Anarchist Shot at Clemenceau

CONSIDERED HE WAS PREPARING FOR ANOTHER WAR—ALTHOUGH BULLET ENTERED LUNGS HOPES ARE HELD FOR STEADY RECOVERY.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Premier Clemenceau, characterized by Lloyd George as 'France's grand old man,' was attacked by an anarchist, Emile Cottin, known as 'Milon.' Seven shots were fired, three of which struck the premier. One bullet lodged in the muscles of the shoulder, penetrating deeply, but, so far as it is at present known, not injuring the spine or penetrating the lungs. Two bullets bruised the right arm and hand, while two other bullets are reported to have passed through the premier's clothing.

At the time of his attempted assassination M. Clemenceau had just left his home to drive in a motor car to the conference with Arthur J. Balfour, British secretary for foreign affairs, and Col. Edward M. House, of the American peace delegation. Though bleeding profusely, M. Clemenceau was able to return to his home, where he reassured the members of his household and waved aside anxious enquires with 'It is nothing.' Latest reports from his attendants are to the effect that his condition was satisfactory and that he was cheerful throughout the day despite occasional fits of coughing. For the present, it has been decided by the surgeons that the extraction of the bullet may not be necessary, and arrangements have been made for the taking of radiographs of the injured parts.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—M. Clemenceau spent a short time in his garden this morning. He had luncheon at mid-day and his appetite was good. After luncheon he rested for a while and then received Marshal Petain at two o'clock.

During the morning he requested to see Inspector Decaudin, who sat beside the premier's chauffeur when Cottin made his attack. The premier received Decaudin in his ante-chamber, shook his hand vigorously and congratulated him on the courage he had shown.

Political Unrest in South Africa

DEBATED ON REPUBLICAN AND DEPUTATION IS ON WAY TO LAY DEMAND BEFORE PEACE CONGRESS

CAPE TOWN, South Africa.—The decision of the Nationalist party to send a deputation to Europe to interview President Wilson with a view to getting South Africa declared a republic by the peace conference aroused an interesting debate in the assembly. Sir Thomas Smartt, leader of the opposition, moved that the house condemn the agitation now being carried on for the dissolution of the union and the severance of the connection now existing between South Africa and Great Britain. He further expressed the opinion that such an agitation, if persisted in, would lead to civil war and bloodshed in South Africa.

Sir Thomas asked where the liberties of South Africa would be today but for the British navy.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 20.—The assembly today continued the debate on the republican propaganda. Sir Thomas Watt, the minister of the interior, declared that it would be impossible for any League of Nations to treat South Africa with more consideration or more sympathetically than Great Britain had done.

Aliens Will be Employed by Government in West Under Their Supervision

HAMILTON, Feb. 21.—The aliens in the cities of eastern Canada are being sent to the west by the government, Dr. W. A. Riddell, superintendent of the trades and labor branch of the Ontario government, announced to a deputation that waited on him. He said the government was working out a plan by which all enemy aliens would be placed under government supervision, would be employed at work allotted to them by the government and would be controlled and paid such wages as the government decided upon. The government will appoint officials to look after them.

The foreigners, he said, would be employed principally in the west on clearing work, and in building highways and railways. Some have already been despatched there. All foreigners in various parts of the country will be under government supervision, until the weather permits work to be started when they will be sent west and kept in camps at the scene of their labors.

Col. Mentz, the minister of lands, speaking as a former Transvaal republican, declared that as long as Great Britain kept faith he would keep his word given at Vereeniging, but they must show that they intended honorably to stand by the pledges given at the time of the union.

Opposition to the republican movement is gathering in strength. The citizens of Cape Town tonight held the first of a series of meetings of protest throughout the country, resolutions being adopted emphatically condemning the agitation for the disruption of the Union of South Africa and the severance of its connection with Great Britain.

Minister of Railways Burton, who was the principal speaker, described the Nationalist mission to England as a "foolish, childish and mad enterprise."

Sir N. F. Dussal, the administrator of the Cape province, emphasized the fact that the loyal Dutch were in determined accord with the British element in maintaining the union.

Earl Selborne, former governor-general of South Africa, presiding at a meeting of the African banking corporation, after drawing a favorable picture of the agricultural and commercial position of South Africa, said there was, however, another side to the question. The political unrest manifested by Nationalists must make all friends of the union anxious. It seemed to him that these gentlemen did not understand the constitution under which they lived.

He noticed, with great satisfaction, that the Union government had granted leave to the delegates of the Nationalists—General Hertzog and Dr. Malan, who was the leader of the Cape Nationalists—to proceed to Europe to lay their case before the peace conference. He was quite sure that such a decision was the wisest. He thought it was a stroke of genius for the captain of the British cruiser Minerva to offer to carry them. It showed a sense of humor which he believed would excite complete approval in every local breast in South Africa, because they knew as he knew, that nothing could be better than that these men should come to Europe and be exposed.

—General Moinier, military governor of Paris, died suddenly while at dinner at the home of Jean Cruppi, former minister of foreign affairs.

NOTABLES ARRESTED

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who was commander of the northern sector on the western front in the final stages of the war, is reported to have been at the head of a monarchist plot that resulted in the assassination of Premier Eisner. The ex-crown prince is being sought by the police.

It is recalled that the last words of Rupprecht when he was leaving Belgian soil to escape into Holland were:

"I do not recognize the Bavarian republic. I renounce and abdicate nothing."

Prince Leopold Arrested

GENEVA, Feb. 24.—Prince Leopold, former commander-in-chief of the German army on the Russian front, has been imprisoned at Munich, on suspicion of being one of the instigators of the murder of Premier Kurt Eisner.

A list of the persons to be assassinated by the reactionaries is said to have been found, and it is asserted that it has been decided to take twenty hostages among the aristocracy. All the students in the university have been searched.

A provisional ministry has been constituted, consisting of nine members instead of eight. Among the ministers is Professor Friedrich Forster, of the university of Munich. It is said the landtag will reassemble shortly but outside of Munich.

The Borne committee of Bavaria has voted an annual pension of 10,000 mark for the widow of Eisner.

Large numbers of the members of the Bavarian aristocracy have been arrested on suspicion of having been connected with Court Arcovalley who killed Premier Eisner.

—Four Russian grand dukes were shot some time ago without having been given a hearing, and that it was understood their summary execution was a result of the killing in Berlin of Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg.

Germans Call New Armistice Terms Dishonorable

ERZBERGER CONDEMNED FOR AGREEING TO NEW TERMS.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Advises received from Berlin by way of Basle today are to the effect that the Pan-German military party, headed by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, bitterly resents the new clauses in the armistice, especially those limiting the German army to the size of a simple police force, the supervision of control of ammunition factories and the demand that Germany pay the expenses of the allied armies of occupation on the Rhine.

These conditions, it is complained, will throw out of work thousands of German officers, from generals downward, while the army of 600,000 volunteers, reported by the German press to have been organized, must be disbanded.

The advice add that indignation against Matthias Erzberger on the part of the military authorities is increasing.

Fearing Occupation of Germany.

WEIMAR.—With regard to the tension in German ministerial circles over the new demands of the allies under renewed armistice conditions, it appears that the government considered one of the conditions as capable of being construed to mean that the allies, if they found it necessary, might occupy all Germany, and the cabinet is declared to have felt that ultimately there would be such an occupation and that it might be as well to bring things to a crisis now, rather than sign an agreement which is considered as degrading in its terms. These terms, it is

Canada Mourning The Loss Of Sir Wilfrid Laurier

STATELY FUNERAL WAS HELD ON SATURDAY AT OTTAWA—TENS OF THOUSAND PEOPLE SAW REMAINS LYING IN STATE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—Ottawa rose adequately to the height of the occasion for the funeral on Saturday of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the great tribune and the Bayard of his race in the Dominion. There will be no reproach when posterity asks if the closing hours were commensurate with the life service and its lofty character. Nothing that should have been done was left undone. Nothing was added that would mar the charm and fair dignity of a good life. The closing scenes were such as these privileged to behold them will not willingly erase from their recollection.

The program of the state funeral was minutely carried out. It was stately and noble. These were its deepest characteristics. Yet there was no sign of undue sorrow. There was rather a grand unbidden spontaneity of homage and reverential grief as of members of a vast family.

Almost everywhere along the mile and half route from the Victoria museum to the Basilica, where the funeral service was held, there were drapings of black and purple, graced here and there with the Grecian tribute of unfading laurel. The post office and Chateau Laurier, bearing a name already historic, were exceptionally striking. Over the portico of the latter there were half-masted the flags of the allied nations. At the Basilica, too, the facade was heavily draped in black but the tri-colours of old France and the blue and gold flag of the papal saw flow on church buildings adjacent.

The requiem mass of the Roman Catholic church sung in all the elaboration of ritual, was to music composed by the Abbe Porosi. While unfamiliar compared with some masses it was full and resonant and was admirably suited to the fine bass and alto voices of the choir and antiphony. Its marvelous dignity was fully apprehended by the large number of Protestants in the nave. The celebrant was the papal emissary in Canada, Monsignor Di Maria, with Monsignor Routhier as priest assistant and three canons of office and of honor. Two funeral orations were pronounced, that in French by Archbishop Mathieu, of Regina, and that in English by the Rev. Father John Burke, of Toronto. The latter compared Sir Wilfrid to a being from superior world only sojourning on earth.

Few people attended the actual interment at Notre Dame cemetery. Lady Laurier, with the nearest mourners, and accompanied by a nursing sister, was at the closing scene. The bereaved lady bore her grief with dignity and reserve. The ritual was performed by Rev. Father LeJeune, of Ottawa.

At Parliament Building.

Official Canada gathered at Memorial Museum, which is the temporary headquarters of the Canadian parliament, but even that spacious building was unable to accommodate all the representatives who had congregated to do honor to the late Liberal leader. Recognizing this, the Great War Veterans' association and the purely unofficial societies remained outside. The scene inside the building was remarkable for the orderliness which prevailed. Perfect arrangements had been made for the reception of the delegates and members of parliament, special rooms had been assigned to each special body.

Liberals Choose Temporary Leader

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—D. D. McKenzie, Liberal member for North Cape Breton, will be the recognized Liberal leader in the commons during the present session. This was decided at the Liberal caucus today after morning and afternoon sessions, the latter concluding at six o'clock this evening.

A resolution adopted by the caucus and given out later makes it clear that it is not the intention of the Liberals to name a permanent leader until a national convention is held, the same to be called "at the earliest possible date." It was also affirmed that the arrangements for the national convention would be made by a committee appointed by the parliamentary Liberal party.

EIGHT LIVES LOST IN FIRE AT HOTEL IN LAURENTIANS

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—Eight people were burned to death when fire broke out last night in a small hotel at Ste. Jovite in the Laurentian mountains. The fire is thought to have started from an over-heated stove.

A Gougal, the proprietor, succeeded in escaping from the burning building, but remembering he had left $500 in a leather purse under his mattress, went back to get it and perished in the flames. His wife, finding all means of exit cut off from the stairs, threw her small baby from the window into a deep snow bank and then herself. Both of them survive.

Dominion Parliament Opened Under Shadow of Deep Mourning

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—Parliament opened today. The note of mourning in hanging epe and half-masted flags was everywhere. There was none of the usual social display. No invitations were issued to the ceremony—usually the social event of the year—there was none present but the governor-general and his staff members of parliament assembled to hear the speech from the throne, judges of the supreme court and a few of the men of prominence gathered here to pay their last respects.

His Excellency and staff arrived shortly before 3 o'clock and immediately proceeded to the senate chamber for the formal opening.

Then out of respect, the house adjourned till Tuesday, when full tribute will be paid by leaders of both sides to Sir Wilfrid's memory. Afterwards Major Kedman (Calgary) will move and Capt. Manion (Fort William and Rainy River) will second the formal address in reply to the speech from the throne. The debate will then open.

Franchise Bill Promised

In the speech from the throne, a franchise bill is promised. The bill will, among other things, effectually enable women to vote and confer upon them the privileges of sitting in parliament.

There will also be bills to provide for aid in highway construction; to assist returned soldiers in settling upon the land to promote desirable immigration and farm settlement; bills to promote vocational education, to create a department of public health, for the promotion of better housing conditions and for the validation of the prohibition orders-in-council.

Following the speech from the throne, members of the commons headed by the speaker returned to the house. But the proceedings here were brief. Formal motions incidental to the opening of the session were presented by Sir Thomas White. There was a motion that the remains of Sir Wilfrid Laurier be given Public funeral.

Germany's Idea of Federation With Austria

MUNICH, Germany.—Dr. Hartmann, Austrian ambassador to Germany, who is here on his way to Vienna to report to the Austrian government on the preliminary steps taken toward the annexation of Austria by Germany, has conferred with several prominent Bavarians on certain delicate phases of the question. As a matter of fact, considerable areas now embraced in the Checho-Slovak Republic are regarded as essentially German and those engineering the union are determined that they shall be included. This has aroused the opposition of the Czech government in Prague.

The territory in question includes a number of important towns such as Karlsbad, Marienbad, Aussig, Teplitz and Reichenberg. According to Dr. Hartmann there are 3,500,000 Germans in this district, which consist mostly of the wooded foothills of Bohemia rising from the plain where Prague is situated. He states that only scattering Czechs are there as they always showed an inclination to stick to the plains while the Germans were busy developing the woods on the heights, clearing the land and building up hamlets and farms. These million Germans, he declares, will never submit to what he terms Czech tyranny. The question is one which must be adjusted at the peace conference as this territory is now in the hands of the Czechs and will have no opportunity of voting in the Austrian elections now pending. The advocates of the union of Austria and Germany are confident that the voters will return a large majority of pro-union members to the Austrian assembly.

"Negotiations," said Dr. Hartmann, "are paving the way for the union of Austria with the German federation and I am confident that it will be brought about. I have favored it because in it I see the only hope for German-Austria." It was pointed out to him that the Czechs claimed that Vienna was not fundamentally German. To this he answered a special correspondent: "This has been proved unsound, Vienna regards itself as German."

The correspondent asked him what attitude would be taken toward the union by the entente.

"I do not look for any active opposition," he said. "While I do not think France will approve the idea I do not anticipate any effort on her part to prevent it. Italy, I believe, will look upon it with favor as it suits her to have a German frontier. England's attitude will be one of comparative indifference, while the fact that the majority of the Austrians and Germans vote for the union will probably make it acceptable to the United States."

Vienna Not So Certain

VIENNA, Austria.—How the people of German-Austria are going about to assure their future existence is indicated in an interview which I had today with Dr. George Gunther, director of an Austrian mining and finance company.

"Austria," he said, "cannot remain alone. We do not produce enough food and cannot export manufactured articles as we have no raw material. Therefore, we must join some country which will let us work for it in exchange for good raw material. We should not join Germany, for while temporarily we would get some benefit we would have to suffer in the future, since Germany would want to send us manufactured goods and not food or raw materials. Of those Germany will not have enough for itself and our exchange would always be a loss."

Kurt Eisner and Two Bavarian Ministers Shot

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Kurt Eisner, the premier of Bavaria, has been shot and killed. The premier was killed this morning by Lieut. Count Arco Valley, according to a Munich despatch received in Amsterdam. The count was wounded severely by a guard, and is reported to be dying.

Kurt Eisner, who seized the reins of government in Bavaria after the deposition of the royal family early in November, was a socialist of the more radical type and recent reports from Munich have said he was heading a Spartan movement against the moderate and conservative factions of Bavaria.

The Arco-Valley family has been prominent in Bavaria and Germany for years, a count of that name having died at Rio Janeiro in 1909 while German minister to Brazil.

Eisner, a Jew, was born in Galicia and at one time was editor in chief of the Vorwarts of Berlin.

Eisner always had been opposed to the German majority socialists and since his rise to power in Bavaria (Continued on Page 5.)

FUTURE WOOL PRICES

Many stock men in this province appear to have misgivings about the price of wool after the war. There is little doubt that, although it is not likely that prices will be altogether up to the present high water mark, they will continue at a profitable figure for years to come, War or no war.

MICE AS A MENACE TO WHEAT

The Australian wheat growers are greatly exercised over a plague of mice which has been devastating their wheat fields. Australia is a wonderful country to foster all kinds of animals life and this quality has some drawbacks. Rabbits were introduced to the country many years ago and increased and replenished the earth until they laid bare great areas.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF STORED CROPS

A statement by the Canada food board calls attention to the serious loss in foodstuffs which occurred last winter, particularly apples, potatoes and vegetables, through lack of proper precautions being taken to guard against frost and bad ventilation through improper storage.

FRIEDRICH NAUMANN TALKS OF FUTURE OF GERMANY

BERLIN, Feb. 16. — Friedrich Naumann, who wrote of "Mittel-Europa" and gave utterance to the German dream of an empire reaching from Berlin to Bagdad, has taken his place in the national assembly at Weimar as the leading philosopher of the German democratic party.

"In twenty years," he told a correspondent a few days ago, "Germany will be back where it was competing for supremacy in the world of commerce and trade. It is Germany's logical destiny."

that farmers, dealers and householders should pay strict attention to the condition of crop going into storage this winter.

First of all, the statement continues, "they should see that the cellar, building or pit is frostproof, and the ventilation is adequate to prevent heating and to insure the keeping qualities of the produce, and that only specimens free from disease or rot, and as far as possible from dampness, are stored."

UNTHRIFTY PIGS.

Farmers are often bothered by an unthrifty condition amongst the pigs they are feeding for market. They do not respond to even the best balanced ration and preserve a hungry and harried appearance, when by every rule they should be grunting contentedly and putting on pork every day.

SCRATCHING HENS

During the Winter months, it is advisable to have about six to eight inches deep of good straw litter in your scratching shed. It is not necessary to have the straw cut, as the fowls will break it up with scratching in it.

With all of the German might and genius directed industrially instead of to the support of huge armaments those of us who see Germany starving and impotent will live to see our country dominating a great share of the world's trade.

"Why are the German democrats opposed to socialism?" he was asked.

"We are not opposed to socialism as an idea," he replied. "It was advanced thirty years by the war, but its power was set back thirty years. Germany must recover her power before socialism can be started. I believe today in the socialization of German capitalism, but not in the socialization of German industry. This is the democratic program of the new Germany. Put into effect state ownership of factories and industries and they could be taken from us by the allies. The allies would confiscate them as government property and hold them as a guarantee for reparation and indemnity. We must encourage private business and protect the workers from exploitation. At the same time, the democrats are in favor of the state ownership of public utilities and mines, but no more."

have nothing left in them to sustain them until about 8 or 9 o'clock the next morning; therefore, during the Winter months, if possible, see that they get a good feed of hard grain just before they go to roost, as this will take longer to digest. A little corn fed three or four nights a week will be to advantage, or you might give them a little barley, as both of these foods are heating.

TEN MINUTES TO FARM ACCOUNTS

Ten minutes a day given to keeping accounts will give a farmer a record of where his money comes from and where it goes, says A. H. Benton, Professor of Farm Management and Rural Economics, at the Manitoba Agricultural College.

LONDON, Feb. 13. — A Russian wireless despatch received here today says that M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevik foreign minister, replying to the proposal of Ignace Jan Paderewski, the Polish premier, to send Polish delegates to Moscow to discuss urgent Polish-Russian questions, says the soviet government ardently desires peaceful relations with the Polish republic and guaranteed an unhindered journey to Moscow for the delegates.

FOREIGNERS CLOSE BANK ACCOUNTS; HEAD FOR PORT

WELLAND, Ont. — An extensive exodus of foreigners is taking place from this district. Bankers here state that an unusually large number of foreigners closed their accounts, which range from $1,500 to $10,000.00.

Although the transportation to Europe still presents difficulties, these foreigners are carrying their money to Montreal, Halifax and New York, and at these places are awaiting the first opportunity to sail for their native lands.

A strong sentiment prevails that an embargo should be placed upon the exportation of the large amount of wealth accumulated during war years by these foreigners.

Some bank managers and business men urge that the emigration of aliens of enemy birth should be prohibited for periods varying from six months to four years.

WHISKEY AND BEER IN CONDENSED FORM NEXT

LONDON. — Pellets and pills of concentrated whiskey or beer may yet defeat the prohibitionist, if the dreams of certain English chemists are realized. During the war much progress was made in condensing food into tabloid form, and it is thought alcoholic beverages will lend themselves to similar methods of science.

In that event any man could carry his "stall" in his waistcoat—instead of under his waistcoat—the still being a bottle of beer or whiskey pellets. Such a pellet dropped in a glass of "near beer" or any such salubrious concoction would add a decided kick. That there has been no need of such pills has delayed ingenuity in this direction, but it is expected prohibition will inspire and accelerate palliative invention.

To the Farmers of Western Canada

There is considerable live grade grain throughout the West that just and farmers who have this class of grain as well as those who have seen barley or oat to ship should bear in mind that it will be to their advantage to ship so as our long experience in the grain business and special connections enable us to get for the shipper the very highest possible price for his grain and the best premiums that are being paid. Grain can also be sold on sample and, if the shipper wishes it, we are well equipped to handle it in this way.

While we are not infallible, we feel that we are in a position to give our customers the best advice as to when to sell and all their grain will be wanted, and wanted badly this year therefore don't sell on street but ship your own grain.

Do not be the fact of your having to load through an elevator stop you from shipping to us. The Grain Act distinctly states that the Elevator Companies must ship grain to whom they are ordered. (See Grain Act Sec 180)

GERMANY WANTS COLONIES BACK BASEL, Feb. 14. — In addressing the national assembly at Weimar yesterday, Philip Scheidemann, the chancellor, declared that the first essential of the government's policy was maintenance of the unity in the nation by means of a strong central authority. The immediate restoration of peace came next, which should be secured by adherence to the program of President Wilson and the rejection of a peace by violence. The program, he said, called for the restoration of the German colonies and the admission of Germany to the League of Nations with equal rights.

CANADA'S CLAIMS AGAINST GERMANY OVER $740,000,000 OTTAWA, Feb. 13. — Canada's claims against Germany, including war expenditure to date, now totals over $740,000,000. War expenditure alone, from the beginning of the war to the end of last month, totalled $1,122,000,000. This represents accounts which have passed through the books of the finance department. In addition, claims for actual enemy damages against Canadians—claims for damages by submarines and in other ways—total about $19,000,000. Since a month ago, claims have been coming in steadily to the extent of probably another two and a half million dollars.

The figures are of public interest in view of Mr. Bonar Law's statement in the British house of commons that British delegates at the peace conference intend to claim indemnity which will include the cost of the war.

ASK REDRESS OF UNFAIR TREATMENT.

SASKATOON, Sask.—“Whereas many employees, as the department acknowledges have suffered loss in the past through the evil of patronage, and are still suffering today, therefore be it resolved that we demand that all such acknowledged cases of injustice be immediately rectified and that all seniority and monetary loss be granted to all employees so affected. We demand that the government give us an answer to this by April 1, 1919.”
The foregoing resolution was unanimously passed by the post office employees at their convention in Saskatoon. It was stated that this resolution was caused by the fact that in 1914 a number of clerks in the post office who were due for promotion and increases in salary, having passed all the departmental requirements and having been duly recommended for promotion by the postmaster, were, by order of the patronage committee or member dispensing patronage at that time, refused.

This is regarded as supporting the alleged confession of Dr. Gervais when he said that he had shot Lajoie, once in the face and once through the heart.

CREAMERY COSTING $50,000 WILL BE BUILT AT MELFORT

Sask. Co-operative Creameries, Limited, are erecting at Melfort, a cold storage and creamery plant to cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 this spring. Announcement to this effect was made from the head office of the creamery company at Regina, Construction work will be commenced as soon as possible. The people of Melfort have been asked to subscribe stock toward this undertaking to the extent of $60,000, and more than this amount has been raised with applications still coming in.
A lot has been purchased along the C.N.R. tracks, not far from the station on Saskatchewan Ave. As soon as the plans have been drawn up, tenders will be called for, and the contract let. The creamery will be a two-story, brick and concrete building, to serve the purpose of both creamery and cold storage.
Foundations were put in last fall for a new creamery at Wawota, and this work will be gone ahead with as soon as weather conditions permit. The funds have been raised locally, and the creamery will cost about $8,000. This structure, it is expected, will be built by the engineering and construction staff of the Co-operative Creameries.

STRONGER BEER IS WANTED BY UNIONS

SASKATOON, Sask.—If stronger beer is denied workmen in western Canada laborers will grow restless; prohibition will bring bootlegging in its worst sense and the country will be forced to return to the saloon in self defence. #### VETERANS DEMAND CANCEL OF ALL GRAZING LEASES

CALGARY, Alta.—Strong objections to the clause in the Land Settlement Act which requires that any man taking a loan must first put up 10 per cent. of the money, as a proof of good citizenship, was taken at a land meeting of the G. W.V.A. at the Allen theatre.

One speaker declared that the only proof of good citizenship that was required was the fact that a man had offered to give his life for his country. After a soldier had stated that many of the grazing leases were fraudulently held, a resolution was passed and despatched at once to Ottawa, declaring that if all the grazing leases were fraudulently held the association will take legal action and have them cancelled.
There was a general disposition on the part of the men present to object to learning the farming business under farmers, it being claimed that a very short time was required to learn all there was to be learned, and a man was far better off learning on his own land.

Other resolution called for freedom of the press and of speech, the enactment into law of the order-in-council prohibiting inter-provincial shipments of liquor, free treatment to all tuberculosis patients and lastly demanding a drastic tax on incomes, especially the large ones, which shall not be less than the minimum of that required in the United States.

Income tax, he further explained, may be levied on the revenue a person gets from property in other cities. It was decided to reduce the untaxable income from $1,000 to $500 in the case of single men and widowers without dependents, and $1,000 in the case of married men.

WINNIPEG.—The Manitoba Agricultural societies, in annual convention here adopted a resolution asking that a price be fixed for the 1919 wheat crop. The resolution reads:
"Whereas a large number of farmers in the west have to purchase seed grain at the present fixed price, and whereas the price is fixed on almost all the farmer has to buy; therefore, be it resolved that this convention of agricultural societies assembled, representing the producers of the country, ask the federal government to fix the price of wheat for the 1919 crop the same as for the 1918 crop."

The resolution was introduced by A. D. McConnell, Hamiota, president of the provincial organization, who, in the course of his address, secured the recent action of the Grain Growers' Association and the United Farmers of Alberta in accepting the platform that a fixed price for the 1919 crop was not necessary.

"It is playing up to common public opinion," said Mr. McConnell. "We want reduction of the tariff or better still, free trade, but until we get it we want the price of wheat fixed for this year."

FIRE CAUSED SCARE ROUND PORT ARTHUR ELEVATORS

PORT ARTHUR, Ont.—The old wooden workhouse of Elevator B of the Canadian National Elevators here was burned to the pile tops early in the morning on Feb. 19. The building was being torn down by the bridge and building department of the railway company and the job was just half completed before the fire. The loss of material, estimated by C. D. Howe, supervising construction engineer, is very slight. The material was worth just about what it would cost to tear it down and remove it. At only one time during the whole conflagration was there any danger to the adjoining tile bins which held 300,000 bushels of grain, and that was when the five communication bridges of structural iron on the top of the building threatened to collapse and punch through the fourteen-inch tile and concrete. Fortunately, when the building collapsed the bridge fell clear and the big storage elevator was pronounced safe.

SOMEWHAT HEADY

TORONTO, Ont.—A keg, exuding a very powerful odor of alcohol, arrived at the office of a Toronto Express company recently, and two thirsty teamsters promptly bored holes in the top and inserted soda-water straws, with the intention of enjoying a refreshing draught. The arrival of the police, however, cut short their drinking bout, and the keg, on being opened was found to contain a human head preserved in alcohol. It was being sent to the medicals of the University of Toronto for anatomical purposes.

ALIEN LICENSES TO BE MODIFIED

TORONTO, Ont.—Owing to protests received from foreign countries, the board of license commissioners decided to modify their restrictions made a few weeks ago regarding issuing licenses to aliens.
The commissioners' decision was "That all British born and naturalized subjects be issued licenses and that licenses be issued to such guarding issuing licenses to aliens, and who may be considered desirable."

The right of the police to search the baggage of citizens at the railway stations for liquor, which caused such a storm of protest, was discussed and the matter was referred to the city solicitor for a decision.

BIG OPIUM HAUL AT FORT WILLIAM

FORT WILLIAM, Ont.—With the arrest of Lee Sing, a Chinaman, on a charge of opium smuggling, the police here believe that they have discovered the traces of a regular opium ring. Lee Sing arrived here from Montreal, and stayed with Lim Chue, proprietor of the Ontario Cafe. The two men went to the Union station, where Lee Sing purchased a ticket to Brandon, but Sergeant Taylor had become suspicious and followed them on to the train where he examined Lee Sing's grip. In this he found a tin box which the Chinaman explained contained a Chinese opium, but the officer ripped it open and discovered ten pounds of opium. Further search revealed another parcel of nineteen pounds of opium concealed in a roll of blankets.
The two Chinamen appeared in police court, when Lim Chue denied any complicity, stating that Lee Sing had merely been a guest at the cafe, and that he had gone to the station with him in order to buy him a ticket. Lee Sing being very hard of hearing.
Magistrate Palling fined Lee Sing $500 and costs, or one year in jail. The opium is valued at $1,740.

Mr. Duff claimed that he was buying for himself, but it is generally accepted here that he is merely acting for some one whose name has not yet been revealed.

BOOK SECOND — SCHOOL TIME.

(24. Instalment.)

Tom seized the book and opened it with a determined and business-like air, as much as to say that he had a lesson to learn which no donkeys would find themselves equal to. Maggie, rather piqued, turned to the bookcases to amuse herself with puzzling out the titles.

Presently Tom called to her: "Here, Maggie, come and hear if I can say this. Stand at that end of the table, where Mr. Stelling sits when he hears me."

Maggie obeyed, and took the open book.

"Where do you begin, Tom?" "Oh, I begin at 'Appellativa arborum,' because I say all over again what I've been learning this week."

Tom sailed along pretty well for three lines and Maggie was beginning to forget her office of prompter in speculating as to what was to come next, which came to pass, when he stuck fast at Sunt etiam volucrum.

"Don't tell me, Maggie; Sunt etiam volucrum.... Sunt etiam volucrum.... ut ostrea, celus—"

"No," said Maggie, opening her mouth and shaking her head. "Sunt etiam volucrum," said Tom, very slowly, as if the next words might be expected to come sooner when he gave them this strong hint that they were waited for.

"C, e, u," said Maggie, getting impatient.

"Oh, I know—hold your tongue," said Tom. "Ceu passer hirundo; Ferarum... ferarum..." Tom took his pencil and made several hard dots with it on his book-cover.... "ferarum—"

"Oh dear, oh dear, Tom," said Maggie, "what a time you are!"

"Ut, ostrea—"

"No, no," said Maggie, "ut, ostrea—"

"Oh yes, now I can do," said Tom; "it was tigris, vulpes, I'd forgotten: ut tigris, vulpes; et Pisdium."

With some further stammering and repetition, Tom got through the next few lines.

"Now, then," he said, "the next is what I've just learnt for tomorrow. Give me hold of the book a minute."

After some whispered gabbling, assisted by the beating of his fist on the table, Tom returned the book.

"Maseula nomina in a," he began. "No, Tom," said Maggie, "that doesn't come next. It's Nomen non crescens genitivo—"

"Crescens genitivo!" exclaimed Tom, with a derisive laugh, for Tom had learned this omitted passage for his yesterday's lesson, and a young gentleman does not require an intimate or extensive acquaintance with Latin before he can feel the pitiable absurdity of a false quantity. "Crescens genitivo! What a little silly you are, Maggie!"

"Well, you needn't laugh, Tom, for you didn't remember it at all. I'm sure it's spelt so; how was it to know?"

"Phee-e-eh! I told you girls couldn't learn Latin. It's Nomen non crescens genitivo."

"Very well, then," said Maggie, pointing. "I can say that as well as you can. And you don't mind your stops. For you ought to stop twice as long at a semicolon as you do at a comma, and you make the longest stops where there ought to be no stop at all."

"Oh, well, don't chatter. Let me go on."

They were presently fetched to spend the rest of the evening in the drawing-room, and Maggie became so animated with Mr. Stelling, who, she felt sure, admired her cleverness, that Tom was rather amazed and alarmed at her audacity. But she was suddenly subdued by Mr. Stelling's alluding to a little girl of whom he had heard that she once ran away to the gipsies.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

"What a very odd girl that must be!" said Mrs. Stelling, meaning to be playful—but a playfulness that turned on her supposed oddity was not at all to Maggie's taste. She feared that Mr. Stelling, after all, did not think much of her, and went to bed in rather low spirits. Mrs. Stelling, she felt, looked at her as if she thought her hair was very ugly because it hung down straight behind.

Nevertheless, it was a very happy fortnight to Maggie, this visit to Tom. She was allowed to be in the study while he had his lessons, and in her various readings got very deep into the examples in the Latin Grammar. The astronomer who hated women generally, caused her so much puzzling speculation that she one day asked Mr. Stelling if all astronomers hated women, or whether it was only this particular astronomer. But forestalling his answer, she said—

"I suppose it's all astronomers because, you know, they live up in high towers, and if the women came there, they might talk and hinder them from looking at the stars."

Mr. Stelling liked her prattle immensely, and they were on the best terms. She told Tom she should like to go to school to Mr. Stelling, as he did, and learn just the same things. She knew she could do Euclid, for she had looked into it again, and she saw what A B C meant: they were the names of the lines.

"I'm sure you couldn't do it, now," said Tom; "and I'll just ask Mr. Stelling if you could."

"I don't mind," said the little conceited mix. "I'll ask him myself."

"Mr. Stelling," she said, that same evening when they were in the drawing-room, "couldn't I do Euclid, and all Tom's lessons, if you were to teach me instead of him?"

"No; you couldn't," said Tom indignantly. "Girls can't do Euclid; can they, sir?"

"They can pick up a little of everything, I daresay," said Mr. Stelling. "They've a great deal of superficial cleverness; but they couldn't go far into anything. They're quick and shallow."

Tom, delighted with this verdict, telegraphed his triumph by wagging his head at Maggie, she had hardly ever been so mortified. It had been so proud to be called "quick" all her little life, and now it appeared that this quickness was the brand of inferiority. It would have been better to be slow, like Tom.

"Ha, ha! Miss Maggie!" said Tom, when they were alone; "you see it's not such a fine thing to be quick. You'll never go far into anything, you know."

And Maggie was so oppressed by this dreadful destiny that she had no spirit for a retort.

But when this small apparatus of shallow quickness was fetched away in the gig by Luke, and the study was once more quite lonely for Tom, he missed her grievously. He had grown brighter, and had got through his lessons better, since she had been there; and she had asked Mr. Stelling so many questions about the Roman Empire, and whether there really ever was a man who said, in Latin; "I would not buy it for a farthing or a rotten nut," or whether that had not been actually come to a dim understanding of the fact that there had once been people upon the earth who were so fortunate as to know Latin without learning it through the medium of the Eaton Grammar. This luminous idea was a great addition to his historical acquirements during this half-year, which were otherwise confined to an epitomised history of the Jews.

But the dreary half-year did come to an end. How glad Tom was to see the last yellow leaves fluttering before the cold wind! The dark afternoons, and the first December snow, seemed to him far livelier than the August sunshine; and that he might make himself the surer about the flight of the days that were carrying him homeward, he stuck twenty-one sticks deep in a corner of the garden, when he was three weeks from the holidays, and pulled one up every day with a great wrench, throwing it to a distance with a vigor of will which would have carried it to limbo, if it had been in the nature of sticks to travel so far.

But it was worth purchasing, even at the heavy price of the Latin Grammar—the happiness of seeing the bright light in the parlour at home, as the gig passed noiselessly over the snow-covered bridge: the happiness of passing from the cold air to the warmth and the kisses and the smiles of that familiar hearth, where the pattern of the rug and the grate and the fire-irons were "first ideas" that it was no more possible to criticise than the solidity and extension of matter. There is no sense of ease like the ease we felt in those scenes where we were born, where objects became dear to us before we had known the labour of choice, and where the outer world seemed only an extension of our own personality: we accepted and loved it as we accepted our own sense of existence and our own limbs. Very commonplace, even ugly, that furniture of our early home might look if it were put up to auction; an improved taste in upholstery scorns it; and is not the striving after something better and better in our surroundings the grand characteristic that distinguishes man from the brute—or, to satisfy a scrupulous accuracy of definition that distinguishes the British man from the foreign brute? But Heaven knows where that striving might lead us, if our affections had not a trick of twining round those old inferior things—if the loves and sanctities of our life had no deep immovable roots in memory. One's delight in an elderberry bush overhanging the confused leafage of a hedgerow bank, as a more gladdening sight than the finest cistus or fuchsia spreading itself on the softest undulating turf, is an entirely unjustifiable preference to a nursery-gardener, or to any of those severely regulated minds who are free from the weakness of any attachment that does not rest on a demonstrable superiority of qualities. And there is no better reason for preferring this elderberry bush than that it stirs an early memory—that it is no novelty in my life, speaking to me merely through my present sensibilities to form and colour, but the long companion of my existence, that wove itself into my joys when joys were vivid.

At home also, a child should have a place for his toys. A playroom is ideal, but if this cannot be provided, some place surely can be found, even in a small flat, which a child may have for his very own to keep his toys in. From the age of sixteen months, I insisted that my little girl put her toys away neatly. We began it as play, and now it is a habit. Of course, sometimes she is in very much of a hurry to do something else, but the toys are put away in the end. We made her a large drygoods box, standing up on end. My husband put cheap castors on it and two shelves across it. There all the small toys are kept. The blocks have their own boxes; the small things have baskets; and crayons, pictures and papers go into a box with a cover. All of them fit into the shelves; also the animals, dolls' trunks, washtubs and many other such things. The picture books have a compartment in the large bookcase. "A place for everything and everything in its place," when little folks have finished playing, makes a good rule.

One day when my child was not at home, a little girl came in for a visit. I took her into the playroom and left her there very happy. After a short time she went home. When I returned to the playroom I found everything so scattered over the floor that there was hardly room to walk. The next time the little girl came, I had a talk with her. I have made it a rule, and it is a hard rule to keep, for some mothers are offended, that if a child will not help put away the toys carefully when he is ready to go home, then he cannot come back to play with that toy again until he is ready to do what I ask. My little girl was playing at a neighbor's a few days later. When it was time to come home I went for her. The children were cutting out pictures and had made a dreadful mess on the table, chairs and floor. I told my little girl to help pick them up before putting on her things. The mother said, "Oh, that's all right, Sadie never picks up scraps; I do that. So don't make your little girl do it."

And my child smiled and calmly said, "It's all right, Mother, I don't have to pick up here." Then I told the mother about my rule and explained that it wasn't mere crankiness on my part, but a desire to form good habits in the children and to develop character. All children are naughty at times and it is so hard to know how to deal justly with them. One day when I was very busy my little girl came in from playing in the garden. I suppose she was tired and hungry, but she did not herself know what was the matter. She began to try a new kind of naughtiness, lying down on the floor, kicking and screaming and saying naughty things to me. I was amazed, and quite puzzled as to how to treat such a proceeding. At first I ignored her, but she kept it up. I asked a few questions in a kindly way, but that seemed to fan the flame. I was busy, in a hurry, warm and tired and began to get very angry. Nevertheless I realized that if I could not control my temper, I could not expect a 5-year-old child to do so. So I pondered over what to do. Finally I went and picked her up and carried her to a chair where we both sat, or flopped down, as it was no easy task carrying a kicking, crying mass of humanity. I never said a word, but rocked her quietly. After a little while she stopped, and I began to sing softly. She almost went to sleep. Then I knew she was simply over-tired and I was so thankful that I had not indulged my own temper in any way. After a short time we had lunch and then she went to bed for her afternoon nap. She slept hours, repairing the wasted energy and her nerves in blessed sleep. She has never tried that trick again.

I find a word of praise goes so much further than blame, and the bright eyes give back such a grateful look.

Last autumn my little girl began to go to kindergarten. She loves the work and is always so proud to show what she has made. I was very anxious for her to go, as she was shy and needed to learn "team work" and to rub up against other children in order to polish off the corners.

The kindergarten is the link between home and school. There is more freedom, more spirit of comradeship, more play than in the classroom, and to me it seems like administering a rude shock to usher a child into definite studies fresh from the home. By attending kindergarten, the child becomes familiar with a school building, school hours and necessary rules; he develops courtesy and kindness toward others, and enjoys listening at story time. He also likes working and playing in union with others, and he learns to control fingers and in fact to control the whole body. No school is complete without a kindergarten.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria Always Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Hutchins In Use For Over Thirty Years CASTORIA

WOMAN'S WORLD Training Little Children Simple Things Please Children—And Simple, Loving Methods Are Successful in Controlling Them. By Mrs. Isabel S. Wallace.

When at my mother's home one time my little girl folded and cut a house, windows, doors and all. Her grandmother was delighted and the little one said, "We'll keep it to show grandpa and I guess he'll say I am a smart Tottie."

With a little thought mothers can learn how to fold and teach their children to fold a number of things. It is excellent practice in accuracy and neatness, besides affording the joy of making something.

In a regular kindergarten all the sets of blocks, which are of different sizes, are kept in boxes with covers, and each child puts his away carefully and correctly or else the cover will not fit. Then all the sets are collected and packed in a closet by a few of the children. Children love to help keep things in order and enjoy doing it.

At home also, a child should have a place for his toys. A playroom is ideal, but if this cannot be provided, some place surely can be found, even in a small flat, which a child may have for his very own to keep his toys in.

Irish Stew With Potato Dumplings 2 pounds of shoulder or breast of lamb; 1 quart of boiling water; 2 onions (thinly sliced); 3 potatoes (quartered); 2 teaspoonfuls of salt; 1 tablespoonful of flour; 1/2 teaspoonful of pepper.

Cut the meat into small pieces and place it in a kettle with the onions, salt and pepper. Cook slowly until the meat is tender; add the potatoes, and the flour with cold water. When the potatoes are tender, drop in the dumplings and cook for fifteen minutes without lifting the cover.

Plain Dumplings 2 cupfuls of flour; 4 teaspoonfuls of baking powder; 1/2 teaspoonful of salt; Cold water to moisten to a soft dough.

Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Add the water, a little at a time, until the mixture can be dropped from a spoon. If one has plenty of milk it is well to use it, but water will make a dumpling which is just as delicate.

If the dumpling is cooked in the stew no shortening is needed, but if it is cut out like a biscuit and steamed, half a tablespoonful of shortening may be added to the dry flour before moistening with the water or milk.

All dumplings may be turned out onto a floured board, rolled, and cut as one does biscuits. These may then be steamed in a steamer, set over the stew. They will be drier when made this way, but, of course, not quite so delicate.

The one important thing to remember in cooking dumplings is not to lift the cover for at least ten minutes after the dumplings are in or over the stew.

For Our Little Ones

TALES OF THE FRIENDLY FOREST

By David Cory.

One morning, oh, so early! When Mr. Happy Sun Was pointing through my window His little golden gun, I jumped out from my comfy bed And pulled my nightcap off my head, And then I listened through the pane To hear the robin's sweet refrain; For Robbie Redbreast all this time Had stayed up in this wintry clime.

And I'm going to say that if it hadn't been for this dear little bird I never could have written all these stories about Billy Bunny and his Friends. For how could I have followed that frisky little rabbit through the Friendly Forest and over the Pleasant Meadow, I should like to know, and so would you, I'm sure.

Well, the next morning after the two little rabbits had escaped from Old Daddy Fox, Billy Bunny went out to woodpile to get some wood for his mother, and just as he was picking up the sticks he saw a shadow come over the sun. And when a shadow comes over the sun it's most likely to be a cloud, and then again it isn't. And if it isn't, it is most particularly likely to be Robber Hawk, and every well trained little rabbit doesn't wait to find out. He simply hops into a hollow stump or under a woodpile, and then by and by he finds out what that shadow was, and not at first, when it might be too late. Now, this sounds funny, doesn't it? But it's true, just the same. If he found it out first, then it might be too late.

And then Billy Bunny pecked out between the sticks of wood and sure enough there was Robber Hawk right there in the backyard. And, oh, dear me! Didn't he look angry! Well, I just guess he did, for he thought this time surely he had that little rabbit.

"Oh, there you are in the woodpile, sniff that wicked old robber bird, as he spied the little rabbit's pink nose sticking out between the pieces of wood.

"Yes, here I am, and here I'm going to stay," answered Billy Bunny.

"All right," replied Robber Hawk, and he sat down on the back doorstep and preened his feathers. "I'm in no hurry for breakfast. I can wait."

"Oh, dear me! Wasn't that a dreadful thing to hear, for one doesn't want to stay under a woodpile all one's days! No, Sirree, Mr. Patientman.

Well, after a little while Uncle Lucky looked out of the kitchen window to see what made Billy Bunny so long, and of course the first thing the old gentleman rabbit saw was the top of Robber Hawk's head.

"Ha, ha!" said Uncle Lucky to himself, and then he went over to the cupboard and took out the big rolling pin, and then he opened the window, oh, so gently! And then he hit Robber Hawk's head such a whack that a splinter came off the rolling pin! Robber Hawk flopped around on the ground for a while and then flew away, holding his head between his claws. Billy Bunny hopped into the house with the wood.

ARE YOUR EYES BLAMED? Don't try to stop pain until you have found the cause. Get at the root of the trouble first, and remember pain is only nature's message that something has gone wrong. Take headache for instance; do you suppose for a minute that the tablet or powder you take to relieve it is in any sense a remedy? You merely drug the nerves so that they no longer give their warning. 90% of all headaches are from defective eyes, and it is our pleasure as well as our business to provide you with glasses that stop the suffering once and for all by correcting the cause.

BIG LIQUOR CARGO

Consigned to BIGGAR. Some one at Biggar, Saskatchewan, is going to be very thirsty as the result of the seizure by the police of twelve barrels of finest French liqueurs, Scotch whiskeys and Canadian specialties at Winnipeg on Friday. The barrels were labeled "lubricating oil" and were consigned from Montreal to Biggar.

Another ten barrels and twelve cases of liquor consigned as paint and varnish to a non-existent company, "The Manitoba Builders Incorporation," were also seized. The liquor was seized by J. N. MacLean, head of the liquor license department for Manitoba.

The liquor shipped to Saskatchewan, designated as lubricating oil, was detected by a truckman at the freight sheds who said he was sure they were not filled with oil as they "did not get as hot" when putting them on the truck as barrels filled with oil would. The railway company refused to carry the shipment any farther when it learned that the barrels filled with sand to make them the regulation 500 lbs. in weight contained liquor.

—Kiev, the Ukrainian capital, is again in the hands of Ukrainian forces, according to reports received through Berlin.

CONCERT IN ST. MARY'S HALL A HUGE SUCCESS

The Reception Concert given in St. Mary's Hall on Sunday last in honor of Rev. Father Boening, who has come to Regina as assistant to Rev. Father Kim, was in every way very successful. The Concert started at 8 p.m. and the entry of the Rev. Father gave the signal for an enthusiastic outburst of applause. The large St. Mary's Hall was crowded to the doors with an intelligent audience, who showed its deep appreciation of the different numbers offered. Mr. Dominik Stocker presented a very good welcome speech, and bade the new Father the freedom of the parish members as a whole. Father Boening replied in very suitable words and expressed his gratitude for the splendid reception offered him. The Maple Leaf Orchestra under the leadership of Mr. J. W. Ehmann did very well indeed. The "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffmann" and a selection from the "Dollar Princess" were especially well rendered. Mr. Martin Wiest's Cornet Solo "Die Post im Walde" was well played and showed the fine skill and the good technique the performer possesses in handling his instrument. The Flute duet, "The Bull Finches" played by Messrs. W. Palm and E. de Broux deserves special recognition.

Mr. Palm interpreted this piece splendidly and showed much talent in producing the music.

The audience appreciated all these efforts and applauded heartily. Miss Marie Baker gave two violin solos and exceeded herself on this occasion. The second piece "Die Traumerel" was especially well played and would have done justice to a professional. Wilfrid Kusch accompanied Miss Baker on the piano and showed some fine technique. The male quartet as well as the mixed choir have rendered some very good songs. "Der Tag des Herrn" sung by the mixed choir deserves special mention. The short comedy "Der dumme August" was played by Messrs J. Bergl, Dominik Stocker, Frank Baker and Frank Dummer. Mr. Bergl played the leading character of "Der dumme August" and deserves the credit of being one of the best amateur actors in the parish. He as well as Mr. Stocker kept the audience in roars of laughter. Mr. Baker and Dummer also played their parts very well.

CURED HER HUSBAND

Mrs. J. E. Corbin of Roscoe, Tex., writes: "We are perfectly satisfied with Forni's Alpenkrauter. It has cured my husband of chronic stomach trouble of fourteen years' standing; I have seen him almost dead from suffering. He had tried almost everything under the sun that he thought would give him relief; he had consulted doctor after doctor, some told him that he never would get well, some told him that he would have to undergo an operation, and others told him one thing or the other. We had given up in despair, when one of our friends told us about Forni's Alpenkrauter. He tried it without any hope, but he had not taken all of the first bottle when he noticed that it was helping him. This was three years ago, today he is as well as anybody; his stomach is as sound as a dollar, and he eats anything that anybody else can eat." Thousands have made similar experiences with this old, time-tried herb remedy. It is not sold in drug stores. Write to Dr. Peter Fahrney & Sons Co., 2501 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
