WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A Gypsy's Evidence.

Bartley Bradstone rose and nervd himself for the struggle.

"What information can you give them? You say you know something of this murder. How much?"

"Everything," retorted Seth. "Why, guv'nor—"

He bent forward and whispered a few words in Bartley Bradstone's ear. Bartley Bradstone shrank back, and great beads of perspiration stood out upon his forehead; but then, bracing himself together, he laughed.

"Oh! that is it, is it?" he said. "My friend, you know too much. You threaten me! You seem to have forgotten that a man who knows so much, very probably knows more than is safe for himself."

Seth looked at him with knitted brows.

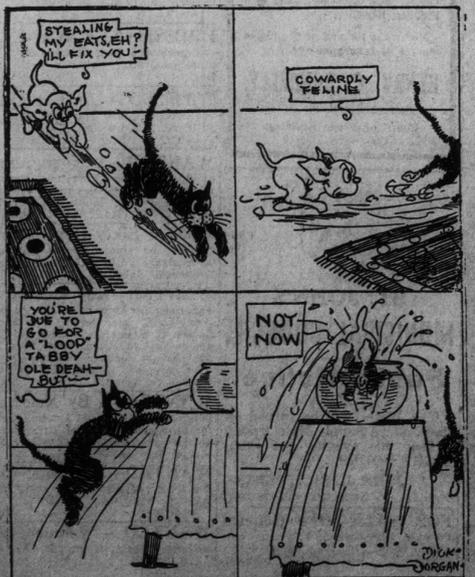

"What d'yer mean?" he said.

Bartley Bradstone thrust his hands into his pockets.

"It seems to me," he said, "that if you carried this story to the police they'd probably be inclined to ask you how it happens that you haven't spoken before. They'll want to know what was your connectiop with the dead woman, and what has become of the property which she had on her person when she was shot; and I should think it not unlikely that the police would make it unpleasant for a gentleman of your appearance, and with your past history. In fact, if you ask me my opinion, I should say that before an hour had passed you yourself would be charged with the murder of the woman of whom you know so much. What's to prevent my telling them what you've now said against me? In fact, my friend, why should I not turn the tables? Now, come;

Never Be Too Sure.

By Doraan.

think I'll be able to show you that you'd better comb to terms. I was only playing with you, up there at the house. I've got evidence that'll put you out o' the way without an ounce o' trouble."

"Evidence?" said Bartley Bradstone, with a sneer; "evidence of a gypsy pickpocket against the word of a well-known gentleman."

"Yah!" snarled Seth. "Look 'e 'ere!" and he took from his pocket an envelope torn in two. "Look 'e 'ere; do yer know that?" and he flourished it in Bartley Bradstone's face.

Dark as it was, Bartley Bradstone saw the piece of paper and knew that it was the confession which he had dropped in the Grange avenue. With a cry he sprang forward, but desperation even could not lend him the activity which is the gypsy's birthright. With an answering cry of triumph Seth whipped the letter behind him and caught Bartley Bradstone by the throat. For a moment or two the men struggled in that deadly silence. Despair and excitement lent Bartley Bradstone fictitious strength, and as he locked his arms round the gypsy's lithe form, he exerted every muscle and succeeded in getting him down upon his knee; but as he did so, Seth slipped, as if he had fallen, and, turning like a greyhound, again caught Bartley Bradstone by the throat and laid him full length upon the ground.

Panting as much with rage as with breath, the gypsy glowered down upon him.

"You're a pretty customer to deal with," he said. "Get up! Put your hand on me again and I'll—I'll kill you. Now, what do you mean to do you ain't got to deal with a helpless woman, Mr. Bradstone, but with a man. Will yer give me the thousand pounds now, or shall I take this letter to the police?"

Bartley Bradstone got up and leaned against a tree.

"I'll give it you," he said.

"Walk in front, then," said Seth, motioning to him suddenly.

Breathing hard, he obeyed. They went slowly to The Maples. Bartley Bradstone unlocked the door and went into the library. Seth looked round.

"Give me something to drink," he said, hoarsely.

Bartley Bradstone, without a word as if he were completely cowed, went to the sideboard and got out the brandy. Seth instantly took the decanter from his hand and helped him self.

"Now," he said, "look sharp—the money—the money!"

Bartley Bradstone drew a check book from a drawer. Seth watched him suspiciously.

"What's that?" he said.

"A check."

"What's the good of that to me?" said Seth. "I want money—gold notes."

Bartley Bradstone forced a smile.

"Do you think I keep a thousand pounds in the house in gold or notes?" he said. "You're not so ignorant as you pretend. You have only to take this check to the bank to get it turned into money—gold or notes."

Seth looked at him with half-closed eyes.

"And suppose you stop it?" he said. Bartley Bradstone smiled again.

"Is that likely?" he said. "Do you think that I am likely to run any more risk? Give me the letter. Take the check and leave me in peace."

Seth took the torn note from his pocket and looked from it to Bartley Bradstone's white face, doubtfully and suspiciously.

"What hold have I got on yer," he said, "if I give yer this note and find the check ain't honored?"

Bartley Bradstone raised his eyebrows.

"You'll have to trust me," he said. "You shall have the check on no other terms. I'm a desperate man to-night; I feel so sick, so driven, that I'd as leave balk you of your money and tell the truth myself. I give you five minutes to decide. Take the check, give me the note, and be off, or go and do your worst."

Seth slouched round the table, still holding the note, and looking fiercely into Bradstone's eyes.

"By God!" he said; "if I thought you were playin' me false—but I don't think you'd dare. Give me over the check; there's the note."

Bartley Bradstone clutched the two

THOUSANDS OF SICK WOMEN

Helped Every Year by Common Sense Suggestions Given Free by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

For forty years women suffering from all kinds of female ills have been writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., for advice. Thus they receive common sense suggestions drawn from a vast volume of experience, and thousands of sick women have been saved from untold suffering, as letters like the following clearly show:

Newark, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman. Your Sanative Wash is just the thing to overcome female weakness. I have told young mothers as well as older ones about your remedies, and what they have done for me. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, as my health was very bad when I wrote you, but now I can do my own work and have not had a sick day since I began taking your remedies. I keep the Compound and Liver Pills on hand all the time."—Mrs. Geo. Thompson, 24 Sherwood Court, Newark, Ohio.

Why don't you write for free advice? Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Salves of the envelope and pointed to the door. Seth, still looking at him, poured out a glass of brandy.

"All right, guv'nor, I'm off. And now, if a cove as knows what's what may offer a word of advice, I'd say, make yersel' scarce as soon as possible. This is an awkward business. This 'ere Faradeane has got friends, and they won't let him be scragged if they can help it. Why, even now they may be on the right scent. When I was a-follerin' you in the city, there was a gent with a smooth face as came across you twice, and looked at you in a way as I knows pretty well by this time; and I see him at the station agen when you was comin' back. It might mean nothin', but a nod's as good as a wink to a blind hoss. Hook 'e guv'nor, sharp, and with a nod he turned up the collar of his coat, pulled 'e cap well over his face, and went out.

Interference Now Would be Deemed Pro-Germ

Special Star Cable by Roy W. He... President of the United Press... Copyright, 1916, by United Press. (Copyrighted Great Britain.)

London, Sept. 28.—There is no time for the war in sight. Any step at this time by the United States, the Vatican or any other neutral in the direction of peace would be construed by the British Empire as an unneutral, pro-Germ move.

"The United Press is able to state these statements on no less authority than that of the British man of hour, the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Secretary of State for War."

"Britain has only begun to feel the British Empire has invested thousands of its best lives to purchase future immunity for civilization; investment is too great to be thrown away," was the Welsh statesman's side-up of the situation: "More than at any time since the beginning of the war there is evidence throughout England a popular opinion toward America, a suspicion that did not exist a year ago."

"This feeling appears directly attributable to the notion generally entertained by the man on the street that President Wilson might be induced to butt in for the purpose of stopping the European war. A similar suspicion of Spain and the Vatican is also manifest."

Fighting For Fair Play.

Mr. Lloyd George was asked by the United Press in the simple possible language the British attitude toward the recent peace talk.

"Simple language" he queried a moment.

"Sporting terms are pretty well understood wherever English is spoken," he replied. "I am quite sure they will be understood in America."

"Well, then, the British soldier is a good sportsman. He enlisted in this war in the sporting spirit of the best sense of that term. He went to see fair play to a small nation trampled upon by a bully. He was fighting for fair play in international dealings."

"He has fought as a good sportsman by the thousands. He has like a sportsman. He has not asked anything more than a sporting chance and hasn't always had it. When he couldn't get it, he did not squeal. He played the game. He did not squeal, and certainly he never asked anyone to squeal for him."

No Time Now To Let Up.

"Under the circumstances, the British, now that the fortunes of the game have turned a bit, are not disposed to stop because of the squabbling done by the Germans, or for that matter by the misguided sympathizers and humanitarians. For two years the British soldier had a bad time; one knows so well as he what a bad time it was. He was sadly inferior in equipment. On the average he was inferior in training. He saw the field cause beaten all about the world but he didn't appeal to either spectators or a referee to stop the fight on the ground that it was brutal nor did he ask to have the rules changed."

"He took his punishment. He was beaten like a dog, he was game dog. When forced to take refuge in a trench, when too badly up to carry the fight to the enemy, he hung on without whining, fought every attack, bided his time, endured without wincing, worked without flagging."

Will Fight To Finish.

Mr. Lloyd George's eyes snapped at sitting at his desk in the War Office he tilted back his chair and studied the ceiling as if seeing there a picture of Tommy's game fight in the early stages of the contest.

"And at this time, under these conditions what was the winning German doing?" he asked. "Was he worrying over the terrible slaughter?"

Public Opinion this family remedy by means of any other medicine in the generations has proved its of indigestion, biliousness.

Interference Now Would be Deemed Pro-German.

Special Star Cable by Roy W. Howard, President of the United Press Association. Copyright, 1916, by the United Press. (Copyrighted in Great Britain.)

London, Sept. 28.—There is no end of the war in sight. Any step at this time by the United States, the Vatican or any other neutral in the direction of peace would be construed by England as an unneutral, pro-German move.

The United Press is able to make these statements on no less authority than that of the British man of the hour, the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Secretary of State for War. "Britain has only begun to fight; the British Empire has invested thousands of its best lives to purchase future immunity for civilization; this investment is too great to be thrown away," was the Welsh statesman's size-up of the situation.

More than at any time since the beginning of the war there is evidenced throughout England a popular suspicion toward America, a suspicion that did not exist a year ago.

This feeling appears directly attributable to the notion generally entertained by the man on the street that President Wilson might be induced to butt in for the purpose of stopping the European war. A similar suspicion of Spain and the Vatican is also manifest.

Fighting For Fair Play.

Mr. Lloyd George was asked to give the United Press in the simplest possible language the British attitude toward the recent peace talk.

"Simple language?" he queried, with a half smile. Then he thought a moment.

"Sporting terms are pretty well understood wherever English is spoken," he replied. "I am quite sure they will be understood in America. Well, then, the British soldier is a good sportsman. He enlisted in this war in the sporting spirit—the best sense of that term. He went in to see fair play to a small nation trampled upon by a bully. He is fighting for fair play in international dealings.

"He has fought as a good sportsman by the thousands. He has never asked anything more than a sporting chance and hasn't always had that. When he couldn't get it, he didn't quit. He played the game. He didn't squeal, and certainly he never asked anyone to squeal for him."

No Time Now To Let Up.

"Under the circumstances, the British, now that the fortunes of the game have turned a bit, are not disposed to stop because of the squealing done by the Germans, or for the Germans by probably well-meaning, but misguided sympathizers and humanitarians. For two years the British soldier had a bad time—no one knows so well as he what a bad time it was. He was sadly inferior in equipment. On the average he was inferior in training. He saw the Allied cause beaten all about the ring, but he didn't appeal to either the spectators or a referee to stop the fight on the ground that it was brutal, nor did he ask to have the rules changed.

"He took his punishment. Even when beaten like a dog, he was a game dog. When forced to take refuge in a trench, when too badly used up to carry the fight to the enemy, he hung on without whining, fought off every attack, bided his time, endured without wincing, worked without flagging."

Will Fight To Finish.

Mr. Lloyd George's eyes snapped as sitting at his desk in the War Office he tilted back his chair and studied the ceiling as if seeing there a picture of Tommy's game fight in the early stages of the contest.

"And at this time, under these conditions what was the winning German doing?" he asked. "Was he worrying over the terrible slaughter

The Corn Aches
You apply a little Blue-jay plaster. The ache ends instantly, and it never will return.

You can prove that in one minute. A million women prove it every month. A corn will never pain again after Blue-jay once goes on it.

Monday

No Corn Pain
On Monday you won't know you have a corn. It is gently disappearing. You know that corn is done for. You know it won't come back. You may also know that soreness will not follow. For Blue-jay is as gentle as efficient.

Tuesday

The Corn is Gone
In 48 hours Blue-jay ends 91 corns in 100. The other 9 per cent are tough corns which need another application. Such has been the history of 70 million corns, since Blue-jay was invented. And any use will assure you that such results are certain. Prove that fact tonight.

No! He was talking of annexing Belgium and Poland as a result of his 'victory,' and while he was re-making the map of Europe without the slightest regard for the wishes of its people, the British people were preparing to pay the price we knew must be paid for the time to get the army ready.

"It is one thing to look back on the pounding the British soldier took the first two years of the war, but a different thing to look forward as he did and know the beating couldn't be avoided during these months, when it seemed the finish of the British army might come quickly.

"Germany elected to make it a finish fight with England. The British soldier was ridiculed, held in contempt. Now we intend to see that Germany has her way. The fight be to the finish—to a knock-out."

Can Be No Intervention.

Dropping his colloquialisms, the half-smile fading from his face, Mr. Lloyd George continued in a more serious vein.

"The whole world, including neutrals of the highest purposes and humanitarians with the best motives, must know that there can be no outside interference at this stage. Britain asked no intervention when she was not prepared to fight. She will tolerate none now that she is prepared, until Prussian military despotism is broken beyond repair.

"There was no regret voiced in Germany over these useless slaughter. There were no tears by German sympathizers when the few thousand British citizens who never suspected to be soldiers, whose military education started only a few months previously went out to be battered, bombed and gassed, to receive ten shells for every one they could fire—went out, fought and died like sportsmen without even a grumble.

"I repeat that there was no whimpering then, and the people who are now moved to tears at the thought of what is to come watched the early rounds of the unequal contest dry-eyed. None of the carnage and sufferings of those Allied dead who stood the full shock of the Prussian war machine before it began to falter.

Would Be Cruel To Stop Now.

"But in the British determination to carry the fight to a decisive finish there is something more than the natural demand for vengeance. The inhumanity, the pitilessness of the fighting that must come before a lasting peace is possible is not comparable with the cruelty that would be involved in stopping the war while there remains a possibility of civilization again being menaced from the same quarter.

"Face now, or at any time before the final and complete elimination of this menace, is unthinkable. No man and no nation with the slightest understanding of the temper of this citizen army of Britons, which took its terrible hammering without a whine or grumble, will attempt to call a halt now."

"But how long do you figure this can and must go on?" (Mr. Lloyd George was asked.)

"There are neither clocks or calendars in the British army to-day," was his quick reply. "Time is the least vital factor. Only the result counts—not the time consumed in achieving it.

Time Is Immaterial.

"It took England twenty years to defeat Napoleon and the first fifteen of those years were black with British defeat. It will not take twenty years to win this war, but whatever time is required, it will be done, and I say this recognizing that we have only begun to win.

"There is no disposition on our side to fix the hour of ultimate victory after the first success. We have no delusion that the war is nearing an end. We haven't the slightest doubt as to how it is to end."

"But what of France; is there the same determination there to stick to the end, the same idea of fighting until peace terms can be decided by Germany's enemies?" Mr. Lloyd George was asked.

The Secretary carefully matched each finger of one hand with each finger of the other, and as he turned his chair slowly to gaze out over the khaki-dotted throng in Whitehall, it seemed the interruption had stemmed the flow of conversation. There was a full moment's pause, and as the chair swung round again, the reply came in a voice and manner impressively grave.

France Will Stick to the End.

"The world at large has not yet begun to appreciate the magnificence the nobility, the wonder of France," he said. "I had the answer to your inquiry given me a few days ago by a noble Frenchwoman. She had given four sons—she had one left to be given to France. In the course of my talk with her, I asked if she didn't think the struggle had gone far enough. Her reply, without a moment's hesitation was: 'The fight will never have gone far enough until we have made a repetition of this horror impossible! That mother was voicing the spirit of France.'

"Yes, France will stick to the end. I suppose America's conception of France and the French soldier before the war was as erroneous as the British idea. I suppose you, too, regarded the French soldier as excitable, brilliant in attack, but lacking dogged staying qualities.

"Nothing was more unwarranted than the popular idea of the Frenchman as a poor defensive fighter. History never justified this idea, but there will be a new appraisal, a new appreciation when the real heroism, nobility and genius of the defence of Verdun is fully understood. France has fought the longest wars of any nation of Europe and her history itself is assurance enough that she will hold to the end.

"With the British it will be the sporting spirit that will animate the army to the last, fair play the motive—fair fight the method. With the French it will be that fiercely burning patriotism that will sustain the army to the end, regardless of when the end may come."

Russia Will Go Through.

"And Russia?"
"Will go through to the death!" interrupted Mr. Lloyd George. "Russia has been slow to arouse, but she will be equally slow to arouse, but she will be equally slow to be quiet. The resentment of the Russian against having been forced into war is deep. He has neither forgotten nor forgiven the fact that this happened when he was ill prepared and unsuccessful. No, there are and will be no quitters among the Allies.

"Never again! has become our battle cry. At home the suffering and sorrow is great and is growing. As to the war zone, its terrors are indescribable. I have just visited the battlefields of France; I stood, as it were, at the door of hell. I saw myriads marching into the furnace. I saw some coming out of it, scorched and mutilated.

"This ghastliness must never be reenacted on this earth, and one method at least of answering that end is the infliction of such punishment upon the perpetrators of this outrage against humanity that the temptation to emulate their exploits will be eliminated from the hearts of the evil-minded amongst the rulers of men."

No Indigestion Gas Or Stomach Misery In Five Minutes.

"Pape's Diapepsin" for sour, acid stomach, heartburn, dyspepsia.

Time! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no distension, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless. Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without feeling they know Pape's Diapepsin will save them from any stomach misery.

Please for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one of the family eat something which don't agree with them, or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night, it is handy to give the quickest, surest relief known.

Manners at Table

The Berlin Lokalanzeiger solemnly discusses the changes which the war has produced in German manners at table, and in those "laws of decency" which are said to be partly aesthetic and partly matter of habit, but mainly due to "the changing circumstances of practical life."

Formerly it was entirely forbidden to absorb gravy with bits of bread stuck upon one's fork, and so to wipe the platter clean. Good manners required that one should not take excessive pains to get this gravy, however fine it might be. One might, indeed, dip a piece of meat or potatoes in it. At an earlier period, in the times of our grandfathers, manners were even more strict. A good tone at table then demanded that one should always leave something on the plate. This stupid fashion had long disappeared even in times of peace, and is now regarded as bad manners rather than good to leave anything on the plate. In the present time one did leave the remains of the gravy. War time and the scarcity of fats has produced a change, and doubtless this is right. It is of course not necessary that one should with all one's strength sweep the plate with pieces of bread stuck upon a fork, in order to wipe up the last remnant of gravy and to scour the plate till it shines. That would produce an insupportable effect. Any sort of waste would be too offensive to the practical needs of our time for one to be able to regard it as good manners.

The fate of other table customs has been similar. Gnawing at bones, if it is done in quite too ugly a fashion, will be hardly possible to justify the leaving of pieces of bread, which formerly was in many places a rule. What eyes an hotel keeper would have made two years ago if a guest had brought a piece of bread with him to dinner! To-day thousands of people do it, and nobody minds. Thus even at table the war is an educator.—Times.

Pale-Checked Girls, Tired Out Women Quickly Built Up.

WONDERFUL RECORD MADE BY NEW BLOOD-FOOD REMEDY.

Certain Results Guaranteed. Pale people have pale blood. In other words, the blood is watery and lacks red corpuscles. The stomach is wrong.

Assimilation is poor and food is not changed into blood. Naturally the system is robbed of vitality, lacks strength and reconstructive power. Don't slip from vigor into weakness. Don't allow the appetite to fail, but instead use Ferrozone.

The End of a Day at Ypres.

(By Alice Thayer* in the Outlook, New York.)

A cloud hung over the earth. A fierce onslaught had been repulsed. We were all dazed, and worked as people in a trance trying to get together the men and nurses of our unit, so as to send as many of the wounded as we could to shelter; and the dead—they lay where they had fallen.

I bent over the body of a little Scotchman, a brave, sturdy young fellow. His curly hair was stained with blood, the deep-blue eyes were fiery. He was talking fast, though the falling strength made his voice very low, and I had difficulty in hearing what he said. His exhausted mind could find no rest. Each incident of the battle was being lived over.

"Boys, it looks like business." His got excited. "D— them! This place is like a ploughed field; there is hardly a place to stand. My ears! why are they buzzing so? Oh, yes, I know; the big shells. They are going at it hard, nurse. On with your masks, boys—the clouds—look, they are going to give us the gas. Well, let them try!" Suddenly he flung his arms around my neck and whispered, "Mother, water, please." I gave him a little, and he smiled and quieted.

"Nurse, you don't mind, do you? You see—he grew wistful—"I like to think I am at home—and mother—you'll tell her?"

"Cheer up, my laddie," I said. "You'll be well before long. To-night you are going to the ambulance, and in a week or so you'll be home."

He scarcely listened. The faint flicker of a smile passed over his face.

"What's that light over there?" he cried. "It's a French 'tuse éclairante', and that light there—it gets bigger and bigger and bigger."

I could not see it.

"It's lonely, you know, nurse; and the music and the flowers and the birds."

Then I knew what he meant. The delirium had set in.

A cool wind was sweeping away the clouds on the horizon, and the golden streaks were fast fading into silver. The moon and stars came out, and night hid the horrors of the day. Suddenly, out of the night, came the voice of the little soldier:

"Your hand, nurse; it will help me to take the stride."

His eyes glowed and he held me fast. "I died that they might live again." And then, as if transported, "Yes, I am going to live." And, raising himself with a strength I had thought long since gone, he cried in a clear, strong voice, "Long Live England!"

The living heard, and it justified the smiles on the faces of the dead. He fell back into my arms and I laid him on the ground that he had conquered.

ON THE SOMME FRONT...
LONDON.—South of the Ancre "On the front" there was further progress during the night, says the announcement. North of the Ancre the British artillery has been re-embarked among the casualties amongst the British. On the Mame a successful attack was carried out by a London territorial battalion. The enemy had unsuccessfully entered the west of St. Etienne.

FRENCH PROGRESS...
PARIS.—On the Somme front last night the French made further progress in the region of Morval, so the war office announced to-day. They captured 3 1/2 inch guns.

GERMAN TRENCHES...
BERLIN.—German trenches along the front between Fregicourt and Rancourt on the Somme front were taken by the French, the war office announced in to-day's official. The British succeeded only in reaching the man position at one point at Sars, on the Pozieres-Bapaume line.

CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES...
PARIS.—The Chamber of Deputies adopted a resolution calling on the French people to make sacrifices caused by war in the Department of Eastern France. The resolution was unanimous.

BULGARIAN SUCCESS...
SOFIA.—Bulgarian troops from the front of Ruschuk and Ruzhica have defeated the Rumanian army of some sixteen battalions which had crossed the Danube into the territory near Rahovo, the war office announced to-day.

BULGARS PRESSED...
PARIS.—The Allies on the western front continue to check the Bulgarian forces on the Asiatic front. The war office announced to-day that further ground was gained.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

NOT THE PUN.

By RUTH CAMERON.

What is the lowest form of wit? I suppose everybody will probably answer "a pun."

I challenge that answer. There is another form of so-called wit which is infinitely lower and a meaner than a pun. And that is sarcasm.

It takes some sort of mental facility, if not of a very high order, to make a pun. It takes no brains at all to use sarcasm.

By sarcasm, I mean the sort of thing that generally goes under that head—namely saying the opposite of what you mean, in a taunting manner.

"Of course you never make mistakes."

For instance, some one is arguing that a certain thing that some one else has done is a mistake. The opponent, being worsted, in arguing that it is not a mistake, picks up the burden of sarcasm and says tauntingly, "Of course you never make mistakes."

Again, when his wife tries to argue that the dining-room table is not the proper place to put his soiled cuffs, the sarcastic man can always confute her by saying, "Very well, I'll take them down and put them in the coal bin, if that is what you want."

The Weapon of Those Who Cannot Argue.

Sarcasm is the weapon of those who do not have the brains to argue, or who have no real grounds of argument.

It is those who find themselves getting worsted, who have no logical argument to bring up, who seize a sarcasm. The man who has really something to say doesn't usually stoop to sarcasm.

Moreover, sarcasm is the weapon of those who are not held back by the inhibitions of breeding. They think it is because they are wittier than others that they can say such taunting things, when it is only because they are less well-bred.

Sarcasm is Curled Lip Talk. A curled lip is the symbol of sarcasm, and you know how unlovely that can make even a pretty face.

When you are tempted to resort to sarcasm remember James Russell Lowell's warning:

"A sneer is the weapon of the weak. Like other devil's weapons, it is always cunningly ready to our hand, and there is more poison in the hand than in the point."

ELOQUENCE.

I listen to the gifted speaker of the patriotic office seeker, who lifts his voice, that's strong and hearty, and neatly skins the other party. He shows how tyrants grind and goad me, and get my goat and overload me, and rob me by unjust taxation, until I'm hot with indignation. And when I leave that red-hot meeting, I say, "Such facts are surely heating; unless that fellow is elected, the country's doom may be expected." Next night I hear another speaker address the voter and the hearer. He is the gifted speaker's foeman, and with the front of ancient Roman, that gifted speaker "be deceives, and with the last of virtue trounces. He shows me how the gifted speaker is but a chronic office seeker, the agent of a bunch of tyrants who charge the poor unholly high rents, who, having got me, won't release me, but certainly will grind and fleece me. And as I leave the hall I mutter, "We'll drift along to ruin, unless this fellow is the winner, unless he beats that balafal sinner!" I hear the patriots embattled; the more I hear, the worse I'm rattled!

A Child's Tongue Shows if Liver or Bowels Are Active

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, give fruit laxative at once.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Nfld-Canadian Soldiers Killed in Action.

There appear in the latest Canadian Casualty list received, issued on Oct. 1st and 2nd, the names of eight Newfoundlanders, of whom G. W. Stevens, Port aux Basques, died of wounds; N. Butler, Cupids; John Brown, St. Mary's; Harold Marime, Bonavista, killed in action; August R. Greening, Seaker; Matthew Hooper, E. W. Hooper, Balena; Jacob Barnes, Fortune Bay; and Max Benson, Carbonear, wounded. The last mentioned soldier is a son of Police Sergeant Benson, of Carbonear, and an ex-student of the Methodist College. Further particulars were not received. To the sorrowing relatives of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice the Telegram offers sympathy, and to those whose sons and brothers are listed among the wounded, the hope for their speedy recovery. Newfoundlanders from the four corners of the world have answered the call of the Motherland, and to-day are to be found in the forces of every British possession beyond the seas.

Llewellyn Club Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Llewellyn Club was held at Canon Wood Hall last night, a large number of members attending. The Rev. Dr. Jones, who has been suffering from a cold the past few days, was also present. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer for the past year were read and adopted after which Hon. R. Watson was moved to the chair and conducted the election of officers which resulted as follows: President, Rev. Edgar Jones, Ph.D., Rector; Vice-President, Chas. E. Hunt; 2nd Vice-President, James M. Lawrence; Secretary, F. R. Clark; Treasurer, Andrew G. Carnell. Committee—Messrs. John Cooker, James Edwards, A. E. Wright, James Billard, R. W. Jeans and John Miller. Private John Miller who was a member of last year's committee is now a member of the Nfld. Regiment and will shortly be proceeding to the front but the Club felt that Mr. Miller should be retained on the committee and wished him every success in the more strenuous efforts for King and Country and a safe and speedy return. Various other matters connected with the Club were discussed and it will be a source of satisfaction to many to know that the Llewellyn Mystery figure again this year in the various entertainments of the Parish. The "Mysteries" under the leadership of Mr. Fred Emerson, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, last year held one or two concerts with tremendous success and at one raised the sum of $115 for the Orphanage. They also received several invitations from Conception Bay to visit the various towns, but it was too late in the season to be considered. There were 205 members in the Club last season, but judging from the large number present last night it is expected that the Roll will be considerably augmented this year. A substantial balance remains in the Treasury and the Club begins its second year with exceptionally bright prospects. The President and Committee are to be congratulated upon their past year's work and it is evident that greater results will attend their efforts this year as the membership generally are ready in the future as in the past to further the work of this fine Church organization. Before the meeting closed the sum of $10 was voted towards the Mayo-Lind Fund and the President announced that Pte. P. Jensen would be the Speaker at the November gathering.

Here and There.

WEATHER REPORT.—The weather across country is light S.W. wind and dull, raining in places; temperature 40 to 50 above.

INFECTIOUS DISEASE.—A new case of diphtheria was reported to the Health Authorities last evening from North Dame Street; also a case of typhoid fever from Pleasant Street to-day. The latter sufferer was removed to Hospital.

PRELIMINARY.—Hallowe'en Social and Concert, Young Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's Church, October 31st. Part proceeds in aid of Disabled Soldiers' Fund. Make a note of the date. Particulars later.—oct6,11

GENERAL CARGOES ARRIVE.—The steamers Sable I and Pro Patria reached port this morning with general cargoes. The former came from Charlottetown via Sydney, and the latter from North Sydney. The Sable I also brought a deck load of cattle.

SUSPECT CONVICTED.—A 16 year old lad was arrested by Detective Byrne last night on suspicion of having broken into the store of A. S. Wadon on Sunday night last and stole $3. On being arraigned before court to-day the lad pleaded "guilty" and was fined $10 or 30 days.

KYLE'S PASSENGERS.—The Kyle reached Port aux Basques at 7.30 a.m. to-day with the following first class passengers: D. C. Beattie, Private Jensen, A. Hendor, L. Prince, J. Churchill, Thos. Curran, Mrs. J. H. Sharpe, F. W. Dickenson, S. Meaden, A. Menden, V. H. Gay, F. Read, Mrs. K. McIsaac, F. W. Lake, J. T. Power, T. P. Moffatt.

PROSPERO OFF.—The s.s. Prospero sailed this morning for the northward, taking a large freight and these passengers in saloon: Messrs. W. Downton, A. Elliott, E. Sexton, B. Berteau, D. Elliott, J. Clifford, W. Livingston, W. Dodd, Redman; Messdames White, Malone, Elliott, Frings, Clifford, North, Winsor, Keen; Misses Pye, Duffett, Moore, Mursell, Pittman, Roberts, Gardner, Hiscock and 52 steerage.

BOYS DO DAMAGE.—It having been reported to the police of late that boys were doing damage in that locality by the throwing of stones and climbing up electric light poles, and on letter boxes, six lads of the Higher Levels were haled before court this morning. After being cautioned by Judge Morris the youths were let go on payment of costs and on their parents each signing a $50 bond for their future good conduct.

UNDESIRABLE RUNS AWAY.—Last night an undesirable named Barron started in to "clean up" the town in the way of glass breaking. He broke in the window at the residence of Mr. John Rodgers, then smashed a large pane in the window of the Plain-dealer and next did a similar stunt in the house of a family named Hickey. By this time the police got wise and put a stop to "Marty's game." He was before court to-day and his explanation for his conduct being very unconvincing to the Judge, Barron was committed to the lakeside for a fortnight.

DIED.—On Thursday, Oct. 5th, after a lingering illness, Samuel, only son of Philip Chaffin, aged 5 1/2 years, leaving a father, mother, two sisters and a large circle of friends to mourn their loss.

slon. The remainder of Wednesday was without incident, and was spent in consolidating our position, which extends from Orlika Bridge, along the Seres road to Yenikent, thence back to the river through both Karajakeui villages. During the fighting of the last few days the Lowland Scottish Battalion and the Irish Battalion distinguished themselves. The enemy suffered heavily in the recent fighting.

RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 5. On the Caucasus front our detachments by sudden resumption of the offensive, with co-operation of the fleet in the coastal region, advanced on a wide front, capturing a fortified enemy position in the region of the River Karaburnu. West of Kalkit Tchitvilk our advanced posts broke through the Turkish advanced positions and inflicted great losses upon them, capturing prisoners, some arms, cart-ridges and equipment, and destroyed earthworks and trenches in the enemy's rear.

FISHERMEN SAW ZEPPELIN.

FABJENY, Denmark, Oct. 5. Fishermen, who arrived here to-day reported that at noon on Monday they sighted a partly submerged Zeppelin thirty-five miles northwest of the Island of Syt in the North Sea, off the coast of Schleswig. Several German destroyers and two large vessels were surrounding the Zeppelin, the fishermen said, in an attempt to keep her afloat.

NORWEGIAN STEAMERS SUNK.

LONDON, Oct. 5. Three Norwegian steamers, the Brink, Kut and Carl Nesjar, are sunk, according to Reuter's Christiania correspondent. The crew of the Brink landed.

CUNARD LINER FRANCONIA SUNK.

LONDON, Oct. 5. The Cunard Liner Franconia is sunk. According to the latest reports the Franconia was being used by the British as a transport. She was a vessel of 13,150 tons gross, built in 1910. Her maiden voyage was between Liverpool and Boston in February, 1911. She was 825 feet long, 72 wide and displaced 25,000 tons. The Admiralty announces that the steamer Franconia was employed for transport duty, and was sunk in the Mediterranean yesterday by an enemy submarine. The steamer had no troops aboard. Twelve of the crew are missing.

Naval Heroes Return.

TWO INVALIDED.
By the express which reached town last night the following Naval Reservists returned from active service:—

Robert Hiscock and L. G. Hodder, invalided; J. L. Strickland, Oscar Hiscock, Thos. Critchley, Thos. Kehoe, on furlough; A. J. Peasor, T. W. Struckless, T. Conway, W. J. Gilham, S. S. Martin, time expired.

All of the men have been out in the North Sea, while some of them have been in Eastern waters. Reservists Hiscock and Hodder, who spent considerable time in hospital as the result of injuries received on active service, were allowed to return home for an indefinite period or until such time as they may be restored to their former health. The men of the Royal Navy were met at the station by a large number of citizens. Included in the number were the Hon. J. R. Bennett, Ladies of the Reception Committee, Officers of H. M. S. Briton and many other prominent citizens.

The Premier, Sir Edward Morris, who reached the city by the same express, offered the men a hearty welcome home, after which the men were placed in automobiles and driven to Government House where they entertained by His Excellency the Governor.

Speeding of Autos.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I should be much obliged if you could enlighten me with reference to speeding of automobiles and also with reference to the lighting of the tail light so that a person can tell their number. It is simply disgraceful the way that lives of citizens are endangered by these night hawks, who speed along the roads, often attaining a speed of 50 miles an hour, and no number showing. Have we a law to compel the stopping of this nuisance? It is not safe for a person to take a drive after his day's work because he never knows when one of these nuisances will put himself, wife and all in the ditch with numbers showing. Nine-tenths of motors have not numbers showing. I have counted an average of 10 every time on that road.

Again, Mr. Editor, I should like to know whether something cannot be done to stop the awful glare of the headlights. They are not necessary and horses often take fright and accidents happen. They are compelling them in Canada to put in half lenses; why not here? They don't want searchlights—we have no fear of headlights and therefore they needn't light the heavens as well as the earth for miles around. Again, how much room does an automobile want of the road, three-quarters or half, I guess. They always want three-quarters of it and will have it or ditch the party on the other half. Who pays for the upkeep of the road? Both do, therefore half and half is right. Citizens, stick up for your rights and outside the town, too, stick up and don't let these road hawks do what they like. If the law won't act, I guess it is time for us to act and put these in their place right quick. The roads are kept up on taxes of the people, then the people have the right to use them and enjoy them. Thanking you in anticipation, Mr. Editor, and sorry to have taken up your time.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,
ANTI-AUTOMOBILE.
St. John's, Oct. 3, 1916.

WEATHERED THE STORM—Capt. James Wade, of Conception Harbor, who was out in his schooner during the night of the big storm, September 24th, was in town yesterday. Though the gale was the heaviest ever experienced by Capt. Wade, his schooner came through with but little damage.

OUR VOLUNTEERS.—Yesterday morning the volunteers were put through section drill and the clearing up of the present quarters. In the afternoon they went through extended order drill. To-day the men will surrender their quarters at the Rinks. Those belonging to the city will eat and sleep at home, while most of the outport men will board at the Seaman's Institute.

War News.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

ON THE SOMME FRONT.

LONDON, Oct. 5. South of the Ancre "On the Somme front" there was intermittent shelling during the night, says to-day's official announcement. North of the Schwaben redoubt our artillery caused many casualties amongst the enemy infantry. On the Mave a successful raid was carried out by a London territorial battalion. The enemy attempted unsuccessfully to enter our trenches west of St. Eloi.

FRENCH PROGRESS.

PARIS, Oct. 5. On the Somme front last night the French made further progress in the region of Morval, so the war office announced to-day. They captured nine 3 1/2 inch guns.

GERMAN TRENCHES TAKEN.

BERLIN, Oct. 5. German trenches along the line between Fregicourt and Rancourt on the Somme front were taken in attacks by the French, the war office announced in to-day's official. The British attack succeeded only in reaching the German position at one point near La Sars, on the Pozieres-Bapaume road.

CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES ADOPT RESOLUTION.

PARIS, Oct. 5. The Chamber of Deputies to-day adopted a resolution calling upon all French people to make good the damage caused by war in the invaded Department of Eastern France. The decision was unanimous.

BULGARIAN SUCCESS.

SOFIA, Oct. 5. Bulgarian troops from the fortress of Ruschuk and Turtukal attacked and defeated the Roumanian force of some sixteen battalions which recently crossed the Danube into Bulgarian territory near Rahovo, the war office announced to-day.

BULGARS PRESSED BACK.

PARIS, Oct. 5. The Allies on the western end of the Macedonian front continues to press back the Bulgarian forces before Monastir. The war office announced to-day that further ground had been gained and that the town of Neuf 12 miles south of Monastir, had been occupied.

ITALIAN TROOPS LAND IN ALBANIA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. The Journal has the following from Rome to-day: Italian troops have landed in southern Albania, where they have occupied two cities and are progressing eastward, menacing the right flank of the Bulgarian forces in Western Macedonia. It is semi-officially stated that the Italian force landed at Santi Quaranta about 45 miles southwest of the extreme right of the Bulgars' line, and about eighty miles southwest of Monastir. They pushed forward to the railroad running northeast from Santi Quaranta, occupying Delvion, which is 6 1/2 miles inland, then occupied Argyrokastron, seven miles north of Delvion.

FOOD PROBLEM RELIEVED.

VIENNA, Oct. 5. The bread and potato shortage in Vienna, which was acute two weeks ago, is relieved. The Government is now taking measures to relieve the distribution of food so that the waiting line hereafter will be unnecessary. Complaints of women and a campaign carried on by the newspapers have brought about this change.

IMPORTANT DOCUMENT CAPTURED BY BRITISH.

War Correspondents' Headquarters in France, Oct. 5.—Germany is short of war material of all sorts, but not of food, according to a most sensational and interesting document the British have captured which is called "The establishment of the fourth German corps in the battle of the Somme." The document was written as instructions to the troops. It was drawn from lessons of the battle, by General Count Von Arnim, a corps commander, who has been fighting opposite the British throughout the offensive. This long detailed revelation of the inner thoughts of the German staff discussed the methods and shortcomings of every branch of the German army in view of the unexpected power and organization of the British have shown. The document starts out by paying a high and undoubted tribute to the British infantry which last autumn's offensive, and shows great dash in attack. The document continues, the Englishman also has physique and training in his favor; one must acknowledge the skill of the English in rapidly consolidating captured positions, and their great tenacity in defence of them. Because the breach actions of so many German rifles have been clogged with dirt, General Von Arnim suggests in the document that it would be advisable to fit a cover for the breach of their rifles like that used in the British army which can be easily unfastened, and then hangs from the rifle. Explicit instructions are given in the document to the artillery to change their methods of placing batteries in a village behind slopes because of the British method of distribution of their artillery fire, which prodigiously searches all obvious shelters.

BERLIN OCCUPATION.

BERLIN, Oct. 5. Re-occupation by the British of the Village of Yenikent, east of the Struma, on the Macedonian front is reported in to-day's war office statement, which follows: Nidja Planina overlooking the Cerna Valley, east of Monastir, is held by the enemy. Otherwise the positions are unchanged from Presta Lake to the Struma. The battle on the left bank of the Struma is still in progress. The village of Yenikent has again been lost.

SUCCESSFUL FIGHTING.

LONDON, Oct. 5. Fighting at Yenikent, which ended yesterday morning, resulted in complete success for our troops. Not only did we hold the portion of the village south of Seres, but we also occupied a portion of the north road. Thus the whole village is now in our possession.

His Grace at Argentina.

LAYS FOUNDATION STONE OF NEW CHURCH IN AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

At Argentina on Sunday last Missa Cantata was sung by the Rev. Father Sheehan in the presence of His Grace Archbishop Roche. The singing of the choir under the able direction of Mrs. M. Murphy was of an inspiring and elevating nature and merited the "Prosita" of the congregation. After Mass His Grace performed the ceremony of laying the "lapis primarius" of the new Church, to be soon erected and dedicated to Our Lady of the Rosary. It was a coincidence that just twelve months ago last Sunday a like ceremony was performed by His Grace at Portugal Cove, the ancient Cove Parish of which Father Ashley had charge for ten years.

His Grace, whose interests are now not confined to merely parochial matters but to the more general ones of his extensive and largely populated diocese, addressed the congregation and gave a beautiful explanation of the day's ceremonies. From its very beginning, the Church, the Temple of God, is taken hold of and receives through His representatives the Blessings of the Almighty God. The building is carefully watched through the different stages of erection till its apse in which the Church stamps its solemn seal upon it with the holy ceremony of Consecration whereby it is solemnly set aside for the service of God. Truly Our Divine Master spoke not in majestic temples but from the decks of the fishing boats, by the side of the sea shore, and under the blue canopy of heaven. By this He has impressed upon us the necessity of more of that vivid and lively interior spirit more so than the exterior grandeur of His churches.

His Grace complimented Pastor and people that nothing of an elaborate nature was in contemplation but merely a chaste design suitable to the needs of the Parish. It was a pleasure to us all to have with us on the occasion the very able Prelate of Placentia, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Reardon. A very handsome trowel, beautifully engraved, was presented to the Archbishop. The parchment, copies of the daily papers, Newfoundland coins, as well as a copy of this year's school report, were placed in the stone.

The schools of Argentina have had a wonderful record this year despite the fact that an epidemic of measles disorganized the schools from Easter to midsummer. Twenty-seven Passes in the various grades including nine intermediate candidates, two of whom passed in the honours division. Preliminary has been Argentina's record this year. We were proud to see that our scholarship winner of a short time ago, Miss McCarthy, has sustained her reputation at Littledale by winning an open scholarship, and that our other girls at that Institution are well up to requirements and striving to lead instead of to follow.

His Grace returned to St. John's Monday morning in the private car so generously placed at his disposal by the R. N. Co., and we hope that the Archbishop's wish will, on the occasion of his next visit to Argentina, be realised, and that his will be the pleasing duty of Pontificating in the new church so auspiciously blessed by his consecrated hands on Sunday last.

Incandescent Gas Lighting.

The remarkable economy of the incandescent gas lamp is by no means either its chief—or even an important—claim for popularity. It meets better than any other source of artificial light the requirements of ideal light.

In the color of the light produced it is far superior to any other illuminant in general and universal use. The investigations of acknowledged authorities indicate that for the approximation of artificial daylight the gas mantle has at least one and one-half times the value of the carbon-filament electric lamp.

This quality is highly desirable, indeed absolutely essential where the approximation of daylight color values is important. For lighting shops, displaying haberdashery, suitings, gowns, millinery, etc., the incandescent gas lamp is not even remotely approached by any other incandescent lamp.

Of all the manifold advantages of gas light, perhaps the most important is its favourable effect upon the eyes. The development of the incandescent electric lamp with its intense brilliant and glaring filament has been accompanied by hitherto unheard-of prevalence of eye troubles and diseases which are forcing themselves upon the attention of the medical fraternity. This is resulting in a greater appreciation of the soft mellow quality of gas light and its rapidly enlarging its field of use.—July 13, 1916

Germany Must Be the Suppliant.

The Allies have no intention of asking for peace. Germany must be the suppliant, not the Entente Powers. And she must accept our conditions. The injustice already committed must be set right. Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro must have their national life restored to them. There must be an end of Prussian militarism. It is not that we want, as Von Bethmann-Hollweg intimates, to destroy united and free Germany. "We should be glad," on the contrary, "to see the German people free." On this point Sir Edward Grey's words are conclusive. "We believe that the German people—when once the dreams of world empire, cherished by Pan-Germanism, are brought to nought—will insist on the control of its Government; and in this lies the hope of secure freedom and national independence in Europe. For a German democracy will not plot and plan wars, as Prussian militarism plotted wars, to take place at a chosen date in the future." This is a strong and confident prophecy to which Sir Edward Grey's fellow-countrymen will willingly subscribe.—London Telegraph.

"Good Clothes."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes". Now good clothes are costly—no dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their pristine beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.
