Most Strenuous Fighting of Week Now Raging

Byng's Troops Less Than Three Miles From Cambrai, and Bent on Destroying Military Value of Town

By Courier Leased Wire. Reinforced by divisions from other sectors of the western front, the Germans are resisting desperately the British advance on Cambrai. Around Fontaine Notre Dame, less than three miles west of Cambrai and the Broulon Wood close by, the most strenuous fighting has occurred with the British making progress.

General Byng is combining his attacks with consolidated work and the British are firmly established in their new positions, which give opportunity to destroy the usefulness of Cambrai as a supply centre as well as a starting place for a drive either north behind the Drocourt-Queant line or west against Cambrai. Heavy fighting is taking place at Moeuvres, three miles west, southwest of Fontaine Notre Dame and at Grevecoeur about three miles south of Cambrai, at the other end of the wedge driven across the Hindenburg line Tuesday and Wednesday. The Broulon wood is the dominating hill to the west of Cambrai and the Germans have put up a strong resistance here as well as at Fontaine Notre Dame, which flanks the wood to the west.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN

In the City a Short While This Morning Grants Interview — Emphatic with Regard to Needed Farm Help

Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr. Rowell, passed through Brantford this morning on their way from Stratford. They remained at the Brantford depot for some minutes. Sir Robert is looking remarkably fit, and smilingly accorded a Courier man the chance for an interview. He reported that in all his experience, he had never seen such enthusiasm as that manifested at all of the meetings which he had addressed. Hundreds had been turned away at every gathering, and in Stratford last night, despite the cold, many by ladders and other means, listened at open windows. Sir Robert said that reports from all over the Dominion were most encouraging. Referring to the resentment which had been aroused by some Military Tribunals with reference to the taking of farmers' sons and farm help, who were needed on the land, the Premier said that such should not have been done. He was very emphatic on this point. Production was of vital importance, and needed help must not be touched. He referred to the fact that there was an appeal remedy and said matters would be straightened out.

WEATHER BULLETIN

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The disturbance which passed over the great lakes on Thursday now covers New Brunswick while the marked cold wave is still centered north of Lake Superior. Heavy rain has fallen over the Maritime provinces and some more snow has occurred in Quebec. Fresh north to west winds, local snow flurries, but generally fair and quite cold to-day and on Sunday.

Irish Troops Fought Way up Canal Du Nord to Smash Hindenburg Line

Main Attack of British Forces in Opening of Tuesday's Offensive Was Along Bank of Canal -- Irish Ulsterites Maintained Reputation For Valor and Bombed Way on With Grim Determination

By Courier Leased Wire. British Army Headquarters in France, Friday, Nov. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—The main attack on the opening of the offensive Tuesday was along the western bank of the canal Du Nord, which runs almost due north and south from a point a little west of Havrincourt. The main Hindenburg line trenches were built along this waterway and the British had to fight their way up the big ditch. There was intense hard work almost from the start, as the Ulsterites who undertook this task, got in among the German defences. Because of the secret nature of the attack, no artillery could be used to cut the tremendously strong lines of barbed wire in front of the trenches, and tanks were not operating in this section. Therefore it was necessary for the Irishmen to charge the entanglements and bomb them to pieces in order to force their way through. It was a big undertaking, for the Irish came under concentrated rifle and machine gun fire as soon as they began an advance, but they maintained their reputation for valor and bombed their way with such grim determination that they drove an attacking wedge into the trench system near Havrincourt. Northwest of the town is a high bank on the west of the canal. The elevation was strongly fortified with dugouts, and there was a great concentration of machine guns. The British had no alternative but to charge the position up the slopes, and this they did. The crest was gained in the face of a heavy fire and desperate bayonet fighting followed. The Ulsterites hurled themselves on the Germans with such fury that the latter were compelled to desert their machine guns and abandon the site, and many of them were shot as they fled northward along the canal. A large number of prisoners were captured in the dugouts on the hill and beside the canal. This fight occurred at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. In the meantime, German machine guns on the eastern side of the canal were giving much trouble, and as soon as the high bank was captured, British engineers began building bridges over the waterway in order to give a crossing to the infantry. They undertook to have these bridges completed by three o'clock, and by a remarkable piece of work the task was accomplished. Previously they had repaired a causeway in the same vicinity, and the troops were able to get over the canal to the eastern bank. The Irish infantry was then advancing northward on both sides of the canal with the main Cambrai-Bapaume highway as their immediate objective. During the afternoon the Irish were held up temporarily, because of the shortage of ammunition near a sunken road southwest of Graucourt, where the Germans were established in considerable force. This position was rendered doubly strong by a machine gun concentration north of Graucourt, which could sweep the British lines near the canal. The ammunition came up and the British charged forward again. They overcame the resistance south of the Cambrai-Bapaume highway. The Germans then were firing with machine guns down across the Cambrai road. Hand-to-hand fighting occurred at positions below the road, but the Germans finally were forced to withdraw. Dugouts lighted by electricity were found in the chain of defenses along the highway. By 6.10 o'clock in the evening the Irish had crossed the Cambrai-Bapaume highway on both sides of the canal and taken a stand south of Moeuvres. This was the situation here at the end of the first day's fighting. Wednesday morning the British pushed forward, this time having the support of a certain amount of artillery. Moeuvres was strongly held, but the Irish stormed the defenses with bombs and forced their way half through the village. Here they came up against a heavy barricade which they took with the bayonet and for a time drove the Germans out of the village. In the afternoon the Germans approached from the east side of the canal for a counter-attack, but this was smashed by machine gun and rifle fire. Later in the afternoon the German artillery opened up and heavily shelled the trenches held by the British south of Moeuvres. Thursday morning the Irish were holding most of Moeuvres and the east bank of the canal. In the afternoon the Germans delivered a sudden counter-attack from the north and after hand-to-hand fighting through the streets and among the houses they forced the British to withdraw to the southern outskirts. This morning the Irish again surged forward against the town and at an early hour had worked their way around toward the north. In the Graucourt section, on the right of the Irish, remarkable work was done by cavalry on the first day. The horsemen had swept forward and captured Anneux by Tuesday evening. This represented an advance of about seven thousand yards, which is said to be a record for one day. Two squadrons of horse accomplished the downfall of Anneux and captured it between four and five o'clock in the evening. This place was found to have a system of cat-combs under the church and the sewer held by the Germans who had an electric power station for lighting. An elaborate battalion headquarters fell into British hands. During Tuesday night the German counter-attacked Anneux with troops which had just been brought from the Russian front. A strong battle took place and the British withdrew. Wednesday morning the British again attacked Anneux and recaptured it. Proceeding northward the British drove the enemy from the trenches near the edge of Broulon wood. This trench was so remarkably well camouflaged that no sign of it was visible until the British saw German faces apparently coming out of the ground. A hand-to-hand battle began. Later the British were forced to withdraw slightly because of heavy machine gun firing from Broulon village. Yesterday morning the British again attacked the trench with the assistance of tanks and established their line around the southern face of the wood. The troops which captured the trenches and Cantain encountered hard resistance at the former place, the first day of the offensive. Tanks led the infantry in the attack, but the Germans with the assistance of heavy guns held out the whole of Tuesday in the face of strong attacks. Wednesday morning the British again attacked and

Battle Raging More Violently Than Before in Italian Mountains--Enemy Losses Heavier Than Defenders'

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—The battle of the mountains is raging with unexampled violence. The Italians again hold Monte Tomba and Monte Persica positions which they lost last night. The losses have been very great, but the enemy's far exceed those of the Italians. In one section where there were thirty officers, twenty-seven were killed or wounded, but the remaining three fought the battle of victory.

The mountain batteries had been secured in mountain emplacements and as the fight ebbed and flowed over these positions, the Italians not only brought back the guns but even the wheels and the limbers, their pride not permitting a vestige to fall into the hands of the enemy. The final charge of the day came at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The enemy had struck his greatest blow in the earlier part of the day and the fierce attack lasted three quarters of an hour. The whole field was swept by artillery fire and the ground was strewn with dead.

It was amid this welter of bodies and debris that the Italian lines were reformed; they moved forward steadily and irresistibly until the disputed ground was retaken, except at one point, where the struggle still goes on. In this last desperate charge the officers and men were eager to advance, preferring death to being made prisoners. The enemy losses must be very heavy, but he is bringing forward a steady stream of reserves.

The first army also is sustaining a heavy fight west of Brenta River, where the enemy rush has been repelled by the splendid resistance of the Italians. The Count of Turin, commander of the Italian cavalry in the recent retreat, has given out a written review of the deeds performed by his men. Many instances of individual daring are recorded. A corporal of the Florence lancers was ordered to explore a zone near Cividale. Going forward he saw a large party of Italians held prisoner by the enemy. He returned and gathered a force of cavalry, which released the imprisoned party and brought them back in another case, Piedmontese cavalry, after being surrounded, broke through the enemy lines, but the colonel commanding failed to escape. He was the only man left inside the enemy circle, and he was seen to take his stand against a wall, probably preferring death to being made a prisoner.

The fate of Caserta cavalry, which dismounted and fought afoot, and of their fellow dragoons also is recounted, making this recital one of the most stirring chapters of the recent operations. A high commanding officer on the field, has summarized the fury of the present battles by declaring he could not say who to commend for bravery, as the distinction would require a gaged. A distinctive ribbon for bravery, he said, would stretch across the Italian front.

keeping the Germans nervous by putting down smoke barrages and employing gas. The enemy had become so accustomed to this that the British started a flurry of gunfire at dawn Tuesday, the Germans thought it was more of the same thing and they were caught unawares. The greatest danger which the attackers feared, was the possibility of mines being blown up and they knew this must be avoided. Accordingly they took along a body of expert tunnel men. By good fortune they mastered the secret of the mines and cut the lead wires. This enabled the British infantry, which swarmed

"I FEEL LIKE A NEW BEING"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought The Joy Of Health After Two Years' Suffering

MADAM LAPLANTE 36 St. Rose St., Montreal, April 4th. "For over two years I was sick and miserable. I suffered from constant headaches, and had palpitation of the heart so badly that I feared I would die. There seemed to be a lump in my stomach and the constipation was dreadful. I suffered from Pain in the Back and Kidney Disease.

"I was treated by a physician for a year and a half and he did me no good at all. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' as a last resort. After using three boxes, I was greatly improved and twelve boxes made me well. Now I can work all day and there are no headaches, no palpitation, no heart trouble, no constipation, no pain or kidney trouble and I feel like a new being—and it was 'Fruit-a-tives' that gave me back my health."

Mrs. Alex. Metherell, was a business visitor in the city from Hamilton on Thursday. Her Excellency, the Duchess of Devonshire, left for the southern States this week for a short visit. A Major H. Z. Churchill Cockburn, V.C., cot has been established in the Muskoka Free Hospital through the terms of his mother's will.

Mrs. J. F. O'Neal, Palace street, has returned from Stratford where she attended the funeral of her aunt the late Miss Annie Bolger. Cadet "Bill" Donville is spending the week-end at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. W. Digby, from "Burwash Hall, Toronto.

Mrs. Charles Lugedin, who has been staying with Mrs. Arthur Garrett, Brant avenue, Brantford, has returned to town—Toronto Globe. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bunnell, of Toronto, were the week-end guests of Mr. Bunnell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Bunnell, Dufferin Ave.

Mr. John Hope, representative of the Victory Loan here, was a business visitor in Toronto on Thursday. Mrs. Florence Keene, of London, was the week-end guest of Miss Torry, Sheridan street. Miss Anna Smith left Friday to spend about ten days with friends in Buffalo and Dunkirk, N. Y.

Dr. Charles Leeming returned early in the week from Chicago, Miss Dorothy Leeming remaining for a week or so. Miss Hilda Hurley was the hostess at a series of little informal teas this week, given in honor of her guest, Mrs. Wilfred Miller, of Toronto.

His Excellency the Governor-General was the guest of honor at a Victory Loan banquet in Victoria, B.C., on Friday night. Miss Bishop, Dufferin Avenue, leaves the first of the month for Baltimore, Md., where she will resume her social science work for a month or so.

A cable was received in the city this week announcing the safe arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caspare, who sailed about a week ago for England, after spending a year in Brantford. Brigadier General Ashton was in Toronto the latter part of this week on his way to Ottawa, consulting with General Lorie in reference to the general conditions of military affairs in Military District No. 2.

The funeral of the late Dr. Torrington, the well-known musical director of the Toronto College of Music, took place on Thursday. Dr. Torrington, during his musical career, was a frequent visitor in Brantford. The funeral services were held by the Ven. Archdeacon Cody and Canon Plumtre, and Miss Eileen Millet Law, one of Dr. Torrington's most distinguished pupils, sang a part of his well-known setting of "Abide With Me," accompanied by Mr. T. C. Jeffers. Mr. W. E. Fairclough played the "Dead March."

The Pansy Club held their annual bazaar in aid of the Children's Shelter on Friday afternoon in the reception rooms of the Shelter, Chatham street. The rooms were gaily decorated with flags of all the Allies, while the articles for sale were attractively arranged on long tables. Fancy work, home-made dainties and candy were for sale in great demand. A large number of those interested in the welfare of the Shelter, as well as the many friends of the Pansy Club, were in attendance, and a substantial sum was realized for the benefit of the Children's Shelter. Great credit is due to the energetic President of the Pansy Club, Miss Gertrude Aiken, the secretary, Miss Ruby Matthews, and the treasurer, Miss Laura Wilson, for the capable way in which they managed the bazaar and made it such a financial success.

His Excellency the Governor-General officiated on the morning of November 4th at the unveiling of the tablet placed in St. Bartholomew's church, to the memory of the late Duchess of Connaught. Bishop Lenox Williams of Quebec, preached the sermon and Archbishop Hamilton and Rev. T. H. Brewin assisted in the service. The tablet has been placed in this church where the late Duchess was worshipped most often during her life in Canada, by the women of the Dominion. The Government House party of guests were present, besides Sir Robert and Lady Borden, Hon. and Mrs. J. D. Hazen Admiral and Mrs. Kingsmill.

An historic bedstead has been presented to the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, from Boughton House, Kettering, Northamptonshire by the Duke of Buccleuch with hangings and upholstery of crimson, blue and gold. It is a typical example of bedsteads made in England for royal palaces and noblemen's houses in the latter part of the 17th century. William III and his Court visited Boughton in 1694 and it was for this visit that the bedstead is said to have been made.

Many will be interested in a little paragraph taken from a well-known London paper, which says: "Lady Katherine Cook, at present in waiting on the Queen, is, at eighty-two, the oldest of women courtiers. Her only son is a brother-in-law of Mr. Mark Hambourg, the celebrated pianist." It may be interesting to mention also that Mrs. Cook has been busy with war work since the outbreak of hostilities.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to Section 56 of the Trustee Act, R.S.O. 1914, Chap. 121, that all creditors and others having claims or demands against the estate of Harvey Watt Cockshutt, who died on or about the Second day of June, 1917, from wounds received while on Active Service somewhere in France, are required on or before the 26th day of December, 1917, to send by post paid or deliver to the undersigned solicitors for the Executors of the Last Will and Testament of the said deceased, their Christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars, in writing, of their claims, a statement of their accounts, and the nature of the security, if any held by them.
AND TAKE NOTICE that after such last mentioned date, the said executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which they shall then have notice, and that the said Executors will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claim notice shall not have been received by them at the time of such distribution.
Dated at Brantford this 23rd day of November, 1917.
HARLEY & SWIFT, Solicitors for H. Cockshutt, George A. Baker and the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, Executors of the estate of Harvey W. Cockshutt, deceased.

Victory Loan Already Over-Subscribed in Norfolk County

THE CONTRIBUTIONS

Yesterday at the Tribunals—Other News from Simcoe

Simcoe, Nov. 24.—(From Our Own Correspondent)—We are able to give to-day an interim report on the Victory Loan subscriptions of Norfolk which have already far outstripped the allotment and there are seven days ahead before the canvass is closed. The standing last night was, districts, Investors, Amount, Per Cent of allotment.
Townsend and Waterford, 79, $51,500, 51.5.
Simcoe 345, $133,000, 166.
Woodhouse and Port Dover 198, $80,500, 115.
Windham 78 $29,950, 55.9.
Middleton and Delhi 189, $89,250, 223.
Charlotteville or (ch'ville.) 46, $26,750, 76.
South Windham and Port Rowan, 53, $41,050, 425.
Houghton 26, $3,350, 32.5.
North Walsingham or Windham 22, $12,350, 61.7.
Total by teams 1032, $467,750.
Through banks $78,000.
Total 1,254,750.
Later the investments through the banks will be distributed over the various districts.
Among the team men, Frank Reid of Simcoe, W. C. Barwell, of Port Dover, and W. E. Sutherland of Delhi stand in the front rank. Mr. Sutherland alone has already sold more than the entire proportion allotted to the district his team was set to canvass.
Naturally the headquarters staff is jubilant over the results and citizens down about Dover, no doubt hope that Ottawa will remember Norfolk's response when the Dock question is again pressed.
Yesterday's deliberations with the tribunals.

Auction Sale of No. 16 1-2 and 18 Terrace Hill St. There will be offered for sale by Public Auction at the office of S. P. Pitcher, 43 Market St.

on Saturday, Dec. 1st. AT 8 P.M.

the real estate belonging to the estate of the late Mary Scrimger, consisting of a brick cottage, seven rooms, fine cellar, gas and sewer connections; also a storey and a half brick house with bath room, gas. This property is rented to good tenants and is in good repair. It is a first-class investment. Property will be offered in one parcel. J. W. Watkins, Executor. S. P. Pitcher, Auctioneer.

SINN FEIN STUDENTS CELEBRATE.

After degree had been conferred at University College, Dublin, (The National University of Ireland), the students marched round the streets singing. At their head was a Sinn Fein flag, but only once was there any interference. The upper right shows the crowd all ready for the "serap" which is common to all student gatherings; at the left are students fastening the Sinn Fein flag to a piece of wood before the procession started, and in the circle are a few of the girl graduates. A number who are entering the learned profession received their degrees. But they did not process.

The natural gas service was so low yesterday, late in the afternoon, that complaints were general about town. The shortage was explained as due to an accident out in the field, by which it was necessary to shut off a couple of the wells for a short time. Mrs. Walls, of Los Angeles, is the guest of Mrs. George Ryvers.
Miss Congdon's music pupils provided the program for a Red Cross concert given last evening at Trinity Parish Hall.
Open cisterns and other dangerous holes on the North Ward school site are still denounced by residents of the vicinity as possible traps for children or even adults.
All citizens interested in cost of street oiling and watering, and the question of permanent roadways, should attend Monday night's mass meeting, where it may be shown that Simcoe could build considerable permanent street roadways, and carry the debt-burden for less money than is now spent in up-keep.
In our report of proceedings at a recent sitting of Magistrate Guntton's court, the mention of John Sutton's firm as the firm from which the accused purchased wet goods, meant the Buffalo firm of that name, not the Simcoe firm.

Doings at Dover.

Port Dover, Nov. 23.—Two events yesterday disturbed the ordinary quiet of the burg.
The City of Dover came into port yesterday morning, after an eighteen hour run through a heavy sea, and carrying about thirty-five tons of fish, chiefly herring, caught west of Rondeau. The tugs will follow to Port Burwell, with later catches, and ship from there. The Kolbe Company shipped a car load to London to go into government cold storage. The catch up west in the lake is reported exceptionally good. Specialists at the houses are busy aboard the fishing tugs securing herring and whitefish spawn for the Normandale and other hatcheries.
Booze Men in Court.
Earl Long of the Plank Road, Geo. Polmsbee of Dover, and H. Bellock of the "Dog's Nest," provided the attention of the day. They appeared before Magistrate Bond and Smith for infractions of the Ontario Temperance Act. Provincial Inspector J. F. Carey and District Inspector R. Edmonds were on hand to prosecute H. P. Innes K.C., and W. E. Kelly, K.C. of Simcoe, were retained by the accused.
Men may be reported at the tribunal.

THE SITUATION.
 While portions of the British troops on the Western front are busily consolidating the ground recently taken, others are continuing the relentless drive upon Cambrai. Good progress continues to be made and many more villages have been taken, together with scores of cannon and large quantities of material.
 Two more British successes are reported in German East Africa. Many prisoners were taken and heavy losses inflicted.
 It is announced that if Russia concludes a separate peace with the foe that fact will place her in the list of unfriendly nations.
 The Dominion Victory loan continues to grow apace. The total last night was $172,000,000 and it begins to be clear that the demand of $300,000,000 will be attained.

LAURIER'S EMISSARY
 W. T. R. Perston—no relatives hereabouts—is in the Old Country conducting a campaign on behalf of Laurier in an effort to secure the soldiers votes.

Preston is the man of "Hug the Machine" fame and it was he who wrote a book attacking the character of Lord Strathcona after the death of the latter.

Anyone at all familiar with the political history of Canada knows this man's record.
 That he should be sending out literature to the boys in khaki, in which he grossly misrepresents matters and charges that the Union Government is trying to drag them into voting for the administration will not in the least surprise anyone who knows the man.

One of his blatant assertions was that voting instructions had been issued through the Canadian High-commissioners Office and the Militia Department to officers and men.

"Widener" the London Correspondent of the Toronto Star has been making enquiries and he cables in part:

"Inquiries in the most authoritative Canadian quarters here fully confirm my statement of yesterday that no instructions whatever have been issued to either officers or men in connection with the approaching elections, either through the High Commissioner's office or Gen. Turner's Overseas Militia Department."

As a matter of course Laurier has a perfect right to seek to obtain all the soldier votes he can, but when he employs an individual of the stamp of Preston, that incident in itself shows the sort of malicious and deceptive pabulum which it will be endeavored to feed to them.

It may be taken for granted, however, that the vast majority of them will readily distinguish between proposed abandonment and the support of themselves and the present proud Canadian record in the war.

If Preston imagines otherwise he is simply hugging a delusion just as hard as he used to hug "the machine"

A vote for Cookshutt will be a vote to back up the heroes on the firing line.

The women everywhere are consolidating in support of the Union Government. They are manifestly determined to cast their first Dominion votes for a righteous cause.

The Quebec papers and the Quebec speakers are making no bones in that Province with regard to the issue as they see it, viz. that Canada has already done too much in the war and should pull out.

Three weeks from Monday and the ballots will tell the story. See to it in the meantime that you do all within your power for the cause of liberty and the brave Canadiana at the front.

Speaking in Montreal, Hon. Mr. LeBlond repeated the clumsy falsehood that papers supporting the Union Government had been bought. He is evidently in the class of men who cannot understand patriotism except for cash.

Mayor Bowley has received the endorsement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the South riding. Mr. Bowley has throughout classed himself as an "Independent Liberal" and in favor of a referendum after 100,000 men have been secured. The fact that Sir Wilfrid has named him shows (1) that he is not the first; (2) that if elected he would have to say amen to Laurier's proposal to drop the Military Service Act at once.

A CRISIS.
 There can be no doubt about the fact that Canada in these solemn days is faced with a crisis more serious than any she has ever fringed at any previous period of her history. And not alone is her own welfare and autonomy involved, but also her relationship within the Empire.

This is a position of affairs which every thoughtful man and woman should ponder upon in an impartial and self-searching spirit.
 General elections usually mean a fight between two political parties—the ins who want to stay there and the outs, who desire to get on the treasury benches. To the average individual there is no apparent difference in the course of events, when a change takes place in the sides holding office. Matters go along just as usual and the fact of a new Administration does not as a rule affect the trend of affairs. There are, of course, occasions when that is not the case, such as in 1878, when the National Policy of protection was introduced by Sir John Macdonald, with the resultant removal of the existing national depression, but on the average, a contest at the polls leaves things as they were.

This will most emphatically not be the case in connection with the battle at the polls on Dec. 17th next. In that struggle the honor of the nation will be at stake and also the pledged word of the people to the 400,000 brave men who volunteered to go to the firing line, that they would have the necessary backing of reinforcements.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's declaration on this point as set forth in his manifesto, is as follows:—
 "As to the present military service, my policy will be not to proceed further under its provisions until the people have an opportunity to pronounce upon it by way of a referendum. I pledge myself to forthwith submit the act to the people, and, with my followers, to carry out the wishes of the majority of the nation as thus expressed."

There can be no mistaking the above language. It means that, if successful, the White Plumed Knight will at once stop the taking of men for military service. Laurier candidates who talk of a referendum after the securing of the first 100,000 are simply lying to the people. The thing is not on the program, and they cannot deliver the goods.

The securing of men, vitally needed, will be stopped, a delay will then occur of some weeks while a referendum is taken, whose outcome would be very doubtful with Quebec in solid antagonism, backed up by all the slacker and foreign elements, for there can be little doubt that Sir Wilfrid would include the latter in the count.

The Union Government, on the other hand, maintains that Canada's brave soldiers must be sustained, that we are in honor bound to keep their numbers at full strength, and that those who have so nobly suffered grievous wounds and great privations, willingly giving up their home interests and loved ones, and sacrificing in numerous instances, life itself for our sakes and the cause of Empire and liberty, must not be shamelessly abandoned, and stabbed in the back.

That is what the issue means and there can be no getting away from it on the part of any glib tongued orators, or slick sophists.

There is in this balance Canadian honor, Canadian self-respect, Canadian loyalty to the Empire and Canadian fealty to all of those things which make life worth the living, as against Canadian betrayal, Canadian stultification and Canadian abasement, with the Dominion the first of all the Empire States to skulk from the battlefield on which the outcome of freedom versus thralldom is being fought, and with the sacrifices of their splendid dead, made a mockery and a delusion.

"Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

The people of this Canada must either serve at this solemn period the God of right and of justice, and of faith, or else the mammon of unrighteousness, and stultification and betrayal.

Ask your own conscience as to which it shall be in your case.

After the enumerators go through don't fail to see that your name is on the list.

It is inconceivable that any man having a son at the front should nevertheless support Laurier in the proposal to halt needed aid under the Military Service Act until a referendum has been taken. This nevertheless is the position of Sir Allen Aylesworth, formerly Minister of Justice in the Laurier Cabinet. At a recent meeting he had a stormy time and he deserved it. Surely any ordinary man would welcome every possible step to help back up his boy.

NEWS OF NORFOLK
 Pals, but since we are about to be investigated, an audience which reached the fifty mark at the entire afternoon session, and no one thought he was losing time at that. The digest of the whole matter, when one holds the technical legal objections, allowances, protests, etc., amounts to about this: In response to complaints about riotous living down about the "Nest," Inspector Edmonds investigated. He found Long in possession of an ever dwindling case of whiskey, one of a shipment of three cases, consigned to him (Long) and Long claimed he never received the other two. Investigation showed that the express company had delivered the three cases to Folsbee and that Long had received one case from there. Folsbee was fined $50 and costs ($25.40) for ordering liquor under another man's name, and Long got free.

Belbeck was up to explain what he did with the contents of five cases recently purchased by him and taken to a shack at the "Dog's Nest." He said he had been entertaining his friends, and he too got off.

But the provincial inspector in summing up the case, spoke in no uncertain terms against any possible future leniency, and his warning covered the Express Company's delivery practices also. He made clear that the culprits had trespassing beyond what they were aware, and explained that while it was legal for a man to purchase any quantity of liquor, it was the government's business to see that its consumption was legal. Unfortunately for Belbeck, he was unable to produce the empty bottles.

A car load of slabs sold off the car here at $3.50 to $4.50 a cord, 17 inch length, recently. Hard coal is not to be had and wood is scarce. Citizens have been warned that the gas supply is likely to be short and there is much concern as to what is to be done.

SAVE YOUR HAIR!
A SMALL BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF
 Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.
 Try this! Your hair appears glossy, abundant, wavy and beautiful.
 Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp, of dandruff—that awful scourge that is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.
 Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or tablet counter for a few cents, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.
 Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.
 Protection for labor after the war, by a policy of preparedness against foreign competition, was demanded by the American Federation in convention in Buffalo.

 London, Nov. 24.—The official statement on aviation activities issued last night reads:
 "Further details received show that attacks made Tuesday on the enemy's infantry and transports by our low-flying pilots, including pilots from the Australian squadron, were most successful. On Wednesday the weather was even, more unsuitable for flying than on the previous day, but a number of successful reconnoissances over the enemy's lines were carried out and every endeavor was made to keep in touch with our infantry. No enemy airplanes were encountered. None of our machines are missing."

Assembling the logs for the mill.

CANADA'S GREAT TIMBER FORESTS Preparing Logs for the Mill

There are something like a thousand million acres of woodlands in Canada, and about two hundred million of these acres are covered with timber suitable for trading purposes. Every province has its forests, and every forest has its own interesting features. In Alberta's parts of the Rocky Mountains are covered with huge timber areas of great value. In British Columbia the forest area is estimated at about 180,000,000 acres; the forests of Quebec cover about 120,000,000 acres; then the large forests of Manitoba, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Yukon are regions from which much valuable timber is taken annually.

With a view to affording farmers protection the Dominion Government has distributed trees for planting along the prairies. The young trees are given away gratis, but definite conditions as to the method of cultivation must be complied with. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has also given out young trees for a similar object.

In former years many of the Canadian forests suffered much destruction from fires, but of late the loss has not been so great. Some of the forests have their keepers who reside in pretty homes in the woods. Between each home there is telephonic communication, so that if a fire breaks out the news can be quickly spread and fire fighters brought to the spot before the flames become really formidable.

The forests are administered by the Provincial or Dominion Government in most cases, and licenses to cut timber are sold by public auction at certain periods.

Amongst the prettiest of Canadian forests are those of Ontario, which cover 12,400 square miles. Amongst them run a network of beautiful rivers and lakes, very valuable for the untold power that is in them and for the delight they give to the sightseeing traveller or fisherman. Through these forests the Canadian Pacific Railway takes its track, opening up the region to the possibility of a great future. As a protection against forest fires in the Canadian Rockies the Canadian Pacific use oil burning engines beyond Field.

The accompanying illustrations tell their own story, but it will not be uninteresting to narrate that the lumbering season begins at this time, when the snow begins to fall. Then the trees are lightened by the loss of their foliage. When the trees are cut down and divided into logs suitable for the length of the boards into which they are to be sawed at the mills, the hollows in the rugged ground are filled up by snow, and the horses or oxen can travel freely over paths that in summer would be impassable. Drawn by the horses or oxen, the logs slip gracefully along the surface of the snow to a convenient point where they can be easily loaded on to sleds to be drawn to the mill. But if the mill is far away the timber is often taken to the edge of a river ready for the drive to the mill when the ice melts. In other cases it is piled on the edge of a lake and when the ice breaks is gathered into booms and floated to the mill.

There is an enormous supply of pulpwood in the Province of Ontario, and the district of Patricia, which has an area of 146,000 square miles, has vast timber resources which have not yet been thoroughly examined.

The finished product.

APPEAL TO LABOR MENTO WITHDRAW THEIR CANDIDATE

Capt. Cornelius of G.W.V.A. Urged I. L. P. to Support Mr. Cockshutt

An earnest and ringing appeal for the avoidance of party dissension at the present time, by the withdrawal of Ald. M. M. MacBride in favor of W. F. Cockshutt, officially endorsed as union candidate, was delivered by Capt. J. R. Cornelius to the Independent labor party last night. The executive, anxious to give due recognition to the returned men of the city, promised consideration, and at once went into session on the appeal, but without reaching a decision.

While a courteous hearing was accorded Capt. Cornelius, it was patent that his appeal did not meet with the approval of the majority of the members present, and opinions were expressed that the labor classes were entitled to bring forward a candidate of their own, and that no appeal should be made to them unless it was made to the other candidates now in the field.

Capt. Cornelius made it clear that he was acting solely on his own initiative. "Campaign Under Way." "The present campaign," observed Mr. Rice, president, in calling the meeting to order, "will never be won by public meetings. The labor campaign, he declared, was coming along well. A large number of the women voters of the city would cast their votes for MacBride. The speaker appealed for more workers.

Capt. Cornelius, addressing the gathering, declared that 85 per cent of the men at the front were workmen. There all parties fought side by side and died together, for the common cause of smashing the Hun. Capt. Cornelius urged his hearers to rally and give "Quebec and their followers their answer."

For the sake of union, the speaker appealed to Mr. MacBride to withdraw, that all unionists might get together and smash the Laurier man. Mr. MacBride was a friend of the speaker's, he was a loyal man, but it was for this very reason that Capt. Cornelius appealed to him.

"Never mind about politics he urged. "Damn politics, there is only one thing in this case—keep between you and your hallo, the faces of the boys at the front." He referred to the union meeting some three weeks ago as "a comedy of errors," better than many a high priced vaudeville show. It was a matter to-day of voting, not for one particular candidate, but of casting a ballot for or against the boys overseas.

WANT LABOR REPRESENTED

"In view of the fact, as you have stated, that 85 per cent of the overseas are workmen," asked Mr. Flaherty, "why does Capt. Cornelius ask us to withdraw our candidate in favor of one of the capitalistic class?"

Capt. Cornelius explained that Mr. W. F. Cockshutt had been endorsed by Sir Robert Borden as union candidate in this riding, and hence was the logical candidate.

"If we vote for a labor man, we will be taking the most effective measures to prevent rule by Quebec," observed a member. And it is to achieve that purpose that Capt. Cornelius has appealed to us.

On the motion of Ald. H. J. Symons, the executive retired to consider Capt. Cornelius' request.

A Returned Man

Mr. McGrattan, viewed the appeal in the form of a counter attack. "I'm not inferring with anything," he remarked, "but a man can think what he likes."

"W. F.'s behind it" declared another speaker.

Ald. Symons

"I think we should elect a labor man," declared Ald. Symons, "because he is a member of our own class, and will legislate for his fellow workers, with whom his sympathies lie."

Dealing with Mayor Bowlby, Ald. Symons doubted whether His Worship himself knew where he stood on the conscription issue. The complaint was made that conscription was not being enforced fairly, and the speaker expressed the opinion that Quebec, who had failed in her duty in the past, was now being treated more leniently than her sister provinces. He was certain that the opinion of labor was for conscription if fairly enforced.

Mayor Bowlby was to support Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Symons doubted whether these notables would enforce conscription more rigidly in Quebec than would Sir Robert Borden; rather, the English speaking provinces would be called upon to contribute the greater share of the men taken from the first hundred thousand.

"The volunteer system," declared Ald. Symons, "did not break down, it was murdered." The government had not offered adequate wages to enlisting men, and those who enlisted to-day received, in proportion to the cost of living, only half the wages of those who enlisted three years ago.

If it was a good thing to keep the private soldier at the front, the officers should be kept there also, declared the speaker, who went on to insist that the volunteer system did not get a fair trial.

"Would the labor party lose their $200 deposit if they withdrew their candidate?" asked a member. "We would," replied Ald. Symons

"Then let us stick by our ship," urged the former speaker.

Ald. Symons declared that Mayor Bowlby would have a better chance with Ald. MacBride out of the field. He went on to recall Mr. MacBride's efforts on fuel and food questions.

Mr. McGrattan criticized the Union government as not giving sufficient representation to labor.

No Decision

The executive at this juncture entered the room, having failed to reach a decision. Mr. Rose laid before the meeting the importance of the soldiers' and the women's vote. He suggested that Mr. Cockshutt might be induced to withdraw.

Mr. McGrattan saw little possibility of this. He believed that the men overseas would follow the example of the Australian troops in voting against conscription. The speaker supported Ald. Symons in his demand for better pay for soldiers, and criticized the administration of the patriotic fund.

"Conscription is all right," declared Mr. McGrattan, "but who don't they conscript Quebec? We have Sir Sam Hughes' statement, never contradicted, that he was ordered to slow up on voluntary recruiting."

Mr. A. G. Brown considered that after 11 years in parliament, Mr. Cockshutt should be willing to step aside in favor of another candidate, a laborite. The patriotic fund, he declared, had only been placed on its feet when the working classes got behind it. The labor men had as much right to stay in the field as any other party.

Mr. Cockshutt, he declared, could not properly represent the working classes of Brantford. "The time has come when labor must have recognition," he declared, "and we will back down for no one. We should at least keep our candidate in the field until we know where we are at."

"MacBride isn't going to back out," declared Mr. McGrattan, in demanding immediate action on the question.

Ald. MacBride

"We are in the fight," declared Ald. MacBride. "I think it good business to discuss the matter fully. We have just as much right to make a counter proposal to Mr. Cockshutt."

The speaker proposed to be short on promises, and long on performances, if elected. He denied rumors that he was a hard-shelled Tory. The soldiers and their dependents had much more to hope for from an independent labor candidate than from a capitalist. It was time the soldiers had men in parliament who sympathized with them, and who would grant them their rights. Labor was entitled by reason of population and service in war, to representation in parliament, and Brantford, Toronto and Hamilton were three cities which should return labor men to Ottawa.

Labor men had been responsible for getting the women of Canada the franchise, which was brought about by the labor organizations of the Dominion.

In the parliament of Great Britain labor was properly recognized, and Canada should follow that lead. Labor representatives would not be hide bound, they would support beneficial measures introduced by either side. Ald. MacBride criticized the action of the government in applying the closure rule on the C.N.R. bill, and in delaying genuine war measures. The labor party had had a hard fight to secure the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Support Conscription

Two proposals were before the people of Canada on the Conscription issue, and the speaker declared Laurier's referendum platform a straight scheme. It would take 10 months to take a referendum of the Dominion.

"It is the duty of every Canadian to adopt the conscription act as passed," declared Ald. MacBride, "and insist that it be enforced impartially."

At the present time, this was not being done, for wholesale exemptions were being granted in Quebec. It would not be a safe thing to repeal the conscription act, for in that event the U. S. might step in, and the speaker warned his hearers against revolutionary schemes which might precipitate civil war. To administer the conscription act fairly and impartially was the solution of the problem, and this would probably mean the raising of 200,000 men from Quebec alone, and the taking of less men from Ontario and Brant county. He criticized the Quebec Ministers in the Union Cabinet, Messrs. Blondin and Sevigny, who while they remained would support a policy of inaction where their province was concerned.

Labor's Duties

One of the duties of labor representatives would be to secure more adequate pay for soldiers. Another, equalized pensions.

"We have some work to do at Ottawa," declared the speaker, "for the soldier who we hope will vote for us, and who are not now being treated right. The present bunch of politicians will not properly look after returned men as they should be looked after."

The foreigners throughout the Dominion should be conscripted for farm work, or they would prove a menace to the men coming back from the front.

Harping on his pet fuel and food question, Ald. MacBride demanded more energetic action by the fuel and food controllers. This could be secured by labor men.

A real man's sized job would be the abolition of war profiteering and the "firing" of Sir Joseph Flavelle, who had been convicted of profiteering, but no further action taken.

To make Quebec do her duty was the question of the hour. There should be no religious cry, or it was no religious issue; such men as Lavergne and Bourassa, declared Ald. MacBride should long ago have been interned.

The labor men could be trusted to carry on the development of Canada after the war.

Canada's first two war loans had been snapped up by the capitalists, who alone were making money in Canada to-day.

"Let the soldier and his kin," concluded Ald. MacBride, "figure out for himself, who will best represent him at Ottawa, the wealthy man, the lawyer or the labor man."

He hoped to see the campaign conducted cleanly and honestly. The labor men had no "bottle" to distribute among the workers.

The one who is calling on you, but certain things will arise that you will never marry him. The boy here will propose before January 1st, but you will turn him down.

Q.—Will my brother-in-law return? Have I met the man I am to marry? Did a certain party tell me the truth?—C.W. A.—It is my impression that your brother-in-law will return, but not for some months. The man you will marry has not come into your life yet. He told you a lie regarding the Saturday night stunt.

Q.—Will I marry the one I am now going with?—A.H. A.—Your brother is at present in England and has never been on the firing line. The young lady prefers you to the one at the front and will marry you, but get a move on you and ask her, don't wait until too late as the other fellow will be in Brantford March 15.

Q.—Will my brother have to go to war? Will I make success of my present work? Will I ever marry?—M.J.K. A.—It is my impression that your brother will never even cross the ocean, though will be drafted. He would advise you to change your position as soon as you can. You should take a business course as you would make an excellent stenographer. You will not marry until the summer of 1920. He will be a professional man and well off.

Q.—Will we derive any benefit from an estate? Where is the locket I lost?—E.F.D. A.—It is my impression that the estate in question was one that your husband has a legal interest in. The lawyers will get some money, but nothing like he thinks he should have. Your locket was stolen, not lost, and the girl who got it out of your room was a friend of yours, she intended bringing it back, but lost it and was afraid to say anything about it. You will never get it back again.

Q.—Is my brother wounded?—H.F. A.—It is my impression that your brother is at present a prisoner, but will return at the end of the war.

Q.—Shall I ever marry? I have a great desire for a change, will it come?—A.M.B. A.—It is my impression that you will not marry for four years yet. Stay where you are at present, you will not like the city but the farm much better. You do not think so.

Q.—Where is my husband?—E.L.D. A.—It is my impression that your husband is at present in France; he is safe and will return to you next spring.

Q.—Will my friend who is ill recover? Will I ever be in better circumstances than at present? If so, how soon?—D.E.J.H. A.—It is my impression your friend will recover. You will be in better circumstances in 1920.

Q.—Would you kindly answer my question and relieve my mind. Shall my husband return from war, and shall I succeed in Canada? Have I many friends in Brantford I can trust?—B.M.T. A.—It is my impression your husband will return. You will succeed here. I would not put too much trust in any one; just use your own ideas.

Q.—I lost two rings; could you please tell me what became of them as I thought they were stolen.—F.S. A.—You have mislaid them; you will find them.

Q.—I have been keeping company for over a year with a fellow. Is he true to me, or is it advisable to discontinue his company?—M.S. A.—It is my impression he is true to you. If you love him as you should after keeping company one long year you should continue to do so.

Q.—I have a young man who will stay at the work I am at present engaged in?—H.G.L. A.—It is my impression you will do well at the work you are now engaged in for the next year, then you will be made an offer; take it.

Q.—Will you tell me what month I will be going on a long journey? Will I be satisfied?—S.D. A.—It is my impression you will take a journey in Feb., 1918.

Q.—Was the letter received Wednesday opened by any one before it was handed to me? If so, where?—T.M.G. A.—It is my impression your letter was not opened.

Q.—Do you think that if my husband and I go West we should succeed; and when we shall go will my brother get married?—J.M. A.—It is my impression your husband would succeed in the West; you should make the change right away. Yes, your brother will get married.

Q.—Could you tell me what my daughter is fretting about? You tell me if I shall hear anything about getting money.—R. A.—It is my impression your daughter is in love. You will hear about money.

Q.—Is my friend true? Will our friendship amount to anything or are we wasting time?—O.A. A.—It is my impression your friend is true, but you will never be married, so if that is what you mean by wasting time, you had better give him up.

Q.—It is my impression your brother will never even cross the ocean, though will be drafted. He would advise you to change your position as soon as you can. You should take a business course as you would make an excellent stenographer. You will not marry until the summer of 1920. He will be a professional man and well off.

THE GREAT BRITISH DRIVE ON CAMBRAI

The shaded area on the map indicates the gains made by the British in a 30 mile front between St. Quentin and the Scarpe River.

Irish Troops

(Continued from page one) into the trench, to prevent the enemy from setting off the explosives. A hot fight took place in the trench. Many Germans battled with bayonets to the death and four hundred enemy bodies were counted after the conflict. In addition more than 700 prisoners were taken.

Further evidence of the German unpreparedness for an offensive in the Cambrai sector was obtained today in the capture of an order drawn up by a German battalion commander the day before the attack. It was his summary of events for a week and he drew this conclusion: "The attitude of the enemy clearly is one of defensive."

A Petition

A monster petition has been circulated and signed by 790 of the farmers and other ratepayers in the Tps. of Oakland, Burford, Townsend and Windham, protesting against the exemption of the City of Brantford. It is contended that exemption was refused in nearly every case, directly contrary to the terms of the Act, and the interpretation given thereto. It also states that the situation will be extremely critical in this community, as to production, if these men are taken, as already many farmers are seriously under-manned, and asks for immediate redress, as this community is being treated very differently than experienced farmers' sons are being treated before other Tribunals. This petition is being sent to the proper authorities.

NEW YORK INVADED BY GERMAN TROOPS

By Courier Lensed Wire Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Nov. 24.—The circulation here to-day of a fake copy of the Edmonton, Alberta, Journal, giving an account of a German attack on New York, the destruction of the Woolworth Building and the landing of German troops in that city nearly caused a riot at the plant of the Sinclair Packing Company.

The paper was sent to E. J. Harley, of Edmonton, an employee of the company. He has a son with the Canadian Expeditionary forces. He showed the account to a number of workers who became so incensed they attacked him and a general fight took place.

The paper said Zeppelins had attacked New York, inflicting great damage and killing hundreds.

SIR JOSEPH WARD

Premier of New Zealand, who tells of the financial success of the Imperial Pacific cable.

Give these pills a fair trial and you will soon note a wonderful change in your condition. Your spirits will brighten, good health and strength will return, and you will feel like a new person. You can confirm these statements by enquiring among your friends almost anywhere, as thousands and thousands of hopeless sufferers have been restored to new health and energy by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TO TAKE THE VOTE OF THE SOLDIERS OVERSEAS.

Mr. Hammett P. Hill, an Ottawa barrister, has been appointed to participate in the taking of the soldiers' vote overseas.

SERIOUS ILLNESS AVOIDED

Many a serious illness has been avoided by the prompt use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually enrich and purify the blood, and in this way build up the system, tone and strengthen the nerves and invigorate the vital organs.

Serious diseases generally come from some simple disorder that has been neglected. Therefore any thinning of the blood should be looked upon as a warning sign, and more serious illness should be avoided by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

In the case of young girls and women the blood is peculiarly liable to get out of order—to become thin and watery—and to lead to a general breakdown in health. This can be avoided by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which are suitable for the most delicate constitution.

These pills will give you a new appetite, improve your digestion, tone and strengthen weakened nerves, banish depression and lack of energy, clear the complexion of pimples and blotches, cure pain in the back and general weakness, cause the disappearance of headaches, dizziness and heart fluttering.

PATRIOTISM--IT'S RELATION TO THE COURIER "BOOST BRANTFORD" MOVEMENT

The following essay, written by a young man in Cainsville, shows an intelligent interest in the Buy-at-Home movement. The Courier will welcome and publish on this page items of interest in connection with its Buy-at-Home and Boost Brantford Campaign.

PATRIOTISM

The first mental picture which appears before the mind's eye when the word patriotism is seen or heard is probably the boyhood hero, worshipped for deeds of bravery, or possibly to some appears the mental picture of some statesmen who gave his country his best years to advance the cause he thought would sustain and build up the country of his birth or adoption.

Since the great war fastened its hideous talons on this modern world, our conception of patriotism was broadened, but even now few people understand the meaning of patriotism in its entirety.

Without a doubt the highest form of patriotism is when an individual places himself or herself at the disposal of country—preferring death to national dishonor. Then there is the statesman who casts aside personal and political gains for the nation's welfare. There is the individual who places wealth on the country's altar.

Patriotism, however, can and should be practised in many more ways than these. Patriotism should be exercised by every citizen in every walk of life.

A nation would cease to exist as a nation if patriotism were not exercised by a large majority of citizens. How much greater then, would that nation be if all the citizens were truly patriotic.

To be truly successful a nation must be united by bonds of blood, love and fellowship; united in thought and practice for the purpose of extending the welfare of that nation from the individual to the crown.

No nation can enjoy national prosperity when the provinces are at variance with her, and demand more than their share; no province can hope for a healthy maturity when the municipalities give no more than a forced assistance and ask for more than is their need. No municipality can even hope to operate successfully when the cities therein withhold their support, draining the municipal coffers for their individual gains. No city can advance to permanency when the citizens obstruct every advancement and carry their support elsewhere, and the growth of a city depends on the growth of business and business is sustained by the whole-hearted support of its citizens.

The word patriotism arouses national pride. We are proud to be subjects of this great British nation because we believe she is the greatest nation the sun has ever shone on. We are proud to be citizens of Canada. Canada the brightest star in the Empire. We are proud of the Province of Ontario—the banner province of the Dominion. Proud of the good old county of Brant, the best county in the Province. Proud of Brantford, the most energetic and successful city in the whole Dominion.

Let us show that our pride is practical, that we are truly patriotic, by building up our city, our places of business, keeping our money where it will be used to upbuild and beautify our fair city and this in turn will assist in building up our County, Province, Dominion and Empire. "REX."

CO-OPERATION TO THIS END

Do you believe in buying all that you can in your natural trade centre?

If you cannot get what you want at your nearest town or village because of the limited stocks carried there, do you believe in getting it as near home as possible?

Do you know that the large stocks carried by Brantford merchants in every conceivable line of merchandise measure up to what is being shown in the largest Ontario cities in point of style, quality and price?

Have You Heard it?

This is a summons in which every man, woman and child in this community should be interested. It is a call for co-operation, an appeal to our community spirit, a plea for us to get together.

Each week we tell in story and show in cartoon the needs of our community, what is holding it back, the things we must overcome to progress and how this can be accomplished by co-operation.

If you are interested in the progress of the future of Brantford, you can help by reading these pages each week and buying at home and co-operating in making this a bigger, better, more prosperous city.

Winning The Game

This country is a vast checker board, in which the Old Town Spirit and the New are striving for the mastery. Old ideas die hard. The Old Town Spirit is "each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost." This means the mastery of the few and the subjection of the many. But the New Spirit means the Co-operation of all. It brings LIFE and HAPPINESS to the many. Is the New winning over the Old in OUR community? And how do WE as individuals stand in this game of Community LIVING? Are you playing the game for your TOWN? Or are you playing it for YOURSELF alone? Remember, you can't stand still. On your MOVE the result depends. Then let the Spirit of Progress win.

The Business Men Endorse Campaign

With only a few exceptions Brantford's business men endorse the Buy-at-Home Campaign. This means that each of these merchants, needing what another merchant sells, will make his or her purchase locally. This is as it should be. The pledge to buy at home is easily kept, and will, without doubt, be of much value to the city.

PROSPERITY TO FOLLOW IN THE WAKE OF THE WAR

Brantford Citizens Should Co-operate to the End that Their City Should Share.

National prosperity feeds upon itself. Each period of growth is the springing board for another.

But why wait until it comes? Why accept an intervening period of dull trade as part of the inevitable scheme of things? Canada is prosperous now as never before. Why not go out now, while the inspiration of our present success is still upon us, and rope in another period of gilt-edged prosperity?

After the war, there is bound to be a certain amount of industrial dislocation while the boys in khaki are being replaced in civil life. Not only that, but the hundreds of factories that have been turning out war material and supplies of every kind will have to re-adjust themselves to their former kind of work.

All this spells dislocation if, and only if, we drift. But there is a better word than drift. There is organization and co-operation. There is preparedness for peace. We have the basis of that preparedness in our present prosperity.

During the last three years Canada's export provision trade to Great Britain has more than doubled. Canada's trade with the United States has more than doubled. Agriculture, dairying, fruit farming, all these industries are prosperous beyond anything recorded in the history of the country. Lumbering and mining and fisheries, all report unprecedented business, in spite of the general shortage of labor. Every mill and factory in Canada is working to capacity. Every ship that leaves these shores is freighted up to the safety limit.

This is the great opportunity for Canadian industry to carry the present boom forward over the war crisis, instead of accepting the hitherto inevitable dull period. Dull periods are not inevitable in a country with such tremendous undeveloped resources as Canada. They may be so in an old-established and over-populated country, but in this land of supreme opportunity they can surely be avoided. That must be the slogan of Canadian business men, to boost the Dominion from one period of prosperity right into another, and thus absorb the heroes from overseas as fast as they are demobilized.

It will be difficult. It will require careful organization, courage and enterprise and confidence. But Canada has shown time and again that she possesses these vital qualities. Three years ago she organized a great citizen army to help beat Germany. Now, both her national self-interest and her national pride call her to organize another citizen army to conquer a new prosperity and help to realize that famous saying that Canada is the country of the Twentieth Century. Brantford's share in this work should be of full measure. Brantford's opportunity comes with Canada's necessity. Let us unite now, for all time, and make Brantford a city of cities. Co-operation will do it.

SUCCESS

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; Who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; Who has filled his niche, has accomplished his task; Who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or rescued soul; Who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; Who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; Whose life was an inspiration; Whose money a benediction."

ON SPENDING MONEY AT HOME

You can put more money into the hands of those from whom you expect to receive money by spending all you do spend at home. Keeping local money localized, as it were. You owe it to yourself to trade at home, and in the long run it pays better to do this.

PUTTING HEART INTO THE BUSINESS

Big business or little business, heart is the thing to put into it, but particularly if it is a little business, for then you can actually see it grow. Quarter-heart or half-heart is not much good. The whole heart is needed. You know we are right. You know that your own business could be improved by your putting your whole heart into it if you have not already done so. Then why not do it? It is the finest scheme ever invented for boosting a business. It covers everything else that is necessary, and never fails.

MY PLEDGE

As a Resident of Brantford I Hereby Pledge Myself:—

- 1st.—That I will Boost Brantford at all times.
- 2nd.—That as a Booster I will buy, as far as possible, everything I need for myself or for my family, in my home city.
- 3rd.—That I will, where possible, purchase Brantford-made goods in preference to goods manufactured in other cities or towns.
- 4th.—That I will, on every occasion, urge my friends and neighbors to buy in Brantford and Boost Home Industries.

"WHO IS NUMBER ONE?"
Kathleen Clifford, star of "Who is Number One," the Paramount serial by Anna Katharine Green, doesn't always keep one hand in a pocket or covered in a muff as she goes in a future episode of the serial, which is being shown every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Brant. In making a leap in a coming episode of "Who is Number One," Miss Clifford falls and actually breaks an arm. The making of the picture had to proceed, so as soon as she had recovered from the shock she reported back to work. But for a week she had to use her pockets and trust for a sling.

"THE GHOST HOUSE."
Jack Pickford, the clever young brother of Mary Pickford, who has forced his own way to the top of the motion picture business, has been so busy making photoplays that he never had time for college, although he is a graduate of a famous military academy. But in many of his pictures he has had ample opportunity to taste the joys and trials of a student's life. For instance, in "The Ghost House," in which he is appearing with Louise Huff at the Brant Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, he is seen as a college freshman, undergoing the most violent form of initiation.

For the first proof of his courage, he is sent to spend a night in a "haunted" house—which, by the way, he finds to be occupied by two extremely attractive young ladies, who take him for a housebreaker. The second night he is tied in a chair, gagged and his eyes severely bandaged. The way in which he manages to wriggle his chair near enough to the table to knock the telephone from it to the floor and crawl to the receiver with his hands still tied, is extremely amusing and clever.

"THE BIRD OF PARADISE."
"The Bird of Paradise," Richard Walton Tully's love story of the Hawaiian Islands, produced by Oliver Morosco, will be at the Grand Opera House Tuesday evening, Nov. 27.

Mr. Tully has written the story of the lives of two men and two women; one, a little dark-skinned princess, meets a white man, they fall in love and marry. She boasts she can hold her white husband's love through her lips and her arms, but learns, to many owners, that love of that nature is not lasting, and when he tires of her, she returns to her people and her native religion and gives herself as a human sacrifice to save her people from destruction. On the other hand, the other woman, an American, meets a drunken beachcomber, becomes interested in him, and through his good influence he takes his place among his fellowmen again. These four people form the basic theme of Mr. Tully's play, and while the story is tragic, he has introduced many flashes of humor both native and American. Manager Morosco has made five women famous in the part of Laina, the little Hawaiian girl, and this season he will present Miss Celte Scudder, his latest "find" in the role made famous by five successful actresses. The cast has been carefully selected. Manager Morosco, giving the production his personal attention.

John Warner, a popular leading man from California, plays the part of Dr. Wilson. Others in the company are Miss Helen Carew, who makes a most charming Diana, the American girl who finds the right path for the drunken beachcomber, played by John Waller.

One of the attractive features of the play is the quartette of native Hawaiian singers and players, whose weird melodies were brought into vogue through the popularity of this compelling drama. The last act showing the valiant cruise of the Klauwa is the most thrilling effect attempted in any stage production.

"ARMS AND THE GIRL."
Ever since it became apparent that America would be forced into the great war by Germany's ruthless conduct, there have been rumors current of bodies of Germans in this country drilling clandestinely, and of the purchasing of many rifles and much ammunition by secret Teuton organizations for the apparent purpose of starting local insurrections at such time as might be considered strategic. Minute investigations of these reports have been made and every effort used to trace the culprits.

No wonder then that there was considerable excitement when the news leaked out that several hundred German uniforms had been ordered by a man named Kaufman. The wheels of justice were freshly oiled and set in motion and the report was confirmed. Then the task of tracing down the man Kaufman was begun and the trail led to West 56th street, New York City. Here the investigators found their quarry, Albert Kaufman, manager of the Famous Players studio, who was preparing for the Paramount version of "Arms and the Girl," starring Billie Burke, which is to be shown next week at the Brant Theatre.

cently. It fairly goes without saying that the Brantford playgoers and photoplay fans will turn out en masse to greet it. Reports pronounce it to be the biggest thing in the way of huge spectacular photo-drama production in this or any other country. Approximately one million dollars has been invested in its consummation. Whole cities of people are shown, submarines and many of the craft that ply under and over the sea are included in its realistic paraphernalia.

Vivid, thrilling and speedy drama are said to give the countless picturesque effects hurried momentum. 750 scenes, each swift, many agitating many sublime and beautiful many dynamic in their drama go toward compounding the picture in its entirety. The story, with its usual

BIGGEST SURPRISE OF HIS LIFE HE SAYS

Williamson Overcomes His Troubles of Five Years Standing by Taking Tanlac

"I have never been so surprised over anything as I have over the results of Tanlac in my case," said William Williamson, a well-known brick mason, living at 1115 St. Clare's Avenue, Toronto, recently.

"My kidneys have been bothering me for four or five years," he continued, "but during the past year other ailments set in and kept me feeling miserable nearly all the time. I had terrible pains across my back, especially when I stopped over or tried to lift anything, then rheumatism settled in my right leg, and at times I simply suffered torture from it. The pain was so sharp and cutting at times I would almost drop in my tracks, and many a night I have not closed my eyes for sleep at all. I just had that dejected, worn-out feeling, had no energy and didn't care for anything.

"One day a friend of mine said: 'Why don't you try Tanlac, I have taken it, and it surely did me good.' So with that I began taking Tanlac and improving every day. I have now taken four bottles, the rheumatism never troubles me at all, and my kidneys are in fine shape. My appetite is fine and everything I eat tastes good and agrees with me. My nerves are strong and steady now, I sleep like a log, and all my tired, depressed feelings are gone. I now have my old time strength and energy and feel like myself again. Tanlac has certainly been a great thing for me and I can't praise it too highly."

Tanlac is sold in Brantford by Milton H. Robertson & Co. Ltd., in Paris by Apps Ltd., in Mt. Vernon by A. Yeomans; and in Middleport by William Peddie.

German U-Boats Take Heavy Toll of Neutral Fishing Vessels

London, Nov. 23.—In the last few days the Germans have sunk five Dutch fishing boats, three of which were outside the barred zone, according to a special dispatch from Amsterdam. The German destroyer V-69, which shared in the destruction, was damaged in a fight with British warships last January. It was repaired at Ymuiden, Holland, and allowed to return to Germany.

Three persons were badly injured and a new auto wrecked when a H. G. and B. freight car struck the auto at the "30" crossing on the H. G. and B. line. The auto was driven by William Cosby, of Welland, who was accompanied by his parents, three sisters and a friend.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER BOWELS

Salts, calomel, pills act on bowels like pepper acts in nostrils. Enjoy life! Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy and constipated.

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Brilliant Journalist, Who Has Sung Sir Wilfrid's Praises Throught Every Crisis, Comes Out Strong for Union Government—Laurier Has Deliberately Made Conscription Issue—Would Desert Boys in the Trenches

In some respects the most notable convert to the Union Government is H. F. Gadsby, the brilliant writer. Mr. Gadsby is as ardent an admirer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as the Dominion possesses. In season and out of season he has supported Sir Wilfrid with his glib pen, but cannot endorse the Opposition leader's attitude to-day. Mr. Gadsby writes from Ottawa:

Sir Wilfrid takes up the gauntlet. The issue is conscription. He makes the issue conscription by his stubborn attitude against it. Neither now nor for six months to help the boys in the trenches. That is what Sir Wilfrid Laurier's proposal to wait until he takes a referendum means.

Wait and see, says Sir Wilfrid. But meanwhile death does not wait. The German shells do not stop in mid-career while Sir Wilfrid works out his policy of procrastination. Our best and bravest go on dying over there in Flanders quite regardless of the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier spins phrases to catch the vote of those who think that Canada has done enough and ought to quit now.

Every sensible man knows that Canada cannot quit now. We have this German wolf by the ears and we can't let go. In sporting parlance Canada must come through. We are bound to "carry on" because our heart is in the great fight for freedom and our honor is pledged to see it to a finish. As Ben Tillett put it, if Germany wins then nothing else on God's earth matters. Canada has found her soul in the mud and blood of Flanders and she must never lose it again.

OUR LIBERTY AT STAKE

Canada has found her soul because she has found what she lives for. The only way to find what one lives for is to find what one is willing to die for. This great treasure which has commanded the supreme sacrifice from so many Canadians is democracy. That is the great ideal, the precious heritage for which Canadians fight and bleed and die on Flanders fields. Democracy gives the individual as much liberty as he can enjoy without trenching on the liberty of others. Accustomed as Canadians are to the fullest measure of personal freedom have they thought what a figure they could cut as tribute-payers in a German colony which was run on the "verboten" principle? Yet that is what Canada would become if Germany won.

Sir Wilfrid threatens to cease efforts or at least to suspend it until the referendum vote is counted. That means he would cease effort altogether for there is undoubtedly enough slackers in this country to defeat conscription if put to the touch. To lie down, to back out of the fight—these are shameful things Canada can never do. These are the shameful things the Union Government says Canada shall not do. Union Government, as I have said before is a partnership of thrift and fortitude whose function is to keep Canada up to her best previous endeavors. It would be cheaper to quit says some faint heart. The duty of the Union Government is to quit. Even to save money it would be a poor bargain to quit now. What does it profit a nation if it gains a stranglehold on the national debt and loses its own soul? Besides, Canada does not save money by quitting—rather money, nor lives, nor honor. If Germany won, our lands would be the spoil of the Teuton. There would be no cheap homesteads for the poor men of the Anglo-Saxon race. The best acres would belong to the conqueror. And the well-to-do would suffer too for a conquering Germany would hardly let a tributary state go on paying interest on war loans under deterring Germany's defeat. In short rich and poor will find it to their interest to hold up Canada's end in this war, and support a Union Government which considers conscription the first duty of the hour.

UNION HAD TO COME.

Much has been said as to why Conservatives and Liberals joined hands in a Union Government. Some say that the Conservatives did it to wash their stains away and that the Liberals did it to put themselves right with the soldier vote and that both did it to share the benefits of the War Time Election Act—all of which may be true but is beside the question nevertheless. The real reason for joining hands was that they had to do it. Nothing but united effort for the next five years to come at the very least will pull Canada out of the pit this war has hung her into. Canada did not dig this pit for herself any more than the United States dug a pit for herself. It wasn't England who dug the pit, or France, or Russia, or Italy. It was Germany that dug the pit which drew the whole world in.

Germany must be driven into a position where she can dig no more pits and to do that Canada must stand by the Mother Country to the end. The whelps of the lion must not scurry for cover just as the old lion is beginning to get his second wind. It is worth remembering that England has carried most of this war on her shoulders—in men she does her full share, in money she keeps half a dozen of the allies going. Now that Russia has crumpled and Italy sags like a stick of her justly celebrated macaroni, it looks as if England and her overseas states, France and the United States might have to finish this war. It means that Canada must go on doing her bit. No Conservative can afford to be too conservative in the reinforcements he sends to our boys in the trenches and no Liberal can afford to be illiberal when it comes to giving a full measure of help to the brave fellows in Flanders who make their breasts the bulwark of our liberties.

OUR SAFETY DEMANDS IT.

Canada is in this war for several reasons. I put them down here in the order of their importance. To prevent democracy perishing from the earth, to help England, to save her own skin. The first and third reasons have already been touched. The second reason—helping England—that is to say doing our duty as part of the British Empire—needs this comment. Some love the old flag because it is a sentiment, others because it is the world-wide symbol of a prosperous business institution. From either angle it commands the respect and support of intelligent Canadians. For a long time to come we must remain a part of the British Empire because it is our interest and safety to do so. Our safety? Yes. With Pan-German and Pan-Asiatic and Pan one kind and another movements all around us, our security against these threatening solidarities is to be Pan-British or Pan-Anglo-Saxon.

The conscription returns show that only seven per cent. of those found physically fit are willing to fight. This gives a fairly good hint as to what would happen if Sir Wilfrid went back to voluntary recruiting. Of the ninety-three per cent. claiming exemption it will probably be found that they are not suffering from any thing but dandruff. Conscription does not mean that four sons from one family simply because they are willing and no sons at all from the family next door because they are willing to lie down on the job. It does not mean letting our own native born and British-born march bravely off to war and leaving our foreign-born to enjoy the fruits of this good brown Canadian earth.

—H. F. GADSBY.

Petrograd, Nov. 23.—A reduction of the Russian army, beginning with the class conscripted in 1914, has been proclaimed by the Bolshevik leader, M. Lenine, an official announcement to-day states. The order is to take effect immediately.

FORGOTTEN HIS TIN CAN.

Detroit, Nov. 23.—It was announced here to-day that Henry Ford had subscribed for $500,000 worth of Canada victory bonds.

GREEKS SPIED FOR HUNS.

Athens, Tuesday, Nov. 20.—About 150 pro-German Greeks have been arrested charged with espionage, propaganda and diffusion of false news. They will be expelled.

CATARRH LEADS TO CONSUMPTION

Catarrh is as much a blood disease as scrofula or rheumatism. It may be relieved, but it cannot be removed by simply local treatment. It causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the voice, deranges the digestion, and breaks down the general health. It weakens the delicate lung tissues and leads to consumption.

Hood's Sarsaparilla goes to the seat of the trouble, purifies the blood, and is so successful that it is known as the best remedy for catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and tones the whole system. It builds up. Ask your druggist for Hood's, and insist on having it. There is no real substitute.

SECOND NOKOMIS IS "GOING OVER."

H. E. Dodge Releases Another Magnificent Yacht to U. S. for War Service.

Shortly after the United States declared war on imperial Germany, a dapper crew of officers and men sailed away from Detroit in the Nokomis, acknowledged the finest steam yacht on the great lakes. The vessel was being turned over to the government for war service on the high seas.

H. E. Dodge, Detroit motor car manufacturer, was at the dock to wave farewell when she departed. Without debate he had turned over his magnificent vessel for war duty. Yachtsmen of all the world expressed admiration for her gracefulness and magnificent equipment when she came up the St. Lawrence a few months ago on her way from Wilmington, Delaware, to Detroit. So admirably was she adapted to the government's needs that negotiations for taking her over were begun almost immediately, despite the fact that the original Nokomis had been turned over for service only a short time before. Mr. Dodge, however, recognized the necessity for ocean tonnage as one of the requisites of war, and again made the sacrifice.

The new Nokomis is a 582-ton steam yacht, 243 feet over all, with a 35-foot beam.

FAILED TO WRECK THEATRE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Reinhold A. Faust, a naturalized German, last night confessed to Police Chief Schuetter that he placed a bomb in the Auditorium Theatre last Friday during a grand opera performance. The crudely made bomb did not explode, but its discovery caused much excitement among the audience.

ACCLAMATION FOR CALDER.

Moose Jaw, Nov. 23.—The election of Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Colonization and Immigration in the Union Government, became a fact at midnight when James Somerville, Independent Labor candidate, withdrew his name from the contest after the Moose Jaw Labor Representative League refused to vote his support.

Rippling Rhymes

LOOKING FOR PEACE.
I'm longing for the boon of peace,
That's been for weary years mislaid;
I yearn to see the struggle cease,
And captains seek some mild trade.
Who is not weary of the strife,
Of war with greedy, rooking laws?
Methinks the whole world and his wife
Would hail said boon with glad hurrahs.
The world is dark without this boon,
The large moon I croon a yearning tune,
I sigh for it at morn and night.
But when the boon at last appears,
I ought to bear the guarantee that
Nevermore in coming years will warlords
Wield the snickersnee. I would not give
A rusty prune, I would not give
A ring of cheese, for any tinhorn
Unfit boon that's bound to bring
Bag around the knees. I hear some fellows
Boosting peace, regardless of the brand
On tap; but, as I've said to Jane,
My niece, this has to be the last
Big scrap. Until the captains
Are agreed, and make their vow,
So help them, John, that armaments
Must go to seed, oh, let the dregs
Fight drag on! Still ply the drum
And loud bassoon, still ply the claymore
And the gun, until we have an all-wool
Boon, that will not ravel, rip or run!

IS HE, OR IS HE NOT? YES!

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—The Militia department is not in a position to confirm or deny the report that General Sir Arthur Currie, commanding the Canadian army corps in France, has expressed a desire to be temporarily relieved of command so that he may return to Canada on furlough. A high officer of the department stated this morning that the matter was not one over which the military authorities here had any jurisdiction. General Currie is in command of an army corps and, it was explained, would have to make any application for leave to the British officer in charge of the army of which his corps is a part. If leave was granted, he would probably report to the Canadian overseas minister of militia in London before sailing for home. In all probability he would be on the ocean for some days before a definite report of his coming was given out.

INSURANCE DROPS.

Washington, Nov. 23.—On account of the reduction in ships torpedoed during the past few weeks, the war risk bureau to-day lowered the insurance rate on vessels passing through the submarine zone, from five to four per cent.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS.

New York, Nov. 23.—Directors of the General Chemical Company to-day declared an extra dividend of five per cent. on the common stock at par and a special dividend of two and a half in cash, payable to common stockholders February 1. The regular quarterly dividend of 1-2 per cent. on the preferred stock payable January 1 was also declared.

(From Friday's Daily.)
During the next three days the two boats see-sawed on the lakes and rivers. Ralph now ahead, and now Joe Mixer's party.

Ralph kept much longer working hours, but the others made it up in speed. Whenever they passed each other it became the occasion for an exchange of half-serious abuse, which was only prevented from developing into a fight by Ralph's unshakable, steely smile.

Ralph insisted on making out that it was all a joke.

Joe was itching for a fight, but the smile cut the ground from under him. Meanwhile, Ralph gave as good as he got. Stack never took part in these contests of wit. He sat in the dugout haggard and abstracted, gripping the gunwales under his skinny knuckles.

When he thought Ralph's gaze rested on him he did his best to look meek and imploring, but succeeded very ill in disguising his hatred. Joe Mixer carried a deal of liquor in his baggage as evinced by their frequent thickness of speech.

At the end of the third day they had travelled far down the Rice River.

By padding until near dark Ralph succeeded in pitching his camp three miles in advance of the other party. It was his intention to sleep for four hours only, and then go on. According to his calculations he was within a few hours' journey of the Grand Forks, and it was essential to his plan that he get there first.

He meant to watch from some place of concealment on the shore, to make sure that they turned up the Stanley River instead of continuing down-stream. In case they were not deceived by his false lead, and did not leave the main stream, he had one more desperate card to play.

The moon was now nearly full again, and he could be sure of a certain light until dawn.

Ralph pitched his little shelter in an opening among the willows that thickly lined this part of the bank. His boat was drawn high up on the stones below, and tied to the willow trunks. He ate a hasty supper and turned in.

As he lay waiting for sleep, once again he was warned by a vague disquiet in his breast of impending danger.

He remembered this afterward. At the time he was dog-tired, and the still voice was not insistent enough to cleave the gathering mists of sleep. He soon became unconscious.

He was awakened immediately, or so it seemed to him, by a sudden outburst of drunken shouting. At the same moment his shelter collapsed on top of him.

When he succeeded in freeing himself of the entangling blankets, netting and canvas, in the dim light he saw four figures reeling about where his fire had been, kicking his belongings into the bush, and wreaking what senseless damage they could. A terrible rage nerved him in every fiber.

"You damned cowards!" he cried. Hearing his voice they made for him simultaneously, but Ralph retreated silently under the willows, and bided his time, peering through the branches. They searched for him, stumbling over the roots and shouting insanely.

During the next two or three minutes the scene was as confused and incredible as a nightmare.

Ralph made out a swollen body swaying on the edge of the bank, outlined against the moonlight. Rushing him, he hauled off and struck him on the jaw with a savage satisfaction in the crack of it. He made to follow up the blow, but Joe was not there.

He lay in a heap at the bottom of the bank.

Hearing a sound behind him, in the act of whirling around, a bludgeon aimed at Ralph's head descended on his shoulder. Seizing him who had wielded it, around the body, Ralph lifted him clear of the ground and flung him after Joe. It was Crusoe Campbell.

A third figure scuttled down to the water's edge without waiting to be assisted. Ralph stood in the ashes of his fire, breathing hard and glaring around like a lion for another adversary.

The half-breed stepped from out the shadows. "Look out, white man!" he cried boastfully. "I got it in for you! I'll fix you good!"

"Come on!" cried Ralph gladly. At the same time the curious thought shot through his brain, what could the half-breed have against him? It was not Joe Mixer's quarrel; there could be no mistaking the note of personal enmity.

The moon shone down serenely indifferent.

A little prize-ring was illuminated within the encircling willows. In it the two men advanced toward each other, fists up. They crashed together.

This was an adversary worthy of Ralph; he fought like a white man, and he fought fair. Shrewd blows were exchanged on either side. Each quickly learned to respect the other, and thereafter fought more warily.

Failing to reach Ralph's head, the breed punished him about the body. Every one of Ralph's blows was aimed in the center of the pale ellipse that denoted the other man's face.

Ralph had the advantage in that the breed's head was somewhat faded.

His blows began to go wild. Ralph beat him to his knees, and stood back to let him rise. As they rushed each other again, Ralph's ankles were grasped from behind, and he was flung violently to the ground, striking his head.

As from an immense distance he heard the half-breed say: "Damn little sneak! What for you do that? I want lick 'im myself!"

Then the voices receded.

Ralph heard them from the beach; heard a hoarse guffaw, and afterward the splashing of paddles. He understood that they had gone.

By this time he had got to his feet. He stood, reeling from the effects of his fall, and half suffocated with a cold and deadly rage. He made his way down to the water's edge.

His boat was turned upside down on the stones, and the moonlight revealed several clean slashes in her canvas bottom.

"Oh! this scum!" muttered Ralph in his rage. "Unnatural beasts without decency or manliness! Malignant and cowardly and sneaking as rats!"

In cutting his boat they had not done as serious damage as they doubtless expected, for Ralph carried spare pieces of canvas in his baggage, and a can of waterproof gum against emergencies.

He instantly set about repairing the boat, working away in the partial darkness with the pertinacity inspired by a cold rage. He had no doubt as to what he meant to do.

"They'll be sleeping sound after the booze," he thought grimly. "They think they've fixed me for a visit to-night."

When he had his patches affixed, he built a small fire on the stones, and held the boat over it to dry the gum.

In less than two hours she was fit to float again. He carried his fire up on the bank then, and making a blaze, hastily collected his scattered belongings. This refreshed his rage.

In his inimitable he flung everything into his boat higgledy-piggledy, and pushed off. He did not paddle, for fear of being carried past, but allowed the current to take him, while he searched both shores with straining eyes. No shadow was allowed to pass unexplained.

He had not gone much above a mile when he saw what he so ardently desired; their dugout drawn up on the stones.

A great satisfaction diffused itself throughout his breast. Softly padding ashore, he beached his own boat alongside, and bent his head to listen. A faint snoring from the bank overhead reassured him.

He smiled scornfully. In their drunken carelessness they had actually left most of their baggage in the dugout. Ralph had no desire to starve them to death, or to deprive them of the means of ultimate escape.

With suitable precautions of silence he unloaded everything on the stones. Then untying the rope by which the dugout was fastened to a tree, he heaved her adrift on the current. He didn't care much whether they heard that or not. But no alarm was raised.

Embarking in his own boat, Ralph towed the larger craft into mid-stream.

Picturing the scene that awaited their awakening next morning, he chuckled grimly, and found his breast eased of its weight of rage. He felt not the slightest regret for what he had done; indeed he was blaming himself for the foolish complications that had prevented him from doing it earlier.

His enemies were in no pressing danger; they possessed a store of food, also guns and ammunition.

They would eventually build a raft. In the meantime he would get a start that would put him out of their reach for good. He was free of them. A great serenity descended on his spirit.

Before he cast off the dugout it occurred to him that it was better fitted to descend the rapids ahead than his own clumsy coracle. He debated the matter.

An odd quirk of conscience finally prevented him from making the change.

"If I use the thing," he thought, "it's the same as stealing it." On this fine distinction depended the whole subsequent course of his story. He cast the dugout adrift.

There was no wind to blow it ashore and it was good for a long journey. During the rest of the night Ralph paddled and floated with the current without seeking any further rest.

Dawn found him among the islands that marked the approach of the end of the Rice River.

This was where he had first been blindfolded on the previous journey, and he awaited the subsequent sight of the river with a stipulated curiosity.

At sunrise, rounding a bend, he beheld the wide expanse of the meeting of the waters, the Grand Forks of the Spirit River. There could be no mistaking the place.

The two rivers occupied the same valley; one came down from the north, one from the south; meeting head on, they swung away to the eastward. The green current and the brownish struggled ceaselessly for possession of the channel.

AN EARNEST APPEAL

To the Farmers of Brant County with Reference to the Victory Loan The Township of Onondaga Has made a Splendid Record

As the party largely responsible for naming the members of the rural section of the county organization in connection with the Victory War Loan Campaign I feel the responsibility of the result of this campaign, so far as the rural section of the county is concerned, as shown by the canvass to date, and I think the inhabitants of the rural section should carefully consider their position as affected by the present war conditions.

PRaise FROM MR. JUSTICE MASTEN

His Lordship Pleased With His Visit to Brantford

When Mr. Justice Masten visited the Fall Assizes here this week, A. J. Wilkes, Crown Attorney, read the following address of welcome:

May I please your Lordship as this is your Lordship's first visit to the County of Brant in an official capacity as one of the younger members of the Bar, I may congratulate your Lordship upon your elevation to the Bench. Your Lordship at the Bar had a very wide experience and acted as counsel in a great many cases.

W. P. GUNDY, Successor of Sir Edward Kemp on Canada's war purchasing committee.

is a noble and worthy task. When one considers the judicial history of this province from the time of Chief Justice Osage, and recalls names of the great judges who have adorned that history through more than a century, one can only say "these were giants in the earth in those days"; and I aspire to follow humbly in the path which they have blazed, striving toward the judicial standard which they set and maintained so high.

The active practice of our profession for more than thirty years, has led me to entertain for my country at the Bar a strong sentiment of respect and confidence. I know of no reason why in the new relationship that now arises between us that sentiment should change on my part.

I would state that the additional tax levied on the rural sections in this county on account of war mills is approximately equal to four mills on the dollar, or $20.00 per year on a farm assessed at $5,000.00. Surely the privilege of keeping the boys in the farm instead of giving them for the front line trenches is worth more than this sum.

These figures show conclusively that certain parts of the county have nobly risen and met their obligation. I am referring to the Township of Onondaga, that has subscribed a sum equal to $61.00 per head for every man, woman and child in the Township.

I have never known the county when any question was put fairly before them, fail to do its full share. Through the press and otherwise, the reason of the necessity of this loan has been fully explained to every person and I will not enlarge on this branch of the case.

HOW MANY BONDS TO-DAY?

That's the pertinent question being asked.
And it's Canada that's doing the asking.
Canada's jaws are set, and looking squarely into your eyes—she asks:

“How Many Bonds To-day”

Canada wants plain talk, no quibbling.
Canada is through with “conversational” helps---words are fine, but they won't buy food or guns.
Advice---Canada has more than plenty, little of which can be traded for ammunition.
She wants a direct answer to this question.
An answer that will spell action.
Such action as will fulfill your duty, as a citizen.
Yes, and help pay the obligation you owe to your country. And when you have answered---
Stand erect in all your manhood---
Proud of the flag under which you live---loyal to the country you call your own---ready to help and protect to the last dollar.
To buy your quota---your equal share---is a simple duty---patriotism suggests that you do more.
If you fail Canada now---you are shifting your just burden on another man's shoulders.
Endangering the Patriotic Spirit of Canada.
Put every dollar you have saved, and can save, and every dollar you can borrow at work---at work saving lives and bringing our fighting men, sons, husbands, friends, home alive and victorious.
If you cannot fight it's your bounden duty---your very self-preservation---demands that you lend your money to your country---
If your income is $2,500 and upwards---do not buy a couple of bonds and sit back with a look of satisfaction.
DOUBLE your first figure. You are not giving, you are lending---at good interest---on the best security in all Canada.

ENCOURAGEMENT TO FRANCE FROM U. S.

America to Wage War Until World is Free From Shadow of Sword

By Courier Leased Wire
Paris, Nov. 23.—Col. E. M. House, for himself and in behalf of his associates, who arrived here from London yesterday, said concerning the purpose of the mission:

"We bring to the French Republic a message of encouragement from the American millions who are mobilizing in factories, farms and up-to-date military fields.

"There is a grim determination amongst us to wage war until the world is free from the shadow and spectre of the sword. We had in mind no material gain. What we want is an assurance of permanent peace and the tramp of our soldiers on the soil of France will be heard ever-increasingly until it is achieved.

"It is here that our brave men are come to mingle our blood with yours. It is here that all come to gather inspiration from your heroic deeds.

"Our president and our country see the issue clearly, and France may confidently count on every resource which may be at our command."

LINER ASHORE

By Courier Leased Wire
A Pacific Port, Nov. 23.—The Alaska Lineer Spokane of the Pacific Steamship Company is ashore today at the British Columbia coast, but wireless reports indicate that her passengers were not in immediate danger. A wireless message reported two other steamers standing by. The Spokane was southbound from Alaska ports and among her passengers were a number who were on board the Steamer Mariposa, recently wrecked in Alaskan waters.

SOWERS OF SEDITION

By Courier Leased Wire
New York, Nov. 23.—Jeremiah A. O'Leary, president of the American Trust Society and the editor of The Epoch, a publication recently barred from the mails, was today indicted on the charge of violating the espionage act, and the postal laws. The Bull Publishing Company, Inc., and S. Adolphus, connected with the Epoch, were also indicted on the same charges.

CAPPS'ILL QUITS POST

By Courier Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 23.—Chief Constructor Admiral Washington L. Capps, of the Navy, appointed General Manager of the Shipping Board's publication recently by President Wilson a few weeks ago, after the resignation of Major-General Goethals, will be compelled to leave the post because of illness. His resignation will be placed in President Wilson's hands without delay. Homer L. Ferguson, now president and general manager of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, has been asked to take the position.

SNOW STORM IN N. Y.

By Courier Leased Wire
Hoboken, N.J., Nov. 23.—Western New York awoke this morning in the grip of a heavy snow storm, the heaviest of the season. Six inches had fallen at 8 o'clock and the storm showed no signs of abating. Traffic on steam and electric roads was delayed.

MUNS ARRESTED

By Courier Leased Wire
Hoboken, N.J., Nov. 23.—A man in United States army uniform was arrested here last night in connection with two Germans, former members of the crew of the German submarine U-20, who were discovered with the Germans when secret service men broke in their room on the water front near the United States army pier. All three were held incommunicado in German authorities.

New York, Nov. 23.—The National League will not ask special exemption for any of its ball players and is not in sympathy with selfish plans for discrimination in favor of its business or players declared John T. Tener, president of the league here today.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Application must Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by homesteaders is subject to certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $300 per acre. Duties—reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 60 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A holder after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $300 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 60 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry (see Agents' not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

Deputy Minister of the Interior. N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.
