Phyllis Dearborn

OR, THE
Countess of Basingwell

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"Is she a twin of our Phyllis?" he asked.
 "Well, you are stupid. No, she is not a twin; and she is the only Phyllis Dearborn. And she is the Countess of Basingwell, if you please, Sir Lionel Warne. We are not proud, though."

"Phyllis is the Countess of Basingwell!" he repeated.

"Phyllis is the Countess of Basingwell. And as pretty a countess as ever wore a coronet—if countesses wear coronets. Do they?"

"If they wish to."

"Well, there's no telling what Phyllis will wish to do. I only know it will be quite right, whatever it is."

"Undoubtedly. I think I'd like to go to sleep, Carrie."

She looked at him doubtfully, and then seeing that he had shut his eyes and turned his head away, pushed her chair so that she could get up. She drew the curtains, and leaning on her chair, pushed it into the other room.

"Now I wonder why he took it like that?" she said. "He was evidently disappointed about it. I suppose I have just put my foot in it for meddling."

When Phyllis came home she confessed in a whisper what she done.

"I know I ought to have let you do it in your own slow time," she said, "but I thought he ought to know. Anyhow, he does know, and doesn't seem to like it a bit, and you might as well go in and have it out with him. You can fix it up, I don't doubt."

Phyllis did not feel so sure; but she agreed with Carrie that she might as well have the matter settled at once; so after supper she said to Lionel:

"Carrie told you my little secret to-day."

"Yes. A pretty secret, I should say."

"That was what Flora referred to when she was—when she asked you to help me."

"Yes, I supposed so. I shall be glad to. It will be an easy matter, however. You ought not to remain here any longer, under the circumstances."

"I don't know why. I can do more good here than there."

"The Countess of Basingwell has more important duties in England, I think."

"But I can't get to England now anyhow, and if I could I would not leave you until you were well."

"It is very kind of you, I'm sure; but I could not allow you to remain here for me a moment after you were able to leave for England."

She looked at him in a sort of dismay. He was so little like the light-hearted, jesting Sir Lionel she had known.

"Are you going to make me uncomfortable just because I agreed to accept your protection and help?" she asked.

"It is the last thing I would wish to do," he said; "but do you not realize that the Basingwell property is worth something like a hundred thousand pounds a year, and—"

"Oh, Sir Lionel; you don't mean as much as that?"

"I do, indeed. And a low creature, under the guidance of a pair of scoundrels, is at present wasting the revenues and doing no one can guess what injury to hundreds of innocent people."

"I wish—I sincerely wish I had never had anything to do with the title. Why can't you take it just as you had it before, Sir Lionel. Indeed, I would be glad to escape the responsibility of it."

He shook his head and smiled.

"That would not be possible. You must assume the responsibility. However, we need not think of that until you can leave Paris. I hope I shall be able to go at the same time."

Perhaps he was determined to get well after that, lest she might have to leave him behind. Certainly he was ready to go, though not his robust self, by any means, when the city finally capitulated to the Germans and egress became free.

"Let us get to England as soon as we can," said Carrie. "I would like to have a piece of roast beef once more."

Even Lionel was willing to admit that he believed he would be the better for some more substantial food than he had been receiving, for, to do their best, with their slender means it had been impossible for the girls to get anything fit to eat.

So by the first crowded steamer they crossed the channel. It seemed so short a journey when they thought of the thousands of starving people who had been so near, and yet could not get a morsel of all the plenty of England.

The very air of the islands seemed to give them all a renewed vigor, and Lionel particularly acted as if he had never been sick, though both Phyllis and Carrie knew he was far from strong, and worried about him. Carrie dared to speak to him about his impudence, but Phyllis could not find the words or the inclination, and so let him have his way unopposed.

They wished to go to their old lodgings where Lionel first found them; but he would not permit it, and Phyllis, who had been so used to having her own way before, yielded meekly.

"Why, you give in worse than I do," said Carrie. "However, I must say I like the West-End of London after all. It's a little sweeter, isn't it, Phyllis?"

"Yes, but, oh, Carrie, I can't bear the idea of all that responsibility. It isn't as if there was no help for it, but he could take the title if he only would."

"Why don't you give it to him, then?" said Carrie.

"I asked him to take it, and he refused."

"You didn't offer it in the right way."

"How should I have offered it?"

"Will you let me do it?" said Carrie. "Will you give me permission to make him take the title and the estates?"

"Indeed, I will," answered Phyllis, "and will thank you all my life for doing it."

"I warrant you will," said Carrie. "Well, wait until the title and property have been given to you, and if I don't make him take them out of your hands I'll eat that cake of soap—and I don't like soap to eat."

Phyllis laughed, but did not have much faith in Carrie's ability to move Lionel, who had grown uncomfortably distant in these days. He laid it to the time he was having with the rascally wretches who had usurped the title.

However, that came to an end finally, and yet he was no more like his old self. He came to the house, one day, and said:

"The last difficulty has been swept away, Lady Basingwell—"

"Oh, don't call me that," she cried.

"It is your name, your title," he said.

"Sir Lionel," said Carrie, who had been standing leaning against the chair in a nervous flutter, "do you know that I think you are about as disagreeable as a man in your position can very well be."

"I am sorry to have even you say that, Carrie," he answered.

"Even me! Well, I shall say worse things before I am through with you, sir. I have Phyllis's permission, too."

"Don't say anything that ought to be left unsaid," said Phyllis, nervously.

"Not a word will I say that ought not to be said," answered Carrie. "Now, Sir Lionel, do you know how your conduct might strike a person who did not take some trouble to know you? It would strike such a person that you are angry because Phyllis has come into the title and estate that were yours, and would be now but for her."

"Oh, Carrie!" cried Lionel and Phyllis in a breath.

"I didn't say it struck me so," said Carrie, spiritively. "Now, Sir Lionel, what Phyllis wishes more than anything else in the world is that you will take the title and the estates."

"I cannot do that, Carrie. It is as impossible as to talk of your doing it."

"If I can show you a perfectly feasible way will you do it?"

"There is no feasible way, and if there were—"

"Don't say what you are going to, Sir Lionel. Do you know that you two people are as foolish as can be. She wants you to take the estates, no matter how; and you want her, no matter how. Stop, Phyllis, I shall speak. You two people are just head over ears in love, and won't say so. There! If you don't settle it after that you deserve to be sorry," and she pushed her chair rapidly out of the room.

Zinc is so essential in war time that it has risen enormously in price in the past year. Costing originally only two-fifths as much as copper, in spite of the fact that copper itself has sharply increased in value. Zinc is a constituent of cartridge brass and shell-fuses, and is used also as a covering for iron barbed-wire fencing. In 1913 the United States, Germany and Belgium were the leading producers of zinc.

Of the three, only the United States smelted domestic ores. Belgium and Germany relied mainly on zinc concentrates that they imported from the broken Hill mines in New South Wales, where, for one reason and another, it does not pay to do the smelting. France, Spain, and Great Britain also produce substantial quantities, but not enough to supply their own needs. Austria and Germany have considerable deposits of ore in Silesia, Hungary, Carinthia, and the Tyrol. As the zinc-smelting furnaces of Great Britain are not well adapted for dealing with the Broken Hill concentrates it buys the bulk of its supplies from the United States.

GIN PILLS
 FOR THE KIDNEYS

A Manitoba Farmer and a Saskatchewan Merchant

If you suffered from pains in your back and a few doses of Gin Pills fixed you up in short order, you would pass the good word along, wouldn't you? That is exactly how Mr. Wm. S. Gilbert, of Freedale P.O., Manitoba, feels. He writes to tell us how Gin Pills quickly banished the suffering from a hurt in his back. Now he is one of the many

Missionaries for GIN PILLS

Mr. Gilbert walked into a store in McNutt, Saskatchewan, and found the proprietor suffering from a lame back. Mr. Gilbert suggested Gin Pills as the remedy. The next day the storekeeper told Mr. Gilbert he was all right, and now he recommends Gin Pills to all his customers, swelling something for a lame back, pains in the joints, swollen hands and ankles, and other troubles due to disordered bladder and kidneys.

 FOR THE KIDNEYS

'Margaret,'
 The GIRL ARTIST, OR,
 The Countess of Ferrers Court.

CHAPTER I.

When the train drew up at the small station of Leyton Ferrers, which it did in the slowest and most lazy of fashions, two persons got out. One was a young girl, who alighted from a third-class carriage, and who dragged out from under the seat a leather bag and a square parcel instead of waiting for the porter, who was too much engaged in light and pleasant conversation with the guard, to pay any attention to such small cattle as passengers.

The other person was a young man who sauntered out of a first class carriage, with a cigar in his lips, and his soft travelling cap a little on one side, and with that air which individuals who have been lucky enough to be born with silver spoons in their mouths naturally acquire, or are endowed with. Standing on the platform as if it and the whole Great Southern Northern Railway system belonged to him, this young gentleman at last caught sight of the porter.

"Hi, porter!" he called, and when the man came up, quickening his pace as he took in the tall, well-dressed figure of his summoner, the young man continued with a smile, "Sorry to tear you away from your bosom friend, my man, but there's a portmanteau of mine in the van, or should be."

The porter touched his hat, and was going toward the van, when the young man called after him:

"See to that young lady first," he said, indicating with a slight nod the young girl, who was struggling with the bag and the parcel.

Somewhat surprised at this display of unselfishness, the porter turned like a machine, and addressed the girl; the young man sauntered down the platform, and leaning over the fence, surveyed the June roses in the station.

"There's a fly, sir," said the porter, nodding toward the road, where a shambling kind of vehicle on its last wheels, attached to a horse on its last legs, stood expectantly.

The young man surveyed the turnout, and laughed.

"All right; take the bag down to it. Wait! here's a drink for you. By the way, where can I get one for myself? No inn or anything here?"

"No, sir, nothing," said the porter.

Meanwhile the porter had got the portmanteau, and stood awaiting the passenger's pleasure.

After a minute or two, and in the most leisurely fashion possible, the young man turned to him.

"Got the bag? All right. I'm going to Leyton Court." The porter touched his cap. "Is there anything here that can take me?"

"There's a fly, sir," said the porter, nodding toward the road, where a shambling kind of vehicle on its last wheels, attached to a horse on its last legs, stood expectantly.

The young man surveyed the turnout, and laughed.

"All right; take the bag down to it. Wait! here's a drink for you. By the way, where can I get one for myself? No inn or anything here?"

"No, sir, nothing," said the porter.

MILNARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPH-THERIA.

with almost pathetic sadness. "Nearest is at Parrock's Cross, a mile and a half on the road."

"Then I shall have to remain thirsty till I get to Parrock's Cross," said the young man, with an easy smile. "Do you think your horse can get as far as that, my friend?" he added to the driver.

The man grunted, mounted the box, and the Noah's ark rattled slowly away.

The young man lit another cigar, put up his feet on the opposite cushions, and surveyed the scenery, through eyes half closed, in perfect contentment, good humor, and indolent laziness. Presently they came abreast of the young girl, who was stepping along with the graceful gait which belongs to youth, and health, and good breeding.

"Now, I wonder where she is going?" he said to himself as he looked at her. "If she were a man now, I would give her a lift; as it is—By George! she's pretty though. Pretty? She's lovely! I wonder whether she'd take the fly from me, and let me tramp it instead of her? Don't dare ask her! I know what she'd do—give me a look that would make me wish I were fifty miles under the sea, and not say a word. What a devil of a stupid world it is!" And with this reflection as a kind of consolation, he made himself a little more comfortable, and closed his eyes completely.

It was a lovely evening. Some days in June, as we miserable Englishmen know only too well, are delusions and snares, cold as December or wet as October, but it was late in the month and really summer weather; and as the girl walked along the smooth path, which a shower had made pleasant, the trees shone in all their midsummer beauty; the birds sang their evening hymns; the flowers loaded the air with perfume.

Little Lectures
 by NURSE WINGARNIS.
 (Lecture No. 3.)
Anæmia

Our blood is composed of red and white corpuscles—the red to nourish the body, the white to fight disease. In Anæmia—or bloodlessness—the red corpuscles are more or less deficient. Thus the blood cannot provide sufficient nourishment for the body. Therefore the face becomes white and "pasty"—the eyes become dull and "heavy"—and a feeling of intense weariness pervades the whole system. To overcome Anæmia, the blood supply needs re-creation—re-creation with red corpuscles, charging with red corpuscles. And it is here that possesses such wonderful power. Because, being a blood-maker, "Wingarnis" creates a wealth of new, rich, red blood, which brings the roses back to the cheeks—gives a sparkle to the eyes—and surcharges the whole body with new vitality and new life.

A QUAIN AND ATTRACTIVE FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

1611—Girls' Dress, with or without Yoke and Overskirt, and with Sleeve in either of Two Lengths.

Dotted Swiss with "Val" lace and insertion is here shown. The design is good for any of the soft fabrics now in vogue, batiste, crepe nun's veiling lawn and dimity. It is also nice for silk and cashmere and other lightweight woolen goods. The waist may be finished with the yoke portions, which could be of contrasting material, or it may be cut low as in the large view, and have the new sleeve with flounce. The long sleeve is nice if warmth is desired. It is finished with a deep cuff, that could be made of material to match the yoke. The skirt shows a new and popular form of drapery at the sides of the over portion. The underskirt has three gores. The overskirt may be omitted.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for an 8-year size without overskirt, and 4 yards with overskirt.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to 40 addresses on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A PRACTICAL SERVICEABLE GOWN FOR MATERNITY OR IN-VALID WEAR.

1599—This desirable model has new style features and is most practical in its makeup. The fronts are full under a square yoke, and open over the hips, deep plaited panel portions in back and front, where it is finished with a tuck stitched return that may also afford added width if required. The model is so arranged that the fullness is comfortable and pleasing. The sleeves are in wrist length and dart fitted. A stylish collar finishes the neck edge. The skirt possesses such wonderful power. Because, being a blood-maker, "Wingarnis" creates a wealth of new, rich, red blood, which brings the roses back to the cheeks—gives a sparkle to the eyes—and surcharges the whole body with new vitality and new life.

The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at its lower edge. A pattern of this illustration mailed to 40 addresses on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

FIGHTING GROWS FIERCE.

PARIS, March 3.

Bombardments and attacks on the part of German troops continued all yesterday evening in the region to the north of Verdun, according to an announcement made by the French War Office this afternoon. This fighting was conducted with redoubled violence. Near Douaumont several aimless endeavors on the part of the Germans were repulsed with equal success for them, nevertheless the Germans succeeded in reaching the base of Douaumont, where fighting continued with ferocity. The village of Vaux also was attacked by the Germans, but their advances were checked by French fire, and the Germans were compelled to retire, leaving a great number of dead. The bombardment continued with great intensity, yesterday evening, and last night, in the Woerth district, but the French forces held the Germans in check by their curtain of fire. The artillery of the Germans has been active in the vicinity of Malancourt near Haucourt.

RUSSIANS VICTORIOUS ADVANCE.

PETROGRAD, March 3.

The Russian advance in Asia Minor is proceeding along the three main lines, from Erzerum towards Trabzon, Sivas and Bitlis meeting with equal success in all three directions. Since there has been no serious Turkish resistance since the fall of Erzerum, there is little to record in this theatre of operations, except the continued forward sweep of the Russian armies, retarded only by the rugged character of the country, and the severity of the weather. In their retreat the Turks appear to have been mainly occupied with attempts to save their guns and equipment, in which they were only partially successful as the Russians report an increasing toll of captured cannon, which the Turks were forced to abandon. The Turks are said to be strengthening the fortifications at Sivas which is about two hundred miles west of Erzerum, this point being the only one considered here as likely to be a serious obstruction to the westward progress of the Russians. It is believed to be improbable that the Turks will attempt to make a stand until Sivas is reached. Turkish reinforcements are pouring into this centre. In the north and south passes the Russians are progressing. Their forces are closing in on Trabzon and Bitlis and the Russian occupation of both these cities is momentarily expected. This successful co-ordination between the different Russian army groups is enabling the main army, which is pushing due west from Erzerum, to continue its advance without reaching out too far ahead of its supporting wings, and becoming subject to attacking attacks from the Turks.

NERVILINE NEVER FAILS.

When that cold comes, how is it to be cured? This method is simplicity itself. Rub the chest and throat vigorously with "Nerviline." Rub it in slowly and deep. Lots of rubbing can't do any harm. Then put some Nerviline in the water and use it as a gargle. This will ease the cough, ease the phlegm, assist in breaking up the cold quickly.

AND ATTRACTIVE FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Dress, with or without Overskirt, and with Sleeve Two Lengths.

Dresses with 'Vair' lace and here shown. The design of many of the soft fabrics now available, crepe, gauze, etc., is very delicate. It is also nice for washmere and other light-weight goods. The waist may be with the yoke portions, and be of contrasting material. It may be cut low as in the illustration and have the new sleeve. The long sleeve is nice if desired. It is finished with a cuff, that could be made to match the yoke. The skirt is a new and popular form of the sides of the over-underskirt has three gores. The skirt may be omitted.

Material for an 8-year size, skirt, and 4 yards with this illustration mailed on receipt of 10 cents stamps.

PRACTICAL SERVICEABLE FOR MATERNITY OR INFANT.

This desirable model has new features and is most practical in design. The fronts are full, unseamed yoke, and open over a vest. An insert on the vest allows for joining at the fronts and makes it comfortable and pleases the eyes in wrist length. A stylish collar finishes the neck edge. The skirt portion is an important part of this model. It is gathered fullness over the waist, and the skirt is finished with a stitched return that may be added with it required. The waistline is adjustable to suit the waist size, without alteration of the garment, and allows for lengthening the skirt.

Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 42, 44 inches bust measure. 44 inches bust measure. 38 inch size. The skirt measures 44 inches at its lower edge. Address on receipt of 10 cents stamps.

FIGHTING GROWS FIERCE.

PARIS, March 3. Bombardments and attacks on the part of German troops continued all day long in the region to the west of Verdun, according to an announcement made by the French War Office this afternoon. This fighting was conducted with redoubled violence. Near Douaumont several German endeavors on the part of the troops were repulsed with cruel results for them, nevertheless the Germans succeeded in reaching the heights of Douaumont, where fighting continued with ferocity. The village of Vaux also was attacked by the Germans, but their advances were repulsed by French fire, and the Germans were compelled to retire, leaving a great number of dead. The bombardment continued with great intensity, yesterday evening, and last night in the Woerw district, but the French forces held the Germans in check by their curtain of fire. The story of the Germans has been heard in the vicinity of Malancourt near Haucourt.

Congestion From a Bad Cold Loosened Up in One Hour

There is no telling how quickly Nerviline breaks up a hard racking cough, eases a tight chest, relieves a pleuritic pain. Why, there isn't another liniment with half the power, the penetrative qualities, the honest merit that has made Nerviline the most popular American household liniment. A large 50c. bottle of Nerviline cures ills of the whole family, and makes doctor's bill small. Get it today. The large size is more economical than the 25c. trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere.

There is no recent official news regarding the progress of the Russian forces in Persia, but with Kerman-shah safe in their hands, they are now reported moving towards the British forces in Mesopotamia. The junction of these two forces is regarded by military writers here to be a foregone conclusion.

FRANCE DECORATES KITCHENER.

LONDON, March 3. Field Marshal Kitchener, British Secretary of War, received to-day the Grand Cordon of the Legion of Honor from the French Ambassador at the War Office. This was officially announced this evening.

GERMAN PLANE PICKED UP.

LONDON, March 3. A German seaplane returning from England, was yesterday, picked up by the French three miles north of Mid-delkerke Bank off the Belgian coast. It was announced officially in a statement given this evening, that one of the observers of the machine was drowned, and one was made prisoner.

GERMAN STEAMER STRIKES MINE.

LONDON, March 3. The German steamer Delta from Apenrade, Prussia, is believed to have struck a German mine field south of the Sound and foundered, according to a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Copenhagen. Wreckage from the Delta was washed ashore. The German steamer Delta was built in 1905 at Rostock. 2,775 gross tonnage, 291 feet long.

PARIS, March 3. The Cabinet has requested Minister of War General Gallieni to ask the Commander-in-Chief of the Army to extend congratulations to his troops for the heroic courage with which they have repulsed the first shock of the enemy.

WILL TAKE OVER STEAMER.

NEW YORK, March 3. The Cunard Line Offices were notified to-day by cablegram from the Home office at Liverpool to stop the loading of the California and cancel the passage of all persons who have booked on her. The California was due to sail from Liverpool to-morrow evening. Forty cabin passengers and 75 third class passengers made reservations. The cable message gave no reason for the order, but the understanding here is that the British Government intends to take over the California as a naval auxiliary ship.

GREATEST MARINE TRAGEDY.

PARIS, March 3. It was announced by the French Ministry of Marine to-day that there were nearly 4,000 men on board the French auxiliary cruiser Provence, when she was sunk in the Mediterranean on Feb. 26. It is stated that on board were the staff of the third Colonial infantry regiment, the third battalion, second company of the first battalion, and second machine gun company, as well as one extra company—in all nearly 4,000 men. The Ministry of Marine on Feb. 29th announced that the number of survivors of the disaster was estimated to be 870. It is indicated from the foregoing despatch that upwards of 3,130 lives were lost. The loss of more than three thousand lives by the sinking of the Provence is the greatest ocean disaster of modern times up to the present. The largest number of lives ever lost in one wreck was when the White Star Liner Titanic struck an iceberg off Newfoundland Banks on April 14th, 1912, and sank with a death toll of 1,595; the rescued numbering 743. No signs of a submarine was noticed either before or after the sinking of the Provence.

HEAVY FIGHTING STILL IN PROGRESS.

PARIS, March 3. The French have occupied the highest part of the mound on the northern slope on which the village of Douaumont is situated, according to the French official made public this evening. Bombardment continues very violent along the entire front from the west of the Meuse to Woerw region.

BRITISH GAINS.

LONDON, March 3. The British official this evening says: On the evening of the 2nd we exploded five mines near the Hohen-zollern redoubt, and occupied the craters, one of which contained the enemy's main mining shaft. A hostile bombing attack was repulsed. There has been considerable artillery activity on both sides in this neighborhood to-day. On the Ypres-Comines Canal we have consolidated the positions taken yesterday, which include some 200 yards of the enemy's original trenches. Prisoners now amount to five officers and 249 men of other ranks.

RESOLUTION DEFEATED.

WASHINGTON, March 3. By a vote of 68 to 14, the Senate to-day carried out President Wilson's wish and killed Senator Gore's resolution to warn Americans of armed belligerent ships.

RUSSIANS PRESSING ON.

PETROGRAD, March 3. (Official.) On the western Russian front the enemy attempted an offensive in the district north of Czartorysk, but was dispersed by our artillery. On the Caucasian front our troops continue the pursuit of the Turks. Fighting in this district is proceeding under exceptional difficulties. There is complete disorganization of the roads, owing to frost and snow. Our troops last night carried by assault Bitlis, capturing six cannon. Among the Turkish prisoners are 17 officers, including a colonel.

CECIL INTERVIEWED.

LONDON, March 3. Discussing the duties of his new position to-day with the Associated Press, Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade said co-ordination has been secured, and we expect by the adoption of new plans suggested by Consul Skinner will greatly assist American shippers in their trade with the neutrals. We are now considering the contraband list to see if it is adequate in its present conditions. Lord Robert Cecil expressed confidence in the reorganized department which would conduct the blockade with minimum friction and maximum efficiency. My new department, he said, really includes what formerly was handled by the foreign office of war trade departments, which contrary to general belief was independent to the foreign office and admiralty. Co-ordination of the three has now been secured and we hope its working will allay irritation to neutrals, at any rate so that the blockade may be conducted on a more business-like basis. I am working with great cordiality with the Admiralty, who provides an admiral in the North Sea who is in actual contact with the work of stopping ships. Although Consul General Skinner's modesty disclaims credit, I can say the new plans dealing with American shippers were his suggestions. As formerly conducted British shippers could ascertain in advance definitely, as to what could go through to neutrals, while Americans had to take the chance with resultant financial risk. Under the new plan the machinery which has been left to British diplomatic consular officers will be put in operation, whereby the British Government will give American shippers information as to the probable fate of any cargo they desire to ship. Any cargo which corresponds with freight which British exporters would be permitted to ship under license, will be given a letter passing it through the blockade. The Government will, however, reserve the right to stop any ship if any suspicious circumstances arise, warranting such action. We will not attempt to dictate to American shippers what they shall ship as we do our own shippers, but will give them all the necessary information. There have been no extension in the contraband list, but it is being considered to see if it is adequate in its present conditions. Questioned about the effect of the blockade on Germany, Lord Robert said: The rapid fall mark is the best indication that our economic pressure on Germany is being felt, and evidence is growing that the German people are beginning to feel the pinch due to shortage of food. The War Minister concluded the interview by declaring his disbelief in the story of a commission, headed by Viscount Bryce, was going to America to discuss the blockade problem. The Government was quite satisfied with the work of Ambassador Spring-Rice he declared.

SATURDAY, March 4th, 1916.

Senate's Vote of Confidence in Wilson.

The American Senate made short work of the pro-German resolution yesterday. It was obviously meant to embarrass the Administration in its negotiation with Germany on the submarine question. President Wilson has called upon Germany to give the United States a pledge that merchantmen, whether armed or not, shall not be torpedoed without first providing for the safety of those aboard. Germany has not only not given any such pledge but has unofficially intimated that she will not give the pledge, and that she will adhere to her notice to sink all armed merchantmen without warning. As one consequence President Wilson refuses to conclude the Lusitania negotiations. The Hypnotized and Pro-Germans have been lobbying in Congress against the attitude of President Wilson, and Senator Gore gave notice of a resolution, advising the Administration to warn Americans off armed merchantmen of belligerents. This movement was regarded by the President as pro-German and hostile to the attitude the Administration had taken in the matter. There was a desire expressed to smother the resolution without voting, but President Wilson took a strong stand and asked that a vote be taken, so that he would know how he stood in the matter with the Senator. The Senate consists of 92 members and of these 82 members took part in the division. This shows that a large percentage of Senators were present and the vote was therefore fully representative of the Senate. Of these 82, 68 voted against the resolution and 14 for it. The motion in the House of Commons would be regarded as a resolution of want of confidence in the conduct of a particular negotiation and President Wilson obviously intended that it should be regarded as a want of confidence in his conduct in calling upon Germany to give a pledge not to sink armed merchantmen without providing for the safety of those aboard. The motion was negated by a vote of 68 to 14. In other words, the Senate by a majority of almost 5 to 1 in a practically full house expressed their confidence in President Wilson's attitude. The vote showed that both parties Democrats and Republicans are at one in supporting President Wilson in his demand that Germany shall not sink merchantmen, armed or unarmed, without providing for the safety of those on board these steamers. The outcome of the issue is only what we expected. On Thursday we said that President Wilson was determined that the hypnotized and their supporters should come out in the open and declare themselves either American or German. We then expressed the opinion that the House would face the issue and that the members by a vast majority would declare themselves wholeheartedly with the President. The Senate has done so by a vote almost five to one.

Diphtheria Outbreak.

Diphtheria has made its appearance at Stopherville though only one person is stricken so far and is being attended by Dr. Bethune. Two cases of the disease was reported yesterday, one from Casey and Gower Streets. The patients, aged 10 and 17, respectively, were removed to Hospital. Altogether six cases of diphtheria were reported within the city limits during the past week. At present there are 25 patients under treatment for the malady at the Fever Hospital.

Eight More Volunteers From Grand Falls.

The patriotic town of Grand Falls continues to send along new recruits, and by the express, which reached the city at 12.30 p.m. to-day, eight more young men came. They were met on arrival by officials of the recruiting committee and accorded a hearty reception, after which they marched down Water Street, accompanied by a squad belonging to H Company, to the King George the Fifth Institute where a sumptuous repast was prepared for them. This afternoon they will proceed to the C. L. B. Armoury and enroll themselves. Altogether sixty-one recruits have arrived here from Grand Falls, which is the banner district for getting young men to enlist.

Another Steamer Has Oil Tanker in Tow

The latest news by wireless from the British oil tanker San Onofre, reported off Cape Race without coal and having burned some woodwork, is now being towed by another large steamer belonging to the same company, the oil tanker Ashkubala, which was standing by the San Onofre, having proceeded on her voyage. It is now a probability that the coalless steamer will be brought to St. John's for repairs as well as a coal supply.

Gulf Sealers Off.

SUCCESS TO OUR HARDY TOILERS. The Gulf steamers of our local sealing fleet, namely, the Viking, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, sr.; Ranger, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, jr., and Diana, Capt. Dan Martin, left here to-day for Channel, where they will clear next Friday, March 10th, for the Gulf sealing grounds. Amid the tooting of whistles, cheering of crews and with flags flying at the top of each mast, the ships steamed down the harbor at 1.30 p.m. That fortune and good luck will attend our hardy toilers in their venturesome undertaking is the earnest wish of all and that each ship will return with a bumper-trip of seals.

CRESCENT PICTURE PALACE.
The Crescent Picture Palace has another big show on to-day. An episode of the "Cliff Detective" series is "The Figure in Black," a great detective story produced in two reels by the Kalem Company featuring Marian Sais and Paul C. Hurst. "The Jaguar Trap" is a thrilling jungle zoo wild animal drama. "Two Brothers and a Girl" is a strong western drama by the Selig Company who specialize in western subjects. "Bunny in Bunny-land" is a reel of animated cartoons, being the imaginary funny doings of the celebrated John Bunny. Mr. Dave Parks sings "Is there still room for me 'neath the old apple tree," a new novelty song. On Monday "The Romance of an American Duchess," a 2 reel society feature.

CROWDED AUDIENCES AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.
The programme at the Nickel Theatre yesterday was one which appealed to every lover of high class pictures, and the large audiences were all highly delighted with it. The wonderful "Who Pays" entitled "Pomp of the Earth" and Charlie Chaplin's great comedy "The Woman" which is one of the funniest he has ever presented, were in themselves well worth the admission fee. This evening the whole programme will be repeated and there will be large attendances again as hundreds of ladies and gentlemen always take in the Saturday night performances. Monday evening there is to be another banner programme one of the finest ever given at the Nickel. All should make an effort to see it.

The Storm Test

Mr. Baifour, speaking at a luncheon to Mr. Andrew Fisher, the new High Commissioner for Australia, said: "The storm had come, and how had the Empire stood the strain? We knew and had heard what the Australians had done in battle. We knew the value of their contribution to the Imperial cause. The achievements at Anzac were immortal memories. We lived in an age and at a moment of which this could be said, that it had been proved in the face of mankind and before the tribunal of history that it had been possible for the first time in history for free, self-governing Colonies to cherish the sentiment of unity which hitherto had only been supposed to be possible under some centralized form of government. "The experiment had survived the test, and it constituted the most novel and greatest experiment in Imperial government the world had yet seen."

Prospero's Rough Trip

BAD FISHING NEWS. The S.S. Prospero, Capt. Joe Keen, arrived back from Western ports at 1 p.m. to-day. The ship reached as far as Channel. Very stormy weather was experienced during the trip, heavy N.E. and N.W. gales and blizzards being continuous. She brought a large freight, including small shipments of fresh frozen halibut and codfish, and the following passengers in saloon:—Clem. Benning, T. Walsh, T. Heary, T. Tobin and thirteen second class. Two patients came along on the ship from St. Mary's Hospital. Captain brings poor news of the Western Bank fishery. He reports that owing to the terrific weather of late operations have been suspended. Continuing, he said that the outlook of the western fishery at present is none too promising and if it continues much longer like it has been it will be a complete blank.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Try a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

The Human Story

"Private Thomas Balmer, 8th King's Liverpool Regiment, after being wounded in France, spent part of his convalescence at Lathom, Ormskirk, with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Balmer, who had brought him up. He was packing his kit before rejoining his regiment when his grandmother collapsed and died. He was to have been buried yesterday when the old man, broken-hearted at the loss of his wife and the departure of his grandson, also had a sudden seizure and died in a few minutes. Both were 73 years of age," says the Times.

What Splendid Soldiers

Springfield Republican.—When one reads that British Columbia is sending more men to the war than any other similar division of the British Empire, one realizes what splendid soldiers the Colonials must be. Those are no weaklings who have sought out the northwestern wilds to conquer them. It is said that in the recent month 1200 men came up the Fraser river from points on the old Caribou trail and joined a regiment.

Eton Boy's Foresight.

When a boy of 15 at Eton in 1880 Second Lieutenant Gareth Hamilton Fletcher, of the 3rd Grenadier Guards, who fell last January, and of whom a biographical notice appeared in the Times of October 15, wrote a remarkable letter to his mother, in which he prophesied the war, and expressed the hope that he would be old enough to fight for his country.

This letter, which is published in the current issue of the Eton College Chronicle, is as follows:— "I have just been reading about our Navy in the Daily Graphic. Why are we deceived into thinking that Germany really means well to us and not every day disputing which is the best of many ways of waging war on off the map without a struggle? We are not really deceived, we only so because it is a good excuse and we would rather go and have a game of golf or have a day's hunting. What fools we are! (especially myself!) Our only chance is to wake up, and who is going to wake us up? There must be somebody. I wish he would show himself before it is too late, and God grant I may be old enough to fight for my country when the time comes. God help us!"

THOUGHTS AND EMOTIONS. Thoughts and emotions might be likened to the forces, the strings as to speak, which are pulled as different expressions are manifested. The muscles of the face respond instinctively to conscious or sub-conscious thoughts. It would seem that they mirror certain things with which they have little to do. Many women make a mouth with every button of their shoes that they fasten, when using scissors they mimic the cutting with motions of the jaw. Many when giving up over to reflection and meditation have an unconscious and unbecoming relaxation of the face so that the brows droop, cheek muscles sag and the eye-line tends downward.

In these and other ways, horizontal lines appear on the forehead, vertical lines about the mouth, wrinkles at the corners of the eyes, and, in later years, vertical lines in front of the ears. All of which might have been postponed indefinitely had facial repose been cultivated. Once in a while such a graceful benign woman is met who long ago mastered herself so that her face expressed repose and dignity. There is no lack of expression there, indeed, the whole face is alight with intelligence and vivacity, the eyes beam with all that is vital, brilliant and appealing, but there are no contortions, no grimaces, nothing which tells of lack of concord, empty self pity, and grinding nervous fretting over trifles. Such things are relegated to their proper place upon the stage of thought, and serene upon its throne the spirit of this woman maintains a noble mobility of countenance which is at once repose and life. Such a woman could well teach the beautiful and worthy art of facial repose and when it was done those who had been her pupils would rise up and call her blessed.

The Human Story

"Private Thomas Balmer, 9th King's Liverpool Regiment, after being wounded in France, spent part of his convalescence at Lathom, Ormskirk, with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Balmer, who had brought him up. He was packing his kit before rejoining his regiment when his grandmother collapsed and died. She was to have been buried yesterday when the old man, and the loss of his wife and the departure of his grandson, also had a sudden seizure and died in a few minutes. Both were 73 years of age," says the Times.

What Splendid Soldier

Springfield Republican. When one reads that British Columbia is sending more men to the war than any other similar division of the British Empire, one realizes what splendid soldiers the Colonials must be. Those are no weaklings who have sought out the northwestern wilds to conquer them. It is said that in one recent month 1200 men came up the Fraser river from points on the coast, followed the trail and joined a regiment.

THE BATTLE OF VERDUN AND THE ATTITUDE OF NEUTRALS.

LONDON, To-day. The British press is studying carefully the effect of the Verdun fighting on public opinion in various European capitals, particularly in neutral countries such as Greece, Roumania, Scandinavia and Holland. A special correspondent sent to Sweden warns the British public as follows: Any decisive German success will produce a far-reaching political effect upon certain neutrals. The rebound in Sweden would be great and almost immediate. It is hardly realized abroad that the recent fluctuations in the attitude of Sweden were the direct results of the vicissitudes in the campaign in general and of the Russian's grave reverse in particular. While the majority of Swedish people entertain no desire to exchange a safe lucrative neutrality for belligerency, which can bring no lasting advantage the sentiments of articulate majority are of little avail against the facts by which ruling statesmen are impressed. It is certain that a decisive Teutonic victory at the present juncture would be followed by most important changes in the international situation.

St. Pierre Bulletin.

The Following Bulletin Posted at St. Pierre.

PARIS, Official, Midnight. In Belgium we shelled the German cantonments in the Langemarck district. North of the Aisne a heavy German patrol, who had attacked one of our small posts was thrown back with losses. A destructive fire was opened by our batteries on the German works east of Neuville, South of Berry-au-Bac. In the Argonne our artillery is busy bombarding the German lines at Fille Morte and Cheppy Woods. We exploded with success a countermine at Saint Hubert. In the district north of Verdun the struggle is very spirited near Donaumont Village. We held the high part of the hill on the northern slope which is the scene of a strong counter attack by our troops, enabling us to recapture some of the ground around the outskirts of the Village. The bombardment is very violent west and east of the Meuse and also in Woivre. Our artillery concentrated fires on German points, especially near Beaumont where a column on the march was dispersed. In high Alsace we captured several German trenches. East of Seppois a German counter attack was powerless to dislodge us from the ground gained. Adjutant Navare brought down yesterday in the Douaumont District, another German aeroplane of the Albatross type, which fell in our lines. The passengers who were wounded, were captured. This is the sixth aeroplane brought down by this officer.

IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM

Britain Likes Fr. Vaughan's Speech.

ABOUT KILLING HUNS.

No Clergyman More Respected Than He for Plain, Straightforward Speaking—Peace Must Be Based on Allied Victory.

London, Feb. 20.—There is not a member of the clergy of any denomination whatever in the whole of the United Kingdom more respected for his plain, honest, straightforwardness than Father Bernard Vaughan, and though he may have made squirm some of those narrow-minded clergy and others who of late have been condemning young clergy for taking an active part in the war by the powerful speech which he delivered at the Mansion House the other day, he was applauded heartily by those privileged to hear him.

The theme of his speech was "Our Business to Keep on Killing Germans," a speech which he said he knew "would produce a batch of letters asking if he were a priest of God."

The "music" Britons at the front had to face, he said, was the most highly organized war machine ever made. It was made in Germany, and that was why we didn't want it. If Prussianized Germany would play the game according to the rules laid down by international law he thought they would all command our admiration as well as our respect. But they had failed to play the game.

"Our business," he declared, "is to keep on killing Germans. Somebody has to be killed, and do you think we ought to be killed in view of the motive we have gone forth to fight for? I say we have to kill a sufficient number of that tremendous army so as to entitle us to dictate terms of peace that should be rooted in victory, to be heard shouted from Petrograd to Rome, from Paris to this mammoth metropolis."

After referring to the German atrocities, he said he was told sometimes that the newspapers were exaggerating. His answer to that was that if the Germans had not done what was charged against them they were willing to carry out the laws laid down by their war lords, to leave the women and children nothing but their eyes to weep with.

"We are up against this sort of enemy," he said. "Do what we will, you must either crush or tame the enemy, or he will leave you nothing but your eyes to weep with."

Fads and Fashions.

Fashionable colors for evening dresses are black, periwinkle and rose.

Many of the sports suits are of soft wool velour in vivid-colored checks. Shoulder capes and waist-coats are among the most novel and pretty models.

Very chic are the sports coats made of white and green checked wools. Waistcoat effects are to be seen beneath half-open bolero fronts to the coat.

Panier tunics and fitted corsages cause many changes in the silhouette for spring.

Silks of all kinds—taffeta, faille, poplin and satin—will be seen in the spring suits.

Obliging collars, which suggest the sailor, are being shown on the new spring garments.

White lingerie gowns are richly encrusted with lace and worn over colored silk slips.

Fitted at the waist and buttoned straight down the front is the fashion of new bodices.

Glazed kid is a craze abroad, not only for hat trimmings, but for tailored suits for driving.

The characteristics of women's dresses may be summed up as closer waists and fuller skirts.

Fancy a leg-of-mutton sleeve with two faring collars set on where the sleeve fits the waist.

A charming finish to a black chiffon waist is a square double collar of white crepe with black dots.

Women with broad shoulders will find the new Collet cape a becoming arrangement on corsage or coat.

The sports hats should be of simple design, gaining distinction by their contrasting materials and colors.

A great deal of white is seen on the suits now being made for spring—especially in the shape of linings and pipings.

Very long sleeves are sometimes covered with embroidery terminating in a deep pointed cuff falling over the hand.

Fashionable coiffure is largely a matter of individual taste. The hair may be worn high or low, may be in wide or narrow effect.

More Larcenies Reported.

The police detectives are now engaged investigating another series of daring larcenies reported to have occurred in the city of late. Many articles have disappeared from certain residences which are said to have been burglarized. Our local sleuths, who have unearthed some wholesale thieving this winter, have a slight clue as to the parties who are operating this time and it is not unlikely that a few arrests may occur within the next twenty-four hours.

Women in Gun Shops.

Where Thousandths of an Inch Matter—Happy Workers.

In a munition factory in Yorkshire where the dillution of labour has resulted in a happy co-operation between unskilled women and skilled men workers there is a woman on gun-breech work—perhaps the most exacting of all munition work.

A man sets her machine and she completes the boring of a hole, an eighth of an inch in diameter, which has to continue dead, true through twelve inches of steel. In this work the woman's delicacy of touch has made her of greater use than the unskilled man. The test is the tally of broken tools, and this woman, who was previously a charwoman, has as yet a clean sheet.

A short distance away is a woman who has become surprisingly proficient at slot drilling—a process in which the thousandths of an inch matter. Still more women in this shop are able to take over bigger work from the men, with the assistance of a labourer for lifting the heavy weights. There is a woman, who is able to do her own tool-setting. She is probably the only woman tool-setter in the country, and her spur to efficiency has been the knowledge that she is aiding in an indirect way the efforts of her husband at the front. The first bomb shop in the country to be staffed by women is in a position soon to send 3,000 bombs a week more to the trenches from a shop alone.

How Women Were Engaged.

How women came into these works is a lesson in the employer's tact and freedom from prejudice on the part of his men. He called his men together, told them that the output had to be doubled and that men or women would have to be got. There would be much teaching to be done. Perhaps the workers would like to find men workers. They said they would.

They came back later saying they would rather work with women. "You must look after them," said the employer, "and you must all pull together." "From that day to this," said the employer, "things have gone perfectly."

No part of a gun undergoes a more searching test than the vent, and the making of the gauges alone entails an outlay of a hundred pounds or more. Women have been put on to this work together with one or two more unskilled men, and the number of skilled men engaged remaining the same.

"But," said the managing director, "where I was doing well previously to get six vents a week I am now getting thirty. I have been told by the authorities that I am making them better than anyone else."

The achievements of the women in these works are the more remarkable in view of the fact that they are engaged on general engineering and rarely remain at the same job for more than three days.

Hindenburg's Haunting Face.

Neither Kindness, Justice nor Humanity are Seen Through the Window of the Hun Mind.

"My face is my fortune" is a little phrase most of us have heard; but recent events have demonstrated that one's physiognomic expression may also be one's ruin.

Take the case of the Huns. Look at the generals who are leading the atrocity-army in the trenches in France and Russia—study the portraits of Von Bulow, Hindenburg and Mackensen. Can any sane person really see in their features any semblance of kindness, of justice, or of humanity? Forgetting for a moment all that has happened, is it possible to find in their sunken, staring eyes any expression of love or pity?

And the Allies? Where is the evidence that our men have been hurled into hades-like situations for the mere purpose of "taking a trench at all costs"? Has it not been written of Joffre that he "blesse" and of French that he "blesse"? And what of Tommy and Jean? Is there not respect and love for their officers throughout the ranks?

HOPES ABANDONED.—The baronet Lake Simcoe is four months out to this port from Naples where she brought a cargo of fish last fall. She has not yet been reported to have passed Gibraltar and all hopes of her have been abandoned. There is much anxiety felt for the crew who were nearly all Newfoundlanders.

PACKING.

RUTH CAMEBON

The Lady—w h o always—k n o w s—somehow w a s packing. On the floor beside her little trunk was a heap of clothing and miscellaneous articles, so large that it seemed incredible t h e y should ever be crowded inside it. Molly, the little stenographer lady said so. "But I know it will," she added. "You're such a wonderful packer. Tell me how you do it." "Mercy, I'm not wonderful at all," laughed the lady. "You ought to have seen my mother pack." "You inherited it, then," said Molly. "I wish you'd tell me some of your secrets." "I haven't any said the lady. Just at that moment she took up a shoe and began to pack some stockings into it. "There, I know it," said Molly. "I never thought to pack things inside of shoes." The lady smiled at that. "I thought everybody packed the inside of things like hats or shoes." "Well, they don't," said Molly, "unless I'm nobody." She sat thoughtful for a moment. Then: "There's another kind of packing things inside of things that everybody doesn't do." "What do you mean?" we inquired. "Well," she went on, "I always wondered how Mrs. L— managed to do the work of that big house and always have time to help everybody. Why, she knitted forty-seven swabs for the war hospitals already." She paused to let this sink in and we ventured to inquire its relationship to packing things in shoes. "Making More Room in Your Day" By Skillful Packing. "I was coming to that," said Molly. "Yesterday I happened to go over Mrs. L— just before dinner and there was Mrs. L— sitting in front of the stove watching the dinner cook and knitting away. She says she does it every night. Now isn't that making more room in your day by packing one thing inside another?" The lady paused in the act of stuffing a hat full of miscellaneous soft articles long enough to nod at Molly. "Very good, my dear."

Cure the Skin Through the Skin

It is now thoroughly established among skin specialists that eczema is purely a skin disease, due to a germ beneath the skin and curable only through the skin. Thousands of people suffer with skin disease who are perfectly healthy otherwise, which shows that their blood is not diseased. Ugly-looking stomach remedies are therefore as worthless for skin diseases as they are for a tooth-ache. Eczema germs must be WASHED AWAY. Smearly salves do no good—they cannot penetrate the skin. They merely clog the pores and aid the rapid increase of germs. The only way to reach the germs is by a penetrating liniment. The D. D. D. Prescription, a wonderful new discovery for skin diseases, is a simple, scientific wash—a reliable home remedy that brings about marvellous cures in all forms of Eczema, Bad Leg, Pimples, Ulcers, Barber's Itch and all other skin ailments. D. D. D. relieves distress instantly and washes away disease germs and leaves the skin wholesome and healthy. Get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold Everywhere.

amidst the turmoil of war, for the law and the right. It would make everything this government has attempted, and everything that it has achieved during this terrible struggle of nations, meaningless and futile. "It is important to reflect that if in this instance, we allowed expediency to take the place of principle, the door would, inevitably be opened to still further concessions. Once accept a single abatement of right and many other humiliations would certainly follow, and the whole fine fabric of international law might crumble under our hands, piece by piece. What we are contending for in this matter is of the very essence of the things that have made America a sovereign nation. She cannot yield them without conceding her own independence as a nation, and making virtual surrender of her independent position among the nations of the world. "I am speaking, my dear Senator, in deep solemnity, without heat, with a clear consciousness of the high responsibilities of office and as your sincere and devoted friend. If we should, unhappily, differ, we shall differ as friends, but where issues so momentous as those are involved we must, just because we are friends, speak our minds without reservation. Faithfully yours,—Woodrow Wilson."

Victorias Defeated Feildians Last Evening—Final League Game Will Be Played Monday by Victorias and Terra Novas.

The Feildians suffered a bad defeat last evening against the Victorias at the Prince's Rink, thus depriving themselves of any further right to contest for the championship this season. The Victorias were in excellent condition whilst their opponents were in poor form. The result at the close was 5 goals to 2 in favour of the Vics. There was a large attendance of spectators, the ice was ideal. Fast play was in evidence, though the exhibition on the whole could not be classed a brilliant one. The personnel of the teams were:—

Victorias: Hunt, goal; Ford, point; Long, cover; Brien, rover; Reid, centre; Coultas, right; King, left. Feildians: Strang, goal; Rendell, point; Pearce, cover; Winter, rover; Bennett, centre; Bugden, right; White, left.

Mr. Gus Herder refereed and Messrs. N. J. Vinnicombe and F. Janes acted as timekeepers.

The Vics. began the aggressive and made some fine dashes. While in the Feildians territory King saw an opening which he availed of and landed the first goal for his team. Matters then went entirely in favor of the Victorias, as some of the Feildian players seemed to have the tired feeling early and did not "lose sleep" over chasing the puck in the possession of an opponent. Pearce and Rendell put up a hard defence and after some little time both their forward line in proper working order. White and Winter made some effective runs, but failed to score, their non-success being attributed to erratic shooting. This time, however, White gave the best exhibition of individual play for the evening, passed all opponents and notched up the first goal for his side.

Resuming their attacks the Feildians played all round their opponents, but the ringing of the half time gong prevented the Feildians from further scoring. The Victorias again started well in the second period and scored through Coultas. The Feildians were not discouraged but worked harder than ever and from the time the puck was again centred until it was netted by Winter, only five seconds had elapsed. The remainder of the game was in favour of the losing side who had hard luck at shooting.

During the game King, Bennett, Coultas and Winter were penalized for three minute periods.

For the winners Brien and Ford and Long played well and Hunt gave a good exhibition of goal tending.

White, Pearce and Rendell did effective work for the losers.

FINAL GAME.

The final game for the League Championship will be played on Monday evening next between the Victorias and Terra Novas. The Vics. team will be the same line up as above. The Terra Novas will be:—

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Municipal Board was held last night. Solicitor E. L. Carter reported on the judgment of the case of Earle vs. the City Impounder. After a general discussion during which the Impounder was severely criticized and Messrs. Anderson and Jackman crossed swords, it was decided that Impounder Duffett was to pay all fines and expenses in connection with each case before the court. His services will be retained and his regulations will be drawn up for his guidance.

Mr. Mullaly intimated to the Board that he was then attending his last meeting as he was going away to the States on Tuesday next. He paid a tribute to the good work done by the Board particularly to Chairman Gosling. The latter and Mr. Anderson regretted Mr. Mullaly's departure.

Mr. Jackman then mentioned that he would likely be absent from the city along while, leaving here next Tuesday.

Tenders were received from Bowring Bros. Ltd., Robinson Export Co. and J. Crawford for hose. They will be considered by Messrs. Ayre and Anderson.

F. W. Knight, Fire Underwriters Secretary, stated that with the installation of a 12 inch main on the South Side insurance rates would be reduced.

The Engineer reported that the water pressure in the city was the highest for years.

Mr. F. Longley considered that the new water service was giving satisfaction, according to reports he had received. The meeting adjourned after the passing of bills, etc.

Ears.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Stivash."

Ears are weirdly constructed projections on the side of the head, designed to catch floating sounds of all kinds and herd them into the hearing mechanism within, where they are manufactured into information, ideas, suspicions, wrath, ecstasy, political beliefs and other well known products.

Ears are very crudely designed and have not improved from year to year like automobiles. It is impossible to turn up an ear and keep out undesirable sounds. A man need only see what he chooses, but he has no lids on his ears and must go through the world hearing vast quantities of things which are of no use to him. If ears were only fitted with puckering strings, many a nervous man would sleep soundly through the uproar made by falling leaves and fathers would not be so fatal to earnest young men with deep reverberating voices, who come to sit on the front porches and talk with their daughters at night.

Among man's greatest curses, in fact, are the superfluous things which he hears. If a man could only lock up his ears and throw the key down the well whenever a get-rich-quick promoter hove in sight, he would be greatly blessed by nature, while the ability to explain to a father whose baby has just thought up a new epi-

If a man could only lock up his ears! gram, that the time lock on his ears would not go off for another hour, would brighten many a man's life considerably.

Ears are considered ornamental and are made in a great variety of sizes and designs. Some ears stand out straight from the head like studding sails, making navigation in a high wind difficult for their owners, while others are movable and can be flapped back and forth successfully, though not with any great benefit. It is maintained by scientists that pre-historic man was able to flap his ears vigorously, but even this fact does not make us sorry that we live in an enlightened age.

Ears can take care of themselves in summer, but are a great nuisance in winter, owing to the eagerness with which they freeze up. A water pipe is warm-blooded compared with an ear. When an ear freezes, it cannot be thawed out with a blow pipe, but must be rubbed with snow, after which it becomes vast and red and bulbous and painful. An ear which could be filled with an anti-freeze compound in winter, like an automobile radiator, would become instantly popular and the demand for it would be enormous. Women's ears do not freeze as easily as those of men, possibly because women generally keeps their ears busy.

Even the present crude variety of ear can be protected from frost by stuffing it carefully into a small velvet case called an earmuff. But most people consider the preventive worse than the cure.

Better System of Transportation of Fish

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—The Marine and Fisheries Committee to-day considered the problem of how to supply better fish at less cost to inland consumers. Clarence Jamieson, of Digby, presided and there were present H. A. Britton, of the Maritime Fish Corporation, of Montreal; F. T. James, of Toronto; D. J. Byrne, president of the Canadian Fisheries Association, and W. Found, Supt. of Fisheries.

The majority of the witnesses thought a better system of transportation from Atlantic points should be provided. Under present conditions it was stated the rates were not only high but there was a depreciation of twenty-five per cent in the weight of the fish when it reached the consumers.

Three suggestions were made: First, the inauguration of peddler car services on carload and through rates, with the right to open the cars and take out a portion of the contents at various points in transit; second, the establishment of model fish markets by the Government for demonstration purposes to show how to prevent depreciation; and, third, the popularizing of the fish industry through demonstration kitchens at fairs and at various points the year round.

The Call for Lord Fisher

One of the Most Notable Features of the Table Talk of the Day is the insistent call for the Re-establishment of Lord Fisher at the Admiralty.

Great German Brain Somewhere.

"Napoleons and Nelsons are rare. They do not grow on every bush. I do not think any of the Allies have discovered a Napoleon. "The Germans have certainly discovered a military brain of a very high order," says Mr. James Douglas in the Sunday Pictorial. "I do not know whether his name is Falkenhayn or not. It is possible that he may be an unknown and obscure man whose personality is sedulously concealed behind the fog of war.

"But there is a great German brain at work somewhere. That great brain is directing the war. I think von Hindenburg and Mackensen are merely his instruments.

Afraid of Lord Fisher.

"The most serious handicap of the Allies is the lack of war genius. They have got everything except a great war-brain. Does such a brain exist? It does," says Mr. James Douglas. "There is in England a great master of war. He happens to be a seaman, like Nelson. Because he is a seaman, he has been side-tracked. Lord Rosebery once described Lord Fisher as 'the Kitchener of the Navy.' It is a curious compliment, but it will serve.

"If I were asked to pick out the man to win the war I should without hesitation choose Lord Fisher. There is not a war-brain in Germany to match him. If he were a German he would have been in supreme command. The Germans know war-genius when they see it. We are afraid of war-genius. When the history of this war is written it will be recorded that the British were afraid of Lord Fisher.

Locked Up in Victory House.

"The Kaiser knows," adds Mr. Douglas. "On the eve of the war the Kaiser said to an American financier, 'Fisher is the most dangerous enemy Germany has.' To another personage the Kaiser said, 'Germany has vulnerable spots, and that damned fellow Fisher knows them.' Nevertheless by some kind of witchcraft, Germany has been delivered from the menace of her most dangerous enemy. The one man who can win the war is locked up in Victory House (the irony of it!) and kept busy with stinks instead of strategy."

"Let Lord Fisher be restored to the Navy, and let whatever happened last May be forgotten," says the Observer. "This war is too grave and its needs are too urgent for convention and etiquette to count. Restore Lord Fisher. "Lord Fisher is the only man living who has beaten Germany at all points in everything that he was called upon to do. He is the creator of the Dreadhought Navy—of the construction and the gunnery which gave us the mastery of the sea—from the moment that Major Churchill gave the decisive signal for concentration in the North Sea before the enemy could strike.

"High as Mr. Balfour's influence stands to-day, he can make it greater, yet and command the enthusiasm and Germany Plans to Disgrace the U. S.

Plot to Drag America Into a Humiliating Position in Existence.

Providence, R.I., Feb. 25.—The Providence Journal in the course of a lengthy article to-day says:

"The Providence Journal is in receipt of information direct from German embassy sources which proves the existence of a plot to drag the United States into a humiliating position from which there can be no escape in connection with the attempt that is now being made to force the demand that Americans refrain from crossing the ocean on passenger steamers carrying armaments.

"The plot, furthermore, if carried to successful conclusion would enable the German admiralty to sink any unarmed merchant ship leaving an American port and to destroy its entire crew and passengers without any possibility of the United States government making a protest.

"The statement was made voluntarily to the Associated Press by Herr Von Jagow in Berlin two weeks ago, after the United States government had made new and additional demands on Germany."

BRUCE'S DOMINANT SEEDS

Just as the British Fleet dominates the world's waters, so "BRUCE'S SEEDS" are the dominant ones with the planter whose living depends upon them. It will be even more apparent at this time, when many seeds are in short supply, that there will be more stocks offered by unreliable and inexperienced growers than in the past, and that houses with long established reliable connections such as we possess will have an incalculable advantage. Why take a chance, when you can buy "The Best Seeds that Grow" — BRUCE'S — for very little more than so-called "cheap" seeds? It costs as much to plant and care for "cheap" seeds! BRUCE'S — for very little more than so-called "cheap" seeds! have very meagre, unsatisfactory results for poor seeds as good ones, and you will be glad to pay more for the return for your labor. CHEAP SEEDS ARE DEAD IF YOU GET THEM FOR NOTHING. Send for our 128 page Catalogue of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs, Poultry Supplies and Garden Implements, full of valuable information, which is now ready and will be mailed FREE to all applicants. JOHN A. THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

TAXATION.

There seems no doubt whatever that the Government taxation this Session must in the main be directed towards surplus profits and not towards the already heavily taxed masses. And this is only right and proper. If this horrible game of war is serious, then we are all in business for the benefit of the Empire. It is a revolting thought that the life of the boy whom his mother and father have reared up to help them, is of less value than the thousands and hundreds of thousands which a rich man has made no matter how he has made it.

The man of means may say that he has worked hard for his money, that he has used his energies all the time to make money. But is there no hardship for the mother to rear her boy, did it not take many years of her time? I should think conscription of money would come before conscription of men. Of course up to now we have been borrowing money, all the money we needed. But now it is time that we should avail of our own resources and no longer pay ruinous interest charges outside the Colony. And if we are to raise money, Government taxation of incomes, profits and surplus monies will be more welcome to the man of means than the voluntary system of giving, because he will be sure that under taxation all his rich brothers will be paying just as he pays.

DELIGHTFUL DANCING.

The Irish and Scottish dances by the Mount Cashel boys at the concert were enough to set all feet going. There seems to be no exercise as good as dancing, for the limbs and for all the body in fact. These dances illustrated how the boys can "laugh" with their feet, and it was a delight to watch them.

The singing of Master O'Leary and the choruses by the school boys were at once pure, sweet and tuneful, with the inevitable expression that always accompanies Mr. Hutton's touch. I wish the "Sketch" had been put at the first of the programme. The memory of it then would have vanished before the items were finished. How time could be spent preparing a play that had not one atom of fine thought about it, is beyond me. It was the very embodiment of strategy, deceit, treachery and lying, and we went home with a decidedly bad taste in our mouths. An honest censor would have burned it at once. As the audience was composed of so many young people a jolly little playlet would have been just the thing.

THE NEW CHARTER.

All that we have heard of the New Charter is that it has been under consideration of the members for St. John's, and as Mr. Bennett has gone for a short holiday, and won't be back many days before the opening of the House, it is evident that they have decided on the matter and it will be for the House to take the lead from the Premier, who is a City Representative, and pass the measure. As I have said before, such a measure concerns the people of St. John's, and if it is good, had or indifferent it should be placed before the citizens of St. John's as soon as possible. Why there should be any hesitation to do so is a mystery to me. It has been submitted to the Government, and they have nothing to lose or gain by its publication, except that they owe a duty to the city and those who signed the petition for a Commission, which can be performed by the publication of the New Charter.

SUGGESTION BOX.

In the report of the Council's meeting last week there appeared an item showing that an anonymous request for a light on some street had been put in the waste paper basket. Now this seems a childish thing to do, because the writer was evidently sincere about the need of a light on that street and maybe he was only a bit shy to see his name appearing in print. If the light is needed (and it is very easy for the Council to find that out), what difference does it make from whom the application comes? Does it mean, as it too often has meant, that the name and the social standing count? To me the action was childish in the extreme.

A Suggestion Box I should think would be an excellent department for the city. Then if anyone has any suggestion to make with regard to the City let him or her put it in writing and send to the Suggestion Department. These would be deliberated upon by the Council and out of many suggestions I am sure there would be some of benefit to the City. The Council makes no pretensions to all the brains of the community and this Suggestion Department would give many a bright idea that may not have occurred to the members of the Council. This plan might give many people a deeper interest in their City's good, and bring a nearer realization of the Big Family which the citizens really form. It will be very easy to separate these suggestions that are absurd, and the balance could be made public every week, so that, even if the Council did not take advantage of some of them, public opinion would be educated up to many reforms which they know not of now, simply because their thoughts have not been directed in that way. This idea of suggestions is a way in which the people can best help the Council in that the latter would know more exactly what the people wanted.

HELP FOR THOSE IN NEED.

Another department which should be in connection with our Municipal Council is a Central Organization for those in Need. It is a terrible blot upon our conception of Christianity that there are some people, actually in need, who are not supplied with necessities of life. We have good and useful charitable societies, and we have also the various churches helping the poor of their congregations. But overlapping must take place and the work is far from satisfactory—to those in need as well as the ladies and gentlemen and clergymen who endeavour to help all who apply to them. A Central Organization is needed so that appeals for help may be systematically investigated. And this help should not be given as Charity. It is due to every citizen and to every woman and child that they be provided for if their own resources fall them and circumstances leave them without means of support. And they may avail of this support without shame. Of course if a man will not work, then must he not eat, but there should be no case of old age, sickness or similar infirmity unprovided for.

This Central Organization may be partly a Government affair, but as the Harbor Grace correspondent of the Telegram and "Mary" suggested, there may be a central committee in every town to look after those in need.

LABOUR BUREAU.

One naturally then thinks of a Labour Bureau where those out of work may register, and where those in need of help may apply. All these departments are an extension of civic responsibility which so far do not seem to have entered into the minds of our Councilors. But they are nevertheless necessary, and must come some day.

WHY?

Sometimes ago some clerks were found guilty of stealing and were duly fined and eventually went away, both fine and passage monies I understand being supplied by members of an organization to which they belonged. And there can be no objection to all this. Imprisonment in my estimation and especially under such conditions as we have them in our Pen. does very little good. But now a woman who is convicted of stealing gets 12 months and I think without the option of a fine. She has three children, one an infant of 18 months. What is to become of them? Why not have fined the woman as well and given her friends, if she has any, a chance to free her?

25 cents Destroys Your Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—try this!

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scrub. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

The Irish Soldiers.

King George is proud of his Irish soldiers. He does not ask whether they are Ulstermen or Nationalists, Protestants or Roman Catholics. The following is the text of the message addressed by His Majesty to the 16th Irish Division on December 2nd:—"Officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the 16th Irish Division: Before you leave for active service I send you my heartfelt good wishes. It is a bitter disappointment to me that owing to an unfortunate accident I am unable to see the Division on parade before it leaves England, but I am glad that it has been possible for the Queen to do this for me, and I can assure that my thoughts will be with you. Your loyal response, to the call to arms and the keen, cheerful spirit which I am told you have evinced during a long and arduous period of training are most gratifying to me, and convince me that on the field of battle you will not only maintain but add to the glorious tradition of my Irish regiments. God-bye. May God bless you all your ways."

Blacks Enlisting.

A colored regiment is being raised in South Africa. So great was the rush when the doors were opened that barricades had to be erected, and a squad of police had to be requisitioned to keep the entrances passable. This aptly indicates the enthusiasm with which the recruiting opened at Cape Town. Within two hours 200 recruits were enrolled, a large percentage of whom had already served in the German South West Africa campaign. The non-commissioned officers will be drawn from the ranks. The training of the contingent will be carried out at Simonstown. Enlistment is confined to single men without dependents.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The temperature of the floor is necessarily lower than that at the level of grown up heads, hence, if children are allowed to play on the floor in cold, stormy weather, some care must be taken to avoid draft and chill, even in an upstairs room. Spread a quilt on the floor in such a case or, for the baby, use the crib where the tops can be spread out without fear of falls or drafts. Nice low carts on wheels, with screened sides, come for use upon such occasions. The bought affairs are complete, mattress and all, but there is no reason why one cannot be made at home. They should be roomy, a little shorter than, but as wide as, the crib, and being on wheels, can be moved from room to room at will.

Tailored suits are apt to have slightly narrower skirts than the dresser styles.
