SEVEN KILLED WHEN TORNADO HITS ILLINOIS

I. C. R. Train Conveys Seriously Injured Residents to Nearest Hospitals.

MANY HOMES DAMAGED

Southwest Storm Warnings Ordered Hoisted Along Atlantic Coast of U. S.

Centralia, Illinois, April 17.—Reports received here state that seven persons were killed and about 35 injured, some seriously, in the tornado which struck this section early today. One woman was reported killed instantly at Lake Centralia, ten miles north of here.

One baby was killed and two persons are in St. Mary's Hospital in a critical condition as the result of the tornado which struck Irvington, south of here, about midnight last night, hospital attendants reported today.

A number of other injured persons remained in Irvington.

Nashville, Illinois, April 17.—A tornado striking Irvington, a town of about 300 population, shortly after midnight, killed one person and injured between 50 and 75 others, and demolished or badly damaged fifteen residences and business houses, according to meagre reports available here early this morning.

A special train operated by the Illinois Central Railroad conveyed the seriously injured residents to Centralia, where they were placed in hospitals.

Reports that a tornado struck Walnut Hill, a town of 100 persons, and the village of Shockville were received at Centralia early this morning. The extent of the storm was not learned. No reports of any damage or loss of life were received.

Such damage to young fruit is reported from Fayette.

HOIST STORM WARNINGS.

New York, April 17.—Southern coast port, Me., to Cape Henry, Va., to East-storm warnings were ordered hoisted which said that a disturbance now central over the Great Lakes was increasing in intensity and would reach gale force.

PRICE OF WHEAT IS FLUCTUATING

Chicago, April 17.—Wheat opened 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher in price today, at $1.42 to $1.43 1/2 for May delivery, after an extraordinary jump of 5 cents a bushel on Saturday. Before the start, much uncertainty had been expressed as to whether the violent upturn on Saturday was the beginning of a still greater rise in value or whether a reaction would take place. The actual opening proved that an extreme opinion in either direction was wrong, for the variation from Saturday's close was at practically unchanged figures, and gave but little hint of additional severe changes in prices.

Great interest, however, continued as to the possibility of a big short-swing of wheat here to fill immense outstanding contracts for delivery during May, the outstanding factor which led to the sudden ascent of prices on Saturday.

INCORPORATIONS DECREASE.

Toronto, April 17.—Authorized capital of $10,423,100 is represented by companies whose incorporations were reported to the Monetary Times during the week ended April 8 compared with $26,766,900 the previous week.

Foil Attempt To Slay Michael Collins After Irish Leader Defends Free State

Modern Rip Van Winkle Dies In 7 1/2-Year Sleep

Was Unaware of World War.

Fort Smith, Ark., April 17.—Asleep for seven years and a half, with only two brief waking intervals, "Jim" Eashlinger, a modern Rip Van Winkle, died here Saturday evening.

Admitted to a local hospital in 1914, Eashlinger died in ignorance of the world war. He slumbered on through the conflict, with scarcely a murmur. Eashlinger and his four children came here in February, 1914, suffering from pellagra. The children recovered, but he grew worse, and in June suddenly closed his eyes and sank into lethargy which the doctors said would prove fatal. But his heart action was strong and respiration regular and natural. He took food regularly when it was given to him by another hand. The physicians said he did not wake while eating, but an instinct of the body calling for food and nourishment was obeyed.

Apparently the sleeper suffered no pain or anguish. He seldom changed his position. This first sleep lasted until 1921. On March 23, a year ago, Eashlinger began to show signs of awakening. Doctors from three States hurried to the city. Shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon Eashlinger's eyelids fluttered and he frowned. Slowly the eyes opened and gave a puzzled look at doctors and nurses. The patient made no effort to move or speak. After a few minutes he closed his eyes again, the frown left his forehead and once more he was asleep.

There were no more waking moments until three months later. Again an expression of pain crossed his face. Again there was the amazed look in the eyes. This time the hopeful watchers were rewarded, for there was an attempt to speak. It was difficult, for his voice had been stifled so long, but faintly and distinctly came the words:

"The Lord help me."

Efforts to get the man to talk further were unsuccessful for a time, but at last there came a somewhat startling request. It was for a chew of tobacco. It was given Eashlinger and he chewed it with apparent relish.

A baby was held in front of him. He murmured in a low voice, but with much feeling:

"Baby."

It was early this spring that Eashlinger began to decline and for a month before his death his sole nourishment was two spoonfuls of milk a day.

PARLEY WITH CHITA BROKEN UP

London, April 17.—The Japanese foreign office has announced the breaking up of the Dairen conference says a Tokyo dispatch to the Times. The Dairen conference between representatives of the Far Eastern republic of Siberia and Japan opened late in August of last year. It has been reported on the verge of breaking up several times due to the divergencies of opinions. Sanguinary fighting between the Japanese forces and those of the Chita government have been reported recently.

CHILD ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

New Glasgow, N. S., April 17.—Stanley Paris, aged 7, son of Norman Paris, shot himself through the heart yesterday while playing with a revolver. The child found the gun lying on a shelf, where it had been left by a relative of the family.

COLLINS' PARTY RETURNS FIRE OF AMBUSCADE

Beggar's Bush Barracks Is Attacked Almost At Same Time.

HOPE FOR QUIET

Repetition of Easter Monday Not Expected, But Situation Uncertain.

Dublin, April 17.—An attempt on the life of Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, was made shortly after midnight this morning, coming almost simultaneously with an assault on the Beggar's Bush headquarters of the Irish Republican Army, says an official army statement.

Mr. Collins was on his way home, after having addressed a meeting at Naas, County Kildare, when the attack occurred. A group of men, some armed with rifles, rushed at the Collins party's car and opened fire. The free state leader apparently being an especial target. The Collins party quickly returned the fire, and one of the attackers was captured. A revolver and a live bomb were found on him.

During the fighting a general headquarters car from the Beggar's Bush barracks was disabled by rifle fire and captured.

The headquarters barracks was attacked by riflemen from all sides at midnight, about 29 shots being discharged. "Commandant General Collins was fired at outside of the gate. The garrison raked the surrounding territory with bullets and the assaulting party withdrew.

An army transport also was attacked, but without results, the besieged fleeing after a sharp exchange of shots.

Shots were fired on the premises occupied by the civic guard at Ballybride. No damage and no casualties were reported.

In his speech at Naas, County Kildare, yesterday, Michael Collins charged the opponents of the provisional free state government with setting barriers against the onward march of the nation. He declared that Edmond de Valera has adopted "methods of anarchy" because the people of Ireland were not willing to allow him to decide the treaty question for them. De Valera regarded this attitude of the people as an unforgivable sin, and for it they were to be deprived of their right to choose a government.

DETAILS OF ATTEMPT.

London, April 17.—Details regarding the attempt upon the life of Michael Collins, head of the provisional free state government, are given by the correspondent of the Daily Sketch. Mr. Collins and four companions were walking from the railroad station to their hotel, according to this account, when three men fired six shots from the opposite side of the street. Two members of the Collins party returned fire, and then chased the assailants, one of whom was captured, handed over to the police, and taken to Mountjoy prison.

No one was injured by the shots. The correspondent adds that there were several reports of firing in various parts of the city later, but

Appointment of Local Deputy Postmaster Held Up

By JOHN J. McLELLAN.

Of the four candidates who tried the examination for the deputy postmaster in London which has been vacant for so long, one has been picked by the civil service commission to fill that vacancy. The appointment, however, is held up, owing to a tangle with the postoffice department, and is further delayed because one of the men who made application for the position did not appear to try the examination, later writing the department and declaring he had been unable to appear on account of the fact of his being out on a run as mail clerk the day before the examination, arriving in the city early in the morning. He also claimed that he was ill at the time.

As a consequence, the civil service commission is at a loss concerning what to do over the matter of the fifth applicant. He is not employed in the postoffice in London, but is not disqualified on that account, because the whole district was thrown open for applications when the position first became vacant. This is not the customary procedure, the usual manner being to confine applications to the postoffice itself when such positions are vacant. The Advertiser was told by the civil service commission that it was at the special request of the postoffice department that the whole district was thrown open to candidates.

Additional delay has been experienced on account of the change of administration. When the Hon. Charles Murphy became postmaster-general, in order that he might master the details of the job in hand, he ordered all appointments to be held in abeyance for six weeks. At the present time the civil service commission has examined the papers of the four who tried the examination, and have recommended to the postoffice department that one of the men be appointed.

They are now waiting an answer from the department approving their choice. The Advertiser was informed by the head of the postoffice department of the civil service commission, that should one of the senior clerks be appointed to the position of deputy postmaster, his salary will be retroactive, and he will receive all the pay checks that have been regularly coming to London since the position first became vacant.

3 CHILDREN DIE AS HOUSE BURNS

Truro, N. S., April 17.—Here three children were burned to death and Mrs. Thomas Harrington is dying, following a fire this morning which destroyed the Harrington home here. Mr. Harrington is in the hospital with both legs broken.

The fire resulted from a gasoline explosion which occurred when Harrington was lighting an acetylene lamp. He jumped from a window breaking his legs. Mrs. Harrington was taken to a hospital presumably fatally burned while attempting to get her children to safety. The bodies of the children were found in the ruins.

AGED 85 years and 1 month, Corp. Forester was the oldest veteran in years and in point of service among those who lined up for inspection by Lord Byng of Vimy at Victoria Park Saturday afternoon. Corp. Forester was the only Crimean veteran present, and he says he is one of but three still residing in the city. He is more fortunate than the other two, however, as they are unable to be out.

Corp. Forester is still hale and hearty, and as he put it, "I walk into London nearly every day." He lives on Brisscoe street, South London.

LOSE BONUS PAY, BUT HOPEFUL

Postal Clerks Think Reconciliation Will Be Given Matter.

15 Per Cent Reduction Only, Is Unofficial Intelligence Reaching City.

While clerks at the London post-office, as well as the letter carriers, are subject, they state, to the loss of their bonus pay, effective since April 1, they were of the general opinion Monday morning that entire disposition of their case has not been made by the department at Ottawa.

"It is a fact that our bonuses were eliminated at our last pay day, the 15th of the month," Lawrence Graham, president of the London Postal Clerks' Association, explained Monday morning. "Many of the men, in fact all of them, more especially the married men, will be hard hit if this new ruling continues."

The president believed, however, that the clerks were somewhat cheered by the unofficial intelligence reaching the city Monday, that it was the intention of the government to re-consider the entire question and institute a 15 per cent reduction only.

The local men understand that the parliament failed to consider the bonuses in their estimates but base their hopes upon the general report emanating from the capital over the week-end that supplementary estimates will be approved of when the house resumes after the Easter holiday.

DELEGATES AT GENOA CALLED TO CONVENTION

Powers Summoned To Adjust by Consultation Allied Attitude Toward Russ.

CANCELS WAR CLAIMS

Surprise Treaty Nullifies Brest-Litovsk Agreement and Renews Relations.

Genoa, April 17.—Premier Facta of Italy as president of the economic conference issued a sudden summons this afternoon for a conference at 3 p.m. of the heads of the inviting powers now in Genoa. It is believed one reason for the calling of the conference was the announcement of the signing of a Russo-German treaty.

The announced object of the meeting was to adjust by consultation the attitude of the Allies toward the Russian question. The Japanese were included in the invitation.

The treaty between Germany and Russia was signed at Rapallo, Sunday, the signatories being the foreign ministers of the two countries, George Chicherin for Russia and Dr. Walter Rathenau for Germany. The treaty nullifies the Brest-Litovsk treaty and re-establishes full diplomatic relations on an equality basis. The pact mutually cancels all war claims, as well as claims arising from the nationalization of property.

The treaty signed yesterday, it is stated, represents the conclusions of negotiations begun many months ago. Genoa economic conference, in meeting.

This action by delegates to the conference independently and negotiating a treaty outside the scope of the conference itself is pointed to as establishing a striking precedent for the nations who are participating in the discussion of the Russian problem here.

Treaty Not Expected.

Although negotiations between Germany and Russia have been in progress for some months on various subjects, mostly relating to trade matters, there had been no intimation that the signing of a formal treaty, superseding the historic Brest-Litovsk pact of early 1918, was being contemplated by the plenipotentiaries of the two nations at Genoa. The countries had previously made a trade agreement which became effective nearly a year ago. The treaty of Brest-Litovsk was a sequel to the armistice between Germany and Russia signed in December, 1918, following the rise of the Bolsheviks to power in Russia. Although war indemnities were renounced, Russia agreed to resign all claims to Finland, Estonia, Livonia, Courland, Lithuania, Russian Poland and Ukraine to return to the Allies. In return, the Allies agreed to evacuate Russian Armenia. This treaty was effective, so far as its provisions were concerned, however, only so long as Germany remained in the war. With her defeat and the conclusion of peace with the Allies, Germany in the treaty of Versailles agreed to accept the abrogation of the Brest-Litovsk and all other treaties entered into with the Maximalist government of Russia.

In connection with the mutual renunciation of nationalization of property, Russia has expressed the friendly hope that other powers would do likewise.

Announcement of the signing of the treaty came as a rather rude surprise to the Genoa conferees, and it was pointed to observers by observers, as likely to make more difficult the position of some of the other allies on their attitude toward Russia.

Recognizes Russia Fully.

By the new treaty, replacing the Brest-Litovsk pact, which has been so humiliating to the soviet leaders, Germany is the first important European nation to grant Russia full recognition. Poland and the Baltic states have long had diplomatic relations with Russia.

Advises World To Learn Secret of Happiness

CHICAGO, April 17.—"Work hard and deny yourself!" That's the formula for success in business of David R. Forgan, millionaire president of the National City Bank of Chicago, who yesterday celebrated his 60th birthday.

"Most bankers," Forgan added, "say, 'save your money,' but that is too obvious, even if it is good banking business."

"If a man is in earnest about making good in business, of course he'll put something by for a rainy day."

"However, gold is not all. Life is too short to spend grabbing all the time. It is impossible to know the secret of being happy as well as being rich."

Lord and Lady Byng on First Official Visit to London Win Hearts of Forest City Residents By Their Democratic Manner

DURING their short sojourn in London Lord and Lady Byng captivated the hearts of Londoners with the charming manner in which they welcomed citizens in all walks of life.

The London Advertiser illustrations depict Lady Byng conversing with the Rev. David Williams, Bishop of Hunch, the governor-general leaving the Grand Trunk depot with London's representatives, Mayor Cameron Wilson and Dr. Hugh Stevenson, M.L.A., and his excellency turning the first sod on the site of the new Western University when chairman Arthur T. Little of the board of directors looks on.

BYNG OF VIMY PAYS HIS FIRST VISIT TO LONDON

Vice-Regal Party Enthusiastically Greeted by Thou-

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

First Sod Turned by Governor-General For New University Building.

Lord Byng of Vimy, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., M.V.O., governor-general of Canada, visited London Saturday. It was London's first opportunity to officially welcome the vice-regal party, and Londoners took advantage of it. During their six "official" hours here, the visitors did not have one dull moment. A great civic welcome and other festivities on the schedule claimed their attention.

When Lord and Lady Byng arrived in London at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon via G. T. R. Mayor Cameron Wilson, most of the aldermen, Brigadier-General H. A. Panet and members of his staff greeted them. Immediately upon arriving, the governor-general inspected the guard of honor, 100 strong, which stood at attention, while the W. O. R. band played.

More than a dozen autos, marshaled for the occasion, took the party to Victoria Park. The procession was headed by motorcycle officers, followed by Chief of Police Robert Birrell in his car.

At the park the vice-regal visitor inspected the long lines of veterans, shaking hands and chatting with them. There were veterans of the Great War, the Northwest Rebellion, and even a veteran of the Crimean War, Corp. W. Forbes, 258 Briscoe street, South African war veterans, the Boys' Brigade, the Boy Scouts and former members of No. 10 Stationary Hospital were on parade.

To the boys' organizations Lord Byng introduced himself as the chief scoutmaster of Canada. He spoke words of encouragement, asking the boys to continue their good work.

Accompanying the governor-general on his inspection tour were Mayor Wilson, Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. L. A., General Panet and members of the governor-general's staff. Lady Byng was an interested spectator at the inspection, and later joined her husband on the platform, where Mayor Wilson read the city's address of welcome.

Subsequently representatives of the various women's organizations showered Lady Byng with bouquets of flowers.

Lord Byng Replies.

London's address of welcome as read by Mayor Wilson was replied to by Lord Byng as follows:

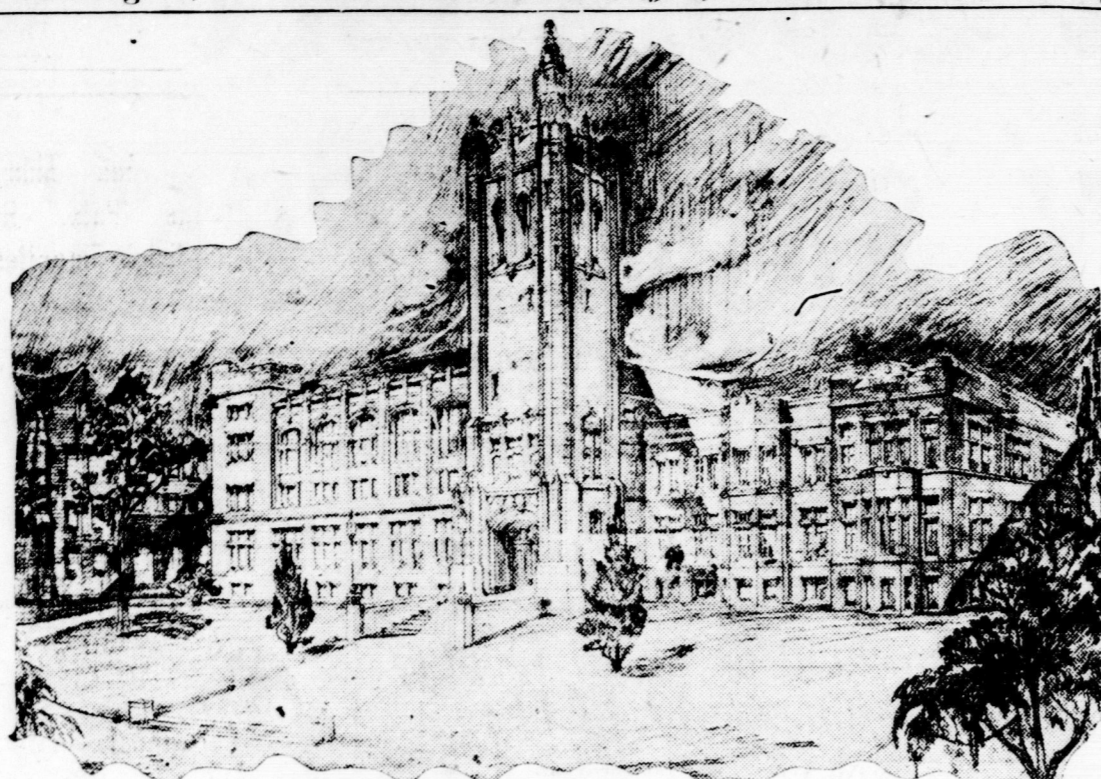

"My Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen: "It will give me great pleasure to forward to His Majesty the King your message of loyalty and devotion, which I know you feel for him, both for his personal qualities and also for the position that he holds as head of this great constitutional empire.

"I join with you in admiration of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and we have watched with pride the wonderful receptions that he has received throughout the British Empire. To me this is a clear sign of the solidarity which binds us all together in spite of indications which some might think show the contrary. I am sure I am confident that the people of this country are purely on the surface, Canada was the first of the great dominions that he visited. The warmth of the welcome that he received here cannot be surpassed, but I think that it has been equaled in all the other units of our empire which he has visited subsequently.

Sees Lesson of War.

"I know that you here, as in many other industrial centers, feel acutely the disorganization which has resulted from five years of destructive war. I feel that the war has taught us two things—the great benefit that has come from unity and good-fellowship, and also the real necessity for some international understanding that will reduce the possibility of wars in the future to the absolute minimum. I think we all feel proud that our empire has taken so prominent a place in the constructive work that has been done since the war to come to such an understanding. That much remains to be accomplished is true, but we surely must all agree that much has been done. The League of Nations may not yet be a perfect machine, but it has been a success in many ways. The conference at Washington has put a step to competition in sea armament, and thereby removed a heavy burden from the shoulders of the great powers. This week is to assemble at Geneva a conference that it is hoped will go to

College of Art For Which Lord Byng Turned First Sod

THE governor-general on his visit to London broke the ground for the commencement of building operations on the stately new structure which is to be added to the Western University and which will be known as the College of Arts. The building is two hundred and twenty feet long, with two wings, each one hundred and thirty feet deep, and will serve as the pivotal center for the other units of the university which it is planned to build from time to time.

Insist Ontario Should Not Pay Court Costs of Catholic School Tax Plea

That any expenses to be incurred by Roman Catholic authorities of the province taking their demands for further concessions of taxes to separate schools of Ontario should be assumed by them is the attitude taken by Orange lodges of Ontario. A motion to this effect was passed unanimously by members of Hacket Lodge, one of the largest Orange bodies in London, Thursday night.

Representatives of Middlesex County in the Legislative Assembly will be urged to take the stand that the province should not be called upon to assume any expense in these court proceedings, on the grounds that the separate schools are now being fairly apportioned taxes, and that there is no necessity of court action.

revive the world's trade and to restore international confidence. By these efforts we are helping to better the conditions of the nations, and by these efforts only can we ourselves hope to get back to material prosperity.

Visitors Shake Hands.

Ere they departed, the visitors shook hands with hundreds of Londoners of all walks of life. Extremely muddy roads were not sufficient to prevent a large gathering at the site of the new Western University to witness the turning of the first sod by the governor-general.

The vice-regal party took its way with smiling demeanor across the soft, damp path to the platform, where his lordship, the Bishop of Huron, delivered the invocation.

A. T. Little, chairman of the board of governors of Western University, read an address. In part, it follows: "To His Excellency General The Right Hon. Lord Byng of Vimy, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., M.V.O., governor-general of the Dominion of Canada:

"May it please Your Excellency: "The board of governors, the Senate and the members of the faculties of Western University join with the mayor, corporation and citizens of London in extending to you a cordial welcome to our city. We desire to thank your excellency for your courtesy in coming to this university today to mark by these ceremonies the beginning of a new epoch in its development. In consenting to turn the first sod for the first building to be erected on this site, you have conferred a great honor on our institution.

"We have in this area two hundred and fifty acres of land which will be used exclusively for university purposes. This site possesses those characteristics of location, convenience and beauty desirable for an institution devoted to higher education. The buildings to be erected here will be distinctive; they will be in keeping with their setting, and will themselves have cultural value."

Gothic Type Chosen.

A type of Collegiate Gothic architecture in grey stone has been chosen, and future additions will be of the same style and material. A ground plan for buildings likely to be required during the next 50 years is in preparation, so that harmony may be maintained in the general scheme. The Main Arts building, of which this is the beginning, will accommodate in addition to the classes in non-administrative offices and temporarily the library. In this structure there will be a memorial to Middlesex soldiers and nursing sisters who gave their lives in the great war. The Natural Science building will also be erected immediately.

"Western University was established in 1878 and reorganized in 1908. It is co-educational, and is under provincial, municipal and public control. From small beginnings it has grown to be a strong force for higher and professional education in this portion of the province. There are now 125 professors and instructors and 750 regularly enrolled students.

Extension Work Grows. "In addition to the three faculties of arts, medicine and public health, the university is rapidly developing an extension department for the purpose of carrying educational stimulus and culture to all classes, rural and urban, in the fourteen counties of Western Ontario comprising the university constituency. There are in these counties 100 secondary schools, or one-third of the whole province, with 12,000 pupils in attendance, or more than one-third of the secondary school population of the province.

"Western University is the university of the people of Western Ontario,

BELIEVES THEORY IS ALL RIGHT, BUT--

Manager Buchanan Questions Adaptability of Aid, Douglass' Municipal Garage Scheme.

FORESEES TANGLES

In Emergency Cases, Hydro Chief Says Arrangement Would Probably Fail.

While not vigorously opposed to the scheme advocated by Ald. Dr. Douglass whereby all civic automobiles would be housed in one municipal garage, E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the Public Utilities Commission, which department would be most affected by such a departure, questions, however, the adaptability of the same in London at this time.

"Any person who advocates centralization," said the manager on Saturday, "is really urging a move in the right direction. The trouble often is that when one suggests a new scheme most other persons attack it, and the proposal is soon sidetracked, because the critics lose sight of the fact that the greater portion of the criticism concerns details merely, and not the broad outline of the scheme itself.

"Personally I do not know the number of cars and trucks operated by the other civic departments, and I am not certain that a municipal garage would at this time yield satisfaction to all parties. We'll say as an instance that a serious break occurs on the Springfield water main. The head of that department rushes into the garage and demands a machine. He is told perhaps that they are all in use until three or four hours time. What will happen then?"

"Under our present system, should a serious accident of this nature develop and the cars and trucks of this department are all in use, I am notified. We then relieve a truck from one of the lesser important jobs and hurry it to the break toward Springfield. I can foresee tangles of this nature under the municipal garage scheme."

Manager Buchanan touched briefly upon the report by one of the aldermen that one could always see the public utilities car standing in front of the city hall at almost any time of the day. "My car is the only one that is there almost continuously," explained Mr. Buchanan. "One may often see our salesmen's cars there also, but they are the property of those employees themselves."

When the curtain rises at the Majestic Theatre Monday night, Londoners will witness one of the best theatrical offerings of the season, "The Prince of Mythland," the London Advertising Club's big musical show.

Lovers of good music, good dancing, excellent ensemble numbers and clean comedy will have their desires fulfilled if they go to the Majestic this week. Ad Club members promise.

The cast of 175 members has finished its rehearsals and is quite ready for the opening performance. All details have been attended to, nothing that would aid the success of the offering being left undone.

Members of the Advertising and Sales Club of London, under whose auspices the musical comedy is being given, expect that a large sum will be collected for the Children's War Memorial Hospital.

Elmo A. Drake and Mrs. Drake, who starred "Queen Zephra," using local talent, in 1919, are directing the show. They predict that the present venture will be even more successful than the one of two years ago.

Spring Is Nature's Revival

The grass, the trees, the flowers, radiate the spirit of new life—a regeneration—and those hardy plants that have survived the rigors of winter will bloom forth stronger than they have ever been before. Store life is much the same. There is new life here. It is shown in new merchandise, in smiling, happy sales-people—glad to show the things which are new, glad indeed to perform so pleasant a service.

Showing Dress Cretonnes

In our Wash Goods Department is shown some entirely new materials for smart sport skirts, dresses for shopping, motoring or summer cottage. They are called "dress cretonnes" and New York is featuring them strongly for such wear as we suggest. Do not confuse with heavy cretonne such as used for drapery purposes. These materials are fine taffetas and repps, with very clever designs, bird and floral patterns of cretonne effect. We have had samples washed and find colors entirely satisfactory. See the made-up garments with parasols and other outing or summer cottage requisites to match in our Dundas street window display. The materials are a yard wide. Prices

Governor-General Byng Rides In a "London Six"

ALL things combined Saturday to invite motoring, humanity to come and enjoy spring and its joys. A bad day with a good car is far better than a fine day with a bad car; we cannot all have the best, but President Stansell of London Motors made certain that Lord Byng of Vimy, hailed as the "Leader of the Byng Boys," together with his entourage, rode in London's best—a fleet of "London Sixes," during his tour of the city.

Three closed cars, two supreme touring and five standard touring automobiles made an imposing array in the procession. Perhaps it may have been the suggestion of speed, the gleam of polished metal work, or the poise of the complete vehicles which caused hundreds of Londoners to comment favorably on the appearance of London's Own Automobile.

In any case the "London Six" exercised a distinct and subtle fascination over many people. Lord Byng's visit and reception was a decided triumph and too much praise cannot be extended to city officials and others who combined to make the governor-general's stay in our midst a complete success.

"We are not pressing for a penalty under the circumstances," stated A. R. Douglas, acting for the crown. "The offence is a serious one and a cowardly sort of offence," declared the court. "Mr. Duffield of the gas company has interfered for the man, and if the crown consents I will suspend sentence on Copeland."

"I hope you will never get into this sort of trouble again," said Magistrate Graydon, addressing Copeland. "You can consider yourself most fortunate."

MECHANIC DIES OF INJURIES. TORONTO, April 16.—Harry Faulkner, aged 25, a motor mechanic, while driving a repair automobile, was hit by a Yonge street radial car, on Sunday afternoon, and injured so badly that he died on the way to the hospital. In making a turn to enter a garage he got in the way of the trolley car and was carried 100 feet and crashed against a telegraph pole. Faulkner leaves a wife and two children.

LOCAL MUSICAL STUDENTS GAIN FIRST CLASS HONORS

Pupils of Institute of Musical Art Pass Standard Set By Toronto Conservatory.

At the students' Saturday afternoon recitals at the Institute of Musical Art, the musical director, A. D. Jordan, is in attendance to hear the pupils' performances and note their proficiency. The evening recital of the Toronto Conservatory of Music (with which the institute is affiliated for examinations) is followed and those students receiving a percentage of 80 or more, first-class honors, have their names placed on the "Honor Roll." The pupils securing this distinction during the period between the Christmas and Easter recess were: Lillian Winegar, Janet Smith, Dorothy Hanney, Dorothy Peelen, Elizabeth Fisher, Mary Ware, Margaret Channer, Margaret Kennedy, Helen Shuttleworth, Bentley Balfour, Harold Gray, Mildred Carmichael, Edna Crombie, Elsie Currie, Gladys Sharpe, Leonard Robins, Fred Underhill, Bernard Cottle, Anna Day, Lenore Carter, Grace Bayley and Red Evans. The teachers of the above mentioned students were: Misses Iva Smith, Alberta Torry, Madeline Simson Irene Burns, Edith Irvine, Laura Kirkwood, Doris Werner, Lenore Coughlin, Ulah Kennedy, Pearl Godwin and Mrs. Nello McHardy-Smith.

When the curtain rises at the Majestic Theatre Monday night, Londoners will witness one of the best theatrical offerings of the season, "The Prince of Mythland," the London Advertising Club's big musical show.

Lovers of good music, good dancing, excellent ensemble numbers and clean comedy will have their desires fulfilled if they go to the Majestic this week. Ad Club members promise.

The cast of 175 members has finished its rehearsals and is quite ready for the opening performance. All details have been attended to, nothing that would aid the success of the offering being left undone.

Members of the Advertising and Sales Club of London, under whose auspices the musical comedy is being given, expect that a large sum will be collected for the Children's War Memorial Hospital.

Elmo A. Drake and Mrs. Drake, who starred "Queen Zephra," using local talent, in 1919, are directing the show. They predict that the present venture will be even more successful than the one of two years ago.

FEARS SON POISONED

Norwood Woman Misses Small Viol From Trunk.

PETERBORO, April 16.—Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards, mother of Ernest Edwards, the 19-year-old boy who was found lying dead in the barnyard of his farm, north of Norwood on Wednesday afternoon, has suspicion that her son died of poisoning.

She stated that seven years ago while the family were living between Burleigh and Young's Point, her husband bought a small phial of poison to kill foxes with. Part of it was used, but the phial with some left was put away in a trunk.

Since the tragedy she looked in the trunk for the bottle, but it was gone. The disappearance of the bottle has raised a suspicion in the mind of the mother that her boy took his own life.

The provincial police have been asked to investigate.

BRITAIN PAYS BACK MORE WAR DEBT

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Payment of $19,672,500 by Great Britain as the second installment on the total of $122,000,000 created by the government's purchase of silver during the war was reported to the treasury yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The payment consisted of $18,200,000 of principal and $1,472,500 of interest. A further installment of $12,200,000 on the debt is due May 15, which will cut Great Britain's debt in half.

Under the arrangement for payment by Great Britain on the silver purchases the debt will be liquidated in May, 1924, these payments being entirely apart from the $5,000,000,000 of war loans due the United States from Great Britain.

ENGINEER AND WENIGE CLASH

Stage War of Words in Engineer's Office When Complaint Laid.

Matter Expected To Cause Sensation When City Council Meets Tuesday.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier and ex-Ald. George Wenige added another chapter to their feud Monday morning when they clashed in the engineer's office. Prospects are that there will be a merry row over the matter at Tuesday's council meeting.

The engineer told the ex-alderman that he would put him out of his office. Wenige says he will demand that the council make the engineer apologize or he will sue the city for maintaining such an "insolent official."

The "casus belli" in this incident is a hole washed in the ground at the end of Erie avenue by the heavy rain Monday morning. The innocent hole is about a foot deep, one to two feet wide at the top and several feet long. It was washed through a filling put in on the side of the hill, just at the end of the pavement a year ago. The idea was to protect the pavement. Monday the eggshell became blocked by debris, the water overflowed until it was almost a run from the pavement down the hillside, and in so doing it washed out the fill. The engineer estimates that the hole would not take one load of filling.

However, the hole might be termed as "the straw which broke the camel's back," and thus the developments are more important than the hole itself, although the engineer states that there is no record in his office of a complaint having been received that the cess pool was plugged.

Mr. Wenige first called the engineer on the phone. Evidently there was an exchange. Mr. Wenige last year made charges against the "inefficiency" of the engineer's department. His opening remark over the phone was something to point that his complaint was an evidence of inefficiency despite the "whitewash" of the special committee last year.

At this point the engineer told the complainant that if he had a complaint to make, to do so at his office and Mr. Wenige accepted the invitation.

Evidently the engineer made preparations to receive him, for when Wenige appeared, the engineer laid down a ruling, that if the complainant said anything that the engineer did not like, he would put him out of his office.

Matters proceeded somewhat quietly. There was no report to arms and ultimately Wenige departed.

Wenige said that as he left he was told that if he was ever caught in the office again he would be thrown clear out.

"That's the kind of an official we have, and I believe that is the kind of talk that he has been handing out right along. To some citizens the engineer appears as the 'big noise,' and no complaints are made. However, we have not got to stand for that, and I personally will not. It's a shame when a man appears with a just complaint that he is greeted in such a way. I will demand that the council make him apologize or I will sue the city for maintaining such an insolent official."

He made it as a personal matter," said the engineer. "I don't think that I have to sit quietly by and take all these personal attacks without taking steps to protect myself. I told Mr. Wenige that his complaint would be looked into as a matter of course. He demanded that he would be put out of the office if he said things which I did not like."

WOMAN WORKER TELLS OF RALLY

In an interesting address at the labor forum, Sunday evening, Mrs. C. Derry, a member of the London Trades and Labor Council, submitted a resume of the recent convention in Ottawa of the national council on the immigration of women, at which she attended as representative of the Dominion Trades Congress.

Mrs. Derry outlined the object of this movement, explaining certain resolutions that were adopted, and subsequently submitted to the Hon. C. Stewart, federal minister of immigration.

The London delegate related that the convention has discussed among other things, the alleged manner in which women were brought from the British Isles, presumably as domestics but who subsequently drifted into other trades.

Local Labor Is in Favor of Canada-Wide Unity of Its Forces

LOCAL members of the Independent Labor Party seem to be in accord with the proposal emanating from the provincial convention of that body in Hamilton Saturday last that they should join forces with the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor Party.

When the referendum is taken in the near future it is felt that little or no opposition will be encountered locally. This question, discussed at the recent Stratford convention, has also been thoroughly considered by the London I. L. P.

There has been a growing feeling both locally and elsewhere that the Canadian Labor Party should admit individual membership, and the merging of the I. L. P. forces with those of the larger body is recognized as the first move in that direction.

MILITIA CHANGES ARE ANNOUNCED

A number of militia changes affecting Western Ontario units are announced in Saturday's Gazette. The announced changes of musketry instructors is the first steps toward the annual training.

Capt. (brevet major) T. C. Lamb, Western Ontario Regiment, is transferred to the reserve of officers.

Lieuts. R. M. Trow and W. R. C. Taylor become provisional captains in the Perth Regiment.

Capt. C. G. Campbell, who has been signalling officer of the Halimand Regiment, becomes musketry instructor.

In the second brigade C. M. G. C. Capt. G. N. Tucker is transferred to the corps reserve.

Highland Light Infantry, Capt. F. W. Landreth is appointed musketry instructor, and Andrew Scott Thibault is commissioned lieutenant.

Wellington Rifles, to be provisional lieutenant John Knox Macdonald, Cecil Maitland Patmore.

C. A. M. C., general list, to be captain: Capt. J. B. Jupp, and to have seniority immediately following Capt. F. L. Neely.

Norfolk Rifles, David H. Hall is commissioned lieutenant.

WESTERN CLASS TO HOLD REUNION

Members '17, Medical School, Will Meet Two Days Before Convocation Week.

PROVIDE SHADE TREES

Many Student Groups Plan to Return to Alma Mater Every Five Years.

Members of Class '17 of Western University Medical School will hold their first reunion since graduation, in this city, next May. The reunion will be held two days before convocation week opens at Western University, and a suitable program is being arranged to make the visit of non-resident members to London a most enjoyable one.

At convocation in May, 1917, members of the graduating class in medicine agreed to hold a reunion every five years, and the one planned for May is the first. Many members of the class who are following their chosen profession in all parts of the continent will avail themselves of this opportunity to renew old friendships made during studies at the Medical School.

Are Becoming Popular. Reunions of graduating classes at the Medical School here are becoming more popular. Since Class '10 played the way last year, this reunion proved such a success that many classes are making arrangements to meet at their alma mater.

It is proposed to make the reunions quintennial for each class, in view of the fact that many graduates must travel long distances to attend. Another feature of this method is the fact that every convocation week in any year at Western will be featured by a reunion. Five years after graduation is the usual date of a reunion, class '18 meeting in May, 1923.

Plant Oak Sapling.

Last year when Class '10 met at the Medical School, the program included interesting medical papers read to former classmates by members of '10 who have won recognition for brilliant work in various centers.

At the same time an oak sapling, symbolic of Meds. '10, was planted on the lawn of the new Western University Medical School, on Ottawa avenue, and it has since flourished, thereby reminding all medical students there of their predecessors.

It is hoped to follow similar procedure at the reunion of Class '17, and other classes at future reunions, thereby providing shade trees for the school, symbolic of its graduates, beneath which future students, now in their infancy may recline and seek inspiration.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the reunion of Class '17 is composed of Dr. J. A. Renwick, Thamesford, and Dr. C. J. A. McKillop of St. Thomas.

LEAPS FROM TAXI, FATALLY INJURED

Windsor, Ont., April 17.—A fractured skull received when he leaped to the roadway from a swiftly moving taxicab at Sandwich street and Langdale avenue, Saturday night, caused the death of Hotel Dieu 10:39 o'clock Sunday night of John McFarlane, 128 Pierre avenue. Police have been unable to unearth the reason for his rash action. Mrs. Winnifred Fowler, of Toledo, who was his companion in the taxi, is being held by the police as a material witness.

Police conjecture that McFarlane jumped from the car to escape a considerable taxi bill. He was in the vicinity of his home when he made the jump.

MRS. GISTIN ORNTOSKI, wanted in Hamilton on a charge of theft, was arrested by Detectives Down and Eggleston in London's foreign quarters Saturday night. She was taken back to Hamilton Monday afternoon.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is making a special success of the International Penny Show to be held in this city in June. It is predicted that one of the finest floral displays ever seen in this country will be on exhibition.

THE HEAVY WIND, of Monday blew out another of the large plate glass windows of the hydro shop. It was cracked slightly during the last storm, when the adjoining window succumbed to the elements. No one was injured when the window crashed down.

BUILDING FIGURES for April so far total $11,889. A. Wallace, Williams street, has taken out a permit to erect a $4,000 brick residence. The trustees of the Church of God have secured a permit to erect a new tabernacle at 112 Paul street to cost $2,000. It will be frame, of post and truss construction.

Board of Education to Discover If Squatters' Rights Recognized Today

Is there such a thing in London or anywhere else in the world as a "squatter's rights"? This is a problem about to confront the board of education. Quite recently the members of the latter body deemed it highly advisable to dispose of their property on Grand avenue and Richmond street north, both parcels of land being of considerable size and value.

The architect was directed to proceed with the division of the land into building lots and all arrangements were being completed for immediate sale by auction. Then the trustees encountered the proverbial snag.

It appears that in the dim historic past the board of education of the day caused to be erected on one side of the property a high board fence. This move itself was to be highly commended, if it were not for the fact, apparently, that the partition was not placed on the exact boundary line, but nearly five feet within the school property.

In the course of time the owner of the adjacent property constructed certain buildings, a part of which are now standing upon the five feet in question. The issue now arises whether the present board is in a position to compel the owner to shift these buildings or even purchase the debatable land.

As a preliminary move the assessment rolls will be consulted by the educational authorities to ascertain whether their neighbor has been paying taxes for the property during the several years. If he has not the trustees feel that they will encounter little or no difficulty in forcing him to move or buy. If, on the other hand, he has been paying taxes for the same, the question as to action seems problematical, they say.

Should they compel him to vacate the land his taxes, naturally, they believe, would have to be rebated.

RETIREES IN PARK WITH CAFE DISHES

George E. Brown, Jeweler, Remanded To Jail by Magistrate On Own Request.

Husky Macedonian Job-Hunter Rests in Cell After Five Months Tour.

George Edward Brown, a jeweler by trade, who has roomed at the same place in London for ten years, has run against some hard luck, and decided to spend the night in Victoria Park.

Constable McCaughy found him at an early hour Monday morning keeping house in a flower bed with a "dock" of restaurant dishes for company.

Constable McCaughy told the man that he was in the wrong kind of a place, and brought him to the police station.

Brown told the court that he had relatives in the city, but that his brother was on a trip to England at the present time. The prisoner did not look to be the ordinary kind of vagrant, and Magistrate Gaudin complied with his request to be remanded to jail for a short time.

After a husky-looking individual from Macedonia, told the court that he had been looking industriously for work for five months, but people told him that Canadian came first when it came to handing out jobs, and for work.

Since said he had worked in the western harvest fields last fall, and then returned to Toronto. He had a little money when he started out from the Queen City. Last Wednesday night he slept in the Brantford police station.

"I'll remain you to jail for a week," stated the court. "Surely an able-bodied man like you should be able to find work somewhere."

WORK IN ANNEX, BUT PAY CITY INCOME TAX RATE

Ald. Dr. Douglass Complains of Change Made by Tax Officials.

Just when the income and business tax assessment question in the annex is about to be discussed, it comes to light that this year, residents of the city proper who are employed in the annex are being assessed at their homes.

This has been the cause for complaint and questions on the part of Ald. L. Douglass.

Dr. Douglass asked if residents of the city, working in the annex, were being assessed for income tax at their homes or place of business, and if at the latter, were they being charged on the 15-mill rate or the regular rate.

The answer of the assessment commissioner is that they have been taxed at their place of business, and thus they paid on 15 mills.

This year, however, Mr. Grant made a change and is assessing those incomes at the residences so that the receiver of the incomes will be liable for the full mill rate of the city.

The next question that is bound to come up, is whether or not the same policy should apply to all. This, if carried out, would mean that annex residents working in the city proper, would be assessed for incomes at their homes. They might demand that they only be charged 15 mills, but the answer of Ald. Douglass is that the 15 mill rate does not apply to business tax and incomes.

The council on Tuesday night will go into the whole matter.

WILL ADVISE ZONE BUILDING IN CITY

Thomas Adams To Address C. of C. Wednesday On Town Planning.

PLAN WORKS IN NEW YORK

Five-Year Trial in Metropolis Stamps Idea As Success Where Properly Enforced.

Thomas Adams of Ottawa, town planning adviser for the Canadian government, who is now making a comprehensive survey of London in order that he may advise pertaining to the preparation of a permanent plan for future development here, will address the members of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday noon, taking as his subject, "Town Planning as a Measure of Economy."

There is no man in the town-planning profession whose position and authority are so universally recognized. He was the first secretary of the movement in England twenty years ago, and first manager of the English Garden City, later becoming town planning expert to the British government.

Since coming to Canada, Mr. Adams has been engaged in framing town planning laws for the different provinces, and in writing and lecturing all over the Dominion. By arrangement with the government, he has been free to practice privately in the United States, and has been called into consultation all over the continent wherever problems of town planning were under consideration.

He recently undertook work of an extensive character in England, and since his return has spent considerable time in New York, where a building zone law has been in effect for over five years, and has proven quite satisfactory.

It is the latter plan which Mr. Adams proposed to introduce here. He states:

"Edward M. Bassett, chairman of the New York zoning committee, says the Greater New York building zone law has now been in operation over five years. The protective requirements are shown on three maps, known as height, area and use. The charter provides that changes in the maps can be made only by the board of estimate. The aggregate changes are extremely small in area, showing the remarkable permanence of the protection of the zoning system."

"In the years 1916-1921, inclusive, 158 applications for changes were granted by the board of estimate and 134 were denied. These figures tend to show that changes are not easily obtained. This is as it should be, because when an owner builds according to the zoning requirements he ought to be protected against any changes of surrounding requirements."

"Of the total changes there were 4 in 1916, 43 in 1917, 26 in 1918, 29 in 1919, 27 in 1920 and 38 in 1921. It would appear from the figures that during the last three years the map changes were fairly proportioned to the normal growth and change of the city."

"Use map changes were 143, area map 11, and height map 4. It is quite possible that as the amount of new construction increases, more changes proportionally will be made in the area and height maps."

"In 1916, the four changes all relaxed the restrictions; in 1917, 26 relaxed and 3 strengthened the restrictions; in 1918, 20 relaxed and 6 strengthened; in 1919, 12 relaxed and 15 strengthened; in 1920, 15 relaxed and 23 strengthened. In other words, in 1916 there was no strengthening, in 1917 the strengthening as compared to relaxation rose to 19 per cent, in 1918 to 30 per cent, in 1919 to 54 per cent, in 1920 to 125 per cent, and in 1921 to 153 per cent. It will be seen that during the last two years the strengthening changes exceeded the relaxing changes, and that each year the proportion of strengthening changes increased. These figures show not only official support of the zoning plan, but they show clearly that property-owners are gradually favoring the strengthening of the zoning requirements rather than their relaxation."

"The building zone system of New York may be deemed a success. Other cities, which have recently adopted it or are preparing their maps, may well be encouraged by the experience of New York."

BRITISH MAILS

The next mail for Great Britain and Europe will close at the local postoffice at 10 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18, 1922, to be forwarded by steamship Peninsula state, sailing from New York on April 20, 1922.

This mail will consist of letters and registered matter only.

Mayor and Aldermen Take "Pats," But Officials Forgotten

It has been often remarked in city hall circles that if any municipal scene goes off "swimmingly," the mayor and council always receive the "plaudits" and "pats" on the back. On the other hand if someone throws a monkey-wrench into the machinery of some enterprise and everything goes wrong, the officials are made the "scapegoats."

Saturday is cited as an evidence of this. City Clerk Baker made a goodly portion of the arrangements for the reception to Lord and Lady Byng. He was on the job, handling practically all the arrangements. Everything went off swimmingly.

No one heard the clerk's name mentioned. He didn't even get a chance to shake hands with Lord Byng. No one remembered to present him.

METHODISTS WILL DISCUSS UNION

Steps are being continually taken by various denominational organizations in the city toward the final realization of church union. A standing committee on co-operation of the London Methodist Council met in Wesley Hall Monday afternoon, and it is expected that matters pertaining to church union will be discussed.

The committee was formed at a time when co-operation was more than usually active between Methodists and Presbyterians, but has lately fallen more or less into abeyance.

LEAVES TO ATTEND RAIL CONFERENCE

James Corbett Is Delegate From G. T. R. Shops Craft to Montreal Joint Parley.

James Corbett of London, chief spokesman for the federated shop-crafts of the Grand Trunk Railway, left Sunday for Montreal to attend the joint conference which opens in the city Monday between the employees and managements of the several Canadian railroad corporations.

Mr. Corbett had just returned to this city from Chicago, where he attended a gathering of rail chiefs from all sections of the continent. Previous Monday he had attended the convention of No. 4 District of the car shop men in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The Montreal conference follows as a result of the 30-day notice from the railroad managements to the Canadian Railway Association, that it was their wish to re-open the existing wage and condition agreements with their employees.

Although the companies have not as yet officially stated when it is their intention to reduce wages or lengthen hours of labor or both, the men have been frank in their avowed determination not to accept the same without a struggle.

John Chick, secretary of the local Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, which includes the clerks and station men, stated Monday that the C. B. of R. E. would not be in progress in Montreal. He explained that the clerks will meet the company's representatives at a later date.

SCHOOL OFFICERS ATTEND PARLEY

V. K. Greer, senior school inspector, and Dr. George S. Wein, school attendance officer, are attending meetings that Toronto in connection with the Ontario Educational Association, which opens there Monday morning.

While the former will meet with the other school inspectors of the province, the latter will attend a meeting at which it is proposed to establish a branch of the Attendance Officers' Association, and at which much valuable information in connection with the enforcement of the new regulations of the adolescence act will be imparted.

ROB FIVE HOMES OVER WEEK-END

Thieves Operate in All Parts of London, Getting Jewelry and Money.

Detectives Advise Citizens To Heed List of "Don'ts" Advertiser Published.

Thieves spent a busy week-end in London, no less than five cases of robbery or attempted robbery being reported to police headquarters from Saturday night till Monday morning.

Dr. J. T. Bowman, 183 Wortley road, scared a skylight expert into such frenzied action that he descended a ladder parked against the doctor's house in a swift slide and disappeared into the darkness at 1 o'clock Saturday night.

Dr. Bowman and his wife heard footsteps on the roof, and opening an upstairs window, the physician called out, wanting to know who was there. The man lost no time in removing himself, not only from the roof, but the vicinity as well.

Investigation showed that the skylight on the house had been tampered with, while the ladder used had been stolen from the premises of a neighbor where painters had been at work.

While the family were at church Sunday night the home of G. R. McAlpine, 889 Queen's avenue, was entered and a diamond ring, signet and band rings were stolen, as well as strings of beads.

Detectives believe that the entry through a side window was made by two tramps, one short and one tall who had been seen in the neighborhood earlier in the evening.

The rear door of the home of Rob Pearson, 61 Bedford street, was forced in between 9:45 o'clock and 10:30 o'clock Sunday night by thieves.

Mr. Pearson, in his report to the police, stated that a woman's black plush coat, a child's straw hat and a woman's velvet hat had been taken. Apparently a thief or thieves have a hard time to waken in the morning, because they stole the family alarm clock as well as a woman's bicycle, No. 6868, with an English frame, 21 inches.

Some time after midnight Saturday a rear window of Ferguson's garage was pried open by thieves, who rifled the till of a few dollars in change and escaped without being seen. The robbery was discovered early Sunday morning.

A party of youths gained entrance to the home of Joseph Higgins, 43 Jamaica street, on Saturday night, turned on all the electric lights and left via the front door. A neighbor, A. Fitzsimmons, thought that Mr. Perkins had returned from a visit to Detroit when he saw the house lit up and decided to pay his friend a visit. He soon discovered that something was amiss and notified the police, who, after investigating, found everything seemed to be O. K.

Inspector of Detectives Thomas Nickle issued a warning to all householders Monday morning, stating that there were a number of tramps going through the country who spend the night or two in the vicinity of each city. He stated that if each householder would heed the list of "Don'ts" published in The London Advertiser Thursday afternoon last, that the would have little to fear from thieves.

London Likes Byng.

LORD BYNG knows how to meet the people of Canada. He is a healthy, wholesome individual, without any of the "side" that is apt to cling to an office such as he holds.

When in London he was asked to turn the first sod for the new buildings of Western University. He took the spade as though he knew exactly how to use it, and how to do a day's work if necessary.

He did not content himself with turning one sod. Spring was in the air, and no doubt he had noticed how the good citizens of London were gouging holes in the ground for seeding and decorative purposes. He turned a good many sods, and seemed to enjoy the performance.

At all the functions he attended he seemed to enjoy the proceedings, and to enjoy meeting the people of this city and district.

London can return the compliment in full. It enjoyed its first visit from Lord and Lady Byng, and hopes they will come again.

The Hydro Query.

THE St. Catharines Standard objects to the appointment of LLOYD HARRIS of Brantford as one of the commissioners appointed by the DRYDEN government to investigate hydro expenditures and the soundness of the scheme generally.

The Standard takes the ground that Mr. HARRIS "is a man of big business, and he belongs to that class which might properly be termed the financial interests of the country." Mr. HARRIS, the paper also points out, objected to hydro coming to the city of Brantford in the first place. On these grounds it holds that he is not a fit person to investigate the finances or the scope of hydro.

It is just possible that this line of argument may not hold good. The idea of the DRYDEN government is to investigate the financial standing of the Chippewa development scheme, and find out where the enormous sums of money have been spent, and where they are going to be spent, or there are many millions yet to go into the scheme.

The people who are putting up this money are not all public ownership advocates. There are many parts of the province which are not concerned at all, except for the fact that their credit is involved in the financing of the scheme. The size of the outlay makes it imperatively necessary that every bit of information should be secured. It is a project dealing in millions, and a man used to dealing in business in a large way, such as Mr. HARRIS, can take in the details and the possibilities of such a scheme and analyze it properly, whereas a man who had no experience on such a vast scale would be handicapped from the very start.

The fact that Mr. HARRIS is not an advocate of public ownership does not make him an undesirable member on the commission. Does the Standard hold that the commission must of necessity be composed of men who are public ownership advocates, and who, before the inquiry is ever started, are committed body and soul to the project? If such is the case there might as well be no inquiry, as the verdict would be a foregone conclusion before a meeting was held.

Mr. HARRIS can probably be trusted sufficiently to look at the whole project in a fair and a square way, and his standing in the business world is sufficient to guarantee the fairness with which he will deal with matters submitted to his attention.

Now, Look Here!

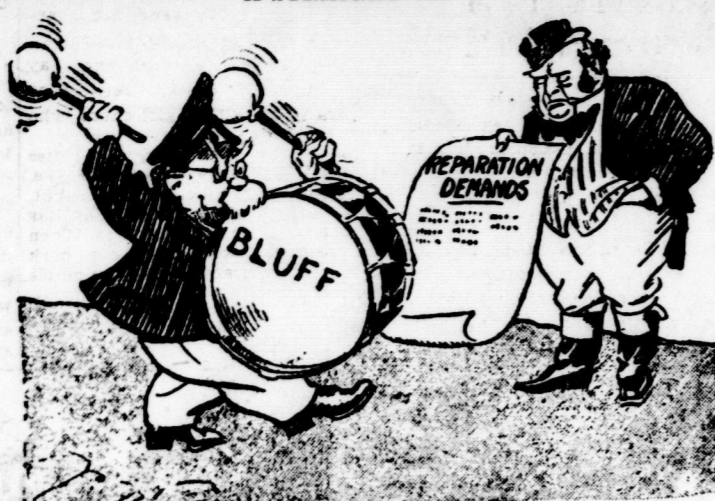

WHEN LORD BYNG paid a visit to London word was passed around that business suits were to be worn at the function attendant upon his visit, especially at an opening of the ground for the new Western University.

Now this may be all right and perfectly in keeping with the democratic tastes of the vice-regal visitor, at all the same it was a mean trick played on the folks around town who are the proud possessors of these

If a man has a title and cannot wear it once in a while, what under the sun is the use of having it? Not only so, but it provides one of a few chances in a year for a man's life to take a deep breath and look at her husband. If he continually appears in a felt hat or tweed cap she is apt to think he doesn't amount to so very much after all, and perhaps wonders where all his charm has gone that used to interest and thrill her in the days of courtship. But after he dusts around the attic for a bit and emerges with a tall silk hat and his clasp coat, she's gripped and thrilled all over again, and is certain that she picked out a dandy on the heap of husbands that she might have had.

So if the men around here can't wear their titles once or twice in a year what are they good for? Of course, they make a splendid place for the family cat to bring up her kittens, and they are always to be found on as supplying a certain amount of the business to be offered at any rummage sale that happens to be taking place.

Of course, there may be powerful good reasons for not wearing 'em, but against the facts set forth above we hold that the wearing of tulle hats should be encouraged rather than frowned upon.

The Law of Life.

IF YOU want a job—you can only begin, wherever you are, and whoever you are, by doing the thing at hand.

The law of life compels us all to sell the thing that we best know or can best do to the man or the concern who needs it the most. The truth is that somebody does need your work just as much as you need a job and that the world will never be right until the two of you get together and give it the best that is in you both for co-operation.

You owe the world a living, just as much as it owes you one, and you can only pay the world for bringing you along so far as you have come by selling yourself, exactly as you truly are, at the market price in the market place.

Nature abhors a vacuum, so when you are at the lowest ebb of finances and are in the sorest of straits, rejoice and look up, for you are in a better position than ever before in your life to be filled. It is when we appear stagnant and know not whence to turn that we are most likely to be caught up in a whirlwind of activity.

The highest success does exactly the same thing as the most bitter need, for the only way to keep on being successful is to expand until your responsibility becomes so great that you are obliged to look to the spirit for aid in carrying on.

Looking to the spirit means looking within. Therefore seek to find in your own heart and mind what has seemed to displace you on that point. It may be that you have been wasteful in days of plenty or that you have never worked for the sake of doing good work, but only for the pay. It may be that you have been using talents which you have not used and opportunities that you have not taken; that you have lacked that sincerity and purpose that can take chances which look desperate, yet that are nothing in the face of real faith.

It may be that you have shut the door in your own face by trying to take short cuts instead of following the true road and that you have asked for outside help before exhausting every means at your own command for helping yourself.

Anyway, take stock of yourself, put the knife to the canker, and then look for a fresh start with a sure knowledge that not one of God's children can ever be outside of His love or His plan and not one of us can truly be out of our own place.

To repeat and put it practically, the work you need just as surely needs you and the job you are looking for is looking for you. Want the work that you are best fit for and want it for the sake of doing good work, as much as for the pay, and you will certainly get it if it does not first get you.

The law of getting is the law of giving. If you do not put out something of a magnet, you can never draw things your way. Don't wait to be struck by the lightning of luck. You may be living in a land where that kind of storm never happens.

Have no mood but joy, have no state of mind except serenity, have no passion other than truth, have no attitude save glad expectancy, and the very stars will fall at your feet.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

(By Digby Phillips.)

NO. 190—TIGHT LIPS.

They say that women can't keep secrets. That is an inaccuracy, though it may or may not be true that on the whole they don't keep them as well as men.

Don't judge a person's ability to keep a secret by sex. Judge by the mouth.

The mouth that is figuratively speaking, tight, is also the mouth that literally and actually is kept tightly closed as a result of habit. This classification, of course, does not include the kind of person who is not likely to repeat what you say merely because he or she is uninterested in it or is mentally incapable of appreciating its importance. For really, most of the things which are left unsaid in this world are left unsaid because of lack of interest.

The reference here is to that type of person who seems to have a constitutional aversion to giving anybody any information. You've met the kind of man or girl at whom you have to aim a constant stream of questions to extract anything out of them, and even then you get rather guarded answers.

The next time you meet one of them, look at his or her mouth. See if the lips are not habitually tightly closed, giving the mouth that straight, set appearance. They will be. You may take it for granted in advance.

TO THE EDITOR

WANTS JUSTICE.

Editor Advertiser:

Sir—Permit me to use a small portion of your space to give vent to a righteous indignation that has possessed my soul by reason of reading that pitiable narrative in a recent issue of the unfortunate young woman "who loved well but unwisely," and who, after some days in a hospital, trudged away to Hamilton, and after days of effort to find a home where she could place her child, again turns to her home city, disconsolate, sick at heart and crushed by the weight of her troubles, she abandons her offspring, in hopes that it might fall into kind hands, believing this to be her best course.

Now, sir, I am Scotch to the core, and to use by mother tongue, I am just "tulin" to get my hands on some of those ghouls who are quite too numerous at present. I would surely learn him a lesson to last him a lifetime. A miserable, human brute, who, very likely, had resorted to all known and devilish arts to encompass a poor orphan girl's ruin, very likely promising marriage as well. Caring nothing of the blighted life of a bright and lovely girl, nor for the pain and sorrow and disappointment of the aged couple who had been to this young woman all that her dead parents would have been.

What cared this degenerate wretch for the tears and broken hearts, so long as he accomplished his devilish designs! Like these aged couple, we too have had the care of orphans who were near and dear to us as our very own, and I am free to say that I fear it would have been an ill day when I was crawling, ingratiate with him who had dared to bring sorrow on our home.

I was glad to know that kind people have vowed to see some reparation is made for the unfortunate girl, but do what they can there will always be that other irreparable loss. By all means make these vermin cough up to the limit, and I would add to that a liberal application of the lash. Society and our homes must be protected, and I for one am glad to see a growing tendency on the part of our judges and magistrates and others in authority to stamp out this all too numerous menace to the welfare of the homes of this country.

Thanking you in advance,

JUSTICE.

PRESS COMMENT

INTERNATIONAL FINANCE.

[Dearborn Independent.]

The international bankers in this country a year ago had succeeded in scaling down British sovereigns to 3.86, francs to 7.18, lire to 3.54, marks to 1.60. Each unit reached a much lower level. Today it is somewhat higher. But the difference between maximum value in 1919 and lowest value since then, commonly called foreign exchange, has been, and is nothing but legalized stealing of the worst kind. It represents three and four hundred per cent of usurious profit that because of its nature could add nothing to the wealth of the country or the American people.

It is literally gold-bribeing the rest of the world. It is being done every day. Foreigners, who have little or no real use for gold at home, and even among themselves, are forced to buy to the limit of their ability so many millions of dollars of inert gold. This gold is sold by bankers. It is sold, but it is not received. It is a fraud all the way through.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE

Proper Care of Food

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

ECONOMY and health are both important in the care of food. It is not sufficient that the food be palatable and nutritious. It should be properly cared for or it may be a menace instead of a benefit to the family health.

Certain foods spoil quickly unless kept under proper conditions. There are various conditions that affect the wholesomeness of foods.

For example, air, the dishes foods are placed in, the ice box, or other storage places.

Foods that spoil easily are milk, cream, uncooked fresh meats, some fruits, as berries, peaches, plums and some table vegetables. It is well not to leave fresh meats in the paper that is about them when delivered, as the wrapping paper tends to absorb the juices.

Remove the paper and wipe the meat with a clean cloth that has been wrung out in cold water, and then place it in a dish.

Uncooked fish should not be placed in the ice box.

Odors arise; therefore all strongly-flavored foods should be put on the top shelf of the refrigerator.

Butter should always be kept cool and well wrapped or covered, as it readily absorbs odors from other foods.

Cooked meats can be kept better if well covered before being put in the ice box. Never put hot or warm articles of food in the ice boxes, as they tend to lower the temperature rapidly and cause an extravagant waste of ice.

PAN AND THE TWINS. By Edna Phillips. The Macmillan Company. $1.75.

ONCE in a while Mr. Phillips turns from his country folk on the Essex moors, from his artists and farmers of today, and writes a story of the old times, when the gods of paganism still walked the green earth, when men and maids were living in a world far removed from our present civilization, yet a world curiously alike to ours in essentials.

He takes a lot of sly fun out of the situation, showing up our so-called progress by picturing conditions and characters at least as worthy as any now to be met with—and he tells a pleasant story in the process.

Pan is set in early Christian times, which does not at all prevent him from leading a thoroughly busy and interesting existence on earth. He is not only busy, he is full of excellent talk, and it is in his conversations with one of the twins, the Roman patrician Arcadius, that most of the wit and wisdom of the book finds expression.

Arcadius and he meet when the boy, a lad of 15, lies weeping, beaten and cast out by the great aqueduct that leads the water to the city from the hills. For Arcadius, child of Marcus Pomponius and a younger woman of great charm and beauty, Aurelia, has been stolen in his earliest youth by the mother of Arcadius, who left daughter and son in giving birth to the twins, to revenge herself upon Marcus for that he did not marry the girl. She stole them both and sold them into slavery. And now one of them, beaten because he was found worshipping Pan at the time he should have been watching the vineyard of his master, is rescued by the god and returned to his father, with a gift given him by Pan, that of being able to understand the speech of animals.

The whimsical story runs on smoothly, taking the young Arcadius through his happy life with his father, giving him the pagan training and learning that his father believed in, bringing him to manhood, husbandhood and fatherhood. And then the other twin enters, a Christian, a monk, a fine young fellow to be sure, but bent upon sainthood. For him no normal, healthy life, no generous mingling with his kind. He was all for being a hermit, and for saving his own soul. That, he intimates to his brother, when the two meet and know each other, is work enough.

It is in contrasting these two points of view that Mr. Phillips gives rein to his humor and develops his argument. It all happened more than fifteen hundred years ago—and it is only now that we are coming to the end of the coming again to something like the same attitude toward life, toward spiritual freedom, toward religious toleration, that obtained in the day of the twins.

It was even then beginning to crumble, to disappear for ages from earth, under the fanatical onslaughts of a new religionists, who were getting away from the wise and gentle teaching of their Master into strange and devious roads, full of anger, intolerance and oppression. But it was still possible for the wise god Pan to visit those who believed in him, and to give them sound advice.

WINDSOR MAN KILLED BY CAR

Alexander Totten, 65 Years Old, Struck by Inter-urban Train.

John McFarlane Fractures Skull in Jumping From Taxi Cab.

WINDSOR, April 16.—Alexander Totten, 65 years old, a farmer and butcher, who lived at 1745 Howard avenue, was killed last Saturday night when he was walking on Windsor on the tracks of the Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Railway. He was struck by an interurban car and died on the way to the hospital.

An inquest has been ordered for Monday morning. The police state that Totten was slightly deaf, and it is supposed he did not hear the car. A brother of the deceased was killed several years ago while driving into Windsor a team of horses, which took fright and ran away.

FRACTURES SKULL.

WINDSOR, April 16.—John McFarlane, 30 years old, living at 132 Pierre avenue, Windsor, shortly after midnight Saturday, had his skull fractured when he jumped from a taxi at the corner of Sandwich street and Langlois avenue. He has not yet regained consciousness and his recovery is very doubtful.

A woman, who later gave the name of Mrs. W. Fowler of Toledo, was riding in the taxi with McFarlane. She was taken to police headquarters and held for six hours before she gave her name.

WOMAN SENTENCED ON BANK ROBBERY CHARGE

Mrs. Alice Eyer of Traverse City Sent to Detroit House of Correction.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 15.—Mrs. Alice Eyer of Traverse City, Mich., was sentenced in circuit court early today to serve from 10 to 20 years in the Detroit House of Correction following her conviction of complicity in the robbery, March 3, of a branch of the Grand Rapids Savings Bank. She is believed to be the first woman to be sentenced on a bank robbery charge in Michigan.

Ethan A. Conklin, who confessed participating in the robbery, alleged Mrs. Eyer helped her plan it, while he and his son carried it out. He said he gave the $1,200 obtained from the bank to Mrs. Eyer, who immediately started with it for Chicago. Conklin was arrested within 30 minutes after the robbery, and Mrs. Eyer was taken from a train at Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Eyer denied she had any part in the robbery.

Dear Sirs:—

Having been consistent users of daily newspaper space in our advertising for many years, it affords us pleasure to say that we have found the results very gratifying.

In our opinion two of the main points of effectiveness in daily newspaper advertising lie in its directness and the means it affords of launching a selling campaign with the least possible delay.

The advertising of musical products in the main must be addressed to a public with the widest diversity of taste. In reaching this public with maximum selling force we have at all times found satisfaction in the employment of the daily press.

Canada is fortunate indeed in being served by daily newspapers which are clean, wholesome and progressive.

Yours very truly,

PHONOGRAPH SECRETS REVEALED DURING BRUNSWICK WEEK

An interesting and educational display demonstrating how a good phonograph is constructed is very attractively displayed at Crawford Piano Company's store, 296 Dundas street.

One exhibit illustrates the advantages of an oval amplifier (horn) rather than the square shape—emphasis is laid upon the fact that all wind instruments in the band or orchestra are oval shape—not square. Built-like-a-violin is the phrase used to call attention to the construction of the oval horn. The Brunswick horn is built of 60 individual pieces of wood glued together—no metal or nails in any form can disturb the tone waves or give a metallic tone to the reproduction of the records. Comparisons are made with other makes to show how that harsh, "nasal" tone so objectionable to the ear is eliminated through "The Brunswick method of reproduction."

The makers of the Brunswick lay stress on the fact that the large diaphragm or reproducer used on the Brunswick tone arm, coupled with the oval horn to allow the tone waves to travel correctly (in circles), combine to give the discriminating music lover a full, rounded-out tonal quality to most desired today. RUSSIA HANDS BILL TO ALLIES

Soviet Delegation Presents Claim For 50,000,000,000 Gold Roubles.

Lloyd George Informs Russians That Proposition Is Inadmissible.

PARIS, April 16.—A Havas Agency dispatch from Genoa last night said the Russian Soviet delegation to the Genoa economic conference presents a bill of 50,000,000,000 gold roubles to the Allies.

Prime Minister Lloyd George, the Havas dispatch asserted, informed the Russians that their claim was inadmissible, and was contrary to all reason and justice. It said he requested them to reconsider and bring in a reply favorable to the Allied demands, otherwise there was no object in continuing the Genoa conference, so far as Russia was concerned.

Premier Lloyd George has announced that his aim at the Genoa conference is to bring into being a pact among the 34 nations represented, agreeing not to invade one another's territories. It would be similar to the four-power pact negotiated at Washington.

Britain is against a pact with military sanctions, it is declared, because sanctions belong to the order of ideas that an endeavor is being made to get away from, and guarantees would mean a new grouping of the powers. The military holiday idea is not practical.

In response to questions, the spokesman for the British said that Mr. Lloyd George's plan resembled President Harding's idea for an association of nations, which, it was hoped, would bring disarmament or a big reduction of armament in its wake.

DENY ALLIED WEAKNESS.

PARIS, April 16.—The insinuation that the allies have shown weakness towards the Russians in issuing what has been termed an ultimatum on Friday with a time limit, then merely repeating the ultimatum Saturday without a definite time limit, is rebutted by the Havas correspondent at Genoa, who explains that Friday's pronouncement was not an ultimatum. He declares that the Russians were merely told to consult with their experts and bring back a clear reply on Saturday, whereas on Saturday the Russians were told the reply was not acceptable and that they would be given a few days in which to yield or break off negotiations. This was undoubtedly an ultimatum, the correspondent says, although an indefinite time was allowed because the allies desire to avoid the appearance of using pressure on the Soviet representatives, but at the same time wished to establish to the world that these representatives were perfectly aware of what they were doing.

Mr. Lloyd George informed them on Friday that if they reply to the London propositions they were unsatisfactory the conference would still discuss transports, communications and such matters; but Russian affairs would be finished. But nobody, least of all Mr. Lloyd George, the correspondent adds, felt any doubt that unless the Russian question was solved in conformity with the views of the allies, the conference would have received a mortal wound and would have become almost without object.

Some satirical remarks which M. Chittierin made at the allies' expense during the conversations at the Villa de Albertis are quoted as follows: "It was the allies' ministers who fomented the Russian revolution and made it explode; so do not complain of revolution."

Again: "The war has been an Anglo-German war. You promised Constantinople to Russia, but you have not given it. If you gave it to us today we would immediately turn it over to the legitimate owners, the Angora Turks."

"If M. Barthou wishes to discuss the origin of the war with us I shall be delighted. It is always pleasant to listen to a French academician."

MARKS FIRST STEP TOWARD UNITY

Ottawa, Ont., April 15.—The final step taken by the Legislative committee of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance at its closing session late last evening was to appoint C. G. MacNeil, Dominion secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, and chairman of the committee, as chief counsel for ex-service men before the special parliamentary committee on pensions, insurance and establishment. Each organization subscribing to the alliance, and having some special phase of re-establishment, which it desires to present, will collaborate in the submission of evidence.

The co-ordinated Legislative program of the five principal veteran organizations in Canada, represents the most significant step in returned soldier affairs since the signing of the armistice. Mr. MacNeil declared this morning.

DECIDE TO ERECT TWO MONUMENTS

Montreal, April 15.—Decision was reached at an organization of those interested in the office of the St. Jean Baptiste Society here last night to erect two monuments—one in France and one in Canada—to the memory of the young French author, Louis Hemon, the writer of "Maria Chapdelaine," an idyll of the Lake St. John district. The cost will be between $15,000 and $20,000, and the decision was unanimous that the movement to commemorate the writer's name should be a nationwide affair, calling for the formation of committees to receive subscriptions in the larger cities and towns in Canada. The Canadian monument, according to a suggestion made at the meeting, may be erected at Quebec City.

Women Find They Cannot Dine On 60 Cents Per Day.

EMPORIA, Kas., April 16.—Can a working girl keep in proper physical and mental health on 60 cents as a daily food allowance?

"No!" "That's the decision of three Emporia businesswomen who tried it out for one week. Harry Nickle, proprietor of a cafe, recommended this amount at the presentation of employers' testimony before the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations' hearing on women's wages.

But now he has changed his mind, because Miss Charlotte E. Lewis, society editor of the Emporia Gazette; Miss Nell Baird, department head in a drygoods store, and Miss Sadie Sellers, assistant department head in a drygoods store, lost one and a half pounds to three and a quarter pounds after eating on 60 cents daily for seven days.

The three women ate at various places, picking shops where food was cheapest. Breakfast usually consisted of a roll and coffee for 10 cents. Lunch allowance was 20 cents, and supper 30 cents. "We always went to bed hungry," said Miss Lewis. "And we all lost weight. It can't be done."

OBJECT TO MOTOR LAW IN BRANTFORD

Brant County Club Protest Measure Requiring Lights on Parked Cars.

PETITION GOVERNMENT

Report Italian Who Was Stabbed Still in Serious Condition.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, April 16.—A resolution deploring the present motor vehicles act, stating that an automobile shall not stand on a lighted thoroughfare, has been sent to the Ontario government by the officials of the Brantford and Brant County Motor Club. It is the culmination of many of the local businessmen being fined in the police court for infractions under that section of the act, and consequently the motor club has taken this action to have the act changed, and thus allow a car to stand on a lighted thoroughfare without lights, providing the car can be seen at a distance of 200 feet. The government has been requested to amend section six of the motor vehicles act, thus allowing a car to stand on the street without a light, if the car is visible at a reasonable distance.

WILL ADDRESS ST. THOMAS CLUB

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 16.—The St. Thomas Kiwanis Club stood second in the attendance contest conducted by the Kiwanis International.

The weekly bulletin of the local club reads as follows:

"Two London Kiwanians, Jack Nash and Jack Hunt, will speak to us. This renowned pair of Jacks should prove good openers and a full house is expected."

"All good Kiwanians will be out on Monday morning to greet in a spirit of loyalty our governor-general and his gracious consort. In a like spirit of loyalty to our club, will all good Kiwanians attend the regular luncheon after the celebrations are over? Your presence will help to increase our lead in the attendance contest. Note the change in time for this: 12:15 to 12:30."

TEACHERS WILL HOLD CONVENTION

TORONTO, April 16.—At a conservative estimate 2,000 Ontario school teachers and provincial school trustees will take possession of university buildings here during the first four days of this week when the Ontario Educational Association meets for its 61st annual session.

Prof. Theodore Soares, Ph. D., D.D., of the University of Chicago, will be one of the chief speakers at the general section meetings which all delegates attend. He will treat the topic "Moral Values in School Curricula."

Prof. J. L. Morrison, Queen's University, deals with the subject, "Young Canada Study in the Relation Between Canadian Nationality and Canadian Education" at Wednesday's evening session, and J. K. M. Anderson, director of education among new Canadians at Regina will be among other educational and social service workers who have been brought from far-distant points to address the teachers.

REMINDS SPEEDER OF COURT DEBT

Austin Meikle came to court Saturday morning on a speeding charge. He was fined $5 and costs.

However, a further financial shock was waiting for him. The magistrate told him that there was a $10 fine standing against him, and wanted to know about payment. "I was never notified about it," protested Mr. Meikle.

"Well, you know about it now," stated the court in unfeeling tones.

PASSPORTS TO BE VISED.

OTTAWA, April 15.—(Canadian Press).—The passport of any alien immigrant landing in Canada from the continent of Europe, whether directly or indirectly via Great Britain or Ireland, must carry the visa of a Canadian immigration officer stationed on the continent of Europe, according to a ruling just made by the Government.

DECLARES LOGS CAUSED INJURY

Doctor, Prominent in Delorme Case, Examines Youth Found in Lake.

Autopsy Ordered On Joseph Racine, Son of Former Russell M. L. A.

Ottawa, April 15.—Dr. Wilfrid Delorme, whose testimony was largely responsible for the arrest of Rev. Adelard Delorme on a charge of murdering his brother, Raoul Delorme, made an examination of the body of Joseph Racine, son of Damase Racine, former M. L. A. for Russell, at Gauthier's morgue, Hull, last night, and stated positively that the fracture which is apparent upon the skull was not caused by a blow administered through human agency. He was emphatic in his statement that the smashing of the skull was due to friction between the body and submerged logs when they came together beneath the waters of Leamy Lake, where the corpse was discovered Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Delorme has been commissioned by the Quebec criminal investigations department to perform an autopsy upon the body and to report to Coroner T. B. Davies.

The attorney-general has also placed the criminal investigations in connection with the case in the hands of Provincial Detective Houle, who is one of the foremost criminologists on the staff headed by Chief D. D. Lorrain.

URGES ARABS TO FOLLOW EGYPT

Jerusalem, April 15.—Open advice to the Arabs is being given by Palestine, the leading Jaffa Arabic daily, to copy the Egyptian example and organize real attacks, so as to compel the British government to abolish the Balfour declaration making Palestine a national homeland for the Jews.

This, coupled with Lord Northcliffe's assertion made while he was in this country, that there was bound to be an upheaval in Palestine soon, is causing great disquietude in Jewish circles.

Twenty-five Arab leaders last week sent a cablegram to Premier Lloyd George asking him to send immediately to Palestine an impartial committee, as suggested by Lord Northcliffe, to make a careful investigation of conditions before any steps are taken by parliament to approve the proposed Palestine constitution.

ATTENDS EASTER SERVICE IN GENOA

GENOA, April 16.—David Lloyd George, the British prime minister, and his wife and daughter, attended Easter service in the English Church this morning.

Later they went with Signor Schanzer, the Italian foreign minister, to the cathedral. A large crowd recognized Mr. Lloyd George as he was leaving the cathedral and gave him an ovation. Dr. Wirth, the German chancellor, also attended services in the cathedral.

After church, Mr. Lloyd George and his family and several members of the British delegation to the economic conference went with Signor Schanzer to the royal palace, where Signor Schanzer, his wife and two daughters entertained them at Easter dinner.

TAKES HIS OWN LIFE.

SELKIRK, April 16.—Seventy-five years of age and unable to bear the thoughts of spending the rest of his life without the companionship of his 69-year-old wife, Wesley Fulton of this place tied a weight to his neck early Saturday morning and threw himself into the creek running near his house, dying in less than three feet of water.

INSTITUTE SEARCH FOR TORONTO MISSING GIRLS

TORONTO, April 16.—The Toronto police are searching for two young women who have disappeared from their homes in this city within the last week.

Ruby Stoddard, aged 15, left her home to go to work, but did not arrive at her place of employment. She is about five feet in height, well built, of fair complexion and has fair hair. When last seen she was wearing a blue hat with white rim, a long dark coat with seal collar and cuffs, tartan skirt and black leather shoes.

The girl's people think she may have gone to Black Creek near Niagara Falls with a girl chum, who also is missing. The other missing girl is Miss Magdalen Mulcahey, 24 years of age, five feet four inches in height, weight about 125 pounds. She has dark brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was wearing a dark blue dress decorated with grey maple leaves.

LEAPS INTO BAY TO AVOID ARREST

HAMILTON, April 16.—In trying to avoid a policeman who sought to arrest him for fighting today, Alex. Volniruk jumped off the dock into the bay. When he began to sink for the third time he yelled for help, and the officer, Constable Sharp, plunged into the water, and after a hard struggle reached some timbers with his man and dragged him to safety. He then took the would-be suicide away captive.

Seeing Week-End Market With Aunt Maria's Eyes

"We're here still," said Aunt Maria, looking at the Easter market. "Here still, Billy." The way was what Easter Saturday meant to two men, over whose heads many years had passed, as they clasped hands and looked into one another's eyes at the week-end market on Saturday.

"And how have you been?" said the first speaker. "Not very well through the winter, Billy. But I'm thankful to say I'm feeling pretty fine again now. The winters seem to get harder. Old folks are better when the spring comes again." Billy's friend rejoiced that he was able once more to join in the festive of an Easter market, particularly on the day that an opportunity was to be afforded of looking upon "Byng of Vimy."

"Isn't it a beautiful market?" said one after another, joy of Easter Sunday in their faces. It was a market of fulfillment and a market of promise. There were the fruits of a past year, still well preserved, baskets of roses, apples, though, to be sure, some were getting a bit wrinkled in the cheeks; bags upon bags of potatoes at $1.40 and $1.50 apiece; turnips, carrots, beets, parsnips. There were the flowers that had come to perfection of bloom for just such a day and, associated with these, baskets and pots and little parcels tied up in newspaper of Shasta daisies, pansies, pinks, asters, a score and more varieties of plants that whispered of glorious summer gardens to be.

In a big basket down in the basement, a farmer's wife offered gladioli tubs at 60 cents a dozen. And the woman who bought the brown, wrinkled wizened things tucked them lovingly under her arm as she dreamed of the resurrection day when tall, stately blooms will lend their grace and beauty to her home surroundings.

Woods Send Flowers.

In the most unexpected places, posies of woody blossoms smiled, dainty hepaticas and waxy blood-root, that might be purchased for three, five and ten cents each. Aunt Maria arrived in time for the parade advertising the Y. M. C. A. placed this week, a parade with banners, clowns, black face artists, and a kiddie who performed a death-defying feat by appearing in a costume (was it meant to be bridal?) which was very decoletoe where the arms were concerned. In fact, he didn't appear to mind the "could, could, could" in the least, as he pranced along to life and drum.

A Doctor's Vision Realized

The very month that the great war broke out, Dr. Robert G. Jackson placed ROMAN MEAL, made in Toronto, on the Canadian market. Because it was a balanced food made from whole wheat and rye cut into little granules and blended with bran and flaxseed, the doctor dreamed of seeing it sold all over the English-speaking world and wheat control ceased. ROMAN MEAL for a time almost from the market. Yet the demand has survived and to-day it is shipped to Britain, South Africa, Australia, and Hong Kong. Glasgow, Scotland, has recently had several carloads. A $5,000,000 corporation has been organized to market this Canadian product in the United States. Its Canadian sales are coming back by leaps and bounds, and Dr. Jackson's dream is fast being realized.

LONDON MEETS VICE ROYALTY IN SOCIAL WAY

Their Excellencies Attend First Function At War Memorial Children's Hospital.

GIRL GUIDES TAKE PART

Lady Byng Showered With Flowers—Official, But Delightfully Informal Event.

A happy augury for the future of the War Memorial Children's Hospital was the very first social function to be held there, the tea party given on Saturday afternoon by the board of the Victorian Order of Nurses, co-operating with the hospital committee, in honor of their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Byng.

Contractors and everybody else concerned had hurried the work forward in order that the first floor might be ship-shape to receive vice-royalty and stand up under inspection. "King's weather" prevailed, and as a result the sunshine streamed in through the windows, giving a finishing touch of brightness and good cheer.

Over the central doorway floated a splendid Union Jack, the gift of the past week to the hospital from Mrs. Guymer. Right from Ottawa avenue to the entrance stood at attention a double line of Girl Guides and Brownies and their officers in natty uniforms, all spick and span, the guard of honor for Lady Byng.

Admiral Lord D'Alington in command, the provincial commissioner, Mrs. F. P. Betts, a distinguished figure in her becoming uniform. Gracious, stately and charming—all these adjectives applied to Lady Byng as she approached, her arms filled with flowers which had been presented to her earlier in the afternoon and wearing the tribute of the Women's Press Club, a corsage of mauve orchids, mauve sweet peas, lilies-of-the-valley and Sunset roses.

A pretty little incident was the presentation to Lady Byng by three Brownies, Doris Jones, Doreen Anderson and Phyllis Paige. Anderson and Phyllis Paige, the two youngest of the group, presented to Lady Byng a small, round, silver, ornate box, which was a gift of the hospital committee. The box was filled with a variety of small, round, silver, ornate boxes, which were a gift of the hospital committee. The box was filled with a variety of small, round, silver, ornate boxes, which were a gift of the hospital committee.

Over a tailored gown of taupe color she wore a handsome wrap of a dark blue that had been neither midnight nor royal, yet suggested both, richly banded with sable. Her brimmed hat was of dark blue straw, with coque and ostrich feather trimming falling over the crown. The wrap, thrown open as she enjoyed the luxury of sitting down for tea in the east sun room, revealed a lustrous pearl necklace and an ornament in the design said to be a great favorite with her ladyship, a maple leaf of platinum, set with diamonds. The pearls were repeated in the long earrings, which were immensely becoming.

Attended by Capt. the Honorable F. W. Erskine, A.D.C., in the uniform of the Scots Greys, and Capt. A. C. Balfour, Baron Balfour and Lady Byng were accompanied on their arrival at the hospital by Mayor Cameron Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, the latter wearing a smart wrap of navy and grey and small navy hat.

In the receiving line were Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, chairman of the War Memorial Children's Hospital building committee; Mrs. Gartshore, Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, co-secretary of the hospital committee; Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, hon. secretary; Miss A. A. Harris, president of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and Miss M. Macdonald, secretary.

Mrs. Gartshore was wearing a black canton crepe gown with seal coat and black lace hat. Mrs. A. H. Smith, a cream suit costume and small black hat with white ostrich garniture, and Miss Harris a chic costume in dove gray, the coat opening over a blouse of georgette in the same tone, and the small hat of dove gray satin. A throw of cross fox furnished a striking note of contrast.

Mrs. Greenaway wore a smart tailored costume in brown tones and scarlet hat, and Miss Macdonald, navy suit and hat and ermine stole. On behalf of the hospital committee, Mrs. Smith presented her excellency with a sheaf of pinky cream roses. The token of welcome and loyalty of the V. O. N., presented by Miss Harris, was an exquisite Victorian bouquet of pink roses, Pansy sweet peas and lilies-of-the-valley, from which hung streamers of blue satin ribbon, stamped at the end with the V. O. N. crest in deeper blue, thus expressing the V. O. N. colors in two shades of blue. Badges stamped in the same manner were worn by the V. O. N. officers and members of the committee.

Mrs. A. E. Cooper presented the London branch of the Canadian Red Cross, their floral offering a strikingly appropriate one, a great cluster of fragrant white lilies tied with broad red satin ribbon. Mrs. Harris was gown in dark blue, with a black hat, turning sharply up in front, and faced with beads in raspberry tone. A charming finishing touch was a corsage of lilies-of-the-valley.

Availed With Flowers. Mrs. Cooper wore a dark blue suit, ermine furs and black hat, and a corsage of American Beauty roses circled with violets. Mrs. W. A. McRoberts, wearing a dark blue costume and lace straw hat, on behalf of the Rebekah lodges of the city, the May Queen and Victoria Rebekahs, presented tulips and roses.

Lady Byng accepted the flowers with appreciative smiles, her beautiful dark eyes smiling as she lips, until she was so loaded down with the fragrant gifts that her arms wouldn't hold any more. At that point Capt. Balfour came to the rescue and relieved her of some of her precious burden, promptly, however, enlisting the assistance of Mrs. Wilson, and turning over to her the bouquets.

Tea was served in both east and west wings. Col. Gartshore, Mrs. Smith and Miss Harris escorted the vice-regal party to the east wing, where Mesdames Hale, Panet, David Williams and Ronald Harris presided over the tea cups at a long table adorned with clusters of yellow daffodils and blue hyacinths. Assisting in serving were Misses Symonds, McKenna, Manley, Ora White, Margaret McCrimmon, Ruth Robinson, Eula White, Mrs. A. V. Becher and Girl Guide officers.

A similar table was arranged in the west wing, where the honors were done by Mesdames E. H. Young, E. H. Johnston, Gerald Pearson and Miss Susan Blackburn, with the assistance of Mrs. Pickering, Fletcher, Evans, Waite, McDonald, Fletcher, Ruby Alexander and Girl Guide officers. The members of the tea committee were Mrs. F. Forristal, Mrs. Cameron Wilson, Miss McDonald, Mrs. Glennie Wilson, Miss Stevenson, Mrs. Guymer, Miss Macbeth and Miss Leah White.

A strictly official affair, by virtue of the fact that invitations had only been extended to those with official right to be present through connection with military or civic boards, churches or organizations that in some way had assisted the hospital, thanks to the example set by their excellencies.

Among the many present, both Lord and Lady Byng recognized a number whom they had met on the past week, the day when they had seen in the wings, and had the honor of being introduced, and one request of Lady Byng's was for members of the Women's Press Club, of whom she asked, as a member of the Canadian Women's Press Club, interested questions with regard to the local organization.

Admission was expressed by both Lord and Lady Byng for the fine new hospital building, and their appreciation voiced that London has honored her men who laid down their lives in the war by building an institution for the healing of children. Among the organizations and institutions represented were: Military headquarters and the military units of the city, all the civic boards, the Local Council of Women and all affiliated societies, the Ontario Women's Institute, the Commercial Travelers' Association, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions Clubs, Royal Arch, Masons, Mocha Patrol, Shriners, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, the Order of the Eastern Star, the Mothers' Clubs, all the I. O. D. E. Chapters, the Women's Canadian Club, Zionist Association, Y. W. C. A., Nursing Sisters' Association, the Good Cheer and Nightingale Clubs, the Women's Faculty Club of the Western University, the University Women's Club, the various faculties of the university, all religious denominations, Dundas and St. Nicholas, the Hadassah Chapter, the Midwestern County Council and township councils. The Women's Press Club was invited as a body. Mrs. G. E. Edwards, president of the Ontario Women's Institute, was presented to represent the royal women of Western Canada, who have given valuable assistance to the hospital. Both members for London attended, Frank White, M.P., accompanied by Mrs. White, and Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. L. A. G. R. Taggart represented the U. S. consular service.

While Lord Byng attended the dinner tendered him Saturday evening by Col. C. R. Hill and the officers of the R. C. R., at which General Panet and the members of his staff and Major General Wilson were present, Lady Byng dined quite informally with Mrs. Panet at the barracks, spending the evening quietly with her friend of war days in England.

Mr. Clarence Wood and Miss Irene Wood of McMaster University, motored from Toronto and spent Easter with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wood, 307 Dufferin avenue, bringing with them Miss Alice McDougall of New Westminster, B. C.; Miss Francis Baxter of Kenora; Mr. Cleve Hooper of Toronto, and Mr. Philip Patterson of Montreal.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

It is pleasant and nice to take, and relieves the cough or cold in a very short time and thus prevents bronchitis, pneumonia, or perhaps consumption getting a foothold on their system.

Mrs. E. Smith, 285 Victoria avenue, North Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I have three children who have had very bad colds, due to change of climate. I have tried different remedies, but I seem to get the best results from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I have no difficulty in giving it to them as they like it. I always have at least one bottle in the house."

Price, 25c and 50c a bottle, at all dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

There he lay on his back, his legs and arms spread-eagled abroad, his body displaying the flattened appearance of a corpse. Rafe's throat had been slit from ear to ear. His head was cut open and lay in a pool of blood. His face was scored with scratches. There was blood on his coat and vest and shirt, they found on examination. The district attorney ripped open the shirt and found four distinct stab wounds in the region of Rafe's heart. From one of these wounds protruded the broken end of a broad-bladed knife. "Pull it out," urged Sam Larder, with a slight shudder, his fat face so white that it showed green in the moonlight.

"Been dead about two hours," proffered the marshal.

"About that," agreed Felix. "What you lookin' at, Arthur?"

"This," replied the district attorney, holding up the handle of the butcher knife.

With his fingers he traced two initials on the wood. The initials were T. W.

"You can't tell me," said the district attorney, belligerently, "that this butcher knife didn't come from the Walton ranch?"

Sam Larder stated his belief at once. "She couldn't have done it, Arthur. Why Rafe's carved up like an issue steer. She—"

"She's a woman," interrupted the district attorney. "And a woman will do anything when her dander is up. And we know what this particular woman will do when she's mad. Didn't she try to split open Nate Samson's head when he was hardly more than joking with her? I tell you this Hazel Walton is a murderer, and I'm going to see her hung."

CHAPTER XV.
BEHIND the coral of Guerilla Melody, at the tip end of Golden Bar, Main street, a small spring bubbled to life amid rocks.

On the night of the first of April, Guerilla reached the spring at eleven o'clock.

"I thought you were never coming," announced a peevish voice. "I've been waiting here since nine o'clock."

"You talk much louder, Bill," said Guerilla calmly. "and you'll wait here a while longer—say about twenty years longer or fifteen, if the judge feels good-natured. Man alive, ain't you got any sense?"

"I was lonesome," Billy excused himself. "I've got to talk to somebody. And anyway, a teller hardly ever gets more'n ten years for a hold-up where nobody's killed."

"But where somebody is killed the penalty is worth considerin'," pointed out Guerilla Melody. "And Tip O'Gorman was found yesterday morning lying on the floor of his front room dead as Julius Caesar, with your quilt beside him, and your snakeskin hatband inside the door."

"Tip killed! Tip?"

"Yes, Tip, and on account of the quilt and the hatband there's a warrant issued for you for the murder, and two posesses are out looking for you."

"I saw them," said Billy placidly. "And Tip ain't the only one cashed. Rafe Tuckleton passed out last night."

"How?"

"Throat cut, head cut, and three knife cuts through his heart. Hazel Walton is in jail charged with the job."

Billy Wingo stiffened where he sat. Hazel Walton in jail! For an instant he couldn't realize it.

"What evidence is there against Hazel?" Billy cut in sharply.

"In the first place there's the knife that killed Rafe," said Guerilla, seating himself beside his friend in the shadow of the rock. "Butcher knife with T. W. on the handle that Hazel admitted was hers when they showed it to her. But she said Dan Slike had taken the knife—stuck it in his boot when he left. Then there was Rafe's own gun which Hazel had lying on her kitchen table, showing he'd been there. She admitted that, too, but said he'd attacked her, and she'd managed to get hold of his gun after the clock fell on him, and drive him out."

"Is that all?" asked Billy.

"Lemme get my breath," Guerilla begged indignantly. "No, it ain't all. The district attorney says those supplies were bought for you and they were taken by you. Hazel's ridin' horse, the one too to be her uncle's, that's gone too—with you."

"If Rafe thinks I was at Hazel's, it's reasonable to assume I might have had a hand in killin' Rafe myself. That goes double for Dan Slike, seeing he had the knife last."

"It's reasonable all right enough, but then you and Dan Slike ain't noways available, and Hazel is right handy."

"But how did Slike get hold of the butcher knife, that's what I want to know?" He didn't have it on him when I arrested him last January."

"That's the damndest part of the whole deal, Bill. Hazel says Dan Slike came to her place before Rafe did, and it was him took the supplies and her horse and her hat and that very same butcher knife which came along as dress fabrics began to get more and more sheer, and skirts shorter. Otherwise many a fair woman's scant and diaphanous draperies might have fluttered away at the first stiff breeze encountered.

T's a good thing the bead vogue

The dressy afternoon frock for this season is distinguished by simplicity of line but extreme elegance of fabric and ornamentation. Heavy beading, rich embroidery or lace makes the afternoon frock for formal wear a thing of beauty and a joy for the whole season.

Chantilly laces are much used in black, brown, navy, grey and ecru. Other all-over laces and deep flounces are used, dyed to match the fabric of the gown. Often heavily beaded panels of chiffon are used over the lace flounces.

Jet beads are most used for street frocks, and are seen also on many gave Rafe his come-uppance. Slike beat her almost senseless too, she said."

Billy Wingo looked up at the stars. His lips moved. But no sound issued. After a moment he said, in an oddly dead tone of voice, "How did Slike escape?"

"Far as anybody can tell, he made him a key somehow and unlocked the jail door and walked out. Anyway, Riley Tyler found the door open yesterday afternoon and Dan's cell empty. And the district attorney lost a horse and saddle."

"If there was any kind of a trail it's queer they didn't run up on Slike at Hazel's."

"That's the funny part of it. The trail led in the opposite direction toward Jacksboro. The posse followed it clear to the West Fork of afternoon and evening gowns, but color, either delicate or vivid, is seen everywhere in the beads. Steel beads are used to advantage on navy blue, gold, bronze or yellow beads appear on many brown frocks.

The trick of making the sleeves of another color, frequently of another fabric more sheer than the body of the dress, is an interesting development in afternoon dresses.

One such combination imported from Paris is of sand-colored Canton crepe with long, wide sleeves of henna georgette heavily embroidered in an all-over design in yarn the exact color of Canton silk. The henna note was introduced again in a narrow piping where the long waist was joined to the straight skirt.

Navy and beige is also much used in these two-color costumes, with the navy administered in sparing doses.

The Wagonjack, where they lost it on the rocky ground on the other side."

"Do you know somethin', Guerilla? It wouldn't surprise me a whole lot to find out the district attorney his own self made that trail to the Wagonjack. I guess I'd better go see the district attorney."

Guerilla Melody chuckled as one does at a pleasantry.

"I mean it," pronounced Billy. "He needs a lil' straight talk, and he's going to get it prompt and soon. Luckily he leaves his window partly open at night."

The district attorney, lying on the broad of his back in bed, suddenly snored his way into a nightmare. He dreamed that he was in the woods, and that a ninety-foot pine had fallen upon his chest.

The something on his chest spoke in a carefully restrained whisper: "Keep very quiet."

The district attorney would have shivered had he been able to move that much. He knew that voice. It belonged to Billy Wingo.

"I hear you arrested Miss Walton?"

"I—er—I had to," explained the district attorney.

"No evidence a-tall. You were too precious, Arthur. I've got a sneaking idea, old settler, that you are cluttering up the face of the earth. Be reasonable now, don't you think so yourself?"

No reply.

"You're thinking because I'm talking to you so bright and merry that I don't mean what I say. Listen—the whisper lost its airiness and became a ruthless, snarling growl—'listen to me. Because of what you've done to her, it's all I can do to keep from strangling the breath out of you here and now.'"

Billy paused. "About Miss Walton," he continued in his former tone. "I'll give you your choice. If she isn't out of jail and the warrant against her withdrawn by noon tomorrow, I give you my word that I'll down you on or before midnight Sunday. And I have a habit of keeping my promises."

"All right," capitulated the district attorney.

LAND OF DIDDYEVERS

(By Olive Roberts Barton)

Off in the distance they could see a city with tall shining towers and bridges and parapets and wells.

AT last the Twins were over the Seven Mountains, and down on the plain were the Diddyevers lived. Off in the distance they could see a city with tall shining towers and bridges and parapets and wells.

A stately palace as white as a pond-lily and as sparkling as frost on marble, stood in the centre of a stately park where peacocks walked. That was where King Indig lived.

Beyond the town on a high hill stood another palace, as white as an Easter lily and sparkling like a million dew-drops in May. That was the palace where the Princess Therna lived.

The red-feather pen in Nick's pocket told the children everything, writing his messages on the magic paper.

"When we reach King Indig's palace," went on the pen, "I must leave you, for I must take my place among the other feathers in the wing of the furious falcon that guards the gate. King Indig will receive you kindly. He knows you have the record with the magic words, which may permit him to marry Princess Therna. Your adventures, however, are only half over. You must make the journey across the Seven Valleys to the Kingdom of the Koro-nots and bring King Verdi back with you."

With that it jumped back into Nick's pocket again and the Twins made their way to the town of Cobalt, which was the name of the place where King Indig lived.

As they came near they could see that all the houses, except the palace itself, were blue. The trees, grass and flowers were blue, even the paving stones. The one bit of color was the large bird which walked up and down over the gate of the palace.

It was bright red.

"There's the furious falcon," said Nancy. "Do you suppose it will allow us to enter?"

ended. In the past four weeks Billy had grown a presentable beard, had met up with Johnny Dawson, a friend of his youth, and had three times crossed the trail of Dan Slike. His latest information was that Slike and Jack Murray were inseparable.

Finally the morning came when Billy and Dawson believe they had Slike in their grasp. They could hear his rifle as they gazed down from the hill on a scene that had many counterparts in the west.

A quarter-mile out from the base of the hill was a tiny fire, beyond which lay a hog-tied calf. Beyond the calf a man sprawled behind the body of a pony. He was aiming a rifle at another man ensconced below a cutbank bordering a small creek. This second man was not clearly visible.

Between this man and the man behind the pony were three hundred yards of ground as flat as a floor. Billy swept the background of the cutbank man with his glasses.

"There are two horses tied behind a windfall alongside those rocks. Where's the other man?"

"There's the other man," said Dawson, pointing fifty yards down stream from the cutbank. "What's he doing—drinking?"

Billy turned his glasses. "He ain't drinking," he said soberly. "His head's under water."

"I'm sure hoping he ain't Dan Slike," Dawson said matter-of-factly.

BISTER MARY'S KITCHEN HORSEHRADISH

HORSEHRADISH is one of the best of the early spring appetizers. Use it with roast beef or in sandwiches. Beat some of the shredded root into butter and spread on boiled fish. Cabbage or beet salad is given a tang by the addition of a little horseradish.

Let the root stand in cold water for an hour before shredding. The root is shredded or grated for serving.

Horseradish Cream.
Three tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups cream, ¼ cup grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon sugar.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook three minutes after all the milk is in. Add salt, pepper, sugar, vinegar and horseradish. Heat thoroughly, but do not let boil. Serve hot with boiled fish or roast beef.

Horseradish Sauce.
One-quarter grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, vinegar to make moist.

Mix horseradish, sugar, salt and pepper. Bruise with a wooden potato masher. Pour over vinegar to make moist, cover and let stand an hour before using.

There is a large amount of sulphur in horseradish so wooden or enamel spoons and dishes should be used if possible in its preparation.

Horseradish Sauce (2)
Four tablespoons grated horseradish, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ¼ cup whipping cream.

Mix horseradish, salt, sugar, pepper and vinegar. Whip cream very stiff. Fold in first mixture just before serving.

Horseradish Butter.
One-half cup butter, 1 tablespoon grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Mix horseradish, sugar, salt, pepper and lemon juice. There should be enough lemon juice to make the horseradish moist. Work butter till creamy with a fork. Beat in horseradish mixture and continue beating till thick and white.

Serve this with broiled or boiled fish.

Horseradish Sandwiches.
Remove crusts from white bread. Cut in thin slices. Spread with

PRINCE TO VISIT CITY OF NIKKO

Heir to British Throne Will See Home of Beautiful Shrines.

Original of "Three Monkeys" Carving On Japanese Temple.

TOKIO, April 16.—One of the most delightful places the Prince of Wales is to visit in Japan is the beautiful city of Nikko, 90 miles north of Tokyo, of which the Japanese cannot appreciate the world-famous beauty until one has seen Nikko. The city is one of the most popular resorts in the country and attracts hundreds of visitors at all seasons of the year.

Within the immediate neighborhood are many objects of interest. Best known of all is the famous Red Lacquer bridge, spanning the River Daiyu, which originally none but the Shogun and one traveling as a special messenger for the emperor might cross.

A short distance from the Sacred Bridge are what the floods have left of the once numerous images of Buddha which lined the bank of the river along the Gammanga-funcho pool. The tale is told that these stone images come and go invisibly, the number never being twice the same.

No Expense Spared. For a number of years, with orders to spare no expense, the pick of Japanese artists and artisans, labored to create a memorial worthy of the founder of the Tokugawa Shogunate, Iyeyasu, and to surround his tomb with such works of art as would leave it unrivaled. The site of the tomb of the First of the Tokugawa Shoguns, on the slope of the forest-clad mountain, itself is one of the premier beauties of spots of a superbly beautiful district.

Prominent among the proposals to be submitted at the provincial gathering is the suggestion that no board of education in a city of 50,000 or more population shall exceed from five to seven members, including, as in London, two separate school representatives, who may vote upon matters pertaining to the Collegiate Institute.

It is expected that the board will endorse this resolution, as many trustees for years past have been ardent advocates of a smaller board. Trustee Edwin Smith (Chairman), Rev. A. A. Bice and Bryden Campbell will represent London at the convention, which opens Monday and continues until Thursday. The local delegates anticipate, however, that they will not remain in Toronto for only such time as will be necessary to present their resolutions and await the disposal of the same by the other delegates.

Pure Gold Used.

Unalloyed gold was lavishly used in the profusion of gilding to be seen everywhere about the buildings, and the colors were made fast by the use of crushed gems. One of the most noted carvings about the temple is the "Three Monkeys" the "See no evil—Speak no evil—Hear no evil" triad, known throughout the entire world.

The beautiful gate known as Yomotsu is one of the most striking pieces of wood carving in the world. It is estimated by experts at this portion of the temple alone which has a surface about 423 square feet, is valued at 2,400,000 yen (nominally $1,200,000).

In this gate one of the pillars has its carving upon it. This was done, it is said, owing to the superstition that the flawless perfection of the whole structure might bring misfortune to the house of Tokugawa.

Special to London Advertiser. ST. MARYS, April 15.—A successful tag day, from which $210 was realized, was held under the auspices of Rumsey Chapter, I. O. D. E.

Obituaries

MRS. JOHN L. WHITEHEAD.

A large circle of friends will learn with sincere regret of the death of Louise Maddeford, wife of John L. Whitehead, 615 Talbot street. She passed quietly away at her home on Easter Monday morning. Deceased was born in London, the third daughter of the late John and Ann Maddeford.

In 1887 she was united in marriage to John L. Whitehead, with whom she resided at 615 Talbot street. They had three children, a son, Frank Leah, both of London, survive. Three sisters and two brothers also mourn the loss—Mrs. David Hills, Mrs. W. F. Darch, Mrs. Elson McKay, William Maddeford of London and John Maddeford of Watford.

For many years Mrs. Whitehead had been a consistent member of Talbot Street Baptist Church, and although prevented by illness for several months from participating actively in the services she had been always deeply interested in the work being accomplished there.

The funeral is being held privately on Wednesday afternoon.

SERGT.-MAJOR MORGAN.

Serjt.-Major Charles Frederick Morgan, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, who died in Victoria Hospital Friday, was buried with full military honors Monday morning.

The service was conducted at E. C. Illingworth's undertaking parlors, Huron street, by Rev. A. G. L. Clarke of St. John's Anglican Church. The church choir was in attendance. The band and the firing party were men of the Royal Canadian Regiment. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Serjt.-Major Morgan had been ill only two weeks. He was 45 years old, and had been with the Royal Canadian Regiment for 19 years. He was the possessor of a long service and good conduct medal.

He is survived by two daughters and one son.

MEL BROCK TO SUPERVISE CITY PLAYGROUNDS AGAIN

Same Sites Will Be Used Except Alexandra Is To Close and Simcoe Open.

With but one exception, the playground committee will conduct the same playgrounds as in 1921, E. V. Buchanan, director, stated Monday.

He explains that with the approval of the board of education, it is proposed to establish another playground at the Simcoe Street School and discontinue the one at the Alexandra School. It is felt that the Simcoe School district, being of a more congested nature, warrants a playground to replace the latter school. Director Buchanan announces that practically the same staff of supervisors will be in charge again this season under the leadership of Major Mel Brock, now of Ridley College. An effort will be made, however, to insure even closer supervision than during last year.

The two bathing pools will again be available, one at Birkett's Flats and the second on the north branch of the Thames, near the "valley." Improved accommodation is expected in this respect also.

Altogether a most successful summer is anticipated.

SCHOOL BOARD LIKELY TO FAVOR SMALLER BODY

Meet Monday To Discuss Attitude On Proposals Before Toronto Education Conference.

Passing of accounts and consideration of resolutions to be presented by London school trustees at the Ontario Educational Association in Toronto Tuesday will occupy the attention of the members of the board of education in special session Monday afternoon.

Prominent among the proposals to be submitted at the provincial gathering is the suggestion that no board of education in a city of 50,000 or more population shall exceed from five to seven members, including, as in London, two separate school representatives, who may vote upon matters pertaining to the Collegiate Institute.

TAKE CAN'T OUT OF BUSINESS

John A. Nash Gives St. Thomas Kiwanians Peppy Talk Monday.

Foolish Optimism Better Than Wise Pessimism, Speaker Declares.

St. Thomas Kiwanians Club at their noonday luncheon Monday heard John A. Nash, London Kiwanian, in a clear and bright talk on "Right Thinking in Business." Business is one of the greatest things in the world. It has been known throughout all ages, and almost the entire population of the world is engaged in some order of business or other, said the London Kiwanian. There would always be business, just as there had always been business, and therefore it was up to each individual to be about doing business, he said, and to get the going business came in "cans," and poor business came in "cans."

Today, said the speaker, it seems as if we are surrounded with too many "cans," which resulted in a prevalence of a spirit of pessimism, and a foolish optimism is far better than a spirit of wise pessimism, he declared, and there was just as much business today as at any time, only businessmen must work harder to get it. The foundation of good business was, he declared, right thinking about everything.

Reminded Him. This last remark he made, said the speaker, reminded one of the saying of Shakespeare, "there was nothing either good or bad but thinking made it so." Therefore by all means think good business for by doing so we can keep up employment.

If everyone in St. Thomas would start right now and think good times and reflect it, the condition would change, and there would be good times as up as folks stopped thinking hard times, he went on.

"How can we improve our business?" the speaker asked. "One way to improve our business is to advertise. It certainly pays to advertise, and advertising pays like right thinking. If you are thinking right, you will treat the traveling men as you yourself would like to be treated."

The motto of the Kiwanians was "We Build," and the way to truly build is to think right about all things, and by so doing create an atmosphere in your place of business people like to be in, and they will return to you, he said, and the London Kiwanian, Thinking is a great asset to business, for as a man thinks, so he is. Business awaits hustlers, and the more optimistic spirit. He further said, stagnation will end if merchants and business men will start the flow of money. Business stagnation is due mainly to the mental attitude of the people who are holding back, or in other words sitting gazing at the tail-light of opportunity waiting for conditions to change, when the real business is needed in their own thinking, he said.

Spoiled Us. The prosperity of the last two or three years had mostly spoiled us. We had forgotten how we used to get out and get business in the old days. In the so-called normal times we had no right to complain that the public wouldn't buy, if we made no effort to sell, and at the same time discouraged it by making no effort to sell.

Proof that people had money was seen in the patronage that the dance halls and the theatres were getting, and it was up to the merchant to make his place attractive, give values and really create new business, which was the greatest satisfaction to the real businessman.

He concluded by giving the following little rhyme, entitled "How's Business?" "If you hear that doleful query, dear, addressed to us in tones of fear, 'How's business?' isn't it a fright to hear that question, morning, noon and night, from people otherwise all right? 'How's business?' Why business needs a little grit and more attention minding it. To work our heads off getting it, that's business."

HOLD EASTER SERVICES

Ingersoll Pastors Deliver Impressive Sermons at Various Churches.

Special to London Advertiser. INGERSOLL, April 16.—The Easter services in local churches were attended by large congregations. The sermons and music were of a special nature appropriate to the occasion, while floral decorations lent added charm. All the pastors occupied the pulpit and delivered impressive Easter messages.

The music by the choirs was of a high order at the Methodist Church. "The Crucifixion" was rendered by the choir at the evening service.

8 INJURED WHEN BALCONY DROPS

Montreal, April 17.—While watching a fire a few doors away, from a balcony at 116 Drolet street, eight people were injured when the structure gave way under the strain and collapsed, falling three stories to the ground.

WARDSVILLE

Special to London Advertiser. WARDVILLE, April 16.—Mrs. Sam Brown had the misfortune to fall from a stepladder in her home while house-cleaning, and fracture her right leg at the hip. The incident is all the more pathetic because her husband had a similar misfortune a few years ago, and is now a cripple. The aged couple have the sympathy of the community.

EXTRACT BULLET FROM LENINE

London, April 17.—Prof. Borchardt of the Moabit Hospital, has gone to Russia to operate on Nikolai Lenin, the Bolshevik premier, for the extraction of a bullet lodged in Lenin's shoulder in the autumn of 1918, when he was fired upon by the student, Dora Kaplan, says a dispatch to the London Times from Berlin.

THINKS OFFICER MIGHT HAVE LET MAN GO HOME

Magistrate Graydon Dismisses Case P. C. Easton Brings To Court.

Six citizens who celebrated Easter too well faced Magistrate Graydon in police court Monday morning, all pleading guilty to being drunk with the exception of one man who stated that his wife was piloting him to the home fireside when a constable thrust himself into the procession and took the husband and a companion away from the lady and left her to go home by herself.

"I came down to the corner to meet my wife, and I met and was going home when we were arrested," protested the prisoner. "At first the officer talked to us and let us go, and then he followed us up," continued the accused.

Asked why he had arrested the men, Constable Easton stated that when he first spoke to the prisoners they were leaning up against a building and had told him they were brothers. He found out later that they were not related, and had followed them down the street and arrested them.

"I think the constable might have let you go home," objected the prisoner. Constable Easton then stated that the men had been jostling people on the street.

The wife denied this fact indignantly and declared that she walked between the men with an arm on each.

"I'll dismiss this case," said Mr. Graydon.

The other man, who was fortunate enough to have hold of the woman's arm, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

PAY TRIBUTES TO REV. D. C. MCGREGOR

Ministerial Alliance Recognizes Degree Honor Conferred on St. Andrew's Pastor.

POSTPONES ADDRESS

Dr. Magee's Lecture on "Value of Psychopathic Training," To Be Heard at Westminster.

Recognizing the honor lately conferred upon Dr. D. C. MacGregor by his alma mater, Knox College, Toronto, when he was given the degree of doctor of divinity, the Ministerial Alliance, at the regular monthly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Monday morning, passed a resolution which is to be forwarded to Dr. MacGregor, referring to the fact that he is unable to attend the lecture on "The Value of Psychopathic Training," to be heard at Westminster.

Rev. A. E. Thompson, who rose to move that such a resolution be passed, spoke with admiration of Dr. MacGregor's career in the ministry, referring to his long and successful examinations and studies had distinguished himself, but furthermore in the greatest test of all, which was that of leading a life which would be of the most service to others.

"Dr. MacGregor has stood as a brother and friend to all, and his life has been a living example to all of us," said Rev. J. H. Versey of the Church of Christ, who seconded Mr. Thompson's motion, "and it is but a small item in our great appreciation of Dr. MacGregor that we take cognizance of the honor done him by his alma mater."

It had been arranged that Dr. Magee of Westminster Hospital should address the Alliance on the subject, "The Value of Psychopathic Training," but owing to the fact that a large number of members were unavoidably absent, Dr. Magee's speech was postponed until a date when the Alliance should be able to visit Westminster, when Dr. Magee would deal with the subject in the lecture hall of the hospital.

St. Thomas Topics

Special to London Advertiser. THE FUNERAL OF Miss Maude Yates, who was killed by being struck by an M. C. R. train last Tuesday evening, will take place from the family residence Monday afternoon at St. Thomas Cemetery, and will be private.

THE CAMPAIGN OF the L. & P. S. against trespassers bore fruit Saturday morning when a local youth paid $3 and costs in police court for walking on the company's tracks between Center street and Talbot street.

THE EASTER MARKET was crowded on Saturday with seekers after flowers, and the market was brightened with large baskets of hyacinths, rose bushes, geraniums, ferns and other of the season's blooms.

BELT LINE CARS now operate west only as far as the car barns, while the Wilson avenue cars operate around the west belt to the south end of Ross street and back to Pinetown Park. Manager Johns says the new system is working satisfactorily.

A NUMBER OF property owners have taken advantage of the generous discount and have paid their entire tax at the first installment. City Treasurer S. O. Perry states. The collection of the first installment of taxes was exceptionally good. Mr. Perry says.

GET $15,000 IN JEWELS.

Montreal, April 17.—Bold thieves early this morning broke into the premises of J. L. Sabbath and Company, 5 Notre Dame street, jewelers, and made off with about $15,000 worth of the firm's stock.

TEESWATER

TEESWATER, April 16.—The Teeswater and Culross Horticultural Society was organized here this week with the following officers elected: President, Nettie Moffat; first vice-president, Dr. M. H. Gillies; secretary, S. R. Brill; treasurer, G. C. Webster. The society already has a membership of 75, and the prospects are that they will be a live organization. The emblem chosen is a hybrid tea rose.

W. W. Johnston was re-elected as chief of the Teeswater fire department, which office he has held for 32 years in succession, and his election last night for the 32nd time was greeted with applause. Since the forming of the fire department 32 years ago nine of the members are still residents, although not taking an active part, with the exception of Mr. Johnston.

The Teeswater Minstrels gave their show in Kincardine on Tuesday, this being their fourth appearance. They were warmly received and earnestly applauded.

Excavation for the new school is under way, and material to be used in its erection is already arriving on the grounds.

Chas. Irvin, one of the early pioneers of Culross, is visiting old scenes here after an absence of 52 years. The farmers of this district have sold and shipped fifteen carloads of pressed hay, receiving $15.50 per ton for some.

Hilliard's stores, which opened up a branch here last June, have been given notice to vacate the building, and as no other building is available they have announced that they will leave in Kincardine, and will move their stock there next month.

WOULD INSTITUTE SEVEN-DAY WEEK

Montreal, April 17.—A conference of railway executives and officials of the railroad shop trades union was opened here today. According to Charles Dickie, secretary of the union, the conference is discussing a proposal from the executives to cut out overtime schedules on Saturdays and holidays. Mr. Dickie says the proposal practically means a seven-day week instead of a six-day 8-hour week. Over 35,000 men from coast to coast are affected.

COAL INDUSTRY IS HANDICAPPED

Nova Scotia Mines Are Worked At Disadvantage Compared With Virginia.

Employees' Production Greater Than in Britain, But Wages Higher.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 16.—Some of the competitive difficulties of the Nova Scotia coal industry are indicated by the fact that the Cape Breton mines are mostly submarine, and for every ton of coal hoisted nearly four tons of water have to be pumped.

In West Virginia, which ships coal through Hamilton Roads, and which is an important competitor, it is said that most of the water from the mines run away by gravitation. In most of the Nova Scotia mines the coal seams dip, probably one foot in ten, making the haulage all up-hill work.

Workers' Production. In the West Virginia district the coal output is about seventy million tons a year, compared with less than six million in this province, and it is claimed that the production per employee in Virginia is nearly double what it is in the Nova Scotia mines.

On the other hand the Nova Scotia mines have a much larger employee than double the individual production of the British miners, according to some of the officials of the United Mine Workers. In 1920, the peak year for miners' wages, Great Britain's mines produced 249,000,000 tons of coal, while employing 1,248,000 men. In the same year the Nova Scotia mines produced 5,687,920 tons, and the number of employees was estimated at 12,000.

How Wages Compare. According to these figures the production per employee was 207 tons in Great Britain, and 477 tons in Nova Scotia. In the British mines the 1920 average earnings, including bonuses, was about $1,000.

H. MacDougall, vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, gives the average earnings of skilled miners in Nova Scotia during 1920 as $1,985, while in 1918 with the miners earning $1,710 the average for all classes of employees, excluding officials, was $1,325. These figures would indicate an average wage for all classes of employees in Nova Scotia during 1920 of $1,500, compared with $1,000 in Great Britain.

CHOOSE CANDIDATES FOR ROTARY DIRECTORATE

Club Members Will Select Four of Eight Named Monday.

Nominations for the directorate of the London Rotary Club were received at a luncheon of the reception committee Monday noon, and four of the eight nominees whose names are on the slate will be elected to office next Monday. The nominees are Rance Foster, Sherwood Fox, James Gray, Tom McFarlane, W. N. Manning, Bill Martin, Harvey Skene and George Tambling.

The directors, following election, will choose a president from their number to direct the destinies of the club during the coming year. A feature of the luncheon Monday was the presence of every past president of the club.

John K. McDermid, first president of the Rotary Club here, traced its growth from a membership of 15 in 1915 to the present membership of 154. John M. Watt, president in 1916, and organizer of the club; Bert Silverwood, 1917 president; Frank Jewell at the helm in 1918; Ray Lawson, president in 1919, and James Gray, familiarly known to fellow Rotarians as "Jimmy," president in 1920, all delivered short addresses.

During the luncheon the club decided to increase the initiation fee from $10 to $15, and annual dues from $15 to $20, on motion of E. V. Buchanan. Such action was taken in view of the increased budget of the club, which purposes carrying on more extensive boys' work than heretofore. The budget for the ensuing year is estimated at $3,550.

Visiting Rotarians who addressed the members briefly were Rev. H. H. Bingham, formerly of Talbot Street Baptist Church here; A. Austin McLeish of Chatham; Percy W. Wright, a native Londoner, now in business in Champaign, Ill., and Will Lowe, of the Windsor Collegiate Institute staff.

Frank Harley, who sojourned for the winter in Florida, and Henry Finkbecker, who has returned from a trip to Panama, West Indies and Guiana on behalf of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, were welcomed back by their fellow Rotarians. The weekly prize, donated by Rotarian H. H. Keene, went to Mrs. H. H. Keene.

Owing to the illness of President W. R. Vendell, Rotarian George Tambling acted as chairman at the meeting.

FINISH PLANS

ST. THOMAS, April 16.—Preparations for the vice-regal visit on Monday have been completed. The party will arrive at the Grand Trunk station at 10:30 a.m. Their excellencies' visit will be a particularly warm one on account of the close association in the public mind of Lord Byng with the brave deeds and sacrifices of the Canadian soldiers. Added satisfaction is taken from the fact that their excellencies' visit to the Flower City will be pleasing to them because of the keen interest taken by both in horticulture.

The members of the G. W. V. A. over 40 per cent of whom actually served under Lord Byng, will assemble in front of the club rooms at 9:45 a.m., under the command of Lieut.-Colonel D. E. Gerrard and Sergt.-Major Watling. They will march to the station accompanied by the 91st Elgin Regiment band. The Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps and the Boy Scouts will also be in attendance.

Finish Plans. The party will be met at the station by Mayor Charles E. Raven and the members of the reception committee. The mayor will be formally introduced, and then the members of the city and county councils, with their guests, heads of various public bodies, the chamber of commerce and women's organizations will be presented. His excellency will inspect the great war veterans and veterans of other campaigns.

Led by the veterans, the procession will proceed to the city hall, which has been tastefully decorated, where the mayor will read an address, the women's societies will present an address to Lady Byng, and also the oil painting of St. Elmo by R. R. Osseade of St. Thomas. A bouquet of flowers will be offered on behalf of the city.

Their excellencies have indicated a desire to meet as many citizens as possible in the public reception which will follow, and wish it understood that that connection that will be no social distinctions. Encouraged by their democratic attitude, many citizens will no doubt avail themselves of this opportunity to meet the governor-general and his consort.

Route of Procession. Following the reception, all those with cars are invited

Everyone Is Welcome at Any of These Churches On the Sabbath Day

Robinson Memorial Church Receives Young People Into Its Fellowship

Special Easter services were conducted Sunday at the Robinson Memorial Methodist Church. At the morning service a number of young people were received into the fellowship of the church. The floral decorations added to the beauty of the service and the choir rendered special music in harmony with the day. Rev. W. L. Hiles, preached from 1 Cor. xv:13 and 14, "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures. He was buried. . . He rose again."

"The death and resurrection of Jesus are the pivotal facts of the Christian faith," he said. "That Jesus died and was buried was admitted by all, but from the first there were those who would deny the resurrection of the Lord. It was the one thing the enemies of Jesus did not desire and when in spite of stone and seal and watch of the Roman soldiers the tomb was found early one morning, open and empty, they endeavored to prove by falsehood that the disciples had stolen the body and taken it away. Those false disciples, however, were neither false nor foolish. Today men who are used to weighing evidence subject the story of the Easter Day to the severest tests and tell us there are no facts of history belonging to such an age better accredited than the fact of the resurrection.

"On that first Easter Day they were glad when they saw the Lord. Their chief joy at that moment would be that they had Him with them still. But after the ascension they came to realize the deeper significance of the resurrection. And it is not in the Gospels so much as in the Epistles we must look to read the deeper significance of this wonderful day. Paul tells us how the resurrection was the proof of the Messiahship. Jesus was declared to be the Son of God with power by His resurrection from the dead. Also we are told that 'He brought life and immortality to light.' The Easter morn helps us to leave our dear loved ones who are gone from us with God Himself, helps us to look forward to glad reunions and say hopefully even to our tears, 'O soul of my soul, I shall meet thee again and with God be the rest.' The resurrection is also the symbol of the new life that comes from Him to us. The risen Christ is calling us to the risen life in Him. May we hear and obey His Call."

SALVATION ARMY HOLDS GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Four City Corps in Joint Meeting at Citadel.

Good Friday services of the Salvation Army were held in the Citadel on Clarence street with a large number of members of the five corps in attendance.

With the three bands of No. 1, 3 and 3 corps, the Army lined up in the market square at 10 a.m., proceeding from there to the Citadel, where services commenced at 10:30, with slides from the paintings of Christ, depicting the life of Christ, shown throughout the ceremonies.

Brigadier Crichton delivered the address of the morning, "Not Ashamed of the Gospel," and Sgt. Moore led the prayer, "The Sufferings of Jesus."

The musical service consisted of selections by the Citadel band, with the accompaniment of a beautiful duet by Capt. Barnum and Lieut. Shephard, and a solo "Dark Was the Hour," by Mrs. Shephard.

SUNG FOR FIRST TIME IN 31 YEARS

As a fitting conclusion to the Lenten season the Lambillate Pascal mass was sung at St. Mary's Church at 10:30 on Easter Sunday morning. This is the first time in 31 years that the Lambillate mass has been sung in St. Mary's Church.

Through the untiring efforts of the organist, Harold Payne, this beautiful musical composition by the famous composer Lambillate was made possible. A. Frazell of St. Patrick's parish was an able assistant, and sang a delightful solo.

Solemn high mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Brady, with Rev. Fr. Weber as sub-deacon. The altar boys rendered a very pleasing professional chorus, "Alleluia, Alleluia, Let the Holy Anthem Rise."

In his sermon, Father Brady spoke briefly of the Boy Scout movement which had been started in St. Mary's parish by Harold Payne. He urged the parents of "teen-age boys to cooperate with the scoutmaster, Harold Payne, so that the St. Mary's Scouts would be second to none in the city of London.

NEW THOUGHTISTS HEAR ADDRESS

"Practical Psychology" was the subject of an interesting address by Mrs. Cora H. Rice, given Sunday afternoon before the members of the New Thought Society in the Higgins block, 212 Dundas street.

Mrs. Rice spoke on how the science of psychology, which is the study of all mental phenomena, can be turned to practical use in education, as directed by the school teachers and other educators, in the solution of personal individual problems, in the attainment of success and happiness in life, in the promotion of health by right thinking and rational conduct of life, and in the amelioration of all the other ills, social or individual, of mankind.

"Dr. Hedley V. Caton presided.

HEARTBURN A SEVERE CASE

Many people are troubled with heartburn who really do not realize just what it is.

In cases of this trouble there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by disturbed appetite. It is generally caused by great acidity of the stomach, and whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment, and becomes extremely sour, causing heartburn. In such cases vomiting often occurs, and what is thrown up is sour and sometimes bitter.

The one way to get rid of heartburn is to keep your liver active by using MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS, and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles such as constipation, jaundice, water-breath, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath, etc.

Miss Agnes Cutting, Shallow Lake, Ont., writes, "I have had heartburn for a long time. There were gnawing and burning pains in my stomach, and then when I vomited there was a sour and bitter taste. I used two vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of my heartburn. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine."

JEWISH PEOPLE TO ENDOW ROOM

Mass Meeting Raises $750 Sunday Afternoon For Sick Children's Hospital.

$2,500 IS OBJECTIVE

J. Harris, Chairman of Committee Which Has Matter in Hand.

At a mass meeting of the Jewish people of London Sunday afternoon it was unanimously decided to endow a room in the War Memorial Sick Children's Hospital at a cost of $2,500. The committee in charge of the campaign consists of J. Harris, chairman; Max Lerner, secretary; M. Siskind, treasurer, and Messrs. Lewis, Winstein and Weedebaum. There is no doubt but that the objective will be reached as the sum of $725 was raised Sunday afternoon.

Those who have already contributed are: J. Harris, $50; Max Lerner, $100; M. Siskind, $40; M. Vexler, $25; L. Slobasky, $25; Mr. Isler, $25; Mr. Lippowitz, Brantford, $25; B. Lewis, $25; Q. Slobasky, $25; Mr. Boom, $25; Q. Koplin, Windsor, $25; Mr. Jack, $10; Mr. Catz, $10; Mr. Flusman, $5; Mr. Cohen, $20; Mr. Silverstein, $25; Mr. White, $50; Mr. Cherrin, $16; M. Willansky, $25; Mr. Grace, $16; Mr. Cohen, $12; B. Willansky, $40; M. Kolmanson, $10; Mr. Winstein, $20; Mr. Richmond, $25; Mr. Apple, $20; Mr. Goldstein, $20; Young Judean Club, $10; Mr. Weedebaum, $25; Mr. Rosenthal, $12.

CATHOLICS HEAR SPECIAL MUSIC

Easter Sunday in the Catholic churches of the city was marked by special choir music. Hymns of joy, which during the Lenten period had been laid aside, were again sung while the priests at each mass again sang the "Gloria."

An appropriate sermon on Easter was a feature at all churches. Bishop M. F. Fallon being the speaker at high mass at St. Peter's Cathedral. Father E. Tierney, speaking at St. Michael's Church on "Christ's Glorious Resurrection," spoke of the three days which Christ's body laid in the sepulchre. It seemed to all that Satan had conquered the world, when, lo, on the Easter morning, the rumor reached the people that "Christ had risen." Satan was in despair.

"Christ's triumph was yours," said the speaker to his congregation. "You among His faithful followers, will also rise from the dead. This feast is the assurance of our hereafter. It is the cornerstone of Christianity, the foundation of the bottom of all. Everything depends on it. Our penance means nothing if Christ has not risen. Our faith is the product of a manifestation of Christ after He had risen."

He admonished all his hearers to persevere in God's grace to the end that all might share in that glorious resurrection on the last day.

Father J. O'Neill, who Saturday was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop M. F. Fallon, said his first mass at his home town, Wallaceburg, on Sunday.

CLAIMS NO DOUBT THAT CHRIST DIED

Rev. George Dewey, preaching at First Methodist Church on Sunday morning, pointed out that there could be no doubt that Christ had died and suffered on the cross for the redemption of mankind. It was a marvelous demonstration of omnipotent power that Christ should be buried in a sepulchre yet emerge from it alive and uninjured after the third day, and thence be taken to heaven.

On His resurrection Christ had built the Christian church, the mightiest engine of moral uplift that the world has ever known. He was the only sinless person in the world, and it followed that His death was an outrage, for if any man living had a right to live it was Jesus of Nazareth.

It is the resurrection hope, declared Rev. Mr. Dewey, which shapes man's earthly life and prepares him for the heavenly life which is only realized in the regenerative life of man. He urged people not to play with eternal possibilities, nor to have their Christian vision blurred and dulled by an unsteady moral life. It was possible for a person to be saved and yet to have their decision weakened by the fluctuations of their own morals.

IMMORTALITY ASKS MORAL FAITH

Rev. T. A. Symington Says No Proof Takes Place of Faith in God.

LIFE SEPARATES

Splendid Easter Program Provided by Choir of Knox Presbyterian Church.

At a special Easter sermon at Knox Presbyterian Church, South London, Sunday night the pastor, Rev. T. A. Symington pointed out that there is no proof of immortality that can take the place of faith in God. He took as his text, Luke xxiv, 39, "It is I myself."

"After we have read carefully the gospels that describe the resurrection of Jesus," he said, "we are left with one outstanding thought, that precisely the same Jesus came back from the dead, as had been with the disciples previously, and whom they had seen die upon the cross. The experience of death and of the resurrection had changed His body, but not His personality, the earthly house but not the tenant. After He had risen He was different. He passed through closed doors, and whom they had seen die upon the cross, they had seen die upon the cross. PRINCE TO SEE
BIRDS FISHING

Edward of Wales To Witness Japanese Cormorants
At Work.

Will Enjoy Glimpse of Unique Industry Along River Nigara.

Tokio, April 16.—On a moonless night, illumined only by blazing torches, Edward, Prince of Wales, will be taken for a trip along the river Nigara to witness the strange cormorant fishing industry while on his visit to Japan as guest of the imperial government.

This curious method of catching fish with birds instead of hook and line has existed in Japan from time immemorial. Twenty-eight men, four boats and 64 birds constitute a working unit of these picturesque fishing fleets to be seen in many sections of the Nigara River.

The cormorants are trained when quite young and will continue to work for 15 and even 20 years. When well trained and properly handled, each bird will average about 150 fish an hour.

Handles Twelve Birds.
The master fisherman, distinguished by his peculiar hat, stands in the bow handling no fewer than twelve birds with remarkable skill. Another fisherman, with four birds, is situated amidships, a third member of the two, crew is stationed between the two, armed with a piece of bamboo, which he strikes to keep the birds at their work, at the same time encouraging them by shouts and cries.

Each cormorant has a ring of metal or bone around the base of its neck, permitting it to swallow the smaller fish as food, but effectively stopping those of marketable size from passing through.

Round the body of the bird is a cord, to which is attached in the middle of the back a short strip of stiff whalebone, which is lowered into the water or lifted out again, and a thin rein of spruce fibre twelve feet long.

The master lowers his twelve birds into the stream and holds the reins in his left hand, manipulating them with his right as occasion requires.
The second fisherman does the same with his four birds, while the third man begins his volleys of noise.

Has Busy Time.
The birds start diving and ducking with wonderful swiftness as the fish come swimming toward the blaze of light. The master has a busy time handling his twelve strings to prevent them tangling while the birds are dashing hither and thither.

When one of the birds becomes en-gorged, it swims about in a foolish, helpless way, with its head and swollen neck erect, and the other hands it by the force of its bill open with his left hand, still holding the other lines, and squeezes out the fish with his right hand, after which he returns the bird to its work. This is all done with such admirable dexterity and quickness that the other birds have not had time to become entangled, and immediately the whole team is again perfectly in hand.

Birds Know Numbers.
Each bird has its own number and knows it. No. 1, or "Ich," is the dozen of the corps, the senior in years as well as rank, and his companions, according to their age, come after him in numerical order. Ich is the last to be put into the water and the first to be taken out, the first to be fed and the last to enter the baskets when the work is over. Ich has the post of honor in the eyes of the boat. He is a solemn, grizzled

Ropes in Prisoner At Ending of "Hot-Dog" Chain.

DETROIT, April 16.—Patrolman Howard Harris paused long enough in his chase up the alley to stoop and grab hold of the last link in a fifteen-foot chain of "hot dogs."

"Hey, stop!" Harris yelled.
The man on the other end of the string of frankfurters stopped.

"C'mere!" commanded the officer. Each tugged at the chain. Harris was the stronger and drew his antagonist in.

"What do you mean by such conduct?" demanded the policeman.

A driver for the John & David Meat Market, 1345 St.
Aubin avenue, came running up.

"He stole my sausages," said
the driver. "They're worth $7.53."

"Gwan," said Harris, "he couldn't lift $7.53 worth of 'hot dogs.'"

Nevertheless, he took the prisoner, who said he was Max Whitney, 50 years old, of the Phillips Hotel, to the Hunt street station, and booked him on a simple charge of larceny.

old fellow, with a pompous air. The others are placed alternately on either side of the gunwale, according to their rank, and should the lawful order of precedence at any time be violated a terrific rumpus occurs among them.

After the fishing is over, as each cormorant is taken out of the water, the master can tell by its weight whether it has had enough to eat during the hunt, and if not, the bird is fed with the inferior fish that have been caught.

FIND MITCHELL FAMILY
IN DESTITUTE CONDITION

Henry Greve and Family Devoid of Adequate Clothing and Without Food For Days.

Special to London Advertiser.

MITCHELL, April 16.—A family consisting of the father, Henry Greve, the mother and four children were discovered here in the most destitute of circumstances, being devoid of clothing and shoes, in one of the houses used by the Indians during the flax-pulling season. They had also been without food for three days.

The mayor and other members of the relief committee reported the matter to Rev. Hugh Ferguson, Stratford, manager of the Children's Aid Society, who came to town and took charge of the four children as wards of the society. The youngest child, a boy of less than two years, has a deformed foot, and on account of this was left with his mother for the time being.

This family had been living seven miles north of Mitchell for the past year, and had only moved into town two weeks ago.

GODERICH OPENS SHIPPING SEASON

Special to London Advertiser.

GODERICH, April 16.—Navigation opened here this afternoon with the steamer W. D. Matthews being the first to leave this harbor this season.
She was in charge of Captain Mc-Clenahan and Chief William Reid as engineer.

The other boats in the harbor are ready for sailing and are awaiting orders.

The W. D. Matthews has gone to Collingwood dry dock for some minor repairs. Some boats with cargoes of corn from the other side are expected the first of the week.

TEST LEGALITY OF LIQUOR STORAGE

WINDSOR, April 15.—To test the legality of liquor storage in a warehouse for export purposes, provincial police are prosecuting the Western Canadian Exporting Company on a charge of keeping liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

The purpose of the case is not to test the legality of liquor export, but to determine whether the warehouse is a legal place where liquor can be stored.

LONDON COMPANY
WINS JUDGMENT

TORONTO, April 15.—Injunctions granted in a judgment issued by Justice Middleton today in favor of the Battle Creek Toasted Corn Flake Company, Limited, of London, Ontario, restrain the Kellogg's Toasted
Corn Flakes Company of Battle Creek, W. K. Kellogg, and the W. K.
Kellogg Cereal Company from manufacturing and selling in Ontario cereal products in competition with the products of the London company, also from advertising for sale corn flakes in cartons or boxes similar in form, lettering and coloring to the cartons and boxes of the London company. The judgment applies to two cases, in each of which the London company asked $100,000. Justice Middleton directs that the damages be ascertained by reference before the master.

Plan Tillsonburg Old Boys' Reunion.

Special to London Advertiser.

TILLSONBURG, April 16.—A decision will be reached this week whether an Old Boys' reunion will be held the last week in August to mark jubilee year of the incorporation as a town, but it is practically assured that the celebration will be held, and very extensive preparations are under way for high-class attractions.

World News
CUT SHORT

PARIS, April 16.—The French government, replying to the League of Nations inquiry relative to disarmament, calls attention to the reduction in the 1920-21.

It states, however, that it is unable to assume an obligation not to exceed for the next two financial years the sum of the total expenditure for naval, military and air forces provided for in the budget of 1922.

PARIS, April 16.—The roll collar and Sam Brown belt controversies in the American army during the war have been followed by an even bigger outcry in the French army against the new uniforms decreed for officers.

Protests against the expense attached to the new uniforms, difficulties in understanding the rules of dress and the alleged German appearance of the outfit today brought from the minister of war a circular to all generals asking the opinion of high officers on the various points of objection.

It is understood that, despite the recommendation of the French Supreme War Council for khaki in all branches of the service, general change cannot be made before 1932 because of the large stocks of horizon blue cloth on hand.

MOSCOW, April 16.—Nikolai Lenin, in an article in the Pravda, alluding to the agreement reached recently by the three internationalists in Berlin, says:

"Our representatives acted incorrectly when they promised that the Soviet government would not apply capital punishment to indicted Social revolutionaries and that it would permit the representatives of the three internationalists to be present at the trials. Both conditions are confessions of timidity."

Lenin proceeds to ask whether any bourgeois government would allow the representatives of the three internationals to attend the trials of its political opponents. He adds that, although Karl Radek and Bucharin, both of whom attended the Socialist conference in Berlin, acted incorrectly, "we must adhere to the agreement and draw from it the lesson that the bourgeois diplomats proved smarter than our own and that next time we must negotiate and manoeuvre more cleverly."

BIARRITZ, April 16.—Former Premier Clemenceau, after the unveiling of the statue of King Edward VII. of England here the other day, requested to be introduced to the sculptor.

"You have real talent," the "Tiger" said, "is any of your work in the public museums?"

"No," replied the artist, "but there is a bust made by me in the collection at La Sante Prison. Owing to my extremist ideas it is the only museum which my country ever opened for me. Here is a photograph of the work in question."

Clemenceau took the photograph laughed loud, slapped the sculptor on the shoulder and said: "I suppose we were a pair of fools then."

The photograph represented a head of Clemenceau sticking on a spear.
Maxime Real del Sarte, the sculptor, was a militant royalist in his youth. He had become involved in some public manifesto and Clemenceau, then minister of the interior, had sent him to La Sante for six months.

PARIS, April 16.—Protective measures decreed by the Ministerial council at the instance of the minister of agriculture have had the effect of increasing the cost of meat and butter in the Paris markets from 5 to 10 per cent within a month.

By a decree on March 9 the importation into France of English or Danish livestock for meat purposes was forbidden, though the exportation of French meat livestock was authorized. As a result beef has risen from 4 francs 80 centimes per kil to 6 francs, veal from 7 francs 20 to 8 francs 70, and all other meats proportionately.

A decree on April 6 re-establishing the customs duties on butter and increasing those on cheese has had the effect of increasing the price of foreign butter from 7 and 10 francs per kil to 9 and 12 francs, and of French butter from 9 francs 50 centimes to 11 francs.

These decrees, passed despite the promise last year that there would be no further protective measures by legality of liquor export, but to determine whether the warehouse is a legal place where liquor can be stored.

I. L. P. TO DECIDE AMALGAMATION

Will Submit Referendum To Membership For Opinion On Canadian Organization.

Arthur Mould, London, At Hamilton Convention, Favors Broader Labor Policy.

HAMILTON, April 16.—A referendum will be submitted to the membership of the Independent Labor party in Ontario to decide whether the party should join forces with the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor party.

Debate on this matter featured the closing session of the Ontario I. L.
P. convention on Saturday, and after several motions and amendments had been discussed an agreement was reached to let the majority decide the issue.

Elected President.
A. C. Stewart of Port Dover, formerly of Fort William, was elected president, and Ben Furey, Hamilton, was chosen secretary-treasurer. The following vice-presidents were appointed: Controller John Cameron, Ottawa district; A. Manse, Toronto;
E. C. Smith, Fort William; Miss Mary McNab, Hamilton; Dr. J. E.
Hett, Kitchener; James McIlwenna,
North Bay, and Arthur Mould, London.

Carl Homuth, South Waterloo; A.
C. Swayze, Niagara Falls, and Thomas Tooms, Peterboro, who were wired Friday night to attend yesterday's session, when they were to be on the carpet for minor offences, did not put in an appearance, and there was no discussion on the matter. Mr. Tooms spoke in the interests of a Liberal candidate at the last Dominion election, and the other gentlemen voted for a private bill to increase the cost of gas in London, it was stated.

James Simpson, Toronto, opened the discussion in the merging of the two labor interests. President Buckley immediately entered into the discussion and warned that trades unionism must not dominate the I.
L. P. Joseph Marks opposed Mr.
Simpson's proposal, and Hon. Walter Rollo was another who did not favor affiliation. Through dual organization one would suffer, and there was no good to be derived, said Hon.
Mr. Rollo.

Arthur Mould, London, favored a broader labor policy as the I. L. P. alone could not fulfill labor's aspirations.

Indorse Resolution.
The convention indorsed a resolution asking Premier Durney to appoint at least one labor representative to the commission to investigate the hydro Chippawa development.

The meeting adopted a resolution from the Dundas branch to the effect that where a man was injured at his work the workmen's compensation act be so amended as to provide that work for which he was sued be supplied him when he regained his health, and that the same rate of pay be given as if the accident had not occurred.

Winnipeg Man Named.
OTTAWA, April 15.—Matthew now, Winnipeg, has been appointed to the board of grain commissioners, at a salary of $6,000 a year. He succeeds William D. Staples, whose term expired April 10.

The "Easy" Electric
Wants Washing To Do

This week The Hydro Shop offers you the opportunity to obtain, on unusually easy terms, one of the finest electric washing machines manufactured.

It is well named The Easy.

Easy to buy, Easy to pay for. Easy on clothes. Easy on power and nothing could be easier to operate.

The Easy washes by natural hand methods of air pressure and suction. On the down stroke the vacuum cups force the hot, soapy water through the meshes of the clothes and on the up stroke draw it back again.

Sixty times a minute the vacuum cups do this, taking a new position with each downward movement.

You Should See the "EASY" In Action

Each day this week The Easy is doing real washing in the Hydro Shop window. If you prefer a demonstrator will be sent to your home to do your next washing electrically.
Phone 7000 or send in your name and address and an appointment will be made at once.
Then you will know just how well The Easy does the work, and how little attention the machine requires. And best of all it is built to keep on giving just such service for a lifetime.
