby got cross and irritable, and at times I got terribly discouraged.'
"When I got mother's letter urging me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was about ready to give up, and decided to give the Nerve Food a trial on the strength of what it had done for her."
"I cannot begin to tell you how thankful I am for that advice, for I am now well and happy, baby is doing fine and I know that the credit is entirely due to the use of the Nerve Food."

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

A disturbance of the even balance of health, which often occurs in these trying days of reconstruction may cause serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up.

When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least impudence brings on sickness, weakness or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic that many people recommend is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that "a stitch in time saves nine."

Preventive treatment now and then calls for the use of a good cathartic or laxative, like those which are purely vegetable and act quickly and thoroughly.

Gleborne, parliamentary counsel, to decide as to its powers to compel attendance of witnesses and the proper course to pursue.

THE KIDNEYS —AND HEALTH

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE KIDNEYS —THEIR CARE AND TREATMENT

Knowledge Everyone Should Possess to be Assured of Good Health

The Kidneys.—The kidneys are commonly known and quite accurately described as the filters of the body, their function being to remove from the blood all those impure or poisonous substances which would be injurious to the body. This important work can only be carried on by the kidneys while they are in a healthy condition. It is, therefore, absolutely necessary that they should be kept healthy, and, in the event of anything being wrong with them, that we should take immediate steps to remedy the evil.

Description.—The kidneys are situated in what is known as the "lumbar region" at the rear of the upper part of the abdomen. They are two bean-shaped organs, possessing an artery, a vein, and a tube which conveys the fluid that has passed through the filtration process to the bladder. The innermost part of the kidney is composed of a series of small tubules or tubes, which, when the kidneys are in health, act as the filter. You may readily understand how serious a condition arises if these tubes become inflamed so that they cannot do their normal work.

Kidney Diseases.—There are many forms of kidney disease, nearly all of which are the result of neglecting the simpler forms. For instance there are the acute, or sudden onset, caused by a sudden obstruction and inflammation of the kidneys; the chronic, which follows if the acute form is neglected; and Uremia, which may result if the patient still continues to neglect the kidneys. Uremia generally results fatally.

Symptoms.—Do not treat lightly any evidence of kidney trouble. Its approach is sometimes so insidious that its hold may pass unnoticed for the time being. There may be at first only slight headaches with a failing appetite and loss of ambition. Then there usually follows a pain across the back in the region of the kidneys. Later the fluid passed may be either scant or greatly increased, the color very pale or very dark, according to circumstances, with a marked odor accompanied by pain. All these conditions are unnatural. Then may follow the swelling of joints in arms and legs. These symptoms are the result of neglect of first warnings which should be heeded in good time if serious illness is to be avoided.

Causes.—One of the most frequent causes of kidney trouble is alcohol, which overtaxes the kidneys to such an extent that they become exhausted and their usefulness is destroyed or seriously impaired. Other causes are: Former diseases, such as scarlet fever, exposure to cold, unsanitary conditions, inattention to hygiene, badly balanced and ill-regulated diet, the excessive use of certain medicines and, in short, almost any conditions which do not comply with the fixed laws of nature.

TREATMENT

The treatment for kidney trouble is very simple. Regulate your habits, keep your bowels active, and restore the full action of the kidneys by the use of such remedies as will stimulate the blood supply to those organs, at the same time removing any obstructions and healing their inflamed condition. The medicines used in Gin Pills are those which are used by the leading physicians of the present day for the relief of kidney troubles, accomplished by increasing the circulation and filtration power of the kidney tubules. Gin Pills have long been recognized as the finest restorative and corrective for all kidney and bladder derangement. If you have any of the symptoms described above, try a box—from your druggist or dealer—at 50c. If you obtain no relief we will refund your money.

FOR WOMEN

Mrs. E. Crozier Gains 24 Pounds

Says Her Troubles Have All Disappeared and She Feels Like a New Woman.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and four pounds; but now I tip the scales at one hundred and twenty-eight, which is exactly thirteen pounds more than I weighed even before my troubles began," was the statement made recently by Mrs. Elizabeth Crozier, 739 Broadview Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"Over a year ago I noticed I was getting in a run down condition. My appetite was very poor, and what little I did eat seemed to do me no good. I was nervous and restless, couldn't sleep any to speak of, and always felt tired and listless. I fell off over ten pounds in weight, and was so weak and nervous I felt perfectly unmanageable all the time.

"But by the time I finished my first bottle of Tanlac I was eating and sleeping better and was picking up in weight. When I had finished my fourth bottle, my troubles were all gone, and although three months have just now, I am still feeling fine.

"I have a wonderful appetite, everything agrees with me perfectly and I am twenty-four pounds heavier than I was at the time I began taking Tanlac. My nerves are as steady as a clock, and I sleep well every night. Tanlac is just grand."

OUR'S DIED TOO.
It is said that goldfish have been known to live for 40 years. The privately owned goldfish, however, usually lives but a few weeks at the most, and then your goldfish is put away in a safe place in the attic.

Noses of left-handed people point in a different direction than those of right-handed persons.

MIRACLES.

Today I saw this lovely thing—
A maple tree a-burgeoning—
And, on the lawn so brown and bare,
Green grass upspringing here and there;

Tulips, that pushed their fragile heads
From stark and barren garden beds;

While all the rambler roses show
Fruit, tender buds in embryo.

Listen, and heed earth's glad refrain,
You, who are worn with grief and pain.

Cease for a while your sorrowing!
Come out, come out, and meet the spring!

—Mamie V. Carothers.

STYLES OF TODAY.

A lovely over-blouse of ray chiffon is embroidered in the threads of rose, gold, copper and black.

Exclusive but conservative rather than extreme styles in silk lingerie show a strong tendency toward such colors as orchid, gray, maize and blue.

Flesh is no longer in good favor among particular women, and only the extremist in fashion goes in for black and the vivid colors in selecting lingerie.

The baby waist or high Josephine waist line is a new development in nightgowns, models of this order having tiny puff sleeves that further carry out the effect of the origin of this new mode in sleeping robes. These gowns are mostly in fine muslin, dimity and handkerchief linen and are lace trimmed.

Many hip-length models in exclusive blouses are to be seen. Wool embroidery, bead decorations and fancy stitching in silk and chenille are the trimmings most in evidence.

The cape influence is noted in the spring wraps.

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH FRECKLES AND WHITEN SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan bleach, and complexion whitener.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes bleach out and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes.

CRETON DRESSES.

New York, May 13.—Have you seen what appears to be a corner of a boulevard walking down the street? Well, you soon will. They are already appearing on tennis courts hereabouts.

Girls in Chintzes and cretonnes, with large splashy patterns all over them, exactly like the velvet parlor chairs in their summer wrappings, they are. Bright carmine drapery ligens with blue stripes and yellow dots, scenic chintzes of huge patterns and vivid hues in fantastic designs showing languorous figures in eccentric poses are among the favorites not only for sport skirts but for entire costumes, hats and bags.

"I never thought of going into the dressmaking business," said an interior decorator, "but women seem to be buying more large figured drapery fabrics for clothes than for houses this season. There are some designs I will not let them have, though, for such purpose. He shaved a chintz enormously patterned with red and yellow farm scenes.

"That, for instance," he added, "one of them was determined to dress herself in that, but I said positively that she shouldn't."

Ate Vitamines Unknowingly

Most Important Substitutes Got by Chance Into Our Bill of Fare.

For years we have been told that the food of man should consist of protein, carbohydrates, fats and mineral salts in certain proportions, which, it was stated, were being ascertained with some degree of accuracy, says Margaret Davidson in "The Woman's Century." Now, it appears that these things are insufficient in themselves to support healthy life and growth and the fact that we are still alive "to tell the tale" is owing to the happy chance that the most important substances or "vitamines" got into our meals whether we planned for them or not.

Up to the present, three of these "vitamines" have been isolated and labelled "A," "B," and "C."

"A" is soluble in fat and is found in milk and is so necessary to infant life that its absence or deficiency will instantly produce rickets—hence, the absolute importance of milk. There is no substitute.

"B" is soluble in water and occurs in great quantities in yeast, etc. Hence the tremendous popularity of yeast as an antidote to neuritis and other kindred complaints as a "vitamine." "B" is valuable in this direction.

"Vitamin C" is, also, soluble in water and is found in nearly all vegetables, including potatoes and fruits, and is the only effective anti-scorbutic known since the year when Jacques Cartier wintered in Canada and the Indians made spice tea to save the lives of the men dying of scurvy; since the days when the men of the British Navy, far from the source of supplies of green stuff, died of scurvy; since, when Nansen in his three years voyage in search of the North Pole brought his men back in even better condition than when they left, because of the carefully planned complimentary; since the time when the men, in search of gold, invaded the Arctic regions and died, hundreds of them, of scurvy because they failed to provide themselves with an equivalent to green vegetables, it has been known that the leaves of plants and fruits contained an anti-scorbutic substance.

This "vitamine C" is not, however, largely present in milk and as it is most sensitive to heat, may be completely destroyed in pasteurization and therefore, the necessity for the addition of orange juice or other fruit or vegetable acid in infant feeding.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS.

If you wish to cut new bread heat the knife by dipping in hot water.

When buying mackerel remember that if the gills are not red the fish is stale.

Moth holes in garments can be disguised by scraping the fuzz or lint from the material, filling the hole with this and placing a piece of rubber cement back of it.

Cover the tops of the set-tubs in the kitchen with oilcloth. It looks much better than the zinc cover and is easier to keep clean.

All bits of soap should be saved, melted with a little warm water, put into a bottle and used for soft soap.

Almonds are so rich in protein and fats that a pound of the shelled nuts is equal in food value, to three pounds of beefsteak.

HOW PERFUMES ARE MADE IN FRANCE

Important Industry Suffered Greatly During the War.

The rare perfumes of France, suffered severely during the war, and only the industry and thrift of the French prevented them from dying out altogether. This would have been a world-wide calamity, as the French perfumes are noted for their delicacy and fragrance.

"Cannes and Grasse," says a writer in the Illustrated World, "are the centers of the French perfume industry, which is situated in southern France along the Mediterranean. In that flower garden of the world there is only one formula used in making perfumes. It is very simple; the scents shall be unique and shall be produced in limited quantity; therefore they will be expensive. Essence of rose, in the Riviera raw material market, is often quoted as high as $750 for the two and one-fifth pound; the attar, or the essential oil, of a flower is obtained by crushing the leaves or petals and boiling them in a copper cauldron. The residue from the boiled leaves and petals, is mixed with clarified pork fat, and the mass is stirred with wooden paddles. Boiling the extract with fat concentrates the perfume. After boiling, the grease is churned with refined alcohol until the latter absorbs nearly all the odor. The residue of it is made into fine soaps that have a high commercial value. The old method, which is still practical, consists in saturating a coarse linen cloth with olive oil and stretching it over a frame; thin layers of flower petals are then placed on the cloth until it has absorbed the essence of the flower. The cloth is then treated to an alcohol bath that in turn absorbs the perfume. In this process the flower petals must be changed frequently.

"Grasse still uses the enflourage method, by which the delicate essence of the rarest flowers slowly filters through a quarter-inch layer of fat in shallow pans. The process takes from twelve to seventy-two hours, depending on the variety of the blooms and the season of the year."

English walnuts will keep fresh longer and have a better flavor if they are heated through in the oven before using.

When scrim curtains get stained and faded, dye them a darker color that matches the color scheme of the room.

THE BIBLE K

The International Sunday Lesson for May 15, is "With Others"—I. Cor. 12:14-20

Because of the company it kept, the word socialism is a bad reputation. As a word, it is a good one, for it gathers up to itself a working together of all people to the common welfare. It stands for fellowship and brotherhood and love. The idea back of it, is the important thing, is a Bible teaching, one important phase of the present Sunday Lesson.

There is nothing in Holy Writ support the class-conscious, the destructive conception of a new system which is widely prevalent in the world today. Communism, socialism, squarely and definitely company with the Bible and the teaching of Jesus. But there is abundance of teaching in Scripture for the creation of a new and fairer and more fraternal of human life.

This Lesson is based on them, a fragment from an ancient document which the Apostles wrote to the Christians in a Third ancient city is itself a I saw a couple of years ago, principal of Paul's teaching, powerful and prevalent than of powers. Let me quote:

Paul's Pungent Parable.

"For the body is not one many. If the foot shall say because I am not the hand, I am the body; it is not therefore the body. And if the ear shall say because I am not the eye, I am the body; it is not therefore of the body. If the whole body an eye, were the the whole were the hearing were the smelling? But hath God set the members of of them in the body, even as it Him. And if they were all on ber, where were the body? E they are many members, but of And the eye cannot say to the I have no need of thee; or again head to the feet, I have no you. Nay, much rather, those here of the body which seem more feeble are necessary; an parts of the body, which we t be less honorable, upon these stow more abundant honor; uncomely parts have more a comeliness; whereas our comel have no need, but God tempo body together, giving more a honor to that part which lacke there should be no schism body; but that the members have the same care one for another. And whether one member s all the members suffer with it; member is honored, all the un rejoice with it."

A Recipe For Restoration.

Trouble has come from the notion of various parts of the human society that each is to and that the rest of the body subordinate to it. The interdependence of mankind, as humanity is not learning, is a truth that takes precedence of the independence of any part of mankind. THE BIBLE KIND OF SOCIALISM

The International Sunday School Lesson for May 15, is, "Working With Others"—I. Cor. 12:14-27.

Business of the company it has often kept, the worst socialism is in rather bad repute. As a word, it is really a good one for it gathers up the idea of a working together of all people for the common welfare. It stands for fellowship and brotherhood and service. The idea back of it, which is the important thing, is a Bible teaching, one important phase of which constitutes the present Sunday School Lesson.

There is nothing in Holy Writ to support the class-conscious, hate-filled, destructive conception of a new social system which is widely prevalent in the world today. Communism, Bolshevism, squarely and definitely parts company with the Bible and the leadership of Jesus. But there is an abundance of teaching in Scriptures for the creation of a new and nobler and fairer and more fraternal order of human life.

This Lesson is based on one of those fragments from the great document which the Apostle Paul wrote to the Christians in Corinth. That ancient city is itself a ruin, as I saw a couple of years ago, but the principles of Paul are today more powerful and prevalent than ever before. Let me quote:

Paul's Pungent Parable.

"For the body is not one member, but many. If the foot shall say, 'Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; and if the ear shall say, 'Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; it is not therefore not of the body. If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were a hearing, where were the smelling? But now hath God set the members as in one of them in the body, even as it pleased Him. And if they were all one member, where were the hand? But now they are many members, but one body. And the eye cannot say to the hand, I have no need of thee; or again the head to the feet, I have no need of you. Nay, much rather, those members of the body which seem to be more feeble are necessary; and those parts of the body, which we think to be less honorable, upon these we bestow more abundant honor; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness; whereas our comely parts have no need; but God tempered the body together, giving more abundant honor to that part which lacked; that there should be no schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another. And whether one member suffereth, all the members suffer with it; or one member is honored, all the members rejoice with it."

A Recipe For Restoration.

Was ever the great idea better put? Our day's problems—international, economic, industrial, religious, political—are largely a matter of human beings knowing how to work well together. If governments and groups and individuals could subscribe honestly to Paul's parable of the body and its members, most of the present difficulties of the world would vanish. Restoration and reparation wait upon cooperation.

Trouble has come from the stupid notion of various parts of the body of human society that each is the head, and that the rest of the body is wholly subordinate to it. Of course this idea is absurd; but then most of our sins and blunders are really foolish. A trunkless head is as futile as a headless trunk. The interdependence of mankind, as humanity is now slowly learning, is a truth that really takes precedence of the independence of any part of mankind. Every day's issue of the paper is eloquent with illustrations of the World: No man liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.

Mischief has been made by the lodging of the same idea in the heads of individuals—and there is usually room to spare in any head where this conception abides. Some persons think that they have a sort of "divine right" to leadership. Prominence is theirs, they believe, by the wisdom of the Omnipotent. They openly avow, or secretly believe, that God means them to be privileged and powerful; and that they have no obligation to the great body of their fellows.

These are the irritating men and women who are inflicting the sore places in society and roughening the points of human contact. They simply are unaware of the divine law that all of us are meant to be workers together, one with another; and that the only dishonor attaches to a place or position, but to failure to be a worker.

The Mistake of "Main Street."

Anybody can be a success in a dream world. To show one's self up within one's self, having little or no real contact with other persons, is the easy way of living an ideal life—in our imaginations. There are countless persons, who believe themselves superior souls, who thus evade the actual tests of life. Most suicides and other failures are of the morbid, self-centered, introspective group; who have been accustomed to call their isolation by the other names than its real one, which is cowardice.

Let us not dodge the clear truth here. God has put us all in a world of men and women. He has decreed that it is no good for one to be alone. Life has been so organized by Him that we are dependent upon human relationships. He has made us, in the Bible phrase, "Members one of another." To carry out the fundamental programme of God for the race we simply must learn to work together. Moreover, fellowship with folks is one of the rewards of existence. It is a happiness, as well as a duty, to work with other men and women; and to learn how to be a good fellow-laborer in the great service of mankind.

Half-baked young persons usually think themselves of a different stuff from others; and quite better than the common run of men and women. These notions are merely "growing pains," usually caused by lines, although the melody persists through-out life with some unfortunate. A recent popular novel, "Main Street," an unpleasant book, tries to make a heroine out of one of these "peppier and 'superior'" young women, although to the end she cut a sorry figure. There is more of Greenwich Villages than of the average small town in the portrayal of a life that is singularly unreal, without any noble characters or qualities. One rather pities an author who has no conception of the beautiful traits of neighborliness and friendliness and quiet service and heroism and goodness which characterize the majority of the people of every normal community. The world is being made over, not by hysterical and pharisaical "heroines," so absorbed in a "career" of uplift that they have no strength of character to be ordinary good neighbors; but by that countless company of men and women who have adjusted themselves to the inevitable task of working with other people in cheerfulness, helpfulness and good will.

Everybody's Masterpieces.

To work well with others requires two convictions: first, a conviction of one's own personality and duty; and, second, an equal conviction of the personality and rights of our fellow workers.

The person who is his own boss is likeliest to have respect for the individuality of every other person with whom his life is linked. Nobody can work well who is not conscious of his own dignity and worth and usefulness. "Worms of the dust" were never meant to be the associates of God-endowed men and women. Neither can one be a true work-well who despises his associates, or denies them their inherent rights as children of a common Father.

The slave and the tyrant are both economic failures. Nobody ever does a completed work. Each person but contributes his part to a whole in which his fellow workers—often those who have gone before, and equipped him—are laborers with him. At the loom of life each of us but weaves a section of a pattern, the threads and the machinery and the skill having come from other workers, and the whole pattern from God. Our care is to be to make sure that we do not mar the design and nullify the work of these associates.

A privilege and a pride it should be to know ourselves workers together with God and with our fellow workers, having a share in the real socialism of co-operation and of fellowship, the Bible programme for the normal human being.

Claims The Animal Committed Suicide

Novel Plea Set up by Lawyer When Sued for Death of Dog.

Boston, May 13.—To the contention of John Chaisson, in a suit for $1,000 that his dog was using due care when it was killed on the street by an automobile driven by Peter J. Donaghe, the latter answered in the Superior Court today that the animal was a suicide.

The court thus has two unusual questions to decide: Whether a dog may be said to have used due care and whether a dog can be considered to have ended its life intentionally. Mr. Donaghe, who is an attorney, in his answer said that "the dog was crossing the street in front of the defendant's automobile, and as he reached the center of the street he suddenly turned and revolved in a circle, snapping and biting at other animals and that the dog, becoming dependent at his inability to dislodge said animals, hurled himself under the defendant's automobile and thereby committed suicide."

Marconi Showed the Way—and Furnace Pipes Must Go

MARCONI showed that sound waves could be carried through the air—that wires were unnecessary. The modern heating engineer has shown that HEAT CAN BE CARRIED THROUGH THE AIR—that PIPES ARE UNNECESSARY.

WHAT USERS SAY: For Stores, Halls and Churches. "My store is 40 x 42 lower floor. No trouble to heat stores, burn less coal than stoves, more heat, no dust or dirt and a labor saver. Can recommend your furnace as the proper heater for stores, halls or churches."

With the entire heating system IN THE CELLAR, out of sight and out of the way—WITHOUT A PIPE through floor or wall, to clutter the home and mar its beauty—WITH NOTHING at all in the house but the warmth itself—you can have EVERY individual room at a PERFECTLY EVEN TEMPERATURE, and that temperature exactly what you want it. Pipeless Heating makes your home a snug and cozy nest of comfort.

Yours truly, J. A. STEWART, Grand Anse, C. B.

The Pipeless way is NATURE'S WAY. Stiffness is unknown. All the while the air is circulating—coming and going on its rounds. Although its motion cannot be felt, it is travelling from room to room, CIRCULATING THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE HOUSE, making its way back to the furnace to be cleaned by heat, washed, moistened and re-warmed.

Every Room Uniform. "The furnace has given us absolute satisfaction, heating every room in my nine room house uniformly, the variations of temperature in the different rooms on some of the coldest days we had this winter, not being over one degree, and the furnace is so easily controlled that any desired temperature throughout the house is easily obtained."

The Enterprise Pipeless Furnace does the work of THREE OR FOUR STOVES with HALF THE FUEL and a fraction of the labor—runs the home of dirt and dust, gives you an ALL-WARM HOUSE and a COOL CELLAR, suitable for storing fruit and vegetables. The Enterprise Pipeless burns ANY KIND OF FUEL, and so much less of it, that in a short while it will give you back in reduced fuel bills its entire initial cost. Its installation is simplicity itself—A SINGLE DAY is all it takes to put it in—a hole is cut to fit the register, the furnace is set up and lighted.

Yours truly, J. W. MURDOCK, Montague, P. E. I.

Would Not Part for Twice the Price. "I could not believe that an apparatus of this sort, in the centre of the house, could distribute such equal heat in ten rooms, but now I believe it. This furnace uses very little fuel and there is no dust or smoke in the rooms, as is sometimes the way with the pipe furnace. I can recommend this system to all who are interested in it. I would not do away with it for twice the price paid."

The events to be completed in this afternoon will be the mile run, the hundred yard dash, 12 1/2 ft. shot put, the pole vault and the running broad and high jumps. Weekly Chat

My dear kiddies—It is really too soon to hear from you in regard to our suggestions made in last Saturday's C. C. as I always write you in the middle of the week—not from choice, though but from necessity. I mean that often your letters do not come in on Thursdays and Fridays, yet by that time our page is generally closed up. So if you are ever disappointed over what seems like a neglect and delay in answering your letters, just think of this very important C. C. rule which must be obeyed: However, I did get a surprise today (Wednesday) for along came a letter from Millstream from a very enthusiastic member and she had gone right to work to organize her club for spring mission work. It was so encouraging and made me feel already well repaid, and I know there are many such other groups ready for work which I will hear from in due time. An idea occurred to me since chatting with you and it was this: Wouldn't it be necessary to send in the names of the club members, for instance you could be known as the Rose Club in Norton, Liliac Club in Moncton, and so on, each Club choose its own flower (vote on it by ballot) and no two clubs of course could have the same name. If two sent in the same name, would choose the first one mailed by the post-mark and notify the other club that they must choose again. Perhaps it would be well to make a first and second choice and that would save time in case your first choice had already been spoken for. However, we won't likely come to such complications for a while, as there are a great many blossoms to pick from. I rather like the flower idea, don't you? It will not be necessary to send in the names of all the members, unless they are not already members of the C. C., and wish to be. Forward the name of your Club, your leader's name—who will be an adult—and your secretary's name who might be one of yourselves, especially the older ones. If you are not ready to send in the names of the secretaries' duties. By all your letters I can readily picture a nice green carpet over what their Nature's big fields and what a lot of nice flowers must be seen to make the designs, for violets, dandelions, strawberries and many blossoms have been reported as being visible. Each week will show marvellous changes and once the trees appear all dressed up in their frocks of green, we must surely realize that summer is about to begin once more. Well, little friends I must not use up too much of your valuable space, as last week with answers and chat they were very much in evidence. Today, we hope to start a continued story for boys and girls. Interests must not be forgotten on our C. C. With much love to all.

Answers To Letters

LETTER FROM ISABEL MOG.—You are indeed quite a stranger and though you have not written yet when you read the C. C. every Saturday you must have reason to think of us. This is the time for gardening and I hope you and your crew have the best of luck with the many kinds of seeds you are sowing. You have quite a nice sized family in your home. How well you are doing at school? Your marks were splendid which goes to prove that you are a very good student. May you always do as well.

GRACE FROM FENWICK.—Your little letter was short but long enough to tell of having found many spring blossoms. We are always glad when summer comes, I think.

MADGE O. F.—Very pleased to know you and have you join our happy club. You write a very nice little letter too, though I believe you could write better. If you practice, perhaps your pen was most to blame? You have two of the nice kinds of pens, especially "Dicky." I always wished for a bird, though I feel sorry to see them caged. The four little chicks must find this a chilly world to live in judging by the past few days.

OLIVE B. D.—Good for you to get to the head of your class, hope you manage to keep there. What a lot of strawberry blossoms you found, but of course you did not pick any.

ARTHUR S.—So glad to know of your doings. Did you enjoy your Easter trip and like many another fellow you are impatient for the roads to get in good condition for motoring. Lucky for you to have such chances. Hope to hear from you again some fine day.

LEMUEL G.—I think you are the first boy to write of being on a fishing trip this season and what a fine catch you had too. Being early at the sport gives you the best chances and then as you say those hot days we had last month probably fooled the trout too. Hope you have another outing soon for it is dandy fun alright.

FLORENCE A. N.—After enjoying our page for quite a time you give the courage to join us, well better write than never, and of course we are pleased to count you among our new friends. You have certainly seen a lot of the spring blossoms. To me you have such a walk to school, but perhaps you are picked up sometimes.

CARMEL W.—Your exams seem to be starting very early, but perhaps you do not go to the public school. Hope you have good luck with the papers anyway. So glad you like our page, and it was good to hear that Helen had received a letter from one of our C. C. members.

DELLA and CLARA F.—So pleased to have you both join our joyfully C. C. and hope your interest in our page continues. With four girls in one home you must have some lively times and would never be lonely I should think. Yes, the grass is getting very pretty everywhere now, and the trees are just beginning to bud.

EDRIE A.—You are the first (outside of the Boobee Club) to respond to our chat of last week and by your letter you are very enthusiastic. How splendid to have all the girls take to the idea so readily. Will expect to hear from you as your plans materialize.

BEATRICE MCK.—So glad to enroll you among the new ones and hope your work will be very successful. Will hope to hear from you too, so that we may become better acquainted.

MILDRED F. and LOUISA E.—Delighted to put you on our membership list too, and will hope to hear from you too. Of course you will be very busy for a while getting started with your Club work.

EVA M. W.—Very pleased to have you join our C. C. Perhaps you will send along a letter too, and let us about yourself and your doings, so that we may become better acquainted.

OLIVE B.—That was indeed a lovely letter of spring news which you wrote and you certainly have used your eyes to have seen so many signs. The woods are no novelty to you, are they?

MAYTIME

Of all the season of the year I think the best is spring When all the pretty buds awake And birds begin to sing.

And of the spring the nicest month By far, I think is May, When sunshine bright, it seems the night's 'Bout half as long as day.

It's light time when we first awake— Still day when prayers we say— Oh, there never was a playtime Like the happy time of May.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

The Mud Cat. The catfish called by some of his admirers the Mud-cat, like the mud is plenty able to take care of himself. He seems to have the best time of any of the fishes, and is one of those blessed individuals, who can get fun out of anything. We don't know why he is called a catfish, unless it is because he has whiskers, and has all of nine lives, besides a few odd ones that he carries around with him in case of emergency. He does not wear scales like most of the river dwellers, but is smeared all over with the silkiest and the smoothest substance known. Compared with it, the best lubricator ever invented, is as rough as sandpaper. Try to hold him in your hand, and for a few minutes the pain from his purring and squeezing and the hardest you squeeze, the further he shoots when he slips out and is gone.

Beetlewit's Nine-penny Motor. "Way for the Racer" yelled Wizzy. "Make one!" That was Beetlewit all over. One had only to express a desire to possess anything—from a double-yolked egg of the great auk to an up-to-date beetlewit—and the suggestion came promptly and to the point. "Make one!" or so before young Giddall had been bewailing the fact that Mount High School—our great rival across the way—was to be represented by a brand new 120 horsepower car at the big motor meet at Blufferton. School boasted not so much as "a bakpotato engine."

How Jack Got Into the Pulpit. By Alice W. Hamilton. Jack, the little fairy about whom this story is told, lived in a great wood. The wood was so full of birds and bushes and flowers, that anyone would think Jack could have been perfectly happy playing there, but it was not so. He was a mischievous little fairy, and much of his time was spent in cutting unseemly capers.

"W—what is it?" gasped Clarking. "The Yellow Peril!" chuckled the proud inventor. "Oh!" murmured Wizzy. "The Yellow Peril all right, and well take the 'Peril' for granted. But what's it for? Going in for the rag and bone trade, I suppose?" Beetlewit simply ignored him, and with more than a touch of pride he proceeded to explain the fearsome thing, and the difficulties he had encountered and conquered in its construction. "I don't mind admitting," he remarked calmly, "that the car owes its name to its color, that particular paint being the only sort I could—er—find. As you will observe, the body of the car bears some resemblance to a boat. Strange to say, it was a boat originally. For some years it had served as a summer-house in old Tim Dragoon's garden. When Tim left the cottage no one went into it. Consequently, it was no summer-house, and I—er—borrowed it. If anybody else kicks up a fuss about it, well, I'll buy it."

"Having secured the boat, all I had to do was to saw the thing in two, turn up the stern to form the rear-back part, y'know, and there you are!" "And the wheels?" asked Wizzy. "Ah! the wheels!" murmured Beetlewit, meditatively. "I confess we had some trouble about the wheels. It's to be hoped Dan Kirby, the motor gardener, won't return from London for a day or two yet. He might be able to get some. Still, he added, calmly, "if he kicks up a fuss—well, I'll buy those wheels!"

Admiration was about equally divided between Beetlewit's ingenuity and his sublime impudence. He had just admitted that the big item of expenditure up-to-date had been a pound of nails—some of the parts of the car being "borrowed" and more "found." "What on earth's this?" he demanded. "Torpedo tube, I suppose?" "Wrong," replied Beetlewit, gravely. "Exhaust pipe from the motor." "Eh?" jerked out Wizzy, advancing towards the car. "Where's the motor?" "But here Beetlewit, backed by Donk and Hyne, his chums and partners in the venture, looked a firm stand. Nor for worlds would they exhibit the motor.

"Well, what's to drive you?" demanded the matter. "Clarence!" retorted Beetlewit. "That's our secret," returned Beetlewit. "Couldn't tell you that," said Donk. "We—well, we scarcely know ourselves yet!" said Hyne. "Then, when someone laughed, Hyne became boastful. "Oh, you may laugh!" he said, warmly. "But I'll tell you this much. We're going to represent Blufferton at the big show next Wednesday. What is more, we are going to make a stir. Clarence, fair start and a clear course there won't be a motor car at Blufferton capable of shaking off 'The Yellow Peril.'"

"That is a fact!" said Donk. "You shall see for yourselves," chuckled Beetlewit. "Yes, we shall make a stir! And Sir Bullamore Bumby's special prize is simply a gift for 'The Yellow Peril.'"

"Sir Bullamore Bumby, he it explained, had offered a prize of twenty guineas for the car adapted to be the best value for money. According to Beetlewit, his "Yellow Peril" had cost "about nineteen all told," and would "beat some beating."

Little Clarence's collar was torn, his face scratched, and his feet were sore. "We're playing war," he answered, once he gasped for breath. "Why don't you stop and fight, then?" "I'll win when he gets up to me, but I'm hurtin' him on now."

"The birds and the butterflies look after him; and the grasshoppers, forgetting how they once suffered at his hands, sit below and talk to him. But it is very hard, of course, to have to stand in one place all the time. As he grew taller his head and shoulders appeared above the edge of the blossom; he looked exactly like a preacher in a pulpit. In fact, he began to be called after a while 'Jack-in-the-Pulpit.'"

"His time went on as he began to like his home better; and now, it is said, he often gathers a crowd of young fairies round him and tells them his story. He tells them that if he had been minding his own business instead of robbing bees and riding grasshoppers he would still be a free fairy. And it is said also that on account of Jack's preaching there are every year fewer mischievous fairies in fairyland."

"We—well, we scarcely know ourselves yet!" said Hyne. "Then, when someone laughed, Hyne became boastful. "Oh, you may laugh!" he said, warmly. "But I'll tell you this much. We're going to represent Blufferton at the big show next Wednesday. What is more, we are going to make a stir. THE JUNIOR COOK

Cooking Winter Turnips. Select good firm turnips. If you are not used to paring vegetables, choose rather small turnips, as they will be easier to pare. Cut off the tops and cut to a cone shaped hole in the top. This will prevent the cooked turnip from falling apart. Drop into boiling water and cook till tender. If slices are very thin this will not take much longer than for cooking whole potatoes—1-2 hour. Turnips cooked this way are a dainty, delicious dish.

NOT A SECOND TIME

A youth applied for a situation to a large employer of labour, and was courteously refused. Leaving the office, he noticed a pin on the floor, and, stopping down, picked it up and stuck it in his waistcoat. The employer noticed the action, and called after him to come back. The boy told that there of them have gone out into the world to be very useful citizens.

Straightforward. A certain gentleman possessed of great wealth and proud of his possessions, was rather deficient in intellect. One day he had an old man working for him, an Irishman, possessing a full share of the wit of his race. The rich man going to superintend the job looked at Pat a minute, hard at work, and said:

"Well, Pat, it's good to be rich." "Yes, sir," said Pat, meekly enough. "I am rich, Pat—very rich."

"And what is it, Pat, I haven't got." "An bit of sense, sir," said Pat, as he raised his wheelbarrow and trundled it off.

NOT so far from Charlie's house there lives a little old man who makes the most wonderful toys out of wood, and the boys gather about him daily and watch his simple knife as he sits in the door of his little shop and whittles away. Charlie passed the shop the other day and saw a brand new one that the man had just finished. It was so painted and gilded in the sun. Charlie had been wanting something like it for a long time and finally coaxed his daddy to buy it for him. Follow the dots and you'll learn what it was Charlie wanted so badly.

A FINE INSTITUTE FOR YOUNG INDIANS

Of course you all know that there are hundreds of Indian boys and girls living here in Canada. For the most part they live on reservations especially in the young of Canada has several well-equipped institutions devoted to their welfare. One of the best of these is Mount Elgin Indian Residential School at Almonk, Ontario, where Rev. S. R. McVilly is the principal. For seventy years our Church has ministered to the Indians at this place, and the work has been a blessing to thousands of Indians. There is a first-class school and the pupils have a high standard in the work. Each year a high school entrance examination, and do themselves and the school credit. During the war no less than eighty-three pupils and ex-pupils of the school went overseas to fight for the empire. All manner of work is taught the young Indians, and many of them have gone out into the world to be very useful citizens.

Other Essentials. It is important for the school aridists to remember that instead of one crop he has two crops of soil fertility. He should therefore make provision for a suitable plant food to meet the needs of the orchard itself. The clearest indication of a soil of available plant food is a fall in yields or inferiority of product. Such should be studied carefully. Immediate steps taken to balance plant food so that most productive yields may be very quickly attained.

RAILWAYMEN NOT TO MOVE "BLACKLEG" COAL

Engineers and Firemen Have Thrown Down the Gage of Battle.

MAY YET BE A GENERAL STRIKE

Government May Introduce Legislation to Keep Out Foreign Money.

London, May 13.—For several days past an unmitigated, if tangible, feeling that there will be an early settlement of the miners' strike has been everywhere apparent. This feeling has probably been prompted by the recent statement of Herbert Smith president of the miners' union, protesting that the government and owners had attempted to argue the miners' proposals for a settlement, and promising that if the government or owners produced a better scheme the miners would give up without consideration.

The premier further declared that the government was considering the possibility of introducing legislation, which would prohibit the receipt of foreign money intended to be devoted to revolutionary propaganda and movements in the British Isles.

One of yesterday's developments was the decision of the executive of the Association of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, of which J. Bromley is president, to support members refusing to handle imported coal.

The trouble at Glasgow arose from the dismissal of railway men who refused to handle sea borne coal, but it is reported that the movement of coal is now being carried on by the employment of national labor.

The general labor situation which is sufficiently bad was further aggravated today by a strike of eight thousand electrical workers against a proposed reduction of wages.

THROUGH RAIL SERVICE TO PACIFIC COAST

Canadian National Railways Offer Most Direct Connections With Fast Through Trains from Montreal.

The finest train service to the Pacific Coast is afforded by the Canadian National-Grand Trunk "Continental Limited" now leaving at 9:00 p. m. daily from Bonaventure Station, Montreal.

The route of this finely equipped all steel train to the coast is via Ottawa, North Bay, Cochrane, and via the Transcontinental to Winnipeg and by Grand Trunk Pacific to Saskatoon and Edmonton and via Canadian National Railways to Vancouver—the finest of scenic routes through the Rockies and over the smoothest road-bed.

From Maritime Province points there is connection by Ocean Limited with the Continental Limited, daily, and by the Maritime Express daily except Sunday. The Maritime Express arriving in Montreal at 7:40 p. m. affords the most direct connection, but passengers by the Ocean Limited will have the advantage of a day spent in Montreal.

The Maritime Express arriving at 1:50 p. m. affords connection with train No. 11 leaving Quebec daily for Cochrane at 5:00 p. m. This train makes connection at Cochrane with the Continental Limited, so it will be seen there is really a choice of two distinct routes.

There is also the through service to the Pacific coast by train leaving Toronto daily at 10:30 p. m. via Sudbury, Port Arthur, Port William and Winnipeg. Connection for this is made by the Ocean Limited to Montreal, and the Grand Trunk International Limited to Toronto.

Particulars of these splendid rail services to the West will be explained by all C. N. R. Ticket Agents, and folders and illustrated matter may be obtained by application to any of the City Ticket Offices or by writing the General Passenger Department, Moncton, N. B.

Vickers' Machine Guns In Action

Citizens Will Have Chance to Witness Great Treat Today.

This afternoon, No. 1 Company of 7th Machine Gun Brigade, commanded by Officer Bert Smith, will have two 303 Vickers Machine Guns in action at the Rifle Range near the Shamrock Grounds. The remark was made by a returned soldier that during his 12 months in France he never saw a machine gun in action, so a real treat awaits those who go to the Rifle Range on Saturday afternoon. Major Ronald McAvity, second in command of the 7th Machine Gun Brigade, will have two 303 Vickers Machine Guns in action at the Rifle Range near the Shamrock Grounds. The remark was made by a Returned Soldier that during his fifteen months in France he never saw a Machine Gun in action, so a real treat awaits those who go to the Rifle Range on Saturday afternoon. Major Ronald McAvity, second in command of the Brigade, has made arrangements for explanation to visitors.

Signal Corps. Major Allan Leavitt, M. C. officer commanding No. 6 Company Signal Corps has made arrangements to give the people of St. John another treat. It is his intention to install a telephone on the Rifle Range, where bulletins giving explanation of all that is taking place will be issued, and also to lay a telephone line in "shury" style—showing the manner in which this work was carried on in the forward area during the recent war. From the Rifle Range to the Western Union Corner at foot of King Street, and bulletins will be issued here in full explanation of what is taking place on the Range, so that those unable to visit the Range and see the Machine Guns at hand will have a chance of having the proceedings explained to them.

Telephone Line. The telephone is to be laid from the Rifle Range to Dufferin School, down Main, Mill, and Dock Streets to Market Square, under command of Captain Cyril H. Macdonald, M.M., and will prove to be one of the most interesting events seen in the City for some time. The men who will lay this line are all young fellows who have been in training during the Winter only, and some allowances will have to be made by spectators as this is the first time they will have had any instruction in telephoning in the manner employed in active service.

Courses in Training. The courses included in the training of the Signal Corps included flag-waving, and other visual signalling, which is the first part of the course, and later on they take up telephoning, telegraphy, wireless telegraphy, horsemanship, rifle and pistol shooting, map reading and physical training. This work will prove most interesting and enough officers will be present to explain the work and training and all technicalities of the signal instruction to all interested.

A fine feeling of comradeship and cooperation was manifested by the delegates from all parts of the Dominion and the cause of good roads received a big boost. The Commissioner predicted that within the next ten years it would be possible to board an auto at Halifax or St. John and travel clean across the continent to Vancouver on a state highway.

C. I. G. T. Rally Close Season

St. Mary's Group Capture Code Card Contest—Address by Miss Allison.

The Canadian girls in training of the city closed the season with a rally at the Y.W.C.A. Recreational Centre, King street east, last evening. There was a large attendance and every moment of the programme was enjoyed. Mrs. J. D. Hunter presided and the girls were addressed by Miss Mary Allison, who suggested how the C. I. G. T. could make good use of their time during the summer months. The contest for the best code card was awarded to Miss Lane's group of St. Mary's church, which had the high percentage of 93, and they were presented with a handsome cup. The second high was one of the groups of Germain street Baptist church. The C. I. G. T. of St. George's church, West St. John, delighted all present with a well performed play-let. Arrangements were made for the girls' cabinet—666 to be held next week. During the evening all joined in games and ice cream was served.

Flag Pole Painter Falls To His Death

Halyards on No. 1 Fire Station Pole Parted and George M. Pope is Dashed to Sidewalk

Geo. M. Pope, the flag-pole painter, of 116 Queen street, received fatal injuries when the halyards supporting a boy's chair he was using broke, and he fell thirty-five feet from the pole to No. 1 Fire Station, Charlotte street in the pavement below. The accident occurred about twenty minutes to three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Life was practically extinct when bystanders reached the man's side, but Dr. J. B. Bentley and the ambulance were summoned and Pope was rushed to the hospital. Death came just as he was being admitted. The cause was diagnosed as a fractured skull.

Second Day at Work Yesterday was the second day Pope had been working on the pole. The day before he raised himself to its top and removed the ball, which he glued in place yesterday morning. He then began painting the pole and had painted over twenty feet of it and was some six or eight feet from the fire when the halyards broke and he was dashed to the pavement below.

Weak Halyards In painting the pole he made use of a boy's chair, which was attached to the halyards of the pole. The halyards were made of light five-eighths of an inch rope and had been in use for over a year and were quite weather-beaten. They proved totally unequal to the strain placed upon them. A great deal of surprise has been expressed that Pope should have entrusted his life to them, especially in view of the fact that he was using a new rope of the same size to hoist his paint can. Charles Conway, driver of the motor engine, was seated in the doorway of the station when Pope fell in front of him on the sidewalk. It is thought that when the halyards broke the unfortunate man struck on the edge of the roof and bounded out, as the body fell near the outer edge of the sidewalk.

Remembered By Her Choir Associates

Main St. Baptist Choir Make Presentation to One Soon to be Wedded.

There was a very pleasant and interesting occasion at the home of W. H. White, Douglas Avenue, last evening when the choir of the Main street Baptist church gathered for their weekly rehearsal. After the rehearsal work, the company resolved itself into a social gathering, during which Miss Marie Bailey, a member of the choir, was the guest of honor. The principal in an interesting event, was presented with a beautiful picture to adorn the wall of her new home. The presentation was made on behalf of the choir and music committee of the church by Mr. White. Mr. White, in a humorous way, referred to the event which is to take place in June, and spoke of the valuable services which Miss Bailey had rendered to the choir. The gift, he said, was only a slight token of the high esteem in which the recipient was held by her associates, and with it went the best wishes of the donors that her life would be one of sunshine and happiness. Miss Bailey replied in a few well chosen words, emphasizing the pleasure that had come to her in her association with the choir, and thanked them for the presentation. Congratulatory speeches were made by Messrs. Percy Cruikshank, Bayard Sitwell, Harry Dunlap and Mrs. Archibald, the organist. A musical programme, consisting of solos by Mr. Cruikshank and Miss Parise, and a ladies' chorus was given.

Mother Sees Girl Die Atop Flaming Barn

Salem, N. J., May 13.—Marion E. Dicks, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren P. Dicks, Salem county, was burned to death last night as her mother looked on, poor wretch to rescue her. The mother, startled by screams, found the little one on top of a shed enveloped in flames. By the time she reached the building the thatched roof had fallen from the girl's clothing. The mother, after a frantic attempt to reach the child, was driven back by the flames, but not until she was horribly burned about the face and arms. By the time neighbors reached the scene the barn and contents had been destroyed.

PIANO RECITAL GREATLY ENJOYED

A piano recital was given last evening at the Queen Square Sunday school by four pupils of Mrs. H. C. Rayworth. Evelyn Harrison, Helen McKay, Mary Soderick and Vicars McLaughlin, assisted by Miss Bertie Campbell, soprano, and Miss Ethel McGinley, reader. A large audience enjoyed the excellent programme given, and the work of the musicians was highly praised. A silver collection was taken for the Ladies Aid.

Ignored Minto Mines In Ordering Coal

C. N. R. Passes up New Brunswick Industry in Placing Orders for 1921 Fuel.

John Henderson, of the Witton Henderson Coal Co., operating at Minto, was in the city yesterday in the interests of the company's mines. Mr. Henderson was here to see what could be done in bringing some influence to bear upon the management of the Canadian Government railways for the consideration of the Minto fields in placing their orders for coal. Sydney Mines Favored While in the city he learned that orders for 600,000 tons had been placed with the Sydney Coal operators, and he thinks New Brunswick operators should have some show. He said the argument was that Sydney must have orders for C. N. R. coal in order to keep the mines going that employment might be had for the unemployed. The same argument can be employed with equal force in the Minto fields, he says. He means that the Sydney mines amounting to 75,000 tons at Sydney, and the orders were placed without making tenders for the vast supply required. From a geographical standpoint, he declares Minto is ideally located for the distribution of coal over the C. N. R. line to New Brunswick coaling stations. The Devon coaling station, twenty miles from Minto, coal is now hauled a distance of 400 miles from Sydney, right past the Minto coal fields. This station consumes 30,000 tons yearly. If Minto could have this little lot, it would be of some assistance, he said.

Coal Suitable Commenting on the report that the coal was not suitable for locomotive steaming purposes, he said that was without any truth. He cited the fact that the C. N. R. was using 50,000 tons a year, had been for ten years distributing it over their branch lines in New Brunswick and using it on their fast freights and express trains between Medford and St. John. The Canadian Pacific, he said, was not employing a fuel for steaming purposes if it is not to their advantage. Mr. Henderson expressed the opinion that if there were representatives at Ottawa looking after New Brunswick interests, something could be done to help the Minto fields. Nova Scotia representatives, he said, fought for Sydney mines and kept lighting until they won. He interviewed politicians while here to see if he could stir up some influence to the aid of Minto's industry and one of the province's revenue-getters.
