CANADA LAND AND APPLE SHOW

Will be Held in Winnipeg, October 10th to 18th—To be National in its Scope and Purpose

With an all-Canadian working committee and the enthusiastic co-operation of the two greatest factors—the people and the Press—Canada's first Land and Apple Show to be held in Winnipeg, October 10th to 18th, is growing larger and larger and will surpass in excellence the anticipations of those who were most optimistic when the project was started. The Advisory Board of the Land and Apple Show is now complete and comprises thirty-five names, fifteen of whom are Winnipeg business men acting as a Central Committee with outside representatives on the board from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario. The general secretary of the Show is Chas. F. Roland, whose offices are in the Exposition Building, Winnipeg.

Canadian farms can produce, will surely bring big results to exhibitors. Further, the Canada Land and Apple Show will bring together what products Canada has to show, which will be put into a space where they will be presented in the best possible way. From a business standpoint the Prairie Provinces is the greatest market the fruit-growers of the older Provinces have, and by its development it will advance the trade and commerce of all Canada. It is also certain that the Canada Land and Apple Show will create and open up a home market for a great variety of our farm products that are now being imported into the Canadian West.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.
The regulations and conditions set forth in the official folder issued calls for the occupation of about 25,000 square feet of floor space, the total cost being sub-divided pro-fata among governments, railways, boards of trade and other exhibitors, and in the case of governments and railways does not exceed fifty cents per square foot, and that of boards of trade and agricultural societies twenty-five cents per square foot. Exhibits of governments, railways, boards of trade and agricultural societies remain the property of the exhibitors after the Show, while on the other hand grower's products competing for the big cash prizes must comply with the rules and regulations in which it is intended that the Canada Land and Apple Show pay all freight to Winnipeg on all exhibits for competition, arranging same in space provided free of cost to the grower and for which the exhibitor assigns to the Canada Land and Apple Show their exhibits, the proceeds for sale of which is to go to the general prize and expense fund of the Show.

NEW FEATURES.
In order to create the greatest interest at the Canada Land and Apple Show the management have decided to carry out many new and interesting features. There will be an "Ontario Day," a "British Columbia Day," a "Maritime Province Day," a "Prairie Province Day," etc., and on these days it is intended to give away to visitors at the Show souvenirs in the shape of a carton, the contents of which will be some product of the land. As this feature will be an advertisement for the particular province, district, society or grower, the management of the Show expect the "Carton Souvenir" to be furnished by those directly benefiting by the advertisement. As a suggestion any district might contribute a potato carton, an apple carton, a vegetable carton, sample grain carton, etc. The Land and Apple Show management are doing everything possible to co-operate with governments, railways, agricultural societies, fruit organizations, and individual exhibitors in making their exhibit attractive.

MR ASQUITH ATTACKED BY SUFFRAGETTES ON GOLF LINKS.

Elgin, Scotland, August 23.—The British Prime Minister was the object of an attack this afternoon, in which his chivalry restrained him from adequately defending himself. While he was golfing with his daughter on the Lossiemouth links, two suffragettes, who had quietly come up to the green, sprang at him suddenly. They knocked off his hat, grabbed him by the clothing and dragged him some distance.

The prime minister bore his rough treatment complacently and refrained from using force to make them desist. Miss Asquith, who was a little distance off, ran to her father's assistance and proceeded to apply militant methods to the militants.

Two detectives released Mr. Asquith from the clutches of the suffragettes. The women were placed in a motor car and driven to the police station. Mr. Asquith resumed play after the suffragettes had been hauled off him.

A Cleveland, O., man invented a self-rising bed supposed to gently wake a man by putting him on his feet. The spring was too strong, however, and on the first trial the bed threw its inventor through a window.

Imperator is Swept by Fire While at Docks

Largest Vessel Afloat in Flames—Two Killed.

New York, Aug. 28.—The steamship Imperator, the largest vessel afloat was swept by fire early today when she lay at her dock in Hoboken with her crew and 1,131 steerage passengers aboard.

Second officer Gobrecht, who led the crew into the hold, to fight the flames, was cut off from his men, enveloped in a cloud of smoke and suffocated. His body was found an hour later, untouched by fire and brought ashore.

SEAMAN MISSING
A seaman, identity not yet determined, one of the party who went down with Gobrecht into the bowels of the vessel was missing at roll call. He undoubtedly perished too.

A fleet of fire fighting craft augmented by apparatus on shore surrounded the ship and poured tons of water into her hold. When the fire was checked at eight o'clock, the great vessel had listed fifteen degrees. The small army in the steerage, aroused from their sleep by the crackling of flames, rushed panic-stricken for the pier. Most of them returned to the ship for their clothing when reassured by the ship's officers, and spent the remainder of the night huddled in discomfort at the shore end of the pier.

None of the steerage passengers had been inspected by the custom or health authorities. Because of this armed guards surrounded them. The immigration authorities planned to rush them to Ellis Island at the earliest possible moment this forenoon.

ALL ASLEEP.
The great ship was dark with all on board asleep, save the officers on watch, when smoke ascending from the provision room was discovered simultaneously by a seaman on deck watch and a petty officer on the bridge. Almost at the same moment the crackling of flames was heard in the steerage quarters.

The alarm was sounded. Capt. Ruesor, Commander-in-Chief of the vessel, was among the first to respond. The crew of 1,180 men were in their places within a minute. The complex fire-fighting apparatus of the vessel was set in motion. Every compartment was ordered closed except those which it was necessary to leave open, for the steerage passengers to get ashore. The stampede of steerage passengers toward the deck ceased for a moment the fight with the flames. Ship officers and hundreds of the crew lined up in two columns, along the route to safety, guided the terror-stricken men and women to the pier.

GENERAL ALARM.

With the ship clear the entire force turned its hands to extinguishing the flames. For three-quarters of an hour they fought the fire with only the Imperator's own apparatus. Then despairing of success the Hoboken Fire Department was notified and a general alarm sounded. In the first sharp skirmish with the flames, Second Officer Herman Dohrecht and Seaman Otto Strunts, caught in the withering breath of a belch of flame were cut off from the door by which they had entered. Their companions were driven back to open air. Although they stormed the flames again and again the wall of smoke kept them from rescuing Dohrecht or Strunts.

BADLY VENTILATED NESTS PROVE TO BE A DRAWBACK TO FUR FARMING IN EAST.

The increase in the number of black foxes this year in the Maritime Provinces has been somewhat of a disappointment. A radical defect in ranching practice has been the use of improperly ventilated nests, and as a result of this a hot wave in the spring killed a number of young pups the number dying from this cause in Prince Edward Island being estimated at 150. In spite of this, however, a majority of the fox companies have earned a substantial dividend on the capital invested, although there are some companies that have lost money.—M. J. P. in Conservation.

Splendid Speech of Lord Haldane

At the Annual Meeting of the American Bar Association now in Session in Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 1.—In its legal wisdom, its literary style, its ethical tone and human touch, the address delivered before the American Bar Association this afternoon by the Lord High Chancellor of England, the Right Hon. Viscount Haldane of Clova, formed the principal feature of a great gathering, which, in its programme, contains many items of absorbing interest. Before an audience which completely filled Princess Theatre, including the legal luminaries of this western continent, as well as representatives from England and France, the Lord High Chancellor spoke on "Higher Nationality—a Study in Law and Ethics."

EPOCH MAKING SPEECH.
It was in many ways an epoch making speech, dealing as it did with the relationships of three great nationalities. In the purest and choicest diction, largely in simple Anglo-Saxon, the illustrious visitor showed how British law was in the early days largely vested in the Sovereign of the realm, who had associated with him the Lord High Chancellor as the executive of the King's justice. That ancient law was based on experience rather than upon logic, was the argument, and this fact had influenced the law and the constitution of the three great nations, England, France and America.

The speaker further showed that the great force that actuated mankind in observing the law was not fear of the officers of justice, but fear of public opinion. That the latter really tended more to arbitrary execution of justice, to restrain men from law breaking. Developing this argument, Lord Haldane proceeded to suggest that the same policy might possibly be adopted by nations and that the time had come when nations might be as much ashamed to follow ancient methods of settling differences and disputes as individuals had become in late years.

REV. GEO. KIERSTED CALLED TO REGINA.

(Regina, Sask., Leader, Aug. 18.)

A call has been extended by the congregation of the Central Baptist church of this city to the Rev. Geo. Kiersted, of Windsor, N. S., one of the cleverest and foremost young ministers of the Baptist church in the east. The Rev. Mr. Kiersted received the call while in the east, and decided to come out to Regina and look over the ground before accepting.

1000 Miles Wireless Outfit on New Steamship Tenadores

(New York Herald, Aug. 26.)

What officials of the United Fruit Company declared was the most complete and up-to-date wireless apparatus ever taken out of New York on board of any steamship, left here yesterday on board the Tenadores of their line, bound for South American ports. The Tenadores is making her first trip in the Company's service after her arrival from England, where she was built.

The main set is of two Kilowatt power and is supplemented by a one Kilowatt set. Both sets can be run either by the ship's dynamo or by storage battery power. This is the first time that any steamship has carried battery power sufficient to work its main set, most of them having but a small spark coil for auxiliary work. The receiving set according to representatives of the Wireless Specialty Apparatus Company of Boston, who constructed it, is of extreme sensitiveness, and is built upon the same lines as the set in the Herald Wireless Station, and installed by the same Company. The storage battery on board the Tenadores is also powerful enough to run emergency lights in the corridors and over the lifeboat in case of accident.

The United Fruit Company, unlike many other lines, maintains its own radio service and owns and operates its own plants, not depending on the rented service of a wireless company. The sets are composite representing the best efforts of several wireless apparatus companies. The Tenadores' sets, like those on the other vessels of the line, are constructed with a view of communicating with its own land stations. The high wave length of 3000 metres enables them to keep in constant communication with their own stations without interfering with other commercial service. Needless to say, the sets can also be run on the regular commercial wave length of 600 metres. The officials of the line say that no effort has been spared to make their radio service a valuable accessory to their service. Not only do the new sets come up to the requirements of the Department of Commerce and Labor, but they exceed the government requirements in all ways. The Tenadores' sets will have an average range of 1000 miles.

Carlos C. Arosemena, former Minister of the Republic of Panama to Washington, was a passenger on board the Tenadores. Mr. Arosemena was full of enthusiasm over the bright prospects in view of the opening of the Panama Canal, and said that the eyes of the world were now directed to this continent, and particularly to the Central and South Americas. "The Panama Canal is what has been needed for the last four hundred years," he said. It has for years been a byword in Central and South American households for proud mothers to pat their young sons on the back and say that some day they may build the Panama Canal. This was said in the same spirit that an American mother will say "Well my boy, you may be President some day." I mention this to illustrate how important the Panama Canal is in the minds of the people. Of course, it is well known how it is regarded by the various governments. The people are looking forward to its opening as the farmer does to a good crop year.

Mr. Arosemena said the Pan American Exposition would show what development is being made in the most undeveloped portions of this continent. Everyone of the Central and South American countries will exhibit at the Exposition and Mr. Arosemena says it will be an excellent opportunity for them to show the world what they are doing.

HALIFAX MAN MADE $20,000 IN LAND DEAL.

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—Making a profit of twenty thousand dollars after holding the land for two years, W. Murdoch, of Halifax, today sold to James Waters, of St. John, N. B., fifty acres of land in St. Paul municipality, adjoining the city, for sixty thousand dollars.

UNION OF NOVA SCOTIA MUNICIPALITIES

Mayor Gunn of Bridgewater, in His Address of Welcome, Declares the Union has Amply Justified its Existence

Bridgewater, N. S., Aug. 27.—The annual meeting of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities opened here this morning with a large representation from all over the province in attendance.

The president, Mayor Gunn, in his address of welcome, said: "Gentlemen,—I welcome you to the annual meeting of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities.

"Although only an infant institution the union has amply justified its existence, and as the years come and go it is destined to play a more important part in the advancement of our municipal institutions.

"The union is thoroughly representative of the municipal life of the province, composed as it is of men charged with municipal burdens and in constant touch with municipal duties, an annual interchange of ideas and discussions of joint problems are certain to be productive of good results.

"The session that opens this morning is fruitful with hope of being interesting and profitable. The programme is longer than usual, and the subjects for discussion of vital importance.

"There is one matter I would like to see discussed and that is in regard to the borrowing of money by the different municipalities for the various corporate necessities. At present nearly every town and county secures money at a different rate from the others. Should not all municipal corporations sell their debentures at the same rate?

"Why should not the joint resources of the province be the guarantee behind all municipal bonds, not the resources of each particular town or county. If municipal bonds were sold on the credit of the province of Nova Scotia they would be sold at a uniform figure, and, I think, to much better advantage than under the present system of each for itself.

"The experience of the city of Sydney, and I think it is the common one is that it is easier to dispose of a large issue of bonds than a small one. Our municipal loans are too small to be entertained by the large concerns that handle municipal debentures. If all were consolidated and the issue guaranteed by the province they would prove more attractive, and in my opinion be readily sold, and at a higher figure.

"The proposed standard by-laws for towns will be presented to the union for its consideration. They are the result of careful preparation by a committee.

"I trust that the union will again consider the important matter of assessment, and again urge upon the provincial legislature that the assessment system of the province needs to be changed if Nova Scotia is to keep well to the front among the provinces of the Dominion of Canada. This union has in the past urged upon the Nova Scotia government the appointment of a commission to enquire into the assessment law and it would not be amiss to again impress upon it its importance.

"I beg to thank the union for the honor it has conferred, upon me in electing me as the president, and I tribute my share in making this assembly sure that each delegate will con- sider important and profitable."

Tupperville-Epworth League Tennis Tournament

What proved to be a very successful and interesting tournament, (the first one to be played upon the Epworth League court) was held Monday afternoon, when eight members of the Tupperville tennis club tried conclusions with the Epworth League tennis club. Fourteen events were played, ten of which went to the credit of the Epworth Leaguers, while Tupperville won four. Notwithstanding the fact that all the players are as yet "young at the game," still much skill was displayed, and the aptness with which the rackets were handled promise in the near future a quality of tennis of a very high order.

At the close of the tournament tea was served on the grounds, and a pleasant social time was held. The Epworth Leaguers, by unanimous vote, agree that Tupperville is "all right"—a tennis club composed of young folk with whom it is a pleasure to fraternize whatever may be the results of a contest. A return match at Tupperville will, no doubt, be held in the near future.

The following is a summary of the events:—
Gent's Doubles.
Stanley Kent and Karl Bent defeated Harry Connell and Raymond Bent. 2-1.

Phillip Burns and Mark Starratt defeated Leon Bent and Owen Armstrong. 3-1.

Ladies' Doubles.
Dorris Neily and Mollie Connell defeated Edith Bent and Marion Bent. 3-0.
Dorris Neily and Mollie Connell defeated Edith Bent and May Armstrong. 3-2.

Ladies' Singles.
Mollie Connell defeated May Armstrong. 2-1.
Edith Bent defeated Dorris Neily. 2-1.

Gent's Singles.
Mark Starratt defeated Stanley Kent. 2-1.
Raymond Bent defeated Leon Bent. 2-0.
Karl Bent defeated Phillip Burns. 2-0.

Mixed Doubles.
Mollie Connell and Mark Starratt defeated May Armstrong and Stanley Kent. 3-1.
Dorris Neily and Raymond Bent defeated Edith Bent and Owen Armstrong. 3-0.

Marion Bent and Karl Bent defeated Edna Cochran and Harry Connell. 3-0.

The members of the Epworth League Tennis Club are to be congratulated, not only upon the result of the match, but because of the splendid spirit manifested and the good fellow feeling displayed in this their initial contest.

Mrs. Sophie Snyder of Beverly, is here visiting her niece, Mrs. Hartley Marshall.

Mabel Marshall, who was hurt at the picnic, is recovering so as to be able to get up.

The members of Cloverdale Division intend holding their annual picnic today, Aug. 30.

Quite a heavy thunder storm on evening of Aug. 27, accompanied by heavy showers.

Hazel Wright of East Dalhousie, who has been spending a few days, has returned to her home.

Harold Mason, who has been a few days at Greenfield, of Mr. Porter Hunt, returned Aug. 29.

Mildred Starratt is engaged to teach school for the coming year at Cherryfield, Lunenburg County.

Mrs. E. P. Charlton and little granddaughter went to Aylesford on Aug. 28 to visit her daughter.

Mrs. Mary Sprowle returned today, after a two months' stay among relatives at Torbrook, Tremont, etc.

Mr. Croft of Chester Basin, agent for the Hiram Gurney Company, has been doing business here a few weeks.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. L. Sprowle, who have been calling on relatives at Middleton and Torbrook, returned on the 25th.

Miss Ellen Pierce has fixed a valuation of $49,000 an hour on her time and accordingly she has brought suit in the District Supreme Court at Washington against a railroad Company for half that sum for keeping her locked up half an hour in the dressing room of a railroad coach. A defective lock made her an involuntary prisoner for thirty minutes while she was on her way last autumn to a seashore resort. She claims she has not recovered yet from the effects of her detention.

Vagabond Impressions of the British Isles

No matter how long or short the ocean journey the cry of "land" will awaken more or less thrilling sensations, especially if that land be one like this, rich in historic associations. Our captain told us one evening that we would be passing the coast of Ireland by daybreak, which in the month of July and at that latitude is at an early hour. Two Irishmen at least of our party were on deck on 3 a.m. Some others were there, too. One of the Irishmen was an elderly man; he was quite filled with emotion, and tears stood in his eyes as he gazed once more upon his native shores which he had not seen for sixty-one years. He was only seven years of age when he left for New York by sailing ship carrying 1002 passengers. He claims to have remembered distinctly the parting and the trip.

There is nothing like seeing things for oneself. Second hand information is quite generally unsatisfactory. Our histories are too small to tell us everything. Some of the things we would like to know about and think important in other lands, are entirely overlooked. The other traveller has been interested from his own view point and does not see what we want. So while these letters cover topics with which many readers are thoroughly familiar, they will contain the impressions and observations of the writer alone and no one but himself is to be held responsible for them.

SOLID AND PERMANENT.

It was with increased interest all our passengers watched the unfolding view of Ireland and especially Scotland as the steamer approached the Clyde—our landing place. The Highlands of Argyllshire greet us first, bold and rugged, the home of a race of men whose mental characteristics were tinged by the colour of their land. It is a solid land and things are done in a solid way. The first building we saw—light house—reminded me of a remark made by a traveller once to the effect that the people over here build for eternity. We see indications of that on all sides. The people settle down. In America there is a restlessness which makes permanent locations quite impossible. People are in a procession. They build temporarily and therefore cheaply. Not so on this side. There is four stone foundation, stone superstructure, stone side walk, and stone streets, and stretching far up the gless or hill sides are stone fences marking the boundary of the free holder, or possibly, tenant, and in this way forbidding change. One devoutly wishes that we in Canada might learn more of this thing.

Yet we must remember the golden mean. There is a danger of staying too long in the one place. That is the remark passed by parishioners now and then in reference to clergymen. The criticism might be raised around to good effect. It would do some of these Old Country people good to join the procession for a decade or so. For example, I casually dropped into a moderately sized shop in Edinburgh's best street one evening. The proprietor was right there. We soon fell into a conversation. He was carrying on the business established by his grandfather just one hundred and one years ago. That sounds well probably, a business carried on by three generations. But all signs indicated that it was high time for a change. The man was university trained and alert to all the movements around him, and talked in an intelligent way about the past, naming one of my "heroes," Blaikie, as one of the greatest men, in his estimation, Scotland had ever produced. But from a business point of view, judging from appearance, the world would be the better if he moved!

WHERE LIFE IS HELD SACRED.

Speaking about things having a finished appearance, special mention should be made of the railroads. The engines and railway cars look small in comparison with our great Moguls, but you feel safe on an English railway, and there is no likelihood of running over anybody for there are no level crossings. Whether due to the British sense of justice or not, I am not sure, but these people do not think that the expenditure of some extra millions out of the way against the risk of taking a few human lives. On our way across Canada the statement was made that every mile of railroad cost so many human lives, and that horses were considered of more value than human beings. The famous Forth Bridge in Scotland was built, I believe, practically without loss of life. In all the larger stations people pass from one side to another either overhead or underground. Life is held sacred and money spent accordingly.

How rich in some special way every town or city here is. Here, deposited all over Britain, are the "accumulated treasures" of ages. The various "tribes" seemed to have divided the shares quite equitably among them. Glasgow is Scotland's commercial capital. They glory in their business and Scotland is justly proud of old Glasgow. The city has an interesting history, all graphically depicted in great panel paintings in their magnificent city hall, the best of its kind in the Empire. But they relegate history to a second place and look after present day problems. It is my impression that speaking generally the more history a place has connected with it the more poor people you are likely to find in it. They muse on their history and "lay on their oars." They take pride in pointing out historical monuments and "castles old in story" and relating tales of princely paramours and escapades of kings and queens long since departed. This has an interest in a way, but the question after all is not "show faces it with the happy dead" but what is being done for the living? A combination of the two points of view undoubtedly would be the most ideal. It is evident that some men of the past—others than kings, too—did great things for their country. There is no harm done in conserving and emulating the example of such men. But all the good that can come from this direction is needed to meet the expanding commercial and social demands of the present. The portals of the present will not open to the "past's blood-rusted key." There is a danger of spending too much time over ancient relics.

SHE LEADS THEM ALL.

Canadians have a habit which we hope will be soon outgrown, of asking travellers what they think of Canada. The writer found himself just as curious about this when abroad and had an ear open to catch fragments of opinion that might be flying about. With this in view he engaged in conversation with a gentleman (who, by the way, said he was not a "gentleman") in Glasgow. He was an Edinburgh business man and a native of England. He was generally optimistic about conditions a very healthy sort of man to talk to. I referred to the opinion some times expressed, and with which, by the way, I did not agree, that Britain was a dying nation. "No, sir," he at once affirmed, "Britain isn't a dying nation. She leads them all." Those who think differently I would suggest that they would come this way and see things. Yesterday we passed by a natural phenomenon as remarkable in its way as the burning bush of Moses. It was the trunk of a very old tree, certainly scarred, hollow, but out of it our driver, who had passed that way for a generation, told us there springs every season vigorous shoots of new branches. Such is this old land. It is ever renewing itself. Dying! I wish I could make myself think that Canada was within a hundred years of catching up to the culture of this land. I wish that I could think that we were even in the right plane to begin with. Will we be able to live down, or control the mighty passion for materialism we have?

But to go back, the Edinburgh man whose business by the way, was bill posting—and no wonder he was optimistic—when I asked how he regarded the action of Canada on the Navy Bill, he said, with considerable insight, I think, that he did not look upon it as a question of the loyalty of the people at all but as a question of politics. He had no doubt about Canada's loyalty. That is the opinion of any intelligent and unprejudiced man, I should say. Canada's loyalty is something that may be taken for granted, not a question for discussion. One member of our party asked in Glasgow city hall if there was not a likelihood of Canada being annexed to the United States. The reply was (an Ontario lady) in the way of another question, viz: "Is there any likelihood of Scotland being annexed to France? There had been a good deal of talk about that at different times."

There is about as much likelihood of one as the other, the party cries to the contrary.

I have been watching the newspapers, particularly the editorials to see what questions are vital in the minds of the people. The first editorial that I glanced at in Glasgow, strange to say, was a discussion about keeping the Sabbath. The writer appeared to be of the mind that there was too much puritanism abroad yet and that Scotland especially was becoming the laughing stock of Europe for its Sabbath-keeping habits. He favored a broader interpretation of Sabbatarian ethics so that all kinds of healthy recreations of an uplifting character as well as the religious should be included. No doubt in this respect as in other ways there is a danger of being too liberal, but we do not think that Scotland need be ashamed if Europe does laugh a little over her staid Sunday habits. "From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs."

ARCHITECTURAL TREASURES.

In the course of my itinerary I have visited with much enlightenment and profit, I trust, some very old cathedrals and abbeys. Thanks to fortune that these relics still remain or at least vestiges enough to remind us of their former greatness; "monuments and piles stupendous whose very ruins are tremendous." Never before in my life have I had such an admiration for monks and "monks" as after looking at the works of faith and labors of love of these unknown sculptors and architects who produced such magnificent specimens of architectural beauty and strength. They held their civilization intact and after their work was accomplished I suppose the order should have been abolished. However, others think differently about that. This, too, have I noticed. All the great and worthy things that remain were for the most part erected by religious orders and a religious motive actuated the builders. Religion is eternal and it selects the best. Even the ancient Druid circles of stone which we passed were erected in the highest and choicest spots. It is a question whether the Druids would have worshipped in our narrow-gauge, poorly ventilated churches at all. The fresh air treatment is good in its place anyway. The golden mean!

While many of the matters referred to by guides who show us the old castles and churches are not of the importance they appear to be, I was impressed with one thing, and that was the increased interest the world is taking in Mary Queen of Scots. Sympathy seems to be flowing altogether in her way. For some reason she was a much feared and hated individual in her time. Was it possible that she was better than her persecutors and will she yet eclipse them in the estimation of posterity? If it is true that every lame has its tragedy we need not be surprised to find some in middle age history.

CANADA WELL KNOWN.

Another parting observation is that Canada is a well known country over here. In the first place, you can scarcely talk to a man who has not been here himself or has a son or brother there. For example, I was hurrying up the hill side one morning to visit St. Giles Church, Edinburgh. Accosting an elderly gentleman going in the same direction asked for directions and gave reasons for my ignorance of the situation. "From Manitoba! I have two sons there, etc., etc." That is the way all around. Yet some have hazy ideas about it all. We were to land in Glasgow Saturday, and attend a special service for Canadian teachers in Glasgow Cathedral. Our boat was delayed by fog and we were not there. But we were told afterwards that the special preacher for the occasion prayed for the President of the United States and the teachers from America. There is no radical objection to a prayer of that sort, but we submit, not apropos.

R. O. ARMSTRONG, Carlisle, England, July 18, 1913.
 P. S.—These impressions, of course, were born in Scotland. England is ahead of us and more anon.

An article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. Hendrickson, Ohio Falls, Ind., writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for coughs, colds and croup and is my best seller." For sale by all dealers.

The Coming of the Cunarders

(Halifax Chronicle, Aug. 25.)

No shipping news for many months has created greater interest in Halifax than the announcement that the Cunard Line was returning to the port of its nativity. Mr. George E. Franklyn, a member of the Cunard family and head of the Cunard interests at Halifax, when seen last night by a Morning Chronicle reporter, expressed the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that the line should be resuming its calls at this port. He believes the departure to be permanent. The Cunard Company have always been noted for their farsighted and conservative policy, and the fact that they have announced Halifax to be the Canadian port of call during the winter months of 1913-14 can safely be taken as the permanent intention for the future. It was in 1858 that the last Cunarder called at Halifax, in the capacity of a regular line. That they should have withdrawn from the Canadian service and made American ports their terminus was not due altogether to trade necessities. There is something of political history attached to their withdrawal from Halifax, inasmuch as their contracts with the Government had expired and were not renewed. Making it doubly a matter of satisfaction is the fact that today the line returns to Halifax not by any inducement of subsidy or special contract but simply that the development of business through the port of Halifax should warrant and even demand their participation in it. As yet the intelligence of the line's intention has only been conveyed by cable. Within a few days Mr. Franklyn expects to have further advice from which it will be known to what extent the Company intend to share in the freight business of the port.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3, 1913.

The International Congress of Medicine, made up of the world's most famous surgeons and physicians, held one of its sessions in London, about the middle of August.

One reporter remarks that probably the most fascinating paper read had for its subject the first Christian physician, St. Luke, and his portrait painted on the walls of the Catacombs of Rome, and remaining there to this day.

One thing which the general public expects from such an assembly is information respecting progress in the healing art. The report is that some progress has of late been made. In the transplantation of tissues, in the strengthening of weak arteries, in the use of the X Rays, especially in the treatment of weakness of the lungs, in the use of anaesthetics locally, and in those diseases which affect both mind and body, border-land cases, as they are sometimes called, investigation and experience have led to good results.

A popular English toy this summer is called "Lloyd George's Baby." It is a comical india-rubber arrangement which is filled with air and collapses with a long drawn and melancholy groan.

But, Lloyd George's legislative babies are not so short-lived as their namesakes. The English papers say that the Insurance Act has already provided a fund of twenty-six millions sterling, which in 1915 will amount to thirty-one millions.

Digby Courier.—Mr. Andrew Gibson, accompanied by his wife and children, recently drove from Livingstone Ave., Beverly, Mass., to St. John, N.B., in a carriage one hundred and sixty-nine years old, with a blind horse. They are now residing at Brighton, Digby County, Mr. Gibson's native village.

Road Improvements

Work began last week on the Church Road leading to Clarence.

This work marks an epoch in road making in this County. For years this road has been extremely bad in spring and fall owing to the clay formation of the soil in this district, and the heavy traffic over it, as it is the outlet of a large section of Western Clarence, and probably no section of the whole County produces as many barrels of apples in the same number of miles as this district.

Last fall the farmers in Western Clarence, realizing the great benefits from a macadamized road, subscribed between $1200 and $1300 toward a permanent stone road.

The work is under the supervision of Mr. Bishop of Dartmouth, and Mr. Fraser of the Road Department, and before the apple crop has to be moved to the warehouses and railroads it is hoped a large extent of this road will be completed and the clay mires of the past one hundred years buried forever.

This Week Forty Years Ago

(From Monitor files of 1873.)

Mr. Geo. Murdoch is erecting a large brick residence on his property on the south side of the river. A Catholic Chapel is being erected in the same vicinity.

A brigantine of three hundred tons was launched on Sunday, 31st inst., from the shipyard of Mr. VanBlarcom at Bay shore. She was built for Mr. Ryerson of Yarmouth. An unsuccessful attempt was made to launch her on the previous day.

The severe storm of Aug. 25th was even more severe in eastern Nova Scotia than in the Valley. About one hundred barns were blown down in Guysboro County. Much damage was done to shipping and many lives lost along the coast.

KINGS COUNTY TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE.

At a special meeting of the Kings County Temperance Alliance, held in Berwick on Tuesday, Aug. 26, Mr. S. V. Sanford moved that "This Alliance considers it advisable to substitute the operation of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act for that of the Canada Temperance Act, in this County."

After considerable discussion the vote was taken. Several prominent members of the Alliance declined to vote, but only one rose to record his vote against it.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Deals, the Executive Committee was instructed to take the necessary action to secure a vote for the repeal of the Scott Act in Kings County.—Register, Aug. 28.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHIPMAN FOSTER

At Lawrence town on Friday afternoon, Aug. 22, Alma, beloved wife of Chipman Foster, passed peacefully away to the Better Land, after a lingering illness of consumption, aged fifty-eight years. She was the daughter of the late W. D. and Mary Eliza Balcom, and the eldest of a large family, some of whom have predeceased her. She was a member of the Baptist church, but being ill for a number of years, was deprived from attending the house of worship. She was upheld by the grace of God and toward the close longed to be at some with Jesus. She leaves to mourn a devoted husband, three children, Henry of Reading, Mass.; Mrs. Lewis Hinde, Adams, Mass.; Frank of Lawrence town, and Nina, an adopted daughter, who tenderly cared for her mother all through her sickness. The funeral service, which was largely attended, took place at the home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, being conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. G. Mellick, assisted by Rev. J. H. Balcom. Familiar hymns were sung. A solo, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was effectively rendered by Miss Elsie MacPherson. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. H. Phinney, C. S. Balcom, Arthur Duncan and D. Morse Balcom. Interment was in Lawrence town cemetery. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved husband and family.

HYMENEAL

BENT-CHIPMAN.

A pretty country-side wedding that has been looked forward to with no little interest was the happy marriage of Miss Charlotte Anne, daughter of Mrs. Scott Chipman, Tupperville, at 9.30 on Saturday morning, Aug. 30. Under a pretty arch of ferns and sweet peas stood the groom—Mr. Archibald Clifford Bent, son of the late Geo. Bent, of Belleisle. On the arm of her brother, Mr. T. B. Chipman, the bride entered the parlor and took her place beside the groom. At the last strain of the wedding march, played by Miss Hazel Rhoades of Lunenburg, Rev. N. A. MacNeill, of the Baptist church, began the ceremony of tying the nuptial knot. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Chipman. After a few moments of happy congratulations, a dainty collation was enjoyed by a select company of the most intimate friends of the bride. In the midst of a heavy thunder storm and a downpour of rain the happy couple stepped into the prettily trimmed automobile of Mr. Fred Bath and were driven to Middleton, there to take the H. & S. W. to their home for a few days, then hence. On their return they will retrace a honey-moon trip through the Province to Belleisle. The bride's going away suit was of grey cloth and a hat of old blue. A costly collection of presents testified to the abiding popularity of the bride and groom.

EZRA D. SMITH.

On Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 20, after a useful life, Ezra S. Smith, of Phinney Cove, passed away at the advanced age of eighty-six years, the last member of a family of nine children. A short illness prepared the family for the end. A shipbuilder by trade, he spent ten years in the shipyards at Bear River. Born at Barrington he was one of the descendants of those who came over in the Mayflower and settled on Cape Island. He was a man of high ideals and a strong Christian character. Besides a widow, he leaves three sons and two daughters: Rutherford, master builder, of Rockport, Mass.; Ransom E. and Howard C., of Boston; Mrs. Marvin Farnsworth, of Hampton, and Mrs. Ellen Spicer.

Methodist Circuit Notes

BRIDGETOWN.

The congregations on Sunday were reminded by the announcements of the prospective meeting of the Quarterly Official Board, that already one quarter of the present church year has passed by. On Wednesday evening (this week) at the close of the Prayer and Praise meeting the committee of the management of the Sunday School will hold its quarterly session. The first meeting of the Quarterly Official Board for the current year will be held next Monday. The beauty and fragrance of the floral decorations aided not a little in the helpfulness of the services Sunday. The music, both morning and evening, included selections from Alexander's "Songs of Evangelism," a collection of hymns which for the past two years, has been used at the Berwick Camp meeting. It is the intention of the choir to make frequent use of these popular selections during the coming months of fall and winter.

BENTVILLE.

A goodly congregation assembled here Sunday morning and found the service most helpful. Dr. Jost was the preacher. The Pastor conducted service in this church next Sunday afternoon.

GRANVILLE.

Many visitors attended the service in this church Sunday afternoon. A large Sunday School preceded the church service, and the teachers and scholars in large numbers remained for the service. Announcement was made of the Sunday school picnic to be held upon the property of Mr. Howard Troop, Monday of this week. The Pastor preaches in this church next Sunday morning.

COWAN-CROPLEY.

On Monday evening, Aug. 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Chute, James Cowan of Dorchester, Mass., and Henrietta E. Cropley, were married by the Rev. N. A. MacNeill. Only the close friends of the family were present, but a very pleasant evening was spent. Mrs. Cowan was a former resident of Bridgetown, but for the past four years has made her home in Boston. She was a student at Acadia Seminary before leaving Nova Scotia for Boston.

Mr. Cowan has been a resident of Boston the greater part of his life, and is a business man of good standing in his community. He is the proprietor of a large plumbing and heating concern. He is also a member of a large number of organizations, in which he is very active.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowan will return within a few days to their new home in Dorchester, Mass., and it is expected they will motor all the way through.

A GRANVILLE WORTHY.

The recent death of Valentine Eaton removes a valuable citizen from the community. The son of Deacon Woodworth Eaton, he inherited many of his father's estimable qualities. Thoughtful, quiet, unobtrusive, upright and diligent, each, alike contributed to the best possible interests of the community in which they lived. Happy the country blessed with such inhabitants, and may the number be greatly multiplied. Brothers remain to honor the name: Burton, residing nearby, and Professor Adoniram of McGill, Montreal; another, Eugene, full of promise in his profession, died, practically a martyr to his profession, early in his active life, when an epidemic was raging at Granville Ferry and neighborhood in the '70s. The name of Eaton in Granville meant strength to the Baptist cause and good will to all around.

PASTOR J. CLARK.

Metland, Hants County, N. S.

A shocking accident occurred at McNab's Island, Halifax, on Labor Day, during the progress of a picnic. The victim was Dollie Harrington, a nine-year-old girl, who had her life crushed out while she was enjoying herself swinging. The swing supports gave way, parts of the timbers striking her on the back of the head, crushing her skull and causing instant death.

A despatch from Yarmouth says: "The steamer Boston, Capt. Joseph Cann, on her first trip of the season from Boston to Yarmouth, struck on Cat Rock, at the entrance of this port during a dark Saturday. Tugs at once left for the scene. Later reports say she floated under her own power and is now anchored awaiting assistance."

Large congregations assembled at both services in the Baptist church last Sunday, the large auditorium being taxed to its utmost seating capacity at the evening service. The speaker was the Rev. Albourne N. Marshall, a former Clarence boy, but now pastor of the First Baptist church in Winnipeg. Both sermons were strong, well thought and inspiring discourses, which held the closest attention of the large congregations.

Quite a large number of citizens, old and young, met on the afternoon of Labor Day on the grounds of the Skating Rink to witness various sports and incidentally to patronize the various booths provided through the thoughtfulness of Miss Annie Chute, for the purpose of filling the coffers of the Cemetery Committee. One of the most interesting of the exercises was that of a dozen young ladies around the May pole, accompanied by the Band, which also discoursed sweet music at other times during the afternoon. The net proceeds for the benefit of the Cemetery Fund amounted to about thirty dollars.

Owing to the continuous downpour of rain last Wednesday, the Farmers' Picnic at Lawrencetown was postponed to Thursday. The speakers arrived on Wednesday, but returned to Kentville in the afternoon train, with the understanding they would return to Lawrencetown to take their part in the program the following day. The weather Thursday morning was overcast and unsettled, but towards noon the sun came out and the committee in charge decided to go ahead with the program, expecting the speakers would return from Kentville but upon arrival of the train the speakers were found not to be aboard. It was then too late to secure other speakers, but the other items on the program were carried through, an account of which appears on page two of this issue. The failure of the speaker to appear was disappointing to many, yet all seemed to enjoy themselves. It was one of those unfortunate circumstances that very frequently follows a postponed affair, in which everything becomes uncertain.

WHAT DO THE BRIDGETOWN AUTOMOBILIST SAY TO THIS?

(Annapolis Spectator, Aug. 29.) Have you driven over the River Road from Bridgetown to Annapolis this past month? Nearly every bridge is in bad condition which in fact is very evident when your car strikes. Otherwise the run between Annapolis Royal and Bridgetown would be hard to improve upon as a fifteen miles of country road. Here is the suggestion. Let Annapolis and Bridgetown automobilists have a picnic at Round Hill in the near future. Take a half-day from business and turn to a few hours hard work at road work. (Did you ever see a man work hard at road work?) Meet, say at Round Hill and enjoy the grub supplied returning home in the evening. If Bridgetown car owners are favorably inclined to this suggestion let us take the matter in hand by appointing committees.

CO-OPERATION BASIS OF THE IDEAL STATE

Glasgow, Scotland, August 25.—Co-operation as the basis of the ideal state of the future, was the keynote of the address of Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada, at the opening of the Congress of the International Co-operative Alliance here today. Co-operation would put a barrier against the tyranny of the trusts, he said, and would reconcile the warring forces of labor and capital.

Six hundred delegates were present, representing 2,000,000 members of co-operative societies in America and Europe, and Earl Grey's views, enunciated with much fervor, were warmly applauded.

He declared that the application of the co-operative principle to the industrial life of Great Britain, the United States, France, Germany, Denmark and Ireland, was proved by the substitution of organized distribution for unorganized distribution; co-operative buying for individual buying; co-operative transportation and marketing for industrial selling and the co-operative use of power for individual use of machinery.

The wants of both producer and consumer could thereby be met more effectively at a smaller cost, thus securing to the consumer a reduction in the cost of living and a greater command not only of the necessities, but the comforts and conveniences of life, and to the producer a substantial increase in the amount of net profits available for distribution, which meant an increased fund from which alone could be drawn the high wages all desired for the underpaid workers.

In the civilized world, the remarkable growth of the co-operative movement justified the confident expectation that a day of new social order was at hand.

Although the delegates, continued Earl Grey, might be separated by differences of race, languages and religion, they had met as one people under the flag of co-operative fraternity, carrying in their hearts the same motto:

"Each for all and all for each."
All who had in their hearts the well-being of their fellow man, he urged, should do their utmost to promote the transition from present conditions to a social state in which the spirit of fraternal co-operation should prevail.

HELD UP AND ROBBED NEAR DIGBY.

Digby, Aug. 28.—Joseph Hazelton, a public back driver, says that while driving towards Digby, near Keen's Bridge, during a severe thunder and lightning storm, last night, he was stopped by three men, one of whom held the horse, another seized him by the throat while the third took a netty dollars from his pocket. During the flashes of lightning he could notice that the men were white, but does not think he could identify them.

POTATO CANKER DANGER

Potato Canker should not be allowed to gain a foothold in Canada. It is a disease that makes slow progress but where once broken out it has defied every human means of control. With the approach of the potato harvest all growers are particularly requested to examine their potatoes for signs of canker. A case of potato canker escaping detection forms a source of future infection.

The appearance of this disease has been well illustrated by the Farmers' Circular No. 3, obtainable free of charge from the Publication Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Potato Canker, owing to its serious nature has been made subject to certain legislative measures under the Dominion Destructive Insect and Pest Act. In order to familiarize the farmer with the requirements of the Act their attention is called to the following extracts, and other information concerning the necessary steps to be taken in case potato canker is discovered in any locality.

(1) On discovery of any signs of potato canker farmers should immediately notify the Dominion Botanist, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, of the outbreak, at the same time submitting specimen, when an inspector will be sent to assist and advise the farmer as regards the treatment to be given.

(2) Unless prompt action is taken and the authorities are notified without delay the whole crop of potatoes whether "apparently" sound or diseased is liable to destruction under "The Destructive Insect and Pest Act," Regulations 7 and 8, reading:

(7) If, on inspection, nursery stock or other vegetation or vegetable matter is found to be infected with any of the insects, pests or diseases hereinafter specified, it shall be destroyed to the extent deemed necessary by the inspector and in his presence. All cases, packages and packing in which such stock has been contained shall also be destroyed in the same manner.

(8) Any inspector entering any lands, nursery or other premises where there is reason to believe that any of the insects, pests or diseases hereinafter specified are or may be present, shall give instructions for the treatment or destruction of any tree, bush, crop or any vegetation or vegetable matter or the containers thereof, which may be found or suspected to be infected with any of the insects, pests or diseases hereinafter specified, and such instructions shall be carried out by the owner or lessee of the infected or suspected vegetation, vegetable matter, or containers thereof, and such remedial treatment shall be carried out and continued until the insect, pest or disease shall be deemed by the inspector to have been exterminated.

(3) Cut off and burn all potato tops or stalks without removing them from the infested area.

(4) Dig at once all potatoes on your farm, carefully hand pick them and those already dug, and separate the diseased tubers from those "apparently" or perfectly sound.

(5) Place the diseased tubers in a pile and cover with earth. The inspector will advise you regarding their disposal.

(6) All perfectly or "apparently" sound tubers may be stored in the usual way, but must be used for any purpose whatsoever until the inspector has given permission.

(7) Allow no tubers to remain in the ground, nor any animal to have access to an infested field. The organism causing the disease is liable to be spread through the excreta of animals having eaten infected potatoes in a raw condition.

(8) No raw potatoes whether diseased, "apparently" or perfectly sound must be used for any purpose whatever. After they have been examined by the inspector to be used boiled. Boiling will absolutely destroy the disease germ. All potato parings must be burned immediately.

(9) Under no circumstances may you dispose of, sell, receive or give away any potatoes resulting from a diseased crop, however slightly that crop may have been affected. Note Regulations 10 under "The Destructive Insect and Pest Act" reading:

"It shall be illegal to sell, offer for sale or in any way dispose of or to receive any trees, shrubs or other plants, vegetable matter or portions of the same, if the same are infested with any of the insects, pests or diseases hereinafter specified."

(10) If the quantity of potatoes permitted by the inspector to be used is considerable, you are strongly advised to keep a number of pigs and use a quantity of boiled potatoes among the usual food.

(11) The use for seed of any potatoes resulting from an infected crop no matter how sound they may appear, is strictly prohibited, as the disease is entirely propagated by the use of infected seed.

(12) The land on which a diseased crop has been raised is useless for the cultivation of potatoes for an indefinite number of years. It may, however, be used for the growing of any other kind of crop, except potatoes.

(13) All tools, implements, etc., used on infected land must be carefully cleaned by washing with an antiseptic solution (crude carbolic acid, sheep dips, etc., etc.) before removing them from such infected land. Any soil left adhering to them or to the boots of persons working in the field, is liable to contain disease germs, and in this way may be responsible for carrying the disease to clean land.

In conclusion I must caution you to carefully carry out all these instructions. They have been devised to protect your own and the country's interests. Also kindly note paragraph "18" of "The Destructive Insect and Pest Act," reading:

(3) Every person who contravenes any provision of this Act, or any regulation made thereunder, shall be liable, upon summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or to both fine and imprisonment, etc."

Further note paragraph "7" of the Destructive Insect and Pest Act:

(7) "The Minister, upon the report of any inspector setting forth a reasonable belief of the existence of any insect, pest or disease in any area defined in such report, may prohibit the removal from such area or the movement therein of any vegetation, vegetable or other matter which, in his opinion is likely to result in the spread of such insect pest or disease."

MEMO: The potato disease referred to "as hereinafter specified" in the "Act" or "regulations" is Potato Canker, Chrysophytis endobiotica, Schilb.

COURTESY.

"Oh, dear," cried a distracted mother to one who, as the saying is, seemed as cool as a cucumber, "how on earth do you manage to have your children so well behaved? Mine are simply savages! They shame me at every turn."

"Perhaps you are savage with them," replied the visitor, with a smile that barely escaped sarcasm.

"I treat my children as persons who own their own souls. I know that to receive courtesy I must give it, and by daily attention to the little breaks I keep them well drilled in the greater decencies."

Ah, me, if all mothers were as wise as this, what good manners the world would see! There would be no such thing as a "savage child, no such thing as a mother "shamed at every turn." Instructions in the polite forms of behavior bear little weight if the instructor is rude and violent. It is no use to say, "Jack, do so and so today," if you forget to chide gently when the same thing is done tomorrow. Dirty manners, like dirty faces, must have regular attention, but it must all be done as a duty. As this astute mother says, "Jack must first be allowed to feel that his soul is his own," that all the reward the world has to give depends upon himself. But a kind heart being at the root of all gracious behavior, fine manners are a piteous frothing if the child's character is neglected.

So let the worried mother begin by elucidating the homely precept of the golden rule. To do unto others as you would have them do unto you is to be kind, merciful, considerate. Drill this into the child's heart with little tender stories of rewards that came to the kind-hearted, and punishments that came to the harsh and coarse.

INGENUOUS METHOD OF STUDYING FISHES.

Dr. Francis Ward, of England, has invented a new way of studying the lives of fishes and other water inhabitants by building a pond with a glass side. This has been done before, but behind this glass side Dr. Ward built a light proof room, so when he went inside and shut the door behind he stood in the dark, so the fishes could not see him and be frightened.

Today they are just as effective, just as reliable as ever, and nothing better has yet been devised to

Cure Common Ills

ATTRIBUTE MY CURE SOLELY

And Entirely To Taking "Fruit-a-tives"

HULL, QUE., Dec. 24th, 1909 "For the past twelve years, I had painful attacks of Dyspepsia. I could not digest my food and everything caused the most agonizing pain in my stomach. I also had a fearful attack of Constipation and at times, I had no movement of the bowels for two weeks. Three doctors attended me for two years and gave me all kinds of medicine but did me no good. My weight came to only 80 pounds and everyone thought I was going to die. Finally, I had the good fortune to try "Fruit-a-tives" and as soon as I began to take them, I felt better. I persisted in the treatment and to my great joy, I steadily improved. Now I feel very well, weigh 115 pounds, and this is more than I ever weighed even before my illness. I attribute my cure solely and entirely to "Fruit-a-tives" and can never praise them too much for saving my life. To all who suffer from Dyspepsia and Constipation, I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" as a miraculous remedy."

HAIL INSURANCE.

The International Agricultural Institute has very complete reports of different systems of hail insurance in Continental Europe. Hail insurance seems to be as common a thing in Europe as fire insurance is in America, and indeed, the same reasons that make fire insurance a necessary precaution here in America make hail insurance necessary in Europe. The culture is so intensive that the damage from hail, where it occurs, is necessarily very great. The observations of the weather bureau are extensive enough to enable commercial companies to offer insurance at a moderate premium. The greater part however, of the hail insurance companies are mutual and co-operative.

The concentration of fruit growing in certain centres, especially in British Columbia, Ontario and Nova Scotia, makes these districts particularly liable to heavy losses from hailstorms, though these may not be very frequent. At present it is not uncommon for an individual to lose three-quarters of his crop in case a hailstorm visits the neighborhood, and the results, of course, are exceedingly inconvenient. Several growers in Niagara District last year suffered heavy individual losses as the result of hailstorms, and will be crippled for capital for several years to come. With a proper system of hail insurance upon a co-operative basis, a very slight premium from each grower would render such disasters comparatively harmless. Hailstorms are not numerous enough in Canada to form a serious menace to the fruit-growing industry, but they are numerous enough to suggest the wisdom of hail insurance companies in districts where fruit-growing forms the chief occupation of the people.

HOLY CITY OF THE SIKHS

(By A. Hugh Fisher, in the Canadian Pictorial.)

Hardwar, where the sacred Ganges leaves the foot-hills of the Himalayas and enters the plains, is still the great place of pilgrimage which Brahmanism has made it for so many ages, and every year, on the occasion of its annual festival, draws hundreds of thousands of native people from all parts of India to seek redemption in these upper waters of the holy river, and incidentally to swell the traffic returns of the railways and compensate somewhat for the unprofitable carriage of "tourist" first-class passengers.

The crowds of worshippers came for ages before the railways, but it is only since the British occupation that the practical value of the river has been extended in such gigantic systems of irrigation as the vast canal which carries of the waters of the Ganges at Hardwar during the season of low flood and spreads it over the level flats of the United Provinces.

The wide river, clear as crystal and gloriously blue in the bright sunshine of that February morning, flowed joyously with eager swiftness. The centre of attraction was the temple and bathing ghat, on the reputed sight of a divine sacrifice. In the water here I saw hundreds of big, large-scaled fish, dark-brownish creatures about two feet long, which are cherished and fed regularly. On the steps of the ghat no one is permitted to wear shoes, and it was in my stocking feet that I visited the "Charan," or sacred footprints on a stone let into the wall.

By the entrance to the temple, squatting upon a tiny platform, a priestess, dressed in bright colors and spangled clothes, played upon a flute. Sacred cows, of which I had already noticed several in the street, stood about at the top of the steps. They bore a strange deformity in the shape of an extra limb loosely hanging from the hump. In some cases this ended in a hoof, and with some in a second pair of horns. About the road and along the banks of the river, in front of low stone shelters, numerous holy people squatted silently—"Sadhus" and "Nagas," with naked bodies whitened with ashes.

In the inner sanctum of another temple at Hardwar I saw for the first time the "Granth," the sacred book of the Sikhs. It was placed rather like a body upon a wooden bed, and was covered by a mauve silk coverlet decorated with drawn thread work.

Twelve miles farther up the river, after a difficult drive through very rough country, I reached a village called Rakhyash, where the Sikhs have many places of worship. Upon the wide stretch of rounded boulders along the side of the river the scene was very beautiful, the hills rising abruptly from the farther bank, and the water rippling over shallows and racing through the deeper channels.

I came at intervals to pale enclosures, within which devout crowds sat listening to a priest, who was sheltered by a thatched gabled cover. Leaving my shoes, with others, at an opening in the fence of one such enclosure, and receiving welcome, I entered and sat upon a reed mat like the rest, in the warm glow of the setting sun. The chief priest sat just

THE SCIENTIFIC FARMING OF THE WOOD-LOTS

The Department of the Interior has issued a very suggestive and instructive bulletin on the best methods for increasing the value of the wood-lot. The time was when very little thought was given to the conservation or improvement of the wooded sections of farms. Trees, large and small were indiscriminately cut down and woodlots completely destroyed. As wood has become scarcer and fuel more expensive, the value of a wood-lot is realized. Mr. Morton, the silvical expert who is engaged by the Forestry Branch at Ottawa, claims that there is no part of the farm which will give bigger returns for so little expenditure of time and labor than the wood lot. The first thing necessary is to improve the character of the crop by cutting down and using for fire-wood all diseased and deformed trees, as well as such species as are not desirable. The second requisite is the introduction of the most suitable species for the purpose desired.

"Fire-wood probably yields the best returns for a small acreage and for this purpose rapid-growers such as poplar, ash and elm should be encouraged, which should make an annual growth of from one-half to one cord per acre. Bass-wood, too, will be in increasing demand because of its rapid growth, because it coppices readily and because of its value in small sizes for the manufacture of excelsior, cooperage stock and other small articles for which the wood is particularly adapted. Maple reproduces readily, and although not a rapid grower, it nevertheless yields a substantial revenue when it becomes large enough to tap. Soft woods like spruce, balsam and pine grow much more rapidly than hardwoods and might be advantageously grown for fuel or pulp-wood. When the most suitable species have been selected and the weeds removed, the woodlot must then be thinned until the crowns of the best-formed remaining trees are seen to barely touch. An acre can only produce a given amount of wood each year and the fewer trees there are to share this yearly increment, and yet fully utilize the crown space, the more rapid will be the growth of these trees. The third requisite in the scientific farming of the woodlot, is that the cattle be kept out, especially after heavy cutting, when reproduction is most desired. Cattle are just as injurious to a young crop of tree-seedlings as they are to a crop of grain. They may indeed eat the grass in the woodlot, but they would just as soon if not sooner, eat the young and tender hardwood shoots, and the same can be said of sheep. Even coniferous seedlings are not immune, so that certainly in reproduction is only assured by fencing off the cut-over areas. Dr. Fernow predicts that "There will be a time when the woodlot will sell the farm or will be a necessary part of the farm to make it valuable. In the seasons when his other work slackens the farmer could very easily improve his woodlot in anticipation of this time of increased wood value."

Presbyterian Witness.

According to the story, the cripple noticed a crow, similarly afflicted with lameness, fly to an adjacent pool and become cured as soon as its legs touched the water; its plumage turning milk-white at the same time. Rolling towards the pool, the poor cripple found himself restored, and on his wife's return she found a perfect husband with normal extremities sitting upon the basket. This was attributed to the power of "Amrit," the water of immortality, which became thenceforth the sacred tank of Amritsar, in the midst of which was built the famous shrine of the Golden Temple. Within this building the "Granth" lies, covered with a cloth of gold and canary-colored silk, under a great violet-hued canopy, while a priest watches it, taking his four-hour turn of duty, and occasionally dusting it with a bundle of peacock's feathers. Over the centre of the marble pavement, upon a white rug, stand, in front of the "Granth," silver receptacles for offerings of rice, and rosy-eyed pigeons peck at money scattered upon the floor.

The religion of the Sikhs—founded by the Guru or prophet Nanak, who was born in 1469—is based on the two principles of the Unity of God and the Brotherhood of Man. It prohibits image-worship, and struck from the first at the fundamental institution of Hinduism—that of caste. The Sikhs remained steadfast to their faith through centuries of Musselman persecution; became a bulwark against Northern invasion when the Mogul power fell into decay; developed later, under Ranjit Singh, into the most efficient military State in all India; then, after his death, challenged a mightier power from the West; and, once they had accepted the rule of their conquerors, proved themselves the most trusty of subjects, staunch through the great crisis of 1857, and today among the most loyal of the British Empire.

"Your Worship," said the prisoner, "you don't know how heartrending it is to have a wife who can cook and won't do it." "No," said his honor, and then added, feelingly: "Thank goodness, man, you haven't one that can't cook and will do it."

Mrs. Voteigh (coming home at eleven)—"Are the dear children all right? I haven't set eyes on them since morning."

Her Husband—"Hub! You go about airing your views; better you'd stay at home and view your heirs."

"Farmer: 'If you want to get to the village you must go this way: Tourist: 'But the guide-post points in the other direction.' 'That is right. We have pointed the finger in the wrong direction to keep beggars and robbers from entering the village.'"

Two farmers met in a western town a day or two after a cyclone had visited that particular neighborhood. "She shook things up pretty bad out at my place," said one, stroking his whiskers meditatively. "By the way, Hi," he added, "that new barn o' yours get hurt any?" "Wal," drawled the other, "I dunno. I hain't found it yet."

TO CATCH FISH.

After for about three hours and not getting even a bite MacSpindle grew disgusted, and determined to give it up. Just before he drew the lines in a small urchin came along with an old stick, a piece of string and a bent pin. "Hallo, my boy!" said MacSpindle. "Going fishing?" "No," replied the urchin, looking disdainfully at the unsuccessful one. "I'm going to catch some fish."

GOOD FOR THE BISHOP.

A visiting bishop was arguing with a friend of his on the desirability of attending church. At last he put the question squarely: "What is your personal reason for not attending?"

The gentleman smiled in a non-offensive intending way, as he replied: "The fact is, one finds so many hypocrites there."

"Don't let that keep you away; there is always room for one more?"

GODDESS OF WISDOM.

A famous woman lecturer was entertaining a number of little girls from a charitable institution. After the luncheon the children were shown through the place, in order that they might enjoy the many beautiful things it contains. "This," said the spinster indicating a statue, "is Minerva." "Was Minerva married?" asked one of the little girls. "No, my child," said the spinster, with a smile. "Minerva was the Goddess of Wisdom."

HIS BEST WRITING.

A young novelist had a hard struggle to earn enough to keep himself and his wife, who held his talents in poor esteem and often urged him to try something else, for she was sometimes hungry, and all the time ill-clad. But one day his luck changed. He began to make money. And there came a day when he was able to write a cheque for $100 and pass it over to his wife. Her eyes were filled with tears when she read it. "Willie, darling," she said as she hastened round the table and put her arms round his neck, "I'll take back all the mean things I have ever said about your work! This is the best you ever wrote."

GLAD OF SMALL MERCIES.

"I have called to collect the rent," said the landlord. "Yes," replied the lady of the house, "come in. Now, before I give you the money this month I—" "Just a minute, madam," said the landlord. "I can save your time for you. I know the parlor isn't fit for a pig to live in, the dining-room wall-paper is a shock to people of refinement, the kitchen walls are a disgrace, and the back porch is a menace to life and limb. I'm also aware that you won't stay here another month unless the barber-shop wall-paper in the back bedroom is changed to something in a delicate pink, and I'm next to the fact that you are ashamed to have people look at such gas fixtures as I have provided. This spring I'm going to paint the front and back porches and let it go at that."

"Thank you very much," said the lady meekly. "You have saved me a lot of trouble. That is all we really expected to have done, but I was afraid that I should have to make the same old bluff to get that much out of you."

"NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

Proved of Great Value to Me"

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Arrowsmith, Canso, N.S.: "It is with pleasure I write to inform you that your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is such a success as can only come to an honest remedy, compounded according to an exceptionally good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. If you are troubled with your stomach just ask your Druggist about Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, and sold throughout the Dominion at 50c. a box. 142

Ladies of Culture and Refinement Use Salvia Hair Tonic. It Makes the Hair Beautiful.

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy the pest Dandruff.

That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in ten days, or money back.

The manufacturer guarantees it. It will grow hair, stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray, and adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of beautiful hair. A large, generous bottle costs only 50c. At leading druggists everywhere. The word "SALVIA" is on every bottle.

DR. JOS. AUG. SIRDIS

SIX GENERATIONS.

Strathroy, Ont., Aug. 29.—A remarkable fact has been discovered in connection with the life of the late Mrs. John Calcutt, who passed away in Strathroy recently in her 92nd year. The old lady, while living, had the distinction of becoming a great-great-grandmother, her children and grand-children extending into the sixth generation. Six generations within a period of ninety-two years is surely a record-breaker, and it is doubtful if it can be equalled anywhere in this country.
