THE BOYS OF OLD IRELAND

THEY ATE, DRANK AND WERE MERRY LAST NIGHT.

ST. PATRICK WAS THEIR PATRON—HOME RULE FOR IRELAND WAS THEIR INSPIRATION—SPIRITS OF STAMBOULI WERE THEIR ATTENDANCE—JOELY GOOD TIME WAS THE RESULT OF THE GATHERING.

President Bryan Lynch's face was his broadest smile as, with a sprig of shamrock in his button-hole, he beamed upon the hundred and odd Irish National League men who gathered at a night dinner in Webb's parlors last night.

Every member wore a spray of Ireland's favorite flower on his coat lapel, giving the room a veritable tinge of the dear little island all covered with green that lies over the blue water.

Irishmen had two special causes for jubilation last night. It was the anniversary of St. Patrick's Day, and it was the occasion of the expected realization of what is known as the Home Rule for Ireland and the Home Rule for Canada.

The revival of the old hundred or more gentlemen who could claim descent from Orlan Fola, Brian Boru, or some other wielder of a ready sword, did not prevent the celebration from being a merry one.

At last they took down some old balls that hung from the ceiling and were filled with onions and other garden seeds. Upsettingly, they found that the balls were in the bottom of one was the gold and in the other was the bill.

They then took to the streets and sang the "Rocky Road to Dublin," in which condition he was found next morning.

Next he consisted of a box filled with pastries, which he ate and then he went to the town and was in the streets at 11 o'clock.

After coffee and cigars Secretary Lee read letters of regret from Nicholas Flood, Esq., Archbishop Walsh, Senator Frank Smith, Hon. A. F. Power, Mayor Power, Hon. S. H. Blake, Hon. A. S. Hardy, and others.

In accordance with President Lynch's goodnatured warning the speeches were models of post prandial oration, brief, pertinent and avory with the true Irish style.

In proposing the toast to the Queen, the chairman expressed the hope that loyal Irish subjects would yet see Her Majesty open Parliament on College Green.

Brother Patrick Boyle's rich brogue was never more musical than when he responded to the toast of Ireland.

Mr. O'Brien spoke on the same lines as Mr. Boyle. He said that he was not a hard fighter. He had thrashed the Danes at Clontarf and had kept the Norman freemen within the pale.

Mr. O'Brien said that it was with great regret that he had to oppose Mr. McCarthey, with whom he had been personally and politically associated for so many years.

A Central Assembly of Six Hundred Members to be Formed at Belfast—A Governing Council of Sixty to be Elected—Last Words of the Manifesto, "Be Firm, Be Faithful, Be True."

LONDON, March 16.—A Ulster manifesto has been issued over the signature of the Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Earl of Erne, Lord Arthur Hill, Colonel Sanderson, the Mayor of Belfast and Londonderry and other prominent Ulstermen.

The manifesto announces the formation of an Ulster Defence League, not merely to continue the struggle for the Ulster franchise, but to prepare to meet any contingency.

Those enrolled as members will send delegates to Belfast to form a central assembly of 600 members, who will elect a governing council of 60.

The last words of the manifesto are: "Be firm, be faithful, be true."

A DISAPPOINTED TOWN.

They hoped to lick the circus but... Everybody said there was going to be a big fight.

It was a great day for Pikeville. There was a circus in town the first one in two years. It was not a first-class show.

The circus tent had been raised in the season, down near the livery stable, on a lovely plot of blue grass where, during the summer, men and boys played ball every day in the evening.

The banners in front of the sidewalk tent flapped lazily in the August breeze, that was hot as though it were an oven.

It was lively down at the livery barn, where the young men were gathered to stay and see the show out when they were stabled their horses.

That someone was Epp Bowman. Epp was a fighter. He was an all-around fighter on every and any occasion.

Epp had a relation in the world that he knew of. He had a twin brother once upon a time.

The circus people had heard of him and he had a man with him who was a doctor.

It was nearly time to open the doors for the afternoon performance when Epp arrived.

The news that Epp had arrived spread like wildfire. Everybody was around the tent.

Everybody knew there was going to be an awful bloody battle. Men would be killed, no doubt.

Epp and his followers moved around to the dressing-room tent.

But after all it did seem as though there was something lacking.

and Dr. Allen, with Officer J. McKenna, held a post-mortem on a cow at Deer Park Hotel, and that the disease was tuberculosis.

No such cow was killed at Deer Park Hotel, nor did a cow die there of that or any other disease, nor did any post-mortem take place on the premises of Deer Park Hotel, so that I cannot understand why Mr. Cooper has made such statements.

Dr. Cooper on being telephoned explained that the post-mortem was not made at Mr. O'Halloran's hotel but close by, that Dr. Allen, Mr. McKenna and himself were there and proceeded to the scene of operations.

Will it be Dr. McCully? Editor World: I have been paying very strict attention to the movement of Mayor Fleming in his endeavors to secure some eminent physician and sanitary inspector to help him out of the middle into which he, along with his confederate, Ald. Carley, has plunged the city, through their wiggling of the medical Health Department, free carefully reading the letter published over the name of Dr. McCully in The News of Tuesday of this week, and increasing my question with several prominent citizens, I would ask if your opinion, gathered probably from a wider range of correspondence, agrees with that of the majority with whom I have conversed, viz.: "Mayor Fleming, why do the names of the older milk dairies, which are the source of the milk supply, not appear on the list of the dairies inspected by the Health Department?"

The Tuberculosis Report. Editor World: The report contained in your edition of March 16 is regarded as somewhat misleading in the vicinity of North Toronto, as reported, makes the statement that the committee of the Board of Health that tuberculosis was on the increase. On the contrary, I stated that I had no definite information on the subject and would not make any report until a thorough investigation had been made. So far as I can learn there is no danger of tuberculosis from any milk supplied from this vicinity.

No Tuberculosis at Willowdale. Editor World: The question of milk inspection is taking up a good deal of space in your valuable paper lately. I wish Dr. Cooper, V.S., had some of the cows giving milk in York Township before his idea of Old Medicine. This is education for 'em!—Puck.

The People's Form. Ald. Frankland as a Health Expert. Editor World: I notice in your issue of the 15th inst. a letter from one signing himself "Hayseed," which is all right, although perhaps "Sweetapple" would have been a more appropriate name.

Ald. Frankland is seriously attacked for being able and willing to give a valuable opinion on what is diseased and what is not diseased. He is a man of letters, extremely fortunate that there is some person in whose judgment the community has confidence.

Editor World: Since your letter appeared in your column, we have learned of three persons who were victimized by the Collector (I described in that letter). We also heard of a lady on whom the collector was refused. To this lady and one or two others, he gave a fictitious name and address.
