FIGURES DO LIE.

Prices are only Relative

REGAL ENGINES are the highest priced engines, yet they are the cheapest.

They are the highest priced engines because they cost more to build.

They are the cheapest engines, because they will last twice as long as any other engine.

They are also the cheapest engines because they save your time, and "Time is money."

If you shut your eyes to this real bargain in engines, you will be the sorriest fisherman who ever signed an order.

You will lose more money than you can afford to lose, and your oil bills will be twice as large.

REGAL ENGINES use less oil, have more power, run with less trouble and give more genuine satisfaction than any other engine on the market.

We are, in the near future, going to ask all cash for REGAL ENGINES, so buy one before we make this change, as we intend to make them the "Hall Mark" engines of Newfoundland.

We ship REGAL ENGINES complete with full book of instructions, and when once installed in your boat, any child can run one.

REGAL ENGINES are higher priced than other engines, but are the cheapest in the long run, because they run the longest.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Rath strode forward, and pushing the men aside, held out his hand.

"That is my knife," he said, calmly. "Give it to me, please."

The seeming callousness of the speech filled the listeners with amazement and a hoarse murmur arose, a sound of indignation which gave place to one of doubt and uncertainty; for Rath's calm and unshaken self-possession were staggering.

"I had better keep this," said the doctor. "Do you still say it is yours?"

"Yes," replied Rath; "it is mine."

Edward seized his arm and looked up at him with a terrible trouble in his eyes.

"Your knife, Rath? Look again. Great Heaven! how can it be yours? It was found near the body; it is stained with blood."

"It's mine," said Rath, as calmly as before. "I do not know how it came to be there; I must have dropped it."

A murmur of incredulity arose, but only a faint one. The grave, handsome face did not look like that of a murderer; the manner was rather that of a man who is surprised and puzzled, but not in the least afraid. Indeed, Rath was not at all apprehensive about the strange mistake, the singular ring of circumstances which encircled him.

"This is a terrible business," said the doctor. "There is only one thing to be done. Mr. Bryan. Your friend must place himself in the hands of the police. My trap is in the road and is at your service. I will go with the body to the inn."

Edward beckoned to Rath. As they moved away, some of the gamekeepers followed them—Workley had gone with the doctor and the dead woman—but Edward motioned them back.

"There is no need to accompany us," he said. "I am still answerable for my friend."

As they drove to Market Raton, Edward endeavoured to obtain a detailed account of the way in which Rath had spent the evening; and Rath answered his questions readily enough, and without a sign of uneasiness.

"It seems incredible that you, of all men, Rath, should lose your way in a wood," said Edward. "Oh! if I had only not left you! I deserted my friend, and this is the result. I am punished for my selfishness."

But Rath would not have this.

"What does it matter?" he said calmly. "I did not kill the poor woman, Edward."

"No; but—I don't want to alarm you, Rath, but don't you see that some persons may think you did? You say that the innkeeper at Team saw and remarked upon the knife—you had it there, you see?—and it was found near the body by which you were discovered by Workley. You see—you see?"

"Yes," assented Rath, quietly. "But I didn't kill her. Why should I? I never saw her alive. I had no reason for killing her."

"Yes, that is in your favor," admitted Edward; "but all sorts of motives will be supplied by those whose duty it is to fix the guilt upon you."

"But why should they want to make me guilty?" asked Rath, in his innocence and ignorance of our legal system. "Why don't they look for the man who did it? Why, if I had thought of it, I could have tracked him through the bush, or I could have done so if it had not been beaten down and the tracks crushed out by those men who attacked me?"

Edward stifled a groan.

"There again! Of course, the footmarks could not be traced now. Who could have done it? There must be someone who desired the poor woman's death. We must have a good detective. Don't be uneasy, Rath; no stone shall be left unturned."

"I am not uneasy," said Rath, as calmly as before.

As they drove through the village, Edward pulled up and sent a pencil note to the Court, saying that his friend had "met with an accident," and that he—Edward—might not be home for some hours. They reached the prison, at which tidings of the murder had already been received, and Edward found the superintendent awaiting them. He received them with official gravity.

"My friend will tell you all he knows of this awful business, Mr. Locke," said Edward.

"Perhaps he'd better say nothing at present, Mr. Bryan," said the superintendent; but Rath made his statement, and Mr. Locke took it down.

"I shall have to search the prisoner, Mr. Bryan," he said.

Edward bit his lip.

"Certainly, Mr. Rayne will have no objection," he said. "Empty your pockets, Rath."

Rath did so; but of course the superintendent "went over him."

"There is something here," he said, touching Rath's breast.

"Yes," assented Rath. "Let it alone, please."

Mr. Locke looked surprised and a trifle suspicious.

"I must ask you to give it to me," he said.

"Give it to him, Rath; whatever it is, it will be quite safe," said Edward.

"It is not mine; I am taking care of it," said Rath. "Why should he have it? Will it be quite safe?"

"Quite—quite," replied Edward.

Rath ripped up the lining of his coat, and taking out the small tin case, placed it on the policeman's desk.

"It is sealed," he said; "the seal must not be broken."

"What is it?" asked the superintendent.

"I don't know," replied Rath.

Mr. Locke looked at him gravely.

"That sounds strange," he said. "You do not know the contents of this case you take so much care of?"

Edward looked at the box with astonishment. What was this secret of Rath's this secret which he had concealed from the man who had been his constant and only companion for so many weeks?

"There is no need to open it for the present, Mr. Locke?" he asked, earnestly.

like water to his taste, it lent him a spurious courage, and after a moment or two he stole cautiously up to his bedroom, and pacing up and down softly, tried to realize his position. At first the horror of his crime held complete possession of his mind. He was a murderer! He had killed a fellow-creature, and he would assuredly have to pay the penalty. He, Ralph, the Earl of Raton, master of Raton Hall, would be hanged, would be hanged as if he were no better than a laborer or tramp who had committed a murder in a drunken fit.

He shook all over, and the sweat poured out upon him—a cold sweat that struck like ice. To be hanged! It was too hideous, too—too absurd! He must be dreaming, must have drunk too much and be suffering from one of the hallucinations of delirium tremens. Yes, that was it; he assured himself, and tried to laugh; but the laugh died in his throat as he looked round the room and saw Nita's dead face floating in every part of it, in whatever direction his blood-shot eyes rested.

Then came another phase of feeling. The human being he had killed was Nita. Nita, his wife, was dead. She was dead and he was free. Free! That is, he would be free to marry Lady Mary—if his guilt remained undiscovered.

But! "There is much virtue in an 'if.'" With the cunning of a criminal whose brain is fighting for his life, he forced himself to confront all the circumstances. No one had seen him leave the house, no one had seen his meeting with her. No one had seen the dead, starchy, fendish blows which he had struck her. How could the crime be traced to his hand? Why, the very knife with which he had done the awful deed was not his—had only been in his possession a few minutes. Whose was it? Surely, if it were found, suspicion would attach to its owner?

Then suddenly his eyes fell upon the red stains, scarcely dry, on his coat-sleeve and shirt-cuff. He shuddered, and tore the shirt and coat off him. They were the only damning evidence against him, and he must get rid of them. But where? He looked round with feverish eagerness; but a modern room furnished with every obvious luxury offers few hiding-places which would be secure from a detective's eye. Besides if he disposed of them, however cleverly, Parkins his valet would miss them, would be curious, suspicious. He could not hide the clothes; he must remove the stains. With trembling hands he sponged away the damning spots, and placed the shirt and the coat under the coverlid of the bed to dry. The sponge he tore in pieces and burnt in the fire, which was still alight. Then he undressed and crept into bed. Like Macbeth, he had effectually murdered sleep; but he closed his eyes and tried to still his tortured and torturing nerves, and, of course, the moment he shut his eyes, the panoramas of his crime unrolled itself before his mental vision.

He saw it all as plainly as if he were re-enacting the horrid tragedy; but though fear throbbled in every vein of his body, there was no pity, no remorse in his heart. He had hated the unfortunate woman to whom he was tied; he hated her still, even now that she was dead. She had stood between him and his desires; she had been the barrier between him and his social ambition; he had cut and slashed this barrier down with the knife with which he had hacked out her life, and he felt no remorse.

He lay awake going over the murder again and again, and listening intently. Would some gamekeeper, poacher, find the body, and would they come up to the Hall with the tidings?

While he was asking himself the question, he heard a ring at the bell. His heart leapt, then sank heavy as lead, and he shook in every limb as he heard voices in the hall, and presently the sound of Parkins' footsteps descending the stairs. He listened with ears that seemed preternaturally capable of detecting every sound. The voices died away, Parkins ascended the stairs, and all was quiet again.

Mr. Locke considered for a moment.

"It might throw some light on this affair, Mr. Bryan. But I will hand it, sealed as it is, to the magistrates."

He conducted them to a cell, and Edward begged permission to remain with his friend, for a short time, at any rate.

The turning of the key and the run of the bolts affected him more than they did Rath, who sat down with a gesture of weariness, but no trace of despair or even fear.

"I'm causing you a great deal of trouble, Edward," he said. "You came to the wood in search of me? You have left your people, have left your newly-found happiness. Tell me about it. It was strange that you should meet her so soon."

Edward, from whose mind the tragedy had driven, for the time, the sense of his own great disappointment and grief, returned to the full misery of it.

"The luck has gone against both of us, Rath," he said, with a bitter laugh. "While I have been making for fortune, I have been losing the woman I loved. She has—his voice broke—"she has flitted me, left me for someone else. She has broken her promise, and is going to marry another man."

"Then she is not worthy of your love," said Rath, with his simple and stern philosophy.

Edward reddened.

"No, no; don't say that, Rath. I could not bear to say it to myself. She is the best, the truest—oh, what am I saying! And yet I cannot help feeling it, though—though she has broken faith with me. If you knew her, you would be as loath to doubt her, to condemn her, as I am. But we won't talk of my misfortune, old fellow; this trouble of yours is far worse, far more serious."

Rath shook his head.

"They will find the man who did it," he said, with quiet assurance. "I am not afraid. I don't understand why they have taken me, why they don't believe me; but it does not matter. I shall be free in a little while. And now you go back to your people, Edward, and don't be anxious about me."

Edward looked round the cell reluctantly. That Rath, the noblest character Edward had ever met, should be charged with the awful crime of murder, and left thus in a prison cell, was almost unendurable. But Rath held out his hand, shook Edward's, smiling gravely, and flung himself on the pallet, remarking: "I am very tired; I shall be asleep in five minutes."

He sat up again as Edward slowly and reluctantly went towards the door.

"That tin case, Edward? It will be safe, he will not open it?"

"No; rest easy on that point, Rath. Whatever it is it will be quite safe."

He waited for a moment to see if Rath wanted to tell him anything about the case; but he did not, and Edward sat still, until Rath's regular and steady breathing proclaimed him asleep, before summoning the jailer to open the door.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Ralph sped through the wood, crouching instinctively and—already!—with the crouching attitude and furtive side glances of the criminal escaping from the scene of his crime. He reached the Hall, and, bending still lower, entered by the window of the den. There he paused and pantingly waited and listened. The house was perfectly quiet, and its quietude stilled his palpitating nerves. He went to the sideboard and got some brandy, and though the spirit seemed

The total number of volunteers enrolled to date is 1388, the following having enlisted with the Reserve Force yesterday:

Wm. F. Wiseman, St. John's.
Jan. McGrath, St. John's.
Al. Walsh, St. John's.
R. Hickey, St. John's.
Frank Meany, St. John's.
Caleb Bishop, St. John's.
David Cleary, St. John's.
Thos. Power, St. John's.
Hubert Snow, St. John's.
F. W. Harding, St. John's.
R. Neel, St. John's.

Since the formation of the new company recruiting has been most satisfactory and the recruits are making rapid progress in their drill. The men have already received musketry instruction and will soon begin rifle practice at the Range.

League Football.

The Collegians and St. Andrew's will try conclusions this evening and a fast game is expected. The probable players will be:—

Collegians.—Goal, Wornell; backs, A. Heath, St. Andrew's; halves, J. Pike, H. Barnes, W. Halfyard; forwards, Gear, Kendrick, Baird, Joliffe, Coulter, St. Andrew's.

Saints.—Goal, Ewing; backs, Spry, Foster; halves, Reid, Munn, Elton; forwards, Ferguson, Kerr, Bastow, Ewing, Smith.

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

FOR THE NURSERY.

"The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be an adage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the mother, for a well-ordered, contented household, Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the Instantaneous or Circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber"—without any labour at all—independently of the state of the weather!

The cost is reasonable.

FOR THE BATHROOM.

An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance.

Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost!

Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the after-labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather!

A Gas Water-Heater is economical, because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no fires to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove.

The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

When "Spring cleaning days" engross the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force.

But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes an irrefragable appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.

Later-day domestics are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes.

The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous—may I say it?

THE CHERRY PIE.

In joyous June man casts his eye upon the blushing cherry pie, and feels that life is not in vain, that destiny is safe and sane. In June the roses hold the gaze, and fill with scent the sunny days; all kinds of roses I endorse—he has the soul of mule or bear, who does not think the roses fine when by the garden paths they shine. But when to carpet tacks we get, and sift the facts, already yet, we must admit the rose is not the kind of fruit that hits the spot, when we have appetite to burn—'tis then—for cherry pie we yearn. The gods who roost up there on high must often long for cherry pie, for canned ambrosia has a taste reminding one of rancid paste, and drinking nectar from a cask must be a rather dreary task. How Jupiter would wink his eye, if he could swipe a cherry pie, the kind old fashioned wives produce, and revel in its crust and juice! The cherry pie, just slightly tart, the noblest work of modern art! Since I am old, and am denied the pleasure of a new June bride, I'll think of love no more, but I will have a nice June cherry pie.

LONDON, June 23.
The Governor, Newfoundland: Headquarters of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force report severe trench fighting in the Gallipoli Peninsula. The Turks, who recaptured a salient won by us on June 4th, were counter-attacked and driven out, losing 1,000 killed. Substantial success has been achieved on the 21st. The Second French Division recaptured the Turkish first and second line of trenches, including Haricot. The First French Division captured 600 yards of Turkish first line trenches, the enemy losing heavily.

The French Government report a long range bombardment of Dunkirk; also further progress in Lorraine and the Vosges.

The Russian Government report success after six days' fighting in the Dnieper district.

MILITARY HONORS.

LONDON, June 23.
No fewer than 28 pages of military honors were gazetted to-day, mostly for services in the field. Amongst the Victoria Crosses given, three go to Canadians. The Canadian recipients are Capt. Francis Scrimger, of the Army Medical Service; Colonel Sergeant Fred Hall, Eighth Canadian Battalion, and Lance Corporal Fred Fisher, of the Thirteenth Canadian Battalion, all for extreme bravery in the neighborhood of Ypres.

H. G. WELLS' VIEWS.

LONDON, June 23.
H. G. Wells, in the Daily Express, argues that the method for ending the war would be for the Allies to build and send a tremendous fleet of aeroplanes to the rear of the German lines, and destroy all German ammunition factories. He contends that it would be cheaper to launch two thousand aeroplanes against Essen than to risk one battleship.

CHIEF JUSTICE READING.

LONDON, June 23.
Baron Reading, Lord Chief Justice, to-day granted an order in the Court of the King's Bench, directing Sir Edgar Speyer and Sir Ernest Cassel to show by what authority they claim to be members of the Privy Council of Great Britain. Application for the order was made at the instance of Sir George McGillivray, on the ground that neither of them are British subjects, born nor bred, and therefore not lawfully members of the Privy Council.

FRENCH VICTORY.
PARIS, June 23. French troops have captured the town of Sondernachin, in Upper Alsace.

AN AUSTRIAN DEFEAT REPORTED.
GENEVA, June 23. The Tribune prints the following despatch from Innsbruck, which purports to have been received from Czernowitz, Bukovina: The Russians have recaptured the positions on the left bank of the Dniester, lost on the 20th. An Austrian force, trying to cross the Dniester at its confluence with the Swica, was defeated with a loss of 1,500 men, and obliged to retreat in the direction of Kalisch. At the cost of enormous losses, General Pfanner made a slight advance between the Stripa and the Dniester. The Russians are holding their own at Korperke, inflicting severe losses on their adversaries. For the third time an Austrian attempt to invade Bessarabia has been repulsed with heavy loss.

ITALIAN SUCCESSES.
GENEVA, June 23. A despatch from Labach says that the Italians have gained possession of all positions, defending Maborgeth after a fierce struggle against the Austrians. The Italians are violently bombarding the city. The arrival of Austrian reinforcements stopped the Italian advance at Caporetto, but they have not gone back across the Isonzo. Thirty thousand Austrians, who debouched from Tomia, are marching against positions north of Gorizia, southeast of Flitsch. A strong Austrian force sought to drive back the Italians who gave way before superior numbers, and retired as far as the frontier, where they concealed themselves in a forest and allowed the Austrians to pass. When the Austrians were installed in the Italian positions, the Italians opened a murderous machine gun fire, killing over four hundred of their adversaries and forcing the rest out of their position.

ITALIAN PRESS CONDEMNNS INTERVIEW.
ROME, June 23. The Italian press vigorously condemns an interview attributed to Pope Benedict by Louis Latapie, published in La Liberte, in Paris, in which His Holiness is said to have voiced the complaint that the privileges of the Vatican have been seriously curtailed by the Italian Government as a result of the war. The Corriere d'Italia declares that if the Pontiff does not categorically deny the words attributed to him, they will have deplorable consequences. The Secolo says—the Pope has spoken strange words.

LEMBERG REPORTED FALLEN.
BERLIN, June 23. Lemberg has been conquered after a severe battle, according to an official report received here from the headquarters of the Austro-Hungarian Army. The Galician capital fell before the advance of the second army.

BULGARIAN RESERVISTS.
PARIS, June 23. A number of Bulgarian reservists living in Switzerland, have been notified to hold themselves in readiness to rejoin their regiment at a moment's notice, says a despatch.

MONTENEGRIN OFFENSIVE.
ROME, June 23. The Montenegrin offensive against Scutari, Albania, is developing with success, according to a despatch to the Giornale Italia. The Montenegrin troops are said to be marching against the city in three columns.

A SAYVILLE STORY.
NEW YORK, June 23. A wireless to Sayville from the Overseas News Agency to-day, gave out the following: A message from Christiania says that the steamer Jotun, which has arrived at Stravanger, reports that several Zeppelins on the night between Tuesday and Wednesday, probably June 15 and 16, dropped many bombs on the Armstrong Works at Southshields, England, which destroyed the navy yards and arsenal. Several buildings burned all night. The damage was enormous. Seventeen persons were killed and 40 injured.

BERLIN ON ZEPPELIN RAID.
BERLIN, June 23. The report of the Zeppelin raid evidently refers to the raid of Zeppelins over the northeast coast of England last week. The British censor prevented publication of details of the raid, and there had been no previous intimation that the naval works at Shields were damaged. The announcement did not say what town had been attacked. The Armstrong Works are at Elswick yard, near Shields.

TORPEDOED AND BEACHED.
LONDON, June 23. The steamer Tunisian was torpedoed off Lowestoft by a German submarine. The skipper was able to beach her. She was bound from Montreal with wheat. The crew landed at Lowestoft. The Allan Line Tunisian, a passenger liner, formerly sailed between Montreal and Liverpool. She was taken over by the Admiralty last fall, being used as a prison ship.

SWEDISH VESSELS CAPTURED.
LONDON, June 23. Five Swedish steamers, lumber laden, bound for England, were captured by German warships in the Baltic Sea, yesterday.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.
LOS ANGELES, June 23. Reports of three severe earthquake shocks, which resulted in the death and injury of at least fifteen persons, and considerable property loss by fire, last night, in several cities of the Imperial Valley, covering several hundred square miles, were received here to-day. Telegraph and telephone communication is interrupted. Information from the stricken district is meagre. The greatest damage was at Calexico, on the Mexican border, where loss of life occurred.

Lloyd George and Munitions.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, June 23. Lloyd George took the country into his confidence to-day in introducing in the Commons the Munitions Bill. This comprehensive project makes strikes and lockouts illegal. It provides for compulsory arbitration; gives power to fine slackers; limits the profits of employers; and creates a volunteer army of workmen pledged to go wherever they are wanted. Mr. George admitted that the shortage of munitions was serious in view of the standard set up by this war. This fact, he continued, was doubtless as well known to Germany as it was in England. The duration of the war, the toll of life, and the amount of exhaustion created by the war, and ultimate victory or defeat depends on the supply of munitions. The Minister declared that it is a cardinal principle that where the Allies are making progress on any part of the line, it is due to their superiority in munitions. The Allies have the superiority in men, both in numbers and in quality. I have been told that the Central Powers are turning out 250,000 shells a day. We cannot merely equal, but if we are in earnest we can surpass that output. Continuing, Mr. George referred to his recent interview with Albert Thomas, who holds a post similar to his own in France, and said he had been very much reassured as to what France had done and could do in this regard. If we can within the next few months we went on, produce as much ammunition as can French establishments, the Allies will have overwhelming superiority in the first essential of victory. The Germans undoubtedly, we may as well recognize it, anticipated the duration of this war as no one else has done. They realized it would be a great trench war and they organized an immense supply of machinery applicable to those conditions. We assumed that victory was due to us as a tribute to our fate. Our problem is to organize and not take it for granted. To do this, the whole engineering and chemical resources of this country are being mobilized and organized. When this has been done, France and ourselves alone will envelop the entire Teutonic outfit.

and considerable property loss by fire, last night, in several cities of the Imperial Valley, covering several hundred square miles, were received here to-day. Telegraph and telephone communication is interrupted. Information from the stricken district is meagre. The greatest damage was at Calexico, on the Mexican border, where loss of life occurred.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED.
CALEXICO, California, June 23. Martial law has been declared here and in Mexicali, in Mexico, just across the border line, following a reign of terror in both towns, resulting from three earthquakes last night.

EXECUTED IN TOWER OF LONDON.
LONDON, June 23. Robert Muller was found guilty at Old Bailey, of being a German spy, and was executed in the Tower of London to-day by shooting.

LANSING SECRETARY OF STATE.
WASHINGTON, June 23. The announcement of the appointment of Robert Lansing, as Secretary of State, was made at the White House to-night.

TORPEDOED BUT ESCAPES.
LONDON, June 23. An official communication issued by the British Admiralty to-night says: The British cruiser Roxburgh was struck by a torpedo in the North Sea on Sunday last. The damage sustained is not serious. The cruiser was able to proceed under her own steam. There was no casualties.

Obituary.
ROBERT H. WILLS.
There passed away yesterday morning after a short illness, a well known citizen in the person of Mr. Robert Henry Wills at the advanced age of 82 years. The deceased was a native of Devonshire and came to this country in 1844, as a lad of 12 years old. He will be remembered by many citizens as the foreman at Lash's bakery. Later he was engaged with the late John Foran, the Atlantic Hotel, and subsequently became a partner in the business of his brother-in-law the late T. W. Gale. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edward Arnott, with whom he resided, and three sons, Walter W., at Bowring's, Edward and Charles in Canada, also one sister, Mrs. T. W. Gale, to all of whom the Telegram extends sympathy. The late Mr. Wills was a member of the British Society for sixty years.

was struck by a torpedo in the North there are more tourists in the interior of the country than there was this time last year. The parties are having fine weather and excellent salmon fishing. During the next few months a large influx of American and Canadian visitors is expected. About 100 round trippers are on the S. S. Stephano, due this evening.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—Cod fish struck in abundance on the local grounds last evening and some good hauls were secured. Again this morning boat men did well. There is a small sign of caplin on the grounds.

Stupendous Task in the Dardanelles.

According to an article in the Fortnightly Review, few people realize the task which the Allies began last February in the Dardanelles. According to the writer, Mr. H. C. Woods, it is a task infinitely more difficult of accomplishment than the subjugation of Gibraltar, the natural strength of which is as almost nothing when compared to that of the Straits which form the western approach to Constantinople. From the Lines of Bulair in the north to Eske Hissarlik, the ground consists of hills and valleys. On the extreme southwest there is Achi-Babi, and to the northeast of Kildil Bahr there are Saribair and Khoja Chemen Dagh, the latter attaining an elevation of 959 feet. These positions must be taken before an advance can be made to the shores of the Narrows.

"The whole area is practically rockless, and much of it is covered by prickly scrub—bushes so thick and terrible that they tear and damage one's person from head to toe. The slopes of these hills and the sides of these valleys, if indeed they can be called slopes at all, are so almost perpendicular that at times it is necessary to scale them on hands and knees."

The Australians, New Zealanders and the naval brigades cover themselves with glory in obtaining a firm footing on the Gallipoli Peninsula. They have been largely reinforced by a number of battalions of regulars and a large number of battalions of territorials. There is also a large army of French soldiers. Though the work has developed largely into trench warfare, considerable activity has prevailed as may be seen by a perusal of the casualty lists. It is pleasing to find that the latest news tells of considerable success in this fighting, and that the latest advance is largely due to the valour of our Allies. The task is indeed a stupendous and stupendous one, but it means the eventual permanent overthrow of the Turks who have dominated these straits and Constantinople for four centuries and a half. The success of the campaign is worth almost every degree of effort.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

The Governor and Lady Davidson will have the pleasure of receiving at Government House on Saturday, June 26th, from 4 to 6.30, the Clerical and Lay Members of the Methodist Conference. FORBES LAW DUGUID DELIGHTS THOUSANDS.

The holiday programme at the Nickel Theatre yesterday attracted large numbers of patrons who were highly delighted with the pictures, the singing and orchestra. The films included "The Million Dollar Mystery" which showed the thieves being foiled, and the box containing the million dollars thrown into the sea. The matinee idol—Maurice Costello—appeared in a clever role, while Fatty was seen in a very clever comedy which kept all in good humour. The singing of Forbes Law Duguid was as on the previous evenings perfect. He sang two well known songs which were highly praised by the large audiences. He certainly possesses a wonderful voice. He will repeat his songs this evening.

A GREAT CONTEST AT ROSSLEY'S.

There are many new names for Friday night's contest and several surprises, the tickets are selling very quickly. The time will be a big wind up to a big season. The Rossleys will appear in a very laughable sketch. There are some first rate pictures also. The Rossleys intend taking a good long holiday and will only run one theatre, that is Mr. Rossley's own property in the West End. The company Mr. Rossley had engaged to open Monday last called Mr. Rossley they could not leave England before July 15th and that of course was too late for business. As everybody knows the Rossleys have worked very hard and need a rest, Mrs. Rossley is looking forward to a holiday with pleasure.

TOWNSFOLK REMINDED.

Townsfolk who spent yesterday afternoon in the country are reminded of the big picture show at the Crescent Picture Palace; the crowds who attended yesterday were delighted with the splendid programme presented, there are six pictures featuring such stars as Norma Talmadge, Maurice Costello and others, the cream of the Viagraph and Biograph artists. The Crescent is becoming more popular every day, because the management is presenting only the best in pictures combined with good music and singing. Go to the Crescent to-day and see the best in motion pictures.

"OURS IN THE WEST END.

There was a very good attendance at the popular little theatre last night and a splendid program to please all patrons. The two little singers were well applauded for their charming song. To-night there will be as usual good pictures, good music and a clean, cosy little theatre to spend a most enjoyable evening.

THE MOONSHINERS.

A magnificent production of photographic skill and superb acting was the "feature" at the above popular house of high class entertainment dealing with the war are to be found in the book, which in every way is a most attractive souvenir of the Institution.

John Crane vs. George Hudson. This is an application by Morine, K.C., to have the above matter transferred to Channel to be tried by the Supreme Court on Circuit. Morine, K.C., is heard in support of the motion, Morison, K.C., is heard against the same. Morine, K.C., will file an affidavit in support of his motion. Court takes time to consider, and adjournment is taken until 11 a.m. tomorrow.

"Littledale Leaves."

We thank the Sisters of Mercy, Littledale, for a copy of "Littledale Leaves," a magazine that is replete with much that is of interest to friends of the Academy. In addition to many interesting essays by the pupils of the Academy there is an excellent article from the pen of Rev. Dr. M. J. Ryan. References are made to the late Archbishop and his successor Archbishop-Elect Roche, whose photographs appear in the publication. Some articles dealing with the war are to be found in the book, which in every way is a most attractive souvenir of the Institution.

Of the 8th Battalion.

Color-Serjt. Hall who is one of the three Canadian soldiers who was given a V. C. for extreme bravery in the neighbourhood of Ypres is a member of the 8th Battalion, in which Mr. Arthur Herder is a Lieutenant. Mr. Herder received a postcard from the latter dated June 7th.

PARSONS' Art Store,

Pit Prop Ship Neath Ashore
Bowings' mammoth barque Neath, which was loading pit props north of Cardiff, is ashore at Beachy Point, messages to that effect having reached Bowring Bros. to-day. A message received by the Deputy Minister of Customs stated that the Neath had cleared from Alexander Bay for Cardiff, having on board 2,119 cords of pit props. She had evidently sailed for Cardiff, as a later message said that the ship was ashore but was making no water. The fact of the ship being heavily laden would make her more liable to damage. It is not yet definitely decided whether the ship will come here for repairs.

His Twenty-Fifth Anniversary.

Special to Evening Telegram.
TOR'S COVE, To-day. Our esteemed Pastor, Rev. P. J. O'Brien, to-day attains the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the Priesthood, during which time he has laboured with untiring zeal and energy for the welfare of his people. During the fourteen years which he has spent amongst us he has, by his personality and earnest endeavours on our behalf, endeared himself to the hearts of the entire community and the sincere wish of all is that he may be spared to celebrate his golden jubilee amongst us.

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle is due at Placentia from the westward this afternoon.
The Bruce left Port aux Basques at 11.30 p.m. yesterday.
The Clyde left Moreton's Harbor at 9.15 a.m. yesterday, outward.
The Dundee arrived at Port Blandford at 4.15 a.m. yesterday.
The Ethie arrived at Clarendville at 6.20 p.m. yesterday.
The Glencoe left Marystown at 8.45 a.m. to-day, outward.
The Home has not been reported since leaving Fortune Harbor at 8 a.m. Tuesday, outward.
The Erik was at Seal Island yesterday.
The Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 7.15 a.m. to-day.
The Meilde left Humbermouth at 3.30 a.m. to-day.
The Sagona is north of Battle Harbor.

BOWINGS' SHIPS.

There is no word from the Prospero to-day, though she is supposed to have reached Griquet and is coming south.
The Portia left Channel at 12.45 p.m. yesterday, coming east.

Bellaventure Back.

The s.s. Bellaventure, Capt. Cross, returned to port from North Sydney last evening, with a cargo of coal to A. Harvey & Co. The ship had been under charter for a month by the Anglo-Nfld. Dev. Co., running in the coal trade between Botwood, Sydney and Louisburg. The Bell will go to North Sydney and bring another load of coal here, after which she will get ready for her cruise in Hudson Bay waters, having been commissioned for such by the Canadian Government. As previously mentioned, Captain Cyrus Taylor, of Carbonar, goes north in the ship, but arrangements regarding Capt. Cross are not yet finalized, though there is a possibility that both captains will go on the ship.

A Quaint Inscription.

Outside the door of a well known marble works in this city is a tombstone bearing the following quaint inscription:—
"James Regular is my name,
Paquet was my station,
White Bay was my abiding place
And Christ my salvation."

When I am dead and in my grave
And my name is forgotten,
The greedy worms will eat my flesh
When I am quite forgotten."

We understand that it was the express wish of the dying man to have the above inscription put on his tombstone, and quaint though it is, his friends have acceded to his request.

JUST THE MAN.
A Battalion of "Kitchener's Men" were standing on parade, when a sergeant called out:
"Any man here who understands motors?"
It was Gussy's chance. Although he had enlisted as a private, he never missed an opportunity of informing his comrades that he came from a wealthy home.
"Well, my gunner keeps a couple of Daimlers, ye know," he began blandly. "One's a sixty-horsepower, and the other—"
"That's all right, you'll do," ordered the sergeant. "Fall out and go and clean the colonel's motor-bike."

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"If an accident happens at the table such as overturning a glass or breaking a bit of china, what should I say?" asked May.
"Apologize at some other time rather than at the table. To say you are sorry is enough for the moment," directed her sister.

Nfld. Met Co Wednesday's

The Conference assembled at 10. After the usual morning devotion, the Conference went into business. The retiring President addressed the Conference upon the year of his office. It has been a wonderful year, filled with many heavy tasks and responsibilities, but the past should encourage us for the future. We have had financial difficulties, stringency has been felt, yet we have had a rich spiritual increase. The War has cast a shadow over all phases of our work, but these difficulties but fit us for the work. One man of the Brotherhood has been taken from our ranks, Rev. M. Muir. The end came almost unexpectedly, and we mourn his passing. Altogether we can report optimistically, and the President retired, having conducted the work of the year with much credit. The Conference then went into session for the officers for the coming year.

Rev. Charles Howse was elected President by a vote of 50 out of a possible 63. Mr. Howse was born in Gooseberry Island, B.B. After spending several years at the elementary school, he then came on to the Methodist College of this city, where he spent two years, then went into the teaching profession, and spent 4 years at Salmon River School, Blackhead. Mr. Howse went from this place into the Ministry. He started his work at Pigeon in the Burin District. After spending a very successful term of two years there, Mr. Howse went to St. John's in the same District. Through the years of Theological Course Training, in which Mr. Howse went to Sackville University. At the end of one year he went for a summer to the Moody Bible Institute at Toronto, fully intending to return to St. John's, but after consideration he turned his steps to Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanson, Ill. Instead, after spending two years' instruction at the named place, Mr. Howse entered the full work of a pastor, serving at such places as Titus Cove, Rin, Blackhead, and at Bona, where he labors at present. Mr. Howse is a strong, energetic man, there is no doubt of the wisdom of the Conference in choosing him. The new President is a most intensely spiritual man, a man of vision, and broad outlook. The destiny of the Conference is in his hands in these strenuous times, and he does not suffer, for he looks to the future with a sublime faith in the Righteousness.

In reply to the vote of confidence the President spoke out of his modesty and humility of his office, said he had never sought office, could look at calmly in the future, say, the office came unsolicited, responsibility belonged to the Conference, they had elected him, but he had not sought the office, could boast of no Methodist and he was a Methodist by choice, it was one thing to get out of a life—his conversion, which he doubted. It was to him a new experience, and he was turned to the Church he now loves, and is to be by two considerations. First, Methodist teaching was more in harmony with his experience. Second, Methodist form of service and atmosphere of the Methodist life was better calculated to meet the new situation, hopes and aspirations for spiritual things born of that experience. The Conference then proceeded to elect by ballot the Secretary of the Conference. The honor fell upon Jabez R. Saint, S.T.M., one of the young and strong men of the Conference. Mr. Saint was born at Westview, and after spending two years at Sackville University, and two at Wesleyan College, Montreal, Saint entered the full work of the Ministry, and did faithful and successful work at Glovertown, Pigeon, Fogo, Wesleyville and Bona, where he labors at present. Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, who was re-elected as Conference

The Story of a Gown.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

My neighbor, like Flora McIlmsey, has nothing to wear. "What," said I (like Flora's interlocutor), "has become of that pretty blue crepe?" "Mercy," said she, "that's so indecently scant, I can't move in it." "You could last year," said I. "Oh, but it's much scarier than it was last year," said she. "I smiled. "I know it," said she. "Isn't it funny? It really looks about half as big as it did last year to me, and all because I'm seeing wide skirts. Isn't style the queerest thing that ever was?" And I agreed. We know that it is absurd to cease to admire an attractive, becoming gown because the lines are different from the lines the greatest number of people are wearing to-day. But somehow we just can't make our eyes see it as they saw it yesterday. And yet the gown hasn't changed a particle. It is just as becoming, just as attractive. Look At Your Picture Taken Ten Years Ago. Look at a picture of yourself taken ten years ago. Do you remember how you loved that gown? Do you remember the day you brought it home, how smart you thought it was, and how graceful? And to-day how ridiculous and awkward that gown looks. It does not seem to you now that you could ever have felt well-dressed in it. The history of a single gown—

POLEY-McGUIRE. Last evening Miss Nan McGuire, daughter of Mr. J. B. and Mrs. McGuire, Henry Street, was united in matrimony to Mr. James T. Foley, Manager of Bowring Bros. Coastal Department. The ceremony took place at the Archbishop's Oratory, and was performed by His Grace Archbishop-Elect Roche. The bride looked charming, as she was dressed in sage blue velvet with cream hat and carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Chrissie McGuire, who was also handsomely costumed. The groom was supported by Mr. P. C. O'Driscoll, Jr. The groom's present to the bride was a gold chain and pendant and to the bridesmaid a turquoise ring. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, only the immediate relatives being present, the contracting parties being present, at which the bridal party motored to Williams Hotel, Bay Balls, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride and groom are exceedingly popular and were the recipients of numerous valuable and useful gifts, including a cheque from Mr. Geo. McGuire, brother of the bride, and Directors of Bowring Bros., Ltd., and the officers of the coastal steamers Fortia and Prospero. The Telegram joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Foley an unclouded future.

Ball Game.

SHAMROCKS WIN FROM RED LIONS.

The second league baseball match for the season was pulled off on St. George's field yesterday afternoon. The competing teams were the Shamrocks and Red Lions, the former winning by the narrow margin of one run. The game was a bit slow owing to the condition of the arena. In spite of the unfavourable weather there was a large gathering of fans present. After eleven innings for both sides the score stood 18-17. A feature of the game was the splendid batting of Munn, who made the first home run for the season; also the excellent catching of Chas. Quick, as outfield. The officials, players and scorers were:—

Shamrocks.—1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 Red Lions.—1 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11—18 Umpires—Chesman and Montgomery. Scorers—Hartnett, Peddigrig and Grace.

Nfld. Methodist Conference.

Wednesday's Proceedings.

The Conference assembled at 9.30. After the usual morning devotions, the Conference went into business. The retiring President addressed the Conference upon the year of his office. In has been a wonderful year, filled with many heavy tasks and responsibilities, but the past should prepare us for the future. We have had financial difficulties, stringency has been felt, yet we have had a rich spiritual increase. The War has cast a cloud over all phases of our work, but these difficulties but fit us for the work. One man of the Brotherhood has been taken from our ranks, Rev. W. M. Muir. The end came altogether unexpectedly, and we mourn his loss. Altogether we can report optimistically, and the President retired having conducted the work of the year with much credit.

The Conference then went into ballot on the officers for the coming year: Rev. Charles Howse was elected as President by a vote of 60 out of a possible 63. Mr. Howse was born at Gooseberry Island, B.B. After spending several years at the elementary school, he then came on to the Methodist College of this city, at which institution he spent two years. He then went into the teaching profession, and spent 4 years at Salem Superior School, Blackhead. Mr. Howse went from this place into the Ministry. He started his work at Epworth in the Burn District. After spending a very successful term of two years there, Mr. Howse went to Petites in the same District. Then came the years of Theological College Training, in which Mr. Howse went to Sackville University. At the end of one year he went for a summer to the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, fully intending to return to Sackville but after consideration he turned his steps to Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., instead. After receiving two years' instruction at the last named place, Mr. Howse entered into the full work of the Ministry, working at such places as Tilt Cove, Burn, Blackhead, and at Bonavista where he labors at present. Mr. Howse is a stout personality, and there is no doubt of the wisdom of the Conference in choosing such a man. The new President is an intensely spiritual man, a man of wide vision, and broad outlook. The work and destiny of the Conference in his hands in these strenuous times will not suffer, for he looks into the future with a sublime faith in the God of Righteousness.

In reply to the vote of confidence, the President spoke out of the bigness and humility of his soul. He said he had never sought office; he could look at calmly in the face and say, the office came unsolicited. The responsibility belonged to the Conference, they had sought him out, but he had not sought the office. He could boast of no Methodist ancestry. He was a Methodist by choice. There was one thing stood out clearly in his life—his conversion, which he never doubted. It was to him a new experience, and he was turned to the Church he now loved, and is to lead, by two considerations. First, that Methodist teaching was more in harmony with his experience. Secondly, Methodist form of service and the atmosphere of the Methodist Church life was better calculated to nurture the new usefulness, hopes and ambitions for spiritual things born out of that experience.

The Conference then proceeded to elect by ballot the Secretary of Conference. The honor fell upon Rev. Jabez R. Saint, S.T.L., one of the young and strong men of the Conference. Mr. Saint was born at Bonavista, and after spending two years at Sackville University and two years at Wesleyan College, Montreal, Mr. Saint entered the full work of the Ministry, and did faithful and successful work at Glovertown, Red Bay, Pogo, Wesleyville and Blackhead, where he labors at present. He was elected by Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., B.D., who was re-elected as Conference Statistician.

The re-election speaks well for the ability of the above officer as a Statistician. Mr. Whitmarsh is well known in St. John's, and there is no further need to remind the people of his qualities. The mantle of the Journal Secretary fell upon Rev. N. M. Guy, of George St. Church. Although Mr. Guy is young in the way of the Conference, he is fast coming to the front. The afternoon was taken up with Committee work and general business routine. The Conference rose to its feet and sang the National Anthem to commemorate the birthday of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

EVENING SERVICE.
For the first time in the history of our Methodism in this country, the evening services of Conference are to be thrown open to the public for discussion. This is a very opportune departure from the ordinary routine of Conference business, seeing that the questions which are before the assembly are of a very serious and very pressing nature.

Last evening's session opened with the usual devotions. Rev. J. T. Newman and Mr. G. W. Gushue opened with prayer. After the reading of the minutes and communications, the report of the spiritual state of the work was read from each of the Journals of the 5 districts by the Secretaries of the respective districts.

ST. JOHN'S, read by Rev. N. M. Guy. We rejoice with the reappearance of some Churches have seen much spiritual progress, and in the Sunday Schools much good, solid work has been done.

CARBONNEAR, read by Rev. J. E. Saint. Reports many encouraging features despite the dark and gloomy conditions of the year. There is a large increase in membership. The old time spirit of enthusiasm has been evident.

BONAVISTA, read by Rev. B. Bugden. We feel encouraged by the better moral state of the people, and the desire of the people for the spiritual things. We feel that the indispensable necessity is the spiritual life of the people by the family altar and the singing of the hymns of God. Culture and education are great factors, but these are not enough unless made powerful by the spirit of God.

TWILLINGATE, read by Rev. J. W. Wilson. The spiritual results have been good. Family feuds have been settled at the mercy seat; the moral life of the people has been lifted.

BURIN, read by Rev. C. Leugh. Spoke of good work, especially at Epworth, and not only there, but all along the district. Good reports have come from our Sunday Schools.

Rev. H. Scott reviewed the spiritual state of the work for the whole Conference. The Conference felt that the indispensable condition of success in our work for God is the reception of spiritual power. Culture is a great force, but let us have it fired by the union of the Holy Spirit.

The meeting was then thrown open for discussion. Several lay and clerical members added to the already received reports.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Dr. Bland, a Professor in Wesley University, Alberta, addressed the gathering. Dr. Bland is a very pleasing and effective speaker, very choice in his language, apt in illustration, and well informed as to matters. The speaker said our Conference had certainly done what he had never seen done before—the discussion, on the State of the Work given such a prominent place. Dr. Bland spoke of the history of the Church. He said two things had claimed his attention: 1.—The hesitancy of the Church. 2.—The growing interest and unrest of the working classes. A feeling of irresolution has taken hold of the Church. She has not the assured hopefulness, which is necessary for the work. But the Church must be alive to her social obligations. God lays upon her heavy tasks. She must face these questions not with the spirit of perplexity, but with confidence. God is calling to make Christ King in politics, in commerce, and upon our streets.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

June 24th.
Morning Session opened at 9.30 with the usual devotional exercises. The early part of the session was taken up by routine work. A pleasing break, however, was made when Rev. Dr. Morton, of Sackville, and former Pastor of George St. Church was introduced to the Conference. Dr. Morton comes to us in the interest of the Supernumerary Fund concerning which he addressed the Conference.

In reply to the disciplinary question "What Ministers or Probationers have died during the year?" the following names were read: Wm. M. Muir, James G. Boyles. Many of the ministerial members and former friends of the above mentioned to the moral worth and spiritual fervor of the lamented brethren. A sadness crept over the Conference as the life and activities of the late brethren were dwelt upon. They have gone to their reward.

The order of business was then read at 11.20 Dr. Bland addressed the Conference. He first read Fraternal Greetings from the President of Alberta Conference and the Newfoundland Conference. The theme of his address was the Christianity of today. The ultimate Christianity, he said, must be the absolute pre-eminence of Lord Jesus Christ. All other doctrines must be subservient to that. The Christian Church always retained its faith in the pre-eminence of Jesus. The remedy for the problem of the present hour is Jesus. Look to Jesus. The divinity of Jesus was not upon proof, text, etc., but indicate the thought of the early church concerning Christ, but upon his unique personality. From this Christian Church could not get away. His personality dominated them.

The learned doctor was listened to with rapt attention. We look forward with a great deal of anticipation to his future address to the Conference.

CARBONNEAR DISTRICT.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Mr. Editor,—The annual sessions of the above District were held at Han's Harbor. The ministerial session opened at 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 15. After the devotions were gone through, the Chairman, Rev. F. R. Matthews expressed words of welcome to the brethren and then asked that the roll should be called. There were three who could not be there. Letters were received from the Revs. T. W. Atkinson and J. W. Winsor expressing their inability to be present owing to domestic affliction. The third vacancy reminded us that our ranks had been broken. The Rev. W. M. Muir having been called to the higher service. He was a brother beloved by all who knew him. To the bereaved wife and children the District accorded their deepest sympathy. Letters of sympathy were also sent to the other brethren.

In the evening the educational meeting was held. The speakers being Revs. J. R. Saint and R. S. Smith, the latter having stepped into the breach made by the absence of Bro. Winsor. The President presided and introduced the subject of education. Bro. Saint emphasized the fact that the Methodist Church stands for education. John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, was a great student and author, and not his preachers being students also. The only was he a student but insisted on Rev. R. S. Smith made an excellent substitute for Bro. Winsor. He emphasized the fact that an educated ministry is essential to the success of the Church. The meeting was a good one and we believe helpful to all who were present.

Bro. Vaters, a candidate for the ministry, conducted the service at 9 a.m., Wednesday morning. At 10 a.m., the general session of the District opened. The President extended a brotherly welcome to all. The year's work was gone through, the schedules of the various circuits being presented.

In the evening the Missionary Meeting was held. The President again presiding. The speakers were the Revs. E. P. Ward and A. A. Holmes. Both speakers spoke in a national strain and did justice to their great subject.

The meetings of district were continued on Thursday. The morning service was conducted by Bro. Scott Milley, another candidate for the ministry. The ordinary sessions opened again at 10 a.m. After the business of the day was completed the members of the district adjourned to the school room there to be entertained by the ladies of Han's Harbour. After tea Bro. Matthews and Holmes spoke words of gratitude and encouragement to all who were present.

We were sorry not to have the President with us for the evangelistic service, but owing to the pressure of duties he had to hasten home. However, the Rev. J. R. Saint proved an excellent substitute, introducing the subject of evangelism by the story of the Blackhead revival. There is nothing purifies a people so much as a genuine revival of religion. The speakers were the Revs. C. R. Blount and E. Broughton. The former gave the three great words of evangelism, i.e., Sacrifice, Surrender and Service. The latter speaker based his remarks on the words: "Your King and your God need you," showing that great as is the need of the Empire for men yet the need of King Jesus is still greater.

The meeting may be said to be the crowning one of all. The Chairman then read a resolution from the members of the District thanking the friends of Han's Harbour for their kind hospitality. They upheld the high standard of the Newfoundlander in this respect.

This annual district will live in the memory of all of us. The best of all is that God has been with us. There has been a deep work of grace throughout the district, hundreds of souls having been saved. On the financial side there is a decrease, but on the spiritual side there is a large increase of 566 members of the church and that is the best because it lays the foundation for still greater work in the future. We all go back to our work encouraged and blessed thanking God for the compensations of life. We go back to ring forth the great battle cry of Christianity more clearly, confident that He who has done such great things in the past year can do still greater. "If God be for us who can be against us?"

C. G. New Melbourne, T. B., June 19th, 1915.

STEAMER RELEASED.

LONDON, To-day.

The Government has ordered the discharge of the American steamer Seacombe, from New York for Gotenburg, detained at Kirkwall for several days. Investigation established the fact that her cargo was not intended for the use of enemies of Great Britain.

THE FIGHT FOR LEMBERG.

LONDON, To-day.

An official statement issued at Vienna under date Tuesday, but which was delayed in reaching London, describes the fighting preceding the fall of Lemberg as follows: The Russian defensive positions to the South of the town have been completely broken by our troops and some fortifications on the Western and Northwestern front of Lemberg came into our possession after violent fighting, in which the Vienna Landwehr particularly distinguished themselves. German troops stormed the positions West of Kittkow and north of Lemberg, repulsing all Russian counter attacks. The statement added that the situation in other parts of the Eastern front was generally unchanged.

EVACUATION OF LEMBERG.

PETROGRAD, To-day.

An official communication in which the details of the evacuation of Lemberg were given, has been made public by the War Office. In the Svislits region there is no change. Fighting continues south of Raikrod Lakes. Our troops on the night of the 22nd, crossing the Egrin River, occupied the village of Konlight, annihilating an entire German company. In the direction of Lemza there has been violent artillery fire. On the Tacev near the village of Lubince, we repulsed the enemy's attacks. West of Rawka and Ruska, the enemy were driven back from some villages. Near the village of Gutaczela our cavalry sabred three enemy companies. On the 21st and during the following night in the direction of Lemberg we arrested the enemy's offensive by stubborn fighting. The enemy suffered great losses in the course of barren attacks near the village of Ergoiovic. Farther South on the River Szeszerce they succeeded in advancing in the region of the town of Jokoff. Consequently on the 22nd our troops quitted Lemberg and continued the retreat to a new front. On the Dniester, the battle continued South of the village, Kosmierjine, where the enemy is holding his ground on the left bank of the river. In the bends of Dniester we drove the enemy back from the village of Unich toward the village of Luka. In a successful bayonet fight we captured a thousand prisoners.

IMPORTANT ADVANCES IN DARDANELLES.

PARIS, To-day.

An official report of the operations in the Dardanelles was issued last night. Yesterday the expeditionary corps in the Orize attacked the Turkish lines on two thirds of the front. After artillery preparation, the infantry sallied from the trenches with superb spirit. Our troops in a single bound carried two lines of the enemy's trenches. These they held notwithstanding violent and numerous counter-attacks. To the right on more difficult ground, the struggle continued throughout the day on the ruins of Turkish works, which had been razed by artillery, the enemy bringing up without cessation fresh troops and had succeeded in retaking these entrenchments, when a battalion of the Foreign Legion, a battalion of Zouaves, in a bayonet assault, carried the position in ten minutes. This brilliant charge decided the issue and finished for the day the efforts of the Turks to regain the ground lost. In a counter-offensive on our right this morning, the enemy was decimated without having achieved any gain. Summing up the day ended with success along the whole line. Despite the desperate nature of the struggle we took some prisoners, among whom were several officers. The battleship St. Louis effectively bombarded the batteries on the Asiatic side. At our left the British army gave us magnificent support. Everything shows that the enemy's losses were very heavy. An important point is that we have secured ground which commands the head of the Ravine of Kereves Dere, which the Turks had defended with the utmost determination for several months, using all their resources to hold it.

VIGOROUS ACTION OF MUNITIONS MINISTRY.

LONDON, To-day.

It will be months before we can obtain the maximum output, Lloyd George said. Existing firms are unable to deliver the good in accordance with agreement, because they cannot man their machines. It is entirely a question of labor. If I could lay my hands on an adequate supply of skilled labor, I could double in a few weeks the supply of munitions. I cannot forecast Germany's next move. If she swings her forces from East to West, munitions are vital for the lines of our troops in the field. Existing firms are unable to produce. Every available machine should be produced. It is essential that trade union restrictions which interfere with the great output of munitions should temporarily be suspended at once. There must be no stoppage or slackness, and must be put a stop to the practices of employers pilfering each other men. There must be no strikes or lockouts during the war. Dealing with the difficulties which he had overcome, the Minister of Munitions said, it was early recognized that existing armament firms were inadequate to supply new or old armies. Vast improvements already had been made by inviting business men to organize their own factories, for instance through local organization in one town alone 150,000 shells monthly are already being turned out there. Those figures are expected to rise to 250,000. Britain, Lloyd George said, would be organized into ten munition armies. In London, he said, there would shortly be another Woolwich arsenal, able to turn out prodigious quantities of war material. He emphasized he intended to rely largely upon decentralization. Real progress, he said, had already been made since the establishment of the Munitions Department. With regard to the supply of material in order to see that they have plenty of supplies of material in certain quarters for higher prices. This is the cause of serious delay. This practice must be brought to an end. We must appeal in time of dire peril to people to put forward their whole strength on behalf of their fellows now in the field, and rely on the nation to see that they have their play to the end of the war. I have a guarantee from employers that no advantage will be taken of any relaxation in regulations and as many skilled men as possible will be brought back from the ranks of the army, but the task will be difficult, as men prefer fighting to working in the shops. Trade Unionists promised to get all munition workers the Government requires in seven days to go anywhere needed to turn out munitions. If the scheme succeeds, there will be no need for compulsion, which will be so much better. Lloyd George pointed out he will have power to enforce contracts entered into by the voluntary army of workers and maintain discipline in the yards by Munitions Court to be established to decide disputes. There will be a limitation of profits of establishments working for the State. Germany has been piling up material. Until she was really at peace and good-will had come. At that moment, she was forging and hiding away enormous war stores to attack her neighbors unawares, and murder them in their sleep. If that trickery is to succeed, all the basis of international good-will will crumble in the dust. It is essential for the peace of the world that it should fail, and it is up to us to see that it does. It depends more upon Great Britain than anyone else to see that it fails. The Minister added, was the receipt of the bill, said he would hold himself responsible for the supply of ammunition at the front, and that he would make himself thoroughly acquainted with what was going on there. This was in answer to Sir Arthur Markham, Liberal, who said if Lloyd George was not going to be independent of the War Office, if which he meant Lord Kitchener, his scheme was foredoomed by failure. Lloyd George, continuing, said he was sure Kitchener would agree that the Minister of Munitions should have a free hand. He hoped this bill would be printed by Friday when members could read it. They would see it satisfactorily disposed of most of the criticisms. The bill passed the first reading. It will receive a second reading on Monday.

A despatch from Belgian Congo, announced that a Belgian column has captured Kisitries, an important station in the German Colony, situated on the northeast bank of Lake Kivu, German West Africa.

DROWNING ENQUIRY.—A magisterial enquiry into the drowning of the little girl Winnie Martin, who lost her life at the North Battery last week, will be held to-morrow afternoon.

HOW JAM IS ADULTERATED.—Owing to the large quantity of jam required for our soldiers at the front, some people fear that there will be a shortage this year, or that adulteration will be largely resorted to. As a matter of fact, there is practically no adulteration of jam in the ordinary sense of the word, and cheap vegetables are very seldom, if ever, made into "strawberry" or "raspberry" jam, by the introduction of bits of those fruits.

The common method of adulteration is by the use of pulp or juice of cheaper fruits than those of which the jam is ostensibly made. Apples are largely used for the purpose, and gooseberries also serve, while rhubarb may be employed.

These are pulped, and then added to the fruit after which the jam is named; while often this pulp is filtered, and the juice alone added. But there is no fraud in the practice whatever, for if people will have cheap jams they must expect it.

An examination of the label will always disclose whether the jam consists solely of one fruit or has been "improved" by the addition of other fruit or fruit-juices.

IRRESPONSIBLE TALK.

LONDON, To-day.

Sir Richard A. Cooper, a member of a large chemical manufacturing concern, who previously had frequently complained that the British War Office by refusing to deal with responsible agents had neglected to obtain the large available supplies of munitions, made a specific declaration in the Commons yesterday that he was in a position to offer the Government three million shells made in England, eight million shells made in Canada, and ten million shells made in the United States. Sir Richard also said he had one billion rifle cartridges and two million rifles for delivery commencing with October, and added: "If this offer is not accepted I want to know the reason why." Lloyd George replied and said the War Office had asked Sir Richard to give all the names of the firms which were prepared to supply such large quantities of munitions. The result of this, the Minister added, was the receipt of the name of one firm, which on enquiry was found to be engaged in lithographic printing. Lloyd George deprecated what he termed all wild and irresponsible talk of there being plenty of shells available. He said he was scouring the country for them and was prepared to take every shell that could be produced.

BOTH SHORT OF AMMUNITION.

LONDON, To-day.

The Times military correspondent declares that neither Britain nor Russia has yet been able to put their full strength in the field for identical reasons—shortage of ammunition—and owing to this it may be necessary to postpone until next spring the final settlement with the Teutonic Powers.

Crocker Land Relief Ship Has Sailed.

'GEORGE B. CUETT' LEAVES NEW YORK IN SEARCH FOR MC MILLAN PARTY.

New York, June 11.—The three-masted schooner George B. Cuett left her moorings at the foot of East Twenty-first street at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and commenced her long voyage to Etah, Greenland, to bring back Donald R. MacMillan's party of explorers who went north to locate what was supposed to be Crocker Land.

The George B. Cuett carries a crew of eight, including Capt. H. C. Pickles, a veteran sailor of the Arctic. With the crew go Dr. Edward Otis Hovey and George Comer, representing the American Museum of Natural History.

The ship is provisioned for a two year cruise in the northern seas, in case Dr. Hovey and Mr. Comer should fail to locate the MacMillan party at Etah.

Capt. Pickles said yesterday that he expected to reach Etah about Aug. 15. The first stop will be at Boston for gasoline, and will then proceed to Sydney, N.S.

The schooner carries also stores for the hospitals in Labrador maintained by the Grenfell Association, which are in charge of its founder, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell. The value of the stores on board is $15,000, and it is estimated the total cost of the trip will be $25,000.

The schooner has a register of 210 tons gross. She was built by George B. Cuett, at Troy, N.Y., manufacturer, and presented to the Grenfell Association in 1911.

Will Stop at Hospitals.

Before reaching Etah, the Cuett will stop at St. Anthony, Battle Hill, Indian Harbor, Harrington and Forteau. At each of these places there is a hospital under the jurisdiction of the Grenfell Association, which treat Indians and Eskimaux free of charge. Capt. Pickles says that the hospitals now get a large share of the patronage, but it has taken some time to educate the natives into application of the value of the treatment they get there.

It will take six weeks for the ship to reach St. Anthony on the Coast of Greenland and about the same length of time to reach Etah, which lies in latitude 74 deg. north, and is located about 100 miles south of what is known as Crocker Land. At Etah, the Cuett will tie up and Dr. Hovey and Mr. Comer will leave her to search for the MacMillan party. If no trace of them is found in two years, the ship will remain there for that time and then return.

Capt. Pickles has had charge of the ship since she was launched 4 years ago, and has made several voyages with her to the hospitals of the Grenfell Association.

The MacMillan party sailed two years ago in search of Crocker Land which Admiral Peary said he believed he had seen lying about sixty miles south of the North Pole. In a letter recently received from Prof. MacMillan by way of Copenhagen, he stated that "Crocker Land reported seen by Peary in 1906 and indicated on the latest maps, does not exist."

MacMillan Reassures Friends.

Prof. MacMillan in his letter stated that he and Ensign Fitzhugh Green, U.S.N., will start on a 1,500 mile trip in the spring of 1915 to explore the region south of Enef and Amund Ringnes Land and should be back at Etah by June 11. Other members of his party will engage in more exploration work in different sections of the Arctic regions.

He says that if the George B. Cuett falls to reach them that their friends in the United States should not worry, as they can easily live as the natives do. At the time the letter was written the members of the MacMillan party were all well and anxious for sledging to begin.

Ensign Green's parents live in St. Joseph, Mo. The George B. Cuett carries a well stocked sea bag of clothing and other necessaries sent to him from the Missouri city.

SIMPLE MEALS FOR SLEEPLESSNESS.

Treat sleeplessness calmly; recognize that it means nothing to the man who is sound. Also, return to simple meals. For breakfast, at eight, and supper, at seven, two small ripe apples grated with the skins and mixed with oatmeal, a dessert-spoonful of sweet condensed milk, and some ground nuts, to form a substantial plate of porridge. In addition, whole meal bread and butter, or fat bacon, and a cup of all-milk coffee free from caffeine. Oranges, bananas, plums, and other fruits can be substituted for apples. For dinner at one o'clock, dauntily cooked vegetables, two or more kinds, or a savoury made of vegetables and cereals; fruit, milk, or any nourishing and agreeable pudding, followed by lettuce (always lettuce) and salad-ol, fresh fruit, and nuts. No alcohol, no tea. This diet—no further drink will be needed—will mean health, sleep, and something to live for.

Forgot Him Very Quickly.

Mr. Balfour is very absent-minded. At the 1906 election, it will be remembered, he was defeated at his old constituency, Manchester, and finally returned for the City of London. The first evening he entered the House he was warmly greeted by Mr. Horridge, now Justice Horridge.

After a few minutes' conversation Mr. Balfour walked off with Mr. Lyttelton and casually asked: "Who is that member we have just met? He seems to be on very good terms with himself."

"Why," replied the astonished Lyttelton, "he ought to be on good terms with himself, for he has the distinction and glory of defeating you at Manchester!"

M. Brioux,

And The Riddle of France.
M. Eugene Brioux, the famous French dramatist, in the Paris Temps, seeks to explain how it was that before the war France held herself in such low esteem. Then he says:—
France Did Doubt.

"France did doubt her strength, her dignity, her future. She seemed to accept the decline of her importance in the world. And round about her a certain number of excellent minds resigned themselves to the fact that they could no longer admire her. Yet they could not persuade themselves to cease loving her."
"The gradually the world discovered that the statements of the enemies of France were lies, and that the judgments of the French on themselves were false—that France had been calumniated by her politicians and by her writers. The war broke out, and the events of these days prove that what was taken for the torpor or the agony of a people was merely a slumber. Indeed, I shall be able to show you perhaps that it was not even slumber, but meditation. The astonished world now beholds France fully alive; and her foes learn to their cost, that she is forever young and strong, that her women are healthy and brave, and that her sons have not degenerated."

Alsace-Lorraine.

Nevertheless M. Brioux admits that France had been "suffering from a grave ailment" ever since the disaster of 1870. The worst of these was the taking of Alsace-Lorraine. Indemnities can be paid and the money regained at home by toil and thrift. Insults can be endured, but the wound of such a wrong as this does not heal with time. In M. Brioux's belief there is hardly to be found in the history of the world many errors "greater than that committed by the victor in imposing such a humiliation" on France. It exacted her in an attitude of defeat; and the shame and constraint she suffered during subsequent years caused her to lose some of her best qualities.

"One of the most marked traits in the character of France is the demand for clearness and method, the wish to have everything explained. Reflecting on her woes, she fell from one excess into the other. Formerly she had been vain and proud of herself. When she found herself beaten, she thought it was because she had been deceived about her real worth, and she began to condemn herself and say ill of herself simply through need of being logical. Each political party blamed the other for the catastrophe.

"Silence and inaction are not natural to the French, nor is humility. They would rather talk disparagingly of themselves than not talk at all. They did talk, and thus came into being that cruel literature which has done more harm in the eyes of the world than even the defeat of 1870 itself."

Brothers in a Family.

Referring to the present conflict, Brioux goes on to explain that France was not at all anxious to enter upon a war that involved her very existence. But she was bound to keep the faith of her alliance with Russia. So when the die was cast every body from peasant to President, said: "France has given her word. She will keep it." The eyes of the world turned toward France, observes M. Brioux:—"Then it was, perhaps, we gave the onlookers their greatest surprise. Our foes had counted upon our internal difficulties, which were ever an item in their calculations. Their mistake is easily understood.

"Socialists, radicals, monarchists, republicans are merely first names: French is the family name to which all respond at the first call."

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

With a little carefulness, Baby can be as safely weaned in Summer as in any other season, unless he is in a very delicate condition and your physician advises against it. As a rule mother's milk is not sufficiently nourishing for baby twelve months old or more.

Wean him gradually, not suddenly. At first substitute one bottle feeding, about midway. Give whole milk eight ounces, barley water two ounces. If possible persuade the baby to drink this from a spoon or cup. If he refuses then resort to the bottle. At the end of three or four days, if he seems well, give two bottle or cup feedings instead of one. At the end of a month or six weeks he will be weaned.

It is a mistake to withdraw the breast abruptly and give nothing but modified milk. This should be done only in case of emergency, or dangerous illness of the mother.

Ravelled ruchings are as much in favor as pipings and as quaint.
