

The Herald.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. ISLAND, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1865.

NO. 53

VOL. I.

THE HERALD

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING BY EDWARD BEILLY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR, at his Office, corner of Kent and Prince Streets.

TERMS FOR THE "HERALD." For 1 year, paid in advance, £0 9 0 half-yearly in advance, 0 10 0

Advertisements inserted at the usual rates. Of every description, performed with accuracy and despatch at a moderate price, at the Herald Office.

ALMANACK FOR SEPTEMBER. MOON'S PHASES. Full Moon, 5th day, 9h. 40m., morning. Last Quarter, 12th day, 0h. 46m., morning. New Moon, 19th day, 6h. 34m., evening. First Quarter, 27th day, 10h. 35m., evening.

DAY MONTH.	DAY WEEK.	SUN	High	Moon	Day's length.
		rises sets	Water	sets
1	Friday	5 22 6 37	19 0	58 13	10
2	Saturday	26 34 8 13	2 2	57 52	9
3	Sunday	28 31 9 3	3 7	57 30	8
4	Monday	31 30 10 3	4 18	57 8	7
5	Tuesday	31 28 11 23	5 12	56 55	6
6	Wednesday	32 26 even.	6 57	56 32	5
7	Thursday	33 24 0 4	7 53	56 9	4
8	Friday	34 22 0 4	8 13	55 43	3
9	Saturday	35 20 1 45	8 56	55 16	2
10	Sunday	37 19 2 42	9 43	54 50	1
11	Monday	38 17 3 39	10 35	54 24	0
12	Tuesday	39 15 4 34	11 32	53 58	0
13	Wednesday	40 13 5 29	12 34	53 32	0
14	Thursday	41 11 6 21	0 30	53 6	0
15	Friday	42 9 7 10	1 30	52 40	0
16	Saturday	43 7 7 58	2 29	52 14	0
17	Sunday	44 5 8 43	3 28	51 48	0
18	Monday	45 4 9 22	4 27	51 22	0
19	Tuesday	46 3 10 10	5 26	50 56	0
20	Wednesday	47 1 11 52	6 13	50 30	0
21	Thursday	48 59 11 35	6 44	50 4	0
22	Friday	50 57 12 14	7 14	49 38	0
23	Saturday	51 54 1 0	7 47	49 12	0
24	Sunday	52 51 1 48	8 24	48 46	0
25	Monday	53 48 2 36	9 5	48 20	0
26	Tuesday	54 46 3 26	9 50	47 54	0
27	Wednesday	55 44 4 15	10 45	47 28	0
28	Thursday	56 43 5 7	11 44	47 2	0
29	Friday	57 41 6 0	12 40	46 36	0
30	Saturday	58 39 6 58	0 47	46 10	0

Dr. W. G. Sutherland. RETURNS thanks for the very liberal patronage extended to him since commencing the practice of his profession, in its various branches, in this city, and trusts by attention and assiduity, that the same may still be continued towards him.

By the latest arrivals he has increased his present stock of Choice Perfumery, Toilet Articles, in variety; selected from the best London House by those competent of doing justice to the business.

The Dispensary department will be under his own immediate superintendence.

Dr. Sutherland has also to observe, that he trusts the fact of having practiced in Scotland several years, and nearly twenty years of extensive Colonial practice in every branch of his profession, combined with unremitting assiduity and personal attention, will not fail to obtain confidence and secure advice to the poor gratis.

Queen-street, Ch. Town, P. E. I., Jan. 4, 1865.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY. Corner of Great George and King Streets.

THE undersigned being an operator of acknowledged skill, and acquired by practical experience of over twenty years in some of the largest cities in the United States, and also in the Province, is now prepared, with every facility, to prosecute his profession in this City, for the accommodation of the public, at reasonable prices.

EXCISES made in every style known to the art; and in the most perfect manner.

CARTES DES VISITES. Special attention paid to copying and enlarging old Pictures; also, for making "children's pictures" for which his light is admirably suited, in a which, as he has long been known to be the best in the country.

He respectfully solicits a share of public patronage, especially from those who have hitherto failed to get a good likeness. Pictures taken from seven o'clock in the morning until six in the evening.

Remember the place, corner Great George and King Streets.—Entrance on King Street. C. LEWIS. Ch. Town, May 31, 1865.

ARRIVAL OF NEW GOODS AT Bell's Clothing Store, Queen Street.

THE subscriber has the honor to announce to his numerous customers in town and country, that he has just received, per "UNION," a large and beautiful assortment of NEW AND SELECT STOCK OF GOODS, consisting of the FINEST and COMING SEASON, and which he is confident will give satisfaction to all who may favor him with their orders.

Style, Quality and Price, to all who may favor him with their orders. JOHN BELL, Merchant Tailor. May 31, 1865.

MR. WM. A. JOHNSTON, Attorney and Barrister at Law, NOTARY PUBLIC, &c. Has resumed the practice of his profession in Halifax.

Office, - Somerset Buildings, 35, Prince Street, HALIFAX.

P. E. ISLAND Steam Navigation Co's Steamers PRINCESS OF WALES & HEATHER BELLE.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT, Commencing Monday, May 22.

The Steamer 'Princess of Wales' LEAVES CHARLOTTETOWN, FOR SUMMERSIDE, SHEDDIAC, RICHIBUCTO, CHATHAM and NEWCASTLE, every MONDAY night at eleven o'clock, reaching Shediac in time for the morning train on Tuesday. Leaves SHEDDIAC, for RICHIBUCTO, at nine o'clock on TUESDAY morning, and RICHIBUCTO, for CHATHAM and NEWCASTLE, at one o'clock, same day, arriving at Chatham and Newcastle same evening. Leaves NEWCASTLE, for SHEDDIAC, at four o'clock on WEDNESDAY morning, calling at CHATHAM and RICHIBUCTO on way down. Leaves SHEDDIAC, for SUMMERSIDE and CHARLOTTETOWN, on WEDNESDAY afternoon at half-past two o'clock, immediately on arrival of the Train. Leaves CHARLOTTETOWN, for PICTOU, every THURSDAY morning at same time; returning, leaves PICTOU, for CHARLOTTETOWN, at twelve o'clock same night. Leaves CHARLOTTETOWN, for SUMMERSIDE and SHEDDIAC, every FRIDAY morning at half-past eight o'clock. Leaves SHEDDIAC, for SUMMERSIDE and CHARLOTTETOWN, at half-past two o'clock, same night, arriving at Charlottetown at half-past ten same night. The Steamer 'Heather Belle' LEAVES CHARLOTTETOWN, FOR PICTOU, every MONDAY morning at half-past nine. Leaves PICTOU, same evening, on arrival of Mail, about 7 o'clock, for Charlottetown. Leaves CHARLOTTETOWN, FOR BRULE, every THURSDAY and SATURDAY mornings, at five o'clock, returning to Charlottetown same evening, immediately after arrival of Mail at Brule, at about five o'clock in the evening. Steamer 'HEATHER BELLE' also runs to MOUSTY STREET, BASSIN and ROCKY POINT, on the Hillsborough River, every TUESDAY and FRIDAY, being market days.

FARES: From Charlottetown to Pictou, or back, Cabin 12s., Steerage 10s. 6d. age 16s. 6d. Charlottetown to Brule, or back, Cabin 7s., Steerage 5s. 6d. Charlottetown to Summerside, or back, Cabin 9s., Steerage 7s. 6d. Charlottetown to Shediac, or back, Cabin 18s., Steerage 15s. 6d. Charlottetown to Richibucto, or back, do. 15s. 6d. Summerside to Richibucto, do. 3s. 6d. Do. Miramichi, do. 4s. 6d. Shediac to Richibucto, do. 2s. 6d. Do. Miramichi, do. 3s. 6d. Charlottetown to St. John, or back, £1 10s. 14d., or Do. Eastport, do. 1 17s. 6d., or Do. Portland, do. 2 10s. 6d., or Do. Boston, do. 2 16s. 3d., or 9s. 0d.

RETURN TICKETS to or from Charlottetown and Summerside, 12s. available one week. Tickets void if parties leave the island during the time.

EXCURSION RETURN TICKETS, at one first-class rate, may be issued at any time, to parties of five or more going and returning together, and from any one station within one week, it being distinctly understood that unless these conditions are complied with, the Tickets will be void.

SEASON TICKETS may be purchased at Office for individuals or families. By Order, F. W. HALES, Secretary. Charlottetown, June 7, 1865.

BRITISH PERIODICALS, - VIZ - The London Quarterly Review, (Conservative.) The Edinburgh Review, (Whig.) The Westminster Review, (Radical.) The North British Review, (Free Church.)

Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, (Tory.) THE American Publishers continue to reprint the above-named periodicals, but as the cost of printing has increased, prices of paper nearly trebled, and taxes, duties, licenses, etc., largely increased, they are compelled to advance their terms as follows:—

For any one of the Reviews, per annum.	per annum.
For any two of the Reviews, do.	7 00
For any three of the Reviews, do.	10 00
For all four of the Reviews, do.	12 00
For Blackwood's Magazine, do.	4 00
For Blackwood and one Review, do.	7 00
For Blackwood and any two of the Reviews, do.	10 00
For Blackwood and three of the Reviews, do.	13 00
For Blackwood and the four Reviews, do.	15 00

Subscribers in the British Provinces will remit, in addition to these prices, TWENTY-PENCE extra a year for Blackwood, and TWENTY-PENCE extra a year for the United States Postage.

The works will be printed on a greatly improved quality of paper, and while nearly all American Periodicals are either advanced in price or reduced in size—and very generally both—we shall continue to give faithful copies of all the matter contained in the original editions. Hence, our present prices will be found as cheap, for the amount of matter furnished, as those of any of the competing periodicals in the country.

Young Moss, who was not more than twenty years of age, was a very admirable copy of his father, though somewhat taller, and with an apparently more open and frank brow. He wore an elegant evening tunic, a short collar very wide and turned over, an ornamented band and knive case, and carried in his hand a small light rifle recently imported from Europe.

Squire Barton was a man about five-and-thirty or more—one of those men who, by shaving off every particle of hair upon the face, contrive to assume a perpetual juvenility. He wore short curly hair, which shaded not his forehead, but radiated every part of it to view. It was a low white forehead, kept thus fair by a cap which was almost always drawn over his eyes. His eyes were the features that struck most observers; they were cold and chilly-looking, and yet were keen and piercing, without, however, any spark of brightness, one such ordinary case of expression, at all events that ordinary men could tell. As the female sex, when judging a man's personal appearance, generally are struck by his eyes, no woman was ever known to smile on Squire Barton. A miserable man must he be, on whom a woman never smiled, and yet were keen and piercing, without, however, any spark of brightness, one such ordinary case of expression, at all events that ordinary men could tell.

THE FOUR REVIEWS FOR 1865. A few copies of the above remain on hand, and will be sold at 5s. for the whole form, or 2s. for any one. We also publish the FARMER'S GUIDE, By HENRY STEPHENS, of Edinburgh, and the late J. P. NORRIS, of Yale College, 2 vols. Royal Octavo, 1600 pages. Price 7s. for the two volumes—by mail, post-paid, 8s.

LEONARD SCOTT & CO., Publishers, 38 Walker Street, New York.

Poetry. UNDER THE THORN. BY JOHN HAY.

Sweet was the breath of the hawthorn bush That blew in the briary lane, And tender the vesper song the thrush Poured forth in low refrain; And tenderly smiled the curving lips That never shall smile again.

The breath of the hawthorn's snowy bloom Fell faint on the happy air, And the gay wild bird sang on unheeded In the lush of love's low prayer; And the sun went down, but the twilight flush Lovingly lingered there.

Again I stand by the blooming thorn, And I sigh of the wasted years, And I sigh for the day so far away, And its tender hopes and fears— And I mourn that the world has brought me back With a heart too hard for tears.

Select Literature. AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. BY PERCY B. ST. JOHN.

CHAPTER III.

YOUR Moss and Squire Barton were welcomed to the block, not only as an accession of force, but because it was likely, coming from a long hunting party, they might know something of the events which were taking place on the frontier lands of the young Republic. They, however, shook their heads with an unpolitic much of the manner that the old man looked first at one and then at the other with extreme and startled surprise.

"Have you seen or heard nothing of the bloody redskins?" said he, anxiously.

"Nothing, my dear sir," replied young Charles Moss.

"Red-skins!" exclaimed Squire Barton, with a sneer; "I'd eat all in this part of the world."

"Then you had better begin with the one who is prisoner in the block," said the judge with a stern look.

"A red-skin in the block a prisoner?" repeated the son, more earnestly.

"Some boasting fool of a Wyandot, or a follower of your dark friend, never trust a red-skin, who always spoke of Indians with a sneer."

"Ay! ay!" said the judge, shaking his head, "tis the custom of youth to scoff and dwell. The red-skin is a scout of the Shawnees, and was captured by Custa himself, who overheard a plan last night to attack and destroy this—'my poor dwelling'."

"Return tickets will lead you into trouble some of these days, Judge. I never trust a red-skin, and, above all, never believe him."

"Squire Barton, all in this settlement look the mischief, and for this reason I excuse your general dislike of red-skins. But Custa speaks the truth. Had I doubted him, I have the corroborative evidence, as we say on the bench, of honest Dick Rogers, who never himself did not deny the fact."

"What negro?" said young Moss, anxiously.

"Spiky Jones, my son," replied the judge, mournfully; "I know not what I have done to wound his feelings, but the black had given us up to the slaughter."

"The son turned away towards the breakfast room with a heightened color, whence now issued Jane, who greeted her brother heartily, and the Squire with a formal politeness that never smacked of the practice of the day. "He seems, dear Jane," said the young man, smiling, "we have come in time. Where is Amy?" The stranger is behind."

"She is up at the Crow's Nest," replied Jane, casting down her eyes.

"Good heavens, and you are all so still!" cried Squire Barton, impatiently. "If there were Indians in the woods, the should be fetched home without an instant's delay."

"She will be fetched home by Custa and Harvey," said the judge, quietly.

"Pooh! but how long is it since they started?" asked the other.

"They sleep. When the night comes they will start—some at three o'clock in the forest yesterday evening, and 'tis but right they should restore their weary limbs. Besides, Custa says that the night trail is the safest."

"I have no doubt of it, judge, not the least," said the Squire; "but as you will, Squire, we must wait for accepting Miss Jane's hospitable offer of breakfast. We, too, are famished men, who have travelled through the woods, and though neither Indians nor mad negroes, are weary and sore-footed."

"Then come in and eat," said the father, pushing his son affectionately before him. "I am right glad to welcome you, my boy." Would to God that all those I love were here likewise.

The whole party were soon in the breakfast-parlor, where a hot and smoking board greeted them, pretty Jane having, on the very first sound of an arrival, ordered every thing to be replenished. The two travellers sat down at once, and for some minutes nothing was said while the waiters satisfied the keen appetite acquired in the woods, by an eager attack on the viands so plentifully supplied them.

Young Moss, who was not more than twenty years of age, was a very admirable copy of his father, though somewhat taller, and with an apparently more open and frank brow. He wore an elegant evening tunic, a short collar very wide and turned over, an ornamented band and knive case, and carried in his hand a small light rifle recently imported from Europe.

Squire Barton was a man about five-and-thirty or more—one of those men who, by shaving off every particle of hair upon the face, contrive to assume a perpetual juvenility. He wore short curly hair, which shaded not his forehead, but radiated every part of it to view. It was a low white forehead, kept thus fair by a cap which was almost always drawn over his eyes. His eyes were the features that struck most observers; they were cold and chilly-looking, and yet were keen and piercing, without, however, any spark of brightness, one such ordinary case of expression, at all events that ordinary men could tell. As the female sex, when judging a man's personal appearance, generally are struck by his eyes, no woman was ever known to smile on Squire Barton. A miserable man must he be, on whom a woman never smiled, and yet were keen and piercing, without, however, any spark of brightness, one such ordinary case of expression, at all events that ordinary men could tell.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

A plain ill-favored man was James Barton, the Squire of Snow Hill on the banks of the Susquehanna; a man of wealth, not only in landed estate, but in large sums of money invested in the British funds, which in those days, despite the new Republic and the loyalty of the people to the noble empire founded by Washington and George, contrived to give him great and marked consideration.

And yet, as it was not the wealth he so notoriously enjoyed that influenced young Moss, many persons were attracted to the young man, who was tall, and impetuous youth with the cold and sneering Squire.

The fact was, that Squire Barton was to his friends the most hearty of mortals, and the most genial of companions. His cheerfulness, however, and could set the table in a roar. Then he was a keen sportsman, knew how to track a deer, or a partridge, or a wild bird, and he would find his way at any time through the trackless forest, and had met and unharmed more adventures with Indians than Hooper or Pickett. All this was a part of his life, and he had brought it to bear upon young Moss with great success.

And then he was tutor for the hand of Amy Moss, the lovely elder daughter of the judge, and though she was not yet eighteen, he had been so four years, and was an accepted companion. It was rumored, however, that though the young girl had accepted him at fourteen, she showed him much less favor now, and did not even accept his presence, though she did not turn him away, because it would have pained her father.

In this way, then, Squire Barton was a frequent visitor at the house of Judge Moss, where he played at backgammon with the latter, hunted bears and deer with the son, and hunted with the girls whom he was so humble and so gentle that they could not, under any pretence, be hard or rude to him. Squire Barton had no difficulty in persuading both Amy and Jane of his amiable and devoted attachment; for that which is true is so eloquent, it speaks trumpet-tongued for itself, and Squire Barton passionately loved Amy, and had for Jane all the tenderness one feels towards a favorite child.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to get side-board. Leave your musket against the door."

The Squire afterwards freely confessed that in so acting he was wrong, but still he conceived that there could be no danger in agreeing to let the Squire's musket which he was about to take with him, and went round for the tobacco-pouch, which, after considerable search, he found, but not where the Squire had left it. He then hurried back and found the Squire waiting with his back to the window, his gun all safe and un-moved, and not a sign of any change. Then he and the Squire were smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

AMY MOSS; OR, THE BANKS OF THE OHIO. CHAPTER III.

The breakfast party was cheerful enough under the circumstances; and when it was over, and the Squire had kept up a fire of banter for a while with the son, and the latter in answer, had returned seconded by young Moss. A large room, so arranged that they could start from it at any time, to follow the chase without disturbing any one, was always ready, and here they went. The younger man, who was now jumped into bed, and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Not so with Squire Barton. He drew a chair near the window, which was open, and lighting a pipe, began to smoke, looking all the time at the scattered bed that recognized him, and appeared to be thinking deeply.

The following was the account Squire Barton always gave of what followed an account substantially true in every particular, though involving no explanation of subsequent events. He was smoking, to wit away the time, and the Squire was smoking, too. Presently, his tobacco ran out, and after cursing his ill-luck, he was about to put away his pipe, when the Squire spoke.

"Harro! my eyes be, I see your pipe is out. So like mine, and I have no more tobacco here. I do not like to wake you, my son, or I should go round—but I'll keep guard while you go. Ask Miss Jane for my cut in two, and be sure to Trout... rias Ball... Friday, temperance will at... ritten by t. Paul's... Indies:... these per... andments... very com... and like... of these... be re... are the... of this... not for... sibly for... at honest... d them... with a... ug. 30... ast night... dates to... were the... and... on Alex... Ancona... onia had... away from... the pestil... season, at... satory... rest fears... ig Taria... and, by... m devot... did Lady... was preva... sment, ac... s... Consort... the Ducal... of his... issue, a... ness' ma... the Ducal... of the... rited some... operations... he rains;... id to have... what evil... rity return... on unass... 74, which... it average... to 2,042... rd average... rths over... public dis... the... omparison... there is... panic, that... coders, and... who are... of men... teams with... flags; but... or gen... sary... ade in the... week. A... man nation... in some... while that... sers on the... sock immo... oceding in... lungs and... it struck... at several... t, fortunate... a victim of... the wound... ghly-distin... of Currie's... into con... duct or un... assassin has... rationally ac... for deserved... of soldiers... e of late... sific in our... the French... Napoleon to... ties of ova... of railway... Emperor as... ped the fan... ted through... the popular... Prince Im... amp of Ch... ers of daily... turns of the... returned the... receipt, m... the world... s Emperor's... exhibited... s inside the... best strong...

hold, that very stronghold which was begun by the Bourbons and carried forward by the first Napoleon as a protection against, and a menace to England.—By order, the French squadron was reduced to inferiority of numbers, guns, and tonnage to the British during the stay of the latter at Cherbourg. As far as this country is concerned, the famous affair of Bordeaux has been released, and "the Empire is Peace."

ITALY.
The "Moniteur" states that the Pope is about to increase his army by 3,000 men. The fact is not as yet corroborated by an information emanating from a Catholic source. The "Moniteur" sees in the proceeding, which it attributes to the Holy Father, "a first effort to place himself in a position to provide for the internal safety of the Papal States when France shall have ceased to occupy Rome."

Various rumors are afloat in Florence regarding the sudden retirement from the Ministry of Signor Vacca, who was known to be opposed to the recent negotiations with Rome. The common idea was that at the instance of France the negotiations were to be at once renewed on a basis of more ample concession to the Pope and to reaction, and that therefore Signor Vacca felt himself bound to quit the Ministry to a totally different cause.

At Turin great uneasiness prevailed last an amuse should arise out of the growing discontent at the degradation of the city from a metropolis to a provincial town. The Garibaldian and Mazzinian agents were straining every nerve to excite the people to insurrection by representing the dangers of a reconciliation with Rome and Austria.

News by Telegraph.

FROM THE STATES.
New York, Aug. 28.
The present strength of the United States army is 146,000.
It is reported from Mexico that the Liberals had been defeated near Puebla previous to the 4th inst.
It is expected that the rebel Vice President Stephens, will soon be released or pardoned by the President.
No other news at this time.

A Washington dispatch says the order relative to the passports for paroled rebel prisoners is the signal for a general emigration of permanent rebels led by Lee, who will go to London and there finish his history, his campaigns. Among others preparing to go are General Longstreet, Ewell, Beauregard, D. H. Hill, Wheeler, Malone, Buckner and Gardner, and it is probable they will be accompanied by hundreds of other less rank. Edward B. Ketchum, the forger, was arraigned in New York this forenoon. At the request of the prisoner, a full hearing in the case was postponed until Monday next.—Meanwhile, he is committed to the tomb prison.

An accident occurred on the Long Island Railroad this forenoon, by which five persons were killed and several injured.
Gold 143.

Aug. 29.
The council for Wirtz withdrew from the case yesterday which caused considerable excitement, and the prisoner seemed to be affected by it.
Mrs. ex-Senator Hunter to-day received the promise from the President that her husband should be pardoned at an early day.

Alexander H. Stephens' brother also had an interview with the President on a similar mission. The result of the interview is understood to be that the President will soon issue a proclamation for the admission of ammunition and fire-arms into the Southern States.

The Tribune's Brownsville (Texas) correspondent says Senator Robles, the Mexican Minister of Public Works, crossed the river on the 6th inst., and took dinner with Gen. Steele. Among the guests were General Edwards and Drayton.

Generals Ortega and Rimerio are said to be on their way to Brownsville. The visit of these distinguished officials was construed to point to some movement on the Rio Grande.

The Herald's Vera Cruz correspondent says that the town of Zongolica, the principal place in the State of Vera Cruz, has declared in favor of the Republic, and it is defended by a force considered adequate to hold it. A force of Austrians marching against it was drawn into an ambush and put to flight, losing quite a number of men. The Austrians had also met with a reverse north of Puebla.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.
There was a very large attendance at the Wirtz trial case yesterday. The counsel who withdrew from the case of the Military Commission, and the earnest solicitation of the accused.

Gen. Swain's telegraph from Georgia for a large military force to suppress attacks on freedmen in that State.
Gold 144.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.
The international cricket match was concluded to-day; the contest was very close, the Americans being winners as their last man was in. The score stood as follows:—let innings—Can. 78; Americans 63; 2nd innings—Canada 54; Americans enough to win. The Americans played throughout with one man short.
Gold 144.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.
The Herald's Charleston correspondent of the 26th says large stocks of cotton have recently come in from the interior, and the city experienced a very encouraging business revival.

It is estimated that the property in the State of South Carolina valued in 1860 at $400,000,000 has been reduced 50,000,000.
Aug. 31.
In the Wirtz trial yesterday, Col. Persons, formerly Rebel Commander of the Andersonville prison, stated that when he was there the prisoners numbered from 18,000 to 20,000, and that the capacity of the prison was for 10,000, and beyond that number no more ought to have been placed on the ground—seven after the enlargement. Captain Wirtz was not to blame for the size of the prison; one of his reasons for desiring to abate the prison as a nuisance was the almost insufferable stench and filth in a part of the graveyard. The green flies were almost as thick as locusts.

Advices from the Mexican border to the 19th inst., represent a curiously fraternal state of affairs between our Generals on the Rio Grande, and certain dignitaries of Maximilian's government, who, it seems, have been hobnobbing together and treating each other in true convivial style, and our Generals are reported as expressing friendship for the Emperor.

The Herald's Fortrose Monroe correspondent says there is no change concerning Davis, Clay and Mitchell. Each occupies the cell awarded him, takes his food regularly, reads daily the newspapers and other publications, mends his pipe and enjoys his hours in promenade. The impression that Davis is permitted the freedom of writing letters is erroneous. The letter to Mr. Gillis, one of his counsel, is the only one he has been allowed to write.
Gold 144.

Sept. 1.
The only proclamation which has been issued on the subject of the arrest of George N. Sanders, is that of May 21, and that provided a reward only on the condition of his arrest in the United States.
The United States steamers Hercules and Swallow, have been sent from British Columbia in search of the Shamook.

A Washington dispatch says, that President Johnson has determined to restore the writ of Habeas Corpus in a short time.
The receipts from the Internal Revenue yesterday, amounted to over two millions dollars.
Gold 144.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—We have been requested to call attention to the disgraceful and dangerous state in which the Bridge over Bow's mill-pond, Montague, is. A lamentable and fatal accident happened there on Thursday the 17th inst. A girl named Margaret Gordon, about 20 years of age, attempted to cross the bridge, but owing to its shattered condition and want of repair, some part of the plank gave way and the unfortunate woman was precipitated into the mill-pond, where she met with an untimely grave. It is certainly disgraceful to our Government that an accident of this nature should happen on one of our high roads. It is not certainly the want of money, for the sums annually voted for roads and bridges is sufficient and more than sufficient to place all highways in a respectable and passable condition. We trust that the matter will be inquired into by the Government at once, and if the accident has happened through the neglect or supineness of any official that he be immediately dismissed.

New Barracks.—The Government have purchased from Admiral Hayfield, about four acres of land on the Brighton Road. On this site the new Barracks will be erected. The price paid for the land is £400 currency. On Tuesday last, the tenders for the erection was opened at the Council. There were but two tenders—one from Messrs. Lowe & Barnard, offering to perform the work for £5,800—another from Mr. Alley, offering to perform the same for £3,500. It is almost needless to add that Mr. Alley's tender was accepted. The building three in number, are to be ready for occupation by the 10th of October next. It is believed that the entire outlay for Barracks, fences, offices, &c., will not exceed £100,000. The site of the Barracks is on the site of the old Barracks.—Ed.

Horrible Death at Sea.—Captain McDonald, of the ship Ariadne, 231 tons, from Prince Edward Island, with timber and deals, which arrived at Greenock on the 1st reports that, five days after leaving P. E. Island, one of the hands (J. Carmichael, of Charlottetown), engaged as cook and steward jumped overboard. Capt. McDonald at once ordered the vessel to be put about, and the boat to be launched, to rescue the unfortunate man. The immersed person was ultimately observed to be making great efforts to reach the vessel, and was heard immediately thereafter to utter several dreadful cries, then to raise his arms wildly and disappear. As a shark was observed following the ship for several days, it is supposed that the monster had seized the unfortunate man, and dragged him down. The boat was as once pulled up to the spot but no trace of him could be seen. Deceased was about 22 years of age, unmarried, a native of P. E. Island, and had recently been discharged from the U. S. Navy.

The master of the sch. Comet from Baltimore, reports that his vessel was run into on Thursday night, off Sarnbo, by the steamer Greyhound. By this collision the scho's jibboom was carried away, her bows stove, and anchor and chain lost.—H. paper.

Harvesting operations are proceeding rapidly in most parts of the island. We regret to observe that the blight has again attacked the potato. In many fields the tops present quite a withered appearance.—Patriot.

The issue of the Intercolonial match between the Pictou and Charlottetown Cricket Clubs, is contained in the following telegram, placed on the Reading Room desk by Chas. A. Hyndman Esq., the obliging Superintendent of the Telegraph Office.

Pictou, Aug. 31st, 1865.
Islanders victorious. Games played out, forty-six runs ahead.
A. H. YATES.

A good anecdote was related to a party of Americans in Montreal, by an Irish backslider the other day. An English Cockney, just arrived, stepped out of St. Lawrence Hill one Sunday, and entered a hack, driven by a Frenchman. "Haw, fellow!" said the Cockney, "drive me to Christ's church." Christ church is the Protestant Episcopal Church of England, place of worship. The driver, however, landed his fare at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church, and the Englishman entered and found himself in the midst of the celebration of High Mass, retrograde, heastily, and angrily reproaching the driver, "Haw fellow! I told you to drive me to Christ's church, and you bring me here." "To be sure I did," answered the driver, "and if this is Christ's Church you needn't look any further, the devil is one of his churches will you find in Montreal." The Englishman finished his journey on foot.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The grand secret of attaining happiness is to secure good health, without which life is stripped of all its pleasures. The regularity of the bowels is of the utmost importance, and set right by appropriate doses of these fine purifying Pills, which strengthen the system by thoroughly cleansing the blood from all impurities. They balance disordered action, remove the cause of disturbance, restore its normal and natural power to every organ, without inconvenience, pain, or any other drawback.

A Fine Head of Hair.—Nature's own 'diamond and title to dignity is to-day the coveted treasure of every person, and it was in olden time the pride of Absalom and strength of Samson. It is the duty of all to cultivate the hair. You can do it and preserve it through life in the best manner. A. Allen's World's Hair restorer and Zytobalium or Hair Restorer.

Married.
At St. Dunstan's Cathedral, Charlottetown, on the 4th inst., by His Lordship the Bishop, Mr. Patrick McEachern, to Miss Sarah McPhee, second daughter of Mr. Hugh McPhee, all of Savage Harbor.

Died.
At his residence in this city, on yesterday, the 5th Sept., at 11 a. m., Mr. John Blake, in the 69th year of his age. The deceased was long and favorably known in this community for his uprightness and integrity, and his fondness to lament in his death the loss of a kind parent and protector. His funeral will take place on to-morrow at half-past three o'clock from his residence on King St. R. I. P.

At Tuesday last, the 5th inst., at his residence, Weymouth Street, Mr. Christopher Cross, in the 81st year of his age. For the last 48 years he has been a resident of this City. Funeral on Friday next, at 3 p. m.

At Lot 11, on the 23rd ult., Mary, wife of Mr. William Strathall, Queen's County, Ireland, forty years ago, and for nearly the whole of that time they resided on Lot 11, where they have been universally esteemed.—Requiescat in pace.

At the residence of her son, John McFayden St. Eleanor's, on the 27th ult., Jane McFayden, aged 90 years. Deceased was much esteemed for her many good qualities, and died trusting in the merits of her Redeemer.

At Indian River, Lot 18, on the 18th ult., in sure and certain hope of a blessed immortality, in her 67th year, Mrs. Coely, relict of the late Patrick Coely, Esq., and eldest daughter of the late Dagald Stewart, Esq.

PRICES CURRENT.
CHARLOTTETOWN, SEPT. 5, 1865.
Butter (fresh) 1s to 1s 3d Turkey, each 5s to 5s 6d
Do. by the tub 1s to 1s 6d Ome, 1s 6d to 2s 6d
Lard, per lb. 2s 4d to 2s 6d
Eggs, per doz. 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Pork, 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Do. (small) 7d to 8d
Mutton, per lb. 2s 2d to 2s 4d
Beef (small) per lb. 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Do. by qr., 2s 4d to 2s 6d
Do. by lb., 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Lard, 2s 4d to 2s 6d
Tallow, 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Flour, per barrel, 3s 6d to 4s
Do. per lb. 2s 4d to 2s 6d
Meal, per bushel, 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Eggs, per doz. 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Onions, p. bus. 2s 4d to 2s 6d
Potatoes, 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Timothy seed bush. 1s 6d to 1s 8d
Clover seed, 1s 6d to 1s 8d
GEORGE LEWIS, Market Clerk.

TEMPERANCE HALL!

FRIDAY, SATURDAY & MONDAY
Evenings, Sept. 8, 9, and 11.
The Old ALLERMANIAN, organized 17 years ago, are coming!

Their farewell tour in America, being engaged to appear at St. James Hall, London, England, in November next.

Will appear as above, positively three occasions only.
Admission 1s. 6d. Reserved Seats 3s.
Tickets for sale at W. R. Watson's, also at Laird & Harvie's, and at the door. Concert commences at 8 o'clock. Change of Programme each evening.
Prof. J. M. BOLLARD, Manager.
D. G. WALDRON, Agent.

JUST RECEIVED per Steamer "Greyhound," a few boxes Austin's celebrated SOAP, WINE and BUTTER CRACKERS; also a few American CHEESE, boxes LOZENGES, &c., &c.
G. D. WRIGHT,
Kent St. Grocery Depot,
Aug. 14, 1865.

Notice.
I HEREBY give public notice that I will not, for the future, accept or pay any debt or debts which my son JOHN, who is not of age, shall contract.
ELIZABETH McDONALD.
Lot 16, Aug. 14, 1865.

New Tobacco Factory
AT SUMMERSIDE.
THE SUBSCRIBER HAVING JUST OPENED A FACTORY FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF TOBACCO, Supply Wholesale Customers with the Island Manufactured TOBACCO, warranted a good article, at the very lowest prices, and on the most reasonable terms.—and hopes his Factory, being the first of the kind established in Prince County, will meet with liberal patronage from the Traders and Merchants of Summerside, and Prince County generally.
PATRICK REILLY,
Summerside, August 9, 1865.

For Sale,
A SALADIN MARE, (black) warranted sound; a good traveller, and gets into harness; also four years old. Apply at this Office.
August 9, 1865.

The New York Tribune says, "the reason why Drake's Plantation Bitters are so universally used and have such an immense sale, is that they are always made up to the original standard, of highly invigorating material and of pure quality, although the prices have so largely advanced." &c.

The Tribune just hits the nail on the head. The Plantation Bitters are not only made of pure material, but the people are told what it is. The Recipe is published around each bottle, and the bottles are not reduced in size. At each twenty imitations and counterfeits have sprung up. They impose upon the people once again that's the last of them.

The Plantation Bitters are now used in all the Government Hospitals, are recommended by the best physicians, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. Facts are stubborn things.

"I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life."
REV. W. H. WAGGONER, Madrid, N. Y.

"You will send me two bottles more of your Plantation Bitters. My wife has been greatly benefited by their use."
Thy Friend, ASA CURRIN, Philadelphia, Pa.

"I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me."
REV. J. S. CATHORN, Rochester, N. Y.

"Send us twenty-four dozen more of your Plantation Bitters, the popularity of which are daily increasing with the guests of our house."
Proprietors WILKINSON'S HOTEL, Washington, D. C.

"I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers, and the most astonishing effect."
G. W. D. ANDREWS,
Superintendent Soldiers' Home, Cincinnati, O.

"The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and the urinary organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm."
C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway.

New-Bedford, Mass., Nov. 24, 1865.
DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicine failed to relieve me. Some friends in New York, who were using Plantation Bitters, prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small dose—after dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters.

Respectfully,
JUDITH RUSSELL.

If the ladies but knew what thousands of them are constantly relating to us, we cordially believe one-half of the weakness, prostration, and distress experienced by them, would vanish. James Marsh, Esq., of 169 West 16th St., N. Y., says, "he has three children, the first two are weak and young, his wife having been unable to nurse or attend them but that she has taken Plantation Bitters for the last two years, and has a child now eighteen months old which she has nursed and reared herself, and both are healthy, strong and well. The article is invaluable to mothers." &c.

Such evidence might be continued for a volume. The best evidence is to try them. They speak for themselves. Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, palpitation of the heart, loss of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, diabetes, &c., will find speedy relief through these Bitters.

Every bottle for exportation and sale out of the United States has a metal cap and glass label around the neck. Beware of imitations. See that the cap has not been mutilated. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters, in bulk or by the gallon, is an impostor. We will not issue a receipt. Sold by principal dealers throughout the habitable globe.

P. H. DRAKE & CO.,
New York.
March 22, 1865.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS!

THE SUBSCRIBER has just received per Steamer "Greyhound" and "Commerce" his annual supply of Manny's celebrated Patent Mowing and Reaping Machines.

which have given such general satisfaction throughout the Island. He has also received those admirable HOISE RAKES, which no farmer should be without.

The capabilities of those celebrated machines being now so well tested and known, that it is useless to describe their merits.

They will be sold for cash, or on approved Joint notes of one to two years.

The undersigned have been appointed Agents for the above Machines:

Hon. Andrew A. McDonald, Georgetown.
Hon. F. Kelly, Fort Augustus.
John Knight, Esq., Souris.
Wm. W. Irving, Esq., Charlottetown.
Mr. Thos. Anner, Montague River, or to the subscriber at Orwell Cheap Store.

R. J. CLARKK,
July 12, 1865.

REMOVAL!

MR. G. W. KIMBALL begs to inform his Customers, that he and the public generally, that he has removed to the NEW STORE, next door to Laird & Harvie's Bookstore, South Side Queen Square, where he is now opening a large and extensive STOCK of

BLOCKADE GOODS,
Direct from NASSAU.

Read some of the Prices and Wonders

24 sheets Note Paper only 4d
3 skeins good Sewing Silk 4d
2 papers pins 4d
2 cakes good Toilet Soap 4d
12 doz. Shirt Buttons 4d
1 pkay Cream Laid Envelopes 4d
Splendid Combs 4d
Gents' steel Watch Chains 4d
Gents' Paper Collars 4d
24 sheets heavy Letter Paper 4d
24 do do Note do 4d
Ladies' Cotton Hose per pair 4d
do do superior 4d
First-rate Print (wrt'd to wash) per yard 4d
Black-steeled Cotton, a yard wide, per yd 4d
600 pairs Gents' Kid Gloves, Wonders! 1s 6d
Wonders! per pair 1s 6d
100 pairs do do do very superior 2s 3d to 2s
200 pairs Ladies' Lisle Thread Gloves, per pair 2s 3d to 2s
1,000 yds. Imperial Skirting, linen finish —much talked of—per yd 1s 6d
A large lot of Double Albums worth £1 4s
A small lot do 4s
100 pairs Ladies' heeled large boots per pair 7s 6d
200 do do do do do do do do 4s 6d
100 do Men's Brogans 4s 6d
Splendid Cotton Warp, per bundle 12s 6d
600 pairs Boys' Suspenders, per pair 9d
100 do do do do do do do do do 9d
6 doz do do do Extra 1s 6d
500 Ladies' and Gents' Pomponies, all styles, at half price, and superior 4s 6d
100 Ladies' Parasols, very cheap 4s 6d
A lot do do extra, per pair, 1s 6d
1,000 doz. Ladies' Dress Buttons, per doz 1s 6d
A lot steel Buttons, very cheap 1s 6d
A job lot Gause Ribbons, per yard 1d

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE! Only Think!!

500 yds. Black Silk, per yd 4s 6d
Ladies' Skirting, prime article, " 2s 6d
20 pieces COATS, selling very cheap 9s
500 yds. muslin, a yard wide, 4s
Gents' Fancy Cotton Shirts, 4s
do do do do do do do do do 4s
4 doz. do do, Fancy Flannel 4s 6d
Ladies' Best Combs, superior 1s
extra 1s
Large lot Ladies' SHAWLS, very cheap. Dress Goods, Cashmeres, Gaiters, Blouses, Boots and Shoes of every description. Olanawate, Looking Glasses!

(Very cheap)
1,000 Hoop Skirts!
Red Ticking, Striped Shirting, Grey Cotton, Unbleached Cotton.
60 cwt. Dry Savannah Sugar 2s
Very Cheap.

Splendid article TEA 2s 6d
A few chests do to clear out 2s 6d
50 boxes SOAP, 2s 6d
COUNTRY TRADERS can buy all kinds of GOODS from G. W. KIMBALL at 10 per cent. less than they can be imported. TERMS CASH or approved Notes.

FULL WEIGHT. Good Measure. Goods warranted as presented, or money refunded.
New Store, Mrs. Cameron's Building, South Side, Queen Square,
Charlottetown, 7th June, 1866.

Dawson's Building,
Corner of Great George and Kent Streets.

NEW GOODS.

W. R. WILSON
HAS completed his SPRING IMPORTATIONS, per POOL, and UNBURNED LIZIE from LIVERPOOL, and UNBURNED LIZIE from LIVERPOOL, consisting of: Grey, White and Striped COTTONS, Grey and White Sheeting, Fancy Shirting, Prints, Striped Shirting, Jeans, Olanawate, Tickings, Hollands, Grass Cloth, Linen, Fancy Flannels, &c., &c.

Ladies' Dress Material, in Plain and Fancy Poplins, Bartheas, Mohairs, Checked Lustras, French Merinos, Black Silks, and Printed Muslins.

Shawls, in Paisley, Black Indians, Silk Baras, Fancy Cashmere, &c., &c.

Mantles, Flowers, Feathers, Ribbons, Fancy Willow, Straw and Crinoline Bonnets, White and Colored Hats, Dress Ornaments, &c., &c. Parasols, Goggles, Edgings, Vails, Maslines, Corsets, Laces, and a large selection of Worked Embroidery.

A choice selection of Scotch Tweeds, White Shirts, Scarfs, Collars, Brasas, Hosiery Ties, &c., &c.; Ready-made Cottons, Boots and Shoes in great variety.

Groceries,
TEA, warranted good; Sugar, Molasses, Soap, Candles, Starch, Rice, Tobacco, Indigo, Rice, Pepper, Ginger, Allspice, etc., etc.

Hardware,
Nails, Hoop, Shovels, Ploughshares, Glass, Wares, Reeds, Tea and Table Spoons, Knives and Forks, &c.

The above Goods have been well selected in some of the best English and Scotch houses, and will be sold at the lowest possible prices FOR CASH.
Ch. Town, May 31, 1865.

Administration Notice.

THE Subscriber hereby notifies ALL PERSONS having an claim against JOHN EDEN, of Richmond Street, Charlottetown, lately deceased, to present the same duly attested to her immediately, and all persons indebted to the said John Eden, deceased, are requested to pay the same to her without delay, otherwise their accounts will be placed in the hands of an Attorney for collection.

SARAH EDEN, Administratrix.
Ch. Town, Aug. 23, 1865.

St. Dunstan's College.

Under the Patronage of His Lordship the Bishop of Charlottetown.

THIS INSTITUTION is situated on the Princetown Road, a mile and a quarter North of Charlottetown. The site is peculiarly beautiful, healthy, and far removed from the distractions and moral dangers of the city.

The College grounds are large, affording ample room for games and athletic exercises.

The course of studies embraces all the branches necessary to prepare young men for the study of the learned professions or for mercantile pursuits, such as History, Geography, the English, French, Latin and Greek Languages, Rhetoric, Mathematics, Philosophy, Chemistry, &c. Music—vocal and instrumental—is also taught.

The College possesses a large and well selected Library, as well as an extensive Philosophical Apparatus.

The Professors and Teachers reside in the Institution, forming but one family with the students, and exercising a constant supervision favorable to discipline, decorum and good morals.

Catholic students are carefully and frequently instructed in their holy religion, which they are required to practice. The most solicitous attention is paid to the morals of all; and whilst within the College enclosure, they are constantly under the watchful eye of one of the Teachers or Prefects. Students when entering must produce satisfactory testimonials of good character.

The College is visited regularly once a week by a Physician.

TERMS:
Per Quarter of 11 Weeks:
Board and Tuition, £5 0 0
Use of Library, " 0 1 0
Physician's Fee, " 0 1 0
Payments to be made half-yearly in advance.

The College furnishes board and maintenance; the students must provide their own beds and bedding, brushes, basins, towels, &c.

The Scholastic year commences on the first Wednesday in September and ends about the middle of July. Students are requested to enter the College on the first day of the opening of the classes.

For further particulars apply to A. McDONALD, St. Dunstan's College, Aug. 16, 1865.

The classes will be opened this year on the 6th of September.

JUST Received a supply of SUPERIOR—

Warranted of the best quality. Please try a sample.
May 17, 1865. G. D. WRIGHT.

CORD WOOD for sale.

Apply at this office.
Aug. 16th, 1865.

OUR SPRING IMPORTATIONS

per L. C. OWEN and UNDISK are now ready for Inspection & Sale.

BEER & BONS.
Ch. Town, May 17, 1865.

AXLES.

A SUPPLY OF GARRAGE AXLES.
Half Patent, just received at
LAIRD & HARVIE'S.

NEW SPRING GOODS.

RENFREW HOUSE,
Great George Street,
(THOMAS' OLD STAND.)
DELANY & BYRNE
HAVING completed their SPRING IMPORTATIONS, beg to call the attention of their Town and Country Customers to their Stock of STAPLE & FANCY
DRY GOODS.
Comprising:
Cotton Warp, Grey and White Cottons, Striped Shirtings, Printed Cottons, Bed-Tick, Olanawate, Denims, Flannels, Towelling, Table-Cloths, &c., &c.
Ladies' Dress Goods,
NEWEST STYLES.
Shawls, Mantles, Bonnets, Hats, Veilings, Flowers, Ribbons, Parasols, Gloves, Hosiery, etc., etc., etc.
SKELETON SKIRTS,
BOOTS & SHOES,
Superfine Cloth, Denims, Tweeds, Ready-Made Clothing, Under Clothing, Shirts, Collars, Ties, Scarfs, Handkerchiefs.
RUBBER COATS & CAPS
Men's and Boys' Straw, Felt and Tweed Hats, (in great variety) Men's and Boys' Cloth Caps.

HARDWARE.

Plough Mountings, Rope, Glass, Rolled and Raw Irons, Oil, Paint, Putty, Window Glass, Wares, Reeds, Shovels, Hoop, Traces, Wool Cards, Tea and Table Spoons, Knives and Forks.

BEST AMERICAN CUT NAILS.

(all sizes.)
GROCERIES.
TEA (a superior article) Brown and Crushed Sugar, Rice, Starch, Soap, Tobacco, Indigo, Blacking, &c., &c. All of which we offer at the Lowest Prices FOR CASH.
Charlottetown, May 31

