Facsimiles will be presented to the battalion. The streets will be decorated.

A tablet has been placed at the birthplace of Goldwin Smith, in Friar Street, Reading.

London, Aug. 22.—The Mayor of Carlisle and his wife received the Manitoba school teachers in the town hall today and the visitors were afterwards entertained at a garden party in Morton Park, and shown over Carlisle Castle and other historical places.

The bishop of Carlisle preaching in the cathedral to the Manitoba teachers, condemned, in strong terms, present day "shrewd sensationalism," including demagogic religion and the aviation craze.

Hon. Herbert Samuel, speaking at Salisbury, said that tariff reform has suffered another blow that has occurred on western Canada. Those who watched the signs of the times could see a growing dissatisfaction with protection in Canada, also in the United States and Germany.

The Observer says that if the next imperial conference proved fruitless, it will be a failure. The conference failed again at the next election, one feeling in Canada would swing definitely towards reciprocity with the United States, and there would be set up a new "Canada a nation," Laurier's words written on the heart of every Canadian express Canadian ideal.

The Lakonia cattle will be sold on Wednesday.

AWFUL TALE OF PEOPLE PERISHING IN FLAMES

Forty-Five Reported from Wallace and Others from Towns in the Afflicted Section—Rangers Cut Off by Wall of Flame, Hide in Mine and Several Die

Portland, Wash., Aug. 22.—Hourly reports from fires in the districts of North Idaho and Western Montana are increasing the toll of dead. The latest figures from Wallace are that 45 fighters probably have perished. In the hills near Sandpoint, Idaho, Forest Ranger VanDyke and a crew of sixty-five enlisted in Spokane are reported surrounded by flames. A woman and her daughter perished at Cabinet, Idaho. Five are known to have died near Newport, Wash., in an attempt to reach the town.

ing there were two rescue trains on the St. Paul speeding toward Missoula with about 200 people on board. There is another on the Northern Pacific Coeur D'Alene branch with 250 women and children, taken from the burned town of St. Regis.

In Wallace the death toll may grow. The fires swept that town with such terrible swiftness that it is known there will be more homes found in the ruins as the search progresses. The most disastrous fires in this district today are those in Sanders County, between Thompson and the Idaho line. These fires extend along the town from the claim throughout the district and are in dense timber. There are several towns in this district, built in the very midst of the timber. J. M. Boyd, former Northern Pacific Agent at Wallace, met death in an effort to save a parcel. In the ruins of one house, two skulls presumably of men, were found. Six men are known to have died in the ruins of Wallace from Big Creek, St. Joe County. Some assert that six more are lost.

Ranger Pulkani and forty-one men were forced to leave Big Creek and attempt to cover the forty miles from Wallace. Three miles from town they were forced by a wall of fire to crawl into mine tunnels nearby, and remain there ten hours. Three men broke through the fire and staggered into Wallace. They reached here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and gave the alarm and a party of rescuers with a typewriter hastened to the "Big Eagle" mine where the men were. One of the forty men was found buried in a trap on the trail; five of those in the tunnel were suffocated and dead, and a dozen others were rescued only after a four-hour work.

Three men are known to be dead on Pine Creek. Ranger Bell had twenty-five men killed in the ruins of a house. He and five were killed, three others were blinded for life, and five had their legs broken by falling trees. Three more men met death yesterday afternoon.

They and twenty others were trapped in a fire on Boulder Creek, St. Joe County, of the twenty managed to walk to the train to come here. Another man was killed on Flacker Creek, near Wallace. He and a companion, kept in by flames, took refuge in the creek and killed three men. Wallace was able to escape to Wallace, but his clothing was burned off. He was stopped by the city limits by a policeman who obtained clothing for the man before he would permit him to enter the city for treatment.

Burned As He Buried Trucks: Harry Chamberlain was engaged in burning two treasure-filled trunks in the yard of his house in East Wallace when the flames swept around the corner of the house and burned him from head to foot.

The fire situation is still bad, all the hills around the town being filled with burning timber. The wind is blowing strongly at times. Nearly a third of the population has left the town. At 2:29 yesterday morning the first train from Wallace district pulled into Missoula. It carried a most pitiable crowd. A thousand or more of the people of Missoula, including many women and the leading business men of the city were at the station to receive and administer to the refugees. Ambulances, automobiles and public conveyances were pressed into service.

Among the first to get off one of the box cars was a nurse wearing uniform and cap, carrying a tiny ten days old baby. At her heels was the mother, nervous, pale and emaciated, trembling from head to foot. Following this trio came another nurse with a nine day child and a frail frightened mother. From the car ahead a desperately and fearfully weak man was lifted. By his side hobbled an old wrinkled faced pioneer, travelling on crutches.

There were a half dozen other feeble ones. Working men covered with grime, accompanied their families.

Mrs. Otto Grafenberg, bringing four children, was weeping for her husband and an eight year old son who missed the train. Two of her little ones were in their night clothes. The father ran back to try to save his home and was left.

THE VICTORIA DUMP. A citizen ventured to enquire why so much decayed fruit and other garbage is sent to the dump at Victoria Square, close to the Alexandra school, which is marked "No Dump."

The answer is that the schools will reopen next week, and a nice fat dump is the ideal playground for children. The margin, however, runs to their credit for the season than any other club in the past few leagues. Last week they scored forty-six runs in seven games, a greater total than any other club. The records for the season are:—

EIGHTEEN LOST

COLLAPSE OF WARSHIP DUE HERE AT END OF WEEK

Fatal Results in Grounding of The Bedford IS IN BAD POSITION

Washington, Aug. 22.—Colder weather in its way according to the general forecast for the coming week, saved by Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau. The cold wave will begin its sweep across the country the middle of the week, starting from the northwestern states and reaching the Atlantic coast by Friday or Saturday.

Its appearance will be rendered the more disagreeable by reason of the fact that it will be preceded by moderately warm weather, so that the drop in temperature will be severely felt. As a result of the sudden change there will be almost continuous showers in the southeastern states during the last week temperature slightly below the normal ruled throughout the country and there were light frosts in the extreme northwest.

British Cruiser Fast on the Rocks Off Korea and Pounding Badly—Japanese Warships Hasten to Lend Their Aid—Accident During Speed Trials

London, Aug. 22.—Eighteen lives were lost when the British cruiser Bedford ran ashore on the rocks off Quelpart Island, Korea, yesterday. The men were members of the engine room staff. The vessel is seriously damaged and lies in a bad position.

The Bedford struck the rocks two miles west of Quelpart Island, lying about 500 miles south of Korea at the entrance of the Straits of Korea, during a thick fog at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. The cruiser was then sailing with a British squadron from Wei Hai Wei, China, for Nagasaki.

The bottom section of the ship and the machinery, according to wireless reports, suffered serious damage from the rocks and the cruiser is pounding badly in the high seas. A number of Japanese warships accompanied by lighters and salvage vessels were dispatched from the nearest Japanese station immediately upon receipt of the news of the disaster, but whether the ship can be salvaged is doubtful.

The accident occurred during full speed trials of the vessel and the cruiser was evidently badly holed, since the deaths are stated officially to have been due to a rush of water. The vessel lies in such a desperate position that there is practically no possibility of saving her. The last full of water up to the engine room, but the water is pouring in through gaping holes punched by the sunken rocks. The officers and crew have been taken off.

The sister warship Monckton and Monthmonth, of the British squadron, which anchored yesterday near the wreck to render any service possible, were obliged to put to sea last night owing to the heavy weather which prevails.

Y., Aug. 21.—Following a hard early party at the home of Enoch Tompkins at Little Rock, Tompkins entered his house Thursday night and found his housekeeper, Susan Spencer, 70 years of age, sitting with a boarder, James Ferris. Taking down from a boarder a double-barreled shot gun, Tompkins is said, shouted: "I'll shoot you both," and pointing the gun at the woman pulled the trigger. The charge tore away part of her neck and she died instantly. He then walked out. He was arrested.

MR. LOW'S TESTIMONY

Inspector Carleton has found an unexpected ally. Mr. Carleton says the chief reason the Main street paving foundation was defective was that the six inches of loose stone was rolled hard before the grout was poured over it. Several witnesses have sought to convey the impression that it was Mr. Carleton himself who ordered this rolling to be done. This he denies. The Telegraph this morning clears up this question, by quoting from the Globe of July 29th an interview with Mr. Low himself, in which he says:—
"On a well rolled sub grade is placed six inches of broken stone, after rolling or compressing, varying in size from 1 1/2 inches to 2 1/2 inches. This is thoroughly rolled and completed by a steam roller. The voids are reduced to a minimum and then bonded with a grout of three parts of sand and one of cement."
Here are two statements worth noting. One gives the size of the stones, the other shows that they were to be rolled hard, to reduce the voids between them to a minimum before pouring the grout over them.

Mr. Carleton protested because larger stones were being used, and also because the rolling left no space for the grout to work through and bind together the mass of stones.
In other words, after the stones had been rolled the grout could not penetrate the mass, but made a mere thin surface of concrete, instead of the six inches called for in the specifications.
Thus Mr. Low himself vindicates Mr. Carleton. It seems fair to assume that the engineer read the Low interview, or that Mr. Low told him what he also told the Globe. It has been alleged that the faulty nature of the foundation first put down was due to unskilled help at the beginning of the work, but the Low interview relieves the workmen of any blame. They did what Mr. Low told the Globe would be done.

The attempt to hold Mr. Carleton responsible for the defective work is now disposed of. The aldermen should apologize to him for the attitude they assumed toward him the moment he resigned. He was at first ignored, then discredited, and finally subjected to hostile interrogation in which the uninformed onlooker might fairly assume that he was regarded as the cause of all the trouble. Looking back now on the course they have pursued, the members of the city council may perhaps regret that they did not pay a little more attention to the protest of an inspector who was appointed to guard the interests of the taxpayers. Possibly, also, some of them may regret that they were so fierce in their denunciation of the press. But for the portion of the press which declined to be muzzled the citizens would not have learned what they know today about this whole matter.
It is stated that the Haslam method is to be continued on Main and Water streets, although now the stones are not rolled before the grout is applied. Will this method give a satisfactory foundation for a pavement for heavy traffic? Who knows? Even the engineer appears to have doubts, since he is reported to have given notice that on Smythe street the concrete must be mixed by hand.
When will St. John have a civic administration and a set of officials who can be depended on to prevent such developments as these connected with the Main street pavement?

ANOTHER JOB

There is a rumor that the office of director of public works may be revived and filled by the appointment of an alderman. No one would be greatly surprised at anything the city council might do, but in the present state of affairs, when the council is itself on trial, such a course would merit the most severe condemnation. Reorganization is needed, but not of that sort. The city would perhaps be better off today if it had a director of public works fully qualified for the position, and clothed with authority to get value for every dollar expended; but the appointment of a member of an incompetent council as the head of the spending department would not change the conditions against which the taxpayers protest.

The first step to be taken is to have a genuine investigation of the affairs of the board of works. There is a general impression that if the department were conducted as a shrewd business man conducts his own affairs, there would be better results. The like is true of other departments, but the most urgent need at present is a reorganization of the board of works. Let it be thorough.

REMEMBER THE CHILDREN

It is perhaps difficult to get two thousand people together out of doors without including some who ought not to be there. There were fully two thousand people, including the ladies and children (hundreds of children) at Saturday's ball game. Perhaps never in the history of the game here was there better behaviour on the part of the crowd, a fact that was remarked by many who were present. Enthusiasm there was in abundance, but that helps to make the game. "This is healthy sport," said a clergyman who was among the interested spectators.
But there were a few men present who had left their better instincts at home. One group had to be checked for using profane language in presence of women and children. Some members of another group produced a bottle of liquor and drank in the presence of boys. Some others would have done so but for the fact that sharp eyes were on them, ready to summon an officer. And most of these were well-dressed men. They ought to be ashamed of themselves.

TREE PLANTING

An organization has been formed, or will be formed to promote tree planting in St. John. Mayor Frink and other citizens have the matter in hand.
Speaking at the Every Day Club last evening, Rev. A. A. Graham touched upon the question of this beautifying the city, and told the story of some maple trees on King Square. These trees were planted without having the tops cut off. Mr. Graham saw the men at work and told them the trees would die if left in that way. He was right: The dead trees are there in evidence. Mr. Graham told of a small square in an Ontario town around which rows of maple trees were planted, every one cut off at a certain height. They were planted in the spring. In the following spring the top of each cut fourth bunches of leaves and thereafter their growth was symmetrical and continuous.
A few years ago, trees were planted along the Marsh Road for a mile from the city. Today they are all dead. Trees will grow there, but the planting was not properly done. Trees will grow along many streets in St. John. It is merely a question of selection and planting.

The public health officer should consider the dump at Victoria Square under the windows of the Alexandra school.

Thirty western farmers in one district last winter imported a shipment of motor cars for their own use worth $100,000.

It is increasingly difficult for murderers in Canada to escape justice. Moir, who had made his escape from prison, is once more in the toils.

When the investigating committee meets again it will doubtless ask Mr. Low to harmonize the Globe interview of July 29th with his evidence before the committee. It cannot afford to ignore the matter.

Has the board of trade committee prepared its case against the New Brunswick Telephone Co. to be placed before the Public Utilities Commission on Wednesday? The time is short.

A western correspondent writes:—"There is a great shortage of crops as a whole in the west, though Saskatchewan will come out of the year better than the other western provinces."

Mr. Bourassa will address the Canadian Club tomorrow evening. The members are naturally eager to hear the brilliant Quebec politician and journalist. He will discuss The Racial Problem in Canada.

Premier Hazen should issue general instructions to his henchmen not to write letters in praise of the roads. If the same sort of people continue writing the same sort of letters, even the people who did not know will conclude that the roads must be in a very bad state.

There was no doubt about the hardship in the immigration regulation which made it difficult for an immigrant who had come to Canada and secured employment to bring his family out, if they were without money. This regulation is to be modified, so that such families may be reunited on Canadian soil under less exacting conditions.

Before the Grand Trunk Pacific was projected Prince Rupert was not even a place on the map. On Saturday Sir Wilfrid found a town there, with steamers at the wharves and locomotives on the railways, and was greeted by a mayor and town council and a great crowd of citizens waiting to welcome him. Sir Wilfrid told the people he hoped to travel from Halifax to Prince Rupert over the completed railway about three years hence.

Some men are loved for the enemies they have made, but more are loved for the dollars they have inherited.

INJUNCTION

Walk thy way greatly. So do though endure.
Thy small thy narrow, dwarfed and ceaseless
That soothing patience shall be half the cure.
For like that lesser souls seek sore with strife.
Be though thyself. So strongly, grandly bear
Thou on what seems thy hard, mistaken road.
That though shalt breathe heaven's clearest upper air.
And do forget thy feet that meet the clod.

Will see thyself to god-like stature grown;
Feed full thy soul on strong humidity.
Then shall thou on thy world life look down;
Make thou thy life, not let thy life make thee.

A certain well-known, but impetuous nobleman, while walking one day in Park street, saw a family portrait for sale in a shop window, and went in to inquire the price. The dealer wanted £12 lbs., but his lordship would only give £10, so the purchase was not made. A short time afterward, while dining with a gentleman, he was invited to view his pictures. As he stood gazing with profound interest at a certain one his host said, "Ah, that is a portrait of an ancestor of mine."
"Indeed!" said his lordship. "Then we must be almost related in some way. It was within £2 lbs. of being an ancestor of mine."—Tit-Bits.

THE PASSING OF KOREA

(Philadelphia Ledger)
From the very moment when Japan had demonstrated to the world its ability to check the eastward movement of the Russians, the fate of Korea was sealed so that the announcement of the impending annexation of the kingdom of which the Japanese have made themselves the masters need cause no surprise. The maintenance of the fiction of an independent state under the guidance and control of a Japanese minister resident was a costly and indirect method of administration which, in the nature of the case, was bound to be temporary, and it is probably better for Korea and the Koreans that their country should be administered directly and without circumlocution.
That regret will be felt at the passing of one more of the picturesque empires of the far east is a matter of course, but sentimental feeling will not stay the hand of the Japanese conquerors. Japan's rapid growth has made it a matter of vital necessity that it shall have room for expansion, and the direction of best resistance is toward the Asiatic continent. Korea is not only the natural pathway to the vast undeveloped areas of Manchuria upon which the Japanese eye is turned, but it is a country sadly in need of modern organization and modern administration.

REV. A. A. GRAHAM AT EVERY DAY CLUB

In an address on Citizenship at the Every Day Club last evening, Rev. A. A. Graham touched upon several matters of local interest. One of these was technical education, and he said he confidently expected good results from the visit of the royal commission. He pointed out very clearly the need of such provision as will enable young people to better equip themselves for a place in the wage-earning industries.

Mr. Graham also referred to tree planting in the city, and urged the need of more general interest in this work. He told of watching men plant several maple trees in King square, and had told them the trees would not live, because they were not planting them right. They paid no attention whatever to his explanation of how maple trees should be planted, and today the trees are dead. Lack of knowledge in planting was responsible.

The row of maples to which the speaker referred may be seen today along the south side of the path leading from the corner at St. Malachi's Hall towards the fountain.

Referring to an old-time idea of religion, Mr. Graham said religion was regarded as something that gave people a free pass to heaven and was not related to this life. Under that conception religious people would be thinking of the nearby gates and golden streets, and would not give a thought even to the paving on Main street. But today people recognize that religion has to do with this life and its duties.

The three points touched upon in his discussion on citizenship were the home, the school and the church. With regard to the home, he dwelt at some length on the need of training in domestic economy, and the exercise of that thrift which prompts the wage earner to spend a little less than he earns, and putting the surplus into the savings bank or an annuity fund. The address was eminently practical and was heard with keen interest.

The president invited the people to visit the child's supervised playground next Friday afternoon and see a demonstration of the work done by the children under the care of the teachers during the period of the school holidays.

The beautiful grounds of Mrs. Skinner and Miss Carrie M. Skinner at Land's End were open to the members of the Natural History Society for their outing on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. and Miss Skinner and Miss White made charming hostesses, and their hospitality will be happily remembered by the fifty or more guests present.

Fashion Hints for Times Readers

FIGURED FOLLAURS MAKE DAINTY BATHING SUITS

Many of the bathing suits now are as attractive in design and as carefully built as frocks for piazza wear. Such a suit as the one pictured—made of shaded rose fougere silk and embroidered with applied motifs of plain silk—does not really go into the water much; but does a deal of posing on the sand. This most fetching little costume has a loose, draped effect, and beneath the draped bodice is a feather-trimmed lining that, while not suggesting light corsets, keeps the lines right. A new bathing cap, with the knot at the back, completes the prettiness of this charming bath. This model developed in mohair or pongee would be very pretty as well as practical for the "sea bath."

ROLL BEFORE GROUT SAID R. S. LOW

Paving Contractor, in Interview on July 25, Said Method Was Exactly What Mr. Carleton Has Protested Against

In view of the controversy that has arisen over the question of who was responsible for the rolling of the stone in the piece of the Hassan foundation dug up Tuesday, the following quotation from an interview in the Globe of July 25, in which R. S. Low describes the Hassan method, is interesting:

"On a well rolled sub grade" Mr. Low is quoted as saying, "is placed six inches of broken stone, after rolling or compressing, varying in size from 1 1/2 inches to 2 1/2 inches. This is thoroughly rolled and compacted by a steam roller till the voids are reduced to a minimum and then bonded with a grout of three parts of sand and one of cement."

This is exactly what Mr. Carleton declares was done, notwithstanding his objections.

There is an apparent discrepancy between this statement and the sworn testimony given by Mr. Low before the investigating committee. When describing the Hassan method to them, he said that seven inches of stone were laid on a sub-grade well rolled. The steam roller was then passed over it lightly with a view to leveling it, after which grout reduced to the consistency of thin gruel was applied.

The discrepancy in these statements will be brought to the attention of the investigating committee.

Mr. Low's "last night" grout was also laid received a legal opinion on the matter. He did not mention any names, but the lawyer he consulted considered it prominent in his profession. This, the alderman said, was to the effect that even if the Hassan had given permission to the Hassan company to use their method on all three streets to be paved, it would be a violation of the provisions of the fact that the part of the pavement dug up on Tuesday was defective. He expressed the fear that little if anything would come of the sworn investigation now going on at city hall and thought it would be better to have a supreme court judge. At least, he thought, the witnesses for the Hassan people ought to have been submitted to a cross-examination. He expected Mr. McDonald, of McDonald & McLeod, to be back in the city this week and said that Mr. McDonald had expressed his willingness to make affidavit to the truth of his charge that when he asked the engineer if he would consider concrete instead of stone for a re-arming well in Main street he was answered in the negative.

Ald. Wigmore also referred to the charge brought by John Kane that the Hassan people on the piece of the foundation between Travis and McArthur's book store, had used one bag of cement to seven bags of sand. Mr. Kane will probably be called as a witness by the investigating committee and the alderman thought that it would be proper to have a piece of the concrete taken up there.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

SOME years ago I knew a young newspaper man who was almost continually in a state of mind and countenance that can best be described as "drowsy in the mouth."

The "drowsy curves," that Ella Fitzgerald says lead her on to success, were an unknown quantity with him.

He thought the world an altogether dreary and futile place to be in, and held, and very frequently expressed, dark opinions of his father and mother for bringing him thither without consulting his preference.

A rather odd idea, you've heard the substance of that before, and to all who would listen, related the various bad strokes of luck that were continually befalling him, from the indifference of a lady love to his affliction, to the shabby and worn condition, after three wearings of a rubber raincoat for which he had paid an exorbitant price.

Of course, I demanded the reason, and, my woman's nose for romance sensing a happy ending to his job affair, but it wasn't that—she was as unfeeling as ever.

Now was it my second game-material property. On the contrary, he had a poorly paying position which he expected he might lose at any minute.

"When then?" I asked.

"Well, I'll tell you, Miss Cameron," he replied, "I studied it out and I decided that, as long as I couldn't have what I liked, I'd like what I had. As long as I couldn't make things come just the way I wanted them, I'd take what came along and manage somehow to enjoy it; and, you know, you always can if you put your energy into that instead of fretting because things aren't different."

A rather odd idea, you've heard the substance of that before.

Yes, so have I, but the reason I tell you about it is that it was more than an IDEA with him. It was something that had ACTUALLY MADE HIM HAPPIER, SOMETHING THAT HAD MADE HIM A MORE LIVABLE PERSON both to himself and other people.

Read his philosophy over again in the light of that realization.

Or if you don't care so much for his idea, how do you like this prettier and more religious way of putting somewhat the same feeling?

But leave it to a Higher Will To stay or speed me—trusting still That he who launched my little bark Will never, never fail, Whatever breeze may prevail, To bring me, ever danger past, Into the desired haven at last. Now whatever winds may blow, My heart is glad to have it so. So I do not dare to pray, For winds that blow—that wind is best."

Daily Hints for the Cook

HAM HASH.
Take equal parts of cold boiled potatoes, finely chopped, and use pulp only. Grated crumbs. Mix well and fry for about 10 minutes. Garnish with slices of hard boiled eggs.

PINEAPPLE MARSHMALLOW.
Cut with scissors half a pound of marshmallows, drain juice off of a can of grated pineapple and use pulp only. Sweeten with one cup of sugar. Beat half a pint of heavy cream very stiff. Add marshmallows to cream and half a cup of powdered sugar. About half an hour before serving, add the sweetened pineapple. Serve in sherbet glasses with maraschino cherries on top.

CHERRY CUPS.
Make simple dessert of Irish moss or sea moss farina with milk, following directions on package of the latter. Set away to harden in cold place. Serve in individual molds with sauce same as given for strawberry pudding—using cherries or serve with whipped cream.

POINSETTIA SALAD.
Peel small tomatoes and cut in eighths, lengthwise, but do not separate sections at one end. Open like flowers on bed of lettuce. In the centre of each pile put a teaspoon of cream cheese that has been put through a coarse strainer. Serve with salad dressing, to which has been added one teaspoon each of finely chopped green pepper, parsley and chives.

FIGURES THAT TELL STORIES

PROVINCIAL FOREST RENOVUES

THE pictures cover the four principal timber provinces and illustrate the importance of the forests as sources of provincial revenue. The Dominion government as owner of the lands of the West, also has a revenue from forests, but it amounts to only about $500,000 a year for the whole of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The dominant position of British Columbia in this matter is emphasized when we take into account the quantity of forest land sold or leased and calculate the revenue per acre. The figures are:

British Columbia	$2.50 per acre
Ontario	10c. per acre
Quebec	1 3/4c. per acre
New Brunswick	2 3/4c. per acre

The greater revenue per acre in British Columbia is due, no doubt, mainly to the extremely heavy stand of timber on the best of the forest lands of that province, but also in part, probably, to the fact that the idea of the public right in forest resources had asserted itself before the exploitation of timber there had begun. That Ontario gets from its timber lands an acre against less than 2 cents an acre, collected by Quebec indicates that Ontario forests now in use are more valuable than those of the sister province, but it may mean also that, on the whole, Ontario's resources in this respect have been more widely managed.

OBITUARY

Peter Ferguson

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Aug. 21—(Special)—About 5 o'clock this afternoon, Peter Ferguson, of this city, for many years a piper of the Caledonia Band, dropped dead in his home, congestion of the heart being the cause. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

SIR WILFRID AT PRINCE RUPERT

Liberal Chief Warmly Greeted in Far Western City Which He Created

Prince Rupert, Aug. 20—Sir Wilfrid Laurier this afternoon made a triumphal entry into the city he created, following a two days' voyage up the Pacific coast. The vessel was delayed during the night by a fog and heavy sea near Charlotte Sound. The steamer Prince George, bearing the premier and party, was met ten miles out from the harbor by a flotilla of flag-decked steamers, fishing boats and launches, and escorted by the revenue cutters Kestrel and Falcon, carrying Indian bands.

The premier joined Captain Nicholson, manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamships, on the bridge and waved an acknowledgment of the greeting.

The premier exhibited intense interest in entering the harbor in all the work going on and remained for an hour with binocular glasses to his eyes. Steamers at the wharves and locomotives on land whistled a welcome, while a trio of blasting detonations were contributed by construction workmen.

As the steamer docked the local regiment, a recent addition to the Canadian militia, presented arms, while the Indian bands contributed music. The premier was greeted by Mayor Strick (an appropriate name for the chief magistrate of a growing town) and was escorted in procession through broad thoroughfares up the incline to the provincial government building, where he spoke from decorated balconies.

Prince Rupert gave a remarkable reception. The primitive streets were occupied by four arches, erected respectively by the corporations, citizens, French-Canadians and Indians. Over the platform was the inscription "We welcome Canada's greatest man to Canada's newest city." The addresses presented to the premier contained only words of welcome and there was no reference to grievances.

The material used in the preparation of the address was exceptional, that of the city being described on tanned moose hide, beautifully inscribed. In accepting it the premier stated it would hang in Ottawa in his parlor where he hoped it might be seen by Prince Rupert citizens.

The Indian address was burned on a large ornamental paddle.

The Daughters of Empire presented a volume of views of Prince Rupert, and his French-Canadian compatriots expressed their devotion to the empire and a readiness to man the vessels of the new Canadian navy.

From the beginning of the tour the premier said he had looked anxiously forward to seeing Prince Rupert, the last achievement of Canadian enterprise. The new transcontinental had not come too soon. "I trust this will not be my last visit to Prince Rupert," observed Sir Wilfrid, amid applause.

"By the grace of God and will of the people I hope to see and travel from Halifax to Prince Rupert on the inauguration of the railway about three years hence."

Sir Wilfrid was tonight tendered the most elaborate banquet of the entire trip. The function took place in the Prince Rupert Inn, all the leading business and professional men being in attendance. Mayor Strick presided and Sir Wilfrid, who rarely attends night functions of the character, spoke at some length. The toast of Dominion brought replies from Hon. William Templeman, George P. Graham and Senators Gibson, Borden and Bowser. News, Pardee and McDonald spoke for the visitors. Replying to the toast to himself, Sir Wilfrid said British Columbia was large enough for an empire in itself. There must be no isolation, however, and there was room not only for a second but for a third transcontinental railway. The Grand Trunk Pacific would probably be completed within two years and had not been begun one day too soon.

Hon. Mr. Graham spoke of the excellent management of the Grand Trunk Pacific ships, and stated that while the public must be protected, justice must be the same to the corporations and large investors.

Senator Bostock said that Seattle twenty-two years ago was not as promising in appearance as Prince Rupert is today. He referred to the great influence and personality of Sir Wilfrid as inducing British investors to send their men and money to Canada.

QUEEN ST. VISITED BY BURGLARS

Home of Thomas White Entered and Ransacked and Damage Done—Evident Search for Money

On returning to his home, 170, Queen street, on Friday last, Thos. White, of the White Candy Co., found that the place had been broken into, the furniture and other things greatly disturbed, but nothing of value taken. He is not aware what time the break was made as he was not at home for a week. Whoever entered the house found a way of admittance through a hatchway leading to the cellar, and on exiting entrance through this passage, easily reached the upper floor, where a considerable quantity of silverware, cut glass, and other valued articles was exposed to view.

It is the opinion of Mr. White that the would-be burglars were in search of money, as all parts of the house were visited, and articles of furniture and clothing scattered around about the floor. The damage done, however, was chiefly to a heavy plate glass panel, which was smashed, and the wooden panel of a door leading to the dining room, through which, after breaking in, the marauders probably reached an entry, and turned the key in the lock.

SUNDAY EVENING ON THE ST. JOHN RIVER

People Making Most of Time That Yet Remains—The Motor Boat Taking the Yacht's Place

As the summer days draw toward a close the summer dwellers along the river, and those who go up on week-end excursions are making the most of their time. Every Sunday large numbers of people go up from Indian town in motor boats and spend the day at some of the lovely beaches. Some return before dark, and some do not return until late in the evening. There is a notable change in the life of the river. A few years ago, late on Sunday afternoon, a fleet of sailing yachts could be seen passing down the Reach and across Grand Bay to Millidgeville. Now very few sailing yachts are seen, and motor boats are everywhere, darting about, or anchored at the beaches.
Coming down river just before dark last evening, fire could be seen flaring up at different points along shore. Later the full moon rose in cloudless splendor, making a perfect night.

A Coat of Paint Covers Many a Spot and a High Polish on a Stove Often Covers a Flaw in Iron

Before buying a range it will pay you to examine it thoroughly. See what kind of castings it has, how the damper is worked and what advantage it has over other dampers you have seen, if the flue strips are evenly divided, if the clean-out door is roomy and easy to get at, if the grate can be removed easy, if the oven bottom can be replaced without taking the stove apart, if the castings can be removed for cleaning and how it fastens on the stove, if the castings are made smooth and put together so as to prevent warping.
If you look over the GLENWOOD RANGES you will find that they are made to meet all these requirements.
