Wimbleton Camp.

LONDON, July 18, 1874.

Despite the exodus which generally takes place after the military stage of the Queens prize, when many of the disappointed candidates who have failed to secure a position among the coveted sixty take their speedy departure, the Camp may be truly described as having remained during the week both as regards the work proper of the meeting and the relaxation of the evenings in as full swing as ever. The regimental entertainments are more numerous, better conducted and more delectable than they have been in the previous history of cavalry-camp. It is to be regretted that they were not enjoyed by larger audiences; yet it must also be added that, although they were exceptionally few, they were fit, both in the sense of being at once select and appreciative. On several days, however, the heat has been most oppressive in the most secluded and shady retreats of camp life, but fortunately the only residue of the roasting weather which have come under my observation and experience have been an increased demand on the resources of the refreshment contractors, the canteens, and last but not least, on the private commissaries, which seem to me to be simply inexhaustible at Wimbleton—the friendly welcome and kindly attention of most of the dwellers in tents being such as to make them ever memorable to all who have had the gratification of participating in the open-handed and unbounded hospitality which becomes almost a second nature on the Common.
Before entering on a brief digest of the shootings of this week, I would like to draw attention to a little incident which took place on Friday, the 10th, the chief event of that day being the visit of Sir Garnet Wolseley to the Canadian Camp and the presentation of an address to him by our regiment. The heat during that day was most oppressive, the thermometer, at the time of Sir Garnet's arrival, standing at 187° in the sun. The presentation took place on the lawn in front of Earl Duple's quarters, known as "The Cottage," Colonel Gzowski, President of the National Rifle Association, being the reader of the address; Colonel Donville, Major Gibson and Captain Macpherson, of the Canadian team, being present in full uniform. Sir Garnet Wolseley looked in excellent health, and as sprightly, as young, and as strong as day was upon his best, where also shone resplendent his two stars of the Knight Commandership he held in the address, illuminated, was enclosed in a silver mounted casket of Canadian pine.
Sir Garnet read a written report, saying he was glad to hear his services in Canada had not been forgotten, and stating that his interest in that country and its welfare was as intense as ever. He was not exaggerating in saying that the gallant band of riflemen who were with him in the memorable expedition to Fort Garry were worthy to be brothers in arms of the men who later marched with him to Coomassie. After some further allusion to the enduring ties which bound him to Canada, Sir Garnet brought his address to an end. Earl Duple followed with a speech to the volunteers, thanking them on behalf of the National Rifle Association for their annual journey to Wimbleton. The whole of the camp appreciated their energy and loyalty, and Lord Carnarvon also addressed a few words of welcome. Later on in the day Sir Garnet was entertained by the tenants at a banquet. On Sunday Dean Stanley re-took the title of David and Goliath, the subject being the accommodation was too limited for those of the volunteers and visitors who came down to hear the pulpit celebrity.

Analyzing the returns of the meeting, so far as it has proceeded, I find that the Scotchmen have carried off a goodly proportion of the honors. Private Mc-Vinnie, Dumfriesshire, credited with Colonel Lloyd-Lindsay's magnificent g.t. of the St. George's vase with 35 points, the highest that could be made for which he received the Dragon Cup, gold jacket, dragon sovereigns and £25. Capt.
Murray, 1st Edinburgh, stood first for the War Secretary's prize (£20) with 43 others of his countrymen taking appreciable premiums. For the Prince of Wales prize (£100 and badge) they had to contend themselves with second place.
The competition in the Snider match, between Sergeant Rae, 31st Lanark (Scotch), and private Atkinson, 1st Durham (English). The Scot, who had six points in hand before entering on the 1000 yards range, broke down, making only seven, while the Englishman scored thirteen, which just brought about a dead heat.
Although the latter has the honor and glory of the position, half of Mr. Majesty's gift of £200 goes to his rival, who was so pertinaciously clinging to an antagonist previously made. It is the opinion of many here that no compromise should be sanctioned by the authorities, but that the contest should be resolutely fought out.

Among the other prizes shot for were the Burroughs and Watts, for which Mr.

Ordinary bell tent immediately, leave it rooted like an oak. His hammocks embrace every variety, from a luxuriant sart of oak on an iron stand, ornamented for drawing room or lawn, down to the officers' talise and hammock bedsteads, both models of lightness, one 14, the other 7 pounds weight, and both giving repose, as compared with the somewhat hard bosom of mother earth. An in- genious and successful inventor, tried and reported favorably on by Sir Garnet Wolseley, during the Ashantee campaign, has also been on exhibition It weighs about one pound and can very easily be stowed in the coat pocket.

It seems evident that the campers are becoming palmed with the frequency of inter-University matches between Oxford and Cambridge, and think that "enough is as good as a feast." The interest evinced in the contest between the dark and light blues was very slight, resulting in a victory for the former by eight points. Great importance was attached to the competition between the representative of Scotland led from the front, and came in an easy winner with 81 points, England's representative scoring 69, and Ireland's 55.
Next in interest was the Snider match between the Public Schools' Veterans, Charterhouse carrying off the prize by only two points, 24, while Rugby and Winchester College were equal for second place with 202 each. In the second stage of the Snider match, Mr. Ross won the tie, which entitles him to receive £100.

FRIDAY EVENING, AUG. 7.

Amending the Reciprocity Proposals.

A good deal of nonsense is talked about Canadian amendments to the treaty proposals that have been made to the Washington Government. As the case stands now the Government of Canada is committed to certain proposals, and has no power to honorably withdraw one of them except by consent of the Washington Cabinet. The Mackenzie Government must stand or fall by what it has deliberately committed itself to. The Brown proposals have been made, and it is for the U. S. Senate to accept, reject or amend them. In case of rejection the matter ends, in case of acceptance the Mackenzie Government is bound to stand or fall on the question of the ratification by Parliament of every clause, line, letter and punctuation point, in case of amendment the Government will be free to wash its hands of the affair. The amending of the proposal by Parliament will be the condemnation of the Government, for the Government has irrevocably committed itself to the terms agreed to by Brown. Mr. Mackenzie may, it is true, plead that he has made a fool of himself, or been made a fool of by Brown, and repudiate the proposals to which he has consented, but it is not probable that he will do so. He had humbly appealed to the Washington Government for two modifications, in the hope that his prayer will be answered and some of the Canadian enemies of the proposed treaty appeased, but no modifications that will be advantageous to Canada will be consented to by Secretary Fish.

Mr. Burpee and Mr. Smith are opposed to the terms of the proposed treaty, and will leave the Government as soon as they have reason to believe that a majority of the House of Commons will vote against ratifying Brown's proposals. They regard the office now, they regard the sole purpose of trying to get the treaty suitably amended. There is, also, the contingency of the rejection of the proposals by the United States Senate, in which case they will not need to resign unless they are compelled to do so by the outrage of a railway policy of the Government of which they are members.

Subject for a cartoon—Geo. Brown kneeling at Mr. Fish's feet begging to be allowed to take back some of his proposals, Mackenzie and other members of the Cabinet anxiously watching Fish's countenance, and the Ministers of Customs and Marine bestowing encouraging nods and winks on a crowd engaged in burning Brown and the Government in effigy.

Our Special Commissioner to Europe describes Wimbledon matters in an exhaustive manner. His letter will be read with interest.

The St. Croix Courier, in an able leader on the necessity for steam communication with the islands, says it is informed that a scheme is now on foot to form a joint stock company for the purchase of a steamboat to ply between St. Stephen and Grand Manan, touching at St. Andrews, Deer Island, Eastport and Campbellville, and that leading capitalists have been asked to invest in the undertaking.

Port Phillip Freestone Quarries.
From the Maritime Sentinel.
These quarries are situated about two miles above the bridge across the River Phillip at its mouth, being the same range of reefs as the old McDonald quarry. For three years Sheriff McLean and one or two others have been patiently sinking trial pits and otherwise testing not only the spot being operated on the shore, but the whole point back to the creek, having an area of 4 or 5 acres, and at last able to show a solid bed of free stone underlying the whole point at a depth of 8 or 10 feet from the surface.

Satisfied with extent and supply of stone, operations were commenced at once, a breastwork being constructed to protect the works from spring tides. Two or three cargoes have been taken out and the quarry now shows a face of free stone, with solid strata at the bottom to an unexplored depth. The reefs or layers in this quarry are very thick, so that a stone of any dimension may be taken out. The stone is of a peculiar bluish grey color, which promises to become the favorite in the Boston market. It is very easily worked and not liable to fracture. It is estimated that a workman will cut 30 per cent more of Port Phillip stone per day than ordinary stone.

There is at present about 250 tons on the wharf, some of them measuring 10 feet long and 39 inches square. A portion of the bluish stone is made into grindstones which find a ready sale in the American machine shops.

From the location of the works the labor and expense of loading on board the vessel is reduced to a mere trifle. There is now in the quarry enough stone uncovered to supply 5000 tons cut and shipped, and yet from any part one crane will reach a stone, and place it on the wharf within reach of another which lifts it aboard.

The water at the pier where the vessel load is a depth of 10 feet at lowest tides, and the anchorage is perfectly safe. The Company were obliged to go to considerable expense this summer in fitting up cranes and other necessary appliances, while the stone market has been very dull and prices low, yet the operation of the season will leave a handsome dividend to the Company after paying for machinery and all expenses.

Our stone quarry men have made money fast, and certainly any one to stand on the wharf at Port Phillip, and look into the solid reefs of handsome stone that stretch away East and West would call the speculation not only safe, but with proper development, a princely fortune.

A farm, containing 75 acres of land, situated at Golden Grove, was sold this morning at auction. Mr. Hugh McManus was the purchaser for $375. It is a nice drive from the city, family tickets not being required, and Mr. Brydges having nothing to do with the road.

Mr. L. D. Geldart has commenced business in Fairville in the drug and chemical line, and intends keeping on hand a good assortment of everything in connection with it. ### Mrs. A. D. Maskell.

From the many favorable notices of this lady we select one from the London Morning Post:
This talented lady gave a farewell reading (at Granville, K.G., presiding), in being her intention shortly to quit this country for America, a fact which her many admirers will greatly regret. Her beautiful voice and distinct enunciation, combined with strong dramatic feeling, gave the hearer a sense of pleasure and perfection rarely felt in listening to other readers of her sex. Mrs. Maskell may be sincerely congratulated upon the warmth of her reception, a warmth to which her brilliant talents justly entitled her. She will quit this country followed by the regrets and admiration of a large circle, who, like ourselves, will wish her all success and prosperity on the other side of the Atlantic.

Board of Trade.

The Board met yesterday afternoon, Vice-President Seammill in the chair. Letters of thanks were read from Capt. Dorr and other United States delegates. A resolution was passed thanking Governor Tilly and Lady, and others in Fredericton, for attentions paid on their late excursion to the capital. The question of reciprocity was brought up by S. D. Barton, Esq., and on motion of C. W. Weldon, Esq., and on motion of subject was adjourned until a future day, after which the Board adjourned.

Russia Leather Albums, edged in oxidized silver, with lock and key, at Notman's.

The Ballist Warst.

The Harbor Inspector has been, of late, devoting considerable attention to this piece of city property, not so much for itself, but to prevent dirt and ballast being rolled off, and also to oblige each person there discharging ballast to leave the place in the same condition in which he finds it. As there seems to be no prospect of the wharf property being distributed for railway purposes, it would be a good plan to have a portion of it levelled, so that carriages can drive down there.

An Aged Victim of Drink.

An old woman, last night, was discovered lying near the corner of Princess and Germain street, almost speechless. It was evident that she had been drinking, but several kind hearted ladies and gentlemen who passed at the time, interested themselves and secured a bed for the poor unfortunate. By their kindness she was saved from arrest and imprisonment. Though over sixty years of age, she has, until lately, been a faithful servant in many houses in this city, and no doubt some provision will be made for her so that her remaining days may be passed in comfort.

Fall of Another Clergyman.

A Saratoga correspondent of the N. Y. Sun makes the following contribution to the literature of clerical calamities:
It is with sorrow that I am compelled to chronicle the fall of another clergyman, and that, too, in Saratoga. The unfortunate man is the Rev. Dr. Corey, who has been with Dr. Deems for many years, the spiritualistic co-adjutor of Commodore Vanderbilt. We all know that for many years Dr. Corey has driven fast horses with the Commodore, but his friends were not prepared to hear of his fall like Mr. Beecher through the influence of woman. The scandalous story being told by Dr. Corey's brother clergyman at "The States" today is as follows: For several weeks Dr. Corey has been indulging at intervals to be engaged in talking with a beautiful young lady on the balcony. No other strange conduct was noticed, nothing serious has been thought of the matter till to-day, when the full particulars of the clergyman's fall became known. It seems that last evening about dusk the Doctor was seen talking still more earnestly with the same young lady, when another young lady, a friend of the first, hurriedly joined the two. Both young ladies were highly connected, but their names are withheld from the public for the present. As the second lady appeared, words ensued, and Dr. Corey seemed to be surprised about something. Stepping back a moment toward the edge of the balcony his foot slipped, and the unfortunate clergyman fell over the edge and down into a water sprinkler, totally ruining the sprinkler and landing a fearful rent in his dress. Before the doctor's fall became publicly known he had to New York, where he is now keeping his room while his family takes its trip to patch up the difficulty and mend the unfortunate affair.
