What's Ahead, Young Man?

Think a bit-You're dealing in Futures. You hope old age is ahead; so do we; though you MAY leave a widow away this side of sixty. You are dealing in futures; let them be certainties-the futures of yourself and your wife. The certainty of a competence for yourself and your wife is of the utmost importance, for both if you live-for her if you fall by the way. Read my advertisement in the morning's paper explaining a desirable plan.

THE KINGDOM OF NAVARRE

Carlisle Agitators Want to Reconstruct It.

Queen of Greece Bestows the Medal for Valor Upon 100 Women.

How Dreyfus' Guilt was Arrived at by General Mercier-Constellation Caused.

London, Jan. 3.-The correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company at Bayonne, France, says that the Carlisle agitation in Spain is taking a new form. Agents of Don Carlos are trying to induce the people to engage in a movement in the Spanish Basque provinces tending toward reconstruction of the ancient kingdom of Navarre. The inhabitants of the French Basques, the dispatch adds, regard the movement favorably.

WOMAN'S VALOR RECOGNIZED.

Athens, Jan. 3.-The Queen of Greece has bestowed the medal of valor on 100 women who served as nurses in the late war between Turkey and Greece.

PRONOUNCED IT A CANARD.

Paris, Jan. 3.-M. Lockroy, minister of marine, is informed that the report of the massacre of a French lieutenant and 113 men in the New Hebrides is false.

ANGLO-SPANISH RELATIONS COR-DIAL.

Madrid, Jan. 3.-Duke Almodovar del Rio, minister of foreign affairs, absolutely contradicts the pessimist rumors towards Spain. He declares that Spain's relations with England are of the most cordial nature.

FRENCH WAR MINISTER'S IDEA OF JUSTICE.

London, Jan. 3.-A dispatch from Paris to the St. James' Gazette says that the gist of the testimony given before the court of cassation by General Mercier, who was minister of war at the time of the condemnation of Dreyfus, has become public. The former war minister's testimony, the dispatch says, amounts to a declaration that he arrived at a conviction of Dreyfus' guilt by a process of elimination. He first took the names of all of the officers who would be likely to be in possession of exclusive opportunities to perpetrate acts of treason by the disclosure of secret information, half of which he maintained he eliminated. Of these remaining he continued more and more were only three names left. Two of these were thrown out, leaving but one name, which was that of Dreyfus. It is stated that this testimony, calmly given by General Mercier, threw the judges into a state of consternation.

IT IS REPORTED THAT GENERAL MERCIER IS ABOUT TO CRABE BRITISH HOSTILITY.

GLOOMY PICTURE.

Paris, Jan. 3.-The Temps tonight draws a gloomy picture of the future of the United States. It says that the United States cannot hide the fact that they "have said good-bye for ever to the idyllic era wherein they dispensed with the regular standing army and laughed at the heavy burdens imposed upon the nations of the western continent by their international situation."

"There is not a Democrat, not a friend of principles that regulate modern society," continues the Temps, "that does not deplore bitterly the inoculation with a spirit of conquest of territories and expansion of a democracy that hitherto has been peaceful and liberal. President McKinley may say farewell to free America, to the era of peace and good-will, reforms, democracy, internal progress and self-government."

NO BLOOD!

Budapest, Jan. 3.-The duel between M. Horansky, a member of the lower house of the Hungarian Diet, and Baron Banffy, the premier, took place this morning. Pistols were the weapons used. The duel was bloodless.

There's strong testimony by eminent physicians of wonderful cures made by Dr. Chase's Family Remedies-particularly Dr. Chase's Ointment.

A Quiet Election

Many Hundreds of Electors Stay at Home.

The Absence of a Keen Contest for the Mayoralty.

Dr. Wilson Re-Elected by Over 1,500 Plurality.

Eight New Men on the Board of Aldermen.

Messrs. Little and Jones Re-Elected Water Commissioners.

Mr. Thomas McCormick the Hospital Trustees-Two New Faces on the School Board-Mrs. Evans' Plucky Run-No Mass Meeting.

Mayor-Dr. John D. Wilson.

Water Commissioners-J. W. Little and Wm. Jones.

Hospital Trustees-Thomas McCormick.

Aldermen-P. McPhillips, F. G. Rumball, John Pritchard, Geo. C. Jolly, H. M. Douglass, S. O'Meara, Wm. Reed, S. J. Southcott, W. H. Winnett, Charles R. Graham, James Malloch, J. Garratt, H. Dreaney, F. Plant, John Wilkey, E. Parnell, J. W. McCallum, A. Greenless.

School Trustees-No. 1 ward, C. G. McCormick (acc.); No. 2 ward, Chas. Colerick; No. 3 ward, John Jones; No. 4 ward, James Logan; No. 5 ward, Dr. English (acc.); No. 6 ward, John Macpherson.

These were the successful candidates of yesterday.

The election was very quiet. It was absolutely devoid of exciting elements. The absence of general interest was shown in the decreased vote. In the Parnell-Wilson contest last year there were 6,758 ballots cast. This year the total was 3,600 less. The lack of interest for the mayoralty had its effect on the entire ticket. The votes for aldermen, school trustees, hospital trustee and water commissioners falling off in proportion.

Mayor Wilson won by 1,500 plurality over Mr. Taylor, and by a large majority over all candidates. There is no great surprise in this. The contests for water commissioners and hospital trustees were conducted very quietly and in a friendly spirit. On the school board the new men are Messrs. Colerick and Jones, in wards 2 and 3 respectively. The chief interest was in ward 4, where Mrs. Evans, made a phenomenal run against the chairman of the board of education.

The Alderman Elections.

The result in No. 1 ward was expected. The ward is to be congratulated on the return of Ald. Rumball to the council, as he did good work on the board in 1897. Ald. McPhillips' large vote is somewhat surprising. Ald. John Pritchard, the third member, is no stranger to the council.

In No. 2 there is no change. Ald. Jolly wrested from Ald. Douglass the honor of heading the poll.

In No. 5 ward Ald. Winnett had a close call and would probably have been defeated had ex-Ald. Seely remained in the field. New blood in the person of Mr. Wm. Reed took ex-Ald. Carrothers' old place at the head of the poll. It is no secret that Mr. Carrothers dropped out this year because he was disgusted with the administration of last year's council. Mr. S. J. Southcott, merchant tailor, was a good second in the race, making a capital run for a new man. He is expected to make a first-class alderman. Mr. David Rose, the Socialist Labor candidate, made a good showing in the race.

In No. 4 Ald. Graham again headed the poll, as was expected. He doubtless improved his position by his praiseworthy efforts for municipal reform. Mr. James Malloch is the only new representative. He made a splendid run, beating out such veterans as Ald. Garrett and ex-Ald. Cooper. The defeat of the latter was a surprise to his friends. He injured his chances by his attack on Mr. Little, Ald. Parnell and Ald. Graham at the meeting in No. 4 ward on Friday night.

The feature of the fifth ward contest was the excellent showing made by Ald. Plant, who was only 19 votes behind the formidable Ald. Dreaney, who has headed the poll for years. Ald. Wilkey was re-elected, his independent course during the past year having won him many friends. In ex-Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald and Mr. Wm. Hayman, the ward also had good aldermanic material, but the fortunes of war were against them.

No. 6, as usual, furnishes a capable trio of aldermen. The electors indicated their pleasure at Ald. Parnell's return in a very substantial manner. Ald. McCallum is one of the ablest and most experienced members of the board. Last year was Ald. Greenless' first term in the council, and he proved an admirable public servant - level-headed and straightforward.

In the evening a crowd began to gather as usual, about 6 o'clock, in front of the Advertiser office, to watch the bulletins. From the first the relative positions of the mayoralty candidates were clearly indicated. The crowd on the streets increased in numbers considerably, but showed a supreme indifference as to the character of the returns. There was absolutely no enthusiasm. About 8 o'clock Mayor Wilson appeared in the window of the Free Press office. He briefly thanked the electors for his handsome majority and, after referring to the sad accident of a year ago, stated that there would be no meeting in the City Hall and no speech-making.

Mayor Wilson's plurality was 1,556, and the majority over all 898.

WINTER SPORT

Jubilee Junior Hockey Club Defeat the Waterloo Juniors.

Annual Pigeon Match on the McArthur Farm.

St. Thomas Curlers Win at Glencoe—A Twenty-Round Draw at Rochester, N. Y.—Racing Results at New Orleans and San Francisco.

BASEBALL.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A PROMINENT BASEBALL MAN.

Marcus P. Hayne, president of the Minneapolis Baseball Club Association, and a prominent lawyer, was found dead in his rooms at the Minneapolis Club on Saturday. The cause was locomotor ataxia, culminating in paralysis.

TRIGGER.

LOCAL PIGEON MATCH.

The annual New Year's pigeon match was held on the McArthur farm, South London, yesterday. The birds were a splendid lot, and with a strong wind blowing made shooting most difficult. Webb headed the score, with Graydon a good second. Macbeth improved his score over the Christmas shoot. Brock and others shot in good form. Score: Graydon, 20; Webb, 10; Macbeth, 9; Barker, 8; Darch, 7; Brock, 6; Toller, 5; Brecon, 4; Smith, 3; Fairbairn, 2.

CURLING.

ST. THOMAS VS. GLENCOE. Three rinks of St. Thomas curlers visited Glencoe yesterday afternoon and defeated the home team by 41 shots.

HOCKEY.

JUBILEES AND WATERLOOS. A keenly-contested game was played Saturday evening between the Jubilee Juniors and the Waterloos. The game was fast. Clean play in the first half resulted in a score of 2 to 1 in favor of the Jubilee team. In the second half neither club could get the puck through the goal, but were it not for the great work of the Jubilee defense the Waterloo boys would surely have won out, as time and again the Waterloo's strenuous endeavors to score were defeated only by the sharpest kind of defense work, notably that of Fish, of the Jubilee team, who is a host in himself. The teams lined up as follows:

Jubilee: Latimore, Goal; Mathewson, Fish, Point; Kent, McGuffin, Dowell, Forwards; McLennan, Smith, Sterling, Burns, McConall, Smith, McMahon, Referee—H. Peel.

WRESTLING.

TURK COULDN'T THROW HIM. Mackey, a Washington middle-weight wrestler, was not at all easy for Morad Ali, the new terrible Turk. The Musulman is the star feature of a vaudeville show, and the management forfeited $25 after his ineffectual efforts to plant Mackey's shoulders on the carpets inside ten minutes.

FISTIC.

A DRAW AT ROCHESTER. Kid Goulette, of Rochester, and Marty McCue, of New York, fought a 20-round draw at Rochester, N. Y., last night before the Rienz Athletic Club. Goulette broke his left arm in a swing on McCue's elbow in the third round, but he continued the fight pluckily to the end. Goulette did all of the aggressive work. Both appeared strong at the finish, although McCue received a great deal of punishment on the body.

OGLED THE JURORS

A Young Lady Wins a Suit for $4,500 Damages—Curious Reasons for a Retrial.

Akron, O., Jan. 3.—Pretty Gertrude Jennings, of this city, may find she has flitted a small fortune away. Gertrude's knee was hurt in an accident on the Akron and Cuyahoga electric railroad line six months ago, and last Tuesday she recovered $4,500 damages. Now the defendants file a motion for a new trial, alleging that the fair plaintiff did flirt with one of the jurors, to the confusion and bewilderment of justice. The company claims the flirtation was so evident that the judge ordered the juror to change his seat, but Gertrude continued to flirt with him. Arthur Chittenden is named as the susceptible jurymen. The company sets up 26 other reasons for a new trial.

Startling Fatality of Croup

The terror of childhood is croup. It is the most fatal of all diseases among babies and young children. It usually begins with all the appearance of a common cold. The child coughs, is restless, has more or less fever. As the disorder progresses, if relief is not had, the fever increases and breathing becomes very difficult. At last this difficulty becomes permanent, the pulse falls, the face becomes pale and is bathed in cold sweat and the end is not far off.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is a sure cure for croup, as half a century of successful experience clearly shows. Mrs. J. B. Martin, of Huntsville, Ala., writes to the S. C. Wells Co., of Le Roy, N. Y., as follows:

"GENTLEMEN: I write this letter to tell you what a valuable medicine you have in your Shiloh's Cure. I think it is the greatest remedy ever discovered, and several of my friends to whom I have recommended it are as enthusiastic as I am. My baby, who is now nearly two years old, was brought up on Shiloh, and a fatter or more healthy baby cannot be found in this section. If he were croupy at a night, had a cough or a cold, one or two doses invariably relieved him. I would not be without a bottle of it in the house for ten times the price of it. It has saved me many a dollar in doctor's bills. I will send you a picture of my Shiloh baby if it will be of any service to you."

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee that the purchase money will be refunded in case the medicine does not do everything that is claimed for it. 25c, 50c, and $1 a bottle in United States and Canada. In England 1s. 2d., 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d.

The Elections Yesterday.

The municipal elections yesterday were devoid of exciting or disturbing features. The absence of political rivalry was very marked, and if yesterday's contest was the beginning of a new era in this respect, the ratepayers have at least one cause for satisfaction.

The comparatively small vote polled on a holiday, when the electors are all free to go to the polls, may be attributed to the lack of zest in the mayor-elect contest. Citizens felt that the administration of the city's affairs last year was defective; but it is generally conceded that a mayor has a prescriptive claim to a second term, and in the absence of strong and organized opposition, Dr. Wilson had his claim allowed. He was favored by several side winds, which sprang up at a convenient time. The mayor has now a free hand to complete the unfinished business of the preceding council. The latter has bequeathed some difficult questions, which must be handled with discretion. For the settlement of these the mayor must stand the main responsibility.

Mr. Taylor evidently overestimated the strength of his support. It is admitted that he had made a good executive officer, and would do so again if elected; but the fact that he had served three years within the past ten years told against him. He had no organization behind him. Mr. Darch, the Socialist Labor candidate, made a fairly good showing. Doubtless he received a considerable number of votes on personal grounds and on account of the dissatisfaction with last year's regime. The theory of municipal ownership, advocated by the Socialists, is endorsed by many who repudiate Socialistic doctrines in the national sphere. Mr. Bartram's campaign was undertaken, by his own admission, not with the hope of victory, but to bring certain principles before the electors, and to assail what he believes to be abuses in our present system. Perhaps he is not surprised nor disappointed at the result.

The city council has an accession of strength in some of the new blood. The return of experienced former members like Messrs. Parnell and Rumball will also be of the utmost value this year.

The handsome plurality of Mr. J. W. Little for water commissioner was another tribute to his distinguished services in the city's behalf. Messrs. Jones and Little put forth no effort to be elected, but relied on their record. Mr. Ashplant ran ahead of the remainder of the Socialist Labor ticket.

The feature of the school board elections was the contest in No. 4 ward, between Mr. J. M. Logan and Mrs. Jelima Evans. Mrs. Evans' pluck was greatly admired, and she made a surprising run against such an adept organizer and canvasser as her opponent, who had also the prestige of his position as chairman of the school board. In view of Mrs. Evans' popularity and qualifications, it would be a graceful act on the part of the city council to elect her as one of the high school trustees this year.

The new member of the Hospital Trust is Mr. Thomas McCormick, who succeeds Mr. C. F. Complin. Mr. McCormick has always taken an interest in philanthropic agencies, and the new hospital will profit by his official connection.

The breakwater bylaw was buried, as everybody thought it would be. There was a lack of sincerity in the council's action, and an absence of definite information that stamped defeat on the proposal at the outset.

GOOD HOLIDAY BUSINESS

In Most Parts of Canada—Values Firm With an Advancing Tendency.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Bradstreet's weekly review of Canadian trade says: Business at Montreal has not been as quiet this week as it usually is between Christmas and New Years. A good many sorting orders have been received this week, and altogether more period than for many years. Travelers are still in the city and preparations are being made to prosecute the opening of the new year. Country remittances which are usually slow at this time, are very satisfactory. The reason is the very large sales that were made by the retail trade during the holiday season, more seasonable wintry weather has helped trade this week. The money market is unchanged. In Toronto business has been quiet this week. A few orders have been coming in, but retailers are taking stock and are generally disposed to postpone ordering till after the beginning of the year. The results of the holiday trade all through the country were very satisfactory, and the retail trade is now in good shape to begin another season's business. Remittances are already improving and will doubtless continue to flow to the large centers for some time as a result of the liberal sales effected during the holiday period. Values in nearly all lines here are very firm and in several departments of trade, notably in drygoods, there is talk of the advancing tendency of certain lines of imported as well as domestic manufactures. The London money market is unchanged with an abundant supply of funds at reasonable rates for all legitimate demands of trade.

The holiday trade at centers on the Coast and on Vancouver Island was very active. Good prices were generally obtained, and as the class of goods sold were mostly better than in past seasons, the volume of trade for December will show a very large increase over last year. There was a big demand for poultry and large quantities were brought in from Ontario. Competition in the retail business at coast centers is keener than in past years, and profits are smaller, but the increased volume in trade makes up for the difference of profits. The prospects for the spring trade are very bright.

Reports of the holiday trade at Winnipeg and other centers in Manitoba are very encouraging. With the jobs at Winnipeg the month of December as a whole, was exceedingly good in the volume of trade, thus making up to some extent for the falling off in the fall months, as compared with last year.

Of Suffering From Gravel Mr. J. N. Babcock Recovers.

Thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills Which Cured Him Speedily and Thoroughly—Mr. Babcock's Story in His Own Emphatic Words.

Sharbot Lake, Jan. 2. — A Dresden dispatch to the Canadian press last week described how ex-Reeve W. G. Cragg, of that town, was cured of severe inflammatory rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after the best doctors had failed to benefit him, and after many so-called "remedies" had proved utterly useless.

The story has been the subject of a great deal of interested discussion here, and it has been ascertained that Dodd's Kidney Pills are an article in universal use in this district.

"Mr. Cragg cannot tell me anything about Dodd's Kidney Pills that I don't know already," said a well-known lawyer, who was discussing the matter with a group of friends yesterday. "I have known them to cure cases of Rheumatism which six doctors had pronounced incurable."

"I have experienced what Dodd's Kidney Pills will do," said Mr. John Nicholas Babcock, another well-known resident. "I suffered the most acute tortures from Gravel and other Kidney Diseases, for 20 long years. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills, and for various so-called cures, but with no lasting benefit."

"I didn't believe Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure me, but expected to get a little temporary relief from their use. I was completely and thoroughly cured by them, though. There is no Kidney medicine on earth to compare with Dodd's Kidney Pills. Every phase of Kidney Disease, including Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Gout, Impure Blood, Heart Failure, Paralysis, Dropsy, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, and Women's Troubles, yield, positively and speedily, to the power of this great Life Saver."

BLAZE AT PORT DALHOUSIE!

Toronto Rubber Company's Factory Totally Destroyed.

Loss $100,000—Large Flour Mill and Other Buildings Also Burned to the Ground.

St. Catharines, Jan. 3.—The large factory of the Toronto Rubber Company at Port Dalhousie was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning, together with the flour mill owned by Mr. Richard Wood and run by Wm. Shaw, and the blacksmith shop of Dominion Government gas yard. The fire originated in the boiler room at about 9 o'clock.

NARROW ESCAPE OF EMPLOYEES.
The factory hands were all at work, and had to run for their lives, many of them having barely time to save a few personal belongings.

Across the railway was a frame building used for storing boxes, which was burned. Fanned by a high wind, the rubber factory was entirely consumed.

The flour mill stood close to the rubber works, and was easy prey to the flames. In an hour the two buildings were gone.

After an hour's good work the flames were finally subdued. The loss to the village of Port Dalhousie is immense.

300 HANDS THROWN OUT.
The factory employed between 250 and 300 hands, and was the sole support of the population. The merchants of St. Catharines also reaped a great benefit from the institution, the factory employees spending much of their earnings with them. The loss to the rubber company and the owner of the flour mill will total close to $100,000.

The insurance is quite heavy. An effort will be made to have the rubber company locate in St. Catharines.

First Symptoms.
Banish the Little Aches and Pains That Lead to Serious Diseases.

Paine's Celery Compound is the Medicine That Gives the Surest and Best Results.

Physicians with the most extended practice are well aware that there is nothing known to medical science equal to Paine's Celery Compound, for regulating the nervous system and banishing disease.

Men and women naturally love life, yet it is astonishing how careless and indifferent they are about the first symptoms of gravel troubles, the sharp and piercing pains in joints and limbs, those ominous pains over the kidneys, that debility, nervousness, insomnia, ugly eruptions on the face and body—all are signals and warnings of grave diseases and sufferings. Paine's Celery Compound used promptly will speedily banish every dangerous symptom, keep the body and nerves in perfect condition, and add power to the mental faculties.

The most sensible and rational way of getting rid of rheumatism and neuralgia; the true way of building up the shattered nervous system, is through the use of a nerve-medicine and blood regulator and cleanser like Paine's Celery Compound. When the nerve centers are made strong, and the tissues and veins supplied with healthy blood, rheumatism and neuralgia must quickly leave the body.

Are you, dear reader, tired, dull, nervous, all-gone, miserable, full of dependency or irritability? If so, use Paine's Celery Compound without delay. Careless delay and indifference will surely drag you down to greater misery and increased peril.

The eye of the culture is so constructed that it is a high-power telescope, enabling the bird to see objects at an almost incredible distance.

THE QUEEN IS FOR PEACE

A Story in Connection With the Fashoda Incident.

Those Favored With New Year's Honors.

Rumor That Zola May Be Arrested in England.

The Derivatives Again on the Warpath—Terrorist Gales Along the Coast of Britain.

London, Jan. 3.—The Paris Journal has, from a personage belonging to the suite of ex-Empress Eugenie, the statement that on the eve of her departure from England, in the early days of the Fashoda incident, the ex-empress took leave of her Majesty Queen Victoria, who said: "If war should break out between France and England, I would ask God to allow me to die before hostilities begin."

The list of new year's honors conferred by the Queen contains only three promotions of interest. Lord Cromer, British diplomatic agent in Egypt, becomes Viscount Cromer. Sir Henry Hawkins, one of the judges of the Queen's bench division of the high court of justice, becomes a peer of the realm. Sir Philip Currie, formerly British ambassador to Turkey, also receives a peerage. A number of minor decorations are bestowed. Sir Henry Thompson, the distinguished pathologist, received a baronetcy. Major-Gen. Gascoigne, former commander of the Canadian militia, is appointed a companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Lord Dunsen is appointed a privy councillor for Ireland, and Sir Edward Chichester, R. N., a companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. In recognition of his services as captain of the British first-class armored cruiser Immortalite, which was stationed at Manila during the war, which the Times points out, afforded him the opportunity of displaying tact and judgment, of which he took every advantage. Mr. Sadler, the former British consul at Chicago, is made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

JUDGE HAWKINS' SUCCESSOR.
Mr. Thomas Bucknill, Queen's counsel and member of parliament in the Conservative interest for Mid-Surrey (Epsom) has been raised to the bench of the high court of justice, in succession to Justice Henry Hawkins, who recently retired from the exchequer division and was yesterday raised to the peerage.

ZOLA MAY BE ARRESTED IN LONDON.
The Daily News says this morning: In a roundabout manner we hear that the British authorities, at the request of the French Government, have issued a warrant for the arrest of M. Emile Zola, now known to be in England.

DREYFUS.
The Intransigent, edited by M. Henri Rochefort, is responsible for the statement that the court of cassation has waived its intention to bring Dreyfus back on the government's presentation of the dossier, and in lieu of a retrial, and of the necessity of a large military force to protect him.

MME. PAYS TESTIFIES.
Paris, Jan. 3.—The Volante asserts that Mme. Pays, who was Esterhazy's mistress, has testified before the court of cassation, declaring that she acted throughout the Dreyfus affair in Esterhazy's interest. She also confessed that it was she who sent the "Blanche" and "Speranza" telegrams which figured in the evidence in the Dreyfus case.

FLOOD.
Paris, Jan. 3.—The heavy rains of the last 36 hours burst the main sewers of Paris, five miles south of Versailles yesterday, causing a landslide and flooding the new works of the Orleans Railway terminus.

The workmen fortunately escaped, but their carts suddenly disappeared in the sea. The foundations of the new works of the Orleans Railway terminus, an affluent of the Seine, in an adjoining avenue the water has risen to the level of the foundations of the exposition buildings are endangered. The gale has caused much damage in Paris.

GREAT GALES.
London, Jan. 3.—Incoming steamers at different ports report that the frightful weather continues along the British coasts and in the Bay of Biscay. The channel steamer Anvers, of 1,689 tons, trading between New Haven and Dieppe, has been wrecked at the entrance of Dieppe harbor. Five of her crew were drowned. Her cargo is washing ashore.

A fearful gale is sweeping the Irish Channel. The Holyhead harbor is full of shipping, and some of the vessels have dragged their anchors and gone ashore. There are numerous wrecks along the coast. The Holyhead lifeboat has rescued the crews of three small vessels.

ON THE WARP.
Khartoum, Jan. 3.—Col. Kitchener, brother of the Sir Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, has started with reinforcements to take command of the expedition organized at Dulm to operate against the Khalifa, who has been raiding Arab settlements in that vicinity.

The Cairo correspondent of the Times says: "Before Major Marchand left Fashoda, on withdrawing with his expedition, the Seventh Soudanese Battalion of Gen. Kitchener's forces, to serve our colonial domains in the Derivah emir, Said Degen, against whom Major Marchand fought before Gen. Kitchener's expedition arrived. The French officer was touched and deeply gratified by the presentation."

DELAGOA BAY.
Lisbon, Jan. 2.—King Charles opened the two legislative chambers. During the course of his speech from the throne his majesty said he greatly sympathized with the czar's disarmament proposals and made a reference to the colonies which apparently disposes of the rumors of the sale of Delagoa Bay. He says: "It is not sufficient to preserve our colonial domains in their complete integrity as the sacred heritage of the nation; but they must be developed as the solid basis of our economic regeneration."

CABLE NOTES.
The health of Emperor William of Germany continues to improve.

The governor of French Guinea, denies that there has been any modification of the severe treatment of Dreyfus or that the French Government has ordered his return to France.

Thomas Edward Corrie Burns Righten, the comedian, is dead.

The general belief is that the Spanish premier, Senor Sagasta, will be able to resume his duties by the end of the week, and that he will form a cabinet to include Lieut.-Gen. Weyler.

The new year editorials in the Madrid press are sad and dismal reminders of the hoisting of the United States flag in Cuba and the Philippines means the closing of four centuries of Spanish colonial history.

The Chinese Government will send 5,000 foreign-drilled troops to suppress the rebellion in the Province of Szechuen.

A panic prevails throughout Szechuen Province, China, caused by the rehoisting of the black flag of rebellion by the notorious outlaw Yountanize.

The Havana correspondent of the Times, referring to the refusal of Gen. Maximo Gomez to surrender his arms until an independent government is established, says: "I believe that the influence of Gen. Gomez with the rebels is completely ended."

The Duke of Northumberland is dead. He was born in 1819. The deceased duke was formerly a lord of the admiralty, vice-president of the board of trade and lord privy seal.

Serious strike riots have taken place at Nagay-Komlos, county of Toronto, Hungary. The mob overpowered and disarmed the police. Finally the police were reinforced and the rioters suppressed.

DISTURBANCES INCREASING

In the Disaffected Chinese Provinces.

Terrible Crimes Perpetrated in the Korean Capital.

Rioting in Sicily—Evacuation of the Visayas—Talk of Spain Resisting the Demands of Britain.

London, Jan. 3.—According to a dispatch from Hankau to the Morning Post there are alarming reports from the Upper Yang Tze Kiang region. The disturbances are increasing in the provinces of Szechuan, Hunan and Hupe.

The dowager empress, it is further asserted, is curtailing the authority of the viceroys, especially in the Yang Tze and Hankau districts.

A body of Chinese troops was sent to attack the rebels, but they are said to have fled before the enemy. The viceroys have been reinforced by three gunboats, and 3,000 men.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Times says: The correspondent of the Novoye Vremya at Seoul, the Korean capital, relates terrible crimes by the anti-Russian party, who, since the departure of the Russian financiers, and drill instructors, have wreaked vengeance by vile deceit and barbarous cruelty by the Korean ex-dictator of the Russian embassy, the official who safeguarded the removal of the Korean emperor to the Russia mission house. The official, his wife and two children, were mercilessly tortured with a view of compelling them to confess to a false charge of poisoning the emperor's coffee, in order to shield the real criminals. The ex-dictator was finally brutally murdered, mutilated publicly, and made sport of in a savage and disgusting manner.

SICILY.
London, Jan. 3.—A special dispatch from Rome says a mob of 4,000 people has destroyed the internal revenue entry boxes and stoned the gendarmes around Nisemi, Sicily, as a protest against excessive taxation. A number of persons were wounded.

RUSSIA.
St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—An Imperial decree, just issued, directs the payment of 75,000,000 roubles out of the free cash reserve in the Imperial treasury for the redemption of a large portion of the state debt to the Imperial bank. This issuance of roubles is regarded as depriving the reports spread abroad of Russia's embarrassment, and of her efforts to contract a loan.

At a banquet given at the military academy of medicine, Lieut.-Gen. K. Kurpatkin, in obedience to the czar's command, read a letter from Emperor William to Emperor Nicholas, expressing the former's congratulations upon the celebration of the academy's centenary. The letter contained the following words: "I am very pleased to renew to your majesty assurances of my high esteem and unalterable friendship, in all of which I am your good brother." The reading of the letter was received with resounding cheers for Emperor William.

SPAIN.
Madrid, Jan. 3.—Official circles here are warmly discussing the attitude of Great Britain, owing to her pressing demands that Spain sell her coaling station in the Balearic Islands, and other strategic points, so as to render Gibraltar unassailable. The negotiations on the subject have been in abeyance owing to Premier Sagasta's illness, but it is believed that Spain, influenced by France and Russia, will resist the demands of Great Britain.

Gen. Rios, the Spanish commander, cables that he has arrived at Manila on board the Leon XIII., after having completely evacuated the Visayas and the northern part of the Island of Mindanao, after blowing up fourteen forts and the fleet of gunboats on Lant Lano.

HANGED AT NEWGATE.
London, Jan. 3.—Schneider, the Pole who on Nov. 11 last murdered a German baker's assistant by throwing him inside an oven, was executed at Newgate this morning.

THE QUEEN OF THE SEASON

"Why not say to Sir Innis at once, because you dare not?" asked a sharp voice at the door; and Lady Esselyn, crimson with wrath, came into the room, looking daggers at both her startled hearers. "I have been so carefully kept in the dark," the angry countess went on to say, "that I was quite by chance I discovered the drama you good people are enacting; but I am in time to wind it up. And so, Sir Innis, if my thoughtless step-daughter has been encouraging you to address her, take your reply from my lips. She is already promised to another."

"Sir Lady Vivien confirms this, I will withdraw my suit," answered Sir Innis, with dignity. "But unless she does so, you must pardon me, madam, if I decline to relinquish the sweet hope of yet calling her mine."

"Speak to this obstinate gentleman yourself, child," cried the countess, impatiently, "and tell him that you cannot be his."

But Vivien sat like one turned to stone, and if she heard she answered not. There was something so strange in the fixed glare of her eyes, that Sir Innis stepped hastily towards her, but Lady Esselyn was too quick for him, and placed herself between them.

"Viva is too sensitive for these scenes," she exclaimed. "If you have any consideration for her, sir, you will leave us. She has nothing to add to what I have already told you. She thanks you for the honor you have done her, but cannot accept the proposal."

Sir Innis was undecided how to act. Relinquish the woman he loved at the command of her shrewish step-mother he would not; yet unless Vivien moved, he would be left with his remaining hope, how could he do so? He sought in vain to catch her eye and be guided by her wishes, but she had fallen back in her chair, and covered her face with her handkerchief.

While he stood thus perplexed, a voice was heard without, and a step approached the door. It was Lord Esselyn returning, and the brow of his friend began to clear.

"To Lady Vivien's brother, her nearest relative, I must, with all due deference to your ladyship, now appeal," he said firmly. "It is with his sanction I have addressed his sister, and I hope, when you have heard him, you will withdraw your objection."

"Then Aymer is to be arrayed against me?" cried the countess, spitefully. "I have no doubt that it is owing to your interference, Sir Innis, I have no doubt that I have endured his opposition to my plans. In this case I should advise you, for your own sake, to make no mischief between the earl and me. For your own sake, I repeat, let your foolish fancy for Lady Vivien die a natural death, for she is already betrothed, and the banner which began to flutter at her strange condition, uttered a thankful exclamation as Lord Esselyn, who had been giving some directions to the steward, came into the room."

"Will you speak, or must I?" Sir Innis heard the countess hiss into the ear of her step-daughter.

Vivien raised her face now; it was white with agony, and the uneasy baronet caught with some difficulty the reply she gasped:

"Be merciful—in heaven's name, be merciful! Spare me, and—and him!"

CHAPTER XLIV.

Aymer, glancing from one to another as he drew nearer, saw, in the belligerent aspect of his step-daughter, what was amiss, and hotly and angrily interfered.

"It is as well that you are here, madam, that you may be apprised of Viva's approaching marriage. She consents to become the wife of my dear old friend, Innis Hatherfield."

"I think not," answered the countess, with a malevolent smile. "Dear Viva, more than I, I am your friend. I consult me in this matter, and agree to be guided by my wishes."

But Aymer, rendered irritable by his anxiety respecting the lost Marie, took Vivien by the hands and compelled her to stand up, thus withdrawing her from the half embrace of Lady Esselyn.

"Hatherfield," he said, in the deep and deliberate tones of an angry man who is sternly controlling his wrath, "my sister loves you. A false shame, or an excess of modesty, has led her to deny and disguise it. I am not an hour since she betrayed to me the true state of her feelings. Take her, then; if she trifles with you now, and permits anyone to come between you, by all I hold holy she shall be sister of mine no longer!"

"The words of a madman!" cried Lady Esselyn shrilly. "Do you hear him, Viva? Will you permit yourself to be thrown at any man's head in this delicate manner?"

"Take Viva away," her brother said.

to Sir Innis. "If these are extreme measures, they are forced upon me by Lady Esselyn's incomprehensible endeavors to usurp an authority she does not possess."

"Before Sir Innis leads his bride-elect hence, and encourages her to set me at defiance," sneered the countess, shaking her finger at the pale, statue-like girl, "you shall all hear why I have opposed this marriage."

Vivien winced, and turned towards her brother with such an appealing cry that he sprang towards her to know the meaning of it, and soothe the distress she was evincing. When he looked round again, Sir Innis and the countess had disappeared, the baronet having, with gentle but irresistible force, compelled Lady Esselyn to accompany him to an adjoining room.

On Vivien discovering this she dried her tears and suddenly became quite calm. It was the tranquillity of despair. All the bitterness and regrets of her life were on the point of being revealed to Sir Innis by this detestable woman, who had traded on them to enforce her obedience. The heartless countess would not scruple to tell him how the high-born girl he was engaged to marry had been driven from her home for a night and day, and worse still, had been ashamed to say whether she had gone, or who was her companion during that period.

Nor was this all. Before Vivien quitted the room with her step-mother, she had made another effort to discover if Aymer were still in the city, and what had drawn him there; and the agent she employed had brought to her a report of her brother's proceedings that made her blush with shame. But when, refusing to hear him out, she had paid and dismissed him, the overwhelmed Vivien struggled with her doubts, and assured herself that the dreadful tale must be false.

"One look, one word, when we meet, will convince me of his innocence," she said; but when the countess told her that place, and Aymer's eyes were a flush mounted to his brow, she glanced at him inquiringly, her faint hopes that she had been deceived vanished for ever.

The brother of whom she had been so proud had debased himself, and was false to all the traditions of his honorable and ancient race; and for a little while she felt as if it would be impossible to forgive him for the stain he had cast upon her as well as himself. But soon kinder thoughts prevailed. He was so young, she reminded herself, his tutor had been so incompetent, and the temptations assailing a generous, thoughtless lad are always so great that many excuses might be made for his errors; and Vivien resolved not only to keep her evil-minded step-mother in ignorance of what he had done, but to do so carefully concealing from him how much she herself knew.

A STRANGE
MILLIONAIRE

Death of James Tyson, a Remarkable Australian.

Started Life a Poor Boy and Earned Great Riches.

Lived a Lonely Life—His Attitude Toward Women—Sketch of His Career.

[London Times.]

In Mr. James Tyson, the millionaire, whose death was reported from Sydney a few days ago, Australia has lost a remarkable personality and a citizen whose career was so typical in some of its leading characteristics as almost to epitomize in itself the history of the pastoral industry in Australia. Mr. Tyson was as a lad, and remained to the end of his life, a bushman pure and simple. Though he accumulated great wealth he recognized none of the ordinary civilized uses of money.

Maintained throughout his career the frugal habits of the beginning, working no less continuously than he had worked at 17, wearing habitually a shabby suit of ready-made clothes, with a silver watch, of which a bootlace formed the guard, and eating only the same hard-baked bread that had served him, when, as a young laborer, he took the position of "leading scythe" on the station of two brothers of the name of Vine.

His life was lived in the open air, and as a man of over 70 years of age he was able to perform the most arduous work. He had never entered a church, or a theater, or a public-house, that he had never tasted beer, wine nor spirits, that he had never washed with soap—he used sand instead of soap, and a white shirt, or a glove. He was of splendid, though somewhat spare and hard, physique, and at 17 stood 6 feet 4 in his stockings. His figure, as known more familiarly of late years, was that of a square-shouldered, slightly stooping, but active man, with a keen face below a crop of iron-gray hair, and distinguished by particularly bright, deep-set gray eyes.

HIS PARENTAGE.

He was born in Australia in 1822, his father being a Cumberland man of reputed Flemish or Belgian descent, and his mother an English woman of the name of Coates. Mr. Tyson was interested towards the end of his life to learn that the translation of his French name was "firebrand," and observed thoughtfully, "If I could have set the world on fire a bit, too, it would be a good thing."

But his career was directed from the beginning into a totally different channel. He was essentially a man of peace. The most offensive weapon that he was ever known to have carried was the scythe, and he himself attributed his success in the world to the fact that, having begun life as a mower, he "mowed longer and stronger than other men."

HIS EARLY LIFE AND MISFORTUNE.

His first experience of earning his own bread outside the family circle began when he was 17, and lasted for two years and a half during which time he received wages at the rate of £30 a year. The position of leading scythe involved work too heavy for so young a man. His fellow-laborers were jealous of seeing him in the post of foreman, and to the end of his life he would tell of the days of improved machinery. At the end of two years and a half, with the loyal assistance, which he never forgot to mention, of the widowed mother who made and mended for him, he had saved £20. With this he went to a remote district of the then little-known interior, he lived absolutely alone, herding bullocks, and in constant danger of his life from the black men still unaccustomed to a white occupation of the country.

On this station he remained for a year and a half, working again very hard, and saved £38. With the £38 thus carefully accumulated he proposed to set up with his brother on a cattle station of his own, but at this juncture the bank in which he deposited his first £20 failed, and though he was repaid a portion of the money, he had again to work for wages.

Once more he saved, this time having accumulated, he was able to carry out his project, and established himself on a station on the Murrumbidgee River, in the back country of New South Wales. He had not yet surmounted his early misfortunes, for here in their first year they were overtaken by drought and all their newly-purchased cattle died. He received at this time an offer to take over some cattle on a system known as "thirds"—that is, the risk to the owner and a third of the increase to the caretaker. It was necessary to have some money for first expenses, and in his anxiety he remembered that Sir John Hay, for whom he had a year or two previously driven cattle, owed him £5. He knew only with regard to Sir John Hay that he lived somewhere on the Murrumbidgee at a distance of about 200 miles, and to Sydney was practically trackless, but deciding that, if he followed the tributaries of the Murrumbidgee into the dividing range, the streams flowing down the other side of the hills must bring him to the Murrumbidgee, he started on horseback to find his way.

He took it with him together with some food. The way proved longer than he expected. After a day or two his food was finished, and for three days he kept himself alive by plucking and eating the fruit of the sweet grass and chewing it as he went along.

HIS ONLY LOVE AFFAIRS.

Mr. Tyson was never married, but even the bush has its possibilities of romance, and it was at this time that he met the lady in whose power it would seem to have lain to change the tenor of his life. He was then 23, and to realize her he described the incident with a vividness of detail which bore witness to the tenacity of the impression produced.

He had crossed the range, and being weak with hunger had found what he called a "cottage" in the bush. He might never find the house of Sir John Hay, when he perceived a cottage and an old man about to enter. He approached, wishing to ask his way, but hesitating in case he was of the shy, shy habit of the bush, he stood for a moment looking at the old man, who was looking at him with a shyness which caused him to shun intercourse with strangers. As he reluctantly drew near the door a young woman came suddenly out—a beautiful, young, bush-reared girl, dark, tiny and well grown. He was then 23, and she was 17. He looked at her and without answering his question bade him come in and eat.

He refused. She then laid both hands upon his arm, and with gentle compulsion drew him in, saying, "Being 'well-famished' and supposing that you 'saw the truth in his face,' he let himself do as she bid. She called to her sister to help to get some food ready and in a few minutes he was sitting before a good breakfast. He was not in all more than fifteen minutes in the house, he never spoke to the girl again, but for 20 years he continued to visit the neighborhood and inquire after her until he learned that she was married. Then he thought it was time to do something for himself. His time was explained, in telling the story afterwards, kept him from seeking to speak to her again, but he added, "She was the only woman I ever thought of marrying."

ANOTHER START.

He did not obtain his £5, but returned hungry again from Sir John Hay's, not by way of the cottage, but following the river and the Murrumbidgee. He spent his evening on the ferry which took him back to his own side of the river, and having, notwithstanding his lack of funds, determined to accept the proposal of taking cattle on thirds, he was driving his herd to the station when he met the brother who told him that he had sold the station for £12. With this capital life had to be begun again. The two brothers drove the cattle far afield, and on July 8, 1846, Mr. Tyson being then nearly 24 years of age, they settled upon the Murrumbidgee on land which Mr. Tyson continued to hold for the rest of his life. Their cattle thrived and the beginning was made of the fortune which has since accumulated in Mr. Tyson's hands. It was in this way, by the adventure and the dangers of civilized occupation, that the pastoral settlement of Australia was in the early days effected.

About five years later—Mr. Tyson and his brother having apparently dissolved their partnership in the meantime—gold was found in Victoria. The Bendigo diggings were opened, and Mr. Tyson began to supply the goldfields with meat. The profits made were very large, but the general anticipation was that the market would not last. Stock owners, intending to make hay while the sun shone, disposed of all their cattle, selling, but not buying. Mr. Tyson, forming a more accurate forecast of the position, believed, on the contrary, that the market would last. He kept himself informed of all the news of the diggings, and while he sold at Bendigo, he bought from the owners for ready money on the road. They, glad enough to take a fair profit, and save risk and travel, parted with their stock at a comparatively low price. He extended his operations first to the buying of cattle not only on the road, but as far north as Queensland, and then to the buying of stations as well as stock in all parts of Australia. His stations were well stocked in stock, putting up fences, and introducing new stock. He came thus to be one of the richest and finally the largest landowner in the seven colonies. At the time of his death his freehold estate comprised more than half a million acres, and his leasehold extended over many thousands of square miles.

HAD NO USE FOR MONEY.

Having practically no use for money and spending none upon his personal requirements his wealth accumulated to enormous proportions, and a few years before his death he was accredited with the possession of £5,000,000. His money did not interest him. He used to say of it, "I shall just leave it behind me when I go. I shall have done with it then, and it will not concern me afterwards." But, he would add, with a semi-exultant snap of his finger, "Money is nothing. It is fun!"

The little game that was the fun! Being asked once what is the little game? he replied with an energy of concentration peculiar to him, "Fighting the desert." That was his work! I have been fighting the desert all my life and I have won! I have put water where there was no water, and beef where there were no fences, and roads where there were no roads. No cattle can undo what I have done, and millions will be happier for it after I am long dead and forgotten."

He was entirely Australian, and had no experience beyond the limits of the Australian colonies. At 71 years of age, having never had a holiday in his life, he entertained for a time the thought of winding up his affairs and starting to see the world before he died, but finally condemned his own project as being too idle and self-indulgent.

HIS ATTITUDE TOWARDS WOMEN.

His life, except for the activity of his work, which obliged him to spend the greater part of his time in the open air, and of Australia, he formed no special friendships with men, and had the reputation of being a woman-hater. The reputation was probably no better founded than the reputation for misanthropy which he was also given. His attitude towards women, based avowedly upon a very narrow experience, was more properly to be described as indifference than hate. He thought that they needed more robustness and simplicity of body and mind. Wives generally, he held, were fond of dress and had cold, cold tempers, and were spiteful to other women. They seemed to him to be bred in such a way that they had their minds full of small things, and he summed it all up in the opinion that "it is a deal for husbands to bear." At the same time he described himself as one whom a woman, who had been any way kind to him, might have twisted round her finger. For which reason he thought married a wife would, he supposed, have wanted him to settle down and do as other men, and waste his time, which "would have been a pity, for my work would not have been done." He preferred to be alone, and had always considered, from first to last, single-handed. As for friendship, he would not take the time for it; he could not be wasting his days.

On questions of religion his creed was as simple and effective as his life. With theology he would not concern himself. "It ain't my business. I do what I think seriously right; I stand to take my chance; and I have no fear."

In his narrowness, his vigor, his total lack of aesthetic culture, his indifference to the use of the great financial instruments which he had created as a mere incident in his own career, but above all in his latent reserves of heroism and tenderness, he offered a remarkable specimen of the rough rock from which the great men of the world are hewn. If there had been no Englishmen of Mr. Tyson's stamp there would have been no British supremacy in the empire extending round the world.

People of This Town Greatly Stirred Up Over the Many Cases of Recovery From Severe Heart and Nerve Troubles.

The Cure of Mr. J. Currie, the Well-Known Blacksmith Causing a Great Deal of Comment.

The little life savers have struck Collingwood, Ont.

They've been greatly welcomed by the sick and suffering of that prosperous town, curing people whom other remedies failed to benefit. Building up run down constitutions. Strengthening, invigorating weak hearts. Toning up the nerves. Making watery blood rich, red nutritious.

Mr. J. Currie, the well-known brawny blacksmith of that town suffered greatly from palpitation of the heart and shortness of breath. This is his story of how he was cured:

"For three years something has gone wrong with my heart. What it was I did not know, but it caused me great suffering from palpitation and shortness of breath. When I started to do anything in a hurry the trouble came on. I had to stop and rest. During the last three years I have taken a number of different medicines for heart trouble, but nothing did me any good, until I fortunately commenced taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at E. R. Carpenter's drug store. Three boxes cured me, making me heart and nerve healthy and natural manner and restoring me to my former state of vigorous health. I am no longer annoyed with palpitation or shortness of breath, and can heartily say that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cannot be excelled as a medicine for all heart and nerve troubles. This is my own experience, and I recommend these pills to all who suffer as I did."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills 50c a box or 3 boxes for $1.25. All suggestions. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

Chinese coinage in the shape of a knife has been traced back as far as 2,240 B. C.

Peristaltic Plant Food gives strong, vigorous growth, hardy foliage and healthy roots. At your dealer's, or the Pickhardt-Renrew Company, Limited, Stouffville.

Mexico has had 55 presidents since 1821. Of these sixteen have died violent deaths.

A DINNER PILL—Many persons taken of like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy system it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion.
