

Boosting Campbellton

---is more than merely "thinking" or "saying" good things about the town. Real, honest-to-goodness BOOSTING means that every citizen of Campbellton must carry out the following principles every day he lives here:

1. Assume his share of civic responsibilities and contribute his moral and material support to any movement toward good government. An efficient yet human civic administration is the backbone of a prosperous town.
2. Do his part in getting and keeping good churches and schools, for these institutions are the builders of progress for the coming generation.
3. Patronize home merchants and professional men, for they are mainly responsible for the comforts, pleasures and opportunities that this community affords to its citizens.
4. Contribute his every effort toward keeping our streets and yards clean and attractive. An attractive town is good business, for a healthy atmosphere is one of the first requisites for drawing new citizens of the right sort.
5. Be generous in thought, word and deed to his neighbors and fellow-citizens. Most of the happiness in life is gotten by doing for others and entering into the spirit of co-operation.

These are the principles that, when every person does his best toward actually carrying them out, will bring us all prosperity and happiness. We prosper only as those about us prosper, so---

Every loyal citizen of Campbellton is urged to become an active, working partner with us---let's do some REAL boosting for our town by MAKING IT BETTER IN EVERY WAY.

LOBSTER FISHING IN MARITIMES

Takes Important Places in Fisheries of These Provinces—Value of Catch

Lobstering is one of the chief industries connected with the fisheries of the Maritime Provinces and each year millions of dollars' worth of these little delicacies are taken from the traps of fishermen in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and along Canada's Atlantic seaboard. During the season of 1923 lobsters caught by the fishermen of the provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Quebec yielded a revenue of $6,365,262 according to returns made to the Department of Marine and Fisheries. This was a slight increase in value over the 1922 season brought about by the higher prices secured. In Prince Edward Island and in New Brunswick there were increases in both quantity and value of the catches, but in Nova Scotia adverse weather conditions caused a decrease in the quantity of lobsters taken, but the higher prices obtained over the previous season caused a rise in the total value.

The total catch of lobsters in Nova Scotia last year was 172,720 cwt., valued at $3,061,647, as compared with 173,707 cwt. in 1922 with a value of $2,913,087. The fishing in western Nova Scotia, which opened on March 1, was carried on under abnormal conditions. Ice was piled along the shore until, in the spring, making remunerative operations impossible. The catch for the months of March and April amounted to not more than 12,511 cwt. as against 26,295 cwt. in 1922 and 32,326 cwt. in 1921. With a month's extension of the fishing season, however, the total catch equaled that of the 1922 season. There were 163 canneries in operation during the year, being six more than in 1922.

The catch for the whole of the province of New Brunswick during 1923 amounted to 73,668 cwt., an increase of nearly 4,000 cwt. over 1922. The value of last season's production was $1,239,155, and of the previous year, $1,262,714. The harvest great in the Gulf section was responsible for the increase, resulting in an increase of about 5,000 cwt., but in the Bay of Fundy sections there was a falling off of about 1,300 cwt. Canning was carried on by 167 establishments, an increase of six over the previous year.

The lobster fishery is the most important of the fisheries of Prince Edward Island and the value of the 1923 production, $1,405,906, represented about 80 per cent of the total value of the year's fishing operations. The lobster catch amounted to 97,456 cwt. last season, an increase of nearly 4,000 cwt. over 1922. It remained on the shores until the middle of May but after that fine weather prevailed and operations were carried on successfully, resulting in an increased catch. Ten more canneries were operated during 1923 than in the previous year, the total being 195.

In the province of Quebec the lobster industry does not hold the same position of importance that it does in the Maritime Provinces. Last year the Quebec fisheries produced 87,764 cwt. of lobsters, valued at $538,054.

The Department of Marine and Fisheries has, on account of the importance of this industry, always given the greatest consideration to its preservation. In order to prevent poaching and to keep an effective control on the fishery at all times, a large staff of officers is maintained on the coast and no one may fish for lobsters without first obtaining a license. The possibility of having a license cancelled ensures the careful observance of the regulations. The other chief means used for the preservation of the industry has been the adoption of close seasons and the Department is making a thorough study of this part of the subject to ensure that the seasons adopted are the best possible for all concerned.

TIME FOR PAYMENT EXTENDED ONE YEAR

Lumbermen Get Extension of Time in Which to Pay Balances Due

Fredericton, N. B., Aug. 8.—An extension of time of one year has been granted holders of crown land leases for the payment of the balance due the province under the bonus for renewal arranged in 1919.

Premier Veniot confirmed that the extension had been granted. Some of the limit holders, he said, had urged that they be given another year in which to make payment because of the condition of the lumber industry and market conditions at the present time. About $150,000 is involved.

Under the arrangement fifty per cent of the total bonus was paid in 1923, and the remaining fifty per cent was to have been paid in 1924. As a result of representations which were made at that time the Government decided to split the payment in two parts, accepting one half—or 25 per cent of the total—last year and the remainder was due on August 1st, this year.

WILL ADVERTISE THE MARITIMES

C. N. R. Installing Radio Broadcasting Station at Moncton—One of a Series

The installation of a radio broadcasting plant at Moncton in connection with the Canadian National Railways is an event of considerable interest not only to employees of the railway but to the public generally. Aside from the entertainment that may be afforded, there should be much information broadcasted that will prove beneficial to the Maritime provinces.

Many instructive addresses pertaining to the resources and development of the country are being broadcasted from the C. N. R. stations already constructed. The messages are picked up hundreds of miles away, a great deal of information regarding Canada thus being made available for people in the United States.

With the new station at Moncton completed, those who arrange the programmes will doubtless give serious attention to the dissemination of facts regarding the Maritime provinces. Thousands of people in the New England States, for instance, will thus be able to listen in stories of tourist attractions and opportunities for industrial development in the Atlantic Region. And the Maritime view-point on various public issues can be broadcasted.

Now that many observers are emphasizing the need of increased publicity in the interests of the Maritime provinces, the possibilities of setting forth Maritime advantages through the radio should not be overlooked.

QUEBEC MAKES LARGE GRANT

$50,000 Voted Yearly for Tourist Propaganda in That Province

Quebec, Aug. 16.—The Provincial Government has decided to tender its aid to the Tourist Association of Quebec in order that the country places of the province may be as well organized to receive tourists as are the cities at the present time. This announcement was made today by the premier of the Province, Hon. L. A. Taschereau.

The sum decided upon by the cabinet to-day was $50,000 a year and the only provision made was that the government appoint a representative on the board of directors of the association.

It will be remembered that a short time ago Mr. Joseph Beaudin, Mayor of Outremont and president of the Association, waited upon the Provincial Cabinet in company with other officers of the Association, to ask the Government for aid. It was explained at the present time that while the cities were well able to look after themselves in the matter of attracting tourists the country places were not so fortunate. It was pointed out during the interview that there was a large number of hotels in the country that but in many cases the owners not realizing the value of the tourist trade, took no pains to cater to the motorists and others who visited their towns and villages. In order that this condition might be bettered the Association asked the Government to subscribe $5,000 a month, or $60,000 a year.

OUR BOY SCOUTS

As is apparent through their lack of interest many of our citizens have never fully realized that the small Boy Scout organization here in Campbellton is an offspring of the great international scout movement, recognized the world over as one of the greatest character training organizations in the world for boys of teen age.

The Boy Scout organization with its enormous membership in its hundreds of affiliated branches, had its beginning in England, but it has taken a wonderful hold on the youth of America where it now numbers more than half a million boys. On the eve of the sailing of the picked Boy Scouts from New York to represent the United States in the international meet at Copenhagen, President Coolidge, according to an exchange gave a telephone message of counsel and farewell in which he referred to the basic teachings of scoutwork—reverence for nature, for God and for law—and urged upon the young scouts fidelity to these principles and a faithful discharge of the obligations involved. An eminent professor of history said recently that if the United States had had Rotarians, Kiwanis and other similar national organizations back in the fifties the Civil War might have been averted. This declaration inspires the thought that international organizations as the Boy Scouts ought to have an appreciable value in promoting good will and helping to prevent possible future wars. Surely an association for the youth of our country which has such possibilities deserves liberal consideration and hearty support.

When Lord Byng of Vimy visited Campbellton and Matapedia last year, one of the things he spoke about privately was the Boy Scout movement and he urged the people of this part of the country to promote the organization of Boy Scout Troops on the North Shore. His Excellency pointed out with much earnestness the inestimable value of Scout work in training our youth and expressed the hope that it would be undertaken here.

This movement has been undertaken here but only on a very small scale. Many a great work has started small of course but such a cause as this is obviously worthy of more rapid growth. Only a mere handful of people here appear to be sufficiently interested to devote time or effort to the work. It is to be hoped, however, that in the near future others may be found who, recognizing the need of some such organization in Campbellton and also something of its potential benefits for the young, will come forward and assist the present leaders in an endeavor to make this worthy movement the success it ought to be.

AN IMPORTANT CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities has come to be a meeting of no little importance in relation to municipal affairs and this years convention, the nineteenth, which opens in Moncton this afternoon should be one of wide interest, judging from the programme.
The subjects to be discussed relate to the provincial school law, the house-ing problem, hydro development in N. B., tuberculosis in children, provincial valuation, the administration of criminal law, a non-political board of education and a board of arbitration in the matter of disputes between municipalities. The general discussion on these subjects will bring out much valuable information and it is well that Campbellton is well represented at this important convention. The matters with which these meetings deal touch the lives of the people very closely and the reading public will doubtless follow with considerable interest the discussions at this week's convention.

FALLACY OF BUYING BY MAIL

How would you like to journey to the nearest city for a pound of sugar, or a yard of muslin, or a spool of thread or a smoke? And how would you like to make the trip when you need a prescription filled in a hurry, with death running "you a race?"

You would make some noise if forced to such an extremity—and then more noise.

You would say—and justly so—that a town in which you cannot buy a pound of sugar, or a yard of muslin, or a spool of thread, or a smoke or even get a prescription filled, is a mighty poor excuse for a town and not worth living in.

Yet our merchants can only afford to keep these things for your conveniences as long as you buy other things from them.

It is not doing this town any good to buy the little things here and then chase off to a city or send to a catalogue house when you want something on which the merchant has a chance to make a dollar.

Neither is it doing you any good, for the prosperity of each citizen is dependent to a large extent upon the prosperity of the community as a whole.

We are not telling you something you do not know.

We are simply refreshing your memory in hope the time may come when our people will conclude that a town that is worth living in is worth trading in.

BATHURST HORSE WON

In the 2.20 trot and pace, $400 purse, at Bathurst on Saturday, Hal Gentry, (W. T. Hall) of Bathurst won out after a most grueling race. It required six heats to decide the race.

SALMON SEASON CLOSED

Salmon fishing on the Restigouche closed Friday, Aug. 15th. The past season has been a record breaker as regards the number of fish caught in the nets. The angling season has also been good.

WILL READ PAPER

His Worship Mayor N. C. McKay is in Montreal attending the annual meeting of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities. His Worship will deliver a paper on "The Housing Problem" at that meeting.

CONTRACT AWARDED

The contract for building the Cape-Bathurst road, which will connect the town of Bathurst with the Cape, has been awarded to the Bathurst Construction Co., Ltd., of South Bathurst, the price being in the vicinity of $50,000.

SEWING CIRCLE GOSSIP

There was some discussion at the Sewing Circle this week about the members to be served at the Luncheon Club. The wife of the late Mr. J. H. O'Connor said she had no objection to the list of those being as long as her arm, but as for herself and her husband there was nothing they liked so well as LUXOR COFFEE, which they drink three times a day and as many times often as they can get it.

UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Thomas Roy, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Brockton, Mass., will complete his engagement as supply pastor at the Baptist Church next Sunday. He will preach in the morning on the subject, "Go Thou and Do Likewise", and in the evening on the subject "Building a Campaigner of Royal Arch Masons will attend service in a body in the evening. Mr. Roy will preach at Abol in the afternoon.

ORDAINED TO MINISTRY

Friends in Gaspé County have received word that the Rev. L. Lloyd of Sutton Junction, Que., was ordained to the ministry sometime ago in the chapel of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., by the Right Rev. J. C. Farthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal who was assisted by the Rev. R. R. Smith and Lieut. Col. Rev. Principal MacGregor of that College. At the same time the Rev. W. E. McQueen and the Rev. J. W. McNeil and Rev. B. Goodfellow were made deacons of the Anglican Church.

HOME ON VISIT

Mr. James Nichol, Superintendent of the St. John Fish Hatchery, was in town yesterday enroute to Glenview where he will spend a few weeks vacation with friends and relatives. Mr. Nichol was formerly in charge of the salmon hatchery at New Mills. About three years ago he went to St. John and his many friends on the north shore will be glad to learn of his promotion to the position of superintendent. Incidentally, the hatchery at Lakewood, St. John is considered the finest in the Dominion.

OIL ON THE STREETS

The first experiment of oiling the streets of Newcastle was tried out during the past month on a portion of King's Highway. It was not the oil usually used for this purpose but some refuse oil and grease which was found available. Previous to its application the street was full of swirling dust which the oil quickly allayed. Since its application we have had hot weather and wet weather, yet today after a month's duration, not a particle of dust is raised on this portion of the street, by auto team or wind, which proves conclusively that oil is the solution of the dust nuisance. The Annual S. M. H. Fair October 1, 2 and 3rd.

NEXT MEETING HERE

It was decided at the morning session of the New Brunswick Medical Society Convention to hold the next annual meeting at Campbellton.

RAINS BENEFICIAL

The recent rains have been very beneficial to growing crops, and prospects are very good for an exceptional yield of all root crops.

THE ANNUAL FAIR

The annual fair held under the auspices of the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital A.M. will take place this year on October 1, 2 and 3rd. The various committees have already begun work in connection with the coming event and it is hoped that this year's fair may be an even greater success than in former years.

NO NAME

Some person who signed "a subscriber" sent a memorial notice for publication, but of course we could not publish it. Memorial notices must be paid for at the rate of 60 cents for the notice, and ten cents per line for the notice. Please remember that it is always necessary to sign your name.

SHIPPING

The present season has seen little activity in water shipping at Campbellton. There are however three vessels loading at the local wharf. The ship "Grace Harbor" 1565 tons is loading long lumber for the St. John's Harbour. The "S. S. Halibut" of Glasgow, 1239 tons docked here yesterday and is completing a cargo of spoolwood. The S.S. "Ononette", 438 tons which arrived here last night is loading laths at the government wharf.

MADE LICENSE PLATES

W. H. McQuade, the motor vehicle inspector, who returned from North-west New Brunswick Saturday, reports that he met a license plate artist in Belledune. A set of motor vehicle plates had been manufactured that were very difficult to detect from the real article. The artist will be prosecuted. It was a plain case of forgery, Mr. McQuade said. The decision of the Judge will be awaited with interest as to what kind of forgery the imitation of license plates really is.

We all like to hear of the upward climb of graduates from Campbellton High School.

VISIT FROM FORMER RESIDENT

Hugh P. Marquis, who for a number of years conducted business in Chatham, and later in Campbellton, but is now residing in Cambridge, Mass., was in town yesterday enroute to his home from Campbellton where he has been visiting his sons, Hugh and Walter and other relatives. While in Chatham Mr. Marquis called on a number of his old friends and was accorded a hearty handshake. Mr. Marquis in discussing business conditions in the province generally, felt that the depression in the lumber business had not yet reached its limit, but that Restigouche County was leading the others in its efforts to relieve the situation by manufacturing its lumber into products such as laths, shingles, etc. for which there was a much better market than for the sawn lumber. Chatham Commercial.

Crimean Veteran Praises "Fruit-a-tives"

MAJOR GEO. WALKER
Major George Walker, now a familiar figure in Chatham, Ontario, is one of the men who went through the terrible Indian Mutiny. As he says: "I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, serving under Lord Roberts. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs were stiff, making it impossible for me to walk. My bowels were so constipated that I was in terrible shape until I began to use 'Fruit-a-tives.' They relieved me both of the Rheumatism and the Constipation. Today, I enjoy perfect health—no more Rheumatism or Constipation."

And in another letter, written December 1st, 1923 (eleven years after), Major Walker says: "Fruit-a-tives are keeping me in the best of health and I shall never be without them."

"Fruit-a-tives" are the famous Fruit Treatment—intensive fruit juices combined with tonics—that make you well and keep you well. 25c and 50c—at all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

PLAYED BALL AT CAUSAPSCAL

Dalhousie Nine Played Interesting Game but Were Beaten—Fine Auto Drive

Dalhousie, N. B., Aug. 19—During the early part of this week twenty-five young people from Dalhousie, motored to Causapscal, P. Q., to be present at a most interesting game of Base Ball, played between the Matapedia Valley Boys, and the Resignation Co., shiretown Base Ball players. The weather was fine, and all returned delighted with the way they were entertained. Much praise is given to Mr. A. P. Bouchard, the proprietor of the "Hotel Bellevue," for the hospitable way he treated the New Brunswick boys. Dinner and Supper was served at the hotel to the visitors, and the service was splendid.

The field on which the game was played is to be the future Causapscal race track. It is a fine piece of ground. The game was watched by a large number of spectators.

The distance from Dalhousie to Causapscal, is 68 miles, and every inch of the road was found to be good. The road from Matapedia to Causapscal was a surprise to the Dalhousie visitors. It was found to be in fine condition. Four automobiles took the Dalhousie crowd to the game, including the Dion Buss of Campbellton. The score stood 8-12 in favor of the Causapscal team.

The Dalhousie boys having no field to practice in, were not in shape, to oppose the Matapedia Valley players. The game was an interesting one just the same, and the most friendly feeling resulted from first to last. The line up was as follows:

Causapscal	Dalhousie
C. Bouchard, SS	Godin
F. Bouchard, R.F.	Russell
P. Bouchard, C.P.	Shannon
Ducene, L.F.	LeBlanc
Paradis, 2.B.	Deacon
Girard, 1.B.	Simpson
Gauthier, P.	Lefebvre
Michael, 3.B.	Bernard
O. Bouchard, C.	Harquail
Bolduc and Cabot were managers.

An Object Lesson
A certain sea captain and his chief engineer, tired of endlessly debating which ship could swap easily dispose with, decided to swap pieces for a day. The chief ascended to the bridge and the engineer dived into the engine-room. After a couple of hours the captain suddenly appeared on deck covered with oil and soot, and generally the worse for wear.

"Chief!" he called, wildly beckoning with a monkey wrench. "You'll have to come down here at once. I can't seem to make her go."

"Of course you can't," said the chief, calmly removing his pipe from his mouth. "She's ashore!"—Bottles.

WORKING FOR ADEQUATE FERRY

Outlook Good for Improved Ferry Service Between River and Bay

Dalhousie, N. B., Aug. 18—The effort that is being made to establish a regular ferry service between Dalhousie, Campbellton and Quebec points, is advancing in a most hopeful manner. Mr. LaBilloy, who was instrumental in securing the building of the first ferry wharf in Dalhousie Harbour, and for years obtained sufficient financial aid from the New Brunswick Government, to maintain a steam ferry service between several Quebec points and the town of Dalhousie, has received a letter from Hon. Charles Macell, M.P. (who, with Mrs. Macell, are spending a few weeks at Bonaventure River, P. Q.), the invited guests of Dr. L. Desj, in which the member of Bonaventure Co. states, that within a few weeks, tenders will be called for the wharf at Maguasha, contract to be awarded this fall, and the work proceeded with next spring. With this work carried out, practically assures the success of the complete ferry service next year, between Campbellton, Dalhousie, Maguasha, Fleurant, St. Ommer and Carleton.

Your correspondent has been assured that the Quebec and New Brunswick Governments, will give serious consideration to the question of establishing communication by water between the points just mentioned, now that the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, has established a precedent, of subsidizing the ferry service on the Restigouche River and upper part of the Bay of Chaleur, in entering into an agreement with the owner of a proper steamer according to customary navigation rules, as to freight rates, passenger fares, etc.

Your correspondent is also informed, that in order to make travel easier from the Maguasha wharf for automobile crossing opposite Dalhousie, on their way to any point in Bonaventure or Gaspé Counties, that the members of the Municipal Council of St. John Evangeliste of Nouvelle, will be interviewed about the needed repairs to the road leading from the Maguasha wharf to the regular Highway running between Matapedia and Gaspé, known as the Water road. The road is narrow and has several hills, which can be lessened, and in the opinion of the farmers of Maguasha and LaButte, a great improvement can be made with a reasonable amount of money. The road is only four miles in length, and is the natural outlet for all traffic crossing from Dalhousie, and going into the heart of the large wishing to board the Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway, at the parish of Nouvelle, for passengers' billets en route to any part of Gaspé.

The Great Impersonation

A stirring story of love and adventure.
By R. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Published by arrangement with The British & Colonial Press Limited.

"Her ladyship is very considerate," he said. "Kindly say that I will follow in a few minutes."
Dominey, following within a very few minutes of his summons, was ushered into an apartment, large and comfortably elegant, an apartment of faded white and gold walls, of discoloured gilt-framed pictures of Louis Quinze furniture, shabby but priceless. To his surprise, although he was not invited in, at the time, Mrs. Unthank promptly disappeared. He was from the first left alone with the woman whom he had come to visit.

She was sitting up on her couch and watching him approach. A woman! Surely only a child, with pale cheeks, large anxious eyes, and masses of brown hair brushed back from her forehead. After all, was he indeed a strong man, vowed to great things? There was a queer feeling in his throat, almost a mist before his eyes. She seemed so fragile, so utterly sweetly pathetic. And all the time there was the strange light or was it want of light in those haunting eyes. His speech of greeting was never spoken.

"So you have come to see me, Everard?" she said, in a broken tone. "You are very brave."
He possessed himself of her hand, the hand which a few hours ago had held a dagger to his throat, and kissed the waxlike fingers. It felt to her side like a lifeless thing. Then she raised it and began rubbing softly at the place where his lips had fallen.

"I have come to see you at your bidding," he replied, "and for my-pleasure."

"Pleasure?" she murmured, with a ghostly little smile. "You have learnt to control your words, Everard. You have slept here and you live. I have broken my word. I wonder why?"
"Because, he pleaded, "I have not deserved that you should seek my life."

"That sounds strangely," she reflected. "Doesn't it say somewhere in the Bible, 'A life for a life'? You killed Roger Unthank."
"I have killed other men since in self-defence," Dominey said. "Sometimes it comes to a man that he must slay or be slain. It was Roger Unthank who shot me."

"I shall not talk about him any longer," she decided calmly. "The night before last, his spirit was talking to me below my window. He wants me to go down into the hall and live with him. The very thought is horrible."

"Come," Dominey said, "we will speak of other things. You must tell me what presents I can buy you. I have come back from Africa rich."

"Present?"

"For a single wonderful moment, here was the face of a child who had been offered toys. Her smile of anticipation was delightful, her eyes had lost that strange vacancy. Then, before he could say another word, it all came back again. "Listen to me," she said. "This is important. I have sent for you quite suddenly last night, after I had made up my mind, I lost the desire to kill you. It has gone now. I am not sure about myself any longer. Draw your chair nearer to mine."

Or no, come to my side, here at the other end of the sofa."
She moved her chair to make room for him. When he sat down, he felt a strange trembling through all his limbs.

"Perhaps," she went on, "I shall break my oath. Indeed, I have already broken it. Let me look at you, my husband. It is a strange thing to own after all these years—a husband."

Dominey felt as though he was breathing an atmosphere of burgled and poisoned sweetness. There was a flavour of unreality about the whole situation—the room, this child, woman, her beauty, her delicacy, halting speech and the strange things she said.

"You find me changed?" he asked. "You are wonderfully changed. You look stronger, you are perhaps better-looking, but there is something gone from your face which I thought one never lost."

"You," he said emotionlessly, "are more beautiful than ever Rosamund."

"That can't be altered when you wish," he said. "You can wish where you will. You can have a motor-car, even a house in town. I shall bring some wonderful doctors here, and they will make you quite strong again."

Her large eyes were lifted pitifully to his.

"But how can I leave here?" she asked plaintively. "Every week sometimes, often, he calls to me. If I went away, his spirit would break loose and follow me. I must be here to wave my hand then he goes away."

Dominey was conscious once more of that strange and unexpected fit of emotion. He was unrecognisable to himself. Never before in his life had his heart beaten as it was beating now. His eyes, too, were hot. He had travelled around the world in search of new things, only to find them in this strange, faded chamber side by side with this suffering woman. Nevertheless, he said quietly:

"We must send you some place where the people are kinder and where life is pleasanter. Perhaps you love music and to see beautiful pictures. I think that we must try and keep you from thinking."

"See sighed in a perplexed fashion. "I wish I could get it out of my blood that I want to kill you. Then you could take me right away. Other married people have lived together and hated each other. Why shouldn't we? We may forget even to hate."

Dominey staggered to his feet, walked to the window, threw it open and leaned out for a moment. Then he closed it and came back. This back to back element in the situation had been a shock to him. All the time she was watching him composedly.

"Well?" she asked, with a strange smile. "What do you say? Would you like to hold me a wife's hand which frightened you last night?"

She held it out to him, soft and warm. Her fingers even returned the pressure of his. She looked at him pleasantly, and once more he felt like a man who has wandered into a strange country and has lost his bearings.

"I want you so much to be happy," he said hoarsely, "but you are not strong yet, Rosamund. We cannot decide anything in a hurry."

"How surprised you are to find that I am willing to be nice to you!" she murmured. "But why not? You cannot know why I have so suddenly changed my mind about you—and I have changed it. I have seen the truth these few minutes."

"I am," she said, "I should not kill you."

"What is it?" he demanded. "She shook her head with all the joy of a child who keeps a secret. "You are clever," she said. "I will leave you to find it out. I am excited now, and I want you to go away for a little time. Please send Mrs. Unthank to me."

The prospect of release was a strange relief, mingled still more strangely with regret. He lingered over her hand.

"If you walk in your sleep to night, then," he begged, "you will leave your dagger behind?"

"I have not told you," she answered, as though surprised, "that I have abandoned my intention. I shall kill you. Even though I may walk in my sleep—and sometimes the nights are so long—it will not be your death I seek."

CHAPTER XI

Dominey left the room like a man in a dream, descended the stairs to his own part of the house, caught up a hat and stick and strode out into the sea mist which was fast enveloping the gardens. There was all the chill of the North Pole in that ice-cold cloud of vapour, but nevertheless his forehead remained hot, his pulse burning. He passed out of the postern gate which led from the walled garden on to a broad marsh, with dykes running here and there, and lapping tongues of sea water creeping in with the tide. He made his way seaward with uncertain steps until he reached a rough and stony road; here he hesitated for a moment, looked about him, and then turned back at right angles. Soon he came to a little village, a village of ancient cottages, with seasoned, red-brick tiles, trim little patches of garden, a church embowered with tall elm trees, a triangular green at the cross-roads. On one side a low, thatched building—the Dominey Arms; on another, an ancient, square stone house, on which was a brass plate. He went over and read the name, rang the bell, and asked the trim maid-servant who answered it for the doctor. Presently, a man of youthful middle-age presented himself in the surgery and bowed. Dominey was for a moment at a loss.

"I came to see Doctor Harrison," he ventured.

"Doctor Harrison retired from practice some years ago," was the courteous reply. "I am his nephew. My name is Stillwell."

"I understood that Doctor Harrison was still in the neighborhood," Dominey said. "My name is Dominey—the Byward Dominey."

"I guessed as much," the other replied. "My uncle lives with me here, and to tell you the truth he was hoping that you would come and see him. He remains one patient only."

Doctor Stillwell added, in a graver tone, "You can imagine who that would be."

His caller bowed. "Lady Dominey, I presume."

"The young doctor opened the door and motioned to his guest to precede him."

"My uncle has his own little apart-ment," he said. "You must let me take you to him."

They moved across the pleasant white stone hall into a small apartment with French windows leading out to a flagged terrace and tennis lawn. An elderly man, broad-shouldered, with weather-beaten face, grey hair, and of somewhat serious aspect, looked around from the window before which he was standing, examining a case of fishing flies.

"Uncle, I have brought an old friend in to see you," his nephew announced.

The doctor glanced expectantly at Dominey, half moved forward as though to greet him, then checked himself and shook his head doubtfully.

"You certainly remind me very much of an old friend, sir," he said. "But I can see now that you are not he. I do not believe that I have ever seen you before in my life."

There was a moment's somewhat tense silence. Then Dominey advanced a little stiffly and held out his hand.

"Come, Doctor," he said, "I can scarcely have changed as much as all that. Even these years of strenuous life."

"You mean to tell me that I am speaking to Everard Dominey?" the doctor intimated.

"Without a doubt!"

The doctor shook hands coolly. His was certainly not the enthusiastic welcome of an old family attendant to the representative of a great family.

"I should certainly never have recognized you," he confessed.

"My presence here is nevertheless indisputable," Dominey continued. "Still attracted by your old pastime, I see, Doctor?"

"I have only taken up fly fishing," the other replied drily, "since I gave up shooting."

There was another somewhat awkward pause, which the younger man endeavored to bridge over.

"Fishing, shooting, golf," he said. "I really don't know what we poor medical practitioners would do in the country without sport."

"I shall remind you of that later," Dominey observed. "I am told that the shooting is one of the only glories which has not passed away from Dominey."

"I shall look forward to the reminder," was the prompt response.

His uncle, who had been bending once more over the case of flies, turned abruptly around.

"Arthur," he said, addressing his nephew, "you had better start on your round. I dare say Sir Everard would like to speak to me privately."

"I wish to speak to you certainly," Dominey admitted, "but only professionally. There is no necessity."

"I am late already, if you will excuse me," Doctor Stillwell interrupted. "I will be getting on. You must excuse my uncle, Sir Everard," he added in a lower tone, drawing him a little towards the door, "if his manners a little gruff. He is devoted to Lady Dominey, and sometimes thinks that he broods over her case too much."

Dominey nodded and turned back into the room to find the doctor, his hands in his old-fashioned breeches pockets, eying him steadily.

"I find it very hard to believe," he said a little curtly, "that you are really Everard Dominey."

"I am afraid you will have to accept me as a fact, nevertheless. I shall appear as such."

The old man continued, eying him appraisingly "does not in any way bear out the description I had of you some years ago. I was told that you had become a broken-down drunkard."

"The world is full of liars," Dominey said equably. "You have appeared to have met with one at least."

"You have not even," the doctor persisted, "the appearance of a man who has been used to excess of any sort."

"Good old stock, ours," his visitor observed carelessly. "Plenty of two-bottle men behind my generation."

"You have also gained courage since the days when you fled from England. You slept at the Hall last night?"

"Where else? I also, if you want to know, occupied my own bedchamber—with results," Dominey added, throwing his head a little back, to display the scar on his throat, "altogether insignificant."

"That's just your luck," the doctor declared. "You've no right to have gone there without seeing me; no right, after all that has passed, to have even approached your wife."

"You seem rather a martinet as regards my domestic affairs," Dominey observed.

"That's because I know your history," was the blunt reply.

Uninvited, Dominey seated himself in an easy chair.

"You were never my friend, Doctor," he said. "Let me suggest that we conduct this conversation on a purely professional basis."

"I was never your friend," came the retort, "because I have known you always as a selfish brute; because you were married to the sweetest woman on God's earth, gave up none of your bad habits, frightened her into insanity by reeling home with another man's blood on your hands, and then stayed away for over ten years instead of making an effort to repair the mischief you had done."

WHEN USING
WILSON'S FLY PADS
READ DIRECTIONS CAREFULLY AND FOLLOW THEM EXACTLY

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

This is it—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, raise one of the blinds where the sun shines in, about eight inches, place as many Wilson's Fly Pads as possible on plates (properly wetted with water but not flooded) on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room closed for two or three hours, then sweep up the flies and burn them. See illustration below.

Put the plates away out of the reach of children until required in another room.

CANADA LEADS AS MOST POPULAR VACATION PLACE

That Canada is the most popular place for a vacation is indicated by statistics weekly announced in the City Hall registrar's office. Figures show that each day, between 100 and 150 residents apply at this bureau for birth certificates, which enable them to return to the States without difficulty. The work of issuing these certificates to the Canada-bound Bostonians in the past month has far exceeded that of registering births and marriages.

Tigg—"Naw. I went into a restaurant there to get a glass of milk. The waiter didn't speak any English, I drew a picture of a cow, and the son-of-a-gun went out and brought me a ticket to a bull fight."

Igg—"Serves you right for ordering milk in Cuba."

THE rule that governs the use of plaid for the Infantile Parisienne seems to be that the smaller she chud the larger the plaid. On the narrow sidewalk of the Rue des Petit Champs—that short street that joins the Rue de la Paix and the Avenue de l'Opéra — a tiny Frenchman was seen recently wearing a frock of yellow and coral colored plaid of enormous pattern. Gray and green is a new combination and covert color and yellow another. Plaids should always be used for simple models, and the straight frock style closing, with a neat collar and cuffs is an excellent choice.

Our European Trip

A Brief Account of our Pleasant Experiences with The Canadian Weekly Newspaper Party on our Trip abroad
By H. B. ANSLOW

Brussels, June 23, 1924
At 7 o'clock last evening our special train drew into the great Brussels (North) Station. Here we were met by the immense crowds which, at this particular hour, but our conductors were able to guide us to a quiet waiting room, where we were greeted by a large delegation of local newspaper men, who assured us that they were delighted to have a visit from their fellow craftsmen from Canada.
Early this morning we were up, had breakfast, and again on our way. The members of our party from the various hotels were instructed to gather at the "Porte de Schaerbeek" at 8.30, from where we were to proceed in a body to the beautiful "Congress Palace" at the base of which the Liege body of Belgium's Unknown Soldier. Here after an impressive ceremony our manager placed a very beautiful wreath upon the marble slab which marks the grave.

We were deeply impressed with the reverence and respect shown for the honored grave. Every man, be he what he may, either walking or in cars, reverently raised his hat while passing. The monument and surroundings are very beautiful and as the day was bright I was able to take photos of our party at this spot.
Between 9.30 and 10.30, we were received by the Central Industrial committee, and His Excellency, Mr. Hymans, Minister of Foreign Affairs. Immediately after we were conducted to the House of Parliament and the Senate. It was in the Senate chamber that during the German occupation many noted trials were held and Belgian and other peoples were sentenced to death. Seated here in one of the member's chairs and 20th Cavell said that she was sentenced to death. The rest is being served as a lasting memorial to this brave nurse. While every other seat bears a name of a Senator, this one has no place, and will never again be used. Many of our party reverently sat a moment in the seat and passed on.

At about noon we proceeded to the Hotel de Ville, or City Hall, where we were the guests of the city, and were welcomed by the civic officials, who were their full regalia of office. Here we were received in a large reception hall, the hall in which was held the dance upon the eve of the battle of Waterloo, and which inspired Lord Byron's famous poem.

After our reception here, and inspection of this beautiful building with its art treasures, we were conducted to a balcony overlooking the famous Guild Square, a square which is so rich in historic renown that we have only to mention it to be remembered by our readers. From the vantage point we looked down upon the whole square, at one end of which had been erected a high altar. Shortly after our arrival, the sound of sacred music, we beheld the annual Corpus Christi procession. This procession was a very brilliant one, and the musical features were very impressive.

But I must hurry on, or my readers will conclude that this is a tiresome recital.
After lunch our charabancs were at our disposal to convey us to Tervuren, through the extensive and beautiful Forest de Tervuren. Here we visited the Colonial Museum, where we saw a large number of many interesting resources of Belgium and her colonies. Afternoon tea was served in the beautiful gardens.

In returning to Brussels we visited the "Tir National" and saw the spot where Edith Cavell was executed, and where her body was first buried. The spot is marked by a marble slab. A little Belgian girl, provided each of our party with a rose, which we in turn deposited upon this hallowed spot.

At 5.45 we were due at the Royal Palace, where at six o'clock His Majesty the King of Belgium had expressed the wish to have us present. Promptly at the hour set, the doors leading from the large room in which we had gathered to the reception room opened, and we filed in. Here His Majesty, was to receive us. Each in turn were presented by Sir George Graham, British Ambassador to Belgium, and received a hearty hand clasp from the King, who chatted to us, and asked us of our impressions of his country, or questioned us about Canada.

The reception took a considerable time as we were a large party. We were assured that this being held at this particular time was a great honor, but we fully comprehended that it was as Canadians His Majesty received us, and because of his kindly feelings towards our boys who so bravely fought in Flanders Fields that he at considerable inconvenience to himself did us this honor.
As some of us wished to visit the Field of Waterloo before dark we hurried back to our hotel, and without waiting for dinner, hired a taxi and proceeded post haste to this historic spot.

NOW COMING INTO PROVINCE

Our Great Supply of Hardwoods Now Subject of Inspection and Speculation

Industrial development in Gloucester county in connection with which restoration of the steel rails on the railway leading to the Drummond iron mines, not far from Bathurst, was requested of the Provincial Government when Angus McKean, of Bathurst, appeared before the cabinet last week, in net the reopening of the mines, but a new hardwood industry.

The veil of secrecy was thrown about Mr. McKean's long confidence in the Province and his colleagues, but it was hinted afterwards that the restoration of the rails was required for the re-opening of the mines. The real purpose, it has been learned, is to establish a hardwood industry. Railway facilities are necessary for hauling hardwood supplies to the place of manufacture.

If the new hardwood industry in Gloucester county develops into a reality, it will mark another important step in the development of New Brunswick's hardwood resources, which are apparently, to be extensively exploited in the northern counties of the province. Some time ago it was reported that the Fraser Companies, Limited, would establish a hardwood manufacturing plant at St. Leonard, and there have been other pretentious proposals under consideration by various lumber interests.

Matapedia

Mr. P. W. Fortier of Quebec, accompanied by Mr. P. E. Cote, Barrister of New Carlisle, was here on Monday, Aug. 4th. These gentlemen were in the midst of the amiable invitation of Mr. Octave Gallant, to go fishing in the "pool" owned by Mr. Gallant on the Matapedia River. They caught three splendid salmon, one weighing 24 lb.

Mr. Fortier's family as well as Mr. Cote's only arrived on Monday evening and they all went down to the A. Dubé Hotel. Early on Tuesday morning, Mr. Fortier left in automobile for Quebec, while Mr. Cote returned to New Carlisle.

There is considerable talk now in Bonaventure Co. about the by-election which is to be held shortly in order to replace Mr. Bugeaud, appointed magistrate. Mr. P. E. Cote, who will be the Liberal candidate, said that he has no fear about the result; he is certain of carrying the county by a large majority if he has any opposition.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend—Mrs. J. R. McMahon, 153 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring sick, ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feeling and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lowell, Mass., for a free copy of Lydia Pinkham's Private Text Book, upon "Advice to Women."
