Wit of French Rascals.

A trick was played off a short time since at a fair in Breaute, France. A well dressed gentleman, sauntering about with a valuable gold-headed cane in his hand, was stopped by a westched looking man, who had dragged himself painfully along on crutches and pitcously implored charity. The gentleman, moved to compassion, generously gave the man a piece of silver.

"How can you be confident.

man a piece of silver.

"How can you be so foolish?" cried a man standing by. "That fellow is an impositor, and no more lame than you are. Just lead me your cane for a minute, and by means of a sound thrashing I will convince you of the truth of what I say."

The gentleman mechanically let the man take the cane, and the beggar throwing down his crutches, ran off as fast as he could. The other, amidst roars of laughter from the bystanders, ran after him, menacing him with the cane, and so they ran a considerable distance, when they turned aside into the town and were seen no more. The gentleman waited for some time expecting to see the man return with his cane, but the expectation was in vain. It was clear that the whole scene had been an affair concerted between a pair of adroit rogues.

You musn't touch the top of the baby's head," said a mother to her little four-year old; she has a soft spot that is very tender. The youngster gazed at it curiously for a aoment, and then asked: "do all babies have soft spots on their heads ?"

"Did pape have a soft spot on the top of his head when he was a baby?"
"You," replied the mother with a sigh, "and has got it yet."
And the old man who had overheard the conversation from an adjoining room sang out; "Yes, indeed, my dear boy, or he would be a single man to-day."

DOAKTOWN, Nov. 30, 1887. In the St. John Globe of the 25th of Nov. we notice a very exaggerated report in con-nection with Rev. Mr. Montgomery's recent nection with Rev. Mr. Montgomery's recent visit to Doaktown. The report says, the key of the Union church is held by the resident Baptist clergyman; that when Mr. Montgomery arrived he found the door locked upon him, and a zealous churchman broke open the door; that the Baptist minister threatens legal action, &c. These statements are not legal action, &c. are not correct. The key of the church is held by the sexton of the church. When Mr. Montgomery arrived, he found the door open and a large congregation awaiting him. The door was not broken open, as reported, but opened by one of the first of the congression as the congression and at the congression. tention on his part of doing so, as it is not at all probable he ever thought of such a thing.

WEDDING BELLS IN GUMVILLE. The Nuptials of Josiah L. Whalen and Miss Albenia Dusenbury.

And the Melancholy Fate of Rev Silas Screecher.

(Specially reported for the Farmer.) settlement has been disturbed by a ripple of the stairs, and the two entered the parlor at uncommon magnitude this week. Those envious persons who were not invited may Tildy Jenkins as groomsman and maid.

Tildy Jenkins as groomsman and maid.

Rev. Silas entered the room bravely, but nounce the affair to have been beyond all question the leading society-event of the year. It was a dazzling display of the talent and culture of Gumville—a majestic upheaval, in fact, of the Gumville upper crust. Gumville upheaval, and the Gumville upper crust. ville is not a large community—or rather it is quite large on the map, but the people in with that he seem to maintain a distant reserve, living about two miles apart as a rule, I should say.

But we Gumvillians were always proud and sectional, so I suppose we will simply have to keep right on multiplying and replenishing keep right on multiplying and replenishing till we fill up the gaps.

The event I allude to. was the union of Albenia May, youngest daughter of eleven of our esteemed citizen, Zschariah Dueenbury, Esq., J. P., and possed keeper for Her Majesty, and Josiah L., second son of six of our equally esteemed townsman, Adonijah Whalen, Esq., likewise J. P., and brother of ex-Supervisor Hezekiah Whalen, now deceased, and formerly Descon of the Free-will connection in Lower Gumville. Squire Dusenbury's palatial residence was the scene to think the tune was attempt to deprive him of his clothes.

CHAPTER 1X.

WORDS OF WARNING. What are you looking for, Richard Adison Cheetham asked; coming just before Pearle reached him. "For a little memorandum book that I iff lying here yesterday," he replied, still continuing his search, the lines of care deepening on his face.

"What sort of a looking book was it?"

"Yes, Adison; that is it. How glad I am, to find it I would not have lost it on any account. Yes,—opening it, and letting the pages slip through his fingers—"this is the yery book; but how could it made got mixed up with these papers. I wonder?"

The other guests were in the gayest of spirits, and the hour passed most mentily. But Adison Cheetham watched, with the eye of a lynx, every motion of that pair by the little table in the bay-window while scarce a mouthful of that tempting lunch passed his lips.

Pearle noticed it, but she did not care; the was growing calmar avery money.

Pearle noticed it; but she did not care; face and a buving brow, he silently left the house. That last night was not a she was growing calmer every moment. She had made up her mind now that she was it is, locked it, and put the was it is locked it, and put the was it is locked. Pearle had grown as white as a snow fake and turned and walked to the windle she had been seized. The lock was his, then; there could be no doubt of it; he had owned it in his presence and Adison Cheetham's. The worty had all faded out of his face when he saw it—he was "so glad to find it;" while your read something about "magnified fears," while you read something about "magnified fears," while your read something about "magnified fears," while you read something about "magnified fears," while you read something about "magnified fears,"

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the invalids Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar allments.

their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and oure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar aliments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonie, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening mervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing aleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, infiammation and ulceration of the womb, infiammation and ulceration of the womb, infiammation, which were the second and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can be promoted by the compl
