KAIRN ISLAND
MAY BE THE SITE

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—It is stated on good authority that Kairn Island, twenty-five miles south of Port Simpson, and facing Tuktoyaktuk Inlet, is to be the site of Laurier City, the western terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. Confirmation of the fact is found in the grant of 10,000 acres of land, exclusive of Indian reserves upon the island, just made by the provincial government to the company at the price of $1 per acre. It is understood upon the best authority that the grant is conditional upon the selected site being made the permanent western terminus of the transcontinental road, with divisional offices, shops, round houses, etc. A further stipulation is that the construction of the railway and works at the Pacific end shall be commenced prior to June 1st, 1906, and shall be completed within two years thereafter. A pitman, who had thoroughly enjoyed himself at the Durham regatta, took it into his head to have a turn on the river. Not being skilled in the management of a boat, he secured the services of a strong-looking youth, who professed he could row. When the boat had got fairly under weigh the lad put on a "spurt," overbalancing himself, and fell into the water. Scrambling into the boat again, George began to abuse the lad for his carelessness, when he excused himself by saying he had "caught a crab." "Aa divven't care what thoo's caught," George exclaimed. "Aa didn't engage thoo to fish."

13 BODIES FOUND; 50 STILL MISSING.

Awful Results of Building Wreck
In Albany.

Only Half the Debris Has Been Cleared—
Many More Under Ruins—Some Injured Have Died.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—This morning found 300 men still working on the wreckage of the John C. Myers Co. departmental store, where 24 hours ago occurred the sad catastrophe in the history of Albany. Eleven dead bodies, many maimed almost beyond recognition, have been taken out of the ruins thus far, and one woman, after being carried to the hospital, died. In addition to these it is almost certain that 15 or 20 bodies still remain in the twisted mass of beams, wires, plaster, brick and laths that was once the main portion of one of the city's largest stores, laden with thousands of dollars worth of goods. A day's work by skilled hands has resulted in removing barely half the debris.

Shortly after daybreak the searchers found the twelfth body. It was that of Miss Helen Malone, a young girl who shared the cashier's gallery in the main floor with Miss Bullen and Miss Sharp, and was crushed beneath the same iron girder with her companions. Victims of above list were carried out of the ruins between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock this morning.

The injured in the hospitals are doing well, with two exceptions. Miss Jonabo, who was one of the first survivors to be taken out of the wreck, has several of her vertebrae fractured, and it is said cannot live. Mrs. Wm. Borst, of Windom, Man., who was one of the shoppers injured, is also reported to be in a critical condition. It is not thought that any of those now imprisoned in the debris can be alive. Since midnight only disfigured corpses have been taken out. Fifty women employees are still unaccounted for, and as the firm has a complete list of these grave fears are expressed for their safety.

LATER.
ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—A thorough search carried on since early morning has revealed the unexpected fact that all the men and that all but one of the women employed in the department store of the John C. Myers Co., which collapsed yesterday are accounted for. These facts lead to the belief that the number of deaths will prove considerably less than was feared. The dead found thus far number 13, and there is hope that a complete list of a dozen bodies are still in the wreck. It is not thought possible that any of those still imprisoned can be alive.

CARLETON ELECTION TRIAL ADJOURNED TO SEPT. 8.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 8.—The proceedings in the election trial terminated for the present this morning, although the court adjourned until Friday, the 8th of September, when argument will be heard and judgment delivered.

John Hughes swore that he drove Charles Boyer to the court house, and that it was 25 minutes to twelve when he left town. Lewis Millmore was clerk of the court. He was sworn on the Bible in the barrister's room. Mr. Jones gave his version of the affair. Said his watch was two minutes after twelve when Simms caught the train, although the Bible from Davis he had no idea that Simms would have any difficulty in getting his papers in. He didn't know anything about the disappearance of the Bible. Mr. Simms, re-called, stated he had nothing to do with the disappearance of the Bible. He denied that he had said to the sheriff: "Take the money for my dear father's sake." This closed the evidence.

KING EDWARD REVIEWS FRENCH AND BRITISH FLEETS.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 9.—King Edward celebrated the anniversary of his coronation today by reviewing the combined French and British fleets, aggregating some 70 ships. As a spectacle the event was somewhat marred by gloomy and showery weather, but the enthusiasm of the crowds occupying every vantage point was undiminished. Masses of people thronged both shores, and there was a fleet of excursion boats filled to capacity. The review lasted one hour. Later the King proceeded to the battleship Massena, the French flagship, where he was the guest of Vice-Admiral Cailard at luncheon. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught accompanied his majesty. The French fleet then weighed anchor and entered Portsmouth harbor.

Mrs. Dunn found herself in a rather embarrassing situation one day when dining for the first time at the minister's house. Opposite her sat her host's little boy, a sharp-eyed little fellow of four years. While his father was asking a blessing, which was somewhat lengthy, the lady raised her eyelids slightly, and caught the eye of the little fellow opposite. The instant his father said "Amen" theurchin pointed an accusing finger toward Mrs. Dunn, and cried out shrilly. "She peeked, dad! she peeked!"

PEACE CONFERENCE BEGAN TODAY AT PORTSMOUTH.

Great Interest in Opening Proceedings—Japs Won't Agree to Armistice Till Success of Negotiations Is Assured.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 9.—The day which was to bring the initial meeting of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries at the navy yard here began delightfully as far as the weather was concerned. The sun rose in a clear sky and although there was a prospect of the usual heat in August there was promise of relief in the cool breezes coming.

The members of both the Russian and the Japanese missions were ready about the hotel and with the exception of M. Witte and Baron Rosen, breakfasted in the main dining room. As several of the Russians were coming out of the dining room this morning they met two of the Japanese entering.

BARON KOMURA, Japanese minister of foreign affairs and the chief of the delegation of plenipotentiaries sent by the Mikado's government to meet the Russian envoys in this country in an effort to arrange peace terms.

They exchanged profound salutations but did not shake hands. It was arranged that the plenipotentiaries should make the trip by the navy yard in the two large automobiles which had been sent for their use, instead of by launch which is expected to be the usual method. They will be accompanied by several secret service men.

Upon their arrival at the yard a marine guard will meet them at the gate and escort them to the navy general store. Several men will stand on guard outside the gate to prevent the time the envoys are inside.

There were many people waiting on the veranda of the hotel to witness the meeting of the envoys for navy yard, a number having taken places before the breakfast hour. With the approach of the hour of meeting the feeling became more pronounced than before that an armistice would not be agreed upon until the success of the negotiations was assured. The known opposition of Japan to this formality and the hearty support which London is understood to have given to the British position operated to minimize the wish of the Russians for a signed treaty. ### LOCH LOMOND WORK WILL BE DONE, SAY CONTRACTORS---EXTRAS WANTED.

This afternoon's session of the water and sewerage board will probably be a lively one. The board this year consists of the whole council and there will also be present representatives of the firms of McArthur & McVey and B. Mooney & Sons, who will state the condition in which the work is at present and the progress and difficulties which they have encountered. Engineer Barbour, as has been stated, is not satisfied with the progress of the work and expressed a fear that it might not be completed by the time specified in November, and said that it might be better for the city to take over the work unless the contractors will at once procure more men and machinery. A number of aldermen were seen this morning but thought that it was very improbable that this would be done. Such a thing would only be done in the case of extreme necessity.

One of the firm of B. Mooney & Sons when seen this morning said that they consider they have a sufficient number of men already employed, having lately increased their number and unless extraordinary conditions arise they think they will have no difficulty in completing the work in the time specified. They met additional water, he said, and immediately provided additional pumps and machinery for the extra work. On No. 3 section—the tunnel section, the fact that Lake Latimer is not lowered is causing a good deal of the overflow which they are meeting, but if the lake level is not lowered before the 15th of August they will be put to much extra expense. It is understood that it is improbable for their willingness not to press for an armistice at the first meeting is believed to be the recent opposition said to have manifested itself among the Russian forces at the front against peace negotiations. It is felt that to ask them to sign a truce might have a bad effect upon their spirits and serve to increase their opposition to the ending of the war.

Whether the meeting this morning was more than one of organization for the purpose of exchanging credentials will probably not be known until the plenipotentiaries return to their hotel. Baron Komura and Mr. Witte reiterated to third assistant secretary Pelros shortly before leaving for the yard today a request that everyone be excluded from the yard throughout the time the envoys are meeting. Even the members of each mission to gain entrance will be required to show papers signed by their chiefs and countersigned by the commandant of the yard.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The Times speaks the London Times' correspondent as calling from Portsmouth: "The day's delay in assembling the peace envoys has been perhaps beneficial for the difficulties as the hour of the conference approaches. Today (Tuesday) the Japanese and Russians submitted themselves to the demands of ceremony, but even before the ceremonies began the envoys began considering their position."

The want of a Bismarck or a Roosevelt in these first days seems to be felt. M. Witte is unfamiliar with diplomatic procedure. His plans of the meeting to be followed do not seem to have crystallized. At any rate such questions appear to be, so far as the Russians are concerned open. What language are these envoys to carry on the discussion with? They have no language in common.

It is suggested that the democratic rule apply and that language which the greatest number speak will be used, which is the English. But if it is used for oral discussion there is again difficulty in drawing up protocols in English, for the Russian foreign office has been trained in French.

M. Witte, I think, has a speech ready. He is to make the trip to see if it is delivered for he proposes to revert to the origin of the war, but if the Russians and Japanese are to debate the circumstances which brought on the war, till they are agreed, we shall be here till next year.

The Japanese are not unlikely to take the view that they are here not to pursue historical inquiries, but to see whether the war can be ended. They may, therefore, politely object to a debate which would be endless. To which M. Witte, if no diplomat, as a tactician may reply: "Pray lay your terms on the table at once."

This the Japanese are understood to be ready to do, but in their own way they may state them in the faintest instance, as matter of principle. In other words, before specifying the amount of the indemnity they may desire to know whether Russia is prepared to pay any indemnity. Before stating their views they may ask assurance that a demand for the cessation of Russian territory or the commercial control of a fortified port will not be regarded as ending the negotiations.

LOCH LOMOND WORK WILL BE DONE, SAY CONTRACTORS---EXTRAS WANTED.

McArthur & McVey will by that time have lowered the level. On No. 1 section—the dam section—they have had to go to a much greater depth than was mentioned in the specifications and by the engineers, but with extra men they expect also that that part of the work will be completed. The concrete-mixer which Mr. Barbour recommended, has already been purchased and will be at work in a few days. It is said that the contractors intend to ask for larger amounts from the city on account of the unusual difficulties which they have encountered. Some of the aldermen pointed out this morning that there is a clause in the contract which says that the tests made by the city engineer for the work are not to be considered as even approximately correct, and if the contractors encounter unforeseen difficulties they cannot come against the city for it. The general opinion seems to be that the city should wait till the work is completed before even considering any claims for extras.

Speaking of McArthur & McVey's work this morning, Mr. Mooney said that in one place they have met solid rock formation where the engineer's test made at the cost of $3,000, showed mud, and Mr. Mooney thinks they have a good claim against the city. McArthur & McVey in additional machinery alone for this work have expended $2,400. As for themselves Mr. Mooney said that he has no intention of begging for extra pay. There will probably, however, be extras, as ordered by the engineer, for which of course they will expect to be paid.

GREAT CONFERENCE ON CHURCH UNION.

Plan to Federate Protestant Churches of America.

Representatives of 24 Denominations Will Meet in New York Nov. 15—Nation's Distinguished Men Will Attend.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Twenty-four religious denominations, containing 18,000,000 communicants, have each appointed from five to fifty delegates to meet in this city on November 15, to take part in an inter-church conference on Federation. The meeting will be held in Carnegie Hall for a week, the object being the federation of the Protestant forces in America.

President Roosevelt has expressed his sympathy with the movement, and it is expected that one or more members of his cabinet will be able to take part in the discussions of the conference. The speakers on the programme and the presiding officers include five bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church, six bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, a bishop of the Reformed Episcopal church, leading clergymen from Presbyterian, Baptist and other denominations, two United States supreme court judges, two judges of state courts, a United States senator, a congressman, a governor, several college presidents and professors, editors and ministers.

Among the subjects to be brought before the conference are the religious education, the social order and foreign missions, the fellowship of faith, the national life and Christian progress. Besides declaring faith in the essential unity of the Protestant churches, several will appeal as to practical workings of Protestants in districts, states, foreign lands and inter-denominational.

Denominational rallies, a platform meeting devoted to young people's movements, and dinner to the delegates at the Waldorf Astoria, given by the half-dozen denominational social unions in the city will be more popular features of the convention. The chairman of the executive committee is Dr. Wm. Henry Roberts, of Philadelphia; the secretary, Dr. Sanford, of New York.

POLYGAMY DOES NOT EXIST AMONG DOUKHOBORS

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—Agent Ross at Melbourne reports to the trade department that business prospects are looking well in Australia. Grass is plentiful and the wool output will be very large. "West Australia after thirteen months' experience with her state owned hotel at Gwalia has made a profit on the original investment equal to 312 per cent."

The Canadian Association of Master Bakers met in annual convention here today. Miss Marie Hamilton, daughter of the Bishop of Ottawa, has been engaged as a member of E. S. Willard's company for next season.

Inspector White of the immigration department says polygamy does not exist among the Doukhobors.

BIG STRIKE THREATENED IN MONTREAL

(Special to the Star.)
MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—A mass meeting has been called for Thursday night of the members of unions affiliated to the building trades sections owing to what is claimed to be the unfair attitude of the builders' exchange in attempting to destroy labor organizations by establishing the open shop and refusing to treat with carpenters now on strike. A meeting is called by building trades council and it is possible the trouble may result in a general strike involving all unions connected with building trades.

ODDFELLOWS IN HALIFAX.

(Special to the Star.)
HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 8.—At the opening session of the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows this morning the delegation from Massachusetts presented fraternal greetings. Reports of the grand officers were read showing the order to be prosperous and increasing.

The delegates are having an excursion on the harbor this afternoon.

STMR. ORURO ASHORE; NO DAMAGE DONE.

She Will Float Easily This Afternoon.

She Grounded on a Mud Bank Eastward of the Channel With a Falling Tide This Morning.

The West India steamer Oruro, 1,200 tons, Capt. Seeley, from Bermuda, is on a mud bank to the eastward of the channel, and it is expected will float at high tide this afternoon. The captain reports that the steamer is resting as easily as if she was in a dry dock, and that she has not made an inch of water. He is well assured that the vessel will not be strained in the least unless the weather becomes rough, which is most improbable under the present conditions.

The Oruro made a good run up from Bermuda. She had a large cargo, principally of sugar and molasses for this port and Halifax, and about thirty passengers, including sixteen Chinese men homeward bound. In the bay Oruro picked up Pilot James T. Bennett, who brought the steamer safely into port, only to get into trouble when well up the harbor.

There was a thick fog at the time, a dense blanket that only lasted for a few minutes, and the first idea that the pilot had that he was out of his course was in running into the buoy on the four grounds. The engines were at once reversed, and as the steamer was only crawling along at the time she settled easily into the mud. This was at about four hours ebb tide, and as her position is considered perfectly safe there is no doubt about her coming off all right.

It was only a few minutes after the accident occurred that the fog lifted. The tug Lord Kitchener went down at once, but the captain did not need any assistance. Geo. Dunlavy, the shore superintendent of the line here, also went down, and the captain assured him that the vessel was resting easy and that a sounding of all the pumps showed that the steamer was not making a drop of water. The first class passengers were brought to the city in a tug boat, the others remained on board.

A Jew left his daughter in charge of his shop during his absence. A sailor came in, and asked to look at some watches. These were shown to him, but while the girl's back was turned he changed the tickets, and thus got a watch at the cheaper price for the changed ticket. After he had gone she discovered the alteration, and on the Jew's return she told him in a distressed manner about it. "Oh, well, never mind, my dear," said he. "It was all right. The watches was all really one price—the price you got. But looking at her seriously—" "vat a rogue that sailor must have been."

ONE DROWNED IN FALLS; ONE SAVED.

Two Young Men Struggle in Seething Waters.

Charles Lord of Carleton Went Down—Harding Humphrey Was Saved in the Nick of Time.

While hundreds of people, unable to render any assistance, stood on the suspension bridge and along the banks at the falls last evening watching the tragedy, Charles Lord of Carleton went to his death in the swift running water and Harding Humphrey was saved only when he was on the point of giving up.

The accident occurred about half-past six. The two young men left their homes in Carleton to row to the place near Cushing's Mills known as "the pet," with the intention of picking up logs and other wood to be found there. The tide was nearly high with the current running high, but Lord was of the opinion that the passage could be made.

When passing under the bridge their boat was caught in the swift flow which sweeps around what is known as West Head and the point of the Fairville side between the two bridges. The boat was caught by the current, turned sideways, quivered for an instant and upset.

Young Lord made a desperate fight for his life. Humphrey held to the oar which he had been using. Lord however had no such aid and he was swept from his companion who tried to help him. He struggled manfully in the rush of water and was carried up nearly to Cushing's Mill, where in the big eddy he went down.

Humphrey aided by his oar battled for life. Soon after the boat was upset, M. J. Fleming, of Fleming's foundry happened on the scene driving in a buggy. He saw at once what had happened and lashed his horse into a gallop and made for Cushing's Mill which he saw was the only possible point from which a rescue could be attempted.

On his way down he met Theodore Cushing and Capt. Granville and in a 16-foot dory these two pushed out and began the search. By this time another rescue party was out from the American schooner Manuel R. Cuza.

They were working on the vessel at the pumps when Fleming called to them to rescue the drowning man. The five at work jumped for the boat, John Fleming and Hugh Cullinan of Fairville, Edward Kitchen of South Bay, Charles Hendy of Queens Co. and Captain Shanklin.

Humphrey had already passed in midstream 100 yards up river. They rapidly gained on him but he kept shouting "Hurry, quick I can't stand it much longer."

They soon passed Mr. Cushing and

Capt. Granville, who had only the two oars. At last they came up to him, whirling around in a whirlpool about 200 yards off Deep Cove. Hendy took him by the shoulder and he was lifted into the boat, where he utterly collapsed. He was taken back to the schooner Lotus and laid out on the wharf, where his rescuers went to work to get the water out of him. He was then taken to the warm boiler room of the pulp mill.

There he was undressed, dry clothes were provided and stimulants were administered under the direction of Dr. J. H. Grey, who was summoned. Humphrey was found to be completely exhausted and thoroughly chilled, but after several hours' rest he revived and was able to go to his home in Carleton. Harding Humphrey is nineteen years of age. He is a strongly built young man, a powerful swimmer, and it is to this that he owes his life. He is a son of Charles Humphrey of 58 Water street, Carleton.

Charles Lord was seventeen years of age, the son of George Lord of 97 Water street, Carleton. He is survived, besides his parents, by two brothers, Merritt and George, Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Bernard Clark and Miss Bertha.

Coroner McFarland of Fairville was notified of the accident and said this morning that it could not be decided whether an inquest is necessary or not until the body is recovered.

TOO LITERAL.

Gen. Negley, of Pennsylvania, was a strict disciplinarian. During one of the winters of the Civil War he concluded that as certain guard house was altogether too comfortable for prisoners, and ordered Col. Marston, who later won fame as a soldier, lawyer, and statesman, to build a dungeon without so much as a crack opening anywhere, so that its should be perfectly dark. The dungeon was built with four solid walls, according to the "Chicago News." One day Gen. Negley came over to inspect it. He was accompanied by Col. Marston. "Where is the entrance?" said the general, "and how do you get anybody into it?" "Oh," said Col. Marston, "that is not my lookout. I simply obeyed the orders."

GERMANY TRAVELLING SCHOOLS

Farmers' daughters are educated in many parts of Germany in travelling schools, which go from village to village to give girls over sixteen years of age practical lessons in housekeeping, cooking, the selection of food, care of poultry and cattle, the cultivation of vegetables, and butter and cheese-making. The results have been so satisfactory that it is now proposed to add instruction in nursing, cooking for the sick, mending and sewing. The teachers, who are graduates of the schools of housework, and have passed government examinations, carry with them an outfit of the cooking stove and the various utensils for cooking and ironing. The classes are held in the school houses, the term lasts six weeks, and the cost of tuition is put so low as practically to exclude no one.

A BAD SPELL.

(Success.)

Thomas W. Lawson was recently visited in his Boston office by a young woman who came laden with all sorts of college diplomas and gilt edge references. It so happened that Mr. Lawson needed a temporary secretary, and engaged her on the spot. When later in the day, the young woman handed Mr. Lawson a number of letters that he had dictated, they were chiefly remarkable for their hideous orthography. He called the girl's attention to her blunders, whereupon she replied with a giggle: "Really, now, I think I must have been bewitched."

"Quite so," said Mr. Lawson; "some fairy has evidently cast a bad spell over you."

Royal Household Flour

must be better than all other flours. We will not be satisfied to even share the honors of first place.

THIS assertion is not made through any selfish desire to deprive other millers of their right position; but we know that our facilities for producing the best flour are beyond contradiction the finest in Canada. Ours are the only mills where flour is scientifically purified while in the course of being ground, and if you could see the dirt that we take out, and then think of what others must of necessity leave in, you would not long hesitate as to which is best for your stomach. You would quickly agree that HOUSEHOLD must be the best.

A FLOW OF LANGUAGE.

(Springfield Republican.)

President John H. Finley, of the College of the City of New York, tells a story that was handed down to him by his predecessor. When General Alexander A. Webb was president of the college, he had a secretary who was prone to use strong language. One day the general came rushing out of his office, which was adjacent to the secretary's. "Did I hear somebody swear?" exclaimed President Webb, as he glanced at the secretary. "Well, you see, Mr. President," said the embarrassed secretary, "I have such a flow of language that I must put a dam in now and then in order to get along."

QUITE LIKELY.

(New York Sun.)

They were talking when they came into the car and they kept on talking for forty blocks. In spite of the roar and rattle of the subway trains this much of the conversation was overheard: He—If some other man should tell you he loved you, what would you do? She—Oh don't be silly. He—But I mean it. What would you do? She (wearily)—I don't know. He (decisely)—Well, I know what I'd do. She—What? He—I'd kill him. She (serenely)—I don't suppose you'd ever know anything about it.

NATIONS NOT MERCIFUL TO DEFEATED GENERALS.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Russia has several beaten generals at the present time, and the question is what will eventually become of them.

The land of the Great Bear has seldom permitted the leaders of her army and navy to long survive their downfall, notwithstanding statements to the contrary, and there are several instances of Russians, once shining lights in barracks rooms and naval dockyards, who have taken leave of life both obscurely and tragically.

It was not so very long ago that a famous general, at one time honored all over Russia, died by his own hand at a German gambling spa. He had strayed during the Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78, and in consequence the troops under his command had met with an unexpected disaster.

After the war the general left St. Petersburg in disgrace, and under an assumed name, took up his residence in Germany. He dissipated his fortune at gambling places, and when he had come to his last penny he became a "handy-man," doing out a bare existence by running errands, doing odd jobs, and distributing bills.

Being unable to recover his self-respect and manhood, he sought release by suicide. He shot himself at a gambling spot, and when his body was searched not a coin was found upon him.

Again, a leader of the Russians during the Crimean war died in abject poverty in an attic in the Latin quarter of Paris. He had lost 15,000 men at Inkerman, and his commission was taken from him.

He went to France and led a Bohemian life for many years, making a good income by composing musical pieces. The money he earned he spent in riotous living, and one morning he was found dead in his attic after a heavy drinking bout.

According to the Echo de Paris, Capt. Klade, who was the chief Russian witness before the North sea commission, has been deprived of St. Petersburg of all his appointments and functions, except that of professor at the military academy.

It would be interesting to follow the future fortunes of this gentleman, for it is certainly doubtful whether his colleagues at the military academy will permit him to long survive his downfall.

Japan is very harsh on her defeated officers, both naval and military. During the present war in the far east a naval lieutenant, who failed to carry out a task set him was politely told by his chief to cover his disgrace by committing suicide.

A sheet was strung on the deck of the lieutenant's gunboat, and behind this was placed an arm chair and a table. On the latter was a sharp knife wrapped in a piece of clean paper. The lieutenant bowed to his comrades, went behind the sheet, sat in the chair and picked up the knife.

The official reports stated that the lieutenant had died distinguishing himself in action, and the emperor granted him a posthumous medal. After our troops had entered Peking and sacked the summer palace of the emperor, a Chinese general, known as the chief of the "dragon-slayers," who allowed his troops to be badly beaten, had his commission taken away from him and was publicly degraded.

For a long time his wretched figure was to be seen in the streets of the capital, with gyves on his limbs and a board round his neck as a punishment. For many years a shabbily-dressed elderly man wandered aimlessly about Madrid. At one time he was one of the most mighty of the French marshals, and his tunic blazed with gold lace and jewelled orders.

He had risen from the ranks, but misfortune came to him when he started out to meet the Germans as leader of half a million men. Accompanying him to the front were innumerable valets, grooms, and secretaries, yet he came back to Paris, not as a mighty conqueror, but as a broken, friendless man.

He had, in the eyes of the republic, disgraced himself, and popular prejudice drove him from his native country. He went to Madrid and fell lower and lower down the social scale until he became practically a beggar, both in language and habits.

Not a touch of former greatness was shown by the ex-marshal as he waded in a purposeless way about Madrid.

A French journalist met the broken man once, and in reply to a question he said sadly: "When I was a French marshal I was the republic's slave, now I am a free man; but the price of freedom is vermin and a crust of bread!"

Several of the brilliant generals of the southern states of America, during the civil war were driven into humble retirement when lasting fame was the incentive ahead. One died in a New York garret some time since a broken-down and hopelessly intemperate old man, while another came to this country and set up in business as a barber.

Another general who became a barber was the leader of the Persians, whom Sir James Outram crushed just before the Indian mutiny broke out. The Shah degraded him, and after several more or less exciting adventures he came down to be a barber at Baghdad.

Numbers of wandering Britons allowed the fallen "glant" to shave them, and as he wielded the razor he related his many exploits.

Admiral Villeneuve, who was beaten by Nelson at Trafalgar, was never forgiven by Napoleon, and he became a homeless wanderer, living at cheap and even disreputable hotels.

His income, after his disgrace, was said to be under one hundred pounds a year, and when he died he was heavily in debt.

EAST PATRONS.

(Boston Herald.)

A Natick undertaker is something of a wit. Not long ago a friend asked him why he did not follow the style and have rubber tires put on his hearse.

"Well," he replied, "there is no particular necessity to do so, for the people I take to ride never find fault with the steel tires."

ROOSEVELT COMPARED TO CHRIST.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 8.—"The one man of the world who matches Jesus Christ in endowment of purpose, in purity of life, is the President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt." The above extract from an address by the Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, of Chicago, at Trinity Methodist Church last night has caused great surprise among laymen. The clergy look on it as "blasphemy," "the rankest absurdity" and "harmless gush."

"It is absurd to compare Roosevelt with Christ," said the Rev. Henry W. Pheasant, of the Bethany Baptist Church. "I admire the man, but we do not know whether Roosevelt compares even with Washington or Lincoln. We need time to get the perspective."

"Dr. Gunsaulus is welcome to his opinion. If he can get as much inspiration from Roosevelt as Christian people get from Christ he might consider him in that light. It is practically harmless gush, but I do not think that any man should be compared to the Christ," said the Rev. G. W. Wood, of St. James' Methodist Episcopal Church.

"No, that is not blasphemy. It is only sublimely ignorant of Christianity. The man who said that is not great enough to insult the God head of Jesus Christ," is the way the Rev. Father William Odian dismissed the matter.

LIBERALS and LIBERALISM.

In connection with the commission which is to investigate Canadian trade conditions this summer with a view to revising the tariff, a leading Liberal journal prints without comment the tariff plank from the memorable 1893 platform which declares emphatically for a lower schedule of duties based on the requirements of the public service.

If the idea is to remind the Liberal government of Liberal principles why is this one plank only put forward? There were several other things in that famous document which have apparently slipped the minds of those who won to power by it.

For instance there was plank No. 3, deploring Conservative corruption and pledging purity of administration. Considering the G. T. P. deal, the Blair episode, the Yukon scandals, the Ontario bogus ballot boxes, the distortion of the Manitoba voters lists, the half-breed scrip scandals and the various grafts which have been unearthed in every department, the time seems opportune for a revival of this declaration.

Then the printed record tells of another plank (No. 4) which demanded economy and decreased expenditure. The taxpayers whose burden has increased from forty to eighty millions since 1897 would have objection if the attention of the powers that be and spend were again called to this.

In view of recent appointments of members of parliament to high official positions and of the new schedule of prices for senatorial seats, the time seems also ripe for a gentle reminder as to pledges with reference to the dependence of parliament and the reform of the senate.

There is also a high-sounding paragraph on "Promises and Performance" on page 13 of the official copy which should be edifying at this time. By all means, if Liberals are again going to read that 1893 declaration of principles and policy, attention should not be confined to the tariff clause.

NO DISSENTION.

A recent speech by W. F. Maclean, M. P. for North York, assailing the Conservative party as at present constituted and managed and past history of the party in connection with the increase of the seasonal indemnity and his acceptance of a salary, is being joyfully quoted by the Liberal press as evidence of wild dissension in the opposition ranks pre-figuring total disintegration or worse in the near future.

Maclean's antics are as much an evidence of dissension in the Conservative party as a flea in a home would be of a family quarrel.

Of course he is an annoyance, more so than if he were openly allied with the government; but he is nothing more. Nobody who knows him takes him seriously and that is chiefly why it is the matter with him. He made a franticly absurd bid for the leadership of the party last winter and since his candidacy received the treatment it deserved has sneaked around like an Ishmaelite with a knife for everybody. Possessed of a vivid imagination and conveniently unhampered by scruples he has through his newspaper, the Toronto World, and on the platform black-guarded his associates on the opposition side of the house with great force and fluency though totally without effect upon all who are in any way acquainted with him and his record.

Characteristic of the man is his attitude on this indemnity business. He was present in the house when the bill was passed, made no whisper of objection, even endorsed the increases with his vote, took the extra thousand and spent it advertising himself and then began to scream about the brazen iniquity of all others who had done exactly as he did, except in their method of spending the money.

The world will join today in President Roosevelt's toast that a just and lasting peace may be speedily concluded between the two great nations whose representatives met at Portsmouth this morning.

Two of the five former governors-general of the dominion are active supporters of Mr. Chamberlain's preference programme. These are the Duke of Argyll and Lord Minto. Lord Aberdeen may be counted as strongly on the other side, though most of the speaking of that theme by his family has been done by Lady Aberdeen. Lord Lansdowne is a member of the Balfour administration, and has so far taken no part in the controversy, but he is a retainer of the Balfour line in the sense that Mr. Balfour is one, and it is probable that he will be found on the same side as Lord Minto on the general issue. The Earl of Derby has shown his sympathy with Mr. Chamberlain's imperialism, and is not likely to be found on the side of the free traders when the time comes to be counted.—Sun.

I don't want to possess a faith; I want a faith that will possess me.—Kingsley.

THE BRIGHT, SWEET WAY.

For all the storm and the trouble—
For all the hope and fear—
To a rosy land
Still hand in hand,
Let us walk the bright way, dear!

Over the hills the sunshine
And the sky is bending clear;
Out of the strife
To a glad, sweet life
Let us walk the bright way, dear!

What is a little sorrow,
And what is a falling tear?
The storms will cease,
There'll be joy and peace
Going the bright way, dear!
—Frank L. Stanton.

MISSING MIDDY FOUND.

Robt. Jackson, of U. S. Warship Missouri, Who Disappeared Two Weeks Ago Turns Up in Quebec.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Aug. 8.—The Herald says: Midshipman Robert Jackson, who has been missing since a week ago last Friday, when he left his ship, the Missouri, then lying in the harbor of Quebec, has been found by his father in Quebec. He was working to make enough money to return to his ship. He has gone to the Missouri at Bar Harbor, Me., with his father.

Jackson says his actions are unaccountable to him. As if he were in a trance, he says, he wandered away from New York. When he recovered his senses and realized the seriousness of his situation, he thought it was to secrete himself until he made enough money to return to his ship and prove his honor.

"In tracing him from Boston, through Montreal to Quebec," said his father, "I found unmistakable evidence that from the time he left the Missouri he was not himself, and that by some strange means his judgment had been rendered inactive. I am pretty well convinced of the cause, and shall leave nothing undone to get at the bottom of the strange affair."

When young Jackson left his ship on shore leave with friends he met Miss Olga Maxwell, a young woman living in this city. He did not return when his leave expired. On the Monday following his disappearance a general alarm was sent through the police. The day Miss Maxwell appeared and said she was left behind in Boston.

MILK IS BEING WATERED.

A great deal of complaint is made by householders regarding the quality of milk being peddled throughout the city by certain dealers. Of late the supply of water in the fluid has been out of all proportion, and one citizen complains that after setting over night a pint pitcher of milk produced but a fraction over a half pint of milk, the balance being clear water. This state of affairs seems to be prevalent in a certain number of sections among milk dealers, and they are not small dealers in the sense of business importance, though quite "small" in the sense of fair play. The Board of Health, or milk inspector will be approached in the matter if the quality of the necessary commodity does not soon improve.

RECALLED THE POSTMAN.

Miss Carey Thomas, the president of Bryn Mawr College, talked at luncheon about the ingenuities of children.

"A friend of mine," she said, "once showed me a letter that her little son had written her from Andover. The letter ran like this: "Dear Mother: I am well and I hope you are well. Will you please send me $1? I know the last did not last long, but it is all spent now, and I need $2 badly. I hope you are well. I am well. Please do not forget it." "Then there was this postcard: "I was ashamed to ask for money so soon after the last you sent that I sent after the postman to get this letter back, but it was too late, he had gone."—San Antonio Express.

A POINTER WORTH HAVING.

The merits of Ozone are well known, but in buying it one must be sure to get the purest form. Also Ozone should always be taken along with "Celery King," the famous tonic laxative. The purest form in which Ozone is now sold is "Solution of Ozone" (the coupon kind) and each bottle of this brand contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free.

No other firm in the world can give "Celery King" with Ozone. We give it because our Ozone thus gives the highest results. In addition, you get just about twice as much "Solution of Ozone" for your money as of other kinds, and you get it in the purest and most concentrated form. You also get "Celery King" free, instead of having to buy it, which you would need to do in order to have full benefit from the use of Ozone.

Your druggist should have "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)." If not, write to the Public Drug Co., Bridgeburg, Ont.

It is probable that in a day or two the street railway company will go back to their old three car service. It has been found inconvenient to run more than three cars on the branch line. The company has now applied for permission to put in a crossing near Victoria rink, on City road, and with four cars they will be able to give a five-minute service, instead of a ten-minute service which is given by the three cars.

Rothsay was considerably strengthened since the last match, and put up a fine game. Renforth played in hard luck. Their catcher was taken ill in the first inning and had to be taken out, necessitating considerable change in the line-up.

Five innings were played, the score being as follows:
Rothsay . . . . . 3 0 0 2-14
Renforth . . . . . 0 0 0 1-1

THE TURF.
DOVER, N. H., Aug. 8.—The three events on the card at the opening day of the harness meeting at the local track today were all interesting contests.

Octave B. who was a strong favorite in the 214 pace, had won two heats, when the judges removed the heat, who was driving Frank S. and put up Sherer, who drove the latter horse to win the race.

Harrison Wilkes, the favorite in the 215 trot, won in straight heats.

In the 220 pace, the favorite, Starlight, won easily, although the first heat was given to Baroness Alice, and Starlight set back to last place for foul driving.

BUFFALO, Aug. 8.—Sadie Mae walked off with the $10,000 empire state purse for 210 trotters, the feature of the grand circuit card at Kenilworth park this afternoon. The mare, always a $40 to $10 favorite in the pool, was not bothered in any of the three heats, finishing the last three heats in front with driver Stinson looking back with interest at the successful fight of Geers with Zephyr for second money.

Miss Katherine Wilkes, the Ont. fan, who owns the Crickstone stock farm of that place, watched her great mare walk away with first money, lustily applauding each winning heat.

Four races were witnessed by the largest crowd which has gathered at the grand circuit card since the old days of the Hamilton driving park. Directum Miller sold $50 to $25 on the field for the 209 pace, but after a long and hot race, he was sold for $100 to $150 in the pool.

There was no pooling before the first heat of the baby paces but when Mary Aldous lost a mile some nibbling at Madam Direct resulted. Then Snow drove Mary Aldous out in two faster heats, winning easily. The backstretch, Collette, lost a lot of money in the 224 trot. She sold opening favorite $50 in pools of $15, but a break in the first heat found Hardwood in front and the Gamewood gelding proceeded to make it three straight.

The same team will play the Canadian Cricket Association at Toronto September 4, 5 and 6.

AUTOMOBILE.
BARNEY OLDFIELD HAD CLOSE CALL.
DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 8.—Barney Oldfield had an almost miraculous escape from death today at the automobile races at Grosse Pointe track when Dan Wurgis' machine collided with Oldfield's car in the three-quarter stretch during the first mile of the five-mile open event. Oldfield received a badly lacerated scalp and a severely bruised right arm. Oldfield, Web-Jay, Charles Burman and Dan Wurgis were in the five-mile race, and the latter was downed by Oldfield's car. The race of Burman's car. There was a king of the disappearance of the Bible.

At the three-quarter stretch Wurgis was following Oldfield close to the pole and Burman was in the middle of the track. Oldfield's engine suddenly began working badly. When Wurgis discovered that Oldfield's car was slowing down he was so close that he could not turn out sharply without colliding with Burman. He shot between Oldfield and Burman, but did not clear the rear of Burman's car. There was a king of the disappearance of the Bible.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 8.—The hearing of the petition of R. H. Simms against the election of Hon. W. P. Jones was continued this afternoon. The witness said he ran at the request of a number of the electors, and found his own $100 deposit.

Charles Beyer corroborated Mr. Simms' account of the missing Bible.

Harry Golding, the courthouse crier, gave evidence as to the Bible being missing, and said it was three minutes past twelve when Simms came in with his nomination paper. Simms said it was three minutes to twelve, and accused the sheriff of putting his watch ahead.

Albion R. Foster said he knew nothing of the disappearance of the Bible.

SIXTY NEW CASES OF YELLOW FEVER.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 8.—Following is the corrected record up to 6 p. m. of the yellow fever situation:
Now cases today, 60; total cases to date, 416.
Deaths today, 4; total deaths to date, 112.
New sub-foci today, 7; total sub-foci to date, 115.
These figures vary slightly from those that have been sent out lately, but are the official record which was today checked up and corrected to date. The large number of new cases and sub-foci is surprising, but no attempt is being made to account for it. Of the sub-foci three are up town and the balance down town. Two dead men were found in a shanty in the woods, and it was found that they had died of yellow fever. They were Italians who had died from lack of attention.
Archibishop, chairman of the crisis in his illness today, and is now regarded as on the road to recovery.

YARMOUTH BANK SHAREHOLDERS MUST PAY DOUBLE LIABILITY.
HALIFAX, Aug. 8.—Judge Longley presided at the supreme court chambers today. In re the Bank of Yarmouth, counsel moved for an order that a call of $75 a share be made on all the contributors. The motion was granted, and the call will have to be paid on October 8th. This means that every shareholder in the defunct bank will have to meet his double liability. There is a strong probability that the shareholders will take proceedings against the creditors to reimburse them for their losses. The capital was $300,000.

MORE EVIDENCE IN DOOLEY INQUEST.
The Dooley inquest was resumed last evening. Recorder Skinner represented the city. Dr. Mullin and A. W. Macrae watched the interests of the Dooley family and the contractor Henry Crawford.
Dr. W. L. Ellis said the injuries the dead man received were the cause of his death.
Peter Mahoney, a city laborer, said he called the attention of Mr. Crawford to the necessity of a brace being placed in the centre of the deal, whereupon Mr. Crawford gave instructions for the men to shovel the bank off.
Wm. Murdoch, C. E., said there was a contract for the excavation. Mr. Crawford said that when he offered to do the work, he was told that he was appointed inspector of the work. Witness did not consider part of his (Murdoch's) duty to see that sufficient bracing was done. It devolved on the contractor.
The inquest was further adjourned until Friday at 7.30 p. m.

CARLETON ELECTION TRIAL.
WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 8.—The hearing of the petition of R. H. Simms against the election of Hon. W. P. Jones was continued this afternoon. The witness said he ran at the request of a number of the electors, and found his own $100 deposit.

TO DISPOSE OF SEWERAGE FROM VICTORIA HOSPITAL.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Aug. 8.—A joint meeting of the city council, hospital trustees and board of health was held here this afternoon to decide on the best way of disposing of the sewerage from Victoria Hospital so as not to endanger public health. It has long been contended that the sewerage from which has all along been drained into the river polluted the water supply and was responsible for frequent outbreaks of typhoid fever. The city council a short time ago recommended that the drain to the river be closed and that the sewerage be emptied into a vault or cesspool, but as the board of health said down on this proposition nothing was done.

The object of today's meeting was to endeavor to arrive at a solution of the problem which would be satisfactory to all parties and remove any possibility of endangering the water supply. The matter was fully gone into and in view of the likelihood of the early introducing of the general system of sewerage here it was agreed that the hospital sewerage should be disposed of by means of a cesspool and not allowed to empty into the river.

FREDERICTON BRIDGE OPEN FOR TRAFFIC.
FREDERICTON, Aug. 8.—To the great rejoicing of a long suffering community the Fredericton highway bridge was opened to teams today. It is just twenty-three days since this source of travel had been cut off, and the inconvenience, to say nothing of financial loss to the people of the city, is a thing of the past.

The contractor has done everything in his power to hasten the work and the bridge after he once got to work, the structure should have been made available for team crossing long before this. A whole week was allowed to go after the fire before anything seemed to be undertaken. The government ferry made its final trip last evening.

Mayor McNally has presented a challenge cup for annual competition to the York County Rifle Association.

DEATH OF JOHN RING'S WIDOW; MONCTON NEWS.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 8.—Information has been received here of the death of Mrs. Ring, widow of the late Detective Ring, which occurred at her former home in Blackville, Miramichi, on Saturday after an illness of several days. Deceased left three children. One son, Murdoch, is employed in the I. C. R. freight office here.

The league game here tonight between the Trojans and Y. M. C. C. resulted in a shut-out, five to nothing, for the Trojans, who are the local league leaders. The Y. M. C. C. played an error-ridden game and had on a great batting streak, while the Trojans were badly off. All runs were made in the third inning. There are only a few games yet to play and the prospects are there may be a tie for the pennant between the Trojans and the Y. M. C. C.

A tramp calling himself Davis, having from Toronto, was arrested at Amherst and brought to Moncton today on the charge of stealing a value from Rev. Father Bourgeois. The theft was witnessed by several people who shadowed the tramp and effected his capture.

The Floral Fan for Evening Gowns

The Spanish Fan—a Daytime Novelty

The New Fans

FROM the richest and most delicate of all—exquisite point lace down to the stiff, ugly palm leaves (which, after all, are the best ideas find expression in countless ways. Here one—the whitest of lace—is set off by its neighbor, black—but black shab and dotted with arabesque, Spanish fans are back—that is, fans with quaint, characteristically Spanish scenes artistically portrayed; but made in spite of their Spanish air, by the fans, one has a bull fight painted upon it, the costume of the matador and the gay dancing-brought out in vivid relief. On another—castles in Spain have materialized from the dreams they are. Every sort of fan is smaller this year—seven and a half inches is the favorite size—if you except the Eastern-looking, solid-color fans, shaped something like palm-leaf fans, but strongly woven. And some are almost playthings, not more than three inches long, carved and painted like a Christmas card. They make a good little breeze—powerful strong, as its size, as the Irishman said—but are really meant to be an ornament than anything else. Another ivory fan—a little longer than that other, but tiny, for all that—is carved and apparently inlaid with Spanish scenes. Flower fans are wonderfully pretty with summer evening gowns. They fold up in a peculiar way, the flowers forming into bunches at the end of green stems. June roses, the tiny pink bell, violets, orchids and poppies, red or yellow, make the most effective of these flower fans.

Medallion effects—miniature effects, you might better call them—are in evidence upon most of the new fans, not at in unusual ways by lace inserts, or by the heavier material being cut away, with gauze inset, painted with quaint scenes. Colonial figures, beautiful child heads, Spanish scenes or demure little Japanese maidens decorate the various types. Dutch fans—of gauze or paper, Du Barry shape—have stolid little Dutch figures, with heavy wooden pots and a background of a windmill. And another Dutch fan—one that would set a child wild with delight—is made of miniature paddle-blades of a windmill, painted, of course, with the funny little figures. Celluloid makes another set of fans; but it is celluloid masquerading as something else—something too heavy in the original, and that is amber and tortoiseshell. Flat sticks of it are made, carved and stamped with silver or gilt, and make rich-looking, interesting fans. And, unlike the shell, they are as light as they are pretty. Lace plays an important part in the make-up of costly and inexpensive alike. Whole fans are made of it, and some have just an edge of it or medallions set in, framed like miniature by the series of lace poised above handpainted flowers. Handpainted fans, which were out so long, are coming back, the prettiest, richest examples being a fan of gauze, mounted on carved sandalwood sticks, both sticks and fan proper decorated with flowers done in pale, shadowy colors. Pale and deep colors alike are displayed in Japanese fans, perhaps both on the same fan. But out of the apparently hopeless medley of colors a set design invariably reveals itself, or flowers, in the solid, impossible-to-nature colors the Japanese so delight in; or into fans—a new mode, cut away to show the lace background—a way of getting at the medallion effects so popular this year. Watteau scenes and Japanese drinkings; fans in delicate gray and white, and others as involved and minutely detailed (both in color and design) as a Salsuma vase; murmuring fans and the sheer, little, white, spangled tulle fans that mark the girls who've just graduated—both old and new ideas have been limited together in a bewildering way in the creating of new fans for the summer girl's delectation.

The girl whose grandmother was obliging enough to have saved all her old bits of jewelry is a mortal much to be envied these days; for there's a positive craze for old things, and the dealers in antiques of every description are being besieged for old pieces. The craze for these old things and that for the head necklaces of every color and description rage about equally. Although head chains have had their turn (and a long turn it was, too), head necklaces have taken their place and are being greeted with all the enthusiasm the longer chains had. In old things, every sort of thing that is old in shape or in style is good. The loveliest necklaces are to be had, amethyst or turquoise or jade, perhaps the stones strung in a simple style, or perhaps each set in dull silver, moulded into fantastic form, the stones, where they are turquoise or its matrix, melted by time a beautiful greenish tint impossible either to produce or to describe. Amethysts set in silver take on gray lights, making a most unusual effect, and jade is the loveliest of them all. "The very word jade is a name to conjure with," one enthusiast said; and, indeed, it is a stone used in Eastern countries for all sorts of charms and witcheries and for quaint small carvings of an occasional good picked for his very ugliness from a million or so of hideous fellow-gods.

Jade is at its prettiest set in silver in pendants of varying sizes and shapes—the sort of necklace that might easily be a duplicate of one around some grinning idol's neck; or just the heavy beads strung on cords and graduated, a single large one hanging, by virtue of its weight, directly in front. But curious charms—old ones, too—are to be found, only they must be hunted for, which makes them all the more valuable in the eyes of the collector. Old-fashioned brooches of garnets are being worn as belt clasps, and the long drop earrings, being converted into pendants, which dangle from gold chains so fine and slim that they are but a glint of gold, instead of an actual burden of style. The necklaces made of fine chains, which is punctuated with a couple of new jewelry, and even in "Paris jewelry" which it won't so frankly as imitation that it has ceased to offend. Old and new are very like, yet your true curio lover will point out differences that give the old an added charm. Old watch fobs are hard to find, and the reason they are in great demand. The prettiest are of jade or of agate, or of its softer, more delicate Amethyst necklaces, with gold crosses as pendants, are too common, but old-fashioned watch fobs are very popular; yet they are worn by the occasional woman for their very beauty.

SELECTING GIFTS FOR WARM WEATHER BRIDE

SINCE weddings will come off even in midsummer, silverwreaths and their kind have been busy preparing all sorts of new silver things. Jam and cheese jars are among the prettiest of the new things—a whole lot more practical than the long list of bonbon dishes that every bride falls heir, sometimes regretfully, to. It's all very well to say that the feeling of gratitude should be present at every receiving of a gift. By the time you've exclaimed rapturously over twelve bonbon dishes, or baskets, or shells, you receive the unlikely fifthteenth in stony silence and with anything but grateful glances. The carelessness usually displayed in the choosing of wedding gifts ought to have been waged upon it. Don't send gifts unless you can spend a few moments thinking about their probable use. If you're not fond enough of the people to whom you're sending a gift to be willing to spend time and thought in selection, don't send any! You're evidently not close enough friends to send a gift without it's being absolute intrusion.

But, while this digression is going on the jam and cheese pots are waiting for description! The silver jam pots are radically unlike those of china. They are really only a sort of shell that fits over the jam jar proper and hides its plebeian surface from view. Instead of being a receptacle into which its contents are ignominiously dumped, consequently, it can be made of silver in open pattern, too, but with a plain spot left for the engraving of initials, which is no important part of wedding gifts. Some of these pots are so small that they are as big as the size you get for a dish. Cheese racks have come out in a new shape that holds four or five pieces—just enough for two. The newness consists in an odd shaping of the division bars. Sauce boats aren't new, but the satisfaction they give is just beginning to be recognized. They have a hundred uses, which lift them a long way out of the merely pretty class.

The prettiest new candlestick has been made with the top, the part the candle is set in, made almost as broad as the base; and all of it is made plain, except for the inevitable finials. "Tiny castors, with three places for black and red pepper and salt—and the shakers, too—are stunning and inexpensive. For an engagement present or a bride favor come little silver bells, potted with holes at regular intervals and filled with a pincushion. Through the holes are stuck pins with black and white or colored heads, and one with a silver head is stuck in the centre of the velvet covering of the mouth to represent the clasp. Coffee sets—to be used for the strongest infusions only, for the pot only holds enough to fill six of the tiniest cups—are exquisite. Those wee cups are of china, handless, and set in silver holders, and the set—tall, slim coffee pot and cups—is set on a tray of inlaid wood, bordered with a fence of silver. Colored glass and silver combinations have a host of new representatives—some with just supports and rims of the silver. Honey jars are made of rock crystal, with the delicate cutting which helps make it so beautiful, and are finished with silver tops and silver spoons, with odd round bowls. The only way to grip your resolutions to support a certain amount and to get something you know they'll like—something with beauty and use inseparable.

Simplicity in Summer Furnishings

JAPANESE methods of housekeeping set a wonderful model for the whole world to copy in summer time in their idea of simplicity. Our ideas over here of the simple life consist in doing things with an effect of simplicity, but accomplishing them by the most elaborate efforts, and when it is necessary to employ strenuous means to a simple end—the end has lost all reality to the qualification of simple. Imagine a typical Japanese house and the way it is kept. There's no useless lot of bric-a-brac around, no number of some furniture, very little decoration, and only the things necessary for given occasions are brought out on those occasions, and as instantly cleared away when the occasion for their use has passed. And over and around back of everything is absolute cleanliness, such cleanliness as we, who fill our houses then squander ourselves in whatever space is left, never can know. In summer time you don't want a lot of "fuss and fixings" around, and you do want as absolute cleanliness as it's possible to get. Take the Japanese houses for a model, and clear out everything you don't absolutely need. Put it out of sight so thoroughly that you can forget it instead of worrying about the care of it. Reducing the number of things around necessarily lightens the amount of work; or, with the same amount of energy expended, make your house just that much more spick and span.

If you've a house in the country, furnish it Japanese fashion, which means very simple; and, above all, have very little in the way of furniture, except the kind for effect only. You can't have too many of the flower-holding kind. Copy the Japanese method of displaying one or two exquisite bits at a time and putting the rest of your belongings out of mind for a while, letting each in turn come out from its hiding place for a couple of weeks at a time. Try the same method with the children's toys. As they neglect one after another for outdoor delights, slip them away into a closet, and then bring them out again when a rainy spell has taxed

Look to Comfort in Choosing Chairs

ONE of the qualities most necessary in the choosing of chairs is to see that they are comfortable, which is a harder thing than at first thought appears. There's nothing much more unpleasant than going to a card party or a porch party, any sort of an affair where you sit for a couple of hours—and finding yourself in an uncomfortable chair. Everybody has them—the prettiest chairs are often uncomfortable one way or another. The seat may be too high, or the back awkwardly curved so that it runs into your back, or the arms may be badly placed, so that you can neither rest your arms on them nor escape them for comfortable moving. The trouble usually is that chairs are more frequently bought from the way they look, instead of a combination of the way they look with the way they feel.

Those tiny chairs, high and narrow, are the most uncomfortable things imaginable. But big chairs may be quite as uncomfortable—even the great, roomy looking chairs that look as if they were the very incarnation of comfort. Try every chair you buy, and take some one of normal size along with you who visit you to sit back in and plant their feet firmly on the floor at the same time, instead of dangling over the edge. Have some deep-seated, big chairs, with backs well curved, with nothing in the way of cross supports to press against your spine. Have a chair or two with a back high enough to rest your head against; and if you're rockers, see that they're not the treacherous kind that give an extra tilt backward suddenly, seriously disturbing your equanimity, if not your centre of equilibrium. Try every chair two or three ways—er covered dining room chairs (which may be perfectly comfortable in spite of their apparent stiffness) to the perilously delicate little things with the spindly legs which appear here and there in drawing rooms and parlors.

THE VOGUE OF OLD JEWELRY AND OF NEW BEADS

THE girl whose grandmother was obliging enough to have saved all her old bits of jewelry is a mortal much to be envied these days; for there's a positive craze for old things, and the dealers in antiques of every description are being besieged for old pieces. The craze for these old things and that for the head necklaces of every color and description rage about equally. ## Convenient Little Shelves

THE most convenient little portable shelves have been invented—least copied, too, by any one the least bit familiar with hammer and saw. They were meant, originally, for kitchens where dresser space was lamentably small, but could be made for any room where shelves were needed. These shelves come already made, or they can be made in a den, where cups and saucers and plates are constantly needed to hang in a den, "spare." Old watch fobs are hard to find, and the reason they are in great demand. The prettiest are of jade or of agate, or of its softer, more delicate Amethyst necklaces, with gold crosses as pendants, are too common, but old-fashioned watch fobs are very popular; yet they are worn by the occasional woman for their very beauty.

POLICE COURT.

A Free Fight in a Bar Room—Englishman Warns Judge That $8 Fines Will Restrict Immigration.

Two drunks were fined $4 each with the option of ten days this morning, whilst one, an Englishman, on being told the penalty was $8 or two months, said the sentence was an unjust one, and would prevent people settling in St. John when the facts were published.

John Quigley, having got full of liquor yesterday, happened to catch sight of Joseph Murphy, who was standing outside the market entrance on Charlotte street. John peremptorily ordered Quigley away and the latter, being a small man did as he was bid, and walked to the curb. This was evidently not far enough away to suit the drunken Quigley, taking care to see that no policeman was around, knocked Murphy down. Fortunately Officer Perry happened to be in plain clothes and witnessed the whole affair. He chased Quigley at an eleven seconds pace down the north side of King square, and although the latter had a big start, the officer caught him man on Sydney street. Quigley admitted being drunk but said Murphy struck his lip. While this was going on, a man named James Ryan, was busily engaged in looking after Mr. Marsden, who was so badly injured that he had to be taken into Moore's drug store, and Dr. Corbett was called in to dress his injuries. Mr. Marsden's chief hurt was in his eye, which has been badly hurt. Warrants were issued for the arrest of Quigley and Ryan.

Andrew Irvine, on remand, was fined $8 or two months for drunkenness. The presence in court this morning of three injured men was the result of a free fight last evening in P. Doherty's saloon on Brussels street. The men were Joseph Pilling, Gilbert Pinder and William Marsden, the latter wearing a surgical bandage over his right eye. According to their story they were in the bar room last evening when George Gilbrath of Clarence street, without any provocation, put Mr. Pilling to sleep, and punched Mr. Pinder in the mouth, severely cutting his lip. While this was going on, a man named James Ryan, was busily engaged in looking after Mr. Marsden, who was so badly injured that he had to be taken into Moore's drug store, and Dr. Corbett was called in to dress his injuries. Mr. Marsden's chief hurt was in his eye, which has been badly hurt. Warrants were issued for the arrest of Gilbrath and Ryan.

PRETTY WEDDING IN STONE CHURCH.

A pretty wedding took place at ten o'clock this morning in Stone Church, when William B. Harding, Jr., of Welsford, Queens Co. and Miss May Rowan Armstrong, daughter of Rev. William B. Armstrong of Petticoe and niece of Col. J. R. Armstrong of this city, were united in marriage. The groom was supported by Duncan Arnold of St. John and the bride was attended by Miss May Robinson also of the city. The bride who wore a becoming travelling suit of blue was given away by her father. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Kuhring. The wedding was a quiet one only the relatives and intimate friends of the happy couple being present. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with ivy and flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Harding left on the Point de Chene express for a two weeks' trip to Prince Edward Island, and on their return they will reside at Welsford.

ONE DONKEY-POWER.

Some schools are run on the one-donkey-power plan. You are advised to enroll because "you can get through quickly" or "because the school is an old one" or "because you can sneak into your bedroom and become great in a few nights." You will find these schools are simply book agents anxious to sell textbooks. The teachers with whom you come into personal contact have either never had any experience in the art they attempt to teach, or have been so long away from the practical work that their methods have become obsolete. These schools are in the same ratio to the Currie Business University Ltd., as one donkey-power would be to our whole electric power plant. The Currie Business University asks you to enroll after you have shown evidence that you are adapted for business under conditions as they exist to-day.

THE TIMBER IS READY.

LEMONS ARE HIGH.

Lemons have been advancing rapidly in price till at present they are selling at such a figure that only the rich can afford to buy the first-class article. At last week's sale in Boston goods that were considered trash brought from four to five dollars a box, while the best stock sold as high as $6.95. This is a considerable advance over the last price quoted.
