TOWN COUNCIL MEETS

Delegates Appointed to Meet Other County Boards to Arrange County Assessment.

Town Assessment Rolls to be Completed January Ninth. Date of Civic Election, February Fifth.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bridgetown Town Council was held on Monday evening, Mayor Harlow presiding. The Councilors present were: J. W. Salter, A. B. McKenzie, Karl Freeman and S. F. Pratt.

It was ordered that the following bills be paid: Windsor Foundry Machine Company, for hydrant and casting, $49.30; Crowe, Elliott Co., Ltd., labor on waterworks, $16.70; A. L. Anderson, repairing bridge, $2.00; A. L. Anderson, labor on crusher, $1.25; J. I. Foster, on poor account, $9.00; E. A. Craig, services on crusher, $5.10; A. D. Brown, registration of births and deaths, $3.75; Joseph McLean, services as steward of Fire Company, 1912, $5.00; J. H. Longmire & Sons, supplies to fire department and on poor account, $9.52; L. M. Whitman, repairs to crusher, $4.85; J. Lockett & Son, for material for Council Chamber, $3.27.

Ordered that the account of Mrs. M. K. Piper when itemized and rendered be paid.

Ordered, that the account of the Bridgetown Foundry Co. for $35.74, be paid at $53.74, and that the balance of two dollars be left over for future discussion.

Ordered, that the account of the Fire Company for $60.75 be paid at $48.00, and that the other item of $12.75 be paid by the clerk when an itemized account is rendered to him by the secretary of the company for that amount.

On motion it was resolved that Thursday, the ninth day of January, 1913, be appointed by the Council as the day upon which the assessors for the town of Bridgetown shall complete the assessment roll for the year 1913, under the provision of rule sixteen of the Assessment Act.

Resolved, that Wednesday, the fifth day of February, 1913, at half-past seven o'clock, p.m., in the Council Chamber, be the time for the Town Clerk to declare the candidate having the greatest number of votes elected as Mayor for the ensuing year for the Town of Bridgetown.

Resolved, that the Town Clerk and Councilor Salter be appointed delegates to the meeting to be held in Annapolis Royal on the 16th inst., by the towns of Middleton, Annapolis Royal and Bridgetown.

There was no further business.

Turks Capitulate to Allies.

London, Jan. 1.—After protracted diplomatic skirmishing the Turks finally capitulated to a majority of the demands of the Balkan Allies at the session of the Peace Conference in St. James' Palace. Through Rechad Pasha they agreed to cede practically the whole of the Ottoman Empire's European dominions, except Adrianople, and the territory between it and Constantinople, to their victorious but traditionally despised neighbors.

THE TURKISH TERMS.

The terms the Turkish delegates presented to the conference as a counter proposal to the demands of the Allies were:

First—The rectification of the Turco-Bulgarian frontier by marking the boundary west of the line now occupied by the troops of the Allies in the Vilayet of Adrianople.

Second—The question of the status of Adrianople to be settled by Turkey and Bulgaria direct.

Third—The cession of the remainder of European Turkey, including Janina and Scutari to the Allies.

Fourth—The Albanian and Cretan questions to be solved by the Powers.

Fifth—The Aegean islands to remain Turkish.

ALLIES STOOD FIRM.

The announcement of these terms were wrung from the Ottoman delegates with the greatest difficulty. They came only after Rechad Pasha had reiterated Turkey's desire to shift the responsibilities for adjudicating all the vital questions to the great Powers, and the representatives of the Allies had registered their unchangeable objections to such a course and plainly had given the Turks to understand that the failure of the Ottoman delegates to embark upon serious negotiations would mean a resumption of hostilities in South Eastern Europe.

THIRTY-THREE LABOR LEADERS WILL BE TAKEN TO LEAVENWORTH PRISON.

Indianapolis, Dec. 30.—Sentences varying from seven years' imprisonment in the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, to one year and one day and two suspended sentences were today imposed on the thirty-eight Labor Union officials convicted in the dynamite conspiracy case.

HYMENEAL

MASON-LONGLEY.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Deacon J. S. Longley on Thursday morning, Jan. 2nd, at half-past nine, when his second daughter, Ella Florence, was united in marriage to Mr. Reginald H. Mason of Springfield.

As the wedding march was being rendered by Miss Minetta Longley, aunt of the bride, the bridal party entered the room, and took their places under an attractive arch of evergreen and white. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. V. Mason, of Acadia College. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Longley, as bridesmaid, entered the room on the arm of her father. A chorus of nine girls at the time sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden." Four small girls, Eleanor and Evelyn Longley, Marion Bishop and Hazel Gillis, gowned in white, acted as flower girls. The double ring service was used, the ceremony being performed by Rev. A. McNinch, assisted by Rev. R. B. Kinley, of Wolfville. The bride, who is one of our most popular young ladies looked charming in her wedding gown of white satin with veil and orange blossoms. The bridesmaid's dress was of pale blue voile. While the young couple were receiving congratulations from a large number of guests, music was rendered by Miss Cora Longley.

A dainty wedding breakfast was then served, after which the newlywed couple started for a trip to St. John, Boston and other cities. On their return they will visit Paradise before leaving for their future home. Many beautiful presents, consisting of silver, cut glass, china, linen, etc., attested to the esteem in which the young couple are held. The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque for one hundred dollars, and the bridesmaid a gold locket and chain.

Miss Longley has been a successful teacher for three years.

Mr. Mason has recently returned from the West, where he has been following his vocation as civil engineer.

Fire in Inglewood Road.

The New Year had barely been ushered in with the usual demonstrations, when the ringing of the curfew bell alarmed many of the citizens of the town. A reflection in the sky above showed that the fire was somewhere to the north-west of the town, and many of the townsmen proceeding in that direction found on Inglewood Road an old shack on fire, and burning very fiercely. The shack was the one that was in existence at the back of the old building now replaced by the Longmire Block, and its removal at the time of the demolition was attempted by some of the community at Inglewood. They filled, however, to get it to its destination, and the shed has remained on one side of the road just beyond M. W. Graves & Co.'s factory for upwards of four months. Seeing that no damage could be done beyond burning itself out, the fire was allowed to have its own way, and in a very short time only charred embers remained to show what had become a regular nuisance to the road.

GRANT'S SENTENCE COMMITTED TO IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE.

On Thursday last word was received from Ottawa to the effect that the Governor General had been pleased to commute the death sentence of Grant, condemned to be executed for murder Jan. 31st. Grant was pacing the floor of his narrow cell in the eastern part of the jail building when a messenger entered the jail and broke the news, and when he heard it he muttered something about being glad because of his mother (whose death very recently he was still unaware of) and then resumed his pace and continued to smoke a cigar which had been allowed him, apparently indifferent and apathetic and hardly appreciating his narrow escape from being hastened into eternity within a few days. He shows much the same indifference now over escaping death as he exhibited during the trial when his life was virtually the issue. Grant has been sent to Dorchester penitentiary.

Strong Plea for

Children's Aid Society.

John Irvin, K.C., of Bridgetown, Urges Organization With Law Behind it—An Interesting Comparison.

(St. John Telegraph.)

In an admirable address at the Every Day Club last evening John Irvin, K.C., of Bridgetown, paid a very high tribute to the citizens of St. John for what had been accomplished in past years and made a very strong plea for the addition of a Children's Aid Society with the law behind it, as a necessary addition to the splendid institutions related to the humanities which are already in existence.

Mr. Irvin contrasted the St. John of forty years ago with that of today, and noted the obstacles overcome, the foresight which planned for years ahead and provided the funds to produce the facilities for the great traffic of the present time. He predicted a great future for the city, as one of the imperial gates through which would flow the commerce of a great dominion.

Turning then to the institutions provided so generously for the spiritual, moral and intellectual welfare of the people, Mr. Irvin went on to speak of the various organizations, institutions, hospitals and homes designed to meet the special needs of those needing special care, and said that to these should be added one more, a Children's Aid Society having behind it the power of law. He gave a clear definition of a neglected child, told of the law in force in Nova Scotia, pointed out how essential it was for effective work in securing for neglected children a fair start in life, and appealed to his hearers to give their sympathy and help in securing such a law for New Brunswick. In this connection he emphasized the power of thought. When many people are thinking of the same thing they are creating a force which produces results. All the great revolutions in the world were caused by thought, and there never was a time in the world's history when thought was producing so many splendid agencies for man's betterment. Legislation and organization for child protection was one of them, and the speaker made an eloquent plea for the boys and for sympathy and support for the Every Day Club in its work.

Festivities at Belleisle.

On New Year's Eve, the children attending St. Mary's Sunday School, Belleisle, together with friends to the number of about thirty, had their annual Christmas party in Belleisle Hall. Assembling at half-past four, the first item on the program was games of various kinds, until six o'clock when a bountiful feast was served. Then came other games in the midst of which a genuine surprise party of "Ben Snickers" arrived, greatly to the delight of staff and scholars alike. The disguises of these impersonators were very clever and for a while quite mystified all but themselves. In the end they proved to be old scholars bent on giving good cheer to the younger generation. On the departure of the dusky visitors the children settled down to a short program of recitations and songs, after which came the inevitable Christmas and useful presents, sweets and oranges for each child present, with some to spare for little ones at home.

A short speech was made by the Rector, in which he asked for three cheers for Mr. Tosh, who had kindly decorated the Hall (with an especially pretty scheme) and given much valuable assistance all around. These were heartily given, also cheers for the staff, who had kindly provided the good things enjoyed, and at eight o'clock a happy crowd was wending its way homeward.

Do not dwell too much upon your failures. Do not look back too much. Life will not bear this retrospect, and indulgence in vain regret is not a fitting luxury for those who have their fortunes to make.

OBITUARY

REV. JOHN P. ANTHONY.

The Rev. John P. Anthony, pastor of the Pleasant Street Methodist church, Truro, passed from earth to his reward about five o'clock, p.m., on New Year's Day.

He had been indisposed for a few days, from what he judged to be an attack of indigestion, but, on Monday the 30th ult., physicians pronounced his trouble to be appendicitis. The necessary operation proved that the disease had been making progress for a considerable time. He, however, passed a comparatively easy day on Thursday, but soon succumbed to the disease.

Mr. Anthony was a native of Berwick, and began his ministry in Bridgetown, in 1895, under the superintendence of the late Rev. J. B. Giles. He soon began to give promise of much usefulness in the ministry, and has occupied, with great acceptance, several of the most important charges in the Nova Scotia Conference, the last of which was Truro, to which place he moved in July last. The members of the Ministerial Association of Truro, composed of ministers of different churches, held a memorial service at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon, and on Friday before daylight, accompanied the remains to the train to be conveyed to Berwick for interment. A very impressive service was held in the church at Berwick. A large congregation, many of whom had grown up with Mr. Anthony from boyhood, were present. Ten of his brother ministers and also deputations from several of his former fields of labor, came to pay respect to the memory of a much-loved brother and pastor. The Quarterly Boards of Providence church, Yarmouth, Lunenburg and Truro, as well as private friends furnished beautiful wreaths, expressive of esteem and love, and as the curtain of night was falling, the body was committed to the grave. His wife, formerly Miss Borden, of Berwick, and a son, also an aged minister, and brothers in Western Canada, sorrow, but not as those who have no hope. His place in the ministry will not easily be filled. But God calls home his workmen and yet carries on his work.

JAMES BURTON KENT.

James Burton Kent, of Bentville, after an illness lasting but three brief months, passed peacefully away on Friday, Dec. 28th, at the age of eighteen years. Of a bright and manly disposition, Burton had endeared himself to his entire community, and his demise is mourned by a large circle of friends. Up until the late fall of last year he was enjoying fairly good health, but it was quite noticeable that the attacks of pneumonia to which he had been subjected had weakened what otherwise promised to be a strong and rugged physical frame. A sudden and unexpected ill-turn about three months previous to his death caused anxious alarm, and though all that could possibly be done was done yet he grew weaker and weaker until he passed from earth "to where beyond these voices there is rest."

During his illness Burton manifested a faith in God which enabled him to bear weakness and pain with wonderful patience and resignation, and gave to his pastor, who is hearing this testimony, unmistakable evidence of confidence in his Saviour, and hope for the better life to come.

A large concourse of people assembled at his late home on Sunday, 29th ult., where a brief service was held, after which the remains were interred in the beautiful cemetery at Round Hill.

The sorrowing family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends, and many prayers are ascending that Divine Grace might sustain them.—COM.

WESTERN LIFE PORTRAYED

By Sydney R. Fay, in Address to Citizens of Bridgetown.—Commends the Spirit of the West, Which Builds up Its Communities by Boost and Energy, for the People of Nova Scotia to Emulate.

St. James' school-room was literally packed on Thursday evening with an audience interested to hear Mr. Sydney Fay's lecture on the Canadian West and the Responsibilities of Canadian Citizenship. Mr. Fay has been absent from Bridgetown about two years and a half and during that time he has travelled considerably over the Canadian West, and being of an observing nature and having also to depend upon the results of his observation and industry for success in the calling he has chosen, the real estate business, his lecture and later his answers to questions proved both entertaining and enlightening, presenting a clear and true view of the conditions of life in Western Canada, and by the sharp contrasts drawn only proved more conclusively to his hearers the benefits and advantages of life in this garden of the East, the province of Nova Scotia.

The conditions referred to the Middle West, more especially Saskatchewan, where Mr. Fay is located. The wonderful growth of that city was proved to be largely the result of the optimism of its earlier settlers, a lesson that it would be well for our eastern towns in general and Bridgetown in particular, to take to heart and profit therefrom.

Mr. Fay was introduced by Rev. E. Underwood, who officiated capably as chairman.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

When Mr. Underwood requested me to address a Bridgetown audience, I consented to do so with mingled feelings of regret and pleasure. Regret because of my inability, owing to inexperience in public speaking to adequately express my views on this great and important subject of Canadian Citizenship, or to convey to you some of the impressions that I have received on conditions as they exist in Western Canada, but at the same time it affords me great pleasure, at the opportunity of again looking into the faces of and interchanging ideas with some of my old friends in the town of Bridgetown. Let me say, however, during the short time I have been away, I have by no means been out of touch with conditions as they exist in this part of Canada. Through the medium of the Halifax papers and our own Monitor, whose value we never realize or whose news we never fully appreciate until we are away from home, I have watched with the keenest of interest Maritime progress and Maritime development, I hope I will not be accused of being overbearing if I regard this splendid audience here tonight not only as an indication of your interest in Western Canadian life, but also as a token of personal esteem (applause), and I desire to sincerely thank you for your presence here this evening. I have greatly enjoyed myself during the past two or three weeks I have been home, meeting my old friends throughout different parts of this country. At the same time I have missed faces of many whose friendship I held near and dear to me, they having passed into the Great Beyond or have moved away. It has afforded me considerable pleasure, however, to meet no small number of newcomers to our town. I know they are welcome and trust they will make good and useful citizens. I have noted with pleasure an improvement in the town in general; the improved condition of our streets, new business houses and residences show that we are making steady progress. In the two and a quarter years I have been West, I have spent considerable time travelling throughout various parts of that country and, as the Monitor was kind enough to intimate in a recent issue, I have not kept my eyes closed, but have observed conditions there.

There are two or three things that particularly struck me since I have been in the West which I desire to make mention of here this evening. The first is what I would term "The Spirit of the West." It is noticeable especially to an easterner and it prevails not only in the city of Saskatoon in which I live, but throughout the whole of Western Canada. It is a spirit of boosting and of confidence. You go into any town in that country and there you will be told that that town is destined to be one of the largest in the American continent, that it is the gate-way of the Peace River country and the Chicago of the North. One of the first things that attracted my attention in Saskatoon was a large sign which stands on the corner of one of the main thoroughfares in that city which reads, "Our aim, fifty thousand population in 1915, a high mark but not beyond our reach." Imagine my astonishment that that little city of ten thousand, as it was then, should hope within five years to have its population increased five-fold, but, as I mingled with these citizens, I soon became convinced of the fact that it was not only possible but it was very probable for that aim

Made the Card Sharp Nervous. A transatlantic card sharp, returned recently from one of his numerous ocean ferry trips, lamented that he did not have a chance to do business on the liner because he fell in with a judge before whom he had been arraigned for crooked dealing. He said he had sat down with a party in the smoking room on the second day out and had scanned faces to make sure that not a professional was in the lot. The man opposite him was peering at him intently when he glanced across the mahogany. He recognized the judge, and apparently the judge recognized him, but neither mentioned the circumstance. The card sharp got nervous. He was afraid to win, either legitimately or otherwise. He also feared that if he left the table the judge would give him away. So he struggled through the game a loser. He went to the judge the next morning and told him that he had decided not to play any more on the trip, and the judge remarked that it was a very wise resolution.—New York Sun.

Definitions of News. The city editor of a local paper tells us that he recently tested the intelligence of a bunch of applicants for jobs by giving them a bit of copy paper and requesting them to write thereon a definition of "News." Here are some of the answers turned in: "News consists of events that are either very usual or very unusual." "News is what the public will read and pay for without kicking." "News is anything the public ought to know." "News is a report of what happened, not of what ought to happen." "News is anything a paper can print that's new, except (a) new stuff that might start a libel suit, (b) anything that might alienate a bunch of subscribers." This last epigram landed a job for its author. The city editor saw at once that this chap had worked on a paper before.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

When Almanacs Were New. The first printed almanac, published at Nuremberg in 1475, was thought such a wonderful thing that it was sold at ten golden crowns a copy—more than its weight in gold. The first English printed almanac was the "Shepherd's Calendar," translated from the French and printed by Richard Pynson in 1497, and the first popular almanac of the "Old Moore" type was the "Pronostication of Master John Thybault, medycyneer and astronomer of the Emperall Majestie of the yeare of our Lorde MCCCCXXXIIJ." Besides prophesying "warres, revolutions and the death of kynges," that early almanac told you the proper day to take physic, Monday was the day for ailments of the head, Tuesday for affections of the hand, etc. But what the unfortunate sufferer was to do who had a pain on the wrong day it does not state. You must take pains at the proper time.

Feats of Endurance. One of the most striking feats of human endurance was that of Tom Burrows, the club swinging champion of England, who by whirling his clubs for forty-six hours without a moment's respite broke all records. He reminds one of Arthur Lancaster, who achieved athletic fame by swinging a blacksmith's hammer for twelve consecutive hours and afterward added to his laurels by beating all British records for ball punching. He punched a twenty-four ounce ball for fifteen hours continuously at the average rate of 145 punches a minute. Occasionally he would go away on a burst of 250 and 260 a minute, and so powerful was his fist work that three times he broke the rope of the ball and had to turn his attention to one kept in reserve.—Exchange.

New York's Shortest Street. The shortest and probably most obscure street in all Greater New York is Chestnut street, and it's as small as its name implies. This street is less than fifty feet long and runs from New Chambers to Madison street, separating in two a triangular block, the whole of which would not have an area large enough for a modern building even if located in a section that would warrant the improvement.—New York Post.

The System. "After all, there isn't much difference between the editor and the office boy." "You're joking." "Not at all. The editor fills the waste baskets and the office boy empties them."—Life.

Art and Science. "What a beautiful picture of an angel!" said the lady who was visiting the art gallery. "Yes," replied the aviation enthusiast. "But between you and me those wings aren't practical."—Washington Star.

Realistic. "You have too much rouge on, my dear, to enact properly a milkmaid." "Have I, sir? But I thought a milkmaid should be rosy cheeked." "On the contrary, a milkmaid is naturally a pall girl."—Baltimore American.

The Yukon Valley. There are no blizzards in the Yukon valley in winter, and there is little wind. Snow about two feet deep covers everything from early October till spring.

IMPORTANT MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

That infantile paralysis is transmitted by the stable fly is the important discovery which Dr. M. J. Rosenau, professor of preventive medicine and hygiene at Harvard, is reported to have announced to the fifteenth international congress of hygiene and demography. Dr. Rosenau, experimented with monkeys, the animals most closely resembling man. Twelve monkeys were infected with infantile paralysis. At different stages of the illness a large number of stable flies were introduced into the closely screened cages containing the monkeys. The stable fly bites After a period the stable flies were transferred to cages containing well monkeys. These animals, after being bitten by the flies, developed all the symptoms of infantile paralysis, just as they appear in children afflicted with the disease. Some of the monkeys died. Dr. Rosenau took tissues from the monkeys thus infected by the flies and injected them into a third set of monkeys, which thereupon developed the disease. A method for eradication and control of infantile paralysis is now placed in the hands of sanitarians. It is believed that the necessity of quarantine is thus relieved, and that it will suffice to place a bed net around the patient.

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

Larder Lake, Ont., March 26th. "I had been suffering for some time with my kidneys and urine. I was constantly passing water, which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time the pain was something awful, and no rest at night."

I heard of your "GIN PILLS" and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my claim 60 miles to get them and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief.

In two days, the pain had left me entirely. I took about half a box and today I feel as well as ever and my kidneys are acting quite natural again."

GIN PILLS soothe the irritated bladder—heat the sick, weak, painful kidneys—and strengthen both these vital organs. Money back if they fail. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Sample free if you write National Drug and Chemical Co., of Canada, Limited, Toronto. 139

Legislation Against Smoking by Women.

Boston, Dec. 23.—A man may not give his wife a cigarette nor a young fellow at some Bohemian reception proffer a cigarette case to some soulful maiden if the legislature passes the bill just filed by Representative Fred P. Greenwood, of Everett.

Mr. Greenwood says his measure will prohibit the use of cigarettes in cafes, as well as in the privacy of fashionable parties in the Back Bay. Girls will no longer be able to go to the nearest drug store for a package of cigarettes to be consumed in their own rooms.

A penalty of fifty dollars will be visited upon every person who gives a woman or a girl tobacco in any of its forms.

Mr. Greenwood says:—"So far as I know, this is the first attempt to check by legislation the baneful practice of women smoking."

"I do not suppose any legislation can absolutely cure the evil, but if it is as successful as the cigarette bill has been in stopping the use of cigarettes among children I shall feel pretty well satisfied."

"Only the other day I read of a party up in the Back Bay where the women were treated to dainty cigarettes. 'Thine' of the monstrosity of it! Dainty cigarettes!"

"Under the law proposed a man would be penalized for giving a cigarette to his wife, and he ought to be. I expect that in many cases that women who are too proud to go to a store and ask for cigarettes may get them."

A Treatment That Costs Nothing if it Fails.

We want you to try three large bottles of Rexall '93' Hair Tonic on our personal guarantee that the trial will not cost you a penny if it does not give you absolute satisfaction. That's proof of our faith in this remedy, and it should indisputably demonstrate that we know what we are talking about when we say that Rexall '93' Hair Tonic will retard baldness, overcome scalp and hair ailments, and if any human agency can accomplish this result, it may also be relied upon to promote a new growth of hair.

Remember we are basing our statements upon what has already been accomplished by the use of Rexall '93' Hair Tonic, and we have the right to assume that what it has done for thousands of others it will do for you. In any event you cannot lose anything by giving it a trial on our liberal guarantee. Two sizes, fifty cents and one dollar. TERRIBLE RECITAL OF ATROCITIES COMMITTED BY THE SERBIANS.

Children Were Carved With Bayonets in Sight of Their Mothers, and Hundreds of Prisoners Were Mowed Down With Machine Guns

London, Dec. 31.—A terrible recital of atrocities from information gathered by Austro-Hungarian authorities is given in a Budapest despatch to the Daily Telegraph revealing, according to these official reports, a deliberate policy of extermination of the Moslems adopted by the Serbian General Janovitch in the march of his army through Albania to the sea coast.

Between Kumanova and Uskup three thousand were done to death. Near Pristina five thousand, exclusively of Arnauts, were massacred under circumstances of the most horrible cruelty. Villages were burned and the fleeing inhabitants shot down. Helpless women were forced to watch their children being carved to pieces with bayonets.

NOVA SCOTIA needs a jam factory

and the central city to establish it is Halifax. The sugar, glass, labor shipping centres are there, also the small fruits and berries are overplentiful. The loss in plums alone this year was very large. This waste should not be a factory was started more of these fruits would be produced. In fact contracts could be made for supplies in advance. The people of England understand the manufacture of these goods, and the Maritime Apple is inviting some English firm to come to Halifax or Kentville and establish themselves the coming year.

Bridgetown's Experience not Quite Satisfactory.

Conditions in Apple Industry Adversely Affected Business of the Town, but the Local Industries Kept Well to the Front.

(Morning Chronicle, Jan. 1)

Bridgetown, Dec. 31.—The town progress of the town of Bridgetown for the year 1912 has been somewhat disappointing not only to the business but to the farming sections of this community, a reason for which perhaps can be found in the fact, that for the last two years the apple crop, which is the principal source of revenue to our farmers and unfortunately upon which they place so much reliance instead of adopting more of mixed farming, has been financially a failure, and the effect has already been felt in every line of business and, as one of our merchants said a few days ago "the worst has yet to come."

During the year another large section of permanent roads has been built and with additional funds, which the Town will soon be called upon to vote, the almost impassable streets in spring and fall will then be a thing of the past, and the citizens of this Town can then rejoice in the fact that better roads do not exist in any other Town in the Province.

The old abattoir in the western part of the Town, which has outlived its usefulness, the replacing of which in a few years at the furthest, would have been a heavy task upon the rate-payers, has been replaced by the Government of Nova Scotia, whose good road policy has not only relieved the tax payers in this instance, but in many others in this Country. This old structure has been replaced by a first-class concrete culvert with concrete walk on each side, built under the supervision of E. A. Cranton, one of the most practical bridge builders in this Province.

INDUSTRIES DOING WELL.

While we have not had any additional industries during the past year those that have in the past contributed so largely to the success of this Town, report a satisfactory year's work.

The firm of J. H. Hicks & Sons, contractors and builders, whose name has already extended throughout the length and breadth of this valley, have been engaged in some important contracts during the year. The firm employs a large number of skilled workmen and keep running during the twelve months.

The M. W. Graves & Company, whose vinegar and cider establishment is one of the largest and best equipped in the Dominion and whose output of cider is nearly all sent to the English market, owing to the large dock strike in England last spring were unable to fill their English orders, as transportation could not be secured, consequently were compelled to carry over a large amount of last year's stock which would have to be converted into vinegar.

J. W. Salter, the managing owner informs your correspondent, that owing to the inferior quality of apples raised this year, most of which have been branded No. 3 and only fit for cider stock, for the first time since their incorporation they were compelled to sput down on the purchase of apples, being overstocked.

Ronald H. C. Whiteway, manager and part owner of the Annapolis Valley Cider Company, Ltd., says his company have received a fair patronage during the year. Mr. Whiteway, who is a son of Henry C. Whiteway a large cider manufacturer of London, England, came to this Country some six years ago and purchased this establishment, which was then conducted and owned by Avar L. Beeler, and since that time has succeeded in placing this concern among the largest and most successful manufacturers of cyder and vinegar in the Dominion, their bottled cyder being on sale in every town of importance between the Atlantic and Pacific coast.

THE MANUFACTURE OF LARRIGANS.

The McKenzie Crowe Company Ltd., management is now under Arnold McKenzie, son of W. H. McKenzie, who bought out this establishment over twenty years ago from the late George Murdoch and largely through whose efforts this concern is now taking the lead in the manufacture of larrigans in the Maritime Province. Mr. McKenzie says that the business of this establishment is growing year by year and wherever their goods can be placed, there is no trouble to secure the next order. Orders are now coming in so fast that they are obliged to compel their men to work nearly every evening.

The George M. Lake Company Ltd., is also another industry in this line of which Mr. Lake is the principal owner and manager. Mr. Lake is a thoroughly practical man and understands the manufacturing of larrigans in every detail; the name of this concern on their product is a guarantee that none better exist.

A bite of this and a taste of that, all day long, dulls the appetite and weakens the digestion.

The Bridgetown Foundry Company, while never having been a dividend-paying establishment during its forty or more years of existence, is an industry that has been of incalculable good not only to this town but to the mill-men and farmers in this Country. This business is now under the management of J. Kenneth Craig, son of the former manager, the late Wm. A. Craig.

Amongst other industries that can be mentioned are Beeler & Petrus, barrel manufacturers, W. J. Hoyt, wood works, and Wm. Howse, wood working factory, all of whom have assisted very materially in making Bridgetown one of the most progressive and go-ahead towns of its size in the Province.

The construction of the Longmire block, a few new houses, with the re-modelling of some of the older ones have given employment to all our local carpenters during the working season.

WANT A PUBLIC BUILDING.

A united effort is now being made by the town to secure a public building, and we have already the assurance from our Dominion representative A. L. Davidson, that he has been assured that a good appropriation for this building will be brought down in the next estimates. For the first time within the last century the hostelry for many years known as Miller's Hotel, and more recently as the Grand Central, is closed to the public. The late manager, Mr. C. S. Silver, has moved to Kentville, taking charge of the Porter House, and the owner, J. Willard Smith, of St. John, up to the present time has not been successful in again leasing it.

There was a large exodus of our young men during the harvest season to the golden grain fields of the West, most of whom have already returned. While singing the praises of our Western Provinces, they, at the same time, admit that there is no place like home.

The fox farming boom has struck this community in good earnest, one farm already stocked and several others are being organized, every one seems anxious to invest money in this new industry, which has resulted so profitably to those already engaged in it.

DOCTORS COULD NOT HELP MY KIDNEYS

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Me

MR. GEO. W. BARKLEY

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., JAN. 25th, 1911
 "For over twenty years, I have been troubled with Kidney Disease and the doctors told me they could do me no good. They said my case was incurable and I would suffer all my life. I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but there was none that suited my case. Nearly a year ago, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives', I have been using them nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured. I have no trouble now with my kidneys and I give 'Fruit-a-tives' the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible. I am seventy-six years old and am in first class health."

Bishop Jaggar, a well-known summer tourist to Nova Scotia, died at Cannes, France, on Friday, Dec. 13th. He was born in New York on the 2nd July, 1839, and was appointed Bishop in 1875, after serving many years as rector in New Jersey and New York parishes. He was the author of several essays and sermons, and was twice married. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter. He built a summer home in Digby in 1888. His death was caused by bronchial and heart trouble. His remains were buried in Boston.

REPRIEVE FOR GRAVES BROTHERS

"What's the matter with your wife? She's all broken up lately."
 "She got a terrible jar."
 "What has happened?"
 "Why, she was assisting at a rummage sale, took off her new hat, and somebody sold it for thirty-five cents."

Superiority of a Man of Fifty.

New York, Dec. 29.—A cable from Berlin says:—
 "The man of fifty," is the subject of a Christmas symposium in the Tageblatt. Medical experts, business men, and artists agree that a man of fifty is no older than a man at forty, and in numerous instances decidedly more useful.

Professor Krause asserts that it is absurd to describe a man of fifty as even growing old. Only in exceptional cases, due to special causes, does he reveal decreased elasticity.

Dr. Krause recommends sane sport as the best insurance against old age for a man of fifty.

Dr. Lappmann, another eminent specialist, declares that a man of fifty is in highly superior intellectual worth, and, on account of his reliability, steadiness, experience, and rational living, possesses countless physical and moral advantages over a younger man.

Professor Arthur Kampf, president of the Royal Academy, says great artists of all times have done their best work between the ages of forty and sixty.

Dr. Leon Zejtlin, secretary of the Berlin Retail Trades Association, blames the Americanization of German commercial life for increasing the prejudice against men of fifty, which manifests itself in the ruthless casting out of employees who have reached a certain age, and the supersession by younger men.

DEATH OF GRANT'S MOTHER

A touching incident in connection with the case of Grant the murderer awaiting the death penalty was the death at her home in Antigonish on Christmas Day, of his mother, who has been bedridden for two years and had suffered from chronic heart trouble so badly she could be raised in the bed only with difficulty. The poor old woman never knew of her son's sentence or even of his escapades here and his imprisonment, the news being carefully kept from her, and she passed out of the world unaware of his doings. Her last words were calling for him to come to her. The news of the death of the mother has not yet been communicated to the imprisoned son.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF A CHICAGO CHURCH

Chicago church actually carry an advertisement in certain papers in that city to the effect that they cure "loneliness," which, being interpreted is, "if you are a stranger in the city and lonely, come to us and find healthy, uplifting companionship." That is what I call practical Christianity. It saves many a lonely boy and girl, young men and young women from the gilded places of sociability that tend downward to ruin.

Joker's Corner.

HIS DEFINITION.

A lecturer at a suburban school was explaining to his audience, which consisted mostly of boys, the functions of a lucimeter, an instrument for measuring light, and at the conclusion he asked for a definition of the machine.
 One raw youth stood up.
 "Is it a lucimeter as yer want to know about?"
 "Yes," said the lecturer.
 "Well, that's me. I meets Lucy every night at seven, and if there's any love in this 'ere meetin' tries to be a Lucy meter, that Lucy meter'll bust, or me name ain't Jarge."

VERY MUCH ALIVE.

An Irishman, with one side of his face badly swollen, stepped into Dr. Hurtem's office and inquired if the dentist was in.
 "I am the dentist," said the doctor.
 "Well, then, I want to know if you can tell me what's the matter" with this tooth?"

The doctor examined the offending molar and explained: "The nerve is dead; that's what's the matter."
 "That's he the powers," the Irishman exclaimed, "the other teeth must be holding a wake over it."

WEATHER FORECASTS

MORE FAVORABLE.

"Can you tell what sort of weather we may expect next month?" asked a subscriber of the editor of a weekly paper.
 And the editor replied as follows: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription."
 The inquirer wondered for an hour what the editor was driving at, when he happened to think of the "unsettled." He sent the required amount next day.

WHAT MATTER WHICH?

When the news became known, his fellow-clerks gathered around and congratulated him.
 "But," said one man doubtfully, "I understand the girl you engaged to is a twin. Bit awkward, isn't it? How do you tell the difference between her and her sister?"
 The man who had just spent six weeks' salary on an engagement ring smiled indulgently.
 "Tut! That's all right, they're a jolly nice family, anyway, and I never bother very much which one it is."

PRETTY PERSONAL.

In one of the large cities a street car collided with a milk cart and sent an after can of milk splashing into the street. Soon a large crowd gathered. A very short man coming up had to stand on tiptoe to see past a stout woman in front.
 "Goodness!" he exclaimed. "What an awful waste."
 The stout woman turned around and glared at the little man and said sternly: "Mind your own business."

STOOD THE TEST.

"So you want to marry my daughter?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "Got any money saved up?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "Could you let me have five thousand dollars on my unsecured note?"
 "I could, but I wouldn't."
 "I guess you can take care of her all right. She's your's, my boy, and here's a five-cent cigar."

PAT'S ANSWER.

An Irishman once entered into conversation with an Englishman. The Englishman, thinking to have a joke with his companion, asked, "How many hairs on a pig's face?"
 "Begorra, sir," said Pat, "the next time you shave you can count them."
 "Jim," said an honest coal dealer to one of his men, "Jim, make that ton of coal two hundred pounds short. It's for a poor, delicate widow, and she will have to carry all of it up two flights of stairs. I don't want to overtax her strength."

Ladies of Culture and Refinement Use Salvia Hair Tonic. It Makes the Hair Beautiful.

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy the pest Dandruff.
 That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in ten days or money back.
 The manufacturer guarantees it. It will grow hair, stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray, and adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of "beautiful hair." A large, generous bottle costs only fifty cents at leading druggists everywhere. The word "SALVIA" is on every bottle.

Kentville Advertiser—Messrs. A. and B. Stewart, of Toronto, will leave for Kentville, on or about the first of the New Year. They have in view the erecting here of a department store and a first-class hotel. Both are to be built of brick and if arrangements can be completed, these buildings will be finished early in the coming summer. Both the above gentlemen are men of comparatively unlimited means, so we are informed, and using the old German phrase the people who are in business in this town will have to cut their prices "shorter than a rabbit's tail" to compete with them when they get established.

M. K. PIPER
PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1913.

The past year in Bridgetown, while somewhat less eventful than a few years preceding, has been, on the whole, a progressive year.

Financially the town has suffered from
the reverses the orchardists have encountered in disposing of their apples,
but in every other respect the town has
continued in the course of prosperity.

The factories have had a very prosperous year, all have been working full time, and in some cases the number of men obtainable as employees were largely
under the number required to turn out
the work demanded of the factory.

The wood-working firm of J. H. Hicks & Sons find their business extending far beyond the limits of the County,
their contracts for building and supplies
coming from all parts of the Province,
and they were unable during the busy
season to obtain enough skilled workmen to carry on the volume of work which was pressing them. They had some important contracts in Kings Co.
and have contracts in prospect there
at the opening of the coming season.

During the winter they keep their full staff employed in preparing stock in their mill and factory for the coming season's operations.

Another industry of which Bridge-
town is justly proud is that of McKenzie, Crowe & Co., manufacturers of larri-gans, who make the largest output in the province. They employed this year
fifty to sixty men, which means that Bridgetown largely benefited from the weekly pay-roll. They report this the best year in their business and have orders ahead to keep them busy the greater part of the coming year; with the exception of two weeks at the beginning of the year for stock-taking they are working full time, and frequently overtime, the year around.

Most of the other industries have had an equally satisfactory year.

Building while not so extensive as
in some other years has kept the local carpenters generally employed, a few
new houses and an important business block being among the additions to the architecture of the town.

The amalgamation of C. B. Longmire's business with J. H. Longmire & Sons resulted in the handsome new brick business block referred to. The remodelling of another block, which adds much to the improvement of Queen Street, that of Crowe, Elliott & Co.
bears witness to the mercantile enterprise of the town. Primrose Theatre was also remodelled and makes a neat little theatre and moving picture house.

The most important event of the year
was the holding of the Nova Scotia
Horticultural Exhibition in Bridgetown,
which proved one of the most successful
of the series of annual exhibitions ever held in any of the three Valley Counties.

An act to incorporate a public centery for Bridgetown under the name of the Riverside Cemetery was passed, and through the generous response of the citizens a large amount of money has already been expended in beautifying the place and otherwise improving it.

status and possibilities of our little town. It is quite possible that their visit may be productive of tangible results.

The taking over of the D. A. R. by the C. P. R. gives the Valley towns something to build their hopes upon in the way of future development. As an earnest of what is to come Bridgetown's citizens have been led to believe that they will soon have a new railway station.

Efforts have been made by the Town Council and the Board of Trade to secure immediately the new public building so long promised, but nothing more tangible than the promise has yet developed. These civic bodies have also made ineffectual though creditable efforts to have a second daily passenger train extended to the town, and to have Bridge-
town made a chief port of entry for customers.

There have been no disastrous fires
nor catastrophes of any nature to report
and, on the whole, the future of Bridge-
town looks very bright at the beginning of this year 1913.

Western Life Portrayed.

to be reached. Each person in that city seemed to have that one great aim in view and that they had a certain part to do in the building up of their city, and while I have only lived there two and one-quarter
years, I have already seen the population of that city grow from ten to twenty-eight thousand souls.

The second thing that struck my attention in Western Canada was the great influence of the boards of trade
in that country. In Eastern Canada we have our Boards of Trade
which meet periodically and pass
practically the same resolutions year
after year, but in the West the board of trade seems to be the very life of the country. When a small town reaches a population of about one thousand the board of trade then employ a man whom they style as the Commissioner of the Board of Trade,
whose duty it is to advertise the advantages and possibilities of that town, not only throughout the whole
of Canada, but to the civilized world,
and to encourage the establishment of industries, etc.

The third thing that attracted my attention was the presence of so many old Nova Scotians in the West.
It seems regrettable that so many of our citizens leave our province, but I think that Nova Scotians are naturally of a roving disposition and what is Nova Scotia's loss in this case is Western Canada's gain.
There is one pleasing feature, however, because formerly they went by the thousands to the New England States, and there became a part and parcel in the life of a foreign country,
and now if they are lost to us we have at least the satisfaction of knowing that they have not gone out from the fold of the British flag and British institutions, but they are still remaining in our own Canadian land.
Often have I thought that were I only inspired like a Peter the Hermit, or gifted with the oratorical
powers of an Arthur Foster (laughter) that I would go down into that great Republic to the south of us and preach a crusade to the thousands of Canadians who are said to live there.

I could tell them that the Canada
that they left ten or fifteen years ago is not the Canada of today. It is true that the waters of the mighty Atlantic and Pacific still wash its western and eastern shores, the mighty Rockies, broad prairies and the stately St. Lawrence still form an important part of our physical features, but were they to take a trip with me throughout the length and breadth of that country, they would find that within the past ten or fifteen years Canadian brawn,
Canadian energy and Canadian development have been making themselves
felt as never before.

I believe that our government
should endeavor to bring back more
of our old Canadians who have gone to the States to live amongst us.

I have met many Nova Scotians in Western Canada, but I have not met one who is not determined to some day return to his old home and live.
For my part if there is one thing I cherish more than another, it is the hope that I may some day, within the
not far distant future, return to live in this my native home, and do my share as a true Nova Scotia citizen
in building up this great Province.
(Applause.) I say great in what I consider to be the true sense of the word. Nova Scotia is great not as regards her size or the area of her wheat fields or the number of people
she contains, but she is great as to the character of the people she contains. I consider the greatest province in this Dominion, yes, and the greatest nation in the world, is the one which contains the greatest number of upright citizens,

and as far as Canada is concerned,
Nova Scotia occupies first position in this respect, and stands head and shoulders above her competitors.
Read the pages of our history, turn back even from Confederation and you will find that Nova Scotia has given to our national and civic life her greatest men, and who is there in this Province today but feels a certain degree of respect and admiration
at the fact that at the head of our Government at Ottawa sits a man born in the fruitful valley of Grand Pre?

The message that I desire to leave
especially with you tonight is this,
"Have faith in Nova Scotia." I see in the advent of the C. P. R. in this province the dawning of an era of prosperity such as has never before been witnessed. I believe that within the next ten years the C. P. R., shrewd and business-like as they are,
will be instrumental to the extent of transforming our valley to a hive of industry. I believe that they will recognize the great possibilities of the tourist traffic and that our Annapolis Basin and Bay Shore will be lined with magnificent hotels. We are only in the spring time of our development and in the spring time,
we are told in the Good Book,
"the sower goes forth to sow his seed" and "as ye sow, so shall ye also reap." Let us therefore sow such seed in this country as will develop
and bring up and intelligent people. Well so I remember watching the progress in the construction of a large departmental store in Saskatoon! while its first progress was scarcely noticeable, because it is necessary to dig down deep in order to provide a strong and permanent foundation to support the great superstructure that is to follow, so we in Canada today are laying the foundation for the great nation that is to follow.

To the young man my advice is
this: Go West! Go West for a year or two and there become enthused
with the possibilities of that country,
drink in, as it were, the spirit that prevails there, then come back. Come back to your old home and use the same energy in building up your native town that you would in boosting
the price of town lots in Western Canada.

I had selected as my subject "The Responsibility of Canadian Citizenship." I am afraid I have been wandering afield, but I think I have the same right as the minister, who after making his sermon, prefaces his own text. (laughter) This subject is one to which I have given considerable thought and study and its importance. I would not attempt to minimize it. It is well for us at times
to realize just what we owe to the country in which we live. We go to Russia and we see there conditions which are intolerable. We go to Germany and we see there military burdens that are crushing. We go to France and we find a liberty
which is little short of a license.
Yes, if we go even to our old England, we find there land and slum
conditions which are almost incompatible with the age in which we live,
but when we turn our eyes to our own fair Dominion we see the widest liberty and the most splendid privileges that are afforded to men on the face of the earth and we can say
with truth from the national standpoint that ours is a goodly heritage.
We are safe from the hands of the lawless; we have freedom that none
can count as chattels to be bought and sold; we have schools in which to educate our children at our very doors, and we have our Sabbath, none
daring to molest us at our work-
ship. We are all in the public service. By that I do not mean merely the civil service. I use the term in the same sense that embraces a recognition of the duty a man owes
to the country in which he lives.
There are lots of men in the public employment but too few in the public service. If this country suffers from anything today more than another,
it is from the indifference of our citizens that shows itself in every phase
of our public life, municipal, provincial and national. The evil does not rest upon this indifference. In it he finds his stronghold and greatest reliance for not being punished. A government of, for and by the people

is a good theory if it were absolutely and consistently put into practice.
It would be well for the majority of our citizens to well know that there is a gulf between our theories and our practices. Much as we prize about the exalted responsibilities of men in public offices, we know that too many of them are not following the gospel of public service in this ideal interpretation. At the time of the Boer War Canadians were filled with the desire to go and fight
our foreign foe, but the dangers from without are insignificant compared to those that threaten us from within.
The forces of corruption which undermine popular government are continually at work. There is little in that fight however, but that is one
that is worthy of our highest powers,
because if ever our country fails it will be because of these men who cloak their evil doings under the guise of patriotism. It is all well and good to fine a man here, or send
a man to gaol there, for corrupting
his fellow men, but you might as well try and stop the flow of water
in a stream by simply taking a stone for those evils that I can see is to educate. Educate the young men in the schools and the business man
during his leisure hours to a better
knowledge of the conditions and requirements of his country. If this course were adopted, I believe that we would have a country peopled
from the Atlantic to the Pacific with strong, intelligent men, proud of the country in which they live, and prouder still that under the old flag
conditions may be such as will enable them to maintain that country
for themselves, for their children and their children's children.

The audience were then invited by the chairman to ask Mr. Fay questions on the conditions of life in the West, and an interesting half hour of this nature ensued, participated in by a number in the audience. Mr. J.
Irvin then made a short speech and made a motion that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Fay, which was seconded by Mr. A. Morse, and, after a few congratulatory remarks by Mr.
Underwood, the meeting was closed,
but not before a silver collection
was taken in aid of Western Missions.

A MODERN MIRACLE

HE HAD ECZEMA 25 YEARS AND DOCTORS SAID "NO
CURE."

Yet Zam-Buk Has Worked Complete
Cure.

This is the experience of a man of high reputation, widely known in Montreal, and whose case can readily be investigated. Mr. T. M. Marsh,
the gentleman referred to, lives at 101 Delorimer Avenue, Montreal, and has lived there for years. For twenty-five years he has had eczema
on his hands and wrists. The disease first started in red blotches,
which itched, and when scratched became painful. Bad sores followed,
which discharged, and the discharge
spread the disease until his hands
were one raw, painful mass of sores.
This state of affairs continued for twenty-five years!

In that time four eminent medical men tried to cure him, and each gave up the case as hopeless. Naturally,
Mr. Marsh tried remedies of all kinds, but he, also, at last gave it up. For two years he had to wear gloves day and night so terrible was
the pain and itching when the air
got to the sores.

Then came Zam-Buk! He tried it,
just as he had tried hundreds of remedies before. But he soon found out that Zam-Buk was different. Within a few weeks there were distinct signs
of benefit, and a little perseverance
with this great herbal ointment resulted in what he had given up all hope of—a complete cure. It was permanent. He was cured nearly four years ago.
Interviewed the other day, Mr.
Marsh said: "The cure which Zam-Buk worked has been absolutely permanent. From the day that I was cured to the present moment I have had no trace of eczema, and I feel sure it will never return."
If you suffer from any skin trouble,
cut out this article, write across it
the name of this paper, and mail it
with one cent stamp to pay return
postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.
We will forward you by return a free trial box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell this famous remedy, 50c. box, or three for $1.25.
Refuse harmful substitutes.

UNIVERSAL
Food Chopper
Cuts Like a Pair of Shears

Many so-called choppers crush
and tear the meat or vegetables,
wasting the juices and destroying the flavor.

The UNIVERSAL—the original
Food Chopper—cuts like a pair of shears, with two sharp, beveled edges. These edges are so adjusted that they keep sharp automatically by acting one upon
the other.

The UNIVERSAL Food Chop-
per cleanly chops all kinds of meats
—raw or cooked—and fruits and vegetables—course or fine as desired
—without mashing or tearing.

Each UNIVERSAL Food Chop-
per is equipped with coarse,
medium and fine cutters.

Extremely simple. Nothing to get out of order. Parts interchangeable—easily cleaned.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

The date for civic elections is fixed for Wednesday, February fifth.

Nelly's field on Rectory St. has been the popular resort the last few days, it being well patronized by skaters.

A bouquet of Johnny-jump-ups and groundsel was picked from the garden of Miss Mary Saunders on the 4th inst.

The Week of Prayer commenced on Monday and continues until Friday, inclusive. For program see last week's issue of Monitor.

A banquet was given at the Elm House, Lawrencetown, in honor of the staff of N. H. Phinney & Co. on the evening of the 30th ult.

The St. James' Bible Class monthly social postponed on New Year's evening, will be held next Wednesday at the usual time and place.

There is every probability of an entertainment being given to the inmates of the County Institutions in the Recreation Hall towards the end of next week.

C. W. Camp has rented the house of J. B. Whitman at Carleton Place. J. B. Moses will occupy the house vacated by Mr. Camp on Glashville street west.

An effort has been made to have early closing of the stores every night except Saturday, during the winter, but two or three of the merchants object to the movement.

Emery Harris, of Margareville, son of H. M. Harris, eye specialist, upon whom Dr. Chisholm, of Halifax, recently performed a critical surgical operation, is convalescing.

The auditorium of the Lawrencetown Baptist church has been re-decorated by A. R. Bishop of Bridgetown. The service was taken on Sunday last by Rev. Dr. Brown of Wolfville.

A young son of George Walker, Carleton Corner, died from diphtheria on Sunday. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon. Another child is reported quite ill with bronchitis.

Interesting correspondence from various sources is unavoidably held over till next issue. Correspondents are requested to kindly forward their items to reach this office on Monday when possible.

The announcement was made in the last issue of the Outlook that our bright contemporary has passed into the hands of a joint stock company. It is understood that Mr. Cox will remain as managing editor.

The fuel problem in regard to wood has reached an acute stage in Bridgetown, and it is becoming harder every day to secure supplies, the prices also being record. Snow is anxiously looked for, to clear the lumber in the woods.

Digby shippers of clams have found Portland, Me., a new and profitable market, and already several large shipments have gone forward via the Boston boat from St. John. Hereafter all shipments went to Boston and New York commission houses.

The annual order of exchange between the ministers of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches on Sunday next will be as follows:—Baptist church, Rev. B. J. Porter; Methodist church, Rev. J. F. Dustan and Presbyterian church, Rev. N. A. MacNeill.

Dr. Robert Matheson, Entomologist, Agricultural College, Truro, will address the Fruit Grower at Middleton on "The San Jose Scale situation in Nova Scotia." Without vigorous measures are taken, this subject will be of even more importance later. Better hear Dr. Matheson and learn all you can about it.

Three or four cases of scarlet fever have developed in the family of Elias Durling during the week. The cases are reported as very mild ones, but it is to be hoped that disregard of quarantine regulations will not be permitted on that account, as severe and fatal cases may develop from contagion with comparatively light ones. The disease is reported with fatalities in other parts of the County and Province.

We have heard it whispered in some parts of the Valley this fall, that Annapolis County Gravensteins were a little injured by black spot. John Buchanan, of Berwick, raised a crop of four hundred barrels of Gravensteins that packed eighty per cent. No. 1 this past season. Better hear him tell how he did it in his address on "Commercial Thinning" before the Fruit Growers' Association at Middleton, Jan. 28, 29 and 30.

The Nova Scotia Horticultural Exhibition.

Financial Statement.

The executive committee of the above Exhibition met in Dr. Armstrong's residence on Friday last, when the financial statement for last year's exhibition in Bridgetown was presented. The following is the statement:—

Receipts—Government grant, $1,000; gate receipts, $637.55; money from Directors' note, $100; concessions, $42; special prizes flower show and sale of fruit, etc., $169.40; total $1938.95.

Payments—Ordinary prizes flower show, $1114.10; printing and advertising, $141.80; Secretary's salary, $100; light and music, $170; expenses building and grounds, $131.10; Directors' note, $100.56; special prizes and general expenses, $208.25; total, $1,966.81.

This shows that the financial side has not worked out so badly as anticipated, the deficit amounting to the small sum of $26.85, and, considering the weather, a very satisfactory state of affairs.

Narrow Escape from Drowning.

Yesterday afternoon what might have been a fatal accident on the mill pond was prevented by the bravery of the youngest son of Policeman Gill, William, aged nine years. It appears that Roscoe Gesner and William walked across the pond, and then attempted to return. Gesner was leading and about three yards from the bank the ice gave way and Gesner disappeared. He sank again, and upon coming up called for young Gill to bring him a plank, which the latter laid secured, and going on the ice placed the plank within the reach of Gesner. This was too short, however, and the boy Gill rushed back to the bank, secured a long fence pole, and with the aid of this succeeded in drawing Gesner out of the water. Their cries for "help!" brought two men to the spot, too late, however, to render any help, as the rescue had been accomplished.

NATURAL GAS FOR I. C. R. WORKSHOPS.

Furnishes Heat, Light and Power at Big Plant of Government Railway.

The workshops of the Intercolonial Railway are now piped with natural gas which is being used extensively for the generation of power. Experiments conducted for some time have demonstrated that the natural gas could be used more economically and to better purpose than the producer gas from the Railway plant and this is to be closed down and held in emergency reserve.

The entire Railway plant is now supplied with the natural gas which is used under six large boilers and in all the forges and gas engines as well as for heating purposes and for the generation of electricity for both power and light.

Natural gas is also being used in the General Offices and the station as fuel with the most satisfactory results.

Successful experiments have also been made in car lighting, and pipe lines now supply the Plutch Gas producing plant and the cars passing through Moncton are charged with natural gas for illumination.

If you are troubled with chronic constipation, the mild and gentle effect of Chamberlain's Tablets makes them especially suited to your case. For sale by druggists and dealer.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

What Causes it and How it May be Avoided.

Nervous prostration is a more or less complete collapse of the nervous system. It occurs when the sufferer has urged himself beyond the limit of the nervous endurance. It is most common in early or middle life, when the nervous system is most constantly taxed. When it occurs in the very young, excessive work at school is usually the cause. When it comes on later in life, it is because of the struggle for existence is proving too severe.

The breakdown is not always caused by actual overwork. Sometimes it means, in old-fashioned phrase, that "the candle is being burned at both ends." Only very strong people can work hard and keep late hours as well. The man of average physical powers must make up his mind to devote himself to his work and get his recreation in healthful occupations outdoors. As a means of rest and amusement for the tired business or professional man nothing is better than a game of golf—not taken too seriously.

Nervous prostration does not declare itself without warning. There are many danger signals. It may be no longer possible to accomplish the usual quantity or quality of work because of impaired memory or loss of the power of concentration; peevish irritability and tendency to constant fault-finding may appear in a person formerly equable and serene; headaches may return each day at about the same time—that is to say, as soon as a certain degree of fatigue is reached; there may be nervous indigestion and the simplest food may cause distress. In some cases the mental depression is so great that a strong man at the least provocation will burst into tears like a girl.

TO TEACH LOVE.

Novel Idea Planned to Increase Marriages and Births in Germany.

Germany like France has been steadily facing a declining birth rate. This is causing much worry, especially in a country where every boy born is counted as a military asset. In Prussia the total number of births in 1911 was 1,222,000, a loss of 84,000 from the preceding year and a loss of 69,000 from the average of the decade.

The situation is becoming so alarming in Germany that Dr. Wolfgang Hassall, of Munich, is planning to start a university of love. He claims that this is the only way to save Germany's marriage and birth rates. Just as universities of science fit men for life by making them scientific, so will universities of love fit them for domesticity by making them amorous.

In his idea Herr Hassall is very serious. He does not intend to call his place of learning university of love, but High School of the Marriage-Sciences. However, the High School will approach marriage only by way of love.

The practical obstacles are great. The High School will hold at most only 500 pupils, male and female, while there are 60,000,000 Germans who love, will love, or could, would, or should have loved. To teach all is impossible.

Herr Hassall states that the university will not train lovers, but teachers of love. When the 500 men and maids have graduated in the High School of Love, they will be turned out not to love selfishly and narrowly themselves, but to spread the gospel and science of love among the loveless of Germany.

The curriculum of Dr. Hassall's university of love is outlined roughly. There will be regular lectures, illustrated by pictures, diagrams and the biograph. One series of lectures will elucidate coquetry and flirting.

Biologists, zoologists and anthropologists will expound coquetry as observed among lower animals and savages, and experts on ethics will draw the fine line between legitimate coquetry which grants kisses in dark rooms and other dangerous flirting which so very often has such a direful ending.

Next in the curriculum is The Psychology of Attraction. Attraction differs from coquetry in being a real, though minor, part of love. Professors of the science of attraction will tell what things attract and what repel; why fair women like dark men; why fluffy maids who dread mice ache for masterful husbands who tame lions.

While the graduates are studying attraction they will also attend lectures on The Instillation of Love, to learn how to inspire love in indifferent hearts. Dr. Hassall stands for "conscious, consequent wooing."

Dr. Hassall proposes seven other courses of lectures. The last deals with that dull subject, Love After Marriage. It will teach brides and bridegrooms to keep alive forever the sacred flame.

Many prominent Germans have been appealed to by Dr. Hassall to support his scheme and so far he has had many favorable answers. Whether the university of love will ever be founded remains for time to tell. At present it is only a one man's idea, but still there is much in the argument that might lead to further plans for such an institution of learning.

The Parisian Aristocrat of To-day.

"I once heard a mischievous Englishman," says Miss M. Amnesley in her book, "My Parisian Year," "ask a duchesse of the old school if she were going to a garden party at the President's palace. Her head went up into the air and she answered haughtily, 'I am sending my janitor!'"

The writer adds that nearly all these Faubourgeois are royalists and nearly all religious; that they live in a world of their own, ignore the republic as much as possible and keep up as well as they can the old pomp. "It always seems to me that they are waiting. They and their ancestors have seen republics come and go. 'Will it last forever?' they seem to ask."

Curious Murder Case.

Some years ago a murderer in the duchy of Brunswick escaped death for a curious reason. For over twenty-five years there had been no murder in the duchy. The law enacted that the murderer should be beheaded, but no one could be found who would undertake this but of date method of execution.

Finally the regent commanded that the condemned man should be shot or hanged, but here arose another difficulty. The method of execution could not be altered without a special act of the Legislature. Finally the regent had to send a despatch to the governor of the prison commencing the sentence.—Pearsons.

The Moat.

Before the days of artillery the moat was an effective means of defence, particularly when filled with water. In very large forts or castles it sometimes assumed the dimensions of a lake, being often 100 yards wide and ten to twenty feet deep. The moat was crossed by a drawbridge, which could be raised at an instant's notice. When the moat was too wide to permit of this bridge covering the entire distance a slight wooden bridge was employed.

St. Peter's in Rome.

In Rome fifteen architects succeeded one another in the construction of St. Peter's during the pontificates of twenty-eight popes and during a period of 176 years. According to the calculation of Carlo Fontana, the cost of the building, exclusive of the bronze used, was over $60,000,000. It takes $50,000 a year to keep the edifice in repair.

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY IN

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far-seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He snatched up lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping center created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay to-day is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with a tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

There is a growing feeling in the United States that the situation in Mexico is becoming intolerable. The failure of the Mexican Government to afford protection to American life and property, if it should continue, will compel the United States to resort to force. The point is about reached beyond which the United States cannot, with self-respect, endure more. A sharp note of warning was sent to Mexico three months ago, and now Secretary Knox has found it necessary to draft another note to President Madero. It is said that conditions in Mexico are worse than before. The United States Government has been very patient with the neighboring republic in its difficulties, but there is a limit to human patience, and when that limit is reached, something is bound to happen.—Presbyterian Witness.

ADOPTING GERMAN SYSTEM OF CITY GOVERNMENT.

In some German towns managers are engaged by the municipal council for the purpose of carrying on the corporation business. These managers are especially qualified for their task, and are engaged usually as a result of advertisements calling for applications.

A similar idea is now being worked out in the town of Sumter, South Carolina. This town has advertised for a city manager, who is to have complete administrative control of all branches of the municipal government. One who is an expert in managing public works, such as water supply, lighting and paving, is especially desired. It is assumed that his activities will be limited to the carrying out of construction and repair work, the work of providing education and policing the town being left in other hands.

SUFFRAGETTES AT ALBANY.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Tired and footsore but still enthusiastic and gloriing in the fact that they reached their destination two days ahead of the schedule, the little band of suffragette pilgrims, who walked one hundred and seventy-four miles from New York to present a message to Governor-elect Sulzer, advocating votes for women, arrived in Albany shortly after four o'clock this afternoon.

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. He sought for a quicker and cheaper way to cure it and found it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of this liniment he was well. For sale by druggists and dealers.

GOOD TABLE MANNERS.

It is sometimes difficult to make young people—particularly boys—appreciate the value of correct table manners. "Aw, what's the difference?" they ask when told not to eat with their knives.

The difference is that, as a whole table etiquette is based upon the fundamental principles of convenience, neatness and self-restraint. Disregard of it causes the offender to appear slovenly, greedy and inconsiderate of the sensibilities of others.

Sit erect at the table; don't sprawl with your elbows on the table. Don't attempt to bring your mouth down to your food; raise the food to your mouth.

Don't shake your napkin out with a flourish; unfold it and spread it across your knees. Raise one corner of it to your lips as occasion arises.

In your own home, or in a house where you expect to be a guest for several meals, fold your napkin when you are through with it. If a guest for one meal only, crumple the napkin slightly and lay it unfolded beside your plate. The assumption is, of course, that it will not be used again until it is washed.

Do not break crackers in your soup. Look at the next person you see doing it, and observe what an unsavory looking dish it produces. Never dip crackers or bread into any sort of liquid.

In dipping up soup, move the spoon toward the outer edge of the dish. Take the soup from the side of the spoon.

When in doubt, use your fork, is a pretty fair table rule? The knife of course, is absolutely tabooed except for cutting and spreading. The spoon is used only for liquid and soft desserts. Vegetables served as a side dish are usually eaten with a fork.

In cutting meat, take the knife with the left hand and the fork in the left, cut off a proper mouthful, lay the knife down on the side of the plate, transfer the fork into the right hand, holding the tines pointing downward, and raise the meat to the mouth. It sounds slow, to be sure, but rapid eating is neither healthful nor pleasant to watch.—Woman's World.

A BEAUTY HINT.

Every woman who values her good looks during the cold weather will pay great attention to one point of vital importance. She will keep warm.

The value of keeping the body properly warm and comfortable cannot be over-estimated.

How frequently does one hear the remark: "Oh, I look terrible in the winter; my nose is red, my eyes look blue and watery, and my whole face seems to shrivel and be pinched up."

Very likely all you say is true, dear lady, and the reason, in nine cases out of ten, is cold.

Women, as a rule, are more careless about the comfort of their feet than anything else, and it makes one shiver to see lace stockings and their open shoes when the rain is perhaps pelting down, or a bitter east wind is blowing.

You cannot look beautiful, no matter how perfect your features and complexion, if you are blue with cold all over. The feet must be kept warm, and this does not mean that they cannot be smartly shod. The two things are quite compatible.

I wonder if it is necessary to add that sufficient exercise must be taken to keep the blood circulating properly?

Glycerine and powdered starch are very well as artificial aids to disguise a red nose when the trouble arises from indigestion or some such cause, but the majority of pinched-up noses and blue faces which one sees in the winter time are entirely due to insufficient attention being paid to the important question of keeping warm. Remedy this, and the difference in your facial appearance will be quite remarkable.—Selected.

I was taught in my youth, and very vigorously taught, that it was not good manners to discuss physical ailments in general society, and that it was the height of vulgarity to refer to money or to what anything cost whether in your own case or in that of other people. I now hear surgical operations, physical functions, disease and its remedies, freely and fully discussed at dinner, and on all other occasions by the ingenious youth of both sexes. Money is no longer under a taboo. One's own money and that of one's neighbor is largely talked about, and the cost of everything or anything recurs as often in polite conversation as in a tariff debate. I am not concerned to decide which is the better fashion, the old or the new. I merely note the difference.

The world of Boston, when I opened my eyes upon it, was a very small and simple world as I look back at it now in the glare and noise of the twentieth century. There was an abundance of gaiety, but expenditures were small. Everybody knew everybody else and all about everybody else's family. Most people were related, for in the small colonial communities of the eighteenth century the established families had intermarried in a manner most bewildering even to the trained genealogist. Yet the extreme familiarity and ease of intercourse which I now observe among young men and young women entirely unrelated did not then exist. However intimate people might be, a certain formality of dress was thought to be demanded by good manners.—From "Some Early Memories," by Senator Lodge, in the January Scribner.

The little life, which blandly ignores all care and conflict, soon becomes flabby and invertebrate, sentimental and gelatinous. The strenuous life, which does everything with set jaws and clenched fists and fierce effort, soon becomes strained and violent, a prolonged nervous spasm.

He who restrains not his tongue shall live in trouble.—Braham Maxim.

How to Treat a Cough.

Coughs arise from different causes, so before rushing off to buy some patent medicine to stop the cough, try to find the cause of it. A cough is really an effort of nature to bring up and get rid of secretion that ought to be cleared from the lungs. Some cough mixtures dry this up instead of removing it, and that is not only harmful but may be very dangerous. In the case of an old person or a child nothing in the form of laudanum, opiate, or morphia should be given, as the effect may be disastrous.

Some coughs arise from a deranged stomach, so that any of the above drugs taken for such a cough would be quite wrong. The best cure for a cough of that kind is change of air, careful dieting, avoiding rich foods, and taking a few doses of fluid magnesia. If a cough continues to be very tiresome and no relief can be obtained by home remedies, it is possible the lungs may be affected, therefore the doctor should be seen, and the chest examined with a stethoscope. A very safe remedy for the ordinary winter cough is a dose of codliver oil. Some coughs arise from a little throat irritation, and are generally dry and hacking. Relief can be obtained by dissolving some sugar candy in a little lemon juice, and taking occasionally a teaspoonful. For those who are troubled with a tickling cough I would advise them to always carry some glycerine lozenges, and take one the moment they feel the least irritation.—A Physician.

WORRY A SOURCE OF INDIGESTION.

Worry is a baneful curse and source of untold evils. It sears the face with lines and furrows and has a most depressing effect upon that hypersensitive organ, the stomach, which at such times becomes a most unwilling and laggard servant. Indeed it is safe to say that unless encouraged by a cheerful temper and bright, or, at least, hopeful, thoughts, the stomach will play truant or sulk, and do no work which it can shirk. The physiological explanation of this is the close alliance of the great sympathetic nerves, which are worse than the telegraph for carrying bad news; the worry and anxiety which depress the brain produce simultaneously a semi-paralysis of the nerves of the stomach, gastric juices will not flow, and presto—there is indigestion. One sign of mental health is serenity of temper and a self-control that enables us to bear with equanimity and unflinching the petty trials and jars of life, especially those arising from contact with scolding, irascible, irritating folks. It is well to remember at such times that these unfortunate are their own worst enemies, and a cultivation of the art of not hearing will help us very much. It is a very useful art all through life and well worth some trouble to acquire.—Selected.

YOUR MOTHER.

Your mother's life has not been easy. Your father was a poor man, and from the day she married him she stood by his side, fighting as a woman must fight. She worked not the eight or ten-hour day of the union, but the twenty-four hour day of the poor wife and mother. She cooked and cleaned and scrubbed and patched and nursed from dawn until bedtime, and in the night was up and down getting drinks for thirsty lips, covering restless little sleepers, listening for croupy coughs. She had time to listen to your stories of boyish fun and frolic and triumph. She had time to say the things that spurred your ambition on. She never forgot to cook the little dishes you liked. She did without the dress she needed that you might not be ashamed of your clothes before your fellows. Remember this now when there is yet time, while she is yet living, to pay back to her in love and tenderness some of the debt you owe her. You can never pay it all.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that most infectious diseases such as whooping cough, diphtheria and scarlet fever are contracted when the child has a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will quickly cure a cold and greatly lessen the danger of contracting these diseases. This remedy is famous for its cures of colds. It contains no opium or other narcotics and may be given to a child with implicit confidence. Sold by druggists and dealers.

A flock of 1,250 turkeys were driven into Sedalia, Missouri, from the north-east part of the county and sold at sixteen and one-half cents a pound. The turkeys were driven twenty-six miles, and travelled at the rate of two miles an hour. The birds averaged over sixteen pounds, and brought their owner nearly $3,200.

CHARM OF CHARLESTON.

A City Where Every House Faces Toward the Sea.

Every house in Charleston faces seaward. It frequently happens that the streets do not adjust themselves to this disposition of the house plan, in which case the street line is calmly disregarded and the house is built so that it shall square with the four points of the compass. The result of this is curious and most interesting, at times disconcerting, but frequently as pleasing as one of Whistler's audacious and unexpected color schemes.

As in the mansions of old Virginia, the general form of the Charleston houses is very simple, and they depend for their beauty upon the fine balance and spacing of doors and windows, the character of the cornice and, above all, upon the dignified beauty and classic porticoes and galleries which adorn one side of each structure.

But Charleston has another and quite unique architectural feature in the arched and ornate walls of moss grown brick which close in all of the fine residences and the highly decorative wrought iron gateways which give access to the private grounds. In a city which was at one time the port of call of all the pirates of the Spanish main—where one day it was found advisable to bury forty of these worthies under the sea wall of the city, where half civilized negroes formed always an overwhelming majority of the population, it was the part of common prudence to erect a strong barrier between the streets and the private domains of the better class residents. Out of this necessity grew the infinite number of gates and grillages of twisted iron which are the chief pride of Charleston today and whose only rivals are the far famed gates of Seville. These marvels of wrought and beaten iron were all the work of local smiths. I was told that no two gates of the city were of similar design, and I certainly saw no single example which was not in itself beautiful.—Birge Harrison in Art and Progress.

MEN OF STONE.

Queer Figures Dot the Crest of the Superstitious Mountains.

Among the natural wonders of this country are the Superstitious mountains, which loom up from the arid desert to the east of the Salt river valley.

These mountains are so curious that the Indians will have nothing to do with them. In consequence they are full of deer, bear and other big game. The Superstitious mountains rise out of the level surface of the desert like the pyramids of Egypt.

On the crest of this unique range and in full view of the rarefied atmosphere for an immense distance from the plain are hundreds of queer figures, representing men in all attitudes. When you look first you are sure they are men, and when you turn your gaze again to them you are as absolutely certain of it as you can be of anything.

They represent bull throwers, out-looks, mere viewers of the country roundabout, men recumbent and contemplative, others starting a foot race and in every conceivable posture and position. They are not real flesh and blood men, however—nothing but stone syenite—yet nothing can convince the Indians that they are not genuine. They say they are real mortals turned to stone, petrified by the peculiar condition of the air in the mountains.

This belief has grown out of an Apache legend, handed down for hundreds of years. They have it that an ancient chief who had learned of the curious character of the Superstitious mountains forbade any of his people to go there. A large band, however, one day discovered a way to get in by a precipitous route and finally reached the top. It resulted as the chief had said, and they never got down alive.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nothing More to Live For.

Without question the Scots curler of whom Lord Lyveden tells in Fry's Magazine placed the proper value on his sport.

During a curling match in Switzerland the skip of one of the teams, who happened to be a Scotsman, was so delighted with the accurate shot of one of his team that he was heard to address him in the following manner: "Lie down and die, man; lie down and die. Ye'll never lay a finer stone nor that if ye live to be a hundred."

Weird Story of a Chair.

In the museum at Cape Town is shown an old fashioned, high backed wooden chair, to which attaches a weird story. It is related that the chair is the one in which the Dutch governor was found sitting dead a few moments after the execution of a soldier whom he had sentenced to be hanged and who on his doom being pronounced solemnly called upon his condemner to accompany him to the throne of the Supreme Judge.

Odd.

Ernest Shinn, whose paintings of ballet girls have made him well known, said at a dinner in New York:

"Very few artists can draw a horse, yet any horse can draw an artist, and, by the same token, few artists can paint a ballet girl, yet any ballet girl can paint herself."—New York Press.

Louisburg's New Year message to the world is the announcement of the successful completion of the new and unique Marconi wireless station located near the old French fortifications where the destinies of an Empire were decided in the eighteenth century. Messages are now being received and forwarded at the same time from Poldhu without the slightest difficulty. A staff of twenty-five operators will be stationed here just as soon as the hotel accommodations are completed, which will be before the end of January.

It is reported that President Taft has made up his mind to accept the offer of the Kent professorship of law, at Yale, and will probably take up his duties at New Haven in the spring.

JOHN LOCKETT & SON

FREEMASONS' HOME.

The Freemasons' Home at "Fairfield" is undergoing enlargement, a wing being added by Contractor G. F. Bent, of Middleton. It is thirty-two by sixty-four feet, two stories, and when completed, will provide twenty additional rooms. There are thirteen Masons now in the Home, the latest comers being Captain Geo. S. Francis, for many years a resident of Windsor. Four of the inmates room in the cottage fitted up for farm hands, and will do until the spring, when the wing will be ready for occupation. It will cost about eleven thousand dollars.

THE LATE GEORGE I. BROOKS, OF THE BEAR RIVER NEWS

Boston, Dec. 26.—A number of Bostonians whose home towns are in the Provinces, are responsible for the fact that the little ones left fatherless by the suicide of George I. Brooks, the Nova Scotia man, who chose death rather than face a Christmas that promised to be a sad, hungry holiday for his family, yesterday enjoyed a bountiful Christmas, and they will see that the family shall not know want nor lack of opportunity for a happy future. Mr. Brooks was at one time editor of the Bear River News. The funeral was held in Somerville today. Two Boston papers have opened subscriptions for the family.

THE GALE.

Norfolk, Jan. 3.—The terrible gale today swept the water of the James River up into the lower portion of Newport News, inundating streets, warehouses, and driving the people to the elevations. Ferry service across the river to Newport News was impossible and the city was cut off from all communication.

Turn idle hours into concrete fence posts

EVERY farmer finds himself now and then with a few idle hours in which both himself and his help must look for "odd jobs" to keep them busy. Use these hours to make concrete fence posts. You can make a few at a time, storing them until needed. Then when you want a fence in the new field, your posts—everlasting, concrete posts—are all ready to use. The making of fence posts is only one of scores of every-day uses for concrete on the farm described in the book.

"What The Farmer Can Do With Concrete"

NOTE—This 160 page book will be sent to you free upon request. You do not have to agree to use cement or place yourself under any other obligation. Just send us your name and address. Address, Publicity Manager
