POLICE COURT.

(Before the Police Magistrate.) Saturday Nov. 1st.

Patrick Dermody was charged by P.C. Dooley with being drunk on Macdonnell-st last night. Fined $1, and costs or fifteen days, and was given until twelve o'clock to leave the town.

Daniel Kelly was brought up for trespassing on the verandah of the town hall. Dismissed with a caution.

BRUSSELS is going to hold "penny readings," with a view to raising funds for a library or reading-room.

A FEMALE RESIDENT of St. Thomas recently horsewhipped a young man of that town for making some reflections upon her private character. The Times says that the lady in question does not believe either in a royal commission or a committee to settle a scandal.

NEW GOODS. - Telescopes, microscopes, pocket compasses, opera glasses, water colours, mathematical instruments, writing desks, work boxes, wallets, and satchels. A cheap and good stock at Anderson's.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE. - James Barton, employed as sawyer in Milne's saw-mill at Ethel, went to Listowel fair on the 8th inst. On Thursday evening, the 9th, he parted from his sisters at Newry station for Ethel, has last seen within half a mile of Ethel, and has not since been heard of. He has left the greater part of two years' wages in the hands of Mr. Milne. He was a quiet, steady, sober young man and there is strong suspicion of foul play.

CEREBRAL. - The St. Catharines Daily News gives a long account of the installation of the B. C. Perrin, late of Georgetown, to the charge of the Queen St. Baptist Church. The meeting for that purpose was held on Friday evening, and a large congregation assembled to welcome the new pastor. A number of ministers addressed the meeting and congratulated the people on their choice. The News says it was a very pleasant affair.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE. - About six years ago, a young man of the name of Lagrie disappeared from the neighbourhood of Inverkip in a singular manner. No trace of him was ever found. About six or seven weeks ago, a second member of the family, Mr. John Lagrie, disappeared. The day before he was missed he disposed of some cattle, but did not call on the purchaser for pay. In other respects circumstances tend to cast a halo of mystery on the proceeding, and the tale told of the salt sheds of Mr. Ransford, where a large quantity of salt was stored ready for shipment, and with a knife cut open about seventy dollars worth of property.

Notes from Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31. The position of the Opposition is unchanged. They have a pledged majority of votes, and are ready for a division at any time.

The Government whips seek to detach the independent members from the Opposition ranks, but their labors are fruitless.

The belief is that the debate will not close this week.

The evidence in the West Peterborough election case is advanced a step, and no doubt is entertained of Mr. Bertram soon taking his seat. Mr. Hodgins is indefatigable in the interest of the petitioner.

As the debate goes on the excitement increases. It is impossible, so evenly are the parties divided, to say what the division will be. It is known that the Government is offering from $2,000 to $5,000 for votes, but the extent of its corruption is so glaring that it is defeating itself.

Carling is the originator of all these telegrams, letters, and other artifices, that have been sent West to injure Glass, who knows too much of that gentleman's share in the corruption of the Government during the general elections. This matter will probably be brought up in the House during the session.

Corruption in Welland.

The St. Catharines Times has the following: - For a considerable time the lock and bridge tenders, who all held their positions by appointment of the Government, have been seeking an increase in their salaries. There are about one hundred of these men, half of whom either live or are interested in the County of Welland. Some time previous to the late election in Welland their salaries were raised from $26 to $30 a month, provided all who had votes in Welland would vote for Dr. King. They all did so except two - McCabe and McAuley.

Within a reasonable time after the election, those who refused to vote for King were dismissed. On his dismissal, McCabe waited on Mr. Richard Miller, who up to a short time ago was Canal Solicitor, and asked for the reason of the said dismissal. Mr. Miller told him that he (Miller) thought that he (McCabe) had been improperly dismissed, "as it had been understood between him and the Government that if the salaries of any of the employees on the canal were raised they would all vote for the Government candidate, but that he (McCabe) had voted for Wm. A. Thomson, the Opposition Candidate."

SATURDAY EVEN'G, NOV. 1, 1873

The Debate on the address was continued on Friday with unabated vigor. The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says: "The crowded benches of the Opposition, the high spirits of the occupants, their hearty cries for a division whenever a lull occurred in the debate were indications of the growing confidence in the result of the vote, which it is now expected will be taken on Monday."

Dominion Parliament.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.

Mr. Tilley, the Finance Minister, opened the adjourned debate. He remarked that he would not base his defence upon acrimonious charges and personal imputations against his opponents. He denied that any improper attempt had been made to secure the disallowance of the Oaths Bill, quoting Lord Kimberley, whom he had recently met in England, in support of his statement. He was grieved and disappointed at the refusal of the minority on the Committee to accept the Royal Commission offered to the Committee, and attributed their refusal, and the subsequent publication of the evidence in the newspapers, to a deliberate intention to excite public feeling. He proceeded to justify his retention of office, against, as he admitted, the advice of many of his friends. He would not be the author of the Allan letters for all Sir Hugh's wealth, but he had received from the Premier the most positive assurance that no corrupt bargain was made with Allan, and he held that the facts stated in evidence bore out that assertion. Alluding to the rejection by the Minister of Justice of the letter written by Sir George Cartier to Allan on the 30th of July, 1871, containing the terms of an agreement, he argued that there was no evidence to show that Allan had received anything from the Government that could be regarded as a consideration for his pecuniary assistance. He then came to deal with the question of the acceptance of money by the Government for election purposes, and defended as right and necessary the hiring of terms and other expenses on the part of candidates, implying it was thus the money might have been spent. He admitted that the acceptance of money for and its employment in such a way was liable to create suspicion. He went so far as to say it was an indiscretion on the part of his colleagues, but he did not, on that account, feel it his duty to withdraw his support from them. He would rather fall with his leader if a majority of the House failed to sustain them.

Mr. Laflamme followed. Although this is his second session in the House, and he is one of the ablest advocates of the Montreal Bar, it was Mr. Laflamme's maiden speech. He attributed Mr. Tilley's speech to a confusion as to right and wrong, occasioned by a long abuse of power. It was most extraordinary that the Ministers and their friends seemed to see nothing wrong in using money to any amount and for any purpose. The proposition was narrowed down to the question, Did not the Government take some $160,000 from Sir Hugh Allan, and spend it in corrupting the electors? What would be thought of a Judge who took money from a suitor in a case before him? yet the Government—the national trustees—admitted that they had done this by taking money from a man who was a suitor for their favours. It was no answer to this that some one else had spent money improperly. If private members of the Opposition had done so, they at all events had not in their hands the destinies of the country. The House had now to decide whether they would consecrate corruption. He answered Mr. Tilley's complaint as to the publication of evidence in the papers, reminding him that Mr. Hamington had desired to read the Allan letters to the House, but withheld them at the earnest intercession of the Premier. He alluded to the opinion of the English press, always hitherto friendly to the present Government of Canada. He referred to Mr. McMullen's allegation that to compensate Hugh Allan for his corruption fund, over a million of dollars had been allowed to lie at deposit without interest in the Merchants' Bank, of which Sir Hugh was president; whereas Sir John Macdonald alleged it did not exceed $300,000. Mr. Laflamme read from the Canada Gazette to show that the deposits in the bank had, from $345,000 in January, 1873, been increased to $1,900,000 in the month of September.

Mr. Tilley said the deposits did not exceed $245,000. Mr. Laflamme pointed out that the authority he quoted was indisputable, nor was any further explanation given. He also referred to the fact that the Metropolitan Bank, with a capital not exceeding a million, held Government deposits of nearly $5,000,000, at this bank a son of the late Finance Minister was chief cashier, and Mr. Starnes, treasurer of the central election fund, was managing director.

Mr. Carter, member for Broome defied the Government. Mr. Burpee (St. John) expressed his conviction that the evidence taken before the Commission had to a very large extent proved the truth of the allegations against the Ministry. He regretted to differ from Messrs. Palmer and Tilley, but was prepared to accept the verdict of his constituents, and to act independently according to his honest convictions. Mr. Donville said he would sustain the Government. He read some verses, the subject of which was corruption, as in fact was the whole speech, amid a great deal of merriment, and one of the members asked him for a song. Mr. Pickett explained his reasons for supporting Mr. Mackenzie's amendment. Mr. Onimet, the new member for Laval, took the other side. Mr. Prevost, in French, eloquently called upon the House to overthrow a Government lost to all honour and honesty. Mr. Mathien defended the Government. Mr. Langevin moved the adjournment of the debate, and will therefore have the floor on Monday. The House rose at midnight.

HINE'S

COMBINATION

STEAM COOKER

Patented June 25th, 1872.

The most complete steam cooking apparatus for general use ever invented, and where introduced superseded all others. Made all sizes, and can be used over any heat that will boil water, is easy understood and does away entirely with heavy iron pots and kettles, substituting in their place light tin or earthenware. It cooks meats without their coming in contact with the steam, in the manner of the most improved Cooker, in use. Will also cook meats by steam directly applied if desired, a combination possessed by no other article of the kind. With meat it will cook at the same time as many as four varieties of vegetables in separate compartments and also supply pure hot water for Coffee and Tea, without interfering with the process of cooking. The principle upon which meats, poultry and fish are cooked in this apparatus, is said to be the best known. The process renders the viands more tender, and retains those nourishing juices which escape in water when boiled in the ordinary way. Besides the actual saving in weight and bulk it over one half, also the perfect arrangement of the article for steaming vegetables, puddings, scalding fruits, steaming oysters, etc., etc., makes it invaluable to every housekeeper.

The above is now on view at

CHAPTER V. THE CATERANS OF BEN-A-SCHUI-CAMERON AND IAN PLOT MISCHEIF—FLORA ALONE WITH IAN.

"We shall—we shall," resounded from every lip. "I was certain you would," continued Cameron, grimly. "And I know you will do so the more readily when I tell you that I have a personal complaint against our prisoner, a personal insult to wipe out with his blood."

There was a fierce clenching of the hands, a grating of the teeth, and a glare in the eyes of the caterans as they heard their chief make this statement, that boded no good for Hector.

"Know this—that I have promised to give the hand of my niece, Flora Macgregor, to Ian McKenzie, and that Hector M'Leod had the audacity to attempt to carry her off to M'Leod Castle and make her his bride. I overtook him, and have, with Ian McKenzie's assistance, regained possession of the maiden. Shall he be dealt with as I wish? or would you rather deal with him according to the laws of the band? I have a special interest in seeing him specially punished."

There was a murmur from the men—a kind of bull-log-like growl—but none made answer.

Ian rose, and, gazing around with a look of secret exultation, said—"Yes, caterans, our Chief has been much injured by him whom we hold prisoner, and I have been injured; but in deference to him, I for one will forego the strict rules which bind us, and allow him to work his own revenge upon Hector M'Leod, provided this be understood—that he never leave this place alive."

"One word as a proof of my sincerity," said Cameron. "One of our rules is that no prisoner shall be permitted to come to this place without being blindfolded. The reason of that, as you all know, is because if they satisfy us with their ransom their lives are spared, and they are again set at liberty. Were it not for the blindfolding these men would be in a condition to expose us. But to-night I brought Hector M'Leod here, not blindfolded, and my reason for so doing was because I intended that he never should have an opportunity of exposing us—that he never should leave this place alive. Am I to be allowed to deal with him?"

"Yes, yes," arose on every side. Then Cameron, with a secret chuckle, sat down, exclaiming as he did so—"Then, caterans, to the hills and the glens with you. I will no longer detain my noble caterans from the spoil they pant after. See that you return with a show of work befitting the presence of your Chief."

Again did a ringing cheer almost reach the vault, and in a few minutes more the place was unoccupied, save by Donald Cameron and Ian McKenzie.

Yes, the caterans of Ben-a-chrui—a band the name of which struck terror into the heart of every honest man for a hundred miles around—were away out on their hunt for plunder. To-night, neither the cattle browsing on the meadow, the sheep on the hillside, nor the lonely traveller over the moor was safe. Whatever they could lay hands on with safety they spared not.

When this last of them had fairly gone, Cameron turned to Ian, and, with a rough, coarse laugh, said—"Again we have succeeded. We can work our plans just as we like now. These are but simple fellows after all."

"Yes," replied Ian. "They are almost unmatched for cunning; and when they once see reason to trust a man, they put almost implicit faith in him, and never seem to exercise the characteristics for which they are so famous."

"They are indeed a devoted band," responded Cameron. "I have found them ever faithful. But tell you this—I almost regret that I did not put my claymore through that old bag we met in the glade. Our secret seems to have come into her possession, and with the hatred which she manifests towards me, if what I fear be the case, then we are not by any means safe."

"There was something strange about the woman," replied Ian, with a slight eagerness in his tone. "I had heard of the Witch of Ben Lair, but I never met her before, and know nothing of her. At you she seems to have a great animosity; can you tell me what it means?"

Both men were striving through the floor, and Cameron's face seemed a shade darker and redder as he turned to his companion, and, with a muttered oath exclaimed.

"Bak! why should you ask that? Let us banish all thought of her for the present. Some other time I may speak to you of her, but we need not heed her now. She if looked upon by the country people round about as a witch; I look upon her as a maniac. It is impossible that she can know of this place; it was but a mere chance remark in the midst of her ravings. Everything she said was absurd."

But, despite this attempt on the part of Cameron to banish all thought of the strange woman, it was evident that he felt far from easy, notwithstanding his swaggering talk. For a few minutes more they paced backwards and forward, and then Ian turned towards the other and said—"But how are you to do in reference to M'Leod's sister?"

"I have just been considering. Neither of us can go to M'Leod Castle. Our lifeless bodies would be hanging from the battlements in an hour after."

"That may be true as regards me," responded Ian; "but I scarcely think you are correct as regards yourself."

"How do you think so?" queried the other.

"Because I do not think that M'Leod will take the responsibility of laying his hand upon you, if you tell him that his son is held a hostage until you return."

For an instant Cameron stood and considered.

POCKET BOOK LOST. Lost, on Saturday last, the 12th inst., near the Grand Trunk Railway Station, in Rockwood, a large, black leather pocket book, containing three notes of hand, one drawn by Charles Stovel, Walkerton, for $200, in favor of John Hever, Guelph, and endorsed by him, due the 29th day of December, 1873; one drawn by Joseph Hunter, Pickering, for $45-$85 endorsed thereon in favor of John Hever, Guelph, and endorsed by him, due the 19th January, 1874; and one drawn by T. M. Daly, of Stratford, for $115-$67 endorsed thereon in favor of Robert Coulson, Pickering. A number of other papers of no use to any person but the owner, were also in the book. The payment of all these notes of hand has been stopped, and the public are hereby cautioned against purchasing them. Any person returning the pocket book and content, to John Hever, Guelph, Great Western Hotel, or to the owner, at Rockwood, will be handsomely rewarded. ROBERT COULSON, Nov. 15th, 1873.

The Erin Farmers' Association.
An important meeting of the farmers of the township of Erin was convened at Mr. John Fielding's Hotel, Orangeville, on the evening of Friday, Oct. 24. Mr. Langham Currie was chairman, and Mr. Robt. Bott Secretary. Several topics of considerable interest to the township were discussed, but the chief topic before the meeting was the Grouping Act in reference to railways. The following resolutions were passed in relation to this matter:

Moved by Mr. Robt. Bott, seconded by Mr. Theo. Tolton, that this meeting without delay petition the Legislature for the repeal of the Municipalities Grouping Act, deeming it obnoxious to and baneful to the interests of the general public.

Moved by Mr. Edw. M. Tolton, seconded by Mr. John Webb, that for the purpose of effectually carrying into effect the former resolution, different municipalities objecting to the coercion exercised by railroad companies, in compelling objecting parties to pay bonuses, be solicited to co-operate with an aid the projectors of this meeting, and would suggest that a meeting be held at some central point of the county where delegates can meet with mutual convenience and more fully discuss the subject; and that the Secretary write and inform the persons in each township to facilitate arrangements for developing plans for systematic and universal action.

The Secretary writes as follows in relation to this question: "The law gives power to railway companies to group municipalities for the purpose of extorting bonuses in furtherance of their plans. The gross iniquity of this law is now attracting grave consideration. Mr. French ably elucidated the injustice perpetrated on the public by its existence, and strongly deprecated the entire legislation in connection with it; substantiating his assertions that the people were unfairly handled, and that unprecedented privileges were being conferred on railway companies, by quotations from the unparalleled number of railway acts passed during the last few years.

"Admitting that railroad enterprises are immensely practical, and essential to the prosperity of our rapidly developing country; this fact, important as it is, does not justify our law-makers in sanctioning acts that detract from the liberty of the masses, placing them in the clutches of a few wealthy speculators. Such being the case, it devolves on every intelligent individual to offer a consistent opposition to such infringements on our rights. Not satisfied with conceding power to companies to class together various townships likely to carry a majority in favor of their schemes, (which in some cases does not produce the desired effect) additional influence was extended them, by allowing them to cut and subdivide townships. It is pleaded that this system excludes more people opposed to the different plans submitted to them. But what have we to thank for this leniency and "disinterestedness"? Simply the fact that without this cutting and slicing it would be morally impossible for some of the minor branches to succeed in obtaining a bonus at all. Another and an insuperable objection is that in cases where it would be quite possible to exclude all sections manifestly opposed to giving a bonus, numbers are retained and compelled to pay their quota, being unable to help themselves in the face of the majority so adroitly arranged to overwhelm them. The township of Erin is peculiarly situated in this respect at the present time; a large number of its ratepayers being only relieved from compulsory payment of an excessive amount to the C. V. R. by the County Council of Wellington refusing to submit an illegal by-law. From the foregoing resolutions, the course they propose taking is clearly indicated. Other parts of the country will shortly be requested to coalesce with them, and it is to be hoped that all individuals sympathizing with their laudable efforts will, without hesitancy, lend their aid towards arranging a meeting at which the whole county may be represented."

IMPROVE NUTRITION.—The central idea in the treatment of all Chronic Wasting Diseases, resulting in Nervous Prostration and General Debility, is to improve the Digestion and Assimilation of Food, and the Formation of Healthy Blood. Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphorus and Gallia contains the only agents known that act directly as excitants of nutrition, by imparting tone to the Stomach, Liver and Pancreas, the great organs that prepare nourishment for building up the organs and tissues of the body. The action of this remarkable preparation on is extraordinary in strength and vitalizing the constitution, whether impaired by age, exhausted by excess, bad habits, or run down by old complaints that have resisted all ordinary methods of treatment. Being a delicious cordial to take, and perfectly harmless under all circumstances, it is especially adapted to pre-arrange weak, emaciated and delicate children.

REMOVAL.
W. D. Hepburn & Co.,
Have removed their Boot and Shoe Store to the very extensive premises on the Corner of Wyndham Street and St. George's Square.
Their old store being too small on account of the continual increase in the Wholesale Manufacturing, as well as in the Retail Departments they have now fitted up the new and much larger place in first-class style, and would intimate to their very numerous customers and the public generally that having increased the facilities for manufacturing they are now able to offer to the public first-rate goods in all branches, at lower prices than ever before.

Custom Work
i all its branches made to order.
Repairing Done Neatly and Cheaply as Heretofore.
The public are cordially invited to visit the new store, and examine our Goods.

Iron in the Blood
PERUVIAN SYRUP
MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and purified blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damage and waste, searching out and expelling disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of its wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, restitutive, strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up as Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weakness, sickness, suffering and debility, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass. Pamphlets Free.
J. P. DINSMORE, Proprietor, No. 30 Day St., New York. Sold by Druggists generally.
