The city council so decided yesterday, agreeing unanimously and without discussion to submit the proposition of an electrical distribution plant, and voting two to one against confusing the issue by bringing for-ward a second bylaw for Controller Harrison's pet scheme of water filtra-tion. The division on this latter question was not reached until 10 o'clock a night session being held for con sideration of the proposed outlay of $1,750,000. Ald. "Why should I be taxed to give the manufacturers cheaper power?" he asked in that evident ignorance of the whole situation which could alone inspire such a question.

It is true the Toronto Electric Light Co. are doing their best to mislead citizens upon this point, and Dr. Orr may have fallen a victim to their wiles, but as a civic official he might at least have consulted his fellow officials before he gave pant to his victors. before he gave vent to his views.

Dr. Orr may possibly be surprised to learn that the bylaw is not for a power scheme at all. The Electric Light Co. have endeavored to confuse the public in this as in other matters by talking of the cost of power, the eccnomy of producer gas, and other matters. The cost of power has nothing to do with the present question. ing to do with the present question, which is one of distributing power. The bylaw is a distribution bylaw, not a power bylaw.

Dr. Orr will also probably be sur-prised to hear that the citizens are mayor, in the absence of Mayor Coats-worth, who was away the greater part of the afternoon, and the entire night session, thru feelings of indisposition, not to be taxed at all for what he waterworks pumping and other large sums on account of public buildings, and the lesser cost of pumping water, and this saving wili be greater every year. The report of Judge Winchester, one of the members of the county board of audit, submitted yesterday to the York County council here, came in the nature of a bombshell at yesterday's opening session.

The report, which occupied some twenty-five pages of closely typewritten matter, was a condemnation of certain practices of T. J. Woodcock Edgar I. He admitted opening a ballot box and said that it was done on the advice of Reid, in order to check up the purchasable voters who had been bought up in London West.

Known as the "Siders" case, in which the magistrate is alleged to have presented two accounts for hearings, when in reality there was but one. The trial had been postponed from Aug. 13 to 21. No other information had been laid, nor had, there been another trial. are permitted, the color showing again in a band or under-cuff at the bottom of the sleeves.

A striking enstume, noticed at the horse show one forenoon this week consisted of a skirt cut in six breadths, each in the form of a large graduated box plait and all joined together so that the skirt itself was a series of these plaits. Each plait was finished separately with three rows of fancy braid an inch and a half wide, each pointed at the ends with the space between the plaits bridged by a velvet-covered buttom. The coat was of the same dark smoke color, and two-thirds- length. It curved beautifully to the fines of the figure without being tight-fitting, and the back was perfectly plain, while the fronts, which opened over a vest of daffodil yellow, were very much trimmed. First the coat was edged all round with the braid, then between that and a second row of braid extending from the shoulders to the hip line there was an intricate design outlined in soutache. Small velvet-covered buttoms in the smoke shade were used to emphasize the pattern. The sleeves were rather full at the top and wide at the bottom, where they were finish—

BEAUTY PATTERN CO. 5709-A Combination Undergarment Undergarments united at the waist-line are growing in favor, as they allow a perfectly smooth adjustment about the hips. The design here illustrated is of excellent shaping, the drawers are wide, and full, and a circular ruffle cut without seams affords a pretty finish for the lower edge. Dants remove all fulness from the front and over the hips, gathers disposing of that the back. The corset cover is of the est construction; it is fitted by simplest construction; it is fitted by shoulder and under-arm seams; the lower edge gathered to a band of ribbonrun beading to which the drawers are attached. Fine cambric was employed in the making, daintily trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion. Nain-

From New York comes the imformation that we are no longer to be confined to the sedate one-color suit, but man combine our shades and materials as formerly.

This is what a writer in The Evening Post says:

Again many of the newest two-piece walking-suits have a coat of one color with skirt of contrasting tone, and smart models of a more elaborate nature are even allowed jaunty little velvet coats:

Vests of a strongly contrasting color are permitted, the color showing again in a band or under-cuff at the bottom of the sleeves.

A striking costume, noticed at the colors as the contrast as the design was outlined at the top with two rows of the braid, while two other rows of the braid, while two other rows formed a border at the lower edge and the top of the hem. The design was much higher in the back than at any other point.

There was a waist of lace dyed to match and laid over a foundation of white satin, which was finished around the bottom, so that it should be worn outside the skirt. The elbow sleeves were not very full, and finished at the bottom, with two narrow pands of the were not very full, and finished at the bottom, with two narrow pands of the cloth, trimmed with the soutache. Old Boys' Association received a letter from her ladyship in which she says: "I read of your Dufferin Memorial Day proceedings with great interest, and I think the valedictory address remarkably good, so concise, and so much in it. Will you tell Miss Rennie that I thought it excellent?' .

Miss Rennie is a niece of the Messrs Rennie, the celebrated curlers.

The Extreme Side of Woman Sufferage.

There are a great many fairy tales about the doings of the suffragette in England. It is only to be wondered that any rational person believes these miarvelous tales, which obviously the reporter has penned with a wink in his eye, and the editor passed with an appreciative grin. Yet the general public takes these pretty little stories literally and "points a moral and adorns a tale" with them.

It is surely not necessary to point out that valiant as woman may be when aroused in a just cover she is

The but it had its ridiculous aspect. The pity of it is that as we grow wise, we grow conservative, and by the time we have learned never to make fools of ourselves we are incapable of any form of activity except criticism of others. Now what is the truth about this and kindred movements? Have not riots and even bloodshed accompanied most of the greatest reforms in history? Who dares assert the contrary? And what were the pioneers of these movements called? Fanatics. madmen, extremists and disturbers of the peace. Not that we approve of excesses of any kind. But there may be such a thing as excess of inaction, of political deadness and total indifference to great public questions of Every movement uses its own extremists as did the French revolution, of which it was said, "it devoured its own children." They are the demagogs of a day, necessarily such, and they are replaced immediately, on the success of the measure, by the persons of deliberate mind and steadier intention who could not have taken the initiative so well. Thus the early leaders of a movement are often its misguided but heroic martyrs, for others reap where they have sowed. In other words, the suffragette of 1907 is the advertisement of the move-ment. The enfranchised woman of, let us hope, 1910, will be its finished pro

MARRIAGE UNITES MILLIONS Two Hebrew Families With Colossal Fortunes Brought Together.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Goffery Duveen, head of the art firm of Duveen Bros of London and New York, was married at the Central Synagogue in this city to-day to Ethel Lewis, daughter of Isaac Lewis, of Lewis & Marks of Isaac Lewis, of Lewis & Marks, South African mising magnates. By this ceremony two of the wealthiest Hebrew families in England are united and two colossal fortunes brought one management. The bride was clad in a dress of rich white satin, embroidered with silver and draped with yards of priceless gold lace. Hundreds of magnificent presents were bestowed upon the couple. Among the gifts was a pearl neck-lace that had once belonged to Queen appoint you agreeably.

for To-Day

This is the season of teas and receptions, so we've planned to give our customers a treat and a surprise. About a hundred charming afternoon Hats are here, some from New York modistes, to show what Gotham's women consider "tres chic," and some the product of our own incomparable designers. You know what prices are usually demanded for such "patterns." The surprise will be not only in the exquisite loveliness of each hat, but at the prices, viz., $8.50 to $12.50 each. On show Tuesday morning.

Perhaps there has been no event in merchandising for many moons that has made such a flutter as this great sale of twenty thousand dollars' worth of Hand-drawn and Hand-embroidered Linens. We have to apologize to the thousands of customers who were somewhat jostled in the crowds of last week. To-morrow a different state of affairs will exist. We have made a new department. Plenty of counter space and the big show cases fitted with exquisite pieces of Lunch Cloths, Sideboard Scarfs, Table Drapes, Squares, Dollies, etc., so that you may pick and choose without inconvenience. Just to bring the ladies out early we promise to-morrow morning the most wonderful values ever offered in high class Battenberg and Linen Drawn Work, at 3c, 5c, 10c, 19c, 25c, 39c, 49c, 69c, and 98c. Expect great things and we shall dis-

HOW THE UNIVERSITY JS HELP TO BUSINESS

President Falconer Gives an Ad dress to Members of the Board of Trade.

President Falconer told the Board of Trade yesterday in an address upon, oute to the spheres of trade and comdent for a commercial life it was supposed that university training rendered him impractical, and sterilized his thought.

They must define the word practical, which had suffered a great deal of abuse. He questioned whether the abuse at once an Depot at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—John McKean, Monaghan County, Ireland, a device for regument of the stairs the "inventors" grabbed him by the collar, pushed him into a corner, robbed him in.

To-day the young man had his chance. But life had to be faced for a thick wad of five-pound Bank of England notes and then locked him in.

To-day the young man had his chance. But life had to be faced for 30 or 40 years, and the education that would so develop a man that when his physical freshness was gone he could turn to his mental and moral equipment for reinforcements, he considered eminently practical.

The study of literature, science, and philosophy might not be considered the best preparation for a business life, but in all these things if properly books read or the information acquired but the ideals of training and study set before the student by a great teacher that were valuable. The rarest quality is the faculty of being a teacher of a high order, and it was just as rare to have a man of high outstanding teaching capacity as to find a great leader in the business world.

Another objection was that the ccurses given were not such as to equip a man for the business life. What use were Latin and Greek, ab-What use were Latin and Greek, abstruse philosophy or mathematics in trade? But men might be adapted and trained for the type of life in which they were to spend their energies in other courses in the university that Latin and Greek, altho he considered the discipline of learning Greek to be one of the best. If Greek was mastered there would be no difficulty in learning other languages, and a thorostudy of a foreign language gave a critical polish to the mind, a knowcritical polish to the mind, a know-ledge of the meaning of words, an accuracy of thought and oft times of meaning in expression not to be gain-

What He Should Know. The university should not offer such course as the technical school. Business was complex and they could not give the special training of a business college, but there was an educational background to be provided for the business man which the university could furnish. He required versity could furnish. He an education in literature as every an education in literature as every man in business now admitted. He should be master of one or two languages, and he should know somestages, and he should know some-thing of the social and physical en-vironment of the field of his activity. Some of the most subtle changes in business life were due to social ele-ments, and moral disorders, and they should know how the world was af-fected by such problems. They should have a knowledge of bistered have a knowledge of history and of geography in the large sense, of the inter-relations of men, of their resources, of the history of trade and commerce. One of the most fruitful methods of study was the historical, orginning at the beginning of things, to show how they grow and come down the stream of time. These subjects should be handled from a broad point of view with a large sweep bright before the student, for humanity was complicated in its ramifications and of

University and Business.

He did not think men in Canada went to the university for enjoyment. They were too poor yet, and he hoped they would not have that degrada-tion. Men should enter, live in and issue from the university with a sense of the earnestness of life, and come forth with a higher ideal of the career of a business man or citizen.

For the business world at large the university ought to be able to assist in getting better results in actual production. They all knew what had been done in Germany. Science could be applied to commence and manufacture and the nation blessed with science of a high order would be lessed above others.

He was struck in Canada with the reflection that with their resources there was such lack of thought. well endowed were they that they not recognize the necessity of economy and of exactitude. They had not become thoro. Perhaps they had not been forced to do so yet. But the days would come when matters must be changed, and it would be the part of wisdom to be thoro and efficient, and to use with economy what they had. A rigid scientific training was the best ground for economy, and there was hope that the university would accumulate a large number of men in science departments inspired with

CORRI REFEREES FIGHT.

LONDON, Nov. 25—(C. A. P. Cable)—There was nearly a deadlock about the selection of a referee for the Moir-Burns fight.
Moir offered the names of six members of the National Sporting Club. Burns objected, and said he wanted an outside man, preferably R. P. Watson of Sporting Life, one of the best-known referees in the world. The club pointed out that Watson was not a member, therefore ineligible.
Burns remained obdurate, saying if Watson was not chosen there would be no contest. Eventually,
Burns said if Watson was impossible, he would select Eugene Corri, one of the six offered.
Corri is unanimously approved as an excellent judge.

Harris arranged for a test of the two lamps last Saturday.

According to R. H. Nichols, the electrical engineer of the Gas, Electric Co., Mr. Harris instructed him to pre-pare for 110 voltage. With an instrument for that pressure he found, when the test had started, that the voltage was 120, and that the lamp of the G. E. had been prepared for this pressure. The commissioner then said, "We will not test the consumption of elec-tricity." The engineer enquired if he had meters to do so. Mr. Harris re-plied "No, but the Canadian General Electric have kindly loaned me a test-

"When the test was made by this 'kindly loaned' switch board," said Mr. Nichols, "it showed an impossible minimum of consumption, but the minute it was applied to our lamp, it shot up to an impossible maximum. I was by no means satisfied with the test, so I went to Mr. Harris this morning and asked that he put another test on (for which we would pay all expenses), at the School of Practical Science. This Mr. Harris refused to do. I suppose the contract was given to-night"

Mr. Nichols went so far as to hint that he could at any moment rig up a switch board that would do the opposite. The lamps, he contended, were the best on the market and were being used by the British admiralty. To The World, Mr. Harris said that the testing machine was the standard

"They have a lamp they can't self on earth," said the commissioner, referring to the unsuccessful tender. "At first cost it would be cheaper, but afterwards, counting the cost of main-tenance, power and consumption, it would pay better to pay double their price for the other lamp." "It's merit, not misrepresentation with me," he said. "They can't sell it to me because they haven't got the article. I shall make my report to the board at the proper time."

Controller Harrison introduced a deputation of medical men including Dr. McDonald, Dr. Amyot and Dr. McPledian, who, with several other medical men, were present to speak a word for the filtration bylaw.

"It looks as the a herring is being drawn across the scent," declared the first named in allusion to the argument that cheap power would be imperment that cheap power would be impermented upon by his honorder to save her sister, who has become engaged to George Saunders, and the provincial constitution to the argument to get any any award to g who is wanted in the United States court. All turn from her except Arnold Cullingworth, Ernest's uncle, who stands staunchly by her and at last by a clever inspiration tricks her into an admission of the truth. But Eleanors pleading that her sister has only been foolish touches George Saund-ers' heart while she herself is rewarded with the love of the faithful Cullingworth. Miss Barrymore as Eleanor had a part that called for quick transitions of feeling and not a little tragic in-tensity. Her winsomeness and charm pervaded the whole play, while her perfect art reached the verge of il-lusion. As drawn by the dramatists, character of Eleanor Alderson not always continuous. But Miss Barrymore's acting concealed the discrepancies that otherwise might have disturbed the action of the drama Altogether her appearance was an entire success and fully deserved the en-thusiastic reception accorded her. She is thoroly well supported by a strong company. Miss Fanny Addison Pitt was delightful as Mrs. Bickley, and Miss Lucile Watson gave an equally good presentation of the spiteful Mrs. Herriard. Messrs. Arthur Byron, as Cullingworth; Charles Hammond, as Ernest Bickley, and Lumsden Hare as George Saunders were all exceptionally good. The play all round was given with excellent art, was beautifully staged, and evoked an effusive and appreciative verdict from

Be Practical!

No force, however great-no method, however promising, is useful until practicality reduces it to result-bringing.

Water in sluggish flow is an idle element; restrained and directed, it yields industry-making power.

Fire, soaring red in a frenzy of liberty, is an element of destruction; confined and controlled, a force of production.

Brain power, diffused and impractical, is the resultless self-wearing of a wild engine; centralized, practical, it becomes the motive power of progress. The practical guided James Watt to the improvement of the steam engine which wrought revolution in all industry.

It was Edison, the practical, who turned to production the dreams of a Franklin.

The practical develops inertia to energy, adapts ideas to actualities, transforms hopes to efforts, tempers ambition to judgment. It initiates the sanest, utilizes the most effective, develops the greatest results. It wins.

COBALT, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—A lo-cal character, Lachlan Cameron, com-monly called "Lottie," was tried by Magistrate Brown this morning on two charges, one of passing worthless cheques and the other of vagragey. The crown alleges that he was in the habit of setting men drunk who had money and then getting them to sign cheques. The prisoner was acquitted on the first charge and the charge of vagrancy was withheld on the accused promising to leave the district. Cobalt could to-day well dispense with several men, both young and old, who are living by their wits.

Last week's shipments amounted to over 528 tons. La Rose shipped all but 31 tons, sent by the Temiskaming mine to Perth Amboy. La Rose sent 500 tons to Denver.

RALLY WAS NOT SINCERE.

Monday Evening, Nov. 25.

The buoyant state of the Toronto market, as exhibited at the opening to-day, was not sincere, as later transactions and quotations indicated. There was an exception, and this in the much-maligned Canadian General Electric, which rose 5 points during the day's business. Numerous reasons were advanced for the rise in this stock, but these all simmered down fintly to the opinion thae inside manipulation was responsible for the betterment in price. The rally in speculative shares on Saturday invited realizing and liquidation to-day, and the market was in no shape to receive it, except at reduced prices. As far as the stock list is concerned, as a whole, any improvement was more than offest by reactions. New low prices were made in both speculative and investment issues, and altho the changes were small, they were suggestive to astute market critics. Herbert H. Ball.

Suspicion That C. P. R. May Also Be Interested in Their Negotiations.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 25 .- There is much speculation in St. John and Charlotte counties at the present time over property purchases being made on what is known as the Back Passage to l'Etang by G. W. Marsh of Toronto, one of the firm of Marsh Bros., barristers, who for two or three years operated steamers between St. John, Halifax and Jamaica, in an effort to develop the fruit trade.

the lands of Nathanial Harris, Bismarck Dick and others.

What is the object of these purchases is the cause of much speculation. The Legislature of New Brunswick last winter granted a charter to the Terminal Railway Company, with power to build a line from a point on the C.P.R. to l'Etang. Mr. Marsh was one of the promoters of that company, and the theory is that the purchases now being made are in some way connected with the future development of l'Etang.

When Marsh & Marsh operated their steamship line it was generally believed that the Canadian Pacific regarded the business with a very friendly ined that the Canadian Pacific regarded the great railroad and the steamship service was ever claimed or admitted; still it was felt in shipping circles that Marsh & Marsh had the ear of the management. The speculation now is as to whether or not the C.P.R. is in some way identified with the l'Etang purchases.

Corn—Another break of 15c to 20c in the price of hogs at the yards offset the effect of continued small local receipts. The visible showed reduction of over 800, 1000 bush., and is now about the same as last year. Packing interests are bearish on corn, owing to the weakness in live stock and provisions. There is so much low grade corn in the country that it will be difficult to advance futures materially, but they have had a liberal break and should have more or less recovery before sales will again be in order.

Cub Alaska Seal

Jackets

A FEW scattered islands off the coast of Alaska form the hunting ground of the great Alaska Seal. It's a paying business, this hunting seal, and it keeps two governments working overtime to see that the hunters remain within the law. Even with these precautions the Alaska Seal is surely becoming an animal that "once lived"-every season the price of pelts goes higher. It strikes us that it would be a good investment for you to purchase a seal jacket this year. It would make a rare Xmas gift.

Our stock of seal skins to-day is especially large and inviting. Its composed of cub pelts, London dyed, which were personally selected by members of our firm, the tailoring being executed in our own factories, under the supervision of experts. These skins bear the official number of the inspectors and affidavits by the dyers and hunters.

FRESH AIR NEEDED

Medicine is not of much use to cure consumption. Fresh air and clean living are the essential forces to combat the dread white scourge. Every precaution should be employed to prevent the germs from settling on the lungs, and coughs and colds should not be neglected. To break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable, cure any cough that is curable, mix a half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine with two ounces of glycerine and a half pint of good whisky. JUDGE CAN CONTINUE ROLE OF INVESTIGATOR

Chancellor Boyd Sees No Reason Why He Should Interfere With Enquiry.

An unexpected move in the Chambers enquiry on the part of T. C. Robinette, K.C., in appearing before Chancellor Boyd yesterday, with a request that Judge Winchester be debarred from continuing as investigator, did not prove successful. Mr. Robinette claimed that the judge would not give his decision impartially, and in a long affidavit Mr. Chambers said he felt Judge Winchester was prejudiced against him, but the chancellor decided that there was no reason for interference.

The affidavit goes back to June, 1906, when it was related that the judge had called on Lawrence Solman and Wesley Dunn, in regard to the sale of some lumber which had been at the Winchester issued subpoenas for men who had had dealing with his departars in the church, on the occasion of friends have a special invitation.
