NEW YORK, June 29.—To-day's output of clearing house certificates was the largest since the present issue was inaugurated. The actual amount of certificates taken was $4,975,000, but $3,500,000 additional was spoken for and will be taken out to-morrow.

The general condition was very precarious, and during the early part of the day there were prospects of a panie. It was impossible to borrow money, the banks did not have it to spare on the best of security at any price. As soon as it was known that the banks had taken a large amount of certificates, money dropped from 50 to 15, and then lower, until it touched a nominal figure. The banks did their best to help out their customers, and the crucial test is generally regarded, in financial circles, as past, Several bank presidents seen late to-day unite is saying that they regard the crisis as past, but think that high rates for money will prevail for some time. WILL PLACE A PREMIUM ON GOLD.

HELEMA, Mont., June 29.—Gov. Hauser, chief owner of the Helena smelter, which is turning out about $300,000 in bullion every month, says it will not close. Hauser says the prosent situation will cause a reaction in favor of silver. Every silver mine that closes down reduces the production from 25 to 40 per cent. The result will be a contraction of the gold product to less than $55,000,000 per annum, an amount which is consumed every year in the arts alone. Money will become scarcer, gold go to a premum; and this scarcity will compel an increased use of silver.

SECRETARY HERBERT'S VIEWS.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Hilliary A. Herbert, of Alabama, Secretary of the Navy, in reply as to the silver position and the policy of the Democratic party, expressed the following views: "I think the stoping of the coinage of silver in India is the greatest blow that has been given to the Sherman law and to the free coinage of silver. The free coinage of silver in India is the greatest blow that has been urged upon the farmers that India had an advantage over the United States in higher price for wheat because the currency in India was all silver, ignoring the fact that while they might get more for their wheat had to be paid for on a gold basis, and still further overlooking the loss through high exchange. At Blackiriars Dam-He Could Not Another drowning accident occurred in the Thames at noon to day by which Willie, the 14-year-old son of Police Sergeant McGuire, lost his life. The dead boy and a companion named Sandy McKenna had gone in bathing at Blackfriarsdam. Neither of the lads could swim, and in a short time young McGuire got beyond his depth and began to sink. He rose to the surface two or three times and made considerable outcry, but his companion was powerless to assist him. After the drowning boy had sunk for the last time, young McKenna dressed himself and went up to the mill where he notified some of the hands. The patrol wagon and a doctor were telephoned for, and the work of recovery commenced. It was fully half an hour before Henry Clarke, an employe of the mill, by diving found the body in one of the numerous holes abounding in that part of the river. The police had arrived by this time, and Sergt. Crawford and Sergt. Major Adams worked on the body until Dr. Waugh came, but their efforts at resuscitation were of no avail. The doctor found that the spark of life had fled, and the body was removed to Ferguson's morgue in the patrol. The work of notifying the lad's parents was then life had fled, and the body was removed to Ferguson's morgue in the patrol. The work of notifying the lad's parents was then undertaken by a brother officer. Sergt. McGuire is on night duty this week, or he would probably have been with the patrol that drove down in time to see his sou's remains taken 'rom the water.

Mr. Chas. Durand, whose personal experiences in the fortunes of war in those memorable days are well known, gave a graphic description of his recollections. Ho was behind the bars in the same prison with Lount and Matthews, and watched the proceeding on that fatal April morning in 1838 with streaming eyes. Before sitting down he mentioned that the movement to perpetuate their memories, which was being consummated then, was no party or personal affair; men of all shades of political belief were united in offering this tribute of gratitude to those who had suffered for the privilege all Canadians now enjoy.

In response to many calls from the assembly, Mr. JOSEPH TAIT, M.P.P., stepped forward to speak. He said he could not give any personal reminiscences, as many of the previous speakers had done, as the events of 1837-8 occurred a little before he was born, but he had studied the history of those days, and he always looked upon these men as the saviours of Canada to British connection. (Cheers.) When one read of the treatment the Dominion received from those who were set to rule over her the wonder was that she had ever remained true to the imperial crown at all. Perhaps it was as well that the leaders of that uprising did not succeed in what they undertook; possibly is was best that they were not as good soldiers as they were patriots, but this much was certain, that they drew the attention of the Home Government to the abuses which existed and brought about the reforms for which they fought. In conclusion, he would remind his hearers that they lived in easier times than did Lount and Matthews, and it was not so hard for them to do right by their country, but if they were not prepared to stand by what was right and just there cou

London, Friday, June 80.

THE many friends of Mr. Hugh Macgenzie, M.P.P., for East Lambton, will be bleased to learn that though he has been dangerously ill, at last accounts his condition was steadily improving.

HAVING observed that a four-wheeled wagon, propelled by benzine, has been successfully operated in Germany, a contemporary reaches the conclusion that the occupation of the horse is gone. It must be conceded that such information as this, coupled with the displacement of so many Aorses by electricity, at first blush suggests this view. But the horse may continue to be a valuable aid to man for many day. In the British metropolis, it was at one time thought that the establishment of underground railways would result in the sanding to grass of the omnibus horses. Many years have elapsed since then, yet we have the assurance of the busmen themselves that they and their horses have just as much traffic as ever.

As in the sweet by and bye, when elecbest to be done with the line. tricity becomes the motor, the street car lines may be expected to have new tracks laid for them, the new way of laying pavements which has been devised by a San Francisco railway man will be of more than passing interest to us all. Two types of devote it. Another section of the comrails have been in use on street railways hitherto—the "combination rail" and the "girder rail." In both of them there are munity take the ground that the line might again revert to the Grand Trunk as a makebroad surfaces of metal on either side of the proper faces of the rails, and the shops. And still another portion of the people smoothly laid iron is constantly used by hope that a revised syndicate offer may yet those who traverse the streets in wagons. One wheel is permitted to travel on the flange of one rail and the other wheel outside of the other rail. Incessant travel in hat mauner soon cuts deep ruts in any pavement, even the basalt blocks being made uneven and destroyed. On syreets not having our lines there is no particular reason for using one portion of the road way more than another, and such streets are worn down evenly over their whole surfaces. It was desired to devise some method by which on the streets traversed by cars drivers of wagons could be induced to drive as much on other portions of the pavement as upon that between and beside the rails. The plan finally settled upon by the inventor was to use the ordinary T rail similar to that placed on tracks everywhere, and so lay the pavements beside the rails as to have the surface or face of the rails level with the paving. On the inner sides of the rails the paving material is so cut away as to form a narrow groove, in which the flanges of carwhoels may run. It is the intention to make the groove so narrow that no wheel tire can run in it except that of the very lightest park wagon or a like vehicle, and the danger of wrecking a wheel to pieces in turning out from such a groove will, the inventor believes, deter even the drivers of such light wagons from Their head goes down, their back the tracks as thoroughfares.

The habit is both ugly and pernicious, but it It is some satisfaction to know, however, that this was the result of not exhibiting a man wants to make great speed there rather than of sending forward a poor quality of cheese. President Geary, of the tude, because by that means he may offer Western Dairymen's Association, holds the least resistence to the air. But in all that the circular from the dairy commissioner was sent to the cheese-makers of this this dangerous habit that grows upon every Province, and if they failed to send their products for exhibition they are themselves to blame. There are yet a number of cheese competitions to come off at the tion to their strength, as do the most World's Fair, and it is earnestly to be hoped that the cheese men of Ontario, and adjusted, especially as regards the handlesepecially of that fine district of which bar, the stooping habit should be entirely London is the center, will see to it that overcome, and the humped attitude which they are well represented. They make the e that can take the prizes, and they should send it forward. Dairy Commissioner Robertson has informed us that he considers it best not to send any Canadian cheese for July competition and that he intends to arrange a selection of best blocks from Western Ontario for the next competition. Dalrymen who so choose are invited to send him cheese for competition to Ingersoll, where it will be placed in cold storage. Thus it is made placed in cold storage.

evident that though there will be no competition at Chicago in July, June cheese and the makes of following months will be placed on exhibition at a later period.

Dairymen should bear this in mind and aid the authorities in making as creditable an exhibit as possible. Without the co-operation of Western Ontario the exhibit would not be fairly representative of the best that he Dominion can do in the production of the further than the product

A dispatch from Detroit, received this afternoon, contains important information I think London ought to have a museum regarding the immediate future of the London and Port Stanley Railway. It is understood that the Cleveland syndicate have, as a result of the persistent crying down of their credit by certain individuals, been unable to retain the support of the capitalists who originally backed them, and there seems to be no doubt that they have determined to let the agreement entered into fall through. If they do so, one of two things must happen: (1) Either board couldutilize the higher teaching in the Collegiate Institute, and then get power to issue bonds to procure sufficient money to do the rest—a la C. P. R. guaranteed bonds —London might easily beat Kingston, the home of "Queen's," and stand second only to Toronto as an educational center. There is money for our citizens in making London a very desirable place of residence—and there is in it more than money. they will have to forfeit the $25,000 up as security; or (2), a new bargain must be entered into between them and the City Council of Lon-don. Indeed, the syndicate have taken little interest in the road since, a few weeks ago, Mr. C. H. Ivey, their solicitor, arranged with the Michigan Central Com pany to temporarily run the road. But on

"How are things in Port Stanley?" asked of a friend from the lakeside the other day. "Dull," was the laconic answer. "Not for many seasons have I seen it so quiet. London has deserted us. My*friend, it was a heavy blow to us when the syndicate boom collapsed—and you know how much blow there was about it. We have had bad luck with our booms this year. Kettle Creek boomed in the spring and caused a log jam that flooded the village. The artillery from the camp is booming away there at present; but that, too, will end in smoke. This has never been fulfilled. In my opinion the failure to carry out this promise is enough to constitute a forfeiture of the lease. It is grossly unfair to us. Foronto Wheelmen in Town.

About 70 'cyclists passed through the city this morning on Dr. Doolittle's century tour. The route was from Stratford to Sarnia. A stop was made at the Grigal House for lunch at 10 o'clock. All the boys ate heartily. The orly result of the trip as far as they had got was the accumulation of a great deal of dust. None foll otherwise than in good condition. "Big Mac," as he is familiarly termed, was as jovial as ever. He was enthusiastic over the day's outing. W. H. Milne, proprietor of Cycling, said that he had never enjoyed a bicycle trip more. The roads were in perfect condition, and a gentle breeze had uniformly tempered the heat of the sun. Frank Peass seems to be a perceinful fountain of good humor. He presented quite a comic figure on his wheel. He wore a cap of big red and white stripes and a linen blazer of peculiar make. Fred Bryer, editor of Cycling, said that he might be a little bit dusty, but was in great trim just the same. The party left for Stratford, and J. A. Tune joined them here. Both went to Sarnia.

Water-carriers accompanied each battalion to look after thirsty ones.
The last night in camp was devoted to the usual funny cooks' parade, and its laughable incidents. There were many pranks and lots of fun, and as long as the men kept within bounds they were not interfored with. The Gospel tent had been taken down during the day, so no evening service was held.

The men are not at all sorry that camp has over. A little of it goes a long way, shey say, and two years fre 'now, when hey come on the field again, are will not be very many with them who were out this mmer. It is probable the Abbott law against stock gambling will be again tested in connection with the case.
