Bloody Battle In Burmah.

LONDON, April 1.—Dispatches from Rangoon, capital of British Burmah, tells of a desperate and bloody conflict between [illegible]tish soldiers and a native tribe at [illegible]kwa, Upper Burmah, in which 40 or [illegible] of the latter were killed. The British [illegible] was trifling.

Mrs. Woods' Will.

[L]ONDON, April 1.—When the judge of [the] Probate Division of the High Court of [Just]ice, to whom the application for pro[bat]e of the will of the late Mrs. Woods—[mother] of Mrs. C. S. Parnell—pronounced [w]as sent to-day in favor of the last will. [illegible] counsel for some of the defendants [obj]ected on the ground that they had not [been] consulted concerning the custody of Mrs. Parnell's children. They also questioned the jurisdiction of the court. The judge overruled the objections, and matters will be appealed.

The Modern Bluebeard.

MELBOURNE, April 1.—Deeming, the [illegible] murderer, was quietly brought [illegible] 11 o'clock this morning from the [illegible] Ballarat. An immense crowd [w]as assembled to get a glimpse of the prisoner. The route to the prison was strongly guarded by police, and it would hardly have been possible for the excited people to have taken him from his captors. The crowd indulged in hooting at Deeming, but beyond this there was no disturbance. Shortly after he landed Deeming was taken to the Police Court, where he was formally charged with the murder of his wife at Windsor. The magistrate remanded him for a week.

Demonstration by London's Unemployed.

LONDON, April 1.—A meeting of the unemployed workmen was held at Tower Hill to-day. Conspicuous above the heads of the crowd was a black banner bearing the words: "We Demand the Right to Work." The colored man Wade, who was arrested while leading a deputation that attempted to force its way into the office of the London County Council, and who was released on bail, was again at the head of to-day's movement. He said he intended to see whether clergymen were prepared to fulfill the Master's teachings, and a deputation was appointed to wait upon the Dean of St. Paul's to ask his advice as to what the unemployed should do to obtain work. A resolution was also adopted asking the county council to receive a deputation.

The Cost of Royalty.

LONDON, March 1.—In the House of Commons to-day Henry Labouchere moved that the vote of $149,250 for the maintenance of the royal palaces be reduced by $89,625. A discussion arose on the general question of passing the estimates for the year in view of the fact that a general election was impending.

Mr. Gladstone said he thought something definite ought to be known about the period of election.

Mr. Balfour declined to fix the date, but said it was not desirable that the elections should occur in the existing nearly exhausted state of the treasury. This is thought to indicate that the Government does not intend to dissolve Parliament for several months.

Mr. Labouchere's motion was rejected, 232 to 92.

Rule or Ruin.

LONDON, April 1.—The official report given to the press after yesterday's private caucus of the Unionists of Ulster gave no idea of the warlike tone of the speakers at that meeting. Knowing that their days are numbered as belonging to the Government majority, and seeing that the Irish Parliament is the dominant fact of the near future, these advocates of constitutional order under the Tory regime met to declare civil war in the event of a Liberal majority altering the constitution. All the Ulster members were present except three. Some fiery spirits urged a plain declaration of an immediate resort to arms when Ulster is placed under the Dublin Parliament. The Liberal papers treat the proceedings as buncombe and the prediction of rebellion as mere vaporing. Interviews with several Ulster delegates in the lobby to-day gave the impression of an intense hostility to home rule. Money was partly subscribed to arm 300,000 men, and Col. Sanderson boasted that he would respond to the call to a revolt. As shrewd an observer as Lord Randolph Churchill still professes to believe that Ulster will fight, but no fear of this nature will in the slightest deter or alter the Liberal policy. In the meantime the Ulsterites' plan of campaign will be a vigorous agitation in Ireland and Great Britain, working up the constituencies to believe in their menaces. An abundance of money enables the chief committee to organize Provincial committees, the first development of whose action will be disclosed at a convention in Belfast about Whitsuntide. Although the Nationalist Irish members consider the matter only a subject for derision, Mr. Sexton to-night called Mr. Balfour's attention to the fact that a Crown Minister, the comptroller of the Queen's household, proposed a resolution inciting a section of the Irish to disorder. Mr. Balfour declining to commit himself by any statement in reply, Mr. Sexton intimated that he would recur to the subject.

The British Yacht Won.

PARIS, April 2.—The international yacht race yesterday over the course from Monaco to Nice resulted in a victory for Lord Dunraven's famous yacht Valkyrie. This is the third race that the Valkyrie has won in the last three weeks.

The Voters' List Question in England.

LONDON, April 1.—Mr. Balfour's reticent response in regard to the date of the dissolution of Parliament has involved several important questions.

LONDON, April 1.—The Liberals are anxious to settle whether the elections will take place on the voters' register of 1891 or that of 1892. Mr. Gladstone claimed that if dissolution occurred in the autumn a special bill ought to be introduced bringing the new register in operation. Mr. Balfour fenced the demand. Unable to refute Mr. Gladstone, he simply asserted that the Crown had full discretion to deal with the matter. His response put the Opposition in a bad temper, and they tilted against every vote of supply, especially attacking the estimates for the royal palaces. Mr. Morton sarcastically protested against the vote for the Buckingham Palace ratcatcher. Mr. Labouchere advised that their ratcatcher be brought to Parliament where he could catch something, and he wanted Kensington Palace to be used as an art gallery and Hampton Court as a public preserve. Pat O'Brien urged that Kew Palace be turned into a house for old soldiers or for the London poor. Mr. Storey held that it was shabby for royal personages to take palaces rent free and also to sponge the public to keep them in repair. There was a series of similar hot, sharp democratic utterances indicating bad times for royalties in the coming Radical Parliament. The Government members maintained discreet silence, carrying the votes with the usual majorities.

Disastrous Finale of a Theatrical Tour.

LONDON, March 31.—The South African mail brings details of the theater fire in Cape Town which brought to such a disastrous end the tour of Mrs. Potter and and Mr. Kyrle Bellew. Mr. Bellew lost $75,000 worth of costumes and personal effects and $5,000 worth of jewelry, including Macready's dagger and other curios. Mrs. Potter lost Kean's dagger, which she wore as Juliet. Most of the wardrobe of Mrs. Potter and Mr. Bellew was kept at their lodgings, in consequence of two anonymous letters having been received, in which the warning was given, "Look out for your baggage; beware of the last week especially." The loss was therefore less than it would otherwise have been. Mr. Searlle, the impressario, who induced the couple to go to South Africa under his management, was touring at the time, and was at Johannesburg. He authorized his brother at Cape Town to cancel the contract without prejudice. The day before the couple had arranged to sail, however, Searlle wired an accusation that they had circulated malicious slanders against him, and ordered his solicitors to arrest them for an alleged debt of £30, and failing that to sue them for libel. The solicitor replied that the couple's popularity was so great and the sympathy with them so universal that the arrest would damage Searlle's reputation and business if persisted in. Searlle thereupon withdrew his threatened suit. The steamer had been taken, the mails were aboard, and the vessel was on the point of starting when a steam launch came out with the sheriff, who arrested the couple at the suit of Henry Loraine and wife, members of the company, who claimed £278 for salaries which they had expected to receive if the tour had not been abandoned. Mrs. Potter wept and protested that she had treated the Loraines more kindly than any other members of the company, and Mr. Bellew produced proof that they had deposited enough money in a Cape Town bank to meet all legitimate claims, so that the arrest must be a piece of mere spite. The sheriff was obdurate, but finally a stranger to the couple, Alfred Beil, a diamond producer, furnished the required bond, and the prisoners were allowed to proceed. The couple are now in London looking for a theater in which to begin retrieving their fortunes.

Terrible Explosion—Six Deaths.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2.—At 3 o'clock yesterday morning the Sterling dynamite works at Bessemer exploded, killing six men. The shock was plainly felt fifteen miles distant. Fire followed and the ruins are burning.

Death Caused by Two Grape Seeds.

TOMS RIVER, N. Y., April 2.—George S. Bonnell, who died at Toms River, had been suffering for many months by what the doctors diagnosed as a stomach trouble. The postmortem showed that two grape seeds had become lodged in the intestine. They had become covered by a gristly growth, which finally grew so large that it completely cut off the passage of the food in the alimentary canal.

Mr. Rusk Secretary of Agriculture in the United States, gives this portrait of what he regards as the Ideal Farmer: "He must be sufficiently well educated in science as far as it is applicable to agriculture, and he must be intelligent enough to study his surroundings and to apply his knowledge to the conditions about him. The farmer of the future will be a business man, able not only to compel his soil to do its best in matter of production, but to study the markets and know what will sell the best, and what will command the highest price. This farmer will keep his accounts like any other business man. As to the question of his education, when you consider that he must have a knowledge of all the principles of animal and plant life; that he must understand the contingent elements of soils and fertilizers, and that he must have some knowledge of meteorology, chemistry, and the other sciences closely connected with crop raising, you will see that the ideal farmer of the future will have to be not only a brainy but a well-educated man."

Ontario Legislature.

A Bill to Amend the Anatomy Act Discussed.

Mr. Tait's Tax Exemption Measure Withdrawn.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

TORONTO, Ont., April 1.—The Legislature was occupied this afternoon in discussing Mr. McCleary's bill to amend the Anatomy Act by providing that the bodies of those who die in houses of industry or refuge shall not be delivered over to a medical school without the consent of the chairman of the house of industry or the warden of the county. The only argument in favor of the bill was of a sentimental character.

The bill was opposed by the Attorney-General, the Minister of Education and others on the ground that it was absolutely necessary for the study of surgery that students should have subjects, and that the present law really injured no one, but on the other hand prevented the desecration of graves.

After recess the debate was adjourned because there were so few members present.

Dr. Mecham moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Ontario Medical Act. The bill proposes that there shall be 21 members instead of 12 to be elected by the profession at large and that the Province shall be divided into 21 electoral districts; the clause giving the universities and teaching bodies force to appoint nine members to be repealed, Dr. Mecham argued that if the profession at large could not elect their representatives they should not be called upon to pay fees to the council. He also objected strongly to the clause to remove from the register any one in arrears of fees.

Dr. McKay (Oxford) on behalf of the council made a vigorous speech against the bill. He claimed that dentists, lawyers, architects and other professional men had similar powers for collecting fees and read letters from Sir Daniel Wilson, of the University of Toronto, and from all the other universities and teaching bodies in the Province, protesting against the clause of the bill proposing to deprive them of their representation on the council. He also read a resolution passed by different medical associations indorsing the legislation of last year and protesting against the present bill. He, therefore, believed that the profesion at large did not like the proposed legislation. The bill was read a second time by agreement and referred to a special committee.

The Municipal Committee this morning considered Mr. Tait's bill to exempt from taxation the capital of any person which is invested or employed in any wholesale or retail mercantile business in this Province, and the stock in trade, book debts and other assets held for the purposes of or in connection with said business; but the income or profits derived from such capital shall be liable to be assessed. The bill was supported by a number of wholesale and retail merchants of Toronto, Hamilton and other places and was opposed by real estate men. Finally the bill was withdrawn.

HAMILTON YOUNG LIBERALS

Indulge in Their Seventh Annual Banquet—Mr. Lister "Calls a Spade a Spade."

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

HAMILTON, April 1.—The seventh annual banquet of the Young Men's Liberal Club held this evening was largely attended and a most enthusiastic affair. Mr. Fred Ross, the president, filled the chair. The speakers were James Lister, M.P., Lambton; Mr. Develin, M.P., Montreal; Mr. Fraser, M.P., Guysboro, N. S.; W. Gibson, Lincoln, and W. T. R. Preston.

Mr. Lister charged the Dominion Government with falsifying the voters' lists after they had left the revising officer's hands and had been sent to Ottawa, Reformers' names being left off and Tories put on. Referring to the steal of the London seat from Mr. C. S. Hyman, he compared John Carling to a burglar who had broken into a man's house in the night and stolen his property.

SEVEN FRIENDLY GHOSTS

Came from a Near-by Cemetery and Baked Papst's Bread for Him.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Frederick Papst, a hardware merchant of 586 Broadway, Brooklyn, died on Jan. 1 last, but his will was not filed for probate until a couple of days ago. He was worth perhaps $30,000. He left $200 to his sister, Sophia Biebold, and the rest of his property to his wife. The numerous nephews and nieces were not mentioned in the will. They will contest it. Lawyer Chas. I. Schampain, who represents them, said yesterday:

"We can show that Papst had been irrational for ten years past. Before he went into the hardware business he was a baker, and lived near a cemetery. He believed in ghosts, and he used to tell his neighbors that he didn't have to work much himself. Every night, he said, the ghosts of seven bakers came over from the cemetery and went down into his cellar and made up all the bread for him. All that he had to do himself was to sling a little dough into the troughs.

"When his wife died he took all the medicine bottles and poured out the unused medicine in a basin, and said that he would drink it up. He had paid for it, and there was no use of wasting it, he said."

According to the will Papst was 64 years old, but Schampain says he was 74.

Dominion Parliament.

The Charges Against Judge Elliot Again Brought Up.

Delay Suits the Tory Bosses Better Than Expediting Justice—Malfeasance Condoned by the Government.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1.—The petition from London containing the charges against Judge Elliot was read and received in the House this afternoon at the opening of the session. A motion that it be printed in the votes and proceedings made by Mr. Sutherland was adopted.

Mr. Sutherland also moved that a copy of the petition be sent Judge Elliot for his information, but as Sir John Thompson opposed it it was not put to the House.

This proceeding would have saved time, but the Government is not concerned with that. The matter formed the subject of inquiry on the orders of the day being called.

Mr. Sutherland asked when the papers with regard to the election that were moved for would be laid on the table.

Sir John Thompson said he thought they had all been brought down, but he would inquire about them.

On the recommendation of the Standing Orders Committee the time for receiving private bills was extended by the House until April 8.

On motion of Dr. Roome a petition foran act incorporating the Millers' Association was read and received.

To Sir Richard Cartwright's question Mr. Carling said the details of the census showing the nationality and birthplace of the people in the country would be ready for distribution about the middle of April.

Mr. Davis asked if any negotiations are pending between this Government and Newfoundland.

Sir John Thompson said there had been communications through the Colonial Office with regard to Canada's relations with Newfoundland.

The House went into Committee on Supply and took up the supplementary estimates. The first items were to pay the salaries of the Deputy Minister of the Interior and the clerks in that department who were suspended on account of the investigation before the Public Accounts Committee last session.

The Minister of Finance told the committee that the Government had come to the conclusion to reduce Mr. Burgess from the rank of deputy to that of chief clerk at $2,800 a year. With regard to the clerk, he said the sub-committee of the Privy Council had found in their investigation into the irregularities in the Interior Department that besides the clerks who had been suspended last summer there was "a large number" of others alike guilty. It had been decided by the committee and the Government to punish all the culprits alike by "docking" every one a month's salary. It was the intention to equalize the punishment and it was therefore necessary to pay clerks who had been suspended their salaries except for one month during the time of their suspension.

This reinstatement of the offenders and recoupment the Opposition and two or three Government supporters opposed all day, and all the evening. The debate was at times very interesting. The Opposition urged that to pay these men for the time they walked about and did nothing was to hold out a premium to such offenses and to demoralize the whole service. The Opposition held up to the country the spectacle of this virtuous Government which had protested that it would punish offenders, condoning and even rewarding the irregularities which had been revealed in the civil service.

The discussion opened before 4 o'clock and did not close until 11:30. Two votes were taken in committee. The last, at the debate's conclusion, almost caught the Government napping. They had a majority of only three to sustain their position.

Wife No. 1, who was Susan Cook before her marriage to Waistell, which she says took place in Toronto, 1849, lays the information and is prosecuting. Wife No. 2, who was Mrs. Cobleigh before her marriage to Waistell, which, it is alleged, took place in Exeter in 1889, lives with the defendant at Clandeboye. On account of the absence of material witness the case was adjourned until April 5. Interesting developments are promised.

OXFORD.

The creamery butter sent from the West Oxford cheese factory to British Columbia realized 24 cents per pound, being 2 cents higher than the best butter made there. This figure was reached after paying all expenses and commission.

Mamie Kenning, 4-year-old daughter of the G. T. R. agent at Norwich, met with a painful accident recently. Whilst playing at a window the sash fell heavily upon her, causing a fracture of the right arm.

PERTH.

Mrs. O'Toole, wife of Wm. O'Toole, the Port Huron saloon keeper who was murdered on Sunday last, is a daughter of Theobald Rohfreitsch, of Sebringville. Her first husband was Alex. McCulloch, brother of John McCulloch, of Stratford, and when he died Mr. O'Toole took possession of the saloon for the widow. Eventually the two were married.

SIMCOE.

It is reported that on the expiration of the lease between the Midland Railway Company and the Grand Trunk the former will not agree to a renewal, and the road will pass into the control of the C. P. R.

Vansickle Bros., of Barrie, have secured logs of pine, basswood, soft elm, black and white ash and red oak sufficient to cut 2,000,000 feet of lumber.

WELLINGTON.

John Leslie, an old and respected resident of Eramosa, died on Thursday, in his 63rd year. The home of James Leslie, son of the above, has been severely afflicted. During the present month two bright little boys have died through diphtheria.

WELLAND.

Myrrh and Frankincense.

"One frequently hears of Frankincense and Myrrh," said a botantist to a newspaper reporter, "but few people know what they are. Both of them are gum resins obtained from trees that grow in Arcadia and South-Western Asia. Frankincense in China has always been considered a remedy for leprosy; and myrrh taken medicinally is believed to act upon the appetite and digestion."

The majority of the people have little to do with either myrrh or frankincense in the ordinary walks of life. They may possess medicinal qualities of value in disease, but up to the present time very little is heard of them. Our people however, have a knowledge of one of the most important agents of modern times—Harvard Bronchial Syrup—a remedy more precious to sufferers from colds, coughs, croup, irritation and inflamation of the throat, than are caravans of frankincense and myrrh.

The ordinary every-day cold and sore throat requires a remedy prompt in action, safe and reliable; this is found only in that wonderful mixture that our people call "Harvard Bronchial Syrup." It cures every time; no complaints are ever made of failure when it is used. Physicians, clergymen, lawyers and business men strongly recommend it.

We say with confidence to all, provide a bottle for this treacherous and changeful weather. Use it at once if affected in the slightest degree with cough and sore throat, and you will escape serious consequences.

Mr. C. Harper, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I have pleasure in stating that your Pink Pills are a wonderful tonic and reconstructor of the system. Since beginning their use I have gained on an average a pound of flesh a week. I have recommended them to a number of my friends, who declare that they are the only medicine that they have ever used that has done all that is claimed for it." Sold by all dealers.

In these days of chemical science the assassin has often found that blood will tell.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Mrs Bush—"Has the hanging committee decided about your picture yet?" Brush—"Yes." Mrs. Brush—"Are they going to hang it?" Brush (dubious)—I heard the chairman say he thought hanging was too good for it."

ORIGIN OF "AULD LANG SYNE"

At a meeting of the Royal Society of Antiquaries in Edinburgh, a paper, by Mr. James Dick, Newcastle-on-Tyne, communicated by Mr. Alexander W. Inglis, the author discussed the origin, poetry and music of "Auld Lang Syne." The earliest germ of the song is found in an anonymous poem of the fifteenth century preserved in the Bannatyne MSS. of 1568. The title of the poem, "Auld kyndness forgot," is, in modern Scottish, "Should auld acquaintance be forgot." The second song on the subject known to exist is printed in the Watson collection, published in 1714, entitled "Old Lang Syne," in the twelve eight-line stanzas. It has been attributed to Sir Robert Aytoun, but it is more generally believed to be the work of Francis Sempill of Balltrees. The third song is Allan Ramsay's "Auld Lang Syne," first printed in the Tea Table Miscellany in 1724. The first record of the present well-known version is in Burns' letter to Mrs. Dunlop, December 17, 1788, inclosing a copy of the verses as "an old song which has often thrilled through my soul." That there was an old rustic song with a chorus similar to Burns' song is suspected, but all attempts to discover the smallest traces of it have been fruitless. As to the music, there are two tunes—an old one which Burns knew, and the modern one, first printed with Burns' words in 1799, three years after his death. Prior to 1680 no air can be recognized resembling either of these melodies. The first time the song of Burns was printed with the melody now so well known was in the second volume of "Thompson's Songs of Scotland," in 1799. Thompson rejected the old time-worn tune, and replaced it with a variation of another melody which had been then for many years popular. The author went in detail into the development of the modern melody from its germ in the Duke of Buccleuch's tune, as printed in the last quarter of the seventeenth century, through its subsequent variations, chiefly in dance music, till it was finally wedded to the words which are now associated with it. At the conclusion of the paper Mr. Inglis read a letter from the author strongly advocating the establishment of a Scottish Folk-Song Society, to do for the song music of Scotland what David Laing and the Bannatyne and other societies have done for the literature of Scotland.

DR. SIDNEY RINGER, Professor of Medicine at University College, London, and Physician to the College Hospital, perhaps the greatest English authority on the action of drugs, states in his "Handbook of Therapeutics" that "the sustained administration of alkalies and their carbonates renders the blood it is said, poorer in solids and in red corpuscles, and impairs the nutrition of the body." Of ammonia, carbonate of ammonia, and spirits of ammonia, he says: "These preparations have many properties in common with the alkaline, potash, and soda group. They possess a strong alkaline reaction, are freely soluble in water, have a high diffusion-power, and dissolve the animal textures. . . . If administered too long, they excite catarrh of the stomach and intestines."

CONVERSAZIONE.

Extracted with Difficulty.

The taciturnity of backwoodsmen used to be much illustrated by American writers, but now, perhaps because backwoodsmen are too few to form as conspicuous a national element as formerly, their peculiarities are not often mentioned. From Canada, which still has vast areas of almost unbroken forest, we received the following verbatim report of a conversation between a city sportsman and his backwoods guide, Bill Buckshaw:

"You have killed a moose, Bill, I suppose?" "Some."

"Any big bulls?" "Some."

"Where?" "Back yonder."

"Were you ever charged by one?" "Onct."

"How was that?" "He come at me."

"Had you wounded him?" "Yas."

"How did he come?" "Acrost the swale."

"Couldn't you stop him with another shot?" "Hadn't on'y a muzzle-loader."

"Did he get close to you?" "Clost as you be."

"Then you killed him?" "No."

"What then?" "I climb up."

"Where?" "On the root."

"What root?" "The big pine root."

"A fallen pine?" "Yas."

"What did he do?" Lammed into it."

"Into what?" "The root."

"How?" "Lickety pelt. Head first. Swict."

"Did he go off then?" "I near did."

"He shook the root, eh?" "You bet."

"But you held on?" "Sure."

"Were you sitting?" "Stannin'."

"How could you hold on?" "Branches of root."

"Well, what then?" "I fetched him."

"Oh, you had another shot?" "Got loaded up."

"Then you killed him?" "You could 'a' killed him yourself then."

"With that," says the sportsman, "I gave up the questioning, and imagined the details. After a long silence Bill said: "'That cured me of muzzle-loaders.'"

Garfield's First Drill.

When President Lincoln issued his first call for volunteers Garfield was a member of the Ohio Senate. It was a matter of patriotism and of State pride that Ohio should have her quota of the 75,000 men promptly in the field. Garfield was asked to raise a regiment from his district. He needed no great urging. He knew nothing about military matters, he said, but "it was never too late to learn." A legislative "drill squad" was organized, and at ten o'clock the same night about 60 representatives and senators assembled under the dome of the Capitol rotunda.

The "position of the soldier" was minutely explained, amid general merriment, and "marking time" followed, and then an advance of three paces to the halt. The alternative orders, "Left! Right!" had been executed fairly well, when Garfield suddenly broke the silence.

"Say, general, why don't you go off with the right foot first? That strikes me as good sense."

"Senator," said the adjutant-general, "you are the first sergeant of the company. I will give you a chance to explain your own method presently. 'Never too late to learn,' you know."

With that a musket was sent for and handed to the senator.

"Now," said the adjutant-general, "before you begin your instructions we must have at least one exercise with the gun. I will keep out of your reach, but when I give the order, 'Charge bayonet!' you will advance one step and strike out as if you meant to run me through."

The charge was ordered and executed with vigor.

"Hold, sergeant, that will never do," said the adjutant-general. "The whole company is watching you. You advance the left foot first. Remember your own instructions. Ready! Charge bayonet!'

A shout went up from the whole company as Garfield attempted to obey the order, right foot first. He enjoyed the fun as well as any of them, and as the senators and representatives dispersed, shouts of "Left! Right!" resounded through the corridors of the Capitol.

Garfield told the story many years afterward, and the man who was then adjutant-general now sends it to The Youth's Companion.

The Bible for Statesmen.

The Bible is the statesman's manual. Why? Because its histories unfold to us the divine, and so eternal, constitution of the nation. If the nation were a creature of human device, a conscience, we might tolerate special legislation: we might possess our souls in view of a mild species of jobbery and political cunning. But when we turn to this Word and read there the exhaustive record of God's own kingship over his chosen nation, which he called and established; writing with his own finger its fundamental law; dictating a code of practical legislation, which has passed like life blood into every nation of acknowledged vitality: when we read of "the powers that are ordained of God": when we turn to the course of Providence and see that the nation is the consummation of the world's long travail toward order and righteousness, we then are compelled to acknowledge that the nation is a relization in time of that eternal government of God which covers all things visible and invisible from the beginning. This Word of God, therefore, lays its finger with awful significance upon the sources of authority, saying righteousness, righteousness, eternal, simple righteousness which has forever and forever stood by the throne of the Almighty. In the high places of power we need no black-letter wisdom but only the clear seeing of a pure heart. We may be positively sure then, that when our legislation begins to grow wily and sinuous, "speaking low out of the dust as one that hath a familiar spirit," we have fallen from that high consciousness of divine origin which alone can establish a nation.—[James H. Ecob, D.D.

Books, Then and Now.

Experts are predicting that the books of to-day will fall to pieces before the middle of the century. The paper in the books that have survived two or three centuries was made by hand, of honest rags, and without the use of strong chemicals, while the ink was made of nut galls. To-day much of the paper for books is made, at least in part, of wood pulp, treated with powerful acids, while the ink is a compound of various substances naturally at war with the flimsy paper upon which it is laid. The printing of two centuries ago has improved with age; that of to-day, it is feared, will, within 50 years, have eaten its way through the pages upon which it is impressed.—[The Paper World.

COULDN'T REACH THE ROOF.

Insufficient Ladder Equipment for the Fire Brigade.

The Firemen Drilled—Unsafe Condition of the Extension Ladder—An Aerial Apparatus Needed.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the fire alarm at the corner of Wellington and Dundas streets was sounded by a deputation of aldermen — No. 3 Committee members. They had given instructions to Chief Roe at the last meeting to exercise the firemen at ladder drill, and this occasion was a public test on the McCormick Company's high building. All three brigades were on the spot in good time. The antiquated truck of No. 1 brigade was relieved of its longest ladder, which was placed in position. Then the extension was run up, making its total height 50 feet. This only reached the top windows, while the roof was 10 or 15 feet higher. One of the firemen scaled the height for the edification of the 'civic solons. The ladder was taken down and put up three or four times for practice; then it was replaced in the truck, the hose wagons and the men returned to their quarters, and the crowd of onlookers dispersed, thinking they had been made the victim of an April fool's trick.

The test was important in one respect: it showed clearly the inadequacy of the present ladder equipment. The extension ladder bent under the weight of one man; but in case of a fire it would take at least four men to carry up the hose to the top. Add to this the weight of the hose when charged with water, and a fireman could not make the ascent, except at the risk of his life. The ladder is an old one, and its timbers have lost their original strength. It has been previously tried on the McClary buildings, and though it touched the top windows it could not reach the roof. Suppose a fire broke out at McClary's, at the Tecumseh House, in Reid Bros.' establishment, in McKay's cigar factory, in the Granite block, in the large wholesale stores on Richmond street or in any of the tall structures that abound in the business portion of the city? If it became necessary to throw a stream in the fourth story window, the extension ladder would have to be used, and there is a strong probability that the attempt would result disastrously. The other ladders may be all right for the purpose they serve. The longest of them is 29 feet. The remedy suggested is the purchase of an aerial truck. This question was considered by the committee and action was deferred until they should have an opportunity of seeing what could be done with the present ladders.

Another thing that needs renewal is the ladder truck. This ancient vehicle has a decided sag in the middle, and some day it will probably split in two on the way to a fire if used much longer. One of the wheels flew off quite unexpectedly some time ago, and it was lucky that no ladders were required at the fire. If an aerial ladder truck is purchased the old one can be dispensed with.

"August Flower"

Biliousness, Constipation, Stomach Pains.

"I have been afflicted with biliousness and constipation for fifteen years; first one and then another preparation was suggested to me and tried but to no purpose. At last a friend recommended August Flower. I took it according to directions and its effects were wonderful, relieving me of those disagreeable stomach pains which I had been troubled with so long. Words cannot describe the admiration in which I hold your August Flower—it has given me a new lease of life, which before was a burden. Such a medicine is a benefaction to humanity, and its good qualities and wonderful merits should be made known to everyone suffering with dyspepsia or biliousness

MELISSA

Stands alone as a Satisfactory Rainproof Garment.

MELISSA IS THE BEST

beyond a doubt, and it is not only the best but it is the only thoroughly reliable, healthful, porous, odorless, Rainproof Fabric in the World. Now, that is pretty strong language, but it is as true as it is strong.

The season for rainproof wraps is here again.

There are several, so called, Porous, Odorless, Waterproofs in the market, some of them will be found absolutely worthless as Waterproofs; others will appear to stand one or two showers, but then it will be discovered that the proofing substance has washed away entirely and left the fibre of the cloth hard and brittle. Another, the most unreliable and useless of the lot, will be discovered to be proofed only in spots; the tail of a garment may be all right while the shoulders let water through like ordinary cloth, one shoulder may be right and the other all wrong. Wearers themselves will have to find out the frauds, and their experience will be both disappointing and expensive. Not so with MELISSA, for the proofing is done on an entirely different basis and cannot be successfully counterfeited or imitated. The process instead of destroying the fabric, preserves and strengthens it, so that its rainproof qualities are maintained intact to the very end. It is practically impossible for a Melissa Garment to be unevenly proofed, and the above trade mark is an absolute guarantee, not only that the proofing is uniform, but that the material is of excellent quality and thoroughly reliable in every respect.

—[BROWNING.

London, Saturday, April 2.

If we had to name the ideal religious, family and general weekly alike, from the standpoint of typography, literary ability, common sense, progressiveness and breadth of view, we would at once name the Christian Union of New York. The good influence of such a newspaper is incalculable.

There is one good thing that Judge Maynard is even yet capable of doing. He can resign.

Thus says the New York Recorder of a legal functionary who aided in stealing a representative's seat and in giving it to his party friend. We know of another judge who could and ought to do the same. His programme bore a resemblance to that of the New York judge.

The London ADVERTISER always speaks of him as "Mr. Hyman, M.P."—[Montreal Gazette.

Why not? Can you deny this fact? Did not Mr. Hyman get a majority of the votes left on the lists by a Conservative partisan revising officer, and is not his right to the seat upheld by the unanimous finding of two Superior Courts? On the other side is Judge Elliot, a County Court official who participated actively in the campaign and gave a decision not in accordance with equity, but with his own and his associates' desires. Can any honest man deny Mr. Hyman's right to the title M. P.?

A great many citizens of London who feel deeply the wrong that has been done them by Judge Elliot and his associates, have complained to us that no opportunity was given them to sign the petition to Parliament containing charges against the judge, and demanding an investigation. The sending of the petition was a formality, to get the whole matter before Parliament. It would have been as effective if but three or six names had been placed on it instead of fifty or sixty. The fact of the matter is, an indictment of this description could be made in Parliament, and proceeded upon, without any petition whatsoever. Bourinot, in his "Parliamentary Procedure," asserts that even one definite charge of misbehavior against a judge can be made on the responsibility of a member of Parliament.

THE BUSINESS VIEW OF IT.

Mr. Hyman was fairly elected at the last general election by a majority of 183 votes. After that Mr. Carling was given a safe life seat in the Senate.

He should have been content. But willingness to see any one else obtain a share of public honors had never been a trait of Mr. Carling's disposition. In fact, he at one time occupied the representation of two Parliaments at once, until a change in the law compelled him to disgorge one of the two representations.

The bye-election came on, and Mr. Hyman was re-elected by a majority of 22 votes.

Even then Mr. Carling declined to submit to the will of the electors, but through the partisan intervention of Judge Elliot, is at this moment occupying the seat of Parliament to which Mr. Hyman was elected.

It is not to be wondered at that damage to business and bitterness of feeling have been caused by these determined attempts to introduce Mexican and South American revolutionary methods into Canadian electoral proceedings. Suffering and loss in some shape always follow wrong-doing. Injustice is the parent of bitterness. For any bitterness of feeling or damage to business in this quarter of the hemisphere, Mr. Carling and Judge Elliot are directly responsible.

They are responsible for more than this. They are responsible for the damage to the city's good name, growing out of the infamous proceedings with which the columns of every honest newspaper in Canada are ringing. Have the friends of Mr. Hyman, have the citizens generally, no right to complain when the very reputation, the very credit, of the city are imperilled?

Those who voted and promoted Mr. Hyman's election are estimated to include two-thirds of the businesses, large and small, of London, and two-thirds of the aggregate business capital of the city. The friends of Mr. Hyman, with this stake in the city, are surely within their right in protesting, and protesting strongly against proceedings which have injured the general business of London and brought reproach on the city of their affection.

THE LATEST REMARKABLE DISCOVERY IN ELECTRICITY.

It is probably only through lack of the knowledge of the forces and agencies by which he is surrounded that man is not now able to live and move with but infinitesimal effort on his part. In recent years there have been most remarkable results from scientific research, and yet we seem to be but on the threshold of great and important discoveries regarding our surroundings and the adaptability of light and heat, of electricity and magnetism, to meeting the everyday wants of the race.

The most important discovery of recent times is that which has been made by Mr. Tesla, a young electrician, who recently held "one of the most critical scientific audiences spellbound" for more than two hours while at the Royal Institution, London, he discoursed on his experiments. According to Sir Wm. Thomson the whole of every part of space is filled with a fluid called ether, almost infinitely thin and almost infinitely elastic. Experiments have shown that the same ether whose waves carry light and heat from the sun and stars to the earth also carries the waves of electric and magnetic induction which, as the daily experiments at Kew Observatory show, follow each outburst of solar activity. It is the opinion of Sir Wm. Thomson that what we know as matter consists of vortices or whirlpools of this ether, which, from their rapidly rotating motion, resist displacement. But whether the molecules of what we know as matter is independent matter, or whether they are ether whirlpools, we know that they keep up an incessant hammering on one another, and thus on everything in space. As the forces are in every possible direction, they neutralize each other; but when the discovery is made how to send the majority of them in the same direction we shall have at our command an agency of enormous power, many millions of horse power being confined in an ordinary room. Mr. Tesla says, "We shall then hook our machinery on to the machinery of nature."

Professor Cookes, in his experiments, pumped out from glass bulbs and tubes nearly all the air or other gas which they contained, and the few remaining particles were then free to travel in any course imparted to them without much change caused by collision with others. This special charge was imparted by the agency of electricity. Through suitably shaped terminals a stream of molecules was focussed on a given point. A piece of carbon placed at that point becomes white hot under the bombardment, from identically the same cause which makes a sheet of flames to appear when a cannon shot strikes an iron target.

The electricity used in these experiments to impart the directing force was of a comparatively slow alternating period—the electric current oscillating about 80 or 100 times per second. Mr. Tesla carried out his experiments from this point. He abandoned the ordinary dynamo, giving the results above stated, and the ordinary induction coil, and constructed a dynamo which gives 20,000 alternations per second, and by connecting this to suitable condensers he multiplied its alternations until they reached 1,000,000 or 1,500,000 per second. Then, as the narrator in the last number of the Nineteenth Century recites, he entered a region of mystery and hope. One of the first things noticed was that, either because these vibrations are too rapid to excite corresponding vibrations in the nerves of the body, or from some other cause, no shock is felt from the current; and that though an ordinary current at 2,000 volts will kill, yet this current at 50,000 volts cannot be felt at all! Vulcanite is one of the best insulators known and will entirely stop any ordinary current or discharge, but the stream of sparks between two poles with this current pours through a thick sheet of vulcanite as easily or even with greater ease than through air. The forces can be directed for a considerable distance through space without the aid of wires. More wonderful still, if metal plates are fixed to the walls of a room and connected to the terminals, the whole atmosphere of that room, whether it be ether or whether it be particles of common matter, is thrown into a state of storm and agitation which can at once be made perceptible by bringing into the space tubes or globes from which the air has been partially exhausted. Such tubes, though without any metallic connections, yet glow and throb as if powerful currents of electricity were being sent through them from an ordinary induction coil. A Cooke's radiometer placed near a metal conductor, from which neither spark nor glow is perceptible, yet rotates as if it were placed near a lamp or heated body, but rotates in the wrong direction, and, last of all, a true flame burns in which nothing is consumed.

When the discharge issues from a suitable terminal it has the appearance and roaring sound of a gas flame burning under too high a pressure, and gives off a considerable heat; to use Mr. Tesla's words again: "This is not unexpected, as all the force and heat in the universe is due to the falling together of lifted weights, and the same result is produced whether these weights have been lifted apart by chemical energy, and rest in the form of oxygen and hydrogen ready to combine chemically, or in the form of mechanical energy of moving molecules directed by the electric current."

Startling social and political changes will follow the application of Mr. Tesla's results should they fulfill the bold dreams of scientific imagination. Is such a development improbable when we think of the wonders wrought in bringing the modern railway, the electric telegraph, the application of electricity for lighting and as a motor power, to their present state of advancement?

Of the possibilities, the writer whose narrative we have summarized says: "Most manual labor will become unnecessary, as unlimited power will be available at every man's hand. Engineering works will be able to be carried out on a far greater scale than has yet been even contemplated, and doubtless a corresponding era of material prosperity will set in; but whether these dreams are ever fulfilled or not few who attended Mr. Tesla's lecture will forget the possibilities which seemed to open to their minds when they saw a living man standing in the midst of the electric storm, receiving unharmed in his hands flashes of veritable lightning, and waving above his head a tube, through which the very life blood of creation pulsed, in waves of purple fire."

A VOICE FROM MICHIGAN.

Mrs. Lathrap Addresses a London Audience—A Brilliant Lecture—Inconsistent Voters Dressed Down.

Eloquent, witty, logical, persuasive, heart stirring, with a wonderful fluency of tongue, a rich vein of satire, much beauty of diction and sparkling epigram—such are the elements that characterize Mrs. Lathrap's oratory. They were exemplified last night before a large and delighted audience. This talented lady, who is the president of the W. C. T. U. of Michigan, appeared here under the auspices of the local Union. The great moral issues of the day, particularly the temperance question, comprised her theme, and woman's relations to the same were pretty clearly defined. It seemed, she said, that God never permitted the history of a civilized country to go on long without a moral stir. The speaker explained and commended the principles actuating that great moral force, the W. C. T. U. It was above all evangelical, it was moral, it was intellectual. "We are told that the W. C. T. U. does not associate with 'the best people.' Perhaps it doesn't. The average fashionable woman would have to be made over again before she would be worthy of membership in the W. C. T. U. She is often too much of a coward; she cares more for the praise of man than of God. I do not believe we are either the froth or the dregs. We are on that better level from which we can pity the one and help the other." (Applause.) Referring to prohibition Mrs. Lathrap said that in the final analysis power lay with the voter who decided what men should go in and what men should go out. "Here is the boodle politician who goes to do what the saloon wants; here is the purchasable vote ready to be bought for a dollar; and here is the middleman who stands behind the bar of the saloon. That small purchasable vote makes the little unclean majority that decides the balance of power. And so the people send brewers or saloon-keepers to Parliament to represent them. (Hear, hear.) They have ways that nobody else can match. (Hear, hear.) In this broad continent," she continued in a burst of eloquence, "we have the wide open doors of immigration. Into the veins of the country are poured, blood white and black, blood fast and slow, blood hot and cold, blood mad and sober. How are we to equalize it in one heart? crystallize and harmonize it and send it to the finger tips of those great nations, giving purity and perpetuity of government?" Man should not have two consciences. Many had one, clear and refined, for the home and one other distorted and sophisticated, that enabled him to go and vote to put the devil's kingdom up and Christ's Kingdom down. The brewer could get into good society; the fellow who sold his product from behind the bar was ostracised by society. Mrs. Lathrap paid a compliment to the Free Masons, the Knights of Labor and other industrial organizations which in some places excluded liquor dealers from membership. High license she denounced with characteristic force as a delusion and snare, citing facts and circumstances to prove its utter failure. The revenue question in relation to prohibition was also ably handled. "For every dollar you get from the liquor traffic you know that from $9 to $18 comes out of your pocket." Mrs. Lathrap naturally put in many good words for her sex. "Man," said she, "doesn't credit woman with a teaspoonful of financial sense. But surely she would not make the financial mistake above figured out in relation to the liquor traffic, if she had the management of it. (Hear.) Mrs. Lathrap lays emphasis on four points: (1) That the inconsistent voters are much to blame and are largely responsible; (2) that the churches must wake up to their full duty; (3) that High License is entirely objectionable on moral and tactical grounds; (4) that the Christian women of this continent propose to keep at it until both sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors are totally prohibited. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer. Mrs. Thornley presided over the meeting.

Dialogue between two blind men: "Do you know that gentlemen who gave you a quarter just now?" "Only by sight."

NOT A MIRACLE.

In these days there are no miracles. People are not cured by them or deceived by statements to that effect.

Indigestion, sour stomach, dyspepsia, in fact all stomach troubles are produced by the fermenting of the food, the result of which must be acid that decomposes the food, involving gasses which act on various nerves by pressure. Neutralize the acid and the disease ceases.

That is what Brunton's Curative Fluid will do. Being composed of a combination of potasses, it neutralizes the acid, assist digestion and purifies the blood.

Is highly gratified with Hood's Sarsaparilla. He was badly run down, had no appetite, what he did eat caused distress and she felt tired all the time. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla effected a marvellous change. The distress in the stomach is entirely gone, he feels like a new man, and can eat anything with old-time relish. For all of which he thanks and cordially recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is very important that during the months of March April May the blood should be thoroughly purified and the system be given strength to withstand the debilitating effect of the changing season. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses peculiar merit and it is the Best Spring Medicine.

ATHLETICS.

WOMEN AS WRESTLERS.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 1.—Mamie Morgan and Sadie De Forest, two young women, formerly members of a gayety company, were the principals in a one-round collar-and-elbow wrestling match at Garfield a couple of nights ago.

The young women were rivals for the hand of a young New Yorker, whose name is unknown here, and decided to settle the question of who should be the favored one by a test of strength, agility and endurance in the harness. On the night of the encounter both of them arrived at this place and proceeded in carriages with their seconds to a barn on the farm of Dominick Robinson at Garfield. About a score of sports from New York and Paterson had preceded them, and were gathered around the ring to see the sport.

Each of the women had been in training for some time, and on arriving at the ring side retired to another apartment and doffed their street clothing. When they again appeared they were arrayed in tight-fitting costumes. Miss Morgan in red and white and Miss De Forest in blue. They stepped lightly into the ring and to their respective corners.

The wrestling harness was quickly adjusted, and the women stepped to the center and shook hands. Both looked in the pink of condition, and the favored ones present congratulated themselves in anticipation of a lively and novel "go."

The girls surprised the crowd with their knowledge and science and their strength and agility. For half an hour they pulled and tugged and hauled in the most improved collar-and-elbow style, and finally Miss Morgan succeeded in throwing her opponent. She caught one hip and two shoulders and won the decision. The girls were congratulated by the sports present, and, after rearranging themselves into their street costumes, left for New York. Whether or not the young man for whom the young women battled will accept the result as final is not known here.

THOUGHTS THAT BREATHE.

God rights him that keeps silence.—[From the Persian.

Let us serve God in the sunshine while he makes sunshine. We shall then serve him all the better in the dark when he sends the darkness.

Every to-morrow has two handles. We can take hold of it by the handle of anxiety or the handle of faith.

When you are reading a book in a dark room, and come to a difficult part, you take it to a window and get more light, so take your Bible to Christ.—[McCheyne.

God gives to every man an opportunity, but not every man improves the opportunity that God gives him. Every man's life is a plan of God, in the sense that every man has a plan of God in his behalf set before him, for his acceptance or rejection. But it is for every man to accept or reject God's plan as he will, and upon his choice pivots his character and his destiny. It is the man who fills the place God offers him, whose life is an eternal success. It is the man who refuses to fill the place that God opens before him, whose life is an eternal failure.

IMPORTANT EVENTS!

Often Recorded by the Press—Records Not Easily Forgotten.

Certain wonderful events that occur from week to week are recored by the daily papers of Canada, and often create much comment and surprise amongst all classes of our population. Many of these recorded events are soon forgotten—they pass away like a flitting cloud and are remembered no more.

Some events, especially those that are of importance to our national well-being, are treasured in the minds of the thoughtful and intelligent of our people. When noble works and grand deeds are thus borne in mind, our people know how to judge and act when certain emergencies arise.

Our people are quick to discern grand and worthy deeds and actions which show good results in the community. They feel that in some degree men and women are made better; and that notwithstanding the fact that the world is evil, there is still something worth living and working for.

The press of Canada has given to the public without stint some interesting events that have taken place in various sections. To one class in particular, these recorded events have proved a blessing and brought comfort and cheer to many despondent hearts.

The newspapers have informed us of great and mighty cures wrought through the agency of that wonderful remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. Week after week we have had proof of men and women, old and young, who were saved from the dark tomb through the power of that remedy which seems to be the popular medicine of the day with all classes.

It seems to be able to take hold of the worst cases—those for whom physicians held out no hope—who were pronounced beyond all earthly help. The weak, nervous, sleepless, despondent, morose, dyspeptic and rheumatic are given a new life, and anxious parents and relatives are filled with joy. All these things have been accomplished by Paine's Celery Compound. Truly, these are events which must sink deep into every reader's heart, and cause serious thought and reflection. Such grand and noble works benefit us as a nation, and future generations will bless the name of the great discoverer of the grandest remedy ever given to suffering humanity.

While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

JUDGING AT SHOWS.

Why Experts Are Needed to Judge Sheep and Swine.

An Important Question Under Consideration by the Western Fair Directors.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

At the last meeting of the Western Fair Board a communication was read from me as secretary of the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association and the Dominion Swine Breeders' Association, asking that one expert judge be appointed to pass on all classes of sheep and swine. The request was opposed by several of the directors. The authority which I had for asking the above will be learned from the following:

The Dominion Swine Breeders' Association at a very largely attended meeting in March, 1890, unanimously decided to ask, through their secretary, that all the large fair associations in Ontario appoint but one judge to pass upon each class and that he be an expert judge of the variety he is asked to pass upon. The Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association passed a similar motion at their last meeting, held Feb. 5, 1892. This association further suggested that all animals shown in the pure-bred classes be registered or eligible to register. There are now records for all varities of pure-bred sheep and swine. Why, then, should grade animals be allowed to show in pure-bred classes among sheep and swine any more than among cattle and horses? To allow grade animals to show and win prizes in pure-bred classes is a detriment to the country, because such animals are sold to farmers who are not posted in pedigrees and breeding, on the strength of their having won prizes at the Western Fair, and while they may look all right they will not transmit their good qualities as surely as pure-bred sires or dams.

As many readers are not acquainted with either the Dominion Sheep Breeders' or Swine Breeders' Associations, allow me to explain. The membership is large and constantly growing; nearly every breeder and all exhibitors are members, with very few exceptions. Each of these associations is recognized by the Ontario Government, and each is given a grant. Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, is an active member of each association. Each stands on precisely the same footing as the Western Dairymen's Association or the Creamery Association. If one or both of these associations were to ask the Western Fair Board to appoint Professor Robertson as expert judge of dairy goods at the coming fair, would it not be reasonable to expect that he would be appointed to judge the goods sent by these dairymen? It certainly would be just and proper that he should be appointed. The sheep and swine add much to the attraction of the fair. Breeders individually go to much expense in preparing their stock and in bringing them to the exhibition. How very disappointing and disgusting it is to exhibitors after having spent a whole year preparing animals to have them judged by the veriest novices, or by men not experts. The arguments pro and con have been carefully threshed out by each of the associations, and both have unanimously asked for one judge to act for each class or grade. We have a number of expert judges in Canada capable of doing the work and doing it well. A number of such men are named each year by each of these associations, and their names and addresses are sent to the secretaries of each of the fair boards, or can be obtained by any interested party from myself. No one will object to an expert judge but a person who has had no general or large experiences as an exhibitor. Objections are raised to the one judge plan by men who have little or no knowledge, but who are always anxious to act as judge—for the honor of the thing and the free passes, etc., which a judgeship brings. Another class who object to expert judges are directors who wish to appoint their friends to posts of honor, for reasons best known to themselves. The last time the Provincial Show was held here, I was appointed to meet the Board and request that expert judges be appointed. Mr. Charles Rykert objected on the ground that there was not a man named as an expert from his constituency. The truth was there were no men recognized as expert judges of sheep or swine in his section. Though such was the case Mr. R. insisted that he had a right to nominate a proportion of the judges. The time is now at hand when exhibitors as a class will not put up with this sort of thing. Why should our fair managers object to judges who have been accepted by the exhibitors? The plan adopted in nominating these men is as follows: Take as an example the Sheep Breeders' Association. A director is elected to represent each breed of sheep. He is chairman of the division for that breed. At the annual meeting each director calls together all the breeders of the sheep he represents and they select a number of expert judges for that particular breed. Each breed of sheep is treated similarly. When this work has been completed the chairman of each division hands in his report. These reports are then taken up singly and each name thereon is read to the entire meeting. If one member of the association objects to any gentleman acting as an expert judge his name is at once struck from the list. It is the duty of a breeder to speak then or not at all. If our fair associations accept and act upon the requests of the Sheep and Swine Breeders' Associations they will remove from the boards any responsibilities in these particulars. All responsibilities will then rest with the breeders themselves.

T. W. HODSON.

The reason why "Myrtle Navy" tobacco has taken so strong a hold upon the smoking community is because it is the genuine article. No man has a desire to smoke anything else than tobacco. Even opium is not smoked for the pleasure of smoking it, but for its soporific effects. The desire for tobacco is, of course, best satisfied by getting the pure article, and when to this is added the finest quality the satisfaction is complete. These two things are combined in the "Myrtle Navy."

GLAD TIDINGS.

Alaska. A writer in the Presbyterian Journal says: "The church at Sitka, with its 300 communicants won from heathenism, shines like the pole star amid surrounding darkness, and proves what can be done to uplift and purify and bless the most hopeless of our race. This mission is under the care of the Home Board of the Presbyterian Church, and its flourishing schools are supported by the Woman's Executive Committee, its auxiliary, having their headquarters at No. 53 Fifth avenue, New York. In the prosecution of this missionary work homes have been brightened, hearts have been won, deathbeds made triumphant; but there remaineth yet much land to be possessed, awaiting for adequate means and workers. One gives the following instances of children rescued and sheltered by the Sitka Industrial School: A few years ago a little girl was accused of witchcraft. The tribe bound her with a rope, a stalwart chief, holding one end of the rope, walking in advance and dragging the child after him, while another came behind holding the other end of the rope. These men were the admiration of the tribe, in holding between them a puny, starved girl of 10 years. She was rescued by Professor Austin, who was in charge of the school, and given a home. A bright boy had been sold twice as a slave before he was brought to the school. Another had been shot as a slave and a bullet sent crushing through his shoulder. Another had been tied up as a witch and kept four days without food, when he was rescued."

An African Training-School. On July 21, 1841, the training institution at Lovedale, South Africa, was established, beginning with twenty pupils. At last accounts the number in actual attendance was 660. The institution has accomplished so much, and has been so favorably regarded by all intelligent observers, that the British East Africa Company has determined to open an institution in the interior, not far from Mombasa, on the same plan. Four years ago the presses of Lovedale printed a list of all the young people who had gone forth from this institution. They then numbered about 2,000 former pupils still living, most of them natives, and occupying honorable positions, some of them distinguished men. But that is not the whole of it, as said a colonial journal of that time, "these thousands of young people, to-day useful men, paying taxes, consuming and producing all kinds of commodities, would be, except for Lovedale, naked barbarians, daubing themselves with red ochre."

Mexico. The American Board says of Mexico and its work in that country: "The masses are intensely ignorant and bigoted, and though other forms of religion than the Roman Catholic are tolerated by law, they can hardly be said to be tolerated by the people. Yet light is breaking in upon the darkness. British and American companies have built railways, so that there are nearly 6,000 miles of railroad in operation. Owing to the facilities of intercourse, the two missions of the American Board in Mexico have now been consolidated. The one mission has now sixteen missionaries, seven of whom are ordained. There are ten churches, with a membership of 456. A training-school for evangelists has recently been established on the northern border, which will be located just across the river at El Paso, in Texas, where Spanish-speaking young men from Mexico and the southwestern section of the United States will be trained for effective service."

Japanese Christian Converts. Out of the 300 members of the House of Representatives in Japan thirteen are baptized Christians. Of these seven are classed as radical and two as independent. If this average were preserved throughout Japan it would signify that Christianity had gained over 1,500,000 converts. But aside from any such computation the figures are interesting as showing the success that Christian preaching has met with among the upper orders of the Japanese as well as among the lower, notwithstanding the contrary claim of some persons. Assuming the total number of Christians of all denominations in Japan to be 100,000, or 27 in every 10,000, the percentage in the class from which members of the House of Representatives are drawn is 433.

Items of Interest. It is remarked in the Church of Scotland Record that the attendance at all the English churches of Calcutta has fallen off. Increasing secularization of the Lord's Day is one reason.

The missionaries of Shanghai have decided to invite the Y.M.C.A. of the United States to establish a society there, primarily for work among the Chinese young men of the city and settlements.

"Certain languages are mighty conquerers. They almost divide the world between them, while others are fast dying out. The whole Bible has been provided in all the great conquering tongues."—[Church Missionary Intelligencer.

Mrs. A. J. P. Newcombe, who is making an appeal in New Zealand for missions in India, says most pertinently in the New Zealand Baptist: "Let us remember that home missions trace their descent from foreign, and not foreign from the home." She opens to us in her letter an interesting glimpse of the Australian missions working in India.

The proceedings of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church of Otago and Southland contain a letter from the Governor of New Zealand, in which his Excellency says: "I was much interested to see the manner in which the religious spirit of our forefathers continues to live and flourish in their descendants, and how great an agent in the peopling of the earth."

RHEUMATISM.

It is certainly not pleasant to be compelled to refer to the indisputable fact that medical science has utterly failed to afford relief in rheumatic cases. We venture the assertion that although electricity has only been in use as a remedial agent for a few years, it has cured more cases of Rheumatism than all other means combined. Some of our leading physicians, recognizing this fact, are availing themselves of this most potent of nature's forces.

To Restore Manhood and Womanhood

As man has not yet discovered all of Nature's laws for right living, it follows that everyone has committed more or less errors which have left visible blemishes. To erase these evidences of past errors, there is nothing to equal Electricity as applied by the Owen Electric Body Battery and Suspensory. Rest assured any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drugs is practising a most dangerous form of charlatanism.

We Challenge the World

to show an Electric Belt where the current is under the control of the patient as completely as this. We can use the same belt on an infant that we would on a giant, by simply reducing the current. Other belts have been in the market for five or ten years longer, but to-day there are more Owen Belts manufactured than all other makes combined.

Electric Insoles.—Dr. Owen's Electric Insoles will prevent Rheumatism and cure Chilblains and Cramps in the feet and legs. Price $1, by mail.

Beware of Imitations and Cheap Belts.

Our attention having been attracted to an imitation of the Genuine Owen Electric Belt, that is being peddled through the country from town to town, we desire to warn the public against such.

Our Trade Mark is the portrait of Dr. A. Owen, embossed in gold upon every Belt and Appliance manufactured by The Owen Electric Belt and Appliance Co.

CHICAGO, April 1.

There was a fluctuation of nearly 2c in the price of wheat in less than two hours. This evening wheat and every article on the list shows an advance over the prices current 24 hours ago, but wheat opened so weak as to be semi-panicky. The heavy closing here last night and the depression which seemed to pervade wheat markets elsewhere brought in a good many selling orders, and the market was ½c to 1½c lower at 77½c. Offerings were rapidly absorbed, and there was greed for more. Soon the selling was over and bids were rapidly raised; the price quickly touched 79¼c, went off some, but then rallied to 79½c, and at 12 o'clock was about 79½c. Corn opened weak and ½c lower in sympathy with the depression at the same time in wheat and followed that cereal in the rise. Oats fluctuated with wheat and corn closing ⅜c to ½c higher than yesterday. The provision market in a general way followed the fluctuations in grain.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Mrs. Wm. Southam has gone on a visit to Great Britain.

—Chancery Court opens in the city on Monday before Judge Ferguson.

—T. H. Smallman, of this city, was registered in Montreal on Friday.

—Frank Becker, the tramp, who held up George Dunn on King street on March 26, elected trial by a judge before Judge Elliot this morning.

—A brick hotel at Birr, owned by Wm. O'Neil, of this city, and occupied by L. J. Scott, of Birr, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. It was insured.

—At a late hour last night Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was resting comfortably, having again passed a very fair day. His friends are now hoping that the improvement will prove permanent.

—Mr. Chas. Hutchinson, county crown attorney, has received a check for $114 from the treasury of the Ontario Government to defray the costs of the prosecution in the noted dehorning case in this city a short time ago.

—A petition is being largely signed by residents of the East End praying that the London Street Railway Company will extend their track from Dundas street to the Hamilton road via Egerton street and continue the Hamilton road line from Adelaide street to Egerton.

—Divisional Superintendent Niblock's visit east is not one on purely railway service. He left yesterday for St. Paul, accompanied by Rev. Canon Petreath, where he will be married to Miss Attwood, a daughter of Col. Attwood, formerly of this city, and of London, Ont.—[Winnipeg Tribune of Wednesday.

—Solemnly the London Free Press opines that Judge Elliot has never signed or done anything he is ashamed of. Probably not, but his honor has sent poor laymen to penitentiary for offenses less dangerous than some of the things his honor is not ashamed of.—[Toronto Telegram (Independent Conservative.

—No. 2 Committee of the Board of Education met last evening. Messrs. Cook (chairman), Craig, Brady, Tanton, Dewar, McElheran, Jeffery and Love were present. The city engineer submitted plans for rebuilding Talbot street school and was instructed to proceed with the specifications in order that tenders might be called for as soon as possible. The committee talked over the danger of having pupils in the top flat of the Collegiate Institute, but took no action.

—There will be a general shuffle of local managers of the Bank of Montreal during the next few weeks, in which Winnipeg will lose Mr. Hogg, who has been in charge here for several years. Mr. Hogg goes to London, Ont., to assume the managership of the bank there, and will be succeeded in Winnipeg by Mr. Kirkland, of the Chatham branch, who is known to our citizens, having filled Mr. Hogg's position here during the latter's temporary absence, owing to ill-health last year. Mr. Anderson, manager of the branch at London, goes to Ottawa, and Mr. Glass, of Wallaceburg, succeeds Mr. Kirkland at Chatham.—[Winnipeg Free Press.

—Mr. S. J. Watson, who has been employed by the McCormick Manufacturing Company, of this city, for the past ten years, was to-day remembered by his fellow-workmen before leaving for the Northwest. At the Clarence House after dinner, Mr. T. Duff, in a few well-chosen remarks, and on behalf of the employes of the factory, presented Mr. Watson with a beautiful gold watch and chain, the following inscription being on the case: "To S. J. Watson, from the employes of the McCormick Manufacturing Company, London, 1892." Mr. Watson was taken quite by surprise. He has been a general favorite among his fellow-workmen and leaves to-morrow night for Winnipeg where he has secured a lucrative position as foreman for W. Bateman & Co. His many friends in this city wish him success.

He Was Dry.

Wm. Middleton, who lives in what is known as Tipperary Flats, near the city, drove into the river shortly before 9 o'clock this morning just back of Carling's brewery. At 9 o'clock the buggy was found standing in the water but neither horse nor driver was to be found. Both have, however, since turned up and no damage was done except to the buggy and harness. Middleton is said to have been in company with a companion named Quinn, but Middleton drove into the river alone.

An Evening With the Microscope.

A goodly number of microscopists filled the lecture room of the Collegiate Institute last night to hear the lecture given by Principal Merchant to the members of the Microscopical Section, of this city, upon "Miscroscopial Projection." He ably illustrated his discourse with the aid of a magnificent projecting lantern and microscope and various physical apparatus in posession of the school. The projections of crystallization and crystals in polarized light were beautiful. The saw of the saw fly was projected upon the screen three feet in length. The electric arc was beautifully shown, the carbons appearing two feet or more in diameter. At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Denton for the beautiful and instructive discourse.

Verdict for the Doctor.

The malpractice suit of Munro vs. Fulton, which has been in progress since Tuesday at the St. Thomas Assizes, was concluded yesterday afternoon, plaintiff being nonsuited. Doctors McLean, Detroit; Cameron and Meek, Toronto; McCallum, London; Stalker, Ridgetown; Sinclair, Aylmer, and Eccles, London, gave evidence for the defendant. All said chloroform was a most treacherous agent, killing when least expected, despite the greatest care of the most skilled physician. They were of the opinion that the death was one of those mysterious deaths from heart failure for which no cause can be found, and that there was no negligence on the part of the defendant. At the conclusion of the evidence Mr. Osler renewed his application made at the conclusion of the plaintiff's case, that the case be withdrawn from the jury on the ground that the plaintiff had not shown negligence on the part of the defendant, or that if there was negligence that it had not caused death. After hearing Mr. Blackstock his lordship reserved judgment for an hour. On court resuming his lordship said that the evidence for the plaintiff was not sufficient to warrant the case being submitted to the jury, and he dismissed the action with costs. The case was one arising from the death of Mr. Munro from chloroform administered by Dr. Fulton during treatment.

The London Election Scandal.

The following from the Ottawa Journal, whose editor is one of the most fair and respected writers on the Conservative press, expresses the view of all impartial and honest men upon the case. It is the conclusion of a long and able review of the facts from the first. After stating Judge Elliot's final decision the writer says:

"'There was no legal appeal against this. Nothing remained for the Liberals but the step which Mr. Lister is attempting in Parliament—the impeachment of the judge. Mr. Lister alleges a further fact, of which we know nothing, that during all this contesting in London, Judge Elliot was writing Conservative articles in the Free Press, the Conservative paper there. The truth of this would be damning; but to our mind proof of it is not needed to cause honest Canadians to blush at the dishonor of the London Conservatives and of the county judge of Middlesex.'"

CHANCERY COURT CASES.

Following are the cases to come up at a sitting of the Chancery Court to be held in this city on Monday before Mr. Justice Ferguson:

Armstrong vs. Hamsted—Fraudulent transfer; Gibbons, McNab & Mulkern for plaintiffs.

Jennings vs. Kittridge, to enforce performance of agreement—Gibbons, McNab & Mulkern for plaintiffs.

Hill vs. Miller, debt—Fraser & Fraser for plaintiff, Meredith, Cameron & Judd for defendant.

Miller vs. Manning et al, interpleader action—Meredith, Cameron & Judd for plaintiff, Manning & Scott for defendants.

In the Lower House of the Hungarian Reichstag on Friday Dr. A. Wokerle, Minister of Finance, said that owing to the present state of European affairs a reduction in expenditure for the army was impossible. The budget as recommended was passed.

The Fire Record.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 2.—Fire started in the Opera House yesterday, and before it was quenched had destroyed 30 or more buildings. The loss is upwards of $100,000, with only about $25,000 insurance.

Coffined Alive.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 2.—Eli Cole, of Lalelen, near here, aged 81 years, apparently died last Tuesday, but when the undertaker put the body in the coffin it uttered a groan, and it was found that it was a case of suspended animation. Cole vividly described his gruesome feelings while being prepared for burial. He lingered three days and died yesterday from prostration.

Business Prospects Brighter.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Dun, Wiman & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The business outlook is distinctly improving. Two important causes of uncertainty have been removed in the settlement of the Bering Sea controversy and in the failure of the silver bill to pass the House. The business failures during the last seven days number, for the United States, 190, and Canada, 19, or a total of 218 as compared with totals of 231 last week and 240 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 243, representing 211 failures in the United States and 32 in Canada.

Repulsed by Revolutionists.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Herald Caracas, Venezuela, dispatch says: The Government troops, commanded by Gen. Rodriquez, have been repulsed near Ortiz. They met the forces that were marching from Orinoco to re-enforce Gen. Crespo, the leader of the revolution. The success at Ortiz was followed by the seizure of the national gunboat Nueve de Julio, which was stationed at Esmeralda, on the Orinoco River. This success gives the revolution the command of the upper end of the river, and will be of great advantage in future operations. Meanwhile the cause of the revolutionists is growing in popular favor.

Advices from Merida, the capital of the state of Guzman, and from the State of Seamora, show that the people are enlisting in great numbers under the banner of Gen. Grespo. Gen. Orango has organized a force of 3,000 men at Merida, and is preparing to join the troops under the revolutionary leader.

Gen. Balist is marching from Seamaras to fight for the revolution. President Palacio is in supreme power in Caracas. He dissolved Congress and has thrown many of his leading opponents into prison. Many citizens have been arrested and the city is in a panic.

A run has been made on the Bank of Venezuela, where the Government has deposits amounting to $3,000,000. All the gold in the banks has been withdrawn from circulation. Paper money is depressing in value. Great distress is threatened.

ASSUMPCION, Paraguay, April 2.—Part of the garrison here revolted against the Government yesterday. They attempted to depose the President. The greater part of the troops remained loyal, however. Under orders they suppressed the revolt, disarmed the revolters and cast them into prison.

RIO JANEIRO, April 2.—The situation here is daily growing more unsettled. The Government fear an outbreak.

Charges of Corruption.

PARIS, April 2.—It is stated the liabilities of the Banque Generale des Chemins de Fer et de Industrie, of this city, the failure of which recently caused a sensation, amount to $10,000,000. Other failures are imminent as a consequence of the bank's suspension. Several complaints alleging fraud on the part of the officials of the bank have been lodged with the public prosecutor.

The Two "Squires."

Their Attempt to Divert Attention from the Elliot Indictment.

The Indignant Disclaimer of a Respected Italian Citizen.

It is really becoming amusing to see the efforts of our esteemed local contemporary to divert attention from the gravity of the real charges made against Judge Elliot, Mr. Carling and their associates, as introduced in the House of Commons, by the most childish quibbles—quibbles rendered the more laughable by the fact that the question of one or more names on the indictment is not of the slightest consequence to the force and validity of that document, which has created so much consternation in certain circles. The very latest fit of hysterics is seen in the Free Press of today, and it concerns a highly respected Italian citizen. Here it is, the flaring headlines omitted:

Among the names signed to the petition for the impeachment of Judge Elliot appears that of Mr. C. Paladino, an Italian citizen residing on Queen's avenue west. Mr. Paladino states that he had no intention of signing any paper against the judge, and that he was tricked into so doing by the false representations of two strange men who called at his house. He declares that he would not have signed it had he been made aware of what the paper was about, or the use that was to be made of it. Mr. Paladino was called upon yesterday afternoon by two gentlemen who had heard of his dilemma, and the following conversation passed:

MR. C. PALADINO INTERVIEWED.

Q.—Mr. Paladino, you are reported to say your name was put on the petition against Judge Elliot without your knowing what it was for. Is that true?

A.—Well, it was this way. Two men called at my house and asked me to sign my name to a paper.

Q.—Did they read it over to you?

A.—No! no! They said it was for Mr. Carling and Judge Elliot, and I signed my name without any more thinking.

Q.—Did you know the names of the men who called with the paper?

A.—No, I don't know them by name. They were Englishmen.

Q.—Do you read English?

A.—No, only Italian; but I sign my name all right. My wife and daughter read English.

Q.—How did you find out what paper you had signed?

A.—Well, it was this way. My daughter was reading over the newspaper, and she say, "Oh, papa, here is your name signed to something!" Then I get her to tell me what it is.

Q.—And you really did not know you had signed any paper against Judge Elliot?

A.—Oh, no, no; I have voted for Mr. Carling ever since I came to this country.

Q.—How long is that ago?

A.—Now nineteen years.

Q.—And you supported Mr. Carling all that time?

A.—Yes, all the time I was in the country.

Q.—They played a bad trick on you in getting you to sign that paper against the judge?

A.—Yes, I think they did. I do not like it. It was not a nice trick. I would not have signed the paper if I had known what it was.

HOW THE DODGE WAS WORKED.

Knowing that the sensational extravagances which our respected contemporary worked off during the campaign were the products of a hectic imagination, and thinking this one no exception to the rule, an ADVERTISER reporter called at Mr. Paladino's residence, Queen's avenue, this morning. He found Mr. Paladino, sen., and his son, Mr. Lui Paladino at home, both in the best of health. Their first remarks were those of indignation at the gross misrepresentation with which the Free Press had astonished them.

Mr. Paladino, sen., speaks English a little and with the aid of his son's interpretation gave a clear account of the whole matter.

"Then the statement that two strangers induced you to sign a document against Judge Elliot under false pretenses is untrue, is it?" asked the reporter.

"Yes. It was my son Lui here who asked me to sign it. He told me all about it. I believe that Judge Elliot did wrong and I wrote my name down willingly."

"Who were the men who interviewed you yesterday?"

"One of them was Squire Owrey, from whom I bought this property. The other was a portly gentleman whom I did not know at the time. I have since learned it was Squire Bremner, editor of the Free Press."

"What did they have to say?"

"They asked me a lot of questions. You see I do not speak English very well, and my son was not here, so I did not exactly understand what they said. I answered the best way I knew how, but they took advantage of me to make up a lot of things I did not say."

"About an hour afterwards," put in Mr. Lui Paladino, "Squire Owrey came around with a paper — an affidavit of some sort—and tried to get father to sign it. Of course he did not know its nature and might have put his name to it; but just then I dropped in, and the squire left in a hurry, I can tell you."

Mr. Paladino, sen., corroborated this. He said he had always voted for Mr. Carling until the last two elections, in which he had supported the present member, Mr. Hyman. The whole story in the Free Press was a gross misrepresentation and it was obtained by a mean trick. Mr. Paladino again asserted that he knew what he was doing when he signed the petition against Judge Elliot, and he could give the reasons for so doing.

And so another of these little wind bubbles has been pricked. Not one of the F. P.s' alleged sensations has been a success.

DEATH IN THE BLAST.

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—A tornado of mad destructiveness swept over Kansas last night. Butler county seems to have been the scene of the greatest havoc. The town of Towanda was entirely destroyed, and Augusta, a few miles distant, was badly wrecked. Not a house or building was left standing in Towanda. The town was asleep when the storm swept down on it, razing everything in its path and leaving dead bodies lying in its wake. Four dead bodies have been recovered from the ruins already searched. Twenty persons are fatally hurt and 40 more seriously injured, besides a large number more or less maimed.

At August three were killed outright and about twenty were hurt more or less seriously.

Wellington and vicinity suffered considerably and several people were killed. Wm. Little's house, south of Wellington, was blown to splinters, and Little and four children were killed.

BURLINGTON, Ia., April 2.—Officers of the Burlington and Northwestern Narrow Guage Railroad, received the information last night that their passenger train due at 7 p.m. had been blown from the track 40 miles north. The baggage man, mail clerk and two passengers were seriously injured and a dozen others badly shaken up. The wind blew a hurricane all day, doing much damage to trees and shrubs.

SANTA ANNA, Tex., April 2.—The cyclone which swept over here Thursday night was the most disastrous one that ever visited this section. Several persons were killed and a large number injured. A report from Rockport says the cyclone dealt death and destruction there, but no particulars can be obtained.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, April 2.—The wind blew a perfect hurricane yesterday and last night several buildings were demolished. One man is reported drowned.

The Little Minister.

By J. M. Barrie,
AUTHOR OF "WINDOW IN THRUMS," "WHEN A MAN'S SINGLE," "MY LADY NICOTINE," ETC.

"I am not allowed to say that even?" asked the Egyptian. "Tell me something I may say, then, I will repeat it after you."

"I have something to say to you," Gavin told her after a moment's reflection; "yes, and there is something I would like to hear you repeat after me, but not to-night."

"I don't want to hear what it is," Babbie said quickly, but she knew what it was, and even then, despite the new pain at her heart, her bosom swelled with pride because this man still loved her. Now she wanted to run away with his love for her before he could take it from her, and then realizing that this parting must be for ever, a great desire filled her to hear him put that kiss into words, and she said falteringly,

"You can tell me what it is if you like."

"Not to-night," said Gavin.

"To-night, if at all," the gypsy almost entreated.

"To-morrow, at Nanny's," answered Gavin decisively; and this time he remembered without dismay that the morrow was the Sabbath.

In the fairy tale the beast suddenly drops his skin and is a prince, and I believe it seemed to Babbie that some such change had come over this man, her plaything.

"Your lantern is shining on my mother's window," were the words that woke her from this discovery, and then she found herself yielding the lantern to him. She became conscious vagely that a corresponding change was taking place in herself.

"You spoke of taking me to your mother," she said bitterly.

"I will," he answered at once, "to-morrow," but she shook her head, knowing that to-morrow he would be wiser.

"Give me the lantern," she said in a low voice, "I am going back to Nanny's now."

"Yes," he said, "we must set out now, but I can carry the lantern."

"You are not coming with me," she exclaimed, shaking herself free of his hand.

"I am coming," he replied calmly, though he was not calm. "Take my arm, Babbie."

She made a last effort to free herself from bondage, crying passionately, "I will not let you come."

"When I say I am coming," Gavin answered between his teeth, "I mean that I am coming, so let that be an end of this folly. Take my arm."

"I think I hate you!" she said, retreating from him.

"Take my arm," he repeated grimly, and, though her breast was rising rebelliously, she did as he ordered, and so he escorted her from the garden. At the foot of the field she stopped, and thought to frighten him by saying, "What would people say if they saw you with me now?"

"It does not much matter what they would say," he answered, still keeping his teeth together, as if doubtful of his courage. "As for what they would do that is certain; they would put me out of my church."

"And it is dear to you?"

"Dearer than life."

"You told me long ago that your mother's heart would break if——"

"Yes, I am sure it would."

They had begun to climb the fields, but she stopped him with a jerk.

"Go back, Mr. Dishart," she implored, clutching his arm with both hands. "You make me very unhappy for no purpose. Oh, why should you risk so much for me?"

"I cannot have you wandering here alone at midnight," Gavin answered, gently.

"That is nothing to me," she said, eagerly, but no longer resented his air of proprietorship.

"You will never do it again if I can prevent it."

"But you cannot," she said, sadly. "Oh yes, you can, Mr. Dishart. If you will turn back now I will promise never to do anything again without first asking myself whether it would seem right to you. I know I acted very wrongly to-night."

"Only thoughtlessly," he added.

"Then have pity on me," she besought him, "and go back. If I have only been thoughtless how can you punish me thus? Mr. Dishart," she entreated, her voice breaking, "if you were to suffer for this folly of mine, do you think I could live?"

"We are in God's hands, dear," he answered firmly, and he again drew her arm to him. So they climbed the first field, and were almost at the hill before either spoke again.

"Stop," Babbie whispered suddenly, crouching as she spoke, "I see some one crossing the hill."

"I have seen him for some time," Gavin answered quietly; "but I am doing no wrong, and I will not hide."

The Egyptian had to walk on with him, and I suppose she did not think the less of him for that. Yet she said, warningly,

"If he sees you, all Thrums will be in an uproar before morning."

"I cannot help that," Gavin replied. "It is the will of God."

"To ruin you for my sins?"

"If He thinks fit."

The figure drew nearer, and with every step Babbie's distress doubled.

"We are walking straight to him," she whispered. "I implore you to wait here until he passes, if not for your own sake, for your mother's."

At this he wavered, and she heard his teeth sliding against each other, as if he could no longer clench them.

"But, no," he said, moving on again, "I will not be a skulker for any man. If it be God's wish that I should suffer for this. I must suffer."

"Oh, why," cried Babbie, beating her hands together in grief, "should you suffer for me?"

"You are mine," Gavin answered. Babbie gasped. "And if you act foolishly," he continued, "it is right that I should bear the brunt of it. No, I will not let you go on alone; you are not fit to be alone. You need someone to watch over you and care for you and love you, and, if need be, to suffer with you."

"Turn back, dear, before he sees us."

"He has seen us."

Yes, I had seen them, for the figure on the hill was no other than the dominie of Glen Quharity. The park gate clicked as it swung to, and I looked up and saw Gavin and the Egyptian. My eyes should have found them sooner, but it was to gaze upon Margaret's home, while no one saw me, that I had trudged into Thrums so late, and by that time, I suppose, my eyes were of little service for seeing through. Yet, when I knew that of these two people suddenly beside me on the hill one was the little minister and the other a strange woman, I fell back from their side with dread before I could step forward and cry "Gavin!"

"I am Mr. Dishart," he answered, with a composure that would have served him for another sentence. He was more excited than I, for the "Gavin" fell harmlessly on him, while I had no sooner uttered it than there rushed through me the shame of being false to Margaret. It was one of the few times in my life that I forgot her in him, though he has ever stood next to her in my regard.

"Fat Doctor Bills Make Lean Wills." but Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy costs less than one doctor's visit. Catarrh is a loathsome, dangerous disease, and the time has come when to suffer from it is a disgrace. No person of culture and refinement cares to inflict upon his friends his offensive breath, disgusting hawking and spitting and disagreeable efforts to breathe freely and clear the throat and nose—hence the cultured and refined use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. And no wise and prudent man cares to run the risk of leaving his family without a protector, by letting his "slight catarrh" run into serious or fatal throat and lung troubles, hence the wise and prudent use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The proprietors of this remedy are so confident of its curative properties, that they have made a standing offer of a reward of $500 for a case they cannot cure.

The Dead Sea loses every day by evaporation several million tons of water. This enormous mass is easily drawn up by the rays of the sun, the valley wherein the sea lies being one of the hottest points upon the globe.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of and other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

Advice is generally what some one else wants us to do.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband: but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

Patience is a great virtue until it becomes apathy.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

WHERE'S BILL?

[Carl Smith, in Harper's Weekly.]

Where's Bill? Yes, o' course I'm glad to See the old town once again;
When I turned th' bend I had to
 Jes git up an' yell; an' when
I seen that old steeple risin'
 Like a guide-post on the hill,
Leapin' up frum th' horizon,
 I jes had to— Say, where's Bill?

Know that meetin'-house? I guess so!
 Ain't that where we uset to go,
Us boys? Setting' stiff an' jes so,
 Like we was put up to show.
There's th graveyard back behind it,
 With th' old stone on th' hill;
I believe that I could find it
 If I tried to now. Where's Bill?

When we two was boys Bill showed it
 To me one day, an' th' year
Cut in it was— There, I knowed it
 Wasn't fur away frum here.
See, it's old an' stained an' breakin',
 Grass-growed, too, an' cracked, until
It seems like some poor, forsaken,
 Homeles thing that— Say, where's Bill?

Bill an' me we often wondered
 Whose that stone was; for we guessed
It'd laid down there a hunderd
 Years or more at very best.
An' he uset to say: "Now, I don't Wunt no better tomb. I will Lay there when I die." Say, why don't
 Some o' you-uns say where's Bill?

Yes, old pard, this is th' stone, an'
 It's th' one you use to claim.
Pshaw! You talk about yer own, an'
 Sich fool things. Why—what's—this name
Here, cut underneath the creepers
 An' th' moss? Why are you still?
His name! Here among the sleepers—
 An' I— Well, I've found you, Bill.

LITTLE BOY BLUE.

The little toy dog is covered with dust,
 But sturdy and staunch he stands,
And the little toy soldier is red with rust
 And his musket moulds in his hands.
Time was when the little toy dog was new,
 And the soldier was passing fair,
And that was the time when our little Boy Blue
 Kissed them and put them there.

"Now, don't you go 'till I come," he said,
 "And don't you make any noise."
So, toddling off to his trunkle bed,
 He dreamed of his pretty toys.
And, as he was dreaming, an angel song
 Awakened our little Boy Blue—
Ah, the years are many, the years are long,
 But the little toy friends are true.

Aye, faithful to little Boy Blue they stand,
 Each in the same old place,
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
 The smile of a little face.
And they wonder, as waiting these long years through
 In the dust of that little chair,
What has become of our little Boy Blue,
 Since he kissed them and put them there!

BRENER BROS.' NEW LEADER

The National Melodrama Brand, PATROL, Is Sure to Be a Winner.

Messrs. Brener Bros., the successful manufacturers of Nos. 182-190 Horton street London, are in the field with a new leader, which has been happily named "THE PATROL." They intend to make this cigar popular wherever the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes float. It is a Cuban hand-made cigar, of which the filler is all Havana, mild and fragrant. The label, which is the design of the Patrol Co., is strikingly original. The words in which the names of the manufacturers occur at appropriate intervals. Nothing in the way of a label that is so simple, and at the same time so rich and attractive, has been originated, and it would be impossible to present to the trade a more elegant package. "The Patrol," cigar is certain to win instant recognition, and to increase largely the annual output of its manufacturers.

For sale at 182-190 Horton street, London; 63 College street, Montreal; 92 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich.; 206 Lasalle street, Chicago. tz

10 Band Mills sold in Canada in 1891 where one was sold in 1890. We predict an equal increase in 1892.

Our present orders indicate it, so place your orders early.

The Circular Saw 23 years ago was as much a novelty and as difficult to run as the Band Saw is to-day. With the experience gained in handling the Circular, knowledge of the Band Saw is much more readily acquired. Special improved tools also facilitate the work. We furnish an expert with each mill to instruct in the use of tools and work on saw.

The adjoining cut illustrates our NO. 1 BAND SAW MILL, capacity 10,000 to 20,000 feet in 10 hours. Our No. 2 mill is much heavier—capacity 20,000 to 40,000 feet per day.

GREAT BANKRUPT SALE.

The Weaver Stock Bought by Woods' Fair at Fifty Cents on the Dollar.

Sale will commence April 18. The variety store of S. Weaver, at No. 123 Dundas street, who failed here in January, owing close on to $40,000, has just been purchased by Woods' Fair at 50 cents on the dollar, and we propose to give the public the benefit of this cheap purchase. The stock includes crockery, glassware, stationery, jewelry, plush goods, silverware, tinware, agateware, tea and other goods too numerous to mention, and as it was newly purchased within the past few months, it is very desirable, and no one in or in easy reach of London should fail to avail themselves of this golden opportunity to buy goods at half their real value. We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

—Mrs. Christie, city, has gone on a visit to St. Catharines with her sister, Mrs. Phœbe Asher, of St. Catharines, who has been visiting here.

—Rev. W. M. Walker, of South London, and Rev. Robt. Aylward, of the First Congregational Church, will exchange pulpits to-morrow evening.

—Hugh McGurdy was committed for trial this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and not supporting his wife. His wife was the complainant.

—J. R. Rankin, of Chatham; A. McIntyre, of Napier; W. G. McGeorge, of Chatham, and Robt. Lamarsh, of Leamington; Government drain commissioners, registered at the Grigg last night.

—Eli Perkins (Melville D. Landon) who is to give one of his famous humorous lectures at Victoria Hall April 6, is a member of the New York Y. M. C. A. Like Bob Burdette he is a warm advocate of the church.

—Baggageman Ed. Pegler, of the L. and P. S. R., who was suddenly incapacitated while on duty on Monday, and has since been suffering from grip at his home in Port Stanley, is recuperating, and will be on duty again next week if no relapse occurs.

—Capt. Ellison, of Port Stanley, is making some important changes on the Joe Milton, and will this year give passengers about 36 hours in Cleveland, leaving Port Stanley on Saturday evening and Cleveland on Monday evening. The trips will begin after the Queen's birthday.

—The art recital to be given in Victoria Hall on Friday evening next by the young ladies of Alma College will, it is claimed, be by far the best entertainment given in London this season. Miss Hind, the directoress, has probably no superior in Canada as an elocutionist. The hall should be crowded to the doors.

—A very interesting service was held in Knox Church, St. Thomas, a few evenings ago, when Messrs. Edward Rowland, John R. Campbell and D. M. Tait were ordained into the eldership of the church. A large congregation was present. Mr. Rowland is an old resident of this city, and was for many years precentor in St. Andrew's Church.

—The corner stone of the new East London Methodist Church will be laid at 2:30 p.m. on May 24 by Miss Bowman. The chair will be occupied by Thomas McCormick. Addresses will be given by Rev. B. Clement, president of the Conference; Rev. J. V. Smith, pastor of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, and by Rev. G. Boyd and Mayor Spencer, of London. Also words of cheer from G. Robinson, ex-Ald. Ivey, Sheriff Glass and others.

—Mr. W. H. Smith, of the London Machine Tool Company, had two of his fingers smashed yesterday morning while working among the machinery there. Mr. Smith has been very unfortunate in this respect. A short time ago his foot was badly burned by molten iron, and he had just resumed work after some weeks' confinement when he met with the painful accident yesterday.

—Shortly before 10 o'clock last night an alarm was sounded from fire alarm Box 35, corner of William and Hill streets. Companies 1 and 2 proceeded at once to the spot and found a shed adjoining the barn on John Reid's property, 429 Hill street, to be in flames. A few minutes sufficed to extinguish the blaze and the damage will not exceed $100, partly covered by insurance. The fire was supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

—The London Centennial Conference has been pronounced one of the grandest day's meetings ever held in Canada on missionary enterprise. If the Rev. E. W. Dadson would be persuaded to print his exceedingly excellent paper on "The Child Factor in Missionary Work," it would do more to help the churches to take an interest in all kinds of mission work than anything else we know of. No paper read produced such an effect upon the audience as this one.—[Canada Baptist.

—Geo. Tune, formerly of this city, and his fine span of greys had a rather exciting experience the other morning in Stratford. He was crossing the track at the station just at the time that a yard engine was backing down. The engine and the team reached the crossing almost at the same instant, the team bolted to one side and came in collision with an old gas lamp. One of the horses struck the lamp post with sufficient force to bend it over, the animal receiving an ugly wound on the leg. It was a narrow escape from a serious accident.

They Wanted Trial by Jury.

John Dyer and James Clark, who were caught in E. Yealland's tailor shop early this morning, were brought before the police magistrate this morning. Clark, when arrested, had on an entirely new suit, and Dyer had on a new pair of trousers. The stolen goods were taken off them at the police station after the arrests were made, and it was found that Clark had torn the coat and vest in several places. They asked for trial by jury and were committed for trial.

Caught in the Act.

About 1 o'clock this (Saturday) morning burglars were discovered in the tailoring establishment of Mr. E. Yealland on Dundas street. The marauders broke in at the back of the premises and proceeded to array themselves in fashionable attire, when Officers Campbell and Ralph pounced upon them and cut short their undertaking. The crooks had on some of the stolen garments when arrested, and had dropped their old clothes in the store. They were carefully attended to at Chief Williams' headquarters on Carling street. The prisoners gave their names as James Clark and John Dyer, and evidently do not belong to this section.

Walt Whitman's Disease.

Some time ago Walt Whitman, the deceased poet, agreed with his attending physicians to allow them to perform an autopsy upon him after his death. He did this in view of the remarkable illness which he had survived and in the interest of medical science. The post mortem occupied nearly three hours, and the autopsy disclosed that the poet had lived with his organs in a state of disease that should, by all the laws of medicine, have killed him years ago. His left lung was entirely gone, while of the right there was but a breathing spot. His left breast was surrounded by a number of small abscesses and about 2½ quarts of water. The pain in the left side that had been diagnosed by some physicians as an internal cancer was found to have been caused by peritonitis. The brain was found to be abnormally large and in a fairly healthy condition.

Joe Murphy's Big Audience.

"We are more than pleased with the audience," said Joe Murphy's manager last night as he gazed over the big crowd in the Grand Opera House. "Mr. Murphy thought it would be an April fool for him, and he was fooled in the most satisfactory manner." The audience rivaled that of the late election campaigns in size. The "Standing Room Only" sign was put up as early as 8 o'clock and scores, including ladies, were glad to avail themselves even of that privilege. "What's in a name?" says the poet. There's a good deal in Joe Murphy's; it always proves a talisman to the theater-going people of London. Of the genial Irishman and his play, "The Kerry Gow," it is unnecessary to say anything—they are too well known. The charming drama was given the brightest of settings by Mr. Murphy and his talented company. Nothing in the way of stage effect and realism was lacking. The appreciation was unbounded. Mr. Murphy's support is excellent, Miss Belle Melville, his right bower, being a little gem.

Summarily Settled.

No. 1 Committee of the Council held a brief session last evening. Ald. Gartshore (chairman), Jeffery, Leonard, Dreaney, Judd, Yates and Mayor Spencer were present. R. J. Kearney was granted the monthly lease of his shop in the City Hall at $400 a year. A communication from Chas. Hutchinson regarding the suit, Queen vs. City, was laid over. A. Keenleyside & Co. asked for exemption from taxation. They propose starting a fire lighter manufactory. The matter was laid over and the petitioners will be notified to be present at the next meeting of the committee. Communications were received regarding taxes and dealt with as follows: Harriet Trebilcock, filed, no power; Mrs. Bayles, Mrs. Bayley, Mrs. Long, granted; Mrs. Watson and J. Jameson, referred to inspector; R. Beamish and Mrs. Griffin, granted; C. J. Morrow, re personal property taxes, commissioner to report. Gibbons, McNab & Mulkern asked that Geo. White & Son's assessment be fixed. The Council will be recommended that the real estate be assessed at $7,000 and personal at $9,000. The commissioner will be asked to report. A memo from the city clerk regarding the proposed scheme for regulating city officials' salaries was laid over. The Police Court clerk's report was read. Accounts were passed and the committee adjourned.

The Charges Against Judge Elliot.

The London Free Press makes this confessing regarding the charge that Judge Elliot during last Dominion campaign wrote editorial articles for its columns, praising one candidate and denouncing the other, and that, too, while the case was pending before him for judgment:

"One of the charges brought against Judge Elliot by a few extreme Grit partisans, supported by a rag-tag and bob-tail of the Lord only knows whom, is that he wrote a piece for a newspaper. Without any prejudgment of the case, the opinion might safely be formed that the judge is not likely to have written anything to which he would ever need blush to sign his name. And the same can be assumed with regard to his oral testimonies, on the streets or elsewhere. The end is not yet for those who have put themselves forward in this matter."

On this the Woodstock Sentinel-Review pertinently remarks:

"This silly and insolent paragraph from the journal which Judge Elliot is charged with editing during the discussion of his own conduct in an important case, may be taken for a confession of Mr. Lister's most serious charge. For it may be taken for granted that if Judge Elliot were not the writer of the articles in question the Free Press would make the denial at once. It is incredible that it would allow such charges to hang over the head of anyone who was innocent for a single day, even if the accused were willing to keep silence. Assuming this charge to be true, as the Free Press seems to admit, we thoroughly indorse all that has been said by independent journals as to the judge's conduct and the punishment he should receive. He ought to be taught a lesson which judicial partisans in this country will never forget."

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken ... into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indige... tion or Dyspepsia.

MRS. POYNTRY PERRIN.

THE AGE OF REASON.

Woman's Potent Influence, Whether as Daughter, Wife or Mother—This Influence Is Inseparable from Her Sex—It Is a Power.

In former times, both ancient and modern, women in general occupied a secluded state; and it was only in the extreme privacy of the home circle that she exerted a potent influence as a daughter, wife or mother. Thanks to the efforts of educators, scientific educationists, physicians and others interested in higher female education, the position of women, especially in Canada, is all that can be desired in many respects.

The women of Canada, well educated and refined, are noted for their common-sense views on all matters pertaining to health; and are now in a position to think and act for themselves. In this respect, Mrs. Poyntry Perrin, of 135 Bleeker street, Toronto, is a notable example. She was for two years a terrible sufferer from nervous prostration; her limbs became useless and cold, and she feared that she would lose the power of walking.

Mrs. Perrin, knowing what Paine's Celery Compound had done for others of her sex, and finding other treatment useless, commenced to use the great remedy, and was perfectly restored to health. She tells us that she has taken a new lease of life. Ability to discern truth from error, a woman's keen perception and liberal education, enabled Mrs. Perrin to break away from old established rules and formulæ that had no value. This estimable lady knew that Paine's Celery Compound was a renewer, a recuperator, and a builder; and with faith in its powers she used it. A well-known Toronto gentleman, H. M. Pellatt, of 40 King street, vouches for Mrs. Perrin's statements. In her letter of testimony, Mrs. Perrin says:

"I feel it both a privilege and a duty to acknowledge the merits of Paine's Celery Compound. For about two years I was laid up with nervous prostration so badly that I feared I would never walk again. From my knees down, my legs were perfectly useless and cold. In despair I got a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and, after taking about six bottles, I am in perfect health; my friends say I have taken a new lease of life; in fact, I am a walking advertisement for your Compound."

Reader, let us call your attention to the fact that this grand and glorious agency is able to do the same work for you, if you suffer in any way. This wondrous preparation is not an untried article. It has done its work to the satisfaction of every suffering man and woman in Canada and cannot fail in your case, no matter how desperate your condition. Be assured of the fact that it is your only true medium of escape from suffering, woe and pain.

has two pipes, one covering the valve rod (dry pipe) and the one conveying the water to the spout (wet pipe). The rod in this hydrant is actuated by a brass screw and handle above, and raising plunger the smallest fraction of an inch, closes waste before any water can enter discharge pipe. With the valve open we have the full and unobstructed flow of water through the hydrant which can well be compared to a straight way valve or round-way cock. Closing the valve empties all water from wet pipe through dry hole. To repair hydrant or washer remove top cap or plate and withdraw plunger valve. It can be readily repaired without digging up.
