The Boers today vainly attempted to reach the British new gun with their artillery, but some of the shells from the new gun effectually silenced them. HUNTER PUSHING ON On the frontier, Gen. Hunter has carried without opposition the passage of the Vaal River at Windsorton. Windsorton is thirty miles from Kimberley and about twenty miles from the Boer laager at Fourteen Streams. There is no longer any doubt that Gen. Hunter has been commissioned to relieve Mafeking, and fighting may shortly be expected to develop on his front. Lord Methuen, whose troops have long occupied Warrenton, doubt-less will take advantage of the operations west of the Vaal River to take possession of that river at an early

The night be-fore the British advance 4,000 Boers moved here, taking up a strong line of defense, with the avowed object of opposing the British to the bitter end. As a result of the strategy of Lord Roberts they were forced to retreat hastily, nearly losing a convoy guns and abandoning the defense of the town. Lord Roberts was present while the operations were in progress, on a kopje, nort of Karee, in which position he was in heliographic communication with each column. ### ARTILLERY DUEL

About three hours after the advance commenced heavy artillery firing was heard to the right. Maxwell, finding that the Boers had two guns posted in a good position, engaged them with his artillery at a 1.500 yards' range. Both sides fired furiously, but the guns were soon completely wilenced.

IN TOUCH WITH THE BOERS. Then gun fire was heard to the left, where Gen. Hutton had come into toucsh with the Boers, who were holding a strong position. Owing, however, to the unexpected arrival of the British, the Boers left several small kopjes unoccupied, and, seizing these, Gen. Hutton opened fire with his bat-

Winburg!

Details of Its Occupation by the British.

Gen. Ian Hamilton Giving the Boers No Rest.

Lord Roberts 63 Miles North of Bloemfontein.

London, May 7.- A special from Smaldeel, dated 9:45 p.m. Sunday, May 6, gives details of the occupation of Winburg by the British. It says:

News has just come here that Gen. Hamilton is giving the Boers no rest, and that they are falling back hurriedly. He entered Winburg today after a brisk fight, in which the Boers fell back so quickly that one of their guns, in addition to a Maxim, was abandoned.

The same dispatch, describing the crossing of the Vet River by the British, says: The Beer forces, entrenched on the opposite bank, prepared to contest the crossing. Our guns were brought into play, and a terrific shell fire was directed on the Boer lines. At the same time the Queenslanders, under a heavy fire, dashed across the river, and advancing in open order, completely turned the Boer right. It was dusk, but nothing could stop the callant Australians. They pushed on again, seized a commanding kopje, brilliant movements and continuous rifle fire drove off the enemy in

The first gleam of dawn this morning found the enemy in full flight, and our men after them, and by 9 o'clock this morning we entered this important strategic point.

CAPTURE OF WINBURG.

The capture of Winburg by the British is confirmed, and the main advance to Pretoria continues with the machine-like precision and rapidity which have characterized all Lord Roberts' forward movements. By the occupation of Winburg Gen. Ian Hamilton puts himself nearly parallel with Lord Roberts, and only 29 miles eastward, while he has the additional advantabe of being connected with his chief by means of railroad that runs from Smaldeel, or Winburg road stations as it is sometimes called, to Win-

The only features of the carefully devised plan of general advance not yet disclosed by the swift develop-ments, is the part Gen. Buller has elected to take in the operations. At present there are no indications of any movement of the present Natal army. Doubtless a few days more or less will bring out the British line of action before the Biggarsberg. Lord Roberts is now nine miles north of the Vet and 63 miles north of Bloemcontein. Evidently he is not letting the grass grow under his feet, though the Boers seem equally anxious to retreat towards Kroonstad, and are so doing. At the time this dispatch is sent there is nothing new from Gen. Hun-ter, but it is presumed he is pushing steadily forward in the direction of Mafeking, aided by the aggressiveness of Barton's and Paget's brigades. The critics of the afternoon newspapers view the situation with the greatest satisfaction.

WON AT WARRENTON.

Warrenton, Sunday, May 6 .- Yesterday Gen. Barton drove from 2,000 to 3,000 Boers from hilly positions at Roordan, where they awaited him. They retreated after stiff fighting, leaving a number of dead on the field. The British easualties were slight. Gen. Barton is still pursuing. BOER REPORTS.

Street Railway Company and the Men Adjust Their Differences.

Several Hundred Old Employes Will Return-Peace at Last.

It will interest the citizens of London to learn, as a telegram in Saturday's Advertiser announced briefly-that the long strike and strife between the Cleveland Street Railway Company and its employes has been settled, that the respective parties have shaken hands, that peace and good will now brood over the scene. The following particulars appear in the Cleveland Plaindealer:

"At a meeting of the union of street railway men at Arch Hall last evening the strike of the employes of the E Company.

No. 7,654—Pte. C. Lester, Montreal, E big consolidated was officially declared by Business off. It was announced by Business No. 7,670-Pte. A. McQueen, 8th Royal Agent Pratt that a settlement satisfactory to the men had been reached. Those of the company's former employes who are desirous of reinstatement will be taken back, some of them at once, and the others as rapidly as places can be made for them.

"Negotiations have been quietly pending for several days looking to a settlement of the strike, but the settlement is a big surprise to the public. When the strike was declared 788 employes of the Big Consolidated went out. Of that number 562 are still out. places elsewhere, and are not desirous of again becoming street car men. The others are to be reinstated.

"At the conclusion of the meeting last evening, which was attended by about 100 members of the union, the men present gave their names, former positions and lines on which they were employed to Business Agent Pratt. These names, with the names of others who desire reinstatement, will be handed to the Big Consolidated offici-als by Mr. Pratt. The company agrees to make places for a good part of the men at once. As fast as a weeding out process of the present employes of the company can be carried out the old employes will be given places. "Division No. 102 of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes of America, as the local union is officially known, declared its first strike on the Big Consolidated lines June 10 of last year. The men did not demand higher wages, but presented a list of grievances which they desired should receive attention and amelioration. June 25 this strike was ended through the medium of a committee of the city council. "Twenty-three days later, on July 17, a second strike was declared. It was claimed by the men that the company had not lived up to its agreement made with its employes through the council committee's good offices, Week after week the strike dragged on, and its history is familiar to every citizen of Cleveland. When the company began to operate its lines with men imported from other cities and picked up wherever available, scenes of violence attended the attempts of sympathizers with the strikers to prevent the cars from running. To pre-vent such scenes every Cleveland company in the National Guard and a number of outside companies. were called out. A number of deputy-sheriffs were sworn in to guard the company's property and the police force did strike duty day and night.

"A boycott was declared on the company's cars and on everyone who rode on them. Lines of 'busses to various parts of the city were established, which carried sympathizers with the strikers to and from their homes. Some of them have been run ever since, but with the advent of the cold and stormy weather of the fall months the patrons of these conveyances gradually began riding on the cars again, as the company opened one after another of its lines with new men. Finally the prejudice against riding on the cars appeared to gradually wear itself out. The company seemed to have all the men it needed to operate its cars and the strike began to be regarded as ancient history by all except the striking employes and their most ardent sympathizers. Many people doubtless regarded it as settled for the time, with loss of positions to the strikers and a great amount of money to the company and "The great fight of the men in both strikes had been for recognition of their union. Although other points in dispute were susceptible of satisfactory adjustment the company's re-fusal to treat with their men other than as individuals or to receive any committee other than one representing the employes and not the union prevented a settlement. It is evident this point has been conceded in the settlement ratified last evening, since it was announced that it was perfectly satisfactory. "Business Agent Pratt announced only that the strike was settled satisfactory to the men. Further than that he would say nothing."

The Advertiser today received a conrmetery telegram from Detroit, brief-ty to the effect that "the Cleveland trike has been settled satisfactorily to the men and company."

Heavy Frost Damaged Sprouting Veg etables in Essex, Ont.—Fruit Buds Nipped in Some Places.

Cleveland, May 7.—Ice formed at many points in Northern Ohio Friday night, according to reports received at the local weather bureau. The cold wave was accompanied by a very heavy and destructive frost, which was almost general throughout the Just how great the damage to fruit has been is not yet known, but it will probably be heavy. At a num-ber of places the mercury fell to 6° below the freezing point, or 26° above

Windsor, May 6.—The market gar-deners of North Essex report that their gardens were badly damaged by the frest Friday night. Corn, beans, pota-toes and other garden stuff were in most cases above the ground, and the frost made a clean sweep, so that relanting is necessary. This will cause the crop to be very late.

The frost did little or no damage to gain, as, on account of the backward season, very few farmers had seed in the ground. Just what damage has been done to the fruit crop cannot be ascertained. Some growers are of the opinion that the blossoms were not far enough advanced to be damaged, while others say that prospects for a large-crop of fruit in the county is not nearly as good now as before the frost. The plum, cherry and peach trees are all in bloom.

FROST DOING DAMAGE. Hamilton, May 7.—The extent of the dinjury done to the buds by the frost cannot as yet be fully determined. Mr. A. Alexander. Wentworth street, says there was eight degrees of frost on Friday night, and six degrees the pre-vious evening, and that in cases where fertilization has begun, much havoc will be wrought. Cherry, peach and plum trees are in this category.

Columbus, Ohio, May 7 .- Specials to the Dispatch from Eastern Ohio say ice formed in some localities, and that killing frosts were general Saturday night. Damage to fruits and early crops was undoubtedly heavy. Apple and peach crops were practically de-

CANCER CURED PERMANENTLY.

Not Relieved Simply-But Thoroughly and Permanently Eradicated,

To make such a statement, that cancer, the one disease above all others that is considered incurable, be permanently cured, would seem too absurd to be considered even for a moment, only that there is plenty of proof from cured persons in Canada, to show that this is a simple and indisputable fact. The remedy that makes these permanent cures is of a constitutional character. searches out the cancer poison, neutralizes it and destroys it, and restores the wasted vitality of the body. There is no need of operation or suffering of any kind. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., on receipt of two stamps, will supply interested perwith full particulars of this treatment, and names of some of those who have been permanently cured by it. Even in cases too far gone to be perfectly cured great comfort satisfaction has been given by build-ing up the vital forces, staying the progress of the disease, and thus prolonging life. James Craig, of Renfrew, has been gazetted a judge of the Yukon. The appointments of Hon. E. G. M. Dechene, of Quebec, and F. E. A. Evanturel, speaker of the Ontario Legisla ture, as commissioners to the Paris Exposition, are also gazetted.

WORK AND WAGES

The Railway Teamsters' Strike Sald to be Ended-Granite Cutters Get Better Terms.

Teronto, May 7.—The railway team-sters' strike is practically ended. Men have been secured from points all over strikers. Of the 213 who went out only fifteen have returned to work, the balance being new men.

New York, May 7.—Strikers at the Standard Oil works at Constable Hook, N. J., assaulted every man who attempted to enter the works on Saturday morning.

No progress has been made in the building trades strike in Philadelphia, and it is said that unless some amicable conclusion be reached soon, work on National Republican convention hail will come to a standstill.

The labor situation at Quiney, Mass., where the granite-cutters have been out over two months, has ended in a compromise, which is to stand for five years. The strikers get an eight-hour day, and the wage increase of 14 instead of 16 per cent. At a conference of the executive board of the Glass Bottle Manufacturers' Association of America and the officials of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union at Pittsburg, the manufacturers made a proposition to abolish the usual two months' summer shutdown, on account of the great rush of business. About 20,000 men will be affected. Buffalo, May 7.-It is the general be lief in railway and strike circles that the pacific trend of events since the adjustment of differences between the New York Central and its car repairers on Wednesday has been checked by the seeming impossibility of the Erie and Lackawanna coming to a settlement with their striking car re-

The railway freight handlers' strike has not materially changed, except that the roads are getting more men and are able to do some work in the houses. The field of adjustment appears to have shifted from Buffalo to New York.

HAMILTON LOST TO NIAGARA. Hamilton, Ont., May 7.—At Dundurn Park Saturday afternoon, before a rather slim crowd, the weather being decidedly chilly, the Hamilton Inter-national League baseball team played an exhibiton game with Niagara University, the visitors winning by a of 7 to 6. There was some brilliant and some very ragged play on both sides. The Hamiltons tried Bradford, Hardy and Burge in the box, with Conwell behind the bat. The team will require a few changes to win in fast company. Friel and Kellet were the visitors' battery.

A GOOD COMPLEXION

Depends on Good Digestion.

This is almost an axiom although usually we are apt to think that cosmetics, face powders, lotions, fancy soaps, etc., are the secrets for securing a clear complexion. But all these are simply superficial assistants.

It is impossible to have a good complexion unless the digestive organs perform their work properly, the stomach by properly digesting the food taken into it furnishes an abundance of pure blood, a good complexion is impossible.

This is the reason so many ladies are using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they promptly cure any stomach trouble and they have found out that perfect digestion means a perfect complexion and one that does not require cosmetics and powders to enhance its beauty. Many ladies diet themselves or deny themselves many articles of food solely in order to keep their complexion clear. When Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used no such dieting is necessary; take these tablets and eat all the good wholesome food you want and you need have no fear of indigestion nor the sallow, dull complexion which nine women out of ten have, solely because are suffering from some form of indi-

Bear in mind that beauty proceeds from good bealth, good heath results from perfect digestion and we have advanced the best argument to induce man and woman to give this eplendid remedy a trial.

Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets can found in draw stores and cost but 60 cents per package.

If there is any derangement of the stomach or bowels they will remove it gestion, good health and a clear, bright

Famine-Stricken India Still Further Afflicted.

Native States Dotted With Heaps of Dead and Dving.

Severe Fighting at Kumassiethe Rebels Routed.

Sham Battle on the Immense Plain of Jueterbogk.

London, May 7.—The report that cholera is strengthening its deadly hold upon famine-stricken India, brings the pitiful condition of that country 168 pounds—Lord Ranalah, b. g., 16, 1, 93,500,000 persons of the population of the districts affected, are sweltering their squalid existence away amid pestilence and misery that show no signs of abating. Hundreds of thou-sands of pounds of good British gold, good German marks and American coin have been thrown into the country, but judging from the latest advices all this charity is merely a drop in the ocean.

The famine and its attendant complications appear to exceed in virulence any two previous visitations. The viceroy, Lord Curzon of Kedleston. and the government are making cease less exertions to meet the terrible emergency; but the stupendous difficulties confronting them prevent the present supplying of relief to more than 5,000,000. In the meantime the native states are dotted with heaps of dead and dying, and the roads are crowded with ghastly bands seeking to escape from the stricken territories, but who for lack of food and water mostly succumb in the attempt. One of the most hopeless features of the whole affair is contained in the statement of a special correspondent at Simla, who writes:

INADEQUATE RELIEF. "Ten times the total relief could be laid out in a single district without fully relieving its distress. All we can hope for is a succession of good years to put the people on their legs again." The British districts are reported to be so far escaping the large starvation and mortality that mark the native states, but that their condition is not enviable is evident from the collowing description sent by a Bombay correspondent of the scene at Ahmedabad, a city in the Presidency of Bombay: A TERRIBLE PICTURE. "In an open space upwards of 200 were seated, old and young, being famine personified. The smell arising from their filthy rags was sickening, and had attracted myriads of flies. Some, especially the old men, were boyn framework. A girl suckling two children was ghastly to look at, but the little ones, with hollow sunken eyes and cheeks and the nans of their necks falling in under their skulls which seemed their emaciated bodies and with wisplike arms and legs, were more dreadstill. Many were suffering from diseases and numbers had the fever. Those who could work were sent on tanks were being dug. Others were given a meal and passed on to the poorhouse.' This pictures is from a less seriously affected part of the country. The sufferings in the remote districts where the famine is so severe, where all the cattle have long since died, where the water is precious, and where cholera has now added its dread scourge can well be imagined

THE CZAR AT MOSCOW. London, May 7 .- A special dispatch from St. Petersburg says advices from Moscow state that the czar has ordered the chief of police to cease all extraordinary precautions for his safety, saying: "I have come to see my people, not the police of Moscow. During his stay at Moscow the czar has gone about in an open carriage. without an escort and without the streets being cleared for his passage.

THE ASHANTI REBELLION. London, May 6.-The colonial office has received the following dispatch from Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, governor and commander in chief of the Gold Coast Colony, dated Kumassie, April 27: "The situation. I regret to inform you, has changed for the worse. On April 23 a force was sent to clear the rebel forces to the eastward. Four members of the constabulary were killed and a large number of the rebels were killed or wounded. On April 25 the Ashantees surrounded the town in great force, probably 10,000, and made a determined attack. The Hausas were obliged to evacuate the cantonment and to concentrate around the fort. The engagement lasted four Twenty of our native allies and two Hausas were killed. The present occupants of the fort number 358, inclusive of 18 Europeans, 6 of whom are missionaries. REBELS ROUTED.

Sir Frederic Hodgson, under date of April 30, telegraphed: Yesterday a serious attack was made on the fort met with the approval of the pit and by the rebels, but they were routed on sides with great loss. Two members of the constabulary were killed and ten wounded. A contingent of Lagos constabulary, under Gen. Sir Hector Aplin, has arrived after two days' severe fighting. The column was attacked at Asagu, which was taken with the loss of one killed and 23 wounded, among them Gen. Aplin, slightly. On the following day the contingent was attacked two miles from Kumassie by 8,000 rebels. There was great loss in taking the stockade across the road. After desperate fighting the Ashantees fled. Two members of the constabulary were killed and 133 wounded, including Assistant Inspector Read. Have been unable to send letters or telegrams through. Under date of May 3, Sir Frederic Hodgson wired that the rebels were massed eastward, and that he had made a demonstration the previous day with two guns, inflicting great loss. One of the native auxiliaries was PLAYING AT WAR. Berlin, May 7 .- Saturday was another ideal spring day, regular "kaiser-wetter," just the thing for the interesting army maneuvers, which were witnessed by Emperor William and Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. The exercises occupied an hour and a half, after which the emperors lunched at Jueterbogk, returning to Berlin at 1 p.m. Both emperors appeared to be in good health and fine spirits. Most interesting features of sharpshooting were witnessed, and explanations were given to the Austrian Emperor by Emperor William and Gen. Von Gossler, the minister of war, and Count Von Schlieffen, the chief of the general staff, about the improvements hitherto held secret of both the German army rifle of the latest pattern and the new field guns. These explanations were made to Emperor Francis Joseph alone, and not to his military suite. The Austrian Emperor was deeply interested in them. The exers, however, in themselves made a picturesque spectacle, more especially the part which displayed the new tactics of the field artillery. THE ORDER OF BATTLE. The emperors, after their arrival at the Jueterbogk depot, mounted horses and rode past the troops placed in file from the depot to the maneuvers field. When they arrived there the ordre de bataille was given. The whole was under the command and direction of Major-Gen. Von Schmidt, representing the inspector of field artillery. The troops present were a battalion First Guard Regiment, a battalion of the Second Guard Regiment, a battalion composed of one company each of the Guard Chasseurs and Guard Schuetzen Lehr and a battalion of infantry of the sharpshooters' school; also two squadrons of Life Hussars and a field artillery regiment, made up from the six instruction batteries of field artillery of the instruction school. Each body was in full war strength, with cartridges also as in time of war. The full strength of a guard pioneer company also participated. The most remarkable feature about which Emperor Francis Joseph repeatedly pressed his admiration was the exactness of aim shown both by the artillery and infantry, even at great distances. The Austrian Emperor once summoned a general of his suite and pointed out this feature to him.

At the conclusion of the sham battle parade march followed past the emperors, Francis Joseph thanking the officers commanding for the impressive spectacle witnessed, and accorded them high praise. Lunch was served at the officers' casino of the field artillery instruction school.

The Austrians residing in Berlin, altogether some 20,000 persons, gave a splendid banquet in honor of Francis Joseph's presence at the Kaiserhof. KAISER MUCH PLEASED.

Berlin, May 7.—Emperor William's appointment as Austrian field marshal-general pleases him greatly, the more so, because it is a grade seldom awarded, and none has existed in the Austrian army since the death of Archduke Albrecht in 1895. The military rank thus conferred on Emperor William is higher than his own in the German army. Besides this courtesy, the Austrian Emperor also gave Emperor William a magnificent portrait of himself, inclosed in a costly diamond studded frame and autograph with the motto "Semper Idem" (always the same). Emperor Francis Joseph also presented the empress and her whole family with fine gifts. The Cross of the Stephan Order on Count Von Buelow, the German minister of foreign affairs. Before Emperor Francis Joseph leaves a rain of orders will descend upon Berlin, for the value in money alone of the decorations which the Austrian Emperor took along is said to be 127,000 florins. THE ROYAL ACADEMY. London, May 7.-The Royal Academy opens to the public today. This year's exhibition does not leave the beaten track. Academicians to even a rather greater extent than usual have an unfair amount of space. On the first survey the most striking general feature is the fact that the war element is almost conspicuous by its absence, contrary to general expectations.

ARTISTS DINE. The annual banquet of the Royal Academy was held at Burlington House Saturday evening. Sir Edward J. Pointer, president of the Royal Academy, presided, while among the guests were the Prince of Wales, the King of Sweden, the Japanese Prince Tokihito, the Duke of Cambridge, Lord Salisbury, United States Ambassador Choate and Rudyard Kipling. Prince of Wales, in replying to the toast to his health and that of the royal family, referred to the recent attempt made on his life, and said that the moment, perhaps was not as agreeable as one might imagine, but he could only exclaim: "All's well that ends well.

Lord Salisbury, replying to the toast of her majesty's ministers, dwelt humorously on the difficulties artists would now have in painting pictures of battles conducted by two forces two miles apart. He doubted if smokeless powder could lend itself to the aid of the artist. It would be a worthy object of the academy's ambition to idealize khaki. Those centuries that had been full of conflict and the shock of armies, he said, had also been the centuries in which artistic genius had flourished most brightly. "Let us earnestly hope," he said, "that this may be the outcome of the present war, and that this war may be the starting point of a new development of your splendid art." CABLE NOTES.

It has now been finally decided that Mrs. Langtry's daughter will be presented at the drawing-room, to be held May 11, by the Princess Henry of Pless, whose mother, Mrs. Cornwallis West, will chaperon Miss Langtry.

Prison Statistics.

The report of the Minister of Justice, which has just been laid before Parliament, gives interesting reports as to condition of the criminal population in the penitentiaries for last year. The number of prisoners at the close of the year was as follows:

Penitentiary. 1899. ingston ..... 570 t. Vincent de Paul..... 447 hester ..... 226

There were sixteen deaths in the institutions-not a high mortality, considering the lives which many of the convicts have led. No prisoner escaped during the year, though several made a big effort to get away.

The average daily population for the past five years was: 1,314 1,353 1,41

Of the convicts in custody last year 154 were under 20 years of age, and 28 over 60, but almost one-half (or 659) were between 20 and 30 years of age. Two, three, five and seven years' terms seem to be the most popular with the convicting judges, but there are 34 convicts serving fourteen years; 25, fifteen years; sixteen, twenty years; five, 25 years; one, 30 years, and 59 are cerving life sentences. Marriage is a deterrent from crime. Nine hundred and forty-nine of the prisoners were single, while eight were widowed. The social habits of the convicts are thus given:

Temperate ...... 842 Of the prisoners, 1,081 can read and write, 110 can read only and 245 can peither read nor write.

The following is a comparative statement of the cost of keeping the convicts for the years 1895-6 and 1898-9: Gross expenditure ......$389,284 88 $393,920 48 Net expendi-Actual cost ..... 292,286 00 Cost per capita... 222 44 288,469 00 192 51 0 53

Cost per diem .... It will be observed that with increased population the cost of maintenance has been materially decreased. There has been a great improvement in the management of the Institution in the last four years.

nothing of congestion of population, may do well sometimes to think of what it means to have a population lieve there will be serious resistance. as large as that of Canada gathered Roberts, with a broad front of 40 miles, into one immense city. The water supply alone is a tremendous problem, which is all the time becoming more difficult and complicated. In 1898 the companies are said to have supplied to this vast population 74,479,693,644 gallons, 80 per cent of which was used for domestic purposes. That means 35 Callons a day per head. Only a small proportion of this could have been used retreating from Brandfort did not exfor drinking. Of the 271,000,000 pounds of tea which came into the United Kingdom in 1899, all but 1,000,000 pounds came to London. This means that London does a large trade in tea and keeps a heavy stock. Thirty-six millions pounds were exported; this leaves 235,000,000 pounds lines with little resistance. for home consumption, an average of six pounds per head. There has been a tendency in recent years for stocks dent and bewildered by the rapidity to grow less, but there is always a and secrecy of General Robents' movelarge stock of tea, coffee, wine, etc. ments, but this is a twice-told tale, "Thus in relation to local requirements which is hardly credible. The casualthe stocks of such articles in London are very large. There is usually enough tea in London bonded warehouses to supply London teapots for at least three years, and enough coffee for double that period, while over two years' wine supply at the normal rate from Houtnek. of consumption lies in the vaults at was the docks. These, however, are exceptional cases. As regards such perishable commodities as fresh meats, erts, from motives of his own, has fish, milk, butter and vegetables, the amount in London at any given time cannot suffice for more than a few days, or in some cases a few hours. In short, the dependence of London on the outside world for its food is steadily increasing, whether we regard the magnitude of its annual needs or the scantiness of its resources."

The stocks of wheat held have been steadily falling, because new supplies of this necessary commodity are drawn all the year round from Russia, America, India and Australia. It will thus be seen that England, and especially London, is dependent for its very life on outside sources. This would be a dangerous state of things if Britain lost control of the sea. On the other hand, we may say that this vast volume of trade tends to produce peaceful influences, There are some who think that as a military measure the Government should see that large quantities of grain are stored in the country, but it is difficult for any authority, except under the stress of a reat necessity, to interfere with the ordinary course of trade.

The staple alcoholic drink of Londoners is beer, the consumption exceeding 36 gallens a year per head of the population, and in this case London is independent of outside sources, as more beer is produced there than the inhabitants consume. London is rather under the everage in the consumption of spirits; while coffee "does not appear to grow in favor as a national beverage, possibly because so few persons in Eng-

THE SITUATION.

London, May 6.-In his cable review of the South African war situation, filed at 1 a.m., Isaac N. Ford says: "The advance of the British army toward Winburg has been continued in two columns. Gen. Hamilton, with a mounted force, was twenty miles north of Houtnek Thursday night, after being engaged with the Boers throughout the day. The Thabanchu district has been virtually emptied of Boers, only a expendi345,129 78 344,967 63 Roberts' forecast that the Boer forces would be drawn off from Thabanchu by a northward movement has been fulfilled, and he is acting on the same theory respecting Olivier's commandoes at Ladybrand, persevering in his advance without wasting time in advance without wasting time in operating eastward at a remote distance from his base of supplies, and assuming that they will ultimately be called to reinforce Delarey and Dewet. Meanwhile mounted infantry, supported by the battations, has pushed on from Brandfort toward the Vet River. There was no official news at River. There was no official news at

"There is a high line of kopjes between Ventersburg and Senekal, where South Africans familiar with the country bebe able to hold the railway to Smaldeel station and cut off the communications of Winburg with Lady-brand and Ficksburg. The concentrations on the British side are not fully known, but the third division—Hart's brigade and Brabant's force—have remained in the southern district of the Free State, and the sixth division is apparently in reserve at Bloemfonof the operations in the tein. Details north are still lacking. The Boer forces thousand, but were probably ceed four doubled at Winburg, where De Wet's commandoes were massed. By so doing, though naturally they carried the day, they damaged a case that even partial observers considered open to various constructions, and added fuel to the feud between Buller and Roberts, that both with the public and in the service threatens to ival the Sampson-Schley controversy

THE STRIFE WILL SOON CEASE Among the many interesting topics brought before the English public within the last few days, Lord Roberts' advance on Pretoria is pre-eminent, and there is a widespread feeling that the end will come quicker than was expected. This impression figures not so much among the writings of professional critics who have found themselves so often wrong that they are almost afraid of their own judgment, as among prominent business men, stock exchange leaders and those in close touch with the government, a majority of whom are inclined to draw a close parallel between the Boer war and the conquest of the Soudan. Keen recollections of Gen. Kitchener's wait before striking any blow, and the rapidity and decision with which he smote when transport and other es-sentials had been organized, lead the bulk of the best British opinion to believe that a similar plan has been fol-lowed in the Free State. Were Lord sinly because so lew persons in Eng. Wolseley's prophecy that Lord Robiand know how to prepare it." If a erts will be in Pretoria May 15, accomprished, there would be no undue elation or surprise, and there are men who believe that Sir George White's opinion that the war will last only six weeks longer may be justified within an approximate limit. It is, of course, possible that this hopefulness is based chiefly on the principle that the wish is father to the thought.

THE BOER DELEGATES. Regarding the Boer delegates, the Spectator and the Outlook voice current English opinion, the former saying that there is no fear that the Americans will be taken in more especially as it is very doubtful whether the delegates have any power to bind either President Kruger or the volksraad, while the Outlook remarks: "The only hope of the delegates in the United States lies in the gamble of party politics. Yet even there the prospect is disheartening. The Americans will remember—if the delegates don't—that America owes her independence armed protests against being taxed without representation."

THE MONROE DOCTRINE. United States Secretary Root's Monroism utterances are dealt with in a long article in the Spectator, which maintains that "the war secretary's explanation that he was speaking academically must not be taken into account, and that he deserves praise for speaking as frankly as he did." The article continues: "No American who takes the trouble to look the fact in the face can fail to see that the doctrine cannot be supported on America must not imagine that if she ever gets into a serious controversy with a great continental power she will be treated as Lord Salisbury, the full consent of the nation, treated her. Here we should dread a victory over America, supposing we were able to obtain it, only one degree less than defeat. But it is idle to suppose that the continental powers, Germany, for instance, would take such things into consideration. Granted she wanted to infringe upon the Monroe doctrine, Germany would simply consider whether America had physical power to maintain it. If she had not, America's historical claims would not be held to be worth a

GERMANY MIGHT INVADE AM-

ERICA. The Spectator then goes on to say that no power would dream of invading America but Germany. The paper adds: "For instance, the latter country might get into a dispute with Brazil and prepare to occupy its territory. If America should wish to enforce the Monroe doctrine she must be able to destroy the German fleet. Her present officers and men," article continues, "are as good as possible. They have superiors nowhere and equals only in the sister navy of Great Britain. But there are too few

The Spectator disclaims in those alarmist views any wish to tempt America to take a warlike course or to make any ill blood between America or Germany, but maintains that Secretary Root is right and "If she sticks to the Monroe doctrine and yet refuses to prepare there is in store for America great humiliation.'

The paper concludes by reiterating the authenticity of former articles dealing with German activity in South America and its attendant dangers.

GUNS WITH A SMOKE SHELL An innovation has been introduced in the French artillery service by the decision to furnish the guns with a smoke shell. Hitherto the cannon had been provided with Melinite and shrapnel shells only. This new shell is intended to be launched at an opponent's artillery, which, on bursting, will envelope it in a dense cloud of smoke, thus hampering the return fire. The new shell is the outcome of the introduction of smokeless powder. Formerly, with the old powder, the result now aimed at was brought about by the guns themselves, firing of which produced a smoke which blinded their own gunners. Experiments show that this invention creates a sort of veil before the enemy's artillery. Both the army and the navy will be supplied with these stream of equipages, or promenaders, when, almost in front of the imposing entrance of the exposition a man rushed into the roadway and seized by the head a horse drawing a fiacre in which were seated an elderly lady and gentleman, in whose arms was a little boy, about 4 years old, at the same moment a woman sprang to the side of the carriage, clutched the child and attempted to drag him from the vehicle. The child cried, and a crowd soon surrounded the struggitng group. newcomer explained that the boy was her child, whom the old people refused to give up. The crowd immediately took sides with the mother and the old lady, bursting into tears, relinquished her hold. It was then found that the child was girded with an iron chain, which was padlocked to the two occupants of the flacre. This discovery excited the wrath of spectators who prepared to handle the old people roughly.

AT THE STATION HOUSE. At this juncture the police arrived and took the whole party to the station house, where it was explained that the mother had been granted a divorce and awarded the custody of the child, but that during an illness she had had him temporarily given into the care of the mother-in-law, the baroness Von Veldegg. The latter, upon the mother's recovery, refused to return the child and the mother tracked them until she met them on the Champs Elysees. The baroness, learning that the mother intended to secure the child, forcibly, if necessary, the iron chain forged, and never left the house except in a carriage and accompanied by the old Prussian officer, who had one end of the chain, the baroness holding the other. At the station house the mother-in-law refused to unfasten the padlock, and the commissary of police was obliged to have the chain filed in two. The child was then restored to his mother, despite the protest and sobs of the baroness. The scene of excitement provoked by the dramatic incident on

The important question of the security of the exhibits at the Paris Exposition has been raised by a practical demonstration of their insecurity afforded by a big jeweler of the Rue de la Baix. In order to test the security of his valuable exhibit, he conceived the idea of robbing himself. Accompanied by two workmen, he pro-ceeded unchallenged to his show-case, opened it, carefully packed a quantity of silverware and other valuables un-der the eyes of the guardians of the department, to whom he was an utter stranger, and then left the building and the grounds unmolested, carrying the goods with him.

DIVINE HEALERS

May Be Barred From Use of the U. S. Mails.

Washington, May 7 .- "Divine healers" may come under the ban of the postoffice department and in a few days an order will likely be issued barring them from the use of the mails. The department has been gathering information respecting their methods for a month, and it is now so well convinced that their business is illegitimate that it is the purpose to The matter was first brought to the attention of the department by complaints from Nevada, Mo., where one Weltner, a so-called "divine healer" conducted his business by mall, endeavored to collect payment for continuing to treat a patient after the patient was dead. Further investigation showed that he had attempted this in several instances, although, of course, he was not aware that the subject of his "absent treatment" had succumbed. Weltener claims to have treated 53,000 patients without personal consultation, and to have cured all but twelve. The postal authorities have notified the officials of the Navada school to appear on May 12 and submit arguments to show why a fraud order should not be issued

Grand Mere, Que., May 6.—G. N. W. Press Dispatch.—Fire broke out here at about 8 o'clock this evening in the large pulp and saw mills of the Laurentide Pulp Mills Company, and in a short time the immense structures were a total wreck, involving a loss of about $400,000. The water supply was not sufficient to be of any avail. Assistance was asked for from Montreal, and a special train with fire engines was immediately dispatched, but had not arrived at midnight. At that hour the fire was well under control. # President McKinley and Wine.

The New York World says: At the Vermont Methodist Episcopal Conference, held at Bellows Falls, Vt., the report of the committee on temperance elicited considerable discussion over the question whether President Mc-Kinley was in the habit of drinking wine at banquets.

Referring to this report, Bishop Merrill made the following statement: "Last November there was a meeting of Methodist bishops in Washington, and at that time Bishop Walden had a long talk over the question with President McKinley, as to whether he drank wine at public banquets or not. Afterward Bishop Walden reported to the bishops that President McKinley had said that when he attended banquets he did not turn down the glasses, but left them standing, and they were filled by the waiters." "He always had, however, a sepa-rate glass from which he drank Apollinaris Water, but the wine always re-

Anniversary Services Preached by Rev. Canon Welsh, of Toronto-Large Congregations at Both of the Services.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the opening of St. Paul's Cathedrai. The congregations at both services were very large. Eloquent sermons were preached by Rev. Canon Welsh, rector of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, and Dean Innes, and Rev. Dr. Beaumont assisted him in the services. In the evening sermon, which centered about the words found in St. Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians, x, 12, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall," the preacher told the lessons that might be learned from the fall of Balaam. He outlined the history of the times when the Israelites, after wandering for 40 years, having vanquished the Amorites, had come the people of Moab and he, being frightened, sought help of the Midian-ites. They both turned to Balaam, a famous soothsayer and diviner, a man in close communion with God, and he, after being told by God not to assist them, was overcome by their tempting bribes, he hesitated and was lost. His history was the history of many a human soul. His consideration of their offers, after having learned God's will, was his sin. The lesson there was that, in matters of conscience, second thoughts were not always best. The root of his sin was selfishness. The devil generally attacked us through self-love, self-esteem or self-indul-gence. If, with all the spiritual knowledge and privileges of today at our disposal, we were simply drifting, aimlessly down the stream of life, then we were like Balaam, or even Judas, always near to God, but with hearts fearfully estranged. Our privileges were greater than Balaam's, and we should remember that the greatness of our privileges was the measure of our responsibility. The collections for the day, which were liberal, will be devoted to the reduction of the church debt.

City Hall Notes.

A special meeting of the board of education will be held tonight to discuss the solicitor's plan of action re the council's present attitude. There is a current belief that the board is not just as sure of its ground in this matter as was supposed. It seems to be doubtful whether or not the board's estimates were in at the proper time. There is a possibility that at tonight's meeting set of supplementary estimates will be prepared for presentation to the council. Tonight's meeting will be priwate. It was called at the request of the solicitor.

In order that the city might abolish the ward system pursuant to the power granted by the Carscallen act, the council must pass a bylaw before July 1. A notice of motion to this effect will probably be given at tonight's meeting or the following one.

One would suppose that a player who has been in the game for several seasons would have some knowledge of the workings of a turnstyle. Not so with Rube Waddell, however. Reuben was placed on the grand stand gate recently, to see, for the benefit of the Pittsburg club, that the gate-keepers did not give themselves the wost of it. Just before the gates were opening Rube arrived, dresse din regular "Pink" Hawley fashion. The grand stand turnstile was the first thing to strike his eye, and after examining it closely he began to spin it around,

A few minutes before the game was called Manager Bancroft had occa-sion to size up the crowd, and in order to assure himself just how many were ates of the Huron College are engaged in the grand stand he looked at the in the work in this field, which added turnstile register. The figures that he gazed upon made the perspiration come out in drops. Banny could not believe his eyes. He did not know whether to mistrust the register or whether it was possible that so large a crowd had entered without attracting his attention. Banny's excitement caused Rube to inquire what the trouble was, and when Banny exthat here was something wrong with the register on the turnstile, Rube inquired: "Oh, does that thing tell how many people are here?" "Yes; every time it clicks it regis-

"Well, I did not know that, and I guess I turned it around a few times before the gate opened," innocently admitted Rube.

THE TRIUMPH OF TRUE LOVE

"I know it, dear; I will sing it, if you will try to go to sleep. Shut your eyes and listen."

The burning eyelids closed slowly, and Rupent lay still and motionless, There was deep, unbroken silence; then the sweet voice, still hushed and low, rose, singing the beautiful hymn. The boy listened as one soothed by an angel's song. Only once the blue-veined lips trembled, and he said: "You sing like my mother, too. She is singing amongst the angels now; but I am sure her voice is like yours will be quite still now and think. While he lay thinking she knelt to pray. She prayed from the very depths of her broken heart that her son might be spared, and that ste might be taken in his place. When the prayer was ended she knelt, watching him, while the dead silence grew deeper and deeper. There was a faint murmur from the wind—a low whisper as though it had sobbed until it was exhausted. No other sound disturbed the profound which reigned throughout that vast mansion. The stars shone in the depths of the blue skies; the pale moon gleamed and glistened; fleecy clouds passed over its face. Trees and flowers were all asleep; there seemed nothing living, nothing human to watch the tragedy going on in the Red Room.

And still Mrs. Rivers knelt, with her face bent over the boy, watching him so intently that her very soul seemed to have passed into her eyes. were closed in deep, restful thought,

So silent, so still; not even the creaking of a door, the sound of a footstep-nothing to break the charm-not even the familiar sound of a mouse behind the wainscot. Silence deep and profound as death itself.

Would he sleep? Would heaven hear her prayer, and give him back to her? Was this his last night? Would the morrow's dawn find him "beyond the He moved his head restlessly; she laid her soft fingers on it, and he smiled. Looking earnestly in his face, she fancied the expression of it was more natural, the eyelids drooped more heavily. Could it be possible that, after all, he was falling into a natural Rupert murmured something; she bent down to listen; it was but a waking dream—a half-delerious fanoy; no sleep, no rest yet for the active brain.

Silence again; and it seemed to the quiet watcher that the whole world must be asleep. She renewed her prayer—she begged for her son's life; and then she fancied-it could only be fancy!-that in the ante-room she heard the faint rustle of a woman's dress. She listened intently, then said to herself she was mistaken. took out her watch; it wanted then seven minutes to twelve, and at midnight she was to give the opiate.

Hark! Surely that is the sound of woman's dress against the crimson hangings! Gently and noislessly she rose from her knees, and stood with her eyes on the tapestry.

What could it be? For one half-minute her heart stood still with a great nameless fear. Could it be the Angel of Death advancing with slow footsteps? Would those crimson hangings fly open and disclose to her the 'angel of the dark wings'? She covered her face with her hands and shuddered with mortal fear.

It was strange. She had watched by many death-beds; she had closed dying eyes and listened to dying words before, yet she had never felt fear; and now, for one minute, a more than mortal fear came over her; great drops stood upon her forehead, and her limbs trembled under her.

What was there to fear? There lay Rupent calm and still, with closed eyes. Supposing even that the angel wera there, what need to tremble? Yet-she could not tell why; she could not explain it even to hershe could not account for it-a shuddering, deadly fear convinced her that something was on the other side of the hangings. She stood still as a marble statue, unable to move, unable to open her white, closed lips, her hands clasped, her eyes fixed on those terrible hang-

Then-how was it the shock did not kill her?-then she saw the tapestry move slightly, as though some one had touched it lightly on the other There was no sound, no stir. Another moment, and from between the hangings, where two pieces of crimson tapestry met, she saw a white She could neither move nor stir: she was rooted to the ground in terror too intense for any weak words

The hand was withdrawn, then it reappeared, holding, this time, a small vial, full of a clear liquid, like cold water. That was placed noiselessly on the stand, and the bottle containing the opiate was withdrawn-still without sound. It was so gently, so noiselessly done, that had Mrs. Rivers been looking another way—had she been en-gaged with her patient—she could not possibly have known what had been

In one moment it flashed across her Who had taken the opiate that was to save the life of her son? without it he must die. Who had taken it? What was put in its place? Only a moment, then the mother's mighty love that was in her came to her aid.

Casting one glance at the calm, tranquil face of her son, she opened the hangings just in time to see a figure of some kind disappear at the outer door. All nervousness, all fear died from her. Swifter than the wind, she made one noiseless, rapid rush after the retreating figure, and caught it in the corridor outside the lied Room.

Caught it, and held it fast with a grasp whose force came from her mighty love. A tall, stately figure, yet it writhed in her grasp. It seem-ed to shudder, to shrink; and then she said in a low, hushed voice:
"Give me back that opiate! Whoever you are, I know not; give me back the medicine!" There was no reply, and in the darkness of the silent corridor the two women could not see each other. The one was struggling with fierce force to get away; the other, with force even greater still, struggled to hold

Down the broad corridor they went the prisoner and the gentle woman whose mother-love gave to her soft hands the strength of a giantess. Down, struggling hard in the quiet darkness, until they came to a room where, for the convenience of those whom Mrs. Rivers might summon, a fire and a light both burned. Silently and desperately Mrs. Rivers dragged rather than led her captive there, then turned and locked the door. "Now," she cried, "Beatrice Leigh, down there—down on your knees, and thank your God that you have been spared the sin of murder!

It was Beatrice, Lady Selwyn, who had been caught, and forced into the room, her stately figure bent with rage and shame, her beautiful face white with fear and anger.
"How do you dare," she murmured,

"how do you dare Mrs. Rivers, to treat me so? I will call Lord Selwyn. You are mad! You must be driven away from here; you are mad." "I am sane enough, Beatrice Leigh. Sane enough to know why you have stolen that bottle. God watched over Rupert Selwyn, or you would have stain him. You had murder in your heart when you took it away-cruel murder! You hate him because stands between your child and Selwyn Castle. You hate him because he is the son of the woman you taunted, and persecuted, and drove forth to death. You hate him because the husband you have won by false means loves him. You hate him, and you have said to yourself that he shall

"It is false-all false; false as hell itself!" said Lady Beatrice. "I-I thought that medicine too strong for him, and did not care to disturb him by going into the room. If you think I am wrong take it back and give it

"I will take it back," said Mrs. Rivers; "but none the less did you try to murder my only son!" "To murder whom?" cried my lady; and then the two women stood, tall, erect, and stately, looking—with scorching eyes at each other.

"My son!" repeated the clear voice.
"You want to kill him. If he were left in your power you would kill him. To save his life I do that which I would not have done for any other human object. I claim him!" 'You do what?' asked my lady, with a sneer.

"I claim him," was the calm reply, "for he is mine."

"Yours!" she cried. "In the name of heaven, who are you?" Beatrice? "Can you not guess, Whom did you torture? Whom did you persecute? Whom did you taunt day and night? From whom did you steal the love of husband, the esteem of friends? From whom did you take every earthly joy, every earthly pleas-ure—even the light of heaven itself? Answer me that?"

She could not; she had gone whiter and whiter—she had crouched lower and lower, until she knelt now—her scarred face buried in her hands.

"Did not the life of the mother con-tent you?" continued the clear voice "must you take the life of the child? You-a woman-to dream of murder! -to let hot hate, hot anger, cruel jealousy drive you to this! Ask par-don from Heaven, Beatrice Leigh; for watched over my son, you would have slain him. "Your son," cried Lady Beatrice, rising suddenly, and standing before her. "In the name of Heaven, who are "I am his mother, Violante Selwyn," A low, mocking, scornful laugh was the only answer.

"I repeat it, echoed the clear voice: "I am his mother-Violante Selwyn!

What Makes Beauty?

Beauty is made or marred by the blood. When the blood is impure, the cheeks grow sallow, the eyes dull, the hair loses its luster. When the blood flows through the veins in a pure, rich current, the eyes sparkle, the skin is clear, the complexion beautiful. Women who use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, find that it is a genuine beautifier. By purifying and enriching the blood it puts a bloom on the cheek and a brightness in the eye, which tell the story of perfect health.

"Having been left weak from fever last October, I was under the doctor's care here," writes Mrs. Alice E. Casebier, of Crawford, Dawes Co., Neb. "I took medicine, but did not seem to gain very much. I was tired all the time, had no appetite, had wandering pains all over memore or less, and was very nervous, as I had been sick all the summer. I was all run-down and didn't know what ailed me. I got advice from Dr. Pierce, telling me my symptoms better than I could describe them myself, and also telling me that I would have to take care of myself, and how to take the medicines. I took four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and five of 'Favorite Prescription,' and gained strength right along. I took one bottle of the 'Pleasant Pellets,' also. I know that these medicines will do all that they are recommended to do."

Magistrate Love States That Their Annoyance Will be Put Down With a Strong Hand-Police Court Notes.

This morning, Chas. McGowan, who pleaded guilty to deserting a child on King street last week, was sentenced to four months in the Central prison. In passing sentence the police magistrate said he would have been inclined to let McGowan go on suspended sentence had he not acted in a dishonest manner in certain dealings he had had with the Children's Aid So-

Six young men were charged with obstructing Dundas street on Saturday night by congregating on a corner and eight youths from the north end of the city were charged with congregating on a corner, annoying people going to and from church, and disturbing public worship. All were let go on suspended sentence; but Magistrate Love, in giving them awarning, expressed his intention of punishing heavily offenders brought before him on similar charges. The practice is common among youths of loafing around corners, annoying passers-by and using profane or obscene language in the hearing of ladies, is says the Canadian correspondent of the Iron Age, "that the efforts being made to amalgamate the stove manufactur-ing companies of Canada will be successful. Apparently the leading manufacturers are satisfied that the promoters represent solid men, for several of the former have set a value upon their works. Experts appointed by the promoters are taking stock of the several properties in Hamilton, which include the following: The Gurney-Tilden Company, Copp Bros., Burrow, Stewart, and Milne, the Bowies-Jameson Company, and the D. Moore Company. They ere also taking stock of the McClary Company, of London: the Buck Company, of Brantford; Clare Bros., of Preston; James Stewart, of Woodstock; and the Smart Company, of Brockville. Besides these, the smaller foundries, which are numerous throughout On-tario, are invited to join. American and Canadian capital is behind the undertaking. Such an amalgamation, it is understood, is a strongly probable possibil-ity. Negotiations tending towards this ity. Negotiations tending towards unisend have been in progress for hearly two years. If the anticipated result is attained, it will affect largely a dozen or more cities, and towns in Canada, In all likelihood the foundries in these places will be abolished, and pursuant to the recognized scheme, followed wherever there is an Americanized combine, they would be concentrated in one center. Hamilton will probably be the city benefited, because of its preximity to cheap and abundant elec-tric power, and the facilities offered by its situation for transportation. For the past two weeks a valuator has been at work on the McClary property here. It is understood that this firm would not enter into the scheme if it meant a separation of its foundry and stamped

THE FASTEST RUNS ON RECORD

For Short and Long Distances Grand Trunk Renewing Bridges Future of the Wabash.

The Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway will lay four miles of heavy steel rails between Blenheim and

On the Grand Trunk the new bridges between Montreal and Island Pond have been finished, a distance of 150 miles, and trains of maximum weight are now running over them. On the next 150 miles between Island Pond and Portland, the renewal of bridges is being pushed forward as rapidly as the deliveries of material will permit.

The following changes are announced in the freight department of the Wa-bash: N. R. Adriance, commercial agent at Denver, will be transferred to St. Louis as agent of the Wabash and Lackawanna Dispatch, be succeeded at Denver by W. C. Metz-ger. F. E. Singer has been appointed agent of the Wabash and Lackawanna Dispatch at Chicago, and George C Osborne has been appointed agent of the Wabash and Lackawanna Dispatch at Detroit.

"Several months ago," says the Indianapolis Journal, "representatives of both the Central and Pennsylvania Companies got together and concluded to make a thorough examination of the Wabash. They went over the en-tire system, and made as close an examination of its affairs as they could without the knowledge of the Wabash officials, and so as not to excite suspicion that the road might be wanted by the big trunk lines. They made up their minds that the Wabash was a very valuable property, and that is was being well managed, but the matter was apparently dropped until a couple of weeks ago, when the original plan was taken up where it was left off. What has happened in the mean-time is a matter of conjecture, but is understood that the securities have been quietly accumulated as they dropped out in the market, and a considerable amount has now been locked up in a strong box. A vast amount of Wabash stock is held by Englishmen, and J. Pierpont Morgan has arranged for the purchase of considerable of this at private sale. The fact was substantially confirmed that the Wabash is to be added to the eastern railroad combination, and its acquisi tion will remove a disturbing element

from the situation.

The Burlington in January, 1899, made the run from Siding to Arion, a distance of 2.4 miles, at the rate of 120 miles an hour. The time was caught by four stop watches, and it is an even bet that if the engineer had known how fast he was running he would have slackened speed. The New York Central has a record of 103 and 112 miles an hour for a distance of one mile. There are other short distance runs on record, but those named are the fastest. The Burlington also holds the record for long distance runs of 1,000 and under 2,000 miles, it having made the run from Chicago to Denver in February, 1897, a distance of 1.025 miles, at an average speed of 58.74 miles per hour, including twenty stops. For distances of 2,000 and under 2,500 miles the Santa Fe holds the record, having made the distance from Los Angeles to Chicago in March, 1900, distance of 2,265 miles, at an average speed of 44.5 miles per hour, a portion ity and experiments constantly wrestof the distance being made at the rate 500 and under 1,000 is held by the Lake Shore, it having made the run from Chicago to Buffalo, in October, 1895, a distance of 510 miles, at an average speed of 65.7 miles per hour, actual running time. The New York Central made the run from New York to Buffalo in September, 1896, a distance of 436.5 miles, at an average speed of 64.33 miles per hour, including stops. For distances over 10 miles and under 100 miles, the Lehigh Valley holds record, having made the run from Alpine to Geneva Junction, a distance of 44 miles, at a sustained speed of 80 miles an hour. The Alton, for a distance of 168.1 miles, made the run at a speed of 60.7 miles per hour. This run was between Willow Springs and Springfield, in May, 1898. FOURTEEN YEARS IN PRISON. Vancouver, B. Public attention was specially drawn to the case about six months ago, when the United States consul at Vancouver called the attention of the state department at Washington to the fact that Everett had been confined for several months in the county jail at Kamloops, B. Seventh Fusiliers and L. C. I. Cadets Attend Divine Service.

At the First Methodist Ohurch-A Stirring Patriotic Sermon by Rev. Dr. Smith.

Yesterday morning the Seventh Battalion and the Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps paraded to divine service at the First Methodist Church, where the pastor, Rev. Dr. Smith, preached a thoroughly patriotic sermon, taking his text from Ecclesiastes, ili., 8: "A time for war and a time ment history, on al

John Watson (Ian Maclaren) preached a sermon in London, England, in which he who has been visiting friends here for the past few weeks, has left for Brantford, where she will be the guest of eyes were so blind that he could not see the mission of England. Had not her national character been formed for a special purpose? What nation had planted so many colonies, explorsuch an illustrious example for liberty ed so many unknown lands, and set and truth as England? Our Lord, said Rev. John Watson, came from Jewish stock, and therefore that people must also have a singular place, but when it came to the bringing out of the great blessings conferred upon the world by the cross, he challenged any person to say that any nation had been so willing to give them to the ends of the earth as God's England.

"These words," said Dr. Smith, strike the keynote of our national character and national mission. England will never go back on her heaven-given mission. War is a terrible thing for those who engage in it. Yet there are things which are worse than war. It would have been infinitely worse for England had she been shorn of her moral fiber, so that the grandeur of the past would have lost its value, or if selfishness had utterly honey combed the pillars of our strength. But, thank God, such is not the case. "Never has anything more superb been seen than the spontaneous willingness of all ranks of Britons to sac-rifice their lives for duty. From Gen. Roberts, with his three score and ten years, down to the youngest bugle boy, all are showing a courage and a consecration which is an interpretation of devotion to their Queen. "It was said two thousand years ago that some one must die for the people, elde the whole nation must perish. The death of one is often the gateway to the larger life of another. Those noble men who sleep in nameless graves in South Africa have not fought and bled and died in vain. It is a great price to pay, but not too great a price. If it is written up before a nation's eyes and stamped the souls of men that duty is higher than life, their life is not the most precious thing that the world knows. It has been said that the love for gold has something to do with the beginning of the war, but the British Empire is fighting for that which has been dear to Britons from the time of Oliver Cromwell-civil and religious

"I know," the speaker concluded, "that some of our friends across the line think it a duty to impeach England for her aggressions on a sister republic. I sometimes grow weary when men are so blind with passion or premen are so blind with passion of pre-judice, or political aspirations as to be unable to distinguish between things that differ. A republic is a government by the people for the peo-ple, but to apply that term to the country of the Boers is one of the most flagrant prostitutions of the British language under the sun. A country where five-sixths of the taxes are paid by the people who are absolutely un-able to get the franchise, where a judge is dismissed if he shows a tendency to be fair towards any but the Dutch, where the officials are grossly corrupt—I ask in the name of high could be called? Instead of being a republic, it is one of the most brutal military tyrannies that ever existed. Look at the shocking treatment that the natives are receiving at the hands of the Boers. The Dutch church treats the natives with contempt, and is it any wonder that the constitution of

Passed Away Suddenly From Heart Failure-Was Connected With the First Presbyterian Church for 40 Years-Sketch of His Life.

Dr. McLaren was summoned about 11:30, and said that the aged about 11:30, and said that the aged about 200 contained, inwardly-kindly, demoabout 11:30, and said that the aged man's death was due to heart failure, with which he had suffered for some when found the body was still forty or fifty years ago. First Presbysteian, who is also a coroner, decided that no untoward circumstances attended the death, and that no inquest rould be necessary. Towards the conclusion of the morning services, Rev. Mr. Clark, who had a note handed up, amnounced the death, and paid a warm tribute to their church official of nearly 40 years. Among all the members of the church, both old and young, the announcement was received with sincere sorrow, for to meet Andrew Denholm was to respect him, to know him well was to esteem him. And afterwards, as it was learned throughout the city, the same effect was apparent, for he was well known and esteemed. He was born in 1825 in East Linton, Haddingtonshire. Scotland, where he remained until a short time after marriage to Jessie Campbell, in 1855. Together they came to London, and during the years that have followed his strong character and blunt honesty have caused him to be a conspicuous figure. Soon after coming to this city he was employed as an engineer at the Free Press office, and controlled the first steam engine used to run the presses there. He was also one of the first gate-keepers when the Western Fair was established. had a marked fondness for flowers, and was a continuous member of the Hor-ticultural Society. Among the older Scotchmen of the city he was particularly well known, and for many years was connected with St. Andrew's Society. Perhaps the scene in which he will be longest remembered will be when he sat at the last St. Andrew's banquet, apart from the younger generation, a remembrance of the sturdy Scotch character of a generation that is fast passing away. Two years ago last June, Mrs. Denholm died, and since then he had lived alone. Until that time he was, apparently, a strong, rugged man, but his strength then became noticeably less, and his heart gave him trouble, although he complained of no special illness. Every lay he was down town, even until last Saturday.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED, And Is Being Permanently Cured Daily by Clarke's Kola Compound-Here Is What a Hamilton Lady Says:

Mrs. Gilbert, 105 Rebecca street, Hamilton, writes: "I suffered from a bad form of asthma for over nine years, notwithstanding all the doctors could do for me, got worse and worse, so that my neighbors looked for my and. death at any time. I spent money lavishly in the efforts to get relief, but all to no purpose. For six weeks at a time I could not get up or down stairs, and was in a miserable condition. My daughter, who clerks in a drug store, had heard a good deal of Clarke's Kola Compound, and urged me to try it as a last resort. I paid $2 for a bottle, but that is nothing, for it is worth more than that for every teaspoonful. Two doses gave me splendid relief, and after using but one bottle I am a marvel to all who know me. I am doing my own work, can get around as well as ever, and feel like a new creature. Clarke's Kola Compound has been a godsend to me, and I look upon it as a marvelous remedy. # FOR LAW AND ORDER

Straightforward Resolution Against Violence or Anything Other than Fair, Constitutional Agitation.

The Advertiser has all along contended that level-headed leaders of organized labor were opposed to any action at any time other than along lines of peaceful and constitutional agitation. This view is borne out by the following resolution passed on Saturday night by the London Typographical Union, and which is undoubtedly the view of other unions. The resolution, as follows, was adopted unanimously:

"In view of the agitation now on to support the local organization of street railway employes in their renewed struggle for equal rights with moneyed corporations to organize for mutual protection and benefit, and fully realizing that stone-throwing or damaging property in whatsoever manner is both unlawful and detrimental to any just cause, and that the perpetrators of such malicious acts are the greatest enemies that organized labor has to contend against,

"We, the members of London Typographical Union, No. 133, do hereby offer a reward of $25 for the first information presented to the peace authorities which will cause the arrest and conviction of any member of a labor union of this city who offends against the law in connection with the street railway property; the said amount to be paid according to the award or allot-ment of Police Magistrate Love.

"And be it further resolved, That London Typographical Union request all other labor unions in the city to take similar action, to the end that the good name of organized labor may not be further sullied by a repetition of such acts as have brought disgrace upon our city, and, although wholly unmerited, upon the cause of labor."

In connection with this resolution, it is understood that it does not apply to peace officers of the city who arrest or procure evidence in the regular dis-charge of their duties, but is intended as an incentive to conscientious citizens to do their duty by reporting any breach of the law which may come under their notice in connection with the present ligitimate struggle for the independence of labor. It is sincerely hoped that the members of all labor organizations especially will bestir themselves to put a quietus on all disgraceful and malicious proceedings in the present and all future contentions between labor and capital, and thus show to the public that unionism neither recognizes nor sympathizes with any such hoodlums or their acts. Brave Deeds of a Toronto Fireman on

Toronto, May 7.—Deputy Chief Noble of the fire brigade performed a daring act yesterday afternoon at a fire in the store of N. Billings, 181 Queen street west. The fire broke out suddenly on the ground floor, cutting off access. Billings lowered his wife and two children from the first floor and jumped himself. It was then discovered that his mother-in-law, aged 80 years, and boy of 3 had been cut off in the third story. The flames were beginning to come out of the windows, when Noble put a ladder up at the rear, and, entering, found the old lady overcome by the smoke. He took her down the ladder, and, returning, groped his way again through the smoke and flame, and rescued the child. The loss of property was insignificant-$500 to the
