

120

1.8

O'

1.0

CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadian de microreproductions historiques

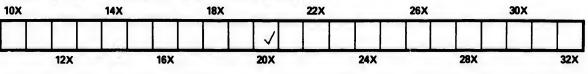

Technical and Bibliographic Notes/Notes techniques et bibliographiques

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below. L'Institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-être uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

Coloured covers/ Couverture de couleur	Coloured pages/ Pages de couleur
Covers damaged/ Couverture endommagée	Pages damaged/ Pages endommagées
Covers restored and/or laminated/ Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée	Pages restored and/or laminated/ Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
Cover title missing/ Le titre de couverture manque	Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/ Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées
Coloured maps/ Cartes géographiques en couleur	Pages detached/ Pages détachées
Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/ Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)	Showthrough/ Fransparence	ſ
Coloured plates and/or illustrations/ Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur	Quality of print varies/ Qualité inégale de l'impression
Bound with other material/ Relié avec d'autres documents	ncludes supplementary material/ Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/ Lare liure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la	Dnly edition available/ Seule édition disponible	1
distortion le long de la marge intérieure Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming/ Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont pas été filmées.	Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips, tissues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/ .es pages totalement ou partiellement obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata, une pelure, etc., ont été filmées à nouveau de façon à obtenir la meilleure image possible.
Additional comments:/

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/ Ce document est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

Commentaires supplémentaires:

The to t

The pos of t film

Orig beg the sion othe first sion or il

The shal TIN whi

Map diffe entir begi right requi met laire s détails ques du it modifier iger une e filmage

l/ uées

ire

ed to

int ne pelure, açon à The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Library of the Public Archives of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \longrightarrow (meaning "CON-TINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

1	2	3
	and the second sec

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

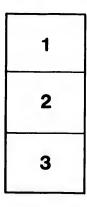

La bibliothèque des Archives publiques du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▼ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

1	2	3
4	5	6

STATE

OF THE

PRESENT FORM OF GOVERNMENT

OF THE

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

WITH

A LARGE APPENDIX;

CONTAINING

EXTRACTS FROM THE MINUTES OF AN INVES-TIGATION INTO THE PAST ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE IN THAT PROVINCE,

INSTITUTED BY ORDER OF

LORD DORCHESTER, IN 1787,

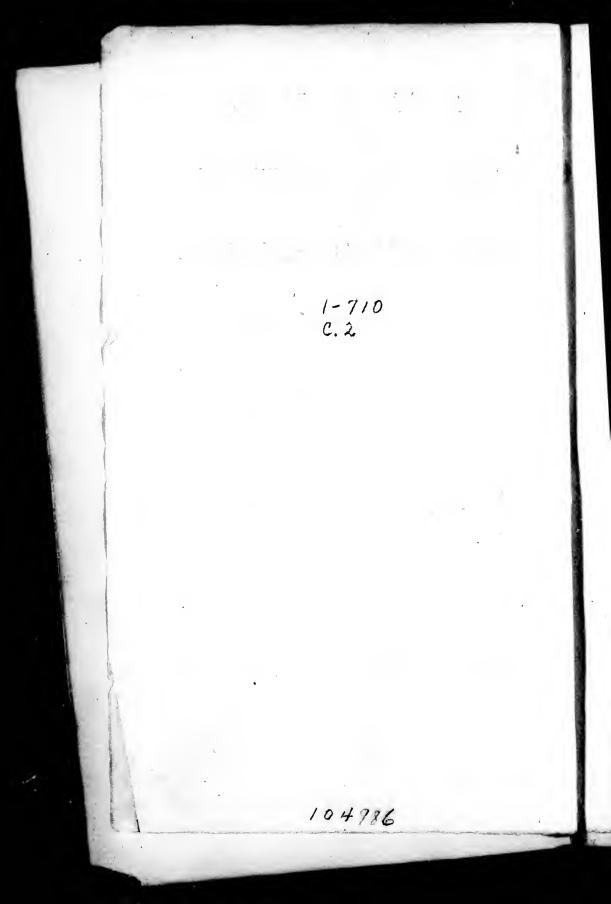

AND FROM

OTHER ORIGINAL PAPERS.

LONDON:

PRINTED FOR J. DEBRETT, OPPOSITE BURLINGTON-HOUSE, PICCADILLY.

MDCCLXXXIX.

ERRATA.

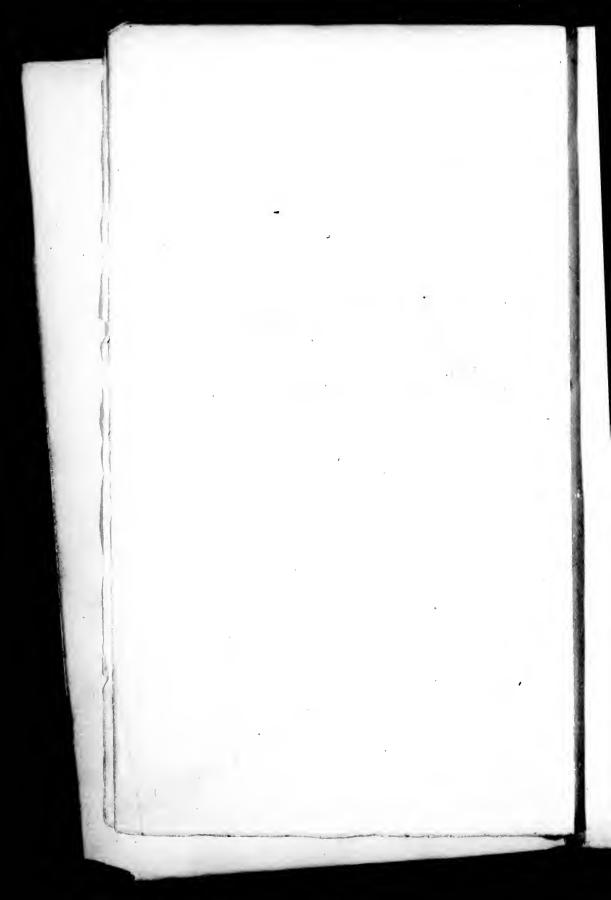

Page

49, line 14, for ease, read case.

71, line 4, from the bottom, after the words fafety of the empire, refer to Appendix. No. XVIII.

80, at the end of the note, add, See Appendix. No. VIII.

118, line 17, for of the party, read of party.

STATE, &c.

GOVERNMENT was inflituted for the good of the fubject; to fecure the peace, the happinefs, and the profperity of the fociety: and all Governments are fo far defpotic, as they are perverted from thefe principles. Unfortunately for mankind, in looking over the map of the world, we fee few countries, or flates, where thefe objects are properly attended to; or, where the people enjoy that political rank and liberty, which nature defigned for them.

The British nation stands peculiarly diftinguished in this respect; blessed with a constitution founded on clear and generous principles,

B

principles, where the executive and legiflative powers are fo wonderfully organized, as to have fecured to the fubject all the advantages which flow from focial liberty.

To antiquity, fuch a fyftem was an object of mere fpeculation; but its excellence is now the pride of England, and the admiration of the world: its principles are drawn from the pureft and plaineft reafon, and directed to the moft important ends of humanity and government; the reftraints which it impofes on the individual, operate as his protection; equal laws fecure to him equal rights; and he lives, the free citizen of a free ftate; his property fecured, and his liberty protected, by the common intereft which the whole community has in their vindication, when threatened or invaded.

One of the principal and fundamental maxims of that conftitution is, that the people are allowed to participate in the legiflative authority : and although the reprefenfation

(2)

giflaized, 1 the rty. bject ice is dmirawn d di-E huraints perate) him itizen id his tereft their .ed. iental t the he leeprefation (3)

fentation is not fo general, as by fome may be deemed confiftent with the rights of the whole people, it will be fufficient for us to obferve, that it is to the Commons' Houfe of Parliament, that thefe kingdoms are indebted for the freedom of the government, and the liberty of the fubject.

Reprefentation therefore has ever been confidered as the inherent right of every British subject; they enjoy it in Britain; and in fettling diftant colonies, or conquered provinces, the British government has constantly acknowledged the maxim, by allowing the people a reprefentative body in the legiflature of each colony or province refpectively. One province only has been restrained from the exercise of this privilege -the province of Quebec-though we truft we fhall be able to fhew, that there is nothing in its fituation, or in the conduct of its inhabitants, which will justify its being B 2 ſo to peculiarly marked, as if unworthy to enjoy the privileges of British subjects.

There is not any thing of fo much importance to the inhabitants of a country, as the nature of their government. Nor is there any political queftion, which involves in its discussion confequences more extenfive, or more ferioufly interefting, than that which respects the claims to a free conftitution, of a people labouring under the oppreffion of an arbitrary government. No objects therefore can be more ftrongly entitled to the ferious attention and difcuffion of the British legislature, than the complaints from the province of Quebec; more particularly as these complaints have proceeded from the opprellive operation of its own folemn act, which excluded that branch of the British empire from the exercise and enjoyment of privileges, confirmed and protected by the conftitution of England.

Confident

tl

tl

of

ar

pa je fe

in

W

ti

in

(5)

enimy, as or is olves tenthat nftiop-No епflion omnore prof its nch and FO-

ent

Confident therefore that Parliament will fully investigate a matter of fo great inportance to the honour and interest of the nation, we will enter on the subject of the present government of the province of Quebec, with that respect which is due to those we address, and with that firmness which the grievances complained of cannot but excite and justify.

The province of Quebec was annexed to the Britifh empire by the treaty of Paris in the year 1763, when the inhabitants thereof became fubject to the duty of allegiance, and entitled to protection; and to a participation of all privileges as Britifh fubjects.

His Majefty's gracious intentions for the fecurity, happine's, and profperity of the inhabitants of that newly-acquired province, were fully fet forth in his royal proclamation, bearing date the 7th of October 1763, in the following words:

B 3

" We

"WE have, &c. given express power and direction to Our faid Governors of Our faid Colonies respectively, that fo soon as the state and circumstances of the faid Colonies will admit thereof, they shall, with the advice and confent of the members of Our Council, summon and call General Assemblies within the staid governments respectively, in such manner and form, &c-

These gracious intentions of establishing a free and liberal government in that province, were further confirmed by his Majesty's commission of Civil Governor to General Murray, dated 21st of November 1763, which recites

" And We do hereby give and grant " unto you the faid James Murray, full " power and authority, &c. fo foon as the " fituation and circumftances of Our faid

+ See Appendix, No. I.

" province,

ver and of Our foon as the faid y fhall, e memand call aid gomanner

blifhing nat prohis Mato Geer 1763,

d grant ay, full n as the Our faid province,

" province, &c. to fummon and call Ge-" neral Affemblies of the Freeholders and " Planters within your faid government, " &c.*"

From thefe public and authentic inftruments, his Majefty's fubjects, then refiding in that province, flattered themfelves, that a free Britifh conftitution would foon be eftablifhed; and they eagerly looked forward to that period, when the troubles neceffarily attendant on the military flate, in which that country had fo long been held, would ceafe; and the neceffary arrangements be made for convening the reprefentatives of the people.

These expectations acquired new vigor, from the proceedings of the Governor and Council in their first fession, when they established and constituted the courts of justice for the province, by the ordinances of the

* See Appendix, No. II.

B 4

17th

17th of September and 6th of November 1764, entirely after the English form, and directed the judges to decide all causes brought before them, according to the laws of England *.

The people were happy to fee that the Governor and Council, in compliance with his Majefty's gracious intentions, had laid the foundation of a Britifh conftitution for the province, in the courts of juffice; and as his Majefty had not delegated, by any public inftrument, any legiflative authority to be exercifed by the Governor and Council alone, they expected that an affembly of the reprefentatives of the people would foon be called, to reconcile, in a legal manner, the new conftitution, with the antient laws and cuftoms of the country. Numbers of his Majefty's natural born fubjects, in the mean time, in confe-

* See Appendix, No. III.

quence

and ufes aws

the with laid for and any thoand afpeo-, in with unural nfe-nce

(9)

quence of those public and authentic instruments, were induced, from a fpirit of enterprife, and in purfuit of commercial advantages, to refort to, and fettle in, that country; fully perfuaded that in fo doing, they relinquished none of those privileges they had ever enjoyed under his Majefty's government: but to the aftonishment of the whole province, the Governor and Council afterwards affumed and exercifed the whole powers of legislating; and passed and issued, acts and ordinances, contrary to his Majefty's express orders in his commission to the Governor. This occasioned a general alarm among the people; and the old or natural born fubjects, impreffed with the idea of the confusion into which the affairs of the province would be involved, by the operation of laws thus illegally, as they conceived, ordained, did, in the autumn of . the year 1765, petition his Majesty, that he would be gracioufly pleafed to relieve them from

from fuch a difagreeable fituation, and order the Governor to call an affembly of the reprefentatives of the people, that they might have the fatisfaction of regulating their affairs by, and obeying, laws legally enacted and made.

As no relief was granted in confequence of that petition, and as the diffrefs and confusion of the affairs of the province daily encreased, they, in the year 1770, addressed petitions to his Majesty, and to both Houses of Parliament, for the same objects:

And again, by their petitions in the year 1773, they reiterated their complaints, and prayers for relief to his Majesty, and to both Houses of Parliament,

Such was the regular progrefs of complaint from that province; and the people certainly had every reafon to expect that the prayers of their petitions would be granted —Canada had then been in full poffeffion of his Majefty, and under a civil government, ten nd orof the they lating egally

uence s and daily reffed Ioufes

e year 5, and 5 both compeople at the anted ion of ment, ten

(11)

ten years-a period certainly fully fufficient to have affimilated the Canadian new fubjects to British manners and customs; to have promoted their acquiring a knowledge of our language, to have reconciled them to fuch parts of the laws of England, as were abfolutely neceffary to be established, as relatively connected with and dependant on Great Britain; and to have prepared them for a full participation of the rights and privileges of British fubjects, by a free repre-What progrefs fentation of the people. had been made in thefe necessary objects, how far the officers of government had fucceeded in convincing the new-acquired fubjects of the fuperior advantages, fecurity, and dignity of British subjects over those of every other nation or kingdom in the world; or whether the neceffary pains had been taken to effect these desirable purposes, we will not prefume to fay: the British legiflature, however, judged it expedient, in the year

year 1774, to pais an act, commonly known by the name of the Quebec Act, by which a fystem of government was established for that province, on principles very different from the reasonable expectations the people had entertained, in confequence of their repeated folicitations; contrary to their liberties as British subjects; and in no respect resembling the colonial government of any other province belonging to the empire.

This act of parliament entirely revoked and made void, the whole fyftem of laws, by which the province had been regulated from the eftablifhment of the civil government, as well those supposed to be introduced by his Majesty's proclamation of October 1763, as all the acts and ordinances made by the Governor and Council during that period; and established another system, or code of laws, no otherwise defined in the act, than generally "the laws and cuf-" toms of Canada."

This

This entire change of the laws was not expected or intended by either the old or the new fubjects. The former fystem certainly required amendment; but a total change would neceffarily create great confusion. The evil tendency of the new fyftem imposed by that act, gave great and just cause of alarm to his Majesty's ancient fubjects fettled in that province; they had been obliged, for ten years, to obey laws, which they confidered as illegally ordained; and now, they would be constrained to conform themfelves to laws, of which they were totally ignorant: for, we may be allowed to fay, a fystem of laws was, by that act, imposed on a British Province, which were very imperfectly known in England; and the most intelligent among the inhabitants of the Province, had but a very faint idea either of their forms or extent. The first intelligence of the project of that act arrived at Quebec at one and the fame time with ich for ent ple eir liect ny ced ws, ted rnto-Cces ng m, in ſ-

is

wn

with the act itfelf; fo that the people had not an opportunity of bringing forward their objections to the principles of the new It was with the utmost furprife fyftem. they learned, that they were to be deprived of the privileges and liberties of British fubjects, and that they alone, of all his Majefty's fubjects, were doomed to fuffer under the oppreflive hand of arbitrary power. The ancient fubjects more particularly felt the injury thereby done to them; and, in hopes that the act might be reconfidered, before it began to operate, they, in the autumn of the the fame year, 1774, addreffed their petitions to his Majefty, and to both Houfes of Parliament, praying that it might be repealed. No reform having taken place in confequence of these petitions, they, in April 1778, prefented a petition to Lord George Germaine, then Secretary of State for the American department, to the fame purpofe. Again, in in 1783, they forwarded petitions to his Majefty and to both Houfes of Parliament, praying for the repeal of that act. And, in 1784, the confusion being then more generally felt, the old and new fubjects united together in petitioning his Majefty and both Houfes of Parliament for the repeal of that act, and the estabiliment of a houfe of affembly. This last petition is now lying on the table of the Honourable the Houfe of Commons; and it is expected to come under their difcuffion this prefent feffion. It is figned by upwards of 2300 of the inhabitants of the province, in which number are all the old, and the most refpectable among the new, fubjects.

From the foregoing fhort account of the tranfactions relating to the province of Quebec, fince it was ceded to Great Britain, it will appear, that the conftitution introduced in 1764, as it was then underftood, though founded on the English laws, produced

e had ward e new rprife e deies of of all o fufitrary partine to might perate. year, s Maament, No uence 8, premaine, herican Again, in produced great confusion, particularly in all affairs relating to landed property, or real eftates, (as the English laws did not apply to the feudal tenures of the country,) and thereby occafioned much uneafinefs of mind among the people, becaufe they were not allowed to participate in the legislature by their reprefentatives, whole interest and duty it would have been to foften, reconcile, and affimilate the laws of the conquerors and conquered, fo as to produce harmony and fecurity. That the conftitution, as fettled by the Quebec Act in 1774, befides depriving the people of that most effential privilege, imposed on the province a fystem of laws very imperfectly known; and that the people had conftantly and fleadily prayed for relief, and for a proper colonial government, fuch as his Majefty's fubjects enjoyed in all other the colonies and provinces of the empire.

Whatever

(16)

in all r real apply and mind e not re by and econconoduce ftitu-1774, moft vince own; and roper Mae co-

Whatever may have been the reafons which induced government, in the year 1774, when the Quebec Act was passed, to withhold the full participation of the privileges of British subjects; as the Canadians are now generally convinced of the fuperior mildnefs, fecurity, and advantages of a British constitution; and his Majesty's antient fubjects, in that province, are now, as a body, become respectable, compared either in regard to their number, their wealth, the landed property they poffeis, or their general influence, we prefume no fufficient reafons can now be given for continuing an arbitrary fystem in that country. It has already prevailed too long for the interest of the British empire; as we hope we fhall be able to fhew, that it has been the caufe of much oppreffion to the people; that it has impeded cultivation and population; has greatly depreffed the trade and commerce of that province; and has, in its confequences, С ever

(18)

confequences, been very injurious to Great Britain.

The Quebec Act established a Governor and Council as the legislature of the province; this council to confift of not more than twenty-three, or lefs than feventeen members; a majority of the whole council, when legally affembled, might proceed to the bufinels of legislating. In confequence of this claufe, it has been determined by the council, that nine members (being the majority of feventeen, the fmalleft number limited by the act of parliament) may legiflate; and of courfe, as every thing is carried in the council by a majority of votes, the acts of five councillors may legally bind the whole province. The Governor is commillioned by his Majefty, and the councillors being recommended by the Governor, are appointed by the King's mandamus. They may be fufpended by the Governor, and removed at his Majefty's pleafure. Nø qualification shou

Ind

of a

(19)

Great

vernor e prot more renteen council, ceed to quence l by the he maiber liy legifcarried tes, the ind the s comcouncilvernor, damus. vernor, e. No fication qualification is required of the members of that council, except refidence in the province; they may be men entirely unconnected with, and ignorant of, the various interefts of that extended province and its numerous dependencies. Such is the legiflature established by the Quebec Act; and we will venture to affert that no country or nation can produce a fystem which, in its conftitution, is more arbitrary or defpotic*. Had the Governor been folely invested with the legislative, as he is with the executive powers, as he would have been accountable to the King, to the nation, and, in fome measure, to the inhabitants of the province, for the propriety and neceffity of his legislative acts, these would have ferved as checks to reftrain him, from any glaring

* The political liberty of the fubject is a tranquility of mind arifing from the opinion each perfon has of his fafety. In order to have this liberty, it is neceffary the "government fhould be fo conftituted, as that one man need not be afraid of another.

C 9

abuse

abufe of those powers; but under the fystem of legislation established by the Quebec Act, all idea of responsibility is removed; it is the Council that legislates; and as the members of it are, from its constitution, abfolutely dependent for their seats at that board, and have each a pension or falary as Councillor, a Governor may, through them, oppress with impunity*. There is no incentive

* Lift of the prefent legiflative Council of the Province of Quebec

	£.	£.
Henry Hope -	100	And as Lieut. Governor - 1,500
William Smith -	100	Chief Justice - 1,200
Hugh Finlay -	100	Post-Master General 250
Thomas Dunn -	100	Judge of the Common Pleas - 500
Edward Harrifon -	100
John Collins -	100	Deputy Surveyor General - 100
Adam Mabane -	100	Judge of the Common
		Pieas - 500
J. G. C. Delery -	100	And penfion 200
George Pownall -	100	Secretary of the Province - 400
: -:	,	Picoté

Ũ

(20)

er the fyfhe Quebec removed; and as the tution, abits at that or falary as ough them, is no incentive the Province

£. Gover-1,500 - 1,200 eneral 250 pmmon - 500

For Ge-- ICO - ICO - ICO - 200 e Pro-- 400 Picoté centive to engage the members of that Council to feek after information, with a view to the good of the community. The welfare of the people, their eafe, their comfort or happines, must be only fecondary confiderations under such a constitution. The public has no right to expect any great

	£·	£·
Picoté de Belletre	100	Surveyor of the roads 100
John Frafer -	100	Judge of the Common Pleas - 500
Henry Caldwell -	100	Late Deputy Receiver General.
William Grant -	100	Late Deputy Receiver General.
Paul Roc St. Ours	100
François Baby -	100	Lieut. Col. Militia.
Joseph de Longueuil	100	Half-pay Captain.
Samuel Holland -	100	Surveyor General 300
George Davifon -	100	Late Deputy Receiver General,
Sir John Johnston, Bart	, 100	Superintendant of Indian affairs.
Charles de Lanaudiere	100	Superintendant General of roads - 500
R. A. Boucherville	100	Surveyor of roads - 100
Le Compte Dupré	100	Colonel of militia.
Due vacant.
	0	1

C 3

degree

degree of patriotic exertions from a body conftitutionally fo dependant*. It cannot be expected, that the members of that body, from their fituations, (few of them being concerned in commercial purfuits) fhould be fenfible of all the inconveniencies which the prefent fystem imposes on trade and induftry; or that they can, in any great degree,

* George Allfopp, Efq. was fufpended in January 1783, for having entered a proteft, in March 1780, against fome proceedings then had in the Council, as will appear by the following copy of the letter of fufpension, viz.

S I R, Council Office, 9th Jan. 1783. I am ordered by his Excellency the Governor to acquaint you, that his Excellency having refumed the confideration of the proteft made by you on the 6th of March 1780, and of the minutes of the Legiflative Council fubfequent to it, has thought proper to fufpend you from your feat in the Legiflative Council, until his Majefty's pleafure be known.

I have the honor to be,

SĮR,

Your most obedient humble fervant,

(Signed) J. WILLIAMS, Clerk of the Council. The Honorable George Allfopp, Efq.

N. B. Mr. Allfopp was, fome time afterwards, removed from his feat at that board.

feel,

)

In a body It cannot that body, nem being fhould be which the and indufat degree, nuary 1783, against fome ppear by the

an. 1783. ernor to aced the conh of March Council fubfrom your y's pleafure rvant, e Council.

, removed

feel,

•(23)

feel, as their fellow fubjects, those alarming apprehensions for the fecurity of their property, which uncertain or unknown laws must ever occasion. The laws and ordinances that have been enacted by the legiflative council, are loudly complained of by the people, as being obfcurely worded, and inade without fufficient knowledge of the fubject; and public objects, as may naturally be expected under fuch a fystem of government, have been generally neglected. There is not a decent court house in the province. The jails are fmall, inconvenient, and in a ruinous condition, very hurtful to the health of the prifoners, and a nuifance to the public*; and as the fheriffs are not accountable for efcapes, the public have no certain remedy in cafes of fraud. There has not even been a Protestant church erected in the province.

* See Appendix, No. IV.

C 4

Will

Will any one fay, that the people are not justified in complaining of a fystem of government fo oppreffive and fo miferably defective, under which their dearest and most facred rights are withheld; and their property is the fport of laws which they cannot comprehend? Do those patriotic members of the community deferve to be branded with the invidious name of factious. who have come forward to lay before his most gracious Majesty and Parliament, the abuses and grievances that exist in a British province. We know it must have been the intention of our gracious Sovereign, and of Parliament, in paffing the Quebec Act, to promote the happiness and prosperity of the inhabitants of that province: it is therefore the duty of every good fubject to point out the caufes, why those gracious intentions have not had the defired effect: and to propole, for the confideration of government, fuch measures as may appear moft are not of gobly ded most r proy canmemorandctious, re his t, the Britifh en the ind of ct, to ty of herepoint s inffect; n of pear moft

(25)

most likely to attain and secure these defirable objects.

The province of Quebec, from its immenfe extent, and the manner in which it is fettled, would require an intelligent legeflature, invefted with all the powers neneffary to promote, encourage, and fecure, the various kinds of induftry and commerce that arife from the fifheries, agriculture, and trade with the favages, for which that country, by its climate and internal navigation, is fo particularly well adapted by the bountiful hand of nature*. That extenfive country, when ceded to Great Britain at the treaty of peace of 176_3 , contained no more than 69,000 Chriftian fouls., though 160 years had then elapfed

* From Cape St. Charles to the Grand Portage, following the courfe of the waters, is 2250 miles, and from the Grand Portage to the weft coaft of America 3000 miles.

The fettled part of the country extends from Gaspé to Detroit, and is 1200 miles.

4 Account taken by Governor Murray in 1765.

from

from the time the French first began to fettle in it. But the French Government had other views than the encouragement of industry or commercial purfuits. The rapid progrefs which the province has made, during the flort period it has been under the British Goverment, in confequence of the fpirit of industry and enterprife which his Majefty's old fubjects, who have reforted to and fettled therein, have raifed up and encouraged among the inhabitants, will clearly demonstrate to the Britifh nation, the growing importance of that province. From an account taken by Governor Haldimand, in 1784, we can with confidence affert, that the population of that country confifts now of at least 150,000 Christian fouls, of whom about 28,000 are of his Majefty's ancient fubjects who have reforted to that country, and their defcendants. The cultivation of the lands and the objects of Commerce have likewife, during that gan to rnment rement The ce has s been confeenter-, who , have inhae Brif that y Gowith on of 0,000 o are have endd the ring that that period, furprifingly encreafed and been multiplied. While under the French Government, the province barely fupplied itfelf with provisions, even in the most plentiful years, and furnished, for exportation, fcarcely any thing except a few furrs, and fometimes a few cafks of oil, the whole not producing in any one year, more than forty or fifty thousand pounds; whereas the annual exports from the province may now be fairly estimated to produce nearly four bundred thousand pounds*; and in a few years must greatly exceed that fum; and this is all in payment of British manufactures. The extensive fettlements which the loyal Americans have formed, fince the year 1784, in the upper parts of the province, though the lands are extremely fertile, have not as yet furnished any thing for exportation.

* See Appendix, No. 5. Particular Account of Exports laft year.

Befides,

Befides, the whole trade of those extensive fertile countries, which border on Lake Champlain, now belonging to the states of New York and Vermont, must, from the natural channel of the water communication being down the river St. Laurence, center in Canada. Immenfe quantities of wheat, hemp, lumber, and other articles may be expected in a few years from all these countries, which will occasion a vaft increase both in quantity and value of the exports from Quebec, and a proportional demand for British manufactures. The whole import and export trade of the province is, at prefent, in the hands of, and depends on, his Majesty's ancient or natural born fubjects, and is entirely carried on in British ships, of which a very confiderable number annually arrive with cargoes, and carry away produce*. Such is

* About 150 fhips and veffels were loaded in the province in the year 1788.

the

enfive Lake states from ımuence, es of icles ı all vaft the onal The oroand naried nfiarı is prothe

(29)

the province of Quebec a branch of the British empire, though left to struggle with all the difficulties of an arbitrary fystem of government, it has furprifingly increafed, fince it was ceded to Great Britain, in population and commercial refources; but this, we affirm, has been entirely owing to the conftant hope the people have had of being allowed a free conftitution. And there is no doubt but, under a liberal fyftem of government, that would remove the obstacles which the iron hand of arbitrary power has thrown in the way of improvement, which, by wife, permanent, and wholefome laws, would renovate and give vigour to industry, and afford fecurity to mercantile transactions; that province would increase in its resources and produce; would, in a few years, furnish employment for some hundreds of British ships in the carrying trade, and raife up and fupport for the British navy navy a great number of firong healthy feamen*.

The legiflative council in their first feffion, in Spring 1777, established the courts of justice for the province; viz.

1st, A court of King's Bench, for the trial of criminal causes only. In this court the chief justice prefides alone.

2d. A court of Common Pleas for each of the diffricts or counties of Quebec and Montreal. Three judges to prefide in each of these courts, and two necessary to transact bufines.

* But now, under proper regulations, this country may be productive of the greateft commercial advantages to Great Britain. The Welt India Iflands, and the East Indies, are the graves of its belt feamen; the Northern American navigation and its fiftheries are the nurferies of them; and Canada may become the fource of an infinite fupply to this nation both of men and naval flores. It is an object of great confideration to your Majefty's governiment, that the returns to Great Britain are all made in raw materials to be manufactured here; and that a confiderable duty arifes on the export. Dr. Marriot. Page 47.

gd. A

feafef-

trial the

each and each unf-

may s to Eaft hern s of inite t is erne in nfiage

A

(31)

3d. A Court of Probates for teftamentary affairs and fucceffion.

4th. They conflituted themfelves, viz. " the whole Legiflative Council," to be a Court of Appeals; and that any five of them, with the governor, lieutenant governor, or chief juffice, fhould be competent to proceed to trial and judgment of all caufes brought before them in appeal.

From the above eftablifhment it will appear, that there is only one court of original jurifdiction for the trial of civil caufes, viz. the Court of Common Pleas. The judges, who have prefided in these courts, have feldom been men brought up to the study of the law, or who could be supposed properly acquainted with the rules or practices of courts of law or equity*. We have already faid, that the "laws and customs " of Canada," as established in the province of Quebec, by the act of the 14th year of his prefent Majefty, were very imperfectly known at that time, either in Great Britain or Canada. They have been generally underftood, however, to confift of

* Appendix, No. 6.

of

The Custom of the Prevôté de Paris.

Such of the French King's edicts and ordinances as were registered in the fuperior council of the province.

The Regulations and Ordinances of the Intendants.

The Local Cuftoms of the country.

And (though on what authority we do not know) the Roman Code, or Civil Law.

Under this definition, these laws will appear fufficiently extensive and complex, to require years of intense fludy to understand them properly; and the acts passed by the legislative council, have greatly added to that difficulty. This has occasioned great uncertainty in the decisions of the courts; more particularly, as the judges, not year of erfectly Britain ally unr*is.* and oruperior

of the

1.

we do Law. ill apiex, to underpaffed added fioned of the idges, not

(33)

not contented with fuch an extensive field, have fometimes reforted to the English law, and even to equity, as the rule to govern their judgments; fo that it has not been possible for the subject to know by what law, or on what principles, his cause has been decided. The people have steadily and loudly complained of the numerous grievances introduced by the operation of the Quebec Act; and they have, at different times, stated the difficulties they laboured under in a very forcible manner.

In a petition to Lord George Germaine, dated in April 1778, these grievances are strongly fet forth*.

In a petition to his Majesty, dated in Septemper 1784, from the Canadian newfubjects, the acts and ordinance of the legislative council are complained of in express terms; and, what is more fingular,

* See Appendix, No. VII.

D

this

this petition is figned by fome members of that legiflative body*.

In petitions to his Majefty, and both Houfes of Parliament, dated in Sept. 1783, the old fubjects flated the grievances they laboured under in a very pointed manner; and in the petitions to his Majefty, and both Houses of Parliament, dated the 24th of November 1784, now under the confideration of the honourable the Houfe of Commons, thefe grievances are exposed in the ftrongest language. They therein pray, that they may be relieved from the "anarchy " and confusion which prevail in the laws " and courts of justice of the province, by " which their real property is rendered in-" fecure; trade is clogged; and that good " faith, which ought to, and would, fubfift " among the people, and which is the life " and fupport of commerce, is totally de-" ftroyed."

* See Appendix, No. VIII.

The

(35)

ers of

both 1783, they nner ; both th of dera-Com-1 the , that irchy laws , by d ingood abfift e life deThe Merchants of London, trading to the province, in a memorial they prefented to Lord Sydney, dated in January 1786, have likewife stated, in the most pointed manner, the general confusion which prevails in that prevince*.

Lord Dorchefter was appointed Governor of that province in 1786, and arrived at Quebec late in the month of October of that year. His Lordfhip had, no doubt, been informed of the diftracted fituation of the civil government of the province; for foon after his arrival, he affembled the Legiflative Council, and having formed the members into different committees, he directed them to enquire into the ftate of the laws, the commerce, the police, &c. of the province, and to report to him, each committee respectively, on the fubject referred to it. This was a very wife measure, and shewed that his Lordship was resolved to find

* See Appendix, No. IX.

D 2

øut

The

out the fource of the diffatisfaction which for univerfally prevailed. The Committee, appointed to report on the ftate of the commerce, applied by letter to the merchants of Quebec and Montreal, " in order (as they " ftate in their report to his Lordfhip) to " obtain the thoughts of others more ex-" perienced than themfelves, on objects of " fuch extensive concern to the welfare of " the province." In confequence of this application, the mercantile body of these two cities, having confulted together, and, after mature deliberation, made out, each, a report on a variety of objects relating to the ftate of the commerce, the laws and police of the country, they prefented them to the Committee of the Legislative Council in January 1787. The confusion of the laws, and the great uncertainty of all legal proceedings, are pointedly and exprefsly stated therein. These reports were highly approved of by the Committee of the Legiflative giflative Council, and by them recommend-ed in the ftrongeft terms to Lord Dorchefter's moft ferious confideration and reflection *.

(36)

In the fpring feflion of the Legiflative Council of that year, 1787, Mr. Chief Juftice Smith brought into the Council, a bill to continue an ordinance that had been paffed in 1785, for two years only, eftablifhing the trial by jury, in all commercial affairs, " between merchant and merchant, " and trader and trader, fo reputed and " underftood according to law; and alfo, " of perfonal wrongs proper to be com-" penfated in damages;" and his Honor added to the bill certain claufes, which, he apprelichded, would operate as a cure of fome of the diforders that had fo long prevailed in the courts. This bill, notwithftanding the trial by jury intended by it was, fo extremely limited, unfortunately for

* See Appendix, No. XI.

D 3

the

hich fo tee, ape comants of as they hip) to ore exjects of fare of of this thefe , and, , each, ing to 's and l them ouncil of the legal refsly ighly e Lelative

the province, was rejected by the Coun-The members who had fupported it, cil. with a view of providing a remedy for fome of the many evils of the prefent fystem, finding their laudable intentions for the public good thus fruftrated, thought it expedient, for their own justification, to enter their proteft against the rejection of the bill on the Journals of the Council. Their reafons of diffent, as stated in that protest, effectually fupport all the complaints of the people; and from the refpectable fituations which those gentlemen, who figned it, hold under government, furnish strong proofs of the neceffity of a reform *. The party who had oppofed, and ultimately rejected the Chief Juffice's bill, foon afterwards brought forward, in the Legislative Council, another bill in its place. In this new bill, though the name of jury was retained, yet the advantages which the fubject derives from

* See Appendix, No. XII.

that

(39)

Counrted it. or fome fystem, for the : it exo enter the bill ir reaeft, efof the lations , hold ofs of y who d the ought other lough ie adfrom

that

that glorious institution, would have been totally destroyed. The reports of the tendency of this new bill alarmed the merchants; and in a meeting held for the purpole of deliberating on what steps were proper and neceffary for them to take, on an affair of fo much importance to their fecurity, they determined to petition the Council, praying to be heard against the bill, before it was paffed into a law. They accordingly drew up a petition to that purpofe, and having prefented it on the 6th of April, the Council appointed the 14th of that month for hearing the argument, On that day the counfel for the commerce appeared at the bar of the Legiflative Council; and in a fpeech which lasted fix. hours, he pointed out in a very clear and fatisfactory manner, the evil tendency of the bill then before the legiflature; he fhewed the neceffity of afcertaining what laws were established for the province by the D 4 Quebec

Quebec Act, that the fubject might have fome certain rule to regulate his affairs with fecurity; and pointed out the propriety of reftraining the judges to more fixed and determinate principles and rules of conduct, with regard to the practice of the courts, and to the laws and maxims which ought to govern them in their decifions. In fupport of the arguments he had used for that purpofe, he cited a number of cafes from the records, and fhewed the inconfistency of the courts in their judgments fo clearly, that it aftonished the whole audience. By order of the Legiflative Council, he, fome days afterwards, laid upon their table two states of facts from the committee of merchants, containing the fubftance of the charges made against the proceedings in the courts, in his fpeech on the 14th of April*. Thefe papers had the defired effect; the bill was dropped;

* See Appendix, No. XIII.

(41)

dropped; but as fo many ferious charges had, on that day, (the 14th of April) been publicly made against the proceedings of all the courts of the province, the Legislative Council, confidering the honor of Government as interested in the due administration of justice, thought proper to address Lord Dorchester, the Governor, thereon *.

* The Addrefs of his Majefty's Legiflative Council.

May it pleafe your Lordship,

The extracts from the minutes of our Journals, which accompany this addrefs, will fhew to your Excellency the reafons and grounds which have engaged the Legiflative Council, humbly to requeft that your Lordfhip will take fuch fteps, as your Lordfhip, in your wifdom, fhall judge beft calculated to promote the ends of public juffice, and to vindicate the honor of government, which are both fo effentially interefted in an enquiry into the charges and accufations, fo publickly brought before the Legiflative Council, againft the paft administration of juffice, in the Courts of Common Pleas for the two districts, as well as againft the judges of the fame; and that of inconfishency in fome of the judgments of the court of appeals.

Council Chamber, April 27, 1787.

(Signed)

HENRY HOPE, Prefident.

s with ety of d and nduct, courts, ght to ipport t purm the ncy of , that order days ftates hants. harges ourts, Theſe

t have was

ped;

In

In confequence of that addrefs, and the papers which accompanied it, his Excellency, from that regard to public justice which has always distinguished his Lordship, was bas always diflinguished bis Lordship, was pleafed, in a council of ftate held in his prefence on the 18th of May 1787, to order the chief justice to institute a public investigation into the past administration of justice in the province.

(42)

We thought it neceffary to ftate particularly the various transactions which preceded and gave birth to the order for an investigation, or enquiry, into the pass administration of justice in the province of Quebec; as the evidence which was brought forward before the chief justice on that occasion, by a number of the most respectable men in that country, upon oath, many of them gentlemen high in rank, and holding places of great trust and confidence under Government, has exposed to public view fuch a scene of anarchy and confusion in the ind the Excelce which ip, was in his o order inveftion of barticuh prefor an baft adince of rought hat ocefpect-, many holdice unic view fion in the

(43)

the laws, and in the administration of them by the courts, as no other British province ever before laboured under. The minutes and proceedings of that investigation were tranfmitted by Lord Dorchefter to the King's ministers, in the autumn of the fame year, 1787; and we cannot doubt but these papers, from their great importance, have been laid before the crown lawyers. They are too voluminous to admit of publication; we fhall, therefore, only take a curfory view of the various matter that is contained in that investigation, and notice a few of the many ftriking parts of the evidence therein adduced. But we flatter ourfelves, that those parts will be fufficient to convince the Britifh nation, of the urgent necessity of a reform of the conftitution of that province; of the great cruelty exercifed towards the inhabitants thereof, in having kept them fo long under fuch a defective fyftem of laws and government; and of the impolicy of fupporting fupporting arbitrary power in a province, now the largest and most populous belonging to, and dependent on, the imperial crown of these kingdoms.

The chief justice, as commissioner, opened the investigation in the beginning of June of the fame year, 1787, and three members of the legiflative council, who are likewife judges in the Court of Appeals, were examined; viz. the Honourable William Grant, the Honourable Hugh Finlay, and the Honourable George Pownal, Equires. Their evidence flews particularly the confusion that has prevailed in the court of which they are members; and the impoffibility of finding confiftency in a court composed of fo many judges. They likewife fpeak to the inconfistency of the Courts of Common Pleas. They flate, that English judges follow English law; French judges follow French law; and that fome of them follow no particular law, but decide according to what ovince, pelongnperial opened of June embers likewife re exa-Grant, be Ho-Their onfusion which ' bility of ofed of beak to ommon judges follow follow ling to what what appears to them to be the equity of the cafe*. This is a most melancholy picture of courts of jultice. Is it poslible for a people to be more ferioufly opprefied, than to be obliged to depend, for the fecurity of their property, on courts compofed of judges who differ fo materially on the principles which ought to govern their judgments in deciding the caufes brought before thera? The fuitor's fortune, nay, his political existence in the fociety, must depend on the chance of an accidental majority of judges on the bench; of those who decide by French law; of those who decide by English law; or of those who, neglecting all law, decide by their own ideas of natural equity. The Quebec Act is express in its direction, that all civil actions shall be decided by the laws and cuftoms of Canada; yet the Court of Appeals decides by

(45)

* See Appendix, No. XIV.

the

the English law. The judges of the Court of Appeals form, in their legislative capacity, the whole legislature of the province; they confider themfelves as bound in confcience, in their judicial capacity, to decide caufes brought before them according to the rules and maxims of the English law, with a view, as it is faid, to do fubstantial juffice; though that law perhaps was not in the contemplation of either of the parties at the time of the transaction; yet they do not, as legiflators, introduce that law into the conftitution of the country. They, at other times, decide on what appears to be the equity of the cafe; though, as a court, they have no equitable jurifdiction or powers. But, it is faid, the judges of the courts have not been professional men: however that may operate as an excufe for the judges, it is an object of very ferious complaint. If the people had enjoyed their right

e Court e capaovince; in condecide ling to ifh law, oftantial s not in parties et they nat law They, bears to h, as a diction lges of 1 men: use for ferious d their right right of representation, this grievance could not have long existed.

Such is the fubftance of the evidence of thefe gentlemen. As they are high in rank, and men of the first abilities in the province, their evidence furnishes matter of ferious import for the confideration of Government, and proves fufficiently that the complaints of the people are well founded.

From the exertions of those gentlemen in the legislative council, as they appear for fully fensible of the defects in the laws and in the constitution of the courts, the public had reason to expect some reforms would be brought forward; but as no effectual remedy has been applied during fourteen years since the Quebec Act began to operate, we may be allowed to fay, the soften is of fuch a nature, that the legislature, as it is now constituted, cannot do what would be neceffary for these purposes.

We

(47)

(48)

We will now proceed to the evidence given by the advocates and lawyers who conduct the caufes in the courts; whofe whole bufinefs is the fludy of the law, and the rules of practice in those courts. From them we may expect more pointed and legal information.

Thomas Walker, and Robert Ruffel, Efqrs. advocates and practitioners at the bar at Quebec,—and James Walker, Arthur Davidfon, and William Dummer Powell, Efqrs. advocates and practitioners at the bar in Montreal, were examined. The evidence given by thefe gentlemen is very full, and extends to a great variety of objects relative to the conduct of the courts. They all agree in declaring, that the judgments of the courts are uncertain and arbitrary; founded, fometimes on the Coutume de Paris, fometimes on the Code Marchand, fometimes on the Roman Code, and fometimes (49)

vidence ho cone whole .nd the From and le-

Efqrs. bar at David-Efqrs. bar in vidence all, and ts rela-They gments bitrary; e Paris, fomenetimes on on the English law; that the judges have often fet afide all law, and decided the caufes before them according to their own vague unfettled ideas of natural equity; that, the confusion created by this variety and mixture of laws was fo great, they could not often find out what principles had governed the courts in forming their judgments; that there were no fixed or permanent rules of practice in the courts; that, finding the courts fo extremely variable in their proceedings, they (the advocates) had, therefore, as they conceived it would apply to their cafe, cited French law, English law, Roman law, and cafes in equity; in fhort, every law or thing which they apprehended would, in any manner, imprefs the minds of the judges in favour of their clients; that, from fuch great uncertainty and verfatility in the judgments of the courts, they had found it impoffible to give any clear or fatisfactory advice on the cafes

E

cafes fubmitted for their opinions; and though they could have faid what law fhould govern a particular cafe, they could not advife what law the court might think proper to adopt in giving its decifion .---Each of thefe gentlemen has cited in his evidence a number of cafes in fupport of thefe affertions, and contrasted them to fliew the inconfistency of the judgments*. These gentlemen are among the first characters at the bar in that province; it is their bufinefs and their duty to examine with great care and attention the cafes put into their hands; and from great fludy, long practice, and much experience, we must suppose they understand how the law ought to have been applied to the caufes they have conducted. Their evidence is conclusive, and fully afcertains the confufusion that exifts in the laws, and the great

* See Appendix, No. XV.

uncertainty

(51)

uncertainty and anarchy that prevail in the courts. In addition to the evidence of thefe judges and advocates, the whole mercantile body of the cities of Quebec and Montreal came forward and gave their testimony before the commissioner to the fame purpose. They fpoke feelingly; as mercantile tranfactions, from their nature and variety, are fubject to much litigation, experience had unfortunately taught them, by the ruin of their fortunes, and perplexity of their afterms, by the uncertainty introduced into their transactions, and by the uneafiness of mind which they endured from the dread of litigation, the fatal confequences of arbitrary proceedings in courts of law. Many of the merchants, on that occasion, cited cafes in which they had been interested, in fupport of the evidence they then gave. They have all declared, that they could get no clear legal advice on their affairs, and ns; and hat law ey could ht think cifion.---1 in his oport of hem to ments*. irft chae; it is examine afes put ftudy, nce, we the law e caufes ence is confue great and that they had heard all the lawyers complain of the uncertainty of the laws and of the courts. Some of them had fuffered fo much from these causes that they declare they are now astraid of being obliged to go into court, in any manner, either as plaintiffs or defendants *.

rtainty

E 2

We have attempted, by this flort fketch, to give the fubftance of the evidence laid before the chief juffice on that inveftigation. From the number of perfons examined, the variety of objects which thefe examinations comprehend, and the great number of cafes cited in the evidence to flew the wrong application of the law, or the contrariety of judgments in fimilar cafes, the minutes of the enquiry would fill feveral volumes. On that account, we have been obliged to confine ourfelves to the few extracts in the Appendix. His Majefty's

* Appendix, No. XVI.

ministers

(52)

(53)

lawyers the laws had fufnat they eing ober, either

t fketch, ince laid ligation. camined, examiat numto fhew or the r cafes, fill feveve have the few Iajefty's

inisters

ministers have long been in possession of the whole proceedings and evidence, and we prefume they are now convinced, that the laws, as established by the Quebec Act for that province, are neither well underftood, nor properly administered. A judgment of the Court of Appeals of the 21ft of February 1788, (three months after the investigation was closed,) is a further confirmation of the uncertainty of the laws in that country; as it ftates and proves, that (not a fingle law, but) a whole code of the French law, called the Code Marchand, has been fometimes admitted, and fometimes denied to be law, by all the courts in the province; and the Court of Appeals has in that judgment declared, that it never was a part of, or belonging to, the law of that country *.

Notwithstanding this folemn decision of the Superior Court, we are affured that

* See Appendix, No. XVII.

E 3

the

the Courts of Common Pleas still perfist in judging mercantile cafes by the Code Mar-This encourages litigation, and chand. occafions numerous appeals; as the party that lofes in the Common Pleas, is fure to gain in the Superior Court*. So great is the uncertainty of law and juftice in that province, that his Majefty's fubjects instead of being relieved or protected by the courts, have been haraffed and vexed by troublefome and unneceffary fuits; and, what is of infinite confequence to fociety, good faith in transactions and the moral principles of the people, as the natural confequence of an uncertain adminiftration of law, are greatly weakened +.

* Of thirty caufes, carried by appeal before the council, from the Common Pleas, during the laft twelvemonths, we have been affured that twenty-five of the judgments have been reverfed.

+ "That laws, in a certain degree, can change the "manners of a people, is not to be doubted; becaufe "their manners alter with the increase and circulation of "property, on which laws have a visible influence." Dr. Marriot's Report to the King in 1773. Page 4. The perfift in Code Marion, and the party , is fure * So and juf-Majefty's or proharaffed neceffary fequence and the the naadminifkened +.

(54)

(55)

ne council, nonths, we nents have hange the becaufe ulation of e." Dr.

The

The great uncertainty of law in the courts, holds out encouragement to undertake or defend any and every thing, in hopes that chance may incline the court to favour the caufe*. It is become extremely neceflary that Government fhould interpofe and ftop the progrefs of thefe alarming evils; for a people once freed from the obligations of moral principles, will never be good or loyal fubjects.

It is those principles alone that render fociety defirable or happy; there are no other ties among men; and all wife flates

* Among all civilized nations, it has been the conflant endeavour to remove every thing arbitrary or partial from the decifion of property, and to fix the fentence of judges by fuch general views and confiderations as may be equal to every member of the fociety; for, befides, that nothing could be more dangerous than to accuftom the bench, even in the fmalleft inflance, to regard private friendfhip or enmity, 'tis certain that men, when they imagine that there was no other reafon for the preference of their adverfary but perfonal favour, are apt to entertain the ftrongeft jealoufy, and ill will againft the judges and magiftrates.— Hume's Enquiry.

E 4

and

and legiflatures have accordingly, with anxious care, watched over then.; and ftrongly cherifhed and inculcated them.

(56)

The province being in this unfortunate fituation, will any one prefume now to fay, that the complaints the people have fent forth, are the offspring of faction? Have not all their petitions been conceived in decent and respectful, though, from the urgency of their fituation, in nervous language; and conftantly pointing to one thing, they not, by waiting under the preffure of fuch accumulated diffrefs for the conveniency of Government to bring forward that reform, flewn a degree of patience that befpeaks them a dutiful and loyal people? The fystem of civil government, or conftitution, established by the Quebec Act, has had a fair trial of fourteen years; and the foregoing pages will fhew, that the affairs of the province are now in a much more

(57)

y, with i; and hem. ortunate to fay, we fent Have d in dethe urus lane thing, d have flure of conveorward atience loyal nment, Duebec years ; at the much more more con⁷ fed fituation than they were at the time that Act was passed. Dr. Marriot forefaw and predicted, in his report to his Majesty in 1773, the confequences that would arife from hasty measures in fettling the constitution of that country *.

For the first ten years after the Quebec Act was passed, the members who composed the legislative body confidered themfelves bound by their oath of office, not to disclose or make public any matter brought before, or agitated in, the legislature +. All hopes of wisdom in the acts or ordinances by them enacted, were by this strange opinion completely destroyed; for how could they make good and wholesome laws with-

* This latitude (alluding to his Majefty's reference to the law officers being general) is the more neceffary, becaufe, if hafty and ill digefted regulations fhould be adopted upon any miftaken notions of men and things, the evils already felt by your Majefty's Government will encreafe beyond the power of remedy. Page 47.

+ See Appendix, No. VII.

out

out information? and how was it poffible for them to procure the neceffary and full information, if they dared not difclofe the objects on which they wifhed to be informed?

The Chamber of the Legiflative Council of Quebec was as clofe and impervious as the Divan at Conftantinople *. And though the members do not now confider themfelves obliged to conceal what paffes in the Legiflature; yet the public, as the door of the Council Chamber is ftill flut againft them, can only learn through the imperfect medium of common rumour, what laws or acts are at any time agitated in the Legiflature.

* Legislative Council, February 14, 1780. Motion by Mr. Grant—" Whether a Member of Council, acting " in his legislative capacity, may not take a copy of fuch " papers as are laid before the Board by his Excellency the " Governor, or any other perfon, in order deliberately, in " his cabiner, to initruct his mind, and form his opinion of " the matter committed to him." Voted, and refolved in the mgative.

From

poffible nd full difclofe to be

Council s as the ugh the ufelves Legifof the them, ct mews or he Le-

Motion , acting of fuch ency the tely, in inion of olved in

From

(59)

From the establishment of civil government until last year, the province was divided into two great diffricts, or counties, namely, the diffrict of Quebec, and the district of Montreal. The fettlement of a great number of loyalifts, at the extremities of the province, fince the year 1784, rendered thefe diffricts too extended and unwieldy. To remedy the inconvenience occafioned by the great diftance of fome of thele new fettlers from the feats of juffice, and on purpole to encourage these fettlements, his Excellency Lord Dorchefter, in confequence of an ordinance of the Legiflative Council of the 30th of April 1787, authorifing him to that effect, did, by proclamation, bearing date the 24th of July 1788, conftitute and erect, from and out of the two districts of Quebec and Montreal, five new districts, viz.

The diftrict of Gafpé, in the Gulph of St. Laurence, taken off the diftrict of Quebec. The The district of Lunenburgh, above Montreal, taken off the west end of that district.

The diffrict of Mecklenburgh, to the weft of Lunenburgh.

The diffrict of Naffau, to the weft of Mecklenburgh. This diffrict includes the fettlement opposite Niagara.

The diffrict of Heffe, to the weft of Naffau. This diffrict includes the fettlements about Detroit, and all the lands weft of Niagara to the Pacific Ocean;

And his Lordfhip conflituted a Court of Common Pleas, and named and appointed judges, juffices of the peace, and other neceffary officers, for each of thefe new diftricts; but unfortunately for the people who inhabit them, neither they, nor the judges appointed to prefide in the courts of law, have any knowledge of the laws of the province. The laws of France which, by the Quebec Act, are declared to be the laws of the province, are all written and publifhed Montrict.

ft of the

Nafents Ni-

t of nedifple the of he by ws b(61)

lifhed in the language of that kingdom; but the fettlers in thefe new diffricts are totally unacquainted with that language. The natural confequence of this peculiar fituation is, that in thofe diffricts where the new appointed judges have opened and held courts, they have decided all the caufes brought before them, according to the principles of the Englifh law, in direct contradiction to the Quebec Act, which enacts, that " in all matters of controverfy relative " to property, or civil rights, refort fhall be " had to the laws and cuftoms of Canada, " for the decifion of the fame."

The judges who were appointed for the diffricts of Gafpé and Heffe, fenlible of their incapacity and inability to difpenfe juffice according to the laws and conftitution of the province, modeftly declined his Lordfhip's commissions. These two diffricts therefore remain without any law. The mercantile transactions, in these two diftricts, tricts, exceed 350,000l. annually; and there is not a court in either of them to compel a fraudulent debtor, to do what is juft. In fhort, the whole province is without any certain law; and is therefore in the very worft flate of civil fociety.

We have, in the preceding pages, attempted to delineate the principal features of the fyftems of government under which the province of Quebec has been held, unfortunately for its inhabitants and for the empire at large, fince it was ceded to Great Britain in 1763; by which its population has been impeded; the progrefs of agriculture retarded; the valuable fiftheries on its coafts much neglected; its general commerce greatly oppreffed; and the civil and political liberty of the people abfolutely deftroyed.

It feems to be a general maxim in the politics of all nations, that the fame principles of government ought to extend to, and pervade

(62)

(63)

d there compel ft. In it any e very es, atatures which I, unr the Great ation ciculn its comand y depoinciand vade pervade all the dependencies of an empire; and though it may be neceffary for the general good, to reftrain in certain cafes, the actions of certain claffes, or of certain diftricts or provinces; yet that fuch reftrictions ought in no wife to injure, even with regard to fuch diffrict or province, the general governing principles of the empire.

The different provinces and colonies of France are all governed by the fame principles; by a Lieutenant General or Governor, an Intendant and Parliament; (which, in the colonies, is called a confeil fuperieur) though almost every province of France has different laws, customs, and ufages. Every kingdom therefore being uniform in the principles of government through all its dependencies, it will follow of courfe, that the inhabitants of any diffrict or province from whom these general principles are withheld, will confider themselves as more injured and oppressed than their fellowfubjects, fubjects; which will tend to leffen that confidence in, and refpect for, the governing powers, which are fo neceffary to give energy and vigor to government. It has been afferted, that diftant provinces ought not to have fo much general liberty as the parent state *; this we suppose, however, can only mean with regard to their commerce or manufactures; but if it is meant, that all foreign dependencies ought to be governed by arbitrary, or defpotic fyftems, we will venture to affert, that from the nature of the British Constitution, such a fyftem cannot long exift in any of her dependencies; or produce any real advantage to the empire: for, as it is not the practice, or policy of the British government, to keep large ftanding armies in the provinces, it is on that account, more neceffary, by a liberal confti-

^{*} It is well known, that the inhabitants of the French colonies enjoy a much greater degree of liberty than their fellow-fubjects living in France.

(65)

n that overnto give It has ought as the er, can merce , that e goftems, ie naa fyfepenge to ce, or keep it is beral French their nfti-

conftitution and mild administration, to fecure the affections and confidence of the inhabitants; and by that means interest them in the fupport of government and defence of their province; for nothing can give ftrength and energy to the government of a distant province, but the confidence of the people. But if the people confider them. felves deprived of privileges they think they have a right to enjoy, that confidence must be weakened. It fhews a great want of generofity and equity in those, who, themfelves enjoying all the advantages which flow from a free conftitution, can, notwithftanding, propofe an arbitrary fystem of government for their fellow fubjects: but, perhaps, living in a free country, and protected by equal and permanent laws, they are ignorant of the great opprefion and injuffice that prevail under arbitrary fyftems; they, perhaps, do not know, that few instances of oppression committed in a dif-F tant tant' province, ever are, or can be brought forward to the public view in the governing country, on account of the inability of the fufferers to bear the expence of following the great delinquent, and the little hopes they can entertain of fucceeding in their complaints against him. It is certainly an object of great importance to the fafety and ftrength of every government, to conciliate the minds and affections of the inhabitants of a newly-acquired or conquered province to the change of their government and allegiance; and this furely, under the Britifit empire, cannot be effectuated in a more certain or eafy manner, than by allowing themthe full enjoyment of the privileges of Britifh fubjects, and thereby making them fenfible of the great advantages they have gained. We have feen in the conduct of the inhabitants of the Island of Minorca, the fatal confequences of not attending to this maxim. That island was fubject to the Britifh.

(66)

e brought e governnability of of followttle hopes in their tainly an afety and conciliate habitants province and ale Britifir ore cerng themof Briem fene gainof the ca; the to this: to the British

(67)

10.00

British government near eighty years; but as no care appears to have been taken to change the language or manners of the people; as they had not been allowed to participate in the privileges of British fubjects, they never perceived any peculiar advantages they enjoyed as fubjects of the British empire; and therefore in 1756 and 1780, when that ifland was attacked, fcarcely any of them flood forth in defence of the British government. Such are the wretched effects of arbitrary government, that eighty years could not fecure the confidence of the people, and interest them as fubjects in the national honor, welfare and profperity!

Although the inhabitants of the province of Quebec have, from the general tendency of the Britifh government to a mild adminiftration, enjoyed a certain degree of civil liberty; yet they have been, from the peculiar nature of the fyftem of their govern- F_2 ment, ment, entirely deprived of all political liberty*. A more full enjoyment of these effential privileges has been the constant prayer of all their petitions; and particularly of those now before the House of Commons. The objects prayed for in their petitions, may be reduced to the following heads:

* In countries where every member of the fociety enjoys an equal power of arriving at the fupreme offices, and confequently of directing the ftrength and fentiments of the whole community, there is a flate of the most perfect political liberty. On the other hand, in countries where a man is, by his birth or fortune, excluded from these offices, or from a power of voting for proper perfons to fill them, that man, whatever be the form of the government, or whatever the civil liberty, or power over his own actions he may have, has no fhare in the government, and therefore has no political liberty .-- Prieftly on Government, page 15. And again, page 54. If all the political power of this country was lodged in the hands of one perfon, and the government thereby changed into an abfolute government, the people would find no difference, provided the fame laws and the fame administration, which now fubfist, were continued: but then the people, having no political liberty, would have no fecurity for the continuance of the fame laws and the fame administration.

olitical lit of thefe conftant l particu-Houfe of r in their following fociety enoffices, and ntiments of nost perfect tries where n these offons to fill overnment, wn actions and therevernment, ical power erfon, and governvided the w fubfift, political c of the 1ft.

(69)

1st. An elective House of Assembly, or representatives of the people.

2d. That the Members of the Legislative Council receive no falaries as councillors.

3d. That the Habeas Corpus act, and the other laws of England relating to perfonal liberty, be made a part of the conftitution.

4th. That trial by jury in civil caufes be likewife made part of the conftitution; and that nine out of twelve may return a verdict.

5th. That the antient laws and cuftoms of Canada, relating to landed property, marriage fettlements, inheritance and dower, be continued in force in the diffricts or counties of Quebec and Montreal, as they are at prefent bounded: as thefe two diftricts contain almost the whole of the lands granted on feudal tenures, and inhabited by French Canadians,

6th. That the English laws be established generally in the new counties, or districts of

F 3

Gaspé,

Gafpé, Lunenburgh, Mecklenburgh, Naffau, and Heffe; as these districts are almost entirely inhabited by his Majesty's ancient or natural born subjects.

7th. That the laws of England, relating to commercial affairs, be established for the whole country.

8th. That the criminal laws of England be continued as at prefent in force in that province.

Thefe are the principal heads of thefe petitions; and we hope it will not be faid, that there is any thing unreafonable or improper, any thing factious or that may be deemed party work, in praying for the eftablifhment of a government fo nearly refembling those of all the other dependencies of the empire.

The political and relative fituation of that province has undergone a great alteration, fince the Quebec Act was paffed. A very great number of his Majefty's ancient or natural rgh, Nafare almost 's ancient

, relating d for the

England e in that of thefe be faid, e or immay be for the nearly enden-

of that ration, very nt or tural

(71)

natural born fubjects have established themfelves in the province fince that period; a more extended commerce has occafioned a greater communication, and formed more intimate connections between the ancient fubjects and the French Canadians; and the more enlightened among the latter have now, in a great meafure, adopted the mode of thinking of the ancient fubjects with refpect to civil government. The internal regulations for the province fince the treaty of peace of 1783 are become of much greater importance to the colony and to the empire. In fhort, if we were to admit that the Quebec Act was proper in the year 1774, we may neverthelefs now affert with confidence that it is repugnant to the interests of the province, and dangerous to the fafety of the empire. We have already dec faid, and we repeat it, that the Legislative Appendix Council, as established by the Quebec Act, hotym has not the power and cannot be fuppofed to contain the knowledge neceffary for the legiflature of fuch an extended province; and, that the arbitrary fystem of government which has so long prevailed has greatly retarded the progress and improvement of that country: but this has ever been the confequence of oppression *.

F 4

.0

The petitions now before the Houfe of Commons are figned by all the old fubjects, and, by a very numerous body of the moft refpectable among the new or French Canadians, in the diftricts of Quebee and Montreal. That fome opposition fhould appear against the reforms prayed for in these petitions cannot be confidered as extraordi-

* I conceive that no laws in the detail, can be well formed for any country, but by a legiflative body upon the fpot; becaufe fuch a body beft knows its own wants, and how to find the means, and how to apply them. The colonies of Georgia and Nova Scotia were long drooping under a military government; the extraordinary improvements of them, from the moment they have been permitted to make laws for themfelves, is a conclusive argument.— Dr. Marriot's Report, page 34.

nary ;

(72

y for the province; governas greatovement been the loufe of ubjects, he moft ch Cal Monappear efe peaordibe well pon the ts, and The cong unprovemitted ent.

ry;

(73)

nary; private intereft, or felfifh views, have often prevented the wifeft and moft advantageous reforms. Unanimity of fentiment in a nation is a thing not known in hiftory; What country was ever unanimous on any one point or principle ?

To prevent, in fome measure, the pernicious effects of false reports on the objects of the reforms prayed for, and, for the information of the public in general, the Committees named and appointed to carry forward and support these petitions published them, with a few remarks on the several clauses thereof, in the French language and distributed them all over the province *.

Those who have taken the lead in the pretended opposition to the reforms prayed for in these petitions are principally of that class of the people who call themselves gentry; but we flatter ourselves that their representations will not have much influence

* See Appendix, No. XIX,

with

with the Britifh legiflature \dagger ; more particularly as they are confused and contradictory. It is evident they must have been greatly embarassed in framing their memorials, to fave appearances with the public; for, though they have declared that they are against the reforms, they have at the fame time prayed for the enjoyment of all the objects of these reforms in a very pointed manner.

In a petition to his Majesty, dated in August 1783, they fay,—" Que votre tres " gracieuse Majesté, toujours attentis à pro-" curer le bonheur du peuple soumis à son " empire, voudra bien nous etre favorable, " et nous admettre sans aucune distinction,

+ But the Seigneurs and Nobleffe by virtue of their fiefs, and the officers and nobles by patent, who have ferved in the French troops, are, the one too inconfequential, and the other too miferable, in point of property, to merit any diftinction by trials, or, in the nature of the punifhment. To compare them to British Peers would be to form an argument of ridicule and not of reason. Dr. Marriot's Report, page 64.

" fous

(75)

partintradice been ir mee publ that ave at ent of very ed in tres profon able, ion,

fiefs, n the the dif-Ta gu-. ort,

1S

fous quelque forme de gouvernement qu'il lui plaira d'etablir en cette province, à la precieuse participation des graces, des droits, des privileges et des prerogatives, dont jouissent dans toutes les parties du globe, tous les fideles fujets de fa Majesté*."

In another petition to his Majefty dated in December 1784, they fay,—" Le fecond " objet, tres Gracieux Souverain, etoit, que " fous quelque forme de gouverment qu'il " plairoit à votre Majefté d'etablir en cette " province, vos fujets Canadiens Catholi-" ques jouiffent indiftinctement de tous les " privileges, immunités et prerogatives dont " les fujets Britanniques jouiffent dans

* We requeft that your most gracious Majesty, who is ever inclined to promote the happiness of all the people fubject to your empire, will favourably hear us, and admit us without any diffinction, under whatever form of government your Majesty may be pleased to establish in this province, to a precious participation in all the favours, rights, privileges, and prerogatives, which all your Majesty's faithful subjects enjoy in every part of the world.

" toutes

(76)

" toutes les parties du globe foumifes à " votre empire"."

Thefe are the prayers of this pretended oppofition. The petitions now before the Houfe of Commons do not afk for any thing more than the rights and privileges of Britifh fubjects. It is evident therefore, that thefe counter petitions as they are called are only fo in name, for they agree in fubftance with thofe under the difcuffion of Parliament. Further, in a petition they addreffed to his Majefty, dated the 13th of October laft, they fay,—" Nos demandes, " Auguste Monarque, fe reduifent à confer-" ver nos Loix municipales, mais qu'ils " foyent ftrictement obfervées ; quil y ait

* Our fecond requeft, most gracious Sovereign, was, that under whatever kind of government it should pleafe your Majesty to establish in this province, your Canadian Catholic subjects may, without any kind of diffunction, enjoy all the privileges, immunities, and prerogatives which British subjects enjoy in every part of the world under your Majesty's government.

" dans

nifes à tended ore the or any vileges refore, ey are agree cuffion a they 3th of andes, onferqu'ils y ait

e your in Caenjoy which under dans

(77)

" dans le confeil—legiflatif de notre pro-" vince, un nombre proportioné de vos " loyaux fujets Canadiens*."

The petitions before the Houfe of Commons pray in as firong terms as the above, that the municipal laws of the country, relative to landed property, &c. may be preferved; but thefe counter petitioners defire to have more Canadians in the legiflative council, and that they fhould be taken, we fuppofe, from among the gentry. This would, no doubt, greatly add to the wifdom of the legiflative council !

A memorial they gave in to Lord Dorchefter, dated the 31ft of December laft, contains the following paragraphs ;—" Notre " religion, nos loix de proprieté, notre " furcté perfonelle, voila ce qui nous inter-

* Our demands are confined to the prefervation of our municipal laws, and that they may be ftrictly administered; likewife, that there should be in the legislative council a proportionate number of your Majesty's loyal Canadian subjects.

* effe, et œ dont nous pouvons jouir plus " amplement par le bill de Quebec; une " chambre d'affemblée nous repugne par " les confequences fatales qui en reful-" teront. Pourrions nous nous flatter de " conferver long temps comme Catholiques " romains les memes prerogatives que les " fujets Protestants dans une affemblée de " representants? Ne viendroit il point un " témps ou la preponderance de ces derniers " influeroit contre notre postérité *?" And again-" Nous dirons, my Lord, avec con-" fiance a votre excellence, que l'abrogation " de plusieures de nos loix, et l'alteration " quant au forme, qui fouvent, et trop fou-

* Our religion, our laws relative to property, our perfonal fecurity, thefe are the objects which interest us, and which we can amply enjoy under the Quebec Bill. A House of Affembly difgusts us, because of the fatal confequences which may refult from it. Can we flatter ourfelves to preferve for any length of time as Roman Catholics, the same prerogatives with the Protestants in a house of representatives? Will not the time come, when the weight of these last will operate against our posterity?

" vent

uir plus c; une ne par refultter de oliques que les olée de oint un erniers And c congation ration o fou-

ur perus, and ill. 'A confeer our-Cathooufe of weight

vent

(79)

* vent en ont detruit les fonds, trop preci-" pitament faites depuis le bill de Quebec, " nous ont alarmé; que c'est une des mo-" tifs qui ont engagé les Canadiens á re-" prefenter aux pieds du Tróne, dans l'in-" tention feulement de remedier à ces incon-" venients. Voulant eviter de tomber dans " le plus grand malheur, nous ofons nous " repofer fur la bienfaisance de votre excel-" lence qui nous a fi long temps protegée " et esperer que vous voudrés bien vous in-" tereffer aupres de fa trés excellente Ma-" jefté et son auguste parlement, pour ob-" tenir la permiffion de retablir toutes ab-" rogations precipitées de nos loix, et ar-" reter toutes alterations ulterieures et fu-" tures*."

* With confidence, my Lord, we will fay to your Excellency, that the abrogation of feveral of our laws, and the alteration of the forms which often, and too often, has deftroyed the fpirit of them, too precipitately made fince the Quebec Bill has taken place, has greatly alarmed us---that is one of the motives which has engaged the Canadians to petition

By

(80)

By these quotations from their petitions and memorials, the true grounds of oppofition may easily be discovered. They feel, as every perfon in that country does, that the great grievance in the present system of government in that Province, is the want of a proper legislature, and that from this fource all the anarchy and confusion of the laws proceed. They have in confequence complained openly, and in express terms, of the Legislative Council*. Both parties, petition his Majefly, in the hopes that thefe inconveniences might be rectified---with a view to prevent our falling into greater diffrefs, we truft in your Excellency's goodnefs, who has fo long protected us, that you will be pleafed to endeavour to obtain of his Majefly, and of Parliament, permiflion to re-establish all precipitate abrogations of our laws, and to prevent all alterations in future.

* On the fecond object we have to remark, that notwithstanding the favour which your Majesty has granted to you. Canadian people, in preferving their municipal laws to them, they have enjoyed them very imperfectly, and the reason is, that two-thirds of the legislative Council, being composed of ancient subjects, their influence preponderates, and they change and alter our laws as they please, and relatively for their own interests. See Appendix WVIII therefore, petitions f opponey feel, es, that yftem of want of om this of the equence terms, parties, veniences ulling into goodnefs, pleafed to nent, perour laws, that notranted to pal laws and the il, being nderates, and re-

1

wvIII. efore, (81)

therefore, have united in complaining of the improper and defective state of the legiflature; and both parties have likewife agreed in praying for a reform of that body, and for the enjoyment of the rights of Britifh fubjects, of which reprefentation in the legislature is one of the most important.-But the great danger these Counter Memorialists affect to apprehend from a House of Affembly is, that the Protestants will have the greatest influence in that House; this, we prefume, will not be confidered as a good argument against the House of Representatives by the British nation. The Protestants will, for their own interest, be careful in enacting laws to promote the general profperity of the Province. They poffefs nearly one half in value of all the feigneiuries of the Province (those belonging to his Majefty and the religious communities excepted) and befides, the whole mercantile and floating property of the Province be-G longs longs to and depends on them; they are therefore too much interefted in the welfare and profperity of the Province for any danger to be apprehended from their poffeffing a large fhare of the legiflative powers. This is more clearly flated in a memorial prefented to Lord Dorchefter, dated the 1ft and 5th of December laft.

But these pretended fears exist perhaps only in the minds of a few of the individuals who were principally concerned in framing these counter Petitions. Their confequence in the fociety may perhaps be affected by a free fystem of government, though that of the Canadians in general must be greatly advanced.

Such is the nature of the opposition made to the reforms prayed for in the conftitution of the Province of Quebec. We cannot fuppose that much confideration will be given to the representation of people who are

* See Appendix, No. XX.

they are welfare ny danpoffefpowers. nemorial the 1ft

perhaps indivined in eir conbe afnment, generaf itution cannot ill be who are

(83)

are fo inconfistent with themfelves: They ftile themfelves the Oppofers of the Reform; and every one of their petitions and memorials contains the ftrongest reasons for it.

We cannot fuppofe it poffible that a people, unlefs deceived by falfe reports or alarmed by imaginary dangers, can ever be induced to pray for a continuance of flavery and arbitrary power. The Canadians are as fond of liberty and as warmly attached to it, as any people in the world; though having never enjoyed it conftitutionally, they may be unacquainted with the principles that protect and fupport it.

Liberty is congenial to the feelings of all mankind; and the fecurity which flows from a free conftitution to both political and civil liberty, contributes greatly towards bringing forth the powers of the human mind, and to the encouragement of the induftry of the people; but no conftitution

G 2

can

can be called free where the people are not allowed to participate of the legiflative authority by their reprefentatives*: This is the great criterion of freedom; and it is extremely natural for all Britifh fubjects, as they know the value of it, to ftruggle for fuch a valuable right. Great Britain has conftantly acknowledged this principle in the conftitution fhe has granted to all her Colonies; and by that means has rendered them more flourifhing and profperous than thofe of other nations. As all parties,

* As in a free flate, every man who is fuppofed a free agent, ought to be his own governor; fo the legiflative power fhould refide in the whole body of the people. But fince this is impoffible in large flates, and in fmall ones is fubject to many inconveniences, it is fit the people fhould act, by their reprefentatives, what they cannot act by themfelves. Montefquieu, Vol. I. page 191.

+ As men are fond of introducing into other places what they have established among themselves, they (meaning Great Britain) have given the people of their Colonies the form of their own government; and this government, carrying prosperity along with it, they have formed great nations in the forests they were fent to inhabit.

> Montesquieu, Vol. I. page 399. therefore, ple are not flative auflative auflative auflative auflation as ind it is exabjects, as flation bas flati poled a free he legiflative people. But fmall ones is cople fhould with by them-. page 191. places what y (meaning Colonies the nument, card great na-

(85)

page 390. nerefore,

therefore, agree in complaining of the prefent legislature of the province, because it is composed of a permanent council only, and the members of it are, from its conftitution, confidered as in too dependant a fituation, we hope no material objection can be raifed against a Houfe of Representatives for the province*. The legislative acts of that body will be liable to the difcuflion and diffent of the legiflative Council, which will be entirely named by his Majefty; and the acts, when agreed on by both, will not have the force of law, unlefs ratified by the Governor; and after all, they will still be furbject to the revision of his Majesty, and to be rejected, as in his wifdom he may fee

* When different legislative bodies fucceed one another, the people who have a bad opinion of that which is fitting, may reafonably entertain fome hopes of the next; but, were it to be always the fame body, the people upon feeing it once corrupted, would no longer expect any good from its laws; and of courfe they would either become defperate, or fall into a ftate of idolence.

Montesquieu, Vol. I. page 193.

G 3

proper,

proper. We cannot perceive any danger that can be even apprehended from a body over which Government will have fo many checks; and a Houfe of Reprefentatives converfant in the refources of the country, and poffeffed of the powers neceffary for improving them in their whole extent, muft give ftrength and energy to Government, and will prefent to the province the pleafing profpect of fecurely enjoying political and civil liberty, and of quickly rifing in value and importance to Great Britain.

(86)

We difclaim every idea or intention of party in difcuffing thefe points, or in propofing or recommending any fyftem, or any part of a fyftem, to the confideration of Government. We have undertaken it on the broad bafis of reciprocal benefit to the parent ftate and to her dependancy; and we hope we have not deviated from that line. A Britifh province labouring under the oppreffion of a fyftem of laws and ny danger fom a body ve fo many refentatives ne country, ceffary for atent; muft overnment, the pleag political r rifing in itain. tention of or in proyftem, or fideration ertaken it benefit to endancy; ted from abouring of laws and

(87)

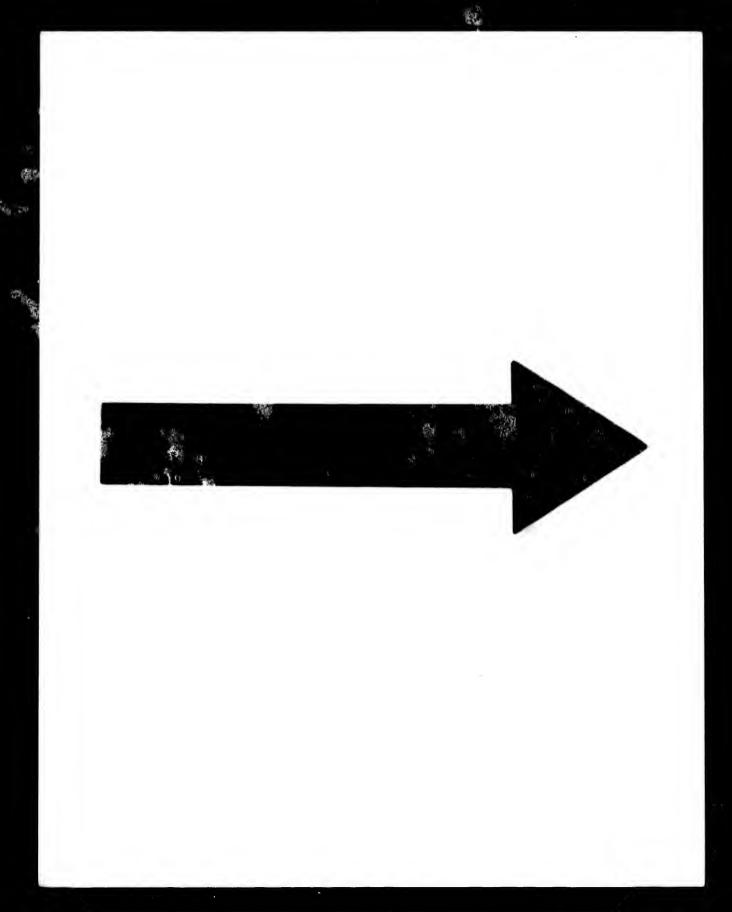

and conftitution of government not adapted to its fituation, nor well underflood, and praying to be allowed to participate in those privileges which their fellow fubjects enjoy in all the other parts of the empire, ought furely to roufe the patriotic zeal of all the virtuous part of the nation. It is the cause of liberty and of humanity; and on that account stands forcibly recommended to the attention and support of the British fenate.

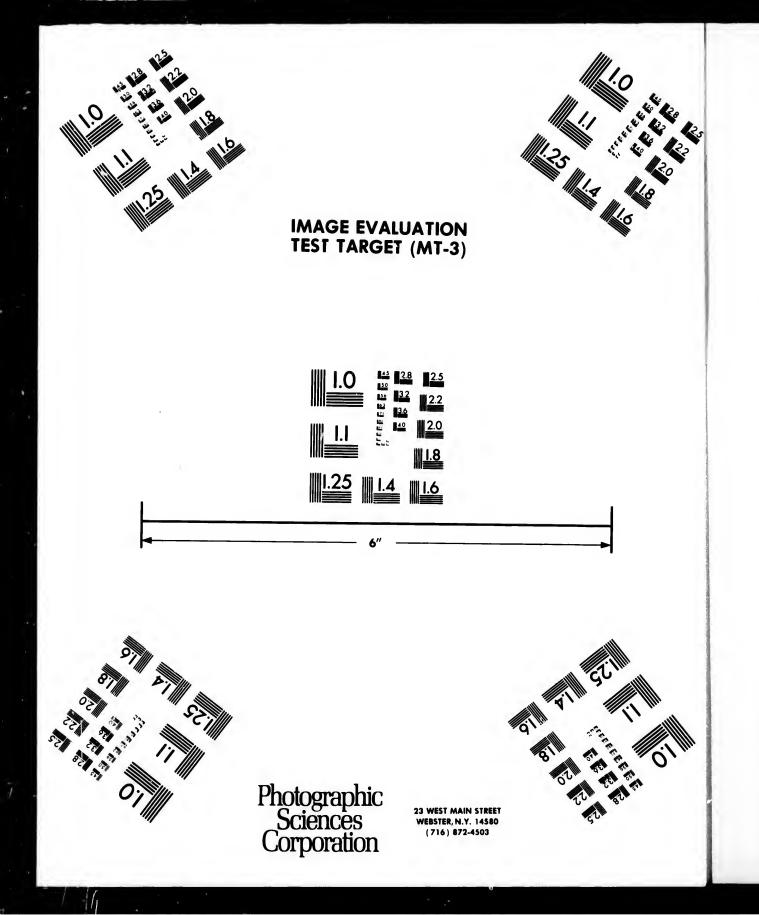

To them the Province appeals, as being the guardians of the rights of all the fubjects of the empire; and it is from them the Province expects relief. Why fhould that Province be the only one belonging to, or dependant on, the crown of thefe realms, doomed to labour under the heavy hand of arbitrary power? It is contrary to the Britifh conflictution, and a dangerous innovation.

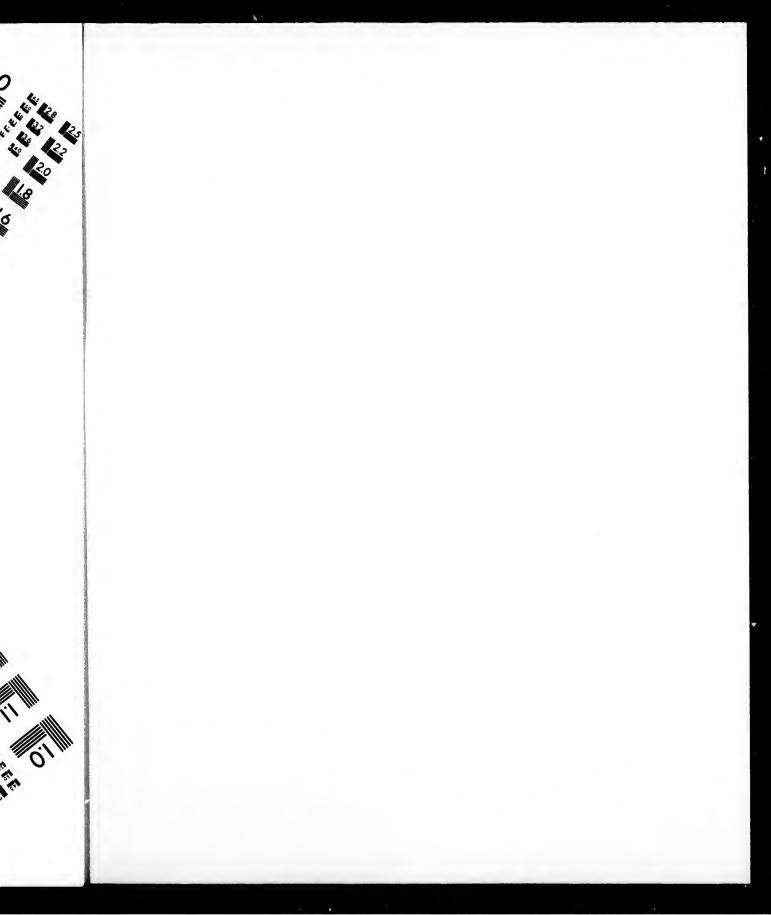

If the Britifh fenate ever countenances the eftablifhment of arbitrary power in any

G 4

the

the most distant of her settlements, these principles will spread, and may at last attack even Britain herself; for if the little singer is allowed to mortify, the contagion will foon spread over the whole body.

It cannot be expected that the people will be fatisfied without a liberal fystem of government, and reprefentatives in the legiflature. They have, by their petitions, ftated their grievances to his Majefty and to Parliament, with firmnefs and moderation. By a steady perfeverance in purfuit of their rights and privileges, they have now the prospect of having their petitions foon brought under the difcuffion of the British fenate; and they cannot doubt but 'they will receive that relief which they merit, from having fo long patiently endured fuch accumulated oppreffion. They hope that his most gracious Majesty, and Parliament, will fee the propriety, the policy, the juftice of giving to that province a liberal conflitution,

, thefe attack finger n will people tem of he leitions, y and deraurfuit enow foon ritifh they erit, fuch that ent. iufonon, flitution; as not any thing fhort of a houfe of reprefentatives, can effectually cure the diforders which have fo long prevailed and have taken fuch deep root in that country, or reftore that confidence in government, and produce that harmony, which are fo neceffary to the public peace.

Schools and feminaries for the education of youth are much wanted, to refcue the rifing generation from that profound flate of ignorance which has fo long difgraced the province: There are no proper court houfes, poor houfes, infirmaries, or houfes of correction, in the province ; the prifons are in a ruinous fituation, and the markets not properly established ; the police of the towns is in a very imperfect state; the high ways are at times almost unpassable; bridges are become necessary in many places to facilitate communication; and money is wanted for all those important objects.

Under

(89)

Under a liberal fystem, the hands of government will be ftrengthened, the people would feel themfelves interefted in the fupport of it, and in the prefervation and defence of the province ; agriculture would be improved; that, and the fifheries extended; and the general commerce of the province greatly encreafed; the demand for Britifly manufactures augmented; and employment furnished for some hundreds of British ships: The province would rife in importance and population, and become the envy of the late British colonies, now the United States: and Britain would fave a confiderable fum now drawn out of her treasury annually for the payment of the officers of the civil government of that country. We are confident that to procure thefe advantages, and to fecure the privileges of Britons, to a British colony, the whole powers of the British fenate will be exerted; that that patriotifm go-

ple

ıp-

de-

be

d;

ce

ſh.

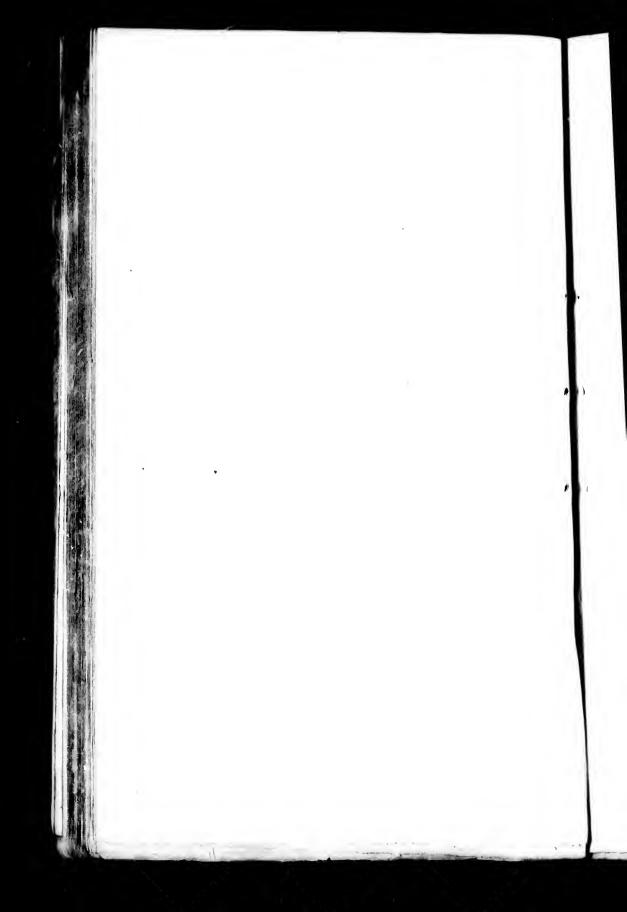

ht

:

d

e

patriotifm which has fo often fhone with benignant fplendor in that august body, will find itfelf agreeably employed in refcuing the inhabitants of the province of Quebec from their prefent deplorable fituation ; and we trust, that a government will now be established for that province, on fuch permanent and fixed principles, as may call forth the unceasing gratitude of its inhabitants, and convince them, that their own comfort and happines and that of their posterity depend on an union with, and fubmission to, the imperial Crown and Parliament of Great Britain.

APPENDIX. No. I.

Extract from the King's Proclamation, dated 7th October, 1763.

X E have thought fit to publish and declare, by this our Proclamation, that "We have, in the Letters Patent under our " Great Seal of Great Britain, by which the faid "Governments are conftituted, given express " power and direction to Our Governors of Our " faid Colonies respectively, that so foon as the " ftate and circumftances of the faid Colonies " will admit thereof, they shall, with the advice " and confent of the Members of Our Council, fum-" mon and call General Affemblies within the faid " Governments respectively, in such manner and form " as is used and directed in those Colonies and Pro-" vinces in America which are under our immediate " government; and we have also given power to the " faid Governors, with the confent of our faid Coun-" cil, and the Reprefentatives of the People, fo to be " fummoned as aforefaid, to make, constitute, and " ordain Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances for the " public peace, welfare, and good government of Our if faid Colonies, and of the people and inhabitants " thereof.

" thereof, as near as may be agreeable to the laws . " of England, and under fuch regulations as are " used in other Colonies; and in the mean time, " and until fuch Affemblies can be called as " aforefaid, all perfons inhabiting in, or refort-" ing to, Our faid Colonies, may confide in Our " Royal protection for the enjoyment of the be-" nefit of the laws of Our Realm of England : " for which purpofe, We have given power, " under Our Great Seal, to the Governors of " Our faid Colonies respectively, to creft and " conftitute, with the advice of Our faid Coun-" cils refpectively, Courts of Judicature and " Public Justice, within our faid Colonies, for " the hearing and determing all caufes, as well " criminal as civil, according to law and equity, " and as near as may be, agreeable to the laws " of England, with liberty to all perfons who " may think themfelves aggrieved by the fen-" tence of fuch courts in civil cafes, to appeal, " under the ufual limitations and reftrictions, to " Us in Our Privy Council:"

APPENDIX.

(95 **)

are ne, as rt-

ie-

:r., ot

d

3-d

)1.

11

•

S

D

APPENDIX. No. II.

Claufe in General Murray's Commiffion of 21 Nov. 1763.

" AND We do hereby give and grant unto " you the faid James Murray, full power " and authority, with the advice and confent of " our faid Council, to be appointed as aforefaid, " fo foon as the fituation and circumstances of " Our faid Province under your government " will admit thereof, and when and as often as " need fhall require, to fummon and call General " Alfemblics of the Freeholders and Planters within " your government, in fuch manner as you in your " diferetion shall judge most proper; or accord-" ing to fuch further powers, inftructions, and " authorities, as shall be at any time hereafter " granted or appointed you under Our fignet or " fign manual, or by Our order in Our Privy " Council."

APPENDIX.

(96)

APPENDIX. No. III.

Claufes in the Ordinances of 17th Sept. 1764.

" IN this Court (the fuperior Court) his Ma-" jefty's Chief Juffice prefides with power and " authority to determine all criminal and civil " caufes agreeable to the laws of England, and " to the ordinances of this Province."

A court of Common Pleas was also established, with liberty to appeal to the King's Bench where the matter in contest was above 201.

Claufe in the Ordinance of 6th Nov. 1764.

" Doth hereby ordain and declare, that until " the tenth day of August next, the tenures of " lands, in respect to fuch grants as are prior " to the cession thereof by the definitive treaty " of peace, figned at Paris the 10th of Fe-" bruary, 1763, and the rights of inheritance, " as practifed before that period, in fuch lands " and effects, of any nature whatsoever, accord-" ing to the custom of this country, shall re-" main, to all intents and purposes the fame, " unless they shall be altered by some declared " and positive law.

" And

(97)

Claufe in Mr. Hey's Commiffion of Chief Justice, dated 25th Sept. 1766.

"And the faid pleas, actions, and fuits, and "every of them, to hear and determine in man-"ner and form aforefaid, doing therein that which to juffice doth belong and appertain, according to the laws and cuftoms of that part of our kingdom of Great Britain, called England. And the laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, of our faid Province of Quebec, hereafter in that behalf to be ordained and made."

APPENDIX. No. IV.

Prefentment of the Grand Jury at the Court of King's Bench, held at Montreal, 2d Sept. 1782.

THE Jurors of Our Lord the King, for the body and district of Montreal, do prefent, that the Jefuits College, or that part of it which for many years past hath been appropriated and used for the common gaol for this district, is very infufficient for the purposes of a civil prison, is H in 1764.

s Maer and civil , and

ished, where 54.

until res of prior treaty f Feance, lands cordll refame, lared

And

in a ruinous condition, and is become a nuifance to the public, and dangerous to the health and lives, as well of the perfons confined therein, as to others his Majefty's fubjects.

That it is infufficient for the purposes of a civil prison, will appear on confidering that there are but three small apartments, into which are put prisoners of both fexes, and every denomination, whether for debt, breaches of the peace, or the most flagrant crimes : and on the reprefentation of the Sheriff of the district to their honours the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, of the infusficiency of this prison, they have thought proper to order that execution should not islue against the persons of debtors who by the laws of the province may become subject to imprisonment.

Eighth Article of Report by Committee of Merchants of Montreal, to the Committee of Legiflative Council. Dated 23d Jan. 1787.

THE want of a proper gaol for this diffrict has long been complained of, and at divers times has been reprefented by different Grand Juries, as well at the Courts of Oyer and Terminer, as in the inferior Courts of Quarter Seffions; but hitherto no remedy has been applied. The houfe, th and ein, as of a cit there ich are enomipeace, repreeir hoa Pleas, y have fhould who by ject to [•] Merof Le-87.

diffrict times Juries, her, as ; but The houfe, (99)

house, which at prefent serves for a gaol, confifts of four very fmall rooms, in which are frequently confined promifcoully perfons of different fexes, and for very different degrees of crimes. The unfortunate debtor cannot have a room to himfelf; nor can the malefactor, when preparing for the other world, be accommodated with a place of retirement to deprecate the wrath of the offended Deity. The infufficiency of the gaol, in point of fecurity, occasions a guard of foldiers to be kept in the lower part of it; and even with that precaution, many atrocious offenders have escaped, infomuch, that the Sheriff of the diftrict has refused to confine debtors, unlefs the profecutor agreed to take upon himfelf the rifk of an escape. The fituation of this infufficient gaol heightens the fufferings of the perfon whom the law dooms to imprifonment, offends every paffenger in the warm feafon, and is a nuifance to the neighbourhood, being without those conveniences requisite to carry off the filth accumulated by the want of them.

H 2

Extrast

(105)

Extract from the Report of the Committee of the Legislative Council, to Lord Dorchester, appointed to report on the Laws, dated 11th Jan. 1787.

Suitable Juffice-Halls and Prifons—the latter, both at Quebec and Montreal, being in a condition neither confiftent with humanity to the prifoners, nor fafety to the Sheriffs or the public, and having been repeatedly prefented as infufficient by the Grand Juries of both diffricts.

APPENDIX No. V.

 \checkmark Exports from Quebec 1788. \checkmark

200,358 bushels wheat

9,868 barrels flour

15,775 quintals bifcuit

- 1,770 bushels oats
- 881 bushels peafe
- 11,972 bushels flax-feed
- 5,987 pine and oak plank
- 69,004 pine boards
- 401,972 oak Paves, and heading

211,310 shingles

13,700

tee of befter, d 11th

latter, condie priublic, nfuffi-

,703

13,700	hoops
1,528	shook cafks
1,229	pieces fquare oak timber
80	masts and bowsprits
660	cafks falmon
7°5	quintals cod fish
24	horfes
7	caíks Canada balfam
18	cafks effence of fpruce
59	boxes f energe of iprice
8,629	pounds ginfeng
44,186	pounds adianthum nigrum
395 1	tons feal oil
2,123
1,166	pounds whalebone
200	bushels cranberries
22,000	onions
295	dozen handfpikes .
1 30,758	beaver skins
56,731	martin do.
20,177	otter do.
12,186	mink do.
4,702	fisher do.
7,510	fox do.
15,041	bear do.
151,535	deer do. in the hair
3,244	pounds dreffed deer leather
106,75	mulquash skins
115,55	ra:00n do.
H 3

(101)

7,060

(102)

cafed cat	do.
open cat	do.
wolf	do.
elk	do.
wolvering	d o.
-	do.
•	do.
	ftorum Pounds cu
	open cat wolf elk wolvering panther feal weazle pounds cat

Custom-house, 10th November, 1788.

Shipped from the fifting posts within the Province, in the Gulph of St. Laurence and Streights of Belle Isle, the Reports of which never come to the Custom-house of Quebecabout

	cwt. dried cod fish
8,000	tierces of falmon
500	barrels of herrings
11,000	feal skins
800	tons of oil
	About to gool value of

About 10,000l. value of furs, and fome whalebone.

Imported

(103)

Imported into Quebec in 1788, from the Cuftom-bouse Books. Liquors.

1,357	puncheons of rum
585	do.	of British brandy
1,484	do.	of melaffes
976	pipes ^
1,266	hhds.	wines
96	barrels_)
1,794	hhds. o	f porter

Sundries.

138	large hhds. J Mufcovado
731	barrels and tierces f fugar
40	boxes chocolate
42	cafks cocoa
208	cafks 2 coffee
95	cafks bags } coffee
273	hhds. refined fugar
596	chefts of tea
96,850	bushels of falt
1,350	tons Z British coals, fay in all
1,079	chaldrons 3 2,600 tons coals.

Proe and which ebec—

s, and

ported

Η4

APPENDIX.

(104)

APPENDIX, No. VI.

Extract from a Protest by Geo. Allsopp, Esq. Member of the Legislative Council of Quebec, in Council, 6th March, 1780.

I. IT must be allowed, that there is a manifest want of order and regularity in the Court of Common Pleas; the first judges or prefidents of those courts not being verfed in the science of the law, or the ulage of courts of judicature, confequently cannot be fuppofed capable to form or keep up proper regulations for that end; nor do they confine themfelves to rules of law, but occasionally decide on the equity of the case, contrary to the letter of the law; the impropriety whereof cannot be better defined than in the words and language of a law officer of respectable authority, in his obfervations on the former Court of Common Pleas, of which the prefident of the Legiflative Council, and the three judges of the Common Pleas, now of the council, were members.

"But how vague and uncertain their proceedings, as a court of equity, must be, without one established maxim of equity in the court? how ill Eſq. iebec, nifeft irt of idents cienco ature, form ; nor , but cafe, priety n the fpectormer fident udges were t one how

(105)

ill calculated to preferve (what it certainly was not intended to preferve) an ancient fyftem of laws, which were to be admitted or rejected upon motives of equity, adopted by gentlemen who merit however no other imputation, than the want of education in, or acquaintance with, courts of law or equity, and the confusion in which fuch decisions must necessfarily be involved, are matters upon which, I think, I need not enlarge?"

Since the Quebec Act took place, little or no beneficial alteration has happened in the proceedings of these courts; on the contrary, the only defirable parts of the former fystem have been taken away, the fubject has been deprived of the benefit of juries in actions for perfonal injuries; the merchant of the decision of caufes by the law of merchants, and according to the laws of England, heretofore in ufe, prior to the introduction of the Quebec Bill; and no positive law, no fixed or established rule to supply those defects. The courts, now fole judges of the fact, and of the law, in all cafes, and though generally unaquainted with law, and particularly with the laws of commerce, are left to their own judgments; confequently their decifions are too arbitrary, and their power too unbounded to tally with the principles of the British constitution!

To

To prove these affertions, it will be confidered, that the laws and customs of Canada, which form the most imperfect system in the world, for a commercial people, have, in matters of trade, been long fince exploded in France, and the Code Marchand introduced in all their towns in its stead. Canada, before the conquest of it by his Majesty's arms, had little or no trade of confequence, except that of the India Company for furs, who monopolized almost the whole; and, therefore, probably not having fo great occasion for the Code Marchand, or jurifdiction confulaire, it was not introduced into this country.

APPENDIX, No. VII.

Extract from a Petition delivered to Lord George Germaine, Secretary of State for the American Department, 2d April, 1778, by the Canadian Merchants then in London.

THE Ordinances lately made by the Governor and Council in aid of the French law, have contributed to increase the general diffatisfac-, tion. This Council, when only twelve members were prefent, and each of them bound by an (107) an oath of fecrecy, proceeded to make laws without requiring the leaft information, and with the most total difregard of an application from the merchants who petitioned upon grounds of general utility, that they might not be deprived of the mercantile laws of England. The ordinances furnish further matter of complaint, because of the ambiguous terms in which they are expressed, of the indefinite powers which they give to the judges.

APPENDIX, No. VIII.

Extract of a Petition from the Canadians to bis Majesty in September 1784.

SUR le fecond objêt, Sire, c'est que non-obftant la faveur que vous avez accordée a votre peuple Canadien, en le confervant dans ses loix municipalles, il n'en jouit qu'imparfaitement, et la cause derive de ce que le Conseil Legislatif, etant composé aux deux tiers d'anciens sujêts, ces derniers ont toujours la préponderance et font des changements, et alterations à nos loix, quand bon leur femble, et relativement a leurs interéts.

APPENDIX.

lord the the

vernave sfac-, cmd by an (108)

APPENDIX, No. IX.

Extract from a Memorial of the Merchants of of London (trading to Quebec) to Ministry, dated the 24th January, 1786.

THE prefent code of laws, if the mixture of French and English laws may be fo called, not being well underftood, the execution of them is fubject to much difficulty and uncertainty; among other inconveniences, perfons often claim the right of both, and take the advantage of that which best fuits their purpose; by these and other means, the payment of debts are evaded, and right and property is rendered uncertain and infecure. The loffes the British merchants have fuffered from this evil, within the last three years, has occasioned the ruin of many; and fuch is the prefent want of confidence and want of credit in confequence of thefe difafters, that common ruin and general distrefs must enfue, if some effectual remedy be not immediately applied.

From the petition delivered last year to the Right Honourable Lord Sydney, figned by upwards of 1800 of the principal inhabitants; from ts of ftry, re of , not m is nty; laim ge of thefe are l unritifh ithin n of onfie of neral ly be the by the by the from from the letters lately addreffed to us from the committee of Quebec and Montreal on this fubject, (copies of which are hereunto annexed,) and moreover, from Our own knowledge, and the particular information Our connections in that country afford Us, We are clearly and unanimoufly of opinion, that for the relief and redrefs of thefe evils, and the many other defects of the prefent conflitution of that government, a provincial legiflature, or houfe of affembly, established on the fame principles as in every other British colony in America, will be effestual.

We are equally confident, that it is the earness with and defire (whatever may have been reprefented to the contrary) of the principal as well as the generality of the inhabitants of the province, both old and new subjects, (and to which the loyal refugees have also added their testimony by petition) to be governed by British laws, to be made and adminissered according to the British constitution; they found their claim to it, not only as British fubjects, but under his Majesty's special proclamation of the 7th October, 1763.

We conceive no other form of government will fatisfy and quiet their minds, fecure their rights, and protect Our property. We, therefore, feel it Our duty to recommend, in the most earnest manner, this measure to his Majesty's ministers, as the most effential for the fecurity and prosperity of this valuable province; province; and, that that obnoxious and impolitic law, the act for fubjecting the British subjects of Canada to a government fo repugnant to the ideas of Britons, and the British constitution, and which was so often cried out against, as one of the causes of the defection of the neighbouring colonies, may no longer disturb the peace of the loyal subjects of this province.

APPENDIX. No. X.

Extract of a Letter from George Allfopp, Efg. Member of the Legiflative Council, to Lord George Germaine, dated 29th October, 1780.

"HIS Majefly and his minifters will ever be mifinformed when their information is the rerefult of enquiries made by interested perfons, or from those who shall associate with, and take up their system from particular characters linked to each other. Your Lordship will pardon me if I observe, that it is a statal truth, in my humble apprehension, that such has been too much the case, with respect to the information the Crown has unhappily received from this province."

APPENDIX.

(111)

APPENDIX. No. XI.

The following Articles are from the Report of Merchants of Quebec to the Legislative Council, dated 6th January, 1787.

Article X. The King's Proclamation of October 1763, promised the future settlers in this Province the benefit of the laws of England; those laws were accordingly introduced by an ordinance of the Governor and Council in Sept. 1764, but unfortunately abrogated in all civil caufes by the act of 14 Geo. III. ch. 83, which flatute, instead of remedying temporary abuses, introduced great evils, particularly to the trading interest of the nation. The merchants in England, and those of this Province, have feverely felt the effects of laws, to which they were utter ftrangers, the principles whereof are anti-commercial altogether. The custom of Canada is a fystem so imperfeet, that the decisions in the Courts have become arbitrary, and destitute of uniformity. The Court of Montreal differs in its practice as well as decrees, in fome points of law, from that of Quebec; both Courts agree in not confining themselves to rules of law, but occasionally decide on the equity of the cafe, contrary to the letter of the law. Thus the custom of itic s of the ion, one ourc of

Efy. Lord 780. er be e refons, and aracdifhip fatal fuch fpect hhap-

DIX.

(112)

of Canada, the general laws of France, the Roman code, and in fome commercial points, the laws of England have been reforted to; but the most dangerous of all systems is that of the decisions in equity, of Courts strictly constituted as Courts of Law, without the ordinary rules, principles, and maxims of Courts of Equity to govern them. This verfatility in the decrees of the Courts of Law alone, calls aloud for a folid system of laws, and furely no better can be reforted to than the laws of England, to govern the property of British subjects. The imports and exports of the Province, being upwards of half a million a year, and from the nature of the property liable to be more affected by the laws of the country and the practice of the Courts than any other, We therefore recommend a re-introduction of the common and flatute laws of England, as the general rule for the decision of all matters of controverfy relative to perfonal property and civil rights, in all perfonal actions grounded upon debts, promifes, contracts, and agreements, whether of a mercantile or other nature. And alfo concerning wrongs proper to be compenfated in damages, with an exception to the statutes regarding bankrupts, and other local laws, hereafter to be explained as inapplicable to the fituation and circumstances of the British Colonies in America in general, or this in particular; with an exception alfo to all real actions and

(113)

and controverfies respecting the titles of land, and the tenure, descent, alienation, incumbrances and fettlements of real estates, and the distribution of the personal property of persons dying intestate, in which his Majesty's new subjects are most interested) for the decision of which, except in cases hereaster to be mentioned, resort should be had to the laws and customs of Canada, but that juries should be granted in all Courts having original jurifdictions, if demanded by either party, in all real and personal actions whatever.

The defects in the practice in Article XI. the inferior Courts, as pointed out in the observation on the last article, have made their way into the Court of Appeals, which, for these eight years last past, has laboured under a great difadvantage, namely, that of not having one gentleman bred to the science of the law, presiding or sitting in that Court, in order to explain the law, and point out the errors in the proceedings, if any, to the other members. Indeed it is much to be lamented there do not prefide in all the Courts regularly-bred proteffional men, capable of conducting the bufinefs with propriety and difpatch. The great number and fluctuation of the members of this Court, must also of necessity embarals the decifions and create delays. If this Court was in its conftitution affimilated to that of others in his I Majefty's

Rothe the sin dil, is of y in loud can vern and half pros of than tro-Enf all proions and r nao be n to local able itifh artitions and Majesty's Colonies, we humbly conceive that the alterations would be beneficial to the subject.

Concluding clause.—In general, and upon the whole of these observations, which we have humbly offered, may be collected the utter impossibility of governing this Province, as a British Colony, and promoting its prospericy, without a power existing fomewhere of levying inland taxes, and providing for useful regulations.

This confideration we humbly fubmit to the Honourable Committee of Council, and refer them to the petition we had the honour to tranfmit to his Majefty and both Houfes of Parliament two years ago, for granting a Houfe of Affembly to his Majefty's faithful fubjects of this Province, a copy of which accompanies this Report:

Extract from Report of the Merchants of Montreal, to the Legislative Council, 23d Jan.. 1787.

Upon the whole of the observations which we have humbly offered, may be collected the utter impossibility of promoting the welfare of this Province, as a British Colony, under the present system of government.

This

(115)

This confideration we fubmit to the Honourable Committee of Council, and refer them to the petition we had the honour to transmit to his Majesty and both Houses of Parliament two years ago, for granting a House of Assembly to his Majesty's faithful subjects of this Province, a copy of which accompanies this Report.

Extract from Report of Committee of Legislative Council on Commercial Affairs, to Lord Dorchefter, dated 29th Jan. 1787.

On the 6th January, the merchants of Quebec delivered their opinions and reprefentations on a variety of objects of commercial and political regulations, to which they have annexed a copy of a petition to his Majesty, transmitted to the Right Hon. Lord Sydney in the spring of 1785.

On the 27th January, the magistrates and merchants of Montreal delivered their opinions.

In both of these they have deeply and accurately treated, and judiciously reasoned on the actual situation and various interests of the Province.

We should therefore be wanting to them and to your Excellency, if we did not annex and recommend their representations to your Lordship's most ferious confideration and reflection.

I 2

APPENDIX.

the

the umfibi-Cout a xes,

the refer anfrlia-Afthis Re-

Ion÷ Fan..

we utter Pron of

Chis

(116)

APPENDIX. No. XII.

Extracts from a Protest made in Legislative Council. Quebec, —, 1787.

DISSENTIENT,

First. Because the refusal to commit the Bill, implies a disapprobation of every part of it, as incapable of being so altered as to retain a single clause, and amounts as clearly to a rejection of every paragraph of it, as if each had been separately voted to be struck out; and it was so explained and understood, and that intention avowed by every speaker against the commitment.

Second. Because the regulations for the administration of justice in all the Courts of Common Pleas, as well as in the monthly Court of Appeals, were so obviously expedient in the eye of mere abstract theory, as to require only to be read to be approved, and might have been contended for by the Judges, without any disparagement of character or office; and ferved for no mean defence against the clamours and complaints to which Courts, where the Judges find both law and fast, are obnoxious; and especially in fuch a country as this, where they hold the mighty power of fettling the question, what was or was not, the custom and usage, as

(117)

as well as the law, of the Colony antecedent to the conquest.

Becaufe one of the best fecurities for Third. the permanent duration of the privilege granted by the flatute, commonly called the Quebec Act, to his Majefty's Canadian fubjects, is their ready manifestation of a correspondent liberality to his Majefty's native-born fubjects, through the voice of that legiflature which the statute creets, and of which his Majefty has conftituted fo many of the Canadian gentlemen to be members. The Bill pointed to a measure for shewing such a difposition, without the smallest infringement of the benefit granted by the British Parliament to themfelves; and it had fucceeded, if only one of them had given his voice for the commitment, the queftion being decided by the Chair,

Because the postponing the relief Fourth. which, according to this Bill the Governor was to be enabled to afford to the American Loyalifts fettled in our frontiers, to us appears inconfistent with the interests of the Crown, and repugnant to every motive of found policy, as well as the fympathy we ought to have for those, who with to much honour to themselves, have facrificed every confideration of private intercft to their faithful affection to their fovereign and the Britifh cause, and to whom, as subjects of tried loyalty and men of arms, this Province may be one day

I 3

ative

Bill, E, as ingle n of fepao exowed

dmi-Comirt of e eye to be conrageor no nts to , and try as g the isage, as day obliged to look for its protection and defence; to fay nothing of what it became the King's fervants here to have done, for fufferers of fuch diftinguished merit, in obedience to the royal commands, communicated to General Haldimand by a letter from Lord North.

(118)

Fifth. Becaufe the Bill was framed to heal the divisions and animofities which have fo long fublished in the Colony to its difgrace and detriment; and, we are fearful, that the rejection of it will not only raife a fpirit, which as a party one in the trite game of felfish ambition and avarice, for petty confequence, place and profit, is always contemptible, and though fometimes harmless, is nevertheless to the last degree dangerous in a country of mixed nations, habits and languages, where the name of the party, if the contest respects the fubftantial interests of the crown and nation, will be changed into the ferious difcrimination of loyal and difaffected.

And we are the more anxious for the general harmony, as these difcords, by encreasing the debility of the Province, predispose it to become the theatre for the malignant machinations of the internal malcontents of Great Britain, and the hostile views of foreign powers.

Sixth. Because without fome regulations, to quiet the murmurs against the course of administering justice, which has obtained here for years past, expressed in (119)

dethe rers the Halt the fifted we only trite etty con-, is in a ges, s the ll be and deome the quiet Aice, esfed in in the Reports on our table from the magifirates and merchants of the Province, and the complaints to the King's ministers by the merchants of London, the commerce and settlement of the Colony cannot advance in the course necessary to give it strength, for its own fecurity, and to cover the two other Provinces, fortunately to all of them, committed to the wisdom and vigilance of the noble Lord, who is fo well disposed and qualified to raise them to fastety and prosperity, if their own cheerful co-operation shall not be wanting.

We lament, therefore, the lofs of this Bill as embaraffing, if not defeating, the provisions expedient for the interests of the crown, as unfriendly to the commerce of the nation, as diftreffing to the loyalists who have fled to our borders for refuge, and have the most unexceptionable claim, at least, to legislative regulations for their comfort, as tending to distract the minds of the inhabitants with jealoufies, to the reducing of the force of the Colony, and, as the confequence of all, the exposing of it to the operation of foreign principles, finoothing the way to an invasion. AND THIS PROTEST WE MAKE in vindication of ourfelves to his Majefty, and his Representative, and with the fincerest defire to preferve the tranquillity of the Province, and the interests of every order of men in it, protestants and catholics, by all the means that may confift I 4 with with our duty to the crown, and a warm and affectionate regard for the weal of the British empire.

Quebec, 19th March 1787. Monday, 9 o'clock, A. M. (Signed)

WILLIAM SMITH, Chief Justice.

HUGH FINLAY, Poft Master General. Edward Harrison.

JOHN COLLINS, Deputy Surveyor General. GEORGE POWNALL, Secretary of the Province, HENRY CALDWELL, late Dep. Receiver Gen, WILLIAM GRANT, late Dep. Receiver Gen, SAMUEL HOLLAND, Surveyor General. SIR JOHN JOHNSTONE, Bart. Super-Intendant of Indian Affairs.

APPENDIX. No. XIII.

Extract from Paper laid before Legislative Council 18th April 1787, by the Committee of Merchants.

THAT the French laws, as faid to be established, and as proposed to be continued, are wholly inadequate to fecure the peace and prosperity of and itifh

l. nce, Jen, en,

dant

tivo itteg

ftaare rity of (121)

of the King's natural born fubjects refiding in the Province; er wifely and juftly to protect and govern commercial rights; or to hold out as the means (but would prove a powerful bar) to population.

That under these laws, our civil rights are ununknown, and property is insecure.

That infinite injury has arifen from holding the mercantile interefts and rights to be governed and administered in the King's Court by such laws.

That the merchants in London, trading to this Province, had complained to the King's minifters of these evils, and of the ruinous effects that actually had arisen, and the consequences that must arise, from such a system or code of laws, and had prayed for relief.

That the King's new fubjects, the Canadians, in the year 1773, when they petitioned his Majefty to obtain a fecurity in their property and poffeffions by the known rules of their ancient laws, at the fame moment implored his Majefty equally to extend his protecting hands and care to his natural-born (ancient) fubjects.

That the conftitutional principle of colonization, in every modern empire, is the extension to fuch colony of the national larges for fecuring the perfonal rights of the natural-born fubjects.

That fuch would be the only wife and political means to populate this extensive colony, to increase increarle its commerce, to improve its utility and fubordination to Great Britain, and in that, and by those laws, to render the people wealthy, numerous and happy.

That the legal and judicial conftruction given in this Province upon the Quebec Act was, that it fully introduced the general edicts and ordinances of France, and the cuftom of Paris, as ufed and exercifed during the French government as the only rule in his Majefty's Courts for deciding civil rights between all his Majefty's fubjects, old and new.

That the judgments of the faid courts were not made upon fuch rule of prevailing law, either in uniformity admitting or rejecting the edicts or ordinances, or the articles of the cuftom of Paris; and did at times admit either, and at times reject both, and adopt the English statute and common law, as the law to administer fubfantial justice:

That this uncertainty in the judicial proceedings and judgments of law, and in the exercife of a judicial authority not founded in the law of the province that legally ought to prevail, and thereby legiflating, will ftand proved upon enquiry into the feveral cafes flated at the Bar of the Council, and others, which your petitioners are ready to adduce :

That there was not that effential uniformity in the judgments, and regularity in the proceedings ings of the faid courts abfolutely requisite to fecure the rights of the subject :

That those evils were manifest, and ruinous to the King's subjects; that they resulted from the causes which the proposed bill would not only continue, but infinitely increase:

That from want of certainty in the rules of right, and of known laws fuited to the interest of the nation and its commerce in this province, infinite distress had fallen on the King's subjects, and had occasioned great disturbance in their minds;

That the laws proper to be eftablished were those of England, in personal and civil rights; especially between all his Majesty's ancient subjects in any commercial case.

Extract from Papers laid before Legislative Council, by the Council for the Commerce. 30th April 1787.

AND further, on the part of the petitioners, by a variety of proofs to fhew and fupport the charge of an unfit administration of justice in his Majesty's courts in this province, to wit, the Courts of Common Pleas, holding cognizance of causes above and under ten pounds sterling; and, by fully exhibiting the judicial proceedings of the faid lity nat, hy,

ven that rdi-, as ernfor ty's not uniorris; ejett non eede of the ereuiry the are y in eed-

ings

faid Courts, to fhew the want of order, rule, regularity, certainty, and the great delays and procraftination therein, and to make appear the infecurity of civil rights, and the diftrefs of his Majefty's fubjects under the prefent laws, and the powers exercifed in the administration of justice by his Majefty's faid courts.

APPENDIX. No. XIV.

Being Extracts from the Evidence given before the Commissioner for the Investigation into the past Administration of Justice in the Province of Quebec.

Extract from the Evidence of William Grant, Efq. Member of the Legiflative Council, and one of the Judges in the Court of Appeals.

Anfreer XI. Yes; I have read pleas, declarations, anfwers, and reafons of appeal, where both French and English law were cited as applicable.

Anfwer XIII. The Canadian judges, from their reajoning, I believe, generally give their judgments on French laws, and what appears equitable to them. There (125)

There are of the English judges in the Court of Appeals, who do not pretend to understand the French law, or law books; their decisions, therefore, must be given on their ideas of the English law, or on the fense of the principles of equity arising out of each particular case.

The English gentlemen, who understand both languages, have always, in my opinion, made up their judgments either on the laws of Canada; that is, the written cuftom of Paris, and fuch judgments, ordinances, and declarations of the intendants and fuperior council, and edicts, ordinances, and declarations of the Kings of France, as in their apprehenfions were introduced into, and applicable to the flate of, the colony antecendant to the conquest, or upon English law and flatutes, as the justice of the cafe required. Decisions . on real right, fince the Quebec Act, have, or ought to have, been governed by French law; many mixed and perfonal actions, particularly perfonal actions of a commercial nature, have been and must be decided by English lato and usage, or participate, to do justice, of English and French.

Anfwer XVIII. The Court of Appeals confifts of twenty-three members, Canadians and Englifh; any five of whom, with the governor, lieutenant governor, or chief juffice, make a Court of Appeals; each member gives his vote or voice on each caufe, beginning with the youngeft

rerafrity ty's exhis

beinto Pro-

ant, and als.

arahere pli-

their tents hem. there youngeft; and the majority of votes decide it. The Judges of this Court, as of the Common Pleas, (the Chief Juffice excepted,) have not been profeffionally bred to the law; therefore, it is not furprifing that judgments of courts, fo composed, and fo fluctuating, should be contradictory. I do not believe, that any court in the province has laid down, or established by its judgments, the law to govern commercial and personal actions in all cases.

Anfwer X1X. The gentlemen of the bar have appeared to me much embaraffed to advife their clients, of the law which the courts would adopt to decide perfonal actions, and ftill more fo to afcertain the law that would or ought to govern the points of practice. The ordinances of the province, the code civil of Louis XIV. in 1667, commercial laws of France and of England are reforted to as imagination directs. I have had occafion to confult the Englifh and Canadian advocates or practitioners, and have found fuch to be their legal advice.

Extract from the Evidence of Hugh Finlay, Efq. Member of the Legislative Council, and Judge in the Court of Appeals.

Anfwer XVII. The caufes Dobie and Gray v. Lyons; Anderson and Parr v. Thomson and Shaw; Shaw; were founded upon mercantile transfactions, and adjudged in the Court of Appeals by the ancient laws of Canada.

Anfwer XVIII. From my notes I find the following caufes were decided in the Courts of Appeals on the principles of Englift law,—Scheffelin v. William Grant; Louis Aimé v. Barrack Hays; Graham v. Park; M'Kenzie v. Brash and Lindefay; Grant and Blackwood v. Thomson and Shaw; Freeman v. Widow Perrault.

Anfreer XIX. I have not known that the Court of Appeals, in the decifion of any caufe, ever formally laid down a general principle of law to govern the transactions of his Majesty's subjects; but I believe both the English and Canadians, members of that Court, decide according to their conceptions of the spirit, true intent and meaning of the Quebec Act.

Some of the members, and I believe all the Canadian gentlemen, have conceived, that that Act has eftablished the ancient laws and customs of the country as the rule of decision in all cases of what kind or nature soever. Other members again most of the English) are of opinion, that where the parties are ancient subjects, the cause purely English, a mercantile or personal action, to do strict justice according to the real spirit and the true intent of the Quebec Act, the decision ought to be founded on the rule laid down for deciding a similar case in England.

Anfiver

as, -0-11fo ve, taer + ive eir to afthe ro-67, are had ad-

it.

ay, and

to

ray and w; Anfwer XX. The cafe of Mabbut and Wilkinfon, partie intervenante, against Howard, for George Allfopp to feize 19 hogsheads of brandy unpaid for, according to the coutume, was given infavour of Howard in the Court of Common Pleas. The judgment was reversed in the Court of Appeals on principles of English law.

Extract from the Evidence of George Pownall, Efq. Member of the Legislative Council, and Judge in the Court of Appeals, given before the Commissioners for the Investigation into the past Administration of Justice.

Answer XIII. I cannot take upon me to fay what have been the arguments, or what have been the points of law that may have guided my brother Judges of Appeals in their judgments and decifions, from memory, nor indeed is it in my power, from feldom hearing either their arguments or reasons whereon they have grounded their decifions.

For my own part, I can fay, that when I conceived the English law applied, as particularly in several causes of a mercantile nature, or on bills of exchange, I have, in such causes, formed my judgment to the best of my abilities on those laws.

Anfreer

ir

Ĩr.

te

po

an

20 th M Com VI

positive principle.

Anfwer XIX. I do not recollect any inftance where they have established a general rule or (129)

APPENDIX. No. XV.

Being Extracts from the Evidence given before the Commissioner for the Investigation into the past Administration of Justice in the Province of Quebec.

Extract from the Evidence of William Dummer Powell, Ely. Barrifter and Practitioner at the Bar of Montreal.

Anfwer II. During my practice, until the commencement of the last July Term, I have instituted 265 actions for sums above 101. amounting together to about the fum of one hundred and ten thousand pounds, nine tenths of which fum I suppose to have become due from mercantile transations, and of that again, nine tenths wherein old subjects were plaintiffs.

Anfwer IV. I have found the judgments of the Court of Common Pleas, for the district of Montreal, founded fometimes on the ordinances of K France.

ilfor idy inleas. beals

nall, and efore into

to fay have d my ments s it in argutheir

> I conrly in n bills ned my rs. Anfwer

(130)

France, fometimes on the cuflom of Paris, fometimes on the laws of England, but in common, I have not been able exactly to afcertain on what law they have been founded. I have known cafes adjudged by different rules of law; the greater number of judgments pronounced in caufes, in which I have been concerned, I confider to have been decided rather on the Judges' feufe of equity and moral rectitude, than on any known principle of law.

Anfwer XIII. I truly believe, that the major part of the judgments upon caufes pleaded, have been pronounced without any immediate attention to any direct law.

The judgments upon the fame points have been fo inconfistent, that it was not possible to advise on any given case subject to the least discussion, what would be the probable iffue.

Anfwer XVI. I have heard more than once, but cannot anfwer when, the Judges Frafer and Rouville declare from the Bench, that the ancient laws of Canada, with the ordinances of the Legiflative Council, were the fole laws for decifion of all civil actions in their courts, and I have heard (but cannot fix the time when) Judge Southouse declare upon the Bench, that he had no occasion for a knowledge of the French law contained in the books then on the table in Court, as his conficence was the law which guided his judgments.

Extract

a

b c fa

th

te

tic

pl

fe. by ce th

di

(131)

Extract from the Evidence of James Walker, Esq. Practitioner at the Bar of Montreal.

Anfiver II. I cannot afcertain the number of actions I was employed in prior to the 1ft of January 1780, as I kept no account of them before that time; but fince then, to the beginning of laft Term, making feven years and a half, I inflituted five hundred and eighty one; was of counfel in five hundred and odd others; and defended four hundred and twenty, all actions above ten pounds sterling; as to Friday fuits, or actions under ten pounds sterling that I have been employed in, on the nearest computation I can make, they exceed three thousand within the fame compass of time; and I believe, on a pretty exact calculation taken from my dockets and papers, I find that those various actions exceed three hundred thousand pounds, of which about nineteen twentieths has arofe from mercantile transactions.

Anfwer X. The use or necessity I found in applying fuch different quotations of laws from different countries to be taken up and confidered by the Court in giving their judgment, proceeded from a studied attention on my part in the beginning of my practice in this court, to discover what fixed or certain laws guided the not eve by r of nave rarefli-nes

part 1 prodirect

on any would once, er and he anof the r deciand I Judge he had ich law able in ided his

Extract

K 2

court

court in making and forming their judgments, and from the variety of decifions given in fimilar cafes, which I conceived entitled to fimilar judgments, I concluded that no fixed late, or any general rule or principle of law, governed them in making up the fame; but, on the contrary, had reason to believe, that their judgments were in general arbitrary, and governed either by the character and quality of the parties, or from their own ideas of right and wrong, without adverting to any law; from which observation, I have given opinions to rifk trials, where the governing law of the province has not been favourable to my caufe, confiding wholly for fuccefs in that uncertainty which appeared to me to pervade the vehole of their judgments; from those motives, and under those circumstances, I cited fach law as I could meet with in any degree applicable to my cafe, and when my client has not been totally out of favour with the court, I have frequently prevaried.

C

1

a

a

ġ

W

W

n

li

Anfiver XII. And a few days afterwards permitted a writ of feire facias, a process grounded on the common law of England, and unknown by the French law, to iffue on the judgment so entered.

Anjwer XVI. I have myself publicly complained, and heard every practitioner at the Bas complain, of the uncertainty of the proceedings, and of the judgments of the faid Court, for the want of having, having or knowing any general or determinate law, by which caufes in general, or caufes of any particular nature, real or perfoual, before the faid Court, would be adjudged; and I have myfelf complained, and heard every practitioner complain of the irregularity of the proceedings of the faid Court, and of its delays in hearing and ad-judging caufes before it.

Anfwer XVII. I have heard Mr. Juftice Frafer declare, that the ancient laws as ufed, and in force in this province prior to the conqueft, were the laws to prevail for the government of all civil actions and fuits before his Majefty's courts; and I have likewife heard Mr. Juftice Southoufe give his opinion, though I cannot pofitively fay whether from the Bench, that the law of England was the law that he fhould follow in the determination of fuits between Englifhman and Englifhman.

Extract from the Evidence of Arthur Davidfon, Efq. Attorney at Law and Practitioner at the Bar of Montreal.

Answer IV. The claims of both these plaintiffs were founded on the coutume de Paris, which I have heard admitted to be law, and not to be law, or at least have found it not to be followed or ob-K3 ferved ents, fimimilar or any em in , had in gearacter deas of law; ions to rovince wholly to me n those I cited applicatotally tly preds perinded on by the fo en-

the Bar , and of want of having, ferved as fuch, by all or any of the Judges of the faid Court, except Mr. Judge Southouse, whom I have always found confisient in his declarations, that it was no law to govern him.

Anfwer VI. Many caufes, I have no doubt, would have been determined differently from what they were, had fome edicts or ordinances which, it is my opinion, were legally in force in this province fince the Quebec Act took effect, been admitted as law; but whether fuch causes, as may have been to determined, were tried and judged in the faid Court upon the cuftom of Paris, or Roman and civil law, is beft known to the Court or Judges who tried them, I having feldom or never had the failsfation to be told, or to know on what law their decisions were founded; and most of the decisions, I have no doubt in my own mind, having been given not in proper legal conformity to any known law, but according to the ideas and will or pleasure of the Judges.

Anfiver VII. And that the power heretofore exercifed by the faid Judges of granting confervatory feizures, (every one of which, in my opinion, makes the perfon, againft whom it is put in force, to all intents and purpofes a bankrupt, if of a fituation or profeffion to become one,) in the most unlimited manner, and upon the most wague and frivolaus fuggestion and pretence, was of a most illegal, dangerous, and unwarrantable nature, and big faid m I that

(134)

bubt, from ances force k effuch were e cufbeft them, e told, unded; in my r legal to the tofore onfery opiput in crupt, in e moft us of a re, and big

(135)

big with danger to the first men in this district, and there is no law in this or any other country, having the least pretensions to freedom, that can or ought to arm judges with fuch diferentionary powers, as to make the first characters in the community, and particularly mercantile characters, tremble at a judge's nod.

Anfiver XIII. My mode of conducting my clients' caufes in the faid Court, as the means moft likely to be attended with fuccefs, has been to use fuch arguments as I have found best adapted to what I cannot call lefs than the prejudices of the Judges, after experiencing, to my great diffatiffaction and concern, that the best and most legal arguments, as well as authorities, which, in my judgment, I could adduce, were fo far from having weight with them, that they were often treated as mere chicane.

Anfwer XVI. I have heard Mr. Judge Frafer judicialy declare, I cannot take upon me to fay exactly when, or upon what particular occafions, that the ancient larges, as used and in force in this province prior to the conquest, where to be confidered as the larges now in force, for the decision of civil rights and fuits, or words to that or the like effect; also, on determining causes respecting bills and notes, and I believe on the treating forme other causes which I don't particularly recollect, that the larges of England were to be con-K 4 fidered as the laws in force, on which last occasion no other authorities scenningly were confulted by the Court, or had any weight. And I have heard Judge Southouse several times fay, that the ordinances of the province and his conscience were the only guides to govern him in his decisions.

A man might fue and have judgment for whatever he pleafed, in cafe the defendant did not appear and defend the action, contrary not only to the faid ordinances, but to every other law I know, except in England, in the cafe of fpecialties. The cafe of Wifeman against Thomas Walker, jun. on the 26th March, 1778, was the first judgment by default I have observed fince the year 1775, without its appearing by the register that any proof was given, or required to be given, of the debt. But afterwards there feem to be few or none otherwise, and some of them even for damages, as abovementioned.

July 2d 1778. Campeau against Poudret and Aubert; judgment by default for a blank fum, for alleged damages, without proof. The very fum demanded is alfo in blank, and without an attorney's name for the plaintiff.

Same day, Biffon Pretre against the fame defendant. Do. do.

July 9th 1778. Solomon against Rowland, nother judgment by default for a blank sum, both with regard to the demand and judgment.

September

'n

)Y

ve

at

It-

p-

X•

he

in.

g-ar

at of ew

nd for

dey's

e-μ;

th

er

September 24th, 1778. Jenifon against Jean Morin Richard; judgment by default for 381, 16s. damages without proof; according to a former entry too, of the 17th September, 351. only is demanded.

December 10th, 1778. Jean Volan against Thomas Lee, defendant called—don't appear condemned to pay the plaintiff 371. 198. 9d. with costs. This is a final judgment, and no default is stated, or appears to have been entered before, according to the ordinance.

June 7th, 1784. Col. Caldwell againft Brown; the defendant was condemned by default, as appears by the register, this day (the very fame day that the fummons was returned) to pay the fum demanded by the plaintiff, in which was included the penalty of an agreement, without proof that he had fuftained any damage whatever, by the non-performance of the agreement, or indeed any proof of any part of his demand, which amounted in all to 220l. with costs. It appears further by the register, that on the 14th of the fame month, the defendant was condemned a fecond time, and in the fecond judgment the faid penalty is mentioned to be 50l.

June 26, 1784. Andrews against Griverat and Vifgar, James Abbot, William Groifbie, and Montagu Tremble, of Detroit, merchants, judgment by default, on a bond of indemnity for 95181. 18s. 1d. lawful money, together with the interest and and cofis already accrued, and cofts of this fuit, amounting to 71. 105. 5d. and intercft till paid, without the least proof that the Plaintiff had been damnified, or fo much as any fuggestion or allegation tending that way, except that by virtue of judgments obtained against the house of Andrews, Griverat, and Wifgar. " The Plaintiff's " property was become liable to the payment of the " faid judgment debts.

Extract from the Evidence of Robert Ruffel, Attorney at Law, and Practitioner at the Bar, Quebec.

Jacque Frichet againft Pierre Savard. baker, he was in the winter of 1775, obliged to bake for the rebels; that finding the bufinefs too laborious, he took the defendant into partnerfhip; and that the defendant was indebted to him in confequence 201. 55. currency.

On the 2d of July following, the caufe was tried, when the Court made the following judgment, viz.—" The Court having heard the par-" ties, likewife the deposition of Charles Dionne, " orders J. Frichet, P. Savard, and Charles " Dionne, to be committed to the common pri-" ton, referving to give judgment for the flour " belonging uit, uid, been lletue Aniff's the ıffel, the ren-

that le a d to s too merd to was udgparonne, arles priflour ging (139)

" belonging to the rehels left in the cuftody of " the faid Frichet, Savard, and Dionne." The parties and the witnefs were committed inflanter, and, I believe, remained in prifon until releafed by Lord Dorchefter.

Anfwer III. The 30th title of the ordinance of 1667, Article II. whereby all agreements above 100 livres (equal to 41. 3s. 4d. currency) should be reduced into writing, has been quoted in divers causes in the faid Court as the law of the Province, and admitted as fuch, particularly in the caufe of Mr. M'Aulay against Antrobus, wherein the Court refused parol evidence to prove a leafe above 100 livres. It appears to have been rejected in the caufe of Henderfon against Stuart. where the Court (notwithstanding that the verbal lease mentioned in the plaintiff's declaration exceeded 100 livres) admitted parol evidence of the leafe. The Code Marchand was pleaded by Mr. Conftant Freeman, in the caufe inftituted against him by Thomas Boylston, but was rejected by the Court, as appears by the judgment. It was alfo quoted by the faid Conftant Freeman, in the fuit inftituted against him by Drummond and Jordan, as partner of the late Vialars. Mr. Freeman objected to the Court's admitting parol evidence of the partnership, and quoted the first article of the 4th title, notwithstanding which the Court made an an interlocutory order, or judgment, admitting John Jones as an evidence, on taking the voir dire oath. It was also quoted by Louis Chaperon, in the caufe inftituted againft him by Gregory and Woolfey, and rejected without the Court's Affigning any reason for fo doing. On the opposition à fin de distraire of the trustees to the effate of Charles Voyer, in confequence of the execution fued out at the inftance of Cameron, Stuart, and Rofs, againft defendant's moveable property, the code marchand was quoted by the trustees and rejected, and the effects ordered to be fold by the fheriff.

(140)

Anfwer XI. There has not been that certainty in a knowledge of the laws from the judicial determinations of the Court, that I have been able to inftruct my clients what law fhould govern the cafe, except in fome cafes not of a commercial nature, where I confidered the coutume to be decifive.

Extract from the Evidence of Thomas Walker, Attorney at Law, and Practitioner at the Bar, Quebec.

Anfwer VI. The judgments feldom expressed upon what law, or by what authority, they were decided; the Judge's ideas of right and wrong prevailed, I conceive, oftener than any law. Anfwer

(141)

Anfiver to VII. In conducting the caufes intrufted to me, I have quoted, as the beft means of fuccefs, the flatute and common law of England, the coutume de Paris, and edicts and ordinances of the French King, and the Roman and civil laws in writing and verbally, and have, to the beft of my power, fupported the admiffibility of fuch part or parts of all or either of them, as I confidered applied moft favourably to my client's cafe, or which, from my experience in the Courts, I confidered would have moft weight with the Judges. To inflance the caufes wherein I have adopted this mode, would be to enumerate every caufe of intricacy, or indeed of confequence, I ever was employed in.

sì

t

e

1

e

e

1 đ

ł

Anfiver XI. There has not (as it is flated in the preceding anfwer) been that certainty in the knowledge of the laws from the judicial determinations, by which I could inform my clients on what authority 1 had gained or lost their fuits.

Anfiver XIII. The complaints of the prafiliers at the bar have been fo loud on the head of uncertainty, that every perfor must have head them. It has ever been my constant opinion to clients, on confultation, that we were totally in the dark what law prevailed, and particularly in perforal actions, that I knew not how to advise them for the best. I always considered the event of a fuit depending upon the principles of law in the Courts in Canada (142) nada, as very precarious, and I appeal to those gentlemen whofe caufes I have conducted, or who have applied to me for advice, if I have not been uniform in this idea. I have heard every gentleman of the profession here, and at Montreal, complain grievoully of the irregularity in the Courts. I recollect, at a meeting of the advocates of Quebec, some short time after his Honour the Chief Juffice had requested them for information refpecting the laws and practice, and their ideas of what alterations and amendments might be neceffary, that the whole body were unanimous, that we were in a flate of diforder, confusion and uncertainty, in point of rules of law and practice, out of which it was highly neceffary we thould be extricated.

Anfaver XVI. The irregularities that must neceffarily arise in Courts where there is no rules of practice, or where the questions are involved in uncertainty, are inevitable and require remedy. Irregularities of another and more dangerous nature have arisen, either from the want of profesfional knowledge in the Judges, or from gross neglect or inattention; as for inflance. In Sept. 1782, Cohen profecuted Solomons for the recovery of a fum due to him as reader and killer of the fynagogue, and which Solomons was liable for, as ruler thereof. Defendant denied the debt. Plaintiff produced evidence; and thereupon (143) upon obtained judgment for his demand, with coits. Solomons appealed, and I was employed by Cohen to defend the appeal. Upon examining the record, I found that the depositions of the witneffes, produced by Cohen in the inferior Court, were not fent down. I thereupon moved the Court of Appeals for a rule on the Judges of the Court below to perfect the record. The rule was granted and transmitted. The Judges anfwered, and returned as follows, viz.

f

f

" We certify, that Meff. Samuel and Uriah Judab " were examined as witneffes for the Plaintiff on the " trial of this caufe, and from whose testimony the cause appeared so clear, that we did not attend to the taking down their evidence, not foresseing an appeal.

(Signed)

" Montreal, "JOHN FRASER, " 16th June, 1783. "Hertel de Rouville."

The confequence was, the Court of Appeals gave judgment upon the proofs before them. Solomon obtained a reverfal of the judgment appealed from, and my client loft his caufe, and thereby the money which appeared to the Judges fo clearly due to him, and had about thirty pounds coft to pay, becaufe the Judges did not forefee an appeal.

Aird against Chamont. In this cafe the judgment of the Court of Common Pleas, for the district diffrict of Montreal, was founded upon a depofition taken at Mr. Judge Frafer's country house, and certified by him to be the same in the following words :--

"The fame deposition was made in open Court before judgment was given, although, by fome miftake, it was not taken down.

" Long-point, (Signed) " 30th July, 1787. " J. FRASER." Though more than a month after judgment rendered.

I do confider the irregularities, in general, proceeded from the want of certainty in the administration of justice, and from a want of known laws, rules, and orders of practice, which ought to have been laid down by the Court. As far as my own experience and obfervation enable me to form an opinion, and indeed from the obfervations of all the gentlemen at the Bar, I may fafely affert, that no politive knowledge of the laws could be obtained from the judicial decifions of the Courts in this province; and fo great was the uncertainty thereof, that after the argument of a caufe, and before judgment, I have frequently feen the event or fuccefs of a fuit decided among the advocates by the turning up of a piece of money, or the drawing of ftraws.

Anfwer

(145)

Infruer XXI. Grace and favour may be applied with great propriety to a judgment rendered in the Common Pleas of Montreal.

j.

C)

1-

e-[-

1,

1-

'n

1E IS 0

t-

e

nz y

d

۲ S

e

La Breche versus Billaire, the judgment states, " Le tout confideré sans avoir égard aux temoins du " demandeur, la cour renvoie le dit demandeur de son " action avec depens *."

APPENDIX, No. XVI.

Being Extracts from the Evidence given before the Commissioner for the Investigation into the past Administration of Justice in the Province of Quebec.

Extract from the Evidence of William Goodall, Efq. Partner in the Houfe of Brook Watfon and Co. of London, Merchants.

Answer VIII. I have upwards of eight hundred debtors in this province; but from the uncertainty of

* Translation.—The Court having confidered the whole, without paying any attention to the witneffes of the plaintiff, difmiss the faid plaintiff from his action, with costs.

the

(146)

the laws, and the great expense created by delays in the Courts, I am afraid to take legal methods to recover the debts which are due to me.

Extract from the Evidence of John Young, Merchant of Quebec.

Anfwer IX. I never attended the Court of Common Pleas, either from curiofity, or on my own bufinefs, having never had a law fuit, except as the attorney or agent of others; but during the times I have been obliged to attend, I have not heard, on any occafion, the Court or any of the Judges declare, that the bankrupt laws of France, or the Code Marchand of Louis XIV. made in 1673, or the Ordinance of 1702, were the laws of this province, until about fourteen or twenty days ago, I received in charge as a juryman from the Bench, that where they were not altered by the ordinances of the Legiflative Council, they were in full force.

Extract from the Evidence of George Allfopp, Efq. late of the Legiflative Council, and Judge in the Court of Appeals.

fc

h

Anfwer I. Refpecting the caufes wherein my own name or the names of perfons I acted for, do (147)

do appear fince the year 1776, in the confultations I have held with my advocates, Mr. Monk and Mr. Panet, at Quebec, they have always given me very doubtful opinions of fuccefs, not with regard to the juffice of the caufes I was concerned in, but with respect to what the decision of the Judges might chance to be, from the uncertainty of the laws in general, from not knowing whether the Judges would apply any, or what particular law to the cafe, or according to their wills give equitable decisions, upon the maxim laid down of doing, what the faid Judges termed, fubftantial juffice. And this I have understood of the Court of Appeals, as well as the Court of Common Pleas at Quebec.

Answer III. For the above, and other motives and reafons affigned in my answer to the first interrogatory, but especially from the opposition those Judges made to every falutary proposition offered by me to the faid Council, in the feffions of 1779, 1780, 1781 and 1782, for a reform in the courts of law, for granting the King's fubjects the laws of England in matters of commerce and perfonal wrongs, with the trial by a jury, and the benefit of the writ of habeas corpus for perfonal fecurity as aforefaid, I confidered the faid Judges as inimical to me and to my affairs, and have therefore dreaded, and been deterred, for many years past, from bringing fuits into the Courts of Com-L 2 mon

ys 10

ıg,

of my exlurl, I t or rupt ouis 702, ource as were ative

jopp, udge

n my 1 for, do mon Pleas in this province; nor have I done fo unlefs unavoidable.

Extract from the Evidence of Andrew Cameron, Merchant of Quebec.

Answer II. I certainly have confidered myself injured by the uncertainty of the laws and irregularity of proceedings. My fuits of law have been in the Court of Common Pleas, for the diftrift of Quebec. In 1786, I had a fuit to defend with Mr. George Irwine in the faid Court, and defired leave of the Court to offer proof, and have my evidence fworn to fupport my defence; but Mr. Judge Mabane not only refused to hear my evidence, but to hear any arguments from my attorney, Mr. Robert Ruffel, to fupport my caufe. At a future day judgment was given against me by the faid Court, without kearing my faid attorney, or admitting my evidence. I afterwards appealed the caufe; but upon confulting my counfel, was obliged to drop my appeal for want of that evidence being admitted in the faid Court of Common Pleas,

Extract

(149)

ne so

eron,

nyfelf irrehave e diflefend , and , and fence ; ear my attorcause. nft me torney pealed el, reas vidence Pleas. Extract from the Evidence of Mr. Alexander Auldjo, Merchant of Montreal.

Anfiver I. In November 1784, when the petition alluded to was figned, I was not in the province, therefore cannot fay by whom or how many it was figned; but I have reafon to believe, by a very confiderable refpectable number of of English and French, as well in the town as in the country. Had I been in the province, I should have figned it, as I think it contains nothing that was not then, and now is, firidly true.

Anfiver II. The uncertainty of the laws having infused in the generality of minds a want of confidence in the decisions of the Courts, I have avoided, as much as in my power, bringing caufes before them; those I did were generally fuch as could not admit of uncertainy. In the action, myfelf against Loubet, my advocate, Mr. Powell, zvas in the utmost uncertainty respecting the event; but coinciding with me, that we had fome chance from the uncertainty of the Court, I ordered him to proceed, and we prevailed. In the opposition made by Cartier to the diffribution of Bernard's effects, I experienced fuch uncertainty and delays, and my advocate, Mr. Davidion, having declared it impoffible to fay how or when an end might be put to it; that I was obliged, with his advice to com-L 3 pound pound with Cartier, to the very great loss of my conftituents; and I do declare, had I not taken that mode, it's my opinion it would not now have been fettled.

Extract

Anfwer III. Delays and irregularities, as well as the uncertainty of the laws and decifions of the Courts, I have often heard complained of by all the English advocates at the Bar, and by my fellow citizens. In the cause of J. la Croix against W. White, I have myself experienced it, having never been able to get a copy of the judgment, nor do I believe there is any such on the registers.

Extract from the Evidence of Mr. Thomas Forfyth, Merchant of Montreal, Partner in the House of Robert Ellice and Co.

Anfwer II. I have heard feveral attorneys declare, that fuch was the uncertainty of the laws, they could hardly form any opinion on any cafe; that chance directed in a great measure the proceedings of the Courts.

Extract from the Evidence of Mr. Joseph Howard, Merchant of Montreal,

Anfwer II. Meff. Powell and Walker have repeatedly complained to me of the uncertainty of (151) of the laws, (particularly Mr. Powell, when I applied to him for advice,) and of the mal-administration of justice in the Court of Common Pleas of this place; the Judges, they faid, determined fometimes by French, fometimes by English law, and fometimes by a mixture of both.

Extract from the Evidence of Edward William Gray, Esq. Sheriff of the District of Montreal.

Anfwer VII. A caufe where George Lyons was plaintiff and White defendant, in which this deponent, with Mr. Richard Dobie, as truftees to the effate of M'Kenny and Caldwell, bankrupts, were admitted intervening parties, to oppofe the delivery and payment of a certain fum of money feized and attached in the hands of the faid bankrupts by the faid George Lyons, judgment was given againft the faid deponent and the faid Richard Dobie, in their faid quality, contrary to every principle of law, as this deponent conceives and believes.

Anfwer IX. and X. John Frafer of London, Efq. afked my opinion, whether Mr. Powell would not be the most proper perfon to be employed as an attorney or advocate, in his affairs in the Court of Common Pleas, observing that be had L 4 heard

f my taken now

s well ns of of by y my igainst never r do I bomas ver in ys delaws, 1 any be pro-

Joseph

have rtainty of (152)

beard he was favourably attended to by Mr. Judge Frafer, and he accordingly employed him.

Extract from the Evidence of Richard Dobie, Merchant of Montreal.

Anfwer II. I can fcarce give a ftronger inftance than that of my caufe with John Grant againft William Taylor and Co. The judgment given in which was reverfed in October last by Mr. Judge Fraser, with not a little violence of heat and passion, and to which the other two Judges, Mess. Rouville and Southouse, who had pronounced it, most tamely acquiesced, more than seventeen months after the date of it, when, according to the ordinance of the province for regulating such matters, so far as English could be understood, there could not legally be so much as an appeal towards getting it reversed by the Superior Court.

The cafe above referred to, of William Kay againft David M'Crea, was fully argued before Meff. Frafer and Southoufe, on the Saturday before Mr. Frafer fet out for Quebec, in January 1787. On the Saturday following, Mr. De Rouville and Mr. Southoufe were on the Bench, when the plaintiff's council, in the abfence of the defendants (Mr. Powell being then at Quebec) moved for judgment; but Mr. De Rouville, on that day, very juftly obferved, how improper it would (153)

20

e, n-nt

nt

ſr.

nd

ſ.

)ft

er

cę

ſo

lđ

ıg

iy re ry iry ie-) n it it would be in him to decide in a caufe in which he had heard no part of the pleadings, that being the first time it was mentioned before him in Court; but on the Monday or Tuesday following Mr. De Rouville and Mr. Southouse came both into the Court and immediately gave judgment, without hearing a single word on the part of the defendant.

I conceive it proper in me to add, that until the introduction of the Coutume de Paris, in the year 1775, I never heard any complaints touching the administration of justice; but fince that period, they have been loud and frequent, and, in my humble opinion, have arisen from the anarchy and confusion which prevail in the laws and courts of justice in the province, for determining of fuits touching the property of bis Majefly's jubjects.

APPENDIX.

(154)

APPENDIX. No. XVII.

IN THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Brook Watfon and Robert Rosleigh, and Rasleigh and Others, and William Goodall, APPEL-LANTS;

AND

Simon Frafer fenior, Attorney to Thomas Franklin, Plaintiff below, against Robert Wilcocks Defendant, on Execution against his Real Estate, RESPONDENT.

IN APPEAL, Thurfday 21st Feb. 1788.

The parties, by their counfel, having been fully heard, it is by the confideration of this Court adjudged, that the judgment by the Court below be reverfed with cofts to the Appellants, to be taxed, and that the Appellants be reftored to, and have, the benefit and preference given by law to the mortgage under which they made oppofition and claim as valid and effectual in the law.

And purfuant to the ordinance of 27th George III. it is fuggested as the ground of the judgment of this Court;

That

leigk ELankcocks Real

this ourt ourt ored iven nade the orge dg-

'hat

That, after the refeizure of this country by the French crown, on furrender of the Company to whom it had before been granted, the French King, by his edict of 1663, afterwards registered at Quebec on the 18th September of that year, placed it under a Sovereign Council in the country, with the cognizance of all caufes civil and criminal, to judge fovereignly, and in the laft refort, according to the laws and ordinances of his kingdom; and to proceed, as nearly as might be, in the form and manner practifed and maintained in the jurifdiction of the Court of Parliament of Paris, referving to the French King neverthelefs, agreeable to his fovereign authority, power to alter, reform and enlarge the faid laws and ordinances; to repeal, abolish and make new, or such other establishments, statutes and conftitutions, as should appear to him to be more ufeful to his fervice, and for the welfare of his fubjects of the faid country. That the Sovereign Council, fo established, was afterwards confirmed by an edict of the 5th June 1675, regiftered at Quebec on the 23d September following, with certain alterations; among others, introducing into the fame Sovereign Council an Intendant of Juffice, Police and Finance, thereby commanding that the edict of 1663 should be executed according to its form and tenor, fo far as the fame was thereby not altered. The Intendant

Intendant being created Prefident of the faid Sovereign Council, and authorifed to perform the functions, and enjoy the advantages, of the First or Chief Prefident of the King's Court in France.

That the Court of Sovereign Council, (having under it fubordinary Courts of Prevoté and Ordinary Juftice) was maintained to the British conquest of the Colony, and accessions of authority and alterations made, fignified by edicts, and other royal acts, registered from time to time in the records of the faid Province.

That among other edicts in that interval, is one in June 1679, refpecting the ordinance or code civil of Louis XIV. in 1667, which that edict of June 1679 alters to fuit it to the condition of the Colony, and which code civil was altered at the inftance of the Sovereign Council by process verbal of the 7th November 1678, transmitted for the King's confideration, whole edict adopts the proposed alterations with exceptions, and contains the intimation that they were made agreeable to orders he had given for the execution of the faid ordinance of 1667, and that the faid edict of 1679 was registered in the Province on the 23d day of October 1679.

That neither the ordinance du commerce of March 1673, commonly called the Code Marchand, nor the Declaration of the 18th Nov. 1702, appears ever to have been registered in the records

(156)

(157)

e

ft

g yd

n

S

le

ł

f

t

s 1

S

ł

records of the Sovereign Council, nor therefore could have been in legal and general use and practice prior to the conquest; and fince the conquest has fometimes been admitted to be law, and at other times denied, as well in the Courts of Common Pleas, as by the Court of Appeals, without any act or ordinance of the Provincial Legissature concerning the fame.

That the ancient laws of the Colony, confifting of fo much of the coutume de Paris, divers parts of the Roman law, and the ordinances of the French King, anterior to the eftablishment of the Sovereign Council, as applied to the condition of the Province, and the fubfequent French ordinances and edicts made to bind it, do not warrant the judgment of the Common Pleas; the mortgage in queftion not appearing to be one of those acts which the ancient laws refeinded, as done in fraudem creditorum, but valid within the rules prior tempore, potior jure, vigilari, meliorem meam conditionem feci, et jus civile vigilantibus fcriptum est, no event having fallen out, nor any ftep been taken, to avoid the rights and powers of the mortgage to make the incumbrance aforefaid.

The modern European laws of bankruptcy, as the effect of improved policy and refinement, for the general utility and extended commerce, being not called for by the condition of a new country (158)

country of husbandmen, thinly settled, under feudal tenures and an unlimited monarchy, not only accounts for the non-registry and non-adoption of the Code Marchand, and the later commercial edicts, but repels the doctrine that the edicts and ordinances of France indifcriminately made a part of the law of her Colonies; and fhews the neceffity of the rule, that the Colonists carried over with them only fo much of the law of the mother country as was fuited to their condition, and her posterior laws can't affect them without the clearest manifestation of the intention of the law-giver to bind them :-- the contrary tenet being as abfurd as that quackery which administers the fame dose in all difeases, and to patients of every conftitution.

That the Province had not been predifpofed for the operation of the Code Marchand in toto, and that it cannot be extended by parcels by any authority lefs than that for which the legiflature is competent, now happily at hand by the ftatute called the Quebec Act, to introduce fuch improvements of Great Britain, France and other nations, as the change in the condition of the Province (fcarcely yet become a commercial one) may permit or require.

APPENDIX.

(159)

APPENDIX. No. XVIII.

Extract from the Metion by the Hon. William Grant, Efq. Member of the Legiflative Council of Quebec, made in Council April 1784.

I PROPOSE that a Committee of this legiflative body be named to take into confideration and prepare an humble addrefs to his Majefty in Parliament to request that he may be pleased to institute an Affembly, or such other constitutional and elective body, which may represent the people of this Prowince, in fuch manner, form, and in fuch numbers as his Majefty in his wifdom shall judge proper; and that this Affembly, or Elective Body, may be invested with the ordinary powers of an English Colony Legislature.

And I propose that the following, among other reasons, be alledged in favour of this address and proposition.

ift. That as the Quebec Bill reftrains the Legiflative Council from imposing taxes, except those which the inhabitants of a town or diffrict may be authorised to impose, raise, and apply for making and repairing public roads and buildings, and for other local conveniences, on this account, fuch an Afembly, or Elective Body, reprefenting feating the people of this Province, is become abfolately neceffary to its profperity and happinefs, as experience has now fully demonstrated that the power delegated to this Legislative Council relating to taxation, is not fufficient for the public exigences.

2d. That inventy-four years experience proves that his Majefly's Canadian fubjects expect (as they have always had it in view) that the conflictutional government promifed to them by the Royal Proclamation of October 1753, and by the 12th fection of the Quebec Act, will be established.

3d. That their hopes of obtaining in due time reprefentatives of their own choice, is probably the reafon that no town or diffrict has, thus far, defired the aid or authority of this Council to impofe, raife, or apply any tax whatever. On this account, all the public buildings of the Province, for convenience or fafety, have been fupported entirely at the expence of the Crown, though they are at prefent in a very ruinous fituation, and becoming every day lefs fit for their original purpofes.

5th. That the power of raifing a revenue for fupplying the wants of Government, and for encouraging fuch eftablifhments as will promote induftry, commerce, agriculture, &c. and to be applied as the Reprefentatives of the People may direft, is as effential to Government as to perfonal liberty, liberty, and to the natural rights of British subjects.

bici

ex-

the la-

lic

bat

al-

112-of

bec

ne

oly

ar,

to

Dn

·0-р-

n,

fi-eir

or

n-

n-

be

i-

al

7,

6th. That it be further confidered, that as many of his Majefty's loyal but unfortunate fubjects, formerly inhabitants of the Colonies, now the United States of America, defire to fettle themfelves in this Province of Quebec, whether a free reprefentation, or other conflitutional effablifhment, would not be the moft effectual means of attaining fuch a defirable object—the period is now arrived for putting the laft hand to the formation, and for permanently fixing the legiflature of this Province; and of rendering it thereby ufeful, inflead of being a burthen to the people and crown of Great Britain; let us then humbly intreat his Majefty to embrace the opportunity.

7th. The Members of the Legislative Council being (as it is understood) removeable at the pleasure of the Crown, and many of them doubly so from holding other places of profit and public trust, and no qualification is required by law for such perfors as are named for the Council, but refidence in the Province,

Nine Members affembled, being the majority of feventeen, are fufficient to form a Council to tranfact bufinefs, it follows therefore, that five Members, with the confent of his Majefty's Governor, can make laws to bind his Majefty's fubjects in all cafes.

Μ

Extract

Extract from the Proteft of the Hon. Williams Grant, Efq. Member of the Legislative Council, made in Council, April 1784.

ti to

v b þ

d

tl

C

f

p ci

t Ì.

te

0 n

ti V h fe

p n ti

C

DISSENTIENT,

rft. Because he thinks that this Legislative Council (as it is established by the Quebec Act) is not duly qualified to make such laws and ordinances as are absolutely necessary to promote the interests of commerce, the good government and the prosperity of the Province.

and. Becaufe his Majefty's fubjects can never enjoy folid happinefs under any law for their internal government, in the framing of which they have not participated by their reprefentatives elected by themfelves.

3d. Becaufe I am convinced that his Majefty's ancient fubjects will always extend their views and their demands for the performance of his Majefty's promife, folemnly given by his Royal Proclamation of the 7th October 1763, under the faith whereof they left their native country, and fettled in this Province of Quebec.

5th. Because the English subjects have always considered an elective representative body as their birth-right, as it forms the balance of power which which fecures liberty, and renders civil fociety mild and agreeable to man.

473

12-

ve

t)

dinnđ

ler

er-

ve

by v's

WS.

nis

al

ler

y, ys

eir

er

ćh

6th. Becaufe I firmly believe, in my conficience, that it is now the interest of Great Britain generously to grant to this Colony a constitution and form of Government calculated not only to fatisfy all the inhabitants, but, by its benefits, advantages and liberty, to excite the envy of the New Independent American States, and to make them regret their feparation from that beneficient Mother Country, of whose protection, humanity and freedom, they had received fo many fignal proofs.

7th. Because I am of opinion, that a free participation in the Government is better adapted to unite the fubjects, to rouse their emulation and to extend and improve their understanding, than any other form of Government whatever, however mild it may be.

8th. Becaufe the principal ufe of this country to Great Britain appears to be for the confumption of her manufactures, and for fupplying the Weft India Islands with horfes, wood, flour, &c. her European allies with fish and flour, and herfelf with hemp, lumber, furs, oil, &c. To promote the progress of these branches of commerce, it will be neceffary to direct the attention of the people to the great objects of agriculture, the fisheries and trade; and to give vi-M 2 gour à

(164)

tl

1)

e

p

e

d

n ti

gour and life to this great commercial machine. And I infift and maintain, that the beft and most natural means of making it move with spirit and fuccess, will be a free Government and elective representation. The power to excite and animate industry ought to be placed in the hands of those perfons, who probably, from their purfuits, are obliged to make mercantile affairs their principal study and employment.

Extract from the Proteft by the Hon. Henry Hamilton, Efq. Lieutenant Governor of the Province, and Member of the Legiflative Council, made in Council, April 1784.

DISSENTIENT,

ift. The flate and circumstances of the Province are totally changed fince the publication of the Quebec Act; its prefent limits, the independence of its neighbours, the eftablishment of the loyalists, with their families, in it—these things involve matter for the most ferious confideration, and require answers to the following questions:—Is the Province at prefent in the most advantageous fituation? Are the laws, the trade of the Province, and the privileges and liberty of the people, upon that footing that is most likely to excite among chine. oft nafuccess, tation. ought , who ged to dy and

Henry of the iflative

rovince Quebec of its yalifts, nvolve ind re--Is the ous fiovince, e, upexcite among (165)

among strangers the defire of fettling in it, and the inhabitants the defire of flaying in it?

I will venture to fay, that every possible encouragement ought to be given by Government-the free exercife of religion, the advantages which flow from peace, the extension of commerce, and the exemption, as much as poffible, from taxes, in order to induce a preference of the British Government, and to compenfate the inconveniencies of the climate and fituation.

APPENDIX. No. XIX.

Extract from Observations published by the English and French Committees of the Cities of Quebec and Montreal, with the Signature thereto in February 1785.

NOUS nous attendons qu'il y aura de l'oppofition a nos addresses; mais elle ne viendra que de la part de ceux qui confidereront plus leurs interets que ceux du du public. Les changements d'Administration et de Governement sont le plus souvent funcs aux personnes qui ont des places lucratives, parceque plusieurs d'elles les ayant obtenues par faveur, il leur est naturel de s'opposer à tout ce qui pourroit leur faire craindre la perte de leurs emplois ou de leurs appointements; c'est pourquoi, nous vous prions d'examiner nôtre etat et nôtre profession, et de les comparer a l'etat et à la profession de ceux qui s'opposeront à nos address, et vous jugerez aisement des motifs qui les feront agir.

M 3

A present que nous avons mis notre addreffe fous les yeux du public, et que nous lui avons expliqué toutes nos intentions et nos idées fur les diverses demandes qu'elle contient, nous soumettons le tout à la reflection et au jugement de ce public, pour qui nous entendons que feront les avantages de la reforme qu'on demande. Nous n'avons et nous ne pouvons avoir aucun interet separé du sun, dans cette addresse nous n'avons cherché que notre bonheur et celui de notre posterité, dans le bonheur general de la province. Nous le repetons encore, nous ne demandons ni places ou offices, ni penfions du Governement, nos demandes sont generales et s'etendent à tous les individus de la province, et nous nous croirons suffisament recompensés des peines que nous nous sommes donné (167)

donné dans cette affaire, si le bonheur et la tranquilité de nos compatriotes peuvent en resulter*.

Signed by all the Members of the Committees.

* Translation.—We expect that there will be fome oppofition to our Petitions; but it will proceed only from those who pay more attention to their own private views and interes, than to those of the public. All changes in the Goverment or Administration, are dangerous to such perfors as hold lucrative places and poss, because they are most commonly obtained by favour; it is therefore very natural that they should oppose every thing that may endanger the loss of their places or appointments. On that account we request you will pay particular attention to our situation in life, and to the professions we follow, and compare them with the situations and professions of those who may oppose our Petitions, and you will be able easily to judge of the motives which influence either party.

Having now laid our Petition before the public, and having explained all our intentions and ideas on the different claufes of it, we fubmit the whole to the confideration and judgment of that public for whom all the benefits and advantages of the reform demanded, are intended. We have not, nor can we have any views of intereft feparate from the public. In thefe petitions we have fought for our own happinefs and that of our pofterity, in the general happinefs of the province. We again repeat it, that we neither afk for pofts, places, or penfions from Government; our requefts are general, and include every individual of the province; and we fhall confider ourfelves as fufficiently recompenfed for the trouble we have had in this affair, if the happinefs and tranquillity of our fellow fubjects are thereby more perfectly fecured.

M 4

APPENDIX.

neftes parcear face qui 's emrquoi, nôtre a proreffes, feront

ration

ldreffe avons fur les unetde ce nt les Nous Separé ie que e bonns en+ ffices, s font de la it renines lonné

(168)

APPENDIX, No. XX.

To his Excellency the Right Hon. Guy Lord Dorchefter.

Humbly Sherveth,

• THAT at a public meeting of the citizens of Quebcc and Montreal respectively, held in the fall of the year 1784, a Committee from their number was chosen, for the purpose of framing and conducting Petitions to his Majefty, and to both Houses of Parliament, which Petitions were dated in November of that year, and figned by upwards of two thousand three hundred old and new fubjects; that feveral vacancies in the Committee then chofen having occasionally happened, by death and otherwife, new members were neceffarily appointed; that the members of the faid Committee fo chofen and continued, have the honour to addrefs your Lordship on behalf of themselves and their constituents, the subscribers to the aforefaid Petition of 1784, and to fnew, that, by your Lordship's condescension, the inhabitants of this Province have been favoured with a publication, in the Quebec Gazette, of the Petitions to his Majesty and to your Lordship, lately prefented in the name of the Canadians, dians, bearing date the thirteenth day of October laft paft, and figned by a confiderable body of landholders and others, his Majefty's new fubjects, to the number of feven hundred and fortyfour, in opposition to the objects of reform proposed in the Petition of 1784, already mentioned, and to the steps which have been taken in conducting it.

đ

of

he ir

g

to re

ЭY

ıd

1-

d,

e-ie ve

lf

i-

to n,

a-

e, 1-

1-5,

That your Memorialist, in attending to the interests of their constituents, and their own, have thought it their indifpensable duty to take into confideration the various matters and affertions contained in the aforefaid Petition of the 13th of October, and humbly to flate to your Lordship in reply thereto, that his Majefty's old and new subjects, by their Petition of 1784, praying for a Houfe of Affembly, and the introduction of the laws of England regarding commerce, had not the most distant wish or intention to procure the abolition of the ancient laws and cuftoms of Canada, as is afferted by their opponents; on the contrary, a continuation of the faid laws and cuftoms is expressly and particularly prayed for in the faid Petition of 1784, Article IV.- as will more fully appear to your Lordship by a printed copy thereof hereunto annexed-that contrary to the conduct and affertion of their opponents, the Petitioners of 1784 proceeded candidly, publicly and impartially, in framing their Petition, which which was printed in the French language, and dispersed it into all parts of the country, accompanied with explanatory observations and arguments which yet remain unanswered.

That his Majefty's Canadian fubjects, who joined in the faid Petition of 1784, to the number of one thousand five hundred and eighteen, and whose sentiments and wishes are still the same, are more than double in number, and not less respectable, than the Petitioners of the 13th of October last, in point of loyalty, wealth, character, or knowledge of the true interests of this Province.

That the agent of the faid Petitioners of 1784, in carrying forward their Petition to the notice and difcuffion of Parliament, was not guilty either of temerity or injuffice in prefenting himfelf in the name of, and as agent for, those Petitioners, being unanimoufly chosen and empowered for that purpose by the English and Canadian Committees, representing the whole body of Petitioners, whether old or new subjects.

Your Memorialifts beg leave to obferve to your Excellency, that many of the Petitioners of the 13th October laft, did, in a Petition to the Throne in the year 1783, complain of the actual legiflature in a more pointed manner than is fet forth in our Petition of 1784, yet they do not now afk for any reform in the prefent fyftem of government; but prefer a diffunction among his Majefty's ty's fubjects; notwithstanding that in the aforefaid Petition of 1783, they pray, "that whatever " form of government it shall please his Majesty " to establish in this Province, they may be ad-" mitted freely, and without diffinction, to par-" ticipate in the precious rights and privileges " which his Majefty's fubjects enjoy, in what-" ever part of the empire they are fituated." Your Lordship being fully sensible that British subjects confider as one of their most valuable privileges, the right of being reprefented in the legislature, your Petitioners humbly conceive, that to them it more properly belongs to remark, that to refuse them this diffinguishing privilege, implies a doubt of that loyalty and attachment which they have never ceafed to demonstrate.

Your Memorialifts yield with reluctance to a neceffary part of their duty, in remarking to your Lordfhip, with all due refpect, that in the lift of their opponents appear the names of Judges, Counfellors, and others, in the enjoyment of penfions and places of profit under the prefent fystem of government, to the amount of two thousand feven hundred and forty-five pounds, upon which circumftance they forbear to comment. That in the faid lift, particularly among the feigniors, the names of fome appear who are not feigniors, and of others who having affumed titles to which they are found to have no pretensions; we submit to your Lordschip

d 1-1-10 er nd re le, in of 4, ce ier in rs, for ntito of he hal ſet bw mefv's

(172)

ship what weight perfons of those descriptions, ought justly to have in the present case.

That the Petitioners of the 13th October laft, having reprefented themfelves to his Majefty, and to your Lordship, as the great proprietors or principal landholders in this province, your Memorialists think it incumbent on them to state to your Lordship, from the best information they can procure, an account of all the feigniories in Canada, (those of his Majesty and the religious communities excepted) with an estimate of their annual value, which is hereunto annexed, and humbly submitted to your Lordship's knowledge and information. By the aforesaid estimate, your Lordship will observe, that the annual revenue of the feigniories, in the possibility of the the state of the state functions.

That the feigniories posselfed by his Majesty's new fubjects, who have not joined in the petition of the 13th October last, are computed at the yearly income of eight thousand eight hundred and ninetyfive pounds, whilst the sciencies belonging to the fubscribers to that address do not amount in annual revenue to fix thousand pounds; from this comparative statement, which your memorialists have reason to confider as free from error as the nature of the enquiry will admit of, your Excellency may judge how far the Petitioners of the 13th October last are entitled to that pre-eminence which which they claim, and if the real and perfonal eftates of all the other Petitioners of 1784, could be thus contrasted with those of their opponents, the great fuperiority of the former would be still more evident and firiking, efpecially as the commercial property in this province, whether belonging to the merchants of Great Britain or Canada, is almost wholly represented by the Petitioners of 1784, an estimate of which was submitted to the Honourable Legislative Council in their feffion of 1787, amounting to the fum of one million two hundred and forty-fix thousand and twentythree pounds, fix shillings and eight-pence. Your Memorialists beg leave further to add, that the extenfive and valuable poffeffions of the numerous lovalifts and others lately fettled in this province, and which are daily encreasing, are not reckoned and comprehended in any of the foregoing effimates.

That the opposition made by the petition of the 13th of October last, to that of November 1784, being thus founded on mistaken principles, and on supposed facts which do not exist, must neceffarily lose that weight which it might otherwise have had, by the fanction of some respectable names.

Your Petitioners therefore unite with their Opponents in praying, that your Lordship will be pleased to report and characterise both parties in such a manner

(174)

a manner as will shew to our most gracious Sovereign, and the British Parliament, the true importance, possession, and interests of the one and the other.

> And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c. &c.

Montreal, 1st December 1788. Quebec, 5th December 1788.

> Signed by the English and French Committes of the Cities of Quebec and Monreal.

(175)

A new Method of procuring Signatures to Petitions, practifed by the Promoters of the Counter Petitions in the Province of Quebec.

PARDEVANT le notaire publique refidant au bourg de Boucherville Soufigné, le dix neuf Decembre après midi, a eté convoquée et assemblee la nobleffe, des bourgeois et habitans de la paroiffe de Boucherville, lesquels ont unanimement dit et declaré, que ne pouvant pas se transporter à Montreal, pour approuver par leurs fignatures, l'addreffe faite à sa Majesté, determinée à Montreal le feize du present mois, tendante au maintien de nos loix civiles, et à ce que le libre exercice de la religion catholique, soit laissé tel, et ainfi que nous avons joui de ce droit avant la conquete de cette Province; nous chargeons Monsieur de Boucherville de figner pour nous, promettant avoir le tout pour agreable, fait et passé au bourg de Boucherville l'an mil sept cent quatre vingt quatre, le dix neuf Decembre, et ont fignés après lecture faite fuivant l'ordonnance.

REMARQUES.

1mo. La procuration est passée le 19 Decembre, Monfieur St. Ours prouve que l'addresse de l'opposition n'a eté redigêe que le 23. Avant ce tems il n'etoit pas question d'y inferer l'oppostition fition à l'etablissement d'une Chambre d'assem-

2ndo. Le Procureur fondé a outre passé son pouvoir-en fignant un article dont il n'est point fait mention dans cette procuration.

I. N I

S.

est par a

0... 6...

វិ ដែរ ដ៏ខ្ញុំផ្លេះដែរ ស្ថិរនៃ ពួល រូប ៊ែកតាំងរំរំ ទីលើ ស្ថិរី សំ សំ

Microfilmed

$ 51

A. A.

ma

on int

2.0

