CRACK DISTANCE RUNNERS WILL BE SEEN IN ST. JOHN

Arrangements Being Made Now for a Fifteen Mile Race Between Percy Sellen and Fred Meadows to Be Held Here in a Few Weeks—Both are Great Runners

It is probable that St. John will witness a long distance running race within a few weeks, and it is planned to bring together in a match event for fifteen miles two of the stars of the professional runners. They are Fred Meadows, the great Gulf, Ont., runner, who dined the aspirations of Paul Accoese, the western Indian, at Winnipeg last week and best Hans Holmen over a mile and a quarter in a fifteen mile race at Quebec some weeks ago. Meadows' opponent will likely be Percy Sellen, now at Toronto, who is believed to be the equal of Alfred Shrubb at a distance exceeding twelve miles. Meadows is now at Winnipeg and Sellen at Toronto.

FLYING MACHINE A FEATURE OF BIG SHOW

Latest Type of Airship May be Demonstrated at the Dominion Exhibition in 1909—Getting Down to Work.

Although the date set for the opening of the big Dominion exhibition here in 1910 is still more than a year away, the directors of the association are making plans and working in a quiet way to make the affair a grand success. The question of a manager, or managers for it is proposed that the work be divided between two men for the big fair—has yet to be decided. It is probable also that a representative will leave shortly for the big amusement centres to select the indoor and outdoor attractions for St. John. It is planned to have the special features far and away ahead of anything ever attempted in this part of the Dominion. Among the suggestions in this regard is a proposal to have a demonstration of the latest type of airship, showing the principal and actual operation of this newest mode of transportation.

MILLIDGEVILLE IS IN FOR A BOOM

Many New Cottages There Now—Street Car Connection With City Would be a Big Advantage—Great Spot for Water Sports.

Millidgeville, now the headquarters of the Royal Kanabecan Yacht Club, is likely soon to be the centre of aquatic in general in St. John. It is particularly well adapted for boating of all descriptions. Within a short distance of the city, it has a splendid anchorage and beautiful sheet of water. St. John is in need of just such a place, as the harbor is hardly suitable for boating purposes, as is well known by those who have had much to do with rowing. Millidgeville has a sheet of water that is particularly adapted for canoeing and pleasure boating. Then the summer colony there is increasing yearly, so that it vies now with Westfield, Robbsey and other resorts.

ANNUAL CRUISE OF THE YACHT CLUB

It Will Start on Wednesday July 27th and Promises to be a Very Jolly Time.

With the long looked for "Happy days" cruise just a week off, members of the R. K. Y. C. are already making preparations. Already the good times of last year are being reviewed and for weeks everybody has been talking of the time in store. A sail on the big streamer this season of the year is in itself a beautiful thing, but when it is added to the jollifications of the big band of white-troved "massies," with ball games and numerous other stunts it is assuredly one round of pleasure. The start will be made on Saturday, the 24th of the present month at 3:30 o'clock. Vice Commodore Merrill will be in command until Thursday with the flag on the Vagabond. On Thursday Commodore Thomson will join the fleet and assume command, his flag being on the Dalinda. The cruise will consume eight days. It is expected to make Carter's Point or Oak Point the first stop, the fleet coming to anchor. They will go as far as the Grand Lake and on the way back the Belleisle. There will be an special feature this year. It is early yet to get the full list of yachts of the entire crew on those that are announced as going. Among those that are known to be going to start are the Yagabond, with Commodore Merrill, H. C. Brown, Wm. Burrill and Roy E. Crawford; Lovelace, John H. Kimball, E. J. Lively, Dr. D. S. Lively, H. R. Dunn and Harry B. Robinson; Rena with S. A. Williams and party; Dahmda with W. Malcolm Mackay and party; Robin Hood with T. T. Lantall and party; Sanitar with Gordon Lively, Jack Byles, and others; Armoval, Fleet Captain F. E. Munro, Ralph Bonnell, Edward Bonnell, Ken Bonnell and others; Canada, Fred Heena and other and Bonnet with Harold Allison and others. The annual excursion to the club at Carter's Point on Sunday the 28th will be a very jolly one. The cruise will probably assist at the St. David's church this city. Rev. J. S. McCall, who will be among those on the boat, says that the cruise will probably assist at the St. David's church this city.

THIS IS THE OFF SEASON IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

With the Advent of Warm Summer Weather the Librarians Find Their Duties Considerably Lighter—Saturday Half Holiday Would However Be Appreciated

Now that summer has come once again with its usual complement of out-door attractions and excursions, the ladies in the Free Public Library find their duties, as far as circulation is concerned, considerably lessened. Through the long and weary months of winter, six days in the morning from ten o'clock in the morning to nine-thirty in the evening the librarians have been kept steadily on the move attending to the wants of their numerous and oft-times impatient readers. But now in the circulation department a considerable falling off in the number of books given out is apparent. Though this lessens the work along that line the ladies in the library are by no means idle, as they have their time fully occupied reviewing the lists, receiving reports and looking after the books. It is expected that the circulation will decrease even more in the next month than it has already, unless the summer institutes an exception to the prevailing rules of past years. It will require a prodigious exertion to see forth with any degree of accuracy the various reasons why July, August and September are dull months at the library so far as circulation is concerned. Without doubt, however, the principal reason is that during these three months the regular readers of the library are lured by the hundreds to the seashore, the country and the many other outlying resorts, which suggest a prodigious loss to the pleasure seeker. Many of the regular readers are out of town for the whole three months, but while this is so, in some cases it does not necessarily follow that these people are without their supply of literature from the library during this time, as many of them have some means of the family coming into town every day and in this way manage to exchange their books, but while a few do this, the number is very small, compared with the number they would ordinarily read if in town in the city. The summer months are not the best in the year for reading, as the fine weather offers so many attractions of its own even to the most studious of book-lovers. Magazines are prime favorites with those bent on a few weeks' recreation, and instead of a few books of fiction, one generally finds several magazines at a summer resort. A person, too, seems less energetic on a day in summer than almost any other time of the year, but while it may be said that reading requires very little energy, there are plenty of other pastimes more comfortable and more suitable to a hot and sultry day, and as a general rule people govern their daily routine by the weather to a great extent. The reading room in the city library, however, is in constant use, morning, afternoon and evening, and its steady flow of patrons should be extremely well pleased at the careful attention given to the files, which contain papers and magazines from the four quarters of the globe. Here again, however, the decrease in summer readers is apparent, although this room is by no means empty at any time when the library is open.

AMERICANS RUSHING IN Prospects for Greatest Immigration from States on Record.

Calgary, July 16.—Bert Hoffman, of Calgary, Ont., arrived from the South with a party of ten land buyers from Idaho and Washington all of whom left for Glenora on the 14th inst. Hoffman says that owing to the fact that portions of Oregon, Washington and Idaho had had two short wheat crops in succession, many farmers are coming from these States to Alberta, and Hoffman has assisted in the sale of over sixty sections of Canadian Pacific land in Calgary district in the past eight months. With another bumper crop in Alberta this year, prospects are that the districts will see the greatest rush of United States settlers yet recorded. All of these Americans are practical men, and will get the greatest possible returns from the land.

WHY NOT USE MARSH ROAD

Utilize Marsh Road Land for Industrial or Residential Purposes

That the land along the Marsh road could be utilized for industrial or residential purposes by diverting the water in the Marsh creek, having given the impression that the Marsh road is the property of the City of St. John, the opinion expressed by Alderman James H. Frink, chairman of the water and sewerage board, is being discussed by the city council. It was while discussing the work on the Marsh bridge that the alderman referred to the possibilities for expansion of the Marsh bridge.

SPLENDID SHOW OF BRITAIN'S MIGHT

One Hundred and Forty Eight British Warships Anchored in Thames Last Night

New York, July 17.—A London despatch says that one hundred and forty eight British warships were anchored in the Thames river last night, the array extending from the estuary at the south end of the river to Westminster bridge, in the heart of London. The total tonnage of this fleet is 750,000, its cost $130,000,000 and it is offered and manned by 42,000 of the picked sons of the nation.

Changes in Boston Nationals—Ty Cobb to Stay in the Game

ANXIOUS TO WIN FOR THE SAKE OF HIS GIRL

Young Corbett Will Have Extra Desire to Win Today's Match With Johnny Frayne

San Francisco, July 17.—Young Corbett enters the ring of the Mission arena against Johnny Frayne today in an engagement to prove to the local fans that he has regained some of that speed and stamina that enabled him to stow away Terry McGovern. Frayne is a local fighter, but gained most of his fame in the short bouts which he fought in the east recently. Frayne enters the ring a 10 to 7 favorite over the Danverite. Corbett, as usual, looked fat, but declared himself to be in the best of trim for the fight. He is eager to win for the sake of the girl to whom he will be married shortly after the contest.

MUCH MYSTERY IN NOTED OLD BOAT SHOOTING OF SUTTON

Young American Marine Paris Crew's Shell Brought to This Side This Morning and Placed on Exhibition in Mill Street Store.

New York, July 17.—An Annapolis, Md., despatch to the American says that two persons of prominence who live in Annapolis and who prefer not to have their names mentioned, confirmed yesterday the existence of certain documentary evidence that Jas. N. Sutton, one young marine officer who met his death on October 12, 1907, was challenged by one of his officers. The statement was given by Owens, the chauffeur, makes it probable that this is the explanation of the attack, which the latter declares Adams made upon Sutton when the party alighted from the automobile. Owens has all along said that the affair had every semblance of a quarrel. The statement of Sutton, one generally finds several magazines at a summer resort. A person, too, seems less energetic on a day in summer than almost any other time of the year, but while it may be said that reading requires very little energy, there are plenty of other pastimes more comfortable and more suitable to a hot and sultry day, and as a general rule people govern their daily routine by the weather to a great extent. The reading room in the city library, however, is in constant use, morning, afternoon and evening, and its steady flow of patrons should be extremely well pleased at the careful attention given to the files, which contain papers and magazines from the four quarters of the globe. Here again, however, the decrease in summer readers is apparent, although this room is by no means empty at any time when the library is open.

MANY ATTRACTIONS FOR ST. JOHN CITIZENS TODAY

Aquatic Sports, Yacht Races, Baseball Games and Theatres Should Furnish Amusement For All

The Woodman Point trophy is the prize to be sailed for. The Long Reach Outing Association has completed arrangements for a fine series of water events for this afternoon, consisting of motor boat racing, single stickers, double scull for ladies, boys and men, centre puzzling to decide on which suitable prizes of cups, medals, etc., will be awarded the winners of each event. The "Champion" will probably convey an immense crowd to the scene of the sports, which will not take place until her arrival.

JEFF AND JOHNSON TO TALK OF MATCH TERMS

They Will Meet in Chicago Today To Agree on Fight for World's Title

Chicago, July 17.—Jas. J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson have promised to meet in Chicago today and settle terms for a fight for the world's heavyweight title. The latest expression from Jeffries was that he surely would be on hand and Johnson's representatives said that the automobile accident at Crown Point, Ind., Thursday, would not prevent his coming. Despite these promises, considerable doubt is expressed in sporting circles as to whether the meeting will take place.

THE WATER SUPPLY

The situation with regard to the city's water supply appears to be very serious. The extraordinary statement is made that what was supposed to be solid, reinforced concrete pipe, and which was paid for as such, can be taken out by the handful, like so much sand or gravel. Who is responsible for this work? The city paid for a good job, and paid a very high price. Some of the aldermen appear to think that it would be the part of wisdom and economy to reject the whole of this pipe and put down one that could be depended on to do the work. If so the expense would be very great, and the money already spent on the concrete pipe wasted.

THE LIBERALS

St. John county has been solidly Liberal for years. An effort is now being made to swing it into the Conservative column. The attempt is led by Mr. Hazen, who admitted that his victory in the provincial elections was due to Liberal votes, and there proceeded to pitch himself to the car of Mr. Borden, the Conservative leader. This fact will not be forgotten by Liberals next Tuesday. They are not deceived by the artful assertion that this is not an important matter. If it were not regarded by Mr. Hazen as important there would not have been so great an array of leading Conservatives on the stump for Mr. Moshier. The St. John Globe is no longer a Liberal paper. It has openly advocated the defeat of Mr. Bentley, the unanimous choice of a Liberal convention. This it might fairly do if Mr. Bentley were an objectionable person, but it was so bold to find in him. It simply wants the Conservatives to be elected. On Tuesday, therefore, the Liberals will rally to the polls to elect a Liberal, who will be a good representative and a reminder to the government that pledges should not be broken.

THE GOVERNMENT

It is poor tactics on the part of Mr. Hazen and his colleagues to discuss the issues that were pronounced upon by the people of St. John county a year ago last March. Mr. Hazen has been in power since that time, and has had a fair opportunity to establish a record of his own. Abuse of Hon. Mr. Robinson, Mr. Copp and others is not an answer to charges made by them against this government. The electors are not favorably impressed by such methods of conducting a political campaign. The St. John county electors got better treatment from the old government than they have been getting from Mr. Hazen. The best illustration of this is found in the condition of the highways. It is in vain that Mr. Hazen and his friends try to put the blame upon the Liberals. Where Mr. Maxwell, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Hatheway, and Dr. McInerney? With regard to school books, it has not yet been shown that the total cost to the province is less than before, and the people must in one way or another pay that cost. The government has violated its pledges about having work done by tender; and has disregarded its own audit act in the matter of the Kentucky horses. Of what benefit are those horses to St. John county farmers? When we consider the question of expenditure, this government is spending more than its predecessor, and has increased the salaries of two of its members instead of reducing their number. On the record the government should be condemned, for its agricultural policy has borne no tangible fruit except expense and a job for Mr. W. W. Hubbard. Mr. Hazen was profuse in promises, but has failed to carry them out. He will be much more likely to give heed

THE HIGHWAYS

The condition of the highways in St. John county, and the manner in which the county was treated by the government when it was not expected that there would be any reason for an early appeal to the people is enough to condemn that government and its candidate in this campaign. Mr. Lowell sought to have justice done to the county, but he was disregarded. The election of Mr. Bentley will do more than anything else could do to inspire the government with respect for the rights of the people. To elect Mr. Moshier would be equivalent to saying to Mr. Hazen that the people do not resent his disregard of their interests. The thing to do is to defeat the Conservative candidate and in that way give notice to Mr. Hazen that he cannot play fast and loose with the interests of the people who use the highways. He knows that the people have not been fairly treated, and that they are dissatisfied, and hence a desperate effort has been made to have a little money spent on the roads. Even this was not thought of until Mr. Moshier discovered how unpopular the road act was, and appealed to the government to do something in his behalf. From other parts of the province comes news of great dissatisfaction with the operation of the highway act. Mr. Hazen is pledged to give the people a satisfactory highway measure, and has failed to keep the pledge. The act passed by the legislature is not fair to all the people. It operates for the benefit of Conservative partisans, and will not give value for the money expended. For its adoption the government deserves to be condemned by the electors of St. John county.

It is a fine thing, no doubt, to have "lots of money" and a disposition to spend it, as stated by Hon. Mr. McLeod at Milford, but two observations seem to be pertinent. The first is that the late government got the increased federal subsidy. The second is that the people would like to get value for the money spent. Mr. McLeod said both too little and too much. The people do not want him to spend their money, and the government of which he is a member is not to be credited with getting it.

Hon. Mr. Robinson has done the opposition party good service in this campaign. He has met the statements of the government speakers fairly and candidly, and has wasted them in the argument. Mr. Copp and Mr. Tweeddale have also been sufficiently effective to bring down upon them the abuse of their hard-hit opponents, who are strong in numbers and loud of voice, but weak in argument.

The Canadians are pretty nearly sweeping the boards at Baley. They are doing it with the Ross rifle. Now what do the Conservative orators think of that announcement? The Ross rifle has been denounced in all the moods and tenors by opponents of the government, and now it is winning laurels as an effective arm.

There is only one more working day before polling day. The Liberals should make it count in the cause of better government and the defeat of the Conservative candidate.

Mr. W. B. Jonah writes letters to the Standard, attacking Hon. C. W. Robinson. Mr. Jonah is well known as one of the most violent of Conservative partisans, in Albert and Kings counties.

The Standard heard the "ring of victory" again last night, but it was really only the echo of the voice of Mr. Powell. There's a difference.

Mr. Robinson last evening made a further exposure of the Albert county group of Conservatives who have been bringing discredit on their party.

TRADE IS IMPROVING (Toronto News.) That trade conditions are buoyant and rapidly recovering from the depression that was universal last year, is abundantly evident from interviews with leading manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and other business men of the city. The testimony of nearly every one is that the improvement has been steadily marked since the first of the year, and that in a very short time the returns will equal those of the banner year of 1907.

A COLLECTING BOTTLE In Darwin's youth, it is said, when entomology attracted him most, he was searching in an old tree-trunk for a somewhat rare beetle. He found one, and just as he grasped it a second of the same species appeared. Both the naturalist's hands were occupied, but he could not let slip the chance of so good a capture. So he put the first beetle in his mouth and triumphantly seized the other.

LITTLE RIVER RALLY WAS MOST ENTHUSIASTIC ONE

Mr. Bentley's Popularity Shown in the Hearty Reception Given to Him—Robinson, Sweeney, Copp, Paisley, Donovan and the Candidate Making a Telling Arraignment of Conservative Rule in This Province

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions in which they reviewed the interests of A. F. Bentley, the Liberal candidate, last evening was largely attended and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed.

Besides Mr. Bentley, who delivered a convincing address, the speakers were Hon. C. W. Robinson, leader of the opposition, Hon. Frank J. Sweeney, M. P., P. A. B. Copp, M. P., P. A., and H. F. S. Paisley.

Mr. Robinson, replying to Mr. Hazen's challenge, devoted considerable attention to Albert county affairs and exposed the false statements being published in the Standard in an attempt to deceive the electors.

The other speakers gave stirring addresses in which they reviewed the course of the campaign. The audience followed every point with the closest attention, the remarks of the speakers being frequently interrupted by cheers and hearty applause.

In the parish of Simonds there can be no question as to the popularity of the Liberal candidate. From all sides reports are coming in that he will be returned by a handsome majority.

Joseph Lee was elected chairman. He referred to statements made that the Hazen highway act was an exact copy of the St. John highway act and also that it was the best act in existence.

"At the time the St. John act was being considered by the council," said Mr. Lee, "I moved for its enactment, and subsequently took part in the meetings of the bills and by-law committee which drew it up. I don't wish to take all the credit to myself, but I suggested many of the provisions which were adopted. So I naturally felt much gratified when I saw that the Hazen government had copied it."

"But on reading the new act over I failed to recognize it. (Laughter.) There are a number of bad features incorporated in it. If they had wanted a good law they should have taken the St. John act word for word and tinkered with it. (Cheers.) Mr. Lee then introduced Mr. Bentley.

election and ridiculed the post mortem politics in which the speakers indulged. He went on to speak of the experience of Liberals in Westmorland and Albert counties under "Hazen, the Headman," and enumerate the job which had been done for the party heeler.

Taking up the school book question he showed that the Liberal majority to support Mr. Lowell at Fredericton.

After a few remarks from Councillor Donovan, the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman and the speakers and hearty cheers for the King and the candidate.

At Beausfield One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held in the Beausfield hall was held last night in the interests of A. F. Bentley, the Liberal candidate. The enthusiasm was marked and suggested well for a handsome majority for Mr. Bentley next Tuesday.

William McKee was chairman and addressed the meeting. The other speakers were James Russell and E. J. Murphy. The gathering broke up with ringing cheers for the King, Hon. C. W. Robinson, and the candidate.

At Greer Settlement There was a rousing Liberal meeting last night at Greer Settlement. The chair was taken at 7.30 by J. C. Boyer.

Excellent addresses were delivered by J. F. Tweeddale, M. P., P. A., and E. H. McAlpine. The meeting was held in the public hall which was packed to the doors. Every mention of the name of the Liberal candidate, A. F. Bentley, was greeted with cheering applause.

A Pleasant Smoker An enthusiastic smoker was held last evening at the residence of George Maxwell, Lancaster. About sixty Liberals were present. Speeches were delivered by Mr. Maxwell and others and the outlook was said to be most encouraging.

Hon. F. J. Sweeney. That with the increased expenses under the new system there was no real economy. There are a number of bad features incorporated in it. If they had wanted a good law they should have taken the St. John act word for word and tinkered with it.

Mr. Bentley was most heartily received. It spoke well, he said, for the interest taken in the contest that so large an audience should assemble on such a wet night. He had gone into the fight unprepared and had endeavored to make himself acquainted with the people in the short time at his disposal.

After the history of the highway act legislation the speaker turned to discuss the crown land department, and showed up the inconsistency of the Hazen election promises and post-election performance. He contrasted, in stirring language, the progressive land policy of the Liberal government with the Hazen reduction in the size of the log on the eve of the Northumberland election.

Mr. Sweeney concluded an eloquent address by urging the electors to act as men and in their own interests and vote for Mr. Bentley.

Hon. Mr. Robinson was cheered, again and again. He said that Mr. Jones, a member of the county of St. John, if elected he would do his best to give them no cause for regret.

Mr. Stewart, a staunch Liberal being dragged through the courts of Albert county, and Mr. Stewart said that he was accused by the deputy sheriff of interfering with the warning of the jury. In a message to the Standard this morning, Mr. Stewart said that he never said it.

There was loud applause as Mr. Robinson the best reading of the telegram. "I was discussing Stewart case with W. B. Jones. He told me he saw the jury list."

"Mr. Hazen," the speaker continued, "cannot shirk the responsibility for what has been going on in Albert county. He brought Mr. Dickson into this contest and I regret that I have had to refer to the fact that Mr. Mackay, in an affidavit, has charged Mr. Dickson with forgery. It is almost time Mr. Hazen stopped these methods. Mr. Mackay states in his affidavit that the said Walter B. Dickson has obtained large sums of money from me by forging contracts for the delivery of lumber and acknowledgments of different parties that they hold the same for my account."

Brother told brother One suffered for fifteen years, the other for thirteen. The convincing powers of a testimonial were never more clearly shown than in the case of Mr. Hugh Brown. A brother, Lemuel Brown, of Avondale, N. B., read in the paper about Hon. John Costigan being cured by "Fruit-a-lives."

Paris Crew's Famous Shell to Stay Here The old irragged four oared shell known as "The St. John," the boat rowed by the world famous Paris crew, with the sole survivor and bow oar, Elijah Ross seated in his place, will likely be the novel sight for those about the water front this morning.

There is no truth in the report that McConell is to come back to New York, says the New York Globe. The big pitcher, who was claimed by Boston, will be given back by that club to Jersey City in a day or two, and there he will stay. This is part of an arrangement whereby Manager Stallings gets an option on any player on the Jersey City team—an option which he likely to put into play almost any time.

Vegetables are to be an important feature in the diet of the Irish-American Athletic Club athletes, of New York, under the system which is being arranged by Lawson Robertson, the new trainer, who recently took up his duties at Celtic Park. The new menu is more particularly designed to meet the requirements of the distance runners, for Trainer Robertson is a firm believer in the system of diet adopted by E. R. Vogel, fire-walker, who is a vegetarian. Robertson claims that vegetables give more endurance than meats and in hot weather are better for the general health. The club will compete in the A.A.U. games at Seattle.

"Personally I figure on no one else but Walker, Cartmell and myself in the two races. Walker has not done any furlong running to give me an idea of his ability at this distance, but from what I have seen of him in practice, I know he will not be far away when the tape is broken. Walker has not been working so hard this week; yesterday he practiced only up to the 50-yard mark. I spoke to him again about his American plans, but got very little information. I mentioned the fact that he had received an invitation to compete in Ottawa, Canada, on Labor Day, Sept. 6, but he thought it would be impossible to be there. He has done all his training on Stamford Bridge grounds, under the careful eye of his trainer, Sam Widdon. This is the same trainer that looked after Harry Huddell, the greatest sprinter the world ever had."

MARATHONS WON THE FIRST GAME

Defeated the Tartars Yesterday Afternoon by a Score of 9 to 2—Fredericton Players Go in the Air.

The Marathons had little difficulty in defeating the Tartars on the Victoria grounds yesterday afternoon. In the first part of the game good ball was played and the game was pretty close. At the end of the seventh inning the score stood 5 to 2 in the Tartars' favor. The Fredericton boys were able to get one more run in the eighth, but immediately afterwards, on taking the field, they entered into a series of balloon ascensions which meant five runs for the Marathons, and the game ended 9 to 2 in their favor. MR. MOSHER HAS MANY TIMES KNOWN DEFEAT

Says the Standard, "Mr. Bentley, the Opposition candidate, is not running his first election. He was a candidate for the county council in 1907. Mr. Bentley was not elected."

It may be added that Mr. Mosher, the Conservative candidate, to use the Standard's phraseology, "is not running his first election." Far from it. He is not unacquainted with defeat. He has run for councillor seven times and has been defeated five times out of the seven. One time he was at the small end of the poll with the magnificent total of 45 votes.

He ran an election for the legislature at Fredericton and was there also defeated. When he finds himself beaten on next Tuesday he need experience no new feelings.

ST. PETERSBURG, THE CAPITAL OF THE RUSSIAN EMPIRE
By Felix Austrian

Entrance to the Hermitage

The traveler to whom St. Petersburg is unknown, imagines the city as ancient, picturesque and irregular. But it is laid out as regularly as many American cities. It is an ancient city dressed in a new guise. It is situated along the Neva, with many modern buildings and parks on the one side, churches and old buildings on the other.

The location of the city is not attractive; it is built on several islands in the delta. The ground is so low in many places that the buildings have to be raised on piles. This morass was changed into a splendid city by Peter the Great, who was insistent that he was going to train himself and his people to a fondness for the sea. As a child he had been frightened by the sudden rushing of a cascade, and for years he could not get water without trembling and fear. When he was grown, he said, "I shall build St. Petersburg here without bridges, that our people may be constantly on the waters of the Neva, crossing and recrossing." Since this time the city has grown and expanded, greatly and bridges are a necessity. The St. Nicholas is a large massive stone structure built on huge granite piers. Three other bridges are large floating structures which span the river in the summer, but are removed as soon as the river is frozen. On one side of the river are many pleasant summer homes and cottages surrounded by beautiful flowering gardens. On the other side are the barracks and the poorer part of the city.

Most of the public buildings are placed in a public square, so they are seen with little difficulty. At one end is the large senate and synod; before it stands the colossal equestrian statue of Peter the Great. To the south of the Admiralty, the most important part of the city is seen, the Bolshoi Storm or Greater Side. Towards the west lies the Eastern Island with the large splendid exchange, the important Academy of Sciences and the university.

The city is divided into four large divisions, separated by the Great and Little Neva and by the Great Neffa. The Great side includes the court, the nobility and nearly half the population. Here many of the best streets and some of the handsomest residences are seen. The streets are broad and well paved. Here are spacious and well-built houses, while beyond are a succession of magnificent palaces. This need not sound strange, as there are no European cities having so many palaces and palaces. Even the dwelling of the poor have a showy magnificence about them. Everything is built on a gigantic scale. It is not unusual to find a house occupied by 200 families, but they are not built high, two stories being the average height. Building a home in this city is usually an expensive affair. The driving of the stakes alone often costs hundreds of dollars.

But the palaces of the princes and nobility are usually as beautiful as the other houses are plain and unattractive. Here are found richly hand-carved furniture, splendid jade and malachite vases. There is so much of everything that it is really overpowering. The royal palaces are large and furnished with great cost. The Amnitsch palace is inhabited more by the present imperial family than the Tauride palace. The former stands on the great "P" point, the neighborhood of the Fontanka, and closes the brilliant range of palaces in the street. It was originally built by Elizabeth. Some years ago it was bought as one of the Emperor's abodes. It is handsomely built, though it has no historic significance.

A part of the court are usually here in the residence, and it is here that the Emperor holds many of his most important councils. Those who saw the Winter Palace before the fire recall the mass of wealth devoted by the conflagration. In six rooms, and the spectacle is enhanced by the magnificence of the decorations. Besides the handsome residences, there are many large shops and cafes offering recreation to the crowds promending up and down.

St. Petersburg has a number of large summer gardens, which are an adornment to the city and offer a pleasant rest to thousands in warm weather. The summer garden is the largest and most attractive of these. Everywhere are the large, white-shaded benches, thronged with matrons, while the children play in the sand and catch their balls. On one side of the Summer Garden is the Zaritskii Lag, or Field of Mars.

There are a number of buildings in St. Petersburg that are worth noticing. Of these the Exchange is certainly the most prominent. It stands on the farthest point of Vassili Ostrov, with a large open space before it, and it is reared on an elevated foundation. The granite quays on either side give solidity, while a long flight of granite steps leads down to the river. The space before the building is decorated with two immense columns, supporting the bridge of ships cast in metal and erected to the memory of Peter. The building is of immense proportion trips up the gulf. On a summer's evening he one sits on the balcony of the English club or strolls up the quay, listening to the band in the garden of the Summer Palace the swift moving passengers in their gayly trimmed barbs make a pretty sight against the splendid buildings and gilded spires of the churches.

Not all the beauty of St. Petersburg lies in this one island. The city is in a delta and is surrounded by a whole chain of islands. The wildest and least inhabited is Neva, visited principally by seals and wolves. Then there are the Volney Islands, the Trukhtomil Islands and some others. These are swamy and overgrown with birch and scarcely known by name to many Russians. They contain magazines and are used for powder and other stores. The most interesting of these are the Garden Islands, which at one time were covered with scrub, but Alexander and Nicholas saw in them possibilities for raising flowers, and they have gradually been transformed into splendid islands. Velain belongs almost exclusively to the court; it is occupied by a chateau and beautiful gardens. The court lives here in the spring and early summer, when the houses are certainly most looking. The most interesting feature is that they are built on the bank of the river and in different styles of architecture: one Gothic, one second Italian and a third Chinese. The cottages are wonderfully supplied with cut and exotic plants and the peasants' cottages are filled with splendid window boxes.

The Russian capital is most attractive on a pleasant summer evening. The scene presented by the Exchange, the university buildings, the Academy of Arts, the Corps de Cadets and the Academy of Sciences, surrounded as they are with well-kept greenward and splendid flower beds, present an inviting appearance. The river is lined with sailing craft of nearly every description, devoted to pleasure. It has several fine steam yachts which are used by the members of the club for making

A MODERN NOTION OF MATRIMONY

Should a Woman Sacrifice All Her Ambitions and Aspirations Upon Becoming a Wife

"Isn't she a married woman?" asked the man pricking up his ears. "Certainly she is married, and most happily married," answered the woman. "Then I want to know why she is galivanting off to Europe to draw pictures?" "Because it's a good opening for her," coolly answered the woman. "Why should she not go when she has the chance?" "To her husband going?" "No," said the woman. "They're not rich, you know. This is a business trip for her. It will mean big things for her art."

"No man says that," said the woman, "but it is what he means, as he proves by his horrid indignation when he hears of a woman doing anything else. Now, if you will pardon me, that attitude seems to me as far as possible from love. It is a selfish desire for personal gratification and comfort. It is not a desire for the highest good, the highest happiness of the loved one—which is what love ought to be."

"It is with intense satisfaction that I am able to relate how I was snatched by Dr. Hamilton's Pills from my bed of sickness, writes H. H. Sargent, a well known hardware traveler residing at Charlottetown. So many changes of diet brought on a fit of indigestion and liver complaint, but my very busy, I didn't give the matter much attention. Headaches, awful dizzy spells, and constant tiredness soon made it impossible for me to attend properly to business. My appetite faded away. I became thin and looked yellow and jaundiced. I used three different prescriptions which physicians said would tone up my liver and regulate my bowels—but I got no relief at all till I started to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. After taking them for a few days I was surprised at the energy and force I obtained; the old feeling of tiredness and lack of desire to work disappeared and instead came vigor, energy, ambition, good color and sound digestion. I take Dr. Hamilton's Pills three times a week and ever since have enjoyed the best of health."

"What's the use of feeling so languid, so stupid and dull when Dr. Hamilton's Pills will give you such robust, joyous health. For all disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, no medicine compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers of the Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont."

"Not always," the woman shook her head. "Never, if she is a strongly individual woman. When the average man proposes marriage he means something very much like this: 'Because I love you I wish you to put aside all your aims and ambitions except those pertaining to my personal comfort, I wish you to deliberately waste the talent nature has given you, and which you cultivated at great cost and time. If

"I don't love you I should be glad to see you go ahead to achieve things. But since I do, you must sacrifice your own nature, come by my housekeeper and handmaid, and be happy in the knowledge that you are making me sleek, fat, prosperous—and selfish."

"The common conception of marriage is that two people who love each other ought to stand in the way of each other's highest development. The right conception—and the ideal that will prevail some day—is that they ought rather to joy in promoting each other's welfare, even at the cost of a little self-sacrifice. Such happy unions as those of the singer Emma Bones, and her husband the artist, Julian Story, are types of the ideal marriages we shall have one of these days, when women are so individual and men as unselfish as they ought to be."

"And I for one," finished the woman, with a convincing nod, "am overjoyed to see Emily and her fair-minded husband helping along that day. Of course I don't expect you to agree with me."

"And of course he didn't."

GAS DISTENDED HIS STOMACH

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep—When Health was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline"

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would wake with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been a ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?" For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

ANNAPOLIS M. P. TALKS OF CROPS

S. W. W. Pickup, M. P. for Annapolis (N. S.), arrived in the city yesterday and is at the Dufferin. He came in from Ottawa, where he had been on private business.

To a Telegraph reporter the member for Annapolis said that he looked for a good fruit crop in the valley this season. The present outlook, too, was for good prices. With the exception of hay, crops in general would be good. Mr. Pickup says that they are having already in Ontario and Quebec, with splendid crops. Referring to matters political, he remarked on the vigor of the St. John county by-election and at the great effort being made by the Conservatives to win the seat.

Hon. Mr. Robinson's Statements Solidly Backed Up in Telegrams Received Yesterday from Representative Moncton Men.

"I charge Mr. Hazen with using the office of attorney general for party purposes. I am informed by the deputy sheriff that Mr. Jonah came to him and tried to interfere with the warning of the jury in this case. You are paying the bills for this travesty of justice. Do you think the man who abets it should be allowed to remain premier? (Cheers.)

"There is again the case of Mr. Hazen's friend, W. B. Dickson, one of the representatives of Albert county. There is an affidavit filed by W. Malcolm Mackay charging him with forgery. He is charged with forging the names of different people and practically with having stolen thousands of dollars of Mr. Mackay's money. I think Mr. Hazen will have enough to do to look after Peck and his friend Dickson." (Loud cheers.)—Hon. C. W. Robinson's Speech at Milford.

The Standard of yesterday published denials from Deputy Sheriff Garland that he had been interfered with by Mr. Jonah in summoning the jury in the Stewart case.

James T. Ryan, ex-mayor of Moncton, sends the following telegram from Moncton:

"I see by the St. John Standard, that John Garland, deputy Sheriff of Albert, says Mr. Jonah never asked him to warn the jury in Stewart case. Mr. Garland was discussing the Stewart case in my store with me and told me that Mr. Jonah came to him and told him he was expected to warn the jury in the Stewart case and to be sure he had the right men.

S. S. Ryan of Moncton, Ex-M. P. P., adds to this testimony the following:

"I was discussing Stewart case with W. B. Jonah. He told me he saw the jury list."

NO GOVERNMENT MONEY FOR YORK COUNTY ROADS

All the Cash Has Been Spent for Bridges, and Highway Boards Can Get Nothing

Federicton, N. B., July 16.—So far as can be learned not a single parish in York county has received a dollar from the Hazen government this season for expenditure on the roads. The excuse given is that the money has all been expended on bridges.

In one parish, where a road machine was badly needed, the chairman of the highway board wrote a member of the legislature requesting him to use his influence in obtaining one. After considerable delay he was informed that it was too late this year to procure one from the factory and he was told to have the necessary work done by statute labor.

The chairman came to this city and purchased a machine on his own responsibility from an agricultural implement firm and had it delivered the following day. The new highway act has increased the axes in York county, but that is about all it has accomplished so far.

SUSSEX LADS ARE HELD FOR THEFT

Three Boys Plead Guilty to Stealing From I. C. R. Cars

Sussex, N. B., July 16.—Abraham Andrews, Jr., Harry McArthur and Lawrence Lynch, aged six, nine and twelve years respectively, were this afternoon arraigned before Magistrate Hornbrook charged with stealing from the I. C. R. cars. The youngsters pleaded guilty and were sent up for trial at the next sitting of the Supreme Court. Arthur Jones of the I. C. R. detective agency, Moncton, prosecuted.

A few days ago the young lads broke the scales on two I. C. R. box cars and took from one a twin cheese which they hid away in a pile of sawdust, in other car they were in search of bananas, but found none.

The I. C. R. detectives have been keeping an eye on railway property about here and further arrests may be looked for. Those in the habit of looting about the station, freight sheds and box cars will certainly meet trouble.

Upwards of thirty boxes of cigars were also found under the freight shed platform, but the thief in this case has not yet been located.

ELECTION AND COUNTY COUNCIL ON SAME DAY

The finance committee of the county council met yesterday afternoon and passed a number of bills. The meeting of the council is to be held on Tuesday next, but under the law there is a provision that in the absence of a quorum the council can adjourn from day to day.

When the annual election day comes, the council will adjourn till the following day.

The annual inspection of the 62nd Fusiliers will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Barrack square. On account of the fact that General Drury will be unable to be in the city the inspecting officer will be Lieut.-Colonel G. Rolt White, D. O. C.

RECOLLECTIONS OF CANADA IN 1858

(Toronto World)

In his "Rambling Recollections" Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, long prominent in British public life, narrates a notable incident respecting the early days of Canadian nationalism and the dawn of that principle of local autonomy which is now generally accepted as the keystone of the imperial fabric. Three Canadian statesmen, he says, came to England in 1854 to study certain points—Mr. Cartier, Mr. Ross and Mr. Galt. They were invited to the visit, Sir Henry Drummond Wolff says, by Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton, then secretary of state for the colonies, who made the most interesting speeches, "in which they laid claim to being the advisers of the British Crown for colonial (Canadian) affairs. The rapid progress made by that country, adds Sir Henry, may be said to have begun with a visit of these Canadian statesmen."

This claim, made more than half a century ago, was the germ out of which has sprung the twentieth century conception of the British Empire. Writing long after the visit, Sir Henry Drummond Wolff does not set down how that claim was received, but the fact that it remained indelibly impressed upon his memory may be taken as significant of its novel character. Sir Henry Lytton, later Lord Lytton, prominent in literature as well as statesmanship, in the same year delivered a speech on the embarkment of an expedition of Royal Engineers organized to assist in opening up British Columbia. His speech, previously unpublished, is a remarkable example of stimulating excellence, and Sir Henry's mind was the best he ever delivered.

The colonial secretary told the soldiers they were going to a distant country, not, I trust, to fight against men, but to conquer nature; not to besiege cities, but to create them; not to overthrow kingdoms, but to assist in establishing new communities under the sceptre of the Queen. He went on to hope that the national flag would wave in peaceful triumph on many a royal birthday, from walls and church towers which they had assisted to raise from the wilderness, and would leave to note generations as the bloodless trophies of their renown. He appealed to them, not as common soldiers, but as pioneers of civilization, and closed with this prayer: Farewell! Heaven speed and prosper you! The enterprise before you is indeed glorious. Ages hence, industry and commerce will crowd the roads that you will have made; travelers from all nations will halt on the bridges you will have first flung over the solitary rivers, and gaze on gardens and corn fields that you will have first carved from the wilderness. Christian races will dwell in the cities of which you will map the sites and lay the foundations. Take Hood's Swanspartan along with you. It refreshes the blood, improves the appetite, makes sleep easy and restful.

FIFTY AGAINST TWO. It is not reasonable to expect two weeks of outing to overcome the effects of fifty weeks of confinement. Take Hood's Swanspartan along with you. It refreshes the blood, improves the appetite, makes sleep easy and restful. Long after forgiving an injury a woman keeps trying to forget that she has forgiven it.

SONG OF LAKE CHAMPLAIN

Poem by Clinton Scollard for the Tercentenary of Lake Champlain, Read at Fort Henry, N. Y., July 5, 1909.

Midsummer—and the world a full-blown flower. This wide new world as virgin as its soil; A wilderness seemed it the unfolding leaf As did the blossoms upon Aaron's rod!

That distant hour when first his falcon eyes Gazed on this far-out-rolling inland main— A fearless Jew under Jewish skies— The knightly-hearted valiant de Champlain!

No man of pomp, no silken courtier he, No selfish grayer after Glory's star, But one who wore his uniform the fleur-de-lis— Like his brave patron, Henry of Navarre!

Sped from Biscayan sales flag up the brain, His look was level as a couched lance. A gallant soul, the beloved king, That gave fair lustre to the fame of France.

Roland and Bayard—he was kin to these; Swerved no more than magnet from iron pole. As for his sailed upon the uncharted sea With dreams of high adventure in his soul.

What fees he faced, what dangers dread he dared— Patience in peace, in war unwavering! Unmoved he toiled, unrumored he sailed, His saintly Louis, the beloved king.

Since then the Great Recorder of the Days Thousands has scrolled upon his golden loom. Yet still a sheet of shimmering chrysopean The great lake speaks for whomso'er sail his loom.

Behold the peaks that panoply the west! Still burns the sunset like a mighty forge; Still, with its voice of wandering minstrel, The swift Ausable rushes through its gorge.

Slope capping slope the awakening east! Vermont's broad ranges show their aim; And still, their meadows opulent with song, And glad with grain, the Heroic Isle lies.

Across the waste, as it breaks or broods, In twilight purple, or in dawning gold, Mansfield and White Face signal as of old.

For howe'er man's genius fares or drapes, Or cloaves or curbs by frowning height or shore, Nature's sequestered elemental shapes Preserve their primal grandeur evermore!

Grandeur and beauty—here the twin combine! Let the grave Muse of History breathe her tale! Clothing the landscape with a varied veil; And while before our eyes their splendors shine.

Let us be mindful of the debt we owe! A spreading labor coursed along their veins; They quailed not faltered whatsoever the foe! Beyond the portal of what unseen things May not tomorrow's new explorers find!

CAPT. CREAMOR, WHO HAS BEEN HAZEN MAN, STRONG FOR BENTLEY

The Liberal candidate's vote on Tuesday night will be increased by the ballots of many who helped put the Hazen government in power but who are in revolt because of the unsatisfactory and incompetent administration of affairs under Conservative rule in the province.

A striking instance is the case of Capt. James J. Creamor of St. Martins parish, who has been a supporter of the Hazen government, but is now strongly aiding Mr. Bentley, is taking an active part in the Liberal campaign, and is chairman of one of the districts of Mr. Bentley's interests and doing excellent work.

His change is a protest against Conservative mismanagement and incompetence.

TO THE POLE BY AIRSHIP

Wellman of the Wheel

Some fine day in August, if present plans do not miscarry, Walter Wellman, one of the most persistent of American Arctic explorers, will set out for the North Pole in an airship. This is by no means his first attempt to reach the apex of our planet. In 1884 and again in 1888 he invaded the frozen North, and, where, he did not get within sight of the Pole, he did discover new lands and otherwise contribute to the world's knowledge of this region. Both of these exploring expeditions were, however, conducted on the regulation plan—that is, by means of stanch vessels that could defy the ice and supplemented by the dog teams which are well nigh indispensable to explorations in the Arctic.

Wellman was not very strongly impressed by the project of the ill-fated Andree for reaching the Pole in an ordinary balloon of the spherical type, which must obviously be at the mercy of the winds, but from the time that the dirigible or steerable balloon first proved its practicality for long flights, he was imbued with an ambition to trek northward via the aerial route—the one untried pathway to the Pole, and the one which it seemed might be free from the obstacles which have rendered baffling the other highways during all these years of polar campaigning. It was in the year 1903 that Wellman first formulated definitely in his mind his daring scheme for cruising to and at a point as near to the Pole as it was practicable to establish a permanent human habitation. At first it was hoped that flight for the Pole could be arranged that summer, but it was soon seen that everything was so new and untried that the entire "open season" of two and a half months must be given over to preparations and the in-

One of the Eleven Foot Screws

With a working base provided, the Arctic aeronaut and his aids went northward the following year, the summer of 1907, filled with hope that they could make their impetuously awaited dash for the Pole. However, unkindly fate vetoed the project by providing weather conditions which no aerial craft could combat. This was particularly discouraging because Wellman knew that business engagements would keep him in the United States during the summer of 1908 and the weather handicap of 1907 meant that the project must be put off until 1909. However, a brief respite in the gales of 1907 did permit Wellman to make a 30-mile voyage in his airship that clinched his faith in the flyer and has made him all the more confident and has made him all the more confident of the outcome this year if he but has reasonable weather conditions—something more auspicious than the terrific summer of 1907.

In speaking of his unique project, just before setting out for the North, Mr. Wellman said: "The object of our proposed aerial cruise is not merely to reach the Pole, but also to gain knowledge of the unexplored region lying about it. If the America were simply to pass over this unknown area, the observations as to land or water masses, ice conditions, the weather characteristics of the region, etc., would, I think, be of immense value. We believe that our airship, with its ability to motor more than 2,000 miles on the supply of fuel we shall carry, has at least a fair chance to navigate from our headquarters directly to the Pole."

"The distance from our headquarters to the Pole is 715 statute miles. Once at the Pole we should be able to go with the most favorable wind toward any part of the land which surrounds the Arctic Sea. The greatest distance from the Pole to land is 1,600 miles, while the shortest dis-ance is 535 miles and the average distance is in the neighborhood of 700 miles. At the outset of our dash toward the Pole we can certainly count upon the assistance of a favorable wind because we will not set out from Camp Wellman until we have such favorable wind. However, even if the wind proves generally unfavorable after we leave the permanent balloon station the project is yet possible of accomplishment.

"In order that our effort may be crowned with success it is only necessary that the America shall carry us somewhere near the Pole, because we are going prepared to make the remainder of the journey to the Pole and back again by sledging. The America can proceed with her engine power for 120 hours, traveling continuously at a speed of 10 miles per hour. The average wind of the Polar Ocean in July and August is 10 miles per hour. If we are so unfortunate as to have a wind of average force blowing directly contrary to our course throughout the entire time of the voyage, we could still make headway at the rate of eight miles per hour, which would allow in the 120 hours' travel permitted by our fuel supply a distance covered of about 960 miles. Now, as I have mentioned, it is only 715 miles from our base of supplies to the Pole.

"Granting these most unfavorable conditions we would find ourselves at the Pole with our fuel well nigh exhausted, but chine shops and other incidental structures are all in place, having been constructed during the past few years—grouped within a stone's throw of that rugged monument which marks the spot from which Andree set out on that tragic first attempt to reach the Pole by the aerial route. This balloon station and the airship itself were provided by the investment of the Chicago capitalists who backed Mr. Wellman's aerial project at the outset, but the whole installation was this year turned over to the explorer as a gift and his present gift is made with his own funds supplemented by the contributions of several men who are ambitious that an American shall beat explorers of all other nationalities to the Pole.

While, as has been explained, Wellman has headquarters ready to hand in the Arctic, the airship must be transported from Paris, where it has been since the last attempt at a Polar cruise, and a variety of other equipment must be assembled. For one thing, a complete new gas-making plant is to be installed to provide lifting power for the gigantic balloon. This new hydrogen plant involves the transportation to Danes Island of 110 tons of sulphuric acid and 70 tons of iron shavings. This paraphernalia, the airship, and finally, Mr. Wellman and the members of his party are being transferred from Tromsø, North Norway, to Danes Island, by the motor ship Arctic, which will have to make several of these ferry trips ere everything is assembled at the base of supplies. This motor ship Arctic which is playing so important a part in Mr. Wellman's present preparations is herself an object of no mean interest. She was launched only the past spring and is a three-masted schooner of 450 tons burden, built especially for ice navigation and of great sailing power. She is also fitted with a petroleum motor, which makes her independent of her sails if need be, this motor giving the vessel a speed of seven miles per hour without the use of sails. She carries a crew of 12 men. When the Arctic discharges her final cargo at Spitzbergen the denizens of the far North will see a very different airship from that which Wellman brought to this outpost of civilization several years ago. Melvin Vaniman, the chief engineer of the expedition, has occupied the interim in making many improvements in his craft. The most important of these is found in the installation of a second complete motive system, separate and distinct from the one originally installed. This extra engine power is insurance against accident, and will double the speed of the airship if both motors are operated at the same time, as they may be without interfering with one another.

The "America," which the adventurous Walter Wellman relies upon to land him at the Pole, is a dozen times as large as any of the dirigible balloons with which Americans are familiar through the exhibitions given in recent years at county fairs and military tournaments. It is not so large as the German giant of the air with which Count Zeppelin recently sailed 900 miles to the consternation of all Europe, and especially Great Britain, but it is twice as large as the French airships regarding which newspaper writers have heard much. Expressed in cold figures the America is 184 feet long and 52 feet in diameter at her greatest girth. She will lift nearly 10 tons. From the cigar-shaped gas bag of the America is suspended a steel car 110-feet in length.

This car will be pretty lightly loaded when the ship sails poleward. Here will be stationed Aeronaut Wellman and his party. Considerable space must be given over to the two motors of 88-horse-power each for driving the ship through the air and yet more space is taken up by the all-important supply of gasoline. Some 1,200 gallons of the gasoline is stored in a round steel tank, a foot and a half in diameter, which extends the entire length of the car, and thousands of pounds in addition are stored in every available nook and corner so that all told the America will carry upward of three tons of this precious fuel.

This is by no means all of the cargo of the pioneer airship. Fully as important as anything that has been mentioned are the 10 sledge dogs, sledges and fully equipped life boat—practical life preservers designed to enable the aeronauts to make their way homeward should their craft leave them shipwrecked on land, ice or water. Then there are provisions for 10 months in this crowded space, tools for making huts out of the heavy balloon fabric in the event of disaster to the airship, and finally, a formidable array of scientific instruments of all kinds for making and recording observations of all kinds.

No mention of the premier Arctic airship would be complete without reference to one feature the like of which has never been possessed by any other sky craft. This novelty, which could be used only over the ice fields where there are no houses, electric wires or other obstacles is known as the "equilibrator." This ponderous tail of the airship weighs 1,200 pounds. When not in use it is drawn up under the car, but when needed it can be let loose and dragging over the ice, serves as a powerful brake to prevent the airship from being swept out of her course by contrary winds. The odd thing about it is that this Yankee invention serves a double purpose, for the interior is stuffed with provisions for the use of the balloonists. The stuffed serpent is waterproof so no harm can come to the food even though the retarder be dragged through icy seas.

THE WEATHER.
Do not groan about the weather. It won't make much difference whether you are pleased with it or not. You can't stop it if it rains. And you know all your complaining will not make it cold or hot. Better take it as you find it. If it's bad, try not to mind it. Just enjoy it. If it's good, fair and foul days bring their measure. Equally of joy and pleasure. If you live them as you should. So, then, do not sit repining. Though the sun may not be shining. Make your smashes all the time. Banish all your melancholy. And you'll find your life so jolly. You'll be glad you read this rhyme.

JAPAN'S FORESTS.
Years ago Japan saw the need of preserving the forests, and at the present that country is supplying much timber to America, more especially to the various railroad companies, which have had difficulty in obtaining certain kinds of timbers needed in the construction of railway coaches.

The greatest blessing in the matter of natural productions that exists in China is the bamboo. To recite the different uses to which it is put would cover reams of paper. It is thought that over 60 varieties of bamboo exist, and it can be properly termed the national plant.

A Little Stop on the Riviera

One of the quaintest, therefore one of the most interesting, places on the Riviera, is the town of San Remo, or the San Remo, as there are two towns, the other the old town. It is of the latter that I shall speak, for the new town is by far too modern to please the tourist.

The inhabitants of the old town call it La Pigna—the Pinecone. Evidently this name was given to it on account of the manner of its building. The houses are huddled, stacked, jammed against each other upon the steep hillside, culminating at the top in a conical shape. The streets are very narrow, very steep, very dark, very dirty, very full of unpleasant odors.

Mabel's and Harry's Picnic

BY MAUD WALKER
Mabel and Harry were brother and sister. They lived in a large town near to which flowed a beautiful river whose broad, low-sloping banks were covered by soft green grass and shaded here and there by tall forest trees.

The boys fell to work with a will, and soon the hungry children were filling three hammocks and the swing having a jolly time swaying to and fro to the music of their happy songs.

It was a glorious July day on which Mabel and Harry decided to have a picnic in the grove, and while Mabel, assisted by her mother, prepared the picnic luncheon, Harry went among their young friends to invite them to help make up the party.

When the baskets were opened a great many dainty and toothsome things were set on the top of his curly hair which was spread on the ground to serve as a table.

At the grove the children gave themselves up to the enjoyment of the great out-of-doors. The soft green grass, the wild flowers which grew in such abundance, the great trees, the young trees—saplings so full of promise—the deep-running river, the bridge a quarter of a mile away, the open space where the sun came down so gloriously, in fact, everything that nature gave so freely was a source of joy to the happy little folk.

carefully guarded on Gracie's lap during the drive from town to the woods, and it was Gracie who kept the boys from getting their fingers in the pie, for each declared he wanted to "stick in his thumb and pull out a cherry" and it caused Gracie no small amount of careful watching to prevent the crusts of her pie from being broken into.

Just as the luncheon was drawing to that point where the undisturbed near-by. All eyes were turned in the direction of the noise and to the surprise and horror of each picnicer they beheld the head of a bull calf thrust through the bushes. His eyes were wild and he belloved menacingly.

After five minutes spent thus the bull decided to come to the front, and Mrs. Thomas got inside the wagon. Her only uneasiness now was on the two horses' account. They had been tethered some distance down the river—perhaps a quarter of a mile from the picnic grove—where there was plenty of fresh green grass for them to feed upon, and a spring bubbling across the meadow from which they might refresh themselves whenever thirst prompted them to do so.

When the Old Cat Dies

Beneath the old tree swaying,
In our idle summer day,
Bob and Nell and Potty
Love to linger and to play.
One swings while two keep counting,
Till one hundred has been said;
Then gradually the swing does stop,
When the "old cat is quite dead."
And then another takes the swing
And it lingers up once more,
And there 're two to keep the count
Just as was done before.
And each in turn swings many times
"Way up, way up, so high!"
And each in turn does linger long
To "let the old cat die."

there, and if so, to ask if some farmhand might come and move the bull a little farther from the picnic ground. Mrs. Thomas thought this a good idea, and Harry and George Gray hurried off to ward the farmhouse.

After five minutes spent thus the bull decided to come to the front, and Mrs. Thomas got inside the wagon. Her only uneasiness now was on the two horses' account.

Then the rest of the afternoon was spent in gathering wild flowers to carry to the sick children who did not come to the picnic, and when the time came for going home each declared he or she had enjoyed every minute of the time at the picnic.

When the children were allowed to come to earth and two of the boys offered to run to a farmhouse about a quarter of a mile from the grove, and ask if the animal belonged to the farmer living

Pink Eye's Unusual Experience

Pink-Eye was a dear little, bushy-tailed squirrel. Early in her life Pink-Eye had been left an orphan, for a wicked hunter had deprived her of a mother. After becoming an orphan Pink-Eye lived alone in the cozy house her fond mother had provided for her, namely, snug ravine in the body of a huge tree.

One lovely morning about 10 o'clock, while Pink-Eye was out looking for nuts, she fell into a "squirrel trap." It had been set by some very bad boys who wanted to catch squirrels to sell to the town people for pets. Poor Pink-Eye's soft little paws were caught in the trap and the spring which held it hurt her so terribly. When doors for it is the nature of all creatures to love the open, the freedom of fresh air and the soft ground and running stream. And, besides, Pink-Eye's mother had left such a small store of food in the house that her little daughter had soon eaten it all and was obliged to go to the ground to hunt for food.

change. The boy who was in set down on the ground and several pairs of eyes stared at her through the holes. They were the eyes of other human beings, some older than the boys who had caught her and some younger than they. But to poor Pink-Eye they were all the same size and age. She feared them all alike, each being her enemy for each seemed glad of her being in captivity.

And the little girl returned to the front yard, placed the cage on the front porch—with door open—and went into the house for her supper. And when the next day the squirrel's escape was discovered, not a word did the sympathetic, kind-hearted little maid say about the part she had taken in liberating the poor captive, for she knew that she was in the right and the others in the wrong. Therefore she kept silent.

SAID THE BIGGEST ONE.
Although he was mild in his speech and manner the old gentleman played golf well. But once when he made a fumble he started vehemently the word "Assouan." A few moments later, when he had made another bad play, he repeated "Assouan." The fourth time he said "Assouan," he certainly did not want to be inquisitive, but will you tell me why he said "Assouan," so often? "Well," said the old gentleman, "that's the biggest dam in the world! He was a clergyman."

MR. POWELL ON THE JOB

Did "One of the Best Campaign Speakers of His Time" Report His Own Speech.

The Standard's reports of political speeches made last evening are said to have been written by the speakers themselves. Mr. Powell may therefore be pictured as gliding into the Standard office at a late hour, shedding the rain from his garments, appropriating a desk, and writing these observations concerning Mr. Powell's speech at Little River:-

"Mr. Powell's Rattling Speech.

"Mr. Powell sustained his reputation as one of the best campaign speakers of his time. He presented the issues in a broad and effective way, and delighted the audience with sallies of wit."

This recalls a former sally of wit, with which Mr. Powell entertained the Conservative convention, when he fixed Dr. A. W. MacIver with a coldly gleaming eye and said:-

"MacIver, I may as well tell you now as any other time that you are a serpent-a serpent, sir."

To go back to the Standard office, it may be assumed that when Mr. Powell had written the report of the speech of "one of the best campaign speakers of his time," he casually said to the acting news editor, who may have been Mr. Hazen himself:-

"You might use my picture with this-I think it would look well."

TODAY'S GAME WILL BE FAST

Tartars and Marathons Should Put up Great Base Ball This Afternoon.

With the score against them yesterday afternoon the Frederick Tartars are determined to retrieve themselves this afternoon and a fast game may be expected. In spite of the size of the score against them the visitors played great ball yesterday. The score was even up to the fifth inning when Finamore's men took a highly spell. Both teams will make some changes this afternoon in their batteries. That the Tartars have a great team was the opinion of all sides. On the line up were several old familiar faces. This afternoon's game will start at three o'clock and will probably be witnessed by a large crowd. The teams will line up today as follows:

Marathons	Catcher

STANDARD NEWS MEN QUIT WORK

All is Not Harmony in the Office of the Conserv. & Org.

A unique situation developed in the Standard office yesterday afternoon when the entire news staff, headed by City Editor, who since the inception of the Standard has been occupying the position of city editor, quit work. Mr. Barbour's resignation had been expected for several days but the action of the other members of the staff came as something of a surprise. Last night the work was done by a volunteer staff assisted by J. Douglas Black of the Frederick Gleaser and a new staff had been partially engaged. Rupert E. Walker of the Daily Telegraph will become city editor of the Standard when Mr. Myrtle of the Sun will go in as news editor.

The cause of the trouble in the Standard office is said to be in the fact that the members of the news staff objected to the alleged criticism and interference of J. H. Crockett, the managing director. Mr. Crockett, the other hand, has said he had been dissatisfied with the work of the news staff for some time. At any rate the Standard office is apparently not a hot place.

POLICE COURT

Father Charged With Assaulting His Son—Other Cases

In the police court this morning Samuel Hector, an elderly colored man, pleaded guilty to assaulting Jesse Straghan, another negro, at the band concert on King square, Thursday night, and was remanded. Hector appointed the younger man as a tutor for his daughter's head and hand, and when he espied Straghan conversing with the young woman on King square he approached the couple and struck the young man under the eye.

Robert Garnett pleaded guilty to assaulting his son, and behaving otherwise disrespectably in his wife's home, Bruscels street. Patrolman Hughes testified that he was summoned to Mrs. Garnett's apartments to suppress a disturbance created by Garnett. However, Garnett could not be prevailed upon to desist. On his knees he uplifted his hands and heaped curses on his son and daughter and was evidently in the throes of delirium tremens. His wife gave him into the policeman's custody when all persuasion was fruitless. His wife was sworn and stated that her husband had directed profane epithets to the son, and crushing him in a corner attempted to strike the young man. The son corroborated her testimony. Mr. Garnett, after vouching that he had no defence to offer, was remanded until Monday. In the course of his remarks, his honor said that a two months term in jail would have been imposed if he had been sentenced this morning.

William Daley, a coachman, pleaded not guilty to trespassing beyond the cabmen's stand at the Eastern S. S. Company's pier on Thursday, and guilty to the same offence on Friday. Patrolman Linton stated that he ordered Daley from the floats and subsequently he perceived Daley accompanying two passengers on the floats. Fines were imposed for each offence.

Another vessel, the Mary A., Captain Chas. Carve, is reported missing. This schooner left two days before the schooner from Bonnet Bay, N. E., with a cargo of lumber for Rose Blanche.
