The committee wed evidence which cut off the heads of shellings, but the moment they proposed bring home a gift of a similar nature of a Minister, objection was raised. It is not the propriety of the testimonial, a the facts regarding it they wanted to restigate, and then, as jurors and judges, cy could draw their own conclusions. He differed from Mr. Foster in saying that that the committee had failed to discover a system of improprieties. The whole course of the inquiry had been to show that the discipline and even the morale of the public departments had been excessively lax. He thought it was quite proper to request the House to direct an investigation into this testimonial.

Mr. Mulock—I much regret that Mr. Foster thinks the disclosures before this committee have been trifling. The prospects are bad for the country. Is it trifling that public servants obtain money contrary to law? Is it a trifle for public servants to accept bribes under such circumstances as to warrant the dismissal of those officers? THE LANGEVIN TESTIMONIAL.

The list of subscribers to the Langevin testimonial, which was secured yesterday by the press, includes such names as those of Cautelop, with whom Arnoldi did business for the Public Works Department; Foote, of the Quebec Chronicle, who has had a profitable connection with the public treasury; cash, $1,000, the contribution of Larkin, Connolly & Co.; Beemer, $1,000; Senceal, $1,000; Onderdonk, $500; collected in Quebec by McGreevy, $1,800; Robitaille, $250, and so on. Total, $23,731.

He could not Mr. Murphy knew who "our friends" were and where the donations went, but the witness did not and had never asked who they were although he knew the firm had paid $25,000, $22,000 and $25,000 to them. The committee pressed him with persistent questionings, but deaced nothing more than disclaimers of any knowledge of where the money went to. noney went to.

A rumor is current that Mr. Abbott and Sir John Thompson are insisting that Sir Hector Langevin must withdraw from the Cabinet. But Sir Hector is still stolid and defiant. It is said that Uncle Thomas will absolutely refuse to say what was me with the money that came into his hal is from Larkin, Connolly & Co., or how the election funds were distributed. Arrangement has been made for his appearance on the stand on Tuesday next.

RUTH, THE CLEANER.

Lessons from an Oriental Harvest Scene.

How Trouble Tends to Develop Character -The Beauty of Unfaltering Friendship-Dr. Talmage's Discourse to a Colorado Audience.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FALLS, Col., Aug. 2 .-Green Moustain Falls, Col., Aug. 2.—
Dr. Talmage preached here to-day to an immense audience. His text was taken from Ruth, ii., 3: "And she went and came and gleaned in the field after the reapers; and her hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech." No season the kindred of Elimelech." No season can be more enchanting in any country than the season of harvest. The time that Ruth and Naomi arrive at Bethle-hem is harvest time. It was the custom when a sheaf fell from the load in the when a sheaf fell from the load in the harvest field for the reapers to refuse to gather it up, that was to be left for the poor who might happen to pass that way. If there were handfuls of grain scattered across the field after the main harvest had been reaped, instead of raking it, as farmers do now, it was, by the custom of the land, left in its place, so that the poor, coming along that way, might glean it and get their bread. Boaz owns a large farm, and he goes out to gather in the grain. Coming there, right behind the swarthy, sun-browned reapers, he beholds a beautiful woman gleaning—a woman more fit to bend to a harp or sit upon a throne than to stoop among the sheaves. Ah, that was an eventful day! It was love at first sight. Boaz forms an attachment for the womanly gleaner—an attachment for the womanly gleaner—an attachment for the womanly while Ruth, with an ephah, or nearly a bushel of barley, goes home to Naomi to tell her the successes and adventures of the day. That Ruth, who left her native land of Moab in darkness, and journeyed through an undying affection for her mother-in-law, is in the harvest field of Boaz, is affianced to one of the best families in Judah, and becomes in after-time the ancestress of Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory! Out of so dark a night did there ever dawn so bright a morning?

I learn, in the first place, from this suba night did there ever dawn so bright a morning?

I learn, in the first place, from this subject how trouble develops character. It was bereavement, poverty and exile that developed, illustrated and announced to all ages the sublimity of Ruth's character. He is a very unfortunate man who has no trouble. It was sorrow that made John Bunyan the better dreamer, and Doctor Young the better peet, and O'Convell the better orator, and Bishop Hall the better preacher, and Havelock the better soldier, and Kitto the better encyclopedist, and Ruth the better daughter-in-law. Grecian mythology said that the fountain of Hippocrene was struck out by the foot of the winged horae, Pegasus. I have often noticed in life that the brightest and most beautiful fountains of Christian. and most beautiful fountains of Christian and most beautiful fountains of Christian-comfort and spiritual life have been struck out by the iron-shod hoof of disaster and calamity. I see Daniel's courage best by the flash of Nebuchadnezzar's furnace. I see Panl's prowess bost when I find him on the foundering ship under the glare of the lightning in the breakers of Melita. God crowns his children amid the of the lightning in the breakers of Melita. God crowns his children amid the howling of wild beasts and the chopping of blood-splashed guillotines and the crackling fires of martyrdom. It took the persecutions of Marcus Aurelius to develop Polycarp and Justin Martyr. It took the Pope's bull and the Cardinal's curse, and the world's anathema to develop Martin Luther. It took all the hostilities against the Scotch Covenanters and the fury of Lord Claverhouse to develop James Renwick, and Andrew Melville, and Hugh McKail, the glorious martyrs of Scotch history. It took the stormy sea, and the December blast, and the desolate New England coast, and the war-whoop of savages, to show forth the war-whoop of savages, to show forth prowess of the Pilgrim Fathers— When amd the storms they sang. And the stars heard, and the sea; And the sounding asiles of the dim wood Rang to the anthems of the free. And the sounding alsies of the dim wood Rang to the anthems of the free.

It took all our past national distresses, and it takes all our present national sorrows to lift up our nation on that high career where it will march along after the foreign depotisms that have mocked and the tyrannies that have jeered, shall be swept down under the omnipotent wrath of God, who hates oppression, and who, by the strength of his own red right arm, will make all men free. And so it is individually, and in the family, and in the church, and in the world, that, through darkness and storm and trouble, men, women, churches, nations are developed. omen, churches, nations are developed. Again, I see in my text the beauty of un-fastering friendship. I suppose there were plenty of friends for Naomi while she was in prosperity; but of all her acquaintances, how many were willing to trudge off with her toward Judea, when she had to make her toward Judea, when she had to make that lonely journey? One—the heroine of my text. One—absolutely one. I suppose when Naomi's husband was living, and they had plenty of money, and all things were well, they had a great many callers; but I suppose that after her husband died.

were well, they had a great many callers; but I suppose that after her husband died, and her property went, and she got old and poor, she was not troubled very much with callers. Oh, these beautiful sunflowers that spread out their colors in the morning hour! but they are always asleep when the sun is going down! Job had plenty of friends when he was the richest man in Uz; but when his property went and his trials came, then there were none so much that pestered as Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, the Zophar the Naamathite. Life often seems to be a mere game, where the successful player pulls down all the other men into his own lap. Let suspicions arise about a man's character, and he becomes like a bank in a panic, and all the imputations rush on him and break down in a day that character which in due time would have had strength to defend itself. A hog can uproot a century plant. In this world, so full of

The smoker that the namber of passengers in time world, so full of that summer resident train service to and fro, morning and evening, to service to and fro, morning and evening, to service to and fro, morning and evening, to suit business hours," said a Beachite, "you would find that summer residents at the Port would be still more numerous, and that the number of passengers in time world which starts the port would pay the railroad authorities well. Of course I can understand that, with the present uncertainty as regards the re-lease of the lords of th traverse the desert, and we are pounded and flailed of misrepresentation and abuse, and we have to urge our way through 10,000 obstacles that have to be slain by our own right arm. But, blessed be God, the day of rest and reward will come. On the tiptops of the captured battlements we will shout the story; if not in this world, then in that world where there is no gall to drink, no burdens to carry, no battles to fight. "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat, for the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall lead them to living fountains of water, and God shall wipe all tears from their eyes." It was very hard for Noah to endure the scoffing of the people in his day, while he was trying to build the ark, and was every morning quizzed about his old boat that would never be of any practical use, but when the deluge came, and the top of the mountains disappeared like the backs of sea monsters, and the elements, lashed up in fury, clapped their hands over a drowned world, then Noah in the ark rejoiced in his own safety and in the safety of his family, and looked out on the wreek of a ruined earth. Christ, hounded of persecutors, denied a pillow, worse maltreated than the tnieves on either side of the cross, human hate smacking its lips in satisfaction after it had been draining his last drop of blood, the sheeted dead bursting from the sephulchres at his crucifixion. Tell me, O Gethsemane and Golgotha! were there ever darker times than those? Like the booming of the midnight sea against the rock, the surges of Christ's anguish beat against the gates of eternity, to be scheed back by all thrones of heaven and all the dengeons of hell. But the day of reward comes for Christ; all the pomp and dominion of this world are to be hung on his throne, uncrowned heads are to bow before him on whose head are many crowns, and all the celestial worship is to come up at his feet, like the humming of the forest, like the tundering of the seas, while all heaven, r

Christ!"
That song of love, now low and far,
Ere long shall swell from star to star;
That light, the breaking day which tips
The golden-spired Apocalypse.

Again, I learn from my subject that events which seem to be most insignificant may be momentous. Can you imagine anything more unimportant than the coming of a poor woman from Moab to Judea? Can you imagine anything more trivial than the fact that this Ruth just happened to alight—as they say—just haptrivial than the fact that this Ruth just happened to alight—as they say—just happened to alight on that field of Bonz? Yet all ages, all generations, have an interest in the fact that she was to become an ancestress of the Lord Jesus Christ, and all nations and kingdome must look at that one little incident with a thrill of unspeakable and eternal satisfaction. So it is in your history and mine; events that you thought of no importance at all have been of the greatest moment.

There are a few moments left worth the gleaning. Now, Ruth, to the field! May each one have a measure full and running over! Oh, you gleaners, to the field. And if there be in your household an aged one or a sick relative that is not strong enough to come forth and toil in this field, then let to come forth and toll in this held, then let Ruth take home to feeble Naomi this sheaf of gleaning; "He that goeth forth and weepeth bearing precious seed, shall doubt-less come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." May the Lord God of Ruth and Naomi be our portion forever!

AT THE LAKESIDE. Evidences of the Increasing Popularity of Port Stanley. Growth and Improvement of New Or-chard Beach-Advantages of a Summer Residence at the Port-How It Is Extending East and West.

Port Stapley has blossomed out with more vigor than ever as a summer resort this season. Perhaps the most activity in this line is shown at the charming suburb to the east—New Orchard Beach. This locality was almost unthought of a couple of years ago, but now is dotted with neat cottages, and has all the stability of a full-grown settlement with the promise of budding youth. Its drawback last season was the difficulty of access; now the beach was the difficulty of access; now the beach forms a convenient and pretty avenue, a decidedly easier and shorter walk than over the big hill, however pleasant that may be. For six or seven years the lake has been unprecedentedly high, but seems to have now resumed its wonted level with the above result. The beach forms a splendid driveway, and people frequently exercise their horses on its smooth surface.

Another favor which nature has bestowed upon this locality is its excellent bathing

Another favor which nature has bestowed upon this locality is its excellent bathing privileges. The bottom is magnificent and slopes so gradually that one may walk out nearly 200 feet. This is a great advantage for the children, and relieves the parents from any fear of drowing accidents. The residents thus have at their doors a luxury processible of attainment by a weltering residents thus have at their doors a luxury impossible of attainment by sweltering Londoners at home, who are debarred from the River Thames by very cogent reasons, and must confine themselves to the Sulphur Baths on the more limited tub. Boating, Baths on the more limited tub. Boating, of course, is open to all, and it is intended to erect a dook for the purpose next year. Inland residents are subjected to so many irksome restrictions during hot weather, that it is no wonder so many of them flock to the banks of Lake Erie in order that their families may enjoy a healthful rural existence for the time-being. And it is doubtful whether it costs a Londoner much, if any more to reside at Port Stanley than athome, such are the railway and other facilities—old clothes may be worn with impunity for instance. instance.

Found Out.

Found Out.

It takes a little persuasion sometimes to come to a right conclusion, but when we do, we know what's the right thing thereafter; as for example: 108 King street west, Toronto, Ont., "I was persuaded, through a friend of mine, to try some St. Jacobs Oil on an old running sore on my father's leg, and have found it a splendid medicine. It is wonderful the way it healed up his leg." A. D. TINGLEY.

A USE FOR CONVICT LABOR.

New York Journal of Commerce.]
We have urged at various times during the last 40 years the employment of convicts at road making. The iron horse with his steel track has come into the carrying his steel track has come into the carrying the steel track has come into the carrying his his steel track has come into the carrying business, to the great neglect of all the country thoroughfares. It would pay the people of every town and country to construct and maintain the very best country roads through every part of their settlement. If this was done in the most thorough meaning at the expense of the tax. horough manner at the expense of the tax thorough manner at the expense of the tax-payers the outlay would be a most profit-able investment. The want of united ac-tion has proved a serious obstacle to this most necessary work. The State might undertake it without any great expense, and by employing the convicts not only provide every part of the commonwealth with roads that would be useful and attractive, richly reconsiding the service but also make the

THE REIGN OF TUPPER.

In a recent speech in the House of Commons Mr. Cameron, of Huron, got back at Sir Charles Tupper for his reference to leading members of the Liberal party as "ruined gamesters" in the following languages.

WHY SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN SHOULD [Toronto Week.]

there is a certain degree of reasonable suspicion which destroys the usefulness of a public officer and disqualifies him for a position of responsibility and trust. No business man would retain a clerk in such a position, pending the results of an investition, when appearances and circumstantial evidence were as much against him, as they are, in view of the evidence of Mr. Murphy, Mr. Valin, and of written documents, against the present head of the Department of Public Works. So long as there is a possibility of innocence there is a possibility of grave hardship in acting on the presumption of guilt. But after all, as Butler long since pointed out, "probabilities are the very guide of life." And in the case of Sir Hector Langevin there is this to be said further. The very evidence that should prove the honesty of the man would shatter the honesty of the Minister and certify his utter incompetence for the position he holds. For there is absolutely no escape from the alternatives of incompetency or dishonorable conduct.

ly appreciate what a truly wonder-ful medicine it is. The delicious sensations of healing, easing, clearing, strength-gathering and recovering are unknown joys. For German Syrup we do not ask easy cases. Sugar and water may smooth a throat or stop a tickling—for a while. This is as far as the ordinary cough medicine goes. Boschee's German Syrup is a discovery, a great Throat and Lung Specialty. Where for years there have been sensitiveness, pain, coughing, spitting, hemorr-hage, voice failure, weakness, slip-ping down hill, where doctors and medicine and advice have been swallowed and followed to the gulf of despair, where there is the sickening conviction that all is over and the end is inevitable, there we place German Syrup. A year ago, and before the shameful and humiliating revela-was awarded the contract for the stone before the shameful and humiliating revelations now being laid bare at Ottawa were any more than talked about, when Rykert alone had been disgraced, after asserting that he was no worse than many of his associates in Parliament, Principal Grant, was able to freeze out the lowest tenderers Kingston, addressed 400 ministers in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian were ready to do the work for $42,000, and Church in these terms:

hese things? On every side revelations or oublic iniquity were being thrust upon heir attention; contractors were flaunting the wealth which they had obtained by Governmental fraud. The highest court in the land recently declared the conduct of a member of Parliament disgraceful, corrupt and scandalous. This man who had been thus impeached appealed to his constituency and secured the suffrage of 1,300 electors, and was again returned. True, his majority made, but on the advice of sandalous and all the chances he has had Dewdney does not know enough to quit his was responsible for his election, and as Christian men all Canadians were responsible until this scandal was wiped away by the verdict of a majority. (Applause.) Critics might say these were not religious subjects. He would ask with what religious subjects. He would ask with what had celligion to do, if not with morality and ha had religion to do, if not with morality and public justice? Can a man be religious and steal? Can that righteousness which exalteth a nation prevail amidst theft and exalteth a nation prevail amidst theft and orime? They were accustomed to pray "Thy will be done on earth.' Christ taught them this prayer. What did it mean? Surely it meant the reign of universal justice. But now the very organization of society is diseased, and darkness is impending over the people. A grave crisis is at hand."

The newspaper report tells us that the 400 ministers and the whole of the vast con gregation that listened to the eloquent preacher burst into applause as he completed his eloquent appeal. Dr. Grant tendered this advice when the rascalities of which he spoke were merely talked about— now they are swern to. We have a right to ask where the able Principal is now If it was necessary for the Church to speak out because Rykert betrayed the confidence of old Mr. Sands, and because revelations of public iniquity were thrust people is laid bare, Dr. Grant and all who hold with him that right eousness exalteth a nation, and that it is the duty of the man of God to "cry aloud and spare not," can

Of course the larger transactions to which we have referred can be character-ized only as downright, unblushing robberies." While not at present pro-nouncing on the relative guilt of individuals, especially those high in office, the Baptist says that it "seems impossible wever, that the Minister of Public Works can escape condemnation on the ground either of gross corruption or of utter and astounding incompetence." This is the view that every person who has carefully read the evidence must be forced to. Surely such a man should be instantly relegated to private life.

Where the strong and never-ceasing pr test of healthy public opinion could be brought to bear with greatest advantage at the present moment is on the members Parlian.ent. When members of Parliament are quite agreeable to let the facts regarding the peculations of subordinate public servants come out, but apply the party ash the moment that a Minister of the Crown is placed in danger of exposure, it is time for the people, whether they are ministers of religion or plain laymen, to protest with united voice. Such a policy of concealment is assuredly a be-tokenment of guilt, and should call for the severest condemnation of every honest citizen. The Montreal Star, which supported the present Government at the last general election, and with other Conservaive journals calls for the resignation of Sir Hector Langevin, the Government leader in the Commons, was forced to this conclusion on Thursday last:

"There is an evident disposition on the part of a majority of the members of the Public Accounts Committee to screen Min-Public Accounts Committee to screen Ministers. Whenever a question is asked, the answer to which threatens to implicate a member of the Cabinet, it is promptly objected to as irrelevant. Mr. Dewdney's butler is permitted to give evidence against himself, but not against Mr. Dewdney. As Napoleon would have said, this policy is worse than a crime, it is a blunder. The impression created in the public mind by these unfair attempts to screen the Ministers is much more hurtful to the Government than the suppressed evidence would probably have been."

Bad enough though the suppression of evidence in the charges affecting Dewdney

vidence in the charges affecting Dewdney ere the complete burking of the inquiry into the relations of Sir Hector Langevin with Contractor Charlebois, the favorite manipulator of the Langevin block, were work of the block. RECIPROCITY is the order of the day. France and Russia are now reported to have entered into an arrangement to mutually exchange products. It is far more pleasant to hear that the nations of the earth are endeavoring to build up relations that make for peace than to learn that they are getting ready to fly at one another's throats. The more reciprocity the less likelihood is there of the contracting nations going to war. Trade is a wonderful cementer of countries.

SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN is stated by his friends to be the most careful adminis trator in the present Government. He has traded on that reputation. It would be just as easy to advertise on the moon as for any importer to give the same value in imported cigars as we offer in our "La Cadena" and "La Flora" brands of clear Havana cigars. The higher the price, the greater the duty. Cheap cigars made in Havana are in the majority of cases offered to the Canadian public as fine goods.

The Finance Committee Looks Into the Fire Hall "Extras."

They Find an Order That Did No Come Before the Council-The Ex-Engineer Denies Responsibility, But Ordered "Extras" Done-The Leonard Memorial-Engineer's Salary,

The Council has given the Finance Committee a little nut to crack in the shape of the much-talked of Central Fire Hall "extras." Friday night the members applied a preliminary tooth, but more pressure will be required before they reach the kernel. The following shows the respective amounts of the biggest contracts and "extras":

Tracy.

Inquiry into the Council minutes of that date, however, revealed that only one of the resolutions thus carried had ever come before the Council, as it should in the regular order of business.

Ald. Gartshore remarked that it looked as if the matter had been purposely withheld.

Ex-Engineer Tracy's letter on the subject was read. In it he states that he had passed some of the accounts in what was 'necessarily a very disagreeable matter,' but he was in no way responsible for the work done.

Mr. Colerick, who was present to urge Mr. Colerick, who was present to drige the payment of his long-standing account, was asked to explain under whose instruc-tions his portion of the work was done. He stated that everything was ordered verbally by the city engineer. He never had a written order from him and no tenders were

Ald. Taylor-I don't think the engineer should have applauded himself so much in that letter in view of this.

It was finally decided to instruct the city clerk and the engineer to look over, the documents and report back to the committee. Ald. Taylor's motion to pay the contractors the amounts due them was laid over pending the investigation, although the committee desired it understood that no blame whatever rested with the con-tractors, who had all done their work by order. A proposal to have the members of No. 2 Committee of last year appear before the committee for examination was dropped. They will probably be questioned on the matter, however.

A West Williams Farmer in Serious Situation

cent for Trial on a Charge of Arson—He Did Not Love His Wife, but Admired a Younger Woman—Startling Evidence Elicited.

Evidence Elicited.

The court room at the village of Parkhill was crowded Friday with people anxious to hear something of a case which has excited intense interest throngbout the county. Benjamin Barnes, a West Williams farmer, and Frances J. Garraway, employed by him as a domestic, appeared before Squire Wells. Barnes is charged with arson in setting fire to his house in April last, and the girl was accused of inciting him to the crime. The prisoner is past middle age, while the girl is an English immigrant, rather good look. In the grant of th

Thomas Dignam said that Mr. Wade and citement; and that she was going to stick by prisoner because he was going to marry her. In cross-examination witness said that he had been ordered off the place by Barnes, who was jealous of him on Miss Garraway's account. Mrs. James Snowden gave evidence that Barnes had said his wife had been of no use to him for 22 years. She did not think burning.

Miss Garraway was cognizant of the house

Richard Snowden said Barnes told him he wished a pill was given his wife that would put her out of the way and in a

could work. Fred Snowden told how Miss Garraway informed him she would not marry Barnes, only his for money. James Snowden and Alf. Barrett were unimportant witnesses. Magistrate Wells, after hearing the evidence, discharged the girl and committed Barnes for trial, refusing ball. The prisoner was brought back to the jail by Detective Allen last night. CITY SEWAGE fuse Discussed. What is Needed if the System is to be a Success.

The Proposed Disposal of Re

Dr. Gardiner on the Necessity of Be ginning Right.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

In looking at the present system of sewage, three things are evident:

1. The want of foresight as to the possible expansion of the system. This is shown in the capacity of the principal mains, as well as in the levels of the outlets.

2. In the lack of any formulated plan on which to build and add from time to time

2. In the lack of any formulated plan on which to build and add from time to time as the city growth required.

3. In the careless way in which the levels are taken and sewers laid, so that scarcely a sewer now put down can be properly flushed, on account of the uneven bottom, and to carry a connection a couple of hundred feet from the sewer is to get so near the surface of the ground that it is impossible to drain a cellar into it. (Instance: Dundas street, Maitland street, etc.)

Now, as to the proposed system.

Thomas Dignam said that Mr. Wade and himself had taken out nearly all that was saved. Barnes told him last April that he had $1,500 insurance on the piace.

Mrs. Thomas Dignam gave most interesting evidence. She questioned Barnes at the fire about his wife and was told that he had asked her to get up several times. Witness braved the smoke, rushed in and found Mrs. Barnes in bed helpless, undressed and terribly excited. Already the flames were pouring in the bedroom window and the room was almost suffocating with smoke.

We peterkin teld the court that Barnes be done, and will it not be simply avoiding to the cone, and will it not be simply avoiding to the cone, and will it not be simply avoiding to the cone, and will it not be simply avoiding the several times.

and the room was almost suffocating with smoke.

Wm. Peterkin told the court that Barnes did nothing and took the fire coolly.

Thomas Skerratt swore that four years ago Barnes remarked that he wished the building was burned down, as he could be build a smaller house with part of the demance. Prisoner told him this several in times.

Mr. Macpherson—How did he treat his wife?

Mr. Macpherson—How did he bad frequently heard the prisoner abuse his wife and wish her dead. "The oid — is as likely to live as she was six years ago," is the expression which witness swore was used by Barnes when he asked him last tabout Mrs. Barnes. Furthermore, the prisoner told him he would marry Miss Garraway and settlehalf his property on her if the old woman died. Witness and in prisoner were not good friends, because Barnes had made reflections on Mrs. Skerratt.

Mrs. Skerratt confirmed what her husband had said. Frances Garraway told build a new house when he got the insurance money. She also said she had got the deed of Barnes' property.

George Snowden, who formerly worked for prisoner, said that Barnes often told him he would like to see the buildings burned down, and had offered him something to do the deed, but witness refused. Twice Snowden had extinguished fires lighted by the prisoner, to the danger of the house. Last November he saw prisoner with a piece of frewood in his hand take hold of his wife and threaten for two cents to kill her.

George Moore, a step-son of the prisoner, said that the Garroway girl told him to come over, as he feared Barnes would kill his mother. Witness wore that the Garroway girl told him to come over, as he feared Barnes would kill his mother. Witness wore that the Garroway girl told him to come over, as he feared Barnes would kill his mother. Witness wore that the Garroway girl told had the said the provided for in the plans. A MOTIVELESS MURDER.

Terrible Sequel to a Long-Protracted Terrible Sequel to a Long-Protracted Spree.

Detroit, Aug. 24.—Fred Garand, age 24, assistant manager of the Hammond, Standish & Co. slaughter house, Detroit, was shot and killed on Friday by Charles Bigly, brother of the manager, a worthless fellow addicted to liquor. Bigly had lately been on a protracted spree. On Friday, during the noon hour, Garand, with a number of other employes, was sitting in the yard behind the works, when Charles Bigly walked out of the door bearing in his hand a gun. The weapon was an old brass-mounted carbine, which was used some years ago to kill Texas cattle, but has of late bung on a nail in the office of the slaughter house. The gun was supposed to be empty. Thore must have been a charge in it, however. As Charles Bigly stepped out of the door he called out: "Get away from chere, boys, I want to shoot Fred," at the same time leveling the weapon. Garand looked up at Charles, and not thinking the gan was loaded, nor supposing that Charles had any real intention of firing, replied pleasantly: "If you want to kill me, shoot away."

The words had soarcely passed his ups when Charles pulled the trigger and a flash was seen. Garand immediately fell to the ground and died in ten minutes after being taken to the hospital. Bigly was arrested. No possible cause for the fatal deed can be imagined, except the madness regulting from drink.

Lived Without Food Soventeen Years.

MADRID, Aug. S.—Dr. Vergara, of Villacienco, Province of Burges, has published to the world the details of a strange case of sustentation of life without food. A married woman, aged 48 years, residing near the doctor, has not taken nourishment for seventeen years, except a little water every three or four days. During all that time she has not left her bed, but lies in a state of lethargy. Her condition is easily mistaken for death, as she rarely moves except when disturbed, as by light falling on her face.

IRISH AFFAIRS.

How the News of the O'Brien Dillon Decision Was Received.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—There was deep interest manifested in the House of Commons on Thursday, when the announcement was received from the newly-liberated prisoners, Dillon and O'Brien. The debate in progress was stopped by common consent as the pink paper flitted from Hand to band. After it had made a tour of the front Opposition beach Sir William Harcourt with a smile handed it across to Sir Henry James, who with ill-assumed indifference passed it on among his Tory colleagues. Then the plucky little group of discomfited Parnellite stalwarts, leaderless as usual, faded out of the House and disappeared.

plucky little gloth of the stalwarts, leaderless as usual, faded out of the House and disappeared.

Dwyer Gray, though the chief proprietor of the Freeman, has naught to do with the directorate. All the directors were stanneh, proclaimed Parnellities until a few days ago. Time is needed, therefore, for Mr. Gray, with the other anti-Parnellities shareholders, to remodel the paper.

A letter from William O'Brien is published is which the writer, referring to his being adjudicated a bankrupt, reproaches Lord Salisbury for "taking advantage of public life, and to prevent his appealing to the House of Lords. Mr. O'Brien offers to submit the matter to the arbitration of any three members of the House of Commons Lord Salisbury himself may select, and to abide by their decision.

It is also said that some of the inmates of the mission huildings have been killed.

A HIDEOUS TRAFFIC

Carried on in Various Towns of Lancashire, England.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints a sensational article entitled: "Gambling in Lives." It describes the system of fraudulent insurance, which it declares forms as hideous traffic in human life as ever disgraced a civilized compunity. The business chiefly centers in the towns of Lancashire. The insurers, in collusion with agents of companies, select drunken, diseased or feeble persons, represent them as robust and take out policies which they keep paid up. The insured are paid a small sum for their acquiescence and for the trouble of signing papers. In one case a wretched old hanger-on at Manchester tavens was insured for £1,800. Another had, a poorhouse was insured for £2,800 another had, a poorhouse was insured for £3,800 another had, a poorhouse was ensured for £3,800 another had, a poorhouse was ensured for £4,800 a Carried on in Various Towns of Lance shire, England.

With the face of Ronald Morton actually pictured before her, she seemed to read Harry in every lineament. The eyes, frank and honest, and at once tender and courageous, were Harry's to the life. The brow was Harry's. Shestudied the photograph anew, until a lal'angry gust of defensive shame touched halangry gust of defensive shame touched her, and she put it resolutely away. She was not going to be disloyal to her memor-ies because of any likeness, howsoever striking, and she began to think that Rouald Morton was exciting a dangerous interest in her mind.

Do what she would she thought of him.

Her resolutions were the merest ropes of Her resolutions were the merest ropes of sand and, however industriously she wove indem, they broke at the first touch. The mere menory of Ronald Morton's voice and eyes undid her strongest resolve, and her whole day was passed in thinking of him, and histrange resemblance to Harry, and in the effort to expel him from her thoughts.

The night passed in much the same fashion, and long before the hour came at which it was necessary to dress for Lady Mabel's ball, her disinclination to meet him had grown into something like an actual fear. What she dreaded most of all was a certain secret complacency which underlay her reluctance to encounter him. She feared the meeting, and yet there was pleasure in the thought of it. "The lion," said Lady Mabel, whispering her, "is the best, the most amiable and punctual of lions. He is here already, most unlionlike in modesty. One can see that he is not experimente—he has not learned the value of his name."

Lady Mabel's rooms as yet gave but a half promise of the condition of fashionable crush they were destined to reach an hour later, and Inthia had not been in the house five minutes when she found Ronald Morton bending over her. He was asking for a dance, and she felt like a raw girl on her first introduction to the world. She had prepared herself for this, and had meant, if the request were profered, to meet it with any excuse the moment might afford, but almost before she knew it she had accepted, and was penciling Mr. Ronald Morton's name upon her card with trembling fingers. She had not even enough of the self-protective instinct left to put him far down on the list in the hope of escaping before the time came. She was a little surprised to discover that the desire to escape had vanished.

Humphrey Frost came to claim her for a quadrille, and this gave her time to steady herself a little, but she had never known the dance to pass with so musch swiftness. The young people of to-day, even the

Hair Magic

Is a good name of Dr. Dorenwend's German preparation for the hair. It really works like magic. All who have used it pronounce it to be uncqualed for remedying the lost vitality of the hair roots, restoring gray hair, removing through with an almost indecorous celerity. In her dread of the approaching waltz she would have taken it at a funeral pace, and even that might have seemed too quick for her.

One natural result of all this was a fear of again encountering the traveler. She was perfectly self-possessed to all outward appearances when she stood up for the wast, with Ronald Morton's arm about her waist, but her heart was actually robing the some more active to the social subterfuges omployed by so many of her sex, and had never counterfeited a headache in her life. There was no other exuse than illness to fall back upon, and she was pledged for lady Mabel's ball. She felt that she would lady Mabel's ball. She felt that she would infinitely prefer not to meet Ronald Morton infinitely prefer not to meet Ronald Morton infinitely prefer not to meet Ronald Morton was seen a dance for the last seven secould make it.

Thursday came, and with it came Lady Mabel, attired for the Archbishop's garden party. She sailed into Inthia's room, beaming with good humor.

"I was good humor.

—Samuel Crockett appeared before Squire Smyth Saturday on a charge of acting in a disorderly manner in Loudon West. He was remanded until Aug. 4.

—Mrs. Annie Morton and Wm. H. F. Burrows were remanded until next Friday by 'Squire J. B. Smyth, Saturdax, on a charge of threatening to burn the house of Mrs. Marsh, London township. They were found together and arrested.

—The man Dyer, arrested at London, Ont., a few days ago on a letter from Detroit, charging him with not supporting his wife, lived at 33 Mullett street. He was to have been tried at the police court on July 15 for non support, but before that time he skipped to London with Kittie Kramer, a lif-year-old girl, living at 66 Catherine street. As the offense is not one for which Dyer could be extradited, the only way to proceed against him was to prosecute him in Canada. The arrest at London was not made on instructions from Detroit, but at the request of Mrs. Dyer's attorney. Now Mrs. Dyer has not money enough to pay her fare to London, and as the police will not send her there, either the poor commissoner or the associated charities will have to send her, or the case will have to be dropped.—[Detroit News.]

—Mr. John McCready, of this city, leaves to-day to assume the mastership of the G. T. R. yard at Fort Erie. He has been connected with the G. T. R. here for about nine years, and during that time has made many warm friends, who wish him every success in his new departure.

—The F. C. C. Club has issued invitations for the annual tour to Goderich Aug. 15, 16 and 17. They go via Exeter, Varna, Brucefield and Bayfield, returning through Clinton Holmesville, Seaforth, Dublin, Mitchell, Sebringville and Stratiord. A boat will likely be provided for a trip from Goderich to Saroia. The Strathroy club have been invited to join in.

—Four convicts from Windsor for the Central Prison passed through the city Friday in charge of Bailiff English. They were John Taylor, drunk and disorderly, three months; Wm. Hoydea, for robbery, four months; Geo. Support, for non-support of his wife, three months; Wm. McBride, for attempted rape, one year.

—A Dorchester farmer named John Lackie met with a painful accident here Thursday evening. He was ready to start for home when two other men who were going to accompany him tried to lower the high seat, and as a result it dropped, Mr. Lackie sustaining a bad fall. He received a severe cut on the forehead and was injured in other ways, but was able to proceed on his way home Friday.

He also owes a number of other debts and his liabilities will reach between $600 and $800. The stoves which were in the shop were owned by a London firm, who held a lien on them.—[Brantford Expositor.

The Hospital Trust.

The Hospital Trust met Friday after.

The Hospital Trust met Friday afternoon, Messrs. Complin and Lewis being the only members present. The new driving shed will be built at once, the site having been laid out. Miss O'Deil, declining an offer of position as probationary nurse, her name was placed last on the list. The names of Misses Boyer and McCrae were placed on the list of applicants as nurses in the training school. Misses Brenner and Sheebottom were promoted to the permathe training school. Allsess breiner and Shoebstom were promoted to the perma nent staff of the school, their probationary term having expired. The matter of controlling the ambulance wagon was referred back to the council. Donations received back to the council. Donations received were ordered to be acknowledged. At present there are 46 patients being cared for.

—Friday the authorities made a swoop of the city bakers, from twelve of whom 118 loaves of illegitimate pretensions were seized. The old adage, "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good," was proved in this case, for the appropriated staff of life was transferred to the orphans' homes. Inspector Bell showed the reporter four very plain-looking loaves, stamped 1½ pounds each, although when weighed to be a fraud, as the law provides that all leaves shall weigh 2 pounds each, except Vienua rolls or tancy bread, which
