Death of Scott Rideout

Scott Rideout died at his home, the McGee residence, Somerville, on Wednesday, Nov. 1. Although he had been a sufferer for years with heart disease, and two years ago sold his farm, on this account, he was about his usual work on Wednesday morning. He came into the house about ten o'clock in the morning and it was noticed he was ill. He never spoke again although he lingered until about four o'clock.

Mr. Rideout was 39 years of age and the son of the late George Rideout of Somerville who died about fifteen years ago. His mother died some six or seven years ago but besides his sorrowing wife and children he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. C. A. Stevens, Hartland, Mrs. Nelson Day of British Columbia, and Mrs. Harry Shaw of Washington State. Warren M. Rideout of Somerville is the only surviving brother. His wife was the youngest daughter of the late Samuel Sipprell of Somerville, and his children are Mattie, aged 12, and George and Clayton, younger.

For some time past Mr. Rideout carried the mail between Hartland and Victoria and was postmaster at Somerville. He was a man of noble character, kind, generous and sympathetic. The world would be a much better place if the men in it were as true as Scott Rideout. He was each one to be a member of the United Baptist church, his life, despite the years of illness, the frequent distressing attacks and the always impending shadow of death, was a life of serene activity, of patience and quiet faith.

The funeral in the Baptist church on Friday, was largely attended by an audience whose deepest sympathies were stirred for the sadly bereft wife and little ones. His pastor, Rev. S. Walter Schurman, conducted the funeral services, assisted by Revs. Hubert T. Smith and Smith Dow. Burial took place beside his parents and brother in the family burial plot, a portion of the homestead farm. The music at the church was beautifully impressive.

Mrs. Isabel Brown

At Glassville on Oct. 20, after a brief illness, Mrs. Isabel Brown widow of Alex. Brown, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Welsh. Mrs. Brown's maiden name was Scott. She was born in Roxborough, Scotland, in November, 1836, and came to Glassville among the earliest settlers of that place where she resided until her death. She was a member of the Presbyterian church. Besides her stepson, Alex. Brown, with whom she lived after the death of her husband, she is survived by two brothers, Archibald and John Scott; two sons, James and Charles; three daughters, Mrs. Edwin Welsh, Mrs. Elliot, Mrs. Peter Quinn, and several grandchildren, all of Glassville. The funeral services were conducted on Sunday afternoon by Rev. M. H. Manuel, of Florenceville. A brief service was held at the house after which a large cortege followed the body to its resting place in the Glassville cemetery. After burial a sermon was preached to a large and sympathetic audience.

Back to Her Native Land

On Oct. 26 Mrs. Mary Ann Browne arrived here from Cunningham, Mass., and will in future make her home with her niece Mrs. D. H. Nixon. Mrs. Browne is a sister of the late George Stickney and is hale and bright at the age of 89 years. She is a native of Brighton and in 1814 married Josiah Sawyer Browne, Jr., son of "Old Squire" Browne once a well known man in the country. They went to Oxford county, Ontario, to 1852 and there hewed out of the wilderness a home for themselves. Later Mrs. Browne went to live with her son, J. Franklin Browne, who accompanied her to Hartland.

The son, J. Franklin Browne, has spent the most of his life as a missionary teacher in the Southern States, but of late years has lived on a little farm in Cunningham, Mass. The particular farm he occupies was the home of his grandfather, William Cullen Bryant, the famous author of "Thanatopsis," and the great poet laureate of America. A few rods away from Mrs. Browne's door.

Browne returned home on Friday last and before going, he made the Observer a pleasant call and stated that he hoped to be able soon to come back here to spend his remaining years.

Carded Next Tuesday

The first roller carnival was a grand success and many interested spectators were there. The prize winners were Mrs. H. H. Hatfield for fancy costume, Miss Susie Downey for original, and Burnett Miller for comic. The patrons of the rink will be glad to know that the manager will hold another carnival next Tuesday evening, with four prizes, one each for best comic, ladies original, gentleman's original, and for best fancy costume. The prizes may now be seen at Simms' store.

Pleasant Evening

Mrs. J. A. Nevers entertained a party of eight young ladies and gentlemen from Woodstock, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 24. The party first attended the rink and then repaired to the home of Mrs. Nevers, where the evening was spent very pleasantly, a delightful supper being served at 11:30. Those in the party were Misses Edna Hayden, Tessie Hughes, Jean Riordan, Margaret Hughes and Messrs Clarence and Richard Dunphy, Fleetwood Jones, and Ernest Rurt.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

What You Should Know

When you go to a store to trade, you should know that you are going to get your money's worth.

You should know that you are to get reliable goods at reasonable prices.

You should know that the store stands ready to make good their representations.

We value our reputation and want you to feel that when you buy goods from us, you will be sure of getting just what you want, at a reasonable price.

We expect to make some profit, of course, that's what we are in business for, but we don't put you one thing below cost and make it up on something else.

We do not need to make the fourth the profit, the big city merchant does, because we do not have one-fourth the expenses.

People put a word on a hook and call it "bait." Some dealers put merchandise on the hook and call it a "leader." A dealer is a "bait" and a "hook" is a "leader."

We don't bait you on "leaders" and make you pay extra for other things in order to replace what we lost on the "leader."

Why do you come from home to trade when you can buy all you want right here at reasonable prices?

If you put your goods away from home, you pay your money and take what they choose to send you.

Most other fellow gets your money and if you don't like what you get, what are you going to do about it? Keep it, that's all.

If you buy goods from us that are not what we represent them to be, we will give you a dollar for every dollar you paid for them.

No firm dealing in goods for public sale makes this offer. We make it because we know our goods are first class, and we want you to feel that an article is good when we say so.

In the big city, where enormous advertising, water rates, rent, light, heat, gas, and other modern expenses are also very high, all have to be paid and you have to pay them when you trade there.

The big city merchant does nothing himself, but employs high priced help, and when you patronize him you help to pay his expenses.

Don't it stand to reason that we can make you better prices when we do the work ourselves? Don't think of it that way.

We have made it a point to get as big a cash discount as our competitors. Having lighter expenses enable us to make lighter prices.

If we ever make a mistake, as pointed out by the above facts, an investigation will confirm them and convince you that when we say so, we mean so.

Why not patronize some merchants and spend your money where you get your money?

We carry everything usually found in first-class general stores and if you want something we haven't in stock, we'll be pleased to get it for you.

West Side Notes.

BY NICOMEDUS.

Once more the autumn leaves are fallen and it becomes imperative to mark the regular preparations for a seven months of New Brunswick winter.

The farmers in this section have safely stored a bounteous crop and generally speaking have their fall work moving along to a finish.

Miss Slipp addressed a meeting in the United Baptist church on Friday night in the interests of missions.

In old Victoria as in all the land the eve of All Saints Day was duly observed. Ordinarily the kindly old custom and superstitions generally associated with HallowE'en have been superseded by a spirit of gentle rowdiness that at times is far from gentle. This year Lower Victoria did herself proud by indulging in a real old "good time."

According to arrangements on the night in question a large number of guests gathered at the home of Mrs. Dickenson and enjoyed an evening's entertainment which took the nature of a masquerade ball. The antics of the various maskers coupled with the original and fancy costumes and backed by a sumptuous chicken supper, made one of the best evenings' entertainments that the West Side people have enjoyed for some time. This is as it should be, for even though the origin of HallowE'en is clouded in the mystery of tradition, like many other interesting relics of the olden times, it is indeed hard to reconcile the modern observation of the evening with the celebration of the long ago. The door bell ringing, the gate movements, the thousand and one exhibitions of mischief making are somewhat from the celebrations of the early centuries. HallowE'en probably grew out of a heathen festival whose celebration consisted in giving to the departed at harvest time his share of the fruits of earth. The Romans celebrated on Nov. 1, with a feast to Pomona, the goddess of fruits and seeds, whence the present day appropriateness of apples and other eatables. On Nov. 1, or thereabouts the Druids of England celebrated on Thanksgiving for the harvest.

And down through the ages, gathering more and more "innovations" as time wore on came HallowE'en, the eve of All Saints Day, losing many of its most interesting customs but retaining all of the memories that the poet Gay writes of thus:

Those tales of vulgar spirits,
That frightened boys relate on winter nights,
How heedless horses drag the clanking chain,
Night roaming ghosts by saucer-eyeballs know,
The common spectres of each country town.

I am sending with these notes a poultry advertisement. I am still booming my Maplewood Strain of Rhode Island Reds. And I certainly have the goods. I started in the spring of 1910 with six little chicks, three of them pullets. These pullets began to lay in December that year and I have kept a daily record of their work, and I declare them record breakers of some class.

From December, 1910, to Feb. 9, 1911, I kept the totals but not a daily score, but from that through a daily record was kept. A glimpse at the following table will convince you that my Reds are just what I have claimed them to be.

Maplewood Rhode Island Reds.

No. 1. No. 2. No. 3.

Dec. - Feb. 9. 23. 14. 11.

Feb. 10 - 28. 28. 23. 24.

March. 13. 24. 27.

April. 12. 27. 25.

May. 10. 12. 20.

July. 00. 27. 09.

Aug. 00. 15. 10.

Sept. 00. 13. 10.

Oct. 00. 13. 10.

Number 1 began to lay Dec. 13, 1910 and in 323 days to Oct. 31, scored 141 eggs and in July, Aug. and Sept. hatched a brood of chickens. Number 2, from Dec. 16, 1910 to above date 320 days scored 215 eggs and in June and July hatched a brood of chicks, and my No. 3 in a total of 316 days from Dec. 16, 1910, made a total of 216 eggs. What do you know about that? The early part of October was broken as all three were moulting but they hit their pace along about the 17, and from then to the last of the month laid 37 eggs; that a fair sample of what they can do and with all November and a good part of December yet to play on I expect to land one or more over the 250 mark.

Mr. Editor I am thoroughly convinced that an OBSERVER ad is a good seller from my experience last spring, for a hundred hens could not have supplied the demand that my OBSERVER ad created, and do you know today as I sat writing out the enclosed advertisement a stranger called me into the yard and asked me if those birds were pure bred. You see just a threat to advertise will bring them, and again tonight a White Leghorn left the farm. Whose turn next?

Hon. J. K. Fleming Guest at Banquet

Gathering at Woodstock in Honor of Provincial Premier

The New Theatre, Woodstock, was well filled with representatives from all parts of the county of Carleton and the province generally on Friday evening to do honor to J. K. Fleming, the provincial premier, Dr. W. D. Rankin was in the chair, and the catering for the banquet was done by Mrs. C. J. Taber, of the Carls Hotel. During the evening a silver service was presented to Hon. Mr. Fleming.

The invited guests from outside were Attorney General W. D. Grimmer, Provincial secretary H. F. McLeod, Hon. J. A. Murray, O. S. Crockett and others.

On the arrival of the south-bound express a large number of the friends of the premier were on hand to welcome him and on behalf of the town council and the municipality Mayor Ketchum read an address which he presented to Premier Fleming.

The premier made a suitable reply and a procession was then formed, headed by the Woodstock band which proceeded through the principal streets of the town to the Victoria Hotel.

At 10.30 o'clock about 300 persons sat down to dinner which was presided over by W. D. Rankin, who read a number of letters of regret among which was one from A. K. Gould, president of the Aroostook Electric Railway, acknowledging an invitation to be present at the banquet and expressing his regards.

In his letter Mr. Gould referred to the Valley railway, and said he was glad to bring assurance that it is now an absolute certainty that the negotiations which have been in progress between the provincial government and myself as contracting parties are complete with the exception of some formalities incident to the execution of the contracts and its success is largely due to the efforts of Premier Fleming.

Premier Fleming, in replying to the toast of Our Guest, said that he intended to run his Government entirely independent of federal issues. He had nothing of a definite nature to say in regard to the Valley Railway except that he would continue to further its completion when the contracts were signed.

He said special attention would be directed towards the working of the crown land department, and all the other departments and especially against a reduction of maritime representation.

Rev. R. W. Weddall, B. A. at Hartland

The annual Foreign Missionary Anniversary took place in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening Oct. 24, when Rev. R. Weddall of Woodstock, paid his first visit to Hartland and gave a most inspiring address. Mr. Weddall is not only well known in this neighborhood as chairman of the Woodstock district—a distinction accorded only to a very few—but is also most popular throughout all the maritime provinces and is much respected wherever he goes.

The service opened by the usual devotional exercises led by the pastor, Rev. Hubert Smith. After which the annual report was read. The amount raised for missions in the whole Dominion last year was $648,081.18 of which $12,892 came from New Brunswick. In Hartland circuit the sum of $97.75 was contributed.

In the course of his stirring address Rev. R. Weddall said that three great forces had been raised up by God to help extend His Kingdom on Earth. First the extension and improvement of all travelling facilities, second, the consecration of human powers in men who are willing to go, third the consecration of the wealth of the world. These forces are co-operating in a great design for the salvation of the world and it is our duty and privilege to assist it.

The singing of another hymn brought the interesting meeting to a close. The only regrettable feature was that Rev. E. C. Turner was prevented from attending by a slight indisposition.

Addington Pearson Dead.

On Tuesday morning the death of Addington Pearson occurred at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pearson of Upper Brighton.

He had been ill of pneumonia, but a few days. He was 32 years of age and unmarried. For many years he suffered a severe indigestion, yet he was full of ambition and did more than make his own way in the world.

Many friends will hear of his death with sincere regret. He was a regular attendant at the religious services in the community and his faith was that of his fathers—Presbyterian.

Besides the parents seven sisters and a brother are left to mourn.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, Rev. M. H. Manuel, Presbyterian, conducting the services and Rev. J. M. Mallory, Primitive Baptist, preaching the sermon.

Rev. H. G. Alder going to the States

He has many warm friends in this parish with whom he will part with regret.

Card of Thanks

I wish to convey my heartfelt thanks to the many friends who showed so much sympathy to me and my little children in the death of my husband.

Mrs. SCOTT RUSSELL

A Dangerous Crossing.

On Monday morning a locomotive dislocated the hind wheel of a wagon on the Depot street crossing. After one or more human lives have been taken at this crossing the company may consider it worth while taking greater precaution to prevent accidents. A few serious accidents at the King street crossing in Woodstock, a rule was adopted providing for safety in the future. The crossing at Hartland is perhaps the most unsafe of any in the railroad yard, for at any time of day an sharp look-out, for at any time of day an sharp look-out may be at work shunting cars back and forth many times. At these times the trainmen keep a sharp watch on the crossing and no pedestrian or teamster should fail to heed a warning. But incoming trains are the great menace. The driver of a vehicle near of the engine can see if all is clear except when close to the crossing. On Sunday a freight train, scooted through here at a speed of 30 miles an hour, so fast that it would have been absolutely impossible to avoid an accident if an auto or a carriage had attempted to cross.

Late Locals.

waited for the collision of the terrible attack which would fall on them upon every side and strike all the sentient ring of a silver trumpet echoed over the field;
