PLAYED A DOUBLE PART.

It is difficult to frame any consistent relative to the Globe interview, which, account of Mr. Gamey's career, as a apart from the payment of money as member, for it was throughout inconto its price, does not loom largely in sistent, as he played a double part. But the investigation, and the statements of Hammond are not in conflict with those of the Provincial Secretary, save as regards some variation in details which happen very commonly in evidence of happen very commonly in evidence of might serve his constituency, and also secure shares in the various deals supposed possible by not over-scrupulous men. THE PLAN OUTLINED.

He surveys the situation. The glow ing prospects pictured by Frank Sullivan have failed to become facts. The prestige of directing Governmental patonage appears to be meager and delusive. He learns that the Government, anticipating his resignation, are planning to put Mr. McMillan, the Socialist candidate, in the field. And then, it may be, comes the patriotic plan of deliverance by letting it leak out that money was at the bottom of his apparent disloyalty. The people sion, and Dr. Arthur and Dr. Struthers fit by the belief, or rather the assumption of his mercenary defection, but cess by depicting his career as set forth

With regard to the added charge of conspiracy, the commissioners are of the opinion, that as a matter of law, there is no evidence whatever to sustain it, as against the members of the Government and the other persons charged. And, according to the methods of an ordinary trial, they would be discharged from the said accusation by the presiding judicial officer.

This being so, the matter of the original charge alone remains, and as to the Provincial Secretary. there is the testimony that has been commented upon. In our opinion the corrupt charges stand disproved by a great body of evidence, which appears to be more accurate and credible than that adduced in support thereof.

The $1,200 mentioned hereinbefore has not been paid into the hands of impounded sums of money, $500 in cash produced by Mr. Gamey in the House, and $1,500 represented by his marked check of the 3rd April, 1903.

These sums have been lodged in the hands of the accountant of the Supreme Court, and the commissioners advise that the amounts be carried in to a separate account, to be paid out upon the joint order of the chancellor of Ontario and the chief justice of the King's Bench for the time being, upon its being made satisfactorily to appear that any claimant has legitimate

The commissioners now proceed to consider in the light of the evidence already summarized, and of other evidence to be adverted to, the next division of this inquiry, that is, as to the protest and the patronage, and both may be treated of together.

Eliminate the element of corrupt payment of money, and consider whether, apart from that, any imputation can be cast upon the Provincial Secretary. The whole trend of the evidence (apart from the statement of Mr. Gamey) goes to show that the matter power was first broached by him and of his sentiments in writing, in accord with his many early utterances on the

O. U. out of the $1,500 received by Sullivan. (Page 2.978.) He seeks to excuse the omission by saying that he thought Sullivan would be more apt to tell the truth if he was going to get this money back. (Page 2,978). But after Frank Sullivan had given his evidence to the commissioners and had denied that any such I. O. U. existed, the obstacle was removed which hindered this disclosure but to the reporters who followed Mr. Gamey to Buffalo he gave a very different account, knowing that he spoke for the purpose of publication. Then the $900 was said to have been gathered up during the summer, and to have come from Manitoulin.

LITTLE VALUE AS EVIDENCE. The report says, referring to the Gamey-Sullivan meeting at the Crossin piano factory: What really happened at that meeting does not appear to be of controlling value as regards the material matters of this investigation. At most it may affect the credibility of Frank Sullivan, but any admissions then made by him (after his ostensible agency had long ceased) could not be used as proving what he admits as against an absent person. This is putting the evidence in the factory at its highest, supposing any clear result could be extracted from it, but there is contradiction as to the object and the meaning of that conversation between the two. According to Mr. Gamey it was to draw corroboration, etc., from Sullivan in the hearing of the three hidden witnesses. According to Sullivan it was to rehearse a method of procedure by which they could force the Provincial Secretary to accede to their demands or suffer a disclosure which would ruin the Government, and he humored Mr. Gamey, after first warning the Provincial Secretary. The opening number was Schumann's first movement, concerto in A Minor, by James Atwell Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and Miss Adele Thompson. Her beautiful interpretation of this, fittingly opened a programme rare merit. The orchestra part was played on second piano by Mr. Martin. A vocal number followed that was one of the most delightful of the evening. It was Arditi's very tuneful, "The Dove," rendered by Miss Charlotte Scott, one of Alma's young graduates, accompanied by Miss Eva Roblyn. Miss Scott has a clear soprano of unsurpassbut in a song later on the programme, heard to advantage, as also in a duet with Mr. Finlay.

An elocutionary number was next given by Miss Emily McColl, one of this year's graduates. Miss McColl's talent found pleasing expression in a dramatic reading of "Magdalena." Two other young ladies who exhibited power in recitative efforts were Miss Mildred Godwin and Miss Ethel Lindop. The former's histrionic talent was well brought out in two numbers, especially "The Sioux Chief's Daughter." Miss Lindop completed a trio of elocutionists representative of Alma's thorough training. Banks, seconded by C Beattie, that we, the Council of the Township of North Dorchester, in the County of Middlesex, in council assem-led, having learned of the sad fate which has befallen our late respected official, William Uglow, do hereby express our heartfelt sympathy for his wife, his family and friends in general at this time of their heartrending trouble, believing, as we do, that there is no trial so great to a faithful wife as the loss death of a loving husband. The loss to his family and friends in general is almost irreparable, and we revently com-mend them to the love and protection of Him who rules the universe. We also deem it a duty to ourselves to place on record our testimony to his kindly manput forth by him in the discharge of hi official duties. On him the council of the municipality had imposed the honorable office of assesor and collector for four teen years. Our sense of the loss by his death is not only intensified because of the close relations which were thus main tained, but further and more deeply be cause of his kindly manner and sterling character, and his active and intelliger interest in the community's welfare. The auditory was full, and the play, thanks to the admirable conception of characters, and the spirited way in which they were carried out, had kept the room in a roar; then, when the curtain drew up on the third scene, a murmur of applause greeted the clever arrangement; the moon shone clear and bright, and Bethel, in the coquettish dress, which so enhanced her beauty, by showing her shapely ankles, snowy bosom and pretty rounded arms, her grace, as she called Marlow's attention, was superb; and Brinley, as Marlow, acted well, for he felt the fire he seemed to assume when he tells her if she "wants a judge of her work she is to apply to him"; and when he tried to embrace her, Bethel, the accomplished actress, the London star, lost her cue word; instead of struggling to herself with saucy assurance, leaned herself against his bosom, gasping

"Good heavens, Brinley, look behind at those awful eyes!" He, clasping her to his heart, as she, trembling like an aspen, leaned against him, saw pressed against the windowpane, clear and bright by the moon, the ragged, gaunt, haggard, figure of a man, with awful white face, which had a look of famine and fear; its staring eyes held a deadly menace. In a moment it had vanished, fell out of the thin blue air like the mere cobweb shadows of the soft, weird clouds which lay a moment upon the brightness of the moon. Then, with renewed vigor, but with a fearful look of dread in her dark eyes, the trained actress took up her and carried her part in triumph to the close, and those who saw the frightened, ashy face and terror-swayed form, thought that a momentary feeling of illness had come over their queenly hostess, and they admired the courage and address which had cast it off as a feather weight, and had brought such brave composure to command its ab-

At the close of the scene, Brinley, who had been startled by the face at the window, gave orders to the men to search the grounds to see if any tramp or poacher was lurking about, and Bethel seemed to have quite forgotten her fright, and led her guests to every height of enjoyment and merry excite-There was an impromptu dance started, and those who had taken part in the play kept on their fancy costumes and seemed to draw all the life and revelry about them. Brinley's heart beat high in contemplation of her beauty, which looked so refined in the soft light and in so quaint a garb, and he felt it was the very witching hour to put his fortune to the test; so drawing her away from the guests, he led her into the rose-garden, a little patch of fairyland full of sweet sights and scents; lovely roses, heavy with perfume, hung their heads as if abashed by the admiration of the moon; there lay on each scented heart a subdued look like a harem when the master's eye plays upon each beauty who, before the full masterful gaze, droop their comely cheeks.

"What a night, my queen rose, for you to look upon your subjects; see how their sweetness shrinks before the R. Eastman of the Museum of Comstrength of yours," said Brinley, plac- parative Zoology, Cambridge, Mass.

AT GRAVESEND. New York, June 4. — Heno, running in the colors of W. S. Fanshawe, galloped home an easy winner in the standard stakes at Gravesend today. He was held second choice in the betting, and his rider rode an exceptionally good race. The son of Falsetta, or Henry Young Quiver, also smashed the record for the race, and equaled the track record by running the one and memory of the guests for a long while and in Bethel's forever.

Just before supper many of the dancers, well protected from the night air, walked out in the grounds, to catch a breath of fresh air, and to look upon the moonlit landscape. Bethel's satin dress and jewels, and powdered hair, which gave her gypsy face such a grand look, seemed to catch the silvery sheen

In the Home of the Artisan Malta-Vita makes the Early Breakfast the best meal of the day.

Canada's prosperity is due largely to two classes of her people—her mechanics and her farmers, and there is nothing too good in the way of food for either of them.

The old-fashioned idea that the skilled mechanic, because he labors with his muscles as well as his brain, requires a heavy food has been pretty well exploded. The mechanic, himself, has found out that Malta-Vita, the perfect food, is far more nutritious and digestible than meat, potatoes or baker's bread. It is made from the whole wheat and possesses all its nutritive qualities in the most digestible form. Malta-Vita is the ideal food for a hastily prepared meal for it is cooked ready for immediate use. Served, hot or cold, with cream, milk or fruit it is simply delicious.

the railway company is liable, the opening having been made by its em-

TOUR WAS SUCCESSFUL

Kilties Traveled 32,000 Miles-Did Not Miss an Engagement.

After the longest tour in the history of any musical organization in America, the Kilties' Band (Gordon Highlanders, Belleville), has returned home. The dozen Hamilton members and Bandmaster William F. Robinson, were met on their arrival in that city by a number of their old associates in the Thirteenth Regiment Band, relatives, and friends, and at Toronto, where the majority of the Kilties reside, a proportionate number of enthusiastic friends awaited the band's arrival. The remainder of the musicians, drummers, oipers, etc., who are from Montreal and Belleville, proceed to Belleville in their private car Thistle. The men came me loaded down with curios, with which they were presented by admiring enthusiasts in Old Mexico, Arizona, California, British Columbia, etc., and the couver. fact that the 48 weeks' tour has included Canadian, United States and Mexican cities has made the men's colsister, Mrs. R. Griffiths, Charles street, lection varied and interesting. During West London. the year over 300 cities have been visited, from coast to coast, and south to the gulf, and 32,000 miles have been covered. Remarkable to state, not a single concert was missed nor delayed by accident or otherwise, which was a record in itself, and every man came home the picture of health, despite the varied climatic conditions and the arluous task of giving two concerts every duous task of giving two concerns duous task of giving task of giving task of giving the giving task of givi closed in Boston, being the fourth appearance in that city. Cameron Brown, owner of the band, and T. P. J. Power, managing board. director of the tour, are now in Belleville completing arrangements for the next tour, which begins after four has been making a business tour of Grove Park, Philadelphia, where the band will appear 50 strong the greater part of July, the Kilties' attendance reord of 150,000 at the great resort on July 4 last having led the park management to at once engage the "pride of all Canada" for this year. On its next trip the band may have some London musicians in its membership. During Mr. Brown's absence with the organizasided on King street, this city.

This Grocery Store.

T is wonderful how this Grocery Store has grown in public favor during two years, unless we consider the motives which are behind it. The best grocery store should keep everything that is good, both staples and delicacies, should sell them at the lowest possible prices, and should be cleanly, and a pleasant place to visit.

This Grocery Store has striven to be all these things, and its growth is pretty good indication of its success. If you know it we don't need to tell you any of this, if you don't know it come in and satisfy yourself that what we have been saying is true.

PLEASANT OUTING

Ontario Historical Society Meets on Famous Ground.

Visits Southwold Ruins and Talbot Farm.

The members of the Ontario Historical Society who were in attendance at the annual meeting during the last two days at St. Thomas, had a very pleasant outing yesterday. They first went to the ruins of an Indian village in the township of Southwold, where they found much of great interest to them. The village was an old fortified place with double walls covering about two and a half acres, in circular form, and the ruins are among the best defined in the country. While at the ruins the society received a paper by Mr. H. F. Gardiner, of the Hamilton Times, on "The Origin of Names." From there they proceeded to the farm of the late Col. Talbot, the founder of the settlement, where they spent the remainder of the day. School Inspector Smith, of Hamilton, furnished paper on "Among the Piot Series of Character Sketches." Before returning to St. Thomas, the society passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Talbot Macbeth, of this city, the present owner of the Talbot property, for his kindness in throwing the farm open to The election of the officers for the year resulted in the re-election of C. C. James, M.A., of Toronto, deputy minister of agriculture, as president David Boyle, of Toronto, as secretary, and Frank Yeigh, Toronto, as treasurer. Mr. Talbot Macbeth, of this city, was elected one of the vice-presidents There were a number of Londoners at the outing, among them being the delegates of the society, Messrs. Frank Leonard and James Egan, and Miss Priddis; Ald. Campbell, Dr. Woolverton, and City Clerk Edwards, together with coveral ledge.
