Greer May Become Inspector-Secretary of Public Schools

EDUCATION MAY HAVE 3 LEADERS

Greer, Miller and Beal Named For Positions in London.
REDUCE BOARD
Hope To Have Only Six Members To Carry Out Work.

The board of education is anxious to make immediate use of such sections of the British report as will bring centralization of authority and simplicity of system in school management.

With this end in view, it is probable that the recommendation will be made that V. K. Greer, senior public school inspector, be appointed to a new position of inspector-secretary of the primary schools of London, the new office responsibility that attaches to any position in the primary schools at present.

Pursuant to the same policy, Principal Everton Miller of the colleges will be placed in control of the secondary academic school system of London, with probably more far-reaching powers than he exercises under the present system.

Same Matter. The matter of the technical high school will be treated in the same manner, and Principal H. B. Beal will be the official responsible for that school.

What is aimed at ultimately is a board of education of six members, one of them a representative of the Roman Catholic families. It is not likely that this can be accomplished at once, but the other moves will be made, and will mark the inauguration of a policy leading up to a smaller body in control of the schools, and with responsibility definitely fixed upon the officials named above.

Waste of Time. Several members of the board have felt for some time that the present method is a waste of time and energy, particularly the adherence to the old plan of referring matters to committees that could be settled in a short time by any of the officials whose business it is ultimately to attend to the matter.

Dr. Brittain is spending this evening going over the situation with members of the board of education, and the whole matter will be brought up for discussion at the meeting on Thursday, together with the recommendations of the report of the portions of the report that can be applied immediately.

COOLIDGE PICKED TO WIN TODAY

Largest Electorate in History Will Select New President. POLITICAL TANGLE. All Candidates Confident as Voters Ballot to Decide Choice.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Nov. 4.—Ideal weather favored the voters of the United States for their quadrennial presidential election in nearly every section of the country today, and this, together with keen interest in local political battles, served to bring out what promised to be a very heavy vote.

Parts of a General Plan. The Advertiser regards these four suggestions as parts of a general plan of which the chief purpose is to secure greater ability, harmony and efficiency in the city council.

YES ON FIRST THREE, NO ON FOURTH. From that basis regarding the proposals collectively The Advertiser believes that the city should answer "YES" to questions one, two and three, and "NO" to question four.

NO ON THE FIRST THREE QUESTIONS. The reduction of the council from twelve to eight and a two-year term for aldermen are almost self-evident means of securing, first, a more efficient and united body, and secondly, a continuity of plan from year to year which is impossible at present when the entire council is disrupted with an election campaign each December.

NO ON THE FOURTH QUESTION. The Advertiser will recommend "NO" on the question of appointing a civic manager, for the same reason that it will recommend "YES" on the other three questions.

SETTELL DECLINES TO EXONERATE GABY. Clings to Statement of Yesterday That Engineer Perjured Himself.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Nov. 4.—"Unchecked encroachment of freed, waste of public money, and exploitation of the hydro for the personal aggrandizement of one man" is the first of 24 charges made by E. Clarence Settell, former secretary of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, and which form the ground for an inquiry now going forward here before Judge Colville.

PLEBISCITE COMMITTEE PRAISED BY "Y" BOYS. At the regular monthly meeting of the Monday club of the Presbyterian ministers of the city, held last night at the home of the president, Rev. William Beattie, D.D., of First Presbyterian church, the decision was made to hold a Thanksgiving day service on Monday, Nov. 19.

4-Question Ballot On Civic Proposals

City council follows proper course—The Advertiser will recommend "YES" on first three questions and "NO" on the fourth question.

The people of London will vote next month on four proposed changes in city government. This is the result of last night's meeting, when the city council, to their credit, put squabbling aside and in a commendable change from the attitude of the finance committee last Wednesday agreed to submit the proposals for decision by public vote.

City Temperance Forces Launch Campaign To Stop Manufacturing of Liquor

Urge Federal Government To Stop Licensing Breweries and Distilleries.

AND HOME PERMITS

Resolutions Also Passed Calling For Strengthened Law in Ontario.

The temperance forces of the city of London, meeting last night in thanksgiving service in St. Andrew's Hall, launched a campaign for prohibition legislation and further strengthening of the O. T. A.

As a result of this meeting, packed to the doors, strong resolutions are being forwarded to both the dominion and federal governments.

The dominion government is being asked to cease legalizing breweries and distilleries and to prohibit the manufacture of native wines.

These resolutions, which passed unanimously, were presented by Prof. James H. Bowman.

Will Organize. A further resolution claimed that the temperance forces had been confronted with difficulties during the present campaign.

To the press of Ontario was given much of the credit for the temperance victory. A strong resolution was passed in this connection reading as follows:

"This sixth great prohibition contest received from the press of Ontario a support that was unprecedented, and that was one of the happy surprises of the campaign."

Londoners may well feel proud that amongst the many journals whose advocacy of the O. T. A. helped to put it over, the Advertiser stands out conspicuously.

Give Thanks. Thanks to God, "Our Great Ally," was the keynote of the gathering last night. A prayer of grateful thanks to God was officially offered in these words:

"Into every great achievement, many forces must enter, but always there is a supreme deciding factor. In the victory we celebrate tonight, that supreme deciding factor was Almighty God. To Him ascended countless appeals for aid and blessing. This night we were literally girded with prayer. And as people prayed, the answers came in multiplied workers and convinced voters."

Prof. Bowman, in submitting these resolutions to the meeting, declared: "The resolutions: 'When we turn our attention to the outlook that faces us—the victors of October 23—we see a great vista of possibilities. Perhaps the first thought is that had we not neglected two things—an educational propaganda as to what was actually being accomplished by the O. T. A., and a campaign for law enforcement—there never would have been a re-submission of the act.'

"We must profit by past mistakes. Our next consideration is that the act itself—while basically right—lacks proper enforcing clauses—and in many sections, perhaps, lacks sympathetic enforcement officials. Magistrates that made fifth offences, firsts; or that continued to give paltry fines where heavy ones combined with jail sentences ought to have been meted out, brought the law into disrepute. We need for this piece of legislation, first, and four drastic sentences, that will make bootlegging an unpopular occupation in Ontario."

Stop Manufacture. The full text of the resolution concerning dominion legislation follows: "Whereas more than thirty breweries and distilleries are licensed by the dominion government within Ontario territory, and in the same

Norman E. Trimmer THIS MAN TELLS YOU HOW TO KEEP FIT. Bear River, N. S.—"My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and nervous and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my back. I felt badly for about eighteen months, and could not do my work as it should have been done. I tried several doctors and also bought about $25.00 worth of put up medicines, but I found no relief until I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery, and four of the Anuric Tablets, and can say that I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. I have no more pain, and I give Dr. Pierce's remedies a fair trial. I cannot recommend them too highly for what they have done for me and shall be pleased to answer any one who cares to write me."—Norman E. Trimmer, R. I.

MANY NEW SONGS IN "STEPPIN' OUT"

Burlesque at Majestic Presents Much Humor and Pleasing Scenes.

I. M. Weingarden's "Steppin' Out" company opened at the Majestic theatre yesterday for the first half of the week. Two acts entitled, respectively, "Breaking into the Movies" and "Steppin' Out," give Jack Quinn and Charles Burns an opportunity to display the wares in their own particular fun shop.

The company brings a lot of new popular songs. Florence King leads the chorus through several numbers and to advantage. Miss King has a voice suited to the ballads of the play, and brought the singing to a point above the average heard in burlesque.

Earl Miller is another member of the cast who pleases the audience. A specialty, Miss Opal Taylor and Mr. Miller proved a fetching couple. "The Great Deluge," wherein living models are seen, showed no harsh a strata, where they gracefully recline. Described in the American language, this scene is a "knockout."

A specialty, Miss Opal Taylor and Mr. Miller proved a fetching couple. "The Great Deluge," wherein living models are seen, showed no harsh a strata, where they gracefully recline. Described in the American language, this scene is a "knockout."

Henry Carr, Bob Robinson, Ruth Mayer, Ruth Clark and Trixie Serrill also contribute much to the merriment of the evening. Miss Serrill is a talented whistler.

MEIGHAN AT BEST IN "THE ALASKAN"

Drama of Life in North Vies With Vaudeville For Favor.

With Thomas Meighan in the title role of "The Alaskan," the feature picture at Loew's this week, patrons of the theatre are getting more than their money's worth. Added to this, however, is one good vaudeville act, one that is passing fair, and one that did not impress us as being so good.

Nellie Sterling and her company of four dancers have a mighty pretty dancing act. The girls are graceful, and wear attractive costumes. The special scenery is also worthy of mention. The snowshow, danced by Miss Sterling and the entire company was exceptionally well done.

Murray and Irwin dance much better than they sing. Their offering is rather grown on one, and much better as it progressed. Both actors can whistle as well as dance, and their act ends in a burst of applause from the audience.

Rae Arden and company are billed as comedy, song and talk. "Tommy" Meighan is perhaps the most popular of the "gentleman" screen stars whose pictures are shown in London. It is hardly necessary to go into the plot of "The Alaskan." Suffice to say that it is a drama of the best order.

CHURCHILL ADVOCATES PLAN FOR NAVAL BASE

Is First of Elected Members To Take Up Singapore Scheme.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov. 3.—Winston Spencer Churchill, who has just been re-elected to parliament, is the first Conservative of possible governmental rank to advocate publicly the revival of the Singapore naval base scheme. This he did in the course of a political speech here tonight.

The project for a naval base at Singapore at a cost of about £11,000,000 was brought forward by the Conservatives in 1923. In March of this year the Labor government abandoned the plan.

JURY FINDS DEATH OF MAN WAS PURELY ACCIDENTAL. Special to The Advertiser. Kitchener, Nov. 2.—The jury impaneled by Coroner Kalfheisler of this city, inquiring into the death of John Summer of Mitchell, after hearing the evidence at the inquest held at Welsley this afternoon, found that death was accidental.

It was found that the deceased was electrocuted while in the employ of the A. Hill Construction Company of Mitchell, which is erecting a steel bridge over the river Nith, south of Welsley. While in the employ of the company, he came in contact with a high tension wire of the hydro-electric power commission, which is about three feet from the bridge. No blame was attached to any person.

SQUIBS APPEARS IN COMEDY ROLE

The majority of the English motion picture productions have been described by critics as ten years behind the times. Only one series of British pictures, including "Squibs," "M.P." and "Squibs' Honeymoon," stand out as ranking with the best of the American film producers, producers in the motion picture industry, have to offer.

"Squibs' Honeymoon," the last of the series, which is playing at the Grand theatre for the first half of this week is a mass of fun from start to finish, bubbling with Englishman's subtle sense of humor.

It was some time since Squibs was born into the film world, to become immediately a favorite with the public. The popularity of Betty Balfour as Squibs has increased enormously with her advent in the Grand theatre. Her further adventures as "Squibs," M.P., now with her determination to get married, he brings these adventures to a happy ending with "Squibs' Honeymoon," which is to be the last of the Squibs pictures.

The photographic work in "Squibs' Honeymoon" is taken in France in typical, quaint French rural districts. The photography is a feature of the production, and the best of the Americans have offered and in many instances displays a fine artistic sense on the part of the producer.

It is a picture of simplicity and beauty, original in treatment and touched with a fine point of poetical inspiration. A prime feature of the film is the element of surprise and for that reason, alone, public attention would be best served if the secret of the picture is not divulged.

The remainder of the program at the Grand theatre comes well up to the standard of the feature production. Three vaudeville acts, a comedy, "Running Wild," and an overture by the Grand opera house orchestra complete the bill.

The first act, a versatile singing and dancing presentation, is one of the most novel and original seen here for a long time. "My Darling," a black-face comedian, goes through a series of trick dances while playing the banjo, winning great applause from last night's audience.

Gluck and Bright, in a singing and talking duo, have second place on the vaudeville bill with an admirable selection of popular songs and a little dancing. Gluck and Bright, a basso voice, and in a duet with his partner the best part of the act was presented.

RUDOLPH RETURNS AS REAL GALLANT

Screen's Most Noted Sheik Comes to Capitol in "Monsieur Beaucaire."

Probably no screen star is so well equipped as Rudolph Valentino to play such a part as that of Monsieur Beaucaire in Booth Tarkington's play of that name. In this film, which is running at the Capitol this week, the sheik of the silver-sheet makes his return with all the usual accompaniments of a screen hero, but at the same time in a part which is a distinct advance on any he has yet played.

There is a refreshing virility about his love-making which should entice him to feminine hearts, and his duels and sword-play generally are better than the screen in most cases gives us. He is very capably supported by Bebe Daniels as the Princess de Bourbon-Conti, and by Lois Wilson as the neglected queen.

The story of the play is well-told, and the picture is as good as the play. The gallant type, even though it is more or less an oldtime in fiction, Valentino is cast as the gallant Duke Chartres, who refuses to marry the charming Princess de Bourbon-Conti at the king's commands, and as a result is compelled to flee from the country. Under the assumed name of Beaucaire, barber to the French ambassador, he goes to England and manages to gain entrance to the English court without revealing his true identity. He eventually seduces the beautiful Lady Mary and earns the enmity of Lord Winterset, who finally exposes him as a French barber. A pardon from the king of France results, and the French court, where he wins the love of the princess.

The story is well-mounted and the arrangement which now we expect with all the "million dollar" pictures is faithfully followed here. The program includes an excellent comic film, the news of the world and special orchestration.

ELEVEN ARE KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS BUS

C. and O. Express Hits Passenger Car Near Newport News.

Associated Press Despatch. Newport News, Va., Nov. 3.—Eleven persons were killed and four others were seriously injured late today when a Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train struck a bus bound from Hampton for Poquoson at Lee's Crossing near Hampton.

The bus, which was crowded, was completely demolished, and the bodies of some of those killed were mangled that identification was possible only by means of articles of jewelry. The accident occurred at a blind crossing, the view of the tracks being obstructed by a row of houses.

MEXICAN-BRITISH TRADE ATTITUDE IS MODIFIED

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov. 3.—A modification of the attitude of the Mexican government towards commercial relations with Great Britain has been brought about through week-end inquiries by the British chamber of commerce, and the foreign office has been advised by the British diplomatic agent in Mexico City that the Mexican government will accept shipments from Britain in future under the same conditions as from other countries where Mexicans do not have consular agents.

PETTY OFFICER M. COOK

His Auto-Intoxication Had Nothing To Do With Volstead

Mr. M. Cook of 1236 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I felt drunk" most of the time. My head was dizzy, I couldn't think clearly. I paid no attention to it until one day I dropped a coin and when I stooped to get it, I got so dizzy I fell in the middle of the street and was almost run over. I later found out that the cause of this condition was due to a sluggish liver causing FAULTY INTERNAL ELIMINATION (constipation). This was promptly and effectively overcome by a short course of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They were a life-saver in my case. My appetite has doubled, my dizziness has gone, and my pep is great." Carter's Little Liver Pills have been recommended by druggists everywhere for 67 years. 25c a package.

SOCIAL SERVICE CLUB TO ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

Motor Ride and Supper For Boys and Girls of Thomas' Always Hall Home.

Plans to entertain the children of the Thomas' Always Hall home on Friday, Nov. 14, were made at last night's meeting of the social service club held at the home of Miss Jean Purdon. The entertainment will consist of an automobile ride for the boys and girls, followed by a supper.

Further plans include the decoration of the walls of the Protestant orphans' home with cut-out pictures representing nursery rhymes. The members of the club have a number of families which they will look after at Christmas time, and arrangements were made for the procuring and filling of Christmas stockings.

The club continues to sew for infants, the clothing to be handed over to the Victorian order of nurses and child welfare nurses. Announcement was made that a friend had sent $10 to the club to help carry on its social service work.

The club has adopted the plan of holding a raffle at each meeting for the purpose of raising money. Last night a beautiful china cup fell to Miss Joan Rowat. Miss Viola MacDonald, the president, was in the chair.

METHODIST MINISTERS' WIVES. The Methodist ministers' wives association met in First Methodist church yesterday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. (Rev.) Vance of Ilterton in the chair.

Simpson of Toronto, gave a very informal and interesting talk about the Toronto M. W. A., and Mrs. Fear of London, gave an account of her recent trip to Scotland and France, all of which was greatly enjoyed by those present.

ANNOUNCES CAST OF 'JUST SUPPOSE'

Drama League Will Offer First Production of Season at End of Month.

The full cast of "Just Suppose," clever comedy to be presented before the London drama league at the end of the month, has been announced. The play is to be presented under the direction of the drama league production committee of which Dr. Logan Towers is convener. Rehearsals are being conducted under the personal direction of Vincent Perry, who reports that the production is now well under way. Col. Francis Wainwright, president of the league, is calling a meeting shortly to decide on the exact date of the production.

The play deals with a situation which has as its reason "Just suppose the Prince of Wales came to America and married a southern girl." Following the recent visit of the prince, the subject is timely.

The cast includes Miss Kathleen England, as Linda Lee Stafford, a southern girl, and leading character; Miss Myrtle Torg, her grandmother; W. B. Pope, her father; Leon Adams, the prince; Reg Farvon, member of the embassy at Washington; Frank Adams, member of a distinguished family of Virginia; Basil Morgan, who has starred in Hart House plays, Toronto, an ambassador, a strong character part, and Art Nichols, a colored servant.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

The Wife-Guarded Businessman—The Loyal Son Who Is Caught Between Jealousies of Wife and Mother—What Is Wrong With the Man Who Can Afford But Refuses to Buy an Engagement Ring?

Dear Miss Dix—I need some real and fair-minded advice. I am a fairly successful businessman, but have a wife who is socially ambitious and who uses up my income faster than I can make it. When she isn't out attending a party she hangs around my office from morning until night, until I can scarcely bear the sight of her. She stays with me until time to go home, and then we stop at some grocery, if we go home at all, and pick up a few things that can be hurriedly cooked. Not six times a year is my wife at home with an attractive meal awaiting me when I come home from work.

I have loved my wife dearly, but I am overly fed up on her, if you know what I mean. She has all the freedom in the world to do as she pleases, but when I suggest a game of golf for recreation she follows me out on the links. I am getting so I do not care for her simply because she forces herself on me so continually.

I think a certain amount of jealousy causes her to hang around the office so much, yet there is absolutely no cause for it, but I see her so much that I feel sometimes as if I should like to get out and "tear around" for a change of scenery, so to speak. What am I to do with her? I want to be fair to her and also to myself. A MUCH-DISTURBED MAN.

Answer: My advice to you would be for you to put all your cards on the table and have a showdown. Tell your wife that she makes you nervous hanging around your business office, spying on your every movement, and that she has to keep off the premises. Tell her that if it is insane jealousy that makes her feel that she must watch you all the time, that you will dismiss all of your female employees and hire men in their places, but that from this day on your office is taboo to her.

Remind her that you do not tag her all the time. You do not trail along and hamper her when she goes shopping and to the dressmaker, or to call on her friends, and claim the same freedom for yourself. Every woman knows that the most exasperating husband in the world is the one who sits around the house all day listening in upon everything she says to other women, and who snoops around the pantry and dogs her footsteps when she goes to a bargain sale. And a wife who is a perpetual Sally-on-the-spot in a business office must be even more horrible.

Can you not make your wife see that marriage is a partnership in which there must be a division of labor, and that it is no more your duty to earn the money to support a home than it is hers to use that money in making you a comfortable home and giving you well-cooked and nourishing meals?

Also point out that each head of a department does his work best when left to do it alone. Certainly no woman who turns out a good and efficient job of housekeeping has much leisure for anything else.

Also I would firmly impress on the lady's mind that partnerships are often dissolved if either one of the contracting parties fails to give satisfaction. As for your wife ruining you through her extravagance, that is sheer weakness on your part. Give her a fair allowance and force her to live within it. The law protects a man's pocketbook if he has the courage to invoke its aid. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My wife does not get along with my mother, and consequently we do not get along together as well as we should. I go to see my mother alone about once a month and my wife makes no verbal objection, but there is always trouble on the holidays. My wife thinks that I should spend time all with her while my mother thinks that, at least, I should spend one occasionally with her. My wife accuses me of being disloyal to her because I talk things over with my mother. Is there any disloyalty in this? A. W.

Answer: It is a curious thing that in the mother-in-law and daughter-in-law squabble it never seems to occur to either one of the women who love the man over whom they are fighting that he is the real victor in the case. They would do anything to make him happy, except to try to get along together. They would make any sacrifice for him, except that of controlling their tempers and their tongues.

It is one of the saddest things in the world, for no good, kind, loving man can be put in a harder case than that of the one who has to decide between his mother and his wife.

When the women force him into this situation, however, the best he can do is to make as fair a divide as he can between them. Certainly he should be free to go to see his mother on half of his holidays, inasmuch as his wife has the other half of the holidays and the balance of his time as well. Moreover, his wife should be good enough to sport to let him go cheerfully instead of making him feel like a criminal.

It is no more disloyal for him to discuss his wife with his mother than it is for him to discuss his mother with his wife, but the wise plan would be to refuse to permit either woman to speak to him about the other one. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—If you had a sweetheart to whom you had been engaged for three years and who wanted to marry you, but refused to give you an engagement ring when he could very well afford it, wouldn't you feel hurt with him, especially as all your girl friends had their rings? A DEVOTED READER.

Answer: It would make me feel more than hurt, little girl. It would make me feel full of deep, dark suspicions. It would make me wonder if the reason he didn't give me a ring was because he was a tightwad, and I am here to tell you, my child, that one of the worst husbands in the world is the stingy husband.

The man who is too parsimonious to give his sweetheart an engagement ring will begrudge his wife the very food she eats and the clothes that cover her and she will have to chloroform him to get the price of a new hat out of him.

And then I'd wonder if the reason he didn't give me an engagement ring was because he had no sentiment in him, no romance. Why, to a man of sentiment the whole world of dreams lies in the small circle of an engagement ring, and if he doesn't want to put that on a girl's finger, as a visible token that she is his, his very soul is stuffed with sand! And matrimony with that kind of a husband is going to be a mighty dust-and-ashes proposition. DOROTHY DIX.

Billy Possum Grins At Bobby With An Unpleasant Kind of Grin

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Bobby Coon didn't know just what to do. Someone was making himself very much at home in Bobby's big, hollow tree, but who that someone was Bobby didn't know. Should he go inside and try to drive this stranger out? There wasn't room in there to fight. Bobby didn't want to dare go in there, he would know who was in there. So he had to be content with digging his claws into the bark and snarling and growling threats of what he would do to this stranger inside. When he became tired of this he climbed up to a branch just above the entrance to his home. It was a big branch. He stretched out along it to think and to watch that entrance.

He didn't have to watch long. He heard the scratch of claws inside the tree. Then a sharp nose was poked out of the doorway. Bobby gave a little gasp of surprise. He knew that nose. It was the nose of Unc' Billy Possum who had taken possession of that snug home!

Bobby's surprise was so great that for a moment or two he couldn't find his voice.

Unc' Billy looked his sharp little face outside and looked about anxiously. He looked everywhere but up. Bobby found his voice.

"What are you doing in my house?" demanded Bobby Coon.

demanded Bobby Coon.

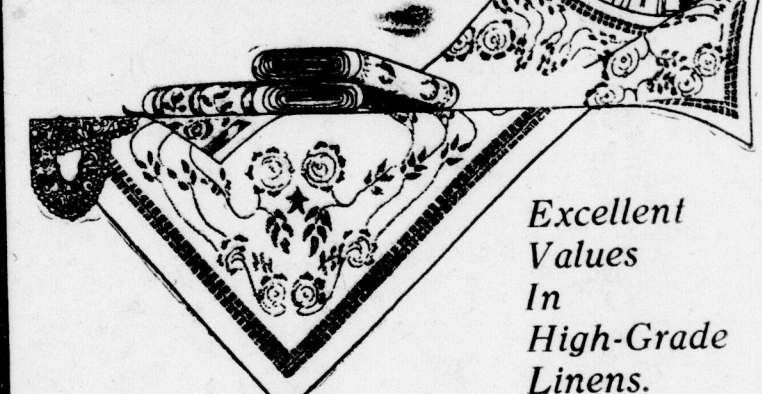

Unc' Billy looked up and saw Bobby. He drew his lips back so as to show all his teeth. He looked as if he were grinning, but it was an unpleasant kind of a grin. "Your house?" exclaimed Unc' Billy, as if in great surprise. "What do you mean by your house, Brer Coon? It

Protect your gums and save your teeth

Just as a ship needs the closest attention under the water-line, so do your teeth under the gum-line. If the gums shrink, serious dangers result. The teeth are loosened. They are exposed to tooth-base decay. The gums themselves become tender and bleed easily. They form sacs which become the doorways of organic disease for the whole system. They often disfigure the mouth as they recede. If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress. Forhan's is safe, efficient and pleasant-tasting. It preserves gum health, corrects tender gums, hardens gum tissues so they will offer proper support to the teeth, and keeps your mouth fresh and healthy. Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes. The evening will be a very enjoyable one, being held in the Horton street synagogue this evening, at which Dr. Levin will be the speaker. Some 35 friends will be invited to meet this distinguished visitor.

A very happy evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stinson, Colborne street, when they were entertained informally, enjoying games of progressive euchre. William Wood and Mrs. David Wright carried off the prizes for the card games and later in the evening dining refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Gladys Hodgins, a popular bride-elect of this week, was happily remembered by her associates in the commercial department of the Bell Telephone Company, when they presented her with a lovely silver vase, a basket of fruit, and a bouquet of roses. Mr. F. S. Routley read the address, and Miss Jessie Russell presented the gift, after which Miss Hodgins made a delightful reply.

A jolly masquerade Halloween party was recently held at the home of Miss Nettie Yeo, Wortley road. About forty guests were present, dressed in pretty and original costumes. After the checky reception, under the direction of Miss Myrtle James, the evening was spent in games and dancing. The prize for the best costume was won by Mr. Victor Wallis as "Mephisto."

Miss Edna Gale, Marmora street, entertained the girls of the Hyatt avenue Sunday school at her home recently in honor of her associates formerly Miss Irene Chown. The event took the form of a delightful Halloween party and miscellaneous games.

The pride of London, A. O. F., are arranging a social evening, which will take place in the lodge rooms, recently in honor of the anniversary of the lodge, on Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 7 o'clock. A supper will be served, of which Mrs. Fred Grigg is convener.

of orange and black, and centered with yellow 'mums.

Mrs. C. R. Somerville entertained very informally some personal friends and personal friends of Mrs. de Kresz, who were the artists of the music club, at a supper party last night after the concert at her home in the Kensington apartments.

The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. de Kresz, Dr. and Mrs. Watson, Mr. de Markey, of Hungary, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Saunders, Miss Annie Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ivey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Beal, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cook.

Miss Pirie Holm entertained a number of friends at her home in Wharfedale road north, at a delightful Halloween masquerade party last Friday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated in orange and black, and the feature of the evening, when the guests were ushered into rooms of ghostly shadows and weird lighting, with witches, kobolds and jack-o'-lanterns keeping watch.

Large pumpkins, after which the rest of the evening was joyously spent in dancing and music.

In honor of Miss Mary Graham of Parkhill, a bride-elect of November, Mrs. M. A. Armitage, who is the hostess at an aluminum shower at her home, 756 William street, on Saturday afternoon, the rooms were prettily arranged with autumn flowers, and two of the guests, dressed as tramps, presented the gifts in a jolly pack. Games were enjoyed, and refreshments were served by the hostess. The guests included: Mrs. C. Guest, Mrs. A. Atken and Mrs. J. Henry of London, Mrs. Lloyd Loring of Ridgetown, Mrs. C. Barrett, Mrs. A. Pedler, Mrs. F. Pedlar, Mrs. C. Foster and Mrs. D. McKinnon of Parkhill, and the Misses A. Elliot, E. Eccleston, E. Field, E. Stookes of London, and Misses I. McIntosh, H. "No need for alarm in that," replied the Basha at once. "Since she has anchored there it is plain that she has no suspicion of our presence. What manner of ship is she?" "A tall galleon of twenty guns, flying the flag of England."

"Of England?" cried Asad in surprise. "She'll need to be stout vessel to hazard herself in Spanish waters. Sakr-el-Bahr advanced to the rail. "Does she display no further device?" he asked.

"What is it?" he asked her shortly. "A stork, he thinks," she said as if that were answer enough. "Faith an unlikely bird," he commented. "The fellow is mistook."

"How? Not by much?" "Intrigued by something in her tone and glance, he stepped quickly up to her, whilst below the chatter of voices increased.

"That which he takes to be a stork is a heron—a white heron, and white is urgent in heraldry, isn't it?" "It is. What then?" "D'ye not see? That ship will be the Silver Heron."

He looked at her. "Slife!" said he. "I reckon little whether it be the silver heron or the golden grasshopper. What odds?"

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

He came again some hours later in the afternoon, when his Nubians were once more at their post. He had no news to bring her, but the fact that he had seen the heights reported a sail to westward, beating up toward the island before the very gentle breeze which was blowing, but the argosy they awaited was not yet in sight, and he confessed that certain proposals which he had made were being rejected. Still she need have no fear, he added promptly, seeing the sudden alarm that quickened her eyes at the word "present itself."

"And for me, too—as you have told me," she added. "Not so," he corrected her. "I hated you for your unfaith, and most of all for your having hurried unread the letters that I sent you by the hand of Pitt. In doing that you contributed to the wrongs I was doing, and you destroyed my one chance of establishing my innocence and seeking rehabilitation, you doomed me for life to the ways which I was treading. But I did not know what ample cause you had to believe me what I seemed. I did not know that I was believed I had fled. Therefore I forgive you, and I need not feel which at one time I confess that I hated you, and which spurred me to bear you off when I found you under my hand that night at Arvenack when I went for Lionel."

"You mean that it was no part of your intent to have done so?" she asked him. "To carry you off together, with him?" he asked. "I swear to God I had not premeditated that. Indeed, it was done because not premeditated, for had I considered it, I mean, she added quickly, as if fearing that the purport of that question might be misunderstood, "that has enabled you to become a corsair captain."

"This is a long story, that," he said. "I should weary you in the telling of it." "No," she replied, and shook her head, her clear eyes solemnly meeting his clouded glance. "You would not weary me. Chances may be few in which to learn it."

"And you would learn it?" quoth he, and added, "That you may judge me?" "Perhaps," she said, and her eyes fell. With bowed head he paced the length of the small chamber, and back again to the window to do her will in this, which is natural enough—for if it is true that who knows all must perform, for all never could have been truer than in the case of Sir Oliver Tressilian.

So he told his tale. Pacing there he related it at length, and the days when he had toiled at an oar on one of the galleys of Spain down to that hour in which aboard the Spanish vessel taken under the command he had determined upon that voyage to England to present his reckoning to his brother. He told his story simply and without too great a wealth of detail, yet he omitted nothing of all that had gone to place him where he stood. And she, listening, was proud and moved that at one moment her eyes glistened with tears which she sought vainly to repress. Yet as he paced there absorbed, with head bowed and eyes that never once strayed in her direction, saw none of this.

"And so," he said, when at last that odd narrative had reached its end, "you know what the forces were that drove me. Another stronger than myself might have resisted and preferred to suffer death. But I was not strong enough. Or perhaps it is that stronger than myself was my desire to punish to vent the bitter hatred into which my erstwhile love for Lionel was turned."

THE WORLD OF SPORT

WHITE TROPHY PRESENTED TO CHAMPION BROWNIE NINE

Two Hundred Attend Banquet Tendered To Y. W. C. A. League Winners.

IDEALS OUTLINED

London Brownies, girls' softball champions of the province of Ontario, were last night presented with the Frank White trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Y. W. C. A. league, at a banquet in the Smallman & Ingram dining-room. More than 200 people, including all the girls who played on the various teams, league and Y. W. C. A. officials, friends and others interested in the circuit, were present.

Mrs. Frank White, in presenting the trophy on behalf of her husband Frank White, M.P., the donor, commended the Brownies for their perseverance in fighting their way through to the top locally, and then winning the Ontario title, the only provincial championship of any kind to be won by a London team this year. Mary Clarke, captain of the Brownies, thanked the donor for the club, and assured the gathering that the Brownies would again be in the thick of the fray next season.

Hope for Another Title.
Mrs. Donald McLean, president of the league, who presided, lauded the players and officials for the work they had accomplished during the season, and expressed confidence that London would again annex the Ontario honors next year.

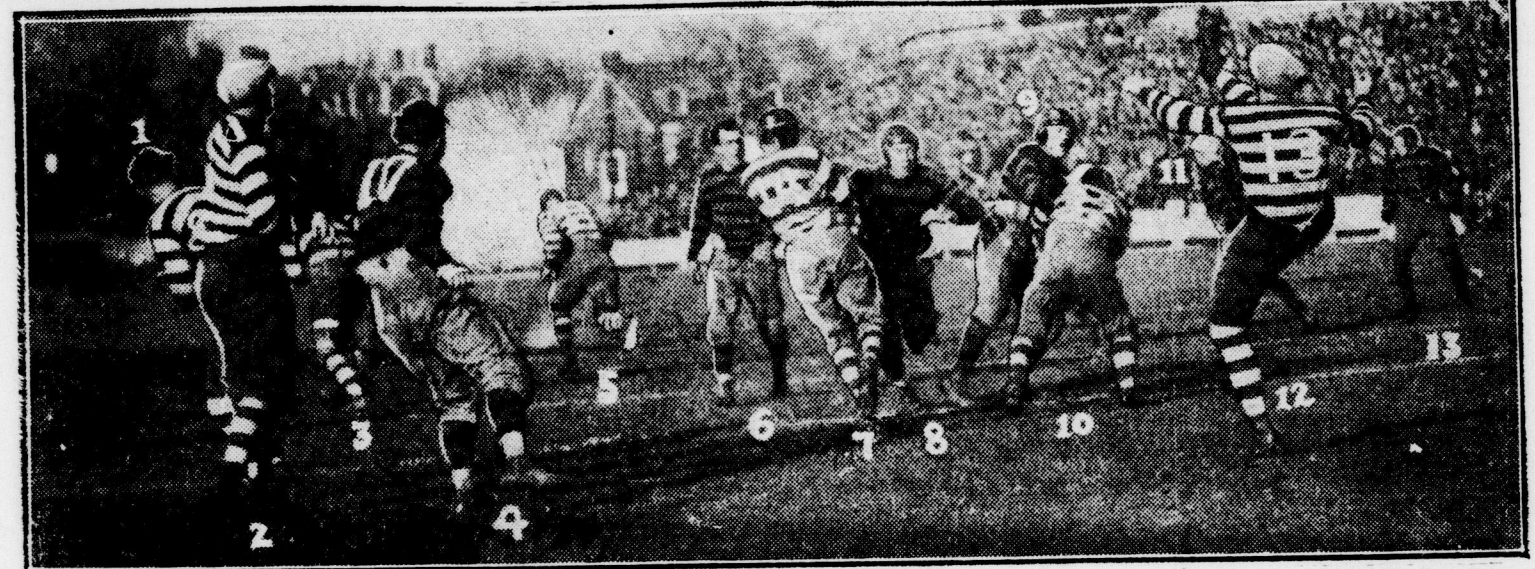

The toast to the winners of the league was proposed by M. Kenyonson, who praised the Brownies for the good sportsmanship they had displayed in all their games. Charles Barbour, manager of the team, responded to the toast to the umpires, and was answered by Ernie Dennis. In proposing the toast to the Y. W. C. A., A. Sheeran commended the officers of the London association for their efforts in extending in making the league a success.

Miss M. Morton outlined the ideals of the Y. W. C. A., and hoped the time would soon come when someone could be found who would present sufficient funds to erect a building similar to that in Charlotteville. "You know, girls," she happily continued, "it was a wealthy bachelor who made the Charlotteville structure possible. Can't one of you find one here in London?"

Play for Love of Game.
Dr. George Smith, director of physical education at the University of Western Ontario, the speaker of the evening, urged upon the young ladies of the various teams to preserve a spirit of playing for the love of the sport itself, and to remain unaffected by the current more or less prevalent ambition "to win at all cost."

The teams, Red Arrow, Briscoes, Brownies, Askin Street Jackies, Latter Day Saints, Jersey Creams, Spark Plugs, Thistles and Westervels, each gave their club yell at intervals throughout the evening, and in this respect much originality was manifested.

Major Gordon Ingram, one of the league's most ardent supporters, wished them, as well as all the other teams, the best of luck for next year.

Black Dinah, Subtle, Boo Boo, Capt. Deenan Aurora also ran. SEVENTH RACE, mile and an eighth: Defiant 109 (O'Donnell) $7.60, $4.10, $2.10, won. Poly 111 (McDermott) $12.10, $5.40, second. Sporty McGee 112 (Kelsay) $3.90, third.

Hambling Hoisting One in Argo-Tiger Battle.
The photograph shows "Sport" Hamby, the ex-St. Andrew youngster, sending out a punt for Argos in the second period of the quelling Tiger-Argo battle in Toronto Saturday. Hamby had just punted, and while some Argo players are protecting him, others are following down under the ball which is high in the air. Left to right: (No. 1) Hugh Mackenzie, Argo quarter back; (No. 2) "Chuck" Reeves, Argo half-back; (No. 3) Young Joe Wright going down under the kick; (No. 4) Brian Timmis, Argo snap, getting down for a tackle; (No. 5) Bradley, Argo full-back; (No. 6) Ernie Cox, Tiger's sterling snapback; (No. 7) Jimmie Douglas, Argo middle wing; (No. 8) Husky Reid, Tiger inside wing; (No. 9) "Gear" Eiford, one of the Tiger's best line plungers; (No. 10) that "great little piece of stuff," Charlie Dinshaw, Argo half-back; (No. 11) Johnny Evans, Tiger quarter-back; (No. 12) Walker, Tiger outside wing; Gordon Thom and Capt. Fear, Argo outside wings and "Red" Wilson, Argo inside wing, are "long gone." They are down around Quinn, who took this catch and was downed in his tracks.

Hot Off the Grid.
Commenting on Saturday's rugby game the Toronto Telegram says: "The first half was spoiled by the hair-splitting interpretations of the rules by the officials. Apparently they feared a rough game and were taking no chances. The result was that they penalized anything and everything in much so that the spectators were provoked and voiced it, and the players had their tempers frayed to a frazzle, and worked up to a murderous pitch, even without that nagging, tore into each other like so many wildcats. The officials caught most of it, and penalties flew thick and fast, but the intent was there and the damage done, and no quarter was asked or given."

Greenock Forest Fire is Still Threatening.
Blaze Considerably Abated, But Situation Remains Cause of Anxiety.

Stratford Will Have Two Teams Next Season, It is Announced.
Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock News arrangements have been made by the secretary of the southwestern Ontario cricket league to hold the annual meeting of the league in the Teumessh house, London, on Thursday evening, November 13. The meeting will be held at 7.30 p.m. and will be a very successful year, although rain caused the postponement of some of the representative matches. It is likely that the same teams will again be in the league, although there is some possibility of Mitchell withdrawing. Stratford, who concentrated on this league this year, is to have two teams next season, one in the Western Ontario league and one in the South-western Ontario league.

GREENOCK FOREST FIRE IS STILL THREATENING

Blaze Considerably Abated, But Situation Remains Cause of Anxiety.

Special to The Advertiser.
Cargill, Nov. 3.—The forest fires in the Greenock swamps have abated considerably since yesterday, but with the breeze tonight the fire may gain the intensity reached Saturday night, when many families on the eighth concession of Greenock were prepared to leave their homes, and the entire district was in danger.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR DIES AT AGE OF 102 YEARS

Associated Press Despatch.
Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—Cornelius Cole, former United States senator, 102 years and two months of age, died at his residence here today. He was a survivor of the most striking and picturesque period in the history of California. He was a member of the first gold-seeking party to reach the Sacramento Valley overland from the east in the rush of 1849.

Mothers! Give the Children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

The following is from a recent work on teeth and health:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth..."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S is a benefit and a pleasure combined. It serves two purposes—and its cost is very small. Aids digestion, too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat.

Choice of several flavors—all of WRIGLEY'S quality, standard of the world.

The Flavor Lasts.

Golf AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT.

-THIS COUNTS

NOT THIS

How should the driving swing be finished after the ball is hit? Answered by JIM BARNES, 1921, recognized everywhere as one of the greatest golfers in the world. In British open championship, 1922, he finished second, one stroke behind Walter Hagen, the winner.

The most important part of the driving swing is just before the ball is hit. At this point, confidence is essential. After the ball has been hit, however, "swing through" at arm's length, in the direction of the line of flight taken by the ball after that, nothing matters. Posing at the end of a swing is fine for pictures, but it doesn't help to hit the ball.

Should Recognize Dr. Saunders.

The matter has been referred to before, but the presence of Dr. Charles E. Saunders in this city following several years abroad brings up the point that his great, outstanding contribution to the grain wealth of Canada has never been fittingly recognized.

The Saskatchewan Farmer, in a recent edition, referred to the fact that Dr. Saunders, in seeking for a suitable wheat for Western Canada, had to resort to the primitive method of chewing various kinds of wheat to determine the kind that contained the most gluten of good color, and continues:

"The principal industry at Ottawa is 'chewing the rag.' How much better employed our politicians would be if they could be induced to spend a little time chewing wheat instead, even if they never became so proficient as Dr. Saunders. And just think of the fame Dr. Saunders might have achieved if he had spent more of his time talking about what he was going to do instead of doing things, or the millions of money he could have made had he chewed gum or tobacco instead of wheat and developed a new brand of chicle or plug chewing instead of Marquis wheat."

The editor of the Saskatchewan Farmer says that Dr. Saunders, in developing Marquis wheat, made "probably the most princely gift that has been made to Canada since Cartier sailed up the Atlantic."

It will be small gratitude if we, as a nation, should wait for his death and then rear a great monument. Dr. Saunders is here today; he has made a contribution to national development that speaks in terms of millions of dollars of added wealth every year. Ottawa should act now, and it can do so with the positive assurance that its move will have the hearty approval of the whole dominion.

No Season Is Exempt.

Entering November, it might be supposed we were passing from the season where accidents are numerous. Experience has led to an anticipation of seasonal casualties; the early swimmers who get beyond their depth; those who imagine a canoe is a flat-bottomed boat; drivers who lose control—they all add to the list in summer.

The week-end just passed set up a record for disaster that has not been equaled in summer. For in one day's news there are records of twenty-three dead and fifty injured.

A Long Island train struck an auto, killed three and injured two; Chicago freight train backed into a street car crowded with merry-makers, killed ten and injured forty. A Toronto boy was killed by an auto and two others were hurt; a young man was drowned from a punt at Peterboro; a family of four were killed near Gananoque on Sunday morning, their car being struck by an engine while on the way to church; two women are dead at Windsor from a car plunging into a ditch.

Danger does not decrease with the passing of summer and the early fall. In many ways it increases. The days are shorter, roads become poorer, pavements are made treacherous by fallen leaves and rain. Instead of less care there must be more. The first week-end in November with its list of fatalities should hang out like a new danger signal.

Buying Away From Home.

A London woman, writing to The Advertiser, tells of a trip she made to Detroit for the purpose of shopping there. She has the advantage of other women in that she admits she went and shopped there, and no person can question that she had a right to do so.

That is not the point here, though. This shopper gives her experiences and draws the conclusion that she could have made just as good a purchase in the stores in London.

In the first place she was doing her buying in a strange store; there was no one there with whom she had dealt before. If, after the purchase, the article does not live up to expectation, she is not in a position to secure redress or even lodge an effective complaint.

Not only so, but the stores at home are here, ready to serve her all the time, even to the smallest purchases for which she would not think of making a trip out of town. The store in Detroit cannot give her that sort of everyday service.

She has had an opportunity now to compare prices and styles in Detroit and London. While she was in the American city she made it her business to look around, and she found that styles were much the same; what was considered "new" there was also being shown as "new" in London. The range of prices, quality considered, was about the same as in this city.

The merchants of London, and the same thing holds true of other Western Ontario centers, carry stocks for convenience of the shoppers of the district. They have to meet the competition of other merchants and the inroads on their trade from outside points, so they must keep their selling prices at a fair figure. These stores do give service at all times; they are prepared to stand behind the goods they sell, and if there are complaints it is an easy matter to take them where they can be fairly adjusted.

This London woman's experience was worth while; she went and saw and purchased, and after it was all over came to the conclusion that she could have done just as well in London, to say nothing of the cost of going to and returning from Detroit.

Ontario Has Too Many Teachers.

Ontario has 1,000 more teachers than school boards to employ them. Such was the problem presented to Premier Ferguson by a deputation from the Ontario educational association. The suggestion made was that the qualifications of teachers be raised to exclude those who did not intend to pursue it as a life work.

A few years ago teachers organized to better their conditions. They did so, and the salaries were increased considerably. The result was that there were more students heading for the teaching profession, attracted there by the better conditions secured by the teachers themselves. In another way, the teachers secured not only better conditions, but with them more competition for the available positions.

There is something to be said in favor of confining teaching as far as possible to those who intend to follow it permanently, but on the other hand it is a fact that teaching has been a useful stepping-stone to many a young man thrown on his own resources and determined to work his way through to a professional career. It is not so much used for this purpose today as it was a few years ago, but there are many who have come through by this route, and there was nothing to show that the teaching of the children suffered as a result.

Qualifications for teaching should not be framed with the idea of keeping a certain number out of the profession. The fact that Ontario has 1,000 too many teachers now will attend to that.

They See Things Differently.

Shipping companies are interested in immigrants because each one represents the price of a ticket. The United States quota law is taking some of the cream off this business.

One company gathered up 235 Russians almost a year ago, and on payment of the price of transportation agreed to feed them until they were landed in United States. On arriving there it was found no more Russians could enter, so back they went, and they have been fed and watered at the company's expense in Cherbourg, France, ever since.

A few more cases of this sort might cause booking agents to come to their senses, and allow the nations to attend to their own immigration business.

The Danger of One Trip More.

The great lakes are taking their toll from fall shipping. There is always the desire to rush in as many late trips as possible, for each one of these trips makes earnings on 150,000 bushels of wheat.

The construction of these lake carriers is of such a nature that when caught in the storms of late fall they have little chance unless they follow the storm signals and run for safety. They are of great length, with an engine not built for speed located in the stern. They cannot move quickly, and therefore are battered about by the waves and blown out of their course by the wind.

The excellent system of storm signals on the great lakes has saved many of these lake carriers from an untimely end. The greatest danger they have to face is the temptation of one more trip before navigation closes.

Dressin' Up

A man I know in this here town what runs a store two blocks up street has mailed me on a little book on how to dress from head to feet. No doubt he's cast his eye on me, a saunterin' through the autumn breeze, and noted how I always wear my trousers bulgin' at the knees. Pr'aps he's seen my jacket too, a touch of green around the top, he's seen the fringe above the thumb and reckons it high time to stop—and so he sent me on a book, a showin' how a man should dress, instead of wearin' shabby rags like sillin' vessels in distress.

He's got one suit fit on a man, the readin' lines what's with it tell us how it's cut close in the back to make it fit the figure well, but I go bulgin' here and there, I'd look a fright in that there suit, some man who was a-huntin' ducks he'd lumber up his gun and shoot.

Well next there comes a sporting suit, a thing what's new and up-to-date, but clad in such a thing as that I'd look just like a figure eight.

And further on he goes to tell just how a tie and suit should match, and not be havin' clashing tones from every dye-shop's latest batch. A blue suit needs a nice blue tie, a brown suit needs a shade of brown, you got to reckon on these things to be the best dressed man in town.

But now I'm stuck again right here, I got a red tie in a store, it was the gayest rag, you bet, that white man in ten years has wore. Now must I go, to be correct, to follow color schemes all through, and buy the seeds from off my roll and go and wear a red suit too?

But there's a page that's took my eye, I've scanned the thing aright to see just what's the proper thing to wear when we get asked some night to tea. I'm notin' down just what to do, just how to blend the shades and hues, and learnin' when a frock coat's on 'tis then I shed my yellow shoes.

I started out somewhat in scorn to read about this dressin' stuff, a-thinkin' it was fads and frills, and rest was naught but tailor's bluff. But hang it all, now as I gaze upon them dudes inside the book, I fancy if I was decked up, how handsome I'd be sure to look. I guess I'll have to go some day when creditors has left the land, I'll shake the iron men from my wad and start to dress to beat the band.—ARK.

OUR PREFERENCE.

Of movies that wax sentimental,
Of stars drawing hard their last breath,
Of films sweet and dreary and gentle
I'm sickened almost to the death;
I want to see bloodthirsty pirates,
I want to see heroes that kill 'em,
A "Heave-ho-and-off-to-Spain,"
"King-of-the-Spanish-Main"
Fillum.

Those loves of a simpleton flapper,
Those scenes a la Cecil De Mille,
Those heroes so honest and dapper
Give me pains from the head to the heel;
I want some more Sea Hawks to gaze upon,
I crave for a real fighting mixture,
A "Trust-and-that's-done-for-you,"
"Lady-I've-won-for-you"

"I'm having a hard time finding a school to send my son to," Hezta Dumb said to his friend, Goofs McGoofts.

"What's the matter?" Goofs asked sympathetically. "Is he particular?"

"No," returned Dumb, "but the schools are."

Goofs—How did he come out last year?
Dumb—By request.

Goofs—Perhaps he undertook too many studies. What did he take?

Dumb—Everything he could lay his hands on.

Goofs—Does he like to study?
Dumb—Sure.

Goofs—What is he particularly fond of?
Dumb—The girls.

Goofs—No, no; I mean what would he rather follow?
Dumb—Blondes.

Goofs—I thought you said he was taking up languages.
Dumb—He was. Last year it cost me three hundred for his Scotch.

Goofs—My son is away at school and he writes every day.
Dumb—That's nothing; mine telegraphs.

Goofs—What does he telegraph for?
Dumb—For as much as he can get.

Goofs—What does your son spend money on?
Dumb—Shooting.

Goofs—What does he shoot?
Dumb—Crap.

Goofs—Why don't you break him of those habits?
Dumb—He always is.

Goofs—Always is what?
Dumb—Broke.

Goofs—What is your son going to be when he leaves school?
Dumb—About ten thousand in debt.

Goofs—I mean what vocation is he going to take up?
Dumb—I don't understand.

Goofs—Don't you know what a vocation is?
Dumb—Certainly, it's what you get two weeks of every year.

Goofs—I hear your son is a fighter like you. Does he look like you?
Dumb—He must. The girls won't dance with him.

Goofs—What color are his eyes?
Dumb—Usually black.

Goofs—What game does he play best?
Dumb—Pinochle.

Goofs—What does he play worst?
Dumb—The ponies.

Dr. Frank Crane

The Tragedy of Motherhood.

Recently a play, written by Martha Stanley, was produced in New York under the title of "My Son."

It was an illustration of the tragedy of motherhood.

The mother instinct is doubtless the strongest in the human race. It goes back to animal life and is one of the deepest and most secure of our emotions.

A man will live a long while, but never find a friend who is invariably well disposed to him like a mother.

The mother has an unshakable belief in the goodness of her offspring. It is not a belief founded upon intelligence, nor reason, but one which has its roots deep in the fundamental emotions.

Nothing can ever change it. No acts on the part of the son can alter it. Even when he is proved culpable or unworthy, the affection still remains, and a mother is quick to find excuses for all that he does.

Wherever there be other ties, they can be broken. Friends leave us, wives can get disgusted and quit, brothers and sisters can be alienated, but mother love continues down to her dying day.

This love even prompts the mother to do things that are injurious to her child. She is apt to want to give him advantages, and sacrifices herself for him, when, as a matter of fact, he needs no sacrifice, but hard knocks that shall enable him to stand upon his own feet.

It is an interesting and tragic thing to reflect that there is no rapscallion in the country, not a thug nor a criminal nor a me'er-do-well, but there is, somewhere in the offing, the shrouded figure of a mother who believes in him.

Doubtless this unchanging affection is necessary in order to hold the world together, but it is not always happy for its possessor. When a man wrecks his own life by his indiscretion he knows that he is injuring and paining her who gave him birth more than himself or any other person.

The great tragedy of wrong-doing is not found in the wrong-doers so much as in the mothers of them.

To the Editor

Resents U. S. Attitude.

Has Visited in South and West and Believes Feeling There Is Anti-British.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—I wonder if an editorial writer cares to know when his readers find in his column something they highly appreciate. Your article on "The Insult to Britain" met with great praise from many of us. When one has thought much and feels as keenly as I do on that subject, it is a joy to find such a forceful, also careful exposition of it. I feel myself quite a competent judge of this international feeling, and it humiliates me beyond measure when English and Canadian public men prattle about the "good fellowship existing between us and the U. S."

I once told Sir Wilfrid that he was never mistaken in his life than when he put any faith in their fairy tales, but high-class men are invited to meet friendly Americans—people who have seen the world, but there is an absolute hatred of everything British in the Middle and Western States.

We spent six months in California in an excellent hotel the winter before the war. The people then were insufferable, but later they were worse. Early in the war a lady remarked to me "that if the U. S. went into it, it would be to help France, because she had helped her."

"She said: 'You smile.'" "I do," I replied, "at this idea of you thinking France was doing it out of goodwill towards you. France was at war with Britain, and could not injure her more than by helping you against her."

I made up my mind long ago that in our attitude toward this lot, we are a poor-spirited people. When I squeezed through the channel past San Juan, on our way to Victoria, I saw one of their steals, and I saw a poor-spirited people. Sir Alan Aylesworth, who revolted against it. Sincerely yours,

Middlesex Branch of Ontario Temperance Union Pass Resolution Concerning Recent O. T. A. Campaign.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—At a meeting of the executive of the county of Middlesex branch of the Ontario temperance union the following resolution carried unanimously:

"Resolved, That while we appreciate the interest taken by the county press generally in the O. T. A. in the late campaign, we desire to express in the most positive manner our gratitude to the publishers of The London Advertiser for their unwavering support of the principles of prohibition. We believe the editorials and correspondence of the paper did much to win the victory in this county."

Municipal Elections.

Answer Gives Information That Many Desire Just Prior to Nomination and Voting.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—in order to settle a dispute, will you please state through the columns of The Advertiser who is entitled to stand for election to municipal office and who is entitled to vote.
J. W. K.
London, Nov. 3.
Answer—Any person who is a non-resident, whose name is on the voters' list, a British subject, 21 years of age, not otherwise disqualified, and not in arrears for taxes, may be elected to the council. Section 53 of the municipal act gives persons disqualified. It includes certain officers of government, persons having himself, or by or with or through another an interest in any contract with the city, or any claim against the city, or in arrears for taxes; but this does not include a shareholder in a corporation, or exempted property or newspaper interest.

Those who have the right to vote at municipal elections are as follows: Any person a British subject and 21 years of age, assessed as an owner or tenant or for an income for the sum of $400 or more, is entitled to vote. Owners only are entitled to vote on money bylaws, and are entitled to vote in each ward where they own property.

Owners, tenants and income voters are entitled to vote in each ward where qualified for aldermen. No person may vote more than once at the elections for mayor, aldermen, public utilities commissioners, hospital trustees or members of the board of education, or upon any plebiscite.

A bylaw or aldermen are the only ballots that may be voted upon once in each ward.

Street Car Stops.

Auto Driver Complains That Passengers Are Allowed to Get Off Between Regular Stops.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—Through your columns I would like to draw the attention of the proper authorities to a practice that is dangerous. I mean allowing people to get off street cars at points not generally recognized as stopping places.

I have noticed several times when a car stops on a switch, waiting for one from the other direction, that the doors are opened and people get off. The driver of an auto has no way of knowing that such a thing is going to be done, and there would be little chance of avoiding collision with the passenger as the roads are generally narrow where these switches occur.

I think there should be definite instructions issued to the street car men that passengers can get off and on only where there are white posts.

ST. JAMES' FACTION CHAMPIONS UNION

Members of Congregation Is Urged by Letter To Vote For United Church. SEVEN REASONS

In accordance with instructions of the union committee appointed by the session of New St. James' Presbyterian church, there has been forwarded to every member of the congregation a letter...

The letter cordially endorses the scheme and "cordially and affectionately enjoins the members of the congregation as true Presbyterians to remain loyal to their church, the Presbyterian church in Canada, and so with her into union."

The following seven reasons are given in the communication as to why the members of the congregation of New St. James should vote to go into the United Church of Canada:

1. The polity and government of the United church is a combination of the best of the two systems already existing...

2. The polity and government of the United church is a combination of the best of the two systems already existing...

Thankoffering Session at the Y.M.C.A. Proves Most Successful Gathering.

The thank offering meeting of the Leper Mission held yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. resulted in bringing over $105 to the coffers of that organization.

The actual collection made yesterday amounted to $85.05. An extra donation of $20 for the support of a boy for one year was also received.

Several donations from regular contributors, not yet in, will swell the total also.

Mrs. J. W. Jones, the president, was in the chair, the minutes of the last meeting being read by Miss Elia Davis.

Plans were also made for the annual masquerade ball, which is held annually during the Feast of Purim.

The treasurer reported that $23.50 had been raised by contributions for the new synagogue, thus making it possible to serve refreshments there following Hadassah meetings.

Council Decides To Submit Several Important Issues To People.

HIT WARD SYSTEM Will Vote On City Manager and Smaller Council Scheme.

Proposed changes in civic government will be voted on by electors of London on December 1.

By an 8 to 4 vote the city council passed an eleventh hour resolution last night to let the people decide whether the council shall be reduced to eight aldermen, the ward system abolished and the two-year terms for aldermen shall be adopted.

At the request of Ald. John Greer another bylaw was added to those which shall be submitted to the people providing for a vote on the appointment of a civic manager.

The long fight to give the people the right to express their beliefs on the recommendations of the exhaustive survey conducted by the Citizens' research institute was brought to a close last night when the following form of ballot was adopted:

1. Are you in favor of the election of aldermen for terms of two years, with the number of aldermen to be fixed by the council to eight aldermen?

2. Are you in favor of the election of aldermen for terms of one year, with the number of aldermen to be fixed by the council to eight aldermen?

3. Are you in favor of the abolition of the ward system and the election of aldermen by a general vote of the city?

4. Are you in favor of the appointment of a civic manager?

Headed by R. H. Dowler, president of the chamber of commerce, and Walter J. Brown, a deputation of citizens was present to urge that a ballot on the proposed changes be submitted to the people at the December 1 election.

The London committee of municipal research, outlined the work of the survey committee and its recommendations.

MUSKRATS BUILDING HIGH AND MILD WINTER RESULT

The beautiful autumnal month of October has passed, and the dull month of November has made its advent, this year in balmy weather.

The muskrats are building their nests high this fall, which means an open winter. This sign is most evident since the decline of the flu epidemic.

Other signs point to an open winter, and though mild weather pleases most people, it does not always mean a healthy period, especially in many sections of Canada.

At the special meeting of No. 2 committee of the city council this afternoon, recommendations of the City Council report will be held with some of the advice contained in the survey has already been dealt with and put into operation.

According to the report, the City Council will not permit discussion on the suspension of Building Inspector A. M. Piper.

M. S. Cater, chairman of the Industrial Area commission, asked the council to take the money from current expenses if necessary.

The council was authorized, with only Ald. Douglas voting in opposition, to purchase a Studebaker car for the tender of the London Motors, Limited, to supply a car for the fire chief.

The council should support the tender of the London Motors, Limited, to supply a car for the fire chief.

BOYD FINED $500 ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Judgment Passed on Horse Trainer Today—$3,000 Worth Rum Seized.

More than $3,000 worth of liquor, seized by the police several weeks ago in a barn at the fair grounds, will be confiscated, and a fine of $500 will be imposed upon John Boyd, local horse trainer, for having the liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

Magistrate Graydon gave judgment on the case in police court this morning. He pointed out that although Boyd denied having anything to do with the liquor, being custodian of the place in which it was seized, he should be held responsible.

Hundreds of bottles of whiskey, gin and alcohol were found in a stall when the barn was searched. The liquor was raised, Boyd, who rented an adjacent stall, was arrested at the time. Keys, which he denied having in his possession, which fitted the locks of the barn doors, were found on him.

When the case was heard before Magistrate Graydon several weeks ago, witnesses stated that Boyd had been left in charge of the Lafayette Stock company stall, in which the seizure was made. This fact alone, according to Magistrate Graydon, warranted a conviction.

Along with the liquor, a complete outfit for the manufacture of synthetic whiskey was found by police. Thousands of fake labels, government seals and corks were seized.

According to police officers, the seizure at the fair grounds has shut off a formidable source of liquor supply in London.

INDIFFERENCE GENERAL WITH ELECTIONS NEAR

Small Number Interested in the Voters' List Reflects Apathy of Citizens.

Apathy on the part of citizens toward the bylaws now ready to go into the scant interest shown in voters' list changes at the city hall, last night the city clerk's office was open from 7 to 9 o'clock, and the clerk's office called. Of these five were already on the lists and one application was entered.

Which six bylaws now ready to go to the people and bring elections promised for the council, board of education and public utilities commission, and possibly the mayoralty, there is no scarcity of issues. With important questions to be settled by a vote of the people, greater interest is expected in a fortnight's time. It is therefore urged that citizens who have not received city notices communicate at once with the city clerk to insure having their names entered on the lists. The clerk's office will be open tonight and tomorrow night, but after Wednesday no appeals will be entertained.

Manager E. V. Buchanan of the public utilities commission has estimated that when the water system is completely metered, there will be about 8,000 of 10,000 meters installed, the daily saving will amount to 1,500,000 gallons.

This morning Manager Buchanan gave out figures for the consumption of water in the city yesterday, which showed that only 5,206,000 gallons had been used, as compared with 6,230,000 gallons on the corresponding day last year.

It will be seen that the difference for the two corresponding days amounts to 1,024,000 gallons or $4,000 gallons in excess of Mr. Buchanan's most optimistic estimate of the saving to be effected.

GRANT OF $50. A grant of $50 has been made to the city council. The girls first team for such a grant to help pay expenses to St. Catharines for the provincial tennis tournament. However, the St. Kitts team defeated the London girls were handed the championship. They have been presented with a $50 check in place of medals or other mark of recognition from the city.

SCALES INSPECTED. Sam Webb, provincial inspector of weights and measures, made his annual visit to the market this morning. All the scales on the market square were found to be correct, and were the scales in the weigh house.

Inspector Webb tested the scales by weighing men of different weights and found they measured up to the requirements.

Mr. Webb is making an inspection of all the scales on markets throughout the province and expects to finish in the near future.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

Miss Edith Irvine, organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, played for the two services held last Sunday in the Westminster Presbyterian church in connection with their ninety-second anniversary.

During the day delightful solos were contributed by Mrs. M. J. Watt, contralto; Mr. Telfer, tenor, and Mr. Hall, baritone.

HYATT AVENUE LEAGUE. The members of the Hyatt avenue Methodist church league held their consecretion meeting last night, when seven new members were welcomed by the president, Miss Mable Cass and Rev. H. G. Croby, Miss Tisdell, the first vice-president, was in charge of the meeting and Miss Margaret Fisher gave a reading on "My Duty to Him." Miss Elsie Clark, Miss Lily Hoffman, and Stanley Lee gave short talks on "Loyalty to Christ." Miss Vera Hopper read the lesson, and Miss Eva Stevens gave a reading on "The Life of Miracles." Miss Hoffman contributed a delightful solo and Miss Tisdell gave a very interesting talk on "The Manhood of the Master."

Walter Blakely Wins Music Test Mrs. McHardy-Smith's Scholarship Won by Eleven-Year-Old Boy.

Master Walter Blakely, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Blakely, Chesley avenue, was the winner of the $100 scholarship offered by Mrs. McHardy-Smith for eleven-year-old piano playing.

Master Blakely is a pupil of Miss Gladys Lowes, and has been studying piano for about two years. He is also a pupil of the South London collegiate institute.

INDECENT EXPOSURE RESULTS IN $20 FINE. Albert E. Horwood, 37 years old, of 457 1/2 Richmond street, was fined $20 and costs of 21 days in jail in police court this morning on a charge of indecent exposure.

Horwood was arrested this morning at his home by two police constables following a complaint lodged at the police station by three young girls.

IRISH LINEN PEDDLER QUILTS CITY IN DISGUST. William Greer, an Irishman, whose efforts to peddle Irish linen about London during the past few weeks were nipped in the bud, when he was arrested by police for a breach of the transient traders' bylaw, was fined the city in disgust.

Greer appeared in court the other day. He had a license to sell his linen in the city, but police claimed he was not warranted in peddling the material from door to door in a vehicle.

Greer came to London from Hamilton, where, apparently, his trade was more successful. He paid his fines in London yesterday, packed up his linen and bid the city adieu forever.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Nov. 13.—Flatly accusing Chief Hydro Engineer F. A. Gaby of the Ontario hydro commission of deception and perjury in his evidence, Clarence Settell furnished an interesting conclusion today for the first session of an interesting commission under Judge Settell of the commission appointed to investigate the charges which Settell had levelled in a letter sent to Sir Adam Beck upon the occasion of the former's absconding with the proceeds of a $29,000 hydro check.

Involves Contracts. The main charges centered largely about P. W. Sothman, appointed chief engineer for the commission in 1906, and alleging that he had, while hydro engineer, taken the contract for the Robert Simpson Company's heating plant and also several Hamilton contracts, executing them in the time of the commission, with the assistance of Mr. Gaby and with the knowledge of Sir Adam Beck.

Over 300 Children Present Play of Passing Months in Ryerson School. AUDITORIUM PACKED

If the architect of Ryerson school on the corner of Waterloo and Victoria streets intended the auditorium to be a community centre, he is gathering place of two generations, then last night saw the consummation of his dreams.

More than three hundred children took part in this refreshingly bright little play, and were a credit to their instructors in their acting and dancing.

The pageant was advertised very thoroughly at 8 o'clock, when the staff began to turn people away from the doors, and kept at it until after 8, and the show had started.

The scene preceding this was a rose scene, in which Helen Prince, as Queen of the Roses, was given an opportunity to sing a song of a rose, which she did very effectively and nicely.

NURSES TO ATTEND TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Advisory Committee Will Allow Victoria Hospital Nurses To Use Equipment.

The advisory vocational committee of the board of education last night decided that the Victoria hospital trust could send its nurses to the Technical high school for cooking classes, since proper accommodation is not to be had at the hospital itself.

The decision was arrived at after the committee had been waited upon by a deputation from the trust consisting of Col. William Gartshore, Superintendent Dr. G. G. Clegg, Miss Grace Fairley, principal of the training school for nurses, and James Gray.

The purchase was authorized of two fire extinguishers and three night watchmen's clock stations for the new addition to the building.

SLEEP WAS STRANGER TO E. E. BRADSHAW

Toronto Man Was Near Nervous Breakdown When He Took Tanlac.

E. E. BRADSHAW

Edison E. Bradshaw, painting and decorating contractor, 159 Bleecker St., Toronto, Ontario, Canada, is another grateful beneficiary of the Tanlac treatment. In telling his experience recently Mr. Bradshaw says:

"Before I took Tanlac I was suffering seriously from nervous prostration. I was so nervous I could seldom sleep, the slightest exertion made my heart palpitate, and my breathing difficult. Burning pains in my stomach tortured me for hours at a time, dizzy spells disturbed me, and my blood seemed out of order.

"With my second bottle of Tanlac I began to feel relief all round. With the seventh bottle my stomach is all right again, my heart action is normal, my nerves are steady, and, in fact, I feel like a brand new man."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Her Wonderful Teeth

Remove the dingy film that's clouding yours and you'll be surprised that your teeth are just as white and charming as any one's—make this unique test.

HERE is a simple test that proves the truth that most of us have pretty teeth without ever knowing we have, or ever revealing it.

This is the reason: Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

Remove it and your teeth take on a new beauty. Maybe you have really beautiful teeth without realizing it.

Film is charged too with most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So, besides loss of tooth beauty, film is a serious danger to healthy teeth. You must remove and combat it. It is ever present, ever forming.

Old-time dentifrices were unable to combat it successfully. And tooth troubles were a serious problem.

Now modern science has discovered a new way. A new-type tooth paste called Pepsodent that acts to curdle film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap or chalk, no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.

Mail the coupon for a 10-day tube free. Or, buy a full size tube at any drugstore today. See what beauty lies beneath the film on your teeth.

EAST END TOWN HALL IS URGED FOR GAMES

On the request of Ald. Greer and Ald. McKay an inquiry will be made to see if the East End town hall is suitable for use as a girls' basketball gymnasium. Aldermen were previously of the opinion that indoor games would cause damage to the walls and ceilings and applications of sporting organizations were ruled out. However, it has been pointed out that the hall is too small for playing basketball and that girls' basketball would cause no serious damage to the plastered walls and ceiling.

MONTREAL CRASH TAKES TOLL OF THREE LIVES Small Boy Succumbs To Injuries Received in Accident On Sunday. Canadian Press Dispatch. Montreal, Nov. 3.—The death list in the level crossing accident at St. Hubert, in which Mrs. I. J. Dupont and her son Herminasse of Farnham, Quebec, were instantly killed yesterday afternoon, was raised to three this morning when another son, Ossiasse Dupont, died of his injuries. The accident occurred when the Dupont car stalled on the tracks and was struck simultaneously by a train and another car which came up from the rear.

Prince Scoffs at Rumors He Will Renounce Throne. By JOHN GUNTHER. Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright. London, Nov. 3.—The Prince of Wales may possibly renounce his right to the throne of England. This rumor kept the Prince eager company during his trip from America on the liner Olympic last week, and greeted him as it was whispered through the crowds when he arrived at Southampton, home again after his vacation. The rumor set the whole boat buzzing before the voyage was halfway done. The Prince himself scoffed at it. But one of his aides went to the trouble of issuing an official denial. Perhaps the circulation of the rumor was one reason for the extraordinary censorship on the Olympic. As soon as it was discovered that there were several newspapermen on board, orders were issued that every message must be OK'd both by the purser and Captain Lasselles, the prince's secretary. Very few messages passed this board of censorship, and any that did were limited to twenty words. Another reason for this stringent censorship came with the knowledge, vouchsafed by officials of the White Star Line that King George himself had become highly displeased with the publicity given his heir while in America, and wanted it stopped. Although the Prince was buttressed off from the rest of the ship by various sentinels and guards, he managed to mingle to some extent with the boat's company, and played squash and walked the decks daily. He entertained a party at dancing or dinner each evening. He is still excellent and his many adventures with Pacific buccaners, South American Indians and natives of Central Africa will undoubtedly prove interesting to the members. Berry has visited Napoleon's exile on the Island of St. Helena, where he obtained the root of a willow now growing at Port Stanley. The captain said not long ago that at sea fights with swords were not uncommon in those early days.

GIFTED ARTISTS AT MUSICAL CLUB Mr. and Mrs. J. De Krez Entertain Club Members in Splendid Fashion. Geza De Krez, violinist, and Norah Drevett Krez, pianist, presented a brilliant program before the women's music club in the Central collegiate institute auditorium last night. Both are artists of great merit and have set a high standard for music club concerts during the coming months. The opening recital of the season and was greeted by a very large attendance. Mrs. C. R. Somerville, the president, introduced the artists. Geza De Krez is an interesting player. His renditions of the Brahms-Jonchun Buntarlan dances were intricate studies in the artistry of violin playing. He puts life into his bow and a mastery tone on his strings. But De Krez was but one of the pair of distinguished musicians of last night. His wife, Norah Drevett Krez, is an accomplished pianist. Not only is her technique expert, but she has the gift of bringing up pictures to her listeners, as she plays. Her tones are all light and shadow with a clear singing quality. With this equipment she is able to get some very fantastic effects in her playing. Every silence is significant. Every tone is true. That the London audience appreciated her playing was evident by the reception which she received. Her numbers were Ravel's "Playing Fountains" and Debussy's "The Sunken Cathedral," and Chopin's "Ballade in F Major." The different voices of the second numbers were brought out in marvellous fashion by the artist. De Krez and Norah De Krez were heard together in the opening number of the evening, Brahms' brilliant Sonata in D minor. Equally brilliant was the Beethoven Sonata Op. 30, No. 3, which brought the evening to a triumphant close. It was endorsed by both artists who have played so much together that their work is in absolute harmony. LAKE IS CALM. Although the storm signals were up and a heavy sea was raging last night, the lake at Port Stanley this morning was calm. The wind and fog had disappeared and the tugs were able to go to their fishing grounds. As the storm had been anticipated all along the Canadian shore, storm signals at ports on the Great Lakes had warned the mariners any time freighters were seen by the villagers last night. LONDON'S SHARE. The city of London's share in fees and expenses of the election of the county of Middlesex for the plebiscite of Oct. 23 amounted to $285.85 and expenses for the annexed sub-divisions were $59.18. Accounts have been received and will be paid without protest.

NEW LONJAY, 49c ON SALE WEDNESDAY

This favorite of all lingerie or bloomer fabrics, just received by us direct from the manufacturer, means a distinct saving in money for you. We have not sacrificed quality for price, realizing our customers desire a satisfactory fabric, even at low cost. You may buy for Christmas gifts or bazaars work, with every confidence of durability and permanent sheen. Lonsjay has been called the fairy weave of cotton, its lovely soft, satin-like sheen in this cloth remains after repeated washing. Use it for bloomers, slips, gowns, step-ins, teddies, pyjamas, children's wear. Lonsjay, owing to the fine yarns used, is adapted to the most delicate colors. We list those in this one-day sale. Shop early to secure the particular shades you desire. Peach, flesh, sky, rose, cerise, cocoa brown, orchid, buttercup, orange, emerald, navy, white, black. All go on sale 9 a.m. Wednesday, at 49c yard
See Lonsjay displayed in Dundas street window.
