For Daisie's Sake

CHAPTER XXXVII.
 FOR ROYAL'S SAKE.

Full of hope and joy, dreaming of his love—Daisie—Royall, Sherwood went to death through the gates of sleep.

The waters gave up his bruised body the next morning, and on his lips was a smile—the smile that Daisie's caress had left shining there.

Two days later he had a grand funeral, at which Mrs. Fleming was the chief mourner, for his young widow was too ill to attend it. She had a relapse from the awful shock of the news, and hovered for days between life and death.

When she was well enough to sit up again, she found two very tender letters awaiting her perusal. One was a very fond and tender note from Annette, proffering her sympathy, and telling her of the grand funeral, and how beautiful the new mound looked in Greenwood, all banked with fragrant flowers.

The other letter was from Mrs. Fleming, whose pride, crushed and broken by the death of the cousin she had truly loved, stooped now to crave forgiveness of her she had wronged.

Think kindly of his memory, now that he is gone; for indeed I am most to blame, and I feel that Heaven has punished me for my sin in taking him away, when we were always so fond of each other, having no nearer kin. I know you can never be real friends with me; but won't you pretend to be friends, so that the world—Royall's world and mine—need never know how that marriage came about? I would like to come and see you, so that people might say we love each other for Royall's sake. May I? And, Daisie, will you please me by wearing black for him? It would please him if he could know. Of course you will marry Lord Werter after a while; it is only right you should. I have not a word to say. I loved him myself—perhaps Royall told you that—but Dallas cared only for you, and you two will be happy together at last, despite all my wicked scheming. It is the will of Heaven. Oh, if you could find it in your tender heart to pity and forgive me!

The next mail carried the repentant woman an envelope sealed in black, and one tear-blotched line:

I forgive—for Royall's sake. DAISIE.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.
 "LOVE IS LORD OF ALL."

Two years, and the grass was green on Royall Sherwood's grave.

Many times had a beautiful form, robed in somber black, knelt by that low, green mound; many times had Daisie hung flowers upon the broken marble shaft, and watered them with her gentle tears.

For "pity is akin to love," and Daisie did not have to pretend a sorrow she did not feel. Her grief was deep and fervent for the hopeful life cut off in its morning.

Once, when Lottie Fleming had come with her to the grave, she had said mournfully:

"Oh, if he had lived I must have learned to love him by and by—he must have won me by the strength of his own love. Now I will always live single for his sake."

"No, Daisie, do not say that in your grief and remorse, for there was another who was so cruelly wronged in the past that you must soon begin to think of his claims. You know whom I mean, dear."

Yes, Daisie knew. Soon after Royall's death he had sent her one sympathetic line:

God bless you, my sweet little Daisie! And so noble and gentle was his heart that he did not, for more than a year, intrude on the quiet mourning for the dead by recalling himself to her memory.

Yet Dallas knew that she would not forget.

When a year had passed, Mrs. Fleming showed how much her heart had changed by saying:

"You ought to lighten your mourning now, Daisie. Lord Werter has been very patient and forgiving, but he will be coming soon."

And within the month came another short letter:

May I come now, Daisie? Or have you changed?

The answer went back:

Be patient a little longer that we may not seem cold or selfish to the world. But I am the same loving Daisie.

Pretty Annette was married long ago, and had made her wedding tour to Europe. When she returned she had much to tell of the glories of Lord Werter's ancestral home, and of the month she had spent as his guest.

"Oh, Daisie, how dearly he loves you, and what a happy bride you will be! Almost as happy as I am with Ray!" she added, with a fond glance at her adoring husband.

Ray Dering was a changed man—purged of his worst fault by sorrow and suffering, and humbly grateful to Heaven that had permitted him to atone for the evil he had wrought.

Lottie Fleming, too, was changed for the better.

She had conquered her love for Lord Werter, realizing at last its hopelessness.

And from hating Daisie Bell with the passion of a jealous rival, she had grown to love her as a sister.

"Who could help from loving you, Daisie? You are so noble and good! No one but an angel could have forgiven me my sins," she cried over and over.

So when Lord Werter crossed the sea to claim his bonny bride, she was unselfishly glad that the long-parted lovers would be happy at last.

All due respect had been paid the memory of her cousin, who had been dead two years, and Daisie had a right to her happiness. Even Aunt Alice, who was the most censorious of mortals, agreed that it was so, and she and Doctor Burns came from Gull Beach to the grand June wedding that took place from Mrs. Fleming's home, where Daisie had lived the most of the time since Royall's death, to please the repentant woman.

Ah, what a meeting they had, those two fond lovers, once so cruelly parted, now united till death by the marriage vow!

Sorrow had only intensified their love and made their trust in each other's constancy more perfect. With hearts full of joy they clasped hands at God's holy altar, and sailed away, leaving sorrowing hearts behind them, but sure of a glad welcome awaiting the bonny bride in her new home.

THE END.

Happiness
At Last;

Loyalty Recompensed.

CHAPTER I.

Now, as she had a particularly eloquent face—eyes, lips, and brow, which reflected and expressed every passing emotion—it was not to be wondered at that as she stood at the corner of one of the walks, looking from side to side anxiously, she should attract attention.

A nurse-maid dragging two children behind her, remarked to the eldest:

"Look at that pretty lady; she've been an' lost her wiy."

A young man glanced at her, and waited, longed to speak to her and offer assistance; but he was young and shy, and he too passed on. Then came the gentleman who had come from behind the dens. He was walking slowly, with his eyes fixed straight before him, and he did not see the girlish figure and the anxious face until he was close upon her. And he too looked as if he would have liked to pass by.

But something in the gray-blue eyes, in the delicate lines of the girl's white brow, stopped him, against his will. He pulled up, raised his hat, and in a grave voice that was not by any means unmusical, said:

"I beg your pardon. Are you looking for any one? Can I help you?"

The girl did not blush, but turned her eyes upon him with an almost boyish frankness.

"Oh—thank you," she said, rather hesitatingly; for how could he help her? "I have wandered from my people, and lost them. I have been searching for them everywhere, but can not see them."

He looked at her—glanced would be the better word—and he saw a slim, girlish figure clad in gray with a simplicity almost Quakerish; a clean-cut, oval face, grayish-blue eyes with dark lashes, and a mouth that struck him as rather large. The face, he knew even at that first moment, was beautiful—what men call a fascinating one; but he did not think much about it. She was at this, their first meeting, just a girl—probably a school-girl—who had lost her mistress or her mother.

And the girl, as her eyes rested on him placidly, incuriously, saw a well-dressed man, with a handsome face with dark-brown eyes and hair. There was a suspicion of gray about the temples, a look of gravity and sadness in the eyes which perhaps struck her afterward. But for the moment she only noticed that he was good-looking and had a distinguished air, and that he seemed rather wearied and a little bored, but too well-bred not to try and conceal it.

No voice whispered in her ear: "Behold this man! he is your fate; the man who will change the current of your life; the man whose slightest word, lightest smile, will have power to move your heart to its very depths."

So she smiled at him with her eloquent mouth, with her frank blue eyes, and the man looked gravely into the face, scarcely noting its fascination.

"Where did you leave them?" he asked.

"Under the trees on the lawn by the lions' cage," she replied. "I strolled in there and wandered further than I intended; when I came back they were gone."

"No doubt they only left for a time; they may have gone back," he said.

"Oh, do you think so?" she said, with a touch of relief in her voice, a smile in her eyes. "But I can't find it again. I've gone round and round until I feel as if I were in a maze."

He smiled.

"I think I know the place you mean; and if you will allow me, I will take you back to it."

"Thank you," she said, simply; and as if his offer were quite a matter of course, and to be accepted as readily and naturally as it was made.

"This way then," he said.

They walked on side by side. He did not look at her curiously, admiringly, as most men, as nearly all the sons of men would assuredly have done, but gazed straight before him as he had done when he had come upon her; and he did not speak for some moments. There was indeed something so strange in his preoccupation that the girl began to think he had forgotten her; and she glanced up at him with a naive, half-mischievous smile in her eyes.

He happened to catch the glance, and as if he had suddenly remembered her existence and proximity, he said:

"Is this your first visit to the Zoo?"

"Yes," she replied. "My very first. We have always lived in the country."

THE QUEENSLAND LOAN.
LONDON, Sept. 27. The Morning Post learns that of the million pounds advance, which Premier Theodore, of Queensland, Australia, arranged with the Bank of England for that state, more than three-fourths was for obligations maturing in London, leaving only two hundred thousand pounds to be remitted. Hence there has been need of the raising of a local loan in Queensland. In a recent speech Premier Theodore said the failure of his financial mission to London would not be allowed to affect the development of the state. A two million loan would be raised locally, he stated. Premier Theodore, of Queensland, visited London in an effort to raise funds to finance the operation of the Queensland government owned steel plant. He was met with opposition in London, much of it being based upon statements made by opponents of the Labor government which he heads in Queensland.

THE MAUDE FROZEN IN.
NOME, Alaska, Sept. 27. Captain Roald Amundsen's Polar Expedition ship, the Maude, is reported wedged tight in the polar ice pack west of Kolyuchin Bay, Siberia, and nearly midway between Wrangel Island and Northern Siberia, by fur traders who reached Nome to-day.

ANOTHER HARDING PROMISE.
BALTIMORE, Sept. 27. A Merchant Marine policy insuring United States trade accessible to all markets of the world, linked with a protective tariff system to foster domestic production, were promised by Senator Harding to-night in a speech at the Baltimore Company.

MORE REPRISALS BY BLACK AND TANS.
TRIM, County Heath, Ireland, Sept. 27.—Because of the burning of the police barracks here yesterday morning and the wounding of Chief Constable White, a number of armed men descended on the town last night and burned buildings, attacked residences of Sinn Feiners, and indulged in indiscriminate shooting. Several casualties are reported. The reprisals are alleged to be the work of the "Black and Tan" police. The regular police are taking steps to prevent further damage. During the reprisals some thirty houses were burned and fires were still blazing at noon to-day. Among the premises destroyed were a mineral water factory, which was a principal industry and market here. Practically all the houses on both sides of the chief thoroughfare were set on fire. The States, an export permit must first be secured from the railway board. It is explained that the purpose of the Railway Board in providing for the issuance of permits to exporters, is not to restrict exports across the border, but to make consignees satisfy the Board that the coal is for United States consumption. The issuance of permits will also make it easier to keep track of export movements of coal. In regard to Newfoundland, an agreement has also been made which prevents Canadian coal sent to Newfoundland being shipped again out of that colony.

NOT TRUSTING THE RUSSIANS.
RIGA, Sept. 27. Dombaki, head of the Polish Peace Delegation, in a formal reply to-day to the Soviet ultimatum of Friday last proposing an armistice, which the Soviet delegates said must be accepted by the Poles within ten days, says the definition by the ultimatum of the time within which an armistice and peace preliminaries must be signed, as presented by the Russian delegation, does not in the least help to bring the negotiations to a satisfactory result. On the contrary it gives the impression that the side presenting such an ultimatum reserves to itself the right to break off the negotiations at any minute.

RUN ON BOSTON BANKS.
BOSTON, Sept. 27. Public uneasiness over local banking conditions to-day caused runs on some institutions, with the result that the Tremont Trust Company, Fidelity Trust Co., and Dorchester Trust Co., invoked the law, which makes it possible to require ninety days' notice of withdrawals from the savings departments in order to stop the rush of frightened depositors. The run on the Tremont Trust Company in Court Street, was participated in by hundreds, and proportions of the crowd became so great that police mounted and on foot were called to maintain order. The bank sought for an hour to meet the claims against it, and officials announced that there was money on hand to pay all, but the demands became so great that Vice-President Swig announced that the 90 day notice would be required.

SOLDIER SUICIDES.
FREDERICTON, N.B., Sept. 27. Dependent over the conditions of his health, which since he returned from over five years of overseas service, has resulted in his being in hospital much of the time, Lieut. Charles Blair, who enlisted at the outbreak of the war in 1914, shot and killed himself at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Howell, at North Devon, this afternoon. Since his return from overseas he underwent an operation for appendicitis, and his health has been more or less broken, causing increasing despondency. He was about 33 years of age.

NATIONALIST CONFERENCE FAILS.
LONDON, Sept. 27. Fifty-five delegates of the South African and the Nationalist parties have been in conference at Bloemfontein for several days, according to cables to London papers, seeking to effect a racial re-union among the Boers. It is reported that no agreement was reached, the negotiations broke down on the Republican base. The Boers of the South African party resolutely refused re-union which would not include the English South African party.

COAL REGULATIONS AMENDED.
OTTAWA, Sept. 27. On the recommendation of the Board of Railway Commissioners, an order in council has been passed amending the order adopted some weeks ago forbidding the export of coal from Atlantic ports, excepting to the United States and Newfoundland. The amending order in council provides that in the case of such shipment by water to the United

It's Astonishing To Her, Declares Mrs. Hattie White
Can Eat Anything And Sleeps Like A Girl Since Taking Tanlac.
"I don't believe that anybody has suffered more than I have during the past ten years, for many times I had almost rather have been dead than go through the awful suffering I had to endure, but thanks to Tanlac I'm now feeling just as fine as I ever did in my life," was the truly remarkable statement made by Mrs. Hattie White, of 114 Charlotte Street, St. John, N.B. Mrs. White has resided in St. John for the past two years, having formerly lived at Bridgetown, N.S., where she also has a large circle of friends.
"My appetite was so poor that I hardly ever felt like eating a thing, and even if I did get a little hungry, I was afraid to eat scarcely a bite of food, on account of the awful suffering that was sure to follow. Every single thing that I ate seemed to lie in my stomach undigested, and I suffered from heartburn and terrible pains in my stomach. I bloated up with gas until I almost smothered.
"My nerves were so shattered that any little unusual noise would startle me, and at night I was so restless sleep was almost out of the question. My condition was simply miserable, and at times my suffering nearly drove me to distraction.
"No medicine I used ever seemed to help me a particle until I got Tanlac, but it has simply been astonishing the way this medicine has fixed me up. Why, it has only taken four bottles to give me a splendid appetite, and everything agrees with me so perfectly that I can eat just anything I want without ever feeling a sign of indigestion or gas, and my breathing no longer troubles me any.
"My nerves are just as steady as a clock, and I sleep as good and sound as when I was a girl. If at any time I get a little upset, it only takes a few doses of Tanlac to make me feel right again. Yes, indeed, Tanlac has certainly done me a world of good, and I'm always telling my friends about it."
Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Gushue, in Millertown by Exploits Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Island by William Samson, in Namur by Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Freake, advt.

The girls told the immigration officer that the carpenter of the steamer told them after they had gone on board the Conewago that the captain was aware of their presence on board, but didn't care so long as they kept out of his sight. On the passage up they told Mr. Dooley they were royally treated, being provided with the best of food and even had rations of oranges and other fruit. In fact they said they had a whale of a time. Their destination, they said, was Halifax, where they intended getting work with the Imperial Oil Company.
Immigration officer Dooley is in communication with the Department at Ottawa, and will hold the stowaways until word is received. In the meantime action will be taken against the captain of the steamer.—North Sydney Herald, Sept. 23.

Mystery of a Corkscrew.
Regina, Sask., Sept. 22.—Who opened a bottle in the potato patch of Augustus H. Ball, deputy minister of education, and threw away the corkscrew?
While digging up his spuds, recently, Mr. Ball turned out one with a corkscrew embedded in it—and now he would like to locate the one in which the companion flask is embedded. All efforts to that end have so far proved futile.
At present it is in the keeping of Conewago Had Six Stowaways.

TWO GIRLS AND FOUR CHAPS FROM ST. JOHN'S.
There's a whole lot of trouble in store for the captain and perhaps owners of the American steamer Conewago, which arrived in port this morning from St. John's, Nfld. The vessel is now at the Scotia pier taking on 500 tons of bunker coal, and will proceed, if matters are straightened out in time with the immigration department, to Chicoutimi, where she will load lumber for the other side.
When the craft struck port, or some time shortly afterwards, it was discovered by immigration officer Dooley that no less than four Newfoundland men and two young women, one an Irish girl who was born in Tipperary, and worked one year in St. John's as a stenographer, and her companion a native of the latter place. The maid from Tipperary gives her name as Peggy McFarland, and her age as 20 years. Her friend says her name is Kitty Hicks, and her age is 22.
The bunch were taken to the police headquarters by the officers, and this morning immigration officer Dooley spent some time investigating their cases. While engaged making enquiries from the girls, two of the stowaways who were confined in one of the cells below kicked up a shindy and made a rough house of it until the police put in an appearance, when it was discovered several windows in the basement of the jail were broken. All the male stowaways are now cooped up in the dark cell, where they can break nothing, neither can they see anything.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE THINGS PEOPLE TALK ABOUT.

The Authorman was asked the other day why he didn't want to meet a group of people whom he might easily meet if he would go half way.

"They are in several different lines of business," said the inquirer; "they must have had plenty of interesting experiences. I should think you would like to meet them and know them for the sake of the material you would get, if for no other reason."

A Cross Section of An Average Conversation.

"Do you know what those men would talk about if I met them?" said the Authorman. "They would talk a whole lot of editorials they had read on the political situation and the financial situation and the rest of the day's news. If they talked about their own business it would probably be in a large way, to impress me, rather than in any way that would give me an inside picture of their experience. People don't seem to talk about the interesting things they think or experience. They keep those hot up in their minds. They talk about the weather and what they've read in the newspaper (and I've already read that myself) and the books they've read (or pretend to have read) and all that sort of thing. There isn't one person in a hundred who really tells the right out of his mind and experience instead of on the surface. I've met just one this summer, and he wasn't one of that bunch you want me to meet—he was a old storekeeper who has been a hip's cook and a lumber man and a sene shifter and about a dozen other things, and had been thinking and observing all his life and wasn't afraid to hand some of it out."

Do you recognize the Authorman's description of the things people talk about as accurate?

It seems to me it is a pretty good cross-section of an average conversation.

Think As Interesting Things As You Read In Books.

It is my belief that the interesting thoughts and reactions are not confined to the authors of books by any means. We read things in books and we say "There, that is what I've always thought, but I never quite wanted to say it because I thought it was such a queer idea that no one else would have it." I think the chances are that the person to whom we did not dare speak out that thought, had had the same idea at some time and would have been delighted to have us express it instead of just saying the conventional thing.

People who write books are people who dare to say what they think and also who know how—for self-expression is not the easy thing it seems to the person who has not tried to express any but the simplest things.

Just Say What You Are Thinking Some Day.

Another reason why we don't say the interesting things we think is, I believe, because we "Angry Saxons" (one of our fighting negroes' versions of "Anglo Saxons") are so afraid of appearing the least bit unconventional or emotional.

Just for the interest of the thing, the next time you have some thoughts that are a little out of the ordinary, try sharing them with your companions and see if you do not start a conversation that will have some real vitality to it.

Mainly About People.

Mme. Galli-Curci is to become an American citizen as soon as she can become naturalized, she announced recently. She has just returned from Paris, and says she is through for all time with the Old World, which she described as "like an old woman, worn and sorrowful, withered by war."

Chauncey M. Depew has some pleasing stories that he loves to relate regarding Colonel Williams, the famous hotel keeper of the little town of Peekskill 50 years ago. In speaking of the colonel, he says: "I knew Colonel Williams during all my younger life. He occupied a position which disappeared with changed customs, but was quite common in earlier times. Then the colonel was proprietor and landlord of the Eagle Hotel, at which General Washington had several times stopped during the revolutionary war.

He was always immaculately dressed in Prince Albert suit and top hat."

George L. Moore, the London millionaire, who has promised London a "Victory" park to cost over $750,000, was once a solicitor in Belfast and in those days wore a mustache and beard. More than once he was mistaken for King Edward, whom he knew. "The same thing" he said in referring to one such incident to an interviewer recently, "happened to a friend of mine, Judge R. Adams, of Limerick, who used to meet the late monarch at a German spa each year. 'The King was greatly amused when Adams was taken for him. But one day he buttonholed his friend and said: 'I don't object to people taking you for me and singing "God save the King," but what I do object to is people coming up to me in the street and saying, "Good morning, Dick! What'll you have to drink?"'"

W. A. Harriman, son of the late "railway king," is now 28 years old, and people in a position to know the facts declare that he is showing the same ability and energy in the shipping business which made his father a formidable figure in the railway world. This young captain of industry is a most engaging personality. He is half an inch over six feet tall, well proportioned, slender and rather dif-ident in manner, except in business transactions, when he is as direct, as keen and confident in his own judgment as was his dynamic father. Save for the expression of the steady dark eyes under heavy straight brows, there is nothing about the tall wizard of international commerce reminiscent of the little wizard of Wall Street.

Should Miss Mabel Boardman, who in her work as head of the American Red Cross won international fame, accept one of the vacant commissionerships of the District of Columbia, which has been offered her by President Wilson, she will then have the distinction of holding the highest political position of any woman in the United States. Miss Boardman is one of the best known women in the world. Before the European war, for her work in directing the activities of the American Red Cross, Miss Boardman was decorated by several foreign rulers, including the King of Sweden, the King of Italy and the Emperor of Japan. Yale University in 1911 recognized Miss Boardman's Samaritan work by giving her an honorary degree of master of arts, the second woman to receive the honor in the history of the university. She served as delegate of the United States to the eighth International Red Cross conference in London in 1907. For more than twelve years Miss Boardman has had direct charge of the entire relief system of the Red Cross. Miss Boardman is the daughter of the late William H. Boardman and his wife, Florence Sheffield Boardman. She was born in Cleveland, but moved with her parents to Washington about 1895, where she soon became interested in social service work. Of late years she has devoted her attention mainly to the American Red Cross.

Be great of heart! No fairer greatness lies In skill's domain or any golden prize, Fame hath no worth on mortals to bestow Like that which true and gentle people know.

Be great of heart! Too big for petty hate, For narrow purpose or restricted state, Welcome the stranger and be fair to foe, Skill hath no greater splendor to bestow.

Be great of heart! Neighbor and friend to all, Stand by the weaker brother lest he fall, Give to the poorer, soothe the sadder breast, This is true greatness living to its best.

AMY LOWELL.

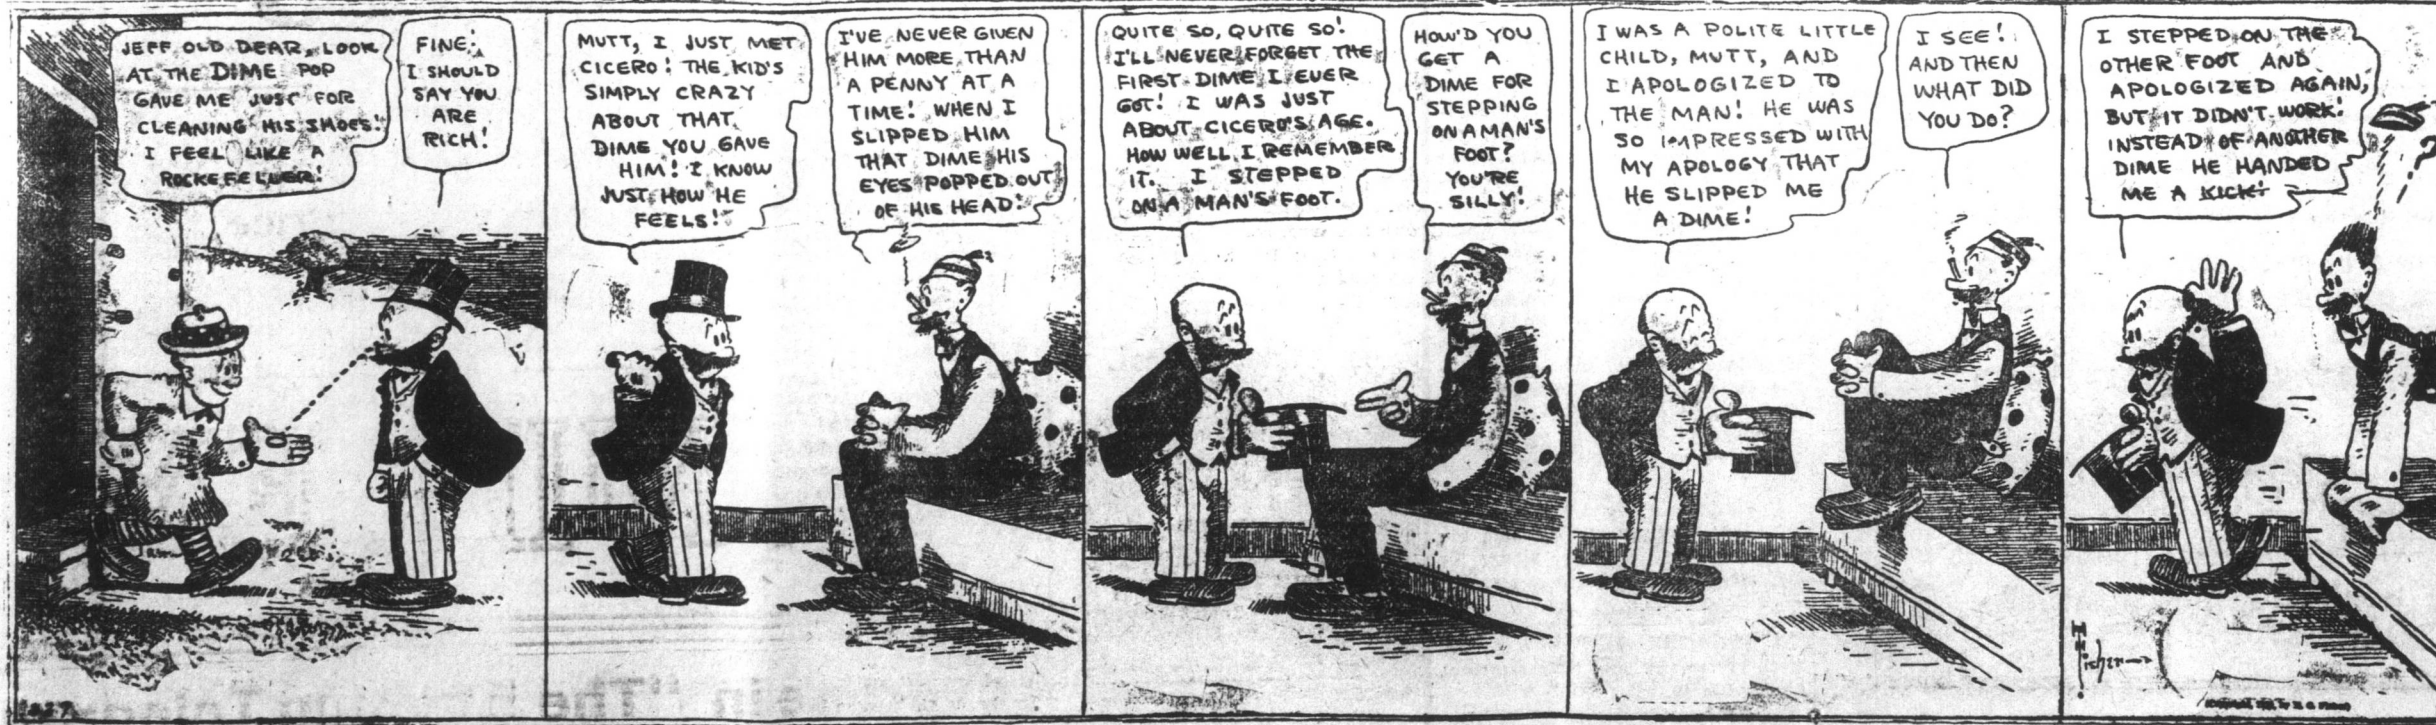

AMY LOWELL.

This great and gifted woman in judgment often sits; her genius super human equips her, she sits. The bards of epochs olden she says, were merely punks; we thought their works were golden, but now we know they're junk. Oh, music filled their verses when those bards used to write; but Amy rears and curses when rhythm is in sight. She lectures in her attic to poets gone to seed: "Lines must be lame, rheumatic, before they're fit to read. I lines are clear as water, and like bright water flow, why, then, it's time to slaughter the hard who made them so. Old poets were dead ringers for mockingbirds and wrens, but now our truest singers must sound like guinea hens. It seems so strange," says Amy, "that people once read Keats; not only read him, blame me but thought his verses treats. And Tennyson! His twaddle was once accounted grand, and held up as a model for bards throughout the land. But we have travelled greatly in these high modern times; we balk at all that's stately and fine in poets' rhymes. All verses must be halting or I will shoo them hence; no psalter must be psaltering that shows a lick of sense."

Brightening Up.

In St. John's, at least, there is at last a visible sign that things are brightening up a little, though not to the extent that could be chronicled at this date last year. Fish cargoes are beginning to come in from the outports and a few vessels are discharging along the waterfront at mercantile premises. Others in port are holding off for a better price for, or an easier cull on, their fish, claiming that a too strict enforcement of the regulations will militate against the owners receiving a return commensurate with the outlay for the season's fishing voyage. A little discretion and a fair relaxation of the standardization rules may make all the difference between gain and loss to planters, and would not, we think, affect the operation of the regulations another year. It is almost too much to expect that every fish caught on Labrador and on the Northern part of the island could have been split, salted and made in accordance with this year's official instructions. Notwithstanding that every man has, as in the past, tried his level best to make good fish of a quality to command the highest price, yet there have been conditions to face this season, which have made complete success absolutely impossible. Therefore it would be manifestly unfair to penalize shippers on this account. Of course similar unfavorable conditions may apply next year and succeeding years—doubtless they will—but every man who engages in the subsequent prosecution of the fishery will begin operations with ample knowledge of that which is expected of him and will act accordingly.

It is a most encouraging sign to see an inauguration of activity along the waterfront after such a period of dullness and depression, and it would consequently be a pity to spoil that by the imposition of too harsh a cull or a too drastic insistence upon the carrying out of the regulations. Surely a little common sense will be used now that vessels are daily coming along with their summer catch on board to be sold. Their arrivals have meant and will mean additional work for the coopers and fish handlers who have been idle for such an unconscionable time, and the work thus given will have the effect of increasing trade and putting some life into hitherto dead business. It is a cause for congratulation all round that livelier times are being experienced, that the wheels of progress are once more revolving around the mercantile premises of the city, but it is obvious that such progress must not be retarded by vexatious formalities. The present impetus must not be stopped. St. John's has had its share of depression and it would be impolitic to stop the machinery by throwing the monkey wrench of regulations into it. Nay more, it would be criminal, for we are not by any means rid of our difficulties yet. There are many still to face, and only by concerted action on the part of all can they be conquered. Dissatisfaction continues to prevail over the net prices of fish sold locally, because of the strict cull, and some shippers have freely given vent to their expressions of discontent over the present average returns. It were better to loosen up a little because of this, and if the fish is of a quality to pass the culling board as merchantable, without too great a strain on the regulations, it should go and be paid for as such, thus obviating all dissension and disagreement. St. John's is in a position to-day to do incalculable good or incalculable harm to our main industry. Wise counsels should prevent the latter and intensify the former, and we have confidence that these will not be lacking.

B. I. S. Win 1920 Championship.

BELL GIVES EXHIBITION.
The attendance at last evening's championship football game was very large, enthusiasm was high and a splendid game resulted. The B.I.S. after a hard fight defeated the Cadets by one goal. The latter team gave a splendid exhibition but throughout the game they were beset with hard luck. The only one and winning goal was scored by Harry Phelan, on a pass from Evans, about 5 minutes before full time. This is the first time since 1917 that the B.I.S. have won the Championship. Mr. W. J. Higgins was referee and the players were:
B.I.S.—Goal, J. Phalen, backs, Higgins, Muir; halves, Fox, Constantine, Brian; forwards, H. Phalen, E. Phalen, F. Phalen, Kelly, Evans.
CADETS—Goal, Clark; backs, Duggan, Power; halves, Thompson, Galsay, Duggan; forwards, Spurrell, Madigan, Meaney, Caul, Callahan.
During half time Johnny Bell gave an exhibition of his stride, running about 1 mile. The spectators meanwhile contributed generously towards the expenses of his meet at the Halifax marathon.

Salvage Claim.

Steamer Portia, through the Newfoundland Government, has claimed salvage for $75,000 against the United States Shipping Board steamer Bassan and the latter was libelled for that amount. The Bassan bound from Norfolk, Va., to Botwood, was found off St. Mary's Bay leaking badly and with her machinery out of order by the Portia which took her into a port where she was beached.—Halifax Herald.

Underwent Successful Operation.

The many friends of Mr. J. L. Slatery, Secretary-Treasurer Municipal Council, will learn with pleasure that he has undergone a successful operation at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, New York, and that his condition is such as to warrant the attending physician in hoping for a complete recovery. A message to this effect reached the city from New York yesterday.

A Baker's Dozen of Questions Not Answered

We again ask Hon. H. J. Brownrigg these questions:

- (1) When are you going to put the six per cent. loan on the market; that one and a quarter million dollars authorized by the House last session?
- (2) Where are you going to get the million dollars to repair the railway and the additional half million to build the branch to Argentea? Is it from the above proposed loan or from a temporary loan advanced by the Bank of Montreal?
- (3) Is this a favorable time to raise a loan, when it will cost $2,000 per million, as you so flippantly said in the House last session of the loan that Sir Michael Cashin had negotiated, and let remain in abeyance to save the interest, a financial fact that was Hebrew to you?
- (4) Is it true that 5 1/2 per cent. Nfd. Debenture Bonds are now down to 90 and 6 1/2 per cent. Victory Bonds offering at par?
- (5) Is it true that the Revenue for St. John's dropped $350,000 since July 1st?
- (6) Is it true that the Government anticipate a shortage of one and a half million dollars for the fiscal year and that the same is admitted by your own supporters? If they do these things in the green wood, how will it be in the dry?
- (7) How much money do you propose to raise on the Profits Tax for 1920?
- (8) Do you remember how you relieved a section of the people in the case of salt supply? Well, why don't you do the same with sugar and relieve all the people from paying 12 cents too much for sugar?
- (9) How much of the Cashin surplus have you on hand? We do not expect a reply to this question, for you would be ashamed to let the country know what you have done with it.
- (10) Is it true that the Roumanian fish bonds will soon be due involving one and a quarter of a million dollars? Do you appreciate now what Cashin did when he refused to commit the country to responsibility for these bonds? If he had been weak enough to do what your friends said he ought to have done in this matter, where would you stand financially to-day?
- (11) Where do you expect to raise the one million four hundred thousand dollars that you said you were going to raise in the House last spring? Put your valuation on the whole catch of fish this season and it will not—cannot—realize this revenue. Figure it out for yourself.
- (12) Do you not think that you have set the country galloping towards Confederation?
- (13) Do you think that it would not be best for you to open up to the people before it goes further; give up foolish talk about the Labrador Boundary and make your terms before your hand is seen, or admit that you have made a mess of it and get out!

The Flowing Tide of Emigration.

This morning's passengers arriving at an early hour on the steamer Kyle says the North Sydney Herald of Sept. 25, numbered 70 first and 50 second class. The majority of the latter will seek employment in Cape Breton. Nearly all the first class passengers left on the morning's express for points west.

The Price Difference.

Since the matter of the difference of price between No. 1 and Merchantable and between that and Madeira is one that is under discussion here at present, we venture to add our opinion.
As No. 1 is practically non-existent we may leave it out of the calculations.
The Act, as set forth in the Advocate, as the Government organ, says—"there shall be paid for merchantable fish a sum equal to one dollar per quintal more than that paid for Madeira."
Some buyers claim that this sets up Madeira as the standard, and that if they like to pay more than a dollar difference they are at liberty. That is if they are paying say $5.50 for Madeira they may pay $10.00 for Merchantable.
We should argue that if ten dollars is paid for Merchantable the fishermen may refuse—and we believe the law would so sustain him—to accept less than nine dollars for his Madeira. For the rule says distinctly, "a sum equal to one dollar," which leaves no room for any variation.
Further Madeira cannot be the standard since it is paid that a dollar a quintal shall be paid for No. 1 more than Merchantable; while the price of cullage or West India shall be five dollars less than Merchantable. Thus if anything is to be the standard merchantable, which is twice mentioned, would be more likely to our mind.
If the price of No. 1 is eleven dollars, the fishermen may demand ten for Merchantable and nine for Madeira, and no variation is possible.—Twillingate Sun.

Police Court.

A resident of the Southside, summoned by the Civic Commission for arrears of water and sewerage tax, contested the case before His Honor Judge Morris. He was represented by Mr. John Fenelon, the Council being represented by Mr. Halley. The defence claimed that the sewer did not run west of Dillon's Bridge, where the premises were situated. Mr. John Ryan, City Engineer, gave evidence that it was impossible to run the sewer past its present terminus. The arrears amounted to about $90.00. The hearing was adjourned. In the meanwhile the interested citizens of the Southside will petition the Commission to have the sewer extended on a new gradient.
A book-keeper, charged with embezzlement was put on probation for 3 years under bonds of $1000 in self and 2 sureties of $500 each. There were extenuating circumstances in the case.
A drunk and disorderly who assaulted a police officer and broke a window in a street car was fined $5 or 10 days.
A drunk was fined $1.
A drunk and disorderly who claimed that he was ill-treated by the police was fined $5 or 10 days.

ST. JOHN'S LODGE, NO. 1.
St. John's Lodge, No. 1, of the British Empire Order of Elks, held a special session last night to ballot for candidates and to transact other important business. The meeting was a large one and very enthusiastic. Twenty candidates were elected to membership. During the session Bros. Spencer and Cohen, of Lodge No. 3, Bell Island, were welcomed to the lodge room by the Esteemed Exalted Ruler in a few well chosen remarks which was happily replied to by Bro. Spencer. After disposal of considerable business it was decided to hold another special meeting on Friday night next, when a class of 40 candidates will come up for initiation. St. John's Lodge is growing rapidly, and promises to be the biggest fraternal body of its kind in St. John's within the very near future.

Fell From Ladder.
MR. JAMES KENNY SERIOUSLY INJURED—TAKEN TO HOSPITAL UNCONSCIOUS.
Yesterday afternoon about 3.30, while about to engage in painting the front of his house on York Street, Mr. James Kenny fell from a ladder which he had adjusted to a swinging position and was precipitated head first—a distance of twenty-five feet—to the ground. Several persons who witnessed the fall hurried to the scene and found the unfortunate man unconscious. He was picked up and removed into his home where Dr. J. Murphy attended him. He found that the man was in a precarious condition, having one leg and an arm broken, while his skull was fractured and concussion of the brain had followed. Rev. Fr. Leamey was summoned and the injured man was hurried to the hospital in the ambulance. Mr. Kenny, it appears, not having found employment at his trade during the day, undertook to paint his house, and by the aid of ropes attached an ordinary house ladder in front of the building. Having adjusted the "falls" he climbed through one of the windows on the top flat on to the ladder, and as soon as he had seated himself on it his weight overruled the ladder and he fell to the earth. Being a man of nearly 200 pounds he struck heavily. Up to 2 p.m. to-day Mr. Kenny had not regained consciousness.

Poultry Association Meeting.

The September monthly meeting was held last night in the Board of Trade Rooms at 8 o'clock. President H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G., in the chair and the secretary John Calver his chief of staff in his usual place. This was the first meeting after the return of President LeMessurier from his recent American trip and the members gave him a hearty welcome. Whilst away President LeMessurier visited some of the finest farms in the vicinity of Chicago where they are hatching chicks all the year round. Arrangements were made to hold the Ninth Annual Poultry Show the first week of December. The hall is now being negotiated for and it is hoped to secure a suitable building. Secretary Calver is writing Judge Landry of the Government Agricultural College, Truro, to come and act as Judge or if he cannot come to appoint another in his place. The patronage of His Excellency the Governor will be asked for and Lady Harris' services to kindly distribute the prizes. Hon. Dr. Alex Campbell, Minister of Agriculture is taking a keen and lively interest in this year's show and will have a fine string of birds to exhibit himself. Hon. R. A. Spence, Prime Minister promised a Silver Cup for this year's show and another has been presented by the Cincinnati Milling Co. of Ohio, makers of the celebrated Dixie feed products. Another kind gentleman interested in the feathered beauties is also giving a cup. This afternoon Judge Reid accompanied by his secretary and A.D.C., left by the four o'clock steamer for Bell Island to offer their services to the Bell Island Poultry Association and to address their members at tonight's meeting. The Bell Islanders have organized a Poultry Club of which Mr. J. T. Lawton is Secretary and they intend to have a show on the Iron Isle shortly. This club is going to offer the Silver Cup for Outports at the St. John's show, now held by Mr. W. R. Chancey, last year's winner of Grand Falls. At last night's meeting the St. John's Poultry Association members voluntarily contributed a list of ten prizes to be awarded to Bell Islanders at their show and will do everything they can to help the new Association to be a decided success.

Good Nuns Render Thanks.

The Reverend Mother and Sisters of the Community of St. Michael's Convent, Belvidere, desire to acknowledge, with very deep gratitude, the magnificent total of $5086.32, as the result of the collection on Sunday last for the orphans; also to specially thank the gentlemen of the press for the unstinted use of their columns; also the many kind collectors who attended at the different masses; also the large number of non-Catholic friends who sent very material donations; and lastly the unknown "Friends of the Orphans," whose appeals in the city newspapers must have very largely helped towards the splendid collection.

Row in Restaurant.

Sometime near last midnight two cabmen started a row in a well known Water Street restaurant and for a time made things lively. The proprietor of the place was assaulted, and the police had to be called. Before they arrived however, the disturbers had fled leaving a trail of wreckage behind.

General Superintendent.

APPOINTS ATTORNEY DURING ABSENCE.

To all Whom it May Concern. This is to certify that I have issued the following Power of Attorney on the eve of leaving home to be absent from Canada for a time.

Power of Attorney.

WHEREAS at the last General Conference of the Methodist Church held in Hamilton, Ontario, in October, 1918, it was made part of the Discipline of the Church, "That the General Superintendent in special exigencies, such as absence from Canada for a considerable period, or for other reasons may appoint a substitute with power of Attorney, and to perform such other functions as the special circumstances may in the discretion of the General Superintendent require."

AND WHEREAS I, the undersigned, Rev. Samuel Dwight Chown, D. D., LL.D., General Superintendent of the Methodist Church, find it expedient and necessary in the interests of the Church to visit Japan and China.

NOW THEREFORE, in pursuance of the power in me, as above cited, I hereby nominate, constitute and appoint the Rev. Robert N. Burns, B.A., LL.D., my attorney and substitute, as General Superintendent, with all powers that as General Superintendent I now have as set forth in Section 96-104 inclusive, of the Discipline of 1914, including the right to preside at all courts, boards and committees that I am chairman of ex officio.

I further expressly empower my said attorney to execute all legal documents of any kind that may require signature by me as General Superintendent, and to affix the official seal of the Church to any and all documents requiring it during my absence from Canada for the purpose.

Further, I desire my attorney and empower him to conduct the official correspondence of my office during my absence.

Hopped Over the Side.

STOWAWAYS EVADE POLICE.

When the immigration officer placed the two female and four male stowaways on board the steamer Kyle last Thursday night, he gave the proper officer on the ship six tickets to carry them on their way back to St. John's. And when the steamer pulled out from her berth at the official breathed easy. Imagine his amazement last evening, when with officer Maddocks while waiting for a motor boat to convey two sailors off the American steamer Conewago (the same craft that brought the stowaways here), who were arrested for being drunk and disorderly, they described sitting on the stern of the motor boat two of the boys who were deported to St. John's. It appears the lads, about as bad a pair as one could find anywhere, watched their chance, and before the Kyle pulled out from the terminus Thursday night, climbed over her side and slept all night in a baggage car. Since then they were engaged at work on one of the steamers in the stream, and were being taken ashore by their employer yesterday after a hard day's work. They were at once removed to the cooler, where they will remain until a few minutes before the Kyle pulls out, when they will be given no opportunity to make another getaway, unless it is into Davy Jones' locker. The boys' names are 'Thimes and Deady.—N. S. Herald, Sept. 25.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Miss M. Nicholas went out to the city by Saturday morning's train to spend the week-end there with friends.

Mr. Hayward Webber, of the Telegram office, St. John's, and son of Mrs. and the late William Webber, of Bear's Cove, arrived by Saturday night's train from the city. He purposes leaving town again on Friday afternoon, to connect with the s.s. Rosalind on Saturday en route for Boston, Mass., to take a position there. Mr. Webber worked for a few years in the Standard Office here.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snow of the West End, on the 24th inst. Congratulations.

Miss Alice Cron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cron, purpose leaving by Tuesday morning's train en route for Truro, N.S., where she will continue her studies at school there. Miss Cron has been very successful while attending school here; and no doubt, she will win more honors in the coming year's work.

Mr. Alex. Yetman is in town on a month's holiday, visiting his mother and other friends. He has been very ill of late, and only quite recently was released from hospital. We trust his vacation in town will bring him back to his usual health.

Rev. A. A. and Mrs. Holmes, of Pouch Cove, were in town last week. Their many friends were pleased to see them. Rev. Holmes occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church at Freshwater on Sunday last.

E. Simmens' schooner Minnie Maud, Capt. Day, arrived yesterday morning from St. John's with a load of provisions, etc., to her owner.

W. A. Munn, Esq., of St. John's was in town yesterday.

There passed away on Sunday last, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Elworthy, Noad Street, Lavinia, relict of the late Ambrose Taylor. Deceased had been in failing health for a long time, and death was not unexpected. The funeral takes place on Tuesday, interment being at the Methodist cemetery. To the sorrowing relatives and friends we extend sincere sympathy.

The tug D. P. Ingraham, Capt. M. Rose, towing a wreck, put in here on Saturday, and left again at 6.30 p.m.

Rev. F. S. Coffin leaves town today for Truro, N.S., to attend the Presbyterian Synod. He will likely be away until the latter part of October.

"No Need to Worry."

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Under the above heading, an article in the editorial column of last evening's Advocate tells all and sundry that the country is safe from starvation; there is no need to worry about hard times, a sound Progressive Government is out to encourage the starting of local industries, especially those which will develop the interior of our island. As the editorial column of a Government newspaper is the mouthpiece of that Government, then let us hope these editorial assertions mean something more than newspaper propaganda, and that the Government will do something to meet the above assertion.

We have valuable coal areas in the district of St. George's, which, thanks to the enterprise of local capitalists, have been placed beyond the stage of speculation, and according to the opinion of people of authority, contain millions of tons of high grade bituminous coal. This coal could be mined and landed in St. John's at a price considerably less than we are paying for the refuse from Sydney and Nova Scotia.

The Government as it is understood have (in view of the value of the St. George's coal areas) been negotiating with the owners of the property for its lease, but since the railroad commission's recent trip, the country has been advised that the Reid Company have certain claims to be satisfied. If the Reid Company have any claim, it is inconceivable, considering that the late Capt. Cleary owned these areas for years before the Reid people came to the country, and when Capt. Cleary's lease was surrendered to the Crown in 1912, it was in turn taken up by Mr. T. J. Freeman, who transferred the property to the St. George's Coal Fields, Limited.

The Government, in view of the seriousness of the coal situation, in view of the probability of suspension of operations of the Gas Company, and to carry out the expressed intention as conveyed in yesterday's issue of the Advocate, re the encouragement of interior development of this Dominion, could do nothing better than give the people of this country cheaper coal.

Yours truly,
MINER.

LALLEY LIGHT and POWER

Helps the Women Do Their Work

LALLEY Electric Light and Power actually take the place of light and heat in the house. The light does away with all the work and mess of lighting after lamps and lanterns. With the proper appliances, the power will do the cream separating and churning, the bulk of the washing and ironing, all the sweeping—even part of the cooking.

A farm woman's time is just as valuable as a man's. She should have as much of her time, and her strength, as possible for the tasks which must be done by her hands. Help her save that time with LALLEY-LIGHT.

Too Much Appetite

When the skin is sallow or yellow, the eyes dull, the head aches or sleep broken and unrefreshing, the back aches, or there is a pain under the right shoulder blade—it is an indication that the body is being poisoned by poorly digested and imperfectly eliminated food-waste. THE LIMIT.

During the past week all eyes were centered on the Hickman Sugar case, and many a fervent wish expressed that the Hickman Co. would win the appeal, as they won the case before the Chief Justice. All indications seemed to point that the Food Control Board was going to be it "in the neck" in their attempt to soak the public on sugar. Already preparations were being made to reduce sugar in the event of Hickman winning, and one of our advertisers informed us that this week he was going to advertise 28 cent sugar fearing the drop that was coming.

But the worst was yet to come. The Squires-Coaker Food Control Board had other cards up its sleeve, and its determination to protect the party profiteers and soak the public knew no bounds, so that accordingly on Saturday, anticipating a decision against them by the Supreme Court, a Gazette Extraordinary was issued announcing that the Government in which Newfoundland last fall put so much dependence, and to whom it looked for reduction in prices—prohibited the importation of sugar into the Colony.

Words absolutely fail to express the sentiments of the buyer of sugar on this latest outrage—for outrage it certainly is.

Unfortunately we in the outports have little redress, but were we in St. John's it would be extreme pleasure to join a band of citizens and compel the sale of sugar landed from the Rosalind, and any other sugar that might be imported and prevent the Government from profiteering at the expense of poor people.

We can in the outports at least protest, and every outport should be pouring in its protest to the Governor—it is useless to protest to the one man Government—against the deliberate profiteering in sugar which the Government intends apparently, to perpetrate.

Even if the Sugar-Food Control Board goes out of existence at the end of the year, there will still be nothing to prevent this prohibition being enforced till all the high priced sugar is gone, and if people don't want to be paying 30 cents instead of 18 all the winter they must act, and act now.

MAKE THE RAILROAD SAFE FOR HUMANITY FIRST.

Recent issues of the Daily Advocate have been filled with a description of the work of the new Railway Commission—we suspect largely, if not chiefly because Mr. Coaker is Chairman. Much is made of the three miles of new track to be built from Placentia to Argentea, and the opening of a new terminal there. There is also great talk of "tourist traffic," and the Reid General Passenger Agent has been authorized to "make a complete canvass and report of the hotel and boarding house accommodation all over Newfoundland."

Most interesting. And while this modern Nero fiddles on these two popular lines of his, the travelling public travels back and forth the railroad on its feet, because sitting room is unavailable, and the travelling public on the South Side of this bay cramps itself as best it can in the grubby little "saloon" of the famous Senef—now known to everybody as the Sniff.

During the recent session of the Legislature a vote of 1½ million dollars as a loan to the Reid Nfld. Co. was made. Much favorable comment was made on this by Government papers.

But why is that million and a half going to be spent at Argentea, while the travelling public travels the railroad on its feet?

No vote of the Legislature sanctioned any further railroad extension. The money was voted to improve the railway and put it running condition.

Before we have any monkeying with tourist traffic and hotels, or new terminals, let the railroad be made "safe for humanity." Let there be at least sitting room on the cars for the people who travel by rail.

Remove the horrid little "Sniff" and put the Clyde back where she belongs by right of over 20 years of paying service.

How long do the traveling public intend to put up with the present inconveniences?

The Effect of the Fishery Regulations.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir.—Please publish some of my views as to Coaker's cursed, as I, a fisherman, may call them, Fishery Regulations, which are opposed by all right thinking fishermen, planters and merchants all over the island, and that are driving thousands of our fishermen to seek a living in the United States and Canada. The loss to Newfoundland's main industry can never be estimated. When you drive the fishermen from the fisheries you help to impoverish men in all other walks of life, coopers, labourers and tradesmen. Countrymen of mine, your liberty and necessities of life are at stake. Have you not the pluck that our forefathers had who fought and bled for Freedom and Liberty? Look at the thousands of fishermen who are lying depressed all over the Island with their fish unsold and thousands leaving their native land, giving up the fishery on account of, I believe, these Fishery Regulations being now forced upon us against our wishes, and which is against the British Constitution of fair play and free trade, under the provisions of the so-called War Measures Act, which should be a thing of the past. So you volunteers, countrymen of mine, that fought and shed your blood for us and liberty, now is the time to stand by your countrymen, the fishermen, and call halt to those Fishery Regulations that are injuring our fishing industry. And are not nine-tenths of our principal merchants and exporters, planters and others, opposing the same to-day? These are men and firms of experience, I may say of a life time, while Coaker has no experience in the foreign markets save what he learned the past few years. I believe that there must be a motive for the system which is now ruining our staple industry and strangling free trade. So let us Newfoundlanders with the pen and from the platform denounce such a system. Give us free trade and liberty, what our noble heroes the Volunteers, the boys in blue and khaki, fought and shed their blood for in the last war against tyranny and One Man rule, who forced the world to war but to-day is in exile. He can hear the cries of the widows and orphans which will eventually drive him insane. Beware friend Coaker, the handwriting is on the wall, and the day of reckoning is coming and from we fishermen who once shouted Hosannas when you approached our humble homes, our wives put down their best mats for you to walk upon, and announced you as the Moses of the present day, who would lead the fishermen of Newfoundland into a land free from graballs and merchants and bring us to that Canada which you pictured of freedom. We then believed you, we honoured you, we did your bidding, but these Regulations, debarring us from free trade that you promised us and in your stubbornness that you insisted in carrying out, will drive our sons and daughters from their homes and native land to seek their living. You have threatened the North against the South; you promised to make the grass grow on Water Street of St. John's. We laughed then at your utterances, but to-day we are really in earnest. We will not have the freedom of free trade and free speech stopped. We have the fish we cannot sell, the cull is severe, the price is ridiculous according to cull. We have done our best in a short time to improve the cure, but those that have done so have not realized enough on their catch, the fruits of their labour, to pay them for the trouble they have gone to. Your Board of Commissioners is a farce, for you declared in your opening remarks at the Convention that you, Coaker, and your Govt., intend carrying out those Fishery Regulations, which are strangling the foreign markets which we have had for hundreds of years. You told us that you could live on six hundred dollars a year, that you would wear a cheap suit of clothes, and that you would not allow your members to take a free pass on Reid's Railway, and that you would not allow one of your members to take a Government position or yourself one of emolument, and now, what about yourself and your associates, with a four thousand dollar salary, you as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, holding that position without, I may say, any practical experience. So brother fishermen, protest for your liberty and free trade and down with the Fishery Regulations and Bolshevism! Fishermen of Terra Nova, your voice is needed at the present time, your country is sinking. Arise and save it from the threatened danger of the Big Three Rule.

Yours truly,
A ONE TIME UNION MAN.

Disgraceful Conduct.

About 10.30 last night an express wagon in which were five lads, drove at a rapid rate over Harvey Road, compelling pedestrians to run for their lives. The wagon had no light, and judging by the filthy language used the occupants were not exactly as they should have been. When near the Nickel Theatre two young men, who were near being run over, remonstrated with the driver when the five jumped out and set upon them, using them badly. Five to two is un-British, and it is to be hoped that the quintette will meet with the penalty their conduct deserves.

Skin Blemishes

How to get rid of them

Skin specialists are tracing fewer and fewer troubles to the blood. They say more often, skin blemishes can be traced to the bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores of the skin with dust, soot and grime. To clear your skin of blemishes caused by this insidious and persistent enemy, use regularly the following special treatment.

Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap; then dry your face. Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this soap cream and leave it on for ten minutes. Rinse very carefully with clear, hot water; then with cold.

In addition to this special treatment, use Woodbury's regularly in your daily toilet. This will make your skin firm and active. It will help the new skin to resist the frequent cause of blemishes. Before long your complexion will take on a new clearness and freshness.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks.

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent, to show you how to end film. See below.

Never Sleep

With a film-coat on your teeth

All statements approved by authorities

Millions of people on retiring now combat the film on teeth. They fight it day by day. And those glistening teeth seen everywhere now form one of the results.

You owe yourself a trial of this new teeth-cleaning method. Dentists everywhere advise it. The results it brings are all-important, and they do not come without it.

What film does

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And dentists now trace most tooth troubles to it.

The ordinary tooth paste does not end film. So, despite all brushing, much film remains, to cause stain, tartar, germ troubles and decay.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Ways to combat it

Dental science, after years of research, has found effective ways to fight film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Together they bring, in modern opinion, a new era in teeth cleaning.

These five methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent—a tooth paste which complies with all the new requirements. And a ten-day tube is now sent free to everyone who asks.

Watch the teeth whiten

You will see and feel results from Pepsodent which brushing never brought you heretofore. A week's use, we think, will amaze you.

One ingredient is pepsin. One multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest all starch deposits that cling. One multiplies the alkalinities of the saliva to neutralize mouth acids.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily cling.

Watch these effects. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. Note how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

The book we send explains all these results. Judge what they mean to you and yours. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

A Decline Coming.

The consuming public is at present in the position of the man who, during a hot spell, reads the announcement of the weather man that a cool wave is expected, and watches the thermometer for the coming boon. He is still perspiring, but has his hopes, although the drop in the mercury seems an exasperatingly gradual process. A good many trade prophets are from day to day assuring the public of a coming drop in prices, and in certain commodities the drop is observable. For instance, the penalty for purchasing new shoes has been greatly mitigated during the past four months, and if we could credit all that is being said by experts in other branches of industry, the painful process of adjusting a number ten necessity into a number five income is shortly to be alleviated.

"Lower prices" are now becoming as much a source of general conversation as the "High Cost of Living" was a few months ago. Politicians are assuming that they have already arrived, but the observer watching the price thermometer finds the mercury still beyond the point of comfort. Nevertheless, the prophets of deflation are rather positive. Every distinguished visitor who comes to Canada nowadays—and of late they have been rather numerous—seems more or less convinced that the peak has been reached. The words of Lord Beaverbrook, who brings a very acute mind to bear on all economic problems, must have come rather as a shock to the agricultural interests which have been counting on the present prices of wheat staying up to the war level. He gives a pointed hint that farmers cannot enjoy enormous crops and unimpaired prices at the same time. Moreover, the depreciated condition of European money is producing an inevitable result. It will be increasingly difficult for the grain exporters of Canada and the United States to find vastly profitable markets abroad for two reasons: agricultural production in Europe is speedily getting back to normal, and exchange is heavily against European purchasers. In this respect the Canadian wheat grower is in a more fortunate position than his American neighbor, but the inevitable result in both countries should be cheaper food-stuffs.

Another very distinguished and successful Canadian, Robert Dollar, shipping magnate of San Francisco, and once an Ontario lumberman, is even more emphatic that a drop in the price of commodities is coming, using as his barometer ocean freight rates. "All business men doing trade in a large way, are," he says, "in perfect agreement that prices are not going to remain away up out of sight as they have been in the past." Incidentally, Mr. Dollar's words tend to explode the United States' confidence in their ability to attain shipping supremacy. He says that shipping can be purchased on the Clyde to-day for considerably less than it can be built on this continent; and he argues that when tonnage declines in price, general commodities also drop.

Specific admissions that woolen prices have reached their peak and that a decline is certain, come from Mr. E. S. Bates of Montreal, and his statement in part shows that excessive prices in time work their own cure. The consumer's refusal, based in most instances on sheer inability, to buy high priced goods has helped to bring this about; but the main cause is the slump in prices of raw materials. There is also evidence that in other prime necessities, like sugar and coal, declines are to be expected. In these industries the controlling interests have strained every effort and seized on every excuse to keep prices at an artificial level; but the process cannot be further extended.

While there is hope for a return to reason in the matter of the cost of living, the consumer would be ill-advised to rely for the present on a very sharp appreciation in the purchasing power of his dollar. Unprecedentedly high wages cannot run hand in hand with low prices. Sir Edmund Walker, a very far-seeing financier, is one of those who warn the public against expecting an early return of pre-war money values. Nor would a sharp and sudden slump in prices be as desirable as it may look on the surface to the man who has to finance the family budget on an income he has no means of increasing. The ghastliest memories of a good many men of middle age hover round periods of financial depression, when the wolf was just around the corner, if not actually at the door.

Whatever cut may take place in the price of commodities, it is to be hoped that it will be gradual enough not to produce serious dislocation and widespread unemployment. Nor will the troubles of the family of limited income be altogether solved by cheaper commodities. The greatest source of profiteering in the large cities of Canada has never been touched by law, and is seldom alluded to in public discussion. Profiteering in rentals is still going merrily on, and largely absorbs the wage increases of those who do not own their homes. We hear little of the profiteering landlord, because he is usually a small and obscure man, not a great producing magnate who fills the public eye; but he is, after all, the worst offender. When rentals begin to drop back to normal, then may the worried consumer breathe with some sense of security.—Saturday Night, Toronto.

Steady Exodus From Terra Nova.

Kyle Has Brought Over 8,000 People to North Sydney Since April 1.

The influx of Newfoundland people into Canada and other parts is increasing. Every trip of the steamer Kyle, as well as the steamer Sable I, finds every inch of available accommodation taken up, and according to passengers arriving here as well as the representatives of the steamship companies above mentioned the traffic will by no means diminish.

This morning the Sable I, brought up thirty-one and the Kyle 260. This brings the total number of passengers carried from Newfoundland to North Sydney by the steamer Kyle alone, since the first day of April to date 8,199, and 169 by the Sable I. Considering that the steamer only makes tri-weekly trips, and the Sable I, weekly, the steady outpour from the ancient colony via North Sydney is really alarming, from a Newfoundland point of view. Not that all the people travelling by either the Sable I, or the Kyle are natives of Newfoundland, but according to officials who are in a position to know at least seventy-five per cent of them are.

In view of the above facts the duties of the immigration, customs and other officials at the terminus are by no means easy. The stringent rules relative to the granting of passports to people coming from Newfoundland, as well as going from here to the latter country, makes the task of one immigration official a most difficult one, and the same applies to other branches of the department. That these officials are well trained and capable is proven by the fact that not a single complaint has been registered against them by the department. And better still, there has not been a single instance where a passenger lost connection with the outbound west express on account of tardiness on the part of the officials on the terminus. Just what that means can be better understood when it is explained that the steamer Kyle was somewhat delayed and did not reach her berth at the terminus until shortly after 7 o'clock. Nevertheless all the 260 passengers (or those who were going out on the westbound express, and they comprised about 90 per cent) were each put through the necessary strict immigration tests, doctors' examination and necessary customs inspection, making close connection with the express that pulls out from the station at 7.40. Certainly a tribute to a competent and hard-worked body of government officials.—North Sydney Herald, Sept. 23.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

Do Drivers See Ghosts?

Considering the number of people who have found a last resting place at the bottom of the sea, it is not surprising that divers should occasionally come across what are popularly known as ghosts.

A diver, while employed one day in bringing up various articles from the wreck of the 'Royal George,' which went down off Spithead on August 28, 1782, being seized with a sudden fit of drowsiness, fell asleep. He dreamed three times in succession that just as he was about to pick up a curiously wrought silver dish, from among a mass of debris, a very tall figure, dressed in a diving-suit, sprang at him and tried to cut the lifeline.

As at this time the other two men he was working with were both of short stature, not in the least degree like the figure in his dreams, he soon forgot it.

But great was his trepidation one morning when on turning up at his work, he found one of his mates absent, and a newcomer—a very tall man—in his place. Indeed, so alarmed was he that, on descending, he took with him a strong cudgel, and warned those in charge of the communication rope to be on the alert for a signal, however slight. On arriving at the bottom he was soon at work on the wreck, and amid a pile of loose spars, he came upon a dish exactly like the one he had seen in his dreams.

He was staring at it in a kind of dazed fashion, when suddenly he saw his companion, the new diver, coming towards him, just as he had seen the figure in his dreams, and the next moment he was engaged in the most desperate struggle for his life.

He succeeded in administering such a severe blow on the hand of his assailant with his stick that the latter dropped his knife with which he had been armed, and before he could pick it up again our friend the dreamer had pulled the communication cord, and was drawn up out of danger. It subsequently transpired that the new diver had gone raving mad.

Another curious case occurred not so many years ago off the coast of Galway. Some divers were employed in looking for the remains of Spanish treasures, when one of their party, wandering a little apart from the rest, saw a dim light in the distance. Advancing towards it, he discovered that it proceeded from the port-hole of a wreck of very ancient date.

Approaching the ship, not without trepidation, he peeped in, and saw, to his amazement, an old man, with a very long beard, kneeling down examining an iron-clasped oak-chest. By-and-by he raised the lid, and dipping his hands in, drew them out full of golden coins, which he layed with like a child plays with some new toy.

The diver, happening at this juncture to make a noise the old man turned slowly round, revealing a face of the most ghastly pallor, which so terrified the diver that he turned tail and fled back to his mates, with far more haste than dignity.

Pooh-poohing his story, they went back with him, and there, sure enough in the very spot he had described, was the ship, and what was even more wonderful, the chest of gold.

Lastly, there is the case of the diver who was repairing one of the London bridges. He had made his descent into the water, and was kneeling down examining the masonry, when he felt something tap him on the shoulder. He looked round when to his utmost terror he saw standing at his shoulder, peering down at him, an exact counterpart of himself.

The following day, against the advice of his wife, who was a Scot and very superstitious, he again went down in the same place, and a piece of loose masonry falling on him, he was killed.

AUDITORS—F. C. Berteau, Esq., J.P., I.S.O., Government Comptroller and Auditor General; G. N. Read, Son & Watson, Chartered Accountants.

ARCHITECT—W. D. McCarter, Esq.

The Association has been formed to build houses to rent. These houses will be let to tenants at reasonable rentals or will be sold to tenants on easy terms of payment.

Additional objects of the Association are: To remove tenants from houses which are unfit for human habitation to homes of health and comfort; to destroy all hovels within the city; to adopt a proper town planning scheme; to lay out modern streets with a perfect system of sanitation; and to rebuild certain sections of the city gradually so that workmen can live with their families amid cheerful surroundings.

The proceeds of the sales of houses bought by tenants will be reinvested in Government securities to provide a redemption fund to pay off the Capital.

The programme outlined by the Company is to build one hundred houses during the year 1921. In order to carry out this work the Directors make an appeal to the people of Newfoundland to take up the necessary Shares without delay, so that arrangements can be made with Lumber Mills and Contractors for work to be done. The one hundred houses will be built on Merry Meeting Road, in accordance with a Town Planning Scheme, prepared by the City Engineer and adopted by the Municipal Council in 1919. The thirty houses to be built by the Company this year and now nearing completion, will give the public an idea of the class of house to be erected. A more suitable site for a garden suburb would be difficult to find, it being situated in the country and yet within ten minutes' walk of Water Street.

To live in a suburb of this sort with pure air, plenty of space around the house, and modern interior sanitation and improvements is to ensure health for the residents who will realize to the full the advantages of good living. In a Garden Suburb children thrive, they grow up vigorous in mind and body; their daily association with trees and flowers, birds and all the manifold delights of nature develop in them a love of all things beautiful and a better understanding of life.

We appeal to the public to subscribe the Capital without delay for the erection of one hundred houses to be built and ready for occupation before the end of the year 1921.

Conewago's Captain Paid Costs.

Alleged White Slavery in Connection With St. John's Girl Stowaways.

(North Sydney Herald, Sept. 24.)
It cost Captain G. Norsman, commander of the American steamer Conewago, which arrived in port yesterday morning from St. John's, Nfld., on her way to Quebec to load pulpwood, a figure in excess of $200 for his indiscretion in bringing six stowaways on his craft from St. John's, two of which were girls. And he got off easy at that.

The discovery of the girls being stowaways came as a result of the four boys "blowing the roast," as they called it, on the captain. The latter reported the fact that he had four stowaways on board, and when they were placed under arrest they told of the appearance of the girls on board to immigration officer Dooley. The latter lost no time, and after a brief search found the pair at the Britton hotel. They were at once taken into custody, as well as two sailors off the steamer, who aided them to effect a landing.

Mr. Dooley at once gave instructions to the Customs not to give the steamer a clearance, pending further instruction from Ottawa. Captain Norsman assumed an indignant air and threatened trouble, but there was no sign of collapse through fear about the person of the immigration official, who gave some kindly advice to the commander. The latter, learning that Mr. Dooley was holding an investigation, and seemed to know something about immigration laws and a person not to be bulldozed, quickly hiked it to Sydney and sought legal advice.

In the meantime the girls were being questioned, and freely admitted that they were taken here with the full knowledge and consent of the officers, and repeated that the ship's carpenter told them Capt. Norsman was aware of their presence on board, but so long as they kept out of his sight he cared naught. The girls seemed to feel their position keenly. Later they told the immigration official that while he was absent from the jail the engineer of the steamer paid them a visit and asked them if placed on the stand to give evidence to swear that the captain did not know of their appearance on the steamer. But to this they point blank told the chief engineer, A. Butterfield, that they were bad enough, but would not perjure themselves.

This made the immigration official the more determined and he had all papers in readiness for wholesale arrests, it being intimated to him that there was reason to believe the girls were brought here from St. John's for immoral purposes, an offence that would mean, if conviction followed, a term in penitentiary and a $5,000 fine on the guilty party. The next turn in the proceedings was a telephone message from a lawyer in Sydney, acting in behalf of Capt. Norsman. It was a simple message, and the purport of it was that the captain would pay all costs etc., if the thing was allowed to drop. Not having any desire to be too officious, and lacking confirmation of his doubts and speculations regarding the intent of the skipper in having the girls on board, he felt disposed to do as judges on the bench, to give whatever doubt there was in favor of the prisoner, and thus the matter ended. Of course the girls and the four male stowaways were sent back to Newfoundland by the steamer Kyle last night; but all their expenses was borne by Captain Norsman, of the American steamer Conewago, who in future will be more particular in knowing his company before leaving port. It was a costly trip; but it might very easily been worse.

The names of the stowaways were given as Kitty Hicks, Peggy McFarlane, and the males as T. Doady, T. Kane, M. Smith, and J. Thimes.

Flour Selling at $14 in Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 25.—The lower cost of living wave has reached this city. Merton C. Robinson, of the Robinson Clothing Company, states that at the present time clothes are actually being offered for sale at less than cost of making, and consequently all along the line prices have been reduced. R. H. Blumenthal, manager of the firm of J. H. Blumenthal & Son, Ltd., stated that the material which goes into the cheaper line of shirts now costs only 22 cents per yard, a drop of 11 cents from a short time ago. But he also stated that the prices for wearing apparel cannot come down to a really low level until the price of production is less.

Flour is now selling at $14 a barrel, 85 cents less than the price previous to Sept. 1.

The Value of the Newspaper.

La Patrie, discussing the increases recently made in the price of a number of daily newspapers in Canada, points to the extraordinary advance in the cost of newsprint and to the fact that "other countries that are bound to export their supplies" are ready to pay "any price" for the print paper, and says: "The public are not desirous that the publishers shall cut down expenses to the detriment of the services they render and the articles they furnish their readers. Hence they are willing to meet with good grace the only alternative, which is to pay more for their daily newspaper. Even at the advanced rate, and even should new increases become inevitable, the daily newspapers nevertheless will remain an article of extraordinary cheapness as regards the price charged for it, if one considers the importance and the multiplicity which it renders to the public."

It may be added that the highest priced newspaper in the country costs the publishers more than it sells for, the discrepancy being made good from advertising and printing contracts. If anyone imagines that in paying 5 cents per copy for a daily paper he is giving anything like an equivalent for what he receives, the impression would be speedily dissipated by an inquiry into the cost of the material, labor and telegraphic and news service, entering into its production. Newspapers have always cost more than they have sold for. But the disproportion was never as great as it is now.—Sydney Post.

(Newspapers in Newfoundland sell for one cent only. How much greater disproportion is there in this and the five cent rate.—Ed. Telegram.)

English Predominant.

One of the results of the war has been to make the Anglo-Saxon peoples and the English tongue more dominant than ever. Approximately 175,000,000 people speak the English language. About 90,000,000 speak Russian, 75,000,000 German, 55,000,000 French, 45,000,000 Spanish, 35,000,000 Italian and 12,000,000 Portuguese. As a further illustration of the progressiveness and intelligence of the English-speaking peoples, it is pointed out that two-thirds of the letters which pass through the world's post offices are written in English. Less than one-sixth of the world's populations speak English, yet over two-thirds of the world's correspondence is in that language. Although 90,000,000 speak Russian, the letters in the Russian language amount to less than one-tenth of those mailed in Great Britain alone, which has a population of but 45,000,000. The English language is the language of commerce, finance and industry.—Morning Chronicle.

Clothing Prices to Slump in Spring.

TORONTO.—Clothing prices will come down next spring, according to several clothiers in this city, although they say the price of English woollens will not drop. One prominent clothier said recently that while his profits never had been smaller than at present, he would reduce his price because he had a large stock of clothing and had to dispose of it.

Another attributed the cause for the prospective lowering in price to the fact that the public had rebelled against the high prices.

The End of High Prices!

READ WHAT THE PAPERS TELL.

"Recent indications point to lower prices in all commodities. But whether it will be a permanent reduction remains to be seen. It is anticipated that the lowest levels will be reached in the spring, but there seems to be no certainty that they will remain low."

READ WHAT I SAY.

Prices are coming down—possibly to remain down. Manufacturers have lowered prices of their products as much as twenty per cent. Four have already written me so. And I have been struck with a Big Idea—a daring one. You know, of course, that prices, locally, will not lower until all the old stock has been disposed of. That's the way others view it. Sell the old stock, when that has gone get in the new—then lower.

I AM GOING TO LOWER PRICES NOW--To-Morrow.

WHY I WON'T LOSE—MY NEW MERCHANDISING SCHEME.

I am going to start to-morrow cutting prices—giving you the benefit of the drop before it even reaches me, because what I may lose in reductions I will make my English Exchange account pay. Never knew it, did you, that goods were marked at $4.86 to the £1, whilst the merchant paid but $4, $4.10, perhaps as low as $3.90. I'll share the exchange with you!

Mark the day, TO-MORROW, WEDNESDAY—A clean-out of all the old stock to make way for the new, at lower prices.

C.L.R. OLD COMRADES.—The C.L.R. Old Comrades are holding their annual meeting at 8 o'clock on Thursday, when the business of the year will be finalized and the election of officers takes place.

Personal.

Rev. Dr. Saint and Arthur Mews, Esq., C.M.G., left for Canada by today's express where they will attend the sessions of the Methodist Board of Missions to be held at Toronto during October.

C. E. Russell, J.P., of Bay Roberts, who came to the city by the up train yesterday, returned home in the evening.

Rev. Dr. Murphy, P.P., Brigus, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. N. Powell, of Victoria, arrived in the city yesterday on a business visit.

Miss Nellie Byrne, daughter of Head Constable Byrne, who was visiting her brother in Boston, Mass., returned to the city by Saturday's express.

Jack Bell, the local runner, who is to compete in the big marathon race which takes place at Halifax on the morning of October 5th, left by the express to-day, accompanied by Mr. Jim Vinnicombe, his manager.

Mr. C. Hartley, formerly of the Anglo Company, this city, but now engaged with the C.P.R., at Hazel Hill, N.S., is at present in the city on a holiday trip.

Rev. and Mrs. Shorter and Miss Shorter, the former having been in the city, attending the Synod, leave for Hr. Buffett by to-day's express, detouring at Arnold's Cove.

Mr. John F. Hand, who arrived here by the Sachem, is an ex-pupil of St. Patrick's Hall. Mr. Hand left here some years ago and entered Harvey & Co.'s office at Bermuda. Later he assumed control of the branch, purchasing the business which he has since successfully conducted. Mr. Hand is a prominent citizen in the Southern Island, which he has represented on more than one official or semi-official delegation. He is now the President of the Chamber of Commerce of Bermuda. That his visit to the old land will be thoroughly enjoyed, goes without saying.

A Popular Fallacy.

It is an old saying that figures cannot lie; but there is reason for fear that modern accountancy has taught them how to equivocate. In days gone by when a man had money in the bank and was free from debt and had ample income for his everyday needs, he assumed that he was reaping a profit. Modern accountancy is everyday trying to teach us how completely fallacious were such old fashioned and rudimentary conceptions. Great is the accountant and his ally the "scientific investigator." He can create "intangible assets" with a pencil and a sheet of foolscap, if they are necessary to the argument. On the other hand he is equally skilful in demonstrating "intangible losses"—as recent events have shown. On the whole it seems to be better to incur "intangible losses" for they are not felt and may even signify money in the bank; whereas "intangible assets" are merely prospects that may never yield anything in the way of cold cash.—Saturday Night.

If a Testator

although seeing the benefits to be derived from a Trust Company's administration, hesitates about cancelling any appointment he may have already made, the Montreal Trust Company can be named to act with the Executor or Executors already appointed. In this way the Trust Company co-operates with the Testator's appointees in the administration of the Estate. This plan is very acceptable when the Testator's wife is named as Executor. Few women have the necessary business training to enable them to carry on the administration of an Estate, but with the co-operation of the Montreal Trust Company the Testator's wife can be appointed with full assurance that the Estate will be well looked after.
