Twenty others, names not yet obtained, severely cut and bruised. HOW IT HAPPENED. Two sections of train No. 3-one coming from Detroit and the other from Toledo-were consolidated in this city into a train of eleven cars, making up the flyer for its journey to St. Louis. It consisted of a combination baggage and smoker, day coach, im-migrant coach, three chair cars, three sleepers and the private car of General Superintendent Wm. Cotton, of the Iron Mountain Railway. BEHIND TIME.

Having left this city one hour late, the train was speeding westward at high speed when, at a point nine miles west the engine PLUNGED THROUGH A TRESTLE, which had been undermined by the recent heavy rains. The embankment on both sides of the little stream dropped at a sharp degree, a distance of 40 feet. Owing to the momentum of the train, the engine leaped across the abyss, plunged into the soft earth on the opposite side, and fell back to the bottom. Engineer Butler and Fireman Adams were thrown from the cab, but not seriously hurt. CARS TELESCOPED!

The express car and the chair car were telescoped. The immigrant car, followed by two chair cars, went down on the left side of the track, and the first sleeper pitched forward apon the mass of wreckage. Its windows and trucks were broken, and one of the occupants was injured. The remaining cars also left their trucks, but were not badly damaged. It was in the immigrant and in the day coaches that most of the deaths and injuries occurred.

ENGLISH EMIGRANTS TURNED BACK.

London, June 26 .- In the House of Commons Mr. Gerald Balfour, president of the board of trade, stated that 139 aliens, arriving from the United Kingdom, had been turned back from the United States. This number included those rejected under the contract labor law.

SIR HENRY IRVING'S LATEST SUCCESS.

Sir Henry Irving revived "King Charles the First" with marked success at the Lyceum last night, and was received with hearty enthusiasm. Ellen Terry supported him well as Queen Henrietta Maria. He is working constantly, rehearsing one play after another, yet he retains his usual health and vigor. It is probable that he will appear in the full series of plays now in progress at the Lyceum when he goes to America.

Bernhardt rivals Irving in physical endurance and has strength in reserve for a constant round of social engage-ments. Coquelin also is a welcome guest in West End houses. Marion Crawford is making a short in London and pronounces

THE LEIPZIC BANK SMASH. Berlin, June 25.-The crash of the Leipziger Bank was a complete sur-prise to the Berlin boerse, where yesterday the bank shares were quoted at 140. This failure now turns out to be worse than at first reported. The Leipziger Bank had practically become the owner of the Cassel Trocknung Company, which in itself was financially unsound. Well informed Berlin financiers fear that the Leipziger Bank will save little, if anything, out of the wreck. Immediately after the Leipziger failure became known here there was almost a panic in bank stocks, including that of the Darmstadt National Bank, which fell considerably. Nearly all other values on the boerse dropped, while the stock of the Saxon Bank, the Leipzig Savings Bank, the Leipzig Mortgage Bank and the Magdeburg Bank Verein were struck off the Berlin quotations. The Frankfurt main boerse reacted similarly on news of the Leipzig failure, all the bank stock dealt in there losing from 8 to 9 points. The newspapers tonight intimate that the directors of the Leipziger Bank will be criminally pro-secuted. The Lokal Anzeiger estimates the liabilities of the Leipziger Bank at 85,000,000 to 90,000,000 marks, against assets amounting to 48,000,000 marks.

New York, June 25.-Amanda Blackburn, the wife of a painter and decorator, arose before her husband this morning, laid out all the dresses, shoes, and other clothing of her four children to wear during the day, and then hanged herself with a clothesline to the dining-room gas jet. She was 26 years old. Blackburn said that he had no knowledge of anything that would lead his wife to kill herself. DR. McLAUGHLIN'S OFFER.

My Electric Belt is a positive cure for weakness of every kind in men and women. It gives the vitalizing power of electricity direct to all weak parts, developing the full natural vigor and strength, and removing the cause of disease. I want everyone who lacks the strength he should possess to use it, and to tell his friends of its surprising effects.

You might think I am taking long chances on my remedy. I don't. There is more in Electricity, rightly applied, than you think. It performs wonders in a broken-down man. It not only sets the wheels of health and vigor in motion, but makes a man feel so gloriously young and lighthearted that he can't help telling of it, and then paying for it comes easy.

Pay me when cured—that is my proposition.
Can you ask a fairer offer than that? Will any other man take such chances on his remedy? I make you safe. You know what you are buying, as you pay for it after you are cured. How can I do it? Because I have found by experience that nine men out of ten are honest enough to acknowledge benefits received, and if the tenth man beats me I can stand it if he can. I'd hate to pack his conscience about me.

These grateful people are shouting its praise, you cannot doubt such strong proof:

The pain I was telling you about across my stomach does not bother me now. Waiter Campbell, Toronto, Ont.

BARGAINS IN MILLINERY SECTION

It's not often that such splendid bargains are offered in any Millinery Department. We are offering them now only because we do not want the end of the season to find them still in stock. We'd rather let them go now at these prices than have that occur. In this way our stock is kept right up to date. And then we know that lots of people want these articles just now and can make good use of them. You'll make a considerable saving if you buy. See them anyway.

THE WORRY HABIT: HOW TO CURE IT.

By Ada C. sweet in the Chicago America N

A day or two ago I was visiting at house when the mother of the family told her concern over her son's unexpected absence from the dinner table. There was a cloud upon the poor woman's face as she said: "Martin has either gone fishing with the Williams boys or he has met with some accident."

"Oh, well," said the head of the fam-"let's say he's gone fishing." By all means, let us adopt the fishing hypothesis, my careful sisters! worry is the fifth wheel to the coach; the second tail to a cat; it is coal carried to Newcastle; it is everything that is superfluous, unnecessary and irre-

Man alone, of all animals, worries, It is true, that to his faithful friend, an endless theme of meditation and the dog he has transferred one form of this objectionable trait; but, after all, the worrying that a dog does, is not so entirely futile as that of man. It is only another reminder that evil society corrupts good manners. A really wise dog never worries over anything; and the most foolish dog in the world knows better than to worry himself. Yet men and women who pretend to sense and virtue are not afraid to confess that they worry about their children, friends, business, and the general conduct of the universe. Taxed with the fault—for it is a fault, a failing, a weakness-you say, perhaps, that you can't help worry-

It was long before I was well under way worry had ceased to bother me and happiness filled my heart.

I began to hum a gay little tune, and if it was a "coon song" no matter. That old nightmare of a worry just flew out, not waiting for me to open the door—the window is ever open ready for worry to go out-and the

Where Do Old Books Go?

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.] of the same sort can be done to rid the human being of the worry habit?

For worry is nothing but a habit. It is fatal to happiness when once it becomes fixed in one place.

"It is certainly extraordinary," said a New Orleans collector, "how an entire edition of a book, running up into tire edition of a book, running up into the hundreds or even the thousands of the hundreds or even the thousands of the face of the earth, but the ways and them in stock. face of the earth, but the ways and chances by which odd volumes are occasically preserved from destruction are equally remarkable. Some years half told when I say that, for happiness just as surely kills worry.

And in every human heart bubbles the fountain of happiness. Sprinkle your whole life with the diamond drops from that spring, and worry will be "killed out," as the canker worm dies under the gardener's spray. Happiness is looking on the bright side, and the right side of life.

Some years ago, to give an illustration, I attended the sale of a private library that I felt certain concealed some good things. It was wretchedly catalogued and toward the end the auctioneer put up what he described as a package of old maritime reports. The bundle was inclosed in heavy wrapping paper, tied with stout manila twine, but a torn Happiness is looking on the bright side, and the right side of life.

To be happy one has only to check the black-winged bird of misgiving over the present and future by a determination to make the most of the present moment, extracting all of its possible sweetness.

The bundle was inclosed in heavy wrapping paper, tied with stout manila twine, but a torn corner showed what sceme to be a lot of statistical pamphlets dating back to the forties. I bid them in for 25 cents, and when I opened the package at my office was astonished to find that present moment, extracting all of its possible sweetness.

[From the London-Spectator.] The dinner of the Hardwicke Society on Wednesday evening, at which the French advocate, Maitre Labori, was the chief guest, was an event, in our eyes, of far more importance than the ordinary banquet to celebrities. It men of the English bar, with repre- 'tor strictly to the point at issue. of the Scottish was intended partly as an act of courvery nearly as different from our own ! eminent advocate. Not since M. Berryer was welcomed by English ly lawyers in a similar fashion has there wide a reputation in England. M. Labori has not the legal reputation and professional eminence which M. Berryer had, and consequenty it was well that the dinner was not given by the bar of England, but by a private society. Otherwise the noring of one who, in his own modest words, cannot claim to be a repre-sentative of the bar of France might have been construed in Paris as the expression of an opinion on the merits of the Dreyfus case by English lawyers, a political manifesto which the English bar has rarely been guilty of. But if M. Labori is not representative of his own bar on one side, on another he is the exponent of the best traditions of courage and independence which the French law courts have produced, and therefore in honhim the English lawyers pay a well-deserved compliment to their own profession across the Channel.

To any one who has listened to the long as this view prevailed, less weight grave, well-balanced, and almost unrhetorical remarks of the English lawyers, notably of the lord chancellor and the attorney-general, and after- ful influence of the disease upon the ward to M. Labori's two admirable speeches, the root distinction of the two nations seemed typified in their legal dignitaries. M. Labori is primarily an orator, which since Brougham and Erskine has been a rare phenomenon at the English bar. He made his reputation in sensational cases. He is a busy journalist besides being a distinguished advocate, and law, in the sense in which Sugden and Cairns understood it, is probably very far from the part of the invalid depended on insufficient nourishment. did dietetic pen in any country where the bar and in one profession, the successful French advocate is rarely a law-yer. WILL BE MORE NOVA SCOTIA COAL

Russian Agent's Opinion of Canada's Wealth-Prospects of the Russian Market for Coal and Iron.

Halifax, June 26 .- Nova Scotia may in the very near future be supplying the Russian and German navies with coal. Mr. N. De Struve, the Russianconsul-general, who, with Mr. A. Boff, the German consul-general in Canada, is making a tour of inspection of the coal and iron industries of Cape Breton, said in an interview at Sydney Monday night: "I am told that there is an unlimited coal supply in Cape Breton. Hitherto Russia has been securing most of the coal for her navy from England. If coal is cheaper in Canada I will certainly recommend to my government the advisability of purchasing considerable for our navy from Cape Breton. Russia is, of course, also greatly interested in the iron and steel industry. We want rails for our Siberian railway, and we want other products of iron. And I will make a report to my government on the steel industry as it exists in Canada today. I was at Sault Ste. Marie two weeks ago, and was very much pleased with the outlook there. Siberia is rapidly increasing in population, and will soon be a great country, and I hope to more closely unite the relations between Canada and that country. It is solely an agricultural country, and will need all sorts of machinery, and I look to Canada to supply a large portion of the same."

The total amount will be in the neighborhood of $500,000. The most prominent passenger on board the Hating was Major Wood, head of the Yukon Mounted Police. Major Wood speaks authoritatively when he says the clean-up of the Yukon will be $5,000,-000 more than last year, or in round figures $25,000,000. He says that Dawson was booming when he left, and everybody had more money than they knew what to do with. He states that he heard for the first time on arrival in Vancouver that the Vancouver citizens were making a bid for the Klondike gold by offering to pay the difference between what Klondikers could get for their gold here and in Seattle. He says they don't know anything about it in the north, or if they do, they refuse to accept Vancouver's invitation, and all the treasure is being shipped to Seattle. He is positive that the Bank of Commerce is shipping half a million by the steamer City of Seattle this week. In fact, in spite of whatever could be done, the United States could get the bulk of the $25,000,000 that is to come out. The latest mining excitement, according to newspapers brought down, is the discovery of a big quartz ledge thought to be a continuation of the White Horse copper belt. The discovery is located between the Hootalinqua River and the south fork of the Big Salmon. The ledge is from 50 to 300 feet wide, and very rich in copper. The find has caused great excitement.

When the Complexion Is Pale and Sallow

The complexion tells the quantity of the blood and acts as a thermometer of the health. A pale, sallow skin and pallor of the eyelids, lips and gums bear unquestionable evidence that the blood is thin, watery and vitiated. Poor, weak blood fails to supply the nervous system with proper nourishment and day by day the system breaks down and constitutional diseases, such as catarrh, consumption, pneumonia, and heart troubles, find easy victims. There can be no cure, no permanent relief until the blood is made pure, rich and lifesustaining.

The influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in enriching the blood and revitalizing the nervous system is seen in the healthful glow which it gives to the complexion and the new life and vigor which it instills into every motion of the body. By its potent help shattered nerves, palpitating heart, clouded brain, depression of mind and exhausted energies give place to steadiness of nerve, vigorous heart action, good spirits and good health. If you want celor to return to the cheeks and strength to take the place of weakness you must use the great Food Cure and tissue-builder.

Why Evening Papers Pay Advertisers.

[From Pacific Coast Advertising.] It was a chilly night for Southern California and I felt very comfortable before a glowing gas log. An evening paper lay on my lap. I had read all the news I was interested in and some of the ads.

As I glanced down at the paper, this line caught my eye: "Paris, 4:30 p.m." It started a new train of thought, I picked the paper up and began a careful examination of it. I found another line which read:

London 2 p.m. Another read; Manila, 3:45 p.m.
Other telegrams were dated from to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and I was surprised to find that the idea which impressed me now had never occurred to me before.

I returned the paper to my lap, and began to think what it all meant as applied to the advertising business. The ideas arranged themselves something like this: To begin with, the world-wide news service, which covers important happenings up to 5 o'clock or later, really includes the most important news of the day. The paper which prints this news is a newspaper in the fullest sense of

Such a paper will surely be read for the intrinsic value of the news which it contains This seems to be an irrefutable

Then I took up the question of the morning papers. Assuming that the morning paper is to bring together an interesting lot of news which may have transpired after the close of the business day, is it as well read? I answered the question from a personal standpoint and found mysel" forced to confess that the morning finds me in such a hurry to take up the work of the day that my paper receives a mere glance. I recall that this glance of the paper great many others are engaged in the same way. I wondered if all the papers one sees on the cars are treated as mine is? It receives a partial reading by one person, whereas our evening paper is perused in turn by each member of the family.

At this point in my self-examination my wife entered the room, the last of the small fry being safely tucked up, and I set about getting her idea on the subject.

Among other things I learned that I was really a very inconsiderate husband, from the fact that I invariably stuck the morning paper into my pocket when leaving the house, "bethe morning paper into my fore anyone had had a chance to look

A little later I learned that Mary didn't care so very much, after all, as the evening paper gave her an opportunity to study the shopping news and the bargains for the following day at her leisure, and enabled her to plan the next day's work so as to make a shopping excursion without seriously disarranging matters. Between my own deductions and the comments of my wife I felt very much like starting a campaign in the interest of the evening papers. There are a great many advertisers tho know that evening papers pay, but who have never given any time to learning the reason why. I think I discovered a few of the

The Ontario Government Helping to Make Canada First.

The Government of Ontario is firmly settled in the confidence of the people. They have shown themselves in the past capable of dealing with the questions of the day, and they do not shrink from the responsibilities of the future. Their aim is to make Canada first, in the truest sense of the word.

Time was-within the memory of some now living-when the statement made in the Canadian House of Commons that there would some day be a daily boat between England and America, was met with derisive cheers. Who, today, will limit the number that may be, or place a bound to the possibilities of invention in every direction? Great Britain evoked the praise of Daniel Webster when he said, "Our fathers raised their flag against a power to which for purposes of foreign conquest Rome in the height of her glory is not to be compared-a power which has dotted the surface of the whole globe with whose morning drum beat, following one continuous and unbroken strain of the martial airs of Ergland."

What might not yet be truthfully said of Canada with her limitless possibilities?

There is now a great nation to the south of us; but Canada may one day man said: "Compared with Canada, speck on a sheet of paper." This Province, apparently, has its share, and what the Government can do for its development will assuredly be done, and Canada will be the country of the future.

Canada should be "Canada first." Canada, first in education. The raw material, sent to our schools is equal to any in the world. A northern cli- Canadians the great people they are mate makes us active, and demands destined to become. that we should have good constitutions. There can be no better companions than a good constitution and acquiring knowledge; but it is not in whiz between Athens and Piraeus in a good education. Already it may be the power of everyone to travel, and Greece, over the ground where strugthe people of this country possess both as any country in the world.

The schools educate the head: and the many charitable institutions supported by the Ontario Government educate the heart; thus rounding out the character and making us a better people. No one need be ignorant, and no one need suffer or be unattended when sick. The means are at hand. And so in every department of government, the aim is to strive towards the highest perfection. Already much has been done; much more will yet be accomplished; and the world will be compelled in many things to acknowledge "Canada first."

Industrial Arbitration.

Why not arbitrate all disputes every here between labor and capital, as in w Zealand? Why not enact, also, as in New Zealand, a compulsory arbitration law?

There are no snakes in Ireland, and no strikes in New Zealand.—London Ad-

Compulsory arbitration' is a way station on the road to that worst of tyrannies, state socialism. There are many things that may well be left to arbitration; but it is asking too much to ask that a man 'arbitrate' his right to run his own business, or to work or not work. The compulsory fad has had but a short trial in New Zealand, and not be estimated. Buffalo is to be even now it is not generally regarded as the success its partisans depict it. And New Zealand is not Canada. And though there be no snakes in Ireland, and no strikes in New Zealand, and prise. me of both in Canada, we think Canada is a better land than either of them or both together.-Hamilton Times.

Our contemporary does not believe in obligatory arbitration. Does it disbelieve in it in all cases? Does it beleive in any sort of arbitration? Or does it believe rather in the old robber motto. Let him take who has the power, let him keep who can?

Let us give our contemporary an illustrative inquiry. Hamilton has a street railway company, and street railway employes. The street railway company is allowed a valuable franchise in the use of the best parts of the best streets of Hamilton. Suppose the employers and employes get into a dispute; the line is tied up; the citizens, who are incommoded, are ten times more numerous than both street railway employers and employes combined; the citizens support both of the contending parties; are the citizens not to be considered? Well, how is the dispute to be settled? Why not by arbitration? Is not that method more Christian, more in accordance with the Golden Rule, than any opposite course? But, perhaps, it may be said, only one side is willing to arbitrate. Must the moderate and reasonable way of settlement, then, be by way of reply, about "the tyrannies foundations. The bare idea of St. of state socialism," whatever that may mean, are no refutation of the contention that the right way to settle disputes between labor and capital is not by strikes, or sticks, or stones; but by each side choosing an arbitrator, and the two choosing a third, and submitting the matters in dispute. It is the interest of both employer and employe to work along the line of the Golden Rule. It is the right of the public, who have to pay the whole shot, and who provide the dividend for the capitalist, as well as the wage for the worker, to insist that arbitration be made obligatory.

Buffalo is a great city, and destined to be a much greater. It has naturally a splendid location, and with the greatest water-power in the world so close at hand, it will be one of the greatest cities in the world. The use that may be made of Niagara Falls is beginning to be understood by the light of electricity.

The people of Buffalo have acted wisely in getting up the Pan-American: wisely in their own interests, because Buffalo as a city will gain by it; wisely in the interest of everyone who decides to visit it and take advantage of the pleasure and profit to be derived from such a visit

The advantages of travel cannot be overestimated. The difference between her possessions and military posts, the views and opinions of those who have traveled and those who have the sun in his course and keeping pace not cannot be so plainly seen anywhere with the hours, circles the earth with in the world as in the United States. The traveled American is broad-minded, liberal and willing to admit that American still looks to Britain for its highest ideals, but on the other hand, the untraveled American, handicapped by the erroneous teachings of the schools, and filled with the idea that be greater. Speaking of mining on there is no other country in the world. this continent, an American states- is apt to be offensively egotistical with reference to it. To leave his home and the mines of the United States are a see some other countries would do such men good.

> Canadians, on the other hand, are too modest with reference to Canada. They underestimate and do not realize the greatness of Canada; but Canadians are above all things ready and anxious to learn, and that fact will contribute very much towards making Canada the great country and it remains.

Travel is one of the best means of aimed that as large a percentage of therefore exhibitions like the Pan-American are good substitutes for travel. Here may be seen collected from all over the continent exhibits of every kind. Here may be seen the best electrical display the world has yet seen, and here the student of electrical matters will find much to instruct and interest him. Here may be seen machinery of all kinds, and in whatever direction one wants instruction, he is sure to find it. If it is music, the best the continent has is here; so with art: and what under ordinary circumstances would require much expense and many miles of travel, is brought to our doors at comparatively little expense.

> Nor need the amusing side be lost sight of. Everyone likes a certain amount of nonsense, and everyone goes to the Midway to find it, and is not dis- doesn't know it all now, although he appointed. There are many things worth seeing here; which, each must decide for himself; and if fooled or taken in, that is part of the show, and is everywhere taken good-naturedly.

The exposition may be pronounced a decided success. It should be seen by everyone who can. The extent of the benefits of such an exposition cancongratulated on its success, and on the possession of citizens capable of managing so well so great an enter-

Undermining Old London.

The people of Old London are confronted with a problem, the solution of which is daily becoming more diffi-When the first underground railway was completed in the metropolis, it was believed that the transportation difficulty had been overcome, and that there need be no more congestion of traffic in the streets. Suddenly some one made an alarming discovery. It was found that many tall buildings were off the perpendicular, and investigation showed that the rapidly multiplying tunnels beneath the city were responsible. Structures that for hundreds of years had stood solid as the tight little island itself, began to show great, gaping cracks in their foundations; and it became necessary in some cases. for the public safety, to strengthen them with heavy iron braces. One of the historic buildings affected is the famous old Bow Church in Cheanside the steeple of which is said to be 23 inches off the perpendicular. The Cockney is not usually credited with possessing much sentiment, but in this instance he is manifesting genuine alarm, for, as everyone knows, one is not a genuine Cockney if he were not

Paul's toppling over is beyond the grasp of the average Englishman, who has come to look upon the ancient edifice as he looks upon the pyramids. It had never occurred to him that time could have any effect on such n.asonry; he would sooner have questioned the solidity of the empire. The danger, however, is a very real one, despite the fact that "in the elder days of art builders wrought with greatest care:" and the problem is engaging the attention of the most eminent engineering minds of the islands

Combine of Domestics.

There are 60,000 servant girls in Chieago, and an attempt is being made to form them into a labor union. Consider the horrible possibilities of a strike of the entire 60,000 during this weather, when even the ice box is perspiring. Think of 60,000 overworked Chicago husbands traveling home in the sweating suburban trains, only to find, instead of the 60,000 dainty repasts they had pictured awaiting them, 60,000 heart-broken wives, shedding 60,000,000 bitter tears, while 60,000 triumphant Bridgets sat on the back verandas and awaited compliance with their demands for a dollar a week more, and Sunday and Wednesday evenings out. The bare prospect of such a happening is enough to make the average householder say 60,000 bad

The Menagerie and Circus.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.] Saturday Night is of the opinion that the circus will soon become an institution of the past, that it hasn't its old hold on the people. What it says we publish in another column. We hardly think that our Toronto contemporary's conclusions are correct. No one in the vast crowds at the big spectacle on Saturday could see any evidences of decay. It was quite as great a day to the small boy as ever, and it is to say that no organization of previous years ever succeeded in pleasing his elders more. It is a very common thing for a man as he grows older to say what delighted him in former years and fails to do so now it not what it used to be. The trouble is that he, not it, has changed. From present appearances it seems to us that it will be a long while yet before these traveling shows cease to draw their crowds.

Thoughts on Advertising.

[Kingston Whig.] The president of the medical college of Ontario, in an address at Toronto, regretted that the press, religious and secular, so freely advertised patent medicines. Why? Are these things not, generally, any good. "The article has not been made," it is said, which will cure everything, which will be a panacea for every ill, and occasionally some fellow spoils the sale of his goods by crediting it with too many virtues. Certain specifications are really meritorious, and there are many who know this by experience. Then whey should they not be advertised? Oh, they are not compounded by learn-Oh, they are not compounded by learned men, again one says. They may, however, be made from the formula of a skilled pharmacist and, properly put up, be quite as efficacious as the preparation of the medicine man which cost at least twice as much. Besides advertising is the business of the publisher as pill or lotion making is the business of a physician, and it seems in all points quite as honorable There is some point in what the Hamilton Times says upon this subject. "Patent medicine advertising," it remarks, "is by no means the best paying branch of the printing business, but it is a shade more profitable than the kind which many of the doctors are very fond of, namely, the dead head news item variety." The Whig has known medical men to be careful that their exploits were made known to the though, has improved wonderfully of people, and in odd instances the paralate, no doubt due to the new light graphs or personal puffs have been written by these men.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

Annual Convention of the Provincial Organization at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Ont., June 26.-The Lord's Day Alliance convention met last evening at 7 o'clock in Centenary Church. An address was delivered by Rev. J. G. Shearer, field secretary of the Ontario L. D. A., showing the progress of work from the beginning, its present wide extent and hopeful outlook. Rev. F. A. Cassidy, chairman of the organization committee, addressed the meeting, showing progress of the organization and how much is owing to the very able services of the field secretary. Ontario has 150 branches, Manitoba 14, Quebec 2, Nova Scotia 10, New Brunswick 7. Northwest Territories 7, and British Columbia 12. Addresses were delivered also by Rev. R. G. MacBeth, of Vancouver, B. C.; Mr. John Charl-St. John, N. B.; Mr. B. J. O'Donohue, expressing great satisfaction with results already achieved and hopeful outlook. Account was taken and satisfaction expressed with the Ontario Government in their action for the preservation of the Lord's Day and the governments of the provinces who have shown sympathy with the work. SURE REGULATORS.-Mandrake and Napanee. Ont., June 24 .- (Special) .-It is pleasant to see a man and his wife agree as heartly as Mr. and Mrs. Simon Warner, of this town agree about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I would like to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to every one that I hear complaining of a pain in the back,'

says Mr. Warner.
"I was so lame in my back that my wife had to lift me out of bed. The doctors said they could do nothing for me. I was told by a friend to try a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and found they helped me right away. I recom-mend them to everyone and always after a trial the people are ready to recommend to others. My wife has used five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and says exactly the same as I do. Neither she nor I feel safe unless we have a box in the house.'

Over Two Hundred Boers Killed London and Stratford Open Chamor Captured.

Over 400 Boers to Flight-10,-000 More Tons of Canadian Hay Ordered.

London, June 25 .- Lord Kitchener cables the war office that since his last report 41 Boers have been killed, 27 wounded, and 160 prisoners taken. Seventy burghers surrendered, and the British also captured 41,800 rounds of small-arm ammunition and 264 wagons, besides horses and stock.

TOOK 200 PRISONERS. Bloemfontein, June 24.-Gen. Bruce Hamilton's recent movements between Petrusburg and the railway resulted in the capture of 200 prisoners and a large quantity of stock. During the operations the burgher police again rendered good service, and, led by Lieut. Bayly, captured a Boer laager.

RATHER A STIFF STORY. Cape Town, June 24 .- The Cape Argus of a recent date gives interesting details of the surprising of a Boer laager at Dordrecht. Capt. Lukin, of the Cape Mounted Rifles, acting with Scobell's column, accompanied by only one man, accomplished the feat. The laager was situated in a deep valley, and the surprise was effected at four o'clock in the morning, while the moon was still shining. Lukin dashed into the laager, calling loudly, "Troop, gallop!" The enemy had already saddled, and were thrown into confusion before our men arrived. They bolted from the laager, leaving everything behind them. Fourteen Boers were captured, three of whom were wounded. CANADIAN HAY FOR AFRICA. Ottawa, June 24.-The shipments of hay from Canada to South Africa, which have been in progress now for several months, are evidently so satisfactory to the imperial authorities that they have asked the department of agriculture to send 10,000 additional tons, to be shipped from St. John not later than the month of August. Arrangements for securing the fodder will be entered into at once.

WAR NEWS UNSATISFACTORY. London, June 25.-There is some discouragement over the military situation in South Africa without definite news of any fresh disaster. skirmish at Waterkloof is proof that the Boers are in fighting form, and are not invading Cape Colony merely for the purpose of obtaining supplies and remounts. The invaders clearly rallied their forces, and Gen French has work to do in the Dutch section, where his maneuvers were successful fifteen months ago. News papers have so little war news that the suspicion is created that the censor is holding back information of an unfavorable tenor.

PRISONERS WANT PEACE. A petition signed by a thousand Boer prisoners at Bellevue camp has been sent to Steyn Schalk Burger, Botha and Dewet and the leading commandants, urging peace.

Declares That 1,000,000 Persons Have Been

Cured by Christian Science. Boston, June 25.-The annual com-

It enjoined the Christian Science watchword of faith in spiritual power and, as in the case of former messages, strongly suggested that wonders were still to be achieved a handsome residence to be build by by those who adequately studied and comprehended the real meaning of posed largely of women, listened with keen attention.

Once again Mrs. Eddy reiterated her claim to being the first to discover Christian Science. She declared that more than 1,000,000 persons had been cured by members of the faith, and that there were now more than 500 churches. She said: "From my medical practice I know that the highest dynamics is the mind. The medicine of the mind is today more honored than the old-time medicine of the matter.

THE MATTER OF CHINESE INDEMNITY

No Allowance Made for Rich Hauls of Loot Made by the Allies.

London, June 25.—A dispatch to the Times from Pekin, dated June 24, says that the indemnity demanded by the powers from China does not represent the real amount of the money penalty inflicted on China, as no allowance has been made for the rich hauls of treasure in Manchurian cities and the con tents of the Tien Tsin arsenals secured by Russia, and the large sums which Germany has secured by sys-tematic raiding of Chi Li, and other

The China Merchants' Company,owners of the premises in Tien Tsin at first occupied by the marines, and afterwards by Luseum's command as barracks, have completed their claim against the United States Government for valuables which they aver were carried off by the marines. The list comprises many valuable furs, rugs, and jewels, including diamonds. The total of their claim is 400,000 taels. The company say that the premises, being a part of the foreign concession, were willingly lent for military necessities, but that they were not subject to looting, as they would have been if they had been in the Chinese city.

SUPPOSED CORPSE WAS SLEEPING BOY

Word reached the county authorities yesterday that a passing milkman had seen a dead body lying in a field east of the camp grounds on Carling's Heights. Detective Northgreaves went out to investigate, and found the posed corpse to be a 15-year-old boy. who, to avoid lying in the damp grass had pulled two boards off a fence, and slept on them all night. The lad was taken into custody on a charge of vagrancy. The boy gave his name as Lawrence Wilson, and said he had been induced to leave his home in Stratford by two men who were following Ringling Bros,' circus. He had gone with them to Woodstock, and thence London, but yesterday morning he left them. The lad was brought before Squire Edwards and remanded for week, and in the meantime, the Stratford police will be asked to communi-

Stray From Path When Exploring the Mountains and Searching Parties

Bring Relief. Chicago, June 25.-After a night and a day of wandering through almost impenetrable forests, with neither food nor water, Miss Emma Allen, of 4,059 Prairie avenue, Chicago, was rescued yesterday from the mountain near San Bernardo, Cal., by a searching party. According to dispatches received last THE MINERS AND evening Miss Allen, when reached by the relief party was stumbling towards a masked precipice, to fall over which would have been certain death.

Miss Allen is a sister of Dr. Francis Allen, 4,059 Prairie avenue, and for many years has made her home with the doctor. She is 25 years old, and is frail and unused to hardships. an artist, having studied in New York at the Art Students' League and at She had been in Cooper Institute. California since January sketching among the canons and mountains about San Bernardino. For some time Miss Allen has been visiting Miss Francis Fuller, 18 years old, in a camp at Squirrel Inn, a summer resort in the San Bernardino Mountains, 30 miles from the nearest railroad station, and in the heart of. a wild country.

LOST IN THE MOUNTAINS. Miss Allen, with Miss Fuller and the latter's 15-year-old brother. George. set out at daybreak on Friday to explore the adjacent region. When night came and they had not returned the parents of the Fullers and the friends at Squirrel Inn became alarmed, and relief parties were organized, 25 mining prospectors setting out at once to trace them, under the leadership of Gus Maner, guide and hunter. Bonfires were lighted to guide the missing ones, but no traces of them were found until 11 o'clock, when the searchers came upon the unconscious body of George Fuller lying beside a mountain trail. He was three miles from the nearest camp, whither he was borne on a hastily constructed litter. The boy was restored to consciousness, but was unable to tell where the young women were. stated that they had early on Friday come upon a canon of great wildness and beauty. Desirous of seeing more of it they continued along it in a southerly direction, scarcely noting how late it was. Night comes suddenly in the mountains, and darkness overtook them while they were still in the canon.

Then they realized that they were lost and knew not which way to The girls became terror-strickturn. en and young Fuller offered to travel back to camp and get pack animals to bear them home. The girls promised to remain and the boy struck out alone. At last he stumbled into a little-used trail, but was unable to keep in it, and at last fell senseless where he was found by the rescue party.

FLEE FROM WILD ANIMALS. Meanwhile Miss Mason and Miss

Fuller found themselves alone in the darkness with every sort of terror about them. Fear that Fuller would not get to camp, that they never would be found, or that they would die before help came was suddenly augmented when the cries of wild animals in the hills reached their ears. Unable lenger to endure standing still, they set out in the direction they believed the camp to lie, but which in reality was the opposite direction. So it happened that the searching party which had heard young Fuller's story came to the spot the young women came to the spot the young women were no longer there. A posse was made up at San Bernardino, whither the news had been telephoned, and preparations were made for putting every available man into the search.

From midnight to daybreak the young women struggled through the forest. At times, exhausted, they would sink to rest on a bed of rock or sage brush, only to be aroused again by the roars of the wild beasts about them. They had no food, and could find no water, though their throats were parched, and they were nearly famished. By daybreak neither could articulate. FOUND BY THE RESCUERS. When they were not found where Fuller had left them, Gus Mamer and Charles Boyd struck out into the woods in pursuit of them, though it was feared they had been carried away by the wild beasts. At daybreak the searchers came up with them in Dead Man's Canon. They were gradually making their way down a steep decline and every step took them nearer death. The young women were unable longer to help themselves and the two men carried them six miles back over the mountains to Squirrel Inn. Miss Fuller, Miss Allen's companion is a society leader at San Bernardino and Los Angeles, and is the daughter of W. H. Fuller, a prominent and wealthy attorney of the latter place.

IN THE INUNDATED ELKHORN DISTRICT

Trains Have Begun to Travel, But Wires Are Down in All Directions—Earlier Reports of Loss Considerably Modified.

Montgomery, W. Va., June 25.—For 48 hours there has been no communication with the catside world. Telephone and telegraph wires are down, and no mail trains or express has passed for 36 hours until last night. The loss here and in the immediate vicinity will be close to $100,000. At Smithers' Creek a train of cars belonging to the Kanawha and Michi-Railway were washed off the track and tied around the Smithers bridge. The Chesapeake and Ohio was covered with slides.

Blue Hole tunnel fell in and tied up everything on the line.

A slide crashed out on the mountain at Crescent and carried a man away.
The track of the Kanawha Traction Company is washed away for miles. Trains have commenced now to go through and are running frequently. Telegraph and telephone lines can not be operated for some time to come. Richmond, Va., June 25.—A special from Tazewell, Va., says that at Cedar Bluff, west of there, nine houses were washed away, but no lives were lost, as far as known. Many mill dams are gone.

The town of Liberty, nine miles west of Tazewell, is badly damaged. The flood seems to have extending into the eastern part of Russell and Forty Mile road. Richmond, Va., June 25.-A Dispatch correspondent, who returned to Blue-field from the scene of the disaster, at 3 o'clock this morning, describes the havoc as most appalling. He says that hundreds of people are missing or re-ported missing, but discredits the idea that the loss of life is anything like that at first rumored. FROM RAILWAY OFFICIALS. New York, June 25.-The Norfolk and Washington offices in this city have received the following from the general passenger agent at Roanoke,

"Latest information as to the storm at Pocahontas coal field put the damage to property at $300,000. Loss of life about 60. No loss of passengers or trains. We expect to resume the running of trains on Wednesday.

THE MACHINISTS

Non-Union Men Join the Miners' Union and the Strike is Settled-Trouble in P. and R. Co.'s Shops.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 25.-The strike of Miners at the Mosanaqua colliery of the West End Coal Company has been settled and the six hundred employes returned to work today.

The men struck because non-union miners had been employed. Yesterday the non-union men joined the union. Reading, Pa., June 25.-The striking shopmen of the Philadelphia and Reading Company did not return to work today, as they had been urged to do by President Baer in his letter of Saturday. On the other hand there were some accessions to the ranks of the strikers, and if President Baer's threat that all men who failed to report for work this morning would be discharged is carried into effect, there is likely to be trouble before the shops are again in operation. The company's clerks worked until a late hour last night prepara-tory to paying off those who disregarded the president's order. The car shops are crippled, and the boilermaking and the blacksmith departments Jackson, Mabel Robinson, Pearl Tait. are idle. Molders and machinists are waiting for orders to strike.

Today the officers of the strikers admonished the men to keep away from saloons and company property. situation is becoming grave, and a general strike over the greater portion of the company's system, if the griev ances of the men are not heard, is predicted. The impression is current that in order to win the strike not only the shop employes still at work, but the trainmen also, must be called out.

Is Costing Great Britain $6,250,000 Per Week. London, June 25 .- The South African war was the subject of innumerable questions in the House of Commons today. Little information was elicited except that it continued to cost £1,- 250,000 weekly. The authorities estimate that the invaders of Cape Colony number from 1,000 to 2,000 men, and that there have been 1,484 cases of typhoid fever among the troops during April, of which 187 have proven fatal.

SHIRT WAISTS GO. New York, June 25.-The wearing of shirt waists by visitors to the executive mansion has been officially pronounced good form, says a World dispatch from Washington. The test came up recently when a man accompanied by a woman appeared at the portal of the White House and desired to look through the east room. He wore a regular shirt waist with pink and white stripes an inch and a half apart. The guardians at the door referred the matter to the captain of the watch. That official looked the man over and gave it as his opinion that the shirtwaist was a good thing and that the wearer showed much common sense.

DEATH OF JOSEPH COOK.

The Noted Lecturer Expired in Ticonderoga, N. Y., on Tuesday.

Whitehall, N. Y., June 25.—Joseph Cook, the distinguished lecturer and author, is dead at his summer home in Ti-conderoga. He was born Jan. 26, 1838. He had been in ill-health for several years. Cook is best remembered by his efforts to show, in his lectures, the harmony of the Bible with science. steady, 10½c to 11½c.

Joseph Cook early developed a liking for scientific research, and it is said that when he was 9 years of age he attended an auction of a district school library and purchased every book of merit in the collection. He entered Yale College in 1858, but was obliged to leave in 1861 on account of his health. In 1863 he entered Harvard as a junior and graduated with high honors in 1865. Mr. Cook then studie? for three years at Andover, and added'a fourth year for special study of advanced religious and philosophical thought. He was granted a license as a pastor, but refused all offers to take charge of a parish. After spending two years in the old world he returned to America and became a lecturer on the relations of religion, science and current reform. His lectures in Boston soon became famous as the "Boston Monday Lectures."

In 1880 in answer to invitations from abroad he decided to make a lecturing tour of the world.

In 1880 in answer to invitations from abroad he decided to make a lecturing tour of the world. He made 135 appearances in Great Britain, passed several months in Germany and Italy, and went to India by way of Greece, Palestine and Egypt. From India his tour extended to China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Sandwich Islands, returning by way of San Francisco. In Japan he gave twelve lectures, six in English and six through an interpreter, his audiences being composed chiefly of Japanese students, teachers and public men. Mr. Cook's popularity arose from the fact that he attempted to show that science is in harmony with religion and the Bible.

Separate Schools in Windsor bles.

"Separate schools must be established in Windsor," said Right Rev. F. P. McEvay, D.D., Bishop of London, when addressing the people at the close of the confirmation services in St. Alphonsus' Church, Windsor, on Sunday. His lordship discussed the school question in a mild manner, but was firm in his statements that the change to separate schools must come, sooner or later. He said he had noticed that in districts where there were no separate schools, Catholic children grew up with less regard for their church and their religion. He told the congregation that they were mistaken in thinking they have better schools in Windsor than would be possible if the separate school system was introduced. The present schools were more expensive, but not any efficient than the separate schools in other cities of Ontario. In his opinion the change would be brought about by a process of evolution. In confirming the class of 165 children and 7 adults, his lordship made the boys and girls take the pledge against lying, intemperance and blasphemy until they were 21 years of age. "In olden days it was not necessary to have the girls take the pledge against intemperance," said the bishop "but women are not as temperate in modern times."

HOT WORK IN AFRICA. The casualty lists made public by the war office continue to show rather severe fighting in various parts of South Africa that are not reported in the ordinary dispatches. This is not-iceably so with regard to the Zeerust position in Cape Colony. It also in-spires disquietude, which is added to by the repeated looting of Jamestown, in spite of the proximity of a strong British force at Aliwal North. G. Moncrieff, Petrolia, as | panied by a considerable flow of lava, were of frequent occurrence for about 50 months. At last, on Sept. 1, 1899, the lava ceased to flow through the lateral fissure by which it had escaped from the crater. At that time the bottom of the crater was 700 feet below the lowest part of its rim.

Fresh supplies of lava began slowly to fill up the crater again. On April 24, last year, the surface of the lava was within about 260 feet of the crater edge. On that day another period of violent activity began, lasting for an entire month. No lava was discharged down the mountain side, but some of the explosions in the crater were terrific, particularly be-tween May 4 and 11, reaching a maximum on May 9. The noise of the explosions was distinctly heard throughout a large part of the Campagna. The Italian professor watched all the phenomena from the slope of the mountain, and spent May 11, 12 and 13 at

It is well known that the eruptions since the seventeenth century have greatly altered the contour of the sia without griping, purging or sickmountain, and that its central vent or crater has undergone many changes. During the period of Professor Matteucci's observations the crater has enlaged in one of its diameters about wenty feet. It measured at the top 164 meters, about 540 feet, across the northeast to southwest, and 180 meters from east to west. The flames produced by the sulphurous vapors were abundant; many projectiles were hurled into the air, the highest altitude attained being about 1,800 feet above the bottom of the crater.

On May 9 the professor observed a block of unusual size rising above the top of the crater. He happened to have his watch in hand, and found that the projective was in the air above Vesuvius seventeen seconds before it reached terra firma on the slope of the mountain. He ascertained later that it measured about twelve cubic meters, and that its weight was time. Get a gas stove and inapproximately 30 tons. When it reached the earth it was traveling at the rate of about 300 feet a second. has been estimated that the force which propelled this mass of rock high into the air was equal to 607,995 horse power. The volume of the solid material which was projected from the crater during the explosive period of April and May is estimated at about 500,000 cubic meters; and in that time about 30 feet were added to the altitude of the mountain. It may be imagined that it was not extremely pleasant to linger in the immediate neighborhood of these terrific occurrences, but the daring man of science held his ground and did not take his departure until he had completed the observations he had in view. The wonder is that he was not killed. On the last day of his sojourn upon the top of the mountain a period of intense violence succeeded a few hours of comparative calm. The explosions in the crater were of great frequency, and the geologist had the hardihood to see everything that was going on. One extraordinary explosion caused a rain of fragments all around him. Myriads of small bits of rock and red-hot fragments of sooriae fell all around. Nobody knows how he had the road luck to crosses. how he had the good luck to escape, for his entire outfit of baggage was destroyed, excepting his camera. This instrument and its owner were all that

CHAPTER XLV.

Shirley and Madame Marton were ab-Shirley and Madame Marton were absent about fifteen months, during which time they saw much of Europe and considerable of Egypt and the Holy Landat least, the most notable points of interest in those countries.

Madame, in spite of her years, was a most enthusiastic traveler, and she exhibited the keenest interest in the history and traditions of the places she visited, and was thus an invaluable companion to Shirley.

She was a wonder to the people whom she met, for it is rare for a woman of

she met, for it is rare for a woman of her age to be so sprightly and mentally bright and entertaining; while she seemed to have lost much of her former brusque and cynical manner, without, however, losing one whit of her original-

Ity.
They made many pleasant acquaintances, and Shirley, who was gradually won from her sadness—at least, from morbidiy brooding over her sorrow, as she did continually during the first few months after Clifton's death—became an acknowledged favorite wherever she went.

While they were in Vienna they met a Mr. and Mrs. Hilton, some New York people, who appeared to be greatly attracted toward her, and as they were all contemplating a return to America about the same time, the Hiltons proposed that they consolidate and travel together for they consolidate and travel together for the future.

This plan was very agreeable to Shirley and madame, as it would relieve them of many cares, and give them pleasant companions at the same time, and they readily assented to it.

The Hiltons had not yet visited Florence, but they proposed doing so, to remain a month with their son, who was studying art there; and although madame and Shirley had already done the whole of Italy pretty thoroughly, they were not averse to spending a little more time in that treasure house of art and beauty.

They arrived there the latter part of November—the second year of Shirley's widowhood—and to their great delight the Hiltons found themselves at once surly inquired.

"Your words make me think of something he once told me," she murmured, with starting tears.
"Is it too sacred for me to hear?" asked Mrs. Hilton, in a tone of gentle "Oh, no; he told me not to let his going away spoil my life," was the tremulous away spoil my life," was the tremulous reply.

"And why should you, dear?" her friend asked. "Any true, unselfish husband would feel the same. I am sure he would be grieved to have you exclude yourself from all society, for even the time you have done so. It is now more than a year since your loss; and truly, Shirley, if you will allow me the freedom of saying it, I think you owe it to yourself to see a little more of life; so come with me tonight and let me introduce you to the Gordons—they are charming people." ple."
"Not tonight," said Shirley, still shrinking from the thought of mingling in gay society, and she would not be over-persuaded.

But the next morning when a party was made up to visit a noted castle on the Arno, a few miles out of the city, she consented to be one of the comon the Arno, a few miles out of the city, she consented to be one of the company.

This broke the ice, and when the following day Mrs. Hilton asked her to assist her at an afternoon tea, she waived personal feeling and consented, for she thought she owed it to the friend who had been so kind to her in many ways.

Mrs. Hilton was quite jubilant over this concession, for she was sure that after one such experience she would have no difficulty in persuading her to accompany her to other receptions, and she was determined to have the eclat of "bringing out" this beautiful girl if she could only accomplish it.

Shirley looked very fair when, at the appointed hour she stood before Mrs. Hilton, and against a background of lovely ferns and palms, which had been artistically grouped in one owner of her handsome parlor.

She was very simply dressed in a soft white crepe robe, which trailed gracefully away from her slight figure, her only ornament a bunch of Parma violets worn as a corsage boquet. Her bright hair was simply coiled at the back of her head, while a few gleaming locks lay in light, fluffy curls on her white forehead.

There was a delicate tint upon her head.

There was a delicate tint upon her cheeks, which had once more assumed their round, girlish contour, and her lips were vividly red.

Her every movement was replete with grace, making her all the more charming because of the absence of all self-consciousness; while the sweet seriousness of her young face, together with the ever-noticeable clear, direct gaze of her beautiful eyes, possessed a peculiar the ever-noticeable clear, direct gaze of her beautiful eyes, possessed a peculiar fasciation for everyone.

Mrs. Hilton had experienced some anxiety regarding her costume for the occasion, and she looked her over with a critical eye when she appeared before her.

er. She quickly noticed the absence of all She quickly noticed the absence of all ornament, of which she was rather fond; but the girl was so exquisitely lovely in her chaste and appropriate dress that she could not desire the slightest change. "My dear, you are a delight to my eyes," she exclaimed, as she involuntarily bent and kissed the fair, round cheek nearest her.

"I am very glad if my toilet pleases you," Shirley replied. "Of course, you know I have not anything very elaborate, as I have not been out at all since—"

"Yes, I know," said Mrs. Hilton, hastily interrupting her, for she did not wish her to even think of anything sad that afternoon; "but you could have chosen

Some people were announced at this moment, putting an end to their conversation, and Shirley soon found herversation, and Shirle self busily employed. self busily employed.

The afternoon passed delightfully, even to her, who so dreaded it.

As Mrs. Hilton had predicted, she attracted a great deal of attention, while she also became so deeply interested in the refined and intelligent people to whom she was introduced. whom she was introduced.

There would have been nothing to mar her pleasure but for a little incident that occurred just as everybody seemed to be enjoying themselves the most, which caused for a moment a flutter of well-bred excitement, but which also resulted in making Shirley more conspicuous and popular than she otherwise might have

It was almost time for the guests to begin thinking of making their adieus, when two gentlemen and two ladies were ushered into the room, and immediately greeted with great cordiality by several of those present.

Mrs. Hilton hastened forward with welcoming smiles, while she extended both hands to the foremost couple.

"Ah! my dear Mr. and Mrs. Farquhar. I had almost given you up; but am delighted to see you, even at this late hour," she exclaimed, with charming warmth.

Mrs. Hilton. "And now introduce me, companied her friends.

She was formally presented, but there was a slight look of surprise on her face as she greeted them with her customary graciousness, and then she observed:

"Really I regard this as a somewhat remarkable coincidence; I wonder if you are not in some way connected with my charming protege. Shirley, my dear," turning to the unsuspecting girl, who had been so engaged that she had not noticed the new arrivals.

"I want to introduce you to some new friends," Mrs. Hilton remarked, as she came forward. "Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Vining, allow me to present Mrs. Clifton Vining."

Had the heavens suddenly fallen Mr. and Mrs. Vining could not have looked more dumbfounded than they did at this moment, when they were thus brought face to face with the lovely vision in dead white, with only Parma violets on her breast, and the bright gold of her own hair for ornament—this exquisitely beautiful girl whom they, of course, at once recognized as the despised wife of their dead son.

Shirley, too, for one brief instant was almost overcome by this unexpected meeting; the next she had completely recovered herself, and resolved that she would ignore all personal feeling and greet Mrs. Hilton's guests with all due courtesy.

November—the second year of Snirley's widowhood—and to their great delight the Hiltons found themselves at once surrounded by a small army of acquaintances who were spending the winter in that beautiful city.

Of course they were immediately drawn into "the swim," and then there followed a gay round of pleasure, akin to the gayeties of New York, where Mrs. Hilton had, for several seasons, been one of the most brilliant leaders of society.

"At first Shirley utterly refused to participate in any of these festivities, although her new friends were extremely anxious to introduce her, feeling that she would make quite a sensation with her beauty and peculiarly charming manner.

"I have no heart for any such thing," she said to Mrs. Hilton, with a sorrowful glance at her somber dress, when she urged her one day to accompany her to a brilliant reception, given by a friend who had taken a charming suburban palace for the winter, and who entertained a great deal.

"I know, dear, it is perfectly natural that you should feel thus," the lady kindly returned; but of course you are not going to bury, yourself away from all pleasures. I am sure your husband would not wish it, and he would tell you so the could speak."

Miss Rosalie Keenleyside, a Popular London Lady, Becomes the Bride of Mr. F. M. Bellsmith.

An extremely pretty wedding was solemnized at high noon today, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Keenleyside, 380 Maitland street, when their daughter, Miss Rosalie, M. B. Keenleyside, became the bride of Mr. Fred M. Bellsmith, photographer, of Berlin, Ont., son of Mr. F. M. Bellsmith, the well-known artist. The ceremony took place under a canopy of roses, and was performed by Rev. Dr. J. V. Smith, of the First Methodist Church. The wedding march was played by Mr. W. H. Hewlett. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Nettie M. Keenleyside, and her niece, Miss Alice Shuff, while the groom was supported by Mr. D. C. McNaughton and Mr. Lew A. Keenleyside, brother of the church class of little girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Bellsmith left at 3 o'clock on a wedding tour to Buffalo and other places, followed by the good wishes of their numerous friends. Upon their return they will reside

TAR MACADAM NOT A SUCCESS

Said Mayor Rumball to Dundas Street Ratepayers.

Put Bown to Imitate Asphalt and Was No Good-Would Cut Up, Whatever Was Done.

The matter of a permanent roadway on Dundas street, between Wellington and Waterloo, where the present pave ment is worn out, was again brought to the notice of the board of works yesterday by a deputation of ratepayers, Messrs. H. R. Abbott, Joseph Smith, W. M. Spencer, Dr. Nelles and Dr. Piper. They asked the board to widen the walk on the north side four or five feet, which would be cheaper than carrying a pavement up to the present walk, but this did not meet with the approval of the aldermen.

The old trouble about the south-side citizens having to help pay for the larger area on the north side, was once more given an airing. The north side ratepayers want the city to share the cost, but to this most of the coun cil are opposed, considering that it would be unwise for the city to bea any part of the cost of permanent roadways, as it would mean an increase in the debenture debt.

The gentlemen on the deputation were inclined to favor the tar macadam, but Ald. Parnell and the mayo both thought that it should not be laid on that block. Mayor Rumball said that it was no good. "It was put down simply to imitate asphalt," he said, "and it was not successful. It will cut up no matter what may be

The board is anxious to have the work done as soon as possible, and the engineer was instructed to submit specifications and costs of different pavements to a meeting to be held with the ratepayers on Thursday afternoon. The board will also discuss the advisability of the city paying any part of the cost.

The True Virtues of Malt Found Only in Malt Breakfast Food.

Some people use malt in liquid form for building up the system; this is unwise, as the virtues of the Malt are invariably spoiled by admixture of fermented liquors. To obtain the great health and strength yielding virtues of Malt it should be eaten in its natural state, combined with that per fect food grain, Wheat, Malt Breakfast Food is a healthful combination of both, easy to digest, delicious and refreshing. Thousands of physicians recommend it. At all grocers.
