"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:
 "I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

 STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XXXIV.

"We found it on his finger," said Lord Fielden; "and, thinking you might like it, I said it here."

Gertrude took the ring from the coffin and kissed it. Dolores looked at it with weeping eyes.

"The last time I saw it," she said, "it was shining on my husband's finger, and it sparkled in the sunlight just as he was leaving me. I kissed it when, Gertrude, I shall wear it until I die."

Slowly, and with dropping tears, she drew her ring upon her finger and kissed it. Once more she laid her face on the velvet pad. She was so silent, so still, that after a time Gertrude went to her. At first they thought that she was dead, her face was so white and so calm. Lady Felden cried aloud, and Harry ran to assist; but death had not been merciful enough to take Lady Allanmore. She was carried to her room; and there for many weeks between life and death, the broken white rose, once so fair and blooming, lay with the ruby ring on her finger, while her heart was with the dead husband she had misjudged so long.

CHAPTER XL.

Gertrude had just been singing, and the words puzzled her. Quite unconsciously something had become a matter of life and death with her. She had grown so accustomed to Lord Fielden's homage and love that she did not appreciate either until he was away from her; then quite suddenly her life grew cold and dim. Harry had learned some wisdom from his mother.

"My dear boy," she had said to him, "you have been too lavish of your love; believe me, there is nothing like a little wholesome neglect. For the last two years you thought only of Gertrude, and devoted yourself to her. She accepts your homage as a matter of course. Now take my advice and leave her for a short time."

But Harry could not make up his mind to go away, though he promised not to speak of love to Gertrude. This resolve he had carried out, until at last a glimmer of doubt had crept into Miss Allanmore's mind. Did he really love her? He followed her like a shadow; he was never away from the house; he sat for hours, his handsome face turned toward her, his honest blue eyes following her every motion; he agreed with everything she said; and at times her sayings were odd enough; he was faithful and loyal to her as the needle to the pole. He lived for Gertrude—her life was his life; yet following the wise counsel given to him he said nothing of love; and Gertrude had begun to wonder and doubt.

Taking up a magazine one day, she had seen the words she had just sung, and it pleased her to set them to music. They suited her case exactly, she thought. If it were not love, what was it? And if it were love, why did he not say so?

Sixteen months had passed since the funeral of Sir Karl Allanmore, and the old wrong had been righted. Lady Allanmore, with her two daughters, had gone back to Scarsdale, and something like a gleam of happiness had come to Dolores.

As much happiness as could fall to her lot was Lady Allanmore's now. Her husband's memory had been cleared; he had always loved her; he had never deserted her. It had been she who had sinned against him, not he against her. He had been true to her in life and death; he was waiting for her in heaven. She longed in a calm, gentle fashion for death, that she might see his beloved face again. She was living surrounded by her old friends, and her children were all that a mother's heart could desire. She had regained her health and her beauty; she had never dreamed of being so happy again.

The family had spent some few weeks at Deerhurst Manor, and Lady

Allanmore would have been willing to allow Kathleen Rhysworth to live there, but she preferred to be with her mother and Gertrude. During the last month or two the deep mourning had been cast aside, and something like old times had come again to Scarsdale.

The first thing that startled them from their settled ways was the arrival of the Neapolitan Prince, Colonna, who had seemed so devoted to Kathleen when they had been living in Florence. The sudden departure of Dolores and her daughter had been a great blow to him, but he was determined to find them. They had gone away hurriedly, and had left no address; but, after a time, he had heard the story about Sir Karl and had understood.

A QUEEN UNCROWNED
 — OR —
THE STORY IN THE LONE INN

CHAPTER I.

"There! don't come it over me with your soft-sawder, Master Jacinto, if you please," he said, as if half angry with himself for the liking he could not help feeling for the handsome boy. "You've got a sweet tongue of your own; and though it can sting pretty sharply at times, you are always ready to plaster the wound over again with some of that same honeyed balsam. You see, you can't take me in, my lad. You'll have to cut a few more of your eyeteeth before you can manage that. Here we are at the Mermaid, and there she swings herself, the same picture of ugliness she has always been since I first had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Wonder if old Rowlie has thought proper to die of apoplexy yet!"

As he spoke, he passed through the low doorway, and entered the house, closely followed by Jacinto. The door opened straight into the barroom—a low dirty, smoke-begrimed place, with a strong odor of ardent spirits and sawdust prevailing in it. Numerous casks were ranged around the walls; and on the shelves behind the counter were arrayed bottles, decanters and glasses, and all the other paraphernalia common in such places. Leaning over the counter, with his back to the door and busily engaged in turning over the greasy leaves of a dirty little account book, was a fat, round-about little man, with a rosy face, indicative of an unlimited amount of solemn good nature.

"I say, old Bob Rowlie! What cheer, my hearty?" called Captain Nick, giving the little man a slap in the back that nearly knocked him into a jelly. "Alive and kicking yet, I see! What a precious long time the old boy is of claiming him own to be sure!"

"Captain Nick Tempest," said the little man, slowly, as he laid down his pencil and book, and looked solemnly in the face of his boisterous guest, "and so you've come back again, have you? I might have known it was you, for nobody ever knocks the breath out of my body till you come. Who is this?" said Mr Rowlie, looking with his slow, grave gaze toward the young Spaniard, who was leaning carelessly against the doorpost.

"Oh, a customer I've brought you—a young chap from beyond the seas," said the captain, flinging himself into a chair; "come in, Jacinto, and make yourself at home. How's the old woman, Bob?"

"Mr. Rowlie is per-fec'-ly well," slowly articulated Mr. Rowlie, taking a prolonged look at Jacinto, "per-fec'-ly well, thanky. Is the men coming up to-night?"

"Not to-night. I'm going to swing my hammock here myself to-night. How's trade these times, old bluffer? Many customers at the Mermaid?"

"Ye-es," said Mr. Rowlie, deliberately, "ye-es, sometimes there is; and then, again, sometimes there ain't. Vessels principally bring customers, but they don't stay long, mostly the reverse. Generally, it's quite here. Uncommon so."

"Well, it's likely to be brisk enough while I stay, my man are the very dickens for spending their money. And now, my fat friend, just let me have something to eat—will you? I feel hungry enough to eat myself, bones and all, if you were properly stuffed and roasted. Come hurry up!"

By way of complying with this request, Mr. Rowlie waddled leisurely to a door at the other end of the room, and opening it, he called, in a husky falsetto: "Mrs. Rowlie—e!" "What do you want?" called a brisk voice from within as a merry-looking little woman, like her husband, somewhat of the dumpling order, came to the door, and peeped out. "Captain Nick Tempest has arrived, and wants some food." "Oh, marcy sake! Captain, how d'ye do?" said Mrs. Rowlie, bustling out, and holding out her hand to the burly captain. "How unexpected people keep a-turning up! I'm rally glad to see you. I rally am, now." "Thankee, Mrs. Rowlie—thankee!" said the captain, as he sprang up, and gave the buxom dame a rousing salute on the cheek, while Mr. Rowlie looked on in solemn dismay, "and how do you find yourself, old lady? Blooming like a hollyhock, as usual!" (To be continued.)

Canadian Teachers' Federation

Toronto, Ont., July. (By Canadian Press).—The Canadian Teachers' Federation, which is opening its fifth annual convention on August 12, in Victoria, B.C., is the connecting link between the various provincial bodies of teachers.

It is only during the past decade that the teachers in this country have made any serious move toward organizing themselves as a profession. Before that, they acted entirely as individuals; there was no directing body either to represent their interests, or to see that proper professional discipline was maintained.

Moreover the teacher was not looked upon by the community with the same respect that was accorded to members of the medical or legal professions, and this valuation was too often accepted by the teacher himself. He could then scarcely be expected to instill in young Canadians that virility and self-reliance which he himself did not possess.

The Canadian Teachers' Federation was organized at a meeting in Calgary in 1920, and its function is to co-ordinate the activities of all the provincial bodies. Its first regular convention was held in Toronto in 1921, and conferences have since met in Saskatoon in 1922 and in Montreal in 1923. All the provinces except Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are now members of the Canadian organization, and it is hoped that these will also be linked up within the next year. The Canadian Federation, in turn, belongs to the World Federation of Educational Associations, which was formed at San Francisco last summer. The two Canadian delegates were both elected to the Board of Directors of the World Federation.

The present executive of the Canadian Federation consists of President, H. C. Newland, M.A., LL.B., Edmonton, Vice-President E. A. Hardy, B.A., D. Paed., Toronto; Past President H. W. Huntley, M.A., Winnipeg; Secretary-Treasurer, H. Charlesworth, Victoria; Committee, Dean S. Laird, M.A., B. Phil., Macdonald College, Quebec; W. J. Bailey, Regina; and J. D. Seaman, Charlottetown.

The conference proper consists of three delegates from each of the affiliated provinces, but in addition there are a large number of unofficial delegates, who are afforded all privileges except that of voting. The official delegates bring reports of the

THE MISFIT WIFE
 Charles Chigger thought he drew a treasure when Rose McFlah became his bride; good looks are hers in ample measure and she is fair and starchy eyed; but all she thinks about is p l e a s u r e, the bright lights are her only guide.

This Charles, industrious and thrifty, has plans for building up a wad; with eighty cents he salts down fifty, and blows the thirty cents abroad; he thinks a bank account is nifty, though coin is not his only god. Now, in the days of honeymooning, what'er she does he thinks is fine; she sends the precious bucks ballooning, that he would safely soak in brine; a lover's ditties he's still crooning; "This lovely bride," he chirps, "is mine!" But when Charles finds that Rose is yearning forever for some festive show, and idly blows the coin he's earning for vain diversions in a row, and fails to keep the home fires burning, he'll doubtless voice his ire and woe. And when she finds that he is trying to save three quarters of his wage, instead of in an auto flying amid the some and purple sage, she'll maybe do some strident saying, and pull his whiskers in her rage, and still the young folks go and marry, regardless if their lives will fit they're in a rush, they will not tarry, to question character or wit; Jane is a peach and as for Harry, she thinks that he is strictly it.

Spanish Consul in Montreal Given Jail Sentence -- Discussion on Reparations Problems Gives Hope of Settlement -- Death of Viscount Knollys.

HOPE OF SETTLEMENT. LONDON, Aug. 15. Germany and France to-night at 11 o'clock had reached no positive agreement with regard to the terms of Ruhr evacuation, but delegations representing both countries, issued hopeful statements, and announced that negotiations for settlement of the issue would be resumed to-morrow with promise of success. There was a general feeling in conference circles to-night that the crisis in the negotiations had been passed and that the German Chancellor, Dr. Marx, and M. Herriot, the French Premier, would come to terms to-morrow and make it possible for the Dawes plan to be put into effect, providing German Reichstag and French Parliament give their approval. The German delegation to-night issued a communication saying the negotiations would be continued to-morrow and that "positive" results might be expected. The Frenchmen issued a communique of a favourable nature.

MAURETANIA BEATS ALL RECORDS. NEW YORK, Aug. 15. All records for the Cherbourg New York passage were shattered with the Mauretania's arrival at Quarantine late yesterday. Her time for crossing was five days, three hours and twenty minutes. Her best day's run was 642 miles, and her average speed was 23.60 knots per hour. The best previous time made by the same steamship in August, 1922, was five days, nine hours and twenty minutes.

ADMIRAL DE ROBECK, STRIKES HIS FLAG. LONDON, Aug. 15. (Canadian Press Cable)—Admiral Sir John De Robeck, who has been commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet since 1922 and was commander of the Mediterranean fleet from 1919 to 1922, and later High Commissioner at Constantinople, strikes his flag on the battleship Queen Elizabeth to-day. He thus concludes 47 years of distinguished sea service. It is possible that Sir John De Robeck will succeed Viscount Jellicoe as Governor-General of New Zealand. Viscount Jellicoe has said that the day he leaves New Zealand will be the saddest day in his life. He is retiring shortly from the Governor-Generalship. Admiral Sir John De Robeck was in command of the naval forces in the Straits of Dardanelles while the expeditionary forces were being landed in 1915 and was mentioned in despatches at the time.

A LIBERAL VICTORY. LONDON, Aug. 15. Sir Alfred Mond, Liberal, former Minister of Health in the Lloyd George Cabinet, was yesterday elected member of the House of Commons for West Carmarthen, Wales. The vote for Sir Alfred was 12,760, for Mr. T. Owen, Labor and Government candidate, 8,351, and for Sir Alfred Stephens, Conservative, 7,893. The Liberal majority over Labor is about 400 more than that obtained by Sir Ellis Griffiths, former Liberal candidate, over Sir Alfred Stephens, who at that time secured second place but who yesterday was third in the running.

A CONSUL JAILED. MONTREAL, Aug. 15. Miquel Maliquor, Consul for Spain at Montreal, and Raymond Te De Torrens, a local Spanish merchant, were found guilty to-day by Chief Judge DeCaire in the Court of Sessions, of conspiracy to smuggle alcohol through the Canadian Customs and to import narcotic drugs into Canada. They were both sentenced to six months in jail from the date of their arrest on June 2 last.

This morning Mayor Charles Duquette turned the switch and officially opened the new direct cable service between Montreal and London, that has been installed by the Anglo-American Telegraph Co. who will operate in conjunction with the Canadian National Telegraph Co. In less than five minutes after the service was opened messages had been sent to the King by the Governor General, to the Prince of Wales by Mayor Duquette; to Right Hon. ELECTION ON IRISH ISSUE BATTLES. MONTREAL, Aug. 15. I am convinced that an election on the Irish issue would be a bad thing for the Conservative Party, said Lord Beaverbrook in discussing the prospects for an early change of Government in England, referring to the Bill presented to the British House just before prorogation which would make effective the decision of the Ulster Boundary Commission whether or not there was an Ulster representative on it. Lord Beaverbrook pointed out that unless settlement was effected between now and opening of the House the Bill must be presented. If the Liberals gave the measure their support and the Labor Party voted for it, the Bill would be passed. It would then come up before the House of Lords and if Conservative members in the Lower House had opposed the measure, as they were likely to do, the Lords were certain to defeat it.

OUR DUMB ANIMALS. Report Chief Agent S.P.A. For Week Ending August 15th, 1924.

Received a report from Constable Efford, Maduels, of a horse, being very lame, and belonging to George Hiscock, Chamberlains. The horse was attended by Dr. McNairn, who found he could do nothing for it and advised to have it put to death, which the constable humanely did. I am very thankful to the constable for the interest he has taken in the Dumb Animals. I also have a report of a horse belonging to Mr. Druken, Portugal Cove Road. The horse has been suffering from a severe wound in the hind leg, and to all appearance, caused by a bullet from some unknown source. The horse was attended by Dr. McNairn, and the animal is gradually getting better. Boys or others using rifles should be more careful, as this has been a great inconvenience to Mr. Druken having his horse laid up at this time of the year. I have many thanks to be sent to Mr. King, Kildyke Farm, as the dog was getting old and suffering from spavin. Mr. King desired it should be put to death. I also put to death five dogs. One, a very vicious dog, on Hutchings Street; the owner had shot it down and left the dog hanging. It made several attempts to bite people. I destroyed another on Pleasant Street for biting a young child; another on LeMarchant Road, for biting a lady; and a very old dog on Circular Road, also one which had met with an accident, for a resident of Cochrane Street. ADMISSION 20 CENTS.

THE GREENLAND FLYERS' PATROL. On Board U.S.S. Lawrence, Union Harbor, Labrador, Aug. 15.—The destroyers Barr, Coughlan and McFarlane, sailed yesterday to patrol the waters of Greenland for the United States army world fliers. The divisions had the cheering news of departure after 12 days of waiting in the harbor here out of touch with world happenings. When word came that the icefield of Greenland had been broken through everyone here anticipated an early departure from the northernmost waters. Officers and men were at dinner when the flag-ship flashed the message for leaving.

WAITING BERLIN'S REPLY. LONDON, Aug. 15. Further progress of the negotiations over the evacuation of the Ruhr by the French and Belgians await word from Berlin where the German Cabinet was still in session at a late hour last night. The Cabinet members were summoned by President Ebert to consider the German reply to the French conditions that the evacuation period will occupy 4 years' time. Until the issue is settled, the work of the International Reparation Conference cannot be completed, as successful operation of the Reparation Experts' plan hinges on preliminary agreement between the Germans and the occupying powers. The situation was described last night as decidedly easier. The French have agreed to many modifications of their original demands. Premier Herriot, while maintaining his contention that the Ruhr evacuation need not take place until one year after the date on which the French and Germans reach an agreement, has offered immediate withdrawal from many important railway and industrial centres. There have also been intimations that the complete military evacuation of the territory, not held under the Versailles Treaty, might be accomplished in much less than a year if the Germans carried out their part of the Experts' plan faithfully. The German Chancellor, Dr. Marx, left his career of the Conference to observe Assumption Day of the Virgin Mary, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

"Girl Shy" Proves the Versatility of Lloyd
SEEN AS BASHFUL SMALL TOWN BOY IN HIS LATEST COMEDY.

Variety is the spice of life, and it is also the secret of success in making good motion pictures. Many stars fall into a rut because they insist upon making the same line of pictures and using the same kinds of characterization. They never change because they feel the public is used to seeing them in a certain type of picture.

Such is not the case, however, with Harold Lloyd, whose latest feature Pathé-comedy, "Girl Shy," will be seen Monday at the Nickel Theatre. Harold has fortunately discovered that "mixing them up a bit" is the secret of success. He has never made two comedies even remotely alike, considering his big hits, "Dr. Jack," "Safety Last," "Why Worry?" and now "Girl Shy." He has jumped from small town situations to a South American revolution, from portraying a doctor to a ribbon clerk. Now in his latest, he has again striven for something different from anything he has ever made. He is seen in "Girl Shy" in an entirely novel characterization, as a bashful small town boy who is an apprentice to his uncle, a tailor. He makes a secret study of girls, although not a very accurate one, and the more he studies them, the more he fears them.

He has tried in "Girl Shy" to present a character who will instantly win the sympathy of his audience through his humanness. A really dramatic story has been built around this central figure of the boy and nothing has been sacrificed to make the picture true to life in every small detail. And it is attention to detail that helps largely to make the Lloyd Pathé comedies the big hits that they are.

The cast of "Girl Shy" includes Jobyna Raiston, who plays opposite Lloyd. She made a big hit in her initial appearance with the comedian in "Why Worry," which resulted in her being signed by Lloyd to a long term contract. Her excellent work in "Girl Shy" is said to be one of the contributing factors in its success. Others in the cast are Richard Daniels, who plays the role of Lloyd's uncle in the film, and Carlton Griffin, playing the part of a wealthy young idler. Fred Newmeyer and Sam Taylor, who co-directed "Why Worry," also wielded the megaphone on this new mirth provoker, which was taken from a story by Taylor, Tommy Gray, Ted Wilde and Tim Whelan.

Cleanliness is one of the chief secrets of charm, and perfect cleanliness results from the use of Ivory Soap.—ad.Lit.

The Future of Newfoundland Cod Liver Oil.

We publish an interesting interview with Mr. E. M. Johnson, one of the American Scientists Investigators who has been at Bay Bulls during the past six weeks.

They have been tracing the life history of the Codfish and investigating very thoroughly the Livers of the Codfish.

Why have the Codfish such large Livers and why do they contain such vitalizing power?

Ten years ago fresh Creamery Butter was looked upon as a potent vitamin substance, but now it has been proven by Scientific Investigation that Cod Liver Oil is two hundred times more potent in these vitamins.

There appears to be no doubt that the Livers are a reserve storage of vitalizing power to carry the Codfish over the Winter and the spawning season from one year to another.

The very fact of the Livers of the Codfish being so lean when the fish are abundant and fed up with an abundance of supplies for which the waters of Newfoundland are so famous.

Mr. Johnson has come to the conclusion that Newfoundland Cod Liver Oil is twice as potent in Vitamin A and 12 to 18 times as potent in Antirachitic Vitamins as any other Cod Liver Oil produced elsewhere.

AN OLD REMEDY

For many years Cod Liver Oil has been used by the laity and the Medical Profession as a medicinal agent. Over two hundred years ago the Germans recorded its use in the treatment of Rheumatic conditions, and by some Physicians in France and England it was mentioned in Medical literature as an aid to build up nutrition in Tubercular patients. Old records show that in Guy's Hospital London, about one hogshead of the Oil was used annually. In time Cod Liver Oil took a decided slump, because medical men were not familiar with its chemical and biological nature.

ITS VALUE IN THE TREATMENT OF RICKETS.

It remained for Sherrick and Trussau to revive the use of the treatment of Rickets, a disease peculiar to children. Trussau reports that he treated a child in a family, that had failed to respond to other treatment by various celebrated Physicians of his day. On advice of a German butcher who mentioned that his son was afflicted with this peculiar (bone disease) but responded very satisfactorily when daily doses of Cod Liver Oil were administered. Trussau reports that the results of the Cod Liver Oil treatment in this particular family was so astonishing, and the child improved so rapidly that he consulted with his colleagues, but was unable to obtain any definite information as to the medicinal properties of the Oil. Finally, Mellenby, an English scientist working in his Laboratory in the interest of vitamins, experimented on puppy dogs with Rickets, and discovered that Cod Liver Oil effected a satisfactory cure. At first it was believed that the Vitamin A factor in the Oil was the active agent which produced the result, but other Scientists have carried on some extensive experiments, and the general belief to-day is that there are two factors in Cod Liver Oil which give it a prominent place in medicine, namely: the Vitamin A factor, which produces growth and cures eye troubles, and the Antirachitic factor, which influences the deposition of Calcium in the bones of Children who have been fed on an improperly balanced diet or ration. Having discovered these valuable features of Cod Liver Oil, the next step was to determine ways and means of producing an Oil of the highest potency.

THE SUPERIORITY OF NFD. OIL.

At the present time the principal countries that produce Cod Liver Oil, are Scotland, England, Norway, British Columbia, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and Japan. It seemed interesting and worth while to investigate the potency of these various Oils, and to test them out on experimental animals, therefore this piece of research work was carried on to definite conclusions, with the result that Newfoundland Oil proved to be the most active, which lead to the question as to why the Newfoundland products possessed these superior properties over others, and it was thought advisable to visit the Newfoundland Fisheries, for the purpose of learning something about the life history of the Cod, with a view of continuing the experiments and establishing some definite reasons as to why the Cod in the Newfoundland waters could store oil in their livers which contained more of the active principle than the Cod in other parts of the world.

Thanks to the assistance given us by the Department of Marine and Fisheries and Mr. W. A. Mann, and also to the various individual fishermen themselves, and to the use of the Microscope we were able to collect some data which seems reasonable.

First of all it would appear that the Newfoundland cod approach the shores after spawning is completed, and recuperates on a continuous diet of first caplin and then squib, both of these mollusks are found in abundance and form the principal food of the cod during the months of June, July, August and the early part of September. By gorging themselves, the fish become exceptionally fat, the livers become enlarged, and store up a considerable quantity of oil. In as much as the caplin and squid feed upon diatoms and plankton and are in turn devoured by the cod, it is reasonable to assume that in this manner the fat solution A and the Antirachitic vitamins are stored in the oil indirectly. We find that the oil obtained from the livers of the emaciated fish were not as potent in antirachitic value as the livers obtained from the fat conditioned fish, and in as much as the fish caught in some of the other countries are taken directly from the spawning banks or grounds, it is not surprising that such oils as were carefully tested were not as potent as the Newfoundland Oils in general.

SCIENTIFIC TESTS.

In order to test some of these Oils at sources of production we brought up 88 White Albino Rats. Through the kindness of Mr. Davies and Mr. D. Turner, of the Govt. Laboratory, these rats were properly taken care of and fed on a Rickets producing diet. When the rats were in proper condition for testing, the Nfd. Oil was added to the curative diet. In our previous work we found that as low as 1-4 (one quarter of one per cent.) would cure Rickets in rats in five days. This year these same experiments were duplicated and also in a few cases even better results were obtained with a dose as low as one-eighth of one per cent.

Perhaps the fishermen and other Newfoundlanders do not recognize that in this country they have a substance which is obtained in great abundance and which can be used by all the nations of the world to prevent the appearance of Rickets in the bones of young infants and children. Rickets, by the way, is not an unknown disease, and for safety's sake every baby, whether breast fed or bottle fed, should receive 30 drops of Cod Liver Oil at least twice a day, until the child is six years or older. If all babies were to receive this precious fluid, Rickets would probably be entirely prevented. We have observed considerable Rickets in Newfoundlanders, and this is quite astonishing, as Newfoundlanders have Cod Liver Oil at their back doors, but apparently they do not appreciate its great value.

MAKE OUR OIL PROCURABLE ABROAD.

It is also interesting to mention we were surprised to learn upon correspondence with some of the most prominent physicians in London, that it was impossible for them to obtain Newfoundland Cod Liver Oil from the leading chemists by prescription, and that these same chemists stocked nothing but Norwegian Oil. It seems to us that if Newfoundlanders themselves have failed to recognize and appreciate the value of their own oil, it should not be surprising that English physicians should fail to do so also, and it is suggested that the high potency of this Oil be brought to the attention of the medical men in London.

A Great Crook Story. "Kick In"

A MELO-DRAMA THAT WILL GRIP YOU, AT THE MAJESTIC MONDAY.

A story which teems with colorful action and takes the spectator back to the days of the Alaskan gold rush, is "The Siren Call," the Irvin Willat production for Paramount, which was the feature attraction at the Majestic Theatre last night.

This is one of the most delightful melo-dramas of the Yukon yet pictured. Dorothy Dalton is dazzling in her characterization of a dance hall girl who is torn between two emotions—love for a real man who appreciates her, and duty to a faithless, treacherous husband who is secretly plotting to desert her for another woman. It will be exhibited again tonight and no one should miss it. Monday, the greatest picture of them all, "Kick In," will be exhibited. A George Fitzmaurice production with Betty Compson and May McAvoy. This is the biggest crook-love melo-drama yet screened. A story of the underworld which will amuse you.

Is a man once a crook always a crook? Can he walk the straight road after leaving prison? Will the police aid him in his determination to live an honest life? These are questions that are answered by Chic Heaves' experiences in George Fitzmaurice's thrilling Paramount production which will be on view at the Majestic Theatre next week. It is packed with thrills.

Telescope That Tells the Time

WONDERS OF THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS OBSERVATORY.

For the reason that it is governed by rules forbidding admittance to any but astronomers and privileged visitors, Greenwich Observatory, which may soon be moved into more suitable surroundings, is at once the most famous and the least known institution of its kind in the world.

Greenwich Observatory is a monument to one of the few, really wise actions of Charles II. Founded by him in 1675, for "the promotion of astronomy and navigation," it was not until many years had elapsed that the public as a whole appreciated its usefulness.

Pestered by Cranks.

A good illustration of the ignorance that prevailed was shown by the fact that when, at the time of Queen Victoria's accession, Sir George Airy was appointed Astronomer Royal, or Assistant Observer, as the holder of the position was formerly known, he was inundated by letters addressed to "The Astrologist Royal," the writers of which begged him to cast their horoscopes, tell their fortunes, and so on.

Incidentally, the Astronomer Royal was also pestered by cranks who sought to impress him with their theories of the earth's flatness and other far-fetched ideas. This class of letter was put away in pigeon-holes, with sub-divisions for "earth-flatteners," "earth-squarers," and the rest, the whole collection being labelled "Insanity!"

Not everyone knows how Greenwich Mean Time is determined, although there is a widely-held belief that the sun is closely associated with the calculation. But the sun is by no means the safest of guides, being itself uncertain in its movements. At one season it may be ten minutes slow, while at another is may be ahead of correct time.

A check is kept at Greenwich in what is known as the Transit Room by means of a giant telescope, which can be focused on any part of the heavens when a particular star is due to cross the Greenwich meridian, or to be more precious, at exactly when the part of the earth turning on its axis brings the telescope in alignment with the star.

This checking process goes on constantly, the result being sent out hourly all over the country. Errors are corrected just before 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., but what mistakes there are seldom exceed two-tenths of a second—a remarkable testimony to the efficiency of the staff and the instruments.

Every day the Greenwich clock is adjusted to mark accurate time, and it is this clock which now ticks in the home of every wireless listener. Before the minute of time to be recorded, the preceding five seconds are accorded, the preceding five seconds are heard as clicks; the time signal itself, falling on the exact zero, is heard as a louder click than the others. These clicks are the sound of the escape wheel, which is permitted to touch a spring with six successive teeth. This makes an electrical contact, which transmits a current direct to the London broadcasting station's aerial. The personal factor is thereby entirely eliminated.

One of the most curious tasks for which the official astronomers are responsible consists of "baking" the chronometers used in the Royal Navy. Every chronometer is tested at the Observatory, those required on extended cruises in varying climates kept apart for two months in an oven heated to a temperature of 90 degrees.

Inspection of the Observers' registers, in which are entries relating to the testing of chronometers over many years, sheds sidelights on more than one famous episode. On one page, for instance, you may see particulars of several chronometers bought in 1842 by the side of which appears the note, "Lost in the wreck of Birkenhead."

The chronometer issued to Sir John Franklin for his ill-fated trip to the Far Northwest is recorded, with the

JUNIOR FOOTBALL.
Game Ends In Draw.
The Holy Cross and B.S. teams fought for the points at St. George's Field last night, in a downpour of rain. Despite the water soaked ball and slippery condition of the field, both teams put up a creditable exhibition, the game ending in a draw, one goal each.

Defending the eastern goal, the B.S. players opened matters with a rush and before five minutes had elapsed they had opened the scoring. Chase and O'Neill combining, doing the needful. For the balance of the period play was general with advantages slightly in favor of the B.S., but no further scoring resulted.

Second Half.
Upon facing off, the Holy Cross lads made a determined attack to equalize matters, but through good defence work, no goals resulted. The game continued on with honors about evenly divided, and many were the narrow escapes on the opposing goals. After twenty-five minutes of play with darkness quickly setting in, the Holy Cross forwards made a combined dash up field, and through the efforts of Dooley and Neville, the ball was landed in the desired spot, equalizing the score. During the remaining few minutes of play strenuous efforts were made by both teams to score the winning goal, but nothing further resulted.

Mr. W. B. Skinner was referee.

The I. a. s. New York price is 13 1/2 @ 13 3/4 cents. Conditions abroad have exerted a direct influence upon the market here due to the favorable reports from London indicating an Inter-Allied agreement.
American consumption shows an actual increase lately, with the Continental Valley brass mills operating on a more satisfactory basis. Consumers are more anxious to replace depleted supplies, and the immediate prospects would seem to be for a firm market.
If the drastic curtailment plans are fully carried out at the Cerro de Pasco mines there is every prospect of a further gradual strengthening of the statistical position.

AN UNIQUE VALEDICTORY.

What One Bank President Wrote to His Depositors.
(From Boston News Bureau, Aug. 7.)
Boston—Two upstate New York banking institutions recently consolidated. The president of one of them, long in the service, notified his depositors that he was about to step down and that new interests would henceforth be in control. He concluded the letter to his depositors with the following unusual valedictory: "As we close our official relations with you may we say, in the words of a little old French Canadian trapper up in the Saskatchewan country when bidding farewell to some friends: 'May you always have a safe tent and no sickness as you journey. May you always have a cache for your provisions and provisions for your cache. May you never find a tree that will not yield her sap, or a field that will not grow grain. May your bees never freeze in winter. May their honey be rich and heavy, and may the comb crush in your teeth like the snow of your youth. May you have hearts like the morning, and may you come slow to the four-corners where man says 'Good Night.'"

An Artistic Display
In the West End window of James Baird, Ltd., there is now a very beautiful and artistic display which has been attracting considerable attention during the past few days. Many preparations appropriate to the vacation season are arranged in an attractive manner. Beautiful summer toilet requisites, prominent among which are THREE FLOWERS goods, are neatly shown in their gorgeous and dainty dress. The window looks very attractive and has not only created interest in the goods displayed, but has considerably increased the sales of these popular preparations.

Salted Babies

Salt plays a curious part in christening ceremonies in some countries. The Armenians cover a new-born infant's skin with finely powdered salt. After being left on for three hours, the salt is washed off with warm water. A mountain tribe of Asia Minor leaves the baby covered in this way for twenty-four hours.

The Greeks sprinkle their babies with salt at the christening, a custom that also marks the naming of children in some parts of Germany.

Worms Have Memories

It was shown by a recent experiment that the earthworm has memory and can be trained.
Worms were introduced into a passage shaped like a letter T, and covered with a glass plate so that the movements of the little creatures might be observed. When they came to the junction about half the number turned one way and the other half the other way.
Then the apparatus was arranged so that the worms that took the left-hand passage received a mild but presumably disagreeable electric shock. At first the worms did not know what to make of this, but after they had been through the experience about two hundred times, they nearly all took the right-hand turn.
When the electrodes were then moved to the right-hand passage the worms learned to shift to the other passage after only thirty-five trials, evidently showing something more than the operation of chance.
Earthworms have no brain in the human sense; their nervous systems consist of a series of little ganglions, or nerve centers, connected with each other by nerve fibres.

Double Dyeing
Several years ago there was developed a process for dyeing in two colours—in patterns—with a single dipping.
This apparent contradiction is resolved into common sense when it is explained that the fabrics for treatment were woven in silk, and cotton materials, dyes being used which would "take" on cotton but not silk, and vice versa.
The goods being dipped in a mixture of two such dyes, one would colour the cotton, and one the silk, and the desired effect would be obtained.
It is now possible to use the double dye process for a very wide range of effects, instead of being limited to about six simple colours. There are now about 700 methods, and the process is regarded as of prime importance to the weaving and hosiery industries of Britain.

The Pirate Tramcar
Discussing the London omnibus "pirates," "Travel by Road" mentions a Portuguese who ran "pirate" tramcars on a Lisbon company's rails.
His vehicles were designed to wheel easily off the track, to avoid obstruction charges, and when the company sued for trespass the authorities replied that if they left rails lying in the street they could not object to people using them. In spite of surprise alterations in gauge and type of rail, the pirate prospered and was finally bought out.

The Proposed Loan

At first glance, the suggestion of the Government to raise a loan of $6,000,000 awakens apprehension, in view of the enormous debt with which the country is already overburdened, but a closer study shows that the sum is to be applied for the most part to definite and specific purposes, namely the provision or maintenance of public utilities, and not to meet current expenses as has been too often the case in the past.

Table listing estimated costs for various infrastructure projects: Building Roads and Highways ($2,000,000), Rolling Stock on Government Railway ($500,000), Estimated cost of new Steamer on Gulf of St. Lawrence ($400,000), etc.

We have previously advocated the raising of a loan for the purpose of providing the country with good roads in order to encourage farming operations, to facilitate transportation between places at present isolated, and to encourage tourist traffic.

A new syrup has made its appearance on the local market this week and has met with a great reception. It is different from any syrup that has yet appeared here, being very highly concentrated—two teaspoonfuls being sufficient to make a delicious glass of refreshing beverage.

An improved steamship service between Port aux Basques and Sydney has long been overdue. The increased traffic of recent years has made it impossible to cope with it, with the result that business firms have been seriously inconvenienced by delay in shipments of goods, and passengers have been compelled to submit to all kinds of unnecessary annoyances.

It is gratifying to learn that at last an effort is to be made to enable the port of St. John's to fulfill the purpose for which Nature designed it. With an improved dock, a thoroughly equipped machine shop, up-to-date pier and freight sheds, and modern facilities to supply ships with fuel, we shall have taken the preliminary steps towards bringing St. John's into line with other seaport towns of similar size and importance.

As with a business firm determined to extend its operations, so with a Government with similar objects in view, the raising of a loan becomes a necessity, and we trust that the same principles followed by the former will be rigidly observed by the latter.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

August 16th.—Much rain all the day, to my great discontent, being caught in the showers without my topcoat and am soaked with water. I took much pleasure this day in reading Mr. Morine's discourse on Prohibition, which he made in the Council, and is as fine a piece of oratory as ever my esteemed ancestor made before the commons on the matter of Tangles. Mr. Morine, being a Prohibitionist, yet sees the evils of the Act, and is confident that the new law will improve conditions, in the which, I trust he is right.

Aged Citizen Dies of Grief

HALIFAX, Aug. 15. The three ships of the world touring British special squadron, the Hood, Repulse and Adelaide, sailed at 7.45 this morning, their departure being practically unnoted. On August 11 the two British battleships and the Australian light cruiser were out of the harbor in a bank of dense fog, five miles from Chobeote Head. It was believed to be the first bit of fog in the vicinity in six weeks, but it held up the mightiest fighting ship, while fifteen miles away thousands of people swarmed in the sun along the shores of the harbor, and on the shoreposts and waterfront, waiting hours to catch a glimpse of the war craft. This morning, after almost a week of continuous rain which had curtailed all the city's plans to entertain the sailors, the three vessels dropped silently out of the harbor, and probably less than a hundred people saw them go.

Customs Officer at Battle Harbor

SAYS FISHERY WORST EVER KNOWN THERE. The following information has been received by the Deputy Minister of Customs from Customs Officer Moses Bartlett, Battle Harbor:—"Fishery prospects are very poor, the worst I have ever known here. Had a schooner here yesterday from Bell Island—there are 25 schooners there with an average of 300 qts. each and getting a little fish every day with trap. From Cape Charles West to Red Bay the fishery is what I call a failure, traps do not average 10 qts. each, hook and liners have done nothing at all. Herring struck in here this morning and nets secured from one to two barrels each. If herring remain it will give the fishermen plenty of bait and it is hoped that the fall fishery may be good."

Seeds Auctioned

A quantity of seeds, fertilizers and other articles were disposed of by Auction at the Agriculture and Mines Office to-day by Mr. R. K. Holden. There was but a small attendance. Wooden Catboats Built on Concrete

An eastern manufacturer of catboats uses a concrete form on which to assemble them, thus cutting his finishing time in half and assuring complete uniformity. Slots in the concrete are provided for the cross pieces, to which are nailed the centerboard, sides, and bottom boards of the boat. The block not only provides a solid working base to hammer against, but enables the builder to keep the construction uniform and true without the necessity of constant measurement. The concrete form weighs about seven tons. The completed boat is 16 feet long, six feet beam, and is designed to carry a 25-foot mast and 225 square feet of sail.

Giant Lobsters Caught Off the Jersey Coast

Two of the largest lobsters ever caught were taken recently from their deep-sea haunts and placed on exhibition in the New York Museum of Natural History. The largest specimen weighed 34 pounds, was nearly three feet long, and was estimated to be 50 years old. It carried many scars on its body from fierce marine combats. The smaller one weighed 23 pounds. The haunts of these two submarine marauders were of the Highlands of New Jersey, where their enormous strength and size enabled them to destroy and rob traps that were too small to catch them. They were finally brought to the surface clinging to the outside of an ordinary fish trap that they had been robbing.

DE VALERA AT ENNIS.

DUBLIN, Aug. 15. The address which Eamonn De Valera is to make at Ennis to-day, is awaited with general interest, as it is supposed he will take up the threads of the speech he was making there just a year ago when arrested by the Free State authorities, and that he will reaffirm the Republican party policy. Joseph Devlin, Ulster Nationalist, will have something important to say regarding the attitude of the latter on the boundary question.

PORT MOLLER, Alaska, Aug. 16. William Sullivan, a freeman at the Fish Hatchery, reported to-day to the Pacific American Fisheries Cannery Station here, that he had found the airplane wrecked on April 30 by Major Frederick L. Martin, Commander of the flight around the world. Sullivan says the plane struck on gradually sloping ground but that there was not a mountain within a mile of the spot. Sullivan expressed the opinion that the plane had been flying very low when it hit the slope. He stated that if the machine had been a hundred and fifty feet from the ground it would have crashed in the water.

C.N.R. FACES HEAVY LOSS.

CALGARY, Aug. 16. The people of Canada must face the unpleasant possibility that the loss on operation of Canadian National Lines will be from thirteen to fifteen million dollars for 1924, much of which is due to the bad business in the United States, where the Canadian National has a large and productive mileage. This caution was given by Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railway to members of the Board of Trade at a luncheon given to-day to Sir Henry and his party.

EGYPTIAN GOVERNMENT'S SURPRISING DEMANDS.

An official communique has been issued by the Egyptian Government, according to Exchange Telegraph despatches from Cairo, stating that the Egyptian Minister to London has been instructed to lodge a formal protest with the British Government against measures taken in the Sudan. The Minister has also been instructed, it is added, to urge the necessity of suspending all trials, pending the establishment of the Egyptian Sudanese and a commission to examine the present situation, fix the responsibilities and to take measures to calm public feeling and avoid bloodshed.

A REQUEST TO MOTORISTS

FOR KIND CONSIDERATION. It has been brought to the attention of the Newfoundland Motor Association that there are several thousand people in the city who do not own motor cars and who walk to Bowring Park on Sunday and holiday afternoons. It is a well-known fact that these citizens are deluged with dust in the fine weather and often spattered with mud in wet weather, as however careful a driver may be, it is usually impossible not to raise dust and sometimes it is impossible to prevent splashing when driving through the mud. The Association has therefore decided to issue a personal request to Motorists generally not to use the Southside Road on Sunday, Holiday and Half Holiday afternoons, thereby affording the many people in the city who do not own cars an opportunity to walk to the Park in some degree of comfort on Sundays and holidays. (This request, of course, does not apply to motorists living on the Southside nor motorists wishing to call at houses on the Southside on these afternoons). This is an appeal to Motorists, not an order nor a demand. A little consideration is all that is asked and the Association believes that Motorists, generally, are considerate. Money Cleaned by a Washing Machine

The term "filthy lucre" has been banned from the English language as far as a certain Los Angeles hotel is concerned, by the installation of a coin-washing machine in which all money received by the hotel is cleaned before being returned to the guests in the form of change. A rule is in effect in this particular hotel that no money that has not been washed and made sanitary and new appearance is to be given out to cashiers, waiters, and other employees to the hotel guests.

Child Welfare

HEALTHY BABIES.

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

SLEEP—We will still talk of Toddlers this week. Sleep is just as important as food. Too often after a baby is a year old his bed-time gets later and later, and later, so one of the most important things for his health is robbed from him. Send all the little boys and girls to bed at half past six (6.30 P.M.) and then they will get a good twelve hours sleep. Also it is good for him to have an hour's sleep in the day time. His mind as well as his body needs plenty of sleep.

WEST END CENTRE—Our West End Centre is open. Our first day was most successful. We had some of the bonniest babies, and now it is going to be fine watching their weights go up and keeping them well. Lady Crosbie very kindly came on our opening day and spoke to the mothers. She hoped they would take every advantage of the Centre as it was such a great thing to have well and healthy children; and we in Newfoundland wanted good Mothers for the "Hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," and it was healthy men and women we wanted in the future. Lady Crosbie gave a prize to the heaviest baby under six months, and the bonniest twins under six. Baby Forbes who was three months old was 17 lbs. 4 ozs, babies Wall who were only a month old were the bonniest twins. We want all the new babies of the West End to come to this Centre.

DENTAL CLINIC—The August Dental Clinic is on Monday the 18th. All Mothers who are having trouble with their teeth and are nursing their babies, or any children under five years who have bad teeth, come and see the dentist.

OFFICIAL SYNOPSIS.

THURSDAY (Contd.)

Mon. A. B. Morine (contd.)—All prosecutions under the Bill are to be adjourned by the Board, before Stipendiary Magistrates, and penalties not less than ten dollars nor more than two hundred, for a first offence, with imprisonment in default of payment, and not less than two hundred dollars nor more than one thousand, for a second or subsequent offence, may be imposed. Appeals must be to the Supreme Court, but all remedies by writs of quarranto, mandamus, injunction and certiorari to remove proceedings, are taken away, in the interest of speedy trial and prompt judgment.

ONLY JUSTIFICATION FOR PROHIBITION.

Some people (a small minority, I think, of whom I am not and never was one) object to the drinking of alcoholic liquor of any kind, even in moderation, as a sin, and to these people any measure permitting its legal sale is anathema. A very large number of people (of whom I have been one and till am one), who were proved in 1915 to be a majority in this Colony, hold it proper to prohibit its sale as a beverage, even to moderate drinkers, for the purpose of ending the terrible curse to the community caused by drunkenness, if possible. The Prohibition Act was regarded by them as a justifiable interference with the individual liberty, even of moderate drinkers, but justifiable only if it ended or greatly modified drunkenness and its attendant wretchedness, and not justifiable if merely an annoying interference, not doing great good, but causing many evils, and alienating the sympathies of many estimable people with all forms of temperance endeavor, ranging them on the side of lawbreakers of many kinds and degrees. A very large part of the Colony's population were from the outset opposed to prohibition, some, it is true, because they were "wets," but many because they were experienced and wise enough to foresee evils to which ardent prohibitionists were blind, evils which have undoubtedly followed. The first evils were adulterated intoxicants and wide-spread moonshining, then came bootlegging and smuggling, and then came government acquiescence and partnership in law evasion, and then wide-spread, almost universal law-breaking, not only concerning alcoholic liquors, but many other matters of daily life also, and if adulterating and moonshining have decreased since, it is largely because smuggling has been unchecked, and the Controller's office has, until recently, been wide open for consumers. The Colony's Government consented to become a partner with the rum brigade of America, and to aid the rum pirates and bootleggers of a continent similar in principle so that we had no unctuously adopted as our own. Well, Sir, this Bill is based on the proposition that the endeavor to prohibit alcoholic liquor as a beverage in this Colony has failed, has brought great evils in its train, and that it must be abandoned in an attempt to bring about better conditions in this respect that exist to-day. This Bill will not initiate the sale of liquor as a beverage, it will legalize it. We have failed to make practices conform with the law, and this Bill aims to make the law conform with better practices. We cannot prohibit, therefore we seek to regulate. We hope to enlist on the side of law enforcement that large body of moderate drinkers and thinkers who have been out of sympathy with prohibition, and with their aid to rigidly enforce a law which, while it provides reasonable facilities for moderate drinking, aims to make immoderate drinking impossible, and drunkenness a forgotten vice.

NOTABLE PROVISIONS.

I wish to draw particular notice to the following provisions in this Bill: No person shall— (1) Possess a still or other implement of a kind commonly used for the manufacture of alcoholic liquor (except a person holding a permit of the Board to manufacture wine and beer), and the possession of such a still or implement shall be prima facie proof of a violation hereof, and unless the innocence of the accused is proved to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, he shall be held to be guilty of a violation of this section, and shall be liable to imprisonment, without the option of a fine, for three months for the first offence, and for six months for a second or subsequent offence; or (2) Consume any alcoholic liquor in any public place; or (3) Be in an intoxicated condition in any public place; or (4) Sell any alcoholic liquor to any person apparently under the influence of alcoholic liquor; or (5) Permit drunkenness to take place in any house or on any premises of which he is the owner, tenant or occupant; or (6) Permit or suffer any person apparently under the influence of alcoholic liquor to consume any alcoholic liquor in any house or on any premises of which the latter named person is owner, tenant or occupant; or (7) Give any alcoholic liquor to any person apparently under the influence of alcoholic liquor.

"Public Place" includes any place, building or conveyance to which the public has or is permitted to have access, and any place of public resort, including any shop or store in which any goods are exposed for sale, but not a hotel, club or banquet in respect of which a permit has been granted hereunder.

JOINT SELECT COMMITTEE.

In the Joint Select Committee on this Bill, a repeal of the Prohibition Act, and the substitution of a measure allowing the sale of alcoholic liquor as a beverage, was adopted by a large majority without any party distinction. On two succeeding days, opportunities to discuss the principle and details of the Bill were given. On the first occasion, one citizen only made helpful suggestions as to details, and on the occasion deputations were heard, who intentionally avoided any discussion of details, but made various suggestions as to why the Bill should not be proceeded with at this session. Some of the female speakers confined themselves to familiar arguments in favor of temperance, but not one of these attempted to show in any way how temperance could be advanced by a lawless continuance of the present conditions, and how those conditions could be ended. The male speakers were only in agreement on the plea for delay, but were not unanimous in their objects in asking delay, and upon the whole it appeared as though they pleaded for delay not to improve the Bill, but to defeat any measure negating the principle of prohibition. One, for instance, said that a mandate had made prohibition law, and "British fair play" required that it should only be repealed by another law, but when asked if by this he meant that a referendum, costing perhaps one hundred thousand dollars, should be held to decide this question, his answer was inconclusive, and another prominent associated speaker said "Yes," and yet another said "No, not necessarily," and made the remark which implied that he wished that an opportunity should be afforded, by delay, to create a public agitation, during which it should be decided whether a referendum should or should not be held; by which he really meant, I think, that he would favor a referendum if sure its results would be as he wanted, and oppose it if he thought the result would be in favor of repeal. The plea most strongly insisted on was for delay, upon the ground that the Premier's Manifesto had promised an "ample" opportunity to discuss the details of an alternative measure to prohibition, and such an opportunity had not been afforded, to the surprise of many.

especially. The Premier's reply was, that the opportunity already offered, and which would be extended, if need be, had not been availed of in the slightest degree by those present, or by others, to be helpful as to details, and it had not been argued that by any greater delay any really valuable suggestions could be hoped for. It was the intention to appoint a Commission of Inquiry after the Bill passed into law, and all suggestions worth while could be added to the law by way of amendment, with the advantage gained from experience of the working of the new law. He could not see that present lawless conditions should be allowed to continue, and felt that some attempt to regulate existing practices now lawless ought to be made without a delay which could do no real good. He had promised to repeat the Prohibition Act, had made that at least perfectly clear on every platform he had spoken from, and felt he was elected to "clear up," if he could, this dirtiest of all offences in the Colony.

NOT IN GOOD FAITH.

Upon the whole, I was impressed with this conviction, that the arguments for a referendum and for delay were not made in good faith, in this sense, that they were by people who had no thought whatever of supporting any Bill not strictly prohibitory in its nature, that what they really wanted was a measure making the Prohibition Act stricter, and more readily enforceable, and that nothing short of this would in any sense or degree meet their desires. They were, I thought, not asking a delay to make the details of this Bill more desirable, but to give an opportunity for emotional appeals against it, during which its details would be misrepresented, and rhetorical exaggerations would be made. In the course of the discussion, I put forward this proposition:—I said, "many of our population are unconcerningly opposed to the principle of prohibition, and regard it as an unjustifiable interference with personal liberty. They have no sympathy with its enforcement. Many who favored prohibition are for various reasons now unconvinced that it is unenforceable. Composed as it is at present, a majority of members of the Assembly will not support any amendments of the Prohibition Act designed to make it stricter. As it is, it is a hopeless failure, a breeder of all forms of lawlessness. Is it not, then, preferable that an attempt should be made to pass a law regulating an existing traffic now lawless, in the hope that a reasonable measure of regulation may command the sympathy and support of the vast majority of our people, and so make the law enforceable, thereby at least decreasing lawlessness, decreasing moonshining, decreasing smuggling, and possibly also decreasing the consumption of spirits." That, Sir, is in brief the justification for this Bill, and is why I ask the House to pass it.

AMUSING ASSERTIONS.

I was much amused by the remarks of one ardent speaker before the Joint Committee, who argued (1) in favor of the "old fashioned open saloon," as opposed to supplying a bottle under the Bill for private consumption, (2) that hotels would be more prosperous without the privilege of selling wines and beer to travellers at dining tables during meals, citing in support the great increase of hotels in American cities since prohibition was made law, and (3) the completion of which Province both he and I are natives. Why, Sir, if any argument of temperance workers is familiar to our ears, it is that the open saloon, with its bright lights, its good cheer, and its treating habits, was the bane of the world, and yet in the eyes of the speaker I could almost see enthusiasm for the good old days when they existed. It is generally admitted that drunkenness in our streets is not so offensively exhibited as before the Prohibition Act. The very speaker to whose remarks I am referring asserted that a decrease in arrests for drunkenness had resulted from the Act. It is also generally admitted that the wives and children of manual laborers and artisans are better clothed and fed than in the days of the "good old fashioned saloon." It will not, however, be generally admitted that these improved conditions are due to any scarcity in the liquor supply. Moonshining, smuggling, and "scrags" and the evils with which in the near past, if not now, supplies could be got, even from the Controller's office, negates that argument. In so far as improvement is due to prohibition, it is ascribable in the main to the closing of the open saloons, with their invitations to the unwary good fellows who went in to get a drink, treated and was treated, and remained there until his week's pay was gone. Many people say with deep conviction that the closing of such saloons is the only good which has come from the Prohibition Act. As for the increase of hotels in great cities, it is due, of course, to increase of population, of business, and perhaps to restlessness since prohibition, on the part of those who in the past stayed quietly at home, or were habitués of "good old fashioned saloons." Hotels in great cities, to which people can eat and drink there the things they like, and who will not come to the comparatively limited food and accommodation we can now give them. Hotel operators have offered to come here to operate hotels if permitted to sell wine and beer to their guests, and have refused to come if not permitted, and these men are better authorities on these matters than the Reverend gentleman who misunderstood the significance of the hotel figures he quoted. As for Nova Scotia, I desire to say that I am not convinced of the completeness of prohibition there, but that long before prohibition was adopted, Nova Scotia, with its "wild-winded slopes" was the baneful temperance province of British North America, and has not greatly changed in this respect in the half century I can remember it.

DEBATE IN ASSEMBLY. The discussions amongst members of the Joint Select Committee, and the debates in the Assembly, presented certain notable, one might rather say, reasonable, features. Not one man said a word in defence of the Prohibition Act or its effects. Not one man, so far as I can recall, advocated its amendment and enforcement. Not one of the three men who refused to sign the Committee report in favour of this Bill proposed an amendment or an alternative in Committee, or in any way either criticized it favorably or unfavorably. In the debate in the Assembly, the opposition to the Bill has been confined to pleas for delay, but the pleaders even there indicated no increase of which they thought the Bill could be made better, or suggested any better Bill. The majority of the advocates for delay had been delaying ever since 1921 over the report made by the Commission appointed by the Squires Government in that year. One was a member of governments that for seven years aided in the violation of the Prohibition Act, and others were supporters of those governments through all those years. The majority of the objectors took part or supported the scandalous misconduct of the Squires government. In this regard, from 1919 to its fall in 1923, and now their only contribution to the debates on this Bill is an appeal for delay.

COMMISSION REPORT, 1921.

I propose to publish as an addenda to my speech the Report of the Royal Commission appointed in 1921 to inquire into the operation of the Prohibition Act. It is a remarkable document for many reasons. The Commission was unanimous in its findings. In the quality of its membership it was a strong Commission, professionally, intellectually, denominationally, and in breadth of view. I agree with its findings as to matters of fact, and in almost every one of its recommendations. It is a remarkable fact that I did not read the report until I had completed the draft of the Bill now before you, yet with few exceptions the recommendations in the report are reflected in the Bill, and more also. Dope, Moonshine, Smuggling—these followed one another, say the report, as results of the Prohibition Act. I finally the report recommended that every family, sick or well, should be allowed spirits, wine and beer every three months. No stronger temperance man than Dr. Levi Curtis and Dr. Jones were ever known in this Colony, yet their hands are to that report. The evils they deplored admittedly existed, the legislation they recommended was urgently needed, and yet the men who pious-holed that report, who suppressed its publication, and never attempted to carry it out, are posing to-day as temperance advocates, and pleading for delay. "Manana"—"tomorrow"—should be the badge of their party.

UP FROM PORT UNION HAS COME UPON THIS MATTER A VOICE AS FROM ONE LONG

politically dead, Sir Wm. Coaker has sent an incoherent cry for delay. He wants "a bottle twice a month, and light wines and beers for travellers," and he threatens dire things to the Government if it permits "any further departure from the principles of temperance." This from one who in 1920 agreed that his government should sell $485,000 worth of liquor "for sickness." This from a man who kept Meany in office as Controller. This from one who aided the Colony to become a base for rum-running into the United States. This from a member of the Government which shelved the Curtis-Jones report. This from one who for many years arbitrarily controlled the government under which the Prohibition Act became a scandal and a reproach, the friend of moonshiners, and the partner of rum-runners. The hypocrisy of it all is not the least revolting part.

PLEAS FOR DELAY.

Delay to permit the holding of a Referendum (if that be desirable) is a reasonable request, but we do not think a Referendum desirable. But delay to consider details is not reasonable, not desirable, and ought not to be granted. How can the complexity of this Bill be intelligently discussed before it has been enacted and published. Then it can be seen in working, and understood, and all desirable amendments be enacted. I cannot agree, therefore, that there are any merits in the plea for delay, to discuss the details of this Bill. In the first place, the details are necessarily many and technical, and com-

 reward, by the way, I have received was, that the speakers for a deputation, a few days ago, misrepresented my advice, to instigate my inconsistency in supporting this Bill. But, Sir, the leadership of the Prohibitionists of the country had been accorded to, and accepted by certain individuals; they were regarded by the people at large as leaders in whom confidence could be reposed; and after the Prohibition Act was enacted they continued to pose as such leaders. It is altogether fair, then, to regard them as chiefly responsible for the astounding inactivity on the part of temperance advocates that followed upon the adoption of the Act, especially after 1919. Up to that year, "dope" (such as essence of Lemon) and patent medicines (such as Tanlac) were the most troublesome eye-products of Prohibition and it will be remembered that delegations to the Government demanding prohibition Ordinances in Council were frequent. Then came the "Moonshine" trouble, when I, as Minister of Justice, had to advise the Governor to send H.H.S. Cornwall to Flat Islands, Bonavista Bay, to enforce upon certain of my constituents that respect for the law and its officers they were bound to show. Almost immediately after the Squires Government came into power, the charges against the men who had been arrested were dropped, and the Magistrate who had been most prominent in asserting the law was backed, as it were, as a punishment for duty done. The man who brought this about, by the way, was he whose voice is now heard from Port Union in asserting the sacredness of the Prohibition Act. I was defeated in Bonavista Bay, and Magistrate Miffen was banished, and who among all the influential Prohibitionist leaders lifted voice or pen in our defence?

A PLEA.

Is this too much to ask from life: A little home with laughter in it, A time of rest to follow strife, A nearby goal and strength to win it.

Health for the needful daily task? Dear Lord, is that too much to ask?

Teach me contentment, Lord, I pray With all the joys which now surround me;

Let me not look across the way Envious of that which has not found me;

Teach me with fortitude to keep My little home from hatred's cheap.

I do not ask a life of ease, No doubts, no fears, no cares to carry;

Never to face a wintry breeze, To wish to leave and yet to tarry;

I ask but this: what'er befall, Faith to sustain me through it all.

Teach me to choose 'twixt false and true, To scorn the sham where'er I find it.

To take full pride in what I do, And leave no bitterness behind it;

To live my life without regret In spite of what I lose or get.

Lord, make me big enough to fill My place without too much complaining;

To bear my share of good or ill, The sun of June and April's raining—

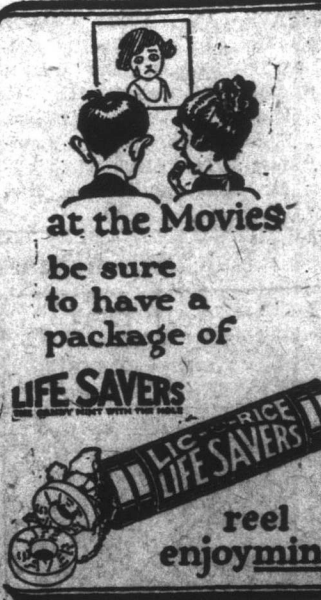

To see through both the weal and woe, And know that souls are fashioned so.

THOSE HURT FEELINGS.

A friend of mine who was under her doctor's care for a suspicious appendix, went on a visit to some cousins in her old home town. All her old friends were delighted to see her again and wanted to entertain her in one way or another. Invitations for lunch and tea and dinner came pouring in. She was anxious to see them as they were close and accepted the invitations, being to be able to rest between meals so that the pleasures should not be too much for her.

At first this did very well, but toward the end of the visit she began to feel more and more tired. And on the last day of her stay, instead of being ready to go home she was hurried to the hospital for an emergency operation.

"I Knew She'd Be Hurt."

When I saw her some weeks afterwards as she lay trying to get back her strength after the operation, she said: "I really think I could have avoided this if I hadn't gone out to my cousins that Wednesday. I had to go to the trolley and it's quite a ride and when I walk up that hill, I didn't feel well when I woke up that morning and I thought of calling her up and asking her to excuse me; but she wasn't any other time I could get to see her and I knew she'd be hurt. She'd say I managed to get to see her and I knew she'd be hurt. She'd say I managed to get to see her and I knew she'd be hurt."

"She'd Think It Was Queer."

How often we are moved by these things. "She'd be awfully hurt; she'd think it was queer; she'd be hurt; and so on to do things that we know perfectly well we are under no obligation to do. Or even things, such as in this case, we know perfectly well we have no right to do. Of course it is a commendable thing to try not to hurt people's feelings, unnecessarily, to keep off their pet corners in the way of prejudices, to be courteous and grateful and thoughtful and considerate.

Do you remember in Dorothy Canfield's last book how Marise, to whom her old friend has given white roses, the flower above all that she has a reason to hate, thinks as she tries to look at and act gratefully: "What a lot of this sort of thing there is to do if you don't want to hurt people's feelings or let them suspect what you don't want them to know."

Just Let Them Think.

Of course that is the sort of thing most decent people do. But to allow people to seriously interfere with your life because you are trying not to hurt their feelings (when they really have no good reason to be hurt) isn't in the least commendable or necessary. It's downright nonsense I think. And no kindness to the people either. For people who have such delicate feelings need to have those feelings toughened. If they don't toughen them they are going to have trouble with them all through their lives. People who have more robust feelings are infinitely happier. And if you treat these super-sensitive folks in a matter of fact way that will help make their feelings more robust you do them a kindness.

In addition to which you give yourself, and those inextricably connected with you, a square deal.

Mosquito Time

Most people know by experience how flies, mosquitoes and such summer pests can mar an otherwise delightful outing. It is true that all people are not equally susceptible to the bites of insects. Some persons suffering comparatively little inconvenience from their attacks while others again fall an early victim of the first mosquito or mosquito that comes their way. The effect also varies very much with different people, but everyone should be prepared with a simple remedy. To prevent an attack, two classes of weapons must be kept in store. One to keep the company at bay or prevent a sting, by the other a preparation to be applied directly one is a victim.

On Sills and Windows.

Hot weather means plenty of open windows, and consequently an invasion of summer flies and pests, but if the woodwork of the windows is washed every morning, with a solution of quassa, it will often be very effective in keeping them out of the rooms. Take one ounce of quassa chips, add to them four pints of cold water, and leave them to stand for half an hour and then pour off the solution and it is ready for use. Cold water should be used because then the solution will keep better than if made in hot water. A good disinfectant can be used instead of quassa, if the smell is not objected to. A good many people consider them too medicinal.

Effect of Flowers.

Strong scented flowers should not be used in a room if summer pests are very plentiful, as these attract them. Comonile flowers as excellent as a defence against midges as the flowering heads crushed down can be used to dust over the window sills. Oil of peppermint is another useful thing to keep them at bay, and so is oil of lavender, but the latter is supposed to attract moth. Nothing is really better than a solution of diluted ammonia, but unfortunately this will rust any metal that is in its neighbourhood and also "spot" colored materials, so it must be used with caution. Evening is the time when pests are most active and the light in bedrooms attract them, so it is worth a little trouble to keep them out and ensure a good night's rest. A white muslin curtain dipped into a solution of quassa and then placed across the open window will act as a useful barrier; if a small bowl of quassa solution is placed on the ground or on a table close by, and one end of the muslin is standing in the bowl, the curtain will keep moist throughout the night since the moisture will creep up.

Making the Tilet.

The bath must be used as a special means of fortifying one's self against bites and stings. Add to the bath water some toilet ammonia or a cloudy ammonia solution. As soon as the body has been dried a preparation must be used that will keep away pests; it may be a powder or a lotion, if it is the latter let it dry on, do not wipe it off. A little menthol mixed with an ordinary toilet powder will be found very effective, and will be quite harmless to the under-garments. It is now possible to obtain from the druggist excellent preparations against insect attacks which should be included in the toilet outfit for summer holidays.

For Face and Neck.

A touch of cream on the face is sufficient to prevent a bite or sting, unless it is from a fairly large pest; it is a proof against midges, at least, and if there is a little powder it is an added safeguard, but let the powder have its anti-sting ingredient such as a little menthol.

When discussing how to protect the face, one must not forget the neck, for it is just as important, both for comfort and appearance sake. In putting on cream or powder let it go right under the top of the frock, for these tiny foes have a habit of creeping underneath it. If there is any fear of a cream greasing the frock use only powder on the neck. At bedtime use plenty of toilet cream on the

Loan to Restore Devastated Areas

During the month of May last, the Credit National made the following payments on account of the French Government to inhabitants of the devastated regions for losses and damages sustained during the war:

Claims definitely recognized	Number of payments	Value of payments in 1000s francs.
Capital	61,032	149,933
Interest	26,271	17,273
Advances on indemnities	841	17,273
Total for the month of May	88,145	187,505
Total for the previous months	7,760,656	24,162,587

Grand total of payments made by the Credit National since its foundation up to May 31 7,838,761 24,350,792

The Bankers' Trust Company of New York is further advised by its French Information Service that, at the general meeting held on June 3, the Council of Administration of the Credit National decided to authorize the granting of further loans to Commerce and Industry in the North of France up to a limit of 7,270,000 francs. This brings the total value of money lent out by the Credit National for the purpose of helping former business and trades people to set up again in their home towns up to 441,861,489 francs.

face. A little cream should also be rubbed into the hands to protect them if in the country when gloves are not worn.

Cure for Stings.

A bite or sting must be treated promptly for the longer the delay the worse it will be. Unfortunately the first aid remedies are not always at hand, but when the weather is hot, and winged pests abound and their attacks are expected, it is a wise precaution to have a simple remedy with one.

Buy a small tube or pot of a special preparation that can be relied upon to counteract the sting.

If the poison is neutralized at once the inflammation will not extend and the disfigurement and irritation will be slight.

After the bite or sting has received first aid, if there is much irritation a little starch in fine powder will be found very soothing; it can be used alone, or mixed with a toilet powder; about equal parts of each.

Bathe With Boracic.

Sometimes directly after a sting or bite the part begins to swell, and in a short while there is a large lump and a great deal of inflammation. To reduce the inflammation, the part must be frequently bathed with hot boracic acid lotion, made by dissolving one ounce of the powder in a pint and a half of boiling water.

A sting close to the eye is usually troublesome and very disfiguring, but hot boracic will soon set matters right. If the lid is stung this is also the safest remedy. If a sting is very bad and there is fear that it is a dangerous one, a medical man must be sent for. A poisonous sting on the foot causes a lump to form under the knee, while a sting on the hand will cause a lump in the elbow or under the arm.

The Hat Trick

A farmer was taking his son, aged nine, to town. Whilst in the train he attempted to amuse the lad by showing him a few tricks. Snatching his son's cap from his head he pretended to throw it out of the window, at the same time, unknown to the boy, hiding it under his arm.

"Now," said the father, "watch daddy whistle your hat back."

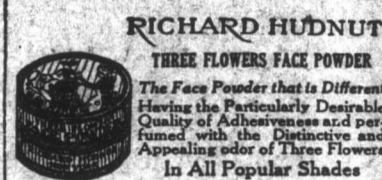

To the astonishment of the boy, the hat reappeared. Before the train reached its destination the little boy jumped up suddenly, snatched his father's hat from his head, and throwing it out of the window, said, triumphantly, "Whistle that back, daddy!"

Fish Nicknames

If, while at the seaside, you find yourself near a fish market, you will hear many queer names bestowed upon fish. The sea trout, for example, is known variously as the "peal," "sewin," "white trout," "finnock," and "herling." A salmon changes its name with its age, being known at various stages of its growth as "alevin," "parr," "smolt," and "grilse." Not until it is fully grown is it called a salmon.

Another fish with a series of names is the dogfish. Sometimes it is called "miller's dog." On the East Coast "hops" is the name most often heard. Farther north the name "whitehound" or "toper" is applied. "Penny dog" and "rig" are other names by which this fish is known. When dead it is often marketed as "fake."

The common "dab" is frequently called a "salter," while the mullet is sometimes known as the "sea woodcock." Another fish, the skate, has the nickname of "thornback."

A Forest's Fireproof Carpet

Agricultural experts in Algeria have found a new method of preventing forest fires.

It consists in carpeting the ground under the trees with a hardy creeping plant that will not burn. Juicy plants that do not dry up and that spread rapidly even in the shade are being planted.

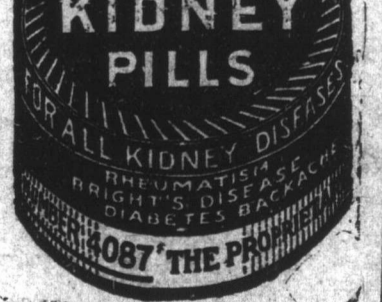

Not only are the plants incombustible, but they have an additional value in conserving the moisture of the soil. Weeds are also choked by the thick obscuring foliage. The plants used are a species of ground ivy.

"Cycling" Across the Atlantic

A Warrington engineer, William Oldham, has constructed an all-steel boat, twelve feet long, in which he intends to cross the Atlantic.

This craft has taken two and a half years to construct. It is built like a submarine, with six water-tight compartments, and is equipped with sails. The only means of propulsion will be a pedal arrangement worked like a bicycle connected with the screws. Oldham will rely mainly on preserved foods during the voyage, which he estimates will take forty days. He will sleep in the daytime and navigate at night.

Allies' Delegates Costing 500 Pounds a Day

London, Aug. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—The Russian delegates who to-day signed the Anglo-Russian treaty have been here for four months, and under ordinary diplomatic custom Britain, as their host, would have to foot the bill for their "board and keep."

The customary diplomatic courtesy in this regard was offered to Russia, but the Bolshevik representatives declined. Just now the Allied delegates to the reparations conference are costing the British Treasury at the rate of about £500 sterling a day to feed and house them.

Magistrate Thompson, Brigus, arrived in town to-day by motor on a brief visit.

House of Assembly Proceedings

FRIDAY, AUG. 15.

The House met at 9 p.m. Dr. Warren presented a petition from the residents of Pass Island asking that the telegraph station be moved to a more convenient place on the island. The petition was forwarded by telegraph.

The Report of the Select Committee on the Bill respecting the Montreal Trust Company was received. The Bill was put through all stages and ordered to be engrossed and sent to the Legislative Council for concurrence.

The Prime Minister deferred the second reading of the Bill entitled "An Act respecting the United Towns Electric Co. Ltd. and moved that the House adjourn until 8 p.m."

In answer to a question by Mr. Scammell, the Minister of Posts informed the House that "Mr. H. L. Pearce was telegraph operator at Westport, White Bay, at a salary of $40 per month. He receives and sends all the Marconi messages at this port."

Answer to question by Mr. Hibbs, re Fishery Supplies, 1921, is being prepared.

Hon. J. Long—To ask the Minister of Agriculture and Mines what water-power concessions had already been granted J. J. Murphy or his corporation on the Peninsula of Avalon.

At 4 p.m. the House adjourned. Session was resumed at 8 o'clock, when the Minister of Finance introduced a Bill to raise a loan not exceeding six million dollars to be applied to the following purposes:

To meet the deficit of 1923-24	$1,600,000.00
Building Roads and Highways	2,000,000.00
Rolling Stock on Government Railway	350,000.00
Estimated cost of New Steamer on Gulf of St. Lawrence	400,000.00
Cost of Repairs to Dock	50,000.00
Cost of Building Sheds and Repairs to Pier St. John's West	125,000.00
Cost of Equipment and New Machinery at Machine Shop, St. John's West	50,000.00
Cost of Completion of Buildings on Railway, Stations, etc.	75,000.00
Estimated Cost of Re-railing 131 miles of Railway (rails 80 lbs.)	800,000.00
Estimated Cost of Completion of Bridges and Filling in old Trestles on Railway	50,000.00
Estimated Cost Construction of Plant for Coal and Fuel, etc. St. John's West	500,000.00

The proposed loan is to bear interest at 5 p.c. per annum, payable half yearly, and is repayable in 1949.

The Finance Minister explained at some length the reasons for the different proposed expenditures after which Mr. Hickman asked to have the Committee rise to give the Opposition an opportunity to study the Bill.

The Prime Minister in acceding to the request explained that it was with great regret that the Government had found it necessary to have to ask for a loan of such size. It was not the intention to raise all the money at once, nor embark on the building of roads and highways without first having a well defined policy. "Before embarking on the serious matter of expending two million dollars, serious consideration must be given to the subject," said the Prime Minister.

Dr. Warren asked if any outside capitalists had been approached in regard to the railroad, to which the Prime Minister replied that it was a forlorn hope to expect anyone to buy it. He had been approached by several parties re the purchase of the Dock, but he doubted the wisdom of selling it as a unit separate from the railroad.

The Committee rose at 9 p.m. and the House adjourned until 3 p.m. Monday.

Chinese Bandits Drive People From Homes

ANKING, China, July 6 (A.P.)—

One native policeman was killed and two others narrowly escaped the same fate when they went out in reconnaissance in the vicinity of Miaochoen, not far from Anking, while the place was menaced by bandits. The band was reported to number 14 and they had looted a village two miles distant.

Miaochoen lies at the foot of a sacred Buddhist mountain, Chia Hsu Shan. After three days of terror a regular exodus by night to the mountain occurred, the people carrying what few possessions they could manage and prepared to leave their homes to the mercy of the outlaws, when reports reached them that one of the three policemen had been found by the roadside with his brains knocked out.

Some days later, however, some 300 troops of the Peking government arrived on the scene from a neighboring town and restored temporary peace.

Cavell Lodge, L.O.B.A.

HONOR'S DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

The regular meeting of Edith Cavell Lodge, No. 334, of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, was held in Victoria Hall on Thursday night, August 14th, Sister Hookey, W.M. in the chair.

After the Lodge was opened for the transaction of business, Most Worthy Past Grand Mistress, Sister Flora Burrows, of Hamilton, Ont., Canada, who is paying Newfoundland a visit, was admitted, the Grand Grand Honors being accorded the distinguished visitor as she entered the Lodge room. Sister Burrows was then introduced to the Lodge by Past Mistress Taylor, and cordially and enthusiastically received by the Worthy Mistress and all the Sisters present.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Sister Burrows of a silver sandwich salver, accompanied by an address printed on satin. The address follows:

To Most Worthy Past Grand Mistress, Dear Sister Burrows—We, the officers and members of Edith Cavell Lodge, of the Ladies' Benevolent Orange Association, desire to extend to you a most hearty welcome to this Newfoundland of ours.

The members of this Lodge greatly appreciate the honor your presence will bestow upon our Order, and particularly this Lodge, and sincerely hope that your visit to our island has been very pleasant and one long to be remembered.

Will you please accept from us the accompanying gift as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by this Lodge and as a souvenir of your visit to Newfoundland.

Yours in the bonds of Faith, Hope and Charity, we remain, on behalf of the Edith Cavell Lodge members,
BERTHA HOOKEY, W.M.
AMELIA AVERY, D.M.

About 8.30 o'clock the Lodge formally closed, when several brethren on invitation were admitted to spend a social hour with the Sisters of the L.O.B.A. and the visiting Sister, during which ice cream and refreshments were served, after which Sister Burrows delivered a splendid address on the work, aims and objects of the L.O.B.A. in Canada and Newfoundland.

Sister Burrows has spent a very enjoyable time here, and leaves today for her home with the best wishes of every L.O.B.A. Sister in St. John's.

Conscientious Objectors Disciplined by Japanese

TOKIO, July 12 (A.P.)—The Japanese army has a special disciplinary corps for dealing with conscripts who fight their compulsory service too bitterly or who show leanings toward socialist or radical ideas, according to Lieutenant General Issel Ugaki, Minister of War, speaking to the House of Representatives recently.

General Ugaki did not indicate the methods used, but said the results had been satisfactory. "The spirit of the army is not likely to suffer from such elements, although it is true that conscripts of such refractory turn of mind are increasing in number," said General Ugaki. "The army at first attempted to avoid the conscription of such men, but we have found it better to adjust them and then try to make them see the error of their ways. It is also true that the number of men who try to evade military service is increasing, but the army authorities are doing their best to remedy this tendency."
