CARPE DIEM.

"An ink-flower in the way of a man."
OLD SERTON.

Life is but a flower,
And beauty but its bloom, Why not enjoy the fleeting hour, Ere it bears us to the tomb?
If fame is but a bubble,
And glory but a sound,
Why not enjoy the pleasures now,
That life neglected round?
If woman smiles and leaves us,
To bow at lucre's shrine, Spurn the cold heart that cheats us,
And quaff the generous wine;
The fairest and the brightest,
As dreams must pass away;
Others will rise, in beauty's pride,
To reign their fleeting day.
Then here's to wine and woman, The matron and the belle,
To love and mirth and music,
So vive la Bagatelle!

THE BELLMANSHIP.

A TRUE STORY.

CHAPTER I.

"The course of true love never did run smooth." Didn't it? Let any man look round him for a single moment, and he will see how unfounded and absurd is this observation of Mr. William Shakespeare. Pray, what was there to hinder the equable flow of the true love of your neighbor, Mr. Bibbs, and his fat wife? Was there any objection on the part of parents!—any trouble from rivals?—or even any delay about pin-money and settlement?
Not a vestige of any of these things. In the course of the accustomed number of months they were fairly and legally married, without a single ripple on the stream of their courtship, and have been a pattern-couple, without quarrels, disagreements, or misunderstandings of any kind whatever, for twenty or thirty years.
But you say, perhaps, their love is not true love. Isn't it? I grant he wrote no sonnets; she never thought of suicide; he never mentioned a dagger to her in his life; and I have no reason to believe that she, even at her first ball, considered Mr. Bibbs an angel. But their love was true enough for all that—a good, solid, substantial love, fitted for all weathers, ballasted with a good deal of plain sense, and not without a glance of affectionate regard to the comforts of a well-spread table, easy-hung four-wheeled carriage, & a pretty little income of eight or nine hundred a-year. This is my definition of true love. If you prefer Shakespeare's account of it, and consider no love worth having that it not accompanied with woes and accidents, quarrels among friends, and other accessories, I beg to say you have not made such use of your powers of observation as you ought to have done, or you would have found out long ago that such loves as those are never lasting. And this, I take it, is the reason that authors of novels generally close their stories with a description of the wedding. If they continued their labors, how different would be the scene! Waverley and Rose Bradwardine flying to Boulogne for debt; Henry Morton and Edith Bellenden separated from incompatibility of temper; not to mention the celebrated divorce case before the House of Lords, "Reginald v. Cyril Thornton!" Will no person of an enquiring turn of mind give us a posthumous account of all the heroes and heroines who have excited our interest so intensely? It would put a good deal of romance to flight, and teach us the great and useful lesson, that people may be just as happily married in the good old-fashioned way—bridemaids, marriage favors, and wedding cake —as if they nearly broke their necks jumping out of up-stairs windows, and hurrying off to Greta Green. But, mercy upon us; we have got into such a prodigious passion with love matches, and sighing, and dying, that we have forgotten the main object with which we begin this paper, which was to give notice to the reader that, if in this eventful history he finds difficulties in the way of the hero and the heroine, he is not to imagine that those difficulties prove that their love was one whit more sincere than if all had gone as smoothly as a marriage bell," from the first agony of popping the question to the last extremity of putting on the ring. No—it certainly did so happen that in this one particular instance the course of true love was occasionally somewhat rough; but it by no means follows that the roughness was the cause of the love being true, or that the truth of the love was the cause of the course of it being rough. So much for Shakespeare—and now for John Plantagenet Simpkinson.

The labors of the Statistical Society, I suppose, have left very few people in ignorance that ours is a borough town, though the inhabitants have not the inestimable privilege of having each other on principles of the purest patriotism once every three or four years, when some soaring squire or plethoric manufacturer is ambitious of a seat in Parliament; by which petrification I would have it understood, that we return no member, albeit we have a mayor and corporation, a town-hall and locked-up house, and other visible signs of corporate dignity.

Cast your eye, O reader! "through the dim vista of departed years," and it is highly probable, if you look sharp, you will see a youthful couple seated under the elm-trees at the west-end of the flourishing town of Buz-zleton, on the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and thirty-seven. I cannot take it upon me positively to affirm that the lady was "beautiful exceedingly," or that she had the slightest appearance of being a native of a "far country;" for it was impossible to suppose for a moment that these bright, cherry-looking lips, rosy-colored cheeks, and mild happy blue eyes, belonged, by possibility, to any one but a nice modest English girl of eighteen or nineteen. Nor would it be safe to devoid the reader into an improper sympathy with the hero, by hinting that he had the slightest resemblance to those "whiskered paunderous and those fierce hussars," who make such a tremendous sensation in novels of fashionable life. No one could ever have fancied him a Hungarian magnate, or Polish prince, or even a German Baron; for the fat county of Suffolk was visible in every feature of the object of my description. A brown surtout with black buttons, thrown loosely back, showed a considerable extent of a fancy-colored waistcoat, for the interesting individual—but why keep up a vain mystery, which the accomplished reader has penetrated long ago?—it was Simpkinson, junior, himself—in short, John Plantagenet Simpson, sitting à tête with Mary Padden—for the interesting individual—as I was going to say when this pa-rentesis interrupted me—rejoiced in a vast expanse of chest, of which he was a little conceited; though candour at the same time compels me to admit, that the ample "breath and verge enough," which was so becoming, and indeed heroic, as revealed by the aforesaid fancy-colored waistcoat, extended itself considerably below the point at which it ought to have grown "fine by degrees, and beautifully less," and constituted altogether a stout, square-built young man, with every appearance of health and strength, but none of that stiff-necked noodleism which the French people and English milliners call an air distingué.
You will perhaps ask why this jolly, good-humored looking young gentleman had such a magnificent name as Plantagenet; but I submit that that is a question more properly directed to his godfathers and godmothers than to me; but at the same time, if you merely ask for information, and with no sinister intention, I will only mention to you that his father was the most eloquent man in our parish, and rejoiced in long words. Now, as Plantagenet is a name, you will observe, of four syllables, whereas Stubbs is only of one, you will at once see a prima facie reason why the royal denomination was preferred, and the name of the maternal uncle—Mr. Stubbs, the opulent brewer in Chatham—for this occasion rejected. This is my opinion; but of course you are at liberty to devise any other reason for it that may be more agreeable to yourself.

We are not to suppose that the couple I have now introduced to you sat silent all this time, merely because I have not yet given you any account of their conversation; for it is a circumstance well known to our whole town that Miss Padden had a total aversion to the absurd doctrines of the Pythagoreans, so far as their silence was concerned, and in fact lost no opportunity of practising the divine faculty of speech. She spoke very well and prettily, and there there can be no doubt that such beautiful lips and interesting blue eyes would have made very inferior language pass off for eloquence, at all events in the opinion of Mr. Simpkinson, junior.

"So you are going off to-morrow, Taddy?" (And here, O reader, in another parenthesis, let me call your attention to the endearing diminutive "Taddy"—short for Plantagenet!
To what vile uses may we come, Horatio?)

"Ye," said Taddy, with a mournful shake of the head.

"Oh it must be such a pretty place that London, with Hyde Park and Almack's, and Westminster Abbey, and Madame Tussaud.
How I envy you all the sights! Ain't you happy, Taddy?"

"No," replied the youth, "I would rather stay at Buzzleton, and near you, Polly."

"Your servant, Mister Plantagenet," said the young lady, gently withdrawing her hand from the clasp of the sentimental swain—but whether from coquetry, or propriety, or to preserve a new white kid glove, I will not undertake to determine—"I wasn't fishing for a compliment, I assure you."

"But it is no compliment, Polly—it is only the truth; and why shouldn't I be sorry to leave Buzzleton? There will be no nice walks like this, nor listening to your songs, nor talking of who's to happen."

"When?" interrupted Miss Padden.

"Why, when your father and mine think we are sensible. Now, don't pretend, Polly—for this is our last day together, and I want to hear you tell me again seriously and solemnly that you will keep constant for the two years, and marry me at the end."

"Shall we be sensible then, Taddy?" enquired the lady, looking archly at the earnest face of her admirer.

"Father says so," was the reply, and in a tone that showed that that awful authority would have secured Mr. Plantagenet's credence to a still more wonderful event.

"We ought to be much obliged to our fathers," said the young lady, "for guaranteeing such a reformation; but, indeed, Taddy, the chance of changing your mind is all on your side. You will see such designing people at Almack's and Vauxhall, and—"

"Never trouble yourself about designing people, dear Polly; write to me every week, and if am to come down every half year for three weeks, we shall do almost as well as if we met."

"And you will write faithfully, and think of me always?" said Mary, in a voice from which all liveliness had disappeared.

Mr. Plantagenet Simpson again laid his hand upon the pretty little white kid glove, which this time was not withdrawn, and looking in the sweet blue eyes which I have already mentioned, said—

"Won't I?—that's all."

Miss Padden seemed quite as satisfied with this declaration as if it had been made in words of fire upon the benched knee; and I do not feel myself at liberty to give any account of what was said on either side for at least ten minutes. At the end of that time an individual was seen walking towards them at the other extremity of the alley.

"Here's that horrid boy, Bob," said Mary, looking somewhat displeased.

"Infernal troublesome fool!" muttered Mr. Plantagenet, "I should like to kick him into the river."

THE TRANSCRIPT.

QUEBEC, MONDAY, 14th OCT. 1839.

DISASTERS BY FIRE, WIND AND WATER.

The greatest fire that has occurred in New-York since the memorable one of December 1835, broke out on Saturday evening the 5th instant. The entire square, bounded by Water, Fulton and Front Streets, and Building Slip has been reduced to a heap of ruins except five or six stores in Fulton street—only one on that street being wholly destroyed. The entire square was devoted to extensive commercial pursuits, and the loss is very serious—some of the papers estimate it at a million of dollars, which is about half insured—the total amount of the insurance effected being $474,500—some papers say $600,000.

Upwards of thirty houses must have been burnt by the fire.

The Sunday Morning News states that a fire broke out at half-past 12 o'clock on Sunday morning in Elridge street, New-York, by which two buildings and a number of small tenements were destroyed.

Philadelphia has also been visited with a destructive conflagration on Friday. It broke out at 1 past 11 o'clock, and continued until six o'clock the following morning. Of 52 buildings which were on fire, 40 are in ruins. It broke out in Mr. Stroup's large provision stores, on South Wharves, between Market and Chesnut streets, and crossed the latter street. The National Gazette estimates the loss at $600,000.—The Philadelphia Gazette at $350,000, of which it says $250,000 is covered by insurance. Several persons—it is not known how many—have been killed or severely wounded. One fireman was burnt in the ruins of Enoch Allen's house, the walls of which fell in with a tremendous crash, an engineer died in a few hours from injuries which he received, several firemen are missing, and a list of seven is given who were badly burnt.

A fire broke out in Brooklyn, on Saturday evening, which destroyed timber to the amount of $4000.

HURRICANE.—A violent hurricane visited Bermuda on the 11th, doing great damage to the houses of the towns of Hamilton and St. George, taking off the roofs of some and greatly injuring others, and destroying large numbers of cedar trees in every part of the island.—Several schooners have been cast ashore; the British bark Sir Colin Campbell, is ashore and totally wrecked; and much injury has been done to the wharves.

Misfortunes never come single, as will be seen by the following accounts of disasters at sea which are reported in the New York papers:—

Captain Rallo, of the Sicilian brig Filomena, arrived yesterday, reports having fallen in with, in latitude 38 37, longitude 66 17, part of the wreck of a vessel. Took from it Captain Murray and five seamen. Captain M. reports the following:—His brig, the Cadwallader, belonged to St. Andrews; he sailed for Barbadoes lumber loaded, on the 6th August. In the gale of the 13th Sept. the vessel was knocked down, filled and went to pieces, and William Brett and William Richardson were drowned.

Capt. M. and five others clung to the keel, with part of the stern and stem, which was the largest of the wreck left, where they remained five days, the sea making a continual breach over them, without anything to eat or drink; when taken off they were nearly exhausted and could not have lasted another day; some of them were delirious and their clothes nearly washed from their backs; but by the kind attention of Capt. Rallo, who supplied them with clothes and every thing that he could to make them comfortable, they have all recovered. Since they have been on the F. their skins have come off, from being so long washed by the sea.

Captain Little of the ship Glasgow, arrived at Baltimore on Saturday from Liverpool, reports that on the 10th September, in lat. 39 46, longitude 61 20, wind light from the westward and blowing, he discovered at a distance a raft with something on it, bore up and sent his boat, and took from it 12 human beings, with scarcely any life in them—took them on board and learned that they were the only survivors of a crew of nineteen, belonging to the ship Arab, Captain Robertson, and for Hull, from Belize, Honduras, with a cargo of mahogany.

During the gale of the 13th September she was dismasted, and finally went entirely to pieces. Those saved were on the side of the poop, being four planks twenty feet long. They had been on this raft five days, without any thing except two cocoa nuts, which they found, and were in a most wretched and starving condition when taken off, and probably would not have survived another day.

There were originally nine upon the raft, including the mate, but they had previously died, or becoming deranged for want of food had jumped into the sea. The names of those saved are Wm Westwood, carpenter, of Selby, Yorkshire, Eng.; Jean Asley, a Prussian; and Halver Haralsen a Norwegian.

The brig Eagle, Captain John C. Evans, of East Greenwich, sailed from that port on the 29th of May, last, for the Straits of Belleisle, on a fishing voyage. On the 3rd of July, Captain Evans and two of his seamen, Ebenezer Dawley and Thomas Hill, of the Eagle, and Mr. White mate, and Mr. Bicknell, seaman, belonging to the schooner Counsellor, of East Greenwich, went with the boat between Lazy island and the Main, for bait; the boat was unfortunately capsized in the surf, and all of them, with the exception of Mr. Thomas Hill, of the Eagle, who saved himself by the greatest exertions, were drowned; on reaching the Eagle he communicated the melancholy fate of his companions. Search having been made on the following day, Captain Evans, of the Eagle, and Bicknell, of the Counsellor, were found, and on the 4th of July, their bodies were committed to the silent grave, attended by the officers and crews of the different vessels in the harbour. Capt. Evans has left a wife and daughter, to mourn his irreparable loss. Mr. Dawley has left a wife and four children in a destitute situation.

FROM THE CELESTIAL EMPIRE.

By the arrival of the ship Canada at New-York, the advices from the celestial Empire are brought down to the 14th May, at which time the troubles of the foreigners were not ended, although some progress had been made in bringing their affairs to a conclusion. We submit a few extracts of the news, including portions of another piece of "celestial" bombast.

It appears that after the delivery of the opium, the British superintendent and the American and Dutch consuls applied to the commissioner for leave to withdraw from China—for their countrymen as well as themselves—which was granted by the following edict:—

"It appears that the English superintendent Elliott, the American superintending officer Snow, and the Dutch superintending officer Van Basel, have presented addresses, requesting that they all should return home at the head of the people and the vessels of their several nations.

"These addresses coming before us, the commissioner and the governor, and being duly authenticated, we reply:—

"China has indeed no need of commercial intercourse with other barbarians. But because you have come from far over the seas, it cannot bear to push you utterly away; you have enjoyed the overshadowing, the comprehensive, and deep benevolence of the great Emperor, who has given sanction to the trade with Kwangtung. You have come to the territory of the Celestial Empire, have not only eaten of the herbage and trod the soil equally with the people of the land, but have also, by your buying and selling, acquired very rich advantages. It is naturally your duty to rest in your stations, observing the laws. But for tens of years past, you have on the contrary employed a thing hurtful to men, as a means of gaining and possessing yourselves of the people's wealth.

"The great Emperor, anxiously regardful of the general well-being, has declared his pleasure that this should be severely prohibited."

The frigate Columbia was still at Macao when the Canada sailed; the John Adams had also arrived from Manila.

Permission had been given to ship cargoes on board vessels waiting, but the shippers were not allowed to go into the warehouse of the hong merchants, and examine the teas furnished; so that the only dependence for quality was on the honesty of the hong merchants.

The Chinese are said to be expecting and preparing for hostile measures by the English. They have erected another fort at the Hocka Tzigre, and had a strong chain ready to throw across the narrowest part of the strait, as also a number of boats laden with stones, which, in case of a hostile visit, they would sink in the channel.

The owners and consignees of the opium surrendered to the Chinese, were also sending delegates to England, to present their grievances. We venture to say that the English government will neither indemnify them nor go to war with China on their behalf.

From the Canton Register of May 14.
By private letters from Bombay via Bengal, parties in Canton have been informed that the cholera is making dreadful ravages. Death often supervenes in one hour after the attack; and to crown the distress, the inhabitants are suffering under a great scarcity of water, most of the wells being dry.

PUBLIC MEETING AT MONTREAL.—Pursuant to requisition, a numerous and highly respectable meeting was held on Monday, in the News Room, St. Joseph Street, for the purpose of adopting measures for framing and presenting an address to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, on his approaching retirement from the administration of these provinces. Samuel Gerrard, Esq. was unanimously called to the chair, and J. G. Scott, Esq. appointed Secretary. The following resolutions were unanimously carried:—

On motion of Mr. Day, seconded by Dr. Robertson, Resolved, 1st.—That this meeting entertains sentiments of unfeigned regret at the approaching retirement of His Excellency Sir John Colborne, from the government of the province, and deems it a duty to express this belief, that to the military skill and energy exhibited by His Excellency, to his promptitude in discovering the machinations of the disaffected, and to his unceasing diligence and anxious solicitude for the protection of person and property—are chiefly owing the exemption of the greater part of this Province from the calamities of popular tumult and civil war.

On motion of Mr. Badgley, seconded by Mr. Ferris, 2nd.—That in reliance upon the continuance of that interest which His Excellency has ever manifested in the welfare of these Provinces, this meeting cherishes the hope, that when Her Majesty's Government shall submit to the Imperial Parliament the important measure of the Union, which they have determined on, His Excellency will contribute his valuable advice and recommendation to carry it into effect, and that he will aid in maturing and perfecting such other measures for their future good government as may be best calculated to ensure them permanent tranquility, and make them a valuable appendage of the British empire.

On motion of Mr. Griffin, seconded by Mr. Driscoll, Resolved.—That it is the strong and sincere wish of this meeting that His Excellency, on taking leave of his Government, may have a propitious voyage to England, and may there receive the honours and rewards due to his long and faithful services to his sovereign and country.

On motion of Mr. Auldjo, seconded by Mr. Armour, Resolved.—That an Address, founded on the foregoing resolutions be prepared for signature, and presented to His Excellency, that a Committee of fifteen be now named to carry the views and wishes of this meeting into effect, and that the following do compose the said Committee:—

Samuel Gerrard, Dr. Robertson, Charles D. Day, Wm. Badgley, Henry Griffin, Adam Ferris, Robert Armour, Thomas B. Anderson, Henry Driscoll, Joseph Shuter, James Henry Lambe, H. L. Routh, Thos. Criagan, John Redpath, and Geo. Auldjo.

The Committee then withdrew to another room, and shortly afterwards returned with an address founded on the resolutions, which, after being read by the Chairman, was approved of by acclamation.

Montreal Gazette.

A mail for the Liverpool is to be forwarded from the Post Office this day, which is the last on which letters sent from Quebec can reach New-York in time to go by the steamship.

The steamship British Queen, now on her way from New-York to London, is making good progress apparently. She was seen on the 3rd inst. at 9 a.m. by a vessel arrived at New-York, 400 miles off Sandy Hook, which is at the rate of about twelve miles an hour, and which, kept up all the time, would send her home in less than eleven days.

The papers received from the Lower Provinces, yesterday, do not contain any news.

The great activity which at present prevails in re-building on the Burnt District, and in erecting houses in other parts of the City, has caused an unusual demand for Mechanics, Labourers and Building Materials. Mechanics, understand, are not to be had at any price, and labourer's wages are most extravagant, a shilling, and in some cases, fifteen pence an hour being on demand.—St. John, N. B. Courier.

The Upper Canada papers received since our last are without news of importance. His Excellency Sir George Arthur, it appears, will not visit Montreal, as was reported. His Excellency and Lady Arthur returned to Kingston, from Brockville, on the 5th instant, and in the evening, His Excellency would depart on his return to the seat of government.

Mademoiselle Albina Stella's concert, in which we alluded in our last, comes off this evening, at the Albion Hotel. We had much pleasure in learning that Miss Hill, the talented Organist of St. Patrick's Church, will render her valuable assistance, by presiding at the piano.

ORDERS IN LEGAL CIRCLES.

Mr. Attorney General Ogden to be Chief Justice of Montreal; Mr. Solicitor General Stuart to be Attorney General; and Mr. Queen's Council Day to be Solicitor General.

On Friday morning shortly after ten o'clock the culpable negligence of some miners was excavating a sewer in the old haymarket was almost the means of causing loss of human life. A stone upwards of twenty pounds in weight was projected a distance of ninety feet, with almost the velocity of a ball from a cannon, into the centre of the Upper Town Market, and which, ricocheting from where it first alighted broke one of the spokes of a cart wheel doing, miraculously, no other damage. A whizzed passed the ears of a woman and a boy. We hope that the proper officer will see to it in future, the men under him will take precaution to prevent such disagreeable projects from visiting any place in which Her Majesty's lieges do congregate.

A person named Alex. McDermitt, has been sentenced to three months imprisonment in Kingston jail, Upper Canada, for doing in the Queen. He formerly belonged to the United States Army.

The whole quantity of Flour inspected at Richmond (Virginia) for the last two years, is as follows:

1838	1839
132,258 barrels	261,496 barrels
3,967 half do	6,521 half do

Thus showing the excess of inspection the year over the year preceding, to be 129,229 barrels and 2,554 half barrels.

SPECULATING ON A DEAD COW.—A farmer in the rear of the Township of Hull had a cow died lately. After taking off the skin, the carcass was dragged into the bush, where it attracted the wolves, and no less than five of them were caught in a trap. The scalps of these bring a bounty of, we believe, ten dollars each, making what a Yankee would call a good speck.—Bytown Gazette.

THE QUEBEC TRANSCRIPT.

BY THIS MORNING'S MAIL.

New York dates are of Wednesday evening at which time there was no account of the Liverpool.

The following General Order will afford much pleasure to the numerous Volunteers of Quebec who are not forgotten by their gallant General:

HEAD QUARTERS,
Montreal, October 12th, 1839.

GENERAL ORDER.
No. 2.—The Governor General and Commander of the Forces cannot leave these Provinces without requesting the Officers Commanding Volunteer Corps, to convey his thanks to the Officers and men of their respective Districts, for the important services they have performed in defending their country, and the institutions under which they live, from the combined attack of desperate robbers, and marauders from the United States. Deeply sensible of the arduous nature of these services, of the hardship and personal suffering consequent on them, and of the well-earned reward with the misery inflicted on the inhabitants of the frontier, who have been incessantly exposed to predatory and incendiary excursions from the States of New York, Vermont, and other frontier States during two successive winters, His Excellency avails himself of this opportunity of recording his opinion, that the forbearance which, under circumstances of unprecedented provocation, has marked the conduct of the Volunteers, (and which, he is confident, will be continued,) does them honour as soldiers, and secures them respect from every civilized nation, and that fearless zeal with which a peaceful and industrious population, imperfectly armed and equipped, came forward to crush the first attempts at rebellion, must be ever gratefully remembered by the Empire which they represent, and by the Government which they have upheld.

By Command,
JOHN EDEN,
Depl. Adjt. Gen.

HEADACHE, SICK OR NERVOUS.

THE extraordinary reputation that Dr. Spohn's remedy for this distressing complaint is every day gaining is certainly a matter of much astonishment. That so much suffering should have existed for ages without any discovery of an effectual preventive, or cure, is truly a subject of much regret, but Dr. S. now assures the public that such a remedy has been invented as will convince the most incredulous.—The principles upon which it acts are simple and plain. It is an admitted fact that this complaint, whether Sick Headache, or Nervous Headache, arises primarily from the Stomach—those who think they have the Nervous Headache may rest assured that this organ, the stomach, is the first cause, that the system has become vitiated or debilitated, through the stomach, and that only through the same channel must they expect a restoration of the nature and healthy functions of the system. This object, Dr. Spohn's remedy is eminently calculated to attain. The truth of this position cannot be controverted, and the sooner sufferers with the headache become convinced of it, the sooner will their sufferings end in restoration of health.—Dr. Spohn pleads his professional reputation on this fact. The remedy may be had of apothecaries generally throughout the United States.

THE HUMAN HAIR.

WHERE the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more precarious than the use of oils, grease or any fatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood vessels which carry nourishment to the bulb are obstructed, then the oils, &c., may be good, as they tend to relax the skin; but alone they are of no avail. There must be a stimulus to rouse the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood—Extract from Wright's Treatise on the Hair.
 The BALM OF COLUMBIA is the only preparation that can have that effect, being entirely free from any oily substance.

A CASE IN POINT.
 I had unfortunately lost nearly all the hair from the top of my head, when I commenced the use of the Balm of Columbia, and have, by the use of two bottles had my head covered with a fine growth of Hair—There can be no mistake in the matter, as any of my friends can see by calling on me. I had also become quite gray, but had the gray hairs plucked out, and it has grown in as the Balm says of the natural colour, if any body doubts these facts, let them call upon me and see. I bought the Balm of Comstock & Co., 5, Fletcher Street.
