'Margaret,'
OR,
The Countess of Ferrers Court.

CHAPTER XVI.

Margaret laughed; a short laugh of scorn and contempt.

"Believe you!" she said, and that was all.

Her report seemed to render the girl desperate.

"You know it is true!" she cried. "You knew that he was married—that I am his wife. He is Lord Blair Leyton; his uncle is the Earl of Ferrers. He is my husband, and you have stolen him from me—"

"You lie!" burst from Margaret's white lips.

The passion that had been smoldering within her bosom leapt like an all-devouring flame to her lips, and she stood over the pale-faced, crouching girl like a goddess, her tall, graceful figure drawn to its full height, her eyes blazing, her hand outstretched as if it held the lightning of Jove.

No wonder the girl shrank and covered.

She did more than cover; she hesitated. For in that moment she quailed with fear, and half melted with pity, and shrank with loathing from her hellish task.

It was only for a moment. She had gone too far to go back now. To draw back would lead to exposure and ruin.

"Oh, hush, hush!" she whined. "You are too cruel! You know I speak the truth. We were married on the twelfth of March at St. Jude's—you do not believe me—see there, then; there is the certificate!" and she drew a paper from her breast and held it out, keeping firm grip of it, however.

Margaret stared at her without moving for a moment; then she bent down. For awhile she could see nothing, the paper and the characters on it danced before her eyes. Then her vision cleared, and she saw, still obscurely, the printed and written lines.

It was the certificate of the marriage of Blair, Lord Leyton—it set forth the long string of his Christian names—and Lucy Snowe, at the church of St. Jude, Paddington, on

Baby Afflicted With Eczema
Dr. Chase's Ointment Cured

The Family Doctor Tried in Vain to Heal the Sores—Another Tribute to This Great Healing Ointment.

It may be interesting to note that Dr. Chase's Ointment was originally compounded to cure a case of eczema on a child. The disease had spread almost over the entire body and defied all the regular treatment for such troubles. The doctor was perplexed but finally hit on the formula of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and, as many say, "it worked like a charm," healing up the nasty sores, and leaving the skin soft and smooth.

That was a good many years ago, and since then many thousands of cases of eczema, both in children and adults, have been cured, until to-day Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized as the standard cure for itching skin diseases.

Mrs. Geo. McNair, River Charles, N. B., writes as follows: "We use Dr. Chase's Ointment in our home, and would not wish for anything better for cuts, burns and bruises. A few years ago a friend of mine, whose March the twelfth of the present year.

She tried to grasp the paper, but her fingers refused to close on it, and fell limp and useless at her side, and she stood glaring down at the crouching figure at her feet as at some monster.

"Are you convinced?" wailed the girl. "Do you believe me now? Oh, how do you think I should have the heart to tell you such a story? And now—what will you do? Oh, give him back to me! I don't utter a word of reproach against you! No! I know, I feel that he has deceived you—Ah!" she broke out as if she had been stung. "Don't tell me he has married you! If he has, if he has dared to, I'll punish him! I'll send him to penal servitude. I'll—"

Margaret's swooning senses caught the threat, and she held out her hand. It was her turn to plead.

"No, no!" she panted almost inaudibly. "he—he has not! He is nothing to me! You—you shall have him back! Oh, Heaven! Oh, Heaven!" and, with a cry that rang through the room, she fell forward on her face.

CHAPTER XVI.

Lottie Belvoir looked down at the prostrate figure of Margaret with a pallor that made the carefully-applied paint on her face look yellow by contrast.

For a minute or two she felt frightened and had an idea of calling for help. Lottie was not altogether a bad girl; indeed, the persons who are either altogether bad or altogether good do not exist in real life, but only in the pages of some novels.

She had been brought up in a hard school, in which each has to struggle for itself, and where each knows that without doubt the devil will take the hindmost.

Mr. Austin Ambrose had worked upon her feelings and tempted her to do this thing, and she had done it. But in the doing of it she had felt distinctly uncomfortable. In the first place she had discovered that Margaret was a lady; if she had been one of Lottie's own class, Lottie would have had no compunction whatever. Then Margaret's beauty, which affected everybody more or less, had had its effect upon Lottie; then again, Margaret had treated her so kindly and gently; and altogether Lottie Belvoir had not had a particularly good time of it.

She got the glass of water and sprinkled it over the white beautiful face, and chafed her hands, and presently Margaret opened her eyes, and smiling faintly, murmured—"Blair!"

Then, as memory returned to its seat, the white features were convulsed, and shrinking away from Lottie she said in a ghastly whisper:

"It is all true, then? I—I thought that I had dreamt it."

"Yes, it is all true," said Lottie, rather sullenly. "And now I want to know what you are going to do, miss?"

Margaret winced at the "miss." More surely than any other word could have done, it brought home to her the fact of her ruin and degradation.

Slowly she dragged herself to a chair, and sank into it, refusing with a slight shudder Lottie's proffered arm.

"What am I going to do?" she repeated in a dull, benumbed fashion. "I do not know! Yes, I—I must go away! I must go at once, before—before he returns."

"That is the best thing you can do, miss," said Lottie. "It goes against me to drive you away, but what can I do? He is my husband—"

"Yes, yes," gasped Margaret, as if she were choking, "he is your husband—he is nothing to me, I have no right to stay here now. I will go."

"Perhaps you'd like to see him again, like to see us face to face and have it out with him?" suggested Lottie, doubtfully, and watching Margaret's face covertly.

"No, no," she said, instantly, and with a shudder, "I—I never wish to see him again."

"He has behaved cruelly, shamefully to you, miss," said Lottie; "to both of us, in fact, and he isn't worth fretting about, though he is a lord."

Margaret sat staring at the gayly patterned carpet, almost as if she had not heard the last words, then she looked round the room in a kind of bewildered fashion.

Lottie rose and let down her veil. "There is a train in an hour," she said, with a sympathetic sigh, "if you'd like to go to London, or perhaps you'd like to go abroad. If there should be money wanted—"

She had almost gone too far.

Margaret rose and looked at her with wild eyes.

"I will go," she panted, "do not be afraid. I will never see you—your husband again. But leave me alone! Do not offer me money—then her face changed, and with a sob she cried—"forgive me. It is you who have been wronged as well as me. I—I did not mean to speak so—but, ah, if you would only go and leave me to fight against my misery."

Lottie turned pale again under her paint, and moved toward the door. There she paused, and a strange look came into her face. It was the shadow of coming remorse casting itself before its steps. Even then there was a chance for Margaret, for at that moment Lottie's womanly heart was beginning to assert itself, and the impulse to fling herself at Margaret's feet and tell her the truth—the real truth—was making itself felt; but at that instant she caught sight of a man's figure coming up the winding path, and with a quick step she came toward Margaret.

"I am going," she said, in her ear; "you will not see me again. Go to London—abroad—somewhere away from Blair, and—from Mr. Austin Ambrose!"

These last words were not in her part, but for the life of her, though she lost all, Lottie could not have helped whispering them. Then, without waiting for any response, she went out and turned down the path. A hundred yards from the gate, on the narrow path, she met Austin Ambrose.

"Well," he said, quickly, "is it over?"

"Yes, it's done," she said, looking at him with anything but a pleasant countenance; "and a nice job it has been! Why didn't you tell me she was a lady?"

He made an impatient gesture.

"What does it matter? Where is she?—how did she take it?"

"She is in there," said Lottie, shortly; "and she took it—well, it would have been almost as easy to have murdered her! Indeed, I shouldn't be surprised if it did kill her. She fell at my feet as if she were dead."

"Tut!" he said, with a cold smile. "She is not of the sort that die easily. She will get over it. But there is no time to lose. You get over to Paris; catch the down-train to the junction, and travel by the night mail."

"And you—what are you going to do now?" she asked.

He smiled.

"You need not trouble about that," he said. "You have done your part, and I'll see that you get your reward."

She nodded.

"If it was to be done over again," she began; then she moved on a step, but stopped, and with a spot of red, said:

"I advise you to get her away before Blair comes back. If he should happen to turn up"—she shrugged her shoulders—"I wouldn't give much for your life!"

He nodded and laughed, and his eyes flashed evilly.

"Blair will not turn up!" he said. "The tone of confidence startled her. "Why? What have you done with him?" she asked.

"Now, my dear Lottie," he said in a low voice, and looking round cautiously, "don't interfere with my part of the play. It doesn't concern you. Get off as fast as you can, and make your mind easy. Stop! you'll want money; and he put his hand to his pocket; but, with a deep flush and a tightening of the lips, she refused it—as Margaret had refused hers.

"I've got enough money to go on with," she said. "You can send it to the Hotel de Louvre at Paris, if you like," and, with a nod, she sped quickly down the path.

Austin Ambrose waited for a minute or two looking at the sky. The blue that had been so unbroken a short time since was streaked with fleecy clouds, that might later grow black.

Then he opened the cottage door, and walked into the room where Margaret sat, her head resting upon her outstretched arms.

While one could count twenty he stood and looked down at her, then he said, in a low voice:

"Miss Margaret!"

She did not start, but raised her head and looked at him, and a shudder seemed to convulse her whole frame.

"You here?" she said, scarcely audibly.

He inclined his head with a sorrowful gesture.

"Yes, I am here. I have come to see if by any chance I can be of assistance to you."

"Then—then you have heard it?" she panted.

He dropped his eyes and sighed.

"Tell me," she cried, catching at his arm and holding it with a grasp of steel, "tell me the truth! Is what she said—this woman!—is it true?"

He waited a moment.

"It is true, alas!" he said.

Margaret's hand fell from his arm, and she shrank back.

"I only learnt it just now," he said, as if in explanation. "Early this morning, Lady Leyton—I beg your pardon, but I fear it is her legal title—met me at the station, and recognizing me as a friend of Blair's, told me her story."

Margaret hid her face in her hands.

"She has been here, I suppose?" he said.

"Yes," breathed Margaret.

He sighed.

"I feared so! I wish that I could have reached you and broken it to you before she came, but I wanted to learn if her story was true, and I telegraphed to the clerk of the church at which she said she was married." He paused to see if Margaret was fully realizing his words, then went on slowly and impressively. "I received an answer promptly. They were married at St. Jude's on the twelfth of March."

Margaret remained motionless.

"But I need not have taken this precaution, for I met the one person who could set all doubt at rest."

Hr. Grace Notes.

The steamer Mary arrived yesterday from Bell Island with a load of coal to the Harbor Grace Coal Co.

Mr. Ambrose Parsons, for the past eight or nine years clerk in the county of Mr. E. Parsons, has severed his connection with the business and leaves for Boston in a few days. Ambrose is one of the most popular clerks in this town, and all his friends wish him very much success in his new home.

Private Chesley Holmes of the Ntd. Regiment took a run over on Saturday night, spent Sunday with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Holmes, and returns to St. John's to-day.

Mr. Andrew Wood, of Bay Roberts, and his bride, arrived in town by Saturday night's train and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Selby Parsons for a few days. We take this opportunity of wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wood a long and happy married life.

Mrs. R. W. Duff and Miss Ruth Duff spent the past couple of weeks in Casimere visiting their many friends there.

A miniature blizzard raged last night while our citizens were at prayers. On leaving the churches all were surprised to see the change that had taken place in such a short time, the ground being covered with snow. But Old Sol took a look round this morning and the snow soon disappeared again.

MY DEAR Are you aware that an ointment applied to the skin is absorbed into the system just as surely as medicine that is swallowed? If so, you see, therefore, how necessary it is we should use a pure ointment; and the purest you can get for yourself and your children is Zam-Buk. Little son's head and hands were completely covered with eczema, and the agony he suffered with the burning and irritation was terrible. I tried numerous ointments and medicinal soaps, and he was under doctor's treatment for some time, but nothing would cure him. One day friend said "Why don't you use Zam-Buk?" I procured some and commenced applying it. After a week's treatment I noticed an improvement, and perseverance with Zam-Buk resulted in a complete and permanent cure. Mrs. Deason of Peterboro writes: "Zam-Buk healed a bad cut on my little girl's foot, caused by broken glass. I tried all druggists and stores. 5c. box of Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price." FREE BOX Mail this ad to me, and I will send you a free trial box. No postage and give name of this paper. We will send you free trial box. N.B.

War News.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M. OFFICIAL. LONDON, April 10. The Governor, Newfoundland: Around Verdun fighting continues, the enemy making but little progress. West of the Meuse the French decided to evacuate the Bethincourt salient. East of the Meuse the French have made progress, especially between Douaumont and Vaux.

At St. Etol the enemy recaptured one of four craters, previously taken by us. Near Kut, advanced enemy positions have been captured, and our forces are preparing to assault the main Turkish position at Sannaiyat. A considerable enemy force was surrounded and surrendered in Arusha district, East Africa. Russians report the Turks dislodged from their position twenty miles east of Trebizonde.

BONAR LAW. ST. PIERRE BULLETIN. PARIS, April 10. West of the Meuse, bombardment continued with great violence during the night, particularly against our 394 Hill. An attack launched yesterday by the enemy during the evening in Mort Homme, and which has been repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy, enabled the Germans to penetrate on a length of about 500 metres in our advanced trench of 295 Hill. We have made about 100 prisoners. East of the Meuse there was very active fighting during the night on a little wood called Fontaine St. Martin, east of Yacherayville. We have progressed in the enemy's borax south of Douaumont Village. In Woevre there has been bombardment of villages at the bottom of the Meuse heights. It is confirmed that during yesterday in Verdun region the enemy made a first great attempt of a general offensive extending on a 20 kilometre front. Our adversaries did not obtain any important result, though the efforts made were great and also the losses heavy, as piles of corpses in front of our lines abundantly proved. Nothing of importance on remainder of the front.

TONNAGE. LONDON, April 10. Any proposal put forward by neutral Governments with the idea of obtaining immunity from capture for vessels owned by nations at war with Britain in place of service by neutrals, will receive careful consideration from the British Government. War Trade Minister, Lord, Robert Cecil, made this statement to-day in response to a question in the Commons. He said the question of employment of vessels belonging to hostile nations, sheltered in neutral ports, was a matter for neutral governments to decide. Before arriving at any decision the neutral governments concerned, no doubt, would take into consideration that the destruction of merchant vessels by the Germans had the effect of diminishing the world's tonnage, and consequently affected the trade of neutrals, not less than the trade of belligerents.

AROUND VERDUN. PARIS, April 10. The Germans continued their attacks last night in Verdun region, east and west of the Meuse, over a front of 15 miles long from Hill No. 304 to Fort Douaumont. The War Office announcement of this afternoon says that in the fighting west of the river for the possession of Deadman's Hill, the Germans were repulsed, except on a front of 500 yards near Hill No. 29. East of the River, the German assaults gained no appreciable results.

TRENCH WARFARE. PARIS, April 10. Six prominent military critics of morning newspapers consider that the operations around Verdun have lost the character of a battle and have assumed the character of trench warfare similar to that on the general front. The Temps agrees with this view saying that the combats of Ver-

You Can't Find Any Dandruff, and Hair Stops Coming Out

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once. Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking only one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is just what it should be and that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A 25-cent bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

NO CONFIRMATION RECEIVED. OTTAWA, April 10. The Militia Department has not yet received any confirmation of last week's German official claim that they had captured a mine crater from the Capadins at St. Etol.

BELGIAN CONGO. LONDON, April 10. The Havre correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says Great Britain, France and Russia have agreed to guarantee to Belgium the integrity of Belgian Congo, similarly to the guarantee for the integrity of Belgium itself.

ATTACK TO RELIEVE TOWN. BERTY. LONDON, April 10. Preparations are well under way for the next British attack in the attempt to relieve the army surrounded by Turks at Kut-el-Amara, Mesopotamia. This attack is to be made, according to the plans of the British staff, against Sannaiyat on the Turkish position at Sarraiyat, which recently was won from the Turks.

OPERATIONS HAMPERED BY THE FLOODS. LONDON, April 10. Lieut.-General Lake, commanding the British forces in Mesopotamia, reports that a British attack on the Turkish position of Sarraiyat, which Tigra Riser, just below Kut-el-Amara, failed to break through the Turkish line. This statement was given out this evening by the Official Press Bureau. It says that no attack on Sarraiyat was made on April 6th, as reported in Turkish communication of April 9th. Sir Percy Lake reports that the attack made at dawn on the 9th, failed to get through the enemy's lines, and that operations were much hampered by floods, which are extending.

A BERLIN STORY. BERLIN, April 10. The British censorship has not been extended to the mail of the American Embassy in Berlin. A letter addressed to a member of the Embassy staff has been received, marked "opened by censor." A large part of the incoming American mail was opened in this way. Some of it is subject to great delay. A letter from the United States to the Associated Press Office in Berlin, Jan. 7th, arrived to-day. Members of the staff of the American Embassy are suffering inconvenience owing to the concentration of checks in the mail. One of the secretaries has been asked to make good an amount of an American cheque, taken by the French authorities from a letter.

GERMAN NOTE TO BE TRANSMITTED. BERLIN, April 10. The German note in response to enquiries of the American Government regarding the Channel steamer Sussex, the steamers Englishman, Manchester, Englishman, Eagle Point, and Berwind Vale, will be transmitted to the American Embassy to-night or to-morrow.

IN NEED OF REPAIRS. NORFOLK, Va., April 10. Lieut. Berg, the German prize master of the American ship in Newport News, to-day reported the vessel leaking badly, with four feet of water in the hold. Berg says that she was damaged by going ashore at Dakar in Africa, just before her capture by the German raider Moewe.

ANOTHER STRIKE. LAWRENCE, Mass., April 10. Two hundred operatives of the finishing department in the Cotton and Worsted Mills went on strike to-day for an increase in wages, amounting to two cents an hour. A general readjustment of wages is demanded.

Your Boys and Girls! Sleeplessness or light sleeping is due almost always to discomfort in some form in a baby. Indigestion is a very fruitful cause. Irregular feeding is to blame for much of this. Overfeeding a child, either in the number of its meals or the quantity or strength of the food given, is apt to produce much the same result as the reverse. Where a baby who is obviously well nourished sleeps badly with movements or starting even, without actual waking, it is quite worth while to reduce the meals somewhat, and see if this does not improve matters.

Another common cause of restlessness is found in cold feet, and this should be especially guarded against with children who are prone to suffer in this way. Hot water bottles, carefully covered with felt so there is no risk of burning the sensitive skin, should be resorted to when any tendency to cold feet exists. Cold is extremely bad for children and much broken sleep is due to being not warmly covered enough.

Some of the extreme cold suits have long vests buttoning all the way down from the high collar, after the Louis XV. fashion.

The Municipal Bill

COUNCIL SHOULD HAVE FULL POWERS.

We agree with the principle in the Bill which penalizes the Mayor or individual Councillors for interfering directly or indirectly with the employment or discharge of laborers, but we do not agree with the principle so far as it refers to the Council. The Council is a corporate body and in its corporate character, the City Engineer and the Sanitary Supervisor should be directly responsible to the Council for the exercise of the duty of employing labour, and should in every respect and detail, be under its control.

We dislike the idea of the City Council abrogating functions which are in their nature the business of the Council. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that those responsible for the Bill distrust an elected body, which is answerable to an electorate, and they wish these functions to be exercised by an official, who for all practical purposes is irremovable and answerable to neither electorate, nor even to the Council except for some gross dereliction of duty. In such an atmosphere of distrust, popular institutions can flourish. The latter make mistakes, but they can be corrected by public opinion, and public opinion must have a chance to form and exercise itself. In regard to the collection of taxes, we consider the option as to the use of distress should be exercised by the Council and not by the Secretary-Treasurer. The imperative duty of the Secretary-Treasurer to take proceedings immediately the six months have elapsed, for which period the taxes are to be collected is stringent enough. We think at least another three months of grace should be allowed, and distress warrants should not be issued except in case of recalcitrants, who are able to pay and refuse without proper cause, and the decision in the matter should not rest with the Secretary-Treasurer, but with the Council.

We disagree with the principle of giving the Secretary-Treasurer and City Engineer a statutory right to take part in discussions of the Council. It is right and proper to empower the Council to invite them to advise on and discuss with them matters pertaining to their respective departments, but it is going too far to give these officials the right to do so, although it is proper to impose on them the duty of being present, of giving advice and discussing matters with the Council, when the latter calls upon them.

"Samuel Blandford"

Brings Home the Key of the Northern Seal Fishery.

The S.S. "Samuel Blandford," Capt. Wm. Winsor, steamed into this port at 12.30 this afternoon, hauling for 20,000 seals the weight of 25,000 as the catch includes a couple of thousand old ones. The "Blandford" is the eight or last arrival of the northern sealing fleet. The ship was the S.S. Newfoundland for over forty years. It was only this past winter that she was re-named and called after a late lamented veteran and one of the most adventurous and successful seal hunters that ever trod the icefloes. It is a coincidence to note that this is the biggest and heaviest trip of seal the ship has brought in at one time during her lengthy career, and Capt. "Billy" Winsor is to be congratulated on his good luck. The ship is deeply laden and had to be navigated very carefully coming home. Rough weather was met and the ship sheltered at Catalina for two days, leaving there again last night. The "Blandford" is now discharging at the Southside premises. She will turn out 500 tons of fat.

Why People feel Depressed In the Cold Weather

Why is tiredness and languor so prevalent just now? A physician explained that the cold of winter drives blood from the surface of the body to the liver. Normally one-fourth of the whole blood supply is in the liver, and when more blood is accumulated in that organ everything goes wrong.

No better remedy exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are composed of such vegetable extracts as Mandrake and Butternut, and possess wonderful liver stimulating powers. It's a marvel the way Hamilton's Pills clear the blood of the poisonous humors. They put new life into worn out bodies, build up the appetite, bring back a reserve of nerve energy, tide folks over the cold days of winter and the depressing days of spring. For your health and body comfort get a 25c. box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills to-day.

Supreme Court.

(Present: Chief Justice Horwood.)
April 10, 1916.
The King vs. Nathan Roberts, Gilbert Roberts and Earl Burgess.—Court adjourned at 1 p.m. for recess, and continued at 2.30 p.m. till 6 o'clock, when adjournment was taken for supper, and at 7.30 the hearing was again taken up. Following the examination and cross-examination of the many witnesses, the Jury was addressed by Mr. Howley, K.C., for the Crown, and Mr. Higgins, B.L., for the defendants. The Chief Justice in charging the Jury reviewed the full evidence. At 10 o'clock the Jury retired, the Chief Justice having directed that there be two counts on which the prisoners were charged, conspiracy to cast away a schooner and conspiracy to defraud an insurance company. At 11.45 the Jury returned to Court and through their foreman Patrick Walsh, reported that they had found Gilbert Roberts "Not Guilty" on either count, and that they had found Nathan Roberts and Earl Burgess guilty of attempt to defraud an insurance company. When the verdict had been announced Mr. Higgins for the defendants asked to be heard in mitigation, and on Friday next the sentence will be delivered.

Objects To "Fixture" Appointment

Editor Evening Telegram.
I agree, and those of the public have met are agreeing that the contemplated power to be given the Municipal Secretary-Treasurer is altogether too arbitrary and is strange in view of the fact that slavery has been given its quietus.

"The simple person as if anticipating Councillors want an easy thing; honor, popularity, cringing, with a wink and a nod at responsibility." Notwithstanding anything said to the contrary, it is the business of the taxpayers to remove the Secretary-Treasurer should he develop inefficiency, dishonesty, supineness or any other cause displeasing to his unlettered pay-masters. Do not exhumate the dead bones of favoritism or class distinction? Let there be neither snob nor pleb! Be British! Cut out this "one man" fetishism.

In all humility I say, and with due deference to the race of Adam; if any one can show that the Secretary-Treasurer differs from the accustomed make-up of humanity, in minus its weakness, Give him any power between that "above and below." I know a little of the humble brist creature in rerum natura.

FRENCH LINE UNBROKEN.

PARIS, To-day.—The battle around Verdun is proceeding with unabated fury. To the west of the Meuse the bombardment is increasing in intensity. It is reported in a French official communication issued last night that fierce German attacks were delivered against the French front south of Forges Brook, but though the Germans suffered serious losses, the French line between Le Mort Homme and Comieries remained unbroken.

BRITISH RECAPTURE CRATER.

LONDON, To-day.—British official last night: At St. Eloi our troops attacked and captured the mine crater remaining in German hands by a further attack, and succeeded in establishing themselves in German trenches, running southwest from about the crater. To-day there has been artillery activity about La Boisselle, Angres, St. Eloi and Ypres. There was some mining activity about La Boisselle, Roelincourt and Givenchy.

ASQUITH ANSWERS HOLLWEG.

LONDON, To-day.—On the occasion of the Government reception of the visiting French Senators and Deputies at Lancaster House last night, Asquith took the opportunity to reply to the speech, recently delivered in the Reichstag by the Imperial German Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg. Those present included Earl Kitchener, Marquis Lansdowne, Sir Edward Grey, J. Austen Chamberlain, Sir Walter Runcie, Lord Curzon, Viscount Bryce, Lord Balfour and Lord Robert Cecil. The Premier, in proposing the toast of our guests, referred to Von Bethmann Hollweg's claim on the readiness on the part of Germany to negotiate peace, and said the German Chancellor wants us to assume the attitude of defeated foes to a victor and adversary, but we are not defeated. We are going to be defeated. Reiterating that the Allies were only prepared for peace on the terms of his declaration in November, 1914, Asquith proceeded and said: The Chancellor first misquotes my language, then proceeds to distort its obvious meaning and intention. Britain and France enter the war not to strangle Germany or wipe her off the map of Europe, nor to destroy or mutilate her national life, certainly not to interfere with, to use the Chancellor's language, the free exercise of her peaceful endeavors. As a result of the war we intend to establish the principle that international problems must be handled by free negotiations on equal terms between free people, that this settlement shall be no longer hampered or swayed by the overmastering dictation of a Government, controlled by military castles. That is what I mean by the destruction of the military domination of Prussia; nothing more but nothing less.

Alluding to the fate of Serbia and Montenegro, following the similar fate suffered by Belgium, the Premier said: We are in this struggle as champions not only of treaty rights but of the independent status and free development of weaker countries. In the circumstances, cynicism could hardly go further than the Chancellor's claim that it is for Germany, of all powers, to insist, when peace comes, upon giving various races a chance of free evolution along the lines of their mother tongue and national individualism. Apparently this principle is to be applied to suppose, on approved Prussian lines both to Poland and Belgium, contending that the Poles have had experience of German ideas of free evolution of this kind. Asquith continued, the attempt to Germanize Poland has been for the last 20 years a once strenuous purpose and a colossal failure of Prussian domestic policy. Nobody knows this better than the Chancellor, for he had been one of its principal instruments. The wholesale strikes of Polish children against attempts to force the employment of the German language, barbarous floggings inflicted on them and arrest and imprisonment of their mothers, continued the Premier. It is a black chapter even in the annals of Prussian culture. It is with this record the Chancellor sheds tears over the fate of what he calls the long suppressed Flemish race. I wonder what the Flemish race itself thinks of the prospect the Chancellor opens out to it. The Chancellor says after the war there must be a new Belgium, which must not be a Franco-English vassal, but between whose people and Germans who burned their churches, pillaged their towns, trampled their liberties, there is to be in future collaboration of neighbors? My answer is a very simple one. The Allies desire and are determined to see once again old Belgium. She must not be allowed to suffer permanently from the wanton and wicked invasion of her freedom. That which has been broken down must be repaired and restored.

SIX NEW GENERALS.

LONDON, To-day.—Six new Brigadier Generals were created yesterday. W. J. T. Gascoigne, Gerard F. Trotter, John P. L. Clarke, C. S. Wilson, Reginald A. Bright and William S. Evans.

PRISONERS WOUNDED.

LONDON, To-day.—Three German prisoners were wounded yesterday by a sentry on the Isle of Man during a fight among the prisoners. The men refused to disperse on order of the sentry and he fired into the crowd.

ANOTHER GERMAN ATTACK.

PARIS, To-day.—The problem of the German intentions regarding Verdun was answered yesterday by what a high military authority calls an attack on the largest scale since the beginning of the offensive. The same official says: We estimate that nearly 10,000 men including several fresh divisions were flung in solid columns at the west of the Meuse salient in repeated assaults against east side, beginning almost simultaneously at dawn after a night's tremendous bombardment. We figure that in the attempt to rush this important position their object was to capture Le Mort Homme in order to render untenable the key sector of Pepper Hill and Douaumont. It cost the Germans fully 50,000, of whom an unusually high proportion were killed owing to their inability to secure any save those slightly wounded.

A Double Funeral

At the Village of St. Philip's. Yesterday the little village of St. Philip's witnessed the unusual event of a double funeral, when the remains of the late Richard Tucker and Alfred Squires, two of the oldest and most respectable residents of the place were laid to rest in the quiet little cemetery on the hill. The event had a peculiar interest for the village, as the deceased were the oldest representatives of the two first settlers in the village, and they were also the progenitors of the numerous Tuckers and Squires who reside there to-day. Richard Tucker had reached the ripe age of 71 years and is survived by six sons, four daughters and many grandchildren. Alfred Squires had also passed the allotted span and attained the ripe age of 73 years. He is survived by two sons, five daughters and a number of grandchildren.

BIDGET OF WAR NEWS.

NEW YORK, To-day.—Without a pause the German Crown Prince is taking advantage of the evacuation of the Bethincourt salient by the French by the occupation of the Bethincourt salient. The Germans have thrown several divisions against the new French line, but so far have been unable to break that line at any point. The bombardment of the whole front west of the Meuse is increasing in intensity on both sides. The Germans, moving down along the Haumonts, Bethincourt line, attacked the French positions south of Forges Brook. Here they had to face the full fury of the French guns which cost them heavy losses. The French on the front along the strategic sector extending from Le Mort Homme and Comieries remained unmoved. Further attempts at assault were arrested by the French curtain of fire. The French still held their positions in Gailleton Wood, which have been the scene of heavy fighting against which the German attacks are being directed daily. From the Divin River to the Lower Stripa there has been sporadic fighting between the Russians and Germans. Considerable activity by airmen on both sides also has been shown near Komora. In the Priest marsh region the German attack launched by means of boats broke down under the Russian fire, while on the Lower Stripa the Russians captured a German trench and held it against counter attack, inflicting heavy losses on the Germans. In Asiatic Turkey the Russians have penetrated the region of Diarbekir in Armenia, while in the district of British several Turkish attacks have been repulsed. South of Lake Urumiah the invaders are apparently coming up with the Turkish main forces. Latest official report announces that engagements have been fought with large numbers of Kurds. The Kurds are supported by regular Turkish infantry.

DERBY'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

LONDON, To-day.—Premier Asquith has accepted the resignation of Earl Derby as Chairman and Lord Montague as Vice-Chairman of the joint Naval and Military Board of Control of the aerial service.

LIEBKNECHT NOT ALLOWED TO SPEAK.

LONDON, To-day.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, Socialist, has again been refused permission to address the Reichstag, according to Reuters' Amsterdam correspondent. The refusal to permit him to address the Chambers came during a discussion of the second reading of a bill providing for payment of compensation to disabled soldiers in a lump sum instead of by pension. When Liebknecht asked permission to speak, the President of the Chamber is reported to have replied: "I cannot allow you to speak on a standing order, because you have repeatedly misused your opportunity in order to injure the dignity of the House."

First Detailed Story From the Front of Villa's Defeat.

(Special to the Montreal Star by H. D. Jacobs of the United Press.)
Field Headquarters of the American Army Near Dohland, Mex., April 1, via motor train to Columbus, N.M., April 4.—A mad five hours' scramble over the mountain passes southwest of the village of San Gerolimo with a squadron of American cavalry urging their jaded mounts in hot pursuit of a terror-stricken force of bandits now close on their heels, now falling far behind is the story of the defeat of Pancho Villa's army.

The bandits breaking into small groups and dropping off into narrow defiles and pockets, finally evaded their pursuers. Villa himself, wounded in an engagement with Carranzistas three days earlier, was not with this force. But sixty Mexicans were killed during the running fight, and their forces so scattered that a stand-up fight is now out of the question for them.

Col. Erwin Commanded.

Only four Americans were slightly wounded. Col. Dodd has been given credit for this victory, but it was actually Col. Erwin who led a detachment of 400 of Dodd's men on the heart-breaking seventeen-hour ride throughout the night until he came upon Lieut. Hernandez and his 500 Villistas at the San Gerolimo ranch.

Villistas scouts, or native sympathizers, who saw the Americans enter the village of San Gerolimo, were ordered to mount an attack. Col. Erwin's move being a complete surprise, the Villistas were saddled and all ready to mount an attack, but the American troopers into a gallop, dashed through them from the west.

The bandits, waiting only to fire a hurried and scattered volley, leaped on their ponies and raced out toward the mountains to the east. Clinging to their saddles with their legs, their reins hanging free, the American cavalrymen raced madly in pursuit, emptying their rifles at the fleeing bandits, re-loading, firing and yelling wildly as Mexican after Mexican toppled from his saddle and went down in the scurry of blood.

Villa's Army Shattered.

Up they went along the strange and narrow trails. Sure-footedness of the Mexican ponies, with their riders' intimate knowledge of the ground finally told. Bit by bit, the bandits drew away, a few of them dropping back at intervals to fire a volley at the Americans. At each turn in the maze of narrow defiles, a group of Mexicans would detach itself and dash out to meet the Americans.

Lies and Lies.

RUTH CAMERON.

"Know thyself; presume not God to scan. The proper study of mankind is Man."—Pope

RUTH CAMERON

"All lies are wicked," someone said to me the other day. "No," I equally tested. "I don't know about that," he persisted. "A lie is a lie, and the truth is the truth, and there's no middle ground. Perhaps he's right, there. I'm not sure. But even if there is no middle ground between a lie and the truth, I am sure that there are a great many varieties of lies, and that they are not all equally wicked, any more than all murders are equally wicked or all gifts of money to charity equally noble. The motive and the circumstances behind the murder of the gift must be taken into account. Indeed, I am inclined to think they will weigh more heavily than the carrying on of the public service up to June 30th next. He also suggested that the Additional Estimates be not taken up until after the Budget is brought down.

The Lie Cowardly is The Lie I Hate Most. There is one kind of a lie that personally I particularly object to; it is the kind of lie we tell to get out of a scrape. It is the lie cowardly, the mean lie. It violates that spirit of gameness which is one of the qualities I admire most. Can you believe that St. Peter will not make any distinction between the lie cowardly and the lie kindly, that is, the kind we tell to keep from hurting someone's feelings?

Once in school I told a lie cowardly and the memory of it still makes me dislike myself. I would rather have a hundred of the kindly lies to my discredit than that one lie cowardly. Most of us tell the Lie Semi-Conscious. The semi-conscious lie is another variety. An example of it is the kind we tell about our motives. We put off writing a letter to a friend because we are just naturally procrastinating by temperament. We are accused of procrastination and we explain that we were waiting to get a certain piece of information to send her. As we utter the lie we find that it sounds convincing and we begin to believe it. Or perhaps we are so ill acquainted with ourselves that we believe it from the beginning. I think some people are that way.

The Lie Pretentious is One Of The Commonest. The lie pretentious is a variety of lie that I particularly hate. I mean the kind of lie people tell to bolster up their pretensions to more worldly wealth or importance than they actually possess. The man who says his salary is twice what it really is belongs in this class of liar. An example of the lie pretentious is the woman who, casually mentions well-known people in a way which gives the impression that they are her intimate friends, when in reality she is but slightly acquainted with them. Another excellent example is the case of the woman who told me she received ten dollars a night for reading. The truth of the matter was that once, some years ago, she had received ten dollars a night. Never again had she received more than five, and sometimes less.

You may have wondered wherein lies the pertinence of the quotation at the head of this talk. It is this, absolute truthfulness is a more difficult

The Pansy League.

(Under the Patronage of All Newfoundland Dogs.)

Dear Friends,—I should like all owners of animals (or pets) to join this League, just because it is to help many little children, who have not homes of their own, to live safe and cosy in the Church of England Orphanage.

First, I must tell you who I am. Well, I am just a cat, born in Duckworth Street, St. John's. I am a real Newfoundland. When I was about two months old I was given to two nice little girls. Perhaps you know them? Their names are Diana and Daphne. They gave me the pretty name of Pansy. I love them, and I think they love me. Sometimes they dress me up in a white frock, with a pink sash and a pink silk bonnet. I have been taken for drives, and I have also visited the Hospital. Although I am not vain I am much admired. I hope to send you all a photo of myself some day. I had a really lovely time at Upper Gullies last summer. A lovely place, and such nice people. I hope to go there again soon.

But now I must start to earn my living. So may I ask all owners of pets to become members of my League. I welcome all animals—birds, horses, cows, donkeys, monkeys, parrots, rabbits, goats, cats, dogs, rats, mice, guinea-pigs, etc. If you have no pets perhaps you feed the wild birds, or have a pet doll or toy. Or I think it such a nice way to remember some dear past pet that you have no longer the pleasure of playing with now. I welcome all cocks and hens, and have a warm spot in my heart for pigs, they are so useful and make such nice pets. My little mistresses had two really pretty ones, which came from Murray Farm, and which would run to meet them when they heard little girl voices, for they knew there were tit-bits for them. These two pigs went away, and now we have two more, who I hope now become members, and so be doubly useful. Perhaps some have a pet cat or horse, and if they know the names, I hope they will become members. All the horses I have seen are so good tempered, and work so well up so many hills, and in all weathers.

To become a member of the Pansy League please send 35 cts. (more if you like) to:

There are lots of members waiting in the Outposts, so please send along the name of the pet, and what animal or bird it is; also the name and address of the owner. I am looking forward to sending a real Easter Egg to the Orphanage. I do hope they will let us name just one cat at least after the Pansy League.

There must be numbers of Newfoundlanders all over the world, and I do hope some will join. I already have the first member. He is a beautiful yellow cat named Khaki. He is hurrying up to get the most members. I just love him for that kind act.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trilogy of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect, that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTREAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

THE YELLOW LEAF.

My step is feeble now and slow, that was once so bold; my hair, once dark, is like the snow, and my feet are cold; my legs are thin, my waist is fat, I have an ache in every part, I cannot run or skip the cat, I am waxing old, I look around with gloomy eyes, at the growing ind, I like to sit and moralize, with the ancient dads, and tell how boys of other days were better than the modern jays, of higher aims and nobler ways, shunning foolish fads. "With such a bunch of skates on deck," sadly I lament, "this poor old world will go to wreck, I will stake a cent." The graybeards all agree I'm right, and say the country's in a plight, with all these giddy youths in sight, on amusements bent. There is, alas, no surer sign, that I'm out of date, than are these mournful words of mine, which I here relate; for when a man talks bunk at last, compares the present with the past, and finds degeneration vast, he should pull his freight.

At the House

MONDAY, April 10th, 1916.

Mr. Clapp presented a petition asking for telegraph communication with Current Island. He pointed out that in that section of St. Barbe Island considerable amount of business was done and people suffer great inconvenience during the fishing season not having a telegraph station. He drew the Colonial Secretary's attention to the matter with a view having the request granted. Petitions were also presented by Mr. Jennings, Mr. Stone, Mr. Dean and Mr. Targett.

The Prime Minister introduced a Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to the Municipalities of the Town of St. John's, and Mr. Lloyd introduced a Bill to amend the Consolidated Statutes, Chapter 11, relating to Patents. Both Bills were read a first time.

Mr. Lloyd asked the Prime Minister for copy of the Report of the Committee of six citizens of St. John's who had charge of the distribution of coal from January 12th until the arrival of the S. S. Alconda; also correspondence relating to the sale of coal after that date. The report of the S. S. Alconda, Florizel and Pansy statement was tabled.

The House then went into Committee on Supply.

The Finance Minister presented a statement for Supplemental Supply for 1915-16 asking for $124,415.34, made up under the following heads: Civil Government $22,335.35 Administration of Justice 2,500.00 Legislation 1,000.00 Public Charities 2,000.00 Light Houses 1,000.00 Agriculture and Mines 12,000.00 Marine and Fisheries 12,000.00 Customs 10,000.00 General Contingencies 30,000.00

Mr. Lloyd moved that the statement be deferred until a detailed list of expenditures was available, as these were covered not only expenditures but also made from now on the end of the year, but also expenditures already made. He pointed out that it was desirable to know how far these votes were credit or how far in debit and how much would have to be provided for the carrying on of the public service up to June 30th next. He also suggested that the Additional Estimates be not taken up until after the Budget is brought down.

Mr. Coaker favoured the idea of furnishing some information of the expenditures on public buildings for dealing with the votes for Supplemental Supply. By the way he asked the Penitentiary and asked the Finance Minister if anything had been done to carry out the recommendations of the Commissioners of Prisons last year to enquire into conditions there.

Mr. Halliday asked what was being done to improve the bad water supply at Change Islands that caused the serious outbreak of typhoid there last year.

The Colonial Secretary said that the Government was dealing with the matter.

Mr. Coaker again reminded the Premier about additional old age pensions.

The Premier replied he had the matter under consideration and after the Budget was dealt with he would see what provision could be made for pensions.

Mr. Coaker referred to a group of our soldiers while in Hospital in Malta. They received no pay while they are sick and that as soon as they were convalescent would cable home for money. He had information of the possession then showing that Capt. Catina had had written home asking and on which an additional cost of $100 was charged for cables.

The Colonial Secretary said he had already heard of the matter and had wired Capt. Timewell at the Major Office asking what system was in operation as to supplying men with a limited supply of money while in hospital and to give full information of his reply, which would be tabled in the House to-day.

Mr. Lloyd thought that did not meet the hardships encountered by soldiers in hospital who were called on to pay for expenses incurred in hospital because the Regimental Authorities had, on their own account, kept away from the men in hospital. Any incidental charges that were not paid by anything done by the soldiers, but by reason of the system adopted by the Regiment, should be borne by the Regiment. One of two courses could be pursued, either the money should be paid to the soldiers while in hospital or any extra charges incurred from not doing that should not have to be met by them. In any case the money should be forwarded to a hospital in order to meet any incidental expenditures.

Mr. Coaker was of the opinion that the authorities here should call on the London War Office to forward money when needed.

Mr. Cliff next spoke and pointed out that the men were not paid any money while in hospital, but that they were er in St. John's. I became a property owner fifteen years ago and I might say in passing that up to the present we do not owe any taxes, yet what do I get for it—you will say water and sewerage; true. Well, I consider I at least pay enough per cent for what I get—I get no protection for my property; between the boys and the goats I can't even keep a tree. I have a half one left out of four, and I am not ashamed to say that I have cried, to see the beautiful branches torn off and thrown on the street, besides having to repair fences on account of the overgrowing of the trees. I have driven five goats at a time out of my little garden, in fact every morning last summer I counted a herd of these animals twelve in number pass my house while the Goat Hauler attended sales, etc. You will say why didn't I complain—I did. And I was told by a member of the Council that many others have complained also. Now then will you tell me what all this means? I mean to put higher taxes on our property? I am led to believe the rich man that can own an expensive house is to be let off 7%, whilst the fortunate or unfortunate owner of a cheap house has to pay 10%. I know many single girls, widows, and women whose husbands are absent from the country, who are getting a little income from their small property—now what is in store for them if the taxes are made heavier? The same thing that happened to my father when Confederation took place in Halifax—rumors! He was taxed so dreadfully that he had to sacrifice his property and come here. If this new extortion is allowed to take place it will be the stepping stone to Confederation, and I for one will have to make a present of my little home to some one who will be able to meet the high taxes.

I learn that this Charter or Barter, or something, if it passes will give the weaker sex a vote, and it will be too late to help us when the thing is put through. I think the Landladies should hold a meeting of their own and protest against this latest move on the part of the Premier. We will soon be taxed for the air we breathe although it is polluted with vile ords. Hoping the Premier will withdraw from our interests, and thanking you Mr. Editor, for the valuable space of your paper for this my first attempt at newspaper writing.

I am, yours very truly,
LANDLADY.

"Casarets" Best If
Headachy, Bilious
Sick, Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed, into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Casarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Casaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet, breath right, complexion rosy and your liver and bowels regular for months.

First let me mention that forty years ago my father became a property owner in St. John's. I became a property owner fifteen years ago and I might say in passing that up to the present we do not owe any taxes, yet what do I get for it—you will say water and sewerage; true. Well, I consider I at least pay enough per cent for what I get—I get no protection for my property; between the boys and the goats I can't even keep a tree. I have a half one left out of four, and I am not ashamed to say that I have cried, to see the beautiful branches torn off and thrown on the street, besides having to repair fences on account of the overgrowing of the trees. I have driven five goats at a time out of my little garden, in fact every morning last summer I counted a herd of these animals twelve in number pass my house while the Goat Hauler attended sales, etc. You will say why didn't I complain—I did. And I was told by a member of the Council that many others have complained also. Now then will you tell me what all this means? I mean to put higher taxes on our property? I am led to believe the rich man that can own an expensive house is to be let off 7%, whilst the fortunate or unfortunate owner of a cheap house has to pay 10%. I know many single girls, widows, and women whose husbands are absent from the country, who are getting a little income from their small property—now what is in store for them if the taxes are made heavier? The same thing that happened to my father when Confederation took place in Halifax—rumors! He was taxed so dreadfully that he had to sacrifice his property and come here. If this new extortion is allowed to take place it will be the stepping stone to Confederation, and I for one will have to make a present of my little home to some one who will be able to meet the high taxes.

I learn that this Charter or Barter, or something, if it passes will give the weaker sex a vote, and it will be too late to help us when the thing is put through. I think the Landladies should hold a meeting of their own and protest against this latest move on the part of the Premier. We will soon be taxed for the air we breathe although it is polluted with vile ords. Hoping the Premier will withdraw from our interests, and thanking you Mr. Editor, for the valuable space of your paper for this my first attempt at newspaper writing.

I am, yours very truly,
LANDLADY.

"Casarets" Best If
Headachy, Bilious
Sick, Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed, into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Casarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

Amusements.

SPANISH HISTORY AT NICKEL.

One of the finest pictures ever given at the Nickel Theatre was "Don Caesar de Bazan," presented by the Broadway favorites, yesterday. It is a Spanish story and the costumes, photography and acting were perfect. The story was highly interesting and was very easily followed. The Theatre was crowded and every seat was in the highest terms of this picture. The other pictures were also of the highest quality and were enjoyed. This evening the programme will be repeated, and all should attend and see it.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace presents "A Studio Escape" today. This thrilling Society drama is produced in two reels by the Selig Company. "A Chip of the Old Block" is a great Edison drama featuring Margaret Truesing and Augusta Phillips. "What's Ours" is a melo-drama of exceptional interest presented by the Selig Company. Billie Reeves, the London Music Hall comedienne, appears in "The New Valet," a very laughable comedy. On to-morrow a great three reel feature: "The Woman Hater," a wonderful photographic picture.

SPANISH HISTORY AT THE NICKEL.

Among the many famous moving-picture actresses perhaps there is none higher in public favour than Cleo Madison. In point of personal beauty she ranks high, but her fame has been won by the intensity of her acting. It is impossible within the confines of this brief item to do justice to "The Mother Instinct," the three reel production in which she played the lead at the British Theatre last night. There is a plentiful showing of emotions, as they really are not as they are refined by civilization. The personality of Miss Madison is admirably adapted to the story and her facial expression is most remarkable. Joe King, who supports her in the play also gets in some good work.

Give Use of Rooms.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mechanics' Society was held last night. After the routine business was gone through, two communications were read by the Secretary, one from H. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris and one from Mrs. Browning, both requesting the use of the rooms for the wounded soldiers who would arrive soon. It was unanimously decided by the meeting to tender the freedom of the rooms to the soldiers who acted so bravely in offering their lives for their country.

The Pansy League.

We direct attention to the Pansy League, which has for its existence, a commendable object. The Leaguers are appealing for subscriptions, small as a rule, large if possible, for the support of those being cared for in the Church of England Orphanage. Many little children are being looked after in the Institution, and the more funds are available the better is the chance of bringing them with ability to fight their own way in life when they leave the Institution. These children are fatherless and need the goodwill and support of those who can in this way benefit them.

Everyday Etiquette!

"Please tell me whether or not the words 'Miss' and 'Mr.' are used before the names of the bride and groom in their wedding invitations?" inquired the bride to be.

"The word 'Miss' is omitted before the name of the bride but 'Mr.' is used before the name of the groom," said her aunt.
